SIX ARE BURNED TO DEATH IN STEAMER

Fire on Board Ophir in Canoe Pass During Early Morning

FIVE MAKE ESCAPE FROM BURNING SHIP

Attempt to Rescue Companions Penned in by Fierce Flames Fails

NAMES OF LOST MEN UNKNOWN AT PRESENT

Vancouver, May 9.—Hemmed in by flames, which started from some unknown cause, six members of the crew of the steamer Ophir, which sailed from Vancouver last night and tied up at the Brunswick cannery, Canoe Pass, near Ladner, in the Fraser river, were burned to death in a fire which is still ablaze and will totally destroy the vessel. The catastrophe happened at 3.30 o'clock this morning.

There were eleven men in the crew, many of them only being signed on in Vancouver last night for the trip to the cannery with a cargo of tinplate. The steamer arrived too late for unloading operations to be started until daylight to-day and the crew retired, after having tied up the vessel to the cannery wharf.

Five of the crew, including Captain J. Anderson, the chief engineer, the mate, the cook and one deckhand, slept in the forepart of the boat. All these were saved owing to the fact that the mate, awakened by the smoke, alarmed his comrades and escaped to the deck.

Grasping axes, these men made their way to where the other six members of the crew were penned in by the flames, which had gained great headway. The alarm was given to the cannery, and men from the shore came to the rescue also. But the combined smoke and heat of the flames drove them back despite heroic efforts, and they had to seek the safety of the shore after about twenty minutes hopeless battle.

It was thought that not one of the men imprisoned in the forepart could be alive in the dense smoke, immense clouds of which were pouring from their sleeping quarters, and in order to prevent the flames from spreading to the cannery, the steamer, now one great sheet of flame, was cut adrift. She floated down the stream a fiery beacon and funeral pyre, and the men on shore saw her ground on the sandheads at the mouth of the delta. She was still aground there at 10.30 o'clock and is still burning fiercely, the coal in her bunkers now feeding the flames. It is certain that she will be a total loss.

The names of the men who perished cannot be ascertained until the lists are obtained from the owners. It is known that those in the doomed part of the ship were the donkeyman, three deckhands, one fireman and one longshoreman. These men were not very well known to the rest of the crew and it will be some time before their identity can be established.

According to the captain the men must have suffocated before the flames reached them. The mate managed to break through the partition which penned them in but they were evidently unconscious at that time, as there was no response to his shouts. He was about to attempt to enter the burning quarters when the fire, fanned by a strong breeze, broke into even greater violence and he was driven back, badly scorched.

The Ophir was not a very large steamer and was of wooden construction. She was owned by the Lincoln Steamship Company, whose office is at the corner of Pender and Richards streets, Vancouver, Captain Rogers, manager.

FRENCH AND SPANISH GOVERNMENTS AGREE

Paris, May 9.—The political result of the visit to Paris of King Alfonso, of Spain, has not been disclosed, but the opinion is general in well-informed quarters that a close understanding between the French and Spanish governments has been attained, and that it may develop into an alliance.

King Alfonso's visit came to an end late to-day with a review of France's aerial fleet.

ARMY AVIATION TAKES NINTH LIFE IN AMERICA

Los Angeles, Cal., May 9.—Lieut. J. D. Park, a military aviator who started from San Diego to-day on a flight to Los Angeles, was killed at Olive, nine miles north of Santa Ana about 8 o'clock. His machine hit a tree as he was descending. He was a native of Rhode Island. With his death, aviation has exacted a toll of nine lives, seven commissioned officers and two instructors.

WOULD SELL ROAD IF GOVERNMENT BUILDS

White Pass and Yukon President Does Not Want Competition to Fairbanks

PROPOSES NEW AND LOW TRAFFIC RATES

Washington, D. C., May 9.—The committee on territories of the senate yesterday afforded a hearing to O. L. Dickson, of Chicago, president of the White Pass & Yukon railway, who wishes to appear in opposition to the Jones-Chamberlain railway bill. "We are not trying to hinder the government in any legitimate attempt it may make to develop Alaska," said Mr. Dickson. "Our prosperity depends entirely upon the prosperity of Alaska, but we do not believe the government has the right to go into the railroad business in competition with railroads already constructed."

"We have spent many millions of dollars on the White Pass & Yukon railroad, and have added another $2,500,000 in extensions, the construction of tourist hotels and additional steamships to our Yukon river line in the past two years. If the government builds into Fairbanks from Seward or Cordova, it will completely ruin us, and we would be glad in that event to sell our road and its contents to the government at a very low figure."

"The White Pass & Yukon is extending its lines every year and is making constant reductions in its rates. A year ago we voluntarily put ourselves under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission, believing that such a course would be better for everybody. And I shall appear before the commission this week to present some new and lower rates for traffic over our lines. In view of all this I do not believe the government has a right to put us out of business."

He declared that the companies in which his principals are interested will open a water-and-rail route to Fairbanks June 15. Under cross-examination Mr. Dickson declared he was not prompted to his attitude by the fact that the Close Brothers, owners of the White Pass, were partners of the Guggenheim-Morgan syndicate in the Copper River railroad.

HUERTA AND LANE HOLD CONFERENCE

Mexican President Promises Security to Foreign Inhabitants of His Country

DISPOSED TO ARRANGE AFFAIRS WITH AMERICA

Mexico City, May 9.—President Victoriano Huerta, during his conference yesterday with Henry Lane Wilson, the American ambassador, stated very clearly the position of Mexico in relation to the United States. The following official version of the conference was given to-day:

"Provisional President Huerta respectfully stated to Ambassador Wilson (that diplomat having referred to official matters) that the government of Mexico was disposed to arrange affairs pending between it and the government of the United States. It was pointed out, however, that for the time being the ambassador should understand the necessity which the government of Mexico has for abstaining from treating on any official matter, with the exception of urgent affairs of ordinary procedure, for the simple reason that during the time the government of the United States did not recognize the government of Mexico, all agreements would be ineffective in view of the fact that the government of Mexico has no personality before the government of the United States.

"This was the substance of the conference between His Excellency, Ambassador Wilson, and the president of the republic of Mexico, General Victoriano Huerta.

"In addition, however, the government of Mexico, whether recognized or not by the United States, has adopted and will always adopt measures for the security of the inhabitants of the country, whether its own natives or foreigners, and this has been demonstrated by the attention given to the just petitions of those who have been in any manner injured in past revolutions.

"The United States and all the people of Europe have proof that the government of Mexico is especially pledged to give guarantees to everybody without distinction of nationality."

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST SUFFRAGETTE ACTIONS

Mrs. Drummond Suffering From Effects of Hunger Strike While in Prison

UNTENANTED MANSION DESTROYED BY FIRE

London, May 9.—The apprehension of the authorities over the threats of the militant suffragettes to eclipse their destructive acts of the last week was manifested by the precautions which were taken this morning when Premier Asquith and First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Spencer Churchill, accompanied by their wives, left Waterloo station on the Southwestern railway to join the Admiralty yacht Enchantress, on which they are to make an inspection cruise of the British Mediterranean stations.

A large number of naval aides, governmental departmental secretaries and railroad officials surrounded the party formed by the cabinet ministers and those who had come to bid them good-bye. Beyond these there was an outer circle of detectives to protect them from any undue attention by militant suffragettes or their male supporters.

"General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, the militant suffragette leader, who collapsed twice in the Bow Street police court during yesterday's proceedings against the principal officers of the Women's Social and Political Union for conspiracy, is very ill to-day from the effect of her privations during her hunger strike while under arrest. Her physician has advised her to undergo an operation.

A militant suffragette arson squad was out this morning, and succeeded in destroying by fire a large untenanted mansion at Barrow-On-Furness, Lancashire. A quantity of literature was scattered on the lawns surrounding the house.

LABORERS SMUGGLED ACROSS THE BORDER

Information of 1,500 Russians Waiting to Enter United States Leads to Arrest

SEATTLE, MAY 9.—ACTING ON INFORMATION THAT 1500 RUSSIAN LABORERS WERE WAITING IN VANCOUVER, B. C., FOR ENDRUNG PASSAGE NEAR BLAINE, WASH., FEDERAL OFFICIALS TO-DAY INSTITUTED A THOROUGH PROBE INTO WHAT IS PRONOUNCED THE MOST GIGANTIC SMUGGLING SCHEME IN YEARS, HAVING HEADQUARTERS IN VANCOUVER, B. C., AND IN SEATTLE, WHICH WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN DISCOVERED IN CONNECTION WITH THE ARREST AT BLAINE OF FERNE NICKAOFF, WHO IS NOW IN THE COUNTY JAIL. HE IS REGARDED AS GUIDE FOR THE ALIENS RETURNING FROM BLAINE LAST NIGHT BROUGHT NICKAOFF, TOGETHER WITH THREE OTHER RUSSIANS, WITNESSES AGAINST HIM. NICKAOFF'S FIRST PARTY IS SAID TO HAVE CONSISTED OF TWENTY-TWO RUSSIANS. THIS AGGREGATION, FOUND NEAR BLAINE, WALKING TOWARD SEATTLE, WAS TURNED BACK. HOW MANY PARTIES HE HAD BROUGHT IN PREVIOUSLY IS NOT KNOWN.

BISHOP OF LONDON ON CHURCH GIVING

London, May 9.—The Bishop of London speaking on church work in Canada said: "The ordinary English churchman for three pence put in the collection plate expected a good vicar, two good looking curates and a peal of bells."

When he was in Canada he was told the worst givers were those who came out from Great Britain.

ONTARIO LEGISLATURE STORMY SESSION ENDS

Toronto, Ont., May 9.—With all the pomp that marked its opening on February 4, the stormy session of the provincial legislature was officially closed this afternoon by the lieutenant-governor. His address contained comments upon the satisfactory condition of the provincial finances, the work of the hydro-electric and revision commissions, and other matters attaining prominence during the session.

NATIONALIZATION BILL.

London, May 8.—Hon. Lewis Harcourt, said to-day that he hopes shortly to introduce a nationalization bill along the lines of the recommendations of the Imperial conference.

ANTIVARI AND BLACK MOUNTAIN

Antivari is the town facing the harbor of that name where the European war vessels are maintaining the blockade against Montenegro. Behind Black Mountain lies the famous fortress of Scutari which is now on fire. Troops from the blockading war vessels will land at Antivari on Sunday and proceed to take possession of the fortress pending the final determination of the Albanian boundaries by the powers.

JAPAN SUBMITS HER LAND BILL PROTEST

Viscount Chinda Waits on Secretary Bryan Who Takes Message to White House

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Japan's formal protest against the California alien land bill was submitted to Secretary Bryan at the state department early to-day by Viscount Chinda in person. The protest will be placed before President Wilson and the cabinet by Secretary Bryan this afternoon, that an answer may be promptly returned to the Japanese embassy.

Secretary Bryan was a little late in arriving at his office, but five minutes after the appointed hour he was in conference with Viscount Chinda, who came to the state department alone. The conference lasted for half an hour, and at its conclusion the secretary and ambassador left the department together, the former going directly to the White House to submit to the president the written communication which the ambassador had given to him and the ambassador returned to the embassy.

TARIFF BILL PASSED AND GOES TO SENATE

Washington, D. C., May 9.—The Underwood tariff bill, proclaimed by the Democratic party as the answer to its platform pledge to reduce the tariff downward, was passed by the House late yesterday. The vote was 281 to 139, five Democrats voting against the bill and two Republicans voting for it.

To-day the tariff fight shifts from the House with its overwhelming Democratic majority, to the senate, where the party's slim majority of six has already been reduced, as far as this bill is concerned, to four. Unless senators familiar with the progress of such legislation are mistaken there is now little prospect of a final vote on the bill before August 1.

INSPECTION OF CATTLE REGULATIONS LIFTED AND DISEASED MILK SHIPPED

Matsqui Farmer Heard by Agricultural Commission Says Government Has Given Order to Veterinary Surgeons to Go Slow

Mission, B. C., May 9.—H. F. Page, of Matsqui, giving evidence before the royal agricultural commission at Mission yesterday said that owing to orders issued by the government to veterinary surgeons making tuberculosis tests to go slow, diseased milk was being shipped to the coast. Under oath, Mr. Page, who is a prominent dairyman of the lower mainland, declared that he knew of several cases where, although the tests had reacted, the animals were still alive and their milk was being shipped to consumers.

In one instance, he said, 75% of the herd had been condemned, but the cows were not destroyed as ordered by law.

"Do you make that as a statement?" demanded Acting Chairman Alex Lucas.

"Yes, I know this to be a fact, and am aware of a similar case at Chilliwack," replied the witness.

Continuing he said he did not blame the veterinary surgeons making the tests, but those who had advised them to go slow. He complained that milk shipped under such conditions, was not only dangerous to the consumer, but was unfair to those farmers who had pure herds.

PHYSICIANS HEARD ON SUSTAINED LIFE

Washington, D. C., May 9.—Sustained life in parts of the human tissues after the organism has died, as in the snake's tail, was the theme discussed at the closing session of the congress of American Physicians and Surgeons. According to papers read by authorities, life in cells taken from a living animal organism has been sustained for more than four years after the animal from which they were taken ceased to exist.

The speakers declared that ultimately it would be demonstrated that life in several cells could be sustained for as long a period as the organism would live under normal conditions.

King Nicholas Explains His Position to the Parliament of the Little Kingdom

AMBASSADORS ARE DEFINING ALBANIA

Cettinje, May 9.—A Montenegrin cabinet, under the premiership of Gen. Vukolich, was formed to-day to take the place of the government which resigned when King Nicholas decided to evacuate Scutari at the behest of the European powers.

The foreign office immediately afterward opened negotiations with the commanding officers of the international fleet at the port of Antivari, which has been blockading the coasts of Montenegro, and arrangements were made for the evacuation of Scutari. By Sunday the last of the Montenegrin soldiers are to march out of the city, which will be occupied by detachments from the international fleet.

King Nicholas said to-day in a speech to the Montenegrin parliament that, in the interest of general peace and in order to save Montenegro and the entire Serb nation, he was forced to give up to the European powers, Russia, Serbia and Greece, he declared, counselled submission on the part of Montenegro. Russia, however, undertook to continue to protect the little kingdom.

The portfolios of the new ministry are distributed as follows:
 President—General Vukolich.
 Foreign minister—J. Piamenz.
 Minister of interior—L. Goinitch.
 Minister of education—Lazar Mlyuskovitch.
 Minister of justice—Liubi Bakitch.
 Minister of finance—Riste Popovitch.

London, May 9.—The ambassadorial conference sat for two hours yesterday, but reached no important decision. It is not expected that the conference will reassemble before May 20. In the meantime proposals defining the limits and status of the new Albania will be submitted to the European governments.

The peace congress will assemble in London and detachments from the international fleet will take possession of Scutari pending final settlement.

Vienna, May 9.—Fire broke out in the bazaar of the former Turkish fortress this morning and, fanned by a high wind, rapidly assumed huge proportions. It is reported here that the Montenegrins started the blaze when leaving the city in revenge for being compelled to evacuate it.

FIVE YEARS BEFORE CANAL FULLY OPEN

New York, May 9.—Meyer Boyer, lock builder, who arrived yesterday from the canal zone by the steamship Advance, said he believed the canal would not be open fully for at least five years as the locks would not be in proper shape until then. He did not doubt that some ships would be sent through this year, but he was sure, he said, that commerce would not be benefited by the opening this year.

Much work is yet to be done on the locks that cannot be completed in many months, he declared.

STRIKEBREAKERS HURT IN FORT WILLIAM RIOT

Fort William, Ont., May 9.—Agitated by their leaders five hundred foreign laborers who are out on strike at the Canada Car & Foundry Company fought with one hundred and eighty strike-breakers at the plant this morning. The strikers attacked the men who ran for safety. Work is suspended for the day and patrolmen are guarding the property. Several of the strike-breakers were injured, but not seriously. The men are demanding an increase in wages.

FARRIS RE-ELECTED LIBERAL PRESIDENT

Vancouver Association Holds Annual Meeting Urging Clean Government.

Vancouver, May 9.—Proud of the principles of their party, confident of the ultimate success of those principles and determined to do all in their power to give the people clean and progressive government, the members of the Vancouver City and District Liberal Association met last night in Dominion hall for their annual meeting. The attendance was the largest in the history of the association, indicating an activity which bodes well for the future.

One striking feature of the gathering was the number of young men in attendance; another was the presence of many Liberal newcomers from eastern provinces, who have determined to do their share here, as they did in the east, to promote Liberalism and Liberal principles.

J. W. DeB. Farris, the retiring president, was re-elected after announcing his intention to retire. He was compelled to accede to the request that for another year at least he should give Vancouver Liberalism the benefit of his leadership. The other officers elected are all workers, and the Liberal Association starts upon its new year with prospects far exceeding any in the past. President Farris was the principal speaker of the evening. J. B. Holden, ex-M. P. for Vegreville, Alberta, who has recently moved to Vancouver, brought greetings from that province and promised to do his share to promote the cause of Liberalism in British Columbia as he did in Alberta.

FORMAL CLOSURE MOVED BY BORDEN

Discussion of Navy Bill in Committee Will Terminate To-night

AMENDMENT MOVED REGARDING CONTRACTS

Ottawa, May 8.—The formal notice of closure, the effect of which will be to terminate discussion on the Naval Bill in committee before the House rises to-night, was given by Premier Borden at 1 a. m. this morning.

The beginning of the end of this phase of the discussion came at half an hour after midnight, when Premier Borden rose to move that further consideration of clause five of the bill be postponed. He said that the bill before the House would bring effective aid to the British navy, and it would at the same time demonstrate to all the nations of the world that if there was to be any assault upon the Dominion of the Empire then this Dominion would stand with the Mother Country to make secure the safety of the Dominion and of the Empire. Nor was he disposed to minimize the importance of this being accomplished by a certain sentiment, and he did not think that other gentlemen were insensible of this. The present bill had been introduced in a spirit as far from controversy as possible, and if there were any loss in value of the bill the blame could easily be placed. The opposition demanded a vote on the end of clause five. The result was 84 to 41.

Premier Borden then introduced an amending clause to be added to the bill providing for laying before parliament within fifteen days after it meets a detailed statement of expenditure under the act during the then last preceding fiscal year.

F. B. Carvell moved an amendment to the effect that all contracts must be let to a private firm.

Mr. Borden said Mr. Carvell overlooked the fact that the government would be acting on the advice of the Admiralty. In all probability tenders would be called for, but it was possible the ships might be built in the Admiralty shipyards, and it was not advisable that the hands of the government should be tied. On a vote of 85 to 45 the consideration of this clause was postponed.

There was some discussion, as to when the title of the bill should be dealt with, and it was decided that it would properly come under third reading.

Premier Borden then gave formal notice that the Naval Bill would be the first matter to be considered at the next sitting of the House, and that its consideration will not be again postponed. This is the formal closure motion which under the new rules will terminate the consideration of the Naval Bill in committee at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. A vote will then be taken on the bill, and the bill will then stand for third reading. This stage will be concluded at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning if notice is given on Monday.

When consideration of the Naval Bill was resumed, Mr. Bolvin, of Shefford, asked when consideration of clauses 2 and 3, the discussion of which was suspended yesterday, would be resumed.

Mr. Borden said that the discussion would be taken up again as soon as clauses 4 and 5 are dealt with, probably tomorrow.

Mr. Bolvin said it was ridiculous to discuss clauses 4 and 5 until the House said what clause 2 and 3 are to take.

Mr. Borden said that the discussion on clause 2 had lasted for nearly twenty days. As a matter of fact, however, although the House in a technical sense was considering clause 2, wide latitude had been given, and the bill was considered in all its phases. He had no desire to prevent the opposition moving amendments, but he would remind the members opposing that they had declined to come to a vote on the amendments already moved. He would be quite willing, he said, to come to an agreement as to when any of the clauses, or the bill itself, should be finally disposed of.

Mr. Bolvin asked if the clauses could not be dealt with one by one under the new rules in four days.

Mr. Borden repeated that the government would be willing to make any reasonable arrangement as to when the clauses should be taken, and that if an agreement was unwilling to come to an agreement and insisted upon the enforcement of the new rules, they would create a situation which would make it difficult to allow amendments to be made to the later clauses of the bill.

Replying to a question by E. M. Macdonald, the minister of justice said that the draft bill of the Imperial parliament dealing with naturalization within the Empire had been received by the government. The bill contains a clause defining the naturalization system which must be adopted by the parliaments of the Overseas Dominions before it comes into effect in those countries. As the bill had not been passed by the Imperial parliament, no action could be taken by the Dominion House this session. He intimated that the clause is satisfactory to the Dominion government.

Replying to a question by Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Hon. Mr. Doherty said that Lord Haldane's bill providing for an increase in colonial representation on the judicial committee of the Privy Council had been received. It increased the number of Overseas representatives from five to seven. He presumed that the only object of the bill is to give representation to colonies which do not now have a member in the Privy Council.

EXPERTS TRAMPING TO TULAMEEN CAMP

Engineers of Corporations Investigate Claims and Obtain Options on Property

Tulameen City, B. C., May 9.—Now that the snow is disappearing from the upper reaches of the Tulameen prospectors, engineers and investors are flocking in. During the last week Ross S. Craddock, consulting mining engineer of New York, examined several properties at Leadville. He expressed the opinion that the camp has a brilliant future.

Another eminent mining man who recently visited the camp was E. G. Hardy, who represents the Guggenheim interests. He looked over several properties.

W. Davis, of Trail, has taken options on several properties for the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada. Jensen & Riley, who are working on the Christmas Box claim, have uncovered good ore bodies. Mr. Duenberg has arranged to work the Robertson and Connolly properties next to the Treasure Mountain group.

Prospectors who are going up, and a great many have gone in during the last fortnight, are camped in snow. The snow, however, is practically all gone as far up as Kelly Creek, and if the present weather continues the camp should be clear of snow in another two weeks.

BOWSER REFERS TO ITALIAN LIBERALS

Attorney-General Angry Over Newly-Formed Political Association at Vancouver

STATEMENT MADE ON THE INDIAN RESERVES

Vancouver, May 9.—The attorney-general, Hon. W. J. Bowser, addressing a Conservative meeting here last night referred to the recent formation of a Vancouver Italian Liberal Association in terms that were not complimentary to the Italian population. The fact that the names of several Italians are not marked on the Conservative lists as members of that party made them the mark of the attorney-general's criticism.

The name of J. W. De B. Farris was much to the fore in Mr. Bowser's speech, and the fact that the Liberals of Vancouver were meeting in another hall was referred to also. Criticism of Mr. Farris' action in extending his personal political influence toward Italians was the attitude of the attorney-general, and he held up to direct and marked ridicule by the audience every Italian name on their new society's executive.

Show of laughter and derision followed the imperfect pronunciation of the names by Mr. Bowser, and a voice in the rear of the hall yelled "Hokey Pokey." Poor compliment indeed was paid by the Conservatives to the Italian citizens of Vancouver, though in an effort to counteract the blunder he had made, the attorney-general put a feeble assurance that of course all good law-abiding Italians would be very welcome to come to British Columbia. He accused the Liberals, however, of seeking to employ Italians for dirty purposes at election times.

In a statement made yesterday afternoon in regard to the reported purchase of the Capilano Indian reserve Mr. Bowser intimated that the government intended to buy out the Indians. His statement was in reply to an announcement in the News-Advertiser that the provincial government intended to purchase the Capilano reserve through the agency of Hamilton Road.

"The government has no intention of giving up its rights, and does not intend to buy either the Capilano or the Mission reserves," said Mr. Bowser. "Neither will we consider now the giving up of our rights in these or any other Indian reserves to any would-be private purchasers. To negotiate any deal of this kind would be strictly against the spirit of the agreement entered into between the governments as to the scope of the commission, whose sittings will commence shortly."

"The Kitilano reserve was different; there the Indians wanted to get off, and we simply perfected the government title, the public title, to the property."

In reference to the Kitilano reserve, Mr. Bowser said: "We have never received an offer from any railway or anyone else for the property. We have not figured the matter out yet, and probably shall not for some time to come. Certainly our idea is to see what kind of proposal the Dominion government, through the harbor commission, will have for contemplated"

LALONDE WEDS.

Ottawa, May 8.—“Newsw” Lalonde again figured at the head of the la-crosse news Wednesday. Newsw has signed a contract that will mean a great deal more to him than any contract Con Jones, George Kennedy or any other sports promoter ever offered him. To get right to the point, “Newsw” was married Wednesday at Montreal.

“Newsw” was joined in the bonds of matrimony with Miss Ina Gordon-Lettera, of Montreal, at St. Agnes church, by Rev. Father Brophy.

The marriage was celebrated very quietly, and shortly afterward “Newsw” took his bride to his home in Cornwall. The pair left to-day for Vancouver, where “Newsw” will play lacrosse this summer.

BOUNDARY SURVEY PARTY FOR NORTH

To Complete Line on Water of Portland Canal During Summer

QUESTION IS RAISED ON FISHING RIGHTS

Vancouver, May 8.—The location of the water boundary separating the British and United States possessions from a point in Dixon Entrance to the entrance to the Portland Canal will be undertaken this season by a Dominion government survey party in charge of W. M. Dennis, who reached here to-day from Ottawa. Mr. Dennis will have about fourteen assistants and will leave here for the north about May 29.

As defined by the treaty of London which settled the Alaska boundary dispute over ten years ago the southern extremity of the boundary starts at a point opposite Cape Luzon, Alaska, and traverses the waters of Hecate Straits eastward to the entrance of Portland Canal and thence follows the centre of that arm of the sea to the first land boundary a few miles from Stewart, B. C. It is not intended to mark the boundary by buoys but the observations of the survey party will become a part of the official part of the record to be deposited with the imperial and United States governments.

The completion of the survey of the water boundary in the lower portion of Portland Canal will also be undertaken this season by another Canadian survey party. All the general work in Southeastern Alaska will this year, as usual, be in charge of Noel Ogilvie, who is expected here shortly from Ottawa.

British jurists have raised the point that the treaty having defined the water boundary through the centre of Dixon Entrance separating Alaska from Graham Island, B. C., and in a marine region exceeding the three-mile territorial limit, all fishing rights in the halibut grounds in Hecate straits to the southward and lying between Queen Charlotte Islands and the British Columbia mainland will accordingly be regarded as British territorial waters, and as such may be regarded as British waters exclusively. If this contention should be maintained by the Dominion government and conceded by the United States government American fishermen will have no right to catch fish in the waters of Hecate Straits south of the Alaska water boundary running from a point opposite Cape Luzon, Alaska, to the entrance of Portland Canal.

SILVER CREEK RUSH PLOT OF INDIANS

Staked Claims and Sold Out to Whites Who Also Bought Moose Meat

Seattle, May 9.—John G. Johnson, one of the discoverers of gold at Nome, and who made a great fortune there, has returned from the Teslin country of British Columbia, which was the scene of a recent gold stampede. He says that there is not even a trace of gold on Silver Creek, all of which was staked by Indians and sold to white men. The Indians also made a fortune along the trail by selling moose meat and snowshoes to incoming gold-seekers. All the Indian chiefs and sub-chiefs of the district, according to Johnson, were in the plot, in which they were abetted by certain traders and an attorney who drew the papers for their claims and negotiated the transfer to white men.

Skookum Jim, an Indian, who discovered the Klondike gold fields in 1896, was unwillingly made the press agent of the plotters, Johnson said. Game is abundant in the country, and many of the miners who went to Silver Creek will prospect the neighboring country.

TROOP TRAIN BEARING SOLDIERS DYNAMITED

Nogales, Ariz., May 9.—A troop train bearing two hundred and fifty federal soldiers was destroyed with dynamite and most of the passengers killed, said an official report received here to-day. The disaster occurred near the Sonora-Coahuila state line. The federalists were on the way from San Blas to Alamos when intercepted by the insurgents, who had planted mines along the tracks.

Nearly two thousand uncivilized Yaqui Indians have joined the state troops, said the report.

REPORT BANK ACT BACK TO COMMONS

Committee Gets Through Preparatory Work After Making Amendments

FINAL ACTION TAKEN ON AUDIT QUESTION

Ottawa, May 9.—The new bank bill, which has been under consideration by the banking and commerce committee, is now disposed of and will be reported to the Commons. Inspection, the storm centre of the bill, was taken up. Major Sharpe, who had proposed clauses calling for government inspection, withdrew his amendments.

Hon. Mr. White proposed changes with a view of strengthening external audit. By his amendment the general managers of all the banks will by ballot every year select a list of forty chartered accountants. This list is to be then passed upon by the minister, and if he disapproves of any auditor, he can strike his name from the list. The shareholders then select the bank's auditor for the year from this list, and if one-third of the shareholders are dissatisfied with the auditor appointed, they can petition the minister, and he will select a new auditor from this list.

Mr. White made a lengthy explanation of his position. The minister said it had been shown in the evidence that the Canadian system, being a branch bank one, was a very different one from the American. The American inspection was useful, but not altogether successful. The system had been supplanted in New York, Chicago and other large centres by a system of inspection by the Clearing House Association, which corresponds to the Bankers' Association. This plan could not be carried out here. For one thing there was a great deal of jealousy between the Canadian banks. The argument had been put forward that by this way one bank might gain knowledge of another. The Bankers' Association was unwilling to assume responsibility.

Mr. White said that he had made a careful study of the whole question of audit, and had at first decided to adopt the English system. He was prepared to suggest a change by which the general managers, by ballot, would select a list of forty auditors later to be approved by the minister.

The clauses as suggested by the minister were carried without amendment, and the bill is ready to be reported to the House. The amendment of F. D. McCurdy, that no paid executive official of a bank could be elected a director, brought on a long discussion. The mover said that to avoid concentration of power the general manager should not be president. The feeling of the committee was that the amendment was too radical, and it was defeated by a vote of 29 to 5. Hon. Mr. White to-day gave notice of a resolution authorising the government to pay auditors for such special examinations of the banks as the minister of finance may require to be made.

KAISER IS MORTIFIED AT KRUPP SCANDAL

Emperor Fears the Political Effects of Dr. Liebknecht's Disclosures; Socialists Rejoice

Berlin, May 9.—The Kaiser is said to be very much perturbed over the disclosures of Dr. Liebknecht, the Socialists leader, in regard to the action of the two German armament companies in trying to stir up trouble between France and this country in order to sell their awards.

The Emperor is more worried over the possible political effects than over the gravity of the charges. It is the best tactical stroke which the Socialists have made in years. It has shattered the position of Gen. von Heeringen, the minister of war, and will probably turn half a million votes to the Socialist party.

The publication of a letter from Herr von Gontard, one of the directors of the German Arms & Ammunition Company to an unnamed person in Paris, in which the latter was urged to secure the insertion of an article to the effect that France was increasing her machine gun armament, and thus cause similar action in Germany, furnishes the Socialists with the best proof of their charge of the existence of an international armament ring which manufactures incidents intended to create a war sentiment through a subservient press.

Herr von Gontard was made a member of the Prussian House of Lords two years ago. Dr. Liebknecht refused to go into details of the matter when questioned. All that he would say was that whatever statement he had to make he would deliver in the Reichstag.

Herr Von Reventlow, the famous naval military and political writer, said to-day:

"The disclosures are not as sensational or as grave as they appeared at first. What the Krupps stooped to is only what is done in every other industry."

The Tageblatt denounces the Von Gontard letter "as the highest grade of 'business' unscrupulousness," and adds: "If the government has only regard for the honor and the interests of the nation it will have nothing further to do with men of this kind."

Taking advantage of the present situation the committee of Socialists has and armament plant, while other British owned establishments have opened business in Trieste, where the Austrian navy is being built.

We are not, however, bent on discussing the ethics of the position taken by these firms in lending themselves and British capital to activities of a frankly anti-British nature, but to ask why Canada has been neglected by these same great corporations.

"But it is impossible to build battleships in Canada," says the Admiralty, and Premier Borden with his Cabinet have echoed the cry with faithful if monotonous regularity, while the greatest Unionist daily, the London Times, lends its voice to the chorus in naively suggesting that the establishment of Canadian yards and works would help to injure the British armament industry.

Is there any wonder that a storm of indignation protest to the implied insult of the Premier's asseverations, damaging as they are to the credit of Canada, has arisen all over the Dominion? Why cannot Canada do what other nations with half her resources are accomplishing? Why cannot she take her part in Imperial defence in the same degree as the Commonwealth? She has many men straight of limb and strong of thigh. She has engineers who have accomplished things beside which the construction of dreadnoughts is insignificant indeed.

MADE A DIAGNOSIS OF PATIENT'S EYES

Herbalist Fined $25 for Breach of Medical Act; Can Sell Bottled Herbs
Charles Dickson, of 926 Fort street, was convicted by Magistrate Jay this morning on a charge of practising medicine without a license and was fined $25. Dickson is a herbalist and maintained that as he did not use drugs there had been no violation of the law. He was not defended by a lawyer, as he said the man he asked to appear wanted $100 and he could not afford it.
A. E. McPhillips, K.C., who appeared for the College of Physicians and Surgeons, which conducted the prosecution, admitted that the mere selling of a bottle of herbs for a complaint named by the purchaser would not be a violation of the act, but he claimed that as the accused had made an examination of the patient there had been a diagnosis, which was an infraction.
Examined His Eyes.
George Burrows, who was the patient, gave evidence as to his interview with Dickson. He had told the accused that he had trouble with his eyes and described the symptoms. Dickson had lifted the lids and made an examination and said he had eye strain. He had then mixed three ingredients and dropped a single drop of the solution in each eye. A few days later he had come back and got a bottle of medicine for which he had paid 60 cents. He was to bathe his eyes in this three times a day.
Dr. Charles Fagan, registrar of the medical council, said Dickson was not registered or licensed to practice medicine in the province and that what he had done was to treat a case as a physician would do. Dickson had submitted his prescription to the doctor. The prescription was in Latin, but the doctor had not been able to understand it. Dickson had asked that the bottle be examined to see if there was any drug in it.
In the box Dickson said that he had given to the chief of police and asked if he needed any license to practice massage and the chief had told him no. Asked if he needed a license to use herbs the chief had told him to see Mr. Emory, the druggist. Mr. Emory had inspected the list of herbs he proposed to use and said that all except bella donna could be used without infringing the law. Accordingly he had never used bella donna.
He said he believed most drugs were poisonous and had not used any drugs. He had not used any poisonous herbs either. He was not a doctor and did not pretend to be and had had no intention of breaking the law.
The magistrate fined him $25.
D. J. Morrison, the osteopath from whom Burrows alleges he also received a treatment, was remanded until tomorrow on a similar charge.

Exclusive Columbia Records By Bonci

Hear Alessandro Bonci, the world's most artistic singer, in your own home. Let him entertain you and your family and your friends. No one can fail to appreciate Bonci's art. The singing of this wonderful artist is beyond criticism.

ALESSANDRO BONCI

To adequately estimate Bonci's vocal and interpretational abilities demands a treatise in itself—something that is obviously impossible here.

It is not alone in the quality but in the infinite variety of his art that he excels. His voice is an instrument of beauty absolutely subservient to his will and his musical intelligence is totally unimpeachable.

In saying that the Bonci records are thoroughly representative of the singer and his art, we feel that we can bestow upon them no higher praise.

LOOK OVER PIPE ROUTE

Firms Which Will Tender for Flow Line for Waterworks Prepare Offers.
In connection with the flow line pipe for Sooke waterworks, which will be about 27 miles long and which, under the specifications, will be of reinforced concrete, the representatives of the concrete pipe interests are in the city. They are looking over the proposed route and preparing their bids.
Water Commissioner Rust said this morning that he expected it would be thirty days before the work could be let, as the usual time would have to elapse before the tenders would be in, the intention being to call for bids shortly.
As this share of the work represents a large portion of the total contract, there is likely to be strong competition.

FOUR EXTRA LINERS MAY BE DISPATCHED

Blue Funnel Line Will Try and Relieve Cargo Congestion on Its Trans-Pacific Boats

PROTESILAUS ARRIVES WITH GIGANTIC CARGO

Capt. Milhench Says Ajax, First of Relief Ships, is Now on Way From England

Owing to the great rush of freight from Pacific coast ports to the Orient, which is causing a bad congestion on all the Blue Funnel liners, the officials of the large British shipping company are now considering a scheme whereby they will send three extra steamships to Victoria, in addition to the Ajax. Capt. Milhench, of the Holt liner Protesilaus, which came into port this morning from Liverpool via Far Eastern ports, said that when he left the United Kingdom a conference was then in progress to decide upon some measures by which the congestion on the trans-Pacific boats might be relieved. If the four extra vessels are sent to this coast the Blue Funnel line will have almost a semi-weekly schedule. It was announced some time ago by Geo. Dodwell, who was here from London, Eng., that the company intended to dispatch vessels to and from Victoria every two weeks. It appears the officials of that company are working out their schedule sooner than was expected. The Blue Funnel boats are handling capacity cargoes at the present time and on nearly every outward trip are forced to leave large shipments of freight at Puget Sound warehouses.

Ajax on Way Here.
Capt. Milhench said this morning that the steamship Ajax, the first of the extra steamships, will be here on June 21. She is now on her way to the Orient from the United Kingdom. After discharging all her outward cargo at Yokohama she will carry a full load of coal from one of the Japanese coaling stations to Hongkong. When she has put this off she will proceed to load for her voyage to Victoria and Puget Sound, and will arrive here two weeks after the steamship Keemun.

TRANSFER STEAMERS TO PACIFIC ROUTE

Nippon Boats Running on Voyage to Europe May Be Seen Here Later

CAPTAIN FULLERT VISITS OLD VICTORIA FRIEND

Political Struggle in Japan Today Arises From Attempt to Overthrow Clique

An old Nippon Yusen Kaisha captain arrived in the city yesterday on the Sado Maru, in the person of Captain P. G. Fullert, of Kobe, Japan, who has brought his son here to settle him in agricultural pursuits. He stayed overnight to see an old sea friend at Strawberry Vale, and will then proceed to Vancouver.

The captain stated to a Times man yesterday that with the development of the Trans-Pacific business and the necessity of providing for the increasing cargoes, he understood that provision would be made for the transfer of a number of the steamers on the run to Europe to this service. The liners now operating on that route would be gradually withdrawn in favor of the big steamers now building in Japanese yards, as for instance the Latori Maru, which was recently launched from the Mitsui Bishi yards at Nagasaki. They would be placed on the Pacific route to meet the demand for more tonnage on this line. The Kanagawa would also likely be placed on this run later.

Capt. Fullert, who is a pilot of 22 years' standing, and who, for over 30 years has been in close touch with the China and Japan seas, stated that the present unrest in politics in Japan is the struggle between the constitutionalists and the adherents of the two great political clans, who since the beginning of parliamentary government have absorbed the maximum amount of control, and have alternately ruled. If the present two dominating parties are displaced the government will come in reality, as it has been in name for years past, under the control of the people through the electorate. The captain, however, is confident of the ultimate triumph of constitutionalism.

The captain also referred to the remarkable industrial development of Japan, particularly around the district where he has resided. Osaka is a great industrial centre. The textile industries show an enormous growth, which has been rendered possible with cheap labor and the introduction of modern machinery.

The captain proposes shortly to return to Japan.

AROUND THE SHIP CHANDLER'S STOVE

HE WAS KING OF ONE OF THE SOUTH SEA ISLES.

"I guess that there aren't many of you fellows here that know that I once was king of one of the South Sea Islands. I've never sprung this story of mine before, but seeing that it's rather a nasty morning outside, I might just as well sit down by this comfortable stove and tell you gentlemen all about the time I ruled with a rod of gold and an iron hand, over some cannibals way down south." An old salt beat off on this tack this morning at the ship chandler's and his yarn—of course it is "You see I was mate on the old British barque Society Queen, and we were on a passage from Hull, Eng., to San Francisco with general cargo. We had a nasty time of it rounding Cape Horn. We lost our foremast in a hurry-cane, and before we'd left the old Cape Horn had gone. Our old man didn't care if the everything came down. He was one of these fellows they call philosophers, I think it is. He said to us, 'We'll get into port anyhow even if the sticks are blown out of her! As far as I wasn't married, and as far as I could trace my ancestry I was an orphan.

Special Order Tailoring Quick Service

Special Order Tailoring Quick Service

The Best Tailors in Canada make the Semi-ready Special Order Clothes.

I will tell you why we can get and hold in our service the best workmen. The Tailoring season comes in cycles; for a few months the tailor is too busy, and for the next few months he has little or nothing to do—then, his help is laid off.

In the Semi-ready shops they are busy all the year round. The Stock Goods are tailored in the dull months of the tailoring season; the best tailors are working on dress suits, frock coats, fine serges, and when the busy season comes around we have all the best tailors, the skilled artisans to work on Special Orders, garments made to measure. Semi-ready Special Orders offer quick service and clothes at the better prices you expect in wholesale tailoring.

Nothing less than $18; as good as $35 and $40, and every suit you can bank on for Service, Style and Quality.

TACOMA LEADER CHASED FROM PARK BEES WIN ANOTHER BALL GAME

Narveson Showed Big League Form and Trimmed Tigers 4 to 3

It is not Iron Man McGinnity from this out—Peevish Joseph would better suit the Tacoma leader. Reading the hand writing on the wall, McGinnity pulled some bush league stuff in yesterday's battle and was chased from the conflict by Umpire Eddinger, being forced to witness the downfall of his hopes before the masterful twirling of Smoke Narveson, the locals chalking up their second win of the week and evening up the series with the Bengal crew.

Three Home Runs. Four to three tells the tale of the merry fracas and there was more excitement during the course of the engagement than has been shown at any game here this season. Three home runs helped to arouse the fans, while the clima came in the sixth when McGinnity was fined ten bucks and directed to the gate, while Second Baseman Kellar was told to hike for the bench when he also showed his temper.

How It Happened. Narveson would have won yesterday's combat even had McGinnity been allowed to remain, but His Ump, saved the Tacoma mogul the pain of being an active participant in the rout of the Tigers. The fans were back of Eddinger and this gentleman can about select his own job hereabouts. McGinnity fought everything he learned in the big leagues and roared like a sick bovine when Eddinger called a couple of strikes on Stadille. Harris was caught five feet in a steal of second and when Kellar also fanned, the storm cloud burst. McGinnity stamped onto the diamond, frothing his protest. He was waved to the bench by Eddinger but continued to roar.

McGinnity Banished. Eddinger then clapped a five-spot fine on the iron individual and when McGinnity sh.uted "Make it ten." His Ump, accommodated the Tacoma leader. From the fans' view of the affair, McGinnity should have been sat-ified, but philanthropist that he is, he went further. Eddinger then pulled his Ingersoll and gave McGinnity two minutes to vanish from the Dominion of Canada.

Kellar Also Chased. By this time the fans were in an uproar and the entire Tacoma team gathered around Umpire Eddinger. McGinnity finally started for the gate, the hoots and jeers of the fans following him to the portals of the park. Kellar was benched for heaving his bat down when Narveson fanned him, and another change was necessary. Harris, who had gone in as a pinch hitter for Belford, went out to centre field, while Ed. Kennedy made his debut in the role of an infielder. The controversy was then renewed, Victoria having a two-run margin and the game.

Some Finish. The windup was exciting. Stadille singled with one down and scored on Nordyke's sh.gie, a pop fly back of third that was allowed, fall safe. Rawlings' bad peg to second allowed the first-sacker to reach third, but Kennedy could not deliver, Lamb clutching his foul back of third. Home runs by Butch Belford, with Grindle ahead of him, by Brooks after Rawlings had doubled and by Narveson, accounted for the other scores, Meek coming across for the winning run in the fourth on his single, Lynch's infield tap and Delmas' double to right. Belford had the locals guessing for three innings, but the Bees landed on him for good and all in the fifth. Narveson twirled a nice game, striking out five and passing but one batter. Girot, who finished the game, allowed but three hits. Dazzling catches in the outfield by Lynch and Stadille were features, also a nice double play, Delmas, Rawling to Brooks.

ANOTHER FOR LUTHER.

Chicago, May 9.—Luther McCarthy, heavyweight champion fighter, last night received offers from Promoters Coffroth and McCarey, of the Pacific Coast club, asking him to meet the winner of the "Gunboat" Smith-Jess Willard fight, which is scheduled at San Francisco on May 20. McCarthy left last night for Calgary, Alta, where he will box Arthur Pelkey on May 24.

SECOND ELEVEN WON FROM SOLDIERS IN CLOSE FINISH

The Garrison "B" team were at home Wednesday to the University School first XI, and a very sporting and keen game ensued. Neither side showed much skill with the bat, but this was probably due to the excellent fielding of both sides. The Garrison won the first innings by one run, but the School ran up 90 very quickly, and declaring war the match on the second innings, owing to the good sportsmanship of the soldiers, who played overtime. BRIGHOUSE ARENA NOW UNDER WAY

Bayley-Barrieau Bout for Victoria Day Assured; Champion Working Hard

W. Hitchen Captured International Title.

Vancouver, May 9.—Chet McIntyre yesterday had the assurance of the contractors that the big arena at Brighthouse, which he is erecting for the housing of boxing entertainments, and which will have its christening when Joe Bayley and Ernie Barrieau meet on Victoria Day, will be ready for occupancy on May 15, with the last nail driven, and completed to the last board. Every essential to comfort has been incorporated in the plans. Barrieau is just now engaging in only light work, having demonstrated the fact that there will be no difficulty in making 133 pounds at the hour stipulated before the contest. He will go into hard training next week, and McIntyre is now looking around for a clever sparring partner for him. Bayley is keeping in condition by boxing with "Cyclone" Scott, and doing a lot of road work. Joe will be in Vancouver several days before the day of the contest, and put the edge on his conditioning in this city.

ARE YOU GETTING YOUR SHARE OF THE SPOILS AT OUR SIX WEEK'S LATE SALE?

If not, you should. This is the third day of Victoria's greatest sale of high grade Clothing, Hats and Furnishings. It has been a big one up to this hour and will continue throughout the day in spite of the rain. Put on your raincoat and get here. If you haven't a raincoat get here anyway and buy one. Note prices below:
WE DO NOT BLAME THE CONTRACTORS for the six weeks delay caused in getting possession of our new store. They are not to blame, as a few imagine. We want to make this point clear. The steel and other materials used in alterations was delayed first at the mills and then in transportation. The marble is not here yet and that was ordered Jan. 1. But nevertheless we lost the six weeks and we have got to get rid of the stock and get the money. We need it. You are getting the goods for your share of money spent here. If you haven't got enough cash on hand, pick out your suit and hat, or whatever you may want, pay a deposit and get it when you can pay the cash.
Saturday will be a bigger day in every way than any day this week, and that means crowds every minute.

THE BOOM IN RADIUM.

Radium mining is suddenly having such a development in the United States, England, Australia, and several other countries, that the warning cry of a possible overproduction has just been raised. Three to five grams of pure radium a year is the world's output at present, but the combined production claims of the new mines amount to more than twenty grams. Any such quantity as that would grip the market and shatter the present price of somewhere between eighty and one hundred thousand dollars a gram. London is having such a radium mining boom at present that several companies have raised funds to begin or extend operations in Cornwall and in Australia. Meanwhile the original radium works at Joachimsthal, Bohemia, continue to produce about two-thirds of the world's supply.

One Australian company that succeeded last year in getting out one four-hundredth part of a gram is now installing works to produce one gram and a half a year, and in preparation for this great addition to the marketable stock of radium has been seeking customers who will contract for it. Recently it obtained a contract from a London concern to take the first ten milligrams or one-hundredth of a gram, that it mines and extracts.

An American company that has begun extracting radium from carnallite ores of Southern Colorado is the most ambitious of all, and claims it will be able to produce one gram a month. Not much success has resulted from the radium mining in Portugal and France, but there are indications of radium-bearing ores in the Caucasus mountains and the prospects there are now being investigated.

Not a single passenger was killed on any of the twenty-seven railroads in Colorado last year.

HIGHER EDUCATION HAS BRIGHT FUTURE

President Falconer, Toronto University, Tells of What He Found on Tour

BOTH PROFESSORS AND STUDENTS ENTHUSIASTIC

Encountered Many Graduates of Toronto Institution at Work in West

Probably the most distinguished educationist in Canada is in Victoria to-day in the person of Dr. Robert A. Falconer, C. M. G., president of the University of Toronto, who is paying a flying visit to the city. He was last here in June, 1903, when he spent three days in the enjoyment of the beautiful surroundings of the capital.

Dr. Falconer came west on a hurried visit to attend the first formal convocation of the University of Saskatchewan at Saskatoon. Although it is a busy time of year for him in connection with the great institution of which he is the head he decided to take a few days, and visit the centres there and the coast in order to meet some of the graduates of the university, of whom there are thousands in the western provinces. He reached Vancouver on Tuesday night, and came over from that city on the night boat, arriving this morning. He leaves again to-night, and will take train from Vancouver to-morrow for Medicine Hat, where he has an engagement on Monday. From there he will return direct to Toronto.

In conversation with a representative of the Times this forenoon Dr. Falconer expressed his pleasure at once more visiting a city of which he had none but the most pleasant recollections, and of having an opportunity of seeing the wonderful development of the whole western country.

Sentiment Strong.

"The sentiment in support of higher education in the three provinces I have stopped off in," said Dr. Falconer, "is astonishing, and there can be no doubt of the success of the universities which have been or are to be established. Those who are connected with the work are full of hope, and in the two I visited east of the mountains professors and students are imbued with the most lively enthusiasm. With such a spirit, and with the support of the state, the very necessary institutions of learning in its higher branches, the day must come when they will rank with the foremost on the continent."

"In Saskatchewan they have some half dozen buildings in use, and have a fine site. The arts faculty is a strong one, but the splendidly equipped faculty of agriculture has by far the larger number of students, and is carried on in three buildings and on a magnificent farm. In Alberta they have in South Edmonton already one building for teaching work and another for dormitories. Their plans are well in hand there, as well as in the sister province to the east, they have a large enrollment of students."

Speaks of New Institution.

While in Vancouver Dr. Falconer visited the site of the projected University of British Columbia at Point Grey, of which he said:

"The Point Grey site is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful that I have seen, and is ideal for university purposes. The surroundings will set off the handsome buildings which I am told are proposed as the home of the various faculties to be established."

"I did not meet Dr. Westbrook, but I know him and share the opinion of all his fellow-countrymen who are connected with the universities of the Dominion that in him this province will have an able president for the institution. He is just the man to build up a strong university in British Columbia, being possessed of fine organizing abilities, and he can be trusted to see that it grows equally strong in every one of its faculties. He organized a very splendid faculty of medicine in the University of Minnesota, which is his own profession, but the same organizing power and his breadth of view will make him an excellent president of a university which has to be built up from the very bottom. In this work he will have the cordial good will of all educationists in Canada, and this province can rely on the best wishes of everyone in the older sections of the Dominion for the success of its university."

In Many Walks.

"I have been more than ever struck on this trip," said Dr. Falconer, "with the extent to which the graduates of 'Varsity enter into the life of the country, not only as legislators and in the ranks of professions but in commercial circles. Wherever I have stopped for a day or two I have met actually hundreds of graduates of our university, who have moved out here from the east or who, coming from the western provinces, have gained their academic or technical training in Toronto. My visit to the west of the Dominion is really to meet graduates and get in touch with the wonderful progress of the west."

"A man cannot help but be impressed by the great work of nation-building that is going on in Canada, right across the continent, and with the immense part which university graduates are taking in that. It is a matter of pride to me as head of the University of Toronto to find that our alumni are not the least active or prominent in that connection."

Large Attendance.

Of the advance made in the university of late years Dr. Falconer said: "In the academic year that is closing we have had a little over four thousand students attending lectures and courses, a number that we have maintained for the past few years. That there has not been a continuance of the great increase in enrollment that marked previous years is due to the fact that the standard has been very much raised, as indeed it has been in all the educational institutions in the country, but in a year or two it is quite certain that the increase will again become as marked as it was before. Last year we had 4,100 students, the year before that four thousand and in 1910 there were about 3,900.

Facilities Increased.

"Our buildings have had to be greatly added to in order to meet the constant call on our teaching resources, and former 'Varsity men who have not been in the city of late years would hardly know their alma mater again. There has been a thermo-dynamics and hydraulics building put up across from the physics building very fully equipped. On the splendid new hospital grounds on College street we are erecting a new pathological building, to cost $3,000,000. In the hospital we will, of course, have clinical facilities. A wing has been added to the library and a central heating plant has been installed. A museum has been built in which is being housed an unrivalled collection, largely gifts of friends of the university."

"The Massey estate is providing for us a men's building which will include all the activities of the social side of university life for its men students. Every facility will be afforded for athletics, there will be a swimming tank, a dining hall, quarters for the Students' Union and the Y. M. C. A., and a large theatre for public gatherings. On Bloor street is the fine building occupied by the household science department and given by Mrs. Treble. Running up to Bloor street is the stadium, a spacious area for athletic games. Further along Bloor street are the university schools in connection with the faculty of education."

More Hoped For.

"Victoria University has its Burwash Hall, erected in honor of its late chancellor. Queen's Hall for women students has been enlarged. We have a botany and forestry building in the old Manning home. An organ has been placed in the convocation hall and an extension built to the hall provides examination and drafting rooms. There are many other buildings that we need to cope with the demands upon our resources and these we hope to secure as time goes on."

Man of Attainments.

President Falconer is in the prime of life, having passed his forty-sixth birthday a couple of months ago. He is a man of great scholarly attainments, a born organizer, a keen thinker and an eloquent speaker, and his tenure of office of president of the University of Toronto has been marked by the greatest advance ever made by that famous institution both academically and materially. Dr. Falconer was born in Charlottetown, P. E. I., where his father was a Presbyterian minister, but eight years of his boyhood were spent in the West Indies, in Trinidad. He was educated in Queen's Royal College School there, taking the Gilchrist scholarship in 1885, and later he pursued his studies in the universities of London, Edinburgh, Leipzig, Berlin and Marburg. Ordained in 1892 he became lecturer and professor in New Testament Greek in Pine Hill Presbyterian College, Halifax, the same year, and remained there until 1907, the last three years as principal. In 1907 he was selected as the president of the University of Toronto. Two years ago he was honored by the King with the companionship of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. A BUSINESS EXPERIMENT.

Four New York muslin manufacturers are to make an interesting experiment.

They are to send sixteen of their working girls to school on alternate weeks, the pay of the girls going on even when they are not at their work. The scheme is announced as business, not philanthropy.

The reasoning is that a girl with some education will be a more valuable employee, in dollars and cents, than the one possessing only the technical knowledge necessary to run a machine.

Incidentally, if loyalty is a business asset, the employers will win.

SUSPICIOUS!

If you want to view the most impressive night scene in Glasgow, writes a correspondent in the Glasgow News, just pause for a few moments on the suspension bridge over the Clyde at South Portland street. Everything is quiet and peaceful, and the lights of a thousand street lamps shimmer on a somewhat sombre river. There is just the occasional clang of a bell from one of the myriad of tramcars which chase after each other over the bridges on either side like the lighted chariots of some fairy dream.

"That was what I was thinking when a voice at my elbow said, 'Give us a match, governor?' 'The river looks very beautiful,' I said, absentmindedly, as I furnished the match.

"He looked at me suspiciously for an instant, and then replied: 'Don't do it, boss; this is no weather for bathing.'

"Why are you trying for a job in the cabinet? You know very well that you have no possible chance."

"It doesn't hurt to aim high and leave plenty of room for discounts. All I expect is a twelve-hundred-dollar clerkship."

Chicago now claims a population of 2,942,000.

A wedding present purchased here carries with it that "tipe you desire."

THE EVENING CHAT

By RUTH CAMERON

"Keep busy to keep happy" is one of the wisest bits of advice the proverb makers ever wrote.

There is nothing that I ask of life any more fervently than that I may be "too useful and too busy to be sad," to the very end of my days.

But we should not forget that there is another angle to this matter, as to everything on earth. One must keep busy in order to keep happy, but one must keep fit in order to be able to keep busy. And in order to keep fit, one must not cram every waking moment full of business.

"I don't see why I'm so tired to-night," I heard a woman say the other day. "I haven't done any heavy work or anything that ought to tire me."

"What have you been doing?" I asked.

"Goodness," she said "don't ask me. It would take half the evening to tell you. I put the house in order and then I went downtown to have my suit fitted. While I was there I did half a dozen little errands and put in an hour at the dentist's. This afternoon I wrote a big batch of notes in regard to some statistics I am getting for our women's club, spent an hour or so at the telephone making arrangements for our college sorority banquet, finished that waist I was making—and what else did I do? Oh, yes, I know, washed out some silk stockings and chambray gloves, and did up two of my fussy collars."

"Then you were pretty busy most of the day?" I asked.

"Busy! I should say so," she retorted. "I didn't stop a minute."

"I didn't stop a minute"—how often that could be said of the average woman's day.

How many women fill every hour of their waking time crammed jammed full of such activities, rushing breathlessly from one to another, often nervous and harried because they are "raid of not being able to get everything in, or of having some unexpected call made upon them, or of not being on time for some appointment! How many women fill their days with sixteen or seventeen such hours, and their weeks with seven such days, and then wonder why they are tired and nervous, why they are, easily fretted, why they don't enjoy life as much as they did when they were younger!

No day should be planned so full of activities that there will be no passive time left. Every day should have some moments unplanned, some time kept

A Better Coal for Less Money

Every housewife wants a different coal for the summer cooking.

Our Nut Coal is a perfect warm weather coal. It is a quick lighting, fast burning coal, giving out a great heat for just the time it takes to cook the dinner.

It burns with a clear, bright flame, and leaves nothing but a clean, white ash.

It cooks the dinner perfectly, without cooking the whole house at the same time.

It's the ideal coal for summer, and it costs less.

SPORTING NEWS

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

McGinnity Will Be Reported to League.

Not only will the Iron Man be fined ten dollars for inciting his team in yesterday's little trouble at the ball park, but the manager of the Tacoma club will also be reported to the league. McGinnity certainly tried to "bull" Umpire Eddinger along and Fielder Jones undoubtedly will serve out a warning to the former Giant. McGinnity made a mistake when he under-estimated the strength of the Northwestern league and has had to practically recruit a new team from the cast-offs of the other clubs and he has registered another "bone" play by trying to run the league. The Iron Man knows enough of organized baseball and realized what he was doing when he started to bowl Umpire Eddinger out. A stiff fine at this early stage or suspension for a few days, would bring him up with a halt, and it is up to President Jones to back up his arbiters, or there will be further rough houses in the league this summer.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

Of course we hated to do it. McGinnity, himself, will do the twirling to-morrow. Ump. Eddinger is sure there, with the firing staff. It looked good to see the Iron Man chased from the game. Keller acted like a kid when he fanned in the sixth. Lou Nordyke may go. According to an Associated Press dispatch President

McGinnity, of the Tacoma Tigers, has purchased "Speed" McDonnell, formerly first baseman of the Vernon club in the Pacific Coast League. Brooks is hitting the ball right on the nose, when needed. Lynch made a big outery when he was caught at the plate in the fourth. Both pitchers got homers. Narvie simply could not let Belford get ahead of him. Harry Meek caught a much improved game, flagging three runners at the middle sack. Manager Raymond, of the Seattle Giants, yesterday released Graham

Rock, former Washington State College star athlete to the Baker, Ore., team of the Tri-State League.

Bob Brown has signed up Pitcher Doty, just released by the Portland Colts, and the latest recruit to the Beaver ranks, has been ordered to report to the club immediately.

Members of both the Boston Red Sox and the Cleveland Naps are mum on a battle between members of the two teams which came after the game Thursday, and in which several players on both sides were injured. Details of the fray leaked out from other sources.

Felts got his daily hit and also bunted a nice sacrifice in the seventh. Rawlings again had a brace of errors, but only one of these misplays was costly.

Meek pelted one against the fence in the fourth that would have been good for a home a foot higher up.

Narveson was caught between third and second in the seventh, but managed to reach third in safety.

Melchior had tonight luck. Stadlde had to make a grand catch of his long drive in fourth to shut off a couple of runs.

Kurfee is a remarkably good batter for a twirler, and is also a clever utility man.

FIGHT POSTPONED.

San Francisco, Cal., May 9.—The promoters of the Jess Willard-Gunboat Smith fight, scheduled for Saturday afternoon, May 17, announced that it had been postponed until the night of Tuesday, May 20.

SEATTLE GOLFERS PLAY AT OAK BAY

An international challenge golf match will be played at Oak Bay next Sunday, when a brace of Seattle cranks will play a pair of local stars. The Victoria players are Captain Chambers and Mr. W. Moffat, and the Seattle contenders are Messrs. R. Johnston and Fleeger. At the present tournament in Seattle these four star players took part.

AUTO POLO TOUR.

Wichita, Kas., May 8.—Wichita, the home of auto polo, is to send a team to Europe to play the game, according to arrangements made to-day. The team will sail from New York May 20 for sixteen weeks of games in the principal cities of Europe, including London, Paris and St. Petersburg. Auto polo, which is like plain polo except that automobiles are used instead of ponies, was first played in this city two years ago.

BIG MEET PLANNED.

New York, May 9.—Jan. E. Wheeler, director of athletics at the Panama Pacific Exposition, to be held at San Francisco in 1915, has sent a cablegram inviting athletes of the world to take part in the athletic events of the exposition. The invitation will be extended to representatives of all nations attending the special congress of the Olympic committee at Lausanne, Switzerland, by Prof. Wm. Sloane, the American committeeman.

MEEK-CHISHOLM BEAT CHAMPIONS

Harry Meek and his partner, Chisholm, defeated Marshall Hodge and Doyle in a series of four games at the Brunswick alleys yesterday, in the saw-off of the tie series of Tuesday. The scoring was excellent, the totals being: Meek and Chisholm, 1038; Hodge and Doyle, 1092. Meek and Chisholm, 1070; Hodge and Doyle, 1068. Meek and Chisholm, 1150; Hodge and Doyle, 1091. Meek and Chisholm, 1262; Hodge and Doyle, 1239.

DERBY BETTING.

Louves and Craganour are 9 to 2 Favorites.

London, May 9.—Latest betting on the Derby to be run at Epsom June 4 is as follows: W. Raphael's Louves and H. Cholmondeley's Craganour, 9 to 2; D. R. Browning's Shogun, 8 to 1; Lord Saville's Aldegonde, 10 to 7; Lord Rosebery's Sanquhar, August Belmont's Vulcan and M. A. Aumont's Nimbus, 20 to 1; and his majesty's Anmer, 25 to 1.

CRICKET SCORES.

London, May 9.—The Middlesex-Cambridge cricket match has been considerably delayed through rain. Middlesex put together 122 in their second innings, making a total for the two innings of 264 runs. This leaves 28 runs needed by Cambridge to score their first victory.

COURT SECRETS OF THE HAPSBURGS

COUNTESS TELLS HOW PRINCE RUDOLPH DIED

Autobiography of Confidant of Late Empress of Austria Has Been Published

Countess Marie Larisch, in her autobiography, "My past," just published, fully satisfies the expectation that the niece and one time confidant of Elizabeth, the murdered Empress of Austria, would reveal many court secrets which hitherto have been suppressed. The book is written spicily and with no end of detail.

It is for the most part an intimate story of the "tragedy of Meyerling"—the love affair of the Crown Prince Rudolph, only son of Emperor Francis Joseph, and the Baroness Marie Vetsera and their strange death in Rudolph's hunting lodge near Vienna on January 30, 1889. Countess Larisch was one of the last persons to see Rudolph alive and her own part in the intrigue whose climax has been a mystery for twenty-four years caused the Empress to cast her off. The Countess says that what actually happened in the hunting lodge is a matter for conjecture; but she has every reason to believe that Rudolph shot his sweetheart and himself—that all theories of avenging murder by an uncle or a brother of Marie Vetsera are wrong.

Marie Vetsera had several love affairs, according to the autobiography, when she returned to the Austrian court in 1888 and told Countess Larisch that she was infatuated with Prince Rudolph and how she had met him for the first time at midnight in a carriage which he sent for her. The Countess says she did not approve of the affair but kept her friend's secret.

A few days later Rudolph called on the Countess, his cousin, announced that Marie Vetsera was being spied upon and begged the Countess to prevent Marie from causing a scandal. The Crown Prince wasn't getting on well with his wife, Princess Stephanie of Belgium. He was sick of court intrigue and he said to Countess Larisch: "O My God, why was I born? At the best what am I? A poor creature cursed with the sins of my progenitors."

The Countess took Marie Vetsera to a rendezvous where Prince Rudolph said he wanted merely a ten-minute interview. On their arrival Rudolph unmasked the Countess by putting Marie in an inner room, locking all the doors and threatening to kill the Countess when she threatened to tell the Empress. The Countess called him "a devil." He replied that he stood "on the brink of a precipice" and pleaded that he must keep Marie two days in order to come to an understanding with her mother. He persuaded the Countess to say nothing and she returned to the palace. On January 31 she heard from Dr. Wiederhofer that the Crown Prince and Marie Vetsera were dead—both shot through the head. Rudolph's body had been found on the floor with a revolver in his hand and Marie lay on a bed.

The Empress was like a woman turned to stone when she heard the news. To Baroness Vetsera, Marie's mother, she coldly said, "It is too bad. Both of them are dead. When the Emperor arrived at Meyerling the scene was 'agonizing.' He 'leaned against a wall and cried as if his heart would break." Dr. Wiederhofer refused to certify the cause of death as apoplexy, saying the people should not be kept in the dark. The Crown Prince had a royal funeral, but the burial of Marie Vetsera was attended by dreadful scenes. Her uncles had to dress the body and remove it from the lodge in such a way that she should seem to be alive. In a closed carriage it was taken at night to the Cistercian Abbey of Heiligenkreuz and buried in a rough coffin without a shroud.

Three weeks later Countess Larisch received a delayed note in which Marie Vetsera asked forgiveness for the troubles she had caused and advising her to "follow us" if life became too hard.

There is no doubt that politics had something to do with the tragedy, Countess Larisch says. The Crown Prince and the Archduke John of Tuscany had been plotting together for the throne of Hungary and the Countess thinks he may have feared discovery. She doubts if his motives will ever be revealed. She denies that the Crown Prince and Marie Vetsera were brother and sister, who resolved on death when they discovered the fact, and she says all other theories except that they died together willingly have been disproved.

LIBERAL CONVENTION TO PICK CANDIDATES

Men Who Will Contest Federal and Provincial Seats to Be Chosen Monday

A convention of Liberals of the city is called for Monday evening for the purpose of nominating candidates to contest the city seat in the House of Commons and the four seats in the legislature at the next elections to those bodies.

To this convention all Liberals of the city are invited, whether members of the association or not, and that it may be fully representative of the Liberal electors of Victoria.

With these candidates in the field the work of education and organization will go on with added vigor.

At the convention, which will be held in the Liberal headquarters on Cormorant street, the choice of delegates for the provincial convention at Revelstoke will be ratified. It is expected that all the forty delegates which this constituency is entitled to, will go from Victoria to the inland city for the meeting on May 23.

The Grif Club is making arrangements for an address by F. T. Congdon, K. C., probably on Tuesday evening, May 20, and as Mr. Congdon, who was formerly commissioner in the Yukon, is one of the most eloquent and convincing speakers in the province there should be a large gathering to hear him.

"Do you really love me?" she wrote. "Referring to my last letter," he promptly replied, "you will find that I love you devotedly on page one, madly on page three, and passionately on pages four and five."

PROGRESS SHOWN IN DIOCESAN REPORTS

Treasurer's Report Shows Receipts for Year at $3,410.65; Eight New Branches Formed

At the afternoon session yesterday of the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to Missions the treasurer's report, read by Mrs. Wollaston, showed the total receipts for the year to have been $3,410.65; the total expenditures, $2,192.16; and balance in hand, $1,218.49. The Columbia Coast Mission had received $22.60 of this amount; the West Coast Mission, $95.55; and the Bishop of Columbia, for diocesan purposes, $354. Part of the sum had also been sent to India and China. The report of the recording secretary, read by Mrs. J. M. Harper was also most satisfactory.

Other reports followed from the officers of the several departments, Mrs. E. H. Hisecks, Dorcas secretary, reported that the total value of sales sent during the year was $1,106.75. Mrs. Dixon, the literature secretary, reported a balance of $10.50. Mrs. Toller, the organizing secretary, reported the formation during the year of eight new branches, this bringing the total number at present to sixteen. The treasurer of the Junior Woman's Auxiliary reported a total of $488.55, while the thank-offering secretary's report showed a total of $495.57.

Foreign Missions. The report of the Chinese mission was read by Miss Woods, secretary for the non-Christian work, this showing that the work in both the Chinese and Hindu missions was being carried forward. The Columbia Coast Mission reported having sent more than twenty boxes to the Columbia Coast Mission territory during the year. Mrs. Murray Thain, secretary of the Babies' Branch, reported total receipts for the year of $86.45.

During the afternoon Mrs. Skinner, of Nanaimo, read an interesting paper prepared by Mrs. De Blain Green, on "Isolated Church Homes."

The evening proceedings were presided over by Dean Doull, the address of the evening being given by Rev. Robert Connell, who spoke on the Indian work which is being carried forward in the diocese, the Rev. C. R. Littler, who was to have spoken to the meeting, being unable to attend owing to illness.

AMASSING SHOW

John Dr. w. After having attracted for over three months the largest attendance ever known at the Empire theatre, New York, John Dr. w. comes to the Victoria theatre this evening in his brilliantly witty comedy, "The Wretched Husband."

This is the newest play by the author of "The Walls of Jericho," a quickly moving comedy, packed full of humorous characters, funny scenes and even funnier lines. It tells how the idea of votes for women can be laughed out of the best of families. Mr. Dr. w. has never had a part that suited him better than Thomas Pelling, the tea merchant. The play and the performance were unanimously declared in New York "John Dr. w.'s best in years."

The distinguished company supporting Mr. Dr. w. this season includes Miss Mary Boland, as leading lady; Miss Nina Eversing, the well-known English actress, formerly a member of Miss Ethel Barrymore's company in "Mid-Channel"; Alice John, Hubert Druce and Margaret Watson.

Rose Stahl. Acting of exceptional quality, a play with a gripping and very human story, a star whose personal following has been gained by meritorious past performances—all these are a guarantee that Miss Rose Stahl will play a welcome engagement at the Victoria theatre, Tuesday, May 13. "Maggie Pepper," the Charles Klein play, has already pleased all classes of playgoers. It treats of people whom one meets in every-day life.

"Prince of To-night." "The Prince of To-night," the attraction at the Victoria theatre, Monday, May 12, is by Adams, Hough and Howard, whose names are linked with such successes as "The Time, the Place and the Girl," "The Goddess of Liberty," "The Stubborn Cingarella," "The Honeymoon Trail," and "The Golden Girl." The book is exceptionally clever, dealing with the mysteries of a blooming century plant, and gives opportunities for some remarkable transformations, groupings and stage pictures.

"Oliver Twist." At last Victoria theatre-goers will have an opportunity to see Nat C. Goodwin's much-heralded portrayal of Fagin in "Oliver Twist." This play is scheduled at the Victoria theatre, Saturday night, May 10. Those who have had an opportunity to see Mr. Goodwin's characterization of Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice," and who are familiar with Dickens' story of "Oliver Twist" will understand what wonderful opportunities he has in the role of Fagin, the Jew fence. It has been pronounced by critics in New York as his greatest achievement. Oliver Morosco, the director, has surrounded the star with an excellent cast.

Majestic Theatre. "Heroes One and All," a thrilling multiple reel special feature will be shown at the Majestic to-day and Saturday. The feature of the film is a big fire in which is shown the action of the fire department from the sounding of the alarm to the rescue on ladders of the imprudent business man and burglar. "The Missing Bonds," a young man who tries unsuccessfully to elope with his sweetheart. "Warwick Chronicle" is full of interesting events. "The Pawned Bracelet" furnishes the comedy.

Empress Theatre. Frank Stafford and Miss Stone are presenting a sketch, "A Hunter's Game," at the Empress. Two well-trained dogs are taking performing parts so well that they gain a full half of the hearty response given the players by the audience. "A Hunter's Game" is the love story of a hunter, very simple and containing much of the woods, including the bird calls and whistling of Mr. Stafford, which are features. Al Herman, in black face, presents the big laugh of the year; Grace Turner and Sidney Broughton are seen in "Just Landed." Lillian Holmes proves charming in her singing numbers and W. C. Hoefler is a host of fun in comedy cycling.

REPROVED THEATRE GOERS.

At the fall of the curtain, on an early act of "Typhoon," recently played for the first time in London, two ladies and a gentleman got up to leave the theatre. Miss Ellen Terry, who was in the audience, impulsively laid hold of the one nearest to her and put her back into her seat and said, "You silly girl, after having seen this wonderful play, has the extraordinary courtesy and heroic feeling of the Japanese taught you nothing than to want to rush off to your supper!"

The party at first were indignant; but when the lights went up, and they recognized who was speaking to them, their annoyance vanished, and they remained with Miss Terry applauding until the very last curtain.

A typesetter in a printing house became very adroit in explaining the large number of misprints for which he was responsible. Even when he changed his work and became a waiter in a restaurant his skill did not forsake him. One day he had served a guest with a plate of soup, and was turning away when he was called back sharply. "This is an outrage," cried the indignant diner. "I find a needle in my soup. What does this mean?" "Just a misprint, sir," explained the former typesetter. "It should have been a noodle."

First Principles

A kitchen range was originally thought of for cooking purposes. The fuel was placed in the fire pot and lighted. Drafts were turned on and the fire burned up. Drafts were checked as soon as the fire was well under way.

From the time the first kitchen range was made until the Gurney Economizer was invented a tremendous amount of heat was wasted, and absolutely wasted. This heat should be retained in the stove for the purpose for which it was created—to cook with.

The Gurney range absolutely retains the heat with the minimum amount of waste.

The Economizer enables you to produce in a few minutes an extreme or moderate heat in the oven whenever and as often as you desire it. What this means every woman knows.

You are not fair to yourself or your purse if you do not investigate the Economizer in buying a new range.

At the same time you will appreciate the exceptional value of the other exclusive features of the range—the Divided Flue, the Special Grate and the Broiler attachment.

The Gurney-Oxford is well able to speak for itself.

Last of Old Time Indians "Crop-Eared Wolf" Died Recently

With the passing of Crop-Eared Wolf recently, one of the last of the old-time Indians is gone. The deceased Indian was chief of the Blood band, whose reserve is one of the largest in Canada. Wolf was the head of some 1,300 Indians and nothing of importance was done without his advice and sanction. He was stern with his people, but kind with the white man so long as nothing was said or done to interfere with the Indian or his rights. He was a most careful guardian of Indian rights. Some six years ago an agitation was raised among the Indians to sell the portion of their reserve lying south in the vicinity of Cardston, in Southern Alberta. A price was offered that would have made every Indian on the reserve an independent citizen, built them comfortable homes, and given them a better status with the white man. This the old chief resolutely refused to agree to. He would have nothing to do with the sale of Indian lands to the white man. He insisted that the treaty gave the land to the Indians as long as water ran and grass grew, and from this position he could not be moved. It is said that one of the last things Crop-Eared Wolf did before his death was to call his minor chiefs and people together and make them promise that they would never sell their land to the white man. Their tract is one of the most fertile in the whole province of Alberta and would be valuable as a tract for colonization purposes.

Proprietor of Medal.
Crop-Eared Wolf was the proud possessor of one of the medals given to the chiefs at the time of the visit of the Governor-General of Canada some few years ago. He always wore the uniform of a chief, which in modern times is blue serge with brass buttons, and is supplied by the Indian Department. He was an ardent advocate of peace. Many a tempestuous time on the reserve was brought to a happy issue by his intervention. At the time Charcoal was at large, Crop-Eared Wolf was one of the party constantly on the watch for his capture. It was through his help that Jas. Wilson, now registrar of brands at Medicine Hat, then Indian agent at Macleod, was able to finally make the capture that brought the murderer to the gallows.

The old chief was, of course, a brave. On more than one occasion he has shown the scars of many a severe test. His breast was covered from the armpits to his very throat with thong marks, but never in one of the ordeals did he flinch or show anything but the bravery that would place a cow throws out a lump when infected with lump-jaw. Crop-Eared Wolf was a patient sufferer, and while he suffered much pain during the last several months, his end was peaceful, and unlike so many of his predecessors in the chief office of the Indian band, he has not gone to the happy hunting ground, but to the abode of his Father in heaven.

The funeral was attended by all the Indian Department staff on the reserve, as well as by many friends of the old chief from Macleod and other places. His burial was at Stand Off in the cemetery of the Roman Catholic church there.—Special Correspondence to Toronto Star.

THE DEVIL'S USEFULNESS.
A North of Ireland gentleman heard from the lips of a clergyman of the death of an inveterate enemy of his, who had harassed him for many years. "Well," he said, "it's a comfort to think that the devil's got that fellow at last." The clergyman, being a clergyman, felt bound to protest against this uncharitable view of the dead man's condition. He intimated a hope that, in spite of all that had passed, the poor man might have escaped the extreme penalty. "Well," said the other, "if the devil hasn't got that fellow, all I can say is that I don't see much use in keeping a devil at all." From George Birmingham's "Lighter Side of Irish Life."

HOSE PROTECTOR Prevents Shoe Polish From Soiling Person's Stockings.

Who has not frothed at the mouth as he sat in a bootblack's chair and watched the shine artist daub his ankles liberally with polish that should have gone on his shoes? This applies particularly to the low-shoe season. So the invention of a New Jersey man will have many supporters. A pair of thin metal shields are attached to two uprights, which are adjustable to different lengths. The tops of the uprights are connected by a spring clamp which goes around the wearer's leg and holds the device in place, with the shields inside the sides of the shoes and completely covering the ankles. No matter how careless the bootblack, he cannot soil his patrons' socks under this protection. The guards are adjustable, not only to different heights, but to fit assorted sizes of legs.

POLICEMAN'S RESOURCE.
Whatever their faults may be, the New York police show no lack of resourcefulness. One recently discovered a dead horse lying in the roadway, says the Daily Chronicle, and while he was gazing at it a colleague who came up suggested that he had better report the incident. He pulled out his notebook and started writing; then stopped and asked, "How do you spell Kosciusko?" for it was in a street bearing this exotic name that the horse lay. "I'm sure I don't know," replied the other. "Well, then," said the scribe, taking hold of the horse's head, "you grip his tail, and we'll pull him round the corner. I can spell Marcy-avenue."

MAY FACE CHARGES FOR MANY MURDERS

Man. Serving Life Term Believed to Have Killed Twenty-Five

Leavenworth, Kas., May 8.—Twenty-five murders committed in the last year in Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Iowa and Illinois by means of blows of an axe are ascribed to Henry Lee Moore, now serving a life term in the Missouri penitentiary, according to a theory announced by W. M. Laughrey, a special agent of the department of justice, after an exhaustive study of the axe murders.

Henry Lee Moore went to the penitentiary at Jefferson City after being found guilty of the murder of his mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Wilson and Mrs. George Moore, at Columbia, Mo., in December last year. Moore, on trial, made many admissions and contradictory statements. He said he had made a study of famous murders, including the Dr. Crippen case in England.

The murders ascribed to Moore by McLaughrey are: H. C. Wayne, wife and child; Mrs. A. J. Burnham and two children, Colorado Springs, Colo., September, 1911; William E. Dawson, wife and daughter, Monmouth, Ill., October, 1911; William Showman, wife and three children, Ellsworth, Kas., October, 1911; Rosetta Hudson and wife, Paola, Kas., June, 1911; J. R. Moore, four children and two girl guests, Villisca, Iowa, June, 1912; Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Moore, Columbia, Mo.

Mr. McLaughrey was called to assist in the investigation of the Villisca murders and since then has devoted much time to the study of axe crimes. He calls attention to the fact that the first of the series of murders did not occur until Moore's release from the state reformatory at Hutchinson, Kas., where he served a term for forgery. Moore's admission that for years his mind had been immersed in the study of terrible crimes, McLaughrey says, influenced him greatly in the formation of his theory.

Mr. McLaughrey said the strangely-similar circumstances in the murder series could lead to no other conclusion. Mr. Laughrey is a son of Warden McLaughrey, of the Federal penitentiary here, and has charge of the bureau of criminal identification at the prison.

ADVOCATES CADET CORPS IN SCHOOLS

Former Bishop of Auckland Found Universal Training Scheme Beneficial

London, May 8.—A national scheme for compelling the schools to form cadet corps of all the scholars is urged in a letter in the Times to-day from the pen of Right Rev. M. R. Neilgan, formerly Bishop of Auckland, N. Z. His lordship says New Zealand's universal training scheme has acted as a partial corrective for the evils of secular education, from which New Zealand has been suffering for many years.

The alteration for the better, says the reverend gentleman, has been most marked in the Dominion, where boys of all classes and sects mix together thus destroying the antagonism set up between those lads who attend purely religious institutions.

He further remarks that conditions in Great Britain are similar, and, if anything, the religious schools are more antagonistic, doubt, to tradition and the handing down of old feuds.

BANK MANAGER DEAD.

St. John, N. B., May 9.—Arthur P. Hazen, who since June last has occupied the office of manager of the bank of British North America at Montreal, died this morning. Mr. Hazen only returned to this city from Montreal about three weeks ago with the body of his wife, formerly Miss Agnes Isabel Blizard, of St. John, who had died a day or two before.

NOT A MENACE.

A barrister in one of our Australian colonies some years ago secured the acquittal of a notorious murderer by concluding his speech for the defence thus: "At great length, gentlemen of the jury, I have stated the reasons which cause me to believe in the prisoner's innocence, and to regard him as a personal friend. Gentlemen, the prisoner in the dock is my very dear personal friend; and if he falls by your hands I will avenge his honor and my loss. As a gentleman of an old Irish family, who can snuff candles with a revolver at twenty paces, I call upon you to place my friend right in the eyes of society. I leave the case in your hands, feeling satisfied that you will not accuse me of employing the language of menace, when I have done no more than hint at some of the natural consequences of a verdict adverse to my conscientious opinion."—From "Anecdotes of Bench and Bar."

The story is told of a well known traveller who on one journey was much annoyed by a pedantic bore who forced himself upon him and made a great parade of his learning. The traveller bore it as long as he could, and at length, looking at him gravely, said: "My friend, you and I know all that is to be known."
 "How is that?" said the man, pleased with what he thought a complimentary association.
 "Why," said the traveller, "you know everything except that you are a fool, and I know that."

LECTURES OXFORD ON U. S. HISTORY

WELL KNOWN WRITER TO GIVE A COURSE

Charles Francis Adams Will Deal With the Constitutional and Other Questions

Charles Francis Adams, the American historical writer, has just begun a course of four lectures at Oxford on American history. The lectures are expected to attract much attention outside as well as within the university.

Mr. Adams is taking up episodes of the civil war in the United States and the particular question of state rights to show the application to recent events, such as the differences between Europe and the discontented South of the United States and Japan over the Home Rule outlook in Ireland to-day is bad. We were only saved by falling back on state sovereignty and local self-government. In ten years this discontent disappeared. The English may think that the condition in the South after the war and in Ireland at the present day are different. They may contend that they have English rights to protect in Ulster, but after we had freed the blacks we were obliged to protect them and see that their rights were respected. We told the South practically to go ahead and manage your own affairs.

Mr. Adams said, in discussing the lectures, he would treat the question between the State of California and Japan from a historical and not an international viewpoint. He would show that it dated back to 1848, when the first attempt was made to crystallize the settlements of Massachusetts Bay into a union which materialized as a nation in 1787; but the jealousies were so tremendous that it was only effected by the historical absurdity of a divided sovereignty from that time until 1861, when the question of state rights led to a succession of threats of secession until the civil war broke out, from which the nation emerged as the supreme authority.

The present dispute between Japan and California, said Mr. Adams, is practically over the same question as that of 1861. The essential difference is that California does not claim the right of secession, but leaves the ultimate decision to the Supreme Court as to whether a single state has the power practically to abrogate treaties. President Wilson's difficulty, Mr. Adams says, is his unwillingness to raise this issue in California in view of the serious popular feeling which would follow in that state and also to his desire to dispose of the question in some other way.

Mr. Adams' second lecture will deal with subjects which have not been before fully developed by our historians, namely, the overthrow of King Cotton and the peculiar phases and applications of the cotton famine in Lancashire.

The third lecture will relate to Gen. Lee. Mr. Adams will state his difficult position in England because of the great admiration here for Gen. Lee. "As a Union soldier," he says, "I would have killed him if he came in my way during a conflict, yet I feel that under the circumstances he acted as I would have done, as he remained loyal to Virginia."

"My fourth lecture," continued Mr. Adams, "will be something for English minds to ponder upon. I will not give any advice, or opinion, but will simply present historical facts and suggest something for them to think over. I am talking of the American reconstruction period when the general feeling in Europe and the discontented South continued to be troublesome just as the Home Rule outlook in Ireland to-day is bad. We were only saved by falling back on state sovereignty and local self-government. In ten years this discontent disappeared. The English may think that the condition in the South after the war and in Ireland at the present day are different. They may contend that they have English rights to protect in Ulster, but after we had freed the blacks we were obliged to protect them and see that their rights were respected. We told the South practically to go ahead and manage your own affairs."

"It is true," said Mr. Adams, "that the political influence of the negro has now been practically suppressed, but the question to be considered is whether the political disenfranchisement of the negro is not more than outweighed by the big tranquility it has brought to the South and the consequent welding of the nation in stronger ties."

"It is not for me," said Mr. Adams, "to draw lessons from this, but simply to point out the facts of history. Here is a recent experience in restoring local self-government to an embittered, war-wrecked, humiliated section which paid a greater penalty for war than any nation ever before. Shall I say that if local self-government and Home Rule brought tranquility to the South in ten years is there any reason why you should draw the line in regard to Ireland?"

Mr. Adams found a portrait of his father at the American embassy, but could not ascertain its history or the name of the painter. It portrays his father as he was in 1844. The picture was not at the legation when his father was American minister.

CHILD-LIKE AND BLAND.

A Chinaman was brought up before the magistrate in a San Francisco police court recently for an offence against the city by-laws. "You're fined five dollars," said the magistrate. "No savvy!" retorted John. "You're fined five dollars!" repeated the magistrate. Still "No savvy!" At length, after persistent attempts to get the bland Chinaman to understand had failed, a big Irish policeman stationed on court duty got permission to "interpret." "You're fined ten dollars, John!" he roared. "Heap big lie!" protested the Chinaman indignantly. "Twas only five."

The Scientific American of recent issue has the following: The electrolysis of lead salts produces peroxide of lead at the anode, and if deposited in films of varying thickness on polished plates beautiful color effects are obtained. Gassiot's process involved the electrolysis of lead acetate and an anode of a highly polished steel plate. This was laid on the bottom of a basin and covered with a cardboard perforated or cut out in some design. On this was placed a copper cathode and a current from two or three cells run for 10 or 20 minutes. The film of lead peroxide on the anode or steel plate displayed the most exquisite tints of the rainbow, due to the light reflected through the film from the polished steel beneath. The tints vary in reflected and transmitted light, and are best seen at a window when a sheet of w.c. paper is inclined over the plate.

ONCE A FAILURE
NOW TRIUMPHANT

THE TRANSFORMATION OF KING CONSTANTINE

How Sixteen Years Have Raised Greek Monarch From Lowest Rung to Top

A correspondent of the Manchester
Guardian writes:

"Visions of the Crown Prince, now King, at the head of the tragic Greek army of 1897 always remain with me, and one of the strongest contrasts of history is afforded to me by the thought of him now as the most popular man in Greece and the head of a triumphant and excellent army. There cannot be so great a difference in physical energy and tactical learning between the seemingly futile leader of 1897 and the commander-in-chief who has marched to Salonica and captured Janina as the events seem to suggest.

"To my thinking the explanation of the change, so far as it is a personal one, is that the Crown Prince approached the two campaigns from an entirely different mental angle. In 1897 he did not believe that there would be war, and when war broke out, contrary to his expectations, he was like a man who felt that he could do nothing to reverse destiny. Up to the last moment he believed that the powers would be able to prevent a war, and he trusted wholly to the influence of his family with the European courts, an influence which they well knew how to wield.

"Of course there was always the danger that war would be precipitated by the action of the frontier bands, but as for that, 'They will obey me,' he used to say; 'there will be no war.' He was wrong; Greek bands did cross the frontier, and the Turks declared war just as they did fifteen years later against the Balkan allies. It would be untrue to say that the Crown Prince sulked in his tent. In every formal sense he discharged his depressing duties. But his whole demeanor was that of a man who knew that it was too late to redeem folly.

"I have in my memory a picture of him as he sat by the roadside for breakfast between Domoko and Lamia after the last battle of that thirty days' war. As he watched the Greek army stream south he was the very embodiment of resigned dejection, and he reminded me of a description in Zola's 'Debauche' of Louis Napoleon in similar circumstances.

"In the present campaign the mental angle of his approach has been wholly different. The outbreak of war was the result of design, not an accident.

"Of course the new model French trained army is an infinitely better machine than the frothy but sleepy army of 1897. But the change in the army has not been greater than the change in the Crown Prince's quality of leadership. After the retreat from Larissa in 1897 there were many malicious jokes in Athenian drawing rooms, of which this was a specimen: 'Vous-avez entendu que Haji Petro a sauve la batterie?' one would ask. Haji Petro was a major of artillery and one of the Crown Prince's A. D. C's. If you professed ignorance of the saving of the battery the answer would come: 'Mais oui; il a sauve la batterie de cuisine!' To think that if events had taken a different course the new King would still have to bear the burden of the discredit of 1897!

"As it happens the true man has emerged. The difference between the man of 1897 and the man of 1913 is probably not very great; yet how immense it seems! The experience is enough to make one think very gently of those military failures who had no such opportunity as has fallen to the new King of proving their worth."

A union butcher was suing a packing firm to recover damages for injuries sustained in a Kansas City establishment. A colored laborer in the plant was called as a witness.

"Did you work with Jones, the plaintiff?"
"Yassah."

"Do you know the foreman and the other officers of the plant?"
"Yassah."

"What are your relations with them?"
"Now, yo' look-a-here, boss," said the witness. "Ise a colored man. That's why I look so white. Them folks ain't no relations of mine."

BROWNING LETTERS

BROUGHT IN $32,750

Sabin, Collector, Secures Love
Missives After Strenuous
Bidding With Quaritch

SALE OF POEMS ALSO BROUGHT BIG AMOUNTS

Five hundred love letters of Robert and Elizabeth Barrett Browning brought $32,750 at the second day sale of the pictures, drawings and engravings, autograph letters and manuscripts, books and works of art of the late R. W. Barrett Browning, at a sale at Sotheby's the other day.

Chief among the notable figures who filled the main room of the auction hall to overflowing was Mrs. Browning, the widow of the painter, who remained silent and inactive, and Mrs. Allingham, the widow of an old friend and correspondent of Browning, who attempted to secure a packet of her husband's letters to Browning, but had to become resigned to a handsome bid. Other notable persons present who were connected with the poet and his wife were Mr. and Mrs. Meynell, Mrs. Stephen Wheeler and Helena Angela Rossetti.

The clou of the entire collection, the love letters already referred to, went to Sabin, the collector, after strenuous bidding between him and Quaritch. The letters themselves are contained in tiny packets loosely tied together with white cord. Many of them remain in the old envelopes with the old red two-cent stamp. Other articles sold and the prices fetched are as follows:

Miss E. Barrett's "Essay on Mind," $962; the same author's poems, mostly early and best, sold to be unpublished, $390; a large packet of autograph letters of Mrs. E. B. Browning to Miss Mitford, $1,225; correspondence of Mrs. E. B. Browning with Hugh Stuart Boyd, the blind scholar, whose friendship with the author is commemorated in her poem "Wine of Cyprus," $675; 102 letters of Mrs. E. B. Browning to Mrs. Martin, a life-long friend, $350; autographic criticisms by Mrs. Browning of her husband's poems, $450; the autograph manuscript of Mrs. Browning's "Sonnets from the Portuguese," $5,550; the autograph manuscript of Mrs. Browning's "Catarina to Camoens," $3,100; the autograph manuscript of Mrs. Browning's "Last Poems," $950; the original autograph manuscript of Mrs. Browning's "Aurora Leigh," $4,650.

Twelve letters of Robert Browning to Miss Ephrasia Fanny Haworth and fifty-four letters of Mrs. E. B. Browning to the same woman, $600; about 140 letters of R. Browning and upward of 100 letters of Mrs. Browning to Miss Isa Blagden, who was perhaps the Brownings' most intimate friend in Florence, $1,300; the autograph manuscript of Robert Browning's "A Last Word," the poem which is now called "One Word More," $330; the original autograph manuscript from which Browning's last volume of poetry, "Asolando, Fancies and Facts," was printed, $4,950; seventy-one autograph letters of W. J. Landon to Browning, $350; three autograph letters of D. G.

Rossetti to Browning, expressing the writer's admiration of the poet, $335. The sales realized a total of $77,570.

TEA-TIME ODORS AT HOUSE OF COMMONS

Gourmets Among British M.
P.'s Object to High Teas;
Kipper is Banned

Serious disturbances, says the London News, are threatened in the domestic department of the House of Commons.

About a fortnight ago the Kitchen Committee decided, by a narrow majority to veto the high-tea custom. Certain outraged members of the committee with delicate stomachs and elegant tastes had been keeping a tally of the astonishing things consumed in the Commons tea-room during the stimulating hour of "5 o'clock." Among other things members have ordered with their tea:

- Chops and Worcester sauce.
- Steaks and Worcester sauce.
- Cold sausages.
- A smoked haddock.
- Half a smoked haddock.
- A kipper (well done.)
- A kipper (underdone.)
- Sardines on toast.
- Sardines au natural.
- Poached egg on haddock.
- Bloater roes on (and off) toast.

The Protest.
And that is by no means the complete list. It was duly and deliberately

"sat upon" by the committee, and it was decided:

"That, from this date and hereafter members of the honorable House of Commons desirous of partaking of refreshments in the Tea-Room shall only be allowed an egg with their tea."

In angry chorus the members who like something tasty with their fragrant 5 o'clock demanded the why and the wherefore of this stringent rule.

They were politely informed that this curtailment of ancient gastronomic rights and privileges was due to the objection of certain aesthetic-minded members with super-sensitive objections to the odor of chops and steaks and fish at tea-time.

And now a number of members are setting their hands to a round robin to the tyrannical Kitchen Committee, "implored the restoration of their ancient liberties," and praying for the reinstatement of chops, steaks, cutlets, sausages and sardines. They do not mind the kipper being banned. Even the Labor members agree that that subtly-aromatic violation of the shal-lows has a way of asserting itself to the discomfort of the delicate brew of "best China" so much in demand in the Tea-Room at the present time.

If the committee refuse . . . then the next thing we shall hear of will be the calling out of the military in Parliament square.

"What do you think is absent-mindedness?" asked Choate, who was putting the witness through a hot cross-examination.

"Well," replied the witness, in a slow, deliberate tone, "if a man who thought he had left his watch at home should take it out of his pocket to see if he had time to go back after it, I should call him a leetle absent-minded."

No fewer than 8,941 motor cars of all sorts are registered in London; of these, 22,110 are motorcycles.

ROYAL REBUKE.

King Edward was never a man to tolerate snobbery. He was a member once in the late nineties of a large house party in the Midlands, says the Liverpool Post. On a table in the billiard room were two or three boxes of cigars, and the prince was helping himself to one when an ambitious fellow-guest approached him, and taking from his pocket a cigar case held it out to his royal highness, saying, "I think, sir, you will find these better."

The prince turned and regarded the other steadily for a moment, and replied: "Mr. —, if a man's dinner is good enough for me, his cigars are good enough for me." Next morning unexpected business called the mob to town.

England is the United States' best customer. The United States shipped to that country in 1912 merchandise valued at $52,000,000. Canada comes next with $22,000,000.

JUNIOR W. C. T. U. HAS ANNUAL MEETING

New President Elected and Retiring Officer Presented With Volume of Shakespeare

At the annual meeting of the Young People's branch of the W. C. T. U. last evening at the residence of Mrs. Mitchell, Superior street, nearly twenty-five members were present, and a considerable amount of business was transacted. The retiring president, Miss Bromley-Jubb, presided until the time for the election of officers, when the hon. president, Mrs. Willisroft, took the chair. The following officers were elected: Miss Martin, president; Miss Walker, corresponding secretary (re-elected); Mrs. Gibson, recording secretary; Mr. Mackinnon, treasurer. The retiring president was presented by Miss Martin, on behalf of the society, with a handsomely bound volume of Shakespeare, Miss Jubb responding in suitable manner to the expression of appreciation which accompanied the presentation.

During the evening Mrs. Mitchell gave a very interesting address on "The Possibilities of Youth," while the proceedings concluded with a musical programme and social half hour, during which Master and Miss Vey, two of the youngest members of the society, played a pianoforte duet, Miss Fletcher singing, and Mr. Avery giving a violin solo.

W. C. T. U. HOLDS MEETING

Two Excellent Papers Read on Franchise and Purity Work—Annual Meeting May 22

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. held yesterday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., the president, Mrs. Willisroft, presided, and Mrs. Frank Andrews conducted the devotional exercises with which the proceedings commenced. It was announced that the annual meeting of the organization would take place on Thursday, May 22, at the Y. M. C. A., when the election of officers and reports for the year will form the principal features of business. At yesterday's meeting two excellent papers were read by Mrs. Gordon Grant, superintendent of the franchise work; and Mrs. Mitchell, superintendent of purity work. The latter paper was in the nature of a report with recommendations along that line of work, while the former, which was also a report, pointed out the meaning of the franchise, and the significance which such associations as the brewers attached to this was shown by the opposition which was being offered to the movement by this organization. On motion of Mrs. Frank Andrews a standing vote was given the two speakers, whose papers were much appreciated. Tea was served at the conclusion of the proceedings.

LOOKS BACK 31 YEARS

Magistrate Saul Pays First Visit to Victoria in Third Century.

"There were only two two-story buildings in Victoria the last time I was here 31 years ago," stated Magistrate Saul, of Lillooet, who arrived at the Dominion hotel yesterday afternoon to spend a few days in the provincial capital. "They were the Odd Fellows' hall and the Drlard. I used to spend several weeks every year in Victoria in the olden days, but it was then only a fair-sized village. There was a Dominion hotel, I remember, and it was run by Stephen Jones, but the Stephen who runs it now was just a kid. Yates street was even then the main street and Government and Yates was the main corner. In '63 when I first came here the Beehive was the leading hotel. It wasn't in the same class as the present Dominion, however."

Discussing the mining industry at Lillooet, Mr. Saul said that the Rideau River looked good this year. He thought there was excellent prospect for the individual gold hunter to go in and make a good season of it. Only a small portion of the productive property was in the hands of corporations.

Adam heard them blame the cost of living on the middleman. "The only thing they don't blame on the first man," he thoughtfully observed.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE PEAT INDUSTRY

Up-to-Date Methods Used to Dig, Spread and Dry Product of the Bogs

A high degree of mechanical skill has been applied in Canada, says the Canadian, to the digging, the spreading and the extracting of moisture from peat. One digging machine is thus described: "The object of the new peat machine is to increase the production, diminish the cost of labor, and to operate effectively on any kind of peat bog, whether firm or soft."

"The excavator consists essentially of the combination of a platform resting on three parallel rails on the surface of the bog, and a bucket excavator mounted on a carriage and movable on rails set obliquely across the back of this platform."

"The three rails carrying the platform run longitudinally with the trench, and are so placed that the outside rail is about on the centre line of the trench, while the innermost one is some distance beyond the inner edge."

"The platform is provided with a covering trough extending in the path of the traveser for taking up and conveying the excavated peat into a hopper. Through this hopper the raw peat is discharged into the peat mill, where it is thoroughly kneaded."

"From the mill the homogeneous peat mass is conveyed, by means of a belt, through a conduit into the dumping cars, and in these is transported by cable, on an endless track, to the spreading grounds."

The question of manufacturing paper out of peat, especially out of unhumified sphagnum moss, has been raised many times. The inquiry has usually ended, however, with some small experiments. Scientific men in the paper industry do not seem to have had very much confidence in the results of these experiments; and this lack of confidence was well founded. The consistency of peat is such that

PLAY WITH 18 ACTS.

Paris, May 9. — The sovereign of Cambodia, a small kingdom of Indochina, which is under the French protectorate, was recently operated on by a French physician for a cataract of the eye. In recognition of his gratitude he has sent to the Bibliotheque Nationale at Paris the manuscript of an ancient Cambodian poem relating to the blind. This poem is not the first Cambodian manuscript to be received by the French National library. Among the most important manuscripts are two comedies, "The Field of Samut," the latter comprising eighteen acts.

From time to time the old king, Sosoath he calls himself, has this interminable piece played before him, in which the French dancing girls he took from Paris play a prominent part.

HOW "MONUMENT" WAS LOST AND WON
Suffragette Escapade Resulted in Many Bruises—For the Policemen

MILITANT FLAG FLEW OVER CITY FOR HOURS

The London News and Leader of April 24 gives the following veracious account of the capture of the London monument by a couple of fiery militants:

Two ardent suffragettes reached the summit of their ambition yesterday morning by climbing to the top of the monument and, after hoisting flags, including one enormous banner inscribed "Death or Victory," barricaded themselves in the iron cage which girdles the top of the memorial to the Great Fire of London. As a result of this freak, the fish porters from Billingsgate, hard by, had a glorious morning.

The tourist season is in full swing, and the custodian at the turnstiles had no reason to suspect two ladies who, dressed very much like cousins from the country, paid for admission at 10 o'clock, and began the long climb to the top of the tower. Nor did he suspect the two fat "umbrellas"—really iron bars wrapped in black cloth—which the ladies carried. Fat umbrellas of the market-day type are common in Fish street hill during the holiday season.

In Possession.
At the top of the 345 steps there is another attendant, the gentleman with the telescope, who spends his time in showing the sights of the city to visitors from afar. His attention diverted to the staircase for a moment, the suffragettes promptly slammed the doors at the top of the stairs and secured them with the iron bars. Then they hoisted their "W. S. P. U." flag on the staff which usually bears the city's flag of white with the sword of red, hitched their "Death or Victory" banner to the ironwork of the cage, set a few more streamers floating in the breeze, cast suffragette literature into the air—the wild winds of the morning whirled the papers far away over the housetops—and settled down as women in possession.

By the time the astonished custodian of the top of the monument had reached the foot of the stairs the fish-porters in the street below had seen the flags and gathered in anticipation of a joyous morning. Reinforcements of carmen, van boys, clerks and office boys were arriving every moment, and in a few minutes a delighted crowd surrounded the monument, overpowering the few policemen in the neighborhood and indulging in unlimited chaff. Up above, 200 feet in the air, the triumphant women shrieked and gesticulated. Their words could not be heard, but it was obvious that they were addressing the crowd. And the crowd answered back—particularly when police reinforcements rushed their way through the square.

Police inspectors held an anxious consultation as to the best method of reaching the women. A fish-porter's hoarse suggestion that they should "send for a hairyplane, guv'nor," was dismissed in favor of an attempt to capture the citadel by assault.

Stalwart city constables, each armed with a big hammer, solemnly entered the tower. A few minutes later they were seen in the cage, and the women were in custody. The woody doors and the iron bars had been beaten down.

A cheer greeted the removal of the banners and streamers, and another cheer marked the appearance of the city's flag in its accustomed place. Then the crowd pressed forward in the hope of seeing the invaders in the hands of their captors.

An Unruly Rush.
There was a long wait, but at last the group appeared at the door. Then the crowd, animated about equally by the elements of hostility, curiosity and fun, swept down, and the police had to fight to keep them back.

The suffragettes were hurried back to the security of the interior of the monument—where they sat on the stairs—and more police were telephoned for.—Gradually about 100, under the charge of six inspectors, were collected around the monument.

Shortly after twelve the police were strong enough to force the crowd back for a distance of about 15 feet at the east side. A cordon of police extended round the north side into Fish street hill, keeping a narrower passage.

Suddenly two pale-faced women appeared at the door and dashed round the corner. Yells from the windows overlooking the square told the crowd that they had "gone away," and the fish-porters came forward with such a rush that they swept the big constables like corks right up to the railings.

The policemen on the north side fought their hardest to keep the crowd back while the scared women and their escort rushed into the back entrance of Monument station of the District railway, which is in Fish street hill. There the city constables were able to block the way to all corners.

A timely diversion was afforded by the breaking of a window under the weight of sightseers opposite the station, and during the hull the suffragettes took tickets to Esling and left by train.

They owe the fact that they escaped unharmed to the work of the police, who took all the bruises and got none of the "glory." "Throw them into the Thames!" was the least vicious of the cries raised by the excited mob.

NOTICE
Re Carriage of Dogs on City Cars

Rule 58, covering the operation of cars on city lines, provides as follows: "Small dogs which are held in the lap and which do not annoy passengers, may be carried on cars."

The Conductors of the city lines have been instructed to see that the above rule is strictly enforced, and that no dogs are carried on their cars except such as are kept in the lap or arms of the owner, these being so controlled as not to annoy passengers in any manner.

The strict enforcement of the rule is intended to promote the comfort and convenience of passengers, and the co-operation of the general public is requested in connection with the carrying out of the regulations.

OFFERS GOOD ADVICE.
Sir William Osler, in addressing the religious meeting at Yale University recently, outlined new rules for practical daily life. He said:
"My method is the freshest, oldest, simplest and usefulest. Forget the past, forget the future. Life is a habit as hard or as easy to acquire as any other in life."
"I'm no genius; my friends have found that out; but take no thought for the future nor the past. When the load of to-morrow is added to the load of yesterday, many men falter in the way."
"The first two hours of a day determine that day. Quit tobacco and liquor. Bright eyes are the thing."
"The control of the mind as a working machine is the end of all education. That can be accomplished with deliberation. The most striking thing about America is its hurry. Europeans accomplish just as much without that everlasting rush."
Brown—"Black is the meanest man I know."
White—"Why?"
Brown—"He was sued for breach of promise and was ordered to pay the woman $50. Then he married her."
White—"Married her?"
Brown—"Yes—so he could keep the money."

BISHOP CRIDGE IS LAID TO REST

Representative Gathering of Citizens at Last Rites of Well Known Cleric

MANY FLORAL TRIBUTES TESTIFY GREAT ESTEEM

One of the most representative gatherings of the citizens of Victoria assembled at the Church of Our Lord this afternoon to pay the last tribute of respect to the memory of the founder of the church here, and in saying the last rites over Bishop Edward Cridge the congregation terminated the association of the venerable leader with the district where he spent so long a life in useful service for others.

The front pews were reserved for the representatives of the various public bodies, including the mayor and city council, Ministerial Association, and other organizations of the city. There were many pioneers present, and the few who knew the deceased bishop in the early days of his coming to Victoria were also noticed, among them his lifelong friend, Senator Macdonald. As a token of the reconciliation which of late years was effected with Christ church, Dean Doull was present, representing the bishop of Columbia and clergy of Christ Church cathedral.

At the late bishop was the first dean, the present occupant's presence was particularly acceptable. Coffin waited in Church.

The coffin was brought from "Marfield" Government street, this forenoon, and placed in the church chancel. It lay on a bier between the choir stalls, which had been draped in black and white.

The remains were enclosed in an oaken casket, lined inside with figured silk, and covered with black broadcloth. On the plate was inscribed the words: "The Right Reverend Bishop Edward Cridge, D. D. Died May 5, 1913. Aged 95 years." On the coffin were tributes from the bishops of the Reformed Episcopal church, the local congregation, and the Native Sons and Pioneers of British Columbia.

The surplised clergy, Revs. T. W. Gladstone, rector of the church; Dr. Reid; Dr. Leslie Clay, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and Rev. C. E. Wincott, of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church, New Westminster, took their places as soon as the service opened round the coffin, which had been placed in the chancel.

After the opening sentences of the burial office, Madame Marie Wood sang sweetly "O Rest in the Lord." Then came the beautiful hymn, "The Head that Once Was Crowned With Thorns," Arlington tune, and then followed that psalm in which the brevity of human life is contrasted with the eternity of the Almighty. As the last sentences of the ninetieth psalm ended, there came the memorable verses of the fifteenth chapter of the First Epistle to the Corinthians.

The hymn, "Jesus the very thought of Thee," intervened before Rev. Dr. Clay read the selected passage from Thessalonians. Rev. C. E. Wincott read the closing prayers, and then the triumph of death rather than its sorrow pealed from the organ as the service closed. The "Deum" being played with great skill by Mr. Giles. As the large congregation slowly filed out of the church Chopin's funeral march was played.

At Cemetery. In the cemetery at Ross Bay the venerable prelate was laid by the side of his wife. The committal sentences were divided between Rev. J. A. Wood, Rev. J. McCoy, and Rev. T. W. Gladstone. After the benediction came the late bishop's favorite hymn, that of Bishop Ken, "Glory to Thee my God this Night."

The pallbearers were ex-Mayor Chas. Hayward, Church Warden R. S. Day and E. E. Jacob, Edgar Fawcett, Rev. R. Connell, president, and Rev. H. A. Carson, representing the Ministerial Association.

No reference was made verbally to the great loss to the church which he founded in this province, this being reserved for special services which will be given on Monday at which Rev. T. W. Gladstone will officiate.

Hundred Floral Tributes. Over one hundred floral tributes bore testimony to the esteem in which the late bishop was held by his contemporaries. Some of them were very beautiful, particularly those on the coffin. Among them was the tribute from the congregation of St. Paul's Reformed Episcopal church, New Westminster.

The funeral arrangements were in the hands of the B. C. Funeral Furnishing Company. Lest there might be any accident from the number of people in a small, and somewhat old building, the wardens had complied with the suggestion of the building inspector, and strengthened the supports under the church.

Among those noticed present: His Honor the Lieut.-Governor, T. W. Peterson; Sir Richard McBride and Dr. Young, representing the provincial government; Senator Macdonald, Dr. J. S. Helmcken, Very Rev. Dean Doull, Christ Church; Revs. W. Baugh, Allan, Percival Jenes, E. G. Miller, Gilbert Cook, F. H. Fatt, J. Stanley Ard, W. Stevenson, and J. McCoy; W. W. Winter, lay reader; Mayor Morley, Aldermen Houston, McCandless, Cuthbert, Weston, and Dilworth; American Consul Smith, Chief of Police Langley, D. R. Ker, J. J. Shallock, president of the Board of Trade; Joshua Kingham, J. S. Floyd, F. B. Emberton, and Capt. Clark.

TRUE BASIS OF THE WORLD'S PROGRESS

Dr. Falconer Delivers Inspiring Address to the Canadian Club

PLACE OF UNIVERSITY IN MODERN COUNTRIES

Higher the Standard, Broader and More Tolerant the Community

A most inspiring address on the place of education in the progress of the world, especially the progress of the complex civilization of the twentieth century, was delivered to an unusually large gathering of members of the Canadian Club in the ballroom of the Alexandra Club this afternoon by Dr. R. A. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto.

R. W. Perry presided, with Dr. Falconer at his right, and among those at the guest table were Sir Richard McBride, Hon. Dr. Young, Hon. A. E. McPhillips, Bishop Macdonald, Dean Doull, Rev. W. Leslie Clay and Rev. Dr. Scott.

Mr. Pe-y expressed the club's sense of its good fortune in having Dr. Falconer present to address such a large assembly. The president of Toronto University would find Canadians here the same good-hearted, big chaps they were everywhere.

Dr. Falconer began by a reference to the universality of Canadian Clubs in the Dominion, stretching across the land from Pacific to Atlantic. They were a unique creation of the Canadian spirit and afforded a man who had anything to say to his fellow-countrymen an opportunity to say it on the understanding that it would be listened to without prejudice or disparagement.

They made a magnificent unifying force in the minds of its people. The work of the university in the educational system formed the last branch of Dr. Falconer's address, and he pointed out that the higher the standard of education, and the broader the tolerance and the more humane the community.

Dr. Falconer replied briefly. That the teacher in England and in Germany, too, occupies a higher social position than the teacher in Canada was asserted by Dr. Falconer, and he insisted a higher social prestige must be accorded to the teaching profession. The true progress of a nation, he believed, was to be estimated by its attitude to its school teachers.

The work of the university in the educational system formed the last branch of Dr. Falconer's address, and he pointed out that the higher the standard of education, and the broader the tolerance and the more humane the community.

Dr. Falconer replied briefly. That the teacher in England and in Germany, too, occupies a higher social position than the teacher in Canada was asserted by Dr. Falconer, and he insisted a higher social prestige must be accorded to the teaching profession.

mind, of intellectual conceptions, they must study Greek."

What They Did. The Greeks, he went on to say, had thrown back barbarism, and on the Acropolis had erected the Temple of Athena, on the west front of which, it was believed, had been a representation of the heads of the horses of darkness sinking beneath the waves and the chariots of reason in the East, with Athena, goddess of reason, rising supreme. With this conviction the Greeks made it possible to believe that the human mind has power to understand, to grow and that there was nothing it could not attempt to grapple with. Rome had learned most of what it knew from Greece. It had learned that mind was reason, that reason as it exercised itself on its environment could understand it further that as the mind reached out further that mind could, by freedom thus attained, develop almost without limit. Made Advance Possible.

The speaker went on to develop the idea of the continued advance made through the centuries, and showed how the philosophy of the eighteenth century had made the nineteenth and its scientific development possible, without which it would have been impossible to have the development of material resources witnessed to-day.

To estimate real progress it had to be translated into ideals. At the root of all modern progress lay the development of true education; without it there was no progress. The man who learned how scientifically to deal with things, who learned how they they reproduced, would put the stamp of his own mind on them, while he who ignorantly destroyed would bring about his own end.

This brought Dr. Falconer to the point that educated people were the people who made progress and the provision of schools of the highest standard was the most pressing duty upon the government of the day. The education in which knowledge was imparted was a mere shell; the important things were the children and the teachers who worked inside them. What this and every country requires was men and women who had so much self-respect, so much regard for their own profession and who had such a high standing among the people that they could mould the children as none but citizens of high standing could.

Higher Prestige. That the teacher in England and in Germany, too, occupies a higher social position than the teacher in Canada was asserted by Dr. Falconer, and he insisted a higher social prestige must be accorded to the teaching profession. The true progress of a nation, he believed, was to be estimated by its attitude to its school teachers.

NEW WESTMINSTER SENDS GREETINGS

Mrs. De Pencier Brings Greetings From Royal City to Meeting of Auxiliary

At this morning's session of the Women's Auxiliary greetings from New Westminster were delivered by Mrs. De Pencier. The meeting passed a resolution that greetings be sent from the meeting to other diocesan Women's Auxiliary meetings being held at Calgary, Halifax, New Westminster, Ottawa, Algoma, Ontario, Quebec, and Qu'Appelle.

Two resignations were announced by the president, these being that of Mrs. Burns, leaflet editor, and Mrs. Harper, recording secretary, the nomination of officers taking place shortly after.

The following senior branches reported during the morning: Cathedral branch, St. John's, St. Saviour's, St. Barnabas, St. Mark's, St. Michael's, St. Paul's, Chemainus, Nanaimo, Alberni, and Cowichan. The girls' branches which reported were: The Afternoon and Evening Cathedral branches, St. Saviour's, and St. Barnabas.

Rev. Stanley Ard gave the noontide address, using as his text the last part of the Lord's Prayer: "For Thine is the Kingdom; Thine the power; and Thine the Glory." The speaker reminded his hearers that they were not in the World's Auxiliary for their church; but that it was being done for Jesus' sake. The Kingdom referred to in the prayer was not the church's kingdom, but a Kingdom ruled over absolutely by one Monarch. Had all eyes been centred on the King through the vision of the church to-day, the verse containing the message: "Let us then be up and doing," contained the reminder which the Women's Auxiliary should always remember in their work.

During the noon hour Mrs. Framp-ton, president of St. Mark's, Maywood, described the mission work which is being done in the Kangra district, India, and telling something of the medical missions being conducted by Dr. Haslam there. The influence of medical work, among women especially, could not be overestimated as being one of the practical teachings of Christianity, while from the medical missionary's standpoint the experience obtained in that district was better than could be won in a more civilized community.

Sister Frances, of Vancouver, brought greetings from the Westminster diocese, and, comparing Victoria with that district, said that this city was to be congratulated on the excellence and superiority of its Dorcas work.

Attention was called to the fact that in the report read by Mrs. Wollaston, diocesan treasurer, the sum of $600 had been given to the general treasurer for missionary work, and over $400 for diocesan purposes. The total money raised by the junior branches - as $638.71, while the baby branch had raised $38.46.

DISORDERLY STRIKER GETS TWO MONTHS

Heavy Sentence for Robert Hill, Ironworker, Who Assaulted Strike-Breaker

For assaulting a strike-breaker as he was leaving his work at the British Columbia Marine Railway Company yesterday afternoon, Robert Hill, one of the striking iron workers, was sentenced by Magistrate Jay to-day to two months' hard labor.

W. A. Moresby, who conducted the prosecution, stated that the safety of the general public was concerned, and that unless a strict example was made of Hill further riotous acts might be anticipated. He contended from the evidence that there was concerted action on the part of the strikers to prevent the company's plant during the strike. The magistrate said that there was no justification for Hill's taking the law in his own hands.

John E. High, the man who was assaulted, and his companion, Walter P. Bell, stated that they went to work Wednesday afternoon, and that at noon when they came out for lunch Hill and another came up to them and told them that if they went back to work they would never work any more, and they would never leave the place alive, threatened to kill them. He said said they would never leave the place alive, threatened to kill them. He said said they would never leave the place alive, threatened to kill them.

The following evening, while High and Bell were waiting for a car at Admiral's road, four or five of the strikers approached and Hill, singling out High, asked him if he had been working. High said he had and told working. High said he had and told working. High said he had and told working.

Hill would not talk to him. Hill had thereupon said he could lick the both of them and would knock his block off. He struck High on the chest, High ran and Hill followed, knocking him down and kicking him twice on the head while he was down. High and Bell agreed on this. A cry of police was raised then and Hill ran.

Expected to Go to Jail. Constable Sadler said he had overheard Hill say a little earlier that he might spend the night in the lockup, and ask a friend to come and bail him out.

Hill, in the witness box, said he was detailed to prevent High from going to work and that he spoke to him like a gentleman at first. Hill had promised to consider the matter when he was pressed, he said, and the fight was caused when High put up his fists and said he would not talk to him. He denied kicking High, but said he carried him across the road and threw him down. Hill said his object in following High was to find out his boarding house and warn his landlady. He believed he was justified in what he did.

Harry Hill and Patrick Husey stated that they had seen the fight and that High had squared off first. Questions as to who was running the strike elicited little information, except that a man named Atkinson, a travelling representative of the Boiler Makers' Union, was in town, and had been seen with the members of the striking union.

The magistrate said that strikers must not interfere with men who were lawfully working for a living, and expressed the opinion that the attack on High was unjustified and premeditated. He did not think it was a case for a fine and imposed a term of two months.

WET GROUNDS NO BALL GAME

Because of wet grounds there was no ball game between the Bees and Tigers this afternoon. McGinnity will travel to-morrow for Tacoma while either Hardin or Kantelner will work for Victoria. The game will start at 2 o'clock and time will not be called until 4.50, giving the teams forty minutes to catch the boat for Seattle. Victoria and Tacoma play at Tacoma on Sunday.

POLICE 'PHONE BROKEN

Wrong Numbers in Book Add to Confusion of Citizens.

Murders, assaults, riots and other disturbances might have taken place all over the city this afternoon without anybody being able to get the police on the telephone. The police station telephone was out of order.

To add to the confusion, the new telephone book issued about a month ago does not contain a single one of the police numbers as it is now. A month or so before the new book was issued an effort was made to put all the police numbers on the city hall switchboard but this was found to be a failure. Accordingly they were all changed back after about two weeks' trial. When the new book came out, however, it was found that the switchboard numbers were quoted and citizens not familiar with the old numbers are compelled to ask inquiry when they want to call the police.

Looks For Help. "When your university is established I hope you will be able to help us in the east," continued Dr. Falconer, "because the relation will be mutually advantageous. The east has come to a certain stage. Perhaps we are at this time resting on our oars and not driving, though I sometimes wonder if we are not failing to pull the stroke we should. The establishing of these new universities is going to help us as well as helping you. I do not think we will let you get ahead of us. All the life is not gone out of us yet, much as you have drawn from us, but seeing you go on at a fast rate ought to be a spur to us and help to develop us. We hope that as you develop we will be spurred on to still further equip our universities and that you will send many of your men to us for special courses and post-graduate work. These men, coming back here, will add to the great number of personal links binding our country closer together."

Progress and Education. Dr. Falconer then took up the special subject of his address, "Progress and Education." Many estimated progress, he said, in terms of the material development to be seen around. Progress was almost an axiomatic thing but people found it difficult to define, and were apt to associate it solely with its material manifestations in transportation systems, great centres of population or growth of commerce and industry.

The belief in progress was an acquired conviction, for the origin of which one must go back a long way, back to the time of the Greeks. "Talk of Greek disappearing," said in parenthesis, the former professor of Greek. "It can never disappear so long as people want to know the origins of Social Dance.—The Companions of the Forest will hold a social dance in Foresters' hall, Broad street, May 15.

Series to End.—America and Our Colonies, running over the wall as Jacob and Isalah saw them," will be the subject for study at the public meeting of the Victoria branch of the Imperial British Israel Association next Monday at 8 p. m., in the A. O. U. W. building, Yates street. These historical proofs of the truthfulness of the Biblical forecasts of rising and falling nations, especially those of this time, will be compared. This review of the twelve lectures of this session will bring to a close, on May 25, the work attempted in defence of prophetic truths.

Baptist at Home.—The Missionary Auxiliary of Emmanuel Baptist church will hold at its home in the schoolroom to-morrow afternoon, at which afternoon tea will be served.

K. of P. Dance.—Everything is in readiness for Far West Lodge No. 1, Knights of Pythias, social and dance which is being given to-night in the Knights of Pythias hall, North Park street. The committee in charge have secured the very best of the essentials, food, music and supper. So with these, second to none, a splendid evening is assured all who are fortunate enough to attend.

Save the Duty

Men too often judge a car by its price. Having decided to buy a $2,000 or $2,200 car, they are not interested in cars that sell for $1,775. When you choose your car remember this. Do not class the Tudhope 4-36 as a $1,775 Car. The Tudhope cars are built in Canada. They do not carry the 35% duty charge which is added to the price of imported cars or cars assembled from imported parts—a charge that increases the price without adding to value. The Tudhope cars can be bought at the duty-saving price.

The Tudhope cars have that massive and well-balanced appearance that marks the perfect car. They show care and skill in the details of body building, in upholstery and in finish. The generous proportions—exceptional spring equipment, long wheel-base, big wheels; these are the things that bespeak comfort, freedom from rocking and jolting—a steady car. The accessories are well chosen: Gray & Davis Electric equipment; Extra Tire; small things, perhaps, but evidences of our study for thoroughness.

Ride in a Tudhope car. Feel the quiet throb of the powerful motor. This big silent machine is the product of a factory that takes pride in its output. The Motors, Gears, Axles are built with the exacting care that is essential for comfortable touring and dependable service over Canadian roads.

Catalogue comparison will give some indication of the extra value we build into Tudhope cars. Remember we save the duty. But to appreciate what Canadian building actually means you must see the cars.

NEW YORK MARKET LACKS INCENTIVE

No Response Despite Favorable Developments and Copper Producer's Report

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
New York, May 9.—The market failed to respond to favorable developments. Copper producers report was such as would ordinarily have produced an aggressive demand for copper shares and government crop report ordinarily would have been reflected by a sharp upturn in the grangers, but the expected did not occur.

CORONATION LACKED BIDS, CLOSES WEAK

One Point Gain Made by Snow-storm; Trust Issues Hold Firm

Victoria, May 9.—There was a lack of standard bids on Coronation Gold this morning at the session of the local stock exchange, which gave the issue a weak appearance closing at 75 to 86. Snowstorm was a point stronger, and recent decline was due to current dividend being cut in half to allow for impending expenses. Most of the list were well supported, and are steady at prevailing levels, the trust issues being almost the firm stocks.

EXPORTERS LEAVE THE WHEAT MARKET ALONE

Grain Commissioners to Confer With Business Men on Amendments to Act

Winnipeg, May 9.—Cables were irregular, but on the whole weaker. American prices were a little stronger, due probably to some uneasiness at continued dry weather in the spring wheat districts. Oats were steady and firm week. There is practically no cash demand, and exports are practically not on the market. Receipts were somewhat heavier, being 108 cars inspected and 400 in sight. The board of grain commissioners will hold a meeting in the grain exchange May 13 at 11 o'clock to confer with grain men on the proposed amendment to the Grain Act, especially with reference to license fees.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago, May 9.—Cattle—Receipts 500; market steady; heavy, $7.50-$8.00; Texas steers, $6.75-$7.25; western steers, $6.50-$7.10; stockers and feeders, $6.00-$7.00; cows and heifers, $3.50-$4.50; calves, $7.50-$8.50.

ECONOMY

A Scotchman, wishing to know his fate at once, telegraphed a proposal of marriage to the lady of his choice. After spending the entire day at the telegraph office, says the Argonaut, he was finally rewarded late in the evening by an affirmative answer. "If I were you," suggested the operator, when he delivered the message, "I'd think twice before I'd marry a girl that kept me waiting all day for my answer." "No, no," retorted the Scot. "The lass who waits for the night rates is the lass for me."

CROP REPORT FORCES WHEAT PRICES DOWN

Higher Rate by Closing Time Gained by the New Crop Months

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)
Chicago, May 9.—Bottom prices in wheat as a result of the crop report given out yesterday, were touched soon after the opening of the market to-day, July at 88 7/8 and September 88 3/4. From these figures there was an upturn of 3/4 to 7/8 during the morning, and the market closed about 3/8 to 1/2 higher for the day for new crop months. A feature in the local market alone was the execution of some buying orders in May, which caused a quick upturn from 89 to 90 1/2. That month was on a level with July at the close. There was a noticeable absence of selling pressure in all months for the session. There was no such display of weakness in the Liverpool market as expected following the crop figures. Wheat stocks at Minneapolis showed a decrease of 810,000 for the week. There is prospect of moderate world's shipments of 11,600,000. The Modern Miller says conditions are so fine that only a calamity can prevent a big winter wheat harvest. Mr. Inglis says the season for the southeast crop ten days earlier than usual, and the moisture is sufficient to carry the crop to maturity.

REFUSED TO HANDLE SHIP'S LOCAL CARGO

Longshoremen Said They Were Not Getting Square Deal on Queen; Vessel Was Delayed

Longshoremen refused to assist in working the cargo of the Pacific Coast steamship Queen upon her arrival at the outer dock last night at 10 o'clock, and as a result the officers and crew of the vessel had to turn to and put the 450 tons of freight out of her. The longshoremen had just completed work on the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Sado Maru when the Queen came up to her berth. As the vessel had considerable cargo for this port the freight-handlers were asked to lend a hand and assist the crew to discharge.

Some of the longshoremen willingly made ready to handle the cargo, but when they found that the officers of the Queen wanted to send them down in the holds to fill the slings and give the crew the easy task of trucking the freight into the sheds, they declined. The hard worker and the man who had the easy job were to receive the same pay. It was at this point that the local longshoremen refused to handle one sling of freight. The officers were unwilling to concede a point to the stevedores, whereupon they left the dock.

hours in port, and it was a little after 10 o'clock this morning before the cleared for the Round. The whole crew was set to work getting out the 193 tons of cement, plaster, fruit and vegetables. It is declared that unless justice is meted out to the longshoremen by the officers of the Pacific coast boats the crews of the vessels may find that they will have a pleasant occupation every time they visit Victoria of discharging their own freight.

The Queen is taking the place of the steamship Umattia, which is to be overhauled at San Francisco for the home trade. This is the first trip she has made to Victoria for some time. She brought in a large list of passengers, the following saloon travellers disembarking at this port: J. Merrymann, Emilien Hamenover, W. T. Smith and wife, E. Irwin, Emma Sewell, F. D. Kirkland, H. Smith, R. O'Donnell, G. Hopper, E. Kaufman, M. B. Martin and wife, Leslie Lee, F. S. Birms, F. H. Yuell, J. W. Lavine, G. A. Ferris, Lillian Fessenden, W. E. McDaniel and wife, H. Moore, Mrs. J. M. Nigan and child, R. W. Johnson, J. H. Dickson, Miss S. Yings, Mrs. H. Rarnik, Ada Crancher, Mrs. Marshall and M. Marshall.

"I often met the late Jules Massenet in Monte Carlo," said a Newport woman. "The great composer had a keen sense of humor."
"At a hotel in Monte Carlo an Englishwoman once gave M. Massenet a tea in her sitting room overlooking the blue Mediterranean. She brought out her daughter in the middle of the tea and set her down at the piano, and the girl sang in a voice as slender as a cotton thread, the mirror music from 'Thais.' At the end of the song the hostess said: 'Tell me, frankly, cher maitre, what do you think of Emily's voice?' 'Madame,' said Massenet, 'I think the young lady has a brilliant future in sculpture or painting!'"

STRANDED MEN LOSE

CHANCE OF WORK

Westholme Employees Could Have Secured Work in Vancouver but Had Not Fare

The unhappy results which followed the refusal of the city council to pay the wages of the employees of the Westholme Lumber Company on the Sooke contract are beginning to become fully known.

Cases of great hardship occurred on account of the impoverished condition of the men. The Times is informed of at least two cases where men secured work in Vancouver, but had to lose it as they had not the necessary means to pay their fare to the mainland. The lack of wisdom in this policy by which no assistance was available to enable the men to get out of town, causing them to be further dependent on the charitable funds, is being pointed out by the men. One man promised to leave a note with the chief of police to cover an advance, and supply full particulars of where he could be found to assist the men, nothing could be done. He made the same fruitless offer to the mayor.

V. Genoud, one of the workmen in the machine shop at Thetis Cove, states that he secured a job in Vancouver, but as a result of the conditions mentioned above he failed to secure passage money to Vancouver to take advantage of it. He has personal knowledge of similar cases in which men suffered materially through being stranded in this matter.

The city authorities are looking to the Bank of Montreal, as assignees of the contract, to announce their intentions.

COMMITTEE TO VISIT

QUARANTINE STATION

Minister of Agriculture Gives Permission to Board of Trade for Inspection

Permission has been given to the board of trade for an inspection of the quarantine station by a committee of the board. This is contained in a telegram received this morning at the offices of the board from Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, in whose charge quarantine matters are.
At its last meeting of the board the committee on immigration was requested to visit the station as soon as permission could be obtained, and report on what improvements they thought were necessary to bring the station up to the demands of a seaport of the importance of Victoria, where thousands of passengers annually have to be examined by the quarantine officers, and where the requirements will be greatly increased with the opening of the Panama Canal.

The minister confirmed the fact of the appointment of a commissioner to inquire into the whole question of the requirements and suggested that any recommendations the board might have to make after its committee had visited William Head be placed either before himself or before the commissioner, who is expected to open his inquiry shortly.

AGENT-GENERAL'S BIRTHDAY.

Hon. J. H. Turner is 79—Celebrates the Event in London, Eng.

The Hon. J. H. Turner, agent-general in London, England, for British Columbia, this week celebrated his seventy-ninth birthday. The Hon. Mr. Turner, who was born at Claydon, near Ipswich, England, came to Victoria in 1863, and was elected an alderman of the city for three successive terms from 1876 to 1878. In 1886 he was returned to the legislature as a Conservative member, and in 1895, on the elevation of the then premier, the Hon. Theodore Davis, to the chief justiceship, he succeeded him as premier. In 1901 he was appointed agent-general at London, which office he has held ever since. Mr. Turner, despite his advanced age, enjoys the best of health.

IMPERIAL TACT.

That Napoleon III had his full share of the Bonaparte wit, tinged with a kindness all his own, is proved by a gracious memory recently recalled by a French paper.

At a ball at the Tuilleries, a middle-aged officer and his fair partner came to grief. As the mortified veteran scrambled to his feet, the emperor extended a hand to him, and turning to the lady remarked:

"Madame, this is the second time I have seen the colonel fall. The first time was on the battlefield of Magenta."

HOLD PLEASANT EVENT.

Caledonian Society Inaugurates Series of Monthly Gatherings With Fine Programs.

The first of the newly-featured meetings of the Caledonian Society, which will be held henceforth the first Wednesday in every month, in the Moose hall, took place on Wednesday evening, a large gathering of the members and their lady friends being present. The evening was spent in most enjoyable fashion with songs, instrumental selections, speeches, and other social features. Norman Macdonald, president of the Gaelic Society, was present, and gave a short speech in which he emphasized the idea that the several Scottish societies in the city should meet oftener in a friendly way. Mrs. Pottinger, president of the Daughters of Scotland, was also among the guests, while Peter Riddie, president of the organization, presided. Among those who took part on the programme were Messrs. Taylor and Lumsden, who sang; Donald Cameron, who gave some instrumental selections, and D. B. Dobson.

HORSE DEALERS COMPLAIN

Say Autos Are Getting Better Prizes in Victoria Day Parade.

"The horse dealers have been complaining to us," said J. B. McCallum, secretary of the Victoria Day celebration committee, "that the prizes given to the automobiles in the Victoria Day parade are much more valuable than those being given to the horses. We are not responsible for that. The Automobile Association has contributed the automobile prizes, while the money for the prizes for the horses has been raised by the committee. We have about $650 for this purpose."
