Joseph H. Choate

THE NEW YORK Genealogical and Biographical Record.

VOL. XLIX.

NEW YORK, JANUARY, 1918.

No. 1

HON. JOSEPH HODGES CHOATE.

AN APPRECIATION BY CHARLES E. RUSHMORE OF THE NEW YORK BAR.

It has been said of lawyers that their fame is local and temporary, and that only those whose names are attached to some enduring work as author or Judge are known to the generations that succeed them. Occasionally, however, there comes a man who, by virtue of some special quality highly developed, attracts and holds a broader and more lasting grip on popular consideration. Such a man was Joseph Hodges Choate.

He was pre-eminently an advocate, and his professional career was a constant series of forensic triumphs that made him for many years the most conspicuous figure in the legal profession in this country. He had the faculty of forcing and holding attention, and, in the discussion of complex questions of law, his methods of reasoning were so direct, and his style of presentation so simple, that every proposition was grasped without effort, and interest never flagged. His knowledge of human nature, his ability to detect and pierce the weak spots, his audacity, and above all his incomparable wit, coupled with a handsome presence, a pleasing voice and engaging manner, made him almost invincible in the trial of jury cases. He had that rare ability to compel a complete reversal of a false sympathetic tendency by an illustration, or a phrase, that illumined the truth and put hypocrisy and sham to rout.

To his juniors at the Bar he was an inspiration, and towards them he was ever considerate. He took and held them captive with his kindly charm.

His ideals were of the highest, and his voice and energies were ever ready to aid the cause of professional and civic righteousness. His love of country was intense and in his death he volunteered the supreme sacrifice in the performance of what he regarded as a patriotic duty; and he fell, indeed upon the firing line.

The passing away of Joseph Hodges Choate marked the end of an epoch in the history of the American Bar, but in the circles of the Bar in which he worked, and in the broader world in which he lived, the light of his beneficent influence will not fade.

HON. JOSEPH HODGES CHOATE, LL.D.

BY JOSIAH C. PUMPELLY, A. M., LL. B.

"Great of heart, magnanimous, courtly, courageous."—Longfellow.

One approaches this task with a realization of the inadequacy of words to compass the many-sided career of the bearer of this distinguished name. There was no worthy cause to which he was not quick to respond. Zealous for justice and for the good of his country, he was equally anxious to advance the welfare of the world. There was no branch of the law in which he did not shine. As Ambassador to the Court of St. James he left an indelible impress upon Great Britain and added immeasurably to the friendly relations of the two countries. There he won for himself an exceptionally high place in the esteem and affections of the English people. But nothing in his brilliant career did him more credit than the heroic service given during the last days of his life, when, at the most serious risk to his health, he voiced the patriotic sentiment of our country. It is just to add that he became New York's most admired and beloved citizen.

Joseph Hodges Choate, an Honorary Member of this Society, was born in the old homestead, Salem, Mass., January 24, 1832, and entered into rest in New York City, May 14, 1917.

He was the youngest of four sons of Dr. George (Harvard 1818) and Margaret Manning (Hodges) Choate. He married October 16, 1861, Caroline Dutcher Sterling, daughter of Frederick and Caroline Mary (Dutcher) Sterling, who was born June 16, 1837, in Cleveland, O. Their children were: 1. Ruloff Sterling, b. September 24, 1864; d. April 5, 1884; 2. George, b. January 28, 1867; 3. Josephine, b. January 9, 1869; d. July 20, 1896; 4. Mabel, b. December 26, 1870; 5. Joseph Hodges, b. February 2, 1876.

Young Choate graduated with honor at Harvard College in 1852, in the same class with his brother William. In 1854 he took his LL.B. in the Law School, spent a year in the Boston office of Leverett Saltonstall, was admitted to the Bar of Massachusetts in 1855, and in October of the same year commenced law work in New York in the office of Scudder & Carter, going soon to Butler, Evarts & Southmayd, with which firm and its successors, Evarts & Southmayd, he remained for nearly four years, being admitted to the New York Bar on February 13, 1856.

Afterwards he formed a partnership with W. H. L. Barnes under the name of Choate & Barnes, which lasted until June 1, 1859, when he became a partner with Mr. William M. Evarts and Mr. Charles F. Southmayd, under the firm name of Evarts, Southmayd & Choate. Thereafter he took a high and honored place in the profession and for the next forty years was the acknowledged leader of the New York bar in the number, variety and importance of the causes in which he was engaged. The firm of Evarts, Southmayd & Choate continued until July 1, 1884, when it was succeeded by Evarts, Choate & Beaman. On January 1, 1902, the firm became Evarts, Tracy & Sherman, of which Mr. Choate was not a member. At the date of his death he had his office and was associated as counsel with the present firm of Evarts, Choate & Sherman, of which his son, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., is a member.

Mr. Choate really never retired from legal work. He was often at his office up to the time of his death. Some of the most important and complicated cases and matters in which he was ever engaged, he acted as counsel and advised in during the years after his return from England. His mind was acute, his memory reliable and his judgment sound up to the very end.

In his admirable presence, fluency of address, never failing wit, sound knowledge, perfect self possession and control in all emergencies, as well as remarkable power of overcoming by ridicule what could not be answered seriously, Mr. Choate was in jury trials, facile princeps, the leader. But while he was the idol of jurors, he was the terror of witnesses and the dread of all his opponents.

Mr. Choate had come to New York in the critical period before the Civil War and during all those years of doubt, conflict and suffering he proved himself to be, in the words of Hon. Charles E. Hughes, "a king among men notable in intellectuality, facility of adaptation and complete grasp of the affairs of his time—in great part one of the makers of the United States."

In his successful management of the General Fitz John Porter case, he showed an amazing ability in his assimilation of military technique and so was it in the Cesnola case when the erudition he showed in all the mystery of Egyptian and Cyprian relics and ancient lore was an astonishment to the court.

Fame also came to Mr. Choate for his virile, fearless and successful leadership of the "Committee of Seventy," and its fight against the corrupt Tweed Ring. He proved to be an especially able president of the New York State Constitutional Convention of 1894 out of which came much useful constitutional action.

From 1899 to 1905 he was our distinguished Ambassador to Great Britain, where he became honored and famous as a diplomat of a new school of diplomacy based on honest statesmanship without even the semblance of trickery of words or assumed mystery.

In this connection an English writer in the North American Review says of Mr. Choate:

"He marched with swift security to a position and a popularity unique in diplomatic annals. He came to us of course with a great name, but no one could have anticipated the extraordinary position he built up for himself in the social and public life of England.

"On six successive July Fourths, Mr. and Mrs. Choate received on an average no less than 2,000 of their countrymen and countrywomen, and they displayed little less than what was genius for robbing a function of its formality. . . . England and America came appreciably closer together as the result of his six years' Ambassadorship and his name will always be remembered as a potent and untiring instrument of Anglo-American good will.

"There was no occasion of the slightest English and American interest that could not enlist his presence and his voice, and the genial freshness, point and aptness of his speeches made them always the event of the evening.

"He unveiled portraits and memorial windows and opened libraries and spoke at the Walter Scott Club, Dante Society and Boz Club, and was the speaker of the evening at dinners of remorseless frequency and racking variety, and yet we never seemed to touch the limit either of Mr. Choate's versatility or of his good nature."

He was never at loss to treat the subject of American Independence and the Fourth of July with tact. On one occasion in London he referred to the fact that studies of English manners and institutions were dear to Americans because such studies took them back to the time "when the dear mother country had not seceded from the common partnership." He added with an air of gravity that momentarily puzzled his hearers that it was always open to the mother country to come back. At an Independence Day banquet in London Mr. Choate refused to discuss "the day we celebrate," saying that the American Eagle was not good as a dinner bird and that "the British lion has tried him once or twice and found him indigestible."

At the farewell dinner to Mr. Choate at the Mansion House in May, 1905, where three hundred and fifty of England's most distinguished sons had gathered to greet him, he said with much feeling that he had difficulty in deciding whether he was glad or sorry to be returning home. "My friends on this side of the water are multiplying every day in numbers and increasing in the warmth of their affection. I am sorry to say that the great host of my friends on the other side are rapidly diminishing and passing away; part of the host have crossed the flood and part are crossing now and I have a great yearning to be with the waning number."

He added he would carry away the most delightful personal memories of exalting and enduring friendships formed of many happy homes visited and of boundless hospitality enjoyed, and continued to speak with great earnestness on the relations between England and America and the duty of public opinion and the press in both countries. "Our interests," he said, "are so inextricably interwoven that we would not if we could and could not if we would escape the necessity of an abiding and perpetual friendship."

And Mr. Choate was even more influential and beloved for his addresses of a far more serious character. At the Centenary of the Founding of the British and Foreign Bible Society his address as the representative of the American Bible Society was most effective and impressive, and in 1916, when as Chairman at the Centenary of the latter Society, he presided with all his wonted grace and dignity and in his introduction of the speakers touched as he did very deftly upon every phase of the subject discussed, he proved how true had always been his love for the Bible, of the wonderful message of which he would be the chosen advocate so long as he lived.

One of the most stimulating and enjoyable factors of Mr. Choate's happy and useful life was his membership in the Union League Club, which he joined in 1867, two years after its incorporation. He served it as President from 1873 to 1876, and there, as a leader and exemplar of great and far-reaching value, he attested his militant patriotism and luminous insight into all the important matters, national, state and municipal, which came up for discussion. For timeliness of historic illustration, clear and forceful logic and kindly and convincing wit, he had no equal. To those who knew him not I would say, as did the great Pitt, when asked why Fox had such power over his hearers: "You have never been under the wand of the magician."

To him the Hon. Chauncey M. Depew has paid this tribute:

"I have known Mr. Choate for nearly half a century and my admiration for his wonderful ability and regard for him increased with the years.

"He was the most versatile, witty and eloquent after dinner speaker, and equally superior on the platform in the discussion of political or civic reforms on humanitarian subjects.

"It was his conscientious devotion to duty which was the secret of his success and also largely the cause of his death. He accepted the Chairmanship of the Mayor's Committee to emphasize the union of Great Britain and France with the United States in the struggle for the democracy of the world, and he died for his country."

Again at a dinner given in Mr. Choate's honor at the Union League Club, by the Executive Committee of the Pilgrims of the United States, January 27, 1917, Mr. Depew said:

"There was William M. Evarts, the wittiest man in the country; Ogden Hoffman with rare gifts, the two Bradys, James T. and Judge John R., both remarkable; Richard O'Gorman with scintillating Irish humor and eloquence; Henry Ward Beecher, who was rarely equalled and never surpassed; Rev. Doctor Storrs, Dr. Chapin and our always witty and charming General Horace Porter, but first of them all Mr. Choate."

Patrick Francis Murphy, one of New York's best after dinner speakers, has well expressed his hearers' viewpoint:

"When I have seen Mr. Choate stand before the assemblies in New York, he seemed to be a human being replete with benevolence meditating in what way he would be more acceptable to his Creator by doing the most good to his fellow creatures.

"He is impervious to the march of time, and blessed by those serene qualities of the mind, he came under the phrase 'whom the Gods love die young.' He dies young because he never grows old."

In 1907 he was appointed delegate to the Second International Peace Congress at the Hague, and on his return explained to the members of the Club the causes of the failure of the meetings to bring about any helpful conclusions, and the position Germany took in the conferences.

In 1912 Mr. Choate was elected an Honorary Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society and up to the time of his death he was ever its true friend, occasionally speaking at its meetings.

On December 8, 1916, an excellent portrait in oil of Mr. Choate by Johan Waldemar von Rehling Qvistgaard, a Danish artist, was presented to the Society, the artist himself unveiling the canvas with a very timely address, a copy of which portrait is herewith presented. Mr. Choate followed with interesting remarks relating to the lecture of the evening, which was "Witchcraft," and referred with gratitude to the fact that while two of his forebears, Philip English and his wife, Mary, were falsely accused of witchcraft and imprisoned, both of them escaped safely to New York. The lecturer was Prof. William McDonald, of the University of California, and in a letter I have from him, he says: "Mr. Choate spoke with the same charm of manner, the same easy command of felicitous language and the same gracious presence which had long been familiar to those who knew him and which had placed him in the front rank of American orators. Men like Mr. Choate do not leave successors, but they leave gracious and inspiring memories."

On the occasion of conferring the degree of LL.D. upon him at the Columbia University Commencement of 1916, Mr. Choate's word pictures of his friends, Presidents King, Barnard, Low and Butler, were replete with witty incidents. To these he added this epigram: "I am," he said, "your youngest brother, born only two hours ago." And then, in all earnestness he spoke what proved to be the last words we were ever to hear from his lips in the halls of Columbia:

"I thank you all for the great honor that you have conferred on me to-day. I have had other degrees from other institutions, some of them personal, some official, but this comes from men among whom I have lived and worked and played, men who have known me and have summered and wintered me for the last fifty years, and when they see fit to put their stamp of approval upon me I thank God and take courage for the days that I hope yet to live."

He had already been made the recipient of the same degree from the Universities of Cambridge, Edinborough, St. Andrews, Glasgow, Harvard, Yale, Union and Pennsylvania, and from Amherst and Williams College. Among positions of trust and honor held by him may be mentioned: Trustee of the American Museum of Natural History, Trustee and Vice-President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Governor of the New York Hospital, President of the New England Society, and of the Harvard Club, becoming President Emeritus of the latter in 1913, and of the Century Club at the time of his death, member of the American Philosophical Society and at one time President of each of the following legal organizations: American Bar Association, New York State Bar Association, Bar Association of the City of New York, and New York County Lawyers' Association, and of that noble institute of aid to the blind, the "Light House." He served in the same capacity the National Civil Service Reform League and as Vice-President of the Society for the Judicial Settlement of International Disputes.

Mr. Choate had a stalwart frame and massive head with features of classic mould, nose straight and prominent and as to the brown eyes, Mr. Allen says in the Outlook, "they reveal subtle and varied powers of expression, they can dart fire, droop in irony, beam in kindness or melt in sympathy. About the mouth rests a decided charm, unconcealed by mustache, and the lips are neither compressed nor full. Firmness is there but a smile lurks within. His grayish brown hair was parted in the middle over a broad forehead. Closely cropped side whiskers and faultless dress complete a description of a truly courtly democrat."

Hamilton W. Mabie, himself an able orator, as well as writer, said of him: "Very few Americans have that quality of distinction which is characteristic of Mr. Choate and which has its source in his charming personality, a kind of genius for saying the right thing at the right moment, a certain finish and elegance of expression and a quality of manner which makes all classes of men at home with him."

The following modest words by Mr. Choate about his own life seem to fit in just here: "From the beginning of my eighty-five years until now, I have had a great deal more than I deserved. Of friends I have been making them from the day I was born until now. I have never had any horoscope cast but I have no doubt there was a happy conjunction of constellations and stars at the moment of my birth because I got one thing by inheritance by the gift of God, or by some other means I cannot tell how; it was greater than any fortune and it has accompanied me from that day to this and that was a cheerful spirit; a determination always to look upon the bright side and as a cardinal maxim never to say 'Die.'

"That spirit, that temperament has stood me well in hand in every emergency from that day to this and is, I hope, not yet exhausted."

Of his home life in Stockbridge, Mass., his friend Congressman Treadway said in his eulogy delivered in the House of Representatives: "Mr. Choate's home was the center of social activities and under its hospitable roof more people of note of all countries have been entertained than in any similar unofficial residence. His democratic ways not only made him the ideal host of President or Ambassador, but likewise of the workman or local farmer. On his golden anniversary, October 16, 1911, a family dinner was served participated in by his kinsfolk of three generations and the day following his home was thrown wide open to every man and woman from far and near in the community.

"We all went and were received by the happy couple with their accustomed courtly grace. He was a leading member of all our village organizations and participated in the consideration of local questions, and would always give his time or money to all our efforts for village improvement and for charity and church work."

Mr. Choate's deep and abiding affection for his wife was shown in a felicitous way when on being asked, "Who he would rather be if not himself," replied "Mrs. Choate's second husband." It is said that a certain English lady who was unable to note the wit of this reply blandly inquired, "But who is Mrs. Choate's second husband?"

First and foremost, Mr. Choate was a red-blooded American and a militant patriot, but he possessed also an "international mind" and was the earnest advocate of a strong alliance between England, France and America in one common and united struggle for the destruction of Prussian autocratic militarism and the preservation at all hazards of democracy and national liberty the world over.

He was called upon to serve as Chairman of the Committee appointed by Mayor Mitchel to receive the British and French War Commissions on their supremely important and never-to-be-forgotten visit to New York, and while at his age he knew that his acceptance of the office involved serious physical risk, yet he chose gladly to give himself to this service for a cause so close to his heart.

The President's immortal message of April 2d had assured us all that America's honor was saved and the nation could and would now take her proper place among the great nations of the earth, and so Mr. Choate felt that his dream of Anglo-Saxon race unity in defence of liberty and civilization was to be realized, and he went right forward, neglecting not one single detail of his exacting office, going to every luncheon, meeting and banquet, and speaking at each one with his usual forceful, lucid and inspiring power.

His last public speech was on Saturday, May 12th, at the reception and lunch given by the Chamber of Commerce to the visiting British War Mission, and his final public appearance was on Sunday, May 13th, when he accompanied his esteemed friend, Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, to the special service in honor of the British War Mission, given at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

At the reception at his home tendered to Mr. Balfour, he said: "Under the guidance of the President of our choice at Washington we stand pledged now before all the world to all the allies whom we have joined to carry into this contest all that we have, all that we hope for and all we ever aspire unto. To-day every young man in America and every old man, too, is asking, What can I do best to serve my country?"

At a Memorial Meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, of which Mr. Choate was an honorary member, his loyal friend, President Butler, of Columbia, spoke as follows:

"It was my fortune to sit with Mr. Choate a few hours before his death when, surrounded by a group of intimate friends—among them Mr. Balfour and the eminent philosopher of France, M. Bergson—he propounded to them for discussion the question of the immortality of the soul. As I think of it now it seems almost as if that charming spirit, so rich in experience, so full of service, so crowned with applause and honor of men of two worlds, that that spirit had a prescience that it was soon to go; and feeling so confident of a life that was to follow, was quizzically anxious to know what those who were younger had to say about it. Then, on the following day, at the close of a notable service in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, Mr. Choate stood for a moment at the door and took Mr. Balfour's hand in his to bid him good-bye. They were not to meet again on this visit; they were not to meet again, although neither knew it then, on this earth. Mr. Choate's last words to Mr. Balfour, spoken in the hearing of some of us, were: 'Remember, we meet again to celebrate the victory.' They were the last words that Mr. Balfour heard him speak. They were the last words that most of us, not of his immediate family, heard him speak, and they were singularly significant of his full end. 'We shall meet again to celebrate the victory'—the victory in that cause in which his whole heart and soul were engaged! But may we not feel this morning that we are free to interpret that victory in a larger and still more personal sense? Are we not meeting again to celebrate the victory, the victory of that for which Mr. Choate stood, the victory of that which Mr. Choate represented, the victory of that which Mr. Choate was, over the meaner, the smaller, the more sordid and the less admirable traits of human nature.

"When three days thereafter the summons came to our friend, we believe he met the great transition with calm assurance and faith, leaving to us the consciousness of an abiding memory, serene, courageous and uplifting, and an example of faithful and patriotic citizenship which will be a helpful guide to every young man in America."

The Archbishop of Canterbury, speaking to "The Pilgrims of Great Britain" of his death, said Mr. Choate, who was President of the Pilgrims of the United States, "stood on the front line of the group of American citizens actively responsible for one of the greatest events in human history, the entry of the United States into the world war on behalf of what is honorable and righteous in the intercourse of nations and the life of men."

The close of his work here was as strikingly fit as was that of the First President of the British Pilgrims, Field Marshal Earl Roberts, who ended his life at the front in the fellowship and service of his own Indian troops. Likewise Mr. Choate's life was laid down in the great battle in which America is already so mighty a factor.

Impressive funeral services were held on the morning of May 17th, at St. Bartholomew's Church, Madison Avenue and 44th Street, which were attended by representatives of three governments, viz.: Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British Ambassador; Mr. Hove-lacque, Minister of Education and member of the French War Commission, and Hon. William W. Phillips, Assistant Secretary of State, U. S. A., as well as high officials and men of distinction, including delegations from numerous societies, clubs and associations. During the funeral, exercises were held in all the public schools of the city, treating upon Mr. Choate's life and patriotic services. Burial took place at Stockbridge, the same afternoon, where stores and schools were closed and the bell of St. Paul's Church was tolled.

A Memorial Service was held in London, on the 21st, at St. Margaret's, Westminster, at which the Archbishop of Canterbury spoke, and thereafter commemorative meetings at the Harvard and Union League Clubs, in New York.

One of the most distinguished gatherings of men this city has ever seen filled Trinity Church on the 31st of May, in attendance on the service held there by the members of the Pilgrims Society. This quotation from the address of the Rector, Rev. Dr. W. T. Manning, will fitly close this lengthy memorial: "It is hard to see how New York can do without him. He was the spokesman for all good causes and represented whatever was best in the city's life. He was its chief citizen, the title given him without question and by all alike. We knew him and esteemed him most, however, for his nobleness of soul, his personal charm, the brilliance and audacity of his wit, and his unflinching humanness. These were the things which made him so true a man, so rare a friend, and it is for these things all loved him."

In conclusion, I would emphasize the fact that,—as it seems to me,—the greatest public lesson and the greatest inspiration to be gained from the life of Mr. Choate comes from his deep-rooted patriotism and devoted adherence to Democracy—not as a mere form of government, but as an ideal of life, and ethically Christian, too, because dependent upon public opinion, with a mutuality of respect for the thoughts and rights of others which is one of the main characteristics of the Christian spirit.

Fare thee well, dear friend. "None knew thee but to love thee, none named thee but to praise!"

FRANK BARNARD KING.

CONTRIBUTED BY RUFUS KING.

Frank Barnard King died June 15, 1917, at Sharon, Conn., where he was spending the summer with his family.

Mr. King, born in Albany, N. Y., April 10, 1853, was the son of the late Robert Morrow and Harriet Morgan (Steele) King and of distinguished Colonial ancestry as set forth in THE RECORD of April, 1907; this account includes the mention of Mr. King's Steele, Bradford and Barnard progenitors and the names of the members of his immediate family—two sisters and three brothers.

William Kinge (1595-1650), of Salem, Mass., the founder of the family in this country, had a son Samuel King (1633-1721), who was of Southold, Long Island, N. Y., about 1650; in this line Frank Barnard King traced his descent through eight generations.

Mr. King's early life was passed in Albany; in 1900 he removed to New York City and later on travelled extensively in this country and Europe.

His absorbing interest was genealogical research which he specialized in the histories of the Steele and Barnard families on which he was working diligently at the time of his death. He had hoped to publish these genealogies, but delayed from time to time as new and important material came to his knowledge. He had been a Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society for many years.

Mr. King was a gentleman of sterling integrity and high ideals; his tastes were rather those of the literary worker than of the man of affairs; his life had been one of leisure and quiet and he was never happier than when in the society of his chosen friends, by whom he will indeed be missed and who will ever hold him in affectionate remembrance.

Mr. King's funeral services were held in the Memorial Chapel of the Albany Rural Cemetery, where he was buried.

EARLY NEW YORK CHURCH RECORDS.

A REPORT AND DIGEST OF THE RECORDS TRANSCRIBED BY THE
NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,
1913 TO 1917.

BY ROYDEN WOODWARD VOSBURGH,
Historian and Archivist of the Society.

The April and July, 1912, numbers of the RECORD, contained reports on the proposed plan of the Society, to commence the transcription of heretofore uncopied New York State church records. In January, 1913, a letter was sent to several Libraries and Societies, in which the plan of the proposed work was set forth, and in which a request was made for subscriptions. Through the co-operation thus obtained, from the New York Historical Society, the Library of Congress and the New York State Library, this Society was enabled to commence the work, on March 15, 1913.

The plan of this undertaking is to reproduce, with photographic accuracy if possible, each page of the original church record. The copies, which are typewritten, have the distinct advantage over the originals, in that they are legible; thus, numerous mistakes heretofore made by incorrect reading from the original text, are obviated. Usually, all writing in the original record, in Dutch, German or Latin, has been reproduced in the copy. This matter has then been translated by competent authorities, in the notes at the bottom of each page. In case the more learned should not wish to accept these translations, the original record as it was written, is before them for comparison. Frequently, particularly obscure pages have been reproduced by the photo-static process. The typewritten copies are certified, in order that they may be used as evidence, if necessary, in a court of record.

Most of the typewritten copies are prefixed with an Introduction; some of them are followed by a complete history of the church from its establishment, to modern times. Sometimes, even the history of the settlement has been traced from the first land grants. The Introductions will be found to contain much material of interest to both genealogists and historians, who expect more than a mere catalogue of names and dates. These articles have been compiled as the result of my visits to the various places where the churches are located; and I have left no stone unturned to obtain the facts from the primary and original documentary sources of information.

A digest follows of the principal items in each of the typewritten copies, which have been completed since the inception of the work. The records are grouped by counties and localities. Copies are deposited in the manuscript collections of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, the New York Historical Society, the Library of Congress and the New York State Library.

SERGEANT JOHN GRIFFIN* OF SIMSBURY, CONN.

BY Z. T. GRIFFEN of Chicago, Ill., AND REV. DUANE N. GRIFFIN of Hartford, Conn.

Of Welsh descent, two members of this family emigrated to America from London, Oct. 24, 1635, namely, Edward, the oldest, b. in 1601-2, and John. They were the sons of John and Ann (Langford) Griffin, she of Bigander, who were also the parents of Ann, Joan, Catharine and Margaret, all m. in 1613. The brothers were in the employ of Capt. Claiborne, Secretary of the Virginia Colony. Hotten's list shows that John was 26 years old when he took the oath of allegiance and acknowledged the supremacy of the Church of England, aboard the ship Constance, which makes his birth 1608 or 9. Lord Baltimore of Maryland, forcibly seized the Islands of Kent and Palmer in the Chesapeake Bay and Captain Claiborne's Virginia traders with Indians, and John and his brother fled from them in ships, his brother to the Dutch Colony of New Amsterdam, and John to New Haven Colony, as his name appears in the Directory of that town in 1642. The latter was enrolled in the New Haven Militia, and on Jan. 4, 1643, at a Court of Newhaven he is fined with others for not having his arms in shape, a few pence. (Hadley's New Haven, p. 123.)

On July 1, 1644, he took the Oath of Fidelity to the Government, in the General Court at Newhaven. As a sailor he testified on Jan. 5, 1646, about the loss of a boat in Newhaven in the same Court. On page 455, Hadley's New Haven, May 1, 1649, in the same Court, is this record:

"Thomas Jeffrey informed the Court that there was some goods taken up by John Griffen of Mr. Pell's for the use of ye boat, wherein Jno. Griffen and himself were partners, coming to 54s, and he paid his part which was 16s to John Griffen, as his wife can testify."

The Rev. Duane N. Griffin, a descendant of Sergeant John Griffin, and conversant with the vicinity and history of Simsbury, supplies this information.

He died in Aug., 1681, aged about 72, from drinking, when over-heated, water at a spring, since called Lord Griffin's Spring, a highly respected and prominent citizen of Simsbury. I have searched the old cemetery in Windsor, in vain, twice with several helpers, and cannot find his grave. It is probable that he was buried in his own private lot where he lived on his Lordship. There are still rough stones in this lot, marking the places where several of his descendants were buried, but no names.

* An elaborate descent from Welsh forebears was submitted herewith. Because of inability to prove the statements made it has been necessary to omit it.—EDITOR.

He had twice represented Simsbury in the General Court; had been a commander of the Train Band of Simsbury, with rank of Sergeant. His knowledge of the Welsh language enabled him to be an interpreter for the Indians, who at one time burned Simsbury; he was sent as a commissioner to them but failed to avert the attack.

He was the first manufacturer of Simsbury, if not of Windsor, and inventor of a new process of making pitch and tar, the latter being used in the British navy, and for which he received a large grant of land, besides what he had earlier acquired from the Indians, who deeded to him ten miles square, a hundred square miles, which tract was doubtless the same as the lay-out of the township of Simsbury, which was ten miles square before Granby and Canton towns were set off. Sergt. John, however, deeded back to the proprietors this large tract and in return received a smaller one. Then later a grant from the king of his "Lordship."

He married at Simsbury, Anna Bancroft, or Bancraft, 13 May, 1647, and at his death left ten children:

- i. Hannah, b. July 4, 1649; m. (1) May 10, 1667; he d. 1669; age 23; m. (2) John Humphrey, son of Michael.
- ii. Mary, b. March 1, 1651; m. (1) May 1, 1672; m. (2) Anthony Hoskins.
- iii. Sarah, b. Dec. 25, 1654; m. Oct. 29, 1676.
- 1 iv. John, b. Oct. 20, 1656; m. Oct. 7, 1708.
- 2 v. Thomas, b. Oct. 3, 1658; m. in 1693-4, Elizabeth Welton; he d. in 1719; she d. Sept. 28, 1722.
- vi. Abigail, b. Nov. 12, 1660; m. Ric'd Segar, on March 27, 1682.
- vii. Mindwell, b. Feb. 11, 1662; m. Samuel Wilcoxon, Jr.
- viii. Ruth, b. Jan'y 21, 1665, unm; d. May 27 or Aug. 25, 1719.
- 3 ix. Ephraim, b. May 1, 1668; m. Elizabeth Adams, Dec. 9, 1707.
- 4 x. Nathaniel, b. May 31, 1673; m. Alice Welton, March 14, 1711-12.

The inventory of the personal estate of John Griffin, of Simsbury, taken Aug. 23, 1681, shows that all the above were alive at that date and that Hannah Griffin, his widow, and his two sons, John and Thomas were appointed Executors (vol. i, p. 313, Probate Rec.)

The real estate consisted of about three square miles, or 1,920 acres. Distributors were appointed, but the ten children divided the land among themselves without any assistance and were highly commended by the Distributors for so doing.

1. Children of John (iv.) and Mary, his wife:
 - i. Thomas (?) b. about 1710; d. in 1712-13.
 - ii. Mary, bap. 30 May, or 31st, 1713; she was ten years old in 1720; she m. Jehiel Messenger.
 - iii. Ruth, b. Nov. 18, 1713; d. ———.
 - iv. Ruth, b. 14 March, 1717; she m. 21 March, 1734, Consider Holcomb. This Ruth was called the 3d daughter of John.

- v. Abigail, b. about 1719; m. 27 March, 1735, John Thomas.
- vi. Hannah, b. 14 March, 1723; m. 26 Feb., 1751, Hosea Wilkenson.
- vii. John, b. —; alive in 1737, sold land, see Land Records, vol. iv. There is much doubt about this John. He may have been the John who died at Lake George, in 1758. Personally I am inclined to think that this was some other John than the son of John, iv. I am indeed doubtful if John iv., had a son named John.
2. Children of Thomas (v) and Elizabeth, his wife (see Probate Rec., Dec. 4, 1722):
- i. Hannah, b. Jan. 13, 1695; d. in July, 1715, unm.
 - ii. Thomas, b. May 8, 1698; d. Nov. 3, 1717, unm.
 - iii. Mary, b. Sept. 16, 1699; m. Joshua Holcomb, 3rd.
 - iv. John, b. in 1702; d. Oct. 10, 1703.
- 5 v. John, b. in 1703; m. Aug. 2, 1725, or 1728.
- 6 vi. Nathaniel, b. May 24, 1706; m. Elizabeth Griffin, daughter of Ephraim, his cousin.
- 7 vii. Stephen, b. in 1709; m. Mary De Lacy (?); he was drowned March 30, 1743.
- viii. Eunice, b. in 1712; in 1730 m. John Scott of Waterbury.
- 8 ix. Benoni, b. in 1714; m. the widow of Stephen (vii.)
- According to tradition both John and Benoni married Mary De Lacy, a West India woman (Spanish). I am not able to verify this in either case, but there is much circumstantial evidence (very strong) that Stephen married her, and also much evidence that Benoni married her after the death of Stephen, but some against it. I think she married both.
3. Children of Ephraim (ix) and Elizabeth Griffin, his wife (see vol. 2, p. 517, Probate Records, Account of Elizabeth Griffin, widow, and Sam'l Grosword, filed Dec. 6, 1756):
- i. Elizabeth, b. in 1709; m. her cousin, Lieut. Nathaniel Griffin, 2nd.
 - ii. Anna, or Hannah, b. in 1711; m. May 17, 1736, Ebenezer Loomis.
- 9 iii. Ephraim, b. in 1712; m. Elizabeth Terry.
- iv. Silence, b. in 1715 or 16.
- v. Phoebe, b. in 1722; m. Solomon Terry.
4. Child of Nathaniel (x) and Alice Griffin. He died Feb. 23, 1712.
- i. Alice, b. May 24, 1711; m. Nov. 30, 1733, William James. (The Probate Court shows that on May 5, 1712, Thomas Griffin, a brother of above, was appointed administrator.)
5. Children of John Griffin (v), the 3rd son of Thomas, and Eleanor (Holcomb) Griffin, his wife:
- i. Matthew, b. May 21, 1726; m. Hannah Lamson.
 - ii. Eleanor, b. June 5, 1729; m. Nathaniel Messenger.

- iii. Rachel, b. —; m. Daniel Lamson.
- iv. Lucine, b. —; m. Joseph Remington.
- v. Thankful, b. —; m. Daniel Alderman.
- vi. Eunice, b. —; m. Isaac Childs.
- vii. Thomas, 3rd, b. —; m. —; living in 1786.
- viii. Jemima, b. —; m. (1) James Alderman, (2) Ezekiel Holcomb.

6. Children of Lieut. Nathaniel Griffin, 2nd (vi), and Elizabeth Griffin:

- i. Elizabeth, b. Feb. 17, 1728; m. David Holcomb.
- ii. Nathaniel, Jr., b. Sept. 11, 1732; m. Abigail Fowler.
- iii. Captain Stephen, b. about 1735; m. Lucy Phelps (?).
- iv. Captain Micah, b. May 17, 1738; m. Theodosia Phelps, sister of Lucy.
- v. Elisha, b. —; m. Jerusha —.
- vi. Seth, b. — 1747; m. Mary Beower, a French woman.
- vii. Martin, b. —; m. Betsy Ann —.
- viii. Chloe, b. —; m. Abner Bull.

7. Children of Stephen Griffin, 1st, and Mary De Lacy (?), a Spanish woman.

- i. Martha, b. — 1737; m. Deacon Joshua Holcomb (4th Joshua.)
- ii. Stephen 2nd, or Jun., b. —, 1739; m. (1) Lucy Phelps (?) Carr; m. (2) Deborah Higley.

It is uncertain from all available data whether Capt. Stephen Griffin, son of Lieut. Nathaniel, 2nd, born about 1735, married Lucy Phelps, or whether Stephen 2nd, or Jr., son of Stephen 1st (a brother of Lieut. Nathaniel) married her. I have spent days and many weeks to find out this matter.

8. Children of Benoni Griffin and Mary De Lacy, widow of his brother Stephen, who was drowned in 1743 (?) as recorded in Simsbury Records at the request of his wife—name not given:

- i. Benoni, Jr., b. June 15 or 26, 1743; m. Martha Viets.
- ii. Hannah, b. April 8 or 19, 1746; m. (1) Martin Stratton; m. (2) — Bates.
- iii. Peter, b. Nov. 13 or 24, 1750; m. —.
- iv. Mary, b. June 24, 1753; m. Jonathan Warner.
- v. Elizabeth, b. May 26, 1755; m. Timothy Holcomb.
- vi. Martha, b. April 23, 1757; m. Amos Moore.
- vii. Joab, b. Feb. 4, 1759; m. Ruth —.
- viii. Abner, b. Nov. 30, 1760.
- ix. Phineas, b. Sept. 25, 1762.
- x. Abraham, b. Feb. 2, 1765; m. Mehitable Moore.
- xi. Ninian, b. Oct. 15, 1766.
- xii. Matilda, b. April 11, 1769; m. Silas Davis.
- xiii. Levi, b. Feb. 17, 1771; m. Sarah Holcomb.

9. Children of Ephraim Griffin, Jr., and Elizabeth Terry, his wife:

- i. Daniel, b. Sept. 17, 1751; m. —.
- ii. Anna or Anne, bap. July 3, 1768; m. (?).

This ends the third generation.

Lucy Emeline⁹ Thacher was the compiler of the Thacher Genealogy, which in 1872 was published in her memory by her husband, D. W. Allen. This little volume of 92 pages was the foundation upon which the entire structure of the present Thacher-Thatcher Genealogy was erected and I owe a debt of gratitude to its compiler and to its publisher for the valuable assistance it has afforded me. The little volume certainly contains in concise form a great deal of valuable information on the Thacher family.

MOHAWK VALLEY HOUSEHOLDERS IN 1800.

CONTRIBUTED BY L. D. SCISCO.

The following transcript from the original census returns for the county of Montgomery in 1800 shows the names of the householders of Palatine town in that year and makes possible a comparison with the published census of the town for 1790. In both 1790 and 1800 the county of Montgomery embraced the present Fulton County, while the town of Palatine included the present towns of Palatine and St. Johnsville in Montgomery County as well as Ephrata, Oppenheim, Stratford, and the western part of Caroga in Fulton County. At the census of 1790 the town of Palatine had included also the present towns of Manheim and Salisbury in Herkimer County, but this area had been set off prior to the 1800 census. The census records are now held in the Bureau of Census at Washington, D. C.

Department for Registration of Pedigrees.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN REYNOLDS TOTTEN.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY conducts a department for the purpose of examining, approving and publishing pedigrees of individual applicants.

The Society will accept for examination the pedigree of ANY INDIVIDUAL, whether a member of the Society or not.

Those desiring to take advantage of the facilities thus offered should apply to the Society for the authorized blank form on which to record the pedigree to be submitted for examination (enclosing 50 cents in payment for the blank).

Applicants must either themselves, or with the assistance of professional genealogists, fill in the form as indicated and return the same to this Society for examination; it being understood that the regular charges made by this Society are for examination and publication of the pedigree, and do not include genealogical research in the preparation of the pedigree itself.

When a pedigree is submitted for examination the applicant must send with it a preliminary fee of $15.00. Upon the receipt of a pedigree and this preliminary fee, the pedigree will be examined; and if approved, it will be subsequently published, first in an issue of the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, and the applicant will receive 2 copies of the Record containing the pedigree without further charge. The pedigree will thereafter (when a sufficient number have accumulated) be published in a volume of a series, one volume of which has already been issued (see Vol. VI, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections); and copies of this volume will be sold to those whose pedigrees are contained therein at the special price of $5.00 a volume.

Pedigrees must be submitted to the Society in form complete for publication. If, upon examination by the Society, essential facts are added to the pedigree by the examiner, a nominal fee, not to exceed $5.00, will be charged by the Society for ascertaining and embodying such additional information in the pedigree.

If upon examination the pedigree is found to be essentially inaccurate, it will not be approved and will be returned to the applicant; and the preliminary fee will be refunded, less a charge of $10.00 for expert examination.

If, when finally examined, approved and prepared for publication, the pedigree is found to require more than one page for its proper presentation, the fee for publishing the same, as above explained, will be at the rate of $15.00 a page (pages to be similar in size and form to those of pedigrees heretofore published in the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD,—see issues from April, 1911, to date of this issue), but, in adjusting the final charge, credit for the payment of the preliminary fee of $15.00 will be given to the applicant.

For the benefit of applicants desiring extra copies of their pedigrees for family distribution, editions of 50 copies of such pedigrees will be supplied on 4-page folders of linen ledger paper, with space left for additional notes, for a fee of $5.00.

Individuals desiring their pedigrees prepared for examination, approval and later publication by this Society, and who are unfamiliar with the methods to pursue to secure the necessary information to establish such pedigrees, or who are unable to devote the required time to their preparation,—are invited to address this Society with a view to being put in communication with a professional genealogist capable of establishing and submitting them (when established) in proper form to this Society for publication.

Applications for examination, approval and publishing pedigrees under the condition hereabove set forth should be made to the

NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,

BOOK REVIEWS.

BY JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

BURIALS IN THE OLD STONE FORT CEMETERY, AT SCHOHARIE, NEW YORK. Copied from the gravestones, June, 1916, by Frank D. Andrews, of Vineland, N. J. 8vo. paper, pp. 32. Price, fifty cents. Address: Author. Limited edition of 52 copies.

CHRONICLES OF PENNSYLVANIA FROM THE ENGLISH REVOLUTION TO THE PEACE OF AIX-LA-CHAPELLE, 1688-1748, by Charles P. Keith. 8vo, cloth, 2 vols., pp. 681, including full name index in 2nd volume. Price, $5.00 for the set of two volumes, including postage. Address: Author, No. 308 Walnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The author is well equipped to handle the subject treated in these volumes. He gives us a comprehensive narrative treating of a period that witnessed "most of the vicissitudes of the Proprietary family, the exploits of the most celebrated pirates, the breaking of Quaker power, the introduction of the 'Pennsylvania Dutch' and the Scotch-Irish, the use of paper money issued as loans upon land, the planting of the Baptist, Dunkard, Episcopalian, Lutheran, Mennonite, Moravian, Presbyterian, Reformed, Roman Catholic, and Schwenkfelder communions, etc. The details of civic government, of private and denominational enterprise, and of relations with the savages during the sixty years, are accompanied by a re-examination of the question of the boundary with Maryland, a new estimate of William Penn, a description of the land system, biographical sketches of Whitefield and Zinzendorf, notes upon the religious, political, and other affairs of England and other countries and the groups of settlers therefrom, and some history of the Indian Tribes, including an identification of the Great Treaty." Recommended to all biographical and historical libraries.

EARLY PHILADELPHIA, ITS PEOPLE, LIFE AND PROGRESS, by Horace Mather Lippincott (joint author of The Colonial Homes of Philadelphia and Its Neighborhood), with a photogravure frontispiece by Charles H. Stephens and 119 illustrations from photographs and prints. 8vo, cloth, pp. 340, including index. Limited copyrighted edition. Published by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, Pa. 1917. Price, $6.00 net. Address: Publishers.

The city of many institutions and unimpeached traditions is here presented in its varying respects by the author who knows Philadelphia people of to-day and yesterday. The work "aims to bring together under one cover many fragmentary and scattered accounts of important and peculiar customs and institutions which live in Philadelphia to-day, serving as useful a purpose in the complexity of modern life as they did when they started. Most of them were original here, and though now perhaps less conspicuous than similar endeavours in other parts of the nation, they still retain a solidarity and dependableness that makes them as unique as when they were alone." The illustrations are excellent and the paper, typography and presswork beyond criticism. Recommended to all historical and general reference libraries.

COLONIAL VIRGINIA, ITS PEOPLE AND CUSTOMS, by Mary Newton Stanard. 8vo, cloth, pp. 376, with 93 illustrations. Published by J. B. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia, Pa. 1917. Price, $6.00 net. Address: Publishers.

There is probably no one in Virginia to-day better equipped to undertake the preparation of such a volume as this, than is the author, having at her disposal her own knowledge of the subject as well as the voluminous notes of her husband, William G. Stanard (Secretary of the Virginia Historical Society and Editor of the Virginia Magazine of History and Biography). She has well used the advantages at her disposal and produced a volume of great interest and merit.

"This volume is not concerned with public events, but with the private and daily lives of people, and the procession of men, women and children of every walk in life who troop through its pages fill it with movement and color. Not only residents of the Old Dominion, but thousands of persons scattered about the world to-day will find their Virginia forefathers and foremothers mentioned here by name.

The great mass of facts upon which the book is based are not to be found in any history, but have been gathered from Colonial diaries, newspapers, letters—both social and business—wills, inventories, shopbills, and other documents throwing light on private and personal life. Nor has tradition contributed to its pages: every statement made is a matter of record." The beautiful illustrations with which the volume is adorned add graphic interest to the illuminative text and the mechanical makeup of the volume is as would be expected well up to the high standard of its publishers. We recommend the work to all historical, biographical and genealogical libraries.

THE STORY OF SOME FRENCH REFUGEES AND THEIR "AZILUM," 1793-1800 (second edition), by Louise Welles Murray, Past Historian, Tioga Point Chapter, Member National Committee for Preservation of Historical Spots and Records, N. S. D. A. R., of Athens, Pa. 8vo, cloth and boards, pp. vii+154+4 pages of index, illustrated. Price, $3.00, postpaid. Address: Author, at Athens, Pa.

The Story of Some French Refugees, 1792-3, and the Asylum they planned for their Queen, Marie Antoinette, and themselves in the wilds of Pennsylvania, was first published in book form in 1903 by the author, a descendant of one of the refugees. This settlement, which was a direct outcome of the French Revolution although of short duration, forms an interesting and romantic chapter in the history of Pennsylvania. Its founders were men of prominence in French history, one of whom won many honors in our own Revolutionary War. They were assisted by Robert Morris, the financier of the American Revolution. Much new and important data having been found, also many additional illustrations. This second edition of greater value than the first has been issued, and has the most valued and hearty endorsements. The author was ably efficient to re-write her original story of Asylum, and the result is a valuable addition to any library, a work of reference to the student of history and treasure to the lover of historical lore. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

NEW YORK AS AN EIGHTEENTH CENTURY MUNICIPALITY. Part I, Prior to 1731, by Arthur Everett Peterson, Ph. D. Part II, 1731-1776, by George William Edwards, Ph. D. 8vo, cloth, pp. 458, including index, illustrated. Published by Longmans, Green & Co., No. 449 Fourth Avenue, New York City. Price, $5.00. Address: Publishers.

"A study of the Colonial municipality based on original sources, with illustrations, and appendix of source material and an analytical index. The book reveals much interesting and unique information in regard to the early political and economic life of the city, and treats of such subjects as trade and industry, docks and ferries, fire protection, police, land and streets, and financial administration." Recommended to all historical libraries.

THE NEW YORK OF TO-DAY, by Henry Collins Brown, Editor of Valentine's Manual, New York, The Old Colony Press, 15-17 East 40th St., 1917, pp. 287. Price, $1.50.

A handbook of city scenes and impressions written with a vein of humor in which the author illustrates the up-to-date city. This series of studies harks back to historic times and leads to present-day conditions in a felicitous way. All through the pages there is a happy blend of yesterday and today. Local color is laid on with a lavish brush and offers inviting prospects to the reader. Not simply strangers to the town, for whom essentially this guide-book must appeal, but most New Yorkers need the stimulus here presented to jog the appetite. Generally fond of the city, they lack the knowledge of where to find what they desire. Let us recommend this work. All will be better citizens for the injection of the virus to be found in this pocket edition.

VALENTINE'S MANUAL OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK FOR 1917-18. Edited by Henry Collins Brown. The Old Colony Press, 15 East 40th St., New York City. 8vo, pp., including indices, 448. Price, in full leather binding, $10.00; in cloth, $5.00.

It is a trite saying that first impressions go a long way. So true is it of the appearance and attractiveness of this, the second of the new series of the Manual, that an acknowledgement of the fact would lie in the mind of even the casual reader. The binding in blue and gold, inlaid with a sketch of the Half-Moon, is appropriate and pleasing, and within the contents disclose a feast of good things, too many, in all conscience, to enumerate. As it should, it smacks of the soil—of New York for New Yorkers. The articles are well written, the subjects selected with wisdom and the illustrations of great merit. Need more be said? Gladly do we note the indices of the two issues. They will be invaluable as the years recede. While we feel enthusiastic over the scope of this venture, our opinion has not changed that a Manual of the Corporation, from which the idea originated, presupposes the inclusion of data concerning the numerous city departments and local institutions, with pictures, after the plan Mr. Valentine inaugurated.

REGISTER OF THE SOCIETY OF MAYFLOWER DESCENDANTS IN THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA. A Record of Descent from Passengers on the Good Ship Mayflower, A. D. 1620 with an Appendix. Vol. I. Compiled from Society Records and edited by Herbert Folger, Historian of the California State Society. 8vo, cloth, pp. 249, including an excellent name index, illustrated, published in San Francisco, Cal., November, 1917. Price, $3.00. Address: Herbert Folger, Historian, Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of California, No. 210 Sansome St., San Francisco, Cal.

This volume contains the officially recorded lines of descent of the first one hundred members of the California Society of Mayflower Descendants, from their original Mayflower ancestor, giving the vital facts of each generation to an extent of the detail hitherto not attempted by any Chapter of this Society. It is the purpose of this State Branch of the Mayflower Society to publish two more volumes of this series in order to bring the publication down to and to include its membership to 1918, provided the support given to this volume is sufficient to justify the expense.

The information contained heretofore in the various published Registers of the General Society and State Societies of Mayflower Descendants has been simply a series of insufficient statements, as for instance that: "John Jones is 9th in descent from Elder William Brewster" without any publication of the vital facts of each generation by which this descent is proven. The consequence is that as genealogical works of reference these various Registers have been and are worthless to the members themselves whose names appear therein, and trivial to genealogical students.

Such being the case, we (representing the advanced mental attitude of modern genealogists) welcome this volume of the California Society with well merited enthusiasm, as we, for the first time, have before us a group of 100 accepted Mayflower pedigrees which we can consult with a certainty of obtaining real genealogical facts therein recorded. We do not hesitate to say that this initial step is one of the most important ones made by any State branch of this truly pioneer society. Every library maintaining a genealogical section, as well as all libraries of patriotic societies, historical, biographical and general reference libraries should without a moment's delay secure a copy of this volume and promise their support for all future issues. If we to-day had similar published volumes of pedigrees of all the past and present members of the General Society of Mayflower Descendants, such a series of volumes would constitute a library of American genealogical reference second to none in this country.

We hope that the good work done by California will be encouraged as it deserves to be, and that other states will be stimulated to like action. As these volumes appear from time to time, they will improve in the direction of greater elaboration of detailed information concerning each generation of descent; so that in time the complete vital facts of the earlier four or five generations will become perfected entities requiring no further research for their establishment.

DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM LAMSON OF IPSWICH, MASS., 1634-1917. By William J. Lamson, M. D. 8vo, cloth, pp. 414, with illustrations and full name index. Price, $10.00. Address: the author, 120 Summit Ave., Summit, N. J.

This book has been in preparation since 1888, and contains the records of ten generations of the descendants of William Lamson, the emigrant ancestor, as well as many of those collaterally connected with the family. The work is issued from the genealogical publishing house of Tobias A. Wright, New York, and bears evidence of careful preparation and arrangement. The illustrations, consisting of family portraits, old homesteads, etc., are fine, adding much to the interest of the publication. We welcome the book to our library and recommend it to other collectors of genealogical records.

A HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION OF THE MANUFACTURE OF SALT IN NEW YORK STATE. By Charles J. Werner. 8vo, cloth, pp. 144. Illustrated. Price, $7.50. Address: the author, 44 Whitehall St., N. Y. City.

A valuable contribution to the history of New York. It is ably written by a man intimately connected with the great salt industry of the Empire State, and at once becomes an authority on the subject treated.

FORTHCOMING PUBLICATION.

GENEALOGY OF THE SHERMAN FAMILY. This record begins with Thomas Sherman of Diss, Norfolk, England, who died in 1493, and includes many of his descendants of several generations, who lived in Norfolk, Suffolk and Essex, England. Much interesting information about them has been gathered from English parish, probate and court records.

The families in this country included are descendants of the immigrants Samuel Sherman, Rev. John Sherman and Captain John Sherman of Watertown, Massachusetts, the genealogy of the family of Captain John being the most complete. There is also biographical matter relating to Hon. Roger Sherman of Connecticut, and others.

This work has been compiled by Mr. Thomas T. Sherman, 60 Wall St., New York, and will soon be published through the genealogical publishing house of Tobias A. Wright, New York, with illustrations, including portraits, views, facsimiles of documents, signatures, etc. The price to subscribers will be ten dollars per copy.

Abel J. Smith

THE NEW YORK Genealogical and Biographical Record.

VOL. XLIX.

NEW YORK, APRIL, 1918.

No. 2

 HON. ABEL I. SMITH.

 CONTRIBUTED BY HIS SISTER, DORA SMITH.

Hon. Abel I. Smith, a valued member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society since April 13th, 1900, died at his home in New York City on December 26th, 1916. He was born June 12th, 1843, in the old family homestead at Secaucus, Bergen County, New Jersey, where his great-great-grandfather Abel¹ Smith of Long Island, New York purchased a tract of land on October 24th, 1732, and who in the deed to this land was described as "Abel Smith, Gentleman," This Jersey land has since its purchase been continuously possessed and occupied by the direct descendants of Abel¹ Smith up to the present day.

Daniel² Smith, son of Abel¹ Smith, served with honor in the Revolutionary War as a member of Col. Oliver Spencer's famous Cavalry Regiment.

His son John³ Smith was the father of Abel I.⁴ Smith who served in the War of 1812 and later held positions of honor and trust in Hudson and Bergen Counties, New Jersey.

It is recorded of Abel⁴ Smith that as a matter of conscience he freed his slaves before the law was passed which abolished slavery in New Jersey. He also cared generously for his freed slaves during their life time. One of these former slaves attained the age of 102 years, and the subject of this sketch Abel I.⁵ Smith charged himself with the burial of eleven of them.

Abel I.⁴ Smith died in 1865 a venerated citizen of his county. He was one of the few persons honored by Robert Stevens and John Stevens in 1820 with a pass for life over the Hoboken ferries. The original "Pass" in the handwriting of Mr. Stevens is still in the possession of the family. It reads "Abel I. Smith, and his wife, if he gets one."

Abel I.⁴ Smith married Prudence Cary and Abel I.⁵ Smith, the subject of this sketch, was their son, who proved himself a worthy descendant of these honorable progenitors.

Abel I.⁵ Smith entered the Junior Class of Rutgers College in 1860, from which college he was graduated with honor in 1862. His preparation had been most thorough having been under the tutorship of Rev. Dr. William Mabon for eight years.

He studied law with J. Dickinson Miller of Jersey City and was admitted to the bar of New Jersey as an Attorney in June, 1866, becoming a Counsellor in 1873.

"He was one of the acknowledged leaders of the Hudson County Bar and one of the foremost lawyers of East Jersey,—a learned, fair minded and conscientious citizen. Few men achieved the distinction in both professional and private life which he enjoyed." His practise was confined almost entirely to civil suits in the Court of Chancery and in the Circuit, Supreme and Orphan's Court and in the Court of Errors and Appeals.

In 1894 he was admitted to the bar of the United States Circuit and District Courts of New Jersey.

He was a Republican in politics and for many years a leader of that party in his native county. In 1869 he was elected to the Legislature from the then 8th Assembly District of Hudson County, comprising North Bergen, West Hoboken, Weehawken and the township of Union, being the first Republican chosen from that district and the only one from that county in the Legislature of 1870; he declined to serve again.

In 1888 Governor Green appointed him Judge of the District Court of Hoboken, which office he filled with dignity until 1891 and in 1898 was again appointed to the same position by Governor Griggs.

He was an eminently public spirited citizen interested in all that pertained to the welfare of his county and state. He served for four years as President of the Hudson County Branch of the State Charities Aid Association, and was a member of the "Committee on Laws" of the State Association.

He was a friend of the poor and needy, always ready to extend the helping hand to those less favored than himself not only with material gifts but with legal counsel, as many could testify.

He was married on December 7, 1870, to Laura, daughter of Martin A. Howell of New Brunswick, New Jersey.

Three children survive him, viz.: Abel I. Smith, 3rd, Mrs. James B. Mabon and Mrs. Ralph C. Carroll. He is also survived by one sister, Miss Dora Smith.

He was devoted to his family and in his beautiful home had collected a rare library. One of his most valued books is an ancient family Bible in which is recorded the birth of his ancestress Mary Bailey in St. Philip's Parish, Bristol, England, in 1653, whose descendant Deborah Udall, was the wife of Abel Smith, 1st, of Long Island, whom she married in 1716 at Jamaica, L. I.

He was also an antiquarian possessing a rare collection of gold coins dating from 1682 to 1800, which collection descended to him from his ancestors.

He was a loyal member of the Dutch Reformed Church, an humble Christian, gentle, courteous and kind, the soul of honor and truth, and of incorruptible integrity,—in fact "That noblest work of God, an honest man."

The town of Minden in 1800 embraced the greater part of modern Minden, Montgomery County, together with the modern towns of Danube and Stark in Herkimer County. At the 1790 census this area formed a part of Canajoharie town, from which Minden was set off in 1798, and from which it was enlarged in 1849 to its present limits.

Elker Whitaker.

EPHER WHITAKER OF SOUTHOLD, LONG ISLAND.

CONTRIBUTED BY HERBERT C. WHITAKER.

Rev. Dr. Epher Whitaker was born in Fairfield Township, Cumberland Co., New Jersey, March 27, 1820, and died in Southold, New York, September 1, 1916. His parents were Reuel Whitaker and Sarah Westcott. His grandparents were Nathaniel Whitaker and Lydia Whitaker, first cousins to each other; John Westcott, an officer in the War of 1812, and his second wife, Mary Bennett. His great-grandparents were Ambrose Whitacar and Freelove Stratton; Lewis Whitacar, brother of Ambrose, and Anna Thompson; Samuel Westcott, a captain in the Revolution and Hannah Shaw; Jeremiah Bennett, also a captain in the Revolutionary War and Sarah Berryman.

Ambrose and Lewis Whitacar were sons of Nathaniel Whitacar by his first wife, Mary (Abbot) Dixon, widow of Anthony Dixon and daughter of Thomas and Ruth (Sheppard) Abbot. Nathaniel Whitacar was the son of Richard Whitacar who came from London, England, to Salem, New Jersey, in 1675. Richard Whitacar's wife was Elizabeth (Provoe) Adkin, daughter of George Provoe, who also came from London to Salem, N. J., about 1675.

Freelove Stratton was a great-aunt of Governor Stratton of New Jersey; she was a daughter of Benjamin Stratton and Abigail Preston. Benjamin was the grandson of Richard Stratton of Southampton, Long Island (1643), and his wife Elizabeth Edwards, daughter of William and Ann Edwards of Lynn (1641) and East Hampton (1650). Abigail Preston's ancestry included Roger Preston of Ipswich, Mass. (1639), John Russell, known as "the Anabaptist," founder of the first Baptist Church of Boston, and Henry Brooks of Concord, Mass. (1639), and of Woburn (1650).

Anna Thompson, wife of Lewis Whitacar, was the daughter of Benjamin Thompson and Anna Newcomb. Benjamin, born in Rhode Island, was the grandson of the poet Dr. Benjamin Tompson and Susanna Kirtland of Braintree, Mass. Dr. Tompson was the son of Rev. William Tompson and his first wife Abigail Collins, daughter of John Collins and Abigail Rose. Anna Newcomb was descended from the Martha's Vineyard families of Newcomb, Bayes, Butler and Norton.

Captain Samuel Westcott was the grandson of Daniel Westcott, for many terms a member of the Hartford, Conn., Legislature, and his wife Abigail Gaylord, daughter of Samuel Gaylord (son of William) and Elizabeth Hull (daughter of George Hull). Daniel Westcott was the son of Richard Westcott of Wethersfield, Conn. (1637), who was given a grant of land for his services in the War against the Pequot Indians.

Hannah Shaw, wife of Capt. Samuel Westcott, was descended from Edward Shaw of Southampton, Long Island (1655) and from Joshua Garlick who came to Easthampton about 1650 and died there in 1700, over one hundred years old.

Capt. Jeremiah Bennett's grandfather was one of a company of settlers who came in 1697 from Fairfield, Conn., in Cohansey, Salem Co., N. J., and gave the name Fairfield to the large district in which they settled.

Sarah Berryman was the great-granddaughter of Thomas Berryman and his wife Jane of Staten Island (1686).

The emigrant ancestors of Epher Whitaker all came to America before 1700.

Epher Whitaker lived on his father's farm in Fairfield Township, Cumberland Co., N. J., and attended the public schools there until he was fifteen years of age (in 1835) when he went to Bridgeton, N. J., and worked in all departments of the Bridgeton Chronicle. In 1843, he entered Delaware College at Newark, Delaware, and in 1847 graduated at the head of his class with the degree of A. B., later receiving from this college the degree of A. M. (in 1850) and the degree of D. D. (in 1877). Yale conferred on him the honorary degree of A. M. in 1867. After graduating at Delaware College, he taught for a year in the Academy of the College and in 1848 entered the Union Theological Seminary in New York, graduating in 1851. He at once became the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Southold, Suffolk Co., Long Island, the oldest Presbyterian Church in America and continued in that position until 1892, when after forty years of successful service in one pastorate, he retired. From that date until his death he was the pastor emeritus. His faithful work for the improvement of his fellow men was not discontinued, and so great was the esteem in which he was held that he was often called "Suffolk's Grand Old Man".

As a part of his pastoral work, he collected in 1866 and 1867 the funds with which to buy the grounds and erect the buildings of the Southold Academy which was opened for instruction in 1867, and is now endowed in perpetuity.

During most of Dr. Whitaker's pastorate, he preached four times a week besides conducting other religious services. He was from 1856 to 1903 the Stated Clerk of the Presbytery of Long Island; for thirty years he was present at every annual meeting of the Synod of which he was a member and after the Synod of New York became a body of delegates of the Presbyteries, he served in five annual meetings of this great Synod. He was Moderator of the Synod of New Jersey in 1860-1 and of the Synod of Long Island in 1871-2.

His diversions from his pastoral work were mainly in the fields of literature, poetry, history and antiquarian research.

In 1865, he published a volume of addresses and sermons on educational, patriotic and other themes under the title New Fruits from an Old Field. In 1880, he delivered an elaborate historical address at the bi-centennial anniversary of the organization of the church in Fairfield, N. J., and this address was published in octavo form. The following year he published History of Southold; its First Century from 1640-1740. The preparation of this volume extended over twenty years and the sources carefully used include the records of the Church, of the Town and of the New Haven Colony; legal documents, family registers, various Histories of Long Island; published and unpublished genealogies, many volumes in the Astor Library and the collections of the Long Island Historical Society and other societies. Many historians, biographers and genealogists gave aid in the preparation of the volume, which at once took a position of authority on the subject treated.

During the next few years, he superintended the printing and read the proofs of the Town Records of Southold for the 150 years from 1651 onward. This proof he compared not only word for word, but letter for letter with the faded, antique manuscript records of Southold; by the authority of the Town Clerk, these printed records were made of the same legal evidence as the original; they were printed in two large volumes with an introduction by Dr. Whitaker to each volume, appearing severally in 1882 and 1884.

In 1883 he published a historical sketch of Suffolk County.

He proposed the celebration of the 250th anniversary of the Town of Southold which took place in 1890. Dr. Whitaker was made the Chairman of the joint committees, wrote the historical and descriptive introduction and edited the volume of proceedings, a volume of 220 large octavo pages. As an outcome of this celebration, a handsome granite monument to commemorate the founders was erected in the cemetery.

In 1894, Dr. Whitaker published Leaves of All Seasons, a collection of lyrics written at different times from 1851 to 1893. It includes translations into English verse made from eminent French and German poets.

At various times Dr. Whitaker delivered historical addresses before the New Haven Colony Historical Society and the Suffolk County Historical Society, which were published. He wrote historical and biographical articles which were published in cyclopaedias of the highest character, including the Britanica. Throughout his life he contributed to the press and had published uncounted articles in daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly and annual periodicals. Prayers from his pen for devotional exercises and many of his sermons and addresses have been published.

In 1886, he was prominent in the organization of the Suffolk County Historical Society. This society from its organization until his death annually elected him its first vice-president. When the Long Island Historical Society held its first annual meeting in 1863, he was elected one of its councilors and held that position until his death. He was one of the five honorary members of the New Haven Colony Historical Society.

The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society made him a Corresponding Member in 1869, soon after its organization. Many references to his published writings are given in the pages of the RECORD of this Society. Two extensive contributions were made to the RECORD by Dr. Whitaker; the first a ten page biography of Charles B. Moore in Volume XXV, pages 105 to 115; the second an eight page article on the Founders of Southold in Volume XXVI, pages 85 to 89 and 114 to 118.

INCIDENTS IN THE HISTORY OF THE THORN FAMILY.

CONTRIBUTED BY KATHARINE TWINING MOODY.

By some chance historical articles treating of the Thorne, or Thorn, family have failed to notice either the antecedents or the descendants of a Jonathan Thorn who married Catharine Livingston, daughter of Gilbert Livingston and Cornelia Beekman, and granddaughter of the first Robert Livingston and Alida Schuyler, although he undoubtedly belonged to that branch of the Long Island Thorne family which settled in Dutchess County, New York.

This appears strange for the grandchildren of Jonathan Thorn and Catharine Livingston were numerous, including among their number the well-known Colonel Herman Thorn of New York City, later of Paris, France, where he was styled the "American Prince," and Jonathan Thorn, the second, who served as lieutenant in the United States Navy at Tripoli, and who figured still more prominently and tragically as leader of the Astoria expedition.

Records, public and private, show that the first Jonathan Thorn was a citizen of Dutchess County; was commissioned Second Lieutenant of Militia in the British service from Beekman Precinct, February 1st, 1758, in the company of Myndert Viele; that he was a Tory to the extent of refusing to sign the "Articles of Association," and was listed first among the disaffected persons of Dutchess County, and later as a prisoner. (Hasbrouck's History of Dutchess County, p. 102; New York in the Revolution, Supplement, p. 241.)

Family tradition maintained that he died in prison during the Revolution, and in corroboration of this, we find recorded, in connection with the burial records of other prisoners of war, in the Center Church Burying Ground of Hartford, Connecticut, this item: Jonathan Thorn, November 14, 1777, aged 53. (Connecticut Magazine, vol. 4, p. 417.)

His wife, Catharine Livingston, had died in 1769, leaving several children, two of whom were Samuel Gilbert and Catharine,—the latter married in New York City, April 25, 1795, Horace Johnson, son of Asahel Johnson and Eunice Wetmore, of Middletown, Connecticut. (Trinity Church Records.)

Cornelia Thorn, daughter of Jonathan, mentioned in the will of Catharina Tenbroeck, doubtless was another child. (New York Historical Society, Abstracts of Wills, vol. 9, p. 307.)

Samuel Gilbert Thorn, the second son, was born in Poughkeepsie, Sept. 27, 1754; died at Flushing, L. I., Aug. 12, 1823. He married, April 26, 1778, Helena Van Slyck and had fifteen children as follows: Jonathan, Adam Van Slyck, Herman, Robert Livingston, Samuel, James Van Slyck (died in infancy), Catharine Livingston, James Van Slyck, Jane Van Slyck, Cornelia, John Van Eps, Eliza Glen, Helenah, Gilbert and Samuel Gilbert. (Upon the authority of a descendant of Colonel Herman Thorn.)

We do not know whether the sympathies of Jonathan Thorn, the elder, were altogether with the British,—probably not, since his family associations were with the Livingstons, men prominently identified with the American cause. Jonathan Thorn was not, so far as we may tell from records, guarded for any act against the colonies, and it would appear possible that his previous military service under British appointment made him unwilling to turn against the crown.

Fate dealt unkindly with the two Jonathans, and while the story of the elder Thorn is almost wholly unknown, we cannot help wondering whether the unyielding traits of character, which in the end cost the life of the younger Thorn were not in some degree present in the disposition of his grandfather.

The register of the St. Nicholas Society for 1895 records the marriage of Catharine Livingston, daughter of Gilbert, to Thomas Thorn. This mistake may doubtless be traced to an acceptance of incorrect entries in the family record entitled "The Livingstons of Livingston Manor," p. 548. There the marriage reads Thomas, with note of another authority Stephen. Cornelius Livingston, son of Gilbert, in his will, dated July 28, 1757, mentions his sister Catharine Thorne. (New York Historical Society, Abstracts of Wills, vol. 6, p. 130). Again, Mr. Frank Allaben, in his life of John Watts De Peyster, notes this marriage of Catharine Livingston to Jotham Thom,—the latter obviously a printer's mistake. There can be no question of the real name of this Thorn, for in the unpublished register of the Dutch Reformed Church of Poughkeepsie, there appears the baptismal record of Cathrina Thorn, daughter of Jonathan Thorn and Cathrina Livingston, May 25, 1769; witnessed by Gilbert Livingston and Catharine Crannel, his wife.

Reuben Gold Thwaites, in his annotations of Franchère's Narrative of a Voyage to the West Coast of America, 1811-1814, thus characterizes the second Thorn:

"Captain Jonathan Thorn had been a subaltern in the American navy. Enlisting as a midshipman, April 28, 1800, he served in the Mediterranean squadron, and in 1803, was acting lieutenant on the Enterprise, Stephen Decatur commanding. In the daring exploit of destroying the President in the harbor of Tripoli, Thorn had an active part; and three months later commanded the gun-boat "Number 4" in the bombardment of Tripoli harbor. After this action, he was commended for gallantry by Decatur in the highest terms, and placed in charge of one of the prize boats. February 16, 1807, he was promoted to a lieutenantcy, and furloughed May 18, 1810, in order to command the Tonquin. His conduct during the cruise of this vessel has been much censured. Alexander Ross, whose narrative is published as vol. 7 of our series (Early American Travels) is bitter in his denunciation. Irving, in Astoria, makes apologies for Thorn, and shows that his conduct proceeded from a sense of duty to his employer (John Jacob Astor) and a desire for naval discipline somewhat too strenuous for a merchant vessel with passengers. Franchère sought to be just to Thorn, but his sympathies were with the Astorians. Thorn's tragic fate doubtless deprived the United States of a naval officer of unusual ability and integrity."

The Tonquin sailed from New York, September 7, 1810; sank off the coast of Oregon in the summer of 1811, when Jonathan Thorn, his brother James and practically the entire crew were murdered by the Indians.

The details of this expedition may be found in: Washington Irving's Astoria, ch. 4-11; Gabriel Franchère's Narrative of a Voyage to the Northwest Coast of America; John Linnell's History of Oregon Territory, pp. 221-223; and Alexander Ross's Adventures of the First Settlers on the Oregon or Columbia River, 1810-1813.

Regardless of the merits of the case, this adventure of Jonathan Thorn the younger is one of the picturesque events in American western coast history.

The accompanying plates are photostatic copies of the commission of the first Jonathan Thorn, now in possession of the writer.

AN INQUIRY INTO THE AUTHENTICITY OF THE PORTRAIT OF MARY BALL, THE MOTHER OF WASHINGTON.

BY CHARLES HENRY HART.

As men are supposed to inherit their most dominant and sterling qualities from the mother, there is always an unquenchable desire to look upon the face of her who has given to the world a notable man among men and to learn of the personal characteristics of that woman who has thus endowed her son. If this is a common desire toward those who have made a place for themselves in the history of the world, how much keener is the feeling when that woman stands before the world as the Mother of George Washington, the mere mention of whose name brings the glow of patriotism to the cheek of every American and to whom the whole earth bows in awe, reverence and admiration. Yet, until this year, when an even century and a quarter closes around her grave, we have had no authenticated portrait of Mary Ball, the wife of Augustine Washington, to which to do this homage.

MARY BALL WASHINGTON

On April 5th, 1914, Mr. W. Lanier Washington, of New York City, who is sixth in descent from Mary Ball Washington and the present representative of the Washington family, as also the successor of Washington in the Society of the Cincinnati, submitted to me a portrait of an aged woman, full face to left, with frilled cap, painted on coarse canvas, 18 x 21 inches, for my opinion as to its authorship and subject. After having the picture in my possession for a fortnight, during which time I gave it constant and careful study, I returned it with my unqualified opinion that it is a veritable authentic portrait of Mary Ball Washington, painted from life, in 1786, by Robert Edge Pine and for the following reasons.

The authorship of the painting was perfectly clear to me from the first, from my study and familiarity with the work of Robert Edge Pine, who was a British painter, born in 1730, and removed to this country in 1784, settling in Philadelphia where he died, November 19, 1788. After painting portraits of Robert Morris and of Francis Hopkinson, in Philadelphia, Pine visited Mount Vernon, armed with letters of introduction from these two gentlemen and Washington, on April 28, 1785, enters in his Diary, Pine's arrival "in order to take my picture from life." Pine remained the guest of Washington for three weeks and when he left, on May 19th, he carried with him letters of high commendation from Washington to Governor William Paca and Colonel Edward Lloyd, of Maryland, with which Pine repaired to Annapolis, where he painted many portraits and family pieces. From Annapolis Pine wrote to Washington, December 16, 1785, sending his account for five frames and a present, to Mrs. Washington, of a portrait he had painted of her niece Fanny Bassett, but then recently married to the son of Washington's brother Charles. These Washington acknowledged to Pine, February 26, 1786, with warm thanks from himself and from Mrs. Washington.

In addition to the portraits of Washington and of Fanny Bassett, Pine painted, at Mount Vernon, portraits of Mrs. Washington's three grandchildren, Elizabeth, aged nine years, Eleanor, aged six years, and George Washington Parke Custis, aged four years. The first and last of these portraits, each on canvas of the same size and coarseness as the portrait under consideration, are in the General G. W. C. Lee collection at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va. From Annapolis, Pine went to Virginia, where he painted many portraits, amongst others that of General Horatio Gates, now in the Alexander Smith Cochran collection at Phillipse Manor House, Yonkers, N. Y., and that of General "Light Horse" Harry Lee, owned by the President of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia.

From the preceding facts it is clear that Pine was painting in Virginia, in 1786, two years before the death of Mary Ball Washington, when she was approaching four score years, which is the age, as well as one can judge, of the face shown on the canvas in question.

The correspondence between Washington and Pine and others which I have used, show not only that the "Father of his Country" appreciated Pine as a man but also as an artist, which is confirmed, in a practical manner, by his sitting for his own portrait and having his wife's three grandchildren painted by him. To yet further emphasize his friendship for Pine, Washington commends him by letter to his friends Paca and Lloyd, of Maryland, and it is not at all unlikely that, when Pine went to Virginia, Washington may have given him a letter to his mother with a request that she would sit for her portrait. Not finding such a letter in the Washington manuscripts, in the Library of Congress, where those that I have cited are, is no proof or even implication that none was written, as the collection, wonderfully rich as it is, is far from complete. Washington did not preserve copies of all of his letters; and many of his drafts of letters as well as letters to him were separated from the collection, before it became the property of the government, and are in private hands to-day.

The crucial question however remains to be determined. Is the portrait, under consideration, painted by Robert Edge Pine on the very coarse canvas he habitually used, the likeness of Mary Ball, the Mother of Washington? Upon this point there is, of course, not any direct evidence,—there seldom or ever is in such cases; but circumstantial evidence, here a little and there a little, corroborating each other into an indestructible web, is generally very much more satisfactory and convincing than direct evidence which is usually conflicting and is apt to err in its very positiveness, which if weak in one link breaks the whole chain. Were this not so the large number of portraits of Washington that are submitted to me, with positive assurance that they, each one and all, were painted from life by Gilbert Stuart and usually presented by Washington himself, could not so easily be shown not to have been painted by Stuart nor in Washington's lifetime. To answer the question we have the circumstance recited connecting Washington and Pine intimately together, and also the fact that Pine was in Virginia, when Mary Ball Washington was living at Fredericksburg. We have also the important fact that this portrait is painted by Robert Edge Pine; and it may be well to add that it is a portrait painted from life, and also an extremely good example of Pine's work at his best, being firmly handled and decisive in its execution, which qualities are lacking in some of the American portraits that he painted. We have no other authentic portrait of Mary Ball Washington with which to compare this one, although there are three others claiming acknowledgement,—two of which, that may be called the Morse and the Middleton portraits, investigation has shown to have no claim to authenticity, while the third has yet to be vindicated with little likelihood of success. As to the portrait under consideration no one regarding it can help but see, involuntarily, its general resemblance to the well-known lineaments and distinguishing characteristics of the portraits of the Father of his Country, which has caused the not infrequent comment that it looks like a portrait of Washington with the addition of a cap; and to disabuse any one's mind of this false idea, I will say that it is an absolutely homogeneous painting, that is, all painted at the same period or virtually at the same time.

In determining portraiture it is always the ensemble that controls. When one considers a portrait to decide whether it is like the subject or not, it is not the mouth nor the nose nor the eyes that are first considered, but the general likeness; and after that is settled, the general dissection takes place either pro or con. Some times the history of a portrait, if authentic may be helpful in identifying its subject, but in this case the pedigree of the portrait does not begin until sixty-one years after the putative subject's death, although this comparatively short lapse of time weighs in its favor in that persons were then living who could have seen and known Mary Washington.

This is the history of the portrait as given to me by Mr. Washington:—Doctor Shearjashub Spooner, of New York, the author of the well-known Biographical and Critical Dictionary of Painters, Engravers, Sculptors and Architects, found this portrait in Fredericksburg, Va., in 1850, where tradition said it was the portrait of Mary Ball Washington and as such he purchased it and brought the portrait to New York. Unfortunately the name of the former owner has not been preserved, but the portrait was valued by its previous owner for it had been relined with another canvas at a period long anterior to 1850, judging from the age of the relining canvas, which relining itself shows that the portrait was considered of importance. On the death of Doctor Spooner, in 1859, the picture passed to his widow and on her death, in 1875, it became the property of her sister, Mrs. Adaline D. Townsend, wife of Henry P. Townsend, who resided at 306 Madison Avenue, N. Y. Mrs. Townsend gave the portrait to Doctor Spooner's kinsman, Dr. Albert A. Davis of 149 East 63rd Street, N. Y., from whom Mr. Washington purchased it March 20, 1905. After it came into Mr. Washington's possession he showed it to Mr. George Washington Ball, of Washington, D. C., a descendant of Mary Ball Washington both lineally and collaterally, who died January 9, 1912, at the age of eighty-four, and he recognized it as a portrait he had seen, in Fredericksburg, in his youth, as a portrait of his ancestress Mary Ball Washington. It is of great importance to note that for the last sixty-four years this portrait has been in the possession of persons of consideration and social prominence in the community in which they lived, which is a ruling factor in the pedigrees of a painting or other objet d'art. It is therefore from my investigations and researches into the history of this painting and from my familiarity with portraiture in general and in the portraiture of Washington in particular that I arrive at the conclusion that this is a true authentic portrait of Mary Ball, the Mother of Washington, painted from life by Robert Edge Pine circa 1786.

PRESENTATION OF THE PORTRAIT OF
HON. CHAUNCEY MITCHELL DEPEW
TO THE
NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY.

On the afternoon of Thursday, December 13th, 1917, the portrait of Hon. Chauncey Mitchell Depew, LL.D., by the noted Danish artist, Johan Waldemar Von Rehling Qvistgaard, which had been presented to the Society, was unveiled in the presence of Mr. Depew himself, the artist, and a large audience. Mr. Depew responded in his usual felicitous manner. The occasion was further signalized by the delivery by Dr. Franklin Bowditch Dexter, of New Haven, Conn., of an interesting and entertaining address on the Life at Yale College in the time of President Timothy Dwight, 1795-1817. Mr. Depew's address here follows:—

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN :

I have faced as great a variety of conditions and met as many unique situations as almost anyone in the country. The present occasion is unique and original. This ancient and honorable society has presented itself with my portrait, and I am called upon to make the address. I do not know whether I am to give a biographical sketch of the subject on account of my familiarity with it, or am to criticise the picture as a work of art. Mr. Qvistgaard has produced an excellent likeness, a picture of great merit. There is one thing, however, I can do gratefully and that is to thank the society for this distinction. I noticed that Mrs. Depew, who had her first view of the portrait when the artist drew the veil, vigorously applauded. This settles the opinion of our family and its harmony.

The ancient Egyptians had their own way of preserving the likenesses of their friends or of their rulers by embalming their bodies. There are limitations to this method of expressing affection or admiration, and one of them is that the work cannot be duplicated. The mummy of Rameses in the museum at Cairo presents that great monarch in as good condition apparently as when as Pharaoh he ordered his army to follow the Israelites into the Red Sea.

It is impossible to recall incidents of the past which are not duplicated and re-duplicated in succeeding generations. When Pharaoh pursued the Israelites, he let his armies rush between the walls of the lane in the Red Sea, through which the Jews passed dry shod, and they were all drowned, but King Pharaoh and his sons stayed on shore. (Laughter.) The result was that he enjoyed the throne for many years and his sons succeeding him. There were not at that period any socialists or social democrats or liberal minded subjects or newspapers to question Divine right and threaten its continuance. This war with its awful sacrifice is now entering upon its fourth year. It is estimated that four millions of Germans have been killed and wounded and every family in Germany has lost one or more of its members, but the Kaiser and his six sons have still undisputed leadership and vigorous health. They have stayed on shore. (Laughter.)

We have never appreciated fully how much of history and the instructive teaching of it there is in portraiture. Important events follow each other so rapidly in the story of nations and periods overlap which are so full of heroes and men of genius in every walk in life, of evolution and revolution, that it is impossible with the enormous exactions of our busy times to keep properly familiar with the past. We are making history now every day and world history of such importance that the whole world is to be, as a result of this tragedy, so reconstructed that future generations will make a new start from this war and what has resulted, and care little what preceded it. The Civil War led for a generation to an absolute forgetfulness of the Revolution and what it stood for.

Very few of us have the leisure to explore the library, but a portrait always interests and arouses inquiry. Two conspicuous examples are Washington and Lincoln. Stuart's portrait of Washington and Carpenter's of Lincoln have been accepted as the two best presentations of those great men while in life. They are in all the school books, all the histories, every library, museum and State Capitol, and on frequent occasions illumine the pages of the daily and weekly newspapers and also the magazines. There is no doubt that this constant reproduction to the eye of youth, middle age and old age, of Washington and Lincoln keep before each generation the story of the founding of our Republic, of the emancipation of the slave and of the reconstruction of our nation. Every child, who has arrived at school age, can point to a picture of Washington or of Lincoln with full knowledge of their lives and deeds. This method of teaching is as old as the human race. Sign language gives evidence of this in the pictures the cave man sketched or carved upon the walls of his primitive abode, which are illustrations of the educational efforts of our ancestors millions of years ago.

The sculptor is far more limited than the portrait painter. We have a recent example of a controversy which would never have arisen in the case of a portrait, because the sitting impresses the personality of the subject upon the artist. In this recent statue of Lincoln, the sculptor, of course, never saw him, but has endeavored with great talent to present in one figure Lincoln's divergent characteristics. I knew him very well and saw him in several moods. He never got away from his early trials, experiences and influences. He was normally always the country lawyer, the inimitable story teller, the keen politician and shrewd man of affairs. On the other hand, he was an idealist of the loftiest sentiments and the tenderest sympathies and emotions. The artist has endeavored to convey in metal these characteristics, but to grasp the idea one must have imagination and see what the artist unquestionably was impressed by in his study of Lincoln's character. Such a statue cannot be an accurate portrait. What we always want is the man as his family, his friends and his neighbors knew him.

There was a famous inquiry which went, years and years ago, through the country, and that was, "What becomes of all the pins?" Quite as important a one is, "What becomes of all the portraits?" There is nothing that disappears so rapidly as a family portrait. The children look at it, they care for it, but the grandchildren—it is nothing to them; and the great-grandchildren don't care anything about it except they have a genealogical craze and want to accumulate a lot of those things on the walls. But the family portrait, as a rule, is sent to the garret, from there to the junk shop and then into the dust bin. You can go into junk and antiquarian shops all over New York and find family portraits which they will sell to you for the frame. But if the portrait happens to find a place in some society which has permanence, into some institution which will live, then there is an opportunity for the man or the woman who was painted to have the illustration of his or her life teach its lesson. But there has become a new view and value of the portrait. All the distinguished men and women, and the men and women of no distinction whatever, but who had the money, who were painted in the period of Sir Joshua Reynolds, Gainsborough, Raeburn, Romney and Hopper, have portraits which are of incalculable value. A Sir Joshua brings one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, a Gainsborough one hundred thousand, and so on down to the lowest—twenty-five thousand dollars. I trust, Mr. Qvistgaard, the day will come when yours will be as valuable.

There are numerous families in the old world, I know many of them, where the fortune has been dissipated and the family saved by the family portraits. The ancestor, either by grants from the King or by his extraordinary genius in some line, accumulates a vast fortune. Then he buys his great estate with its forests, hunting preserves, meadows and palace in town. In natural course his son succeeds, and is followed by the grandson and the great-grandson. By that time the fortune has been impaired and the estate mortgaged, but upon the walls are the Sir Joshua, the Gainsborough and other masters, and that heir, facing bankruptcy, capitalizes his ancestors. It is one of the wonders of modern finance.

I know of an instance where, through no fault of his own, a distinguished member of the British House of Lords, in consequence of the extravagance of his father, grandfather and great-grandfather, found his estate so mortgaged and encumbered that he could not meet even the interest upon the debts. What to do he did not know. He was in despair, when one day a picture dealer called and said, "My Lord, I understand you have a famous Sir Joshua. May I look at it?" "All right," he said. So he went in, and my lord coming in a few minutes afterwards, saw the picture dealer taking this picture down. He said, "What are you doing?" "Why," the dealer answered, "an American client of mine has heard of that picture and is exceedingly anxious to have it, and I am taking it to him." "Sir,

I don't sell my ancestors." The picture dealer laid on the piano twenty thousand pounds in new crisp Bank of England notes and then took the picture under his arm and started for the door. My lord said afterwards to a friend, in narrating the occurrence, "I wanted to stop him, but I had to have the money." (Laughter.)

I remember when a series of portraits were used as a picturesque and effective argument. President Harrison sent for me to come to Washington. When I arrived, the Hon. Stephen B. Elkins, who was Secretary of War, called upon me with a message from the President. "The President wants you," he said, "to accept the position of Secretary of State in his Cabinet, Mr. Blaine having resigned." When I explained to him that it was impossible for me at that time to make such a sudden change in my life, he said, "Let's take a walk." He conducted me over to the offices of the Secretary of State and then pointed to the portraits, beginning with Thomas Jefferson, of those who had held that position. He said, "You will notice that in the line of the Secretaries of State, there is more distinction in statesmanship and ability than in the line of Presidents of the United States. To be in that line is fame."

My friends, I want to congratulate my friend, Dr. Dexter, upon his delightful address. Really, I have heard a great many talks at Yale commencements on Yale's past, but I never heard anything so informing and so delicious as the bits of student history which came up under that picture which was drawn so deftly by my distinguished friend. But I felt also about it a bit of embarrassment, because when your President asked me to come here for the unveiling of this picture, he said, "I have selected for the time when your picture will be unveiled and when you will make some remarks in regard to it, the day when Dr. Dexter from Yale is to speak to us about conditions in college a hundred years ago." (Laughter.) Well, the Lord has treated me very well, both in vigor and health, but I want to assure you, ladies and gentlemen, I am not in that class. (Laughter.) I hope to be and certainly am using every effort in my power so that when the next professor, or the professor himself, I trust, extends his remarks and his stories of student life at Yale a hundred years ago, I can sit on the platform and say, "Yes, I know all about that, I was there." (Laughter.)

Our meeting today is an illustration in a minor way of our national situation and popular characteristics. A militaristic and autocratic government trains its people from the cradle to the grave primarily for service to the State. When war comes civil life practically ceases, and the thought and power of the people is concentrated on the contest. We, on the contrary, have developed as individuals and our thinking and our efforts are along peaceful lines.

We are in the greatest and most savage war of all times, and our civilization and institutions are at stake. In our first six months, we have recruited half as many men and spent four times as much money as Lincoln did during the whole Civil War. Our hearts are enlisted and our minds are intent upon victory. Nevertheless, the ways of normal peaceful living are so deeply imbedded that we take on war as a necessary burden. The flying needles knitting comforts for soldiers and sailors are present here and everywhere, but we enter with keen enjoyment with Dr. Dexter into the faculty and student life at Yale during its first century. Music lovers enjoy the opera and concert, and the theatre and screen are of absorbing interest, but we all support the President in every effort and every call for any sacrifice for success for right, justice, humanity and liberty. GENEALOGICAL GLEANINGS FROM LAND AND

PROBATE RECORDS AT WHITE PLAINS AND
RYE, NEW YORK.

COLLECTED AND CONTRIBUTED BY THERESA HALL BRISTOL.

The following items of genealogical information have been put together with the hope of helping the genealogist searching in Westchester county, where so few vital records, either church or town, are obtainable; and an effort has been made not to repeat what has already been published in the several histories of the county, in Baird's History of Rye, and in our own RECORD.

The records of Rye are at Port Chester. The first volume is missing, but there are three volumes of land and one of town records, and, as White Plains was a part of Rye, the earlier land transactions of White Plains are included among them. These have been thoroughly written up in Baird's history. As Rye was, for a short time, in the Connecticut Colony, some of the early probate records are at Fairfield and probably at other places in Connecticut. The earliest Eastchester records are at Tuckahoe, and those of the districts annexed to New York City are in the office of the City Comptroller, Municipal building, New York City. There are at White Plains, the land records dating back to 1687; the probate records after Revolutionary times; also, in the County Clerk's office, an old County Road Book dating from 1723 to 1773, several Books of Common Pleas, dating from 1723, and other court records, to be had if asked for.

The inhabitants of Rye had each a share in the White Plains Purchase, each allotment apparently corresponding with his holdings in Rye. The first allotments were made shortly before 1697, so far as can be ascertained from the available records, and the last about 1740. A full list of the first grantees is given in both histories of the county, and therefore will not be repeated. It has been impossible to find a complete history of each deed, and it would involve too much labor to fill in a complete map. This has only been done in the section bounded by the Old Post Road, the Indian or Scarsdale Line, and the West Branch of the Mamaroneck river.

SMITH

Abraham Smith "of Rye" was among the first settlers of White Plains. He purchased of Samuel Odell, in 1700, a piece of land on the west side of White Plains street (now Broadway), which Samuel had inherited from his father William Odell; "land which is to be divided" (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 123); and in 1705 Abraham Smith purchased land next to it from George Kniffen of Rye, "as it was laid out for him, the sd. Abraham Smith." The latter piece was bounded on the south by Daniel Lane's land, and the deed was witnessed by Humphrey Underhill (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 122). The names of Abraham Smith and Humphrey Underhill appear together on the land records of Jamaica, L. I. (Vol. 1.)

There were two Abraham Smiths of White Plains, father and son, and not one only, as stated in the Rye history. That Abraham, the father, was dead before 1712, and left a family, is apparent from the following entry on the old court records, dated 1712: "Humphrey Underhill appeared at Court and complained that ye estate of Abraham Smith of White Plains, since Anna Bassett late widow and relict of ye same Abraham Smith who married Arnold Bassett is dead, goes much to decay, and said Arnold is endeavoring to destroy ye estate of sd. Abraham Smith, wherein ye orphans will be very much wronged." The court ordered that ye sd. Humphrey Underhill, Caleb Hiat and Samuel Purdy, make an inventory of ye estate for the benefit of ye orphans. "Special Court, June 25, 1712/11." (White Plains Land Records, Liber D, p. 19). Mr. Underhill moved that the children of Abraham Smith be bound out, and the estate be put into the hands of Caleb Hiat, he giving bonds; the estate to be divided amongst the children. Humphrey Underhill also reported that "Abraham Smith, the oldest of the children, is willing to live with his uncle, George Lane." Court held at Eastchester, Nov. 6, 1714—Elizabeth Odell, daughter of Abraham Smith of White Plains, dec'd, demanded her portion out of the hands of Caleb Hiat (Liber D, p. 41, Westchester Co. Land Records.)

In 1709, Anna Smith (probably wife or widow of Abraham Smith, Sr.) and Samuel Lane (brother to George Lane, Jr., styled "Gentleman," who was called "uncle" by Abraham Smith, the son, and who was probably Anna Smith's brother), witnessed a deed of sale from Nathaniel Taylor of Phillipsburgh to Ruhamah Bishop, for land at the Bronx (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 174).

Thomas Smith of White Plains, Yeoman, applied with Eunice Hatfield, widow, for Letters of Administration upon the estate of her late husband, Thomas Hatfield of White Plains, dec'd., 1725.

Abraham Smith, the son of Abraham, added to the property inherited from his father, and, as the oldest son, inherited all his father's rights as an original Patentee of White Plains. As his father was dead when the Royal Patent was applied for and granted, in 1721/22, it is quite evident that he, the son, was the Abraham Smith to whom the patent was granted. In 1726, Abraham Smith of White Plains sold all his land in White Plains to John Walton, "Preacher of the Gospel at White Plains," viz.: 60 acres along White Plains street, including on the north a part of what is now the Presbyterian church and cemetery grounds, and another piece of 9 acres "in the northerly end of the Purchase, not far from Anthony Miller's house, sd. land in joint tenancy with Obadiah Purdy, heir of Mr. Joseph Purdy of sd. White Plains, dec'd." (Westchester County Land Records, Liber F, p. 170). The 60 acre piece sold by Abraham Smith to John Walton, included 24 acres, "a homestead and lottment" purchased in 1714 by the "Rev. Mr. Christopher Bridge of Rye, Clerk," from John Frost "of Rye," yeoman, "bounded on the south by land of Abraham Smith"; also a piece of land "that was George Lane's" before 1700. (Westchester Land Records, Liber E, p. 115.) Perhaps he was the Abraham Smith who settled in Dutchess county with others of White Plains. In his will, dated 1764, Abraham Smith "of Phillips Patent," Dutchess county, mentions wife Margaret, son Abraham, grandson Silvanus Covert, daughters Jemima Covert, Ann Headly, Bethiah Hill, Charity Ferrinton, and Mary Griffin.

UNDERHILL.

Humphrey Underhill, as before stated (see Smith notes), was at Jamaica, L. I., from 1669 to 1675, at least. He sold, in 1675, a dwelling house, garden, orchard, etc., to John Rowelson; also 20 acres of land, bounded on the west by Samuel Smith. (Published Jamaica Records, Vol. 1). From his will, dated July 22, 1722, it is evident that he married Sarah, widow of one of the Jamaica Smiths, as he mentions his wife's son Benjamin Smith (N. Y. Hist. Soc. Collections, Wills, Vol. 1). Humphrey Underhill was not "perhaps at Stamford with Capt. John Underhill" as suggested in Baird's History of Rye, but was probably in New Amsterdam with his uncle (?), Thomas Hall (see Savage and Pope), who had come to New Amsterdam, by way of New England, from Gloucestershire in England. It is probable that Thomas Hall had sent for his nephew and niece, Humphrey and Mary Underhill, as would appear from the following: In 1689, Anna (Medford), widow of Thomas Hall of New Amsterdam, left her property, by will, to "two cousins" of her dec'd. husband, Humphrey Underhill and Mary Underhill, wife of Richard Stites (N. Y. Wills, Vol. 1, p. 41). In those days the term cousin was variously used, sometimes for nephew and again for brother in law. "Thomas Halen" (Hall) "j.m. Van Closter" (from Gloucestershire) "en Anna Mitfort" (Medford) "j.d. Van Bristol," were married in 1641 (Dutch Reformed Church in New York, N. Y. Gen. & Bio. Soc. Collections, Vol. 1, Marriages, p. 11). "Thomas Nayler, j.m. Van Assisin in England and Mary Undersil" (Underhill) "j.d. Van Clifford in Gloucestershire" were married Feb. 24, 1666 (p. 32). Thomas, son of Thomas Naylor and Maria, was baptized 1667, and the witnesses were Thomas Hall and Hilliard Joris. (Same reference, Baptisms, p. 87). Mary Naylor appeared in court regarding a debt of her dec'd husband, in 1668 (Court Minutes of New Amsterdam, Vol. VI, p. 120). Mary Naylor and Richard Stites were married May 14, 1668 (New York Marriages). Humphrey Underhill bought land in Rye in 1681 (Hist. of Rye). He sold his lot in the first division of White Plains, on the east side of White Plains street (which he had purchased from Isaac and Anna Odell of Eastchester) to James Travis, in 1705. He settled on his large tract of land in the extreme southern part of "The Patent," and deeded a part of the same to Samuel Hunt, his son in law. It appears from the land records that Humphrey Underhill was to build a mill, and Samuel Hunt was to grind the town's corn. The mill seems to have been several years in the building, from 1704/5 to 1707, when another year was granted "to finish the mill now begun." Humphrey Underhill had no male descendants, and his White Plains land passed to his grandson, Underhill Budd (White Plains Land, Liber G, p. 393). Humphrey Underhill's children were: Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Merritt, Mary, wife of Samuel Hunt, Sarah, wife of Joseph Budd, and Hannah, who married first William Barnes, and second, Daniel Clarke.

LYNCH.

A Gabriel Lynch died intestate at Newtown, L. I., and his estate was administered by Jonathan Strickland and wife, who were appointed Sept. 24, 1671 (N. Y. Surrogate Records, Liber 1 p. 95).

A Gabriel Lynch was offered a home lot in Eastchester in 1682, provided he carry on his trade of blacksmith. (Eastchester Town Records, large book, p. 42). A piece of land was laid out for Gabriel Lynch, in Rye, April 12, 1689. (Rye Land Records, Liber C, p. 36).

A Jonathan Lynch was among those who applied for the Royal Patent at White Plains in 1721/2. He took an active part in town affairs, and helped survey and lay out some of the land, for which service he was paid in land. He sold a piece of this with another of the "layers out," to Joseph Fowler of Mamaroneck, in 1726. (Westchester County Land Records, Liber F, p. 81). He was dead in 1740, when a plot of land in the 5th division, "up above the corn mill by the mill brook" was mentioned as being bounded on the south by "the heirs of Jonathan Lynch." (Rye Land Records, Liber C, p. 273). He owned land on the east side of the Old Mamaroneck Road, and in 1725 the "Road to Rye Neck" was laid out through his land, in front of his house: "Beginning at a road laid out going down to Eastchester, between the lot of John Travis and the lot of Moses Knapp, by Jonathan Lynch's house and by Isaac Covert's house and by Jonathan Purdy's house and by Daniel Horton's house and by Caleb Horton's house and so along until it comes to the Mamaroneck river where the bridge now crosses." (Westchester County Road Book.) Histories of White Plains have been in error in regard to the laying out of this road, and have confused it with the Old Mamaroneck Road which ran through the Lynch property south, by Joseph Horton's house, through Joshua Hatfield's land, and but a short distance beyond the Scarsdale line (see map). In 1737, Jonathan Lynch's land was given as the west-most bound of land transferred by deed from Caleb Field to William Marsh; and in 1740, when the same land was sold, Gabriel Lynch, evidently Jonathan's son, was in possession of this land on the western bound. This Gabriel Lynch was called "cousin" by Martha, widow of Benjamin Lyon of Rye, in her will dated 1773. As Martha Lyon also mentions a sister, Mary Lynch, Gabriel Lynch was probably her brother in law. (Westchester County Wills, p. 356). Gabriel Lynch (son of Jonathan), was living in 1790, and his sons Gabriel, Jr. and John were living near him (N. Y. Census, 1790). Gabriel Lynch, Jr. (son of Gabriel), in his will, dated 1805, then living at Bedford, ordered that his land in White Plains be sold, and the proceeds divided among his brother John's children; John, Peter and Sarah; and his sisters, Margaret Fowler, Sarah Hatfield and Hannah Cornell. Gabriel Lynch, Sr., purchased a part of the estate of Peter Hatfield, one of the first Patentees of White Plains, from his son Peter Hatfield, Jr., who moved to Clinton, Dutchess Co., N. Y., about 1769 (Dutchess Co. Land Records), as shown by various deeds giving boundaries, but the deed of transfer cannot be found. Gabriel Lynch mortgaged this land in 1783.

KNAPP.

Moses Knapp had a tract of land laid out for him in White Plains in 1720 (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 273). Whether he was a son of Timothy Knapp of Rye, who married Bethiah Brøndage, has not been determined. There was a Moses Knapp, Jr., in White Plains, who held office in 1737 (old White Plains Town Book). Benjamin Knapp succeeded to the tract of land owned by Moses Knapp, Sr. Daniel Knapp in his will dated 1744, stipulated that if his wife Martha "change her estate" his land was to be sold and the proceeds divided among his wife, his brothers, Moses and Benjamin Knapp, and his cousins Lavinia Mead and Gilbert Hatfield. The wife evidently remarried, for the land was sold to Abraham Hatfield (no record of deed), who in turn sold it to Dr. Robert Graham of Scarsdale, "land formerly Daniel Knapp's." (Rye Land Records, Liber C, p. 253.) This included the lot at the corner, owned by John Travis when the Road to Rye Neck was laid out in 1725, and ran along "the Road to Eastchester" (now Maple Ave.), to "Wolf Pitt Hill" (now Fisher's Hill). See map.

GRAHAM.

Dr. Robert Graham, who succeeded Capt. Abraham Hatfield as Supervisor and leading townsman, evidently did not care for the situation of this land which he had purchased from Capt. Abraham Hatfield. Perhaps the house stood too far from the center of the town, for he sold it, and 20 acres of land to Abraham Barratt, and purchased the lot originally laid out to Caleb Hiat (Westchester Co. Road Book), where he seems to have lived. Dr. Graham owned quite a large tract of land across the road from the old court house, which together with this 10 acre piece north of the court house, he deeded to Abraham Waring, Joseph Bull Graham, and Robert Graham, Jr., in 1786. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber K, p. 11). Abraham Barratt lost this 20 acre piece of land by mortgage to Dr. Peter Huggefurd (Westchester Co. Mortgages, Liber A, p. 15) who sold it to Gilbert Hatfield, Jr., son of Abraham, in 1773.

HUGGEFORD

Dr. Peter Huggefurd was a Loyalist, and his Cortlandt property was confiscated. He went to Nova Scotia during the Revolution, but returned to White Plains, where he died. (For a fuller account of his life, see Deceased Physicians of Westchester County). In his will dated July 28, 1796, Peter Huggefurd of the Town of White Plains, Physician, ordered his executors to sell 700 acres of land at St. Mary's Bay in Nova Scotia; the proceeds to go to "surviving children" and "the heirs of my deceased children." He mentions daughters Frances Field, Martha Hardy, Jane Dickinson and Esther; sons Tertulles and Joseph; grandson John Huggefurd; sons in law John Titus, Tertulles Dickinson and Benjamin Field. To his daughter Frances Field, he gave "the land where I now live." His 500 acres of land in Schoharie and 700 acres in Vermont, were "to be sold if recovered." For will of Dr. Huggefurd's son John of New York, witnessed by Richard Hatfield, Esq., and his wife Mary, see New York Wills.

HATFIELD.

Capt. Abraham Hatfield, from his will, dated 1775, and from the boundary deeds of other land owners, seems to have bought back most of the Daniel Knapp tract. Of this he sold to his son "Gilbert Hatfield Jr.," 17 acres east of the homestead which his son had purchased from Dr. Huggefurd and wife Elizabeth, (Westchester County Land Records, Liber 418, p. 4), and the rest he left him by will. To his son Joseph, not yet of age, he willed his land on the north side of the "Road to New York," 50½ acres, which included the original home lot of Moses Knapp, Sr. The piece of land south of the Dr. Huggefurd lot, owned by Capt. Abraham Hatfield, was purchased by Capt. Abraham's father, Thomas Hatfield, from his older brother, Peter Hatfield, in 1716, and was described by Peter as lying at the northwest corner of his other lands. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 370.) Twenty-two acres of this evidently fell to Abraham Hatfield, as the oldest son of his father, Thomas Hatfield, and he in turn gave it to his oldest son, "Gilbert Hatfield Jr.," in 1773. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber 145, p. 389.) Thomas⁸ Hatfield was not an inhabitant of Rye, but a younger son of the Mamaroneck Patentee, Thomas² Hatfield (Thomas¹); neither did Thomas³ Hatfield purchase his land from an inhabitant of Rye, but from his brother Peter. Peter Hatfield, having sold his Mamaroneck lands, bought up land in the second and third divisions from the original Rye Patentees, and sold his brother Thomas this small piece which he had purchased from Peter Disbrow. Thomas³ Hatfield was deceased, in 1725, when his wife Eunice and Thomas Smith of White Plains, Yeoman, applied for Letters of Administration upon his estate. Perhaps Peter, the Patentee, looked after the interests of Abraham and Gilbert, the children of his brother Thomas Hatfield, for Capt. Abraham Hatfield, in his will dated 1775, called Joshua Hatfield, son of Peter, "brother," and appointed him administrator of his estate.

Peter Hatfield purchased a tract of land in the second and third divisions of White Plains, from the original patentees, or their immediate successors, and this tract extended from the Scarsdale or "Indian Line of Marked Trees" to, or almost to, the then Road to Rye Neck, (now Old Mamaroneck Road, Gedney Way and Mamaroneck Avenue), (see map), in 1723, when Jacob Griffin bought 80 acres of land from William Yeomans and his son Robert. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 40). The Yeomans had been buying up land, also, and owned the land, or part of it, at that time, to the south of the land they sold in the third division, and later sold it to Jacob Griffin.

When Peter⁴ Hatfield, son of Peter³, the Patentee, left White Plains, and settled in Clinton, Dutchess Co., N. Y. (Dutchess Co. Land Deeds), he evidently sold this land, which he had inherited from his father (by will of 1753-1754), to Gabriel Lynch, Sr., and to John Bates (son in law to Jacob Griffin). John Bates forfeited the piece he had bought, during the Revolution, and it was sold by the Commissioners of Forfeitures, in 1784, to Richard Hatfield, Esq., son of Joshua, and grandson of Peter Hatfield, the Patentee, who had originally owned it. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber K, p. 95.)

In January, 1899, he retired from practice and thereafter filled with distinction important diplomatic posts in Europe. He never was elected to public office though he gave much of his time and energy to the interests of the people and to the service of the State.

His death was a consequence of his energetic part in the entertainment of the French and British War Envoys, the guests of the City of New York, for the week preceding his decease.

On October 16, 1861, he married Caroline Dutcher Sterling, daughter of Frederick A. Sterling, of Cleveland, Ohio.

A member of the Republican Party; a member of the Baptist Church; a member of many city clubs and of several country clubs.

On June 10, 1888, he married Miss Grace Middleton, by whom he is survived; his two daughters, Mrs. Harry Parker and Miss Jean Martindale, also survive him.

He was a Life Member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, to which he was elected December 29, 1916.

He was educated at Groton School and graduated from Harvard, A.B., 1900.

He was connected with the construction, mechanical, transportation and freight departments of the Baltimore and Ohio Southern Railway Company up to 1902 and with the Rapid Transit Construction to through 1903, after which he entered the contracting business, retiring after a few years. He was a member of the Peary Relief Expedition of 1899; was for sixteen years a member of the Naval Reserve in which he rose in 1912 to the rank of Lieutenant of the 7th Division of the 1st Naval Battalion of New York. He enlisted in the Navy and served through the Spanish War.

He was an extensive traveller, a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, American Geographical Society, American Ethnological Society, American Museum of Natural History and a member of the University, Army and Navy, Scarsdale Golf and Country Clubs of New York.

On April 30, 1902, he married Miss Beatrice Safford Boggs at Chillicothe, Ohio, who with three children survive him.

His grandfather, Dr. Deodatus Clarke, settled in Oswego in 1806 on the eastern boundary of the city, establishing his farm in what was then a dense forest. Mr. Clarke obtained his education in the schools of Oswego and at eighteen years of age entered the employ of the milling firm of Penfield, Lyon & Co., which was dissolved in 1894 after the death of John E. Lyon. Mr. Clarke became a partner in the Company and following its dissolution he continued for some years in the flour business, handling the product of western mills throughout New York and New England. Some few years ago he withdrew from all active business duties and devoted his time to the enjoyment of research into historical incidents of the early days of Oswego. His business career led him to take deep interest in matters of transportation, and he became a leading authority on waterways of the State and a strong advocate of increasing the facilities for water-borne transportation by enlarging the Erie Canal into a barge canal.

He had been for twenty-five years a member of the local board of the State Normal School and President of it since 1910. Dr. Kingsley had been Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the town; Coroner of the County and Health Officer of the village.

He took a deep interest in local history of the Revolutionary War period and was active in gathering historical records for the County Historical Society.

65. OSGOOD—FLANDERS—CORRECTION.

Descendants of William Osgood, compiled by the late Ira Osgood, 1894, edited by Eben Putnam, p. 311, gives:

Elizabeth, b. 24 Oct., 1666, dau. of Robert¹ Jones of Amesbury, Mass., and Joanna² (William¹) Osgood, as marrying John¹ Flanders.

From the most reliable authorities obtainable, Elizabeth² Jones m. 27 Nov., 1679, at Amesbury, Mass., Samuel² (Samuel¹) Getchell, Jr., of Salisbury, Mass., a shipwright. He was b. 8 Feb., 1657, Salisbury, Mass., and d. there 7 July, 1710. She d. 24 May, 1725.

To substantiate this contention see Amesbury Vital Records, 1913, published by the Topsfield Historical Society, p. 378, which reads: "Elizabeth Jones married Samuel Getchell, Jr., 27-9m-1679 P. R. 74." (P. R. 74 means: "Abstracts of marriages recorded in the Dalton Book, formerly at Exeter, N. H., and now in the possession of the Secretary of State, Concord, N. H.") Also see Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury, Mass., by David W. Hoyt, 1897, pp. 174-219; The Family of Samuel Getchell of Salisbury, Mass., by Everett Lamont Getchell, A. 66. TILJE—GERRITZEN—LETELIER—CORRECTION.

Stiles' History of Brooklyn, vol. 2, f. 330, has list of citizens signing a petition in which appear the names of both Jan Tilje and Barent Geritzen.

On f. 340, in signatures of Magistrates, is "Barent Gerretse Letelier." This is a confusion of the two names as above and arises (in copying) from the position in which they stand, May 4, 1665, in the old Town Record Book. Both signed surname only, thus—"Garretse" and "Letelier." In this case, however, the full name, Barent Gerretse, preceded, without punctuation, the usual Letelier, making one name of the two.

Copying (perhaps from Stiles), Bergen in Early Settlers of Kings County, f. 108, makes the same mistake. On f. 303, he gives both the Dutch and French names—Jan Tilje and Letelier, for the only Letelier of that early date.

Department for Registration of Pedigrees.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN REYNOLDS TOTTEN.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY conducts a department for the purpose of examining, approving and publishing pedigrees of individual applicants.

The Society will accept for examination the pedigree of ANY INDIVIDUAL, whether a member of the Society or not.

Those desiring to take advantage of the facilities thus offered should apply to the Society for the authorized blank form on which to record the pedigree to be submitted for examination (enclosing 50 cents in payment for the blank).

Applicants must either themselves, or with the assistance of professional genealogists, fill in the form as indicated and return the same to this Society for examination; it being understood that the regular charges made by this Society are for examination and publication of the pedigree, and do not include genealogical research in the preparation of the pedigree itself.

When a pedigree is submitted for examination the applicant must send with it a preliminary fee of $15.00. Upon the receipt of a pedigree and this preliminary fee, the pedigree will be examined; and if approved, it will be subsequently published, first in an issue of the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, and the applicant will receive 2 copies of the Record containing the pedigree without further charge. The pedigree will thereafter (when a sufficient number have accumulated) be published in a volume of a series, one volume of which has already been issued (see Vol. VI, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections); and copies of this volume will be sold to those whose pedigrees are contained therein at the special price of $5.00 a volume.

Pedigrees must be submitted to the Society in form complete for publication. If, upon examination by the Society, essential facts are added to the pedigree by the examiner, a nominal fee, not to exceed $5.00, will be charged by the Society for ascertaining and embodying such additional information in the pedigree.

If upon examination the pedigree is found to be essentially inaccurate, it will not be approved and will be returned to the applicant; and the preliminary fee will be refunded, less a charge of $10.00 for expert examination.

If, when finally examined, approved and prepared for publication, the pedigree is found to require more than one page for its proper presentation, the fee for publishing the same, as above explained, will be at the rate of $15.00 a page (pages to be similar in size and form to those of pedigrees heretofore published in the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD,—see issues from April, 1911, to date of this issue), but, in adjusting the final charge, credit for the payment of the preliminary fee of $15.00 will be given to the applicant.

For the benefit of applicants desiring extra copies of their pedigrees for family distribution, editions of 50 copies of such pedigrees will be supplied on 4-page folders of linen ledger paper, with space left for additional notes, for a fee of $5.00.

Individuals desiring their pedigrees prepared for examination, approval and later publication by this Society, and who are unfamiliar with the methods to pursue to secure the necessary information to establish such pedigrees, or who are unable to devote the required time to their preparation,—are invited to address this Society with a view to being put in communication with a professional genealogist capable of establishing and submitting them (when established) in proper form to this Society for publication.

Applications for examination, approval and publishing pedigrees under the condition hereabove set forth should be made to the

NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,

HATFIELD.....ABRAHAM HATFIELD, JR.

omas Hatfield, b., at; d., at; m. April 16, 1621, at Leyden, Holland, to Anna (Hamden) Cox (whose parentage is not as yet determined and who was the widow of Valentine Cox), b., at; d., at Thomas Hatfield went "from England" to Leyden, Holland, and was of the Congregation of Rev. John Robinson of Leyden, at time of his marriage. Exhaustive search of the Leyden Records has revealed the existence in Holland at this period of but one Hatfield, viz: the one above recorded, Thomas Hatfield. Two Hatfields appear in years 1660 and 1665 in America, viz: 1st, Matthias Hatfield in New Haven in 1660 where he took the oath of allegiance and subsequently in Elizabethtown, N. J., in 1665, where he likewise took the oath of allegiance; and 2nd, Thomas Hatfield who was in New Amsterdam in 1665 and was called "a soldier." Both of these Hatfields, Matthias and Thomas, were connected with the Dutch Church of New Amsterdam and were associated with the Dutch there. The date of marriage of Thomas¹ of Leyden (April 16, 1621), would place the dates of birth of Matthias² and Thomas² Hatfield somewhere about 1622-1630, probably, and would make them of the marriageable age about 1650-1660; and the dates of birth or baptism of the children of Matthias² and Thomas² Hatfield present no facts inconsistent with the possibility of their being sons of Thomas¹ and Anna (Hamden-Cox) Hatfield of Leyden, and hence we think it a fair presumption that Matthias² of Elizabethtown, N. J., and Thomas² of New Amsterdam and subsequently of Mamaroneck were brothers and sons of Thomas¹ of Leyden.

ren, 2 (Hatfield) sons, viz: Matthias, Thomas (see below).

omas Hatfield, b., at; d. (between 1696 and March 21, 1697-8), at Mamaroneck, N. Y. (probably); m., at, to Elsje (or Alice) Ebel, or Evels (dau. of Peter Ebel. Peter Ebel was Provost Marshal of New Amsterdam (now New York City) in 1647 and Indian interpreter there in 1663. In 1657 he petitioned to be inscribed as a Burgher of New Amsterdam and stated that he had been "long in the country and performed many services for it." His request was refused as he did not reside in the city, but in 1665 his name was in the assessment list according to the New Netherland Register), as her 2nd husband, b. (bap. Oct. 16, 1650, in the Dutch Church, New Amsterdam), at New Amsterdam, N. Y.; d., at Elsje Evels m. (1) Sept. 28, 1667, at (New Amsterdam, probably), to William (or Willem) Trotter or Traeter (whose parentage is as yet not determined), b., at; d. (before 1673), at

New Amsterdam and Mamaroneck, N. Y. The exact circumstances of his departure from Holland and his appearance in New Amsterdam are not known, but he was in New Amsterdam in 1665 and was called "a soldier." He purchased a home lot in Mamaroneck in 1671 and became one of the proprietors, receiving his share of the common lands that year. He was interested in the locality however in 1670, as he was witness to a deed there in that year. He was one of those who made the inventory of the estate of John Richbell who died about 1684 and also of the estate of Henry Fowler of

HATFIELD—Continued.

Mamaroneck who died in 1637. He was at one time a quarter owner of the saw mill which he built together with John Richbell, Henry Fowler and Richard Ward (his son-in-law) and later his interest was a half interest in this mill, probably after the death of John Richbell and Henry Fowler. He was a Juror in Mamaroneck in 1695. In 1696 he sold his half interest in the saw mill to John Disbrow and the deed of sale of this mill was recorded March 21, 1696, when he, Thomas Hatfield, was reported as "deceased" by Samuel Palmer, one of the witnesses of the deed. There was no Hatfield on the list of those who took the King's Oath at Mamaroneck in 1698. In 1701 the name of Alice Hatfield (wife of Thomas² Hatfield) appears in place of her husband's when Caleb Heathcote and other proprietors applied for a confirmatory deed from the Indians for their Mamaroneck lands. Also in 1701 "Aales Hatvel'd" testified that her husband Thomas had made a nuncupative (verbal) will in the presence of witnesses, which will had been proved in the Prerogative Court of the county, and had bequeathed the homestead (in Mamaroneck) to her. This homestead was mortgaged and because of her "great wants and necessity" under her state of widowhood and in consideration of said mortgage and the sum of £19 the homestead was conveyed to Caleb Heathcote and became a part of Scarsdale Manor, N. Y. Thomas² Hatfield was the second husband of Elsjje Evcls, as in vol. ii, p. 91, of the published record of the Dutch Church of New Amsterdam the following baptism is recorded, viz: "June 17, 1668, Jacob, child of Willen Traeter and Elsjje Evcls was baptized. Sponsors Pieter Evel, Claertje Evcls." From which it would appear that she married first to William Traeter, who must have died previous to 1673, as her first child by Thomas Hatfield was baptized April 22, 1674.

From the evidence obtainable it would seem that the Claertje Evcls, who appears as sponsor with Peter Evcls at the baptism of Elsjje Evcls's children, (i. e. Jacob Traeter, Catharina Hatfield and Thomas Hatfield), was either the sister of Peter Evel or else his wife. The records do not clearly establish the exact relationship.

William Trotter, a widower with children, from Newbury, Mass., was one of the early settlers of Elizabethtown, N. J., where he took the oath of allegiance in 1665; he was there associated with Matthias² Hatfield (brother of Thomas²). It was probably in Elizabethtown, N. J., that Thomas² Hatfield met his wife, the widow of William Trotter.

Children, 3 (Hatfield), 2 sons and 1 dau., viz: Catharina (bap. Dutch Church, New Amsterdam, April 22, 1674, parents recorded as Thomas Hertfort and Elsjje Evcls, and the sponsor was Claertje Evcls) [probably the grandmother or grand-aunt of the child]; Thomas (bap. Dutch Church, New Amsterdam, Aug. 20, 1681, parents recorded as Thomas Hadvelt and Elsjje Evcls and the sponsor was Clara Evcls) [probably the grandmother or grand-aunt of the child]; Pieter (bap. Dutch Church, New Amsterdam, March 31, 1683, parents recorded as Thom Hertvelt and Elsjje Evcls, and the sponsors were Jan Hendrickszen Van Gunst and Barentje Hendricz).

Elsjje Evcls by her 1st m., had 1 (Trotter or Traeter) son: Jacob, b. (bap. June 17, 1668, in Dutch Church, New Amsterdam.

Thomas Hatfield, b. (bap. at Dutch Church, New Amsterdam, Aug. 20, 1681), at New Amsterdam; d., 1724 (letters of administration on his estate were applied for Nov. 19, 1724, by his wife Eunice and Thomas Smith of White Plains), at; m., at, to Eunice (whose maiden surname and parentage are at present not determined), b., at; d., at

Res. Thomas Hatfield does not appear to have inherited any of his father's land at Mamaroneck and his name appears but once on the Westchester County Land Records when the deed by which he purchased a piece of land from his brother Peter Hatfield was recorded, just previous to his death. This was a piece of plow land which Peter Hatfield had purchased from, and which had been laid out to Peter Disbrow in the so called second draft of the White Plains purchase and which land Peter Hatfield described in 1718 when he sold it to his brother, the above named Thomas Hatfield, as "lying at the northwest corner of his own land." Thomas Hatfield died in 1724 and his wife Eunice, together with Thomas Smith of White Plains, a yeoman, applied for letters of administration on his estate on Nov. 19th of that year. An inventory of his estate was ordered to be filed the following April (1725), but no record can be found in the Westchester County Probate Records of the filing of the same inventory. The piece of land owned by Thomas Hatfield (deeded to him by his brother Peter in 1718) was in the possession of his son Captain Abraham Hatfield in 1773 when he deeded it to his (Abraham's) oldest son, Gilbert Hatfield, Jr."

Children, 2* (Hatfield) sons: Gilbert, Abraham (see below).

* In the will of Abraham⁴ Hatfield he mentions "his brother" Joshua and makes him one of the executors.

Capt. Abraham⁴ Hatfield had no blood brother Joshua. Thomas⁴ Hatfield (father of Capt. Abraham⁴ Hatfield) died in 1724 when Abraham⁴ was only 4 years old and it is likely that Abraham⁴ was brought up in the home of his uncle Gilbert⁴ Hatfield of White Plains who had a son Joshua⁴ Hatfield and for this reason Abraham⁴ and Joshua⁴ called each other brother while in reality they were first cousins.

FOWLER.....ABRAHAM HATFIELD, JR.

Fowler, b., before 1633 (as he was 21 years old at time of his marriage in Providence, R. I., in 1655, and as he purchased land in Providence in 1654), at, England (possibly); d. (subsequently to Sept. 19, 1687, on which date he deeds to his son William Fowler, and prior to Dec. 31, 1687, as the inventory of his estate was taken during the year 1687), at Mamaroneck, N. Y.; m. June 4th, 1655, at Providence, R. I., at the house of Joshua Foote, to Rebecca (whose parentage and maiden surname is not as yet determined), b., at; d., at

Probably came over to this country as an apprentice to Joshua Foote, an iron-monger of London, who was in Roxbury, Mass., and removed to Providence, R. I., about 1654. Henry Fowler took the oath of allegiance to the colonies May 18, 1658, at Warwick, R. I., being then a resident of Providence, R. I. He was executor of the estate of Joshua Foote in 1655. He was a Juror in Providence in 1655. He was m. in Providence, R. I., June 4, 1655, for in the Providence, R. I., Town Records, vol. ii, p. 81, we find the following entry:—"Whereas Henry Fowler was warned to ye Court to answer for his marriage without due publication and he pleaded that ye division of ye towne [meeting] was the cause of his so doing, voted a remission of his penalty," and in the Rhode Island Historical Society Collection, vol. ix, pp. 61-62, we find record of his marriage as being on the evening of June 4, 1655. He was a Deputy to the General Court of Rhode Island at Newport in 1671 and was called then Henry Fowler, Senior. He appears first in Mamaroneck in 1680 where he was part owner of a saw-mill with his son-in-law Richard Ward, Thomas Hatfield and John Richbell. He was a Patentee of Eastchester.

SOCIETY PROCEEDINGS.

REGULAR MEETING, DECEMBER 13TH, 1917.

Meeting was called to order at 4 P. M. President Bowen in the Chair.

Mr. Bowen made the following announcement as to the future meetings of the Society:

Friday evening, Feb. 8, 1918. Speaker: James Hosmer Penniman, Litt. D., of 4326 Sansom St., Philadelphia, Pa. Subject: "George Washington as Commander-in-Chief."

Mr. Bowen then introduced Dr. Franklin Bowditch Dexter of Yale University, who delivered a lecture entitled "Student Life at Yale a Century Ago."

At the close of Dr. Dexter's lecture Mr. Thomas T. Sherman moved that the thanks of the Society be given to Dr. Dexter for his instructive and very interesting lecture and that he be requested to file a copy of the same in the archives of the Society and added this tribute to the speaker:

"Those of us who are Yale men and especially those who did not graduate yesterday, have long respected and loved Professor Dexter, as we used to call him—Dr. Dexter, as he is now—but we think of him as Professor Dexter. Very few, however, really realize or appreciate the vast amount of work he has done of the most valuable historical, biographical and genealogical nature. One work, his Biographies of Early Yale Graduates, is, in itself, a monument. It comprises several large volumes and has preserved, for the future, genealogical and statistical information about men that no one else could have collected and which would probably never have been obtained or recorded but for his zeal and efficiency. Yale College, Connecticut, New Haven and the world owe to Dr. Dexter a lasting debt of gratitude for what he has done for us all. If we honor him in any way we honor this Society."

Mr. Sherman's motion was seconded by Mr. Hopper Striker Mott and unanimously carried.

Mr. John Waldemar von Rehling Qvistgaard, the artist, who had painted the portrait of the Hon. Chauncey Mitchell Depew which had been presented to the Society, then unveiled the portrait.

On motion report was received and placed on file.

Mr. Henry Pierson Gibson, Registrar of Pedigrees, reported the following pedigrees received during the year: Wendell, Betts, Turner, Brewster, Saltonstall, Leeds and Bacon.

On behalf of the Publication Committee, of which Mr. Hopper Striker Mott was Chairman, Capt. Totten spoke of the very satisfactory condition of THE RECORD, and that notwithstanding war times great progress had been made during the year.

On behalf of the Committee on Heraldry, the President stated that the Chairman, Col. John Ross Delafield, was so occupied with war work, that the Committee had been discharged for the time being.

Mr. Henry Woodward Sackett, Chairman of the Nominating Committee, then presented the following names for election as Trustees to serve for the term of three years:—Thomas Townsend Sherman, William Ross Proctor, Abraham Hatfield, Jr., William Isaac Walker, Tobias Alexander Wright.

The President appointed as tellers Messrs. Hamilton Bullock Tompkins, George Rufus Boynton and Spencer Percival Mead.

In the interim while the votes were being collected and counted, President Bowen made a brief address on the subject of the new location for the future home of the Society at Nos. 122, 124 and 126 East 58th Street, stating that he considered it an ideal location for the future development of the Society. He also stated that there could not be much promise of activity as regards a new building until after the war was over, but that meanwhile the Building Fund which last year consisted of about $400.00 had now increased to nearly $6,000.00 and that he expected in time the Society would be able to erect a new building without running into debt.

The report of the Tellers being next in order the Chairman, Mr. Hamilton Bullock Tompkins, reported that some 273 ballots had been cast all for the regular ticket (of which 260 had been by proxy and 13 by ballot) and that the Trustees as named were duly elected.

On motion, the Society adjourned.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN THOMSON, Pioneer Scotch Covenanter; Genealogical notes on all known descendants of John Thomson, Covenanter, of Scotland, Ireland and Pennsylvania, with such biographical sketches as could be obtained from available published records or were supplied by the friends of those individuals who were too modest to tell of their own accomplishments,—compiled for the cousins by Addams S. McAllister, New York City, N. Y. 1917. 8vo, cloth, pp. 357, including an excellent index, illustrated. Price, $5.00. Address: Edward S. Thomson, Thomsontown, Juniata Co., Pa.

A most excellent compilation which will be welcomed by all of the blood and by all genealogical libraries to which it is most heartily recommended. The author has adopted a novel decimal system of genealogical numeration, which while accomplishing its object with accuracy does not seem as well adapted to the purpose as the standardized methods. This method does not, however, affect the excellence of the information contained in the volume which bears all signs of having been carefully and exhaustively collected.

GENEALOGICAL RECORD OF REV. NICHOLAS BAKER (1610-1678), AND HIS DESCENDANTS, by Fred. A. Baker, of No. 526 Dime Bank Building, Detroit, Mich. 8vo, leather, soft cover, pp. 147. Price, $5.00. Address: Author at above address.

A valuable contribution to the history and genealogy of the Baker family and especially valuable to those of the blood line treated. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

DESCENDANTS OF ROBERT CUNNINGHAM, Bulletins Nos. 1, 2 and 3. 8vo, paper, 1910, 1911 and 1917.

An association of the Descendants of Robert Cunningham has been formed of which Dr. Jennie T. Lane, of 23 Hudson Street, Worcester, Mass., is the President and from whom the bulletins may be obtained. The object of the association is that of mutual interest and the ultimate end is to accumulate information relative to the various branches of the family springing from this ancestor.

EUGENICAL NEWS, Vols. I and II (1916-1917), published by the Eugenics Record Office, at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., N. Y. A monthly issue. Price, 50 cents a year. Address publication at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., N. Y.

We cannot question the intimate relation of heredity to genealogy and therefore must have an interest (even if latent) in eugenics. We, therefore, welcome this publication now entering its third year of existence, and do not doubt that from information obtainable in the genealogical and biographical fields which now are so large and fruitful, that eugenic generalizations may be drawn of much value to humanity.

THE ALUMNI RECORD OF THE UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS, including historical sketch and annals of the University and biographical data regarding members of the Faculties and the Boards of Trustees. Fully indexed. No price stated. Address: President of the University, Urbana-Champaign, Ill.

A most creditable compilation and like all first class general catalogues of colleges is filled with information of a valuable genealogical nature. Recommended to all genealogical and biographical libraries.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS DIRECTORY. Listing the 35,000 persons who have ever been connected with the Urbana-Champaign Departments, including Officers of Instruction and Administration and 1,397 deceased, edited by Virgil V. Phelps, D.B., Ph.D., 1916. 8vo, cloth, pp. 1284, illustrated. No price stated. Address: President of the University at Urbana-Champaign, Ill.

This is (like the Alumni Record), a first class work replete with genealogical information and will be of value to genealogical students of the future. Recommended to all genealogical and biographical libraries.

THE REVEREND COLIN DEW JAMES, a Pioneer Methodist Preacher of Early Illinois, by (his son) Edmund Janes James, President of the University of Illinois. Reprinted from the Journal of the Illinois State Historical Society, Vol. 9, No. 4, January, 1917. 8vo, pamphlet, pp. 22, with frontispiece portraits of Colin Dew James and his wife, Amanda K. Casad (taken in 1856).

An excellently presented sketch of the life of this Illinois pioneer preacher and in addition to the biographical features contain much genealogical information. No price stated. Address: Compiler, at Urbana-Champaign, Ill.

THE LAMBERT FAMILY OF SALEM, MASSACHUSETTS, by Henry W. Belknap. 8vo, paper, pp. 45, with two reproductions of miniatures of Captain Samuel Lambert (1768-1832), and of Jonathan Lambert (1772-1814). Price, $1.00. Address: Compiler, 33 Warren Street, Salem, Mass.

This little pamphlet is a reprint edition of 50 copies from the Historical Collections of the Essex Institute, Vol. LIV, and in its individual form will be much appreciated by those of Lambert blood, especially those of the lines treated. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

THE BOYHOOD AND YOUTH OF JOSEPH HODGES CHOATE, 8vo, cloth and boards, pp. 153, illustrated with 19 full page portraits and other plates of family interest. Copyright, 1917. Limited edition of 600 numbered copies for private distribution only.

No better statement of the nature and extent of this autobiographical work can be had than the prefatory notes of Mrs. Caroline Sterling Choate, the widow of Joseph Hodges Choate, under date of Naumkeag, Stockbridge, Mass., October 16, 1917.

"For many years Mr. Choate's family and friends had begged him to write his reminiscences. He invariably refused to entertain the idea on the ground that, in his opinion, such sketches could be of no value to any one. To the many requests of publishers, editors, and biographers, he likewise—with a characteristic lack of vanity—turned a deaf ear.

"In the spring of 1914, however—when he was in his eighty-third year—the convalescence and inaction consequent upon the first severe illness of his life, prompted him to begin the dictation of these papers. They were casually and intermittently composed, with no idea of publication in mind, and only intended for the eyes of his immediate family. On occasions, weeks and even months passed by without his giving them a thought.

"The papers are here printed literally, just as he dictated them to his secretary. Mr. Choate made no use of notes in preparing them; he consulted no books, and he never even corrected the manuscript. Had he done so, he would undoubtedly have made many verbal alterations—and perhaps excisions, in the text. He began the sketches with slight interest, but, as they developed, he became more absorbed in the task and looked forward with a good deal of pleasure to going on with it.

"After the celebrations incident to his eighty-fifth birthday, he went back to the work with renewed zest and had started on the chapter entitled 'Marriage,' when there came the break in our diplomatic relations with Germany. From that moment—February 3, 1917—nothing could induce him to continue his task. His mind seemed to harbor but one thought, the thought of the Great Cause and of the part which he longed to have his country play in it."

After perusing the all too few pages of this charming volume we cannot stifle the regret that Mr. Choate did not find the time and inclination to record the impressions made upon his mind by the historic events of this country from his manhood, 1853, to his death in 1917. His active manhood covered the most important 65 years of the wonderful development of this land and his intimate knowledge of the events of history themselves and his personal friendship with many who were the active causes of those events, and his active personal participation in many of them—when taken in connection with his mentality, breadth of mind, logic, wit and humanity rendered him one whose elaborate personal memoirs and retrospections would have been of great value to coming generations. His modest appreciation of himself has resulted in a consequent loss to posterity.

GENEALOGICAL RECORD OF THE DESCENDANTS OF HENRY MAUZY, A Huguenot Refugee, the ancestor of the Mauzy's of Virginia, and other states, from 1685 to 1910, and of the descendants of Jacob Kising from 1760 to 1910, by Richard Mauzy (written when he was 86 years old). 8vo, cloth, pp. 127, with frontispiece portrait of author. No index. Price, $2.00 postpaid. Address: Mrs. Ella D. Bader (the author's daughter), McGaheysville, Va.

A valuable contribution to the history and genealogy of this family. Recommended to genealogical libraries.

WILLIAM CLAIBORNE OF VIRGINIA, WITH SOME ACCOUNT OF HIS PEDIGREE, by John Herbert Claiborne, M. D., F. A. C. S., with an introduction by John D. Lindsay of the New York Bar. 8vo, cloth, pp. 231, illustrated. Price, $1.75. Address: G. P. Putnam's Sons, Publishers, 2 West 45th Street, New York City.

"This work not only gives a faithful portrait of a remarkable character, but opens up an interesting chapter of colonial history. After tracing the genealogy of the Claibornes, and narrating the earlier events of his ancestor's life, the author gives an authentic account, based on careful research, of the dispute between Claiborne and Lord Baltimore, regarding the ownership of Kent Island in Chesapeake Bay—a dispute involving conflicting claims of the colonies of Virginia and Maryland. The two protagonists were well matched in tenacity of purpose, persistence, cleverness, and resource, and their rivalry, which led to armed conflict, makes dramatic reading."

Recommended to all biographical and genealogical libraries.

RUSHFORD AND RUSHFORD PEOPLE. Planned, Edited and Published by Helen Josephine White Gilbert, Historian of the Rushford Centennial. 8vo, cloth, pp. 572, illustrated, with numerous portrait plates. Price, cloth, $2.25; leather, $2.50. Address: Author, Mrs. Eddy C. Gilbert, Rushford, N. Y.

It is the family sketches in this volume that will render it of great value to genealogists. It contains about 200 pages of notes on the old families of the town, which notes are full of valuable genealogical data. The rest of the volume is taken up with a complete digest of the activities of the town itself. Recommended to all genealogical libraries.

WILLIAM WOOD (born 1656) OF EARLSFERRY, SCOTLAND, AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS AND THEIR CONNECTIONS, by J. Walter Wood. 8vo, cloth, pp. 74, with full name index and illustrated with excellent frontispiece cut of Wood Arms and 19 full page portrait plates of more than usual excellence; together with numerous genealogical charts of great value. Privately printed. Address: Author, No. 118 East 65th Street, New York City.

This work is the result of the desire of the author to familiarize himself with his own ancestors and to hand the gathered information down to their descendants. The subject matter consists largely of charts showing the line of descent of the author from William¹ Wood, and subsidiary charts showing blood lines of collateral connections, with five lists showing: 1st, Descendants of John Kane and Maria Codwise; 2nd, Descendants of Samuel Redmond and Anne Ramage; 3rd, those of Goold Hoyt and Sabina Sheaff; 4th, those of James Wilmer and Ann Emerson; 5th, those of Jacques Benoit Félix de Chazournes and Marie Louise de Brugière.

A most creditable piece of genealogical work; it is heartily recommended to all genealogical libraries.

A HISTORY OF THE ADAMS FAMILY OF NORTH STAFFORDSHIRE AND OF THEIR CONNECTION WITH THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE POTTERIES, WITH NUMEROUS PEDIGREE CHARTS AND NOTES ON ALLIED FAMILIES, by Percy Walter Lewis Adams, F. S. A., of Woore Manor, Near Crewe, England. Quarto, cloth, pp. 417+xliii, with 113 illustrations and full name index. Published 1914. St. Catherine Press, W. H. Smith and Son, Stamford Street, London, S. E., England. Price £2:2:0, postage extra. Address: Author or publishers.

This volume is a notable example of the bookmaker's art; the illustrations are of artistic merit and the paper, typography and press work of high standard excellence. From a literary standpoint the work bears all evidence of careful compilation and is an exhaustive presentment, written with a view to correcting the errors and confusion appearing in the accounts of the lives of three members of the Adams family, all of whom bore the name of William and who flourished in the XVIIIth century, one of these Williams having been the earliest recorded Master Potter of Staffordshire. The family originated in Burslem and Tunstall, two wooded and hilly districts in Pirehill Hundred. Besides the pedigree charts, the appendices present abstracts of the Wills of members of the family of Adams and other surnames from 1534 to 1793. By reference to pages 51-53, inclusive, we find that certain children of James Adams of Burslem emigrated to the United States in the early part of the XIXth century, and to the descendants of these children the work will be of immense interest.

The work should be on the shelves of all genealogical and biographical libraries and in the libraries of all those interested in the genealogy of the Adams family.

ENGLISH ANCESTRAL HOMES OF NOTED AMERICANS, by Anne Hollingsworth Wharton, with 29 illustrations. 8vo, cloth, pp. 314, including index. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia and London. 1915. Price, cloth, $2.00 net; half morocco, $4.00 net. Address: Publishers, East Washington Square, Philadelphia, Pa. (Second review.)

In this day of active revival of interest in family history, authentic information relative to the English homes of the ancestors of Americans is most acceptable to the general public and especially so to those interested in genealogy. The author has made living pictures in the descriptions of those homes she has described and we are made intimately acquainted with the early home environment of the Washingtons, of the Pilgrim Brewster and Bradford, of William Penn, Benjamin Franklin's ancestral home at Ecton, homes of the Maryland and Virginia Cavaliers and others. The illustrations are most attractive and the descriptive text of an easy and intimate style that renders it most pleasing. Recommended to historical, biographical, genealogical and general reference libraries.

THE DESCENDANTS OF NICHOLAS DOE, compiled and published by Elmer E. Doe, Orleans, Vt. 8vo, cloth, pp. 375, including name index, illustrated with portrait plates. Price, $5.00. Address: Goodspeed's Book Shop-No. 5a Park Street, Boston, Mass.

A valuable contribution to the genealogy and history of the Doe family and it is recommended to all genealogical libraries.

HISTORY OF THE TOWN OF SOUTHAMPTON (LONG ISLAND), by James Truslow Adams, M. A. 8vo, cloth, pp. 424, including index and one hundred and nineteen illustrations. Price, $2.65 postpaid. Address: Publisher, The Hampton Press, Bridgehampton, L. I., N. Y.

A notable contribution to the history of Long Island. In dealing with the subject treated, the author gives us chapters on the various aspects in which he has viewed this old Long Island town, viz.—Land, Geological History, Climate, Animals, etc.; The Indians; The Coming of the English; Growth and Expansion to 1700; Government and Social Life; Pirates and other Eighteenth Century Matters; Early Commerce and the Founding of Sag Harbor; the Revolution; the War of 1812; Early Nineteenth Century; Growth and Decline of the Whaling Industry. Recommended to all historical, genealogical and general reference libraries.

IPSWICH IN THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY COLONY, Vol. II. By Thomas Franklin Waters, President of the Ipswich Historical Society. 8vo, cloth and boards, pp. 839, including an excellent name index and some 40 illustrations of interest and merit. Published 1917 by the Ipswich Historical Society. Price, $6.00, postage extra. Address: Goodspeed's Book Shop, No. 5a Park Street, Boston, Mass.

The first volume of this valuable work was published in 1905 and had to do with the history of Ipswich from 1633 to 1700 and also with the original land grants of home lots and a record of their successive owners to the present time. We now after 12 long years of waiting have the second and final volume completing the set. The volume is worthy of, and will be received with the same gratifying favor that welcomed its predecessor, and the author is to be congratulated on the successful compilation and publication of so complete a history. The two volumes together with the published Vital Records of the Town of Ipswich will furnish about all of the information that genealogists will require concerning this important town in the early Massachusetts Bay Colony period. Recommended most heartily to all historical, genealogical and general reference libraries.

MATURIN LIVINGSTON DELAFIELD.

BY JOHN ROSS DELAFIELD.

Maturin Livingston Delafield was born at his father's residence, 104 Franklin Street, New York City, on the 17th day of February, 1836. His father, Major Joseph Delafield, was the second son of John Delafield of London and Buckinghamshire and Ann Hallett, his wife, one of the daughters and co-heiress of Joseph Hallett who served a number of times in the New York Provincial Congress and in all the Committees of Safety in the War of the Revolution. John Delafield, the oldest of his family, had removed to New York in 1783, and conducted a successful business as broker, banker and underwriter, his residence being in New York City and also at Sunswick near Hell Gate, Long Island; and it was in the country at Sunswick that Major Delafield and his brothers and sisters during childhood spent most of their time. Major Joseph Delafield, during the War of 1812, had first raised a company of volunteers which were long known as Delafield's Artillery. Then, with others, including Colonel Tallmadge, he recruited a regiment, known as the 46th Infantry, in the regular service, and in which he was made Major and served until the end of the War. Shortly after the termination of the War of 1812, he was appointed Agent under the Sixth and Seventh Articles of the Treaty of Ghent and took charge of the American interests in the survey and establishing of the line between Canada and the United States.

Maturin Livingston Delafield, the second son, was a man of the strongest family attachments, a trait that came not only from his father's family, but also from his mother who was Miss Julia Livingston, the oldest child of Maturin Livingston and his wife, Margaret Lewis, who was the only child of the celebrated General Morgan Lewis. Julia Livingston was born at Staatsburgh, N. Y., on September 15th, 1801, and died at Rhinebeck, N. Y., on January 23rd, 1882. Major Delafield was born in New York City on August 22nd, 1790, and died at his house, number 475 Fifth Avenue, New York City, on February 12th, 1875. In 1829, Major Delafield, through the foreclosure of a mortgage he held, came into the possession of a farm and woodland of upwards of two hundred and fifty acres in the southerly part of what was then the town of Yonkers, in Westchester County. His father's country place at Sunswick had been sold, and wishing to give his children the advantages of life in the country in the warm weather, he built himself a lodge in the front of the Estate in a location having a beautiful view overlooking the Hudson River and the Palisades. The estate had a long frontage on the river, and extended back to the Post Road, now known as Broadway, reaching to within a few feet of what is now Van Cortlandt Park, then the property of Augustus Van Cortlandt. This property Major Delafield named Fieldston, after the old estate of his ancestors in County Dublin, Ireland, and it was here that Maturin Livingston Delafield, his older brother, Lewis Livingston Delafield, and his sister, Julia Livingston Delafield spent much of their time, both as children and in after years. After the fashion of those days, the children received their early education at home, and with the aid of tutors. Mr. Delafield and his brother then went to Columbia College, from which the former was graduated in 1856 and received the degree of Master of Arts in 1859. He entered the counting house of his uncle, Henry Delafield, who carried on a large business as merchant and banker, with the West Indies, and remained assisting his uncle in this business for two years, during which time he made a voyage as super-cargo on the brig Bohio to Porto Rico and Haiti. Then he engaged successfully in the West Indian trade, mostly with Haiti and Santo Domingo, on his own account, and having acquired a competence, retired from active business life about the year 1868.

One of the enterprises which had interested him was the founding and management of the International Ocean Telegraph Company which laid the first submarine cable to Cuba. He was the first Treasurer, one of the directors, and one of the five principal stockholders, the largest holders of the stock being his uncles, Robert J. Livingston and Maturin Livingston, and also Alexander Hamilton, Jr., and General Smith. In February, 1873, the Western Union Telegraph Company made an offer for the stock of this corporation, and Mr. Delafield, together with his uncles, and Mr. Hamilton, General Smith, and most of the other stockholders, sold their holdings of stock at a very substantial profit. During the great Civil War, he was much in Washington and, though not in the Army or Navy, did much work of a confidential nature for President Lincoln and his cabinet, with the members of which he had come in close touch at first through his uncle, General Richard Delafield.

On the first day of December, 1868, he married Mary Coleman, born 17 August, 1847, the only surviving child of Eugene Augustus Livingston of Clermont-on-Hudson, N. Y., by his first wife Harriet, the only child to leave issue of Edward and Mary Jane (Ross) Coleman, of Philadelphia, Pa. The wedding was at Trinity Chapel,

New York City, and was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Henry Adams Neely, Bishop of Maine, who had married Miss Mary Floyd Delafield, and by the Rev. Walter Delafield. Wishing to continue to live at Fieldston, he bought part of the Estate from his father, and built himself a stone residence there in 1869. Several winters during the severe weather, at the invitation of his father, Major Delafield, he brought his family to New York, and stayed at 475 Fifth Avenue for a number of weeks. Finding the hot weather of midsummer on the Hudson River did not agree with his children, he purchased some forty or fifty acres at Westhampton, Long Island, and in 1876, built himself a country house there, facing Quantuck Bay. This property he called Sunswyck after the country place of his grandfather near Hell Gate. He had also the care of the large estate of his wife (1198 acres) at Ross Meadows on the Allegheny River, Pennsylvania, which had come down to her by descent from Senator James Ross, the friend and sometimes legal adviser of George Washington. Some years after the death of his parents, and about the year 1884, in order to obtain additional advantages for his children, he rented the house at 475 Fifth Avenue from his brother and sister, and for many years thereafter, spent the winter months with his family in that house, going to Fieldston for the spring and autumn season and to Sunswyck for the warm months of summer. Mr. and Mrs. Delafield regulated their lives entirely by considerations for the best interests of their eight children, and this plan of life was chosen entirely with such object in view, and in order to give them not only every advantage of education, but also the best health. Their wisdom and foresight has been abundantly justified. Of their eight children all grew to manhood and womanhood strong and healthy, and all are still living. Mr. Delafield lived not only in the happiness of a singularly united family, but also to see and to know his twenty-one grandchildren. He died peacefully on the fifth of November, 1917, at his home at Fieldston, having retained full possession of his faculties to the end. His time had been occupied in caring for his family and his property, and in certain literary pursuits in which he took much interest. In 1905, the house at 475 Fifth Avenue was rented to the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company as its uptown office, and Mr. Delafield subsequently bought a house, number 82 East 79th Street, at the corner of Park Avenue, where he made his winter home. Though the owner in fee of Montgomery Place at Barrytown, N. Y., the home of Janet Livingston, widow of General Richard Montgomery, died Quebec, 1775, he did not occupy it, as it was held by life tenants. This property came to him under the will of Cora Livingston Barton, only child of the celebrated Edward Livingston, by reason of his close relationship to and descent from the Livingstons, and of his marriage.

His sister, Miss Julia Livingston Delafield, lived much of the time with her brother and his family, at first at Fieldston and Sunswyck, and subsequently at 475 Fifth Avenue, and during the later years of her life, she always lived with them. She died in his house at Fieldston on the 10th of November, 1914. In order to remain near their parents, three of his sons and two daughters made their homes at Fieldston, there being ample room for their houses on the parts of the Estate that had not passed into the ownership of others. Another son made his summer home at Quogue, Westhampton, on land given him by his father.

Of his children, the oldest (1) Maturin Livingston Delafield, Jr., was born at his grandfather's house, 475 Fifth Avenue, New York City, on September 29th, 1869. He married Honorine Julia Elizabeth Daniel de Pernay, only child of Count Alphonse Pierre Eugene Daniel de Pernay, Admiral in the French Navy, the recipient of many decorations for distinguished service, and one of the celebrated line of the Counts Daniel de Pernay. There are no issue of this marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Delafield live in Switzerland. (2) Joseph Livingston Delafield, born at his grandfather's residence, 475 Fifth Avenue, New York City, 19th March, 1871, and married Mary Renwick, daughter of Professor William M. and Mary E. (Johnston) Sloane. They have two sons and three daughters, and reside in New York City. (3) John Ross Delafield, born at his father's residence, at Fieldston, New York City, 8th May, 1874; married Violetta S. E. White, daughter of John Jay and Louisa Lawrence (Wetmore) White, and has two sons and one daughter. (4) Julia Livingston Delafield, born at her father's residence, Fieldston, New York City, 14th October, 1875; married Frederick William Longfellow, and has one son and two daughters. (5) Edward Coleman Delafield, born at his father's residence at Sunswyck, Westhampton Beach, Long Island, N. Y.; on the 10th of July, 1877; married Margaretta Stockton Beasley, daughter of Mercer and Mary (Stockton) Beasley, of Trenton, N. J., and has two sons and two daughters. (6) Mary Livingston Delafield, born at her father's residence at Fieldston, New York City, 23rd November, 1878; married Edward Ridley Finch, Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, and has one daughter. (7) Harriet Coleman Delafield, born at her father's residence at Fieldston, New York City, 7th May, 1880; married Jarvis Pomeroy Carter, and has two sons and one daughter. (8) Eugene Livingston Delafield, born at his father's residence, at Sunswyck, Westhampton Beach, Long Island, N. Y., 16th August, 1882; married Margaret N. Woodhull, only child of Rev. John Tennet and Margaret Schurman (Nevius) Woodhull, and has one son and one daughter.

Mr. Maturin L. Delafield was tall, strong and erect, over six feet in height, with fair complexion, light hair and blue eyes. His height was characteristic of his family of which the men have been unusually tall for a number of generations, a quality which still persists in all its branches, his own sons all being well over six feet in height. His outdoor life, of which he was so fond, doubtless aided in the strength, health and long life he enjoyed. Mr. Delafield belonged to a number of the principal clubs and associations of

New York. He was a founder and Vice-President of the Delafield Family Association from its organization until his death. He took much interest in his friends and this, together with the information that came of wide reading and study of history, which he particularly enjoyed, and his personal charm, made him always a delightful friend and companion.

MINUTES OF THE AMSTERDAM CHAMBER OF THE DUTCH WEST INDIA COMPANY, 1635-1636.

CONTRIBUTED BY A. J. F. VAN LAER.

The following pages contain translations from a hitherto practically unknown volume of minutes of the Amsterdam Chamber of the Dutch West India Company which on account of its early date is of unusual interest as a source for the history of New Netherland.

The original record, which is deposited among the national archives at The Hague, is a large folio volume of 221 leaves, which is bound in parchment and lettered on the back "Resolutien No. 6, Amsteldam, van P^mo January, 1635 tot ultimo December, 1636." As far as known it is the only volume of proceedings of the Amsterdam Chamber that has been preserved, the other volumes having apparently been destroyed in 1821, when according to John Romeyn Brodhead "all the books, documents and paper of every kind, belonging to the old East and West India Companies, of a date prior to 1700," were sold at public auction by order of the government of the Netherlands. The volume is designated in the catalogue of the archives as No. 14 of the records of the old West India Company and is referred to by that number, without any indication as to the nature of its contents, in the list of extant records of the Company which appears on pages 124-25 of the first volume of the Report of the United States Commission on Boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana. Just recently attention has been directed to the volume through the publication of a few extracts in a Dutch work, by Dr. J. S. C. Jessurun, entitled Kiliaen van Rensselaer van 1623 to 1636. The following entries, which were copied by the writer in the summer of 1910 in the course of a general examination of the records of the Company, are with exception of those of June 14, 1635, and October 28, 1636, not found in Dr. Jessurun's book. They have been selected on account of their bearing on New Netherland history and are believed to include with the minutes that are printed by Dr. Jessurun practically everything in the volume that is of interest in connection with that history. The relatively small number of these entries is accounted for by the fact that in 1635-1636, the Company made extensive preparations to complete the conquest of Brazil, so that the majority of the entries in the record deal with matters that are related to Brazil rather than with the affairs of the comparatively unimportant colony of New Netherland. It is interesting to note in this connection that according to Johannes de Laet's well known work entitled Historie Ofte Iaerlijck Verhael Van de Verrichtinghen der Geoctroyeerde West-Indische Compagnie, which gives a detailed account of the warlike operations of the Company from 1623 to the end of 1636, the Amsterdam Chamber alone, during the years 1635-1636, sent out to Pernambuco no less than 47 vessels, with a total of 1323 sailors and 1624 soldiers. Considering that during the same period probably not more than four or five ships were despatched to New Netherland, it is not surprising that the number of entries in the record relating to the respective colonies should bear a somewhat similar proportion.

As the notes that are appended to the minutes are intended to cover the points that are of special interest, no further comment is believed to be necessary. Particular attention is called, however, to the entry of October 11, 1635, relating to the service of Petrus Stuyvesant at Fernando de Noronha; the entries of November 15 and December 3, 1635, relating to the murder of Joris Hontom by Cornelis van Vorst; the entry of November 26, 1635, relative to the engagement of English soldiers; that of September 11, 1636, relating to the grant of land on Manhattan island to Hendrick de Forest; and finally that of December 8, 1636, which brings out the curious fact that Captain David Pietersen de Vries applied to the Amsterdam Chamber to be sent as Director General to New Netherland.

[January, 1635]

[folio 9] Dominus Kesslerus¹ states that a request having been made to look about for a ministerial candidate, one Fredericus Vitteus has presented himself, whom the Consistory judge well qualified for the charge. His reverence receives for answer that as soon as we fit out, [the appointment of] the said young man shall with [that of] others be taken into consideration.

²⁴ Jan van Remunde was secretary of New Netherland under Peter Minuit and a bitter opponent of both Minuit and Wouter van Twiller. See Van Rensselaer Bowier MSS., p. 169, 269.

²⁵ This would seem to refer to the encounter between the Mohicans and the Maquas in 1626, in which Daniel van Kriekenbeek, the commander of Fort Orange, and his men assisted the Mohicans. Arent Steffeniers was a hog dealer and may have sailed in the spring of 1625, in charge of the hogs which the Company sent to New Netherland at that time. He sailed again for New Netherland in 1636. See J. F. Jameson, Narratives of New Netherland, p. 81, 84; Van Rensselaer Bowier MSS., p. 332, 375, 814.

3 December, 1635

[99] On the petition of the relatives and kinsmen of Joris Hontom, killed by Cornelis van Vorst, to have a certificate of the murder, they are informed that we have received no certification other than that the Director writes that the murder took place.

Thursday, 10 January, 1636

[110v] Bastiaen Jansen Crol requests the balance of his account.

²⁶ Bastiaen Jansen Crol, or Krol, from Harlingen, Friesland, was a caffa werker, or silk worker, by trade. He married in 1615, at Amsterdam, at the age of 20 years, Annetjen Stoffel's daughter, from Eesen, aged 21. Krol made his first voyage to New Netherland as comforter of the sick in Jan., 1624, and on Nov. 14, 1624, was back at Amsterdam. He sailed again for New Netherland probably in May or June, 1625, and was commander of Fort Orange from Sept., 1626, to 1629, when he returned to Holland. He sailed for the third time to New Netherland shortly after Jan. 12, 1630, and was once more commander of Fort Orange until the end of February, or beginning of March, 1632, when he succeeded Peter Minuit as Director General of New Netherland. He held the latter office until the arrival of Wouter van Twiller in April, 1633; then, at the latter's request, returned for a few weeks to Fort Orange to prevent Eelkens from trading there and finally sailed for Holland in July, 1633. He seems to have remained there for three or four years, but in 1638 he was again commissary of Fort Orange. In 1643 he was still in New Netherland, but on Sept. 21, 1645, he was back in Amsterdam. The date of his death is unknown. See A. Eekhof, Bastiaen Jansen Krol, published at s'-Gravenhage in 1910.

²⁷ This entry is of interest because it marks the transfer of the duty of selecting ministers for the colonies from the Consistory to the Classis of Amsterdam. Rev. Henricus Geeldorpius and Rev. Johannes Mourcourtius were Deputati ad res Indicas, originally appointed by the Consistory, but who at this time began to report to the Classis. Joachim Soler, or Solerus, was minister at Recife, Brazil, from 1636 to 1644. See Ecclesiastical Records of the State of New York, p. 88; A. Eekhof, Bastiaen Jansen Krol, p. 23.

[112] The presiding officer states that Bastiaen Jansen Crol claims payment according to his account for the delivery of brick burned in New Netherland²⁸ and that upon inquiry it appears that the said brick was worthless. It is therefore decided to make further inquiry through the Commissioners.

18 February, 1636

²⁹ Cornelis Volckertsen from Kniphausen, near the present Wilhelmshaven, in Oldenburg, Germany. See entry under date of Nov. 6, 1636. His connection with Philippe du Trieux makes it practically certain that he was the ancestor of the Viele family, who married Maria du Trieux, the daughter of Philippe. See N. Y. Col. MSS., 2:4; also Kathlyne Knickerbocker Viele, Sketches of Allied Families Knickerbocker-Viele, part second, in which an effort is made to show that Cornelis Volkertzen, one of the directors of the New Netherland Company, was named Velius and that he was the ancestor of the Viele family.

Pieter Rotterdam, on the ship Sutphen, at 20 guilders per month.

Jan Jansen van Ilpendam requests payment of 60 guilders, which were due him when he was captured and of which he has not been able to bring home on account owing to his imprisonment. Rejected for the sake of consistency.

8 September, 1636

Referred to the Commissioners of New Netherland³⁵.

³¹ Perhaps a brother of Dirck Stypel, who is mentioned in Van Rensselaer Bowier MSS., p. 452, 458.

³² Jan Jansen van Ilpendam was afterwards commissary at the South River. His wife was Catalyntje Strassel. He died before August, 1647. See N. Y. Col. MSS., 1:166, 167.

³³ Meaning the ship Rensselaerswyck, which left Amsterdam on Sept. 25, 1636. See the log of this ship in Van Rensselaer Bowier MSS., p. 355-89.

³⁴ Claes Claessen Bordingh appears in 1648 in New Netherland and was for many years thereafter a resident of New Amsterdam.

³⁵ Hendrick de Forest sailed soon after the date of this entry for New Netherland as mate on the ship Rensselaerswyck, which arrived at Manhattan on March 5, 1637. The supposition has been heretofore that he immediately after his arrival secured a grant from Wouter van Twiller for one hundred morgens of land on Manhattan Island. The present entry shows that this grant was secured at an earlier date, consequently that De Forest

11 September, 1636

[178] Joan de Mo, not de la Montange, requests permission to sail with his wife and children in Mr. Renselaer's ship to New Netherland, in order to settle there for life and for that purpose [requests a grant of] a tract of land on the island of Manhattan, he to take the oath to their High Mightinesses and the Company and to pay the quit rents according to the regulations for New Netherland. Resolved to put the matter in the hands of the Commissioners of New Netherland.

22 September, 1636

The aforesaid committee shall also request the Consistory to look out for two comforters of the sick.

25 September, 1636

[183] The president states the conditions on which Jacob Alrichs³⁷ is willing to accept the position of bookkeeper in Brazil.

- 1 That on his return he shall be allowed to resume his former duties.
- 2 That he shall be firmly engaged for three years at 200 guilders per month and that he shall have the option to stay the fourth year, provided he receive one hundred guilders more per month.
- 3 That he shall receive 600 guilders as a gratuity for past services and in case he should die within the first six months, that the six months' wages shall nevertheless be paid.
- 4 That he shall have free access to the board of political councilors.
- 5 And finally, that he shall receive board and lodging like the political councilors.

Whereupon after deliberation it is voted that the 2d, 3d and 5th points be granted and the 1st and 4th rejected. Said resolution being communicated to the said Jacob Alrichs, he has refused and thanked the Company for its offer.

27 September, 1636

[183v] A letter was read from Pieter Claessen Croon, dated the 26th instant from Texel, in which he advises that the Witte Leeuw has come in; also the ship Sevenster from New Netherland, which sailed past unnoticed. Whereupon Messrs. Blommert and de Vries had been in New Netherland before 1636, probably in connection with the voyage which he undertook in 1632 with Captain David Pietersen de Vries. See Van Rensselaer Bowier MSS., p. 197, Mrs. Robert W. de Forest, A Walloon Family in America, 1:81-82; 2:352-55.

[189] In the place of Jacob Alrichs it is decided to appoint provisionally Pieter Colyn, to test his capacity for two or three months and then to consider his wages. In Colyn's place, Gillis Bellechiere is provisionally appointed to serve on probation for two or three months, his wages to be determined afterwards.

Thursday, 9 October, 1636

[191] A letter was read from their High Mightinesses, dated the 6th of October, 1636, relating to the case of Lubbert van Dinclage, their High Mightinesses to receive an answer within 14 days. The Commissioners of New Netherland are requested to answer within the aforesaid time.

Referred to the Commissioners of New Netherland.

John Gray, Jr., died at Harwich, Mass., March 31st, 1732; his wife Susannah died at Harwich, September 10th, 1731 (see Mayflower Descendant, vol. iv, p. 209, and vol. viii, p. 35, and Otis' Barnstable Families, vol. i, pp. 281-4). Vol. 43, p. 256. 8th child, Otis¹ Kellogg married Mary Watrous, born June 14th, 1794; died March 28th, 1855, aged 60. She was a daughter of Theodore Watrous (born —, 1762; died —) and his wife Jemima Archer. This is on the authority of Henry Wyckoff Belknap, of No. 31 Warren Street, Salem, Mass.

Vol. 43, p. 262, No. 134. According to the MSS. Brewster Notes, by Miss Emma C. Brewster Jones, on file in the library of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society:—Desire⁶ Otis married October 29th, 1747 (not 1748 as printed). I imagine that this is a proper correction as the year certainly accords better with the date of birth of her first child.

Vol. 43, p. 270. Illuminative of Record No. 506:—From Revolutionary Muster Rolls, volume for the year 1914, published by the New York Historical Society, pp. 300-1, we obtain as follows:—"Barnstable Co., Mass., men raised to reinforce the Continental Army." "Descriptive list of Soldiers forwarded by N. signed July 11th 1780, N. Freeman."

No. 506 is the only Judah Thacher that can possibly fit this description and the year of birth agrees with his year of birth.

Vol. 43, p. 325, No. 146. According to Yarmouth Register Cape Cod Families, No. 81, p. 2, the date of John⁵ Thacher's marriage to Hannah Matthews was March (not October) 18th, 1766.

Vol. 43, p. 336. According to Mayo's published Graveyard Inscriptions of Brewster, Mass., p. 19, Desire Freeman, wife of Benjamin⁵ Thacher (No. 161), was born October 4th, 1736, and the same authority, p. 19, states relative to their child No. 582:—Desire⁶ Thacher was born at Brewster (then Harwich), Mass., April 10th, 1758; died September 15th, 1769, aged 11 years, 5 months, 5 days, and was buried in old burying ground.

Vol. 43, p. 336, No. 163. Sarah⁵ Thacher (wife of Isaac Foster), according to Mayo's Graveyard Inscriptions of Brewster, Mass., p. 40, died October 2nd, 1777, at Brewster, Mass., and was buried there in old burying ground, aged 35 years, 10 months.

Vol. 43, p. 337. From Mayo's Graveyard Inscriptions of Brewster, Mass., it appears that there was born to Sarah⁵ (Thacher) Foster, wife of Isaac Foster, a 4th child whose record should be inserted in the list as No. 586½. This child, a son, was a twin, with Eunice⁶ (No. 586) and was born August —, 1769, and died December 3rd, 1769, at Harwich, Mass., and was there buried in old burying ground; gravestone states that he died aged 3 months.

Vol. 43, p. 338, No. 170. There is a gravestone to Samuel⁶ Thacher's memory in the old burying ground at Brewster, Mass., which states that he died aged 42.

Vol. 44, pp. 23-4, No. 689. The list of children of John¹ and Hannah (Hallett) Hallett should read as follows on the authority of Yarmouth Register of Cape Cod Families, No. 84, p. 10:

Children: 11 (Hallett), 6 sons and 5 daughters.

- i. Freeman,⁸ born December 7th, 1781; married Polly Crowell in 1814.

Vol. 44, pp. 129-30, No. 226. According to published Vital Records of Kingston, Mass., page 142 (quoted from a private record), Captain Josiah⁶ Thacher was born August 7th, 1735, and his second wife, Elizabeth (Lothrop) Thacher was born January 27th, 1757. According to the same authority, page 384, Captain Josiah⁶ Thacher died October 5th, 1800, aged 64, according to graveyard record. According to the church record he died on September 29th, 1799, aged 66. His second wife died, a widow, May 3rd, 1815, aged 57.

Vol. 44, p. 130, No. 226. According to published vital records of Kingston, Mass., pp. 142 and 384, the list of Captain Josiah⁶ Thacher's children by his second wife should read as follows:—

Children, second marriage, 3 (Thacher), 2 sons and 1 daughter, all born at Kingston, Mass.

- 752 iii. Benjamin Lothrop,⁷ born —, 1779-80; baptized August 25th, 1782, at Kingston, Mass.; died May 27th, 1785, in 6th year, at Kingston, Mass., and was there buried in old burying ground.
- 753 iv. Josiah Lewis,⁷ born July 4th, 1781; died April 22nd, 1800, in 18th year, in the West Indies (according to gravestone), or April 22nd, 1799, aged 18, at Havana (according to church record); gravestone to his memory in old burying ground, Kingston, Mass.
- 753A v. Mary Bradford,⁷ born September 1st, 1786. (This child is given on the authority of a private record recognized by the editors of the published Vital Records.)

To the authorities quoted for Record No. 226, we should add Vital Records of Kingston, Mass., pp. 142, 288, 384.

Vol. 44, pp. 131-2, No. 228, should read as follows:

- 228. Temperance⁶ Thacher (Lieut. Peter,⁵ Hon. Peter,⁴ Hon. Col. John,³ Antony,² Rev. Peter¹), born Yarmouth, Mass., February 22nd (or 25th), 1739-40; died —, 1805 (or 1808, according to Yarmouth Register Cape Cod Families, No. 96, p. 2), at Dennis, Mass., where a marble slab in the burying ground commemorates her memory and that of her first husband; married first, Aug. 26th, 1763 (or 1762), at —, to Captain John Hedge, born July 10th, 1734, at Yarmouth, Mass.; died June 1st, 1782, on prison ship in New York Harbor. He was a son of John and Desire (Hawes) Hedge, of Yarmouth, Mass. She married second, —, at —, to Lieut. Jeremiah Howes, born December 26th, 1743; died November 17th, 1824, aged 81, at Dennis, Mass. He was a son of Lot and Thankful (—) Howes, of Dennis, Mass.

Vol. 44, p. 132, No. 766. iii. John, 3rd,⁷ was born July 5th, 1767.

Vol. 44, p. 132, No. 767. iv. Temperance,⁷ was born December 1st, 1769.

Vol. 44, p. 132, No. 768. v. James,⁷ was born October 15th, 1772.

Vol. 44, p. 132, No. 769. vi. Capt. Daniel⁷ (or David⁷), was born July 9th, 1774; died —, 1804, drowned at sea with all his crew in winter of 1804; married Mehitable Vincent, gravestone to his memory in old burying ground, Dennis, Mass.

Vol. 44, p. 132, No. 770. vii. Lucy,⁷ was born June 9th, 1777.

Vol. 44, p. 132. To the authorities for Record No. 228 add as follows:—Yarmouth Register Cape Cod Families, No. 64, pp. 2, 3; No. 96, p. 2.

Vol. 44, p. 133, No. 233. Captain Isaac Gorham was born April 30th, 1752; his father married Abigail⁶ (Hallett) Gorham, April 30th, 1747. Captain Isaac Gorham married a second time, August —, 1809, to Elizabeth (Hallett) Crowell. All of this on the authority of Yarmouth Register Cape Cod Families, No. 87, p. 5.

Vol. 44, pp. 137-8, No. 236. From Census of Pensioners in the United States in 1840, we secure the name of Polly Thacher of Yarmouth, who was 82 years old in 1840. 1840 less 82 equals 1758. It would therefore appear that the pensioner Polly Thacher was probably the widow of Col. Thomas⁶ Thacher (No. 236).

Vol. 44, p. 138. 6th line from top, Gershorn should read Gershom.

Vol. 44, p. 142, No. 797. From the burying ground at St. John's New Brunswick, we obtain the following inscriptions, viz:—

1st "In memory of Rebekah, the wife of Thatcher Sears, who died 13th of July, 1803, aged 45 years."

2nd "Sacred to the memory of Mr. Thatcher Sears, who departed this life, A.D. 1819, aged 67; he was a Connecticut Loyalist, &c., &c."

Vol. 44, p. 147, No. 265. In the record of the Hollis Street Church in Boston, Mass. (on file in the City Hall, Boston), we find this entry:—"Mary Thacher died November 9th, 1815, aged 80 years." Hence she was born about 1735. It is more than probable that this Mary Thacher of the Hollis Street Church was the second wife and widow of No. 260.

Vol. 44, pp. 241-2, No. 266. In the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, vol. xxxiv, p. 298 (in an article on Christ Church Records of Salem, Westchester Co., N. Y.), we find this entry:—"1812. December 19th, departed this life, Isaac Hayes, aged 45;" hence he was born 1767. It would appear that this Isaac Hayes was possibly a son of Ann⁶ Thacher, No. 266, by her husband Isaac Hayes, and if such was the case he was possibly a twin with No. 840.

Vol. 44, pp. 242-3, No. 269. According to Mrs. Mary A. Hearn (a descendant of No. 269) of Cobleskill, N. Y., Daniel⁶ Thacher was married at Norwalk, Conn., May 19th, 1763. His wife, Mary (Street) Thacher, died March 4th, 1777 (instead of 1776 as printed). Relative to their children Mrs. Hearn states that:—

+842 Josiah⁷ Thacher was born June 15th, 1764.

+843 Daniel Greenleaf⁷ Thacher was born June 8th, 1767, and that between these two there was born another son.

842½ Daniel⁷ Thacher was born February 15th, 1765; who died April 9th, 1765 (or 1766).

Vol. 44, p. 261, 2nd line from top:—Samuel Keeler was born about 1741, at Norwalk, Conn.

Vol. 44, pp. 261-3, No. 313. According to Yarmouth Register Cape Cod Families, No. 87, p. 5, Abigail⁶ Hallett married Samuel Gorham, April 30th, 1747.

She was a daughter of Lieut. He was in the paint business and about 1915 built a large factory under the firm name of "Means and Thacher, Incorporated," at Quincy, Mass. He was a member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and of the "Paint and Oil Club" of Boston, and of many Masonic bodies, in which order he was very prominent, having had the 33rd degree conferred upon him in 1915.

Vol. 47, p. 144, No. 1462, 6th line from bottom of page. George Hungerford⁹ Thacher should read George Hanford⁹ Thacher.

Vol. 47, pp. 152-3, No. 1484. From the Middle Patent Burying Ground, near North Castle, Westchester Co., N. Y., we secure the following graveyard inscriptions:—

1. "Thatcher—Emma Matilda, daughter of George and Clarissa J—Thatcher, died September 4th, 1860, aged 4 years, 6 months" [hence born March —, 1856].
2. "Thatcher, George E—, died April 16th, 1862, aged 39 years, 7 months and 19 days" [hence born August 28th, 1822].

The question is, could this George E— Thatcher have been No. 2269 (son of No. 1484). According to Holden's Descendants of Robert Lockwood and also according to Selleck's Norwalk, p. 457, No. 2269 died "very young." If these two authorities are correct in their statements, then the above graveyard inscriptions could not be on the grave of No. 2269. It has occurred to me that perhaps No. 1484 had a second son, George E. Thatcher, born after No. 2270, and that he may have been the one whose gravestone we note above. If this surmise is correct then we have a fifth child of Philo⁸ and Cynthia (Lockwood) Thatcher.

- 2270a v. George E—⁹ Thatcher, born August 28th, 1822; died April 16th, 1862, aged 39 years, 7 months and 19 days, and was buried at North Castle, Westchester Co., N. Y., in Middle Patent Burying Ground; married —, to Clarissa J— (whose maiden surname and parentage is not yet determined), born —, at —; died —, at —.

Child: 1 (Thatcher) daughter.

- i. Emma Matilda,¹⁰ born March —, 1856, died September 4th, 1860, aged 4 years and 6 months, and was buried in Middle Patent Graveyard, North Castle, N. Y.

This is a question to be definitely settled. I know of no other George (or George E—) Thatcher to meet the requirements of the graveyard inscription except the one supplied by the above argument.

Vol. 47, p. 160, No. 2303 should read No. 2302.

Vol. 47, p. 274, No. 1569. According to the Barber Genealogy, pp. 167-8, No. 1569 died on December 4th, 1869, but I am inclined to think December 14th, 1869, is correct.

Vol. 47, p. 276, No. 1572. Barber Genealogy, pp. 167-8, incorrectly states that Seth Dickinson Graves died July 10th, 1873; according to statement of his son Miles Wells⁹ Graves he died July 30th, 1873.

Vol. 47, p. 277, No. 1573. According to Barber Genealogy, pp. 167-8 Eliel Tobey⁹ Thacher died December 11th, 1894, which is incorrect; his age at death should read 82 years, 9 months and 19 days.

Vol. 47, p. 278, Nos. 2371 and 2372 should read +2371 and +2372.

Vol. 47, pp. 370-1, No. 1656, should read as follows:—

J.; died May 24th, 1885, at Newton Center, Mass. He was a son of John Welch of Boston, Mass., and his wife, Elizabeth (Hunt) Welch, who lived in Boston, corner of Beacon and Park Streets.

Children: 6 (Welch), 3 sons and 3 daughters.

- +2410 i. Eliza Hunt,⁹ born April 30th, 1843; died October 22nd, 1913; married Hon. John Read.
 +2411 iii. Emeline Thatcher,⁹ born December 31st, 1846; died September 14th, 1911; married Charles Webster Leonard.

EDITORIAL:—Mr. Totten's articles on the descendants of Antony² Thacher will cease to be published in this quarterly with this number which completes the record of the ninth generation. The articles give to all those descendants now living ample data by means of which they can trace their Thacher-Thatcher blood back to their earliest known ancestor of that surname. It is the purpose of Mr. Totten to publish in separate pamphlet form the complete record of the 10th generation, which pamphlet those interested can obtain, when ready for issue, from the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society; it is expected that this 10th generation will be ready for delivery about May 1st, 1919.

Mr. Totten has ready for publication an equally voluminous and exhaustive record of the descendants of Rev. Thomas³ Thacher of Old South Church, Boston, Mass. (1620-1678), a nephew of Antony² Thacher of Yarmouth; and if the living descendants of Rev. Thomas³ Thacher guarantee generous support of a similar series of articles on the descendants of their ancestor, the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society may entertain propositions to publish the same.

Mr. Totten has also a very complete record of Samuel¹ Thatcher of Watertown (in no way at present identified with Antony² of Yarmouth or with Rev. Thomas³ of Old South Church) which may in time be published either by him or by this Society.

In the process of compiling the records of these three specific branches of the Thacher-Thatcher family in the United States of America, the compiler has collected and segregated fairly complete records of the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Thatchers, all of which records are at free disposal of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, which Society on account of its free access to these compilations, is prepared to arrange and register in its Department for the Registration of Pedigrees the pedigree of any descendant of Rev. Thomas³ Thacher of Old South Church, Boston, or of Samuel¹ Thatcher of Watertown. Correspondence with the Society on the subject of such registration of pedigrees is therefore solicited.

DEDUCTIONS FROM THE FOREGOING EVIDENCES.

RICHARD WARD of Stretton, co. Rutland, will dated 22 April, proved 2 Oct., 1635; buried at Stretton, 19 July, 1635; married (1) —; m. (2) Joice —, who survived him and emigrated to New England, where she made her will at Wethersfield, Conn., 15 Nov., 1640.

Child by first wife:

- i. Thomas. Legatee with his children in his father's will in 1635.*

Children by second wife:

- ii. Mary, b. about 1607; m. John Fletcher, sometime of Wethersfield, later of Milford, Conn. He deposed 16 Oct., 1661, aged 59. Their dau. Mary was bap. at Stretton, co. Rutland, 10 May, 1633.
- iii. Edward, legatee, under father's will, of his father's shop, tools, house and homestead; buried at Stretton, co. Rutland, 3 Feb., 1662-3; m. Isabell —, who was buried there June, 1664. Children: Mary, bap. 24 June, 1637; buried 6 March, 1682-3. John, bap. 20 May, 1639; buried 21 Dec., 1679. Samuel, bap. 11 Jan., 1640-41. Rebecca, buried 12 July, 1664.
- iv. Anthony.
- v. William.
- vi. Robert.
- vii. John, of Branford, Conn. Deposed 16 Oct., 1661, aged 36.
- viii. Richard, buried at Stretton, 30 Nov., 1631.
- ix. Richard, buried at Stretton, 1633.

Of the above children Anthony, William and Robert are supposed, by Savage, to have accompanied their mother to New England; but apart from the nature of the legacy she left them, "ech a pare of sheets," and the assumption that a widowed mother, emigrating to a country from which she could have little hope of ever returning, would naturally take her younger children with her, there is no evidence to support the supposition. Her will, on the contrary, goes to show that she had apprenticed Robert to a trade before she left England, and as Robert was the youngest of the three it is only reasonable to infer that she had already done the like by the other two, Anthony and William. That the latter was not William Ward of Middleton, Conn., as Savage further suggests, will be conclusively proved in a future article.

* This may be that Thomas Ward of Edith Weston, co. Rutland, yeoman, whose will, dated 24 June, 1628, proved 22 July, 1641, names wife Faith (who predeceased her husband), son Robert, daughter Anne, wife of William Brantston, and daughter Elizabeth, afterward wife of Thomas Wells. GENEALOGICAL GLEANINGS FROM LAND AND PROBATE RECORDS AT WHITE PLAINS AND RYE, NEW YORK.

(See Descriptive Map, April, 1918, issue.)

COLLECTED AND CONTRIBUTED BY THERESA HALL BRISTOL.

The records show that by the time the Royal Patent of White Plains was applied for, in 1721, almost all of those whose names are given on the first available list were deceased, and that all the land, except some very small sections, had been portioned out in what were called, the second, third and fourth division. "The fifth or last division," so many times mentioned, was made about 1740. This left-over land was in the extreme northern and southern ends of the Patent, in two small tracts, and a few acres were laid out to each of the original owners of the White Plains land, or to their immediate successors.* The second draft of White Plains land was made, probably about 1683, as the list given includes practically all the names of the original Rye settlers. (Bolton's History of Westchester County, Vol. 2, pp. 139, 540.) The names of those who received land in Rye under the Hartford grant only are not on this first White Plains list of names. Mr. Bolton states in his second

* From White Plains Mortgages, Liber C, p. 144, 1776: "William Barker, Jr., mortgaged to Gilbert Horton, land which William Barker lately purchased from Jeremiah Coon; which sd. Coon purchased from Caleb Huestis; and which Caleb Huestis purchased from George French, John Travis, Capt. Jonathan Purdy, Benjamin Horton and Elisha Budd; and contains the following lots, to wit:—a lot laid out to the right of Francis Purdy; a lot laid out to the right of John Merritt; a lot laid out to the right of John Galpin; a lot laid out to the right of Philip Galpin which Caleb Huestis purchased of George French; a lot which Caleb Huestis purchased of John Travis; a lot which Caleb Huestis purchased of Capt. Jonathan Purdy, laid out to Thos. Denham; all of aforesaid lots in the 5th div. of White Plains Purchase. A lot which sd. Caleb Huestis purchased of Joseph Horton in sd. 5th div., laid out in the right of Benjamin Horton. The lots being butted and bounded by one another, and whole, except the lot Caleb Huestis purchased of Elisha Budd, is bounded as follows:—Beginning at a stone which is set up in the lot which Caleb Huestis purchased of Joseph Horton and is a corner bound between Wm. Barker's land & land of Jonathan Purdy dec'd., standing near or by the road that leadeth over the Mamaroneck river north by Caleb Horton's land to the White Plains; to run from thence E. as the road runneth to the bridge over the Mamaroneck river; down sd. river til it meets with Caleb Horton's land; W. along the line of Caleb Horton's land until it comes to the road that leadeth up to Capt. David Ogden's land; W. until it meets with sd. Jonathan Purdy's land; N. along the line of sd. Purdy's land to the first mentioned bounds. The lot which Caleb Huestis purchased of Elisha Budd is bounded as follows:—N. by a stone wall of Caleb Horton aforesaid; E. by the Mamaroneck river; W. by the road that leadeth up to Caleb Horton's; being a three-cornered lot. Above lots containing 24¾ acres. Redeemed in 1786.

edition of the History of Westchester County, that Liber A of the Rye records has been missing since 1848. It was from this record that he took this only available list, which he calls "the second draft." The list which follows this 1683 list so closely in all of the histories, contains the names of those who applied for the patent in 1721, and the applicants are the descendants and successors of the first owners. Two of those who applied for the patent in 1721, Humphrey Underhill and his son-in-law, Joseph Budd, were deceased before the patent was granted the next year. Instead of massing the bits of information regarding these first owners, all of Rye, and many of whom were deceased even before the land was surveyed and laid out, it has been decided to give the 1683 list, and show as far as possible those who sold out, and those who had descendants who settled upon the land.

A careful study of the records, makes it appear that these Rye men who did not sell out their White Plains holdings, gave their Rye, and other lands, to their legal heirs (oldest sons), and their White Plains lands to younger sons.

JOHN² BRONDAGE was deceased Oct. 2, 1697, when an account of the settlement of his estate was given. He left a widow Hannah; sons John, Joseph, Daniel and Joshua "Brondag;" daughters Ruth Scofield, Mary Brondag and Hannah Brondag. (Fairfield Probate Records, Liber 1, p. 14.) When the estate of John Brondage was settled by mutual agreement of the heirs, it was decided that Daniel Brondage should have the White Plains land as his share. (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 86.) In addition to this inheritance from his father, Daniel Brondage bought up the rights of several of the patentees, and their homelots, which had been laid out to them on "the highway," as it was then called. He applied, in June, 1721, with Samuel Hunt (see preceding Humphrey Underhill notes), for a survey of the White Plains land, that they might "ascertain the land belonging to them." In November the other inhabitants of White Plains, headed by David Ogden and Caleb Hyatt, protested against the granting of this survey until they should be heard from. In December, Samuel Hunt and Daniel Brondage sent in another petition for a survey, claiming 380 acres for Samuel Hunt, and 300 acres for Daniel Brondage. A map of White Plains was filed Feb. 24, 1722. This has been published in the several histories of the county, and the lines given upon it for the Brondage patent are the lines used on the map accompanying this description. Daniel Brondage finally received a patent for 195 acres, and Samuel Hunt for 294. (New York Calendar of Land Papers, p. 154, etc.) It appears that Daniel Brondage did not receive a patent for his land on White Plains St. (land which he had purchased) but only for the land above the Long Meadow brook. The other land, below the brook, and running to the highway, was however always described as lying "within Daniel Brondage's patent;" the earliest account of its transfer to be found, is in 1730, when Jonathan Hiatt sold to Caleb Hiatt land still described as lying "within the Brondage Patent." (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 174.)

As before stated, Samuel Hunt had a corn mill at the lower end of the Patent. In 1726, Benjamin, son of Daniel Brondage, entered into an agreement with John Walton to build "a grist mill by the brook that runs out of Long Meadow, and so near said Brondage's house," but "said Brondage has desired to throw up his part and hath received 30 shillings, that sd. Walton may have forever a privilege to build, erect, maintain," etc., "a mill on any part of land belonging to, or contained in, sd. Brondage's father's, viz., Mr. Daniel Brondage's Patent of land in White Plains," etc. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber F, p. 243.) Evidently John Walton built the mill, for in 1729, John Walton of Norwich, Conn., sold to Daniel Brondage of White Plains, "The corn mill, standing near the upper end of White Plains Patent, and near Benjamin Brondage's dwelling house, and all lands with it." (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber F, p. 315.) In 1730 Daniel Brondage sold the mill to Eleazer Yeomans (p. 311). The acreage is not given, but the land belonging to the mill extended all around the mill pond, which mill pond John Walton had evidently made, and it did include some other land about the mill. Eleazer Yeomans and wife Mary, sold the mill in 1744, to John Horton. Daniel Brondage deeded the rest of his patent to his son Benjamin, in 1730.

GILBERT⁴ HATFIELD (son of Thomas³ Hatfield* and his wife Eunice (perhaps Knapp), and brother to Capt. Abraham⁴ Hatfield). owned 150 acres of land in this Brondage patent, as proved by deed from his sons John⁵ (and wife Charity), Joseph, and Joshua, to their brother Daniel Hatfield, in 1784. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber 1351, p. 240.) Gilbert⁴ Hatfield was called "cousin" by Daniel Knapp, in his will, dated 1744 (see preceding Knapp notes). He was probably a nephew (the term was interchangeable) of Daniel Knapp's. Gilbert Hatfield's land is mentioned several times as a boundary to other lands in the northmost part of White Plains; the first time in 1750, when land in the "fifth or last division" was sold by David Ogden, yeoman, of Scarsdale, to Samuel Purdy, Jr., of White Plains, yeoman; that is, land adjoining the "line called the Indian Line," and bounded on the south by Gilbert Hatfield's land. (Rye Land Records, Liber C, p. 267.) Daniel Hatfield's granddaughter, Mrs. Aaron Hall, states that according to tradition, her home, which came to her through her mother, a daughter of Daniel, stands on land originally purchased by an ancestor from the Indians. It certainly does stand on land belonging to an original patentee, who handed it down through several generations, and the statement suggests a possible Brondage-Hatfield connection. Gilbert Hatfield had a wife Tamar.

* Attention is called to the fact that, failing heirs, the estate went to the oldest brother of the deceased, or his oldest son, and that if Thomas Hatfield had not had children, his estate would have gone to his 1 rother Peter Hatfield. Also, that the road to Eastchester, or Scarsdale road, was supposed to run north and south near the patent line and that land near it was always described as being either on the "east of the road," or "lying on the west of the road." This explains why Thomas Hatfield's land was considered as lying at the northwest corner of Peter Hatfield's other land, in 1716.

CAPT. JOSEPH² HORTON, and his sons JOHN³ HORTON, JOSEPH³ HORTON, and BENJAMIN³ HORTON, are all on the list of 1683. There is an excellent article on this branch of the Horton family, in volume 36 of this publication, and the authors have corrected and perfected the work of others, mainly with the aid of the land records; but a few more items have come to light, which may help to elucidate some of the problems which remained unsolved. Jonathan³ Horton, evidently fourth son to Joseph², had land granted him by the town of Rye, in 1694. From Liber A, Rye Records, before its disappearance. (Bolton's Westchester County History, Vol. 2, p. 539.) Capt. Joseph² Horton, the father, was deceased in 1696. Capt. Joseph² Horton's two youngest sons, David³ and Samuel³, lived in White Plains, evidently on land granted the father; and it was probably for this reason that John⁴ Horton gave these two uncles, David³ and Samuel³ Horton, brothers to his father, the oldest son and heir to Capt. Joseph² Horton a quit claim deed to their lands in White Plains. John⁴ Horton, son of John³ Horton, the oldest son of Capt. Joseph² Horton (John³ Horton then deceased) was the lawful heir to his grandfather. The Obadiah Horton asked about in the article on the Horton family, was in possession, in 1741, of land belonging to David³ Horton, Sr., in 1737:—land bounding Samuel³ Horton's on the north. (Deed of John⁴ Horton, Gent., of Rye, to John Budd, Gent., of Rye, 1737, Rye Land Records, Liber D, p. 76.) Capt. Joseph² Horton, had probably intended to settle at Newark, N. J., for his name is on a list of those who "deserted their lots before the recording of them," Feb., 1667. (Newark, N. J., Town Records, p. 9.)

JOHN³ HORTON, oldest son of Capt. Joseph², was deceased before 1714. (He was also called Captain.) "Court held at Eastchester, May 6, 1714." "Jonathan Horton and Caleb Horton, sons of Capt. John Horton, dec'd, appeared to choose their guardians, and made choice of their brother John Horton to be their guardian." "Complaint was made by John Horton of Rye, that James and Phebe Horton, children of John Horton, dec'd, hath not due care taken of them as they ought to have." . . . "Thereupon the Court orders Samuel Purdy & Henry Fowler, Jr., & John Horton to take care of them until further orders from this Court." (Westchester Land Records, Liber D, p. 40.)

JOSEPH³ HORTON, son of Capt. Joseph² Horton, was deceased before 1717, as proved by the following entry on the Court Records:—"General Sessions of the Peace, held at Westchester, June 7, 1717." "John Horton appeared upon his indictment & referred it to the consideration of ye bench, & they having considered the affidavit of Polecarpus Nelson before John Drake, Esq., and heard the evidence of Daniel Horton & Joseph Horton sons of Joseph Horton dec'd, the Court orders he be discharged by proclamation." (Westchester County Land Records, Liber D, p. 51.) Joseph³ Horton, deeded one half of his White Plains possessions to his son-in-law Roger Park. ROGER PARK, the Hartford-Rye Patentee, was deceased in 1690, therefore the Rye historian is in error regarding this family. Roger Park's widow married Joseph³ Horton, and the Roger Park to whom Joseph³ Horton gave the White Plains land, was his stepson. This is proved by the following entries on the Dutch Reformed Church Records (N. Y. Gen. and Bio. Soc. Coll., Vol. 1): "Roger Parke" and "Sophia Claes" had Marie bapt. Dec. 26, 1686; wit. Catharina de Riemer and Jan Andries (p. 177). "Rodgert Parker" (dec'd) and "Sophia Jans" had "Rodgert" bapt. June 1, 1690; wit. Joost Palding and Catharina Laurens (p. 197). "Joseph Sarton" and "Sophia Claes" had Jonathan and Maria (twins), bapt. Sept. 14, 1692; wit. Samuel Ver Plancken, Hillegond Jans and Jannetie Hartmans (p. 210). "Joseph Horton" and "Sophia Jans" had Jannetje bapt. Nov. 25, 1696; wit. "Thomas Robbertszén" (Robinson) "en syn Wyff Hanna" (p. 240). "Joseph Harton" and "Sophia Janson" had Margarita bapt. July 22, 1702; wit. Dirk Jansen and Maria Meinders s. h. v. (p. 284). "Sophia Claes" wife of Rogert Park, was one of Domine Selyns' parishioners and was living on the south side of Wall Street, in 1686. (Year Book of the Holland Society, 1916, p. 25.)

Regarding the identity of one Jonathan Pauling Horton, asked about, the following may throw some light. JOOST PALDINCK was one of the Hartford-Rye patentees. Joseph³ Horton of Rye, yeoman, and Sophia his wife, sold to Joost Paldinck of ye City of New York, bolter, in 1703, land in Courtlandt Patent. Joost Paldinck and wife Catherina sold the same in 1706. Joost Paulding was sponsor for Sophia (Claes-Jans) Park-Horton's son, Roger Park. Joost (Joseph) Paulding was Clerk for the Phillipsburgh church, even while living in New York. He and his wife Catherine had a number of children baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church in New York, one of them, Marguerite. Joost Paldink, born in Westchester, widower of Catherine Duytsch, married Sophia, widow of Theunis Kranchleigh, in 1709. (Tarrytown Church Records, pp. 199 and 155.) Jonathan Pauling Horton of Phillipsburgh, loaned money on a mortgage, for land just over the line from White Plains, to Still John Purdy of New Castle, in 1763. Jonathan Pauling Horton of Mt. Pleasant, in his will, dated 1793, gave to son Caleb, his land in Harrison; to son Jonathan, his land in Mt. Pleasant; to son Joseph, his farm in Fishkill; and mentions daughters Ann, Margaret, Elizabeth and Susan. "The farm where I now live to be sold." (Westchester Co. Probate Records, Liber A, p. 277.)

BENJAMIN HORTON owned the land east of that which Jacob Griffin bought in 1723. He was son of Capt. Joseph Horton, and his name appears on the 1683 list, spelled "Cinnamon." His name does not appear on the 1721 patent list, under any disguise, and as the name of his successor is not given as such, it is quite possible that he had sold out before the patent was applied for. Benjamin Horton, had, however, a lot laid out for him, or in his right, in the fifth division. (See note foot of page 292, giving deed.) Joseph Horton of White Plains (who also owned Benjamin Horton's other land) purchased this piece of land from Benjamin Horton's son Parmenus

Horton of Long Island in 1730. Benjamin Horton was reported "late deceased" in 1730, by his nephew, Joseph Robinson of Rye. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 81.)

The land owned by Benjamin Horton in 1723, was owned by Joseph Horton in 1737 and 1740, and was willed by him to his son Joseph, in 1757. (See Westchester County Wills.) The son Joseph Horton died in 1763, leaving but one son, Azariah Horton, then under age, to whom he left this land. (Westchester County Wills.) This Azariah Horton purchased all of Jacob Griffin's land from his Executors, and a part of Joshua Hatfield's land, after the death of Joshua, in 1803.

Hannah, sister to Benjamin Horton, and daughter of Capt. Joseph Horton, received land from her brother Benjamin, in 1699. She was then the widow of Thomas Robinson. In 1730, her son, Joseph Robinson, as the oldest son and heir to be, of his mother, then Hannah Oakley, sold this land to his stepfather, Miles Oakley of Westchester. Joseph Robinson's uncle, Benjamin Horton, was at this time reported by him as being "late deceased." (Westchester County Land Records, Liber G, p. 81.)

GEORGE KNIFFEN testified that he was aged about 50 years, and his wife Mary testified that she was aged about 38 years, Nov. 6, 1682. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber C, p. 228.) Mary, widow of George Kniffing, dec'd, was granted letters of Administration in 1694. (Liber B, p. 196.) The George Kniffen who sold land not yet divided, to Abraham Smith, in 1705, and who sold all his lands, divided and undivided, to Humphrey Underhill, in 1714, was son and heir to this first patentee. There were none of this name on the list of 1721. James Kniffen of Phillipsburgh, bought land in 1743. William Sniffen, born in Rye, was married in Phillipsburgh, to Maritie Janssen, born in Westchester; both living in Phillipsburgh, June 9, 1733. (Tarrytown Church Records, p. 160.) William Kniffen and Mary his wife, sold land in Westchester, in 1738, to John and Isaac Oakley. John and Isaac Oakley sold this land to Nathaniel Underhill. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 269.) Israel Sniffen, or Kniffen, was living in White Plains, just over the line from Phillipsburgh, when the road in the northern part of the town leading over the Bronx river was laid out. (Road Book.) This Israel Sniffen is spoken of by the Rye historian, as being "of Phillipsburgh."

PETER DISBROW and his son HENRY DISBROW, both had land in the second draft of White Plains. Peter Disbrow sold out entirely, and land once laid out to him, was sold by Peter Hatfield to his brother Thomas, in 1716. In 1714, Peter Brown, Sr., of Rye deeded to his son-in-law, Francis Purdy, Jr. ("June"), of Rye, and daughter, Sarah Purdy, his wife, "land I had of my honoured father-in-law, Peter Disbrow, deceased;" "only reserving for my wife Rebecca her thirds." This land was in Rye. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 73.)

HENRY DISBROW settled in Mamaroneck. He seems to have disposed of all of his White Plains land in the earlier divisions, but had a lot laid out to him in the fifth division. (This shows that he sold his land after the fourth division was laid out.) He had sons Henry, John and Benjamin, to whom he deeded land in Mamaroneck at various times.

Freegrace Adams and wife Mary, sold to Thomas Baxter and wife Abigail (who sold to Caleb Horton, in 1723), all right and title to lands which "we have, or ought to have, by virtue of an assignment from Henry Disbrow, in 1712." (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber F, p. 178.) Henry Disbrow and wife Elizabeth, gave to son-in-law Gerardus Drake, and daughter Elizabeth, land in Mamaroneck, in 1727. Gerardus Drake, evidently their son, owned land in the fifth division of White Plains, which he had purchased from Anthony Miller and Titus Travis. Gerardus Drake, born at Mamaroneck, aged 29 years, in 1758; served in Capt. Abraham Hatfield's Company. Westchester Co. Militia. (Report of the State Historian, N. Y., Vol. 1, p. 889.) Henry Disbrow, Jr., and wife Margaret, sold land to son Henry, in 1688. John Disbrow and wife Hannah, sold all land in White Plains, divided and undivided, to Hope Carpenter, Sr., and Hope Carpenter, Jr., of Jamaica, L. I., in 1708. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber D, part 2, p. 19.) Hope Carpenter and Elizabeth his wife, of White Plains, sold same to Samuel Mills of Jamaica, in 1715. Mary Disbrow, daughter of Edward Griffin, obligated herself and her son, Griffin Disbrow, to pay the debt of Edward Griffin in 1734. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 272.) "Mary Disbrow of Amboy, N. J., widow, and only daughter of Henry Griffin, and heir-at-law to her brother, Henry Griffin, the Younger, late of Westchester, dec'd, 1737." Her son, Griffin Disbrow; was then living in Westchester. (Westchester Town Records, Vol. 6, p. 29.) Inscriptions from "Disbrow Burying Ground," near Matawan, Monmouth Co., N. J.:—"Susanna, wife of John Disbrow, died Feb. 5, 1739, age 28 and her child, aged 5 months." "Benjamin, son of Benjamin Disbrow, died March 17, 1735." "Benjamin Disbrow, died Dec. 10, 1733, aged 61." Stillwell's Historical and Genealogical Miscellany, Vol. 2, pp. 304 and 305.)

GARRATT TRAVIS, the only one of this name mentioned on the early list, stated, in 1708, that he and wife Katherine, now deceased, had given all their land to son James in 1705, both being aged and needing care. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 96.) James Travis, Sr., of White Plains, gave to son John, in 1730, all right, title and interest in lands in White Plains, divided and undivided. Garratt Travis had a son Philip. ("Philip, oldest son of Garret Travis," 1707/8. Liber E, p. 96.) Robert Travis of Rye, bought land in White Plains, in 1718, from Joseph Budd. "Robert Travis, son of Philip," and James and John, the sons of James Travis; also a Thomas Travis, applied for the Royal Patent in 1721, and all but Thomas were living in White Plains. There is a statement in the Stamford History, p. 60, that "Garret Rivis" bought land there in 1657, and that he was called a Dutchman, "Gerrit Trevers" was sued for board, in New York, in 1666. (Records of New Amsterdam, Vol. VI, p. 13.)

PHILIP GALPIN and his sons JOHN and JOSEPH GALPIN, had land in the second division. Philip Galpin was deceased in 1684. "Philip Galpin of Bristol, Somerset Co., Eng., Mariner, son of John Galpin of Rye." "John Galpin, with free consent of his wife Mary, sold land to Nicholas Hopping of Rye, Mariner, in 1697/8." "Philip Galpin came into possession of part of above land, by deed of gift from John Morgan of Rye, in 1670, and quit-claimed same to Nicholas Hopping, in 1700." (Early Conn. Probate Records, Vol. I, p. 554.)

JOHN GALPIN sold his 2 acre house lot, to Daniel Brondage, in 1698. John Galpin received the legacy of his brother Samuel Galpin, according to the will of the court. (Back page of Liber B, Rye Land Records.) John Galpin, Sr., of Rye, and wife Mary, deeded land in Rye, to son-in-law, James Murre and daughter Susanna Murre, in 1703. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber C, p. 310.) John Galpin deceased in 1706. Widow Mary, and daughters Mary, Ruth and Susanna, mentioned (p. 319). Mary Galpin, Widow and Relict of John Galpin, deceased, sold land in White Plains to John Hawkins, of Rye, in 1710. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 143.) John Galpin's daughter Esther, and her husband, John Booth, sold White Plains land in 1721.

JOSEPH GALPIN, son of Philip, was born in New Haven, June 17, 1652. (New Haven Vital Records, Vol. I, p. 17.) Joseph Galpin, bachelor, sold to Daniel Brondage, land formerly his father's, Philip Galpin's dec'd, in 1715.

WILLIAM ODELL of Rye, Planter, sold to his oldest son, John Odell, one half of his house lot and one half of his undivided lands in Rye, which then included White Plains, in 1693. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber B, p. 168.) This son never had any early interest in White Plains. Land of William Odell, deceased, was sold by his son Samuel Odell, to Abraham Smith, in 1700. Samuel and Patience Odell sold their home lot and house to Daniel Brondage, in 1697.

ISAAC ODELL, son of William, received land in the second division. In 1705, Isaac and Anna Odell of Eastchester, sold out to Humphrey Underhill.

JOHN HOYT, of Rye, was deceased in 1684. (See Hoit, Hyatt Genealogy.) John Hoyt bought the piece of land around the meeting house in 1729, but soon sold it.

SAMUEL HOIT, son of John, was living in White Plains when the patent was applied for, in 1721.

CALEB HYATT'S descendants, many of them, remained in White Plains. (See Hoit, Hyatt Genealogy.)

THOMAS BROWN had a lot laid out to him in the first division, directly in the curve of the road to Rye. (Road Book.) His name is also on the list of those who received land in the second division. He was brother to Hachaliah Brown, who undoubtedly succeeded to his land, as he (Thomas Brown) died without issue. It is stated by the Rye historian, that the lands of Thomas and Hachaliah Brown, adjoining one another in Rye, remained for years undivided. This is probably the reason.

HACHALIAH BROWN testified that he was aged 70 years, March 25, 1715. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 91.) PETER BROWN, SR., was a son of Hachaliah Brown, and son-in-law to Peter Disbrow; and his daughter Sarah married Francis Purdy, Jr. DELIVERANCE BROWN, another son of Hachaliah's, had also a share in the second division. This Brown family sold out to Abraham Underhill, grandson of Capt. John Underhill, so famous as a warrior.

FRANCIS BROWN was not related to the other family of this name. He married as his second wife, Judette (Budd), widow of John Ogden. He gave his land in White Plains to his step-son, Richard Ogden, in 1700, and Richard Ogden sold to Caleb Hyatt.

JACOB PIERCE was deceased in 1694, and his land passed to his oldest brother, Daniel Pierce of Watertown, Mass.

JOHN FROST was the first owner of the land where the Presbyterian meeting house stands. He sold this to the Rev. Christopher Bridge of Rye, Clerk, in 1714, together with all his right to undivided lands.

STEPHEN and ISAAC SHERWOOD sold out; Stephen Sherwood of Rye, to Francis Le Conte of New Rochelle, one half his interest in White Plains, divided and undivided, in 1711.

RICHARD LOUNSBERRY was deceased in 1694. He left his White Plains land to his sons Thomas and Michael. Michael sold out. There was a William Lounsberry living north of Dr. Graham, who had occupied his land many years. John Lounsberry and wife Ann of Rye, gave land to their loving brother-in-law Israel Rogers and Mary his wife, in 1703/4. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber C, p. 320.) In the will of Richard Lounsberry, 1690-1694, recorded on the Land Records at White Plains, he mentions a daughter Mary. In the published Westchester County Wills, there is no mention of this daughter.

JONATHAN VOWLES is written Jonathan "Fowler" on the second draft list. He sold out to John Turner, one of the patentees under the Hartford grant.

GEORGE LANE, SR., of Rye, had wife Mercy, and they were living in 1709. Mercy Lane witnessed a deed of sale for land sold in Westchester, in 1700, by Wareham Mather, Student of Divinity in Westchester, to Jacob Johnson, Shoemaker, of New Rochelle, late of Middletown, Conn. George Lane, Jr., settled in White Plains. He served in the Indian Wars, and for that reason styled himself

"Gentleman." He kept his homelot, apparently given him by his father, and probably lived upon it until he went to West Farms, where he died, in 1745/6, leaving the homelot, and land which he had purchased within the Brondage patent, to his only son, Nathan. (See Westchester County Wills.) He was, therefore, not the father of any of the other children given him in the Rye History, but undoubtedly a brother and uncle to them. The land which George Lane, Jr., purchased from William Yeomans and his wife Elizabeth, and from Caleb Horton and from Joseph Fowler,—in the third and fourth divisions; and land which he undoubtedly received from his father, he sold to Joshua Hatfield, son of Peter, in 1743. This piece contained 100½ acres. Nathan, son of George Lane, Jr., moved to Cortlandt. Daniel Lane applied with George Lane and the others for the patent in 1721. He was also a son of George Lane of Rye, but lived in White Plains, where he seems to have owned a very small piece of land on the highway, south of Abraham Smith's land, in 1700; and this land was owned by Jonathan Lane in 1726, and until after 1730. Jonathan Lane probably sold this land when he sold his land north of Gabriel Lynch's, in 1746, and probably left town. He was a mason, and had a wife, Rebecca. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber O, p. 98.) Joseph Lane, afterward of Cortlandt, witnessed a deed of sale from Abraham Smith, nephew to George Lane, to John Walton, at White Plains, in 1726.

JOHN MERRITT was represented in White Plains by his sons, John and Andrew Merritt. In 1727, Jacob Hays, of New York, Merchant, sold to Daniel Horton of Rye, "land laid out in the right of John Merritt, Sr., dec'd, late of Rye, in ye third and fourth divisions of ye White Plains Purchase;" 40 acres. Jacob Hays also bought the homelot laid out to John Merritt, which had come into the possession of his sons John and Andrew Merritt, and sold the same to Daniel Horton. (Westchester Land Records, Liber F, p. 85.) (See Revised Merritt Records, by Douglas Merritt.) Humphrey Underhill's daughter Elizabeth, married Samuel Merritt not Thomas, as started in the preceding Underhill notes.

TIMOTHY KNAPP's houselot, from the descriptions of land about it, seems to have been taken into what was later either the Samuel Hunt, or the Christopher Bridge patent, down on the road to Rye. It was in his possession from 1700 to 1710, as proved by the sales of a piece of land between it and land "formerly Jacob Pierce's." Jacob Pierce was deceased without heirs, and his land went to his brother, Daniel Pierce of Watertown, Mass. Daniel Pierce according to the various authorities, in some way gave the lands of his brother to the Rev. Christopher Bridge, who was also from New England, and who, at the time of his death, owned a patent of twenty scattered pieces of land within the Rye possessions. One of these pieces of land was north of Thomas Hunt's patent, when the patent to White Plains was applied for, in 1721. Probably Timothy Knapp sold his homelot, or gave it to his son Moses who sold; for Moses Knapp had a tract of land laid out to him in White Plains, in 1720. As this

Moses Knapp is the only one not placed by competent genealogists; and as Timothy Knapp's land in Rye is proven to have been inherited by his son Timothy Knapp; and as these same genealogists state that Timothy Knapp probably had other sons; therefore, it seems almost safe to conclude that Moses was son to Timothy Knapp. (See preceding Knapp notes.)

JOSEPH PURDY and FRANCIS PURDY, brothers, had land in the second division. Joseph Purdy, Sr., of Rye, willed to son Joseph, in 1703, "all right of lands in White Plains on the west side of the Mamaroneck river." Obadiah Purdy, son and heir to Joseph the younger, dec'd, was living in White Plains in 1726. (See deed from Abraham Smith to John Walton. See preceding Smith notes.) Samuel Purdy of Rye, bought from John Budd, the land John Budd bought from John Horton. John Horton had inherited this land from his uncle, Samuel Horton. (See preceding Horton notes.) Jonathan Purdy, son of Joseph, bought up from several of the patentees' successors, a large tract of land in the lower part of the patent, and some of this land is still owned by his descendants. Still John Purdy, son of Joseph, owned a tract of land in the fifth division near the North Castle line, and sold the same to Samuel Purdy in 1740; "land laid out to the right of Jacob Pierce." Still John Purdy also sold to Samuel Purdy, Jr., in 1735, land which he owned in the Great Meadow. A deed from "Obadiah Purdy, of Rye, Gent., son and heir at law to Joseph Purdy the younger, dec'd," to Samuel Purdy of Rye, Esq., in 1734, gives the sons of Joseph Purdy the elder, of Rye, Esq., dec'd, as Joseph the younger, dec'd, Daniel, David, Samuel, Jonathan, Still John and Francis. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 115.)

FRANCIS PURDY bought and sold land in White Plains. There is an excellent genealogy of this entire Purdy family, in the History of Greenwich, Conn., but there seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the marriage of Peter Brown's daughter who married Francis Purdy, Jr., and not Francis Purdy, son of Francis who died in 1658 at Fairfield. Francis Purdy of Rye deposed that he was aged 64 years or thereabouts, March 25, 1715. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 91.) Peter Brown, Sr., of Rye, in 1714, deeded to son-in-law Francis Purdy, Jr., and daughter Sarah Purdy his wife, "land I had of my honoured father-in-law, Peter Disbrow, dec'd." This was land in Rye. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber E, p. 73.) Francis Purdy, Jr., of Rye, bought land of Daniel Brondage, in White Plains, in 1698. (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 72.)

The Samuel Purdy who was prominent in Rye town affairs, was undoubtedly the youngest son of Francis¹ Purdy who died before the family settled in Rye. This is proved by his signature to a petition in 1710, to the Hartford Court, regarding the Stephen Sherwood claim. Those who signed were Isaac Dunham, John Brondig, Thomas Merritt, Joseph Budd, Wid. Purdy, relict of Justice Purdy, dec'd, Caleb Hiatt, Widow Horton, relict of John Horton, dec'd,

Richard Ogden, John Horton, and Samuel Purdy in the behalf of ye rest. (Lands and Towns MSS., Vol. II, p. 204, Hartford, Conn., State Library.)

JOHN STOAKHAM sold to James Travis, Jr., of Rye, in 1705. 4 A., evidently his homelot.

ISAAC DENHAM, ANDREW COE and THOMAS JAFFREY sold out.

RICHARD WALTON, not "Walters," as given on the 1683 list, was son-in-law to Philip Galpin.

JOSEPH BUDD, Capt., died in 1722, between the time of the application for the patent, and its receipt. He married Ann, daughter of Humphrey Underhill. Joseph Budd's two sons, Joseph and Elisha, inherited his rights in the White Plains patent, and his son, Underhill Budd, inherited the rights of his grandfather, Humphrey Underhill. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 393.) Underhill Budd, married Sarah, daughter of Capt. Henry Fowler (the third Henry Fowler, son of Henry Fowler, Sr., of Eastchester) of Mamaroneck. In 1738, Underhill Budd of White Plains, exchanged with Henry Fowler (the 4th), his brother-in-law, of Mamaroneck, his 120 acres of land in White Plains, for Henry Fowler's land in Mamaroneck. (White Plains, Liber G, p. 253.)

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

67. PETTINGELL-POORE—CORRECTION.

Page 8 of the Pettingell Genealogy (a very creditable work of 582 pages, thoroughly indexed, compiled by John Mason Pettingell. After his death his notes were edited and compared by his brother Charles Ireland Pettingell and arranged for publication by Charles Henry Pope, Boston, Mass., 1906), states that "Samuel¹ (Richard¹) Pettingell, born Salem, Mass., bap. 9 (12), 1644; married 13 Feb., 1673-4, Sarah,² dau. of John¹ Poore of Newbury, Mass., she being the second child of the name and was born in Newbury, 5 June, 1655." This Sarah² Poore did not marry Samuel² Pettingell, but married at Newbury, Mass., Feb. 18, 1675, John² (William¹) Sawyer. (Published Vital Records of Newbury, p. 409, and Hoyt's Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury, Mass., vol. 2, p. 591.) John² Sawyer was born Newbury, Mass., Aug. 24, 1645, and died in Salem, Mass., March, 1688-9. Sarah (Poore) Sawyer married second (or intentions published) Nov. 27, 1707, Joseph³ (John,² John¹) Bailey, Sen., as his second wife. (Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury, by David W. Hoyt, vol. 1, p. 45, and vol. 2, p. 613).

Children of John² Sawyer and Sarah² Poore:

1 Ruth,³ b. Sept. 22, 1677, Newbury, Mass.

- 2 William,³ b. April 29, 1679, Newbury; m. Jan. 7, 1702, Lydia³ Webster.
 - 3 Sarah,³ b. May 20, 1681, Newbury; living 1709.
 - 4 John,³ b. April 25, 1683, Newbury; d. March 19, 1688.
 - 5 Jonathan,³ b. March 4, 1685, Newbury; m. Jan. 10, 1711, Newbury, Mary Rawlins (Nicholas).
 - 6 David,³ b. Jan. 13, 1686-7, Newbury; living 1709; probably m. Feb. 28, 1711-2, Elinor Frost.
 - 7 John,³ b. Sept. 11, 1688, Newbury; m. Nov. 25, 1714, Abigail Thirla or Thurlow (Jonathan).
- (From Hoyt's Old Families of Salisbury and Amesbury.)

The Sarah² Poore who married Samuel² Pettingell at Newbury, Mass., Feb. 13, 1673 (published Newbury Vital Records), was the daughter of Daniel and M—— (faded) Pore of Andover, Mass. (published Vital Records of Andover, Mass., p. 311). The M—— is no doubt the first letter in Mary, as Daniel Pore married at Boston, Mass., Oct. 20, 1650, Mary Farnum, daughter of Ralph and Alice Farnum (published Vital Records of Andover, Mass., p. 278). Mary (Farnum) Poor (or Pore), widow of Daniel, died in Andover, Mass., Feb. 3, 1713-4, age given about 85 (published Vital Records of Andover, Mass., p. 529).

Samuel² Pettingell died in 1711, presumably at Newbury, Mass.; in his will dated July 9, 1709, proved Jan. 2, 1711, he bequeathed to wife Sarah, and children Samuel, Richard, Daniel, John, Thomas, Mary, Sarah, Joanna and Benjamin. The date and place of Sarah (Pore) Pettingell is unknown to writer, but she was recorded as member of the church in 1716.

Children of Samuel² and Sarah² (Poore) Pettingell:

- 1 A daughter,³ b. March 13, 1674-5; d. young.
- 2 Samuel,³ b. Feb. 3, 1675-6; m. (1) April 29, 1707, Ann Lunt, who d. July 27, 1708. He m. (2) Jan. 3, 1709-10, Elizabeth, dau. of Cutting and Elizabeth (Knight) Noyes. His will, dated March 24, 1746; probated April 27, 1747.
- 3 Richard,³ b. Aug. 26, 1677; d. young.
- 4 Richard,³ b. Jan. 24, 1678-9; m. Oct. 10, 1701, Jemima, dau. of Peter and Hannah (Noyes) Cheney. Estate administration granted Aug. 17, 1761.
- 5 Daniel,³ b. Feb. 16, 1679-80; d. Abington, Mass., May 12, 1726; m. (1) Nov. 13, 1699, Mary Stickney, who d. March 7, 1706-7. He m. (2) March 26, 1707-8, Esther (Hester), dau. of Samuel and Esther French.

Department for Registration of Pedigrees.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN REYNOLDS TOTTEN.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY conducts a department for the purpose of examining, approving and publishing pedigrees of individual applicants.

The Society will accept for examination the pedigree of ANY INDIVIDUAL, whether a member of the Society or not.

Those desiring to take advantage of the facilities thus offered should apply to the Society for the authorized blank form on which to record the pedigree to be submitted for examination (enclosing 50 cents in payment for the blank).

Applicants must either themselves, or with the assistance of professional genealogists, fill in the form as indicated and return the same to this Society for examination; it being understood that the regular charges made by this Society are for examination and publication of the pedigree, and do not include genealogical research in the preparation of the pedigree itself.

When a pedigree is submitted for examination the applicant must send with it a preliminary fee of $15.00. Upon the receipt of a pedigree and this preliminary fee, the pedigree will be examined; and if approved, it will be subsequently published, first in an issue of the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, and the applicant will receive 2 copies of the Record containing the pedigree without further charge. The pedigree will thereafter (when a sufficient number have accumulated) be published in a volume of a series, one volume of which has already been issued (see Vol. VI, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections); and copies of this volume will be sold to those whose pedigrees are contained therein at the special price of $5.00 a volume.

Pedigrees must be submitted to the Society in form complete for publication. If, upon examination by the Society, essential facts are added to the pedigree by the examiner, a nominal fee, not to exceed $5.00, will be charged by the Society for ascertaining and embodying such additional information in the pedigree.

If upon examination the pedigree is found to be essentially inaccurate, it will not be approved and will be returned to the applicant; and the preliminary fee will be refunded, less a charge of $10.00 for expert examination.

If, when finally examined, approved and prepared for publication, the pedigree is found to require more than one page for its proper presentation, the fee for publishing the same, as above explained, will be at the rate of $15.00 a page (pages to be similar in size and form to those of pedigrees heretofore published in the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD,—see issues from April, 1911, to date of this issue), but, in adjusting the final charge, credit for the payment of the preliminary fee of $15.00 will be given to the applicant.

For the benefit of applicants desiring extra copies of their pedigrees for family distribution, editions of 50 copies of such pedigrees will be supplied on 4-page folders of linen ledger paper, with space left for additional notes, for a fee of $5.00.

Individuals desiring their pedigrees prepared for examination, approval and later publication by this Society, and who are unfamiliar with the methods to pursue to secure the necessary information to establish such pedigrees, or who are unable to devote the required time to their preparation,—are invited to address this Society with a view to being put in communication with a professional genealogist capable of establishing and submitting them (when established) in proper form to this Society for publication.

Applications for examination, approval and publishing pedigrees under the condition hereabove set forth should be made to the

NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,

Alden,* b., 1599, about (as he made a deposition on July 6, 1682, in which he states that he was then aged 83 years old or thereabouts), at, England (most probably); d. Sept. 12 (O. S.) or 22 (N. S.), 1687, at Duxbury, Mass.; m. (before 1623, according to Mayflower Descendants, vol. ii, p. 114; and in "early part of 1621" according to Winsor's History of Duxbury, Mass., p. 56), at Plymouth, Mass. (most probably, although no definite record of time and place of this marriage exists), to Priscilla Mullins, a passenger on the first voyage of the Mayflower, (dau. of William Mullins; * a passenger on the first voyage of the Mayflower (b., at, Eng. (most probably); d. March 3, 1621, at Plymouth, Mass.) and his wife Alice* (whose maiden surname and parentage have not as yet been determined), a passenger on the first voyage of the Mayflower (b., at, England (most probably); d., 1621, after April 2, at Plymouth, Mass.)), b., at,; d. (after between March 6, 1651 (N. S.), and April 3, 1651 (N. S.)), as she was mentioned as living in Bradford's list made between those dates that year), at Duxbury, Mass., probably.

John Alden was not associated with the Pilgrims at Leyden. He was hired at Southampton, England, as a "cooper" to accompany the Pilgrims on the first voyage of the Mayflower, the privilege being granted him to either remain in New England or to return to England as he elected to do. He was the seventh (7th) signer of the "Mayflower Compact" which was drawn up and signed on board the Mayflower, Nov. 11 (O. S.) or 21 (N. S.), 1620. He settled in Plymouth, Mass., where he married his wife (probably as early as 1623, as she was left an orphan early in 1621), and where he remained until 1631 when he removed to Duxbury, Mass., where he lived until his death. He was the last male survivor of the signers of the "Compact." He died intestate and his inventory was taken October 31, 1687, by his son Lieut. Jonathan Alden, who was also appointed administrator of his estate, Nov. 8, 1687; and his heirs gave receipt for their portions June 13, 1688. He was a Representative to the General Court from Duxbury in 1641-2, and was an Assistant to Governor Winslow in 1633 and served as an Assistant for 42 years.

Children, 11 (Alden), 4 sons and 4 daus., and 3 others whose sexes are not stated (on authority of Bradford's list of increases taken between March 6, 1651 (N. S.), and April 3, 1651 (N. S.)), see Mayflower Descendants, vol. i, p. 13;—1. Elizabeth, b. on or after May 31, 1624, at Plymouth, Mass.; d. May 31, 1717, aged 93 years, "or in 93rd year," m. William Peabody of Duxbury, Mass., and Little Compton, R. I. 2. John, b., 1626-7 (before June 1 (N. S.), 1627, as he was mentioned in division of cattle made that date), at Plymouth, Mass.; d. March 14, 1701-2, aged 75; m. (1) Elizabeth; m. (2) Elizabeth (Phillips) Averill and settled in Boston, Mass. 3. Joseph, b.; d. Feb. 8, 1696-7; m. Mary Simmons and settled at Bridgewater, Mass. (see below). 4. David, b.; d., 1719, about; m. Mary Southworth and settled in Duxbury, Mass. 5. Jonathan, b.; d. Feb. 17, 1696-7; m. Abigail Hallett and settled at Duxbury, Mass. 6. Sarah, b.; d.; m. Alexander Standish and settled at Duxbury, Mass. 7. Ruth, b.; d. Oct. 12, 1674; m. John Bass and settled at Braintree, Mass. 8. Mary, b.; d.; m. Dr. Thomas Delano and settled at Duxbury, Mass.

John Alden, b. (after June 1 (N. S.), 1627, on which date the first division of cattle was made and in which division his name was not mentioned), at Plymouth (or Duxbury), Mass.; d. Feb. 8, 1696-7 (will dated Dec. 14, 1696; inventory taken March 3, 1696-7; proved March 10, 1696-7), at Bridgewater, Mass.; m., at (Duxbury, Mass., probably), to Mary Simmons (dau. of Moses and Sarah (.....) Simmons, of Duxbury, Mass.), b., at,; d. (she survived her husband and was executrix of his will), at Joseph Alden lived in Duxbury, Mass., removing early to Bridgewater, Mass.; he was a farmer and was admitted freeman in 1659 (which would place his year of birth as 1638 on the supposition that he was made a freeman at age of 21). He had his father's proprietary share in Bridgewater, where he settled in the part now known as West Bridgewater.

Children, 6 (Alden), 3 sons and 3 daughters, viz:—1. Isaac (mentioned in his father's will, who m. Mehitable Allen. 2. Joseph (mentioned in his father's will), who m. Hannah Dunham (see below). 3. John (mentioned in his father's will), who m. Hannah White. 4. Elizabeth (not mentioned in her father's will, who m. in 1691 or 1693 Benjamin Snow of Bridgewater. 5. Mercy (not mentioned in her father's will), who m. John Burrill of Weymouth. 6.? (a daughter) (not mentioned in her father's will), who m. Snow of Bridgewater. (Savage, vol. 1, p. 24, states that perhaps he had a dau. Mary; and Mitchell's History of Bridgewater (p. 85), states that he had a dau. Mary, who m. Samuel Allen in 1700. The Mayflower Descendants, vol. vi, pp. 110-111, inclines however to the belief that he had but 3 daus., two of whom m. Snows of Bridgewater, and the 3rd John Burrill of Weymouth.)

Deacon Joseph Alden, b., 1667, about, at Bridgewater, Mass.; d. Dec. 22, 1747, aged 80 years, at Bridgewater, Mass.; m., 1690, at, to Hannah Dunham (dau. of Daniel and Mehitable (Hayward) Dunham, of,), b., 1671, at,; d. Jan. 14, 1747-8, aged 78, at Bridgewater, Mass.

EDITORIAL.

On Sunday, April 14th, the property of Henry D. Lasher, adjacent to the Stone Arabia Reformed Church, was destroyed by fire. As the church records had been kept in Mr. Lasher's home for the past thirty-five years it was erroneously concluded that they had been destroyed with the house. And such a statement appeared in press notices. This Society made a copy of the Stone Arabia Reformed Church Records in the summer of 1916, at which time it was suggested that better steps be taken towards their preservation from fire. The following letter has been received from the pastor of the church:—

"Ephratah, N. Y., 4/20/18.

MR. R. W. VOSBURGH,
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir:—

We purchased a second hand combination iron safe last November and placed the Old and New Records all in it together. This safe stands in the church. It just happened to be a very providential move.

Yours as ever,
(Signed) ROYAL A. STANTON."

The pastor also states that the combination of the safe is known to only two or three people and that all the historical documents belonging to the church are carefully preserved therein. A complete list of all these documents, compiled by the writer, will be found in Volume III of the Society's copy of the church records, pages 169-170.

BOOK REVIEWS.

BY JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue, before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

A biography of one of America's great soldiers—the only man who ever rose from the rank of private in the Regular Army to that of Chief of Staff of the United States Army.

This is an interesting biography tracing the career of General Chaffee and describing the different military events in which he took part. It covers a period of over fifty years of our history: the military events of the Civil War, conditions on the Western frontier, Indian engagements, problems of upbuilding the Army, the war with Spain, and the relief expedition to China. For fifty years James Monroe Buckley has been the outstanding man in Methodism and for at least thirty years has been the acknowledged leader in its councils.

Dr. Mains has sketched the sources and secrets of his power sympathetically and surely, and has given graphic and picturesque portrayal of the life and activities of this leader of Modern Methodism.

While the biographer has written con amore he has maintained the judicial attitude. The book is a real study and interpretation of this many-sided and truly remarkable man.

A run of thirty to thirty-five miles will include the most historic portion of any of them. Trips by auto and by trolley will well repay the wanderer. MARRIAGE RECORDS OF HUNTERDON COUNTY, N. J. (1795-1875), Vol. I, being an Index to the marriages recorded in the office of the County Clerk, at Flemington, N. J., compiled by Hiram E. Deats, Recording Secretary and Librarian of the Hunterdon County Historical Society; 8vo, buckram, 1918, pp. 337. Price, $5.00 Apply to the compiler as above.

A very important addition to genealogical lore, one which it is hoped will be followed by the other counties of the State. When the fact is fully realized by the officials in charge that Hunterdon County bears the distinction of being the only one of the twenty-one counties which has undertaken this work it cannot be doubted that others, envious of this record, will hurry to attain an early place in the contest which should begin at once. Mr. Deats is to be congratulated on the success of this initial contribution and the second volume will be anxiously awaited.

A HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN JEPSON OF ENGLAND AND BOSTON, MASS., through his son John's two sons, William and Micah, 1610-1917. Jipson, M.D., 4310 Indiana Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

A work which shows much thought and care in preparation, is well printed and agreeable to handle. Attention is called to the introduction which adds general interest in that it supplies so much historic data concerning the early homes of the family, and much information relative to others of the name besides the one whose line is traced. The fortunes of the descendants of William of Boston, including Samuel, John, Lemuel C. (Jesse), Benjamin and of Micah of Goshen, Mass., including John, Joseph, David and Samuel are followed in extenso. At this writing the entire edition of the work has been absorbed with the exception of about thirty copies.

HISTORY OF THE GALLEY FAMILY with Local and Old-Time Sketches in the Yough Region, by Henrietta Galley and J. O. Arnold, M.D. Octavo, cloth, and boards, pp. 271. 1908. Illustrated with numerous photographs.

Edition limited to 350 copies. No price stated. Address: Dr. Arnold, 4149 North Broad Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

This book is divided into three parts, the first covering the family history, culminating with particulars of the first reunion held in 1897 and the second ten years later. Beginning with its progenitor in this country, Peter Galley, who settled in Lancaster County, Pa., about 1770, his descendants are brought down to the present time. Miss Henrietta Galley was the author of this section of the work and worthily has she performed her task. The text has been well illustrated, including half-tones of some of the homesteads in picturesque settings which any family could view with pardonable pride. With this part of the work this society is especially interested, and while our field is limited to that line of research it is a pleasure to note the remaining segments to which the book is devoted. Part second is entitled "Historic Sketches in the Yough Region" and contains much authentic history dished up in an entertaining and spritely manner. The final part, "Old-Time Sketches," has preserved for the future many useful and intimate traits of the life and times and activities which have characterized the region of the Youghiogheny valley, and, although not usually placed in a family history, Dr. Arnold has wrought well in assembling such a comprehensive résumé of historic and old-time data. As time recedes these will become increasingly valuable.

ISAAC NEWTON SELIGMAN.

BY HOPPER STRIKER MOTT.

Isaac N. Seligman was born in Staten Island, July 10th, 1855, a son of Joseph Seligman, founder of the international banking house, who came to this country in 1853 and who, with his six brothers, established the firm of J. & W. Seligman & Company. As a boy Isaac N. Seligman was for many years under the immediate guidance of his tutor, Horatio Alger, Jr., the famous juvenile writer. He entered Columbia Grammar School at the age of ten, and in 1872 matriculated at Columbia College, graduating with honors four years later. He rowed in the crew which in 1874 defeated Harvard, Yale, and nine other college crews on Saratoga Lake. For a long period after graduation he was president of the Columbia Boat Club.

His business training began in the New Orleans branch of the banking firm where his unusual ability was developed. He was transferred to the New York office in 1878 and was at once recognized as a prominent figure in New York banking circles. His father died in 1880, being succeeded as head of the firm by his brother, the late Jesse Seligman. At the death of the latter, in 1895, Mr. Isaac N. Seligman became the head of the house.

As financial agents of the United States Navy Department, Mr. Seligman's firm had many connections throughout the world. He traveled repeatedly to foreign capitals and was on terms of intimacy with many foreign financiers and statesmen. He took a notable part in preparing the way for the financial arrangements which made possible the acquisition of the Panama Canal by the United States government. He was also much interested in the scheme to rehabilitate Venezuela by the formation of an international syndicate to pool the debts of the country, the United States acting as sponsor for the transaction. This plan was carried out during the term of President Roosevelt and Venezuela was placed on a firm basis financially. Mr. Seligman was also heavily interested in some of the Central American republics as well as in the Orient, in all of which instances he was working in harmony with the government. To mention the various enterprises at home in which he was interested either as director or investor would fill a large volume.

Mr. Seligman was always an active and sturdy patriot. In his public activities he took a prominent part from the beginning in all the various movements for municipal reform. He was one of the leading figures of the Citizen Union and a valued member of the various committees, like the Committee of Seventy, the Committee of Two Hundred and Fifty, and the Committee of One Hundred. In the New York Chamber of Commerce he took for many years a leading part. He was at the time of his death a member of the executive committee and had been for some years the chairman of one of its most important committees, that on taxation. The report of this committee contributed not a little toward the reform of public finance. Mr. Seligman was also very much interested in the matter of Civil Service Reform, to which he contributed liberally both of his time and of his money.

Among the national movements to which he was particularly attached was the Child Labor Association, of which he was one of the founders. He was also a member of the American Academy of Political and Social Science and of the New York Academy of Political Science, before both of which bodies he repeatedly made addresses. He took a great interest in the affairs of the American Economic Association.

In the more purely civic organizations, Mr. Seligman took a notable part. Having early become convinced of the need of model tenements, he was one of the founders of the City and Suburban Homes Company, acting as its treasurer for many years. He took a deep interest in the problem of the social evil and was a prominent member of the Committee of Fourteen and later of the Committee of Seven. He was the head of the Civic Forum and the vice-president of the Peoples' Institute, always lending a ready ear to the demands for municipal progress.

The list of his philanthropic associations would be too long to recount in detail. It may be mentioned that he was a vice-president of the United Hebrew Charities and for several decades one of the leading officers of the St. John's Guild.

Mr. Seligman had rare musical and artistic gifts, which he had inherited from his father. He was not only passionately devoted to the piano, but he was a draftsman of no mean order and spent much of his time in drawing. He was one of the Trustees of the New York Symphony Society as well as of the New York Oratorical Society and helped to found the Institute of Musical Art, the leading organization of its kind in this country. He was a discriminating connoisseur of paintings and had made a notable collection of the best examples of American art, in which he was especially interested.

His personal characteristics were such as to endear him to a host of friends in every walk of life. Among his intimate friends, to mention only the departed, were, in the early days, President

Grant, Speaker Reed, and later on, President McKinley, Senator Mark Hanna, Carl Schurz, and others.

In lieu of any further comments we append herewith a few extracts from some of the remarks made by his admirers at various public meetings held in his honor:

Hon. Robert C. Cornell, City Magistrate:

"Isaac N. Seligman has been a leader of men, and a real guide to honest, clean living. In short, a shining example to us all. He was so reliable, so forgetful of self, and so thoughtful of others, so steadfast, so constant, and so true. His loss leaves a void that cannot be filled and is felt not only by his family and intimate friends, but by the community at large."

John B. Pine, Trustee and Secretary of Columbia University:

"The death of Isaac N. Seligman will be deeply felt by the University and by all Columbia men. Among the latter he was widely and universally esteemed for his never-failing kindness and for his keen and active interest in everything connected with Columbia, from his student days when he rowed on the 'Varsity Crew to the very end, almost the last act of his life being to send a contribution for carrying on courses in Extension Teaching. While his generosity was proverbial only those most closely connected with the University can realize or appreciate how constant was his thought for its welfare, not only giving liberally when asked, but constantly on the alert with suggestions and substantial aid to advance its interests. But his devotion to the University was only one evidence of his public spirit, which led him to take an active part in innumerable philanthropic agencies and made him one of the most untiring supporters of every movement which aimed to secure better government for the City. As a type of the citizen Columbia aims to produce, conscientiously and unfailingly devoted to the highest ideals and ever ready to render a service, large or small, to his Alma Mater, to the relief of suffering, or to the city, no finer example can be found than the gentle, modest, and warm-hearted friend whom we have lost in Isaac N. Seligman, whose name should always have a high place on Columbia's roll of honor."

At a memorial meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Alfred E. Marling, Esq., addressed the members as follows:

"To pay a tribute to the worth and memory of Mr. Seligman is a privilege which any of the members of this Chamber would prize. The resolutions, which have just been offered admirably express, in fitting language, the feeling of the Chamber as a whole, and I very proudly second the resolution.

To those of us who came in closer touch with him in his committee work, our loss is indeed great. One early learned, in close association with him, to have for him a warm friendship, by reason of his simple, modest, considerate, patient character. The impression that one received in coming closer to him was that in any undertaking in which he was interested his dominating purpose was to help it along in any way within his power. He gave himself freely to the services of many causes in this city, political, municipal affairs, and a variety of public and private charities. Truly in the words of Oliver Goldsmith, this friend of ours had 'Learned the luxury of doing good.' Those of us who knew him intimately in association on committees (and that was the privilege of the speaker) learned to appreciate the courteous way in which he respected the judgment of those who opposed him. Here again one must credit him with believing the saying of Emerson, 'That life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy.'

In Mr. Seligman's death, the business community has lost a banker of the highest probity and ability; the city has lost a devoted and intelligent citizen; and this Chamber has lost a warm supporter, and its members a kind and affectionate friend. It is indeed fitting that we tender to the members of his family,—that beloved circle in which all the warmth and loving qualities of our friend's nature found fullest scope,—our sincere sympathy, and assure them how high was our appreciation of him.

'We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;
In feeling, not in figures on a dial.

We should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives
Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.'

Mr. Seligman belonged to a great and noble race which has rendered imperishable service to the world for thousands of years, and left a literature full of beautiful and loving and helpful thoughts. I think it was Mr. Beecher years ago, in preaching on a text from the Psalms, in that beautiful imagery of which he was such a master, said that some of the Psalms were like a bird flying through time, singing a song of comfort or inspiration or admonition; and it may not be unfitting, Mr. President, to recall one of those Psalms as we remember this dear friend of ours who belonged to that noble and great race.

'Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful.

But his delight is in the law of the Lord; and in his law doth he meditate day and night.

And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that bringeth forth his fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither; and whatsoever he doeth shall prosper.'"

After which R. Fulton Cutting, Esq., pronounced this eulogy:

"I wish to add a few words to those which have been already uttered in tribute to the memory of Isaac N. Seligman. It has been my privilege to be closely associated with him for many years and in many ways. I have had unusual opportunity to measure his value to this community and the loyalty of his friendship. Despite his sixty-two years he was a young man, for he had the enthusiasm of youth for the noble ideals that captured his imagination and enlisted his active and generous service. Recognizing early the unequalled possibilities of philanthropy inherent in good government, he gave his zealous cooperation to every endeavor to express conscience and practical efficiency in political administration. His counsel, energetic service and contributions were among the best assets of the movements for political reform that have particularly characterized the history of the City, State and Nation for the past three decades.

You will remember that when Mr. Bryce wrote the 'American Commonwealth' he chose the City of New York to illustrate the disastrous effects of Boss Government that seemed to result from the exercise of popular sovereignty in American municipalities. If he should rewrite the 'American Commonwealth' today, he would tell a different story of the City of New York and it would be to Isaac N. Seligman, and men of his type, that our city should be indebted for the nobler picture of its political life that Mr. Bryce would represent upon the canvas. There are few men to whom this city is more greatly indebted for the rescue of its reputation than Isaac Seligman. There are few men who have contributed more largely to give New York the scientific, efficient and honorable administration which it now enjoys. While Mr. Seligman clung tenaciously to the political and economic principles that appealed to his intelligence, he was singularly tolerant in his attitude toward those who differed from him and political campaigns did not cost him the loss of their confidence and regard. If controversy could only be conducted with the temperament and disposition of Isaac Seligman, the reconciliation of many differences which now agitate society would be prompt and cordial.

Mr. Seligman's activities were significantly with enterprises of social betterment of fundamental nature. In the spirit of Cardinal Manning's famous dictum: 'Domestic Life Creates a Nation,' he discerned the relation between citizenship and the housing of the poor and was one of the founders of The City and Suburban Homes Company, the principal model tenement enterprise of this city. He became its Treasurer and gave to it untiring and important service. The appreciation of the comforts and conveniences of the Company's buildings by the 10,000 members of wage earners' families whom they housed, gave him keen satisfaction. His own home was a model one but his enjoyment of it was incomplete without this endeavor to provide similar blessings for others less fortunate than himself.

It has been well said,

'The richest gifts of nature kept unshared
Become but poverty; goods unbestowed,
Like fruits ungathered shrivel into blight
That mars the soul's new blossoming.'

The sharing of his goods with others was a distinguishing characteristic of Mr. Seligman. He apprehended clearly the obligations of wealth and the extent of his beneficence will only be known at the last great day for he never trumpeted his gifts to any audience.

Honor to the memory of Isaac Seligman—philanthropist, model citizen, loyal friend."

TUNIS DENISE OF FREEHOLD, NEW JERSEY,

1704-1797.

CONTRIBUTED BY HELEN LINCKLAEN FAIRCHILD,
Cazenovia, N. Y.

For many years the writer, one of his descendants, has sought to trace the descent of Tunis Denise of Freehold, New Jersey, and to reconcile the little that can be found concerning him with the account of his parentage given by the Rev. G. C. Schenck in a letter to the late Mrs. Charles Haight Conover of Freehold, now through her kindness in my possession.

I now submit the following to show that this Tunis Denise was the youngest son of Helena, daughter of Jacques Cortelyou of Nayack (who died between 1692 and 1693) and her husband Dionys Teunessen, and married Catherine Van Dyck, whose eldest child Helena, married Samuel, son of Judge Jonathan Forman of Middletown Point, New Jersey.

While Dr. Schenck was an acknowledged authority on New Jersey history and genealogy, his statement to Mrs. Conover that Tunis Denise of Freehold was identical with that Teunis Denyse, son of Dionys Teunessen and Helena Cortelyou (daughter of Jacques Cortelyou), who was "baptized April 2, 1692," and "died about 1788," must be incorrect, since the will of Tunis of Freehold with whom we are concerned, was executed April 2, 1792, and probated Jan. 16, 1798.

We may scarcely assume that the probate would have been delayed for nearly six years in any event, or that the testator had already reached his hundredth year on the day that he signed the will, so that neither date given by Dr. Schenck can be reconciled with the authoritative dates of the will and probate.

It was plain that something more was needed to establish the times of Tunis of Freehold's birth and death, but for years my search was unsuccessful. His first wife was Catherine van Dyke, as shown by the inscription on their daughter Helena Forman's gravestone, in the old burial ground at Freneau, New Jersey, and by Hendrick van Dyke's will.* His second wife was Francynthe Hendrickson, as shown by entries in the records of the old Freehold Dutch Church, kept by the pastor at Marlboro, in 1895. Both were interred in the "Scotch Lanes" burying ground, near Freehold, well known locally as the last home of all the Denises, and situated nearly opposite the farm still spoken of as the "Tunis Denise place." His granddaughter, Mrs. John Baird, sent me word that he too had been laid there, but not one monument bearing the name of Denise is among the few that remain in the neglected thicket, long since plundered of most of its headstones, on the little hill on the Colt's Neck Road. Nor could any trace be found of this generation of the family in any other of the "Burying Grounds of Old Monmouth" and when the search for the tombstones was finally abandoned, the hunt for the genealogy seemed hopeless.

* N. Y. Probate Records, Oct. 30, 1751.

From other authorities however, it can now be shown that Dr. Schenck was correct in saying that Tunis of Freehold was a son of Heléna Cortelyou by her second husband Dionys Tunis or Teunessen, though not her son of the same name baptized April 2, 1692.

An old Dutch silver-clasped Testament and Psalter, printed in 1758, shown me by the kindness of its owner, Mrs. Lilian Denise Snyder of Freehold, which was the property of her ancestor Daniel, son of Tunis Denise of Freehold and contains his family record, has upon a fly-leaf at the end of the book, the following entries, which though not giving his parentage, do furnish the long sought dates. They read thus:

"In the year of our Lord one thousand and seven hundred and four, 15th of June, Tunis Denise was born."

"Tunis Denise departed this Life, the 10 Day of December, in the year of our Lord 1797."

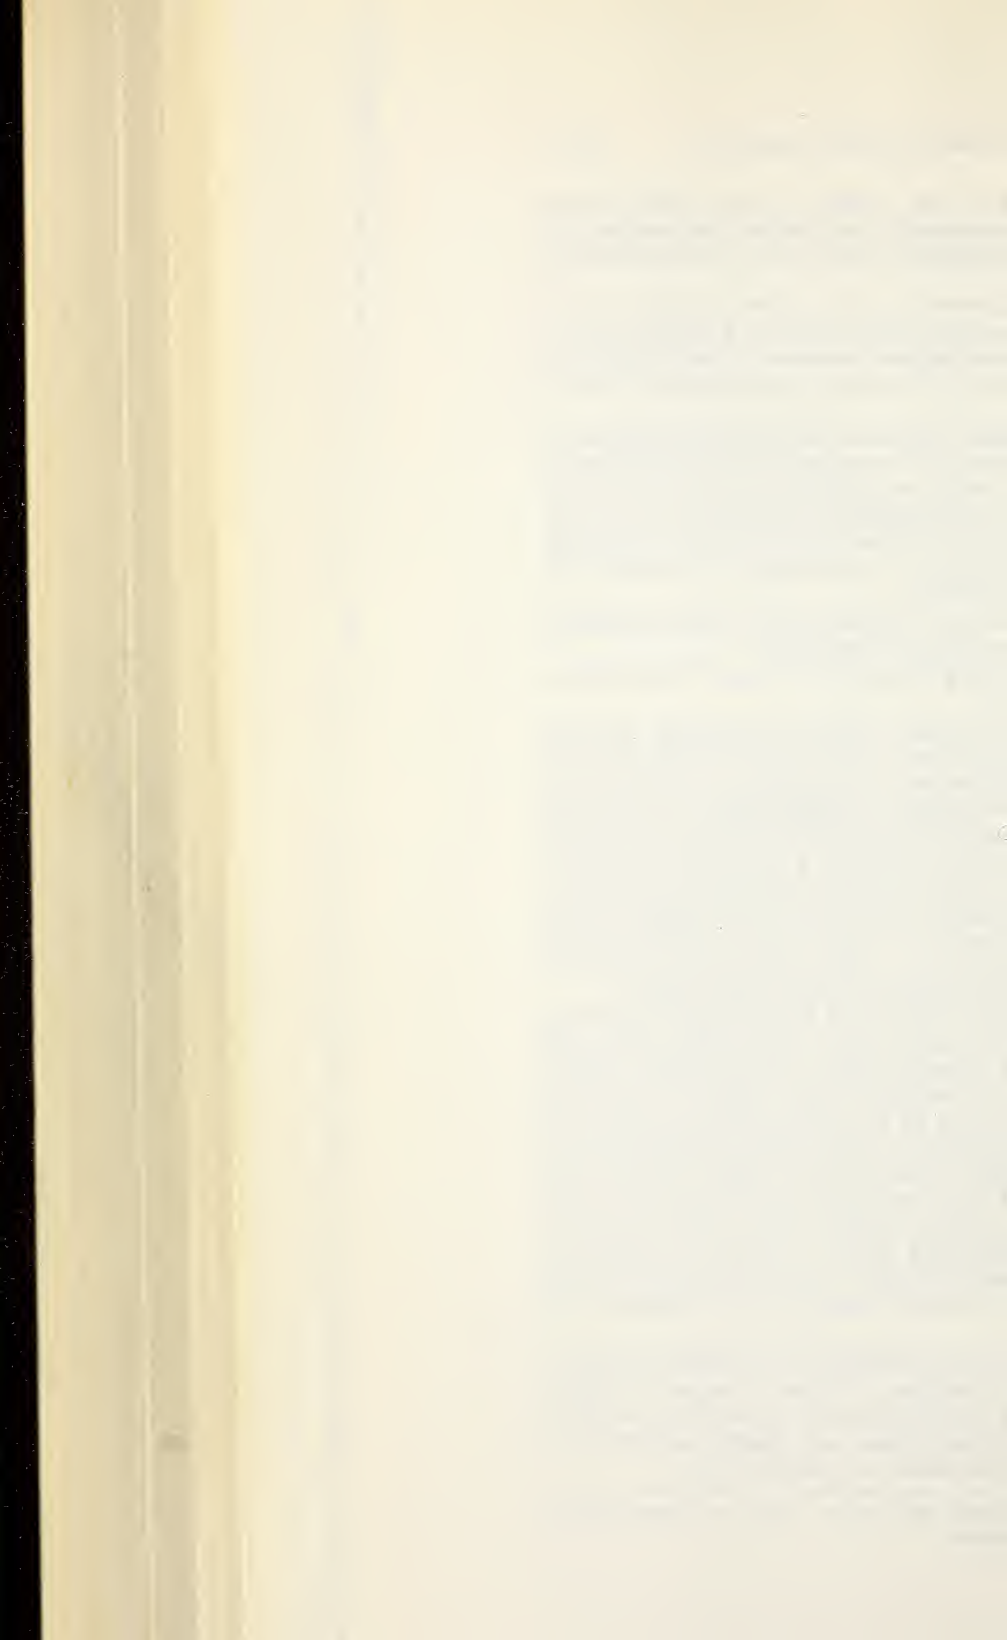

While it seems as if this record might be accepted as final authority for the birth-date of Tunis of Freehold, as well as for that of his death (the latter moreover being borne out by the date of the probate of his will), the copies by Onderdonk in the Long Island Historical Society of the Reformed Dutch Church of Kings County Records, on the contrary, to which I turned for his baptism as well as for that of the other children of Helena Cortelyou and Dionys or Denyse Teunessen, as also for their marriages, again baffled me. For there the baptism of Tunis Denise, their second son of that name* was given as on April 2, 1692, Dr. Schenck's date again, probably derived by him from this very source.

Though these copies of the records of this Church of Kings County—while the best that remain—are incomplete, like the original, the absence of all corroboration of the Dutch Testament entries could not fail to suggest that Tunis of Freehold might have been a collateral only of Helena and Dionys Teunessen, and that all clue to his parentage had hopelessly vanished in the general mist of Teunessens, Denises, and other variations of the name, were it not that the baptismal records are missing from 1691 to 1710. But the Kings County Real Estate Records remained still to be consulted, and there I found, in a series of documents, from the two last of which I now quote (in abridged version), mention of a third Teunis Denise, son of Helena and Dionys, as follows:—

Liber 4 of Conveyances, p. 257, Brooklyn Real Estate Records:

"Nov. 3, 1780. I Jaques Denyson of New Utrecht in Kings County on Nassau Island in the Province of New York, yeoman, am bound unto Hendrick Hendrickson my ffather-in-law (i. e. stepfather), and Helena Hendrickson, my mother," etc.

* The first, baptized April 24, 1687, died young. See p. 93, Early Settlers of Kings County, by Teunis G. Bergen.

Ibid., p. 198. Bond.

"1717, Aug. 15. I Hendrick Hendrickson, of New Utrecht in Kings County, yeoman, am bound unto Jaques Teunissen of Town and County aforesaid in 400 pounds, the condition being if Hendrick Hendrickson conveys to Jaques Teunissen all the right and title which by certain letters Patent the said Hendrick Hendrickson now hath in and to a certain ferry at the Narrows between Nassau Island and Staten Island at decease of his now wife, or when her youngest son called Teunis Teunisen shall attain to the age of twenty one years, this obligation to be void," etc.

Now, it being well known that Helena Cortelyou (the widow first of Nicholas Rutgerz Van Brunt, then of Dionys Teunessen), married (before Sept. 12, 1709)* Hendrick Hendrickson for her third husband, it seems in the absence so far as I can learn of any conflicting testimony, that "her youngest son Teunis Teunisen" who was under age in 1717, may be identified beyond reasonable doubt with Tunis Denise of Freehold, who by the Dutch Testament entry was born June 15, 1704, and died Dec. 10, 1797,—and whose will we find in Trenton, N. J., probated Jan. 16, 1798. With this chain of evidence the case must rest. It is however strengthened in more than one point still to be mentioned, nor does the change of the name "Teunis Teunisen" to that of Tunis Denise present a difficulty to any one having a slight knowledge of the peculiarities of the system of names among the Dutch.

His brother Jaques Teunissen, also mentioned in the bond, became Jaques Denise. Moreover, Bergen says that the children of Helena and Dionys Teunessen kept Denise as a surname, while that of his brothers' descendants became Teunessens in various forms of spelling.

I may add that it is probable that part of the land in Monmouth County deeded Oct. 27, 1718, by Hendrick Hendrickson to "Jaques and Tunis Denise, both of New Utrecht," and described in the deed (see Brooklyn Real Estate Records, Liber 4, p. 204) is the same with that now known as the Tunis Denise place.†

His grandson, my great-great-uncle, Major Samuel S. Forman, who died at Syracuse, N. Y., in 1862, aged 97, in an unpublished memoir in my possession, written in his old age, states that "Mrs. Garret Rapelje and my mother" (Helena Denise, wife of Samuel Forman, daughter of Tunis by his first wife Catherine van Dyke) "were both named after the same lady, a relative on Long Island." This also fortifies my theory, for according to Bergen this Mrs. Garret Rapelje was Helena Denise, born 1732, second daughter of Jaques Denise, oldest son of Dionys Teunessen and his wife Helena Cortelyou, by his wife Reymeriga Simonson.

Jacques lived at the homestead at the Narrows, doubtless the one referred to in the deeds, already quoted, to Jacques.

* On this day she signed her name Helena Hendrickson as witness to baptism of Elena, daughter of Abraham van Tuyl, at the same time as Hendrick Hendrickson. See "Staten Island Baptisms."

† For map showing position of old Cortelyou house, see Long Island Historical Society Memoirs, vol. ii.

These two Helena Denises were therefore first cousins and were both, I believe, named for their grandmother Helena Cortelyou. Garret Rapelje, the husband of the younger, was a New York importing merchant, who remained loyal to the Crown, and later removed to New Orleans. He lived at the Wallabout, and was of the well known family founded by his grandfather, Joris de Rapelje, the exile from "fair Rochelle" and his wife Catalyntie Trico, parents of Sara de Rapelje, "the first born Christian daughter of Nieuw Nederlandt."

If my reasoning be correct, it furnishes the link long missing in the genealogy of Tunis Denise of Freehold.

We begin to trace it on the first page of the Trouw (Marriage) Boek of the Reformed Dutch Church of the City of New York, where "Theunis Nyssen, j. m. van Bunninck in't Sticht van Uytr, en Phaebea Faelix, j. d. van Jarleston in Engelt." [Theunis Nyssen, young man of Bunninck in the diocese of Utrecht, and Phebea Felix,* young woman of Jarleston in England] are recorded as married "den 11, Febr., Anno 1640." In 1646 he owned a house and lot on the Great Highway, opposite the company's garden on Manhattan Island.

The baptismal records of the same church give the christenings of their many children, of whom Nÿs (Dionys) Tunis was the seventh, baptised April 12th, 1654. He married (1) Oct. 22, 1682, Elizabeth Polhemus, daughter of Domine Theodorus Polhemus; m. (2) April 12, 1685, "Helena Cortelyou, daughter of Jacques Corteljou," and the respectability of the fathers of both his wives would seem to show that he was a man of standing in the community, for not only was a Dutch Domine usually a much regarded personage, but Jacques Cortelyou, 1st, though he did not wear the cloth, held offices of trust, and was a man of distinction. While it is on the distaff side that Tunis Denise descends from him, we should not pass by this ancestor unnoticed.

By the Catalogues of the Dutch and English Manuscripts in the New York State Records at Albany, we find the first mention of Jacques Cortelyou under date of July 21, 1654, when he declines to be Sheriff of New Amsterdam.

Aug. 23, 1656, he was ordered by the Council to survey lands; Jan. 23, 1657, he was appointed and sworn in Surveyor General or "Surveyor of the Kings Woods," and petitioned, as Agent of the heirs of Cornelis van Werckhoven, for leave to found and erect a village on Long Island at the bay of the North River (New Utrecht) which was granted, provided the plot of proposed village be submitted to the Director or Council.

Aug. 30, 1658, he was ordered to prepare a map of lots within the city of New Amsterdam, and May 3, 1660, commissioned with others to examine the vicinity of Breuckelen, report how many plantations can be laid out there, and prepare map of the same. Again in 1660 he is ordered to survey and make map of lots within New Amsterdam, in 1663 to make more surveys, and in 1656 to survey lots at the Delaware. In 1670, he is with others, Commissioner for affairs of Esopus, and new villages adjacent, and in 1685 commissioned to be justice of Kings County.

His affairs had been complicated with those of the heirs of his principal, Cornelis van Werckhoven, but this matter can scarcely be disentangled now, nor can we know why he mortgaged his "Bouwery at New Utrecht," both in 1674 and 1684, or why in 1692 he was "to be brought before the Council to answer for contempt." Perhaps the infirmities of age caused this, for on July 27, 1693, his widow Neeltje van Duyn of New Utrecht, gives power of attorney to her sons to settle his estate.

The ferry, between Long Island and Staten Island, he seems always to have owned, for in 1719, his sons petitioned against any hindrance therein from their brother-in-law Hendrick Hendrickson, "for they and their father have had the privilege for almost fifty years."

The Civil List of the State of New York, edition of 1888, gives Jacques Cortelyou's name as Surveyor General in 1671, and in 1674 as one of the delegates "from the Dutch towns" to confer with Governor Colve.

Leaving now the official records we may turn to the Journal (in the Long Island Historical Memoirs, vol. 1) of the Labadist Fathers, who during their sojourn in America in 1679 and 1680, saw much of Cortelyou, then "advanced in years." They described his hospitality, sincerity, cordiality and kindness to them when they repeatedly visited him at his stone house in Nayack,* near which the Nayack Indians, whom he permitted to remain, much interested and astonished them. "He came from Utrecht in quality of tutor to the children of Cornelis van Werckhoven of that city, first patentees direct from the West India Company of Nayack or Fort Hamilton." Mr. Bergen states that he married Neeltje van Duyn, and lived first at New Amsterdam, but later owned and occupied the Nayack tract in New Utrecht. He was supposed to have made the first map of the City of New York on New Utrecht patents in 1668. He was an accomplished man, versed in languages and mathematics, in medicine and other sciences, with a philosophical turn of mind and a practical ability equally valuable in pioneer life.

He died about 1693.

The Labadist's mention of Jacques' French blood, and Major Forman's impression of his grandfather Tunis Denise's "French funds," recall an old tale of some ancestress who escaped once upon a time from imprisonment and danger, though when and where no one now can tell. Succeeding in making the sentry dead drunk who guarded their door, she with others of the family stepped over his body as he lay asleep across the threshold and made their way to safety. It would seem that this story, so often told in so many families, if it has any foundation in our own, may also point to Jacques' French descent, his mother or grandmother, the days of St. Bartholomew, and a flight to the Low Countries where later we find him, before the Revocation of the Edict of Nantes.*

[From Vol. I, Memoirs, L. I. Historical Society.]

When the Fathers made their voyage hither, one of their fellow-passengers was Cortelyou's brother-in-law, Gerrit van Duyne. With "the good old people his parents" they later lodged in New Amsterdam, and they describe with sympathy the tears of joy with which his father-in-law, Jacob Swart, greeted him on his return. Gerrit had lived here long, and had married the daughter here, though she and her children were now living in Zwolle. They came back to New Amsterdam before the journal closed.

It being September the profusion of apples and other fruits—more peaches lying on the ground in the road than the pigs would eat—much impressed the travellers. When they first visited Jacques Cortelyou on his Nayack tract, near the "Hoofden" or headlands at the Narrows, they found him "a man advanced in years, born in Utrecht but of French parents, as we could readily discover from all his action, looks and language. He had studied philosophy in his youth and spoke Latin and good French. He was a mathematician and sworn land surveyor. He had also formerly learned several sciences and had some knowledge of medicine. The worst of it was he was a good Cartesian and not a good Christian, regulating himself and all externals by reason and justice only; nevertheless he regulated all things better by these principles than most people in these parts do, who bear the name of Christian or pious persons. His brother-in-law and ourselves were welcomed by him and his wife. He treated us with every civility, although two of his sons being sick and he much confined in attending upon them, he was much interrupted in attending to us.

There were many good stone houses in New Utrecht, of which Jacques' was one, where we returned to spend the night. After supper we went to sleep in the barn upon some straw spread with sheep skins in the midst of the continual grunting of hogs, squealing of pigs, bleating and coughing of sheep, barking of dogs, crowing of cocks, cackling of hens, and a goodly quantity of fleas and vermin and all with an open barn door through which a fresh north west wind was blowing. Though we could not sleep, we could not complain, as we had the same quarters and kind of bed that their own son usually had who had now on our arrival crept in the straw behind us." Again on "Tuesday, Oct. 3, we arrived at Jacques' house, where we were welcome; we slept for the night in our old place. In the morning the horses were harnessed to the wagon for the purpose of carrying us to the city, and bringing back some medicines which had arrived for Jaques from Holland in our ship. We breakfasted to the full, and rode first to the bay, then to Vlacked Bos, then thro Breuklen to the ferry and leaving the wagon there, crossed over the river and arrived home at noon. We sent back to Jaques half of our tincture calimanaris, and half of our balsam sulphureus and some other things. He had been of service to us in several respects as he promised to be, and that with perfect willingness."

On Staten Island they met Pierre le Gardenier, formerly gardener to the Prince of Orange and who knew him well.

Nov. 10. "Jaques had promised to show us the laws of the country," so they went to Breukelen, Vlacked Bos, and Nieu Uytrecht "on a large fine wagon road again to Nayack, where we arrived about three o'clock. It had been very warm and we were tired. Jaques' wife bade us welcome, but he was in the fields. After we had rested ourselves and eaten something we went outside upon the banks of this beautiful bay, to breathe a little air and look at several vessels, going and coming. In the meantime he came with his son to meet us. They had been to the fish fuyck which they had lying there upon the shore, and out of which they had taken at noon some fine fish, but at present the water was too high. Another of his sons had been out shooting but had not shot anything; though the day before he had shot a woodcock and a partridge before the door of his house, which we must taste this evening with some other things. While we were standing there the Fuyck was lifted again, from which they took out two fine bass. We ate of them also in the evening and found them very fine. . . . The game suited us very well. We had much conversation together, and informed ourselves in relation to various matters. He gave us some medicinal roots. He also let us look at the laws, which were written in a folio volume, but in very bad Dutch, for they had been translated from English into Dutch. As it was a large book and we could not copy it there, we requested him to let us take it home with us for that purpose. He consented upon condition that if we left for the South, we would then deliver it to his brother-in-law Gerrit who would hand it to him. We lodged that night somewhat better than we had done before in the barn, for we slept in his dwelling, and could feel where we had slept."

11th Sat. . . . "We left about eight o'clock after taking some breakfast. He conducted us to New Utrecht. We lent him Les Pensées des Pascal, which we judged would be useful to him."

12th. "We copied the laws."

13th. "We took care that Jaques should receive the papers back again."

They again spend a night with Jaques.

3 Jan., 1690. "While we were getting some oysters at Gowanus, Gerrit with Jaques and his son and daughter rode up in a wagon. Jaques had come in the purpose of attending to a sick horse of Simon which had a certain disease they call here the staggers."

15th May, 1680. "Arrived at 11 at Jaques—he had been sick with a large ulcer on his neck but was better. We were welcome. He had suspected Theunis (a neighbor) of stealing a cow of his. Theunis later confessed, asked pardon and paid. Jaques who is one of the justices said, I forgive you from the bottom of my heart but I do this only to cause you to reflect and desist from your wickedness and to show you that you do not know or fear God, and that you may fear him more. Thereupon Theunis went away much affected and entirely subdued and we told Jaques that better things were now to be expected for him, at which Jaques was pleased.

We dined with Jaques, and his grandson came and presented us a humming bird he had shot. Jaques impressed us very much with his sincerity and cordiality in everything we had to do with him or wherein he could be of any service to us. We left with him the little book which we had lent to him, and which he said he had found much pleasure in reading, Les Pensées de M. Pascal. We took our leave of him and went to Gowanus."

Returning to the Denise line we find that Cortelyou's son-in-law Dionys Teunessen, survived him some years, having died, Bergen says, "previous to 1707." His child Teunis of Freehold was then, according to the Dutch Testament, about three years old. The boy was perhaps born in Midwout, or Flatbush, where his father was a master-carpenter, held property, and lived for many years, but his mother "Helena had received as her portion from her father the Nayack tract, now Fort Hamilton," and his later home doubtless was in the "dwelling house" mentioned in the bond of Nov. 3, 1720, as being near the "Ferry between Nassau and Staten Islands,"* concerning which ferry there appear many family agreements and disagreements, both in the Brooklyn Records and the Colonial Records of the State of New York.

Later prints agree with earlier ones in showing the old stone Denyse house near the water's edge by the landing, which may easily have been the one to which Jacques welcomed the weary Labadist travellers.

As we have seen, Helena, in 1720, with her third husband Hendrick Hendrickson, conveyed to her son Jaques Teunessen† her dwelling house and property there under conditions which secured to them its use and occupation for their lives.

Truly their lives had fallen unto them in pleasant places, along the gateway of the great harbor, and it was not only a beautiful possession but a valuable one, controlling as it did the

* Denyse's Ferry is now Bensonhurst.

† One of Jacques' sons was Denyse Denyse as shown by his will in New York probate records, and Miss Flint says in Early Long Island that so late as the Revolution the broad roofed stone house of Denyse Denyse was then standing on the site of Fort Hamilton. From this house "General Howe issued on Aug. 23 the proclamation which was his ultimatum before the battle of Long Island, and here at Denyse's the British disembarked." The place was known down to this time as Hendrickson's, Jacques', and Denyse's, and these names correspond with the successive ownerships of Helena Hendrickson; her son Jacques Denyse, and her grandson Denyse Denyse.

important ferry at the Narrows, and a landing on the Long Island shore for boats from vessels wherever bound.

Whether Tunis in his youth dwelt at Flatbush or Nayack, the old Road Book of New Utrecht will show that every time that he passed over "the road from Gowanus to Yellow Hook, by the Narrows and New Utrecht fishing beach," he went by the house of "Hendrick van Dyck of the Yellow Hook, of the town of Brookland, Kings County, yeoman," along "the used road, till you come back to Hendrick Hendrickson's."

Neighbors, therefore, as well as sweethearts, his marriage to Catherine van Dyck, Hendrick's daughter, must have taken place by 1727. In 1728 their daughter Helena was born.

By this time the tide of Dutch emigration was fast setting from New York to East New Jersey, and Tunis and Jacques Denise were already, as we have seen, holding property in that State. Whether Tunis migrated to Monmouth County directly, or lived for a time on Staten Island, in all probability he soon built for Catherine and himself the house still standing, known today as the "Tunis Denise place."

It is at the head of a little lane planted on both sides with cherry trees, running up from the Colt's Neck Road near Freehold, and is considered, as I was told some years ago by a resident of Freehold, to be about one hundred and seventy-five years old, which tallies well enough with our dates. It is of the Long Island Dutch type of dwelling, tent roof, small stoop, Dutch door, shingled from top to bottom with long narrow shingles, rounded at the lap, and all but worn through with the weather. A small formal flower garden, with box borders, is in front. Passing through this to the stoop, unless you rest on the benches on either side, you enter through the massive Dutch door to an interior, with rooms not large, but arranged for substantial comfort and convenience as to size and number.

We know little of the builder of the house except from the Memoirs already quoted of his grandson Major S. S. Forman, youngest child of Helena, who was born 21 July, 1765, and who died at Syracuse, N. Y., July, 1862.

"My maternal grandfather, Tunis Denise," he says, "was a remarkable still, quiet man, farming was his occupation, active and industrious, never sought for office. He was middle size in person, rather quiet and amiable, pleasant in countenance, astonishing memory, could call all his numerous grandchildren by name and always salute them with a kiss. I am inclined to think that he was of a French and Holland connexion. He was wealthy and it seemed to me that he had some French funds. He was a very affectionate man, loved and esteemed by everybody—he had no enemies. He enjoyed remarkable health and rode horseback when upwards of 80 years old. When he lost his second wife he seemed to spend all his time in riding about to visit his numerous children. He retained his faculties to the last, and must have been nearly a hundred years old when he died. In his family all talked Dutch—white and black. His two wives were buried in the Dutch burial ground at the Dutch lanes in Freehold. I can just remember his second wife's funeral, the procession was immensely long, with carriage and horseback. She was buried in a burying ground in the Dutch lanes. It was customary in those days to send out invitations only to relations to attend the funerals. On the day of burial a man and a woman are appointed to carry spirituous liquors to the people—the man to the males, the woman to the females; the liquor carriers, so called, are furnished with white gloves. The people never leave the grave till the interment is all completed—the minister then returns compliments and thanks."

Though our concern is not with the generation later than Tunis, it may be said here that his first born child Helena, lies in the old cemetery near Middletown Point (Matawan), New Jersey, at the place called Freneau, in honor of her famous son-in-law, the poet, and in fields once given to the church before the Revolution by her husband Samuel Forman, who is there interred by her side.

During the war the church edifice, to the construction of which he had been a liberal contributor, was occupied by the British, burned down and never rebuilt, the enclosure, remaining however, as to this day, sacred as a place of burial.

Besides his daughter Helena, Tunis Denise's children, on Major Forman's authority, were as follows:

Catherine, m. Garret Hendrickson.

Nelly, m. John Forman.

Phoebe, m. Rev. Benjamin Dubois of Dutch Reformed Church.

Jane, m. Cornelius Couwenhoven (now Conover).

Anna, m. Daniel Forman.

Polly, m. John Schenck.

Denise Denise, 1st son, m. Miss Francis.

Daniel Denise, 2nd son, m. Jane, sister to John Schenck.

"All these aunts were fine looking and strong," he writes, "except Aunt Phebe, yet she outlived them all, and died in her ninety-sixth year; all were amiable and affectionate, and blessed with fine children. Their husbands were gentleman farmers, settled in Monmouth County within a short ride of each other, all active friends to their country in the Revolutionary War. I well remember when ladies wore scarlet or blue cloth cloaks. My aunts when they visited put on blue fine cloth cloaks, long and full, with large hoods to cover a close black silk bonnet or cap. They always looked so well and comfortable."

Dr. Welles, in his Brick Church Memorial, states that Domine Benjamin Dubois of the Freehold Church was present in 1777 at the first meeting of the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America. The Elder, Mr. Tunis Denise, signed subsequently with him the articles of agreement which formed the Dutch Churches of America into one ecclesiastical body."

This Elder was probably Tunis Denise of Freehold. In the ancient vellum bound volume of the records of the Freehold Dutch Church, which was shown me in 1895 by the kindness of Mr. van Zee, the pastor at Marlboro, New Jersey, I find his name as Elder of the congregation after 1764, and already in 1740 he and his second wife Francynthe Hendrickson were in the list of communicants. In the same book are written the baptisms of their many children, beginning with "Trintje" in 1732. I have, by the way, failed to find anywhere the baptism of Tunis himself, the wills of his parents, stepfather or grandparents on either side, but the will of his father-in-law Hendrick van Dyke, a well-to-do man, is in the New York Probate Records, and gives "unto my grandchild the child of my daughter Trintje deceased, the wife of Tunis Denise, the sum of one hundred and fifty pounds." His own will is in the Secretary of State's office, at Trenton, New Jersey.

It is an open question as to the history of the other Teunis, born 1692. He may have lived and become the "cordwainer," for it was not unknown for the Dutch to give more than one living child the same name, and dates in this case might seem to imply it. Thus either might have been the executor named by their brother Jacques, who by the way seems never to have left the Nayack home. His will is also in the New York Probate Records, dated and probated 1739.

If one chooses to drive out from old Utrecht, in Holland, to the town of Bunnik, one goes under broad alleys of huge beech trees, and finds a picturesque and tiny hamlet of exquisitely neat little houses, lying on both sides of a small stream. Beyond the bridge stands the church, and all is embowered in the stems and foliage of great trees that sift the sunlight on the greenest of turf. All about are deep-tilled meadows, woods, and peaceful country-seats.

The name De Nyse today is not unknown in the Bishopric—the "Sticht"—of Utrecht, and would we follow "Tonis Nyssen, young man from Bunnick," further back than this, his point of departure from the old world to the new, it might be easier to trace his "line" there, than through the half preserved, though originally well kept, church and state records of New Netherland.

SETTLERS OF THE COLONY OF RENSSELAERSWYCK, 1637.

CONTRIBUTED BY A. J. F. VAN LAER.

Among the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts which were salvaged from the fire in the state capitol of March 29, 1911, is a memorandum in the handwriting of Arent van Curler which adds some interesting details to our knowledge of the final stages of the voyage of the ship Rensselaerswyck. The heading of the memorandum reads as follows: "The following persons are indebted to the owners of the ship Rensselaerswyck for board, beginning on the first of October anno 1636 and ending anno 1637 on the date when each person landed in New Netherland." The memorandum contains the names of 33 men, women and children and gives the exact date when each person left the ship. From the log of the ship, which is printed on pages 355-89 of the Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts, it is known that the ship left Amsterdam Sept. 25, 1636, and the first of October anchored at the island of Texel to await a favorable wind and make final arrangements before proceeding on its voyage to New Netherland. The ship arrived at Manhattan on March 4, 1637. It sailed up the Hudson river on March 26, and on April 3 came to anchor half a mile below Beren Island. It remained there on account of calms and contrary wind until April 6, and then continued its voyage to Fort Orange, where it arrived on April 7, 1637. The log states that on March 24, Pieter Cornelissen went up the river in a yacht. The memorandum shows that he did not sail alone, but took with him seven men, one boy, one woman and two children. Most of these men were carpenters. The natural inference is that as soon as a sloop could be procured they were sent ahead to put up some temporary shelter for the farmers, in accordance with the patroon's instructions, as contained in a letter to Jacob Albertsen Planck, dated Oct. 3, 1636. The next group of men left the ship when it came to anchor below Beren Island. They were farmers who settled on or near Papscaene Island, on the east side of the river, not far from Fort Orange. They may have gone up in the ship's boat or reached their destination over land. Quite likely, they did not start until April 6, and took with them Tys Barentsen, the shoemaker, who left the ship on that date. The two other men who are mentioned under date of April 6, did not reach the colony. Cornelis Thomassen, the smith, was killed by his helper, Hans Sevenhuysen, at Ilfracombe, in England, on Dec. 8, 1636, and Sevenhuysen was arrested. The final group of passengers includes those who left the ship after its arrival at Fort Orange.

The memorandum belongs to a collection of letters and miscellaneous papers which were turned over to the New York State Library in Dec., 1910, more than two years after the publication of the Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts. Its existence was not known when the list of passengers of the ship Rensselaerswyck which is printed on pages 809-16 of that volume was prepared. It affords therefore a means of testing the accuracy of the printed list. It will be found that every name in the memorandum is accounted for in the book, with the exception of that of Thomas Jansz, which occurs at the end but seems to be entered by mistake, being apparently a repetition of the name of Thomas Jansz van Bunnick. It should be noted however that in the printed volume the names of Cornelis Maersen and his wife are entered under the year 1631, when Cornelis Maersen first came to New Netherland, and that the "Cuyper," or cooper, who was with him is not definitely identified and may be any one of a number of persons who are listed in the book but not given in the present document. The fact that the names of these settlers do not appear in the memorandum is no proof that they did not come over in the ship Rensselaerswyck. We know from the patroon's letter to Jacob Planck that he had engaged 38 persons for his colony. The memorandum includes only such persons as were indebted for their board.

The document brings out the fact that Jean Labatie, or "Johan Latyn," as his name is written in the manuscript, came from Verdun, in France. He was a carpenter by trade and in a letter to Planck, of May 10, 1638, is referred to as in the service of Albert Andriessen, who with Pieter Cornelissen and Claes Jansen van Naerden had a special contract with the patroon. The words "In compagnie," after Jean Labatie's name, seem to ndicate that he was associated with the men whose names preceded his, in other words, that Claes Jansen van Nykerck had taken the place of Claes Jansen van Naerden, who sailed a year later, and that Jean Labatie had been admitted to the partnership.

The following is a complete copy of the memorandum, which on the back, in the handwriting of Mr. Berthold Fernow, is marked as number 1002 of the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts.

AN EARLY COLONIAL RECORD.

A LIST OF THOSE PRESENT AT THE FUNERAL OF MRS. GERTRUYD
(SCHUYLER) VAN CORTLANDT IN AUGUST, 1723, IN NEW YORK CITY—WIDOW OF HON. STEPHANUS VAN CORTLANDT, WITH A FEW FAMILY NOTES.

CONTRIBUTED BY CATHARINE T. R. MATHEWS.

Gertruyd Schuyler was the daughter of Captain Philip Pieterse Schuyler—and of his wife Margaretta Van Slechtenhorst of Albany. She was born 4 Feb., 1654, at Albany; married at Albany, 3 Oct., 1671, Hon. Stephanus Van Cortlandt, son of Olaf Stevense Van Cortlandt and Annetje Lockeman, his wife.

Stephanus Van Cortlandt was the first native-born Mayor of New York City—he was born 7 May, 1643. He held many important Colonial positions; he died in New York, 25 Nov., 1700.

Mrs. Van Cortlandt survived him 23 years. She was a very decided character and prominent in the history of the city during the Leislerian troubles.

Hon. Stephanus Van Cortlandt was the first and only Lord of the Manor of Cortlandt. At his death there was a partition of the Manor between the surviving children who had all married in prominent Colonial families. Of their fourteen children, four died in early childhood, and their eldest son, Johannes, died during his father's lifetime. The Manor was divided in 10 portions.

1. Johannes, b. Oct., 1672; m. Anna Maria Van Schaik of Albany, left one child Gertruyd, who m. Philip Verplank—and inherited her father's portion, which included what is now Verplank's Point.
2. Margaret, b. Aug., 1674; m. Col. Samuel Bayard.
3. Anne, b. 12 Feb., 1676; m. Col. Stephen de Lancey.
4. Maria, b. 4 April, 1678; m. (1) Kilian Van Rensselaer; m. (2) Rev. John Miln.
5. Col. Philip Van Cortlandt, b. 9 Aug., 1680; m. Catharine, dau. of Hon. Abraham De Peyster—he received the Manor House and Lot 1, including the Croton River as his share; he was called Lord of the Manor by courtesy only, as also were his descendants who lived at the Manor House.
6. Gertruyd, b. 12 Oct., 1688; m. Col. Henry Beekman.
7. Elizabeth, b. 29 May, 1694; m. the Rev. William Skinner, the first Rector of St. Peter's Church, Perth Amboy, New Jersey.
8. Stephen, b. 11 Aug., 1695; m. Catalina Staats of Albany.
9. Catharine, b. 30 July, 1696; m. Hon. Andrew Johnson of Perth Amboy, New Jersey.
10. Cornelia, b. 3 July, 1698, m. Col. Johannes Schuyler.

These seven daughters were known before they married as "the seven beautiful Miss Van Cortlandts."

The following is the list, carefully preserved by her children, of those present at their mother's funeral:

ENGLISH PARISH REGISTERS AND GENEALOGICAL LIMITATIONS.

BY JOEL N. ENO, A. M.,
815 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Before 1538, except a few fitful and informal parish entries, particularly of deaths, parish registers were almost unknown in England. Of 40 alleged, close scrutiny reduces them to 18,—several of the alleged being due to mistakes in reading dates, as 1516 for 1576, 1530 for 1570, etc. Of the 18, Tipton, 1513, and Altham, 1518, are the oldest. The plan of a parish register for each English parish we owe to Thomas Cromwell, lord privy-seal to Henry VIII, whom he in 1535 appointed his Vicar-General after Henry had assumed the headship of the Church of England. Cromwell's registration order is dated 5 Sept., 1538, and verbatim is as follows:

"In the name of God Amen. By authorite and comission of the most excellent Prince Henry, by the Grace of God Kynge of Englande and of France, defendor of the faithe Lorde of Irelande and in erthe supreme hedd under Christ of the Church of Englande, I Thomas lorde Cromwell, lord privie seall, Vicegerent within this realme, do for the avancement of the trewe honor of almighty God, encrease of vertu and discharge of the kynges majestie, give and exhibite unto you theis injunctions folowing, to be kept observd and fulfilled upon the paynes hereafter declared. That you and every parson vicare or curate within this diocese shall for every churche kepe one boke or registre wherein ye shall write the day and yere of every weddyng christenyng and buryeng made within yor parishe for your tyme, and so every man succedyng you lykwise. And there shall these insert every persons name that shalbe so weddid christened or buried. And for the sauff kepinge of the same boke the parishe shalbe bonde to provide of their comen charges one sure coffer with twoo lockes and keyes whereof the one to remayne with you, and the other with the said wardens wherein the saide boke shalbe laide upp. Whiche boke ye shall every Sunday take furthe and in the presence of the said wardens or one of them write and recorde in the same all the weddinges christenynges and buryenges made the hole weke before. And that done to lay upp the boke in the said coffer as afore. And for every tyme that the same shalbe omytted the partie that shalbe in the faulte thereof shall forfeit to the said church IIIsIIII. to be employed on the reparation of the same church.

THOMAS CRUMWELL.

It has been remarked that though cartularies and records of ecclesiastical possessions were numerous in western Europe, the records of persons seem to have been considered of little account, in most of the countries; but that Cromwell had probably observed something of the kind which Cardinal Ximenes had introduced into Spain, 1497. Cromwell's order was received with much distrust, partly due to fear of some taxation of the registered, and partly to its accompanying a change in religion, as expressed in a letter from Sir Piers Edgecumbe April 20, 1539, as to parts of Devonshire and Cornwall: "The mystrust is that somme charges more than hath byn in tymes past shall growe to theym by this occacyon off regesstrynge of thes thynges." The first registers appear to have been written on paper, for cheapness; it is very rare to find an undoubted original register beginning in 1538. Ninety-five per cent are transcripts made toward the end of Elizabeth's reign or under James I, and the majority of the early registers are in Latin, which was abandoned under the Commonwealth, for registers. The use of parchment or vellum was enjoined by Elizabeth and James I.

The foregoing shows a pretty general time-limitation as to tracing the genealogy of untitled families in public records, and we must not forget that parish registers contributed greatly to the retention and permanence of surnames; for surnames in England could be changed at will till the time of the Commonwealth. Under the Plantagenets and the Tudors it was common to identify artisans by naming the trade after the individual or personal name, so that these identifiers became at length fixed surnames, Norman and English words being used impartially; for example, Smiths and Carpenters, Wrights and Masons.

In England surnames were not used until after the Norman conquest, 1066 A. D., and even in the twelfth century hereditary names were uncommon, in one of its documents a father and his three sons are enrolled, no two names alike. It was not till the fourteenth century that the non-landholding classes took fixed surnames. The "Statute of 5 Edward IV, Chapter 3 (1465)," has been grossly misunderstood and misconstrued by some Irish writers to mean general compulsion of all the Irish to adopt English surnames; but its main use is to throw light on the status of fixed surnames among the English of that date. As to effect on Ireland, the statutes for Ireland for about two centuries before the Tudor kings, are aptly called by Emily Lawless, Irish historian, "Statutes of despair" on the part of the English government, for the English power in Ireland was then almost impotent; about half of the English there returned to England, and so far was it from jurisdiction over all Ireland,—all Ireland except the English Pale, or four counties, had its own Brehon laws at this time, and English laws "passed by them as the idle wind, which they regarded not;"—that even in a large part of the Pale itself, into which they had crowded a few years later, the English held only a strip 50 by 20 miles near the east coast. But the jurisdiction of the statute was far narrower than the Pale, for it included only "Every Irishman living amongst English in the counties of Dublin, Meath, Vriel (i. e. Uriel, now Louth), and Kildare, shall take a surname of some town, as Sutton, Chester, Tryme (now Trim), Skryne (now Skreene, in Meath), Cork, Kinsale; or colour, as white, black, brown; or art or science, as smith or carpenter; or office, as cook, butler; and he and his issue shall use this name." The object of this law was not at all to force English names upon anybody; four of the six town-names are Irish; but merely to provide that each family in the English communities should have its own family surname, which the native Irish did not have; but as Richey, Short History of Ireland, justly observes "such futile attempts merely prove that the intruding Celts had already invaded the very heart of the English colony," page 230. That this law was a dead letter we see in Calendar of State Papers of Great Britain for Ireland, 1509-1573, in the introduction of which we find a complaint of the difficulty of identification of persons, since they were of "nations, septs and clans, all bearing the same surname;" that is, the clan or sub-clan (sept) name. A surviving evidence of this is seen in the estimate of the registrar-general of Ireland for 1891, that there were then 62,500 Murphys and 55,900 Kellys in Ireland; though no Cork or Kinsale as surname; and we safely challenge any Hibernian person to trace his family name to the direct effect of this statute; for the Irish common people did not adopt permanent family names, as distinguished from clan-names, till considerably later than 1465; in fact, the usual thing in the Annals of the Four Masters, last entry 1616, compilation 1632-1636, is still the clan-name, and the personal name, the latter being identified by patronymic devices or other temporary ones; thus, Cathbarr occ mac Cathbhairr mic Magnusa, Englished, Caffar junior, son of Caffar, son of Manus, A. D. 1616. The genuine Hibernian name is always personal or founded on personal name; and to adopt a place-name is entirely alien to Hibernian thought and custom; in this matter they compare with the Welsh. Such names are the despair of the genealogist. Richey pronounces the professed genealogy of the Irish pagan kings "undeniably false." O'Donovan says it is rare that a man can trace back more than six generations by tradition.

TOMBSTONE INSCRIPTIONS.

LANE BURYING GROUND, WESTCHESTER CO., NEW YORK.

CONTRIBUTED BY SAMUEL E. STOKES,
5419 Wayne Ave., Germantown, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Lane graves lie just above the road which runs over the top of "Indian Hill," and are almost at the highest point on the road. Indian Hill lies just back of Lake Osciola in Westchester County. The best way to reach the place, would be to take the train to Mahopac Lake and drive over to Mahopac Falls. Then drive about four miles along a road called Wood Street, and turn up the road to the right, just beyond a farm belonging to a man named Joel Conklin. This road runs over the top of Indian Hill.

The graves of Zebidee Kirkum, etc., lie on the right as you go along Wood Street, and are on the way from Mahopac Falls to the Lane plot. They lie in the midst of a thicket in what is known as the "old Horton place." The tops of them can be seen as one drives along the road.

In Memory of George Lane, Esqr., who departed this Life Feb. 26, 1806, Aged 63 Years, 8 Months & 20 Days.

In memory of Abigail, wife of George Lane, Esqr., d. Jan. 6, 1839, aged 91 years, 1 mo. & 26 d's.

Nathan Lane, d. Dec. 16, 1830, aged 81 years, 2 mo. & 14 d's.

Martha, wife of Nathan Lane, d. June 29, 1849, aged 78 years.

John Ashley of the City of New York, d. on the 21st of Sept., 1819, Aged 22 Years & 14 Days.

Just outside of the Lane plot, and between that and the Lang plot, described below, are six or eight old graves with rough stones at the heads, and one modern one with a stone bearing the following inscription:

James Queen, Col. N. Y. H. A., b. Sept. 9, 1843; d. Oct. 20, 1862.

About thirty feet beyond the above lies another plot, about 30 x 60 feet, surrounded by a strong stone wall. In it are growing four cypress trees and a cherry. At the far end, are a number of old graves with rough stones, and one large grave, with a white marble stone about 4½ feet high with the following inscription:

Here lie the Remains of Robert Lang and Letitia his wife, the former died in 1813 and the latter in 1807.

In this retired spot were also interred their children James, Jacob, Catherine, Letitia, and Hannah. Their son Charles died in the Straits of Sunda. Lydia and Mary in New York.

This tribute of respect is paid by the Eldest Son, who with two Sisters and a Brother are still alive. A. D. 1829.

Just behind the above lies a stone with the following inscription:

Sacred to the memory of John Lang, for forty years Senior Editor and Proprietor of the New York Gazette. Died in the City of New York on the 17th of March, 1836. In the 67th year of his age.

There are also stones to:—

Sarah, his wife, d. in Phila., March 14, 1850, in her 76th year. Under the inscription on this stone is the following: "This tablet, with those for her Sons, Charles, William and Edmund, are erected as a tribute of affection by Mrs. H. L. Gamble and Mrs. S. L. Spencer the only surviving children."

John Lang, Jr., d. in New York, Aug. 7, 1836, aged 30 years. (Stone fallen and broken in two.)

Charles Lang, D. in Phila., July 9, 1848, 38 years.

Capt. William Lang, of the U. S. Marine Corps, d. in Phila., May —, 1850, aged 37.

Edmund Lang, M. D., d. in Phila., Nov. 17, 1856, in 40th year.

The following stones will soon be gone, I think. One is down and others are nearly so, and the plough has begun to encroach on the thicket in the midst of which they stand:

In memory of Zebidee Kirkum, who d. Oct., 1788, aged 50 years.

In memory of Lydia, wife of Zebidee Kirkum, who d. Sept., 1793, aged 53 years.

In memory of William Roe who departed this life Oct. 16, 1795, aged 34 years, 10 months and 11 days. (Stone on the ground and partly covered with earth. Had to dig for inscription.)

In memory of Caleb L. Roe, son of William and Mary Roe, who departed this life March 4, 1809, aged 24 years, 11 months and 12 days.

Peter Anderson, d. Dec. 8, 1797, aged 80 years.

Mary, his wife, d. March 1, 1812, aged 73 years.

Phebe, wife of Thomas Carpenter, d. Aug. 24, 1815, aged 40 years.

Sarah, wife of Peter Angevinn, d. July 30, 1822, aged 42 years.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—This article is published solely to locate somewhat more specifically some of the small graveyards, the inscriptions in which have been more fully published in the Horton record, to be seen in this and previous issues.

The Zebulon Utter referred to was prominent as an early Rhode Island manufacturer and the name was perpetuated in the Utter Mfg. Co.,* which owned and operated a mill at Factory Pond in Warwick for many years.

Deeds are now in possession of the family, from Thomas L. Greene of Warwick to James Utter Arnold of Providence granting dam privileges, etc., dated Feb. 20, 1813, and another from Thomas Stafford of Warwick granting water privilege, dated Aug. 26, 1815.

In list of mills in Warwick, R. I., by Samuel Green, 1815, the Utter Mfg. Co. are listed as having 350 spindles. The old factory bell has also been handed down, bearing the makers' name, "S. & J. T. Jackson, Providence, 1818," and is now in the possession of George C. Arnold of Providence, R. I.

The mill continued to manufacture cotton goods† until about 1838, when it presumably burned down. The writer recollects being shown the ruins by his grandfather about 1868. Part of the walls were then standing on the south side of the pond near the Warwick road—all has since been obliterated.

The following extract is also copied from the old account book referred to:

GENEALOGICAL GLEANINGS FROM LAND AND
PROBATE RECORDS AT WHITE PLAINS AND
RYE, NEW YORK.

(See Descriptive Map, April, 1918, issue.)

COLLECTED AND CONTRIBUTED BY THERESA HALL BRISTOL.

A number of those who received land in Rye through the Hartford grant in 1683, bought land in White Plains, and were represented by their descendants when the patent was granted in 1722. Among these were Abraham Smith and Humphrey Underhill from Jamaica, L. I. (See preceding notes on these families.)

OGDEN

John Ogden, who received land in Rye under the Hartford grant of 1683, bought a house and lot in Rye before 1680, and was deceased in 1682, when George and Mary Kniffen testified that they knew that John Ogden had purchased a house and lot and undivided lands, in Rye, from Simon Roberts, Sr., and had paid for them. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber C, p. 228.) Judette (Budd), the widow of John Ogden, married (2) Francis Browne of Rye, and Francis Browne gave his wife's son, Richard Ogden, whom he called his "son-in-law," his, Francis Browne's, share in the White Plains land, in 1700. (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 129.) Richard Ogden sold to John Veale, of Rye, his house and lot of 9 $\frac{3}{4}$ a., in 1703; and 40 acres in the second division, to Caleb Hiatt of White Plains, in 1717. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber B, p. 174; & Rye Land, Liber B, p. 174.) Joseph Ogden seems to have been the oldest son of John Ogden, for John Budd, brother to Joseph Ogden's mother, deeded land to Joseph Ogden's mother, "daughter of my honoured father, to said Judette and the heirs of her Joseph Ogden," according to the gift of father, John Budd. (Westchester Co. Land, Liber A, p. 16.)

David Ogden, son of John, purchased a large tract of land in White Plains, and in 1740 he had 198 acres, which he deeded to his son David Ogden the younger. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber K, p. 359.) He and his son, in 1745, sold 138 a. of this to Henry Scott of Mamaroneck; and Henry Scott and Exansia his wife, sold to Joshua Hatfield, in 1751, and went to Cortlandt Manor; where Henry Scott died in 1761. Isaac Hatfield, brother to Joshua, then living in Cortlandt, was one of the executors of Henry Scott's will. (Rye Land, Liber D, p. 53; West. Co. Land, Liber K, p. 369; Westchester County Wills.) David Ogden, Jr., without his father this time, sold 45 a. to Thomas Wildey (son-in-law to Jacob Griffin), and Thomas Wildey sold the same to Jacob Coon, in 1748. (See map.) The deed of transfer from Jonathan

Purdy to his son Joseph, in 1749, for land bordering on the West Branch of the Mamaroneck river, and at the same time on land of Joshua Hatfield's, once David Ogden's, mentions a bound "where the sawmill formerly stood." David Ogden of Fairfield, Conn., who had a son David baptized there, married into a mill owning family, and the other Ogdens of Fairfield owned the Fairfield mill. David Ogden undoubtedly had a saw mill in White Plains at the time he bought his land there. There was a road "leading up to Capt. Ogdrn's" and "a road to David Ogden's" also mentioned. This road has been placed on the lower end of the map as a continuation of an old road running into Scarsdale. David Ogden's name is on the 1721 list.

TURNER

John Turner received land in Rye through the Hartford grant of 1683, and was not an original patentee of White Plains. He bought the homelot of Jonathan Vowles and his wife Deborah, and all right to undivided lands, in 1702, and the homelot of Deliverance Brown, Sr., in 1703, which was laid out for John Turner. This land was on both sides of the highway which ran through his land, his house being on one side of the street and his barn and lands on the other. John Turner also had a tract of land on the road to Eastchester. Probably this was the land laid out to Jonathan Vowles in the second division, and in the third and fourth divisions, south of it. There were 50 acres in this piece; and in his will, dated 1761, he ordered all his lands sold, with the exception of a part of this piece "north of Peter Hatfield's," which was to be set off for his son John Turner, and was to run 40 rods into his land, and the same breadth front and rear. This is the 10-acre piece later belonging to John Horton and is another illustration of the direction in which the road to Eastchester was supposed to run, in those days, as it approached the Scarsdale line. (Westchester County Wills.) (New York Wills, Hist. Soc. Coll., gives a better abstract.) The John Turner who received this land from his father, sold out and went to Cortlandt Manor.

Jonathan Hart, who received land in Rye through the Hartford patent, had a son Monmouth, who owned land in White Plains, and his grandson (said to be), Monmouth Hart, bought out Thomas Merritt in 1740.

Roger Park, who received land in Rye through the Hartford patent, died in New York. His widow married Joseph Horton of New York and Rye, and Joseph Horton gave his step-son (not his son-in-law, but the same term was used in those days) one-half of his, Joseph Horton's, homelot and lands in White Plains. (See preceding Horton notes.)

Ruhamah Bishop's name is on the Hartford-Rye list. (See Lane-Smith notes.)

John Vail, whose name is on the Hartford list, was later of Eastchester. He bought land of Richard Ogden, in White Plains, in 1703. This same land, which seems to have been later in the Hunt patent, was sold by Ruth Veale of the Town of New Piscataway, County of Amboy, East Jersey, in 1710, to John Hiatt of Eastchester. (Rye Land Records, Liber B, p. 174.) On the map of 1722, published in the county histories, John Hiatt, is represented as living just west, and across the road, from land which answers to this description.

The name of Joost Paldin, is on this Hartford-Rye list. (See Horton notes.)

Simon Robard, on this list, and said to be of Boston, was dec'd in 1680, as his son, John Roberts, gave a receipt, "in full satisfaction" for money "due from sd. John Ogden unto my father, Simon Roberts, being late dec'd." (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber C, p. 228.) Simon Roberts owned a ship sailing between New York and Boston. Alice (Ebel), then the widow of William Trotter, one of the first Elizabethtown, N. J., Associates, brought suit against Simon Robards for bedding which she had used and taken with her when she went to Boston with her husband in 1669, the year before she brought suit. Simon Roberts had failed to return her bedding. Alice (Ebel), the widow of William Trotter, married (2) Thomas Hatfield who settled in Mamaroneck. Simon Roberts also loaned money on a mortgage, to Clara (Hendricks) then widow of Sargt. Peter Ebel of New Amsterdam, on her home in New York, in 1671. (Records of New Amsterdam, Vol. 6, p. 243.) Clara Ebel was Alice Hatfield's mother. George Kniffen and his wife Mary, testified in 1682, that John Ogden had bought a house and lands from Simon Roberts, Sr., which would indicate a son Simon. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber C, p. 228.)

Arnold Bassett, on the Hartford list, as before stated, married the widow of Abraham Smith of White Plains. He bought land from Peter Hatfield, in Mamaroneck, before 1708. Peter Hatfield called him "Bassetta."

COVERT

Early land deeds clearly show that the author of the Covert genealogy, which appeared in vol. 37, p. 200, of this publication, was right in assuming that perhaps Isaac Covert left White Plains and settled in Cortlandt. A study of the accompanying map will show that his stay in White Plains was short. The position of his land is shown by the old County Road Book, and establishes the fact that he lived on the old road to Rye Neck, near his brothers-in-law, the Horton's, in 1725. Deeds from 1727 to 1735, show him to be still in possession of land south of the Joseph Fowler piece; but in 1736 his land was sold by Jonathan Purdy to William Marsh, and was described by him as "land I bought from James Moore of Rye." Which proves that Isaac Covert was no longer in possession.

SAXTON

George Saxton, cordwainer, of Westchester, bought land in the fourth division, from his father-in-law, David Ogden of Rye, in 1732; land bounded on the north by Isaac Covert's land. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 67.) George Saxton of Rye, conveyed the same to Jeremiah Fowler of Harrison Purchase, in 1735. (Rye Land Records, Liber C, p. 155.) George Saxton (or Sexton), of Trenton, N. J., appointed his trusted friends, Joseph Ogden and Jeremiah Fowler, both of Rye (Harrison being in Rye Parish), Attorneys, to get back papers, and to sell his land, in 1737, (p. 156). Jeremiah Fowler and Joseph Ogden, Sureties for George Sexton, sold this piece of land, 35½ acres, "not counting the highway which goes through same," to Jonathan Purdy, in 1741. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber —, p. 157).

FOWLER

The Jeremiah³ Fowler mentioned above, was the son of William² Fowler of Flushing, who owned large tracts of land in Harrison and other parts of Rye. Jeremiah³ Fowler inherited, with several of his brothers, land in Harrison, just over the Mamaroneck river from White Plains. (See New York Wills.) He died at Hempstead Harbor, in 1762, probably at the home of his son William. (See New York Wills.) His daughter Lavinia⁴ was the first wife of Capt. Abraham Hatfield. Jeremiah³ Fowler's son Jeremiah,⁴ lived and died in Harrison. His daughter Abigail⁵ married Joseph,⁵ son of Capt. Abraham⁴ Hatfield and his second wife Ann (Fowler) Griffin. Jeremiah² Fowler (Henry¹) of Eastchester, uncle to the Jeremiah³ Fowler, Sr., mentioned above, owned land in Fox Meadow, a part of Scarsdale, and just over the Indian line of marked trees on the southwestern boundary of White Plains. He sold 124 acres of this land to his son Jeremiah⁴ Fowler, Jr., of Eastchester, in 1722, and this Jeremiah⁴ Fowler, Jr., from Eastchester, lived for several years in Fox Meadow in Scarsdale. (Westchester County Land Records, Liber E, p. 369.) In 1728, Jeremiah⁴ Fowler, Yeoman, and Joseph⁴ Fowler, Gentleman, of Eastchester (brothers), sons of Jeremiah³ Fowler, of Eastchester, then dec'd., sold all the Fox Meadow land to William³ Fowler of Rye, a cousin, and son of Henry² Fowler, Sr., of Eastchester. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 241.) That this William³ Fowler lived at Rye, is proved by the following entry on the Court Records: "Court held at Westchester, June 7, 1720," under list of Assessors appointed for Rye, "William Fowler, son of Henry, Sr." (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber D, p. 99.) William³ Fowler of Fox Meadow, was deceased in 1731. In 1733, John Fowler, surviving Executor of William Fowler's estate (Mary, widow of William³ Fowler, being then dec'd. also), sold 40 acres of the Fox Meadow land to John Gedney; and John Gedney sold 18 acres to Jonathan Griffin, that same year. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 105.) See map of 1773 survey of undivided Scarsdale lands, given in Scharf's History of Westchester County, Vol. I, p. 141. The original of this map, together with the field books of the survey, are on file in the Register's office at White Plains.

Joseph⁴ and Henry⁴ Fowler and Sarah⁴ (Fowler), wife of Underhill Budd, children of Capt. Henry³ Fowler of Mamaroneck and Eastchester (Henry, Sr.,² Henry¹), all lived, for a time at least, in White Plains; as did their sister Ann,⁴ widow of Henry Griffin of Mamaroneck, and the second wife of Capt. Abraham⁴ Hatfield of White Plains. (As every publication has been in error regarding this Fowler line, attention is called to the Fowler-Hatfield pedigree in the RECORD for April, 1918, where the correct lineage is given, with references.) Joseph⁴ Fowler sold the tract of land which he had purchased, from Jonathan Lynch and Caleb Horton, in the third division, part of John Galpin's divided right, and all of John Galpin's right in undivided lands, and one half of Philip Galpin's right; also 4 a. to be taken out of Philip Galpin's right in the second division "to be adjoining to Capt. Ogden's land, land now in possession of George Lane." This was in 1726, and Joseph⁴ Fowler then called himself "of Mamaroneck." When Joseph⁴ Fowler sold this tract of land, in 1729, he styled himself "of Rye, Yeoman." Henry⁴ Fowler, as before stated (see Budd notes), sold his land in Mamaroneck, which had come to him by will of his father, Capt. Henry³ Fowler, to his brother-in-law Underhill Budd, and purchased Underhill Budd's lands and house, etc., "where I now dwell," in White Plains. From various mortgages, etc., it appears that he lived in White Plains, and died there, intestate, about 1762 leaving a wife Tamar, who administered his estate. There is no record of any children. His land again passed into possession of the Budd family. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber F, p. 81; Rye Land, Liber D, p. 298; Westchester Co. Mortgages, Liber C, p. 5.)

YEOMANS

William Yeomans and his son Robert, purchased a large tract of land in White Plains, in the second and third divisions, directly south of the land Peter Hatfield had purchased. In 1723, they (with William's wife Elizabeth) sold to Jacob Griffin, of Harrison Purchase, 80 acres, extending from the Scarsdale or Indian Line on the west, almost to the Mamaroneck road on the east; bounded on the north by Peter Hatfield's land and on the south by other lands of William and Robert Yeomans, and by land of David Ogden. 3 acres of this were to be added and laid out from other lands of the Yeomans, adjoining. The land called "other land of sd. William Yeomans lying south of this piece," was in the possession of George Lane, and sold by him to Joshua Hatfield, in 1743. (See Lane notes.) Eleazer Yeomans bought the saw mill from Daniel Brondage, in 1730, and sold it with the consent of his wife Mary, in 1744, then calling himself "of Rye," to John Horton; the land around the saw mill and pond lying in White Plains and Harrison. "Eliesar Jeumens, j. m.," born at "Hemstee, Laugh Eylandt," living at White Plains, married Nov. 30, 1728, "Marietie Aarse, j. d.," born at Mamaroneck, living in Philipsburgh. (Tarrytown Church Records, p. 159.) Christopher Yeomans was living just above the road leading over the Bronx into Philipsburgh, in 1722. (See map.) Christopher Yeoman's name appears many times on the Hempstead, L. I., records. (There is a Yeomans manuscript in the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's library.)

GRIFFIN

Jacob Griffin, of Harrison Purchase, bought a tract of land, south of Peter Hatfield's, in 1723, extending from the Scarsdale or Indian line, almost to the road to Mamaroneck, from the Yeomans, as before stated. He purchased another piece of 15 acres, in 1741, from David Ogden, Jr., of Rye, Yeoman. This piece extended "south, along the Indian Line, so called, about 74 rods." The deed was witnessed by Alice and James Armstrong. (Rye Land Records, Liber C, p. 153.) Jacob Griffin had purchased another piece of land, 10 acres, across the road to Mamaroneck before 1737, as proved by deeds of land bounding it. In his will, dated 1777, Jacob Griffin ordered his lands to be sold upon the death of his wife, Sarah. His estate was administered in 1783, but his land was not sold until 1797, when it was purchased by Azariah Horton, his neighbor, son of Joseph Horton. During the time between the death of Jacob Griffin and that of his wife, his land was "in possession of Peter Hatfield," son of Joshua. (Several mortgages of Joshua Hatfield's.) There are some errors in the copy of Jacob Griffin's will in Westchester County Wills. Sarah, wife of Owen Stringham, is given as his daughter. From the reading of the original copy in the Probate Records, it seems probable that this Sarah was Jacob Griffin's sister, as he mentions her just after his two brothers. Sarah, daughter to Jacob Griffin, was called "deceased" by him, and the wife of Thomas "Willey." Thomas, the husband of this Sarah (Griffin), spelled his name "Wilde," in his own will. He had a second wife Judith. Jacob Griffin's daughter Catherine, married John Bates, not "Barton," as given in the publication before mentioned.

John Griffin of Flushing and wife Elizabeth, deeded land in Mamaroneck, to Benjamin Griffin "younger son," of Mamaroneck, in 1721. John Griffin of Mamaroneck, and wife Elizabeth, sold land in Westchester in 1736, which Elizabeth the wife, while sole, had purchased from the Executors of the estate of her late husband, John Ferris, dec'd. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber F, p. 142 and Liber G, p. 270.)

Mary, wife of Elisha Barton, was grand-daughter to Edward Griffin (see Disbrow notes, regarding settlement of the estate of Henry Griffin the younger, of Westchester).

BATES

Jacob Griffin's daughter Catherine, married John Bates, not Bartow, as given in Westchester County Wills. In his will, dated 1807, probated 1809, John Bates of Eastchester, mentions wife Catherine; son Gilbert and his two children Phebe Oppie and John Bates; son Stephen; daughters, Elizabeth Gedney, Phebe Gedney, Lavinia Mott and Martha Lawrence; Martha Lawrence's three grandchildren, Joshua Hunt, Esther Hunt and Martha Hunt. Executors, John Griffin of North Castle and Benjamin Cornell of Scarsdale. (Westchester County Probate, Liber G, p. 122.) John Bates owned for a time, the land once possessed by Peter Hatfield, the patentee. He was "of Phillipsburgh" in 1770, and "of White Plains" in 1772. John Bates forfeited his lands during the Revolution, and this land, once owned by Peter Hatfield, the 1721 patentee, was purchased by Peter Hatfield's grandson, Richard Hatfield, Esq., from the Commissioners of Forfeitures, in 1784.

DAVIDS

William and Penelope (Storm) Davids of Phillipsburgh, sold the tract of land owned successively by David Horton in 1726, and David Horton and his wife Bellica in 1752, to Daniel Horton of Harrison, in 1784. (Westchester Co. Lands Records, Liber K, p. 450.) Their son, David Davis, married Jane, oldest daughter of Capt. Abraham and Lavinia (Fowler) Hatfield of White Plains. (Tarrytown Church Records.) In his will, dated August, 28, 1787, probated Oct. 19, 1789, William Davids of Phillipsburgh, mentions loving wife, granddaughter Sarah Davids; grandson John Davids; granddaughter Mary Davids; grandson William Davids; daughter Hester Miller; son Charles Davids; grandsons Abraham Davids and David Davids. His land in White Plains was to be sold, "or so much of it as shall discharge and pay my debts due on sd. land, containing 80 acres more or less," and the remainder "to go to daughter Hester Miller." Executors, James Hammond and George Comb. (Westchester County Probate, Liber A, p. 7.)

David Davids of Westchester (son of above) "Refugee," in his will dated 1781, probated June 7, 1797, mentions wife Jane and sons Abraham and David, to whom he gave his estate in North Castle, and tenant farm in Phillips Manor; sister's sons Anthony and David Miller; his brother's two sons William and John Davids. His executors were, his wife Jane, Gilbert Hatfield of White Plains (her brother), and William Field of Phillipsburgh; witnesses Isaac Hatfield, Jane Hatfield and Christian Hunt. (Westchester County Probate, Liber B, p. 72.)

OAKLEY

Isaac Oakley of Westchester bought land in White Plains in 1745, from David Merritt and wife Jane. (Westchester Land Records, Liber H, p. 18.) Isaac Oakley and wife Elizabeth, mortgaged same to Jacob Fry, Sr., their neighbor, in 1755. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 447.)

Miles Oakley, Jr., of Westchester, weaver, had a son Isaac to whom Samuel Kirk-Patrick and wife Judith deeded land in 1739. (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 276.)

Miles Oakley's mother Mary, widow of Miles Oakley, dec'd., was the wife of Abraham Brown, in 1693. (Westchester Town Records, p. 212.)

Joseph Robinson of Rye, son of Thomas, dec'd., testified in 1730 as follows:—"Whereas my honoured uncle Benjamin Horton, late dec'd., gave and granted a certain deed poll, dated Jan. 27, 1699, to my honoured mother, Hannah Oakley [then Hannah Robinson] and her heirs forever, a certain parcel of land lying to ye northwest of Stony Brook, bounded northly by land then of Joseph Budd (dec'd., since that time), eastly by Stony Brook, southly by land of Jonathan Hart, since dec'd., west by Old Westchester Path, 5 acres more or less"—"I, Joseph Robinson, as oldest son and heir of my mother Hannah Oakley," (etc.), "which lahd will descend unto me," (etc.). Land sold to "honoured father-in-law, Miles Oakley of Westchester." (Westchester Co. Land Records, Liber G, p. 81.) This was Rye land.

There were two Isaac Oakleys at White Plains during the Revolution, and both had sons Isaac, as proved by their wills:—

Isaac Oakley, farmer, of White Plains, in his will, dated Mch. 19, 1775, and proved May 17, 1789, gave to wife Sarah, "the use of half part of house and lands until sons William and Benjamin are of the age of 21;" "to sons Isaac and Cornelius, the use of the other half of house and lands until the other two sons are of age;" then "all lands to be sold" and divided between sons before mentioned and son John and daughters Rachel, Mary (under 18), and Sarah (under 18), grandchild Elizabeth Innes, grandson Alexander Innes, and daughter Elizabeth (Innes). (Westchester Co. Probate Liber A, p. 135.)

Isaac Oakley of White Plains (not "James" Oakley, as given in Westchester County Wills), in his will dated Sept. 13, 1776; probated Jan. 7, 1784; mentions sons Isaac and Miles. The will was witnessed by Ann Hatfield, widow (of Capt. Abraham of White Plains). (New York Probate, Liber 36, p. 247.) This Isaac Oakley was Under Sheriff, and he mortgaged his land and dwelling house in White Plains to Samuel Crawford of Scarsdale, in 1776—22 acres of what was once Moses Knapp's land (see map). His land adjoined that of "Isaac Oakley, farmer." After the death of this Isaac Oakley, (and also that of Samuel Crawford), Samuel Crawford's Executor, Jonathan Griffin Tompkins, bought up the mortgage from the son, Isaac Oakley. (Westchester Co. Mortgages, Liber C, p. 15.) This Isaac Oakley and his son Isaac were both innkeepers.

Miles Oakley, son of Isaac Oakley, Under Sheriff and Innkeeper, was a Loyalist, and forfeited three pieces of land in White Plains, which were sold, in 1784, by the Commissioners of Forfeitures, to Cornelius and Isaac Oakley, "sons of Isaac Oakley, farmer." One of these pieces of land was on the corner of the Road to Eastchester, or the Old Post Road, and the Road to Mamaroneck, sometimes called "the Road to Gabriel Lynch's." This piece contained 25 acres, and was described by Gabriel Lynch, Sr., in his mortgage of 1784, as his northern boundry and "land late Miles Oakley's."

The names of the following Oakleys appear on the old Town Book of White Plains:—Isaac Oakley, Under Sheriff, 1762; Isaac Oakley, Sr., Damage Viewer; Isaac Oakley, Jr., Highway Master; Isaac Oakley, minor, Poundkeeper in 1783; Isaac Oakley, Innkeeper and Poundmaster, 1784, 1785 and 1786. Isaac Oakley, Jr., is mentioned in 1787, after which the name does not appear until 1790 and then Cornelius Oakley became prominent in town affairs.

Isaac Oakley, son of the Under Sheriff, sold the land he had inherited from his father to Elisha Brewster.

CORRECTION.—As only the names of the Rye patentees of 1686 appear in caps in the preceding installment of this article, Gilbert Hatfield's name should not be so written. Gilbert Hatfield was of the fourth generation and only a successor to John² Brondage, the 1686 patentee, Daniel⁸ Brondage and Benjamin⁴ Brondage.

SIR WILLIAM JOHNSON.

MEMORANDA AS TO BROTHERS AND SISTERS OF SIR WILLIAM JOHNSON AND THEIR DESCENDANTS.

BY EDWARD H. LEGGETT, Albany, N. Y.

Burke's Peerage and Baronetage, at p. 117, states that Christopher Johnson of Smithtown, County Meath, Ireland, who married Anne, sister of Vice-Admiral Sir Peter Warren, K. B., had two sons, viz.: Peter Warren Johnson of Demartown, Co. Meath, Ireland, and Sir William Johnson, 1st Baronet, born Smithtown, Ireland, 1715, and died July 11, 1774. Sir Wm. Johnson became a Major-General in British Army in 1755 when he defeated the French at Lake George.

The will of Sir William Johnson which is printed in full in the appendix to Stone's Life of Sir William Johnson, devised several tracts of land in New York State "to my brothers John and Warren Johnson and to my sisters Dease, Sterling, Plunkett and Fitzsimons" and mentions his nephew Dr. John Dease. He named his brothers John and Warren Johnson and Doctor John Dease among his executors.

I do not think the following records of nephews and nieces of Sir William Johnson have ever been published. It appears to be the current opinion that none of the relations of Sir William Johnson remained in this country after the Revolutionary War.

The following shows this not to be so.

Bridget Sterling, a sister and devisee under will of Sir William Johnson, deceased, who died at Johnson Hall, Tryon Co., New York, Jan. 27, 1774, married (1) John McMahon, by whom she had an only son, John McMahon of city of Dublin, Ireland, a saddler; she married (2) Abraham Sterling, by whom she had three children, Anthony Sterling, gentleman; Ann Sterling, who married Andrew Sherlock, gentleman, and Frances Sterling, spinster, all residing in 1793, at Killeen, Co. Meath, Ireland.

In Sept., 1793, after death of said Bridget Sterling, said John McMahon (Jr.) and Anthony Sterling, Andrew Sherlock and wife, Ann, and Frances Sterling, conveyed their interests under will of Sir William Johnson, to Charles Robert Johnson, merchant of New York City, by deeds recorded in Secretary of State's Office in Liber 28 of Deeds, pp. 233 and 237.

Ellis Fitzsimons, another sister and devisee under will of Sir William Johnson, died after his death leaving her two children, Peter Fitzsimons of city of Dublin, and Ellis Byrne, wife of General Thos. Byrne of Drimlorgan, Co. Meath, Ireland, linen manufacturer, and on Sept. 23, 1793, said Peter Fitzsimons and Thos. Byrne and wife, Ellis, conveyed their interests (after their mother's death) to Charles Robert Johnson of New York City, merchant, by deed recorded in Secretary of State's Office in Liber 28 of Deeds, p. 235.

Warren Johnson, a brother and devisee under will of Sir William Johnson, died leaving son William Johnson by his wife Ruth Johnson; said William Johnson, Esq., of city of Dublin, Ireland, by deed dated July 14, 1794, conveyed to John Johnson, the younger, of Warrenstown, Co. Meath, Ireland, Esq., his interest under Sir William Johnson's will. Deed recorded Secretary of State's Office, Lib. 28, Deeds, p. 239.

John Johnson of Warrenstown, Co. Meath, Ireland, another brother of and devisee under will of Sir William Johnson, deceased, conveyed to his seventh son, Robert Johnson, gentleman, of Warrenstown, by deed dated 26 Jan., 1793, all his share under will of Sir William Johnson, deceased. Recorded Secretary of State's Office, Lib. 28, Deeds, p. 230.

This deed recites power of attorney made by said John Johnson, individually and as executor of his deceased brother Warren Johnson, Esq., and by Frances Plunket, brother and sister of Sir William Johnson, also by John McMahon, son of Bridget Sterling, another sister of Sir William Johnson, to Walter Dowdall of Warrenstown, Ireland, then in America, to dispose of their shares in said estate.

Charles Robert Johnson, Esq., of New York City, purchased 351½ acres of land in Town of Haverstraw, Rockland Co., N. Y., from James Watson and his wife of New York City, by deed dated 15 Feb., 1796, for £2460, recorded Secretary of State's Office, Book 29, Deeds, p. 211.

Charles Robert Johnson died intestate in Rockland Co., N. Y., in or about 1807, leaving his widow Ann, and following children: by his first wife, his son John Johnson and daughter Teresa, who married Patrick R. Cruise, and by his second wife, his son Joseph Johnson and his daughter Lucy Johnson, who afterwards married Stephen March.

All of the children of Charles Robert Johnson resided in Town of Haverstraw, Rockland Co., N. Y., except his son John Johnson, Esq., of Warrenstown, Co. Meath, Ireland, who married Catharine Murphy. Said John Johnson and wife, by deed dated Dec. 23, 1829, conveyed to said Patrick R. Cruise, formerly of Dr—, Co. Dublin, Ireland, but then of Philadelphia, U. S. A., their interests as heirs of Charles Robert Johnson. Rec. Rockland Co. Clerk's Office, Liber H, Deeds, p. 125. Patrick R. Cruise later resided at Haverstraw, on the Charles Robert Johnson farm.

The New York State Hospital for Crippled and Deformed Children at West Haverstraw is located on a part of said farm.

CORRECTIONS AND ADDITIONS TO PUBLISHED GENEALOGICAL WORKS.

Every gleaner in the field of genealogical research has met with errors in printed volumes which, left by themselves, carry mistaken conclusions to the end of time. This department has been inaugurated in an endeavor to correct such spurious data. Readers are requested to forward for publication here every such error, and such further additions to printed genealogies as are found, that due correction may be made. The authority for the statement must be furnished, with name and address of contributor.

69. BRIGHAM—DOWNER—CORRECTION.

Correction of The History of the Brigham Family, by W. I. T. Brigham, p. 171, and also to The Downers of America, p. 88. These two volumes state that:—

“Mary Downer (daughter of Zaccheus and Bethiah (Brigham) Downer of Sharon, Vermont), born May 17, 1791; married Uriah Kimball and they removed to Wisconsin and she died there April 9, 1830.”

This statement is incorrect and should read as follows:—“Mary Downer (daughter of Zaccheus and Bethiah (Brigham) Downer, of Sharon, Vermont), born May 17, 1791; married Chauncey Kendall, and removed to Chautauqua Co., N. Y., and died there. Uriah Brigham Kendall (named after his grandfather) was one of her sons. He went to Wisconsin and his first wife died there.”

Also Brigham Family, p. 171, and Downer, p. 88, should read:—Jeannette Downer married first, Hosea Blood; second, Shubael Reed.

Also Brigham Family, p. 177, and Downer, pp. 88 and 92, should read:—Dana Downer, born July 4, 1788; removed to Utica, N. Y., and died there Sept. 22, 1863; he married Cynthia Munger, born —, in Stillwater, Saratoga Co., N. Y., and lived subsequently in New Berlin, N. Y., New Lisbon, Otsego Co., N. Y., and Utica, N. Y.

Also Brigham Family, p. 171, and Downer, pp. 87, 91:—Laura Gregory, 2nd wife of Norman Downer, was of New Lisbon, Otsego Co., N. Y. (not Hanover, N. H., as stated).

70. HISTORY OF MATTITUCK.—CORRECTION.

Cowin, on p. 309 of the July, 1918, RECORD, should read Corwin. Item under p. 291 of the above history. EDITOR.

71. THACHER-THATCHER GENEALOGY—CORRECTION.

N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, vol. 43, pp. 175-6. Through the courtesy of A. Howard Clark, Esq., of Washington, D. C., under date of April 27th, 1918, I am enabled to correct the record No. 116 of Lydia⁵ Freeman. In compiling the record as printed I accepted as correct the record as given in Rev. William W. Johnson's Clarke-Clark Genealogy, p. 21. It seems that this record is incorrect in stating that Lydia⁵ Freeman was the second wife of Nathaniel Clark (son of Andrew and Mehitable (Scotto) Clark), whose first wife was Abigail Hedge. The facts are that Nathaniel³ Clark (Andrew,² Thomas¹), who was born in 1682, married Abigail Hedge; and Nathaniel⁴ Clark (Scotto,³ Andrew,² Thomas¹), born June 19, 1719, married Lydia⁵ Freeman, No. 116. The Nathaniel³ Clark, who married Abigail Hedge, is the one who removed to Lyme, Conn. Nathaniel⁴ Clark who married but once and to Lydia⁵ Freeman, No. 116, did not remove to Lyme, Conn., but remained in Harwich, therefore

Record No. 116 should read as follows:—

116. LYDIA⁵ FREEMAN (Lydia⁴ Thacher, Hon. Col. John,³ Antony,² Rev. Peter¹), born Harwich, Mass., October 22nd, 1717; baptized 1st Parish, Brewster, March 8th, 1723-4; died —; married at Harwich, Mass., September 22nd, 1743, to Nathaniel Clark, born June 19th, 1719, at —; died —, at —; he lived at Harwich, Mass., and was a son of Scotto and Mary (Haskell) Clark, of Harwich, Mass.

Children: 7 (Clark), 3 sons and 4 daughters, all born at Harwich, Mass., Nos. 380 to 386, inclusive, all of whose records are correctly given on pp. 175 and 176.

According to the statement of A. Howard Clark, Esq., the Rev. William W. Johnson was informed of the error of statement in his Clark Genealogy and acknowledged the error and promised to rectify the same but neglected to do so. A. Howard Clark, Esq., my authority for this correction, has examined the town records and vouches for the accuracy of the above.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Attention of The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society having been called to the fact that certain genealogists have used, and are using, its name as a reference, or otherwise, in the prosecution of their business:—Notice is hereby given that the Society authorizes no one to so use its name; and that it is not, nor will it be responsible in any way for the acts of such individuals who use its name as a reference, or otherwise, in violation of this specific prohibition.

Department for Registration of Pedigrees.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN REYNOLDS TOTTEN.

THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY conducts a department for the purpose of examining, approving and publishing pedigrees of individual applicants.

The Society will accept for examination the pedigree of ANY INDIVIDUAL, whether a member of the Society or not.

Those desiring to take advantage of the facilities thus offered should apply to the Society for the authorized blank form on which to record the pedigree to be submitted for examination (enclosing 50 cents in payment for the blank).

Applicants must either themselves, or with the assistance of professional genealogists, fill in the form as indicated and return the same to this Society for examination; it being understood that the regular charges made by this Society are for examination and publication of the pedigree, and do not include genealogical research in the preparation of the pedigree itself.

When a pedigree is submitted for examination the applicant must send with it a preliminary fee of $15.00. Upon the receipt of a pedigree and this preliminary fee, the pedigree will be examined; and if approved, it will be subsequently published, first in an issue of the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, and the applicant will receive 2 copies of the Record containing the pedigree without further charge. The pedigree will thereafter (when a sufficient number have accumulated) be published in a volume of a series, one volume of which has already been issued (see Vol. VI, New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections); and copies of this volume will be sold to those whose pedigrees are contained therein at the special price of $5.00 a volume.

Pedigrees must be submitted to the Society in form complete for publication. If, upon examination by the Society, essential facts are added to the pedigree by the examiner, a nominal fee, not to exceed $5.00, will be charged by the Society for ascertaining and embodying such additional information in the pedigree.

If upon examination the pedigree is found to be essentially inaccurate, it will not be approved and will be returned to the applicant; and the preliminary fee will be refunded, less a charge of $10.00 for expert examination.

If, when finally examined, approved and prepared for publication, the pedigree is found to require more than one page for its proper presentation, the fee for publishing the same, as above explained, will be at the rate of $15.00 a page (pages to be similar in size and form to those of pedigrees heretofore published in the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD,—see issues from April, 1911, to date of this issue), but, in adjusting the final charge, credit for the payment of the preliminary fee of $15.00 will be given to the applicant.

For the benefit of applicants desiring extra copies of their pedigrees for family distribution, editions of 50 copies of such pedigrees will be supplied on 4-page folders of linen ledger paper, with space left for additional notes, for a fee of $5.00.

Individuals desiring their pedigrees prepared for examination, approval and later publication by this Society, and who are unfamiliar with the methods to pursue to secure the necessary information to establish such pedigrees, or who are unable to devote the required time to their preparation,—are invited to address this Society with a view to being put in communication with a professional genealogist capable of establishing and submitting them (when established) in proper form to this Society for publication.

Applications for examination, approval and publishing pedigrees under the condition hereabove set forth should be made to the

NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY,
226 WEST 58TH STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

QUERIES.

Queries will be inserted at the rate of ten (10) cents per line, or fraction of a line, payable in advance; ten (10) words allowed to a line. Name and address of individual making query charged at line rates. No restriction as to space.

All answers may at the discretion of querist be addressed to The N. Y. G. & B. Soc., and will be forwarded to the inquirer.

In answering queries please refer to the Volume and Page of THE RECORD in which original query was published.

BURNETT:—Information desired as to the date of birth and ancestors of David Walton Burnett of Red Hook, N. Y. (probably born between 1780 and 1790), and who married Caroline Esther Mulkins; also any information concerning the Burnetts of Dutchess County.

BOOK REVIEWS.

By JOHN R. TOTTEN.

EDITORIAL NOTE:—The New York Genealogical and Biographical Society solicits as donations to its Library all newly published works on Genealogy, History and Biography, as well as all works on Town, County and State History, or works embodying information regarding the Vital Records of any and all localities. It also solicits the donation to the manuscript collections of its library any and all manuscript compilations which bear upon the above mentioned topics.

In consideration of such donations the works so presented to the Society will be at once placed upon the shelves of its library and will be reviewed in the next subsequent issue of THE NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD, each donation of such character, whether in printed or manuscript form, will be reviewed under the head of "Book Notices" and a copy of THE RECORD containing the review will be sent to the donor.

The Society does not solicit donations of publications or manuscripts on topics foreign to the above mentioned subjects, as its library is specialized and cannot accommodate material which does not bear directly upon its recognized sphere of usefulness.

Donations for review in the January issue of THE RECORD should be delivered to the Society before December 1st of the previous year; for the April issue, before March 1st; for the July issue, before June 1st; and for the October issue, before September 1st.

All donations will be generously reviewed with a view of calling the attention of the public to their good points; but, while generous, the reviews will contain such proper criticism as the interest of the genealogical student would expect from the editorial staff of THE RECORD.

The "Book Notices" of THE RECORD are carefully read by all librarians as well as genealogical students, and the review of a work in THE RECORD is equivalent to a special advertisement of such work.

Letters of transmittal of donations of such works should embody the price of the work donated and the name and address of the person from whom it can be purchased.

SOLOMON JUNEAU. A Biography, with Sketches of the Juneau Family, by Isabella Fox. Printed by Evening Wisconsin Printing Company, Milwaukee, Wis. 1916. 8vo, green cloth, pp. 218. Illustrated. No price stated. Apply Isabella Fox, North Kaukanna, Wis., L. Box, 402.

This is a unique and interesting account of an ideal pioneer, heroic in size and character, generous and just in all his dealings, as fur trader and early settler, and as Milwaukee's first Mayor. Of him, as probably of no other founder of any city, it can be said that Solomon Juneau, in his full manhood, came as the first white settler to the site of Milwaukee. He lived to behold its wonderful growth, and dying at the age of sixty-four, was followed to the Tomb by six thousand citizens of a city then numbering forty thousand population, all of whom had barely resided there less than one-third of the number of years that he had.

He was swift in the race, enduring on the march and as to character the name "Friend Solomon," as the Indians loved to call him, became a synonym of all that was best in savage conception, and acted as a talisman to guarantee the safety of the forest trail and the frontier settlement. Milwaukee has a Juneau Park and a colossal statue of him on the brow of the bluff overlooking the lake. This book reflects much credit on the author, the granddaughter of this famous pioneer.

CENTENNIAL ANNALS OF ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, ROCHESTER, N. Y. 1817-1917, by the Rev. Henry Anstice, D.D. Printed by Scranton, Wetmore & Company, 1917. Rochester. 8vo, paper, pp. 136 with appendix and illustrations. Price $1.00.

This is a faithful presentation of historic facts about a church, the stewardship of which for a hundred years, has brought many blessings to Rochester, and only words of praise can be said of this excellently arranged and valuable addition to the annals of the Episcopal Church. Dr. Anstice was rector from 1866 to 1897, a period of thirty-one years, during which prosperity smiled on his efforts. On the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ministry, he was presented with a valuable gift, and Bishop Coxe added words of congratulation. Such a book as this is a worthy adjunct to the library of any one who loves history.

NEW JERSEY'S FIRST CITIZENS. Biographies and Portraits of the Notable Living Men and Women of New Jersey, with Informing Glimpses into the State's History and Affairs. Vol. I. 1917-18. Editor-in-chief, William E. Sackett. Revised and reissued biennially. Next issue January, 1919. J. J. Scannell, editor and publisher, Paterson.

This work seems in literary style and typography and especially in the portraits of many of those to whom biographical sketches are given, to be above the average of excellence for this character of book. As the writer was at one time an enthusiastic citizen of New Jersey, he can gladly echo the sentiment of his old time friend, Rev. J. M. Buckley: "The book will give many pleasure and profit."

NOTES ON COLONEL HENRY VASSALL (1721-1769), His Wife, Penelope Royall, His House at Cambridge and His Slaves Tony and Darby, by Samuel Francis Batchelder. Printed at Cambridge, Mass., 1917. 8vo, paper, pp. 85. Illustrated. Price, $2.50. Address: S. F. Batchelder, 721 Tremont Building, Boston, Mass.

This study, a reprint from Vol. 10 of the Proceedings of the Cambridge Historical Society, with its illustrations and foot-notes, gives one a queer and witty description withal of certain Cambridge Loyalists, who had a large and picturesque place in village annals during the Colonial and American Revolutionary period. As our author says: "Socially and intellectually they brought to a primitive community, the amenities, comforts and ideals of the highest civilization of the day and thus paved the way for that cultured elegance which was to distinguish the neighborhood for many years to come." The perusal of this work afforded pleasure. It is admirable and well arranged. We think many will disagree with the modest genealogist when he declares, "the name of Vassall in New England is almost as if it had never been," for surely it lives and speaks again with no uncertain voice in these clear, forceful and even pathetic word pictures.

The accuracy of the chart of six generations of the family is well assured for it is the work of our distinguished fellow member and genealogist, Edward Doubleday Harris, Esq.

A PARTIAL HISTORY OF THE TICHENOR FAMILY IN AMERICA. Descendants of Martin Tichenor of Connecticut and New Jersey, and a complete genealogy of the branch of the Family descending from Isaac Tichenor of Ohio, spelling the name Teachenor. With some references to the probable Collateral Lineage descended from William Ticknor of Mass. Printed Kansas City, Mo., 1918. Pamphlet, paper cover, pp. 32. Index with cuts. No price mentioned.

All genealogists should be grateful to James Tichenor of Spencer County, Ky., who in 1875, at the age of 82, penned this useful monograph. The story of Martin Tichenor, the Puritan, who came over in 1644, is interesting because he was one of those who, under the leadership of Robert Treat, removed from Milford, Conn., and were the first settlers of Newark, N. J. Before they landed from their vessel in May, 1666, they, like the Pilgrims in the Mayflower, drew up a written agreement declaring "the desire of our hearts to be in carrying on the spiritual concerns as to all civil affairs to God and godly government," and this agreement was not less devout than the one made by the Pilgrims nor its results less beneficial. "The Mayflower [State of Massachusetts] was indeed the first born, but her younger sister [New Jersey] has left a record of life as stimulating to human progress and as true to truth and duty as her own." This Puritan pioneer did distinguished service to the infant colony and was given grants of land as his reward. Also his daughter married John Treat, the son of the Governor.

The Indians were justly dealt with and the price paid to them for the purchase of land forming the original townships of Newark, Springfield, Livingston, Orange, Bloomfield and Caldwell was £130, with twelve Indian blankets and twelve Indian guns. The rule that no person could become a freeman or burgess of their town or a voter unless he was a church member, and the fact that references to Deuteronomy, Exodus and Jeremiah and the laws of Moses were incorporated in their laws is historically interesting.

These pioneer settlers used some of the code based on the Bible they had established in Connecticut, uniting towns by a system of laws which the historian Grady says, "was the first written constitution in all history upon which a government was built up."

The account of those worthy and very able men, George Ticknor of Boston, William Ticknor of Philadelphia, Isaac Tichenor, Governor of Vermont and Hon. Charles O. Tichenor of Kansas City, Mo., and several other descendants are all of interest and with pages of full data as to pedigree make this pamphlet well worthy of a place in any library.

Only 350 copies were printed for private circulation. We are advised by R. B. Teachenor of Kansas City, that a copy thereof would be gladly sent to any member of the family without charge.

WILSON FAMILY HISTORY, by Edward Wilson, Bloomington, Ill., 1918. Pamphlet, pp. 30; 3 Illustrations; no price mentioned.

This monograph has every evidence of being a true representation of certain facts in the history of this branch of a family clan almost as numerous as that of the Smiths or Browns. Whether the Thomas Wilson, born in Bedlington, England, in 1750 and landed at Norfolk, Va. about 1775, was, as the author claims, the ancestor of our President, Woodrow Wilson, in the fourth generation is a statement which may be worth further investigation and the same is commended to the consideration of expert genealogists.

BOTTLE HILL AND MADISON. Glimpses and Reminiscences from Its Earliest Settlement to the Civil War, by William Parkhurst Tuttle, 1916. Octavo, blue ribbed cloth and gold lettering, pp. 233 and addenda. Illustrated. Price, $5.00. Address: Miss Gertrude A. Tuttle, 34 Green Avenue, Madison N. J.

Bottle Hill, now Madison, took its name from the fact that the first tavern in the place had a "bottle suspended on a tree in front as a sign of entertainment within." Neither this name nor the book would possess the value it does if it were not that the region it refers to was the scene of certain crucial events in the war of the Revolution, for it was Morris County that, in the severe winters of 1777-78 and 1779-80, was the headquarters of American resistance and the refuge of our impoverished army when in its sorest need.

The reviewer resided for years in Morristown and gained from close association with just these historic landmarks Mr. Tuttle refers to, a spirit of patriotism hardly to be learned elsewhere. He who reads these interesting incidents will feel as I did, when driving over those hills, that each old hamlet had its heroes and each old church its shrine at which brave men and women bowed in consecrating all to their country's cause and there wrought for us a heritage of liberty far grander and enduring than they themselves dreamed of, and which today is an object lesson for a vast army fighting in behalf of the freedom of the world.

In the matter of dates, the author, on page 28, says: "The first settlement of Bottle Hill was made 1740," while on page 3 the date is given as "not far from the year, 1685." Which is correct? The lack of numbers on many pages seems a needless omission, but the typography, paper and illustrations are excellent.

To Chapter XXI, about "The Old Hanover Parsonage" and that remarkable character, Rev. Jacob Green, I note the absence of the old and humorous incident about the different secular pursuits he had to be engaged in, so inadequate was the salary, for the support of his family. He was joint owner of a grist mill and a distillery and so at one time a letter was sent to him bearing this address:

"To the Rev. Jacob Green, Preacher, And " " " Teacher,
To " " " Doctor, And " " " Proctor,*
To " " " Miller,
And " " " Distiller."

He was the legal adviser of his people, drawing their wills and sometimes settling their estates. Being a zealous patriot, he was for all the forty-four years of his useful life a "power of illumination" and a noble example. He is continually referred to by Washington in those gloomy days of 1779 and 1780 in the Ford Mansion. His son states that his manner was very grave and he never heard him laugh and men spoke of him "as righteous a man as ever lived on the face of the earth." Lack of space forbids dwelling longer on the themes Mr. Tuttle and his daughter have worked so faithfully to portray. As the edition is limited to 500 copies and the price but five dollars, it is believed, knowing the number of true lovers of literature in Morristown, many requests for the book will be received by Miss Tuttle.

J. C. PUMPELLY.

ANNALS OF CASTLE CREEK, N. Y., AND VICINITY. Together with Genealogies of Some of the Early Families. By Julius Whiting Lilly. Pamphlet, pp. 32. Price, 50c. Address: Compiler, 20 Banta Street, Elmhurst, L. I.

A record of families and events centered around Castle Creek, Broome County, New York, a name which preserves the remembrance of the Indians, who built the wigwam of their chief, the "Castle," as the white man called it. Many families from Massachusetts and Connecticut settled in this neighborhood and their names and history are included in this brochure, which fact will prove of value to genealogists, to whom the book is recommended.

A HISTORY OF REHOBOTH, MASS. Its History for 275 years (1643-1918), in which is incorporated the Vital Parts of the Original History of the Town, published in 1836 and written by Leonard Bliss, Jr. By Rev. George H. Tilton, A. M., founder of the Rehoboth Antiquarian Society, Minister in Rehoboth, 1877-1891. Octavo, cloth, pp. 417, with index. Illustrated. Price $5, plus postage. Apply to the author, 470 Lebanon Street, Melrose, Mass.

A highly interesting and valuable contribution to town histories. Truly it may be said of this old colonial settlement that it is "the mother of towns and of men of noble deeds." Blackstone and Roger Williams, pioneer dwellers, opened the way for the Hingham and Weymouth Colony under Samuel Newman in 1643-4, and King Philip's War, to which considerable space is devoted, had its beginning on the border and its ending within the limits of Rehoboth.

Chapters on its Revolutionary and Civil War experiences, its churches and its cemeteries follow. The large number of biographica, studies, enriched by a vast amount of genealogical data, make this work of unusual value and, with the above, fix its place for all time as the beginning of future contributions to the story of this remarkable old town. The illustrations are numerous and well chosen and include a large map, taken from original surveys, locating points of interest, with the situation of residences and the names of owners. The town deserves such a history as the one before us and right well has the task been performed. It has undoubtedly been a labor of love.

ANCIENT BURYING-GROUNDS OF THE TOWN OF WATERBURY, CONN., together with other Records of the Church and Town. Compiled and edited by Katharine A. Prichard. Published by the Mattatuck Historical Society, 1917. Octavo, blue cloth, gold lettering. 338 pp. Index. Price, $5; postage extra. Address: Miss Lucy Peck Bush, Assistant Secretary of the above society, 119 West Main Street, Waterbury.

This is the second volume of the Society's collections, the original—"Proprietors' Records of the Town of Waterbury, 1677-1781"—having been published in 1911 and reviewed in the NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD for October, 1916. The new issue includes data concerning settlements that are now incorporated towns, viz.: Watertown, Plymouth, Wolcott, Middlebury, Prospect, Naugatuck and Thomaston. To the vital statistics presented are added the Meeting-house Book, 1727-1729; the Seating of the Second Meeting-house, 1791, and a List of Tax-paying Inhabitants, 1730-1783. It is an attractive volume and fills a niche which has been sadly lacking but is fortunately being supplied by works of this kind, to the joy of genealogists and students. The anticipations aroused by the contents of the former volume have been met in this publication.

DWELLY'S PARISH RECORDS, VOL. 6. DEVON M. I., VOL. I, being all the Monumental Inscriptions in the parishes of Countisbury, Brendon, Martinhoe, Trentishoe, Parracombe, Lynton, Bow, Zeal Monachorum, Bridford, Christow, Doddiscombeleigh and Ashton, with tricks of arms, etc. By E. Dwelly. 8vo, cloth, pp. 226. Illustrated. Printed and published by E. Dwelly, King's Road, Fleet, Hants, 1918. Price, 10/ net.

All the monumental inscriptions in twelve Devonshire parishes will be found here inscribed. Added thereto are the local Rolls of Honour of men with the colors, including those of Kitchener's "Contemptible Army." To quote the compiler: "These are, in many cases, the only record of the heroes of the various parishes who have given their health and often life itself to protect us from the most detestable dominion the world has ever known; it should be the aim of all to keep their deeds in remembrance. In a hundred years' time this may be the only list in existence of most of their names." Honor to these brave worthies! The volume preserves the reputation of former issues from this source.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES, PEDIGREES, ETC., RELATING TO PERSONS OF THE SURNAME OF BULL. Collected by Commodore James H. Bull, U. S. N., retired; Aberdeen, Washington. Pamphlet, 100 pp., with index, January, 1918. Limited edition. Price, $3.50.

Agreeably to notice, which was announced in the July, 1917, issue of the RECORD, this work supplies further information relating to this family name. It is an interesting addition to what has preceded, and the intensive research required by this effort is conspicuously shown by the list of authorities given. The compiler is still engaged on a history of the Perkiomen, Pa., Bulls. But a small edition of the present pamphlet has been issued and the few remaining copies can be obtained at Goodspeed's Book Shop, No. 5a Park Street, Boston, Mass.

COBB'S CREEK, IN THE DAYS OF THE OLD POWDER MILL, by John W. Eckfeldt, M. D., 1917. 8vo, paper covers, pp. 104. Illustrated. No price stated. Address: Dr. Eckfeldt, at 6312 Vine Street, Philadelphia.

Cobb's Creek flows through a region commencing at the eastern line of Penfield, a short distance north of the Philadelphia Golf Grounds, winds through the ravine at Beechwood and terminates at Ardmore Junction, on the Philadelphia & Western Railway. In an effort to preserve some of the associations of the locus, now utterly changed by the lapse of time, this book deserves commendation, for the data presented would otherwise have been lost to posterity. Many of the events which occurred there, the scenery, the people and their homes and industries are described and, while this is generally a historical work, some names are mentioned which locate individuals and families. A number of beautiful scenes are presented pictorially.

THE WINCHELL GENEALOGY. The Ancestry and Children of those Born to the Winchell Name in America since 1635. By Newton H. Winchell, late State Geologist of Minnesota, and Alexander H. Winchell, Professor of Mineralogy, University of Wisconsin. Second edition. Large 8vo, cloth, pp. 554 plus xii; 1917. Illustrated and indexed. Price, $5 net. Orders to be sent to Horace V. Winchell, 1212 First National-Soo Line Building, Minneapolis, Minn.

This compendious work opens with an extended discussion of the origin and history of the Winchell name and family in England and notes on the Wincoill family, and then proceeds to follow the branches of the name located in this country. Many pages are given to the ten generations of the Windsor, Conn., line. Others traced are the Columbia, Fayette Co., Ind., branch and the Goshen, Conn., the Brunswick, Germany, which settled in Washington Co., N. Y., and the Jockgrim, Bavaria, branches, members of which latter line located in Ohio, Louisiana and Missouri. To this are added a number of related subjects, such as isolated families and individuals, soldiers who served in the wars in which this country has been involved, exclusive of the present convulsion, members of professions, college graduates, etc. A series of portraits embellish the work, besides the Winchell arms and a map of ancient Windsor. Highly recommended to all of the blood and to genealogical libraries.

REMINISCENCES AND GENEALOGICAL RECORD OF THE VAUGHAN FAMILY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, by George E. Hodgdon. Copyright, 1918, by R. C. Shannon. Printed by the Genesee Press, Rochester, N. Y. Large 8vo. Leather and cloth, pp. 169. Limited edition of 300 copies, printed for private distribution only.

With the compliments of Richard Cutts Shannon, of Brockport, N. Y., the Society is indebted for this work, for which we tender thanks. After the death of Mr. Hodgdon, of whom a portrait is presented, the compiler assumed the unfinished work and carried it to conclusion. The line which has been traced descends from Sir Roger Vaughan, of Glamorganshire, Wales. One of his children was George, who married Mary Boxall in 1639. They had three children, viz.: William, Mary and Joane. The son emigrated to New England about 1664 and settled at Portsmouth, N. H. In the charter granted by Charles II, constituting New Hampshire a separate province, April 18, 1679, he was named one of the Royal Councillors and was commissioned in 1681 Major commanding the Provincial Militia. In 1680 he became one of the Justices of Common Pleas, in 1692 Member of the Council, served as Treasurer of the Province, 1696-1698, and from 1706-1715, and later as Chief Justice of the Superior Court. He married, December, 8, 1668, Margaret Cutts, of Portsmouth, and died there November 12, 1719, aged 78 years. From such an important colonial forebear does the family described descend. The work presents exhaustive chronicles relating thereto, to and including the seventh generation. Appended will be found the result of the investigations of Thomas W. Hancock, of London, with pedigree charts and armorial insignia. This volume should be in the treasured possession of every member of the stirps and a part of the library equipment of all genealogical societies.

CHRONICLES OF THE CAPE FEAR RIVER, 1660-1916, by James Sprunt. Second edition, Raleigh, N. C., 1916. 8vo, leather and cloth, pp. 732. Indexed. Illustrated with portrait and maps. No price stated.

One of the few good local histories. It is a rich and fertile field in which the author has undertaken to delve. This romantic and historic section of the State of North Carolina has been thoroughly covered. From the discovery, all through the colonization period down to the present, including the great men who lived there, with descriptions of their homes, their lives, their fortunes in war and peace and the resources and development of the section treated, the book abounds in a fund of reminiscence that is enjoyable to the literary mind and of priceless value to the locality. That part dealing with Revolutionary and Confederate history is followed with fascinating fullness of detail and, as a whole, the volume sets a pace for works of like character which will be difficult for others to reach.

JOHN H. B. LATROBE AND HIS TIMES, 1803-1891, by John E. Semmes. Published by the Norman, Remington Company, Charles Street, at Mulberry, Baltimore, Md. Large 8vo, cloth, with gold cover design, pp. 601. Index and illustrations. No price stated.

A memento of a life full of rounded accomplishment and continuous activity. Born in Philadelphia, of English parents, Mr. Latrobe entered West Point at the age of fifteen years. He then took up the study of the law in Baltimore. During his long life he was a practical illustration of what could be done by constant intention to use his time to the best advantage. His activities included such many-sided occupations as soldier, lawyer, inventor, poet, painter, philanthropist and writer. Some pages are devoted, at the end of the work, to a genealogy of the family. Numerous handsome color plates and other illustrations add a charm to the work, which is highly commended as a biography of dignity and worth.

THE BUCHANAN BOOK. The Life of Alexander Buchanan, Q. C., of Montreal, followed by an Account of the Family of Buchanan, by A. W. Patrick Buchanan, K. C., 731 Pine Avenue, West, Montreal, 1911. Large 8vo, cloth, 475 pp, with appendix and index. Price, $6.50. Apply as above.

We have received with pleasure a complimentary copy of the above work. Alexander Buchanan, the subject of the story, was descended from the old Scotch family of Buchanan of Blairvocky, which estate was situated at the foot of Ben Aird or Blairvocky Hill, in the neighborhood of Loch Lomond. The last representative of this line, William Buchanan, last Laird of Blairvocky, towards the close of the sixteenth century, sold his estate and went to Ireland, where he settled in the vicinity of Omagh, in the County of Tyrone. So recites the opening paragraph of the first chapter of this volume and from this source descended the Alexander whose life history it traces. He was the son of John Buchanan, who came to Canada in 1802 with the 49th Regiment of Foot, as Surgeon. Alexander accompanied his father to America. The chapters of his life are based by the author largely on a Journal which he kept from 1810, it would seem, when he was twenty-one years of age. He passed a life full of interesting events and as lawyer, traveller, Mason, King's Council and later Queen's Council, of which he became senior in 1840, saw many aspects thereof. His legal advice was eagerly sought and he was often selected to preside over the deliberations of commissions, where his services were eminent. The record is one of which any family may be justly proud. He married his cousin, Mary Ann, the eldest daughter of James Buchanan, British Consul at New York.

Two local events of much interest to the reviewer are narrated in reference to this individual. On page 84 it is stated that the wedding took place at the Manhattan Bank house, Bowery Hill, New York, and beginning at page 107 fully fifty-three pages are given to the life and times of the bride's father. This house stood on the east side of Broadway, between 17th and 18th Streets, and had been erected in 1806-7 by the Bank, the second oldest in the city, it having closed its office in Wall Street and removed up town because of the prevailing epidemic. Mr. Buchanan first resided in New York at that part of the island known as Bloomingdale. Just where is not definitely located, but from the fact that he had a child buried in the yard of the Bloomingdale Reformed Church, it would seem that his residence was not far removed from that section of Bloomingdale called Harsenville. It was announced at a meeting of the Church Consistory, in August, 1820, that the burial had taken place, but no name is mentioned in the minutes. The book under review supplies that deficiency. On page 246 we read that Mr. Buchanan's fourteenth child, George Augustus Frederick, born February 10, 1819, at New York, died there September 7 of that year, and as this is the only one of his children who is so mentioned, this must be the burial noted. In 1820 the Consul removed to the Bank Building and there his daughter was married to Alexander Buchanan, on March 2, 1824.

The intrinsic merit of the above work will proclaim itself to even cursory readers and those of the blood will be lastingly grateful to the author.
