AIRPORT TO BE OPENED FORMALLY MARCH 17

Elaborate Program Is Now Being Arranged; Building Work Is Under Way

THE formal opening of the Glendale municipal airport will be held on Saturday, March 17, following the action of the City Council in approving the request of representatives of the Aero Club of Southern California and of the Commercial Aircraft Association of Southern California, who appeared before the officials and submitted plans for making this opening ceremony one that would launch the Glendale field under conditions that would insure its complete success.

An elaborate program of special exhibitions and stunts is being prepared by the committees in charge of the affair, and it is anticipated that at least one hundred planes will be in Glendale on St. Patrick's day to witness or to take part in the various exercises that are to be staged. Full details of the program will be announced in due time.

The February number of The Ace, the aviation magazine of the west, is devoted largely to Glendale and its municipal field, and Garey W. Carr, the editor, who was in Glendale Saturday, declares that the publicity given this city and its progressive methods has already begun to bring enquiries and favorable comments from all over the country where The Ace circulates.

Permanent Building W. D. Kinner, president of the Kinner Airplane & Motor Corporation, who has been carrying on his work in a temporary factory here for the past few weeks, last week started laying the foundations of a permanent building to house his plant, and it is anticipated that the Kinner organization will attempt to make an altitude record with one of their new machines at the March 17 opening of the field.

City officials have been working to place the aviation field in proper shape, and an examination of it shows that it is now ready for airplane landings, no matter what the size of the machines.

M'NARY REFUSES HARDING'S OFFER

Texas Banker Candidate for Currency Comptroller Declines Post

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Because he did not have the full support of the senate, James G. McNary of Texas today declined to accept a recess appointment as comptroller of the currency.

Following the failure of the senate to confirm McNary's nomination before the end of the sixty-seventh congress, President Harding called him to the White House and offered him the job. McNary promptly declined. It was announced subsequently that D. R. Crissinger of Marion, Ohio, who had been confirmed as governor of the federal reserve board, will continue to serve as comptroller until the president gets back from Florida.

Tells Charges In the face of strong indications from the White House that President Harding would appoint James G. McNary of Texas comptroller of the currency despite the failure of the senate to approve his nomination, Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan, today issued a formal statement in which he made public for the first time the charges against McNary.

These charges involved McNary's transactions with his own bank at El Paso, Texas, and were the subject of a long investigation by the senate banking and currency committee.

GOVERNOR FACES CRUCIAL BATTLE

Executive Plans Campaign To Pass State Budget Over Opposition

Special to The Evening News. SACRAMENTO, March 5.—Governor Richardson, who arrived at the capital last night from an inspection trip of Northern California highways, today is ready for the crucial fight of his career. He is being summoned to his offices for interviews regarding the public's acceptance of his budget, and he has been more than satisfied with the gratifying reports, propaganda otherwise notwithstanding.

Hard-headed business men who pay the taxes, those who know the value of the dollar, ardently advocate the adoption of the budget with as few changes as possible. They have expressed their thoughts to the legislators who have been arriving here for the last two days, and it is a one-sided argument.

There are, however, certain opportunists swayed by heartrending appeals of a few officials who want to save their bacon in that frying pan that is to follow in the next several days.

Sure of Victory It is noticeable that those papers controlled by owners residing outside of the state have been giving a great deal of space to stories by "sob sisters" and socialists regarding the budget problems, but the real meat of the cocoon lies in the fact that California must live within its income.

Columns could be written today on the variegated views expressed in the lobbies, but only a vote on each individual item of expense is going to reveal the true tenor of affairs. Supporters of the budget are determined to stand firm against reappointment as proposed by the southern members. Great activity is expected this week between the opposing forces in lining up support from the "on the fence" legislators.

Little business except formal motions was expected at today's initial session.

FIRE LADDIES IN CLEVER PROGRAM

Members of Local Force Make Big Hit on Stage At Glendale Theatre

The atmospheric prologue started at the Glendale Theatre last night by the boys of the local fire department proved a big hit.

Manager William A. Howe is to be congratulated for arranging this novel stunt as a lead to "The Third Alarm," the big picture now running at his playhouse. And the eight members of Glendale's fire department who participated are also to be congratulated. They were "there"—there a million.

The scene was an old-fashioned fire house, in the days before motor drawn equipment. The prologue opened with an alarm sounding. The men jump to attention but it proves to be a call out of their district, a "second alarm" at that. Somewhere, the men know, a serious fire is raging—and if the "third alarm" sounds, they will be called out.

Clever Stunts In this atmosphere of tension they put on their clever song and instrumental numbers—"Dear Old Pal," a specialty by George H. Blix; and "The Fire Laddies' Quartet" by Goode, Blix, Wagon and Rockwell.

Repeated cheers from the audience showed how big a hit the fire laddies were making. Then suddenly comes an ominous sound—the "third alarm." As of one accord the men jump to attention. The great fire has gotten beyond control. They have been called out. It is their exit. In a dramatic finale, they dash off of the stage.

The eight firemen participating, and who will appear again today, tomorrow and Wednesday, are George H. Blix and Jack Rockwell, who staged the number, and Dean Williams, Albert Psenner, Harry Elliott, Al Moniot, Jack Goode and Jack Wagon. In addition, little Miss Helene Attel, from Los Angeles, participated. And "Lopez," the department's mascot, had a very important part.

DIES WHILE ON WAY TO FUNERAL

It was devotion and affection of mother and son that Mrs. E. A. Lively of 334 North Central avenue and her great-nephew, Walter E. Coan of Fillmore, had always shared, and it was a fitting close to this association that Mrs. Lively should pass peacefully to her death last night, Sunday, March 4, 1923, at Santa Paula, while on her way with relatives to Fillmore to attend the funeral today of Mr. Coan whose death occurred last Wednesday at the hospital in Santa Paula.

Mrs. Lively was 82 years of age and when the news of the death of her nephew reached her last week her grief was that of a mother upon the death of her son. She went from her home to her friends, the Hugh and George Cornwell families of North Howard street, where she remained until Sunday afternoon, when she left for Fillmore in company with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Carrington of Glencoe, Illinois, and her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coan of Santa Monica.

Receives Death Message A phone message this morning from the Walter E. Coan home in Fillmore to The Glendale Evening News advised that Mrs. Lively's death occurred at 11 o'clock Sunday night at the Glen hotel at Santa Paula. Upon receipt of a like message Misses Carrie and Jennie Cornwell and Hugh Cornwell left at once for Fillmore.

Mrs. Lively and her sister, Miss Martha Cox, and their grandnephew, Walter E. Coan, came to Glendale twenty-two years ago. Old residents will recall that they first resided in a home on the present site of the Wilson Avenue Interurban, where they lived for several years. Since Mrs. Lively lived at 334 North Central avenue.

Several Relatives She is survived by her sister, Mrs. Carrington, by her nephew, Frank Coan of Santa Monica; and by Sidney Coan, father of Walter E. Coan, who came from Muskogee, Oklahoma, for the funeral of his son.

Mr. Coan's funeral was held at 1 o'clock this morning at the Masonic hall in Fillmore under the auspices of the Fillmore Masonic lodge. Burial took place in Bardada cemetery in Ventura county.

He was a life member of the Glendale Elks' lodge and Hugh Cornwell, Walter G. Wagon, Morris Andrews, Stanley Frenz and Capt. G. E. McAfee went north this morning to attend the funeral.

The message from the Coan home this morning stated that no arrangements had been made for the funeral of Mrs. Lively.

Mass Meeting Tonight To Discuss Bus Line

The mass meeting that is to be held tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school to discuss the motor bus situation and the possibility of the installation of a system that will afford transportation to people in every section of the city, has been arousing the keenest interest among all classes of Glendale citizens, according to C. D. Gullick, manager of the Glendale Motor Bus company.

A number of prominent speakers will address the meeting and the sentiment of those present will be obtained, with a view to presenting it at the hearing before the State Railroad commission in Los Angeles tomorrow, when the applications for the franchise will be presented by Mr. Gullick.

An oblong egg measured eight and a quarter inches in circumference one way by six and a half inches in circumference the other. PARTY OF BONAR LAW IS SLIPPING

Cabinet Member Resigns as Voters Elect Liberal to Parliament

By DAVID M. CHURCH. For International News Service. LONDON, March 5.—The first break in the Tory government of Premier Bonar Law came today. Lieutenant-Colonel G. F. Stanley resigned as under-secretary of state for home affairs. It was inevitable because of his defeat in Willesden by election of Harcourt Johnstone, a liberal.

The defeat of Colonel Stanley, brother of Lord Derby, secretary of state for war, increases the strength of former Premier David Lloyd George. It is believed to have furthered the prospects of a reconciliation between the Asquith and Lloyd George liberal factions.

Tory Wins Suit Political students believe the Tory defeat points to dissatisfaction with the home policies of the Bonar Law government rather than hostility to the foreign policy.

The Tory defeat at Willesden was offset by the result at Mitcham, where Sir Arthur Griffith Boscawen, Tory, and minister of health in the Bonar Law government, defeated the laborite candidate, Chuterode. If Sir Arthur had been defeated, the Tory government would have been put in a serious predicament.

CUNO PLANS ACTION, IS REPORT IN FRANCE

Krupp Employes Meet in Secret and Pledge to Oppose 'Invaders'

BULLETIN

LONDON, March 5.—According to information revealed by the British foreign office this afternoon, Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno of Germany will make a definite new reparations offer to France tomorrow when he addresses the extraordinary session of the Reichstag.

BULLETIN

PARIS, March 5.—Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno of Germany will announce in the Reichstag tomorrow the government's intention of breaking off diplomatic relations with France, according to a report in the Matin today.

By S. D. WEYER

For International News Service. Copyright, 1923, International News Service. MARCH 5.—Employes of the Krupp works, formerly the greatest manufacturer of war materials in the world, were pledged not to yield to the French at a "secret meeting" of 1040 workers Sunday afternoon. Four women were present, including Frau Bertha Krupp-Bohlen, whose family established the plant.

The International News Service correspondent was the only foreign newspaperman present. The affair was marked by the first public utterance of Dr. Krupp Von Bohlen-Halbach since the French invaded the Ruhr. In a speech to the assembly he expressed the firm belief Germany will not yield to the French.

"All of us bear responsibility to our country, but only 'as free men, not as slaves,' declared the speaker. "That was the meaning of Germany's whole attitude."

Thousands Celebrate Frau Bertha Krupp-Bohlen, together with five of her seven children and her mother were present. The monster jubilee (the diamond jubilee of the founding of the plant) was attended altogether by about 5,000 persons. All had been warned to keep the affair secret lest the French interfere and break it up.

Under a recent proclamation of General De Gonetie, the French commander-in-chief, due notice must be given of all such meetings. The jubilee was twice postponed for fear of French interference.

Give Diamond Pins Frau Bertha Krupp-Bohlen and her husband handed out to the employes magnificent diamond pins and each was accompanied by a hearty hand clasp. In previous years money bonuses were distributed but this year it was not done for fear of French seizures. Employes received gifts of money today while at work.

So tightly guarded were the secret arrangements that the French had no inkling of the affair, although this city swarms with French detectives and spies.

It was said today that immediate arrest, resulting in startling exposure, will bring into the hands of federal prohibition agents the organizers and chiefs of the ring, believed to have been manufacturing approximately 1,000 barrels of moonshine whiskey a month during the past half year.

The ranch, situated on the outskirts of Burbank, was found to be equipped with the most modern apparatus for the manufacture of liquor.

DR. SUN FOR DISBANDMENT OF TROOPS; URGES UNITY IN CHINA GOVERNMENT NOT LEGAL, SAID

Victory Over South China Rebel Forces Is Followed by Manifesto; Law Not Respected and Various Factions In Quarrels

By EDNA LEE BOOKER For International News Service

HANGHAI, March 3.—Dr. Sun Yat-sen, on the eve of his departure for Canton, following the victory of his troops over the rebels who dramatically drove Sun from South China some eight months ago, has issued a manifesto of importance on the unification of China and the disbandment of the troops.

EDNA LEE BOOKER

The chief evil in China today, according to Sun, is a lack of respect for the law on the part of those actually in power and a lack of understanding and co-operation among the parties and factions in the country.

"The main ruling factions in China at the moment are the Shihli Party, the Fengtien Party, the Anhui Party and the Southwest Party. "China's reunification lies with these four parties," says Dr. Sun. "If they can understand one another and co-operate sincerely and have for their common aim and duty the upholding of the law, then there is no reason why they cannot bring about reunification. "Before reunification is actually effected I propose that these four parties should each confine themselves within their respective provinces and refrain from interfering with the affairs of others. "Must Disband Armies "Peace and reunification depend upon the disbandment of troops. You cannot talk about peace and make fresh preparations for war." Dr. Sun calls for the reduction of the total number of China's troops by half and the conversion of this half into labor corps for the construction of roads, railways and other works of public utility.

If this principle is accepted Dr. Sun proposes that they join him in inviting a friendly Power to assist them in devising ways and means to work out and put into operation this principle of troop disbandment, including the raising of a troop-disbandment loan which is to be spent and applied under the supervision of a foreign expert and of five delegates representing the interests of agriculture, labor, commerce, education and the press in China.

Loves Country "I love my country even as I love life itself," said Sun in closing. "And so I cannot see the country sinking without striving to save it. I pray, however, that no untoward thing may happen to force me to other than peaceful measures in the service of China. I believe that the militarism which crushed China will be able to rise gradually to the level of the other Powers of the world and that future generations will enjoy the fruits of our labor. "I speak to you in words of earnestness in the name of our people. I hope that we may all work together."

Film Star Will Start Suit for Separation

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Leatrice Joy, motion picture luminary, has retained an attorney and intends to institute action for absolute separation within the near future from her actor-husband, Jack Gilbert, it was authoritatively learned.

It is not known whether Miss Joy, who is the plaintiff in the action, will bring suit for annulment or a divorce. She married Mr. Gilbert in the latter part of November, 1921, at Tia Juana, Mexico, two weeks after Gilbert had been granted a divorce from his first wife. Upon return to Los Angeles the legality of their marriage was questioned in view of the fact that it took place in a foreign land and before the granting of a final decree to Gilbert in violation of the California laws.

Colony Refused Permission To Acquire Lands on West Coast

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Plans for the establishment of a colony of Japanese farmers, migrating from California, on the west coast of Mexico, were disrupted today by the development of strong opposition to the project from the Mexican government.

In a circular addressed to L. Garza Leal, Mexican consul in Los Angeles, the Mexican government indicated that permission for the Japanese to migrate to Mexico would be refused. The plans for a Japanese colonization of the Mexican west coast were practically complete when the consul received the circular. The California anti-alien law, which has been confirmed by the United States supreme court, will cause the lapse of all leases held by Japanese in November of this year. The circular which was sent out to Mexican consular agents by the foreign relations department of the Mexican government at the request of the agricultural department stated in part: "The desire of this government is to give the best facilities for agricultural colonization of the white races who desire to establish themselves within the territories of this republic."

Adams, it was said, openly violated the law to make a test of it. When the police judge sentenced him to jail his attorneys appealed on the ground that the Wright Law provides a fine only and no jail sentence for first offenders.

State Hospitals for Veterans Are Urged

C., March 5.—A conference of the California delegation, held in Senator Johnson's office today, decided to support a plan for the construction or acquisition of four hospitals in the state for the care of world war veterans, two to be located in Northern California and two in the south.

To take care of the patients in Southern California, it is proposed to acquire by purchase the Angelus hospital in Los Angeles for emergency cases and cases requiring surgical attention, and to build, somewhere in Southern California, a hospital for tubercular patients. This plan was laid before the conference by Major A. Grouper of San Francisco, who said it had the endorsement of the American legion convention in California.

The GLENDALE

The T. D. & L.

Love is the super-theme of "The Third Alarm," the strong and unusual drama now showing at the Glendale Theatre. Emory Johnson, the producer, has paid a fine tribute to the firemen and their devoted wives, sons and daughters. The central character is a veteran fire-fighter, Dan McDowell, superbly portrayed by Ralph Lewis. Johnnie Walker plays the young fireman and Ella Hall his sweetheart. "The Third Alarm" abounds in thrills and laughs. The fire scenes are staggering in their magnitude. The dash of the lurching engines through the city streets carries one back to the days of childhood. It is an outstanding production and one not to miss.

"The World's Applause," a Paramount film featuring Bebe Daniels and directed by William de Mille, is proving its popularity at the T. D. & L. Theatre by the crowds it is drawing. It is a strong, timely drama, with a powerful theme to the effect that notoriety for those continually before the public eye frequently brings disaster. The heroine, charmingly portrayed by Miss Daniels, becomes involved in a tragedy, through her love of publicity, that all but wrecks her career. The saving situation makes a fine climax.

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

CHARGING THE DRY-SHIPED BATTERY

It occasionally happens that a car's battery which is in the dry condition, is delivered by the freight people to its purchaser, at some point remote from a battery service station, under which conditions it may rest upon the owner to put it in action. Filling of the battery with electrolyte and charging are the two operations required. In the absence of direct instructions the electrolyte should be of about 1.275 gravity, which is made by very gradually adding chemically pure sulphuric acid to distilled water, in such amount that the mixture possesses the above named gravity, when cool. The cells should be filled to the prescribed height with electrolyte and, after a few minutes, enough more supplied to make up for the escape of air bubbles and bring the level right again. The battery should then set 10 or 12 hours to allow the electrolyte to permeate the plate material, when a little more will be needed to restore the level. Charging should be at the number of amperes stamped upon the name plate as the "finish" rate; direct current (as from a rectifier) measured by an ammeter, and passed in the right direction being required. Charge until the gravity reaches about 1.290 and will rise no further, 48 hours being sometimes required. If the cells become perceptibly more than blood warm, cut down the current to a little.

Bad Case of Oil Dilution

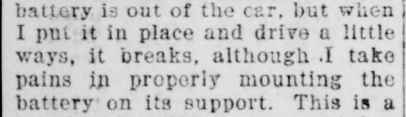

E. O. D. writes: For the past six months the heaviest and best cylinder oil that I can buy gets this as water and black as ink.

Answer: Even though all cylinders are firing regularly, the heavier portions of the gasoline, that are not converted into vapor, trickle down the cylinder walls, past the piston rings and mix with the oil. This can be prevented to some extent by pre-heating the fuel mixture so that evaporation is made more complete. The use of heated air for supplying the carburetor, and of exhaust gas to heat the intake manifold accomplish this and regulation of the water temperature to rather a high point, by shielding the radiator or reducing the circulation, is also effective. The more accurately the piston rings fit the cylinder walls, the less leakage of heavy gasoline constituents will take place past them.

Battery Jars Crack Repeatedly

E. K. S. writes: The jar of the cell on the positive side of my storage battery has cracked three times recently and has been replaced as many times. It does not crack and begin to leak while the battery is out of the car, but when I put it in place and drive a little ways, it breaks, although I take pains in properly mounting the battery on its support. This is a new battery. What causes this?

Answer: The containing case is relied upon to protect the jars from breakage, as they themselves have very little strength, even when made of the best material. Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

CHICAGO, March 5.—The cap-lips and doges and emperors and such once-upon-a-time chaps who used to romp about their cities strictly incoog to get an idea of how the other half lived would have the thrill of their drab lives to stroll around Chicago.

Abdallah-ben-Hakam, you'd be surprised. No hours, perhaps. And no mendicants given to minstrelsy. Nor wild ladies of Baghdad. That is, if you don't touch this prohibition stuff.

But where in the Bagdad or Byzantium did they ever have a street corner where there were eleven murders in six months? Or a theatre in a barn where the plays of George Bernard Shaw, Eugene O'Neill and other contemporary tall thinkers were presented? The Provincetown Players had one in a Greenwich Village heavy stable, true enough, but look here! The entrance wasn't a crumby alley like Chicago's.

What if you did disguise yourself, King Hal, and see your haughtiest duke chucking a London barmaid under the chin out of dinking hours? Did you ever see a restaurant off of Broadway with bravado enough to ask $7 for a steak that is guaranteed? No, and you never will, Hal, unless you've got five bucks more for a cover charge.

To get back to this street corner. It's called "Death Corner" in Little Italy, and that's no joke. The evenings used to be pleasantly broken up at Cambridge and Oak streets by shootings, stabblings and bombings of such regularity as to make it inconvenient for promenade purposes. Eleven in six months isn't an average or anything like that. It was the apex. Every business, every assassination, has its dull moments. But now there is a uniformed

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

"Come on out, Uncle Wiggily! Come on out and have a ride on our bob sled!" called Billie Wagtail, the goat boy, one morning, as he threw snowballs at Sammie Littletail, the rabbit chap, in front of the bunny gentleman's hollow stump bungalow. "Come on out, Uncle Wiggily, and ride on the bob sled!"

"Eh? What's that? Who is Bob Sled?" asked Uncle Wiggily, as he poked his pink, twinkling nose outside the door. "I don't know anybody named Bob Sled."

"He isn't an animal boy," laughed Billie. "A bob sled is two sleds fastened together with a long board, and a lot of us can ride on it at once."

"Oh, now I understand," said Uncle Wiggily. "I was wondering if Bobby Ringtail the raccoon boy, had changed his name to Sled. Why, yes, I'll come out and have some fun with you. Where's this bob sled I thought was a boy?"

"Here it is," chattered Billie Bushytail, the squirrel. "Wasn't Uncle Wiggily funny?" he whispered to Jackie Bow Wow, the puppy dog. "To think a bob sled was a boy!"

"Oh, I guess he did it for fun—he knew all the while," barked Jackie. And I wonder if Uncle Wiggily did?"

Anyhow, the old gentleman rabbit went coasting on the bob sled with the animal boys and he had lots of fun. And later that same day Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, saw Mr. Longears making something in the yard back of his bungalow.

"What in the world are you building, Wiggily?" she asked.

"I'm making myself a bob sled," answered the bunny.

"What? A bob sled—are you going coasting at your age?" asked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, holding her paws sprigged like—

"Yes, I am," answered Uncle Wiggily calm like and indifferent. "I was coasting a while ago on the boys' bob sled and it was fun. So I'm going to have a sled of my own."

Uncle Wiggily had bought two sleds at the five and ten-cent store and with a long board, a hammer and nails he was making what he thought was a bob sled like that the animal boys had.

"Now I'll go out and try it on a hill all by myself," said Uncle Wiggily when his sled was finished. "Of course, I may not have made this just right, and perhaps I don't know how to coast very well, going alone, but I'll soon learn."

Uncle Wiggily hauled his sled to a hill behind a grove of trees where no one would see him in case he should happen to take a tumble. The rabbit gentleman pulled his bob sled to the top of the hill and was about to sit down and coast, when all of a sudden a volcano cried:

"Hold on, there! Wait a minute!"

At first Uncle Wiggily thought

"Hold on there!"

from the Wolf, when all of a sudden the bob sled broke in two parts, right in the middle, because it wasn't made right.

"Whish!" away rushed the front sled with the Wolf on it right into a deep snow bank.

"Bunko-tunko!" away rushed the second sled and part of the board with Uncle Wiggily on it, all the way safely to the bottom of the hill. The bunny wasn't harmed at all, but the Wolf was buried head over heels in the snow.

Uncle Wiggily with the one sled ran safely back to his bungalow.

"My bob sled is broken—I guess I didn't make it right," he said to Nurse Jane. "But it's a good thing it cracked, or else the Wolf would have nibbled my ears. After this I'll coast on the bob sled of the animal boys."

"I think it would be better," agreed Nurse Jane. "And it was a week before the Wolf could dig himself out of the snow."

Now if the sugar spoon doesn't get lost when it goes down in the salt cellar to look for the bottle of milk, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's snow cream.

RADIO DEVELOPMENT

RADIO RECEPTION

Referring to the article in the last issue, to avoid the difficulties attendant upon the presence of the detector in the antenna circuit, with the resultant high damping effect caused by the high resistance of the detector, it was necessary to place the detector in a separate circuit coupled in some manner to the antenna. A number of methods were devised and tried at this period of development, but the greatest improvement at that time, especially as regards sensitivity, was the elimination of undesirable signals, is shown in the accompanying diagram. This is called the direct coupled connection, and while it is now considered obsolete in modern practice, it is the receiver which led the way to present day practice by adjustments to L 1 and C 2. Briefly described, the antenna circuit is called the primary or open circuit and consists of the inductance and capacitance of that circuit. Referring to the diagram, these are shown as L the inductance, and A the antenna or inductance, which it must be remembered also has inductance. The secondary is L 2 and C 2, known as the closed circuit. In the same manner that the transmitting antenna circuit is a good radiator or power, so is the receiving circuit a good absorber. It is tuned to resonance with

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

"The best time to frame an answer to the letters of a friend is the moment you receive them; then the warmth of friendship and the intelligence received most forcibly co-operate."

Speaking of writing letters (surely some one did) do you ever answer letters?

What a silly question, you say. What does the woman mean by it? Just what she says.

You WRITE letters, I know. Everyone does. But do you ever ANSWER them? I know a great many people who get letters and write letters, but who never seem to answer letters.

Some of them write delightful letters, you enjoy them to the full, but you can't help wishing that sometimes they would respond to some of the things you have said, answer some of your inquiries, show in some way besides mentioning it that they have really gotten your letter.

Nothing But Answer Of course there are a few people, a very few, who do nothing BUT answer letters.

Presumably the reason is that he neither follows the excellent advice given above nor when he does sit down to answer a letter does he begin by rereading. Maybe he skims it over, but ten to one he does not really read it.

The Ideal Letter Of course the ideal correspondence is one in which each person gives the other some pictures of his own outer life, some bits of gossip about mutual friends, some flashes from his inner life of thought and feeling and also a response to what the other has written.

A conversation in which each one talked for five minutes about HIS interests and then listened for five minutes while the other person talked five minutes about some other subject would hardly be called a satisfactory conversation even if what each said was very interesting. And the same is true about a correspondence.

The ideal way, I think, is to sit down as suggested above and answer a letter while you are still in the responsive mood that the first reading produces in you. To reread the letter when you are ready to answer is better than not to answer it at all, but a reread letter is something like a warmed over meal, not so tasty and heartening as in its first state.

Except for Lovers Of course if one answered a letter in a day or two and one's correspondent did the same thing, that would be a more lively correspondence than any but lovers have time for. But you need not write the letter the minute you write, you know. Write the reactions that come to your mind when you read the letter for the first time, then add something else later at your leisure and send it along in a week or two weeks or whatever length of time you think suitable and comfortable.

Of course, you won't do this (any more than I will), but you will surely admit that you would write the best letters and write them the most easily that way.

'DIVORCE SYNDICATE' ALLEGED Suit By Woman Year Ago Brings Indictment

Mrs. Sydney J. Hirsch, wife of John Berkowitz.

The divorce of Mrs. Sydney J. Hirsch, filed a year ago in New York city, has now brought about the indictment of John Berkowitz, charged with operating a "divorce syndicate." She had engaged Berkowitz to shadow her husband. It is charged he employed Mortimer Foss, who said he knew Hirsch, to watch the young husband. Later a raid was said to have been made upon an apartment, in which Foss declared he found Hirsch with a blond woman. Hirsch vigorously denied the charge and proved an alibi. Later Berkowitz was arrested, charged with procuring Foss to make a false charge against Hirsch.

BEAUTY CHATS

CUTTING THE NAILS

The easiest way to keep the nails short and the skin smooth around the nails' edges is to use the manicure scissors, but as this is only putting off an evil day it is not advisable to make this a habit. The nails should be filed to shape the ends, and the cuticle first softened by soaking in warm soapy water, then made neat by being pushed back with an orangewood stick.

There is one bit of the nail where the use of the manicure scissors is imperative, that is the tiny corner where the very front edge of the nail sinks into the flesh. This is an extraordinarily pretty bit of the finger-tip and on its treatment depends the good or bad appearance of your manicure. If it is a smooth pink crease between flesh and nail, as it should be, then it is very pretty, but if it is a place where hang-nails collect, where the skin stains and the nail itself becomes ragged, then, of course, it is very ugly.

Here the manicure scissors should be used. The nail itself is first filed to a prettily pointed oval, carefully cleaned and made smooth with a bit of emery paper, but all sorts of little roughnesses will be pushed down to each edge. Meantime also the cuticle, softened by immersion in the water, has been carefully pushed back. Sometimes it will have to be cut, but it should not be done any more than necessary. However, not even the most careful treatment will make that little crease at each side quite smooth enough.

As a finish the manicure scissors must be inserted carefully at each edge of the nail and the ragged bits clipped off. Then, if the skin is pressed back with the finger those little hangnails can be easily reached and also cut away. After that you need only rub in a bit of cream to make sure that your nails will look attractive.

Chaplin-Negri Wedding Scheduled for Summer

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Though no exact date has been set, Charlie Chaplin, king of screen comedy, and Pola Negri, famous Polish actress, will be married within the next few months or during the first part of the coming summer, it was learned today following Miss Negri's dining at Chaplin's mansion recently. The date for the nuptials hinges on when Miss Negri will complete the present picture she is making and Chaplin must also finish the vehicle he is working on.

The dinner last night is said to have swept away the pall of silence, that for three days drifted between the two lovers, and welded again their romance, which for a time Thursday was ended when Miss Negri broke their engagement, after Chaplin, in characteristic style, had made a "wise crack" for publication about being "too poor to marry."

Support your city health department so that they are not short-handed and can furnish enough meat and feed inspectors. Even with those precautions never eat pork unless it is very thoroughly cooked and you won't get trichina worms nor the disease trichinosis.

A BRIDE CAN FURNISH ON FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS

TOMORROW'S MENU Breakfast Grapefruit Cereal Coffee Fried Eggs Toast Luncheon Baked Macaroni-Cheese Dish Bread and Butter Tea Dinner Jelly Hamburg Steak Meat Balls Mashed Potatoes Stewed Celery Coffee Bread Pudding Bread Sauce

Five hundred dollars today will not buy the amount of furniture that $500 used to buy in Grandmother's day—but it can be made to provide enough very simple furniture for three rooms, bath and kitchen for a newly married couple—or for any two persons living in an economical way. This is how to plan the expenditures: In the first place, rid your mind of the idea that you "must have" a buffet in the dining-room. A buffet is one of the most expensive pieces of furniture in a home. Don't think of buying one at the start. Use, instead, a small, oblong serving table and place a candlestick on either end of it; you will find that it looks just as pretty and dignified as a buffet.

Another thing to renounce, is a bureau in your bedroom. Bureaus with a good, big beveled mirror are expensive. Use, instead, a large chest of drawers (perhaps bought second-hand and painted white) and hang a separate mirror on the wall over this chest. Separate mirrors are not especially high priced. Make your own quilted bed-comforter on an old-time quilting frame, as your ancestors did. And don't languish for a floor lamp in the living room!

Living Room—Cheap, wooden hospital cot with mattress and a monkeycloth couch cover and four cushions, $25; Axminster or Wilton rug, $12; two wicker or fibre arm chairs, $20; small imitation mahogany center table, $10; tall mahogany drop-light with large ecrú parchment shade, $18 (yes, it pays to get a good one, with two bulbs, and save oculists' bills later on!); tabourette for plant, $2; white scrim curtains, untrimmed, $10; over-drapes for curtains in cretonne (these might match the couch cover), $5. Total: $102.

Dining Room—Golden oak dining table, $30; four chairs, $24, serving table, $10; two mahogany candlesticks with yellow silk shades, $6; tabourette for plant, $2; Wilton rug, $8; white flouenced muslin curtains, $6; cretonne window overdrapes, $5; two natural-color linen table cloths, $30; six napkins to match, $10, white runner for serving table, $1. Total: $132.

Bedroom—Two rag rugs, $10; white enamel iron bedstead, $15; good spring, $25; good mattress, $25 (it pays to put money into these things); four sheets with double blanket, $12; enough cretonne for bedspread, chair pad, bureau scarf and window drapes, $15; white chest of drawers, $5; mirror for wall, $8; small rocker, $8; white straight chair, $2; white flouenced curtains, $6. Total: $151.

Fifty dollars equips the kitchen, and $25 the bathroom (including towels). Fourteen dollars furnishes the hallway. Grand total: $474.

While I was doing laboratory work in Los Angeles County Hospital I was asked to examine the blood of a man patient who came in with a tentative diagnosis of muscular rheumatism. He had been treated for rheumatism with no response.

His blood was not normal. Instead of showing the usual normal number—3 to 4 per cent—of eosinophils (a type of white blood cells so named because it has large granules which hold the bright red eosine stain when stained for examination), this patient's blood showed about 30 per cent of these cells. When I gave the report of my work to the physicians they suspected at once the right diagnosis, for these cells increase only in certain disorders, trichinosis, for little razor edged, Armed with a small fragment of the muscle from the calf of the man's leg. I placed it under my microscope and a fascinating picture rewarded me. In between the muscle fibers, cuddling cozily down and still wiggling, were little trichina worms. It certainly was an interesting sight. The whole staff of the hospital was called in to see this moving picture.

The man had eaten some under-done pork sausages. The pig that furnished this pork had probably eaten a rat infected with trichina and had in turn become infected.

Trichinosis is not an uncommon disease. It is estimated that from 10 to 20 per cent of swine are infected. (I don't mean this the way it sounds.) Germany used to furnish the most cases because the Germans are fond of rare pork. But since a very rigid meat inspection has been enforced they have no history of trichinosis. The orthodox Jews, the Hindus and Turks, who do not eat pork, are never troubled with this disorder.

Trichinosis is a terrible disease, but it is a preventable one. Even if pork is infected with trichina, very thorough cooking will destroy these worms. The smoking of bacon kills them should they be present, but ham being so much thicker may be under suspicion—sausages and potted ham also. Where meat inspection is very thoroughly done all infected pork is discovered and not allowed to be put on the market. These little worms can be seen as tiny specks in the meat, and to an experienced eye they are easily diagnosed. The infected meat is called "measly."

This is what happens should you eat under-done pork that is infected. The worms that are lying encysted in the meat are released after digestion of the little capsule of fibrous tissue which nature throws around them in an effort to wall them in and prevent harm to the system. The worms are thus set free in the intestines. Here they mate and thousands and perhaps millions of embryos are hatched. Many of them escape through the intense diarrhea that is caused by the inflammation they set up.

Police Fail to Probe Bunko Case, Is Claim

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Alleged failure by the police department to take action on a report by John A. Wells, Kent, Ohio, farmer, that three men had attempted to bunko him out of $40,000 in a fake stock game was under investigation today.

Mr. Wells, after identifying three of the ten alleged bunko swindlers arrested last Monday by detectives of the district attorneys office as the men who attempted to fleece him, claimed that he reported his case to the police last Tuesday.

He declared that no action was taken by the police, that no investigation was made by detectives and that no effort had been made by the police to ascertain if he could identify any of the ten prisoners in jail.

Captain of Detectives George K. Home denied that Mr. Wells has reported his case to the police.

WHAT IS LIFE WITHOUT A LIVER?

(Weekly Health Talk No. 21) (By Drs. Eble & Eble, Ds.C.)

The function of the liver in keeping the bowels active and the body clear of food wastes is so important that we may well ask, "what is life without a liver?" And the answer is, "hardly worth living."

Cathartics, mineral waters, special diets and mineral oils are the commonly employed aids when the liver action becomes weak and unhealthful. But any or all of these methods must eventually fail because they merely operate to make it easier for a weakened liver to do its work. They do not remove the cause. The only thing that will remove the cause of weak liver action is chiropractic spinal adjustments. Adjustments restore the conditions of healthful and vigorous liver action, and the liver in a healthful state needs neither drugs, waters, diets or oils to aid it in its work.

LIVER HEALTH COMES

"I despaired of ever getting relief, having tried so many methods and the best physicians in the city. Liver trouble and jaundice caused me to suffer for years. Then I tried chiropractic and it seems to me almost miraculous that I should be completely restored to health and once more enjoying life as only a well person can."

Congress Passes Bill On Tax Reductions

WASHINGTON, March 5.—By adoption of conference reports, congress passed on Saturday a bill regulating the method of making income tax deductions on account of capital losses. The maximum for such deductions is fixed at 12 1/2 per cent.

Another bill providing for income tax levy on profits received in exchange of properties of like character has passed each house. Both measures are ready for action by the president.

Charged With Murder, Threatens to Suicide

LOS ANGELES, March 5.—Drastic precautions were taken at the city jail today to prevent Louis Shapiro, charged with the murder of his sweetheart, Rae Golden, from taking his own life.

With tears streaming down his face Shapiro from his cell warned his captors: "I swear to God I will kill myself the first chance I get. My life is worth nothing."

While Shapiro was in jail his "common law" wife, with whom he lived for twelve years, was in a serious condition at the county hospital, expecting to become a mother.

Grip Left You a Bad Back?

Are you getting over a cold or grip only to find yourself a victim of backache? Are you suffering headaches, too, dizzy spells, a dull, tired worn-out feeling and annoying kidney irregularities? Then don't delay! Physicians agree that a vast number of the worst cases of kidney trouble are the result of germ diseases. In every infectious disease the system is alive with poisonous germs and bacteria. The kidneys are overwhelmed with the rush of new work; they break down, become congested, inflamed and diseased. Too often the real trouble is lost sight of until some dangerous kidney ailment sets in. If your kidneys are falling behind, don't wait for serious trouble. Begin using DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS today. DOAN'S have helped thousands and should help you. ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR!

J. W. FARRINGTON, Barber, 18 N. Broadway, Pasadena, Calif., says:
"The strain of standing affected my kidneys and brought on kidney complaint. There was a steady ache coming from the small of my back. Some nights I had to pass the kidney secretions often, and they were highly colored. I had dizzy spells and had to put my hands on the wall to steady myself. I thought my sight was going back on me. Six boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the Sun Drug Co., cured the backache and all symptoms of kidney disorder left."

MRS. J. C. HOUCK, 1049 E. Fifth St., Long Beach, Calif., says:
"I have kept Doan's Kidney Pills in the house for a long time. I know they are a splendid remedy. I have used them off and on for attacks of backache and a tired, languid feeling. The action of my kidneys was irregular, also. Doan's Kidney Pills have always relieved these ailments, strengthening my back and kidneys."

G. B. McCRACKAN, Machinist, 1570 E. 32nd St., Los Angeles, Calif., says:
"I am on my feet many hours a day, and between that and a cold which settled in my kidneys, it wasn't long before these organs were in a poor shape. My back was painful and twinges cut across my kidneys suddenly. I had to put up with a stiff, sore feeling across my kidneys. The kidney secretions passed too often. Different medicines did me no good. Doan's Kidney Pills took the pains and aches from my back and strengthened my kidneys."

Major League Managers Show Lots of Optimism As Training Season Opens

Copyright, 1923, International News Service
 NEW YORK, March 5.—The fact that in the spring a manager's fancy highly turns to thoughts of pennants is indicated by a not-pourri of pre-season statements issued today by various leaders of major league outfits. Most of them fairly bristle with optimism; although the general tendency is to concede the Giants and Yanks an excellent chance to repeat in their respective leagues.

The most bullish of the American league leaders is Ty Cobb, who not only doubts the Yanks' ability to repeat, but declares that he would not be surprised to see part of the next world's series played in Detroit.

Following are the opinions expressed for International News Service:
 John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants—"I think the National league situation in general is in fine shape, as all the clubs, with the exception of ours, have most of their players signed. We expect to have another hot race in the National league. I have a fine ball club, and we again will be in the fight to the end."

Miller Huggins, New York Yankees—"While I think predicting the outcome of a pennant race is very uncertain business, I don't mind saying that I believe the Yankees will repeat again this year. I think Detroit has been strengthened considerably and will be a factor."

Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers—"I do not want to predict that we will win the pennant, yet it would not surprise me if we did. We are starting out with better prospects than has been the case for many years. But for a lot of bad luck we would have finished second last year. I think we can beat both New York and St. Louis this season, and I look for no trouble from other teams."

Frank Chance, Red Sox—"The American league looks like a mighty close struggle to me. The Yankees will be naturally the club the others will have to beat, having the edge that goes with being champions. But the Browns ran them so closely last year that the least slip by Huggins' team will change the race."

Pat Moran, Cincinnati Reds—"I feel that our club is that one which will give a good account of itself. While I never want my players or myself to talk about pennants, we will be out there trying from the time the bell rings."

Clark Griffith, Washington Senators—"I look for our team to have one of the most successful seasons in its history. We have eight or ten of the best young players in the country, and these men coupled with our veteran strength, have inclined me to be more enthusiastic than I ever have been before at this time."

Fred Mitchell, Boston Braves—"Any team that can beat the New York Giants will win the National league pennant. McGraw has a really great ball club, and if it were not for a little uncertainty about his pitchers, the race would look like a runaway. But Cincinnati came very strong at the finish last year, and the Giant pitchers are veterans, and therefore likely to lose in effectiveness, so it would be foolish to predict any absolute result."

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals—"I believe the 1923 pennant race will be more open than some people think. The Giants, apparently, have an edge, but the seven other clubs have been greatly strengthened. The addition of Myers and Toney makes me feel that the Cardinals will be in the hunt from the start."

Lee Fohl, St. Louis Browns—"I am not in the habit of picking my club to win a pennant. It looks like a mighty close race to me, with the Browns giving the other fellows all they can handle."

Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh Pirates—"I feel certain that the Pirates will finish first or second in the 1923 National league pennant race, barring accidents. We have a very promising team; it looks like a winner to me."

Bill Killefer, Chicago Cubs—"I predict the Cubs will be the surprise of the National league race this year. We finished fifth last season. We will do better in 1923."

Fris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians—"Anybody who tries to pick a winner this season in the American league is foolish. Any one of a half dozen clubs has a chance to finish first. It looks like the most open race in years. We'll be trying, but so will all the rest of the teams."

Kid Gleason, manager of the White Sox—"Barring accidents, we look for the Sox to give a good account of themselves this season."

More Public Golf Links

Golf is the only major sport in which the participants range from infants to the oldest settlers.

Baseball, tennis, football, basketball and track all require youth.

More people, men, women, and children, are taking their exercise playing golf than at any other one sport. No game is growing faster. Twenty years ago a man seen with a golf bag would have been taken for an umbrella mender. Today nearly every small town in the east and many in the central west have their golf courses.

Municipalities realize the importance of golf as a health-giving recreation, and it is a very unprogressive city that hasn't at least one course open to the public.

A man might be a baseball, football or tennis fan and attend games year after year without so much as catching a baseball, kicking a football or serving one across the net at tennis, but the bug who is a golf fan plays the game himself.

To sit through a ball game munching peanuts and drinking pop water made from acids isn't improving your health any. Golf does not require that one keep in condition. Eighteen noops never left anyone with sore muscles. It is the greatest game for the greatest number of people that was ever invented, and ample public courses should be provided by municipalities so that all who wished could have a links to play over.

Chicago and Cleveland are far ahead of most cities in the matter of turning park acreage into public links. Detroit is building more. New York City has the least number in proportion to her population and they are the worst kept courses in all the land, although the upkeep fee is very high.

There is not one large city in the country that has been able to provide enough courses for the ever-increasing number of golfers. Smaller cities should take a lesson from this and obtain acreage for their public golf links while outlying land is cheap, and it should be acreage that will always be accessible, so the greatest number of citizens could always benefit from it.

Last year witnessed the first meeting of the leading public park players. Although many of our best golfers learned the game on public courses, this was the first national tournament of its kind ever held.

Some mighty fine cards were turned in over the Ottawa Park links at Toledo, and the standard of play was high.

Eddie Held of St. Louis proved himself the best golfer of the lot and won the title by defeating Richard Walsh of New York. Held qualified with a 139 and turned in a 73 in the finals.

Held gave Chick Evans the battle of his career in the Western Amateur last year with the match all square on the eighteenth. But Chick's steady play beat the youth at the third and last extra hole. Held was also runner-up in the Missouri championship last summer.

The World Over
 By FRANKLIN B. MORSE

That no golfer need get discouraged because he is off his game which apparently has flown from him forever, was exemplified recently by Roy Pickford, one of the best of the players on the links of the Coronado Country club. Pickford has been in a slump for more months than he cares to think about, but instead of getting discouraged he kept at the game notwithstanding the fact that a glance at his scorecard after a round gave him a drab and dismal feeling. A few days ago he entered into a match and suddenly, for no apparent reason, the knack had returned to him and he has been going along finely since.

These off and on seasons seem to be the case in all lines of sport. For no reason whatever the runner slows up, the shot putter fails to reach a mark he easily had been able to achieve, the high jumper cannot reach a leap that was comparatively easy. To attribute to any particular cause often is impossible. As easy a way to dispose of the question is to class it under the element of psychology. The important point to remember, and the truth of which has just been confirmed in the case of Pickford, is that the lost knack, or ability, or whatever you want to call it, comes back as unexpectedly and suddenly as it went. This is in the nature of a message of hope to those who think that something has snapped for all time.

We have heard a lot about the inability of champions to "come back" and particularly in boxing. The cases of "come backs" by Pete Herman, Jack Britton and Stanley Ketchel are constantly quoted as notable rare examples of champions who have "come back."

The old-time records, however, are full of instances of champions who have lost and regained their titles, and these cases date back, in the case of English titles, to a century or more. In the history of the American ring, however, there are some notable instances.

One of the earliest cases of "come backs" on record in American listiana is the case of John Morrissey, who won the heavy title in 1852 by defeating Geo. Thompson at Vallejo, Calif. Two years later Bill Pool beat Morrissey for the title, and then in 1858 Morrissey "came back" in his notable contest with John C. Hennan, the Benecia Boy.

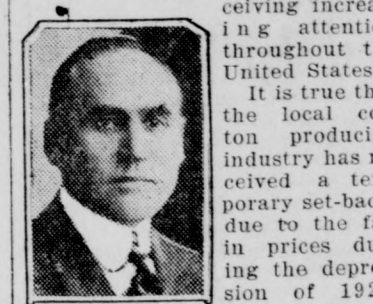

Another instance in the early heavy division is the case of Mike McCool, who, in 1866, won the title by defeating Bill Davis at Rhodes Point. He lost it two years later, but in 1869 regained the title by defeating Tom Allen at St. Louis. Then Allen got the "come back" habit, and in 1873 regained the title defeating McCool, the man who had taken it from him originally.

Pacific-Southwest Review

By H. NELSON, Vice President and Manager Glendale Avenue Branch Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank

The potentialities of the Pacific-Southwest as a textile producing and fabricating territory are receiving increasing attention throughout the United States.

It is true that the local cotton producing industry has received a temporary set-back, due to the fall in prices during the depression of 1920, but final reports for 1922 show clearly that there is a very definite tendency for both the per acre and total yield of the older cotton producing districts to decrease, with indications of an excellent market for raw cotton for some time to come.

The result is that producers are again showing an interest in production of cotton within the Pacific-Southwest, with indications pointing to increasing production in districts where cotton has already been grown and with districts which have heretofore ignored cotton potentialities showing an interest in production. This is evidenced by the fact that Santa Barbara county, which has heretofore never produced cotton on a commercial scale, is now planning to enter the ranks of cotton producers.

The possibilities of the Pacific-Southwest as a cotton producing district are well illustrated by the fact that the boll weevil and other cotton pests cannot thrive in this territory, due to the long dry growing season. As a consequence the principal factor which has led toward decreasing production in other districts cannot affect this territory.

Also, because of the long, dry growing season the bloom of Pacific-Southwest cotton is a dead white and the cotton is superior to that produced in ordinary cotton producing districts.

Not only does this territory have an advantage in the production of cotton, but it is also one of the leading wool producing districts of the United States. There are already woolen mills in this territory, and there are indications that there will be other important mills located here before long. As cotton and wool form the backbone of the textile industry the Pacific-Southwest has an important advantage of being the one district which produces both of these commodities on a commercial scale.

From a fabrication standpoint the Pacific-Southwest has proved that it can compete with other sections of the country in producing textiles and it is very advantageously located from a marketing standpoint, being able, through the use of the harbor and the Panama Canal, to tap the eastern consuming markets of the United States, and also being the natural gateway for both the raw material and the finished goods produced in the United States and consumed in the Orient, there already having been developed an important trade between the Pacific-Southwest and Japan in raw cotton.

As this district is the one portion in the United States which has the acreage and the proper growing conditions available to increase its production of raw textiles in sufficient quantities to make up for the decrease which is evident in other portions of the country, and as tendencies point toward profitable prices for producers during the next few years, there is every reason to anticipate that the interest which is again being manifested in these lines of agricultural endeavor will result in increasing production, together with expansion in the textile industry within the Pacific-Southwest.

NEW YORK, March 5.—Jole Ray will give William Ritola the beating of his young Scandinavian life when these arch rivals meet in a return race at 5000 meters on Wednesday at the games of the Western A. A. How do we know? Jole W. Ray!

Ritola beat him fairly and squarely, he admits, in slipping up from the surreptitious rear to nip Jole right on the wire and establish a world's record for the three mile distance some nights ago. But according to our hero the habit never grows upon any of his opponents. A second meeting, it seems, develops annoying consequences for the opponent in question.

"Just say this for me," Ray declared today. "I am going to hand Ritola one of the most artistic beatings a track athlete ever received at the western games. I am as sure of this as I am of my own name. In the first race, I was beaten fairly and squarely by a great runner, one of the greatest that lives today.

"But Ritola merely beat my time schedule, not me. I went out to run at a certain speed. To be more exact, I went out to run three miles in 14:17, which would have bettered the record. I was timed in 14:16 2-5. It didn't matter to me how or where Ritola was running. I was out to break the world's outdoor and indoor records for three miles.

"Did I do it? I did."

The additional fact that Ritola never seems to matter at all. He merely happened to finish in front. But it won't happen again, let Jole himself reassure you on that point. It just simply cannot be.

"I can lick that guy five times out of six," he said, "and I am going to do just that thing on next Wednesday night."

Streets Under Repair To Be Open Thursday
Harvard street between Brand boulevard and Central avenue, Orange street between Broadway and Colorado street and Hawthorne street between Orange street and Central avenue will be completely re-paved and open to traffic again Thursday morning, according to a statement this morning by E. R. Werdin, general manager of the Los Angeles Paving company.
Mr. Werdin came to Glendale this morning to inspect the work and announced himself well satisfied with its progress.
While superintendent of streets in the city of Los Angeles in 1903 Mr. Werdin was severely criticized for spending $1000 for a municipal automobile which he kept in repair and housed at his own expense. In this machine he inspected all street work in Los Angeles. He laughs when he thinks that the Los Angeles street department now owns many automobiles and a million dollars' worth of equipment.

Hi-Y Delegates Attend Reception at Azusa
Headed by Rex C. Kelley, secretary of all Glendale organizations of the Young Men's Christian association, a delegation of members of the local Hi-Y club motored to Azusa Friday night where they were guests of the Y-"ites" of the new Citrus Union high school. Those who made the trip included Paul Edmonds, Cedric Wilson, Harold Heacock, Newt McGillis and Richard Fisher.
The affair was a get-together and reception of all of the Hi-Y societies in Southern California and was attended by about 20 delegates. Merle Waterman, well known "Y" worker of Long Beach was on hand with his clever antics on the piano, as well as Sa Sutherland, former Occidental college yell leader and present Pasadena Hi-Y leader, who led the boys in several songs.
Early in the evening the young men gathered in the school gymnasium, where dinner was served by the members of the Girl league, after which a program was enjoyed. Rev. E. E. Sheper pastor of the Monrovia Methodist Episcopal church, was the principal speaker of the evening. His subject was "Preparation for Your Life's Vocation." Paul Edmonds, president of the Glendale Hi-Y groups, was among the afternoon speakers, as was M. Kelley.

ART ASSN. HOLDS SUNDAY MEETING

Method of Painting Shown By Noted Landscape Artist to Guests

The public meeting of the Casa Verdugo Park and Art association, held in historic "La Ramada" on North Brand boulevard, yesterday afternoon, proved to be a very popular affair, over fifty people being present.

A particularly attractive feature of the occasion was a demonstration by the landscape painter, Walter L. Cheever, of his procedure in making an oil painting.

Mr. Cheever chose for his subject a small landscape, and while putting the paint on the canvas explained the process in such a simple, concise manner that many of those present had a clear idea for the first time of how this art is accomplished.

An interesting exhibit of pictures from the Stendahl Galleries, Hotel Ambassador, Los Angeles, was hung on the walls of the room, the south salon where the guests were gathered.

New Officers

At a short business meeting the officers recently passed upon by the board were presented to the club at large and approved. They are: Mrs. Roy A. Ballach, president; H. C. Swartz, first vice-president; Miss Annie McIntyre, second vice-president; Mrs. L. C. Beach, secretary; and Mrs. Wallace Livey, treasurer.

The executive board consists of L. T. Rowley, chairman, and John Stephen McGroarty, Alexander Mitchell and Mrs. Ella Richardson.

ONCE RICH, WIFE NOW DESTITUTE

Widow of H. R. Jacobs, Once Wealthy Vaudeville Head, Poverty Stricken

By CHESTER B. BAHN
For International News Service

SANTA ANITA, N. J., March 4.—Once the mistress of a great fortune and the wife of a theatrical magnate of national reputation—today a "down and outer," penniless, friendless and with religious and racial differences forming a deep gulf between her and her stepchildren.

That in substance is the tragic story of Mrs. H. R. Jacobs, widow of the late H. R. Jacobs, once a millionaire theatre operator and "king of vaudeville" in the early days of variety.

Can't Get Work

"I am willing to work but they won't let me," is Mrs. Jacobs' claim. "I have sought work as a domestic, but they seem to feel that I, who once had a score of servants to wait upon me, am thus unsuited to wait upon others."

The late Mrs. Jacobs, who I am and the offer of employment is withdrawn.

Mrs. Jacobs took up her residence here, the native city of her husband, about a year ago, explaining that she was preparing a biography of her husband for publication.

Mrs. Jacobs married the erstwhile theatrical magnate some four or five years before his death, which occurred a few years ago. It was a late-in-life romance for the aged showman; the second Mrs. Jacobs was some years his junior.

Racial Barrier Raised

Jacobs was a Jew and his children by his first marriage looked with disfavour upon his Gentile second bride and his December romance with the second Mrs. Jacobs, that the religious bar has prevented her stepchildren from rendering her any assistance, and the same element has stood in the way when she appealed to friends of her husband for aid.

The rise of Jacobs in the show business was one of the miracles of the theatrical game. He started as the owner of a side show venture. He had an educated pig. While his first wife turned the barrel organ Jacobs delivered his "spiel" outside the tent in true side show fashion. Then, his audience secured, he went inside and put the trained porker through its paces.

The Jacobs carefully hoarded their savings, and upon the money secured through the big Jacobs built the huge fortune that he once commanded. This followed his partnership with Proctor, whose name is still perpetuated in vaudeville.

The firm of Jacobs & Proctor, with its theatrical holdings from Chicago to eastern points, almost dominated the variety field at one time. The old Grand Opera House here was so christened by Jacobs, after the firm had taken it over as the Barton Opera House. This was in 1884.

The Proctor-Jacobs chain of theatres grew by leaps and bounds from the start in Albany and this city. At one time the syndicate controlled no less than twenty houses, four of which were located in Chicago.

The firm had the Corinthian at Rochester, the Cort at Buffalo, the Cleveland at Cleveland, as well as houses in Montreal, Toronto and Newark. In Philadelphia, too, Proctor & Jacobs operated three theatres at one time.

COMMENT That's All

Battle Over Budget Grows Richardson Lines Up Force Reapportionment Contest Flirt With Farmer Vote

—By Gil A. Cowan

SACRAMENTO, March 5.—With the opening of the California legislature today following its constitutional recess, an observer could see an impending storm that threatens to shake the morale of the administration unless Governor Friend W. Richardson can rally sufficient support on the floors of both houses to defend his budget.

An organized attempt to juggle the funds of the state for political purposes is sure to be made by the squires and ladies of the old machine who are seeking to discredit the new regime. In fact, the word has been passed out in San Francisco that the governor's program for efficiency with economy must be defeated at any and all costs.

However, the governor is fortified with five or six able representatives in each house and he holds the whip hand under the budget act which makes him the final judge of appropriations unless passed over his veto. That privilege of the legislature is useless when more than a third of its members believe in the governor's program.

It has been charged, and perhaps justly, that only a small portion of taxation is paid by the corporations for state government, something like $35,000,000 of a $15,000,000 total, but if economy is to be effected it may well start with the state and gradually work into every assessment district. Cities, schools, counties and the state all need retrenchment, according to political economists.

'TOURIST' ALIBI FAILS IN COURT

Eagle Rock Justice Finds Regular Winter Guest $20 for Speeding

Thomas D. Murphy of Los Angeles failed to establish an alibi in Judge Cruzan's court at Eagle Rock Saturday morning, last, when haled into court for the alleged offense of having traveled at the rate of thirty-one miles in the 15-mile zone. Instead, he paid $20.

Murphy attempted to pull the "tourist" stunt, but had not worked out the details sufficiently to withstand a cross-examination directed at him by Judge Cruzan. He said he was a tourist, here for the winter. Judge Cruzan asked, "How long?" "Two or three weeks," said Murphy. "Now, just when did you arrive?" asked the judge. "Well, to be specific, I arrived on the 10th day of January, but I didn't know they had screwed down the lid," replied Mr. Murphy. "Have you ever been here before?" asked Judge Cruzan, and Murphy reluctantly admitted he had been coming to California for the past seven years and stayed for two or three months each year. "That removes you from the tourist class," said His Honor, and your fine will be $20. Murphy paid.

Others Contribute

S. A. Paddock pleaded guilty to driving on the wrong side of the street and was fined $5, which he paid.

W. O. Youngblood was charged with speeding and driving a car without an operator's card. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced $15 on the first count and $5 on the second.

Rufus A. Holt said he guessed the officer knew, when asked if he was guilty of the charge of driving faster than fifteen miles an hour. He was ticketed with going thirty, and paid a fine of $15 for the offense.

F. W. Carpenter was the next, and he got $20 for driving too fast.

The case of Edward Blusch, who was accused of cutting a corner and operating without a license, was continued until March 10, when it was shown that there was an apparent error in the ticket. The complaining officer was ill and not able to be in court. Blusch said he had cut the corner and got on the wrong side of the street to avoid a collision.

No Speedometer

"If this had happened in Los Angeles you would have been sent to jail," was the remark addressed to W. T. Smith by Judge Cruzan as he fined the former $25 for speeding.

Smith was charged with traveling at the rate of thirty-five miles and didn't deny the allegation. Said he didn't know how fast he was going as he was on his way to Los Angeles to have his speedometer repaired. He said that was the only place in Southern California where the mechanic could be done and he was anxious to have this part of the mechanism working so that he wouldn't break the speed laws. Smith tendered a check, which was accepted.

Arthur Boyce, Jr., drew a suspended $25 fine for joggling along at twenty-eight miles per hour. Judge Cruzan told the young man this should teach him a lesson, and if he appeared in court again on a similar charge he would be compelled to pay the $25 as well as any other fine assessed. He also promised the youth that if he, Judge Cruzan, sat on the case, he would have the time.

The mother of the young man was present and thanked the judge generously for his leniency. She agreed that it would be a good lesson.

Wrong Number

C. H. Hasselwood was let down easy when he proved that the number of his machine, as handed in by the motor cop was wrong. He paid a fine of $15.

Hasselwood was charged with going but thirty-five miles an hour and looked grieved when apprised of the charge. "It can't be done, Judge, that's a 1916 Chevrolet." "I was traveling along with an Overland, a Buick sedan and a Ford speedster, and what stumps me is how they happened to find I was going so fast and didn't get the drivers of the other cars." The wrong number saved Hasselwood.

WILL CELEBRATE ON ANNIVERSARY

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Plan Big Program for Orders' Birthday

These are busy days for members of the local Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges, for, in addition to the regular meetings and affairs of the two organizations, they are joining in plans for the city and county celebration, April 29, of the 104th anniversary of the founding of both orders in the United States.

A delegation from the local lodges journeyed to Los Angeles yesterday to meet with representatives from other county lodges and lodges in other parts of Southern California to plan for the anniversary event.

Glendale had the honor of having Mrs. Loretta Schwitters, noble grand of the Carnation Rebekah lodge of Glendale, chosen as general chairman for Los Angeles county.

Program at Verdugo

Other Glendaleans attending yesterday's meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Schwitters, H. W. Holtenbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hall, Mrs. Rozella Strothers and Nelson Johnson.

It is the plan of the Glendale people to hold their celebration in the city park in Verdugo Woodlands, making the program of varied interest during the day.

At the Rebekah meeting tomorrow night the Glendale lodge members are to have as their guest, Mrs. Lydia Hadley, district deputy president. The meeting will be held as usual at 8 o'clock in the I. O. O. F. hall and eight candidates will be initiated.

Then, on Friday night the Rebekahs are to be hostesses at a dance in the I. O. O. F. hall. Mrs. Evelyn Hall is chairman of the committee in charge. The affair is to raise money for the I. O. O. F. Orphan home at Gilroy.

HARDING LEAVES FOR NEEDED REST

Executive Shows Effects of Strain as Congress Ends Session

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, March 5.—With congress and its attendant worries off his hands virtually for the first time since he entered the White House, President Harding left Washington today for the first rest vacation he has had in twelve months. Incidentally, his departure marked his first absence from Washington since he resigned from a flying trip to Marion, Ohio, last July.

The strain of the twelve months' grind has told on the president. He appeared tired this morning as he prepared to join in the exodus of notables from the capital, on the heels of the departing congress. There were lines in his face that were not there a year ago, and there was little of that freshness and buoyancy in his bearing that was so noticeable two years ago today when he first took up the heavy duties of the presidency.

Many Leave Capital

The Harding train was nicknamed the "convalescents' special" when it pulled out of Union station. Aboard it were Mrs. Harding, now in the final stages of recovery from the nearly fatal illness that has kept her confined to the White House for six months, and Attorney-General Harry M. Daugerty, who has not been at his desk in the department of justice for some weeks. Others in the party were: The secretary of war and Mrs. Weeks; Secretary of Labor Davis, A. D. Lasker, chairman of the shipping board; Senators Hale and Frelinghuysen; Judge John Barton Payne; Jesse Smith of Ohio; Dr. C. E. Sawyer, Secretary Christian, and the usual secret service operatives and correspondents.

ARTISTS LEAVE

In this connection," states Mrs. Ballach, "it might be well worth noting that many prominent artists, among them this same Ralph Pearson, have come to Glendale—and have gone. Albin Payne and Mr. Womesley both came to Glendale and left it, unable to find any encouragement here. Many others have done the same thing. What we of the Casa Verdugo Park and Art association are trying to do is to create some permanent art center here in this city, to attract artists—and therefore benefit ourselves and enrich Glendale."

The executive board, Mrs. Ballach reports, are well under way in their negotiations for financial aid to save La Ramada as the center for this cultural development. What Berkeley can do, we can do, is her sentiment, and that of the association.

C. of C. Will Entertain Teachers of Glendale

Teachers in all of the Glendale schools, both high school and grade schools, will be the guests of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce on Friday night at 8:30 o'clock, in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, when a special program of music and addresses will be presented, and when an elaborate buffet supper will be dispensed.

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce feel that some recognition is due the men and women who are bearing such an important part in the training of the youth of the city, says President Jesse E. Smith, and the recent addition of the entire high school faculty to the membership of the organization has been the cause of considerable gratification to the directors, showing, as it does, the growing interest of the teachers in the work of the Chamber of Commerce for the improvement of the city.

Occidental Debaters Defeat Pomona Rivals

Occidental College debaters defeated their ancient rivals, Pomona College, in the second series of debates in the Southern California League of Public Speaking Friday evening at Occidental. Edison Rice and White McGee were the Tiger speakers who brought home the 2 to 1 decision. The subject under fire was whether the United States should adopt a cabinet-parliamentary form of government. Oxy defended the negative side of the argument. Last year Pomona defeated Occidental in the annual debate for the first time in eight years. The Tiger orators were out for blood this year to re-establish its prowess and was not disappointed in the least.

While McGee and Rice were defending the negative position of the question at home, Verne Mantle and Robert Stevenson were taking the opposite view of the situation at Cal Tech, Pasadena. These men were not as successful as their colleagues at home. The decision was 2 to 1 for the Engineers.

John Akers, brother of the injured woman's husband, has arrived from Kansas, and Mrs. Akers' brother is on the way to her side from his home in Texas.
