THE BEE.
 PRINTED DAILY, BY F. DELLEIN
 St. Peter Street, between Bourbon & Royal.
 FRIDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1828.

We are authorised to state that Mr. J. Mercier is a candidate for the House of Representatives to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Waggaman.

The political condition of France has never been happier than it is at the present moment. The late triumph of the liberal party has been full and complete, and the people are now in the enjoyment of all that is essential to solid and rational liberty. A correspondent of the London Morning Chronicle observes:—"The greater degree of practical freedom, in the expression of opinion, which Englishmen have often set off against the claims of superiority in the simplicity of the French system of law is now reduced to a very limited extent, at least in Paris. Espionage and tale-bearing, with all their accompanying evils, are at present banished from this city; and a liberal opinion, if expressed in a café, no longer subjects the Frenchman to legal notice, nor entails on the foreigner an 'invitation' more peremptory than welcome, to quit the country. The print shops abound not only with portraits of Napoleon and his favorite generals, but with representations of those incidents of his life which made him beloved by the people in the army. The reflection of his great and kind actions is no longer forbidden, and a liberal ministry deserves the honor of having afforded a proof, that to preserve the stability of the throne of the Bourbons, it is not necessary to forbid Frenchmen to remember those scenes of glory, with which so many of them have identified themselves. A short time since, when the present ministry had recently taken possession of an office, a printer, who had purchased a large quantity of prints representing the Emperor Napoleon under some of the most glorious circumstances of his life, exposed these prints for sale. A busy underling of the police, passing by the shop, saw them, and with a great degree of ultra-royalty seized them, and summoned the printer before the tribunals. The process was prepared, and the case submitted to the decision of the court, who declared the printer not guilty of any offence, and condemned the over zealous police officer to the payment of the costs. The decision has had, as might have been expected, a very powerful effect in tranquilizing the sensitive loyalty of these official gentlemen." Not long ago we had occasion to mention the seizure of prints of this very description by the police as dangerous to the public tranquillity, and they were proscribed accordingly!

[N. Y. Journal of Com.]
 The opinion was expressed in some of the New-York journals, a short time ago, that the act of the British Parliament, passed at the late session, which authorized the importation of Cotton and other articles into Great Britain, from British Colonies, at a low rate of duty, was intended as an offset to the late American Tariff, and fears were expressed that the transportation of American Cotton would be enjoyed exclusively by British shipping, which, receiving their cargoes in the United States, and touching at a British Colonial port, would be entitled to the benefit of the Act of Parliament on their subsequent entry at an English port. A belief of this kind was entertained in Great Britain, and also at Halifax; and it was supposed that the Bonds which British vessels were required to give on leaving the ports of the U. States, not to carry their cargoes to a British colony, would not be forfeited by merely touching at a Colonial port, and thence proceeding to Great Britain.—We have before us a letter from Halifax, which states these opinions, and adds, that the difference in duties on ordinary ship's cargo of cotton, thus introduced into England, would be from $3,500 a $4,000.
 It now appears, however, by a subsequent letter from the same commercial house at Halifax, that the Collector there had just received an order from London, directing that the articles alluded to in the act of Parliament must be actually landed, or otherwise they would be subject to the same duty as if imported direct from the United States. It is therefore settled that the trade cannot be prosecuted in British vessels in the manner at first conjectured.

[Baltimore Amer.]
 Chesapeake and Ohio Canal.—This enterprise is advancing with steady steps. Twenty five miles and a third, distributed in fifty sections, have been recently added to the thirty-five let in August, so as to make 81 sections, or about 42 miles and 7-8, under contract including 74 culverts, two aqueducts, one of three and the other of ten arches, and twenty-three locks, of 163 feet lift. The canal is, so far, sixty feet wide, with the exception of a few difficult passes, where it is reduced to fifty feet, and it is six feet deep throughout its whole extent. Its locks are one hundred by fifteen-feet in the clear.

 On the 4th of December, there will be added to the line already under contract, the enlargement of the old canal at the Little Falls, to a breadth of eighty feet, designed to be a grand feeder; its extension for 3 7/8 miles, to the proposed basin at the mouth of Rock Creek; two dams, across the Potomac River, one at the Little Falls and one below Seneca, and a feeder six miles up the Monocacy. The abutment of the Alexandria aqueduct, and four locks and several bridges, under the streets of Georgetown, will be embraced in the December contracts.—Nat. Int.
 Internal Improvements.—The New-York Spectator mentions that a successful experiment in the cultivation of the Sugar Cane had been made in the vicinity of that place. The cane had not been affected by a sharp frost which had occurred, appears, indeed, less sensible to the frost than cotton.
 The above paper states that the Dismal Swamp Canal will shortly be completed so as to afford a navigation between Albemarle Sound and Norfolk Harbor. It remarks that the continuation of the great line of interior sea-board navigation, of which this canal is a part, is an object of the greatest importance to that part of Carolina. It is a subject of interest, in fact, to the whole Atlantic coast.
 Movement to Perry.—The Legislature of Rhode Island, at its recent session, appointed Messrs. Hazard, J. L. Tillinghast, and Bull, a Committee to erect a monument over the grave of Oliver H. Perry, and to draw on the Treasury for $200 for that purpose. The sum will be increased, if desired by the Committee.
 Launches.—A handsome schooner, called the Mexican, for the trade between New-Orleans and Rio Grande, was launched from Messrs. Fichett and Thomas' yard, New-York, on the 8th inst. She is said to be the strongest vessel of her size ever built in that city.
 A steamer, intended to ply in the Bay of Fundy, was launched recently at St. John, N. B. She was purchased on the stocks by Mr. Nevins, who intends to rig her as a three masted schr. and send her to Ireland, where she will be employed as a steam trader. She is named the Munster Lass.
 The Albany Daily Advertiser of yesterday, contains the annexed relation of the most incredible act of juvenile may, almost infant, depravity, that we ever remember to have heard of. As it is, though told without any qualification, or remark of doubt as to its truth, we cannot believe it.
 Shocking occurrence.—The Little Falls People's Friend, contains an account of a most dreadful case of the taking of the life of an infant, by a boy of only five years of age.
 About dusk, on the evening of the 17th inst. Sarah, a colored woman, and wife of Jack, alias John Wermuth, set out with the wife of Mr. John Lepper (who resides in the little cleared valley above Brown's distillery, a quarter of a mile from the turnpike passing through that village) to go of an errand across the river. They left the house in care of Mrs. Lepper's children, a boy of nearly five, and a girl of three years old; her infant being laid in a cradle, and Sarah's (a girl of 16 months old) in the bed—his mother having charged the boy, Amos, not to meddle with Sarah's child. Returning in an hour after, Sarah observed the boy and girl getting upon the bed, and going to look after her child. Amos told her a black man had come and killed it. She immediately ran out to seek her infant, and found it lying dead and awfully mangled, about twenty feet from the door. Its head was deeply gashed and bruised, apparently with several blows of an axe; the left leg was chopped off close to the foot; and wounds were seen upon the other foot, and various parts of the body!
 The alarm soon spread, and a crowd of people gathered at the house—but no intelligence could be obtained that night concerning the probable perpetrator of the horrid deed, but from the story of the boy, viz. that "a drunken black man, dressed in light-coloured clothes, killed Sarah's child, and cut its leg off." Next morning, however, his sister Irene being asked on waking, who killed the baby, answered—that "it cried while mamma was gone, and Amos carried it out, and killed it with the axe." The boy soon after acknowledged to the effect.—N. Y. American, Nov. 25.
