PRICE TWO CENTS

NARBERTH PLAN IS EXPLAINED IN DETAIL

Soon To Be Put In Operation

The complete details of the Narberth Plan—exactly what it is, how it will work and how the consumer will benefit—were explained last night to a good-sized audience of citizens of the borough, at the town meeting held in the Arcade Theatre. The principal speaker was W. R. D. Hall, chairman of the General Committee that has had charge of the plan, and A. B. Ross, also a resident of the borough, who is known as the "father of the Narberth Plan." After Mr. Hall had spoken, Mr. Ross answered a number of questions asked by men and women in the audience.

A brief outline of the Narberth Plan, as explained by Mr. Hall, follows:

The first step in putting the Narberth Plan in operation will be the formation of an informal association, each member of the association agreeing to pay dues of fifty cents a month. As Mr. Hall said, "It will cost you fifty cents a month, for two or three months, to give this plan a trial. We believe we have something that will benefit individual residents and the community at large. The plan has been submitted to consumers, retailers, wholesalers and bankers and has been indorsed by representatives of each of these groups. Mr. Ross is an acknowledged expert in matters of food supplies and food merchandising, and we are indebted to him for the Narberth Plan. Not this evening, but later, we will ask you if you are willing to co-operate with us in giving this plan a fair test. You can't lose more than fifty cents a month for two or three months. If the plan is a success, as we have every reason to believe it will be, you will be assured of standard food supplies at better prices than is possible under the prevailing methods of buying."

The monthly dues paid by the members of the association will be used to pay the salary of a secretary, who will transact all the business of the association, and of course, any other incidental expenses, such as stationery, printing and postage. When the plan is in operation the secretary will collect orders for goods from the members who will be supplied with price lists. These orders will be assembled and turned over to the retail merchant who, based on his bid, has agreed to handle the business for the members of the association. The goods will be delivered at the homes of the members at schedule times and at the end of each month the secretary will present to the members bills for their purchases, and collect the money, which he will deposit with the bank that has agreed to co-operate with the Narberth Plan. The bank, in turn, will settle with the retailer.

Before the plan is inaugurated, each member will be asked to estimate the approximate expenditure of his household for staple groceries for the period of a month and he will then deposit with the bank cash to that amount or a demand note for that amount. The money thus deposited remains in the bank from month to month as a guarantor of the member's financial stability and may, of course, be withdrawn by a member at any time that he or she wishes to withdraw from the association. The secretary will be in close touch with the bank at all times and should a member, in his purchases, exceed the amount of his deposit or the amount of his note, the bank will notify him and he will increase his deposit or note proportionately.

Under the Narberth Plan there will be a charge of five cents for each delivery, and there will be a charge of one cent for each dollar's worth of credit extended. Credit accounts will be the accounts of those consumers who have deposited demand notes with the bank. The virtue of this feature is this: In the first place, householders will learn by experience to order less frequently than they have been accustomed to order and they will order in larger quantities. Those who pay cash will not have to bear the burden of the expense entailed upon the retail merchant in conducting a credit business. As the retail business is conducted to-day, every consumer has to pay his share of delivery costs and his share of the expense of maintaining a credit business, whether he enjoys a reasonable number or an excessive number of deliveries and whether he pays cash or gets credit. The Narberth Plan will make possible every service that the present system provides, but consumers will only be charged delivery costs for their own goods. In this way the consumer will know exactly what he is getting and exactly what he has to pay for it.

Moreover, any member of the association will have the right to go to the store of the retail merchant co-operating in the plan, and by paying cash and carrying his goods, purchase anything he wants at the Narberth Plan prices, which will, of course, be less the 5-cent delivery charge and the 1-cent credit charge.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Hall announced that an opportunity would be afforded each resident of the borough at an early date, to enroll as a member of the association with the view to giving the Narberth Plan a trial, adding, that if there were any persons present who wished to signify their willingness to co-operate with the committee to the extent of making a test of the Narberth Plan idea, the secretary would take their names. As a result of this announcement, about forty people in the audience gave their names to the secretary and agreed to make a trial of the Narberth Plan.

The work of organizing the association and putting the plan in operation will be started immediately.

YEARLY REPORT OF THE SUFFRAGE ORGANIZATION

The Narberth Branch of the National Woman Suffrage Organization held meetings the first Friday of every month during the year 1917, except the months of July, August and September. These meetings have always been well attended and new members appeared from time to time. We had the pleasure of hearing quite a few well known suffrage speakers during these months and on April 2 our organization invited the public to hear the world-famed Mrs. Forbes Robertson Hale speak on "Suffrage" at the Arcade Theatre. Also in April the amendment came before the House at Harrisburg and Mrs. Charles Verna was the delegate selected to represent us, but, we must add, with regret it was defeated.

A telegram urging National Prohibition as an economic war measure was sent to President Wilson.

In October our members undertook the registration of all women residing in Narberth for the Woman's Committee of the Council of National Defense.

Two card parties were also given during the year by the entertainment committee to help raise funds, as money we must have to further our work.

While our organization, as a body, did no actual war relief work almost all our members have worked faithfully with our local Red Cross and the Main Line Canning Center at Ardmore. Of course we all hope that the Federal Amendment will pass successfully in Washington on January 10, but we have become rather accustomed to defeat, in Pennsylvania, so if it does not get a majority vote, let each one of us put our shoulders to the wheel in 1918 and work harder than ever to bring about that which we all so earnestly desire—Equal Suffrage.

Louise Voss Cockrill, Secretary.

The officers for the ensuing year: Mrs. Charles W. Young, president; Mrs. W. H. Pugh, Jr., vice president; Mrs. J. Klingler, secretary; Mrs. Edgar Cockrill, treasurer.

Since the above reports were made out the Federal Amendment was won in the House on January 10, and sent to the Senate, where the greatest odds will have to be met with. We cheerfully hope for the best.

EDITORIAL

The church militant is in the ascendant. From almost every house of worship a service flag flies.

An embargo has been placed on the exportation of butter, except to nations associated with the United States in war.

The first woman snow shoveler in New York quit rather than be photographed. Maybe her shovel wasn't on straight.

In Pleasant Valley, N. Y., the thermometer registered 24 degrees below zero last week, and in Death Valley it was 72 in the shade.

Maybe Uncle Sam adopted the three-cent stamp just to show his nephews how money piles up when accumulated in small denominations.

Christmas mail this year was 25 per cent heavier than ever before, according to the Postoffice Department. The congestion was less, however, because the packages were mailed earlier than in former years.

At the Community Bible Class on Tuesday evening, January 22, the subject will be "The Sabbath and the Lord's Day." Pastor H. S. Tillis makes these lessons very interesting, and his discussion of the difference between the Jewish Sabbath and the Christian First Day should be very helpful to all present. These meetings are open to the public. Come and enjoy them and bring a friend.

Apropos of the welfare of the borough, there is nothing that is impressed on our minds with more insistent regularity than the urgent need of better post office facilities. In this issue, a suggestion is made that is well worth serious consideration by the borough, postal and railroad authorities. The use of the present station building as a post office is a practical solution of the question. The expense of alterations would not be great, and the building of the new station on the South side would not involve a great outlay of money. The expensive part of the whole proposition is the bridging of Essex avenue, and re-locating the freight sidings. This could be left to a more favorable time. As this plan has already been discussed by some of the railroad officials, and looked upon favorably, we hope steps will be taken for a joint discussion by all interested parties.

Burgess Downes' message to our Council augurs well for the future of the borough. It is animated by a clear, intelligent appreciation of the duties of the new administration in its relation to the best interests of the community. The different topics touched upon are all of vital interest, and are discussed in a manner that indicates a thorough conception of the needs of the borough, and knowledge of the ways and means whereby they may be economically and efficiently met.

If his suggestions are received by the newly-organized Council in the same spirit in which they are offered, we may well look forward with satisfaction to the future of Narberth. We have no reason to expect anything but complete harmony between the Burgess and Council, and have entire confidence in their ability to transact the business of the public with credit to themselves and benefit to our citizens.

There is to be a general mass meeting for girls at the Y. M. C. A. next Friday evening at 8.15—a patriotic meeting—to hear Miss Anne L. Flanders, of Philadelphia, tell "What the Government Wants of Our Girls." The committee is especially anxious to have every girl of over sixteen years of age and every young woman of Narberth come out and hear Miss Flanders. She is the Assistant Federal War Worker in the Patriotic League for girls and the Association Secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Women Workers, which latter organization is a member of the National League of Women Workers. Mrs. Fletcher W. Stites will preside at the meeting.

Miss Flanders is a very busy young woman and it is a great privilege for Narberth girls to be able to hear her in their own town. Just now there is much for women and girls to do in many lines of service. Narberth is doing finely in Red Cross and other work. But there are many lines of work which we out here have not taken up at all. It would be well for us to know what people in other towns and cities are doing.

To the Editor of Our Town:

It's in a contentious way, the receipt of this week's Our Town finds me, and some of the devilish spirit I would have out on you. And should this find you in a similar mood, Mr. Editor, why, let me have it as you will, for a bit of Kilkenny won't harm the best of us. It's this Civic Association I would know about first. Just what is this organization of which the new Burgess speaks, and what is it doing these long winter nights to while away its time? 'Tis a live thing, surely, for look at the formidable roster of "drecs" whose names are snugly perched on the mast-head of "Our Town's" every issue, but believe me or not, Mr. Editor, nary a thing have I heard from or about it since I came to Narberth, not so long ago, to be sure, but still long enough, if my senses were all about me, to know of something which I might help and which might help me. Or maybe it's wrong I am in my notions of what a Civic Association is, but kind you must be to me if I am, for the talk I hear of other places has confused me, that's all. Tell me, then, about its meetings, its purposes, its activities, its membership and all the things that he who comes as friend would like to know. And, now, come to the centre on those associate editors, for it's a selfish man you must be indeed to credit them not at all with all the work they must do. Or is it that they prefer to bask in anonymity and that it must be their light shall be perennially under a bushel? Stingy you will be in truth if even a glimpse we can't have of an editorial meeting.

Before we stop, let perplexity have one more fling, and that brings up the question of your largest advertiser. I'm sure, Mr. Editor, our good postmaster is not a vain man, far, far from it, I know, but certainly he can't be so constantly and copiously displaying his wares to attract us to his edifice and then what must it be? Fine stamps they are he sells, excellent value at all prices, and no better Thrift Bonds can be had, service unsurpassed, but curiously liberal you are with him when his boss is so penurious with us. It's a canny piece of mental camouflage he's practicing on us, thinks I, and he would have us feel it's a regular postoffice, after all. Your Uncle Sam knows how to pick his clever men, that's plain, but it's the money we need, you say, and who, then, has more of it?

Your reply will be looked for expectantly—and after that the Cub Handy with the hammer, that Cub a good man, too—I feel he is, anyhow—but just the same I had better wait and see before I sign other than as Notions.

The Brightest Spot in Narberth
A drug store in the most modern sense of the term

CUB'S WEEKLY LETTER

DR. J. BERG ESENWEIN'S
NEW BOOK

"Children's Stories and How to Tell Them"

To the Editor of Our Town:

Something like 100 women of Narberth spend on the average of three to four hours weekly at the Red Cross work rooms in the Y. M. C. A., sewing bandages, shirts, bed linen and a host of other things that are of vital necessity to our boys in Europe, and at the various camps in this country. One hundred sweaters and other knitted articles have been made in Narberth homes and in the work rooms and, all in all, these ladies have done an almost incredible amount of work, judging by the size of the shipments that have left here.

Most of us hear very little about this and it seems to me that a little publicity should be given the matter, not only because the women deserve some recognition of their excellent work, but also because there must still be a few hundred women in Narberth who would be glad to give a few hours of their time weekly to help along this humane and patriotic project, did they know what was going on. There is plenty of room and plenty of work, as well as a cordial welcome for all that care to help. The rooms are open all day Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The materials are there and the duties are at once congenial and of great value to the soldier boys.

Of course, even a great big unselfish demonstration of patriotism like this has some opposition; you will find a knockers' club in every community. It has its uses, however. The more you knock a man, the more you advertise him. Do you know, Mr. Editor, the impression is stealing over me that the women are doing more for the big cause than the men—at least the stay-at-home men.

Chief Kirkpatrick in his cozy wigwam, sat back comfortably in his arm chair and reflected thus: "I'm a wise guy. Everyone else is going about hunting for coal, while my bins are full. I guess I'm foolish like a fox, yes?" Just then something went "bang" and behold a radiator had burst. All the coal in the cellar didn't make any difference to that radiator when it felt like quitting. The last seen of Kirkpatrick was when he had his war paint on hunting for a plumber and his dream of bliss was shattered in a minute. Lots of coal, but the only heat was under his collar, but never mind, Kirk, we are all having our troubles.

Some message, hey? But did you get that "Honorable Body" stuff and did you see them fall for it? Well, in any event the country's safe now.

There's a town in Connecticut called Satan's Kingdom. It froze up recently. Some of us will have to get a new expression now.

And that reminds me of the story about Gladys Zell, who went into the coal yard the other day and asked if her father, John Zell, had ordered a ton of coal. "He sure did," says our friend Mr. Lynch. "That's good," says she. "I'm Gladys Zell." "So am I," says Lynch.

The experience of our ex-fellow townsman, who has achieved such wide publicity in the last two weeks, brings to mind the old maxim: "Do right and fear no man," but also, more forcibly, the parody: "Don't write and you needn't be afraid of any woman."

Several of the Main Line Fishing Club members have received highly decorated postal cards from Port Arthur, Canada, in which are shown the placid waters of that vicinity and several stragglers of shirtwaisted men enjoying the gentle zephyrs. The mind of the sender of the cards rises above the present temperature of Port Arthur, 40 degrees below zero, and expresses his appreciation of the possibilities of the place in these words: "What do you think of this spot for fishing?"

Who but our old friend, Bill Cumber, could even think about fishing, at this time?

"Cub."

A new book by Dr. Esenwein is always greeted with interest by his former fellow-townsmen of Narberth, where a number of his best books on the Short Story were written. That Dr. Esenwein holds a supreme place as an authority on the art of story telling is attested by critics of the very highest standing, ranging from the reviewer of the London Spectator to him of the Rocky Mountain News. Dr. Esenwein, in fact, has a world-wide reputation, and by force of native genius, intensive training and years of experience, has fitted himself to be easily first in his chosen field.

Other books along this line include the following: Writing the Short Story, Lessons in the Short Story, Short Story Masterpieces, Studying the Short Story, Art of Versification, Writing the Photoplay and Art of Story Writing. These form a series invaluable to writers, whether beginners or experts. They have been adopted in many of our highest institutions of learning, a significant tribute to their excellence.

This newest book, "Children's Stories and How to Tell Them," written by Dr. Esenwein in collaboration with Marietta Stockard, is not only for the writer, but will be welcomed in every home where there are children making that universal and insistent demand, "Tell me a story."

One section of the volume gives very valuable lists of source-books for stories, lists of books of stories, lists of tales for very little children, animal stories, etc., with names and addresses of publishers, so that local booksellers may help parents and teachers in their search for stories of merit, old and new.

A few of the chapter headings will more fully show the scope of this clear and useful guide for story-tellers: "The Place of the Story in the Life of the Child," "How Stories Develop the Personality," "The Basis of Selection of Children's Stories," "The Structure of the Story," "The Preparation of the Story for Telling," "Methods of Story Telling," "Inventing Stories from Pictures," "Adapting Stories from Great Sources," "Telling Original Stories," "Helping Children to Invent Stories."

No more welcome help to those who see the importance of giving only the best in story to the children could be found than this inspiring, interesting book. Its use in school, home and recreation center is sure to be widespread.

"Children's Stories and How to Tell Them," by J. Berg Esenwein and Marietta Stockard. XVI x 351 pp. Cloth, $1.50 net; postpaid, $1.62. Uniform with The Writer's Library. The Home Correspondence School, Springfield, Mass.

Membership Campaign Now On For The Y. M. C. A.

The long-talked-of Y. M. C. A. membership campaign begins this week in the circulation of literature through the town descriptive of the benefits and advantages of membership in the Young Men's Christian Association. It is with a firm conviction that such membership is a worthwhile investment, and a conscientious determination to make it so, in the privileges and benefits offered with it, that the directors come before the people in this effort to swell the roster of the association.

The plan to be followed will be similar to that carried through in behalf of the Y. M. C. A. hut campaign, and it is believed that the great interest shown in the former enterprise will be fully equalled in this drive for the benefit of the boys and men—and the women and girls—of our home town.

The solicitors are to enroll not only men and boys, but all the women and girls who can be induced to be numbered among the supporters of the institution which has so long been a credit to Narberth. And the privileges are to be shared by both sexes with as great an equality as the demand may make necessary.

The rates of membership are as follows: Men, full membership, including gymnasium and game room, $5; social, lobby and game room, $2; Women, full membership, $3; social, $1.20; boys and girls, special campaign rate for a full year, open only until January 31, $2.

The steady increase in the number of members already added indicates that the increase in activity and efficiency displayed in the management of the various departments have not gone unnoted. Fathers are bringing their boys and enrolling with them. This is as it should be, and with the new gymnasium provisions both senior and junior memberships are properly regarded as valuable privileges.

Tuesday of each week is hereafter to be Women's Day, and during any part of the afternoon or evening women and girls are invited to come in and use the bowling alleys and billiard tables, the preference being given to them on that day. It is also the day for the women's gymnasium class.

Mothers of Narberth are invited to come in on Thursday afternoons at 4.30 or Saturday mornings at 9 and watch their boys in the 9 to 12 class, from the balcony. Just their practice work is a sight worth seeing, and parents cannot fail to be impressed with the value of the exercise their children are receiving.

As stated before, hundreds of books from the Y. M. C. A. library have been out for months. It would be a real kindness to return them to the shelves.

For numbers in attendance, the Community Bible Class is still in the lead among the good things at the association rooms. The members of the class are as enthusiastic as ever regarding their work.

The habitual use of the privileges of the association, including the lobby, gymnasium and game rooms are now restricted to members only. This is merely following the universal custom of Young Men's Christian Associations everywhere, and will be appreciated by those who are desirous of seeing the privileges conserved for the enjoyment of those entitled to them, the property protected and the dignity of the association maintained.

progress as well as circumstances will permit.

On Tuesday, January 22, Home Economics Class at the school house, under Miss Fryer's supervision. Please be at the school house at 2.30 P. M. promptly.

Douglas Fairbanks is considered one of the foremost stars in the movies. His playing is considered equal if not better than Charlie Chaplin. He plays next Saturday at Narberth Theatre.

"The Missioners" of the Methodist Church were entertained by Mrs. Koppel in the parsonage on Monday last. Eighteen ladies braved the ice and rain. Our elect women are out to win these days.

If you want to know what other girls are doing for Uncle Sam and if Narberth girls want to know what Uncle Sam wants of you, be sure to hear Miss Flanders on Friday evening, January 18, at Y. M. C. A., at 8.15.

Men will be given special attention next Sunday night in "The Little Church on the Hill. "What Makes a Man?" is the first of a series of four topics dealing with problems interesting to men. Women and girls are invited.

The Executive Committee of the Public Safety Committee has summoned the farmers of Montgomery county to assemble in the Court House at Norristown on January 23, at 2 P. M., to organize for increased farm production.

The shows that are now being played at "the movies" are the same as have been shown during the past few weeks at "The Stanley," "The Victoria," etc. The best pictures possible, at any price. This is the motto of the new management.

The local fire company was called out at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning and made the run to Ardmore to find that the fire which was in the old frame building on Lancaster pike, next to the telephone building, was under control of the Ardmore firemen.

No more delightful Sunday afternoons in the bright attractive sun parlor of the Merion Gold Club until next Spring, for the Board of Managers has decided to close the club in accordance with the request of the government and the poor half-frozen skaters will have to motor to the main clubhouse or to their homes for warmth and tea after this.

A pleasant social gathering was held in the lecture room of the Presbyterian Church on Monday evening of this week. About fifty of the congregation attended and participated in amusing and entertaining contests, arranged under the skillful leadership of Mrs. Lester W. Nickerson, assisted by Mrs. Colesworthy, Mrs. Wright, Miss Ethel Watts, Miss Wheelock and others. Refreshments were served after the contests, and all who participated expressed themselves as very much pleased with the affair.

Announcement of the selection of Charles Owen Humphreys, 108 South Narberth avenue, for nomination to the Naval Academy, was made on Saturday by Congressman-at-large John R. K. Scott, of Philadelphia. Owen is one of our most promising young men, and has quite a reputation as an all around athlete. He comes from old revolutionary stock, being a direct descendant of Charles Humphreys, a member of the Continental Congress, and of Joshua Humphreys, commander of one of America's first ships of war. His ancestors came to this country with William Penn in 1682. Owen will graduate from the Haverford School this June.

PRESENT NARBERTH STATION REMODELED

Suggested as Post Office, With New Station Building On South Side

This improvement could be carried out at once and would not be dependent on the Essex avenue bridge, the construction of which should be deferred probably until after the war owing to the expense involved. The present stone station building, if remodelled as a post office, would be admirably located, being in a similar position to the new post office at Merion.

Owing to the fact that the business section of Narberth, as well as a larger part of the population, is on the north side of the railroad, it would seem that the post office should be on that side. The post office on the north side is more convenient for those arriving from the city, and, as the average commuter, has little time in the morning to catch his train, he is more likely to go to the post office in the evening, when coming home, in which case the north side post office is convenient to both the north and south sides. The station building, for many reasons that we all know, should be on the inbound, or south side, of the tracks, so that if a new station is built the present substantial stone building would remain unused as a station and ticket office.

The suggestion has been made that instead of attempting to enlarge the present post office, the stone station building be remodelled and the frame post office removed, thereby allowing Haverford avenue to be widened, where such is most needed, and a wide sidewalk built in front of the post office. This would greatly improve the general appearance in the vicinity of the station. The new station on the south side could probably be built at once by making a slight revision in the arrangement of the freight yard tracks, and later, when the freight yard tracks are placed on the north side of the railroad, the approaches to the new station would be improved with driveways and shrubbery.

We understand that certain officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad, who have been giving this matter considerable study, are favorably impressed with this arrangement.

The above department should be of the greatest use to the community, the list contains the name of every professional man, tradesman, mechanic, shopkeeper, etc., who does or can in any way serve his fellow-townsmen, and who is progressive enough to add name to list of Register. As it is difficult for those contributing their time and efforts to the production of "Our Town" to personally either know or interview all such, it would be most helpful if those not now found in the printed list would send in a memo of their names, address, phone numbers and businesses or professions for listing. This will cost as follows: 10 cents each issue for 2 lines; 5 cents for each additional line.

WOMEN'S COMMUNITY CLUB NOTES

"Would they were always with us. We love them well."

The above quotation adapts itself admirably to the sentiment that prevailed at the meeting of the Women's Community Club on Tuesday afternoon, January 8, when the members and their guests, numbering between seventy-five and one hundred, were entertained by the children of the members. About thirty-five children took part in the program and too much cannot be said in commendation of Mrs. Joseph Barclay, chairman of music, assisted by Mrs. Ellery Taylor, Mrs. James Donnelly, Mrs. C. E. Long, Mrs. W. M. Cameron and Mrs. C. P. Fowler, who were responsible for this very excellent program, consisting of vocal and instrumental solos, recitations and tableaux. The children are likewise to be commended for their splendid spirit and many thanks, mothers, for your enthusiastic co-operation.

The committee also takes this opportunity of publicly thanking Mr. W. C. Poor and Dr. William Cameron, who made the stage and curtain effects possible and the school board for the loan of the latter. The afternoon concluded with a delightful social hour with Mrs. Edgar Taylor as hostess, being ably assisted by Mrs. Charles Verna, Mrs. William Livingston and Mrs. H. F. Stevens.
