Dominion Parliament

Yukon Telegraph Line-Subsidies by Sir Wilfred Laurier and Hon. Mr. Blair.

Disgraceful Scenes in Supply-Drummond County Railway Bill in Senate.

Ottawa, June 22.-In the House of Commons yesterday the Opposition attacked the Minister of Railways for the course which he had pursued in connection with the Yukon telegraph line...

The Opposition proposes going into matters in connection with Mr. Coste's survey trip to Yukon as chief engineer of Public Works, and seek papers which will enable them to deal with it before the public accounts committee.

Mr. Davin produced a Toronto newspaper clipping purporting to be an interview with Dr. Douglas, in which that gentleman remarked that "it was Clifford Sifton's cold steel that killed the bill," referring to his measure respecting grain inspection.

Mr. Sifton returned that he did not care a fig what the Toronto paper in question had to say about him. He had offered to assist Dr. Douglas in putting the balance of the bill through the House after the one objectionable clause that had been killed by the committee.

Mr. Bergeron complained that merchants at Valleyfield had complained of not being able to get their goods out of customs within a reasonable time after their arrival; a merchant in one case had been so delayed, he said, ten days.

The Minister of Customs was of the opinion that the delay was due rather to his efforts to run the ports of Valleyfield with economy. The collection last year amounted to $3,000, so that he had had much time for the job.

Lieut.-Col. Prior introduced a matter which he considered was a direct reflection upon the business morality of the government, in connection with the Yukon telegraph line.

Mr. Foster returned to the question of Mr. Charleson's identity, as Mr. Fielding could not say whether this was the senior, who is an employee of the Public Works Department, or his son, he asked him to refer to Mr. Gobell.

IN THE SENATE. Second Reading of the Drummond County Railway Bill, Postponed-Loan Companies.

In the Senate yesterday on the orders of the day being called Senator Macdonald, of British Columbia, drew the attention of the Senate to the construction of the Ottawa river, which, he said, was never more defiled by sawdust than now.

Senator Clewley replied that he had nothing to do with the matter. He had obtained the passage of the bill to prevent the lumber firms dumping their sawdust into the river and now expected the government to see that the law was observed.

Mr. Macdonald asked for no objection to this proposal, but it had been understood on Tuesday that the first order of business was to be the consideration of the bill to amend the Criminal Code.

He make the suggestion. He wanted to go through some amendments he had in his hands and proposed to go on with the second reading of the Drummond County railway bill at the present sitting.

Mr. Macdonald asked for no objection to this proposal, but it had been understood on Tuesday that the first order of business was to be the consideration of the bill to amend the Criminal Code.

On the motion for the second reading of the Drummond County Railway Bill Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked what the government proposed to do.

The Hon. David Mills said that most of the information not yet brought down was with reference to the other bill, but Sir Mackenzie Bowell did not see how they could go on with the discussion of the bills separately as one was a corollary to the other.

The Hon. David Mills said the House was entitled to full information and he would try to have it brought down as soon as possible. Meantime the bills could stand.

Senator Ferguson drew attention to the fact that he had asked for information which was not forthcoming. He wanted to know what percentage the $45,000 paid to the Grand Trunk Railway Company was for.

The Hon. David Mills replied that he would try to get the information. He believed the whole sum was about four hundred thousand dollars. The Secretary of State did not want to press the motion for a second reading of the bill now, but he thought the information Sir Mackenzie Bowell asked for was in the schedule to the bill.

Mr. Mackenzie Bowell replied that it was not what he wanted was a supplementary agreement. If there was one. He wanted to know when it was proposed to go on with the bills.

The Secretary of State thought all the information required could be got from the railway department in twenty-four hours. It was agreed that the bills should stand until Monday.

The House then went into committee on the bill respecting loan companies. A long and technical discussion ensued on the various clauses of the bill.

The debate went on for some time longer, with little credit to the House. The government got into trouble with the Deputy Speaker, who accused of unfairness, and then Mr. Casey had to withdraw a remark that Mr. Bergeron had wilfully and maliciously imputed unfair motives to the Deputy Speaker.

The Capture of Novak

The Murderer Who Was Captured in Klondike Imprisoned for Life.

How a Smart Detective Worked Out a Complicated Case.

Was Brought Down by the Steamer Portland Last Year.

Dubuque, Ia., June 19.-Iowa's Supreme Court has handed down a decision in the famous Novak murder case, affirming the verdict of the lower court, which sentenced Novak to the penitentiary for life.

In the history of carefully-planned and skillfully-executed murders, none takes precedence of this crime, for which Frank A. Novak, would-be gentleman, sport and generally "good fellow," goes to prison for the remaining days of his natural life.

Novak was a business man in the little town of Walford, in Benton county, Iowa, up to two years ago. He seemed to be an unusually bright young man, and the world, especially the business world, appeared to be using him well.

The young business man reflected in his person the prosperity which apparently was following in his footsteps. He dressed in the height of fashion, and in country Iowa fashion is conspicuous. He wore valuable jewelry, and displayed evidence of wealth in other ways.

Novak lost much money, and the more he lost the more he gambled. He was designated among the gamblers as an "easy mark," and when he failed to turn up in Cedar Rapids to part with his money gamblers went to Walford.

While Walford looked on at the seemingly prosperous career of the young merchant, Novak's finances were continually dwindling. He was content with the green cloth, and when he reached the business resources of the store, was very heavy.

At first it is usually as a trifling indisposition or a slight attack of biliousness. Then follow loss of appetite, or headache, or nervousness and sleeplessness, or stupor. These are the advance heralds of consumption, malaria, nervous exhaustion and prostration, and a multitude of other ills.

There is an easy way to avoid, and a sure way to escape from, ill-health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery gives edge to the appetite, invigorates the liver, makes the digestion perfect and the blood pure.

ed for. It was known that he had been with Novak the evening before the fire, and that the two had been drinking. There were those, however, who had seen the pair, and had noticed that Novak seemed to be the sober one of the two.

Novak's business affairs were then found to have been in bad shape. He had pretended to make a deposit in the Cedar Rapids bank, which was the depository for the funds of the Walford money shop, but the money had not been sent.

Novak's business affairs were then found to have been in bad shape. He had pretended to make a deposit in the Cedar Rapids bank, which was the depository for the funds of the Walford money shop, but the money had not been sent.

After several days the work of the coroner's jury was completed. The verdict was that Edward Murray caused his death by some person or persons unknown to the jury.

By this time Novak's picture was being printed in the daily papers, and one of these portraits was destined to play an important part in his career. That he was alive was known by this time to the general theory. Where he was the question.

Finally it was learned that a young man who had signed the name of Fred Alfred had been seen leaving Iowa City for the west soon after the fire. The porter on the train identified Novak as the man by a newspaper picture which was shown him.

Registration papers from Iowa were secured, after much trouble, and forwarded to Alaska. By the time they reached him Novak had gone into British territory. Other requisition papers had to be secured, this time from the United States government. They reached the detective in the Klondike country after months of waiting, and one night he laid his hands upon the arm of the fiddler and placed him under arrest.

On the steamer Portland, in August of last year, Novak was brought back to stand trial for his life. At the same time the details of the plot to rob an insurance company were revealed, and the jury sentenced the defendant to the penitentiary for life.

The regimen that rages the earth, which it may devour is a fearsome antagonist. To fight health is a struggle, and much more dangerous one. It is always easier and better to avoid it than to fight it.

Streets and Sidewalks

The City Council in Special Meeting Decide Upon Necessary Work.

East Belleville Street To Be Made Good For Traffic.

His worship the mayor took the chair last evening at the meeting of the city council adjourned from the night previous.

Permanent Sidewalk By-Law. The meeting went into committee of the whole with the mayor in the chair to continue the consideration of Ald. Humphrey's by-law to amend the permanent sidewalks by-law.

A discussion took place regarding the bridge made use of by those who had placed trap doors in the sidewalks.

Section 2, as printed in the Times last evening, was adopted, and before endorsing the preamble, Ald. Beckwith suggested the advisability of inserting a section providing during what hours the trap doors shall be allowed to be open.

Engineer's Report. The mayor suggested that the council should then adjourn until the committee on streets, bridges and public works had a report to present upon the city engineer's report.

Table with financial details: Amount appropriated for construct work, Voted to June 1st, etc.

Class 1 was then taken up and much discussion was indulged in regarding the rival claims of Belleville street and the streets in the centre of the city.

Ald. Brydon could not see why the council should be thinking all about "that bridge." If it were found to be unsafe the necessary $500 would be easily obtained.

Ald. Cameron moved the adoption of the report and Ald. Humphrey seconded, Ald. Kinsman suggesting that Belleville street be made only 20 feet wide.

THE COLONIST'S VIEW. The Associated Press sent that leader of the Montreal Star, which is a trifle less reliable in political matters than the Colonist, out as news, it can only be characterized as a most extraordinary proceeding on the part of an institution which sells its news to papers of all political complexions, and may be said to be about as judicious as the actions of Mr. Daly at the Rossland banquet.

Press Privileges. Mr. Mayor seems to hold, we fear, opinions regarding the duties of press reporters which are not quite in accordance with the accepted though unwritten laws thereupon, and it is very important that a gentleman occupying so exalted a position should be fully informed as to the rights of the press.

THE COLONIST'S VIEW. There was a time, as we remarked a day or two ago, when the Victoria Daily Colonist was neither ridiculous nor contemptible. And there was a time when that newspaper had no need to explain to the public that it was not in the habit of telling lies in its reports and dispatches.

THE COLONIST'S VIEW. The Colonist thinks Sir Charles Tupper will not lead the Conservatives much longer in the Dominion and that when the aged baronet resigns his post other changes may be expected.

EPIGRAPH-EPITHETS ON BRITISH STATESMEN.

When a great politician dies, a man whose name has been on the tongues of all, and in every kind of type for scores of years, the good-hearted British public makes that national observations conventionally described as "mourning a loss," attends his funeral or memorial service, and then, after scratching his name on the Albert stone or elsewhere, is well content to leave him alone for evermore with the epithet or attribute it deems most appropriate to attach to his name. Thus, Pitt is majestic, Fox patriotic, John Russell plucky, Disraeli romantic, Gladstone religious; and so on. Nor are these epithets open to revision. Whatever record leaps to light they are not in the least likely to be altered. The fact is, Englishmen understand their political leaders down to the ground. They have never mistaken them for saints, heroes, or philosophers. Indeed, they know them to be sinners, usually as blind to the future as the grocer down the street, and occasionally as ignorant of the past as the publican at the corner, but who, for all that, stood like men for their brief hour on the quarterdeck of the big ship which is still groaning and grunting on its way. They at all events never ran her aground. Augustus Birrell in the Contemporary Review.

NEW USE FOR BLOTTING PAPER.

The use of blotting paper for cleaning machinery is a new idea, but it has been tried in the German workshops, and found to answer well, says the Engineering and Mining Journal. Felt, woolen refuse, sponge cloths and jute waste are the materials usually employed for the cleaning of machines and parts of engines which are soiled by dust and lubricating substances. The better varieties of cotton waste are very good for scouring purposes, but are cheaper grades are charged with dust, and in using them a sponge cloth, specially manufactured for the purpose, has to be resorted to. In employing blotting paper for scouring purposes the use of cotton waste is decreased, and the sponge cloths are entirely dispensed with. On an average the German workman received under the former system two hundred and fifty grams of cotton waste, one new sponge cloth, and one or two renovated ones every week. Now he is supplied with one hundred and fifty grams of cotton waste, and about eight or ten sheets of blotting paper, at a cost of two and a half cents, or one-third the cost of the cotton waste.

The paper is not only cheaper, but it does not soil the machinery with fibres, and sponge cloths. It is also less combustible than other cleaning materials, and if it should be caught in the machinery while engines in motion are being cleaned it tears easily, and the workmen run no risk of having their hands drawn into the machinery.

STALKING A PEACOCK IN INDIA.

"The gods made nine gems, but only one peacock," says a proverb in India. The native and ancient home of the beautiful bird. The proverb, however, is not strictly in keeping with facts. There are two peacocks—the bird of India and Ceylon, and a second species, the peacock of the Far East, of Java, Burmah and Siam. It is a legend of the jungles that leopards and tigers can fascinate peacocks, and a writer in the London Spectator refers to the experience of Colonel Tytler to show how strong is the faith of the natives in the story. Colonel Tytler, while stalking a peacock, was surprised to see how near it allowed him to approach. The bird paid no attention to him, but was gazing intently, as if fascinated, at a little patch of jungle just in front.

Looking in the same direction, he saw a leopard steaming on its belly toward the bird. He was surprised to see how near it allowed him to approach. The bird paid no attention to him, but was gazing intently, as if fascinated, at a little patch of jungle just in front. Colonel Tytler for a moment thought he must be going mad. The next moment he saw a man disguised in a leopard-skin, with a well-stuffed head and a bow and arrow in one paw, standing before him. The man so dressed was a professional Fowler, who said that in that disguise he could always approach near enough to shoot the birds, and sometimes catch them in his hand.

Scrofula.

Another Permanent Cure by B. B. B. After Two Doctors Failed.

Ask any doctor and he will tell you that, next to cancer, scrofula is one of the hardest diseases to cure.

Yet Burdock Blood Purifiers applied externally to the parts affected and taken internally cured Rev. Wm. Stout, of Kitchikan, Ont., permanently after many prominent physicians failed. Cured Mrs. W. Bennett, of Crowson's Corners, Ont., permanently, when everyone thought she would die. Now Mr. H. H. Forest, Windsor Mills, P. Q., states his case as follows: "After having used Burdock Blood Purifiers for scrofula in the blood, I felt it my duty to make known the results. I was treated by two skilled physicians, but they failed to cure me. I had running sores on my hands and legs which I could get nothing to heal until I tried B. B. B. This remedy healed them completely and permanently, leaving the skin and flesh sound and whole."

The following resolution was passed at the Nova Scotia conference of the Methodist church in Yarmouth: "Whereas the practice of bribery at elections is rapidly increasing in many sections of the country, and venality of voters is becoming more and more unobscuring, we petition parliament to add to the stringency of the act to prevent corrupt practices at elections which are a menace to stability of free institutions, and the evil of the contagion is debauching the moral sense of the electorate."

If you had taken two of Carter's Little Liver Pills before retiring you would not have had that red-tongued sore last night in your mouth this morning. Keep a vial with you for occasional use.

ABOUT GIANTS.

Some of the Big Fellows of History and Tradition. If anything, the human frame seems to be increasing in size rather than decreasing. The men of well-developed frame today would have hard work to squeeze themselves into a suit of armor worn by the average Crusader. All through history, however, there have been men of remarkable size, just the same as there are today. "There were giants in the earth in those days," and there are giants now. Baron Albert Verly, son of Colonel Verly, who once commanded the picturesque corps of giants known as the Cent Gardes, gave a dinner in Paris the other day to the survivors of his father's command. Only a few of the members of this famous body of soldiers of the Second Empire still live to drag their huge and ancient bodies about Paris. Since the last banquet of the corps eight have died, among them the amazing Dr. Gerard. He was a brigadier in the days of the Second Empire, and was dismissed for sleeping out of quarters without leave.

The Cent Gardes were organized in the Crimea war, when a visit was expected at the Fallieres from Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort. The tallest and best-looking men in the French army were selected and formed into an ornamental body of household guards. All were over six feet tall, and it was their duty to stand in front of the palace, never changing their position except to salute the Emperor and Empress. Five hundred and eighty men served together in the Cent Gardes. The corps went down with the founding of the Empire of Napoleon III.

Not long ago there died on his farm in New Jersey "Colonel" Goshen, a man over eight feet high, who had accumulated a competence by exhibiting himself in museums and "side shows."

On view in London now is a boy, nineteen years old named Constantine, who is over eight feet tall. He is well proportioned, and shows no sign of disease. He is fed mostly on milk and beef tea, and is allowed to drink no alcoholic liquors. Constantine's father is a portrait painter in Switzerland, and neither of his parents is over the normal size.

In the old days it was believed that the size of man had gradually decreased since the flood. One Heron, a Frenchman, captured a "comparative scale" by which Adam stood 123 feet 9 inches, and Eve was a sweet little person only 118 feet 9 inches high. Grandfather Noah was twenty feet shorter than Adam, and Abraham was only 25 feet tall, and Moses was set down as being 12 feet high, and Hercules 10 feet. The "comparative scale" of this learned man is only a subject for laughter now, but it was accepted seriously in the days in which wrote. The height of Goliath has been estimated variously. The best authorities, such as Josephus and the Vatican champion down as being "four cubits and a span" tall, which would make him a little over eight feet—about the size of Chang and Colonel Goshen.

A tall story of a fat man is that told by Boccaccio. He says that the remains of this monster were discovered in his own time in a cave in Sicily, and were those of a man 400 feet high. The learned Abbot Anastas Kircher, a Jesuit priest, visited the scene of the alleged discovery and found that the cave was only thirty feet high, while the only remains which could be shown him were the fossil ones of an elephant.

The first modern giant of whom there is authentic record is the porter of Queen Elizabeth, whose portrait by Zuccheri Frango in Hampton court palace. He was a Dutchman, and was 7 feet 6 inches tall. James I. had a porter, Walter Parsons, who was of the same height. Will Evans, who succeeded Parsons, and served as porter for Charles I., was 7 feet 8 inches high. Cromwell also had a giant porter, one I. and, who stood 7 feet 6 inches.

In the Grenadier Guards of William I. of Prussia there was a Scottish giant of 8 feet 3 inches. An eight-foot German named Moll was on exhibition in London in 1874. He was one of seven or eight children that his father had by his third wife. That worthy gentleman's family numbered thirty-five in all. James McDonald, who died in Cork in 1700, at the mature age of one hundred and seventeen, was 7 feet 6 inches high, and had an appetite in proportion. It required four pounds of solid meat at each meal and several quarts of ale to satisfy him. A rather sad post-mortem fate was that of an Irish giant named Byrne. He knew that the scientists were eager to dissect his body, and begged before he died that he might be buried as he was. But the famous anatomist, Sir William Hunter, was on the watch, and got possession of the corpse. Byrne's skeleton hangs in the Hunterian museum at the Royal College of Surgeons, London.—New York Press.

"YOU MAY BEND THE SAPPING, BUT NOT THE TREE."

When disease has become chronic and deep-seated it is often difficult to check it. That is the reason why it is best to take Hood's Sarsaparilla when disease first shows itself—in pimples, headaches, indigestion, or other troubles which tell of poor blood, weak stomach or disordered liver & kidneys. This great medicine regulates the whole system. It never allows points.

Hood's Pills are the favorite family cathartic. Hon. Mr. Blair's railway bill regarding operating rules for railways was laid before the railway committee at Ottawa yesterday, and the first clauses passed.

Not everyone is aware that the opening years of the next century will witness the completion of the first milliard of minutes since the beginning of our chronology.

From approximate calculations it would seem that the one billionth minute will be reached at 1:40 a.m. on April 30, 1902. In 1887 the coining of the big copper pennies which everybody has seen, was suspended. Up to that time they had been coined regularly for 65 years. In all 156,000,000 of the big, awkward coins had been put into circulation. Not more than one-fourth of that number have ever been paid back to the government or exchanged for other coin. Father Lequan was rebuked by Bishop Dowling of Hamilton, during confirmation services at Brantford on Sunday. It seems a boy named John Ryan was present for confirmation, though belonging to another parish. President Shaughnessy, of the C. P. R., gives an emphatic denial of the report that the C. P. R. and Great Northern railways had effected an agreement whereby a joint line will be laid to connect the Boundary Creek mining camp of British Columbia with the Republic camp in Washington.

London, June 28.—The correspondent of the Times at the Hague says: "As a result of protracted informal discussion in committee, it was reported yesterday that Russia's military disarmament proposals have been declared unacceptable."

"FLORA JONES" IDENTIFIED. The Woman Who Died in Seattle From the Effects of a Criminal Operation Was Mrs. Hagenbach.

As was expected, the publication in the Times of the circumstances surrounding the sad death of the young woman known as Flora Jones...

The deceased woman resided with her husband in this city until the career of folly upon which she had embarked, led to her leaving home. Prior to that event the husband had occasion to complain of her actions and ultimately the final break came and they separated.

Some time after that she went to reside with S. Antonio Sarantis, a Greek fruit vendor, who formerly kept a store on Douglas street, near Pandora.

It is said in Seattle that Sarantis accompanied the woman to that city when she went to have the operation performed, and the Seattle police have requested the co-operation of Chief Shepard and his men in obtaining from Sarantis the name of the person by whom the operation was carried out.

Sarantis has not yet been found by the city police, although he was seen on Yates street last evening. No charge is laid against him and all the police wish to obtain from him is such information as will lead to the detection of the guilty party or parties.

Mrs. Hagenbach left six children. She was a native of Victoria, her father, W. H. Brooks, and two sisters, being still residents of the city.

C. Speer last evening officiated at a very quiet wedding, performing the ceremony which united Mr. Hedley Chapman to the lady of his choice, who has just arrived from England. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present.

Steamers recently passing Darcy Island noticed the distress flag flying, but it is not thought that any more trouble has befallen the unfortunate lepers. Dr. Fraser leaves this afternoon for the island with more supplies and conveniences which were not taken up when the party went to the island a few days ago.

Collector of Customs A. R. Milne has received instructions from the Department of the Interior that by an order-in-council, dated 13th, the mining regulations have been amended so that free miners licenses may now be issued to applicants without their appearing in person to receive the same.
