THE revision and consolidation of the whole public statute law will constitute an important epoch in the legislative history of North Carolina. In presenting this work to the public the undersigned, commissioners for superintending its publication, have thought that some facts, connected with and illustrating that history, might be neither an inappropriate nor uninteresting introduction. Their limits confine them to a brief summary, and compel them to omit much, both of detail and remark, that would be necessary to do justice to the subject.

The first permanent settlement in North Carolina was made about the year 1660, by emigrants from Virginia, on the north side of Albermarle sound, and probably on Durant's neck in Perquimons county, lying between Perquimons and Little rivers. The oldest land title is a conveyance for that neck of land from the king of the Yeopim Indians to George Durant, dated in 1662. On the twentyfourth of March, 1663, King Charles the Second granted to Edward, Earl of Clarendon, and others, as true and absolute Lords Proprietors, all the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, included between the thirtyfirst and thirtysixth parallels of north latitude ; and on the thirtieth of June, 1665, by a second charter he enlarged the powers of the grantees and extended their boundaries so as to include all the country between the parallels of thirtysix degrees thirty minutes and twentynine degrees north latitude. These grants will be found in the second volume of this work.* Among other powers which they conferred on the Lords Proprietors was that of enacting laws and constitutions for the people of that province by and with the advice, assent and approbation of the freemen thereof, or of the greater part of them, or of their delegates or deputies, who were to be assembled from time to time for that purpose. In the year 1663, George Drummond was appointed by Governor Berkley of *2d Vol. p. 1. and 437.

Virginia, in pursuance of instructions from the Lords Proprietors, the first governor of the colony, then known as the county of Albemarle. In October, 1677, Governor Drummond was succeeded by Samuel Stephens who was authorized to grant land, reserving to the Lords Proprietors one half of the gold and silver ore. At this time the first constitution was given to the colony. It directed that the governor should act with the advice of a council of twelve, one half to be appointed by himself, the other half by the assembly, and the assembly was to be composed of the governor, the council and twelve delegates chosen by the freeholders. Historians do not agree as to the precise year in which the first legislative body in North Carolina convened. It was certainly however either in 1666 or 1667. This legislature was called "the Grand Assembly of the County of Albemarle," and on its petition the Lords Proprietors by an instrument, since called the "Great Deed of Grant,"* directed that lands should be held by the inhabitants of the said county on the same terms and conditions as lands were held by the inhabitants of Virginia. The principal acts of this assembly were such as were believed to be required by the peculiar situation of the country, and were prompted by an anxious desire to increase its population. Suits for any debts created out of the country were prohibited for five years—new settlers were exempted from taxation for one year—the right to a certain quantity of land, acquired by migration, could not be transferred until the owner had remained two years in the country—dealers from abroad were prohibited from trafficking with the Indians; and as there were no regular ministers, marriages might be contracted by a simple declaration by the parties of their mutual consent, made before the governor or a member of the council in the presence of a few neighbors. These laws were transmitted to and approved by the Lords Proprietors, who had reserved to themselves a veto on the acts of the assembly. In July, 1669, the Lords Proprietors adopted a new form of government for their colony. It was styled "The Fundamental Constitutions of Carolina," and was the production of the celebrated John Locke.† Its provisions were so illy adapted to the situation of the country and to the habits, customs and feelings of the people, for whom it was intended, that all the efforts of the proprietors could never carry it into practical operation. After producing great discontent, faction and disorder throughout the colony for more than twenty years, it was finally abrogated in 1693. By one of its provisions the eldest Lord Proprietor was called Palatine, and the style of the enactments by the Grand, or as it was afterwards called the General, Assembly, during the whole of the Proprietary government was thus — “ Be it enacted by his Excellency the Palatine and the rest of the true and absolute Lords Proprietors of Carolina, by and with the advice and consent of the rest of the members of the General Assembly now met at _____ for the northeast part of the said province, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same.” The acts were signed by the governor, by the deputies of the Lords Proprietors, each proprietor having one deputy, and by the speaker of the house of delegates. No record is to be found in any of our public offices of acts passed prior to the session of “ a General Biennial Assembly, held at the house of Captain Richard Sanderson at Little River, begun the seventeenth day of November 1715 and continued, by several adjournments, until the nineteenth day of January 1716.” It seems that a revision of all the acts of the assembly up to that period had been made under the directions of an act of the preceding session, which is not now extant. A manuscript copy of the acts of 1715, much mutilated, is on file in the office of the secretary of state of North Carolina. Among these acts is one entitled “ An Act for y^e confirmation of y^e laws passed this session of Assembly and for repealing all former laws not herein particularly expressed.” After this preamble “ Whereas in pursuance to an Act of Assembly made and ratified y^e sixth day of November last past the ancient standing laws of this Government have been carefully revised,” it enacts “ That all laws heretofore made within this province, such only excepted as by their particular titles are hereby expressly continued and revived, are and stand hereby repealed, annulled and void, and that all laws now made, passed and confirmed this present session of Assembly, together with such other as are hereafter mentioned to be continued, shall be of full force and shall be henceforward deemed taken and adjudged as the body of the laws of this Government and no other heretofore made.” It then provides for rights acquired under the acts repealed, specifies the acts to be continued in force, and goes on to declare — “ That the chief justice and the clerk of each and every precinct court shall take care that the transcript or book of laws deposited in his or their custody shall be constantly laid open upon the court table during the sitting of the court for the perusal of such members of the court or other persons litigating causes therein as shall have occasion so to do ”—and also “ that the clerk of each court shall at the next court after receipt thereof publicly and in open court read over the same and so yearly at the first court next following the first day of May under the penalty of five pounds for such neglect." A number of well drawn and important acts were passed at this session, among which may be mentioned one, "An Act concerning old titles of lands and for limitation of actions and for avoiding suits in law," the provisions of which, with slight alterations, have continued in force to the present day.

On the twentyfifth day of July, 1729, seven of the eight proprietors of Carolina, in consideration of seventeen thousand five hundred pounds sterling, conveyed all their rights, privileges and franchises to George the Second, King of Great Britain; and Earl Carteret, afterwards Lord Granville, the eighth lord proprietor, conveyed all his right of jurisdiction over the said province or colony, reserving his one eighth part of the soil and territorial rights. The proprietary government then ceased and the regal government commenced. The last General Assembly held under the proprietary government met at Edenton on the 27th day of November, 1729, and the first under the royal government met at the same place in the year 1734. It may be proper here to remark, (though there is some confusion in history as to this point,) that the division into North and South Carolina had probably been consummated before or about the year 1700. George Burrington was appointed by the king on the twentyninth April, 1730, the first royal governor. His council consisted of seven members, three of whom with the governor formed a quorum. They were appointed by the crown, except that the governor and council might temporarily fill vacancies, and constituted the first branch of the legislature. Burrington having abdicated, Gabriel Johnston was appointed governor, the ablest of all the colonial governors, not less distinguished for his energy and prudence than for his extensive classical and scientific attainments. He continued in office from 1734 till his death in 1752. During this period the style of enactment was as follows — "We pray that it may be enacted and be it enacted by his Excellency Gabriel Johnston, Esq., Governor, by and with the advice and consent of his Majesty's council and General Assembly of this province and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same." After the death of Governor Johnston, Matthew Rowan first as president, and then successively Arthur Dobbs, William Tryon and Josiah Martin as governors, presided over the province until the revolution in 1776. The style of enactment was changed after the year 1753. It was then "Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and Assembly and by the authority of the same." The acts were signed by the governor, president of the council and speaker of the assembly, the council and assembly being separate bodies, and were subject to the approval or disapproval of the king in council. At the session of the General Assembly held at Newbern on the seventh day of March, 1746, after a preamble that "Whereas for want of the laws of this Province being revised and printed, the magistrates are often at a loss how to discharge their duty, and the people transgress many of them through want of knowing the same," it is enacted, "That the Honorable Edward Mosely, Esq., Samuel Swann, Esq., the Honorable Enoch Hall, Esq., and Mr Thomas Barker, or the majority of them, be and they are hereby nominated and appointed commissioners to revise and print the several acts of assembly in force in this province." They are required to "revise the said acts of assembly, and compile them into one body, and make an index, marginal notes and references thereto, and to lay the same before the next succeeding General Assembly after they shall have so revised and compiled them, to be ratified and confirmed." By subsequent sections the laws so revised and ratified are to be printed and distributed, and the copies so printed are to be received in evidence before any judicature. This act was passed on the earnest and repeated recommendations of Governor Johnston. Of the commissioners so appointed, Edward Mosely and Samuel Swann alone appear to have acted, and Mosely having died before the completion of the work, Samuel Swann reported to the General Assembly at their session on the sixteenth of October, 1749. At that session an act was passed to confirm this revisal. The preamble states that "Whereas the whole body of the laws of this Province to the seventh day of March in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and fortysix have, in pursuance of the act, &c. &c., been carefully compiled and revised, and the said revisal laid before both houses of this present Assembly and approved of by the said houses." The act then recites the acts revised and confirmed, directs them to be printed and the printed copies to be evidence. It repeals all acts not confirmed, and saves the rights of parties, &c. In pursuance of this act, the code of laws so revised was printed and published at Newbern by James Davis in the year 1752, under the following title: "A Collection of all the public Acts of Assembly of the Province of North Carolina, now in force and use; together with the titles of all such laws as are obsolete, expired or repealed; and also an exact table of the titles of the Acts in force. Revised by Commissioners appointed by an Act of the General Assembly of the said Province for that purpose, and examined with the records and confirmed in full Assembly. Newbern — Printed by James Davis : MDCCLII." Davis was the first public printer, erected the first printing press, and this was the first book printed, in North Carolina. It is said by Martin in his history that this act confirming Swann's revisal was, through some jealousy of the General Assembly, disapproved by the king in council. Up to this period the acts of the assembly had been promulgated in manuscript copies which were transmitted to the judges and clerks of the several courts, and directed to be read annually openly in each court. Another edition of the public laws was published by James Davis at Newbern in 1765, dedicated to Governor Tryon ; and still another in 1773, dedicated to Governor Martin. These were both on private account. Since the revolution the acts of assembly have been regularly printed and distributed at the end of each session. The last session of the General Assembly under the royal government, whose proceedings are on record, was held at Newbern on the second day of March, 1774, and its acts are signed by Josiah Martin, governor, James Hasell, president, and John Harvey, speaker, on the nineteenth of March, 1774.

The assembly met again in April, 1775 ; but was immediately dissolved by the governor. A meeting of deputies from the different counties had been held in August, 1774, and by adjournment reassembled in April, 1775. The deputies again met in convention in August, 1775, and appointed a provincial council consisting of Samuel Johnston, Cornelius Harnet, Samuel Ashe, Abner Nash, James Coor, Thomas Jones, Whitmill Hill, William Jones, Thomas Jones, Thomas Person, John Kinchen, Samuel Spencer and Waightstill Avery. The revolution was then in full progress. The Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence was signed on the twentieth day of May, 1775. Deputies had been sent to the continental congress in 1774 and 1775. The Declaration of Independence by the United States, on the fourth of July, 1776, was proclaimed at Halifax on the first of August of the same year, by direction of the council of safety. " A congress of the representatives of the freemen of the State of North Carolina, assembled at Halifax the seventeenth day of December, in the year 1776, for the purpose of establishing a constitution or form of government for the said State." Besides adopting the constitution, this congress performed the functions of an ordinary legislature, its legislative acts, however, being generally limited to the end of the next General Assembly. These acts were styled ordinances. Richard Caswell, a distinguished patriot and soldier, was the president. Among others, an ordinance was passed directing " That Thomas Jones, Samuel Johnston, Archibald Maclaine, James Iredell, Abner Nash, Christopher Neale, Samuel Ashe, Waightstill Avery, Samuel Spencer, Jasper Charlton and John Penn, Esquires, be appointed to revise and consider all such statutes and acts of assembly as are, or have been in force and use in North Carolina, and to prepare such bills to be passed into laws as may be consistent with the genius of a free people, that form of government which we have adopted, and our local situation, and to lay the same before the next General Assembly for their approbation." It is not now known how many of these commissioners accepted this trust, or what share of its execution was borne by any one of them, but the fruits of their labors are manifest in the laws passed in the years immediately succeeding, laws which have received repeated encomiums for the ability and skill and accuracy with which they are drawn. The style of enactment was now changed, so as to read "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same," which style has ever since been continued.

By an act passed in 1715, it was declared that "the common law is, and shall be in force in this government," except such parts as relate to the practice in courts, which were to be supplied by the general court, subject to the approval of the governor and council. It is also declared that "all statute laws of England providing for the privileges of the people, as also all statute laws made for limitation of actions, and preventing of vexatious law suits, and for preventing immorality and fraud, and confirming inheritances and titles of land, are and shall be in force here, although this province or the plantations in general are not named."

By an act passed in 1749, the statutes of Great Britain which are to be in force are particularly enumerated, and the common law declared to be in force with certain exceptions. And by an act passed in 1778, reciting that "whereas doubts may arise upon the revolution in government whether any, and what laws continue in force here," it is enacted "That all such statutes, and such parts of the common law, as were heretofore in force and use within this territory, and all the acts of the late General Assemblies thereof, or so much of the said statutes, common law and acts of assembly, as are not destructive of, repugnant to, or inconsistent with the freedom and independence of this State and the form of government therein established, and which have not been otherwise provided for, in the whole or in part, not abrogated, repealed, expired or become obsolete, are hereby declared to be in full force in this State."

At the session of the General Assembly in 1787, it was enacted "That James Iredell be, and he is hereby appointed a commissioner to revise and compile the acts of the General Assemblies of the late Province and present State of North Carolina, and to insert the charter from the crown of Great Britain, &c.—and further, the said commissioner is hereby authorized and directed, in revising and collecting said acts, to leave out all laws repealed or obsolete, all private acts, and all other acts on which no question of property can arise: and further, the said commissioner is hereby required to see the said acts printed in the same order and in the same words in which they now stand, with marginal notes of the contents of each section, a marginal reference, and a copious general index with reference to each act, and the contents of each section." This duty was performed by the commissioner appointed, and the laws so revised printed by Hodge and Wills, at Edenton, in 1789, including the acts of 1788. It was approved in every respect by an act passed in 1791, and has since been commonly known as "Iredell's Revisal." In the year 1792, Francois Xavier Martin, in obedience to a resolution of the General Assembly of the preceding year, published a "Collection of the statutes of the Parliament of England in force in the State of North Carolina," of which work in may only be remarked that it was utterly unworthy of the talents and industry of the distinguished compiler, omitting many important statutes, always in force, and inserting many others, which never were, and never could have been in force, either in the Province or in the State of North Carolina. In the year 1794, also in pursuance of a resolution of the General Assembly of the preceding year, the same gentleman published "A collection of the private acts of the General Assembly, from the year 1715 to the year 1790, inclusive, now in force and use." In 1800, John Haywood, one of the judges of the superior courts of law, published "A Manual of the laws of North Carolina, arranged under distinct heads, in alphabetical order; with references from one head to another when a subject is mentioned in any other part of the book than under the distinct head to which it belongs." This work was a great favorite with the public, and passed through several editions. In 1803, it was resolved by the General Assembly "that Francois Xavier Martin collect and revise the public acts passed since the publication of Judge Iredell's Revisal, to the end of the present session inclusive; which said revisal shall connect the acts passed since Judge Iredell's by notes and remarks, adverting to such as appear to have been virtually repealed, and retaining such as are not expressly so, and cause his said revisal to be printed." This revisal was prepared and published by Mr Martin, and approved by the succeeding legislature. At the session of the General Assembly in 1817, it was enacted, "That a committee of three persons be appointed by joint ballot of both houses, whose duty it shall be to revise and consolidate the public acts, and parts of acts of the General Assembly of this State heretofore passed, or which may be passed before the completion of their work," and also, "That it shall be the duty of said commissioners to enumerate and specify those statutes and parts of statutes of Great Britian, which are in force within this State." The commissioners appointed were John Louis Taylor, chief justice of the supreme court, Henry Potter, judge of the district court of the United States, and Bartlet Yancy, speaker of the senate. The revisal, completed by these gentlemen after the manner of Iredell's revisal, was ordered by the legislature to be published, and was published in 1821, under the superintendence of Judge Potter, the acts of 1820 being included. This work has usually been called "the Revised Code," or the "New Revisal."

In concluding this sketch, the undersigned will offer a brief notice of the revisal now published, which differs in its character from any heretofore executed. At the session of the General Assembly in 1833, it was enacted, "that three commissioners be appointed by the governor of the State to collate, digest and revise, all the public statute laws of this State, commencing with the earliest English statutes now in force, and including those which may be enacted during the present session of this General Assembly; that in the performance of this duty they shall carefully collect and reduce into one act the different acts, and parts of acts, which, from similarity of subject ought, in their judgment, to be so arranged and consolidated, distributing the same under such titles, divisions and sections as they shall think proper, omitting all such acts, and parts of acts before passed as shall have either expired by their own limitation, become obsolete, or been repealed; that in every other respect they shall complete the said revision in such manner as to them shall seem most useful and proper to render said acts more plain and easy to be understood; and that, from time to time they shall lay before the legislature the acts so arranged and revised by them, to be re-enacted, if the legislature shall so determine." This act, though such a measure had long been desired by many intelligent citizens, owed its origin at this period, principally to the exertions of Governor Swain, who, in his annual message to the legislature had earnestly and eloquently urged its importance, and who manifested a deep solicitude for its success.

Soon after the passage of the act, the performance of the important duties which it required, was entrusted to the late Gavin Hogg, Esquire, of the city of Raleigh, in conjunction with the undersigned. At an early period after their appointment, the commissioners held a meeting, in which they made a cursory examination of the acts of assembly, and the British statutes in force in this State, and agreed upon the plan upon which the revision should be conducted. With these preliminary arrangements, Mr Hogg's connection with the work ceased. Severe and protracted ill health prevented his further discharge of duties, upon the performance of which he had entered with zeal, and which no one was better qualified to perform in a manner creditable to himself and useful to the public. In the winter following, he resigned his commission, and the Hon. Frederic Nash, of Hillsborough, now one of the judges of the superior courts of this State, but then at the bar, was appointed to supply the vacancy. Reports of the plan and progress of the work were made by the commissioners to the governor, and through him to the legislature at its respective sessions in 1834 and 1835. The plan adopted by the commissioners was, in the language of one of their reports, "simply to digest and consolidate into one act, all the various statute laws relating to one subject, occasionally to alter vicious and inadvertent phraseology, and to insert into the body of the statute such new provisions as seemed to them manifestly proper;" and as regarded the British statutes, "to incorporate them in acts distributed according to the subject to which they relate, clothing them in a modern garb." Upon the report made at the session of 1834 no definite action was taken by the legislature, but that submitted at the subsequent session, was referred, together with several revised acts which had accompanied it, to a joint select committee of both houses, who, after having had the subject under consideration, reported that they deemed it inexpedient for the legislature at that session, "to attempt the re-enactment of any portion of the digest which had been completed." They, then, after expressing themselves "from a cursory examination, highly gratified both with the plan of the digest, which had been adopted, and the mode of its execution," recommended that the time for completing the revision, which in the original act had been limited to two years, should be extended to the first day of December, 1836; that the revised acts which had been submitted by the commissioners should be returned to them, and that when they should have completed the residue, they should procure two hundred copies of the whole to be printed, and have them deposited in the governor's office for the use of the next General Assembly. A bill for that purpose was accordingly introduced, and passed, and at the session of 1836, the whole work was reported to the legislature, and with the report were transmitted the required number of printed copies of each of the revised acts for the use of the members. These acts, with the accompanying report, were referred to a joint select committee of six members from each house, by whom they were examined and reported from time to time, to one or the other of the houses, with such amendments as the committee thought proper to suggest, and were then passed separately, according to the forms usual in passing bills, except that they were not required to be engrossed after passing one house before they were sent to the other. After the revised statutes had been all acted upon by the legislature, an act entitled "An act concerning the Revised Statutes" was passed, which prescribes the time when they shall go into operation, provides for their publication and distribution, repeals all the British acts, and all the acts of our own legislature, the subjects of which had been revised, and directs that when published, the printed copies shall be received as evidence of the law. From this it will be perceived that the work now presented to the public has the very highest character of authenticity and authority.

It remains only for the undersigned to add a few remarks as to the manner in which their duties as superintendents of publication have been discharged. By reference to the ninth and tenth sections of the "Act concerning the Revised Statutes," will be seen the authority under which they were appointed, and the particular duties prescribed them. They have endeavored to comply strictly with the requisitions of that act. How far they have succeeded, it must be for others to determine. As regards the style of execution, and arrangement of the work, it will show for itself. The "Act concerning the Revised Statutes" has been placed as chapter first of the statutes contained in the first volume, and the revised acts themselves follow in alphabetical order. The other public acts, which were passed at the same session, and required to be inserted in the same volume with the revised statutes, have been either incorporated with them or published as separate chapters under the same general title where similarity of subject admitted, or have been placed under distinct heads but still in their proper alphabetical order. In annexing the references to the decisions of the supreme court, it was intended to place the cases referred to, in the margin opposite to the sections to which they related, but it was found that it could not be done without too much encumbering the page, and the references were therefore placed at the end of the respective chapters, but still noting the particular sections which they are designed to elucidate.

In preparing the materials directed to be published in the second volume, the superintendents found some difficulty in ascertaining and determining what acts relating to navigation companies were now "in force and use" so as to require their insertion. They were aware that there were several charters of those companies still in legal existence, but they had reasons to believe that the companies were so near a final extinction from nonuser or abandonment, that it was entirely useless to retain them. As they found that this volume when going to press would not be so large as they anticipated, the superintendents have ventured to insert in an appendix several articles which were deemed not inappropriate to such a work. These articles, comprising among others the great charters of English and American liberty, not already inserted, will, it is hoped, be found neither uninteresting nor uninstrucive; and as those of them, which are not entirely new, are not often seen in works easily accessible to the public, it is trusted, that their appearance in their present position will be favorably received.

In the progress of these volumes through the press, one or the other of the superintendents has constantly attended to them, and every sheet has undergone his supervision and correction. With what accuracy this part of their duty has been performed, it is not for them to say. They have anxiously endeavored to have the typographical part of the work perfect, so far as their exertions could contribute towards so desirable an object. But yet from the great desire to have the volumes ready for distribution at as early a day as possible, their publication has been hastened in a manner inconsistent with entire correctness. It is hoped and believed however, that no error will be found, particularly in the body of the work, at all affecting the sense of the passage in which it may occur. It may be proper to mention here that the revised and other public acts contained in the first volume of this work, were regularly ratified in the usual form and signed by Messrs Hugh Waddell, speaker of the senate, and William H. Haywood, Jun., speaker of the house of commons, but the certificate of ratification has not been retained, because as the acts were passed separately, it would have presented a useless repetition.

With these explanations and remarks the "Revised Statutes" are submitted to a generous public, with the hope, that with the corrections and amendments which they received from the legislature and the sanction given to them by that body, they will contribute in some degree at least, to the object for which they were designed, a simplification of the Statute Law and an extension of its knowledge among the people.

MECKLENBURG

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE,

ADOPTED ON THE TWENTIETH OF MAY, 1775.

SHORT NARRATIVE.

IN the spring of 1775, the leading characters of Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, stimulated by that enthusiastic patriotism which elevates the mind above considerations of individual aggrandizement, and scorning to shelter themselves from the impending storm by submission to lawless power, &c. &c. held several detached meetings, in each of which the individual sentiments were, “that the cause of Boston was the cause of all; that their destinies were indissolubly connected with those of their Eastern fellow-citizens—and that they must either submit to all the impositions which an unprincipled, and to them an unrepresented, parliament might impose—or support their brethren who were doomed to sustain the first shock of that power, which, if successful there, would ultimately overwhelm all in the common calamity.” Conformably to these principles, Colonel T. POLK, through solicitation, issued an order to each captain’s company in the county of Mecklenburg, (then comprising the present county of Cabarrus,) directing each militia company to elect two persons, and delegate to them ample power to devise ways and means to aid and assist their suffering brethren in Boston, and also generally to adopt measures to extricate themselves from the impending storm, and to secure unimpaired their inalienable rights, privileges and liberties, from the dominant grasp of British imposition and tyranny.

In conformity to said order, on the 19th of May, 1775, the said delegation met in Charlotte, vested with unlimited powers; at which time official news, by express, arrived of the battle of Lexington on that day of the preceding month. Every delegate felt the value and importance of the prize, and the awful and solemn crisis which had arrived—every bosom swelled with indignation at the malice, inveteracy, and insatiable revenge, developed in the late attack at Lexington. The universal sentiment was : let us not flatter ourselves that popular harangues, or resolves, that popular vapour will avert the storm, or vanquish our common enemy—let us deliberate—let us calculate the issue—the probable result ; and then let us act with energy, as brethren leagued to preserve our property—our lives—and what is still more endearing, the liberties of America. ABRAHAM ALEXANDER was then elected chairman, and JOHN M'KNITT ALEXANDER, clerk. After free and full discussion of the various objects for which the delegation had been convened, the subjoined resolutions were offered.

A number of by-laws were also added, merely to protect the association from confusion, and to regulate their general conduct as citizens. After sitting in the court house all night, neither sleepy, hungry, nor fatigued, and after discussing every paragraph, they were all passed, sanctioned, and decreed, unanimously, about 2 o'clock, A. M., May 20. In a few days, a deputation of said delegation convened, when Capt. JAMES JACK, of Charlotte, was deputed as express to the congress at Philadelphia, with a copy of said resolves and proceedings, together with a letter addressed to our three representatives there, viz. RICHARD CASWELL, WILLIAM HOOPER, and JOSEPH HEWES—under express injunction, personally, and through the State representation, to use all possible means to have said proceedings sanctioned and approved by the general congress. On the return of Captain Jack, the delegation learned that their proceedings were individually approved by the members of congress, but that it was deemed premature to lay them before the house. A joint letter from said three members of congress was also received, complimentary of the zeal in the common cause, and recommending perseverance, order and energy.

The subsequent harmony, unanimity, and exertion in the cause of liberty and independence, evidently resulting from these regulations, and the continued exertion of said delegation, apparently tranquillized this section of the State, and met with the concurrence and high approbation of the council of safety, who held their sessions at Newbern and Wilmington, alternately, and who confirmed the nominations and acts of the delegation in their official capacity.

From this delegation originated the court of inquiry of this county, who constituted and held their first session in Charlotte — they then held their meetings regularly at Charlotte, at Col. James Harris's, and at Col. Phifer's, alternately, one week at each place.

It was a civil court founded on military process. Before this judicature, all suspicious persons were made to appear, who were formally tried and banished, or continued under guard. Its jurisdiction was as unlimited as toryism, and its decrees as final as the confidence and patriotism of the county. Several were arrested and brought before them from Lincoln, Rowan and the adjacent counties.

ABRAHAM ALEXANDER was appointed chairman, and JOHN M'KNITT ALEXANDER, clerk. The following resolutions were offered, viz.

1. RESOLVED, That whosoever directly or indirectly abetted, or in any way, form or manner, countenanced the unchartered and dangerous invasion of our rights, as claimed by Great Britain, is an enemy to this country, to America, and to the inherent and inalienable rights of man.

2. RESOLVED, That we, the citizens of Mecklenburg county, do hereby dissolve the political bands which have connected us to the mother country, and hereby absolve ourselves from all allegiance to the British crown, and abjure all political connection, contract, or association, with that nation, who have wantonly trampled on our rights and liberties, and inhumanly shed the blood of American patriots at Lexington.

3. RESOLVED, That we do hereby declare ourselves a free and independent people, are, and of right ought to be, a sovereign and self-governing association, under the control of no power other than that of our God and the general government of the congress; to the maintenance of which independence, we solemnly pledge to each other our mutual co-operation, our lives, our fortunes, and our most sacred honor.

4. RESOLVED, That as we now acknowledge the existence and control of no law or legal officer, civil or military, within this county, we do hereby ordain and adopt as a rule of life, all, each and every of our former laws,—wherein, nevertheless, the crown of Great Britain never can be considered as holding rights, privileges, immunities or authority therein.

5. RESOLVED, That it is further decreed, that all, each and every military officer in this county, is hereby reinstated in his former command and authority, he acting conformably to these regulations. And that every member present, of this delegation, shall henceforth be a civil officer, viz. a justice of the peace, in the character of a “committee-man,” to issue process, hear and determine all matters of controversy, according to said adopted laws, and to preserve peace, union and harmony in said county; and to use every exertion to spread the love of country and fire of freedom throughout America, until a more general and organized government be established in this province.

After discussing the foregoing resolves, and arranging by-laws and regulations for the government of a standing committee of public safety, who were selected from these delegates, the whole proceedings were unanimously adopted and signed. A select committee was then appointed to draw a more full and definite statement of grievances, and a more formal declaration of independence. The delegation then adjourned about 2 o'clock, A. M., May 20.

DECLARATION OF RIGHTS.

A Declaration of Rights made by the Representatives of the Freemen of the State of North Carolina.

SECT. 1. That all political power is vested in and derived from the people only.

SECT. 2. That the people of this State ought to have the sole and exclusive right of regulating the internal government and police thereof.

SECT. 3. That no man or set of men are entitled to exclusive or separate emoluments or privileges from the community, but in consideration of public services.

SECT. 4. That the legislative, executive, and supreme judicial powers of government, ought to be forever separate and distinct from each other.

SECT. 5. That all power of suspending laws, or the execution of laws, by any authority, without consent of the representatives of the people, is injurious to their rights, and ought not to be exercised.

SECT. 6. That elections of members to serve as representatives in General Assembly, ought to be free.

SECT. 7. That in all criminal prosecutions, every man has a right to be informed of the accusation against him, and to confront the accusers and witnesses with other testimony, and shall not be compelled to give evidence against himself.

SECT. 8. That no freeman shall be put to answer any criminal charge, but by indictment, presentment, or impeachment.

SECT. 9. That no freeman shall be convicted of any crime, but by the unanimous verdict of a jury, of good and lawful men, in open court, as heretofore used.

SECT. 10. That excessive bail should not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel nor unusual punishments inflicted.

SECT. 11. That general warrants, whereby any officer or messenger may be commanded to search suspected places, without evidence of the fact committed, or to seize any person or persons not named, whose offence is not particularly described and supported by evidence, are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be granted.

SECT. 12. That no freeman ought to be taken, imprisoned or disseized, of his freehold, liberties, or privileges, or outlawed or exiled, or in any manner destroyed or deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the law of the land.

SECT. 13. That every freeman restrained of his liberty, is entitled to a remedy to inquire into the lawfulness thereof, and to remove the same if unlawful, and that such remedy ought not to be denied or delayed.

SECT. 14. That in all controversies at law, respecting property, the ancient mode of trial by jury is one of the best securities of the rights of the people, and ought to remain sacred and inviolable.

SECT. 15. That the freedom of the press is one of the great bulwarks of liberty, and, therefore, ought never to be restrained.

SECT. 16. That the people of this State ought not to be taxed or made subject to the payment of any impost or duty without the consent of themselves or their representatives in General Assembly, freely given.

SECT. 17. That the people have a right to bear arms for the defence of the State ; and, as standing armies in time of peace, are dangerous to liberty, they ought not to be kept up ; and that the military should be kept under strict subordination to, and governed by, the civil power.

SECT. 18. That the people have a right to assemble together, to consult for their common good, to instruct their representatives, and to apply to the legislature, for redress of grievances.

SECT. 19. That all men have a natural and unalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own consciences.

SECT. 20. That for redress of grievances, and for amending and strengthening the laws, elections ought to be often held.

SECT. 21. That a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles is absolutely necessary to preserve the blessings of liberty.

SECT. 22. That no hereditary emoluments, privileges or honors, ought to be granted or conferred in this State.

SECT. 23. That perpetuities and monopolies are contrary to the genius of a free State, and ought not to be allowed.

SECT. 24. That retrospective laws, punishing facts committed before the existence of such laws, and by them only declared criminal, are oppressive, unjust and incompatible with liberty, wherefore, no ex post facto law ought to be made.

SECT. 25. The property of the soil in a free government, being one of the essential rights of the collective body of the people, it is necessary, in order to avoid future disputes, that the limits of the State should be ascertained with precision ; and as the former temporary line between North and South Carolina was confirmed and extended by commissioners appointed by the legislatures of the two States, agreeable to the order of the late King George the Second, in council, that line, and that only, should be esteemed the southern boundary of this State, as follows : that is to say, beginning on the sea side, at a cedar stake, at or near the mouth of Little River, being the southern extremity of Brunswick county and running from thence, a north-west course through the boundary house, which stands in thirtythree degrees fiftysix minutes, to thirtyfive degrees north latitude ; and from thence a west course, so far as is mentioned in the charter of King Charles the Second, to the late proprietors of Carolina. Therefore, all the territories, seas, water and harbors, with their appurtenances, lying between the line above described, and the southern line of the State of Virginia, which begins on the sea shore in thirtysix degrees thirty minutes north latitude, and from thence runs west, agreeable to said charter of King Charles, are the right and property of the people of this State, to be held by them in sovereignty, any partial line without the consent of the legislature of this State, at any time thereafter directed or laid out, in any wise notwithstanding. Provided always, That this declaration of right shall not prejudice any nation or nations of Indians, from enjoying such hunting grounds, as may have been, or hereafter shall be secured to them by any former or future legislature of this State. And provided also, That it shall not be construed so as to prevent the establishment of one or more governments westward of this State, by consent of the legislature. And provided further, That nothing herein contained, shall affect the titles or possessions of individuals, holding or claiming, under the laws heretofore in force, or grants heretofore made by the late

King George the Third, or his predecessors, or the late lords proprietors or any of them.

December the seventeenth day, Anno Dom. one thousand seven hundred and seventysix, read the third time and ratified in open congress. } R. CASWELL, Pres.

CONSTITUTION OF NORTH CAROLINA.

The Constitution or Form of Government, agreed to and resolved upon by the Representatives of the Freemen of the State of North Carolina, elected and chosen for that particular purpose, in Congress assembled, at Halifax, the eighteenth day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and seventysix.

WHEREAS allegiance and protection are in their nature reciprocal, and the one should of right be refused when the other is withdrawn. And whereas George the Third, King of Great Britain, and late sovereign of the British American colonies hath not only withdrawn from them his protection, but by an act of the British legislature declared the inhabitants of these States out of the protection of the British crown, and all their property found upon the high seas liable to be seized and confiscated to the uses mentioned in the said act. And the said George the Third has also sent fleets and armies to prosecute a cruel war against them, for the purpose of reducing the inhabitants of the said colonies to a state of abject slavery. In consequence whereof all government under the said king within the said colonies, hath ceased, and a total dissolution of government in many of them hath taken place. And whereas the continental congress having considered the premises, and other previous violations of the rights of the good people of America, have therefore declared that the Thirteen United Colonies are, of right, wholly absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, or any other foreign jurisdiction whatsoever, and that the said colonies now are and forever shall be, free and independent States : Wherefore, in our present state, in order to prevent anarchy and confusion, it becomes necessary that a government should be established in this State : Therefore, We, the representatives of the freemen of North Carolina, chosen and assembled in congress for the express purpose of framing a constitution, under the authority of the people, most conducive to their happiness and prosperity, do declare that a government for this State shall be established in manner and form following, to wit :

SECT. 1. That the legislative authority shall be vested in two distinct branches, both dependent on the people, to wit : a senate and house of commons.

SECT. 2. That the senate shall be composed of representatives annually chosen by ballot, one from each county in this State.*

SECT. 3. That the house of commons shall be composed of representatives annually chosen by ballot, two for each county, and one for each of the towns of Edenton, Newbern, Wilmington, Salisbury, Hillsborough and Halifax.

SECT. 4. That the senate and house of commons, assembled for the purpose of legislation, shall be denominated the General Assembly.

SECT. 5. That each member of the senate shall have usually resided in the county in which he is chosen, for one year immediately preceding his election ; and for the same time shall have possessed, and continue to possess, in the county which he represents, not less than three hundred acres of land in fee.

SECT. 6. That each member of the house of commons shall have usually resided in the county in which he is chosen, for one year immediately preceding his election, and for six months shall have possessed, and continue to possess, in the county which he represents, not less than one hundred acres of land in fee, or for the term of his own life.

SECT. 7. That all freemen of the age of twentyone years, who have been inhabitants of any one county within the State twelve months immediately preceding the day of any election, and possessed of a freehold within the same county, of fifty acres of land for six months next before and at the day of election, shall be entitled to vote for a member of the senate.

SECT. 8. That all freemen of the age of twentyone years, who have been inhabitants of any county within this State twelve months immediately preceding the day of any election, and shall have paid public taxes, shall be entitled to vote for members of the house of commons for the county in which he resides.

* Those sections of the constitution in which material amendments have been made are printed in italics.

SECT. 9. That all persons possessed of a freehold in any town in this State, having a right of representation, and also all freemen who have been inhabitants of any such town twelve months next before and at the day of election, and shall have paid public taxes, shall be entitled to vote for a member to represent such town in the house of commons. Provided always, That this section shall not entitle any inhabitant of such town to vote for members of the house of commons for the county in which he may reside, nor any frecholder in such county, who resides without or beyond the limits of such town, to vote for a member for said town.

SECT. 10. That the senate and house of commons when met, shall each have power to choose a speaker and other their officers, be judges of the qualifications and elections of their members, sit upon their own adjournments from day to day, and prepare bills to be passed into laws. The two houses shall direct writs of elections for supplying intermediate vacancies, and shall also jointly, by ballot, adjourn themselves to any future day and place.

SECT. 11. That all bills shall be read three times in each house before they pass into laws, and be signed by the speaker of both houses.

SECT. 12. That every person who shall be chosen a member of the senate or house of commons, or appointed to any office or place of trust, before taking his seat or entering upon the execution of his office, shall take an oath to the State ; and all officers shall also take an oath of office.

Amendments proposed by a Convention of Delegates of the People of North Carolina on the eleventh of July, 1835, and ratified by the People on the second Monday of November, in the same year.

WHEREAS the General Assembly of North Carolina, by an act, passed the sixth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirtyfive, entitled “ An act concerning a convention to amend the constitution of the State,” and by an act, supplemental thereto, passed on the eighth day of January, one thousand eight hundred and thirtyfive, did direct that polls should be opened in every election precinct throughout the State, for the purpose of ascertaining whether it was the will of the freemen of North Carolina that there should be a convention of delegates, to consider of certain amendments proposed to be made in the constitution of said State; and did further direct, that if a majority of all the votes polled by the freemen of North Carolina should be in favor of holding such convention, the governor should, by proclamation, announce the fact, and thereupon the freemen aforesaid should elect delegates to meet in convention at the city of Raleigh, on the first Thursday in June, one thousand eight hundred and thirtyfive, to consider of the said amendments : And whereas a majority of the freemen of North Carolina did, by their votes at the polls so opened, declare their will that a convention should be had to consider of the amendments proposed, and the governor did, by proclamation, announce the fact that their will had been so declared, and an election for delegates to meet in convention as aforesaid was accordingly had : Now, therefore, we, the delegates of the good people of North Carolina, having assembled in convention, at the city of Raleigh, on the first Thursday in June, one thousand eight hundred and thirtyfive, and having continued in session from day to day, until the eleventh of July, one thousand eight hundred and thirtyfive, for the more deliberate consideration of said amendments, do now submit to the determination of all the qualified voters of the State, the following amendments in the constitution thereof, that is to say :

ARTICLE I.

SECTION I.

1. The senate of this State shall consist of fifty representatives, biennially chosen by ballot, and to be elected by districts ; which districts shall be laid off by the General Assembly, at its first session after the year one thousand eight hundred and fortyone ; and afterwards, at its first session after the year one thousand eight hundred and fiftyone ; and then every twenty years thereafter, in proportion to the public taxes paid into the treasury of the State by the citizens thereof ; and the average of the public taxes paid by each county into the treasury of the State, for the five years preceding the laying off of the districts, shall be considered as its proportion of the public taxes, and constitute the basis of apportionment : Provided, That no county shall be divided in the formation of a senatorial district. And when there are one or more counties, having an excess of taxation above the ratio to form a senatorial district, adjoining a county or counties deficient in such ratio, the excess or excesses aforesaid shall be added to the taxation of the county or counties deficient ; and if, with such addition, the county or counties receiving it shall have the requisite ratio, such county and counties each shall constitute a senatorial district.

2. The house of commons shall be composed of one hundred and twenty representatives, biennially chosen by ballot, to be elected by counties according to their federal population, that is, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, threefifths of all other persons ; and each county shall have at least one member in the house of commons, although it may not contain the requisite ratio of population.

3. This apportionment shall be made by the General Assembly, at the respective times and periods when the districts for the senate are herein before directed to be laid off ; and the said apportionment shall be made according to an enumeration to be ordered by the General Assembly, or according to the census which may be taken by order of congress, next preceding the period of making such apportionment.

4. In making the apportionment in the house of commons, the ratio of representation shall be ascertained by dividing the amount of federal population of the State, after deducting that comprehended within those counties which do not severally contain the one hundred and twentieth part of the entire federal population aforesaid, by the number of representatives less than the number assigned to the said counties. To each county containing the said ratio, and not twice the said ratio, there shall be assigned one representative; to each county containing twice, but not three times the said ratio, there shall be assigned two representatives, and so on progressively, and then the remaining representatives shall be assigned severally to the counties having the largest fractions.

SAMUEL JOHNSTON, President.

By order,

J. HUNT, Secretary.

IN CONVENTION, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17th, 1787.

PRESENT : the states of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Mr Hamilton from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

1. RESOLVED, That the preceding constitution be laid before the United States in congress assembled, and that it is the opinion of Constitution to be laid before congress, &c.

2. RESOLVED, That it is the opinion of this convention, that as soon as the conventions of nine states shall have ratified this constitution, the United States in congress assembled, should fix a day on which electors should be appointed by the states which shall have ratified the same, and a day on which the electors should assemble to vote for the president, and the time and place for commencing proceedings under this constitution. That after such publication, the electors should be appointed, and the senators and representatives elected. That the electors should meet on the day fixed for the election of the president, and should transmit their votes, certified, signed, sealed, and directed, as the constitution requires, to the secretary of the United States, in congress assembled ; that the senators and representatives should convene at the time and place assigned ; that the senators should appoint a president of the senate, for the sole purpose of receiving, opening, and counting the votes for president ; and, that after he shall be chosen, the congress, together with the president, should, without delay, proceed to execute this constitution.

Mode recommended for carrying the constitution into effect.

By the unanimous order of the convention,

GEORGE WASHINGTON, President.

WILLIAM JACKSON, Secretary.

IN CONVENTION, SEPTEMBER 17th, 1787.

SIR,

Letter from the convention that framed the constitution, to the president of congress.

1. We have now the honor to submit to the consideration of the United States in congress assembled, that constitution which has appeared to us the most advisable.

2. The friends of our country have long seen and desired, that the power of making war, peace, and treaties ; that of levying money, and regulating commerce, and the correspondent executive and judicial authorities, should be fully and effectually vested in the general government of the union : but the impropriety of delegating such extensive trust to one body of men, is evident ; hence results the necessity of a different organization.

3. It is obviously impracticable in the federal government of these states, to secure all rights of independent sovereignty to each, and yet provide for the interest and safety of all. Individuals entering into society, must give up a share of liberty to preserve the rest. The magnitude of the sacrifice must depend as well on situation and circumstance, as on the object to be obtained. It is at all times difficult to draw with precision the line between those rights which must be surrendered, and those which may be reserved; and on the present occasion, this difficulty was increased by a difference among the several states as to their situation, extent, habits, and particular interests.

4. In all our deliberations on this subject, we kept steadily in our view, that which appears to us the greatest interest of every true American, the consolidation of our union, in which is involved our prosperity, felicity, safety, perhaps our national existence. This important consideration, seriously and deeply impressed on our minds, led each state in the convention to be less rigid on points of inferior magnitude, than might have been otherwise expected; and thus the constitution, which we now present, is the result of a spirit of amity, and of that mutual deference and concession, which the peculiarity of our political situation rendered indispensable.

5. That it will meet the full and entire approbation of every state, is not perhaps to be expected; but each will doubtless consider, that had her interest been alone consulted, the consequences might have been particularly disagreeable or injurious to others; that it is liable to as few exceptions as could reasonably have been expected, we hope and believe; that it may promote the lasting welfare of that country so dear to us all, and secure her freedom and happiness, is our most ardent wish. With great respect, we have the honor to be, sir, your excellency's most obedient and humble servants.

By unanimous order of the convention.

Pay of witnesses in state cases and how they shall be paid.

27. All witnesses, who shall be summoned or recognized to appear in behalf of the State in any prosecution now depending or to depend in any of the superior courts of law and courts of pleas and quarter sessions, and shall attend accordingly, shall be allowed the same pay for their daily attendance and mileage as is allowed to witnesses attending in civil suits, and such fees for attendance shall be paid by the defendant upon conviction only, and if the defendant be acquitted on any charge of an inferior nature, the court may at their discretion order the prosecutor to pay the costs, if such prosecution shall appear to have been frivolous or malicious; but if the court shall be of opinion that such prosecution was not either frivolous or malicious, and a greater number of witnesses have been summoned by such prosecutor, than were in the opinion of such court necessary to support the charge, they may notwithstanding order the prosecutor to pay the attendance of such unnecessary witnesses, if it shall appear that they were summoned at his special instance and request.

Judges of the superior courts may mitigate or remit recognizances, both before and after judgment.

Estates in tail converted into fee simple.

That any person seized of an estate in general or special tail, whether by purchase or descent, shall be held and deemed to be seized of the same in fee simple, fully and absolutely without any condition or limitation whatsoever, to him, his heirs and assigns forever, and shall have full power and authority to sell or devise the same as he shall think proper ; and such estate shall descend under the same rules as other estates in fee simple ; and all sales and conveyances, made bona fide and for valuable consideration, since the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventyseven, by any tenant in tail in actual possession of any real estate, where such estate hath been conveyed in fee simple, shall be good and effectual in law to bar any tenant or tenants in tail and tenants in remainder, of and from all claim or claims, action and actions and right of entry whatsoever, of, in and to such entailed estate, against any purchaser, his heirs or assigns now in actual possession of such estate, in the same manner as if such tenant in tail had possessed the same in fee simple.

In joint tenancy the share of the person dying shall not go to the survivor.

2. In all estates, real or personal, held in joint tenancy, the part or share of any tenant dying shall not descend or go to the surviving tenant or tenants, but shall descend or be vested in the heirs, executors, or administrators, or assigns respectively of the tenant so dying, in the same manner as estates held by tenancy in common, any law, usage or custom to the contrary notwithstanding : Provided always, that estates held in joint tenancy for the purpose of carrying on and promoting trade and commerce, or any other useful work or manufacture, established and pursued with a view of profit to the parties therein concerned, shall be vested in the surviving partner or partners, in order to enable him or them to settle or adjust the partnership business, or pay off the debts which may have been contracted in pursuit of the said joint business ; but as soon as the same shall be effected, the survivor or survivors shall account with, and pay, and deliver to the heirs, executors, administrators and assigns respectively of such deceased partner or partners, all such part, share and sums of money as he or they may be entitled to by virtue of the original agreement, if

County courts shall grant letters testamentary and of administration.

To whom administration shall be granted.

Executors and administrators to take an oath, and administrators to give bond.

Form of the condition.

1. BE it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of North Carolina, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That all letters testamentary and letters of administration shall be granted in the court of pleas and quarter sessions of the county, where the testator or intestate had his usual residence at the time of his death, or, where the deceased had fixed places of residence in more than one county, then in either; and all letters testamentary and letters of administration shall be signed and issued by the clerk of said court.

2. When any person shall die intestate, or having made a will and the executor shall refuse to prove the same or qualify as such, administration shall be granted to the widow, and after her to the next of kin, or to both, at the discretion of the court, upon their complying with the requirements of this act; and upon failure of the widow and next of kin to make application or to procure the same, then to the highest creditor residing within the State, proving his debt upon oath before the court granting the same; and when divers persons, claiming the administration, are in equal degree, the court shall be at liberty to grant the administration to any one or more; and in case of the failure of any of the persons aforesaid to apply for the same, or if the person applying shall be deemed incompetent, then the court may grant administration to any discreet person.

3. No clerk shall issue any letters testamentary, until the executor or executrix hath been duly qualified in open court, by taking the oath of an executor to execute the will of the deceased; nor letters of administration, until the administrator or administratrix hath in like manner been duly qualified by taking the oath of an administrator, and hath also given sufficient bond with two or more able sureties, to be judged of and taken before the justices holding the court, the penalty of which bond shall be double the supposed amount of the personal estate of the intestate, and the condition in form following:

The condition of this obligation is such that if the above bounden A. B., administrator of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of C. D., deceased, do make or cause to be made a true and perfect inventory, and account of sales, of all and singular the goods and chattels, rights and credits of the said deceased, which have or shall come to the hands, possession or knowledge of him, the said A. B., or into the hands or possession of any other person or persons for him, do well and truly

B., above bound, being thereunto required, do render and deliver the said letters of administration (probate of such testament being first had and made) in the said court, then this obligation to be void and of no effect : or else to remain in full force and virtue ; which bonds are hereby enacted and declared to be good to all intents and purposes, and pleadable in any courts of justice.

4. Where any person shall die intestate, and his or her estate is in such situation as to require the immediate care of some discreet person, it shall be lawful for any three justices of the peace of the county, in which the deceased had his or her last usual place of residence, to meet together at the clerk's office of the said county, and to grant to some discreet person special letters of administration on the estate of the said deceased, authorizing and empowering said person to collect and take into his or her possession the estate of the said deceased, until the next ensuing court of pleas and quarter sessions of said county, and to expose to public sale, upon a credit of not more than twelve nor less than six months, so much of the crop, stock and provisions on hand as the said three justices may deem advisable, and a schedule of such stock, crop and provisions, so directed to be sold, shall be made out by the said three justices, and a copy thereof, signed by them, shall be filed with the clerk of the said county ; and the said justices, before granting letters of administration as aforesaid, shall require and take from the person, to whom the same shall be granted, bond with approved security in such sum as the said three justices shall order and direct, conditioned for his faithful administration of the said estate until the next ensuing court of pleas and quarter sessions of the said county, and for his or her faithfully accounting for and delivering over the said estate to such person or persons as the said court may appoint as administrator of the said estate, and the said bond shall be filed with the clerk of the said county court for safe keeping ; and the said county court shall proceed to grant general letters of administration to such person or persons as are or may be legally entitled to the same.

And if it shall so happen that any orphan shall not have slaves to cultivate his or her lands, or it is not deemed best that they should do so, and the guardian of such orphan cannot rent the same for sufficient to pay and discharge the taxes and other dues thereof, and there shall not be personal estate sufficient for that purpose, it shall be lawful for such guardian, with the consent of the superior or county court, annually to sell or dispose of, or use so much of the light wood, to box so many pine trees, or to sell so much of the timber on the same, as shall raise sufficient to pay and satisfy the taxes and other dues thereon and no more.

19. It shall and may be lawful for any person, having a judgment or execution against any person from a justice of the peace, and the said defendant has no property in the county whereon the same may be levied, to return the execution to the clerk of the county, in which judgment was obtained out of court, and it shall be the duty of the clerk to certify under seal that the justice or justices, who gave judgment, was an acting justice or justices of said county ; on which certificate any justice or justices, in any other county in this State, shall and may award execution, for the sums therein expressed, against such defendant or defendants.

23. In all cases where appeals shall be granted from the judgment of a justice, the acknowledgment of the security, subscribed by him and attested by the justice, shall be sufficient to bind the security to abide by and perform the judgment of the court, and where judgment shall be against the appellant, the same shall be entered on motion against the security, and execution shall issue against the principal, or against both principal and security, at the option of the appellee.

How security for appeals to be given and proceeded against.

24. When any justice of the peace shall grant an appeal to the county court, it shall be the duty of such justice to return such appeal, on or before the second day of the court, to which it may be returnable, and he is hereby authorized and required, on application of either of the parties, to issue subpœnas, directed to the sheriff or other lawful officer in any county in this State, for witnesses to appear and give testimony at the court, to which such appeal is returnable; and the officer, to whom such subpœna is directed, and the witnesses summoned in consequence thereof, shall be under the same rules and regulations, and subject to the same penalties, and entitled to the same pay, privileges and emoluments as if such subpœnas had issued from the clerk of the court, to which such appeal shall be returnable.

All overseers of roads shall cause to be set up, at the forks of all roads within their several districts, a post or posts, with arms pointing the way of each and every road, with directions to the most public places to which they lead, with the number of miles from that place as near as can be computed; and every overseer, who shall neglect or refuse to do and keep the same in repair, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect the sum of ten dollars: Provided, that no overseer shall be considered guilty of a neglect of the duty herein enjoined, unless he shall fail to set up the same for the space of fifteen days. And every person, who shall wantonly remove, knock down, or deface the said arms, shall for every such offence forfeit and pay the sum of ten dollars, and be moreover liable to indictment.

19. The several overseers of the roads shall cause the public roads, within their districts respectively, to be exactly measured, where the same has not already been done, and shall, at the end of each mile, mark in a legible and durable manner the number of such miles, beginning, continuing and marking the numbers, in such manner and form as the court of the counties shall severally and respectively direct; and every overseer shall keep up and repair such marks and numbers within his district, and every overseer, neglecting to mile mark, or to repair the mile marks within his district, according to the intent and meaning of this act, for the space of thirty days after his appointment to office, shall forfeit and pay the sum of four dollars.

20. Every overseer of roads, who shall refuse or neglect to do his duty, as is by this act directed, or who shall not keep the roads and bridges clear and in repair, or let them remain uncleared or out of repair for and during the space of fifteen days, unless hindered by extreme bad weather, shall forfeit, for each and every such offence, the sum of four dollars over and above such damages as may be sustained.

22. Where a bridge shall be necessary over any place, where the overseer, with his assistants, cannot conveniently make it, the court of the county, wherein such place shall be, is hereby empowered and required to contract and agree for the building, keeping and repairing thereof, and to levy the charge in their county; and when bridges shall be necessary over any such creek or river, which divides one county from another, the court of each shall join in agreement for building, keeping and repairing the same, and the charge thereof shall be defrayed by both counties, in proportion to the number of taxables in each.

County courts may cause bridges to be erected across streams where necessary, at the expense of the county.

23. All and every contract, agreement and order, by the justices of the court of any of the counties aforesaid entered into or made, for or concerning the building, keeping or repairing bridges, in such manner as to them shall seem most proper, shall be good against them and their successors.

Contracts made by the justices for building bridges, to be binding on them and their successors.

24. It shall be the duty of every owner of a water mill within any county, whose mill is situate on any public road, to keep at his or her expense, in such order as the county thereof may deem sufficient, all bridges that are or may be erected, or attached to his or her mill dam, immediately over which a public road may run: Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any mill, which was erected before the laying off of any such road, unless such road was laid off by the request of the owner of said mill.

Owners of water mills, situate on public roads, to keep up bridges connected with their mill dams.

25. Every owner or owners of any such water mill, who shall refuse or neglect to do his or their duty, as is by this act directed, or shall let remain out of repair any such bridge or bridges for the space of ten days, unless prevented by unavoidable circumstances, shall forfeit, for each and every such offence, the sum of twenty dollars over and above such damage as may be sustained.

County courts may authorize the building of toll bridges.

26. It shall and may be lawful for the majority of the justices of the courts, through whose counties run large water courses or creeks, across which, from the rapidity of the water and width of the stream, it may be too burthensome to build bridges and keep them in repair by a tax on the inhabitants, if they deem it necessary, to contract with builders to build toll bridges or expensive causeways, for each of which, each court is hereby authorized and required to lay the toll to be paid on all persons, horses, carriages and cattle passing over the same: Provided, that such toll shall be general to all persons, and no person shall be exempt therefrom. And the revenue arising therefrom for such a number of years, as the said courts may agree upon, shall be granted unto the builders of said bridges, their heirs and successors, for the building thereof, which bridges, being built under the direction of the said courts, and the revenue arising from the toll thereof so granted, the said builder or builders, his or their heirs or successors, shall keep in constant repair at his or their sole expense, and shall keep good and sufficient hand rails across the same; in default of which, on conviction, they are hereby declared to forfeit all right and title to the toll allowed by the court.

County courts to regulate the rates of ferriage.

27. The justices of each county shall, once a year, or oftener if necessary, at the first court to be held after the first day of January, in each year, rate the prices of such ferries, as shall be kept within their respective counties: And any ferry keeper, who shall ask, demand or receive a greater price for ferriage, than shall be rated by the justices according to the directions of this act, shall forfeit five dollars for every offence. And every person, who lives at, or owns a public ferry in this State, and refuses to keep up such ferry, at the rates allowed by the county court, shall forfeit for every such offence the sum of five dollars.

Owners of ferries may build toll bridges at their ferries.

28. In all cases, where the proprietor of any ferry shall prefer building a good and substantial bridge over any water course, instead of keeping a ferry, he shall be at liberty to do so, under the same rights and in the same manner, by which the ferry is claimed and held, and under the same rules, regulations and restrictions as other toll bridges heretofore established by law: Provided nevertheless, that no more toll shall be demanded for passing any bridge, erected in consequence of this act, than is granted by law for the ferriage, unless by agreement with the county court, who are hereby authorized to grant an advance, as far as twentyfive per cent., and not more. And provided further, that in all such bridges, the proprietors shall erect a draw, where any water course is frequently and commonly used by sea vessels, or masted boats of considerable burthen.

County courts may compel keepers of ferries and owners of toll bridges to give bond, &c.

How persons injured may proceed to recover on such bonds.

30. If any person or persons, not empowered to keep ferry, shall pretend to keep any ferry, or to transport any person or persons or their effects for pay, within ten miles of any ferry, (being on the same river or water,) which is already, or hereafter shall be appointed, such person or persons, so pretending to keep ferry, or transporting any person or persons or their effects, shall forfeit and pay the sum of two dollars, for every such offence, to the nearest ferryman, to be recovered by a warrant from any justice of the peace: Provided, that such person or persons, as may contract for riding post, or for carrying the mail in stages, shall be authorized to keep a boat and to employ hands for the sole purpose of transporting the public mail, and such passengers as may travel in the stage with the same, across any ferry or ferries without let or hindrance. But such contractors for riding post or for carrying the mail by stage, shall not be authorized to transport any other passengers across, at public ferries, than such as travel by the stage, and no person or persons shall pretend to transport any other passenger for pay, at a public ferry, unless he or they are duly authorized so to do, by the court of the county in which the ferry may be, or of the county from which the passenger may be carried, under the penalty of ten dollars, to be recovered by the owner of the ferry, to his own use, as above provided.

Penalty on persons not empowered, for keeping a ferry, or transporting persons within ten miles of any ferry for pay.

Proviso for persons contracting to carry the mail.

33. If any person shall be settled upon or cultivating any land, to which there is no public road leading, and no way to get to and from the same, other than by crossing other persons' lands, and it shall not be necessary to establish a public road, it shall be lawful for such person to file his petition in the county court, praying for a cart or wagon way, to be kept open across another person's land, leading to some public road, ferry, bridge or public landing ; and upon his making it appear, to the satisfaction of the court, that the adverse party has had twenty days notice of such his intention, the said court, seven justices being present, shall hear the allegations set forth by the petitioner, and if sufficient reason be shewn, it shall be the duty of such court to pass an order, directing the sheriff to summon a jury of twelve freeholders to go on the premises, and view the same, and lay off a cart way, not less than fourteen feet wide, and assess the damages the owner of such land may sustain thereby ; and such damages, with the expense of making the road, shall be paid by the petitioner, and the way shall be kept open for the free passage of persons on horseback, carts or wagons. Provided, that if the notice aforesaid shall not have been given, the justices shall cause such petition to be filed in the clerk's office until the next court, when they shall proceed to hear and determine the same.
