P R E F A C E.

THERE is little to be said by way of preface to this Catalogue. Had the ancient Library of the College survived¹, the collection would have stood high among College Libraries. As it is, the manuscripts are markedly few in number.

Thomas James, writing his Ecloga Oxonio-Cantabrigiensis in 1600, found only seven volumes to catalogue; and these the College still possesses². The old Library must clearly have disappeared before his time. For this total evanishment of 174 volumes no process of gradual purloining or decay will satisfactorily account. I cannot but think it likely that Henry VIII., or some one possessed of power and unscrupulousness comparable to his, must have removed them en bloc. At present, however, no record of any such transaction is known to exist in the College. If any trace of our lost Library should come to the knowledge of a reader, I would ask him, on behalf of the College, to acquaint the Society with his discovery.

In the compilation of this volume I have had the advantage of using some partial descriptions, and complete collations of the first eighteen MSS., made by the late Mr Bradshaw. The brilliance and thoroughness of his work is nowhere more conspicuous than in his solution of the disarrangement of the text of S. Augustine's tract de quantitate animae in no. 3.

The College possesses, besides the Western MSS. here catalogued, a large collection of Oriental MSS., made at Patna by Mr Pote. This gentleman divided his collection equally between the Colleges of King's and Eton. I hope that both portions may be adequately catalogued at no distant date.

AUGUSTINI ET BOETHII QUAEDAM.

Vellum, $12\frac{3}{4} \times 9\frac{1}{4}$, four volumes bound in one, in quires of eight leaves.

Vol. i., ff. 126, double columns of 41 lines. Cent. xii–xiii.

Collation : a⁸ (1–3 gone, 4 most part gone) b⁸–p⁸ q⁶ : 126 leaves.

Contents :

Aurelii Augustini Episcopi Hipponensis libri xv de sancta Trinitate, preceded by

1. Elenchus capitum : beginning gone. ? Not printed.
2. Sententia B. Augustini de libro retractationum.
3. Epistola Augustini ad Aurelium.

The text is printed in Ed. Bened. viii. 747–1004. The books have here a longer and a shorter capitulatio, neither of which corresponds to that in the printed edition.

Vol. ii., ff. 32, in eights, double columns of 41 lines. Cent. xii–xiii.

Collation: a^s-d^s: 32 leaves.

Contents:

Aurelii Augustini libri iiii de natura et origine animae.
Printed in Ed. Bened. x. 337.

Vol. iii., part 1, ff. 22, in eights, double columns of 41 lines.
Cent. xii-xiii.

Collation: a^s (7, 8 gone) b^s (gone) c^s (gone: but 6 was blank).

Contents:

Ejusdem liber de quantitate animae. Ed. Bened. i. 401. It breaks off with quantum ingenio (cap. xiv. § 23).

It is preceded by

Sententia B. Augustini doctoris de libro retractationum. (Ed. Bened. i. 399.)

Vol. iii., part 2, ff. 12 (now numbered 7*-18*), double columns of 41 lines. Cent. xiii.

Collation: b^{*s} c^{*4} (4 b blank): 12 leaves.

Contents:

Supply to the deficiency of the previous copy from the words following quantum ingenio (cap. xiv. or § 23) to the end.

This is a transcript of that part of the previous volume which is now missing, made when that copy was imperfect and disarranged: f. 17 was already lost, and ff. 7, 8 were loose and inserted between ff. 18 and 19. However, the copyist has written straight on without any hesitation, while the corrector has noted the deficiencies in the margin. Accurate measurement shows that this copy must have been made from one of which ff. 1-6 were not copied, f. 17 was wanting, f. 22 probably blank, and the remainder arranged as follows: 9-16, 18, 7, 8, 19-21. What should precede f. 7 is exactly enough to fill six leaves, and as we have ff. 1-6 of the earlier MS., it is a fair inference that the supply was re-written from the remainder of the earlier one when loose and disordered. [H. B.]

Mr Bradshaw has put his conclusions in another form, which I append.

Suppose a copy with the following collation:

a^s b^s c⁶ (6 blank): 22 leaves, 2 columns, 41 lines.

Suppose the outer sheet of c, that is, ff. 17 and 22 (the latter blank), to be wanting.

Suppose a 7 and a 8 loose, and thrust in between c 2 and c 3.

Suppose a 1-a 6 allowed to remain as they are, and then have the rest of the volume as it now stands transcribed in a volume of this collation:

a^s b⁴ (4 b blank): 12 leaves, 2 columns, 41 lines.

You then have a transcript, written straight on, of ff. 7-22 in the following order:

9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 (17 wanting, but no space left for it), 18, 7, 8, 19, 20, 21, (22 blank in the original volume).

On f. 18^o are some memoranda about the tres Herodes, tres stulticie, and Augustine's works.

Vol. iv., ff. 32, in eights, 24 lines, besides interlinear and marginal gloss. Cent. xii.

Collation: a⁸-d⁸: 32 leaves, numbered 1-32.

Contents :

1. Boetii liber quomodo trinitas unus deus et non tres dii. Liber primus.
2. Liber secundus: Utrum frater et filius et spiritus sanctus de diuinitate substantialiter predicentur.
3. Ejusdem: quomodo substantie in eo quod sunt, bone sint, cum non sint substantialia.
4. Without heading or explicit: Christianam fidem noui ac ueteris testamenti pandit auctoritas.

The MS. was given to the College by Richard Day, Fellow, in 1576. At the beginning of each tract he has inserted a woodcut title-page printed on vellum.

At the top, on R. and L., outside a frame, are devices of the Sun and Moon, recumbent figures, and by the Sun is Leo and a child, by the Moon, Cancer and an old man.

Inside the frame, at the top, Time with wings, goat's legs, and scythe, attended by a child, a youth, and an old man. Below him, on either side of a globe, are Ptolomeus crowned, and Marinus with compasses. Below the globe is the motto VIRESCIT VVL-NERE VERITAS, and below this the printed title

D. Aurelij August. | Ypponensis Episc. & Ecc- | Iesie, Doctoris prae- | stantissimi. |
Sententia de Retract. lib. | Epistola ad Aurelium. | LIBRI. | De Sancta Trinitate. |
De Nat. & origine animae | De Quantitate animae. |

Below :

Dedit huic Collegio Rich. | Dayus, ciusdem Socius, | An. Dom. 1575 (altered to 1576 in ink).

On L. of this, on clouds, are figures of Aratus with a square instrument, Hipparchus with a sextant, Geometria with rule, square, and compasses, Arithmetica with a table of numbers from 1 to 10.

Below the centre: the sign of Gemini, a seated figure of Mercurius, and Virgo.

On R. of centre, from top: Strabo drawing a map of Anglia, Polibius examining a comet with a cross-shaped instrument, Astronomia with a planisphere, and Musica with a lute. In the L. lower corner is the signature I B + F.

There are three of these titles in this volume.

The printed title is altered in each: the second is for the De quantitate Animae. The date 1575 is untouched. The third is to Boethius de Trinitate: the date 1575 is altered to 1576.

These title-pages are enumerated by Mr Sandars in his Annotated List of Books Printed on Vellum (C. A. S. Octavo Publications, no. xv. 1878), nos. 102-103, 106.

The design was used by John Day in his Cunningham's Cosmographical Glasse, 1560, for which it must have been designed; and in Parker's De Antiquitate Britannicae Ecclesiae, 1572 (Sandars,
l. c.). It is described by Dibdin, Typographical Antiquities, iv. 73.

The MS. is no. 2 in T. James's list.

4.

VITAE PATRUM.

Vellum, $11\frac{3}{4} \times 8$, in eights, ff. 199, double columns of 40 lines.
Cent. xv. Written in England.

Collation: *8 (i ab blank) a⁸-q⁸ r⁸ (5 bb, 6 ab blank) s⁸-z⁸ (8 bb blank).

On a fly-leaf (the third at the beginning) is a signature Edm. H. (xvi cent.). On the verso of the last fly-leaf but one, at the end, is an inscription (late xvth cent.):

Possessor huius libri quondam fuit sanctissimus ac illustrissimus rex Henricus Sextus huius regni anglie rex ac gubernator et [later hand, over erasure] postea in possessione domus salutacionis matris dei ordinis Cartusiensis prope London.

The handwriting is fine and regular throughout: there is a handsome border of the regular English style, blue, pink and gold, on f. 1 of the Vitae Patrum: a less elaborate one at the beginning of the Paradisus, and smaller initials to the separate Lives.

f. 2 may begin Inc. pol. or else nus moraretur.

This is the title of the Vitae Patrum proper, which Vallarsius has clearly shown to be the narrative of the travels of Petronius, related (in the narrator's person) by Ruffinus.

Mr Bradshaw has further begun a list of the lives with the opening and closing words of each, but it is not complete, and on the whole seems not worth giving at length.

The order of lives is that in Rosweyd's text from the Vita S. Johannis (Rosw. p. 449) to the chapter De periculis itineris ad heremum (p. 485). Then follows in our MS.:

Another copy of John Scott's Foundation of the University.

The title identical save for three small differences: the date is the same.

On the verso of the title-page (p. 2), pasted on a black disc, are the arms of King's College impaled with those of Samuel Collins, Provost.

On f. 3 a is Scott's dedication of the book to Samuel Collins, D.D., Regius Professor of Divinity and Provost of King's College.

The arms of the University are stamped in red and gold on both sides of the binding in an oval medallion surrounded by rich gold tooling. The binding is of a curious yellow-brown colour.

Both in nos. 5 and 6 the arms of the Colleges, etc. are very carefully blazoned: but in 6 gold is used for or whereas in 5 yellow is used, except for Davenant's arms on f. 2 b.

The MS. therefore belonged to S. Edmund's Abbey at Bury. See the writer's Essay on the Library of Bury Abbey, C. A. S., 1895. Also this:

A° D: 1665

Dedit Reverendus / Joannes Pearson / S. Theologiae Professor / magister Coll: SS: Trinit: / hujus Coll: super Socius.

There is a chain-mark at the bottom of f. 1, in the middle; and the marks of a strap-and-pin fastening on the outer leaves. Both these marks are often found in MSS. from Bury S. Edmund's Abbey.

The hand is clear and fine, the initials mostly in plain red.

Vellum, 12 × 8, in eights, ff. 80, double columns of 38–48 lines, in a current hand of cent. xv.

Mr Albert Way, who used this MS. for his edition of the Promptorium, published for the Camden Society, gives some account of it (vol. iii. pp. xv, xviii).

It was given to the College in 1684 by Samuel Thomas, Fellow. The names occur in it of Thomas Wyndham.

Joh. Bayspoole.

Rob^t London nuper de Aldeby in Com. Norf. (where the College has estates). See Blomefield, Hist. Norf. viii. 4.

and an entry obscured by the book-plate ending "March. 22. 1667."

On the R. margin of f. 3 is a rhyme written in cent. xvi.

Omnibus rebus iam peractis nulla fides est in factis

Mellanora (=mel in ore) verba lactis fell in corda (corde) fraus in factis.

The hand is very clear.

ΕΠΙΦΑΝΙΙ SERMONES.

Paper, $10\frac{7}{8} \times 8\frac{1}{4}$, in twelves, ff. 20, double columns of 27 lines. Cent. xv.

Collation: a¹² (1 blank) b⁸ (7, 8 blank): 20 leaves.

Contents:

I. 1. τοῦ ἐν ἀγίοις πατρὸς ἡμῶν Ἐπιφανίου ἐπισκόπου κύπρου λόγος εἰς τὴν θεόσομον ταφήν τοῦ κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ κ.τ.λ.

Τὴ τοῦτο σημερινον.

(Tom. ii. ed. Paris, 1622, fol. p. 259.)

2. Τοῦ ἐν ἀγίοις πατρὸς ἡμῶν Ἐπιφανίου ἐπισκόπου κύπρου λόγος εἰς τὰ βάρια κύριε εὐλόγησον.

Χαῖρε σφόδρα, θύγατερ Σιών.

This second sermon has one first half and two second halves. The first half goes down to βόατω· Ἴδὲ ὁ ἀμνὸς τοῦ θεοῦ (l. c. p. 255 C) and after the two second halves, one is what follows in the edition, beginning: ὁ αἴρων τὴν ἀμαρτίαν τοῦ κόσμου, and ending...

ὁ τῶν ἄνω καὶ τῶν κάτω κτίσεων ποιητῆς θεὸς κύριος ἡμῶν· καὶ αὐτῷ ἡ δόξα καὶ τὸ κράτος εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας τῶν αἰῶνων. ἀμήν: and the other is the fragment printed at p. 301, beginning: ὁ ὑπ' ἀγγέλων ἀσιγήτως ἀνυμνούμενος, and ending κρῖναι τὸν κόσμον αὐτοῦ· αὐτῷ ἡ δόξα σὺν τῷ πατρὶ καὶ τῷ πνεύματι εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας...ἀμήν. In this copy the words βόατω· ἰδὲ ὁ ἀμῶς τοῦ θεοῦ· ὁ ὑπ' ἀγγέλων ἀσιγήτως run on without any break.

Various notes are scribbled on the blank leaves.

On f. 1 a. Sermo sc̄i Epiphaniī ep̄i, drawn through: sermo sc̄i Epiphaniī ep̄i ordinis sc̄i augustini heremitarum xī saluatoris.

+ δοξα ενη ψηστης θεω και επι γης ηρηνη ενανθρωπησ.

Sermo sc̄i Epiphaniī ordinis sc̄i francisci

Nam leo stans forte super alta cacumine montis.

δοξα ενηψηστης θεω.

Sermo st̄i Epifaniī ep̄i.

τῷ σεβασμῷ ἐμοὶ δὲ λαὸν ποθεινῷ φίλῳ πιστῷ ὅσιῳ κυρίῳ μακαρίῳ ὁ σὸς ἐραστῆς εὖ πράττειν.

Dominus dabit uerbum euangelizantibus uirtutem maria orege que legis otithelis (= μαρία ορηγη σε καὶ λέγεις ὅτι θέλεις).

On f. 20 is a very difficult fragment in modern Greek written in Roman letters, apparently by an Italian. Mr Bradshaw speaks of having made a copy of it elsewhere: but I have not found it.

It seems to be in dialogue form, and to relate to mercantile matters. I have transliterated it into Greek; but a great many words seem nonsense as they stand.

Finis. Finis decem librorum Ethicorum Aristotelis secundum nouam translationem. Quod Hacumblén.

Several incipits of obligations are scribbled over the last 20 leaves. The names are Philip meruine son and heir to Sir John Mervine, Thomas Antan, Will. Bakon of Brabon, gentleman, George Bramford, Ihon Newdegatt son and heir to George Newdegatt Esquire, co. of Midle., and Edward Burwell citizen and freman of London.

See Harwood's Alumni Etonenses for the years 1559-1561. At the foot of f. 87 b are written five elegiac couplets by Hartwell, as follows:

Hacumblén moreris . praelum labor iste fefellit:

Nec uendit noctes bibliopola tuas.

In tenebris iacuit labor hic dum vita manebat:

nunc quoque post cineres gloria vera uenit.

Infauste : ut uiuas, uitae monumēta dedisti :
 nec satis est : tenebris abdita luce carent.
 Corpora sic fimo fertur finxisse Prometheus :
 at vitam ἰδολοισ non dedit ille suis.
 Hacumblen uiuas : his pro te versibus orat
 Parcarum Hartwellus pensa breuesque colos.

The MS. is no. 6 in T. James's list.

SECUNDA PARS HUGONIS DE SACRAMENTIS.

Parchment, $9\frac{5}{8} \times 6\frac{1}{2}$, ff. 117, double columns of 35 lines. Cent. xii.

The volume comes from Durham. On the first page is the erased inscription:

Liber sc̄i Cuthberti... and, not erased, H: de sacramentis. lib. ij.

also:

C. liber 2^{us} hugonis de sacramentis in 19 partes diuisus.

On the upper margin of f. 2 is the letter C.

f. 2 begins with the words *et uirtute*¹.

On f. 1 a and 2 a is the name:

Jacobus Braybrooke 1568.

and on f. 1 a:

Dedit Collegio Regali

Gulielmus Sargeant

Nuper Socius 1672.

¹ In the Catalogi Veteres of Durham (Surtees Society, 1838) are two mentions of this book:

(1) p. 21, in the Catalogue of the "Spendement," or Inner Library, made in 1391, we have:

Secunda pars Hugonis de Sacramentis, ii. fo., et uirtute.

(2) p. 41, in a list of books sent to Durham College (now Trinity), Oxford, in 1409:

F. Secunda pars Hugonis de Sacramentis, ii. fo., et uirtute. [De le Spendement.]

Contents :

Hugonis de S. Victore de sacramentis fidei liber secundus (ed. Mogunt. 1617. Tom. iii. p. 423 a).

There is a very good outline initial to the prologue on f. 1 b. The hand is at first very good, but rather coarsens towards the end of the book. The initials are mostly in red and green.

Ends: μνημονεῦσαι στοιχειωδῶς καὶ τῶν κατ' ἀστρονομίαν (p. 119,

The two tracts are really continuous. The archetype of all the MSS. is Codex Venetus Marcianus 307 of cent. xi, xii. See Ed. Hiller's preface to his edition in the Teubner series.

This MS. is not in the same hand as the Euclid (no. 20), but closely resembles it in size and general appearance.

On f. 1 a are the arms of England and France quartered, on a gold ground, within a wreath of bay with two red roses: on either side are branches of pomegranates on a blue ground dotted with gold. Above is a crown.

The title is in gold. The title to no. 2 is unfinished.

On f. ii a is, in a neat upright hand :

Haec est pulchra manus, sed qui sic iudicet errat,
Nam fuerant istaec carmina scripta pede.

on the last page:

This is no. 5 in T. James's list.

Binding: original brown leather, richly tooled in gold: in the centre of each cover are the arms of England and France, quarterly, surmounted by a crown: between the initials M. R.

Collation: a⁶ b⁴ (1 cancelled) A⁴-Z⁴ aa⁴-oo⁴ pp⁴ (3 blank, cancelled, 4 blank).

Title:

The dedication to Queen Mary occupies ff. 1-11 (really 2-12).

It is dated:

'Londini tertio idus Septembris, Anno salutis nostrae Millesimo quingentesimo quinquagesimo quarto.'

On f. 9 (10)b three names are erased from the text. The author has mentioned Stephen Gardiner as a zealous champion of the truth: he goes on "non deerit Tonstallus, Bonerus, Smitheus" Further on, he says, "Hic strennuam nauabunt operam (? L....., ? V.....), Martinus, Christofersonus, Harps<f>eldii fratres, alique permulti."

Inside the last cover is written 'salus per Jesum.'

The lost leaves are in Hosea, 1 Maccabees, John xvii-xviii.

In the cover is written: Dedit Collegio Regali Cant. N. Harding Socius 1723. The name Rob. Elmere (?) occurs on one of the last leaves.

The hand is good, but not exceptionally so. The initials are in red and blue, flourished. The earlier pages have suffered from wet.

There are marginal notes on the first few pages, on the Psalter, and on the Gospels.

The order of books is as usual. There is no 4 Esdras. Vol. i. contains Genesis to Job. Vol. ii. Psalms to Apocalypse.

The Apocalypse is followed by "Canones" on John, Mark, Luke, in verse, beginning

A. de principio testis baptista prolatus
Per moysen lex • nemo deum uidit • fore christum
Se negat • et uocem dicit • Baptizat in nuda.

There are other notes on the last leaves in several hands; among others (on first leaf and last but one) a list of expositors for the whole Bible.

Liber orationum Athanasii uiri Sanctissimi ac archiepiscopi (sic) Alexandrini aduersum arianos de fide christiana elegantissimus ad Serenissimum ac christianissimum principem dominum Humfridum Gloucestriae ducem per clericum suum Antonium Becariam ex graeco in latinum fideliter interpretatus. Liber primus feliciter incipit 3

The second leaf begins : nomine meo dicentes.

Liber secundus eiusdem Athanasii aduersum arianos per eundem interpretatus 30
Omnes haereses.

The initial survives in this place. It is not of Italian execution : burnished gold is freely employed, and the shaded green, pink, and blue, characteristic of English art.

The hand is very good. There are marginal notes by the original scribe.

Mr Bradshaw notes at the end of the volume : This volume is the sole relic of the original library of the College. The College was founded in 1441 ; Humphry, Duke of Gloucester, to whom this is dedicated, died in 1447-8; and in a catalogue of the library taken about 1453 this volume is entered under Distinctio .G. vol. 9, thus :

Oraciones Athanasij
cuius 2^m fo. incipit 'nomine meo dicentes.'

It is no. 1 in T. James's list.

The Royal MS. (Brit. Mus.) 5. F. ii contains other works of S. Athanasius translated by the same man. At the end is the autograph note :

Cest Livre est a moy Homfrey Duc de Gloucestre : lequel je fis translater de Grec en Latin par un de mes Secretaires, Antoyne de Beccara né de Verone.

Contents:

Vaticinia Duo, prioris Christianus, posterioris Mahumetanus author est.
 Anno Domini 1592.

Dedication to John Whitgift Abp of Canterbury: from John Castollus: dated London 27 Sept. 1592. The writer says that he found the Christian prophecy at Paris "in bibliotheca Gorraei medici celeberrimi" in a MS. defective through age: of the other he had bought a copy in French, printed at Antwerp, some fifteen years back.

1. The Christian prophecy is headed:

Ex Libro Mirabili sumpta haec in chronica Martiniana.

Tacui et semper silui, nunc autem loquar euentus mirabiles quos audiui.

The lacunae of the MS. seem to occur where a precise date would otherwise have to be mentioned: e.g. "circa annum Domini *." It occupies nine pages: at the end is:

Hanc prophetiam antiquitus scriptam reperies in clarissimo Gallorum regno, quam habet quidam presbyter nomine Guilielmus Bauge in Diocesi turonensi in parochia de Nohan. Quae sequuntur Gallorum indolem describunt et ex eiusdem historiae capite decimo septimo desumpta sunt.

Collegi ex dictis antiquorum Galliam traxisse nomen a γάλα graeco quod est lac latine.

2. Brevis et tamen perspicua multorum vaticiniorum narratio primum Arabice ab authore ipso scripta: deinde ab equite ordinis Rhodii in Gallicum sermonem versa et nunc latine reddita.

R. Braim's dedication to the king of Tunis.

Caput primum : de Camo Magno siue tartarorum Imperatore.

There are thirteen chapters dealing with various potentates. The tract occupies twelve pages.

3. Commentary by Castollus on the two prophecies, about forty-two pages.

HORATII OPERA.

Vellum, $6\frac{1}{2} \times 4\frac{1}{8}$, ff. 173, 27 lines to a page. Cent. xv.

Binding, plain calf of cent. xvii.

On f. i b is :

Ex(emplar) MS. olim Petri Bembi Cardinalis.

Dignissimo Viro Samueli Collins Henricus Wottonius hoc misit munusculum XIV Decembris Anni MD. LXX (1630).

and :

Dedit Collegio Regali Reverendissimus in Christo pater Joannes Pearson Cestrensis Episcopus, et hujus Collegii quondam Socius 1672.

Sir Henry Wotton, Provost of Eton, purchased a good many MSS., once in Pietro Bembo's Library, when he was Ambassador at Venice: most of them are now in the College Library at Eton, to which he bequeathed them. Among them is a Cicero de Officiis, which is exactly uniform with this Horace¹.

Collation : i² (+ 1) || A¹⁰-Q¹⁰ R⁸ || ii² : 173 leaves.

f. iii is of red vellum.

Contents :

On f. i, in Bembo's hand, is :

Satis Beatus unicus Boetis.
Truditur dies die • noueque pergunt
Interire lune.

On f. ii is a table of contents also by Bembo, and some later scribbles.

On the last leaf of the volume, on the recto, is a long passage written by Bembo, headed :

D. M̄gr Michael Carrarius in libello suo de choreis musarum .c. secundo de Medicina.
Sunt preterea ipsius due principales partes Sanitatem habitumque tueri et amissam redimere.

And at the bottom two lines from Pliny Epp. vii. xxvi. :

Tales esse sani perseueremus quales nos futuros profitemur infirmi.

On the verso :

	161. Si bene te noui. Lib. epistolarum.
Summa	Inter cuncta leges et percunctabere doctos
totius	Qua ratione queas traducere leniter euum
vite.	Ne te semper inops agitet uexetque cupido
	Et genus et uirtus nisi cum re uilior alga est.

The writing is a fine, italic hand : the ornaments most beautiful throughout. The title of each poem is in capitals, red, blue, or purple : the opening of each book is also in capitals, gold, red, blue, green, and purple.

In the lower margin of the first page is Bembo's shield, azure a chevron or between three roses of the second : motto VIRTUS ET HONOR : crest a demi-Pegasus.

The initial to Carminum Liber i. contains two Pegasi : the arms occur again in the initial to Book ii. of the Epistles. The other initials are most exquisite decorative work : often in gold on a red ground.

In the Litany :

Martyrs. Blasius, Peregrinus, Vigilus, Eusebius, Saturninus, Symphorian, Ciricus, Juinian, Justus, Mammes, ... Priscus.

Confessors. Amator, Germane, Agnarius, Renobert, ... Veranus, Guillelmus, Leonard, Mamertinus, Marianus, Ludovicus.

Virgins. Eugenia, Julita.

The use closely resembles that of Châlons-sur-Marne: the Saints point to Langres or Toul much more clearly than to Châlons. On the whole Langres may be taken as the likely provenance. The writing is fairly good: the ornament rough but effective. Each page has a partial border of line and leaf work: the leaves in gold.

The miniatures are coarsely done, but in some cases are unusual.

1. Sequences of the Gospels. Two-thirds of page. S. John seated facing R., on an island, writing: eagle holds inkstand in his beak. A large bird in a tree near.

The picture of S. Luke is gone.

2. S. Matthew seated on a rock in a landscape, face to L., looks at his pen: scroll on knee. A small angel on L. holds the ink.

3. S. Mark seated in a landscape, writing, scroll on knee. An ox couches by him: it should have been a lion.

The picture to Matins of the Virgin is gone.

4. Te Deum (in Matins) has a large initial with a bust of the Virgin, full-face, in a pink dress.

5. Lauds. Initial. The Visitation. Mary (on L.) and Elizabeth in a landscape.

6. Prime. The Virgin and Joseph kneel and adore the Child in a landscape: rays above. Ox and ass behind, on L.

7. 'Tierce.' Two shepherds with staves, point upwards: rays above.

8. 'Midi' (Sext). The Flight into Egypt: the figures are going to R.

9. Nones. The Presentation. The Virgin holds the Child in swaddling clothes. Simeon in ermined cape stands on R. of an altar, facing L.

10. Vespers. Two kings (one kneeling) present gifts to the Child on the Virgin's knee. Star in sky.

11. Compline. The Virgin kneels, in a building: a small angel on L. is placing a Crown on her head.

12. Hours of the Cross. Initial. The Crucifixion, with the Virgin and S. John, in a landscape.

The picture to the Seven Psalms is gone.

13. Litany. Initial. The Virgin crowned, full-face, half-length, with joined hands: on either side of her are small figures of Apostles also full-face (four on L., three on R.). Gold ground.

There is not usually a picture to the Litany.

14. Office of the Dead. Funeral in Churchyard (Church porch on R.). The sexton is laying the shrouded corpse into the earth: the priest and acolyte, surpliced, stand by the grave: the mourners beyond, on L., in black cloaks touched with gold.

ff. 129-136 are an addition to the original volume.

15. O intemerata. The Virgin and Child half-length in a silver crescent: much rubbed.

This picture is by a later and rather better artist than nos. 1-14: the border is also more carefully done. It is of the "geometrical" kind.

16. Stabat Mater. A Pietà: the Virgin seated beneath the cross, with the body of Christ across her knees: a landscape behind.

17. S. Barbara with palm and book in a landscape: a tower on L.

The Litany is absolutely undistinctive in its Saints. The use is of Rome.

The miniatures are rather above the average shop-work in the kalendar. In the rest of the book they are not.

The kalendar has a border on one side of each page: the occupation of the month occupies the whole space: the zodiacal sign the middle third. Every page has a border of similar extent mostly divided into geometrical figures and filled with rather coarse ornament and fluid gold.

1. Jan. A man sits and warms his hands at the fire: in the foreground is a table with white cloth, plate, knife, and covered jug: the gable of the house is seen above.

By one Johannes.

The tract is in verse, and gives the contents of each chapter of the various books of the Bible in alphabetical order, two lines being devoted to each. The first line describing chapter i. begins with A, the distich on chap. ii. with B, and so on; when the alphabet is exhausted, it is begun again. Thus in Genesis, which has 50 chapters, the alphabet is used up twice and the last distich begins with D.

In his preface the author explains that he has taken liberties in the case of the letters K, X, Y.

Inc. Ante tir(?) lux producitur • distinguens vndas congregat.
Ornatus factis additur • producta ade subiugat.

It contains :

Gen.—2 Chron., Ezr., Neh., 1 (3) Esdr., Tob., Jud., Esth., Job.

A prose section pointing out that the epitome of the Psalter was not needed, and giving statistics as to the number of verses (2606).

Prov.—Ecclus, Isa.—2 Macc.
Evv., Rom.—Hebr.

Ends imperfectly with the distich for Heb. viii.

The catch-word for the next leaf is

In quo natos.

On f. 206 is the colophon to the Aurora.

In another hand :

The hand is possibly English: the ornament chiefly confined to the first page, and not very striking.

The words referred to are alternately in red with blue initial and blue with red initial. The line-fillings of gold and blue.

The hand, English, is clear and good throughout.

Most of the miniatures (there was originally one to each letter of the alphabet) have been cut out: those which remain are as follows:

A was most likely for Aaron.

1. Letter B cut out: but a corner is left, with part of an animal and two branches on the ground: the word illustrated was no doubt Baal: and the scene may have been the sacrifice of Jeroboam, or that on Mt Carmel.

2. C. Cabul. Red ground, flourished with gold. On R., Solomon seated on a white throne: he is crowned, white-bearded, in pink robe and ermine, and looks dejected. His hands are held as if he was arguing. In centre, Hiram crowned, beardless, in short scarlet tunic trimmed with fur, and pink hose: he looks at Solomon, and points to L., at two white cities, towered, among green hills. Scroll: hecce sunt ciuitates quas dedisti mihi...

3. D. Dagon. Interior of a temple, with green pavement and black lines on it. On L. four men kneel and look R. In L. background is the ark, a gold shrine with coped lid: on R. Dagon is falling off a white pedestal. He is golden, except his head, and is a nude human figure. The head is that of a fish, and in silver: it is falling off, as also is his L. hand.

E was probably Ebal.

4. F. Faba. Red ground, gold-flourished, in squares. On L. three men kneel: one has a gold jug, another a blue object. In centre is David, old, in green head-dress falling low down on R., and pink gown. At his feet are four sheep and three oxen. Armed men on R. The text illustrated is 2 Sam. xvii. "Barzillai brought beans" etc.

5. H. Habene. 2 Kings xxii. The washing of Ahab's chariot. Red and gold ground. On L. a stream: two men kneel by it; water flows from something in their hands (or they are washing some white reins): behind, a scarlet waggon with hooped laths for an awning, which is white and furled on the top. The hind-quarters of a white horse, a step or ledge at the end of the cart, and two of four wheels are seen.

6. I. Jabeth (Jaboc). Gen. xxxii. Jacob crossing the brook Jabbok. Ground as before; on L. a river, on the other side of which are clumps of trees: on the nearer side is one clump on a rock. Jacob leads five women towards L. The two in front have plain wimples, the other three heart-shaped head-dresses. Jacob has pointed hat, scarlet tunic, pink hose.

K was for Kalendae.

7. L. Laban. Gen. xxxiii. Habebat rebecca fratrem nomine laban. Ground as before. Laban, drawn large, full-face, between a man and a woman. He is old, and has green head-dress, scarlet tunic, furred, gold belt. Rebecca on L. in heart-shaped head-dress; a jug in her R. hand. Eliezer on R., beardless, short-haired, in pink furred tunic and scarlet hose. The two are about to join hands.

8. M. Maacha. 2 Reg. iii. Absolon filius maacha. Ground as before: green floor. On L. Maacha, crowned, stands facing R., in blue mantle, pink under-robe, L. hand extended. Absalom, smaller, faces L., in green head-dress, scarlet tunic vandyked at bottom: his L. hand in his gold belt, his R. hand extended.

N was for Naaman.

9. P. Pabulum. Lev. iii. Adipem et caudam...in pabulum ignis. On L. a sacrificer in pink tunic. On R. a priest in scarlet-sleeved gown and white under-garment, killing what ought to be a lamb, but is more like a hog. In centre, two priests in blue and green. Behind, on R., an altar vested in white with blue frontal and gold reredos: a fire burning on it.

10. R. Raab. On L. a red-roofed house: in background, three peaked hills, each with a clump of trees on top. Rahab in white, with apron, shakes hands with the foremost of two men, who wears a straw hat and scarlet tunic and hose: he is old and bearded and larger than his companion, who is beardless and has pink hose.

S was probably Saba (Queen of Sheba).

T Tabernaculum.

41.

PSALMI.

Vellum, $31\frac{5}{8} \times 21$, ff. 46, 12 lines to a page. Cent. xv.

The ordinary letters each measure $1\frac{1}{8} \times 1$ or more, the large initials $4\frac{1}{4}$ in. square.

The writing seems to be done with a brush: the initials are in blue and red with panels of ornament.

It was taken from the Library of Osorius¹ Bishop of Algarve by the Earl of Essex in 1596, at Cadiz.

This enormous MS. was always regarded as one of the curiosities of Cambridge, and is mentioned in many old books of travel. Its size is certainly very remarkable, but it is not otherwise a particularly interesting book.

¹ Jerome Osorio died in 1580. The rest of his Library, also taken by Essex, is now in the Bodleian.

APPENDIX.

THE annexed Inventory of the Library formerly belonging to the College is interesting chiefly as a record; for of the 175 volumes enumerated in it only a solitary one remains. It is the Athanasius (no. 9 in Distinccio G). What has become of the other books is at present absolutely unknown.

The Inventory is printed from a transcript made by Mr Bradshaw from the original MS. in the College Muniment-room. I have collated the transcript with the original.

The volume which contains it is a large book bound in boards, measuring $17\frac{1}{2}$ in. by 12 in. It is in quires of eight leaves, and the contents are as follows:

The date of the volume is 1452.

The classification of the books is clear enough: Distinctions A to C contained Philosophical Works, D to K, Theology, L, Medicine, M, Astrology and Mathematics, N, Canon Law, O P, Classical and General Literature, Q, grammatical books.

As to the history of the Library and the building which contained it: the Founder in his great plan for the College, which was never carried out, prescribes that there shall be, in the West side of the Court, at the end toward the Chapel, “a librarie, conteynyng in lengthe ·cx· fete, and in brede ·xxiiij· fete, and vnder hit a large hous for redyng and disputacions, and ·ij· chambres vnder the same librarie, euery conteynyng ·xxix· fete in lengthe and in brede .xxiiiij. feet.” The words are worth quoting, as showing the magnificence of the King’s design in this regard: but for the actual history of what existed, I must quote from Willis and Clark’s Architectural History of the University of Cambridge (i. 537), “Numerous charges in the Mundum-Book for 1448 for the purchase and chaining of books prove that a Library was even then in existence; and the apartment was of sufficient importance to be shewn to Henry the Sixth, from a charge for strewing it with rushes in expectation of a visit from him¹. From the fact that the only volume now remaining of those mentioned in the catalogue of 1452 belonged to Humphrey, Duke of Gloucester, it is not improbable that the King furnished the College Library with many of the Duke’s books, obtained after his death at Bury in 1447. No precise record of its situation has been preserved; we learn, however, from a catalogue of its contents in the College Register that the door was at the east end, and that it contained sixteen compartments². Again, when the books were moved into the new library, it was turned into two rooms for Fellows³. It was therefore about forty-five feet long, judging from the dimensions of the plan, and the position of the door at the east end leads to the conclusion that it must have been either on the first or second floor of the south side of the Old Court. The view of the exterior of that side shews four windows close together on the second floor, which look as if they might have belonged to it, and this conjecture is supported by a charge for ‘mending the leddees over the librarie chambers’ in 1578—79.

“The vestries on the south side of the choir of the Chapel were used as a Library from 1570, until the new Library was built by Wilkins. They were fitted up for this purpose at the expense of Dr Roger Goade (Provost 1569—1610).”

The derivation of some part at least of the collection from Duke Humphrey, which is suggested above, is rather confirmed by the occurrence of translations of Plato and Plutarch, of a volume of Poggio, and of several Latin classics in the Catalogue here printed. They give rather an unusually distinguished character to the Library.
