Co-operation Needed To Restore Fishing Industry of Fraser

J. P. Babcock, B. C. Assistant Commissioner of Fisheries, Tells Convention at Vancouver Neither Canada Nor States Alone Can Bring Back Big Runs.

Vancouver, June 5.—A concise and deadly indictment of the influences that have contributed to the ruin of the sockeye fisheries of the Fraser River system, including Puget Sound waters, was contained in an address to the members of the Canadian Fisheries Association in convention here last night by John P. Babcock, British Columbia Assistant Commissioner of Fisheries.

"The runs of sockeyes to the Fraser, once the greatest salmon river in the world, no longer constitute a great fishery. In other words, the Fraser is fished out. Its present condition is a monumental record of man's folly and greed," said Mr. Babcock.

The record of Canada was clear in the matter, insisted Mr. Babcock. The causes that contributed to the depletion were fully recognized in two treaties proposed for Canada and the United States. The only redeeming feature of the case was that it was not too late to restore the Fraser to its former greatness. One of the reasons was that no other river on the Pacific Coast drained such a large area of lakes and streams ideal for the natural propagation of salmon and still in perfect shape for the rearing of the young fish.

As showing the magnitude of the runs in the "big years," Mr. Babcock cited figures to show that in each of these four big years previous to and including 1913, 24,000,000 fish had been caught, and that probably as many more escaped the nets of the fishermen.

To show the importance of the conservation of the Fraser River as a salmon river to Washington State, Mr. Babcock pointed out that of the pack of fish caught in the waters of the river, and those dependent on it, in ten years forty-one per cent was put up by Canadians and fifty-nine per cent by Puget Sound canneries.

Continued Efforts.

Canada, Mr. Babcock said, had made continued efforts to restrict fishing and protect the sockeye by blockades at Hell's Gate at Yale in 1913, when a rockslide from the Canadian Northern Railway grade came into the river, finished off the big year by preventing millions of fish from reaching their spawning grounds. Four million fish entered Quessnel Lake in 1909 to spawn. In 1913 three sockeyes entered the lake, two males and one female.

The work of Canada in trying to keep up the sockeye run was shown, Mr. Babcock claimed, by the fact that although in the years sockeye fishing was confined to the river, about 4,000,000 fish were caught, over 25,000,000 of fry were planted in its waters.

FLAG-BURNING IN STATES DENOUNCED

Destruction of British Flag Moves Senator Thomas to Speak Out

Washington, June 5.—Condemning the action of the women who, sympathizing with the cause of those seeking to make Ireland a republic, burned a British flag here early this week, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Colorado, to-day warmly denounced "all indignities toward the official representatives of the flag of any foreign Government with which the United States is at peace," and called upon the authorities to "utilize all lawful means for preventing their recurrence."

Consideration of the question went over under the rules.

In the next big war soldiers will be housed in circular steel tents, it was pointed out by Nissen yesterday.

CALM AFTER BREEZE IN HOUSING DISPUTE

Cheque For $45,000 Sent To-day; Within Terms of Agreement

By the issuance of a governmental cheque to the value of $45,000 to the city, the church, rose while the breeze which has waited a series of verbal thrust and retort between the City Hall and the Parliament Buildings may be taken as having subsided. Why the amount was not sent before is explained by the Hon. T. D. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, who says in the statement printed below that the housing agreement entered into between the Government and the Municipality prescribes that the payment of money under the Act shall be made three weeks' notice from the applicant. His information leads him to state that the period so stipulated has not yet elapsed.

The Minister's Reply.

The Minister's rejoinder to the Mayor reads as follows: "With reference to the matter raised by Mayor Porter and Alderman Sangster, that money was not available under the terms of the agreement between the Province and the City in respect of the housing question, I wish to reiterate that, in my opinion, the Mayor and Alderman Sangster are merely trying to lay the blame for their own unbusinesslike methods upon the Department of Lands.

The agreement with the City of Victoria provides that the city shall give this department three weeks' notice of any amount which they may require. I find, on looking up the file, that application was made by the City Comptroller on May 27 for $45,000. Under the agreement with the city, the amount not bound to supply this amount until three weeks later, namely, July 17, but, as a matter of fact, the cheque for $45,000 was given to the city this morning.

Out of Town.

"This morning's paper states that I had discussed this question at length with Mr. Raymur yesterday. I do not know where they got their information, because I not only did not discuss the question with Mr. Raymur, but I was out of town."

Governor-General Visits Presbyterian Assembly

Ottawa, June 5.—The feature of this morning's session of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada was the visit of Their Excellencies the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire to Chalmers Presbyterian Church, in order formally to welcome the Assembly to the Dominion capital.

Their Excellencies arrived at the church by motor car from Rideau Hall promptly at 11 o'clock, accompanied by a number of aides and ladies-in-waiting.

As the Vice-Regal party arrived at the church the audience, which quite filled the church, rose while the organist played the National Anthem. Their Excellencies were received at the church door by Rev. Dr. Campbell, secretary of the General Assembly, and Rev. Dr. Stewart of Halifax. Rev. Dr. Campbell walked beside His Excellency, while the Duchess of Devonshire was accompanied by Rev. Dr. Stewart.

At the platform the Duke and Duchess were greeted by the Moderator, shaking hands and chatting for a moment. Then the Moderator read an address.

No Boy Scout Contingent Will Go to Jamboree in England

Ottawa, June 5.—The Canadian General Council of Boy Scouts decided at its annual meeting yesterday not to send a contingent to the Jamboree to be held in England July 26 to August 8. This was unanimously agreed upon because of the advisability of economy in these strenuous days of high prices.

The report of the executive committee showed that the Scout population of Canada had increased by 5,000 during 1919. The increase has been at a greater rate during the current year. The Province of Saskatchewan reported about 8,000 Scouts at present, with the prospect good for 12,000 next year.

ROY TO ATTEND GENOA CONFERENCE

Canadian Commissioner in France a Delegate to Labor Gathering

Ottawa, June 5.—A change has been made in the representation of the Dominion Government at the International Labor Conference (League of Nations) which will open in Genoa, Italy, on June 15. Sir George Perley, High Commissioner in London, and G. J. Desbarats, Deputy Minister of the Naval Service, were originally chosen as the Canadian Government representatives.

Philippe Roy, Commissioner-General of Canada in Paris, has been appointed in his stead. He and Mr. Desbarats, therefore, will represent the Dominion Government. Mr. Desbarats has already left for Europe. The conference was specially called to consider labor problems as affecting seamen.

to handle munitions, appears unfavorable, according to a Dublin dispatch to The London Times. The strike committee, the dispatch stated, discussed the situation last night, but no statement was issued. It is expected the matter will take a definite turn to-day.

The message to The Times remarks that while refusal of the support of the "Triple Alliance" support probably would kill any ordinary strike in Ireland, this is nowise certain as regards this case. The principle involved, it is said, is upheld by railwaymen throughout the country and by a vast body of popular opinion. The prospect of getting money and support also is declared to be good.

Premier's Statement.
London, June 5.—The text of Premier Lloyd George's conversation with the National Union of Railwaymen Thursday in regard to the refusal of Irish railwaymen to handle munitions was made public this afternoon. It shows that the Prime Minister characterized the movement as one calculated to influence political decisions, not by the ordinary machinery of the state, but by bringing pressure to bear through the threat of disorganizing the industries of the country, to effect conditions, which up to the present the electors of this country has not sanctioned. The Prime Minister added: "That is a serious issue. I should regard it as a complete abdication of the Government if I were in the least to countenance this demand."

Paris, June 5.—Plans by which a fixed sum would be decided upon for Germany's payments in reparation to the Allies probably will be abandoned, says The Echo de Paris, which asserts the Allied Supreme Council will revert to the system of "extensible annuities," by which Germany may cancel her war debt.

This plan was discussed at the meeting of the Allied Supreme Council at San Remo. Postponement of the Allies-German conference at Spa, which is scheduled for June 21, is probable, the newspapers declare.

ROYAL BANK TO DOUBLE BUILDING

Has Bought Property Through to Langley From Government Street

The Royal Bank of Canada has bought the property running through to Langley Street in the rear of its present granite bank building, Government Street, north of Fort, and will soon commence the construction of a modern addition to provide double the space of its banking room and office accommodation, according to an announcement to-day from A. R. Heiter, local manager.

The block of property just purchased is 42 by 46 feet. It gives the Royal Bank a strip running through the block from street to street with one side fronting on the busiest part of Government.

Preparations are now being made for the new building extension, which will be along the lines of the present structure. Offices will be provided on the two upper floors, while the ground floor will furnish the necessary extension of the banking room, doubling its area.

The new building will be finished by the middle of next year, Mr. Heiter announced.

Changes in the Imperial Building at Yates and Government Streets are also being planned. These have to do with rebuilding and modernizing the second and third storeys. The improvements are being taken up by A. R. Green, Imperial Bank manager, who has just returned from the East.

Owners of a large block of property in Chinatown are having estimates made for the construction of a large business building, it was learned to-day. It is likely the ground floor will be used for stores while the upper storeys will be used to house Orientals.

COURT IN QUEBEC ANNULS MARRIAGE.

Woman Was Ill; a Roman Catholic; Man Chose Protestant Minister

Montreal, June 4.—The Superior Court to-day annulled the marriage, on the wife's petition, of Albert Lorne Garvin, now of Winnipeg, and Olive Lalonde, of Montreal, for two reasons—first, that it took place without her consent, and secondly, because, she being a Roman Catholic, the Protestant minister (Rev. A. F. Mackenzie) who officiated at the ceremony in Toronto on January 17 last was not competent to perform that office so far as she was concerned.

Miss Lalonde went to see Garvin in Toronto and alleged that "while ill and dependent and unable to give free consent, defendant took me to the house of a Methodist minister, Rev. A. F. Mackenzie, before whom we were married."

The husband wrote a letter, quoted in court, in which he agreed to the annulment of the marriage.

MARINES AND TROOPS SENT TO IRELAND

Two Superdreadnoughts Took Marines; Barracks Burned by Armed Parties

London, June 5.—A dispatch from Cork last evening said the superdreadnoughts Waraspic and Valiant had arrived at Cork Harbor during the day and transhipped a large number of marines into Queenstown, which took them into Queenstown, where they landed.

The transport Garritza embarked 1,200 troops at Devonport for Queenstown, from which place they will be distributed in Wexford, Waterford, Cork and other counties.

A goods train was wrecked Thursday night in a street of Westmeath, Leinster, as a consequence of the rails having been torn up.

Barracks Burned.
A Dublin dispatch said the Gragin police barracks had been attacked yesterday morning for five hours by a large force of men. Eventually the barracks was burned and its nine defenders compelled to surrender their arms. There were no casualties.

Another vacant barracks was burned at Goleen, near Skibbereen. The railway terminus at Tralee was raided at daylight and a quantity of explosives and military supplies removed from it.

Forty Tanks.
Rt. Hon. Winston Spencer Churchill, Secretary for War, announced yesterday that there were 40 tanks and 28 aeroplanes in Ireland at present.

Labor Meeting.
London, June 5.—A meeting to decide whether a special workers' convention will be called to consider the boycott on handling munitions for Ireland is to be held June 16 by the Parliamentary committee of the British Trades Union Congress. At the same time it is believed a policy regarding the Russo-Polish situation and a possible boycott on all commerce with Hungary will be formulated.

Reluctance of trade unionists to support Irish workmen in their refusal to handle munitions is shown in the fact that James Henry Thomas, M.P. for Derby, and general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen has advised the Dublin strikers to resume work pending the congress which is to be called to consider the question.

Addressed Congress.
Irish delegates have arrived in England in connection with this matter, and have been permitted to address the Transport Workers' Congress at Southampton. Thomas Farrer, president of the Irish Trade Union Congress, one of the delegates, said that if the British labor leaders delayed the blockade of munitions much longer there would be no need for an action.

Mr. Johnson declared that if an attempt were made to run complete trains in Ireland, the trains would be derailed, and then "there would be war," he said. "That would mean," added Mr. Johnson, "that dur-

Sinn Fein Elected.
Belfast, June 4.—Via London, June 5.—The followers of Sir Edward Carson have been defeated in county and district council elections in their own strongholds in choosing boards of guardians. In addition to the Sinn Feiners winning County Tyrone for the first time and maintaining their hold on County Fermanagh, Michael Carrollian, who was unseated by the Belfast Council following his sentence at hard labor for an alleged seditious speech, today headed the poll in the Shankhill division of Belfast, which previously had been a stronghold of Orangemen. Still another Sinn Feiner headed the polls in the Falls division, Belfast, the stronghold of Joseph Devlin, and another Sinn Feiner was elected in Lisburne.

Sinn Fein "Courts."
London, June 5.—The Sinn Fein's peaceful capture of administrative institutions in Ireland is gradually forcing itself on public attention, according to a dispatch to The London Times from Dublin, which says that a record just published claims the Sinn Feiners have assumed police and judicial functions in fifty-seven cases since April 15. Lawyers in Ireland are reported as declaring their practices are dwindling, as the people are submitting their cases to the Sinn Fein courts and binding themselves to abide by the results.

PASS RESOLUTIONS

Officers Elected at Annual Provincial Convention in Fernie

Fernie, B. C., June 5.—Comrade T. W. Harnett, Vancouver, acting president, was unanimously elected president of the British Columbia branch of the Great War Veterans' Association at yesterday afternoon's session of the annual convention here. T. Barnard, of New Westminster, was elected first vice-president, and Colonel Lenox, of Vancouver, second vice-president, also unanimously.

Important resolutions dealing with pensions were adopted, the first strongly endorsing the point taken by the Dominion convention on the question of pensions for widows and dependent mothers, dependents and disabled comrades, specifying that the first consideration was proper regard for the widows, orphans and disabled comrades. It was urged that the pension commission be empowered to alleviate the great amount of distress prevailing in this connection, and an appeal for the fairest equitable federal legislation will be made to Dominion members from this Province.

Another resolution urged that all patients of lower than commissioned rank should be paid at the rate of the total disability pension, and that allowances to dependents be increased.

Public Offices.
The convention expressed itself strongly in favor of returned citizens being given first claim on all public offices, vacant or about to be vacant, if properly qualified. It was unanimously decided to request all Governments to adhere to their avowed pledges, and in case of failure, that united action should be taken to oppose those responsible.

The convention decided that the system of re-establishment based on the bonus system was the fairest, and it was urged that the Pensions and Re-Establishment Committee introduce recommendations admitting this principle and providing for a royal commission to hear competing solutions to the entire question.

Natural Resources.
A request will be made to the Provincial Government to develop the natural resources of the Province, to which the Association pledged its support.

It was further resolved that if a man were admitted to the S. I. B. for six months' treatment, he be issued a complete outfit of clothing free of charge, this to be applicable to in-and-out patients on full pay and allowance. It was urged that all cases of overcoats be free instead of on the repayment system.

President's Report.
At the beginning of the convention Acting President Harnett, who stepped into office following the resignation of C. W. Whitaker as executive six weeks ago, reported in part as follows:

"I wish to take this opportunity to draw your attention to the unselfish and self-sacrificing work that has been done by your executive and to the loyalty and devotion to your interests with which they have at all times endeavored to deal with the affairs coming before them. I wish further to commend especially to you the work of the secretary-treasurer, Comrade Drinnan.

NOURISHING FOOD AND GOOD HOURS

Help You to Resist Disease—Aid These With a Tonic to Keep the Blood Pure.

The power of your body to resist disease and to fight it after disease, a foothold, is one of the most precious possessions you have. You weaken this power when you let your general health run down, your blood gets thin and your nerves unsteady. You weaken it when you worry, when you over-work, when you do not get sufficient sleep, and when you are under-nourished, either because you do not eat the right kind of food, or because your digestion is out of order.

You preserve your power to resist disease when you keep good hours and eat proper food at regular intervals. You further increase and strengthen resistance to disease when you build up your blood and nerves by the occasional use of a tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. The value of these pills as a health builder is fully shown by the experience of Mrs. E. C. Taylor, Hanover, Ont., who says: "At various times since I was a girl of fifteen I have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. At that age I was in a much run down condition, suffering from many of the well known symptoms of anemia. My mother procured a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking about a half dozen boxes I was restored to normal health. Again after my marriage, and before my boy was born, I felt miserable and again took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which once more met all my expectations and fully restored my health. My latest experience with these pills was following an attack of pleurisy, which left me completely broken in health. Part of the time I was under the care of two doctors, and for three months I was practically between life and death. Again at my mother's suggestion I started the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had not been taking them long before I could tell that they were helping me. Day by day I could feel my strength returning, and was soon enjoying good health once more. In view of my experience I think I can safely say there is nothing in the way of medicine better than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50. Free The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

He has been and is at all times ready and willing to give his best in the interests of returned soldiers. To those who are not acquainted with his multifarious duties and the incessant calls made on his time, it may appear that matters asked to be taken up are not dealt with just as expeditiously as might be wished, but if there are any such, I earnestly ask them to use forbearance and not adversely criticize without knowledge. I ask the same forbearance toward your executive's handling of matters of importance. It is easy to sit outside and criticize, but I assure you that earnest consideration is given every question. I ask for loyalty to your executives.

Widows and Orphans.

"The widow and orphan are still our first care, and in this we have done at least a small part in obtaining increases in pensions, and I look forward with confidence to still greater achievements this year provided all returned soldiers stick together as a unit. As to re-establishment, it seems to me that this year will see a most strenuous fight, as the Government evidently is making up its mind that re-establishment is almost complete and that there is to be no further aid to the soldiers as such. This is evidenced by the closing up of offices and the general attitude of Parliament towards the soldiers' requests for further re-establishment.

Team Work.

"I do not think that in this connection I can emphasize too much the need for team work. The slightest sign of cleavage or quarrelling is at once seized upon by our opponents and made the most of. Only by a firmly united front can we hope to bring about the success of our legitimate demands, and I feel that here in British Columbia this vital matter has only to be brought to your notice and through you to the notice of the comrades in the branches, to result in such strong unity that our efforts must and will succeed."

Progress.

The report of Secretary-Treasurer Drinnan covered in detail questions arising during the past year. Dealing with organization, the report stated in part: "There were forty-eight branches in good standing at the time of our last convention; to-day there are ninety-three, with six branches in process of formation. The fully paid-up membership last quarter was something over the 11,000 mark. A careful and conservative estimate of the members now on our books would be well over 20,000. Every section of the Province has been penetrated, and wherever a sufficient number of returned men are located, a branch is immediately founded."

TREATY IS HARD, HUNGARIANS SAY

Member of Hungarian Delegation Says They Hope For Revision

Paris, June 5.—"We have signed the hardest of all the treaties," said a member of the Hungarian delegation to a representative of the Associated Press after the signing of the Hungarian treaty at Versailles yesterday afternoon. "We have done so in hope and confidence of its revision. The amputation of two-thirds of our territory, with all our mining, timber, and most of our manufacturing interests, will create such economic difficulties that they can be solved only by revision. "We want to live in peace and harmony with our neighbors, and eventually it may be possible to reach an economic accord with Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia. But that does not all depend upon us. We cannot forget that a great number of our nationals are detached from us by this treaty and are not protected by the clauses guaranteeing the rights of minorities. The manner in which they are treated will have an important bearing upon the future of Central Europe."

FRANCE HAS CLAIMS ON RUSSIAN GOLD

Stockholm, June 4.—Via London, June 5.—France has officially taken cognizance of the shipment of Russian gold valued at about $5,000,000 brought here recently by the Swedish steamship Gauthier, which had previously carried a cargo of automobiles and harvesters to Revel for the Russian co-operative societies. The French Minister here has given notice of his Government's reservations with regard to such shipments on behalf of the holders of prior claims on Russia.

PROGRESS MADE ON TAX PROPOSALS

Luxury Tax Resolution Still to Be Passed by Ottawa Commons

Ottawa, June 5.—Three of the four budget resolutions passed through the House yesterday with comparative ease. They were the resolutions relating to: (a) Business profits tax. (b) Income tax. (c) Tariff changes, viz: Placing appliances for the blind and certain books on the free list and repealing the extra 7 1/2 per cent war duty where still imposed. But the main resolution remains. This is the resolution imposing the new luxury taxes, increasing the excise tax on automobiles, increasing the beer, wine and spirits taxes, and levying a sale tax of one per cent. Here, it is expected, discussion will be protracted, with the probability of a number of Government amendments. Returns. The criticism yesterday turned chiefly on administration. It was brought out that men who had failed to make income tax returns for 1917 and 1918 who came forward now and admitted their error would not be penalized, but the man who had not made his 1919 return would be subjected to the penalty. Mr. Euler, of North Waterloo, asked if this was fair. The Minister of Finance took the view that there was no excuse for a taxpayer failing to make a return for 1919. Advertisements had been published broadcast; posters had been circulated by the hundred thousand. Moreover, as a result of written inquiries, collection had been increased by 100 per cent. Fines imposed totalled $33,000. Complicated. Another point raised by Hon. T. W. Crothers complained that the taxation statutes were so complicated that the average man could not understand them. "After studying the statutes for half a day I am no wiser," he said, urging that the statutes should be consolidated. Sir Henry Drayton admitted that the statutes were somewhat complicated, and necessarily so. But every effort would be made to make their provisions easily understood by the taxpayers. Some of the Quebec members urged that the Hydro-Electric Company of Ontario should be subjected to a business profits tax, as were the private electric power companies of Quebec, but Sir Henry did not agree. Private companies, he argued, were taxed merely on their excess profits. The Ontario Hydro-Electric was not operated for profit, and therefore had no excess profits to tax. Estimates. During the remainder of the sitting the House discussed the duties of the Civil Service Commission and the estimates of the Public Works Department, disposing also of considerable routine business. While in supply there was the usual sheaf of plans for public buildings in constituencies. Practically all the public works estimates were passed. The House adjourned at 11:30 p. m.

MANY men carry insurance that does not amount to more than a year's salary; they seem to think that there is magic in insurance funds so that 2 plus 2 will have the value of 6 or 8.

The insurance we leave our families is made of the same kind of money that we are now earning. A dollar of insurance money will not go any farther than a dollar from our pay envelopes.

Fortunate would it be for the widows of Canada if 2+2 could be made to equal 6, but there is no arithmetic that will give two dollars the purchasing power of three, and this leads to the point—

Is your insurance sufficient or as near to being sufficient as you can make it? Remember that 2 plus 2 will equal 4 after you are gone just the same as it does to-day.

HIGHER PAY FOR RAILWAYMEN IN UNITED KINGDOM

London, June 5.—The National Wage Board has issued a report granting the railwaymen further increases in wages ranging from two to seven shillings a week, according to their grade, in addition to the increases already granted under the sliding scale. The demands of the men for special pay for holidays and similar demands were refused. A strike of railway workers was considered improbable according to a dispatch from London on April 13, following the granting of a small increase in pay for the men by the sliding scale but this report by the Central Wage Board, retroactive to November 1. It was stated at the time that the Board would consider shortly the demands of the National Union of Railway Workers for an increase of £1 weekly for certain of the railway workers.

TAXES CONDEMNED BY CREDIT MEN

Winnipeg, June 5.—Sweeping condemnation of the methods adopted by the Government in the new budget to obtain increased revenue was expressed at a meeting of the Winnipeg branch of the Canadian Credit-men's Association, held Thursday. It has become known. While recognizing that the Government had to be adequately financed, the creditmen declared that the luxury and excise taxes would produce such serious dislocation of business that the original aim of the Government for the collecting of more revenue would be defeated.

Mrs. NAGEL WAS DOUBTFUL

Mrs. Nagel says she was one of the people who would not have canned milk in the house. They took a boat trip up the Coast last Summer and she had to use Pacific Milk or go without milk entirely. She baked hot cakes one morning on the galley stove. They turned out so well that she decided the milk must have had something to do with it. She tried other things and they were all good. That converted her.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Owing to the uncertainty of the application of the New Luxury Tax we have delayed formulating any policy with regard to same. It has now been decided definitely that the seller must not absorb the Tax. It is the duty of the merchant to obey this ruling and collect from the purchaser at time of sale.

After considering the matter carefully we cannot see that there is any advantage in confusing the customer with discounts, therefore we will mark our goods as closely as possible and collect the Tax, as instructed by the Government.

We are pleased to state the Tax does not affect a large proportion of our merchandise.

Vancouver, June 5.—Although urging strict economy, local representatives of gasoline producers do not anticipate any great shortage of motor fuel in Vancouver in the near future. HUNGARY'S FATE.

The restoration of racial unities as applied to Hungary in the peace treaty signed at Versailles yesterday bears heavily upon the country whose ruling classes had much to do with the promotion of the world war plot. Compelled to yield to Czechoslovakia the part of her which was Slovakian, to Roumania the part of Transylvania which was Roumanian, and to Jugo-Slavia the large southern districts peopled by the Balkan Slavs, the greater part of what was once the kingdom of Hungary no longer exists except as portions of the new states which have arisen from the ruins of the Hapsburg Empire.

Just what loss this represents in population we are unable to say at this moment, but it is known that the detachment of Slovenskia carries away three million, the reconstruction of the new Jugo-Slavia probably will take nearly three million more and there were about 3,000,000 Roumanians in Hungary most of whom lived in Transylvania which now goes to Roumania. With this big loss of territory also goes a tremendous economic loss in the large natural resources in which the amputated districts abounded.

This is the tragic end of the proud Magyar dream of domination in southern Europe. Hungary, instead of being mistress of the Balkans, has shrunk to a mere fragment. Her geographical and ethnological conditions were of such a character that she was bound to risk more than any other European nation in a great conflict. That she had statesmen stupid enough to take that risk is one of the phenomena of the last five years.

DERELICTS OF THE C. E. F.

In a recent issue of The Canadian Gazette—a journal devoted to the affairs of this country and published in London, England—a well-known British Columbia journalist paints a graphic picture of the plight in which many former members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force who took their discharge on the other side of the Atlantic find themselves to-day. There is little need to quote further than the following paragraph to convey the impression created in the mind of a British Columbian who has taken the trouble to examine the question on the spot.

"Of all the after-war conditions to which the Canadian visitor to England has difficulty in becoming reconciled, none is more depressing than the many derelicts of the Canadian army left in this country."

It is pointed out, of course, that the Canadian military authorities made it perfectly clear to every Canadian soldier—irrespective of his nativity—that he would be required to take his discharge in Canada if he expected the Government of this country to accept the responsibility for his rehabilitation in cases where he might be unable to help himself. Stipulations similarly were imposed upon those who wished to remain in the Old Country, and in practically every case the applicant for discharge took his course with eyes wide open.

While it must be admitted, therefore, that the capital error was committed by the soldier himself, no Canadian will willingly subscribe to the cold shoulder principle adopted by the Dominion Government towards these unfortunates, who, whatever misguided instinct induced some of them to take the course which has turned out such a failure, fought the good fight and were acclaimed as Canada's heroes. Thus, the cause took them across the water; the country's debt to them is unpaid as long as needless suffering and discomfort are imposed upon them.

SALMON PROPAGATION.

At a time when the salmon fishing industry in British Columbia is nearing extinction every expression of opinion calculated to assist in finding a remedy is welcome. In season and out of season the Provincial Commissioner has been a staunch advocate of more drastic control and shorter fishing seasons until the annual run had recovered from the unproportionate drain made upon it from year to year. Recognition of the principle is found in the treaty recently signed by the Governments of Canada and the United States, although Mr. Sloan himself is somewhat apprehensive lest the draft regulations still should be inadequate to meet the urgency of the case. On that account particular interest attaches to the propagation methods in vogue in the State of Oregon, whose master fish warden enlightened the Vancouver gathering yesterday with an exposition of a plan which had been attended by excellent results in the waters across the border.

In brief the Oregon plan includes a nursing period for the uncounted millions of young hatched until they are able to take more care of themselves, as against a policy of turning them loose in their tender infancy. To the uninitiated the proposal appears to be an essentially natural one, while the Oregon official informed the Conference that the runs had been increased because this particular propagation method insured a greater percentage of the young salmon returning to their native waters than the course followed in this Province, Alaska and Washington. In view of the urgency of the situation, therefore, it may be supposed that Mr. Sloan—whose prime concern is for the preservation of British Columbia's salmon run—will take note of the suggestion and recommend such new measures as may seem practicable.

SINN FEINISM IN ULSTER.

It must be something of a shock to those who fancied that Sinn Feinism was a noxious weed which could not thrive in those districts of Ulster where the influence of Sir Edward Carson and his followers was believed to be dominant, to learn that Sinn Fein candidates have been winning district and county elections in those very strong holds of Orange sentiment. One man who was unseated in the Belfast Council after being sent to prison for making a seditious speech yesterday headed the poll in the Spankhill district of Belfast, one of the centres of Ulster Orangism. A Sinn Feiner also led, the race in another division of Belfast, while still another was elected in Lisburne.

From these elections it is quite evident that the term Sinn Fein is beginning to denote more than the historic Irish irreconcilables popularly associated with the south and west, since it obviously includes many who originally had no sympathy with Sinn Fein aspirations and who now support the movement out of sheer dissatisfaction with the way in which the problem has been handled from London. At this range it looks as if the Irish question has actually become something very much bigger than the suppression of the official Sinn Fein.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Some German wit advances the novel suggestion that the marble statues of William Hohenzollern's forefathers in the Siegesallee—the famous avenue of Victory in the Tiergarten—be shipped freight paid to William's residence in Holland. But Queen Wilhelmina's Government may consider the Netherlands already to be too well off with two living members of the species in its midst.

In a speech at Vancouver yesterday the Leader of the Opposition in the local Legislature held forth the hope that the Conservatives and returned soldiers of this Province would combine forces against the Oliver Government at the coming general election. A British parliamentarian recently back in England after a tour of the American continent gave, as his definition of an optimist the following: "Anyone walking about the United States with a corkscrew." Mr. Bowser has the alcoholic hopeful faded when it comes to a mental picture of the future.

During the discussion on the Irish Home Rule bill an eminent student of political affairs was tackled in the corridors of the House of Commons and asked by one of the lesser parliamentarians what would be the effect of the measure upon the future of Erin's Isle. The student of ripe age and experience pondered a second, stroked his chin, and replied: "Whatever effect the bill may have upon the future of that unhappy land; I assure you, my dear sir, it will have no bearing whatever upon the Irish question." Exactly; the day has yet to dawn on which the Irish malcontent will be able to tell Westminster the precise remedy for a permanent cure for Ireland's condition.

Apprehension is being manifested in some quarters lest the Oliver administration should make its appeal to the electorate contemporaneously with the submission of the prohibition referendum. Advice against such a course has been given in numerous letters to the press and not a few platform speakers have discouraged a joint issue and the consequent danger of two widely divergent subjects becoming too involved to permit of a reliable expression of opinion on either. Our opinion is that the people of this Province need not anticipate a twin ballot paper this year with the dangerous mixture of politics and alcohol.

OTHER NEWSPAPERS' VIEWS

HOW DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?

(The Toronto Star)

One of the leading doctors of Toronto advocates a rather novel idea. Knowing as he does that there is a great deal of opposition to compulsory military service or training in Canada, he offers an alternative proposal. "Why not have," he says, "a system of compulsory service on the farm for every Canadian boy between the ages of sixteen and eighteen?" The suggestion is that this service should be required of all the sons of rich and poor in city and country. It looks impracticable at first glance, but the doctor who advocates it backs up the proposal with both professional and patriotic arguments. If all boys between the ages of sixteen and eighteen were to spend a few months of those two years on the farm their health would benefit by it to an extent that can hardly be estimated. Agriculture, as our greatest national industry, would be strengthened by the annual arrival of an army of recruits—the youth of the country would assist in the field. The educational effect would be that in time every male citizen would be familiar with at least the rudiments of farming—he would know where the food comes from, and where, how and by whom it is produced. As a national or provincial policy this proposal for compulsory farm service has its attractive points, but as a people Canadians are pretty strongly averse to any form of compulsion—that is, any form of it to which their consent is asked. The fact is that they, like all other people, submit to the compulsions of necessity on every hand, these being set in motion by all sorts of indirect influences.

A HOMESICK "RED."

(The New York Times)

Admirers of Bolshevism and Bolsheviki must be shocked by the lack of enthusiasm for either shown by Emma Goldman in a letter sent to an American friend. She went to Russia against her will, indeed, but certainly without any prepossessions or prejudices against the economic and governmental systems she found in operation there. At any rate, before her accelerated, or assisted, departure she had often expressed warm admiration for the innovations of her friends, Lenin and Trotsky, and even the severest of her critics never had accused her of insincerity. Yet it is evident from her letter that she is not happy in Russia; that she has not received the welcome she hoped, and that the United States, viewed from a distance, has acquired in her eyes charms which she had not noticed while she was here. Especially notable is the fact that this very Red person has formed no new friendships abroad to make her seem to lament communion with the friends left behind. She seems actually to be lonesome and homesick.

MAYOR IS ASSURED DRY DOCK WILL BE BUILT AS PLANNED

Information Received, He Says, Does Away With All Doubts

Mayor Porter made it known this morning that information received from a confidential source had convinced him that there was now no further reason to doubt that work on the Esquimalt drydock would proceed as previously planned.

"Personally, I have not been pessimistic with regard to the drydock at all on account of the assurances given me when I was in Ottawa last year," the Mayor remarked. "I must admit, however, that recent reports on the matter have been rather disquieting. Moreover, Dr. Tolmie's recent wire to me, stating that the heavy expense involved in the establishment of the dock, was causing the Government to consider the question seriously, was not very reassuring."

"However, during the last twenty-four hours information, the source of which I cannot reveal, has reached me and I now have no hesitation whatever in saying that there is nothing to worry about with regard to the dock. While I cannot reveal the source of my information I may say that it is, in my opinion, absolutely reliable and certainly has relieved me a great deal."

"As I understand the matter, the soaring cost of materials has raised the price of the dock very materially. The Government's delay in the matter has been its desire to get the dock constructed at a cheaper figure than so far has been found possible."

CHALLENGES LEGAL RIGHT OF TRUSTEE TO SIT ON BOARD

As Wife of Teacher, Mrs. Andrews's Position Is Questioned

The legal right of Trustee Mrs. Bertha P. Andrews to sit on the School Board in view of the fact that she is a member of the High School teaching staff, was challenged by Trustee Capt. A. M. Aitken during Trustees' private meeting Wednesday night. It was learned to-day from members of the Board.

Immediately after the Board went into secret session to appoint a principal for the new affiliated college at the High School, Trustee Aitken asked Mrs. Andrews why she had not attended two of the most important of the Board's meetings during the year—the sessions during which the question of teachers' salaries and the expenditure of large sums of money were under consideration.

Mrs. Andrews replied that she had a right to absent herself from any meeting she desired. Capt. Aitken could not agree with this, and declared that by absenting herself from these two meetings, she was failing in her duty to the teachers and to the ratepayers. Capt. Aitken then challenged Mrs. Andrews's legal right to sit at the Board, having in mind the fact that the Board as a teacher, Mrs. Andrews was under consideration with those of other teachers. Her absence from those important meetings, he felt, showed that she was directly interested in the business transacted at the meetings. If the question of the legality of her sitting at the Board were tested in the courts, he said, and the judgment prevented her from sitting longer, then the whole

Disastrous Results. With the knowledge that fishing was being ruined, Canada had in 1905 approached the Washington State Government with a proposal for a restrictive treaty. A joint committee was appointed and that committee, five from Canada and five from the State of Washington, had recommended that all fishing in 1906 and 1908 be prohibited. In Canada an Order-in-Council was passed prohibiting fishing in those years, but as the State Legislature of Washington turned down the proposal it was withdrawn and fishing took place in those years with disastrous results.

Ready to Co-operate. "Canada stands to-day, as she has always stood since the beginning, ready to adopt any measure which promises to restore the runs of sockeye to the Fraser River system, which includes Puget Sound," said Mr. Babeuk in conclusion. "Neither Canada nor the United States can singly provide measures that will ensure the restoration of fishing."

Enemies of Fish. Vancouver, June 5.—The enemies of the fish of the North Pacific Ocean were named and their evils recounted by Dr. C. M. Fraser, Professor of Biology in the University of British Columbia, to the convention here of the Canadian Fisheries Association last night. "The gravamen of Dr. Fraser's remarks was to the effect that in the absence of man natural agencies maintained the natural balance of species, but that the advent of the fishermen overthrew this balance and placed other living creatures in high relief as destroyers of fish."

In discussing the enemies of fish Dr. Fraser pointed out that the subject could only be approached with the understanding that some might be condemned promiscuously without sufficient information on their part in maintaining the faunal equilibrium.

Killer Whales. "There is little to be said in favor of the killer whales," he said. "They are the wolves of the seas and very destructive. They have an abundance of lean flesh and, since they seem to be increasing in numbers, possibly some day we may try them for food."

Sea Lions. Discussion of the sea lion, he said, brought up a matter of controversy, but there was no doubt that it was not a vegetarian, although there was proof to show that it was not altogether epicurean and that it consumed sea food that was unfit for the market, including shell fish, devil fish and others. One thing was positive—that when the sea lions appeared in Bute Inlet the destructive dogfish left. Hair seals and dogfish were heavy eaters of good fish.

Ducks. The ducks were the worst of the birds, Dr. Fraser said, while the beautiful Dolly Varden trout was a cannibal that feasted on eggs and fry and destroyed more fish in that manner than the coarser fish that usually received the blame.

SOLDIERS IN IRELAND RETURN RAIDERS' FIRE

Forty-Eight Murders. Mr. Lloyds George declared there had been forty-eight murders of policemen and 120 attempted murders in Ireland within a short time. The police, he asserted, were shot down like vermin. The Prime Minister continued: "They were shot down in the street while carrying out the elementary duty of any force of this kingdom—the preservation of order. We send a box of revolvers across to these men to defend their lives and the trade union comes and says: 'If you do this we will stop the whole traffic of Ireland if necessary.'"

"We can not possibly accept any decree issued by any body, however powerful that body may be, which denies to the Government the facilities which it regards as essential for carrying out the functions for which it has been chosen."

Valera Busy. Chicago, June 5.—Eamonn de la Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," arrived in Chicago yesterday from New York, and announced he would attempt to obtain a plank in the Republican platform in favor of the recognition by the United States of the "Irish Republic."

"I hope to see this plank introduced into the platform of both parties," he said.

VICTORIA MAN SELLS INTEREST IN STEWART CLAIMS

The well-known mining operator, Grant Mahood, who was recently a visitor in Victoria, has purchased a half interest in the Daly and Sullivan group in the Stewart Camp from James Macdonald, contractor of this city, and also in the Devil's Punch Bowl group. Both properties are located on the Salmon River.

The Daly group embraces four claims, and is considered of a promising kind. It is crown granted.

The Canadian Fisheries Association last night. "The gravamen of Dr. Fraser's remarks was to the effect that in the absence of man natural agencies maintained the natural balance of species, but that the advent of the fishermen overthrew this balance and placed other living creatures in high relief as destroyers of fish."

In discussing the enemies of fish Dr. Fraser pointed out that the subject could only be approached with the understanding that some might be condemned promiscuously without sufficient information on their part in maintaining the faunal equilibrium.

Killer Whales. "There is little to be said in favor of the killer whales," he said. "They are the wolves of the seas and very destructive. They have an abundance of lean flesh and, since they seem to be increasing in numbers, possibly some day we may try them for food."

Sea Lions. Discussion of the sea lion, he said, brought up a matter of controversy, but there was no doubt that it was not a vegetarian, although there was proof to show that it was not altogether epicurean and that it consumed sea food that was unfit for the market, including shell fish, devil fish and others. One thing was positive—that when the sea lions appeared in Bute Inlet the destructive dogfish left. Hair seals and dogfish were heavy eaters of good fish.

Ducks. The ducks were the worst of the birds, Dr. Fraser said, while the beautiful Dolly Varden trout was a cannibal that feasted on eggs and fry and destroyed more fish in that manner than the coarser fish that usually received the blame.

Forty-Eight Murders. Mr. Lloyds George declared there had been forty-eight murders of policemen and 120 attempted murders in Ireland within a short time. The police, he asserted, were shot down like vermin. The Prime Minister continued: "They were shot down in the street while carrying out the elementary duty of any force of this kingdom—

THREE STORES MAY UNITE FOR PICNIC

Spencer's Ltd. Plan Great Picnic at Ganges Harbor

A message from Vancouver states that David Spencer, Ltd., has fixed on Wednesday, August 11, as the date of a picnic at Ganges Harbor. If the present plans are successfully carried out the outing will be the biggest undertaken by any private firm in the West. This year it is probable that Victoria and Nanaimo departmental stores will join with Vancouver for a monster festive gathering. Preliminary arrangements have already been made for the chartering of a C.P.R. coast vessel to carry the picnickers from Vancouver to Ganges, while later on steps will probably be taken to secure specially chartered boats to bring over Victoria and Nanaimo employees of the firm.

David Spencer, Ltd., employs about one thousand persons, but probably two thousand will be concentrated at Ganges Harbor on Wednesday, August 11.

WHAT JAPANESE
RED CROSS SOCIETY HAS ACCOMPLISHED

The Japan Red Cross Society was first established at the time of the Kagoshima civil war in 1877 under the name of the Hakui-sha, for the relief of the soldiers on both the enemy and Imperialist sides. After the conclusion of the war, it was made a permanent institution, and the title was changed to the Japan Red Cross Society (Nippon Seki-jūji-sha) in 1887 when it became a member of the Red Cross Unit under the gracious patronage of T. I. M., the Emperor and Empress. The society became a corporate juridical person in 1901, and its 25th anniversary commemoration was honored by the presence of T. I. M., the Emperor and Empress. With the revision of its constitution, effected in 1910, the society became more closely related to both Army and Navy.

To Serve Humanity
Humanity being the cause of the society endeavors to serve, in their relief of the suffering it makes no distinction in the field between Japanese soldiers and the enemy. Besides the field work, it carries on a charity hospital for the treatment of poor sufferers in a natural calamity. The society is substantially aided by the Imperial House, and the Empress honors the society with her presence on the occasion of its annual meeting.

There are three kinds of members: the honorary members, the special members who are recommended at the Jogi-kai (are general) and the general members who are to pay a fixed sum of money. All members are given badges of membership, and those who render distinguished services to the society are rewarded with badges of merit.

The membership has increased greatly of late, amounting in 1916 to 1,758,051. The Jogi-kai consists of thirty members.

Its Organization
The president is a prince of the Blood, and under him there are ten officers, including one director and two vice-directors. The headquarters are in Tokyo, and there is a branch in each province, with the local governor as chief. Under the control of these branches there are committees and sub-committees with mayors, divisional chiefs of urban districts, and town or village headmen as heads respectively. The director and the vice-directors are appointed by the Emperor on the recommendation of the Army and Navy Ministers, and the assistants receive the same treatment as soldiers. The society provides relief parties of nurses and medical orderlies, two hospital vessels, and one hospital train. In its service are 6,000 assistants, of whom nurses and medical orderlies are those trained by the society.

During the Sino-Japanese War, the Boxer trouble, and the Russo-Japanese War, the society was kept especially active. Relief was given during these wars to 1,225,000 persons, and the expense required was 6,000,000 yen. In the Tsinetao campaign, the number of the wounded relieved was no less than 3,200. For the services thus rendered many have received decorations or money. In the recent European War, the society has been rendering its services, despatching parties of nurses and physicians to England, France, and Russia, or donating supplies to hospitals of the Allies.

The society rendered good service in the relief work at the time of the occurrence of such calamities as the eruption of Mt. Bandai, the sinking of the Turkish warship in 1890, the earthquakes in Central Japan, or in the tidal waves of the O-U district, and many floods or conflagrations, and these cases together with others amounted to $65 at the end of 1916. At the time of the destructive earthquakes at San Francisco and in Italy, it collected contributions, and it also sent assistants to China at the time of her revolutionary war.

To Check Tuberculosis
The society is also devoted to the work of preventing tuberculosis and stamping it out. The means adopted are the distribution of pamphlets conducting hospitals, and, sometimes, going round for the examination of patients.

The Society of Volunteer Nurses, which belongs to the Red Cross Society, was organized in 1883. It tries to diffuse the principles of the mother society, practicing or helping in nursing. The members of this society consist of the Imperial princesses and the volunteers among the female members of the mother society. During the last four wars, it performed distinguished service, visiting the wounded in the Army and Navy hospitals and giving presents to the soldiers.—"The Tourist," Tokyo

GREE ENTERTAINER PLEASES AUDIENCE

Local Talent Aids Clever Elocutionist in Varied Programme
It would be hard to find an audience which applauded more sincerely than that which greeted Frances Nickawa, the talented Cree entertainer who delighted a large audience in the Metropolitan Church last night with a programme, including elocutionary selections grave and gay. Miss Nickawa comes from Vancouver, but the wish was expressed by many admirers last night that Victoria audiences would have more frequent opportunities of hearing her.
Miss Nickawa was capably supported by local talent. Mr. Edward Parsons at the organ, Mrs. Haary Lazenby, Miss Mary Middleton and Miss Nora Atkinson were the artists who contributed to the musical part of the programme. Each number was well received, and the programme presented an attractive variety which added much to the enjoyment of the evening.
George Bell, M.P.P., introduced Miss Nickawa to the audience, in which many were to hear her for the first time. Mr. Parsons opened the programme with an organ solo, and again delighted the audience in the second half of the programme.
Miss Nickawa proved that she had an extensive repertoire, and her readings were given with an assurance, clarity of diction and temperament which ranks her high in the elocutionary art. If the famous scene from "Hiawatha" was her greatest effort, she was more than excellent in her presentation of "As Red Men Die," a tale of the stoicism of the Red Man, written with all the eloquence that the late Pauline Johnson, British Columbia's renowned Indian poetess, had at her command. In "Rescued" Miss Nickawa showed her dramatic ability as she told the tale of a near tragedy.
But if Miss Nickawa excels as an exponent of romance and tragedy, she is surprisingly clever in purely humorous selections. And this she showed to advantage last night in "The Party," told in negro dialect in a way which convulsed her audience. Altogether the Cree elocutionist proved her claim to be an entertainer of exceptional merit.
Honors must also be accorded to Mrs. Harry Lazenby and Miss Mary Middleton, both of whom sang charmingly, and to Miss Nora Atkinson, a young violinist of promise.
The concert was given under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

AN OLD WORLD ART

MRS. T. ANDERSON
Among those who are much interested in the revival of home weaving and spinning is Mrs. Anderson, of this city, a native of Iceland, who has spun all her life. Since the arrival in Victoria of a number of spinning wheels with which members of the Provincial Arts and Industrial Institute are embarking in an effort to stimulate hand spinning, Mrs. Anderson has shown her wonderful Icelandic spinning wheel over 100 years old to several interested visitors. It is a much smaller machine than those sent for from Quebec for the boys, spun the long, fine wool sheared from the sheep on the father's farm. They made beautifully soft warm, socks, gloves and jerseys.
When Mrs. Anderson first came to Canada she lived in Winnipeg and for twenty-five years her spinning wheel, which she brought with her was laid away. It is now once again a source of pleasant and industrious occupation for this lady who is so well versed in the art.

GOAT BREEDERS HOLD SECOND SHOW

Saanen, Nubian and Toggenburg Varieties on Exhibition To-day

The opening of the second annual show of the Victoria District members of the B. C. Goat Breeders' Association took place to-day in the vacant lot at the rear of the City Hall. Some fifteen classes were well represented, and full list of by-products was shown.

W. H. Cottrell, President, Vancouver, acted as judge, and declared himself pleased with the general excellence of the exhibits in the various classes. A distinct improvement was noted in the young stock, the kids being very much superior to the older goats. This is accounted for by the secretary, George Palmer, by the fact that pure bred stock was introduced in the last two years. The Association is a staunch advocate of pure bred stock in entirety, but owing to the prohibitive cost of pure bred goats at present and the scarcity of goat breeding, it is almost impossible to obtain all pure breeds.

W. J. Duval, vice-president, and W. Moore, Victoria director, acted on the committee in making the arrangements and assisting with the judging. Nubian, Saanen and Grade Toggenburg goats were exhibited, the first from the Anglo-Indian stock and a favorite in Asia, but the latter was not shown. Mr. Palmer states that the three breeds are taking exceptionally well to the local conditions, and that nowhere else in the country are conditions better for goat breeding. The animals here are attaining a weight and general excellence of development that is unusually promising, while the milk production is well sustained, with the weight and quality of the animal.

By-Products.
An exhibit of by-products showed milk, butter, cheese and ice cream all made from goats' milk, while the exhibits of dressed hides and skins was unusually attractive. There was a large entry in most classes of kids, and the animals were in excellent condition.

Judging.
The results of the judging are as follows:
Kids, Saanen—1 and 2, A. Crowe. Yearlings, Saanen—W. J. Duval, F. H. Jeeves and W. B. Cayzer. Mature Saanen—Miss Gibbs, and H. C. Foster. Yearlings, Toggenburg—Miss Payne. FEWER UNEMPLOYED SEEK ENGAGEMENTS

Reports on Bureaux of Province Show Better Labor Conditions

The returns now to hand from the Department of Labor of the Provincial Government show that the month of May was an active period in the employment bureau of the Province. The figures covering the period of four weeks ended May 29 reveal a slight falling off as compared with the four complete weeks in April, but the excess figures for the former month are probably accounted for by the fact that in April many seasonal trades were taking on crews for the Summer, while many men who had been unwilling to move out of the cities during the winter months were now looking for the better-paid employment out country. The month of May has witnessed a very large number of strikes, affecting industry in almost every part of the Province, and these have in some measure interfered with the work of the employment bureaux.

Summary of Records.

The following is a brief summary of the records of the various bureaux from May 1 to 29:

Applicants	Vacancies	Placements
Dunsmuir St.	937	691
Powell St.	2960	2037
W. Women	490	426
Victoria	701	322
Victoria (women)	155	109
New Westminster	193	169
Nanaimo	63	48
Prince Rupert	184	312
Kimberly	280	266
Vernon	181	305
Kelowna	19	25
Grand Forks	47	47
Nelson	236	305
Cranbrook	131	238
Ferrie	59	151
Total	6745	6545

For the four weeks in April the corresponding totals were: Applicants, 8,255; vacancies, 6,689; placements, 4,456. Thus the principal falling-off for May was in the number of applicants for work, which was 1,610 fewer than in the previous month. Naturally this entailed a falling-off in the number of placements, which were 708 fewer, though the vacancies reported showed a decrease of only 134.

As showing the demand for labor in the Province, an unusual feature in the latest return, dated May 29, is the fact that the vacancies unfilled, which the bureaux had upon their books at that date, exceeded the number of unplaced applicants by over 300, the former totalling 1,704 and the latter 1,403. This is in decided contrast with the return for May 1, which gave a total of 1,678 applicants unplaced and only 1,121 vacancies unfilled. Following are the figures presented by the different bureaux on May 31:

Vancouver	Unplaced	Unfilled
Dunsmuir St.	299	2
Powell St.	623	16
W. Women	875	21
Victoria	25	16
Victoria (women)	25	16
New Westminster	24	143

REDUCES HIGH COST OF TAXI-RIDING

For a display of cool nonchalance it would be hard to beat the exploits of an unknown man who last night engaged a taxi driver, Edwin Bonner, of this city, to drive him around town.

The man engaged a car in the regular way about two o'clock in the morning, and requested to be driven around a certain section of the city near the Empress Hotel. After carefully watching for the darkest street and those that held the least chance of passers-by, this genial Dick Turpin stopped his driver and pointed a gun into the back of his neck.

The unfortunate driver was not in a position to argue and obeyed the injunction to "shell out." Luckily for the driver the "shelling" was poor and finally stopped the car in a dark place in the rear of the Empress Hotel. Here he alighted, and told the driver to "carry on," which the driver lost little time in doing.

STRAWBERRY PICKERS ENROL FOR WORK

The week ending June 5 shows little activity along lines apart from the enrollment of strawberry pickers.

In the routine work there were four girls registered and placed in factory work and twelve applicants for work along domestic lines. There were twelve vacancies registered and twelve permanent placements made, including four in factory work.

The enrollment of the strawberry pickers proceeded with great enthusiasm in the days during which registration has been made, 140 girls and women have registered. It will be necessary to enrol another 200 during the coming week in order to meet the demand.

HOME PRODUCTS DESERVE SUPPORT

Merchant and Consumer Should Investigate Local Source of Commodities

An insight into a condition of affairs that is a little unexpected has just been brought to light in a meeting of the Industrial Committee meeting at the offices of the Victoria and Island Development Association, Thursday. The Industrial Committee is composed of representative business men from the city and Island who have as a main object the fostering of trade, extension, and whose main plank in a business-like platform is to develop the home product.

Attention of the committee was called to the fact that the majority of housekeepers in this city do not know what a large number and variety of articles of food and other industries are made in this city, made too, it is stated to compare favorably in price and quality with the imported article. It is the usual thing for the shopper to walk into a store and ask for a “can of so-and-so” without any reference to the make or brand.

By asking for the home product the consumer would save himself many dollars and at the same time give the local industries an impetus that would stand in good stead in the development of the local and Island trade.

The merchant, too, is blamed for not recommending the Island and Home Product where he can conscientiously do so, and prefers to often to sell the imported article because perhaps he has imported it without reference to what is manufactured locally. This condition of affairs is all the more regrettable as the district is experiencing a period of growing industrial expansion that needs stimulation to prove up to the capabilities which can be secured from its fostering.

The action of the Industrial Committee therefore in bringing this matter forward is very opportune, and it is to be hoped that the consumer and the merchant generally will investigate more closely to what degree he can afford to support the home market.

The Grand Chapter consists of seven constituent chapters, all of which were represented at the meeting. H. H. Watson, grand first principal, presided, and a very successful meeting was held. A new constitution was considered and adopted, and the following officers were elected:

E. B. Paul, of Victoria, grand; D. H. Morrison, of Prince Rupert, grand H. C. P. Sherwin, of Kaslo, grand J. J. M. Radd, of Nanaimo, treasurer; J. W. Prescott, of Vancouver, secretary; S. Foa, of Vancouver, grand registrar; and J. H. Hughes, of Vancouver, grand Tyler. The next annual convocation will be held at Victoria in the third week of June, 1921.

HIGH SCHOOL DEBATE.

A very interesting and instructive inter-year debate was held by the “Portia,” the Girls’ Debating Society of the Victoria High School, last Wednesday afternoon.

The subject was as follows: “Resolved that for the benefit of civilization in general Japanese should become naturalized citizens of Canada.”

The affirmative was upheld by the Junior Year represented by Kathleen Jackson and Marjorie Locke, while Marjorie Ballard and Marjorie Gibbons ably upheld the negative side of the question for the Preliminary Year. All speakers are to be complimented on their splendid speaking.

When the Judges, Miss Henry and Mr. Stevens, retired to make the decision, a lively discussion took place, when several who were present expressed their views of the subject.

The decision was finally given in favor of the negative by quite a comfortable margin.

To Make Your Hair Look Naturally Curly

Just apply a little liquid silmerine with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair and you will have as beautiful curls and waves as you could wish for. They will be perfectly natural in appearance and will last a long time, even in damp or windy weather. The full effect is secured within three hours usually.

A few ounces of liquid silmerine—which, of course, can be had at any drug store—will last for weeks, so it is quite economical to use. It also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss. When the hair is combed out it will be as fluffy as though it had just been shampooed.

PROPER care of the scalp is what makes your hair beautiful. If your scalp is in a healthy condition, your hair will be soft, fresh and luxuriant, with real life, lustre and color. Nature gives you ample warning that your scalp needs attention—falling hair; dry, brittle hair; excessively oily hair and dandruff are some of the more common indications of scalp disease. To fail to heed these warnings means that you will pay the penalty of baldness. Hundreds of Victoria people are using

Vie de Peau

THIS wonderful scalp preparation instantly goes to the root of the trouble. It destroys the germ that is destroying the hair. Simply moisten the hair with VIE DE PEAU and rub it in. It leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, fresh looking and fluffy, giving your hair the appearance of being much thicker and heavier than it is. By the time you have used the last application of your first bottle, your scalp will be in a healthy, normal condition. All traces of dandruff will have been removed—your hair will have stopped falling out. But don't take our word for it. Try it at our risk as hundreds of other Victoria have done. Secure a bottle of VIE DE PEAU from any one of the reliable stores listed below. Use the entire contents under the following guarantee:

“If VIE DE PEAU does not make good every claim we make for it, return the empty bottle and get your money back.”

COMRADES CALL FOR OTTAWA RESIGNATIONS

Also Do Not Like German City Bonds Here

Comrades of the Great War last night called on the Borden Government and the Hon. S. P. Tomin, member for Victoria, to resign because of “the breaking of their solemn pledges” and the failure of the promised Esquimaut drydock to mature so far.

Comrades also took up the question of the large number of Victorians who are selling away their savings in German bonds and marks now to make enormous profits when exchange returns to normal. A resolution was passed protesting against “the bad taste and unpatriotic spirit exhibited” on the part of one financial firm advertising City of Berlin four per cent. bonds.

Denunciation of Clarence Harris’ “campaign of prosecution and persecution” against business firms and individual persons who have been connected with raffles during the last few months” was expressed in another resolution.

“Lethargy and the lack of interest shown” by the Pensions and Re-establishment Committee at Ottawa “as press reports show” the Committee on Pensions adjourned twice recently owing to lack of quorums” was protested against in a telegram to Sir Robert Borden.

Disapproval of the organizations represented in the Ex-Service Council was formally expressed. Amalgamation with the G. W. V. A. was laid over for a month.

Sergeant-at-Arms Smith has resigned from the Comrades and his place has been taken by Comrade Bloom. Comrade McKenzie, past president, has also resigned.

SUM OF $5,000 WILL GO FORWARD AT EARLIEST DATE

The Executive Committee of the Jewish Relief Association has decided that whenever the accumulations of the Relief Campaign amount to $5,000, immediate remittance be made to Canadian headquarters, for they fully realize the importance of getting supplies to the sufferers in Eastern Europe as rapidly as possible.

The need for relief is urgent, and the hungry children must receive food as early as possible, hence the decision to forward money without waiting until the campaign is ended. A very generous response is being made to the preliminary appeal for subscriptions are being sent in most promptly. A receipt will be sent to each person who sends in subscriptions by mail.

OPPORTUNITY HERE FOR MOVIE STUDIO

Properly Financed Venture Would Attract Big Pay Roll

"There is no reason why Victoria should not have a fully equipped moving picture studio releasing films which could compete with the best United States productions," said Director Walter Steiner of the Hurdis Film Company of Los Angeles and New York this morning. The closing scenes in the "Romance of Bay Water" and at other beauty spots in the neighborhood and Director Steiner expressed himself much pleased with the opportunities in this city for outdoor moving picture photography.

"But," continued Mr. Steiner, "Victoria would have an extensively equipped studio with all kinds of furniture and scenery with which to stage film plays, for with our bright sunshine practically all the year around you would not be able to take enough out-door scenes."

"That the opening of a first-class studio would give Victoria a big pay roll was the opinion of Director Steiner, who pointed out that such a venture would bring considerable new business in the way of studio furnishing and equipment. All kind of business relative to the "movie" would spring up here, he stated, and it would not mean smoky chimneys or any sort of business, such a delightful residential city as Victoria should not have, in his judgment.

It would take in the neighborhood of half a million dollars to start a moving picture studio in this city properly, Mr. Steiner said to The Times this morning, for unless it is started right it merely becomes a dead weight on the city. He had been asked, said Mr. Steiner, if he would take an interest in the promotion of a movie enterprise, and with adequate liberal scale, the director believes that such an enterprise would be profitable.

Mr. Steiner speaks flatteringly of the talent displayed by the Victoria Company he has been directing, and of the co-operation he has received from the people of Victoria.

"In fact it has been more like a holiday than work, and I am going for trip very shortly just to show them a house-warming. A very enjoyable evening was spent, cards, music and games being indulged in to a late hour.

House Warming.—Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Young, of 450 Quebec Street, were agreeably surprised on Friday evening, when a party of friends unexpectedly called on them and gave them a house-warming. A very enjoyable evening was spent, cards, music and games being indulged in to a late hour.

BANS IMMODEST DRESS

Mr. Justice Gregory Criticizes One Woman Who Appears in His Court.

Mr. Justice Gregory gave a decree absolute yesterday to Ernest Holman, returned soldier, because his wife, Mrs. Lottie A. Holman, lived with William F. Harvey, of the Harbor Marine, as his wife and under the name of Mrs. Harvey, while Mr. Holman was away.

The court ordered that the costs of the action should have been borne by Harvey. Mr. Justice Gregory criticized the dress of one woman in court, remarking, "Have you no modesty, woman? It is a wonder that men get into trouble."

Gordon Head Berries In.—The first Gordon Head and Keating strawberries of this year appeared at the Public Market this morning, and were in great demand by the public. Fruit-growers state that the local berry crop this year probably will be only seventy-five per cent. as large as that of last year.

WOMEN DO NOT NEED "MRS." BEFORE NAME

Desire to Designate Wedded State Complicates Registration of Voters

Now that women have the vote they are not to register themselves as "Mrs. Mary Smith," but simply as "Mary Smith," according to an announcement issued to-day by Chief Registrar Mabon, who has charge of the registration of voters for the Victoria district.

"Women must remember in registering that they need no longer use the 'Mrs.' before their name, they are married," said Mr. Mabon. "Use of this prefix for married women who forget their new liberties complicates the registration."

The registration through the city is being conducted by a couple of hundred voluntary commissioners and a corps of deputy registrars, headed by Mr. Francis J. Francis, Hotel, Yates Street, where all registration forms have to be turned in.

Other registration centres are: Ward One—Royal Bank, Esquimalt Road, Victoria West. Ward Two—Douglas Street and Burnside Road. Ward Three—Hillside Avenue and Fernwood Road. Ward Four—Oak Bay Junction and Cook and McKenzie Streets and Niagara Streets. Francis Scott Mason and H. E. Thorpe have charge of the registration. "But," continued Mr. Steiner, "Victoria would have an extensively equipped studio with all kinds of furniture and scenery with which to stage film plays, for with our bright sunshine practically all the year around you would not be able to take enough out-door scenes."

MOODY-CAMPBELL WEDDING.

The wedding took place quietly at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Victoria West, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Maclean officiating. Sarah Jane Moody, of Calderbank, Scotland, and Robert Cochrane Campbell, of Victoria.

The bride was becomingly attired in a dress of satin mousseline, draped with silver and georgette and bridal veil trimmed with orange blossom, carrying a bouquet of bridal roses. Attending the bride was Miss Jean Dunagan as bridesmaid, wearing a dress of white voile, trimmed with pink and hat to match, carrying a basket of sweet peas. The bride was given away by Mr. David Campbell. The groom was supported by Mr. Donald Davidson. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. David Campbell, 774 Front Street. The newly married couple will take up their residence at 408 Jessie Street.

These are a mild but thorough laxative which can always be depended upon to regulate the bowels and "sweeten the stomach." They are absolutely safe and are sold under a guarantee to be entirely free from opiates or other injurious drugs. Concerning them, Mrs. Thomas A. Boutot, Lake Baker, N.B. writes: "I am pleased to state that Baby's Own Tablets were of great help to me when my baby was suffering from constipation." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Borrowed Hose.—F. B. Billington was fined $20 yesterday in the Esquimalt Police Court, for borrowing a hose from the Esquimalt Hospital, the property of the S. C. R. Billington "borrowed" the hose for a week or so, and then returned it with a note of apology.

Inspect Site.—The aeronautical committee, comprising members of the Board of Trade Special Committee, the Kiwanis Club and Aerial League, today inspected the site of the proposed site. Journeying in cars out to Cudboro Bay, and the fields to the north of Bay Road, the party inspected the grounds, and were impressed with the possibilities of the location for aircraft work.

DEFENCE BAILEY WAS FULLY PAID

Declares, Moreover, Previous Actions Settled the Bailey Case

In his statement of defence in the new Bailey expropriation case, filed to-day, City Solicitor H. S. Pringle declares that the plaintiff, S. O. Bailey, "has been paid in full and has no further interest" in the mortgage on the Pandora Avenue property involved, and that the previous action conducted by the Bailey interests against the Corporation have settled the matter.

The city's defence denies specifically the allegations contained in the statement of claim filed by the plaintiffs, the Cameron Investment and Securities Company and Mr. Bailey, and goes on to add: "The Plaintiff Bailey has been paid in full and has no further interest in the said mortgage (on the Pandora Avenue land over which the legal suits have been waged for months) and alternatively, if there was any cause of action in respect of anything done by the defendant to the premises in question in this action, the said cause of action was not and could not be assigned by the plaintiff Bailey to the other plaintiff and in any event is not and was not assignable."

After reciting the circumstances connected with the case and denying a number of claims made by the plaintiffs, the city's defence asserts that the plaintiffs cannot justly claim that the city is liable in respect of the matters set out in the plaintiffs' statement of claim. The city claims that the previous actions have settled the matter because the plaintiffs previously raised all the questions and demands by way of counter-claims in the former actions and the counter claim was dismissed by the Court of Appeal of British Columbia. The plaintiffs, the city's defence adds, did not appeal from the judgment of the Court of Appeal, and the time for appealing has long since expired.

Defendant's statement of claim further states that the Attorney-General should be made a party to the action.

BRIEF LOCALS

Visitor From Switzerland.—John de Bary, of Basle, Switzerland, passed through Victoria yesterday. Mr. Bary is on tour and had no statement to make to the press.

Approves Amalgamation.—At a general meeting of the Harbor Marine Association held on June 2 it was moved, seconded and carried unanimously that a letter be sent to the G. W. V. A. convention expressing "our hearty support of the proposed amalgamation of the various ex-service men's associations throughout the country."

Two Stores Entered.—Last night two stores were entered by thieves who, however, found little loot. One broke open the Central Fish Market and secured $5 in stamps and coppers, while the premises of Evans, Coleman & Evans on Pandora Avenue were forced by a thief who apparently took nothing.

Amputation Problems.—Amputation Club members at their meeting last night learned that obtaining employment for their members is still a serious and unsolved problem. It is likely an amputation picnic will be held the last Saturday of June. This will be discussed next Friday night.

Water Rates Increase.—A by-law authorizing an increase in water rates already outlined in these columns before, will be submitted to the City Council Monday night by City Solicitor H. W. Porter. The law is passed without delay, the increase will become effective on the next water bills issued.

NEW CURFEW PLAN IS UNSUCCESSFUL

Flashing of City Lights Would Destroy Machinery; Aldermen Told

In enforcing the newly-revised Curfew by-law the City Council will have to find something more satisfactory than the flashing of arc lights to warn children off the streets. In fact, Alderman Patrick's flash-light plan has proved failure, not only in operation, but also in that it would dislocate the city's lighting system.

Alderman W. F. Fullerton, Chairman of the Electric Light Committee of the City Council, has been informed by City Electrician Hutchison that the flashing of the arc and cluster lights would be altogether too hard on the system. The gradual turning out of the lights each night, he says, would do no damage, but a sudden darkening of the city streets would, in a few evenings, do a great deal of harm to the delicate machinery installed in the city's lighting plant.

For this reason it is likely that the city will endeavor to secure a sufficiently loud bell or whistle to warn the kiddies that it is bed time. "It might be well," Mayor Porter remarked this morning, "to wait until the vote is taken on the Prohibition issue. If the vote is for Government control then the brewery whistle might be available for action. As I understand the matter the whistle is still available, but, in view of the 'kickless' beer now being manufactured, it won't blow loud enough."

Infielders Throw Game Away On Old Cy Young

Terrible Exhibition In Field By Capitals; Outhit Spokane But Did a Lot of Sand-Pit Juggling and Muffing; Outfielders Only Ones Who Did Not Fall Down.

Spokane, 7; Victoria, 2.

Cy Young tried to hypnotize the Indians with his strange slow balls yesterday afternoon. And Cyrus did his part, but there were five other young men who were supposed to help but who let him down in a crude manner. After six errors had been chalked up to the Caps' infield, Cy became so hot under his little bonnet that he nearly heaved the ball out of the park when making a throw to first base.

Young hooked-up with Russell, one of Spokane's star hurlers. For one inning Cy looked like a Napoleon, but in the second frame his support crumbled. He was beaten. Three runs trotted over the plate. In the third inning another runner scored. In the fourth Cy gave the Indians another duck's egg. The fifth brought the Indians another tally and in the sixth they completed their afternoon's run-getting by shoving over another pair.

Another Rally. The Capitals managed to score one run in the fifth and then in the ninth the Indians got a fright. It looked as though the Capitals were about to start another of their wild delayed rallies. Elliott got a hit, Cunningham hammered a hot one through the infield and Cy Young contributed a double which scored Elliott. Leard tried to continue the rally and win the game. He called upon Jack Kelley to do some pinch-hitting. In the last three games Jack has been called upon to slug in some runs in a pinch just because he was a great hero last Tuesday. But yesterday Kelley was unable to kick through with the much-looked for hit. He flew out.

Every member of the infield booted a chance. It was a weird display of fielding. Leard, Elliott, Church and Dempsey all helped to contribute to Young's downfall. Cunningham looked very bad. Besides having two errors to his credit he let the Indians run crazy on the bases. They got away with five stolen bases.

MIXED FOURSOMES ATTRACT INTEREST

Splendid Tournament Will Be Played at Esquimalt Tomorrow; Ten Foursomes

One of the most interesting mixed foursomes tournaments held in this city for some time will start tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Esquimalt Golf Links. There will be ten foursomes and the links will be busy most of the day. The ladies were given the privilege of selecting their partners and the choices have been admirable. Several very keen matches are expected.

The foursomes will be as follows: 1 Miss H. Thomas and Mr. Darcus play Miss E. Thomas and Mr. Warden. 2 Miss Porritt and Mr. Hodges play Miss Hardie and Mr. Cleer. 3 Mrs. Pocock and Mr. Freeman play Miss Lovell and Mr. Montgomery. 4 Mrs. Carr and Mr. Savident play Miss Langry and Mr. Fox. 5 Miss Scott and Mr. Fairbairn play Miss Officer and Mr. Edmonds. 6 Miss Thomson and Mr. Morrison play Miss Benson and Mr. Price. 7 Mrs. Foulis and Mr. Four play Miss Cass and Mr. Youngman. 8 Mrs. Price and Mr. Thomas play Miss Burt-Smith and Mr. Schwenker. 9 Mrs. Meakin and Mr. Meakin play Mrs. Elliott and Mr. Dunn. 10 Miss Henry and Mr. Collings (captain) play Miss Noonan and Mr. Wade.

Caddies Want Honor. New York, June 5.—When Harry Vardon and Ted Ray step from the gangway of the Celtic, which is to bring them to this country about July 15, there is a danger that several score of caddies will pounce upon them and insist upon carrying their sticks throughout the tour. Already several of the oldest and more experienced caddies have sought Arthur D. Peterson, who is to direct the trip of the great English golfers, with applications for the assignments at Fairport, Cortlandt Park the other day several old-time bag carriers held a lively argument over the important function. A few had added for most of the champions of the last ten years, for they make a practice of going South to Pinehurst and Palm Beach each winter and returning when the local season begins. Few open and amateur championships are held too far away from New York for these men—many of them are in their thirties to attend.

One veteran has promised Mr. Peterson he would stay with Vardon and Ray permanently this summer, going even to Toledo and Chicago for the title tournaments.

Chicago, June 5.—"Babe" Ruth, king of home-run hitters, who last season set a new world's record of 29, will eclipse that remarkable performance this season if he continues at his present pace. The New York slugger connected with a trio of homers in a double-header against Washington on Wednesday, giving him a total of 15 home runs thus far, which is way ahead of his record at this time last year. Ruth, as a result of his remarkable hitting streak, pulled himself up among the batting leaders of the American League, according to averages released to-day and which include Wednesday's games. Last week he was hitting .302. This week's figures show him to be hitting .333. He leads the league in total bases with 96, which, besides the homers, include six doubles and three triples. He has made 39 hits in 34 games.

Other leading leaders: Jackson, Chicago, 366; Hendrix, Boston, 356; Judge, Washington, 353; Murphy, Chicago, 349; Sisler, St. Louis, 347; Weaver, Chicago, 343; Felsch, Cleveland, 342; Jacobson, St. Louis, 341; Helman, Detroit, 338; Duran, Philadelphia, 336; Ruth, New York, 333; Milan, Washington, 333. Robertson Comes up. Dave Robertson, the flashy outfielder of the Chicago Nationals, is the whole show with the stick in the National League this week. Robertson moved from twelfth to second place, where he is runner-up to Roger Hornsby, the St. Louis star, who continues to lead with an average of .392. Robertson is batting .370 as compared with .315 a week ago. He has averaged better than a hit a game. He has played in 35 contests and has connected with 48 hits, which include eight doubles, two triples and four home runs. Heine Groh, captain of the Cincinnati Reds, is the runner-up, who has dropped to third place with a mark of .365, but he is the best run-getter, having registered 32 times to the St. Louis star's 31. Grover Alexander, premier pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, has a batting average of .400, but he has only been at bat 31 times. Jack Fournier, the slugging St. Louis first-baseman, who was making such a showing a week ago, fell into a slump and dropped from fifth to twelfth place, his average now being .310 as compared with .336. Cy Williams, Philadelphia outfielder, bagged two homers in the last week and is leading the round trip hitters with six. Carey Very Fast. Max Carey, of Pittsburgh, continued to show the way to base-stealers with 14, his nearest rival being Roush, of Cincinnati, who has pilfered 11. Other leader batters: Nicholson, 342; Young, New York, 338; Williams, Philadelphia, 329; Duran, Cincinnati, 327; Cruise, Boston, 320; Smith, New York, 315; Fournier, St. Louis, 310; Wheat, Brooklyn, 309; Stock, St. Louis, 308; Paskert, Chicago, 308.

Yes I am ninety-two years of age and I like a game of baseball today just as much as I ever did and I'd go quite a long way to see one of course I like a good one. Thos. Huckerby never misses a game; watched game grow from its infancy. "Yes I am ninety-two years of age and I like a game of baseball today just as much as I ever did and I'd go quite a long way to see one of course I like a good one." Thos. Huckerby, who is one of the most ardent ball fans in this city. Mr. Huckerby takes in all the games here and his erect, though aged figure, will be a familiar scene at all the games to be played here next week. Mr. Huckerby has watched baseball grow from its infancy. He remembers its birth quite well and recalled the days when they used to play without gloves and played pretty good ball at that. The nonagenarian knows baseball from alpha to omega and any time Bill Leard or the umpire requires a little information on some fine point of the game on which they are not quite certain, all they have to do is to shout through the wire-netting to Mr. Huckerby and the difficulties are immediately solved. Mr. Huckerby is a prairie man and is staying with his sister Mrs. Johnson, 15 Cook Street. Whenever the aged fan hears that the ball tossers are due in town he will not be satisfied until he learns the hour the game is to be played and then he fidgets until the time arrives for him to stroll down to the park. And while in the grandstand, Mr. Huckerby does not simply sit there and smile and frown as the fortunes of the games see-saw. He pounds his stick on the boards and does some shouting and assists the rest of the multitude in hurling verbal encouragement and advice to the players. Mr. Huckerby is a real fan.

Shamrock III Sails Into New York From England

Yacht Which Will Be Used As "Trial Horse" For Shamrock IV. Completes Long Trip in Safety; Rushing Work of Re-Rigging to Have Her Ready For Work Against Challenger.

New York, June 4.—The 23-metre Shamrock III, "trial horse" for the Shamrock IV, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup, arrived here yesterday from Dartmouth, Eng., under her own sail, commanded by Captain Alfred Draper. The trial yacht was launched at Southampton, April 3, and three days later took a spin with Sir Thomas aboard. After this test it was reported that she was even faster than the Shamrock IV, and there was some talk at the time that she might be substituted in the race. After having started for the United States, she was forced to put back to Dartmouth April 21 because of heavy seas, sailing again for New York on May 4. She touched at the Azores May 17 to take on stores.

Rush Rigging. The Shamrock is to be taken to Jacob's yard and made ready for her trials off the Hook, with the challenger. Not a day is to be lost in changing her rig from jury to that of racing yacht and a new record is expected to be hung up in the matter worked at the City Island yard got started. Once the 23-metre craft is rigged and ready she may be given a day or so on the Sound, for such trial spins as may be deemed necessary to determine whether or not she is in perfect condition for the work that has been arranged for her in competition against the challenger. Once she has demonstrated her crew and the time on her anchorage will be alongside the challenger inside the Horse-shoe at Sandy Hook.

The keenest interest exists in watching the work on this side of the "pond" as to how the Shamrock IV may show up in her trials against the 23-metre craft. She is so unusual in design and construction that even the best guesses as to form in yachting are entirely at a loss to say what she may be expected to show in the various points of sailing. In addition to this a certain air of mystery appears to surround the craft, for though her designer, Mr. Nicholson, has made no attempt to be secretive to any extent even approaching that of certain other designers who not only kept all but the card of the absolute "inside" from entering the shops where these craft have been built or stored, but actually hid their creations' lines from view by draping "skirts" about them.

Expert Talk on Design. Mr. Nicholson was commissioned by Commodore Lipton to design and build a yacht to suit the cup. Not that he had any previous experience in building under the American rule governing such craft, he studied that rule and the Shamrock IV is his interpretation of it as applied to the requirements of the cup. That is the question which is keeping the yachtsman guessing, and that is why they await her appearance under sail. What they observe may or may not afford them the clue to the solution of the problem. That is the question which is keeping the yachtsman guessing, and that is why they await her appearance under sail. What they observe may or may not afford them the clue to the solution of the problem. That is the question which is keeping the yachtsman guessing, and that is why they await her appearance under sail.

Another venture to say what sort of a showing she may make on other points of sailing. As regards her rating, much difference of opinion exists. At first it was believed that she would have to allow either of the defenders considerable time. That idea appears to be shifting. Several have said that any penalty she has to contend with will be for excessive sail area. That is to say, she has power to a motor boat or automobile. It should drive her that much faster, but will it drive her enough faster to offset the penalty that may be imposed on her. That is the question which is keeping the yachtsman guessing, and that is why they await her appearance under sail.

When the challenger meets the defender off Sandy Hook and not until that time will the wisecracks be able to form any accurate idea of what the truth before the big international events start. Whether or not the Shamrock IV is speedy enough to accomplish the object for which she was built may be in doubt, but there is no doubt that she is a speedier craft than she was when she arrived in this country in 1914. Upon his return to England last autumn, after a brief stay in this country, during which Nicholson was permitted to inspect the Vanitie, he knew more about the kind of craft the American rules made possible than he knew before, and the alterations made in the Shamrock are partially due to that added knowledge as well as to more mature afterthoughts on the subject.

HOWARD DELIGHTS ORPHEUM AUDIENCE

Musical Comedy, With Brilliant Settings, Make Programme Attractive

If asked to describe what comprises an enjoyable entertainment the average man would be faced with a proposition that would cause him considerable trouble to elucidate. Yet theatre managers are faced with just that proposition and have to find a satisfactory solution week after week not only for one man but to suit the tastes of all, but a theatre manager cannot be an ordinary man!

The Orpheum programme this week pleases beyond ordinary judgment, not only to the vaudeville critic but to the majority of the house. Examining its contents to segregate what elements go into the make-up of a successful show, there are seen several outstanding principles—comedy, music and novelty. First-nighters evidently found all three elements present to no uncertain degree, and testified their appreciation in a manner enthusiastic and decidedly unusual in a Victoria audience, which is normally of the same qualities of stoical unexpressiveness as the old time redskin.

Joseph H. Howard, artist and composer of more than mental fame, needs no introduction to Victoria audiences, as his songs have been in the homes of all for many years. Mr. Howard, assisted by Miss Ethelyn Clark and Messrs. Mack Ford and Jack King, with an exceptionally effective chorus, presents "Chin Toy," a delightful symposium of clever songs, dances, an unusually beautiful staging that approaches closer to the musical comedy shows of pre-war days than has been seen here in many a day. Howard delights his audience with a number of his own compositions that are truly worth-while, all in the light but lively vein of "catchy" music. He sings in clear baritone that makes itself audible in all parts of the house, and displays a stage manner that is more than usually attractive.

In Miss Clark, Howard has an able assistant for his magnificent settings, and to the feminine portion of the house Miss Clark remains "up stage" all too short to allow the seekers after new dresses to absorb some stunning details. Dancing and accompaniment by Ford and King are quite in keeping with the high tone of the production. A feature that might be copied with great success in future times is the silent chorus. The members of the chorus are attractively prepossessing, and they have the unexampled sense to remain mute. Too often pretty members of the ballet spoil everything by obtruding poor voices on the stricken public. Howard's chorus excel in good sense as well as beauty.

In "Fixing the Furnace" George Rolland and Company offer to Victoria one of the most delightful little comedies that has ever wandered this far from New York. The sketch is what might well be described as uncomfortably funny, and first-nighters exhausted all their laughs before the comedy had ceased and had perforce to sit silent, but shaking their heads at the remainder of the screen. Reddington and Grant, in "Bounce In," provide excellent entertainment, as do Spencer and Williams in a song and dance novelty. The "Dark Cloud of Joy," Bill Robinson, displayed a silver lining to no unmarked degree and delighted his auditors with clever work. Bruce Morgan and Franklin Dates are an apt team returned to Victoria, where they were appreciated in Pantages circles. The two Earlys, in a whirlwind novelty, present a line of imbecility that is nevertheless very entertaining and closes a bill of outstanding merit from curtain to curtain.

at the Orpheum Theatre

DOMINION

The picture at the Dominion Theatre this week is packed full of breezy comedy and surprises. Wallace Reid is the star, and the film is called "Double Speed." Like his previous picture, "The Roaring Road," it has a lot to do with speeding autos and pretty girls.

Handsome Wallie is "Speed" Carr, who on his way to the West Coast, from New York is robbed of his car and his funds and arrives at his destination a penniless beggar. That doesn't bother Wallace much, as he soon becomes chauffeur for a beautiful lady and marries her, after he has given her father, a bank president, heart failure on account of his part in a financial transaction the latter is attempting to put over.

This is a rather cryptic description of the plot, but after all the pleasure in a Reid vehicle lies in seeing it. You will be well rewarded. Wanda Hawley, who is extremely easy to look at, is the girl, and those fine character-men Theodore Roberts and Tully Marshall, are in the cast. By J. Stewart, Woodhouse, House, and Sam Wood directed it for Paramount Artcraft.

COLUMBIA

"Daddy Long Legs," in which Mary Pickford is seen at the Columbia, is filled with the most delicate and artistic imagery throughout. One of the most effective incidents deals with a comparison of the rearing of Judy Abbott, the orphan asylum girl, and Angelica Wyckoff, a spoiled rich child. Judy (Miss Pickford), the little girl who, despite cruel treatment and bad living conditions in the asylum, brings sunshine and joy to the smothered child, is symbolized by a lily, rising from a dumping ground for old rubbish. Angelica is symbolized as a thornbush, beautiful because of intense color, but unable to stand the rigors of the ordinary outdoors. There is a pretty bit showing the court of Dan Cupid, who sends forth his emissaries to see that Judy falls in love. Babies winsomely clad with wings and thin draperies play the part of Cupid's attendants.

PRINCESS

Strictly in accordance with the criterion already set by the production "Which One Shall I Marry?" the Mildred Page Players offer for their second week's bill a comedy in three acts, "So Long Letty," a play that broke box office records in Seattle, and established a record run at the Alcazar Theatre, San Francisco. If you have a tendency for comedy you are in for a real treat as there are ten thousand laughs, plenty of punch, and a real heart interest. The story tells of the young married man who likes to hang around town with the boys before leaving for home after the office closes, of his wife always home working hard, of his neighbor and second wife who also find it hard to be at home together, until the men suggest that they change wives, which causes many funny situations.

Owing to the many heavy scenes used in "Which One Shall I Marry?" the show has been somewhat late in getting out, but next week's offering promises to be over in good time with no long pauses between acts.

The Century wonder-dog, Brownie, and the famous lions are completing their respective pictures at the Century studio under the direction of Thomas Buckingham and William Watson. The comedians unfortunately enough to be assigned to the lion's cast are Zip Monberg, Harry Sweet and Berta Sterling, while the less perilous back-coasting with Brownie, the dog, has been allotted to Harry Keaton and Lillian Byron.

VARIETY

It is no depreciation of the dramatic value of "The Invisible Bond," the Irene Castle picture which is at the Variety Theatre to-day for the last time, to say that the ladies in the audience were even more interested in the attractive new gowns and hats worn by the famous dancer and screen star than they were in the interesting domestic serio-comedy being unfolded on the screen. Mrs. Castle has come to be regarded as rather a compendium of current fashions and a reliable guide to the future in matters of dress. Her latest exhibition of styles in "The Invisible Bond" is a delight to the eye of even the inexpert male screen fan. The picture itself is a story of young love disrupted by the presence of a scheming coquette and the happy reunion of a divorced couple under the shadow of tragedy. The action culminates in a smashing climax in which an automobile plunges over a 400-foot cliff, carrying two people to their death. Charles Maigne is the director.

Some few weeks ago it was recommended in these columns that a tower with a peal of bells be erected on a site to be selected on our beautiful Beacon Hill, as a war memorial. We note that the selection of a site is to be made in Washington for the location of the national cathedral, which is to be erected in that city as a tribute to the American soldier dead. Come, Victoria, let us be "up and doing," and let us be the first in Canada to set an example to our beloved Canadian dead asleep over in Flanders Fields. I know of at least six who will devote their efforts to such a movement, namely the erection of a bell tower on Beacon Hill. Let there be formed at an early date what can be known as a Carillon Committee.

Great Musical Work Invests Chorus With New Opportunities

Mendelssohn's greatest successes were achieved through his choral works, notably the oratorio "Elijah." In this and certain of his other works, he invested the chorus with new life, and when it was produced in England in 1846, where the love of choral music has been always strong, and where its practice and performance are so delighted in, it was welcomed with an enthusiasm that was almost unbounded. Since its first performance at Birmingham, under the composer's own direction, it has ranked next in popularity to Handel's "Messiah" and to this day it commands a place in the programmes of all the great festivals. Following upon a performance of "Elijah" in London the ensuing year (in 1847) by command of Queen Victoria, this tribute to the composer was penned by the Prince Consort: "To the noble artist who, surrounded by the Baal worship of corrupted art, has been able by his genius and science to preserve faithfully, like another Elijah, the worship of true art, and once more to accustom our ears, lost in the whirl of an empty play of sounds, to the pure notes of expressive composition and legitimate harmony. To the great master who makes us conscious of the unity of his conception through the whole mass of his creation, from the soft whispering to the mighty raging of the elements. Written in token of gratefully remembrance by "ALBERT," Buckingham Palace, April 24, 1847."

APPRECIATED THE TROMBONE PLAYER

Chinese Coolies Thought Player Swallowed His Instrument

Those who had charge of the Chinese coolies in France during the war found them very human. Away from their homes, many of them suffered greatly from loneliness and homesickness. Sports Exhibition. To combat this loneliness and keep up their morale taxed the ingenuity of the men in charge. One enterprising young Canadian missionary, who had been placed in charge of a company of Chinese, arranged an exhibition of sports in which Chinese coolies and Canadian soldiers entertained each other. Both sides participated heartily and both sides had their bands with them. The Chinese found it hard to discover any music in the performances of the Canadian band. But the Canadian soldiers were greatly interested in the juggling tricks of the Chinese, applauded them heartily and called for encores and "repeats." On the other hand, while the Chinese did not see any music in the performances of the Canadian band the trombone player greatly interested them.

Round him the coolies clustered. They watched him eagerly, tittered, chattered and made many motions like mimicking him. They called for him to play again and again and seemed more and more amused. The company round the trombone player became a crowd, and the newcomers wanted to see what the others were interested in. They saw, and they also joined the company of titters, chatters and mimics. At last the trombone player lost patience, became angry and said that he would not play again for them. His anger was so great that it looked as though he would precipitate a fight. Word was sent to the young missionary who hastened to the spot of danger.

"What's the matter here," he asked. "Your Chinks are making fun of me," said the trombone player angrily. "They want me to play and play for them; and the more I play the more they laugh at me and mimic me. I'll knock the head off the first one that comes near me."

The Chinese had drawn away from the angry man, and the missionary went over to see what their version of the affair was. And when he heard it took them an interest from the fit of laughter that seized him. As quickly as he could recover himself he hastened to the offended bandman and explained the viewpoint of the coolies. "Those Chinese are not making fun of you," said the missionary. "It is your instrument and the way you play it that they are interested in. Those fellows think that you have them all beat. You are interested in their juggling tricks, but they think that you are the greatest juggler they ever saw. They want you to shove your trombone in, they think you swallow your instrument; and then you thrust it out, that you pull it up again."

THE PROPER MUSIC SPIRIT.

Music feeds on itself, and is continually growing and mooning over its achievements of days gone by, and its heroes and heroines of previous generations. Look through almost any musical magazine or review, and you will find a constant stream of the space is devoted to revamping of little personal incidents in the life of some idol of a past period as Liszt or Schubert or the retelling of some sentimental and haphazard story regarding some composition, or to some wishy-washy descriptive appreciation of some selection with "fine writing" trimmings. Music seems unfortunately to evoke sentimental wanderings of the worst sort from a mass of people who have no right to touch a pen except for the most private correspondence, and what might be legitimate hero worship, flows beyond the point of endurance.

Musical history is mawkishly rewritten time and again in detail, and finds its way piecemeal into the columns of the contemporary press. Proper respect for and appreciation of our great masters and their ever-wonderful achievements belong to progress, but letting them dominate us to-day, and keeping our eyes ever looking back at them is wrong. What are we doing to-day, and who are our men of talent, and what do they promise and what can we be on the lookout for from them—esteem or the achievement of this generation—should be our spirit.

The Slide Trombone offers less resistance to the breath than any other brass instrument, owing to the scarcity of bends or turns in its tubing. Each bend creates an added resistance to the breath; and this fact explains why a player on any valve instrument seems to have more breath to use than the player on the Trombone. It is because the Trombone player, in using his breath, has less to use against—less resistance.

In 1827 Mendelssohn tried his luck as an opera composer and wrote the "Marriage of Camacho," which was performed at the Royal Theatre in Berlin. The house was crowded with benevolent friends, and the applause was lively, but it was more a success of esteem. Mendelssohn himself was not deceived by appearances and went home before the end of the opera. He never afterwards ventured again on the operatic field. His sound judgment helped him to recognize the limits of his genius.

TELLS OF DOINGS OF VICTORIA MUSICIANS

Victoria's importance as a musical centre is now acknowledged by the Musical Courier, of New York, the illustrated weekly of the profession, which is running a column once a month on the musical doings of this city.

In the issue of May 27, which reached here yesterday, the Dunkley organ recital, the Arion Club Concert, the local production of "Pirates," the "Fennema" by the Leopold Godowsky recital and the Gall-Curri recital in Vancouver are all dealt with. Among the musical artists whose names are featured are: Miss Eva Hager, Mrs. Jesse Longfield, Mrs. Douglas McConnan, Madame Winifred Lugin-Fahey, J. H. Hunter, Reginald Hicks, R. McKenzie, Howard Russell, W. A. Willie, C. Dodd and George J. Dyke.

TRAINING THE YOUNG REQUIRES MUCH CARE

Parents would do well to be more discriminating in the choice of teachers for their children, for only those who have disciplined themselves by conscientious study are entitled to attempt the responsibility of training the young in their most sensitive and formative period. That is a question for the moment, and upon its outcome will depend in which classification, professional or amateur, the rising talent of this great Dominion will find its widest scope and its best opportunity. Both are urgently needed, but fathers and mothers will require to do some clear thinking as to how far their boys and girls should be helped and encouraged to develop their musical, pure pleasure, and educational advantage, or in what special cases it will be advisable to dedicate their lives to the art and make the necessary sacrifices of time and toil to that desired end.

The sooner a sound public opinion is formed, the sooner pretensions and abuses with their wasteful heartburning and unproductive time will be done away, and the sooner there will be productive and progressively combined effort professional and amateur, resulting in wider, more advantageous musical market for which it will be worth while, both for ideal and financial reasons, for the youth of Canada to train.—Woman's Century.

HUMANITARIAN TREATMENT INFLUENCES FATHER

Man in Jail Gives His Daughter a Piano

A term in jail does not always make a man better. Often he comes out a bigger criminal at heart than when he went in. But the humanitarian ideas now being introduced into the treatment of prisoners some startlingly worth while cases come to light of where characters have been completely transformed in jail. One such instance was told recently of a party who instead of getting soured on the world and everybody, resulting in a new lease, became a leader of his fellow convicts and came to the notice of his guards as an exemplary prisoner.

Wanting to do the right thing by his family, he has made arrangements for the warden of the prison to go to one of the local music stores to select a piano for his daughter, in order that his little girl might not miss the advantages of a musical education. Pathetic, isn't it, to think of a little girl receiving a gift of a piano from her father in jail? And yet the nobility of the incident overshadows the pathetic side. The man told the warden that he felt he had wronged his family. His one desire was to make amends in so far as he was able. He knew the value of music in life. He even thought that, had he come under the refining influence of music and music loving friends, he might not have gotten himself behind the bars. But his opportunity had been lost. The blame rested somewhere, yet that matter did not now concern him. His own future was all wrapped up in her future. He could not, when it was in his power to prevent, add crime to crime. He would not withhold from her the means of cultivating the enjoyment of music, which would follow her through all her days.

So the little child got her piano, and the home with the cloud of the absent father continually overhanging, was made brighter.

The voice is a wind instrument. The tone is produced by the normal, steady outflow of the breath through the throat (where it is made into tone by the action of the vocal chords) and up into the resonance chambers of the head, where it gains its timbre and carrying power. The young student must first of all grasp the fact that the tone is produced by the coming out of the breath. Too many of them get the notion that breath control means the holding back of the breath. Breath control, on the contrary, is learning to govern the outflow of the breath so that it shall always flow forth in an even, steady stream.

Fernando Carpi is a singer to be reckoned with. His success is assured and some day he may be persuaded to come out West. His pocket is full of concert engagements. Carpi was originally a lawyer and is a man of education and culture.

FAVORITE ARTISTS AT CHOIR CONCERT

Fine Programme Promised at Third Annual Spring Concert

That three of Victoria's favorite artists are to be heard on Tuesday evening next at the First Congregational Church, in the programme which the choir are presenting at their third annual Spring concert, is sufficient proof of the significance of this event, which will practically close this season's work in musical matters. The soloists who have been engaged for this occasion are: Mrs. Jesse A. Longfield, contralto; Miss Maude Scruby, "cello"; and Mr. Edmund Petch, tenor, each of whom have long ago fully established themselves in the hearts of Victorians.

The programme, which is entirely secular, presents numbers of a wide range of character, and in addition to the four part choruses by the choir there will be three compositions for ladies' voices. The "Swing Song" by Loeh, "There, Little Girl, Don't Cry," a setting by Campion for solo voice and piano, "Serenade" by W. H. Squire, "O, Lovely Night," from Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman," and Emerson's "Star of Descending Night." The programme is of an authentic and artistic nature, and will be well received by the audience.

CULTIVATES ACCURATE AND QUICK THINKING

A school trustee who was once opposed to granting more time on the school curriculum for music study, but who now is heartily in favor of it, owes his change of attitude to being shown the value of music study as an educational subject the same as arithmetic, grammar, geography or any other regular subject. The case for music is well put by a school music supervisor who makes this observation: "While the main purpose of music education is to cultivate an emotional reaction for the beautiful, yet the intellectual discipline which goes hand in hand with it, holds its own with that developed by mathematics or science. What subject lays such stress on quick perception? The young child is taught to think through his ears first. I wonder how many music teachers realize that their success depends directly upon correct hearing? I feel that public school teachers have grasped this truth much in advance of teachers of piano and orchestral instruments. After the child has had much training in thinking through his ears, then he is taught to think through his eyes. For training in precision, regularity, restraint and control, music has no peer. What demands more accurate, quick thinking than music reading? In mathematics the pupil thinks in rhythm and the mind must be alert. Music study which scores in intellectual discipline as well as in emo-

SCOUTS AND CUBS IN GRAND CONCERT

The executive of the Oak Bay Scouts' Association has completed plans for a grand concert on June 18, in the schoolroom of St. Columba Church. A programme is being arranged to include numbers by local artists, and some interesting exhibitions by the Boy Scouts and Wolf Cubs are promised.

TEACHING VIOLIN MAKING.

At the breaking up concert held at the end of last week at the Northern Polytechnic, Holloway Road, London, a violinist played on a new instrument of excellent tone, which was unpolished. It had been left in this condition by the organizer of the music trades school, Mr. White, to call attention to the fact that it had been made in the recently started violin making class. The piano used for accompaniments in the Great Hall had been made by the boys in the day school, and had been polished by disabled men in the polishing classes. One of the students in the violin making classes is an ex-service man who was formerly a wholesale stationer. He came to the evening classes to learn a new trade last September, when the class was first started, and worked for the usual four hours a week. For the first violin he has made £15 has been offered.

SUBLIME ORATORIO BRILLIANTLY SUNG

Mrs. Fahey Is Soloist in Fine Rendition of "Elijah"

A great audience assembled to hear the sublime oratorio, "Elijah," given in Vancouver on Tuesday night with a chorus of 400 voices and a seventy-five piece orchestra.

Of the magnificent performance which delighted the audience at the Victoria Theatre, The Vancouver Daily World says: "The enterprise of the Vancouver Choral Union, which engaged such artists as A. H. Fricker, M.A., F.R.C.O., of Toronto, as conductor; Mrs. Winifred Fahey, of Victoria, as soprano; Mrs. W. F. Brougham, of Vancouver, as contralto; Norman Douglas, of Winnipeg, as tenor; and Arthur Middleton, of the Metropolitan Opera, as bass, proved a sound piece of judgment, for whilst they did not measure up to the same standard, it was evident that they were local talent which would have fallen below the mark set by the visiting artists."

And what of the First Annual Festival of the Vancouver Westminister Choral Union with its choir of 400 voices and its orchestra of sixty performers which, with the soloists named, gave a splendid Vancouver Arena last night? It can be safely said that everyone came up to expectations and that this initial performance will be followed by others even more ambitious and even more artistic and successful in the seasons to come.

"Taking the orchestra at the same time as the chorus, one can sincerely congratulate the society on such a body of instrumentalists, many of whom are professional musicians, and here again there is room for enlargement. It was refreshing, however, to discover an accompaniment that did not endeavor to drown the vocalists. The work of the orchestra was musically to a degree, a sweet tone being noticeable throughout. "Mrs. Fahey proved a splendid artist to sing the soprano part in such company as Mr. Middleton's, and British Columbians must have been proud that there was such a performer available within the confines of the Province. Warm tribute was paid by the Vancouver critics to each soloist, and the double quartet of Vancouver people who gave a very good rendering of "For He Shall Give." To Mr. Fricker is attributed a wonderful exhibition of conductorship.

MUSICAL NOTES

(By George J. Dyke). The great Italian school of music have existed in Italy since the rise of Christianity. Song is the natural expression of the Italian heart, and the Italian folk song has been almost entirely assimilated by these schools of music. In Italy song is everywhere, and is usually the lover's appeal to his mistress fair. This love of song is nowhere more apparent than in Venice and Naples, two of the principal seaports of Italy. The boatmen and fishermen have their individual song forms, which are sung in the Bay of Naples, and on the Canals of Venice. This folk song has been employed in the Italian operas since 1600, and the song of the gondolier, and the serenader throughout Italy are the most popular from the Italian operas. It has always led the world in all forms of art, yet each district has its distinct method of expression, the greatest individuality being found in the City of Florence. It is particularly interesting to bandmen and orchestra players to note the material increase in the day and attendance of the U.S.A. Marine Bands. The leader receives the pay

Some time ago the writer suggested to the returned Soldiers the taking up of some band or orchestral instrument in place of looking about and waiting for a job at some automobile works or looking with envious eyes upon those occupied in the glamor of the garage. To-day for good musicians are going a-plenty.

John McCormick, one of the greatest minstrels of the day, prior to his world-wide tour was given a "God, Speed" farewell in New York last month. 1,200 men gathered at the Waldorf-Astoria at a banquet to register their appreciation of the artist and man. "It is to be remembered that financial profit is not in any sense the underlying motive, the object being to educate our people to the value of good music, and upon the success of this important festival will hinge very largely the development of this important factor in our community life. For this reason more than any other, I wish it every success." "Thanks, Mayor Gale! Such a man equipped with such sentiments, is just what is wanted in any growing and live city. Let us not forget that the present Lord Mayor of London, Sir Edward Cooper, is an ardent lover of music; that London to-day is the mecca for all the "big wigs" of the profession, and that the very best in music is to be found in the great Metropolis.

MOTORISTS WANT FORESTS SAVED

All-Island Automobile Convention at Nanaimo Next Wednesday

Preservation of the distinctive forests along the route of the Island Highway is to be taken up and urged on the Government by Vancouver Island motorists at their convention at Nanaimo next Wednesday.

Plans for the Victoria delegation were made at last night's meeting of the Island Automobile Association. The Victoria motorists will leave Wednesday morning until 4 o'clock. There will be a motorists' dinner and dance in the evening. Reservations are being arranged at the Nanaimo hotels. It was announced last night that the convention is not confined to members of an automobile club. All motorists will be welcomed.

"The wild forests along the Island Highway are the greatest asset the Highway possesses," said Charles E. French. "We must see that their beauty is not destroyed."

Among those who have already arranged to attend the convention are Mayor Porter, Gilbert D. Christie, President of the Island Automobile Association; J. L. Beckwith, Dr. Garsche, D. Campbell, Regan, Capt. Brown, D. Campbell, Dr. Garsche, Publicity Commissioner Thomson, Assistant Secretary Fynn, of the Board of Trade, and Adolph Lancaster.

For the remaining six months of this year the membership fee of the Association has been reduced to $1.50.

Motorists are to assist in the campaign for funds of the Jewish Relief, which is planning to aid the starving children of Eastern Europe. Members of the Association have already promised six cars for the opening of the drive next Monday afternoon.

The legislative committee, under Dr. H. M. Foster, is to meet at the Board of Trade at 10.30 o'clock next Monday morning.

IMPROVED STATUS RESULT OF EFFORT

Pioneer Physician Reviews History of Problems Affecting Women

The gradual improvement in the status of women, won by their own determined efforts, was described by Dr. Augusta Stowe Gullen, of Toronto, in speaking on "Some of the Problems of To-day" before the members of the Vancouver Women's Canadian Club, on Wednesday afternoon, in the ballroom of the Hotel Vancouver.

Dr. Gullen thinks that service is demanded at the present time of every thinking man and woman, especially as the women are now enjoying privileges which their sisters of yesterday fought so courageously for.

Dr. Stowe Gullen reminded her audience that the first movement for suffrage for women with equal legal recognition and educational opportunities in Canada was commenced in Toronto, in 1834. At that time only the Kingston and Victoria universities were open to them. The University of Toronto refusing to admit "females." Later Sir John Gibson, of Hamilton, brought a bill before the House of Commons which altered this state of affairs.

The women of Canada were not allowed to enter the legal profession at that time, as they were not considered "persons" in the eyes of the law. This absurd statute was altered after a drunken woman being brought before a magistrate pleaded she was a woman and not a "person," and therefore could not be sentenced.

Women Equal Partners

It took the war of 1914 to convince men that women are their equal and partners in effective work, the doctor stated, and pointed to the way in which women had left their homes during the war to assist the nation in its peril.

The women of Canada have now been extended the federal franchise, although in some provinces they have not yet won the provincial franchise, and it is their task, she said, to endeavor to elect sane, honest and upright men, irrespective of party. She sees a time, she told her audience, when politics will be a thing of the past.

There are matters in the national life, stated Dr. Gullen, which the women must face. The industrial world has yet to reconstruct itself with justice to employer and employee, and the women will have to do their part in bringing this about.

The Alien Problem

Another matter which Dr. Gullen thought needed the attention of all women was that of foreign immigrants. She was emphatic in her insistence that they should be obliged to become Canadian citizens, and adopt our habits, customs and language. If they are allowed to do as they please Canada will have foreign nations within her dominion, and will be in danger of being over-

GERMLESS KISSES.
Scientists tell us that kissing is unhealthy, that it transmits germs from one to the other.
Most people are willing to take the risk, but there are some who hanker after the pure and perfect kiss—the germless kiss!
According to The Popular Science Monthly, an invention has just been perfected which guarantees this. It is a tiny racket, after the style of those used for ping-pong. The netting is covered with an antiseptic strong enough to kill all germs.
So if you would have your kisses safe, get one of these rackets!

GRANT SIX

Holds to the Road at Any Speed

One of the striking features of the new Grant Six is its perfect balance.

Truly its Engineers have achieved marvels in weight distribution, just as they have indicated a remarkable advance in spring suspension.

The new Grant wins all by its performance. It sets a new pace for easy riding qualities. It marks a big step forward in high grade light weight car construction.

For it is essentially a fine car—finer mechanically, finer looking, finer finished, more carefully refined in details of construction than you are accustomed to expect and get in a car of its price.

It is really impossible to appreciate how much smarter and finer the new Grant Six is until you have seen and ridden in it.

We gladly invite you to come and inspect it now, and we suggest that you make a point of seeing it soon.

NEW YORK SCOFFS FIFTY CENT "GAS"

Oil and Automobile Conference Says Situation Not So Alarming

New York, May 29.—At the meeting of representatives of the Society of Automobile Engineers, the American Petroleum Institute and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the following points were brought out:

1. The present shortage and necessity for increasing the price of gasoline are the result of too little drilling last year and are, therefore, only temporary. There may be temporary shortages on the Pacific Coast and here and there throughout the country.
2. The figures show that of the crude oil refined last year the gasoline from each gallon was 22 per cent. In the Eastern section it was 22 per cent; in the west coast only 12 per cent; whereas in the Mid-west, where production is biggest, 35 per cent of gasoline was taken from each gallon of crude oil. With the Eastern and West coast companies using the cracking process, so generally used in the Mid-west section, a great increase in the quantity of gasoline is assured.
3. It is not believed that gasoline will go above 35 or 36 cents at retail. The 50 cents talk is nonsense.
4. Gasoline consumption during the last twelve months was less than production.
5. One prominent oil man stated that, as the present situation is the result of an emergency, the bid price on oil will remain high, but with the present bid price of $3.50 per barrel for crude oil in the Mid-west field more active drilling, with the resultant increased production, will follow.
6. The same oil man stated that with this increased production will come a lower price for gasoline. He believes that next year, 1921, gasoline should again sell at less than 30 cents per gallon.
7. The oil men advise the use of gasifiers; more careful designing of motors for greater economy in fuel consumption; that truck users should be warned against running motors when trucks are not moving, and that carburetor adjustment for economy should be a general practice with all cars.
8. The automobile manufacturers suggested the need for a better grade of gasoline, as the present falls of clean combustion and reaches the crank case, diluting the lubricating oil, with resultant damage to bearings; that the oil people should inform us at least a year or two in advance of the quality of gasoline that will be offered.

The storm, which had been brewing for some time was fast coming to a head. Mother-in-law was at the bottom of the quarrel.

"Ah, me!" sighed the young wife, "the days of chivalry are gone!"

"Chivalry be hanged!" was the husband's heated retort.

"Yes," continued Mrs. Newlywed, "Sir Walter Raleigh laid down his cloak on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk on, but you—you get angry simply because your mother sat down on your hat."

A break in the price of butter has been expected for some time, and the cut announced below is the most significant of the figures for the retail market issued to-day.

Generally the retail market is quiet, in neighboring towns, and the same condition is reflected here. NOT HER FAULT.

The young bride, after serving to her husband a dinner that was so so, said, as the dessert of mince pie was brought on:

"I intended, dear, to have some sponge cake, too but it was a total failure."

"How was that?" the husband asked, in a disappointed tone, for he was fond of sponge cake.

"The druggist," she explained, "sent me the wrong kind of sponges."

MERELY A SUGGESTION.

Short-Story Writer—"Don't you think the story would do if I boiled it down?"

Editor—"No, I'm sure it wouldn't. But I should try the action of heat on it in another way, if I were you."

CIVIL SERVANTS AND LABOR UNIONS.

To the Editor—As the civil servants of Victoria appear divided as to the advisability of becoming affiliated with the Trades and Labor Council a few pointers may be of benefit. In the first place, the interested labor official who is at great pains to point out the impossibility of ordering the civil servants out on strike, even though affiliated, is in error, possibly wilfully so. How is it that 4,000 shipyard workers were ordered out last summer, although it was against the strike law? At least five to one? The civil servants can be ordered out in exactly the same manner, and the rules of the Union inflict a more or less heavy fine on those who disobey the order. On becoming affiliated, the civil servants will elect a delegate (the electing will probably be done when there is the requisite number of "interested" electors present), and those civil servants who have joined the Union will be bound by his vote in the event of a general strike being called.

If we eliminate those Unions which were rushed into existence during the war merely to plunder the workers, there are still some thirty Unions in the city. One delegate to each Union gives us thirty delegates. Ten of these, including even the C. S. delegate, may vote against the strike, but a two-thirds majority of the delegates carries it.

The labor official is quoted in The Times as saying the Union had been instrumental in getting the wages of Union gardeners raised to $4. It is to laugh. There are gardeners around here who are earning $5, and they don't have to pull their forelock when the walking delegate passes by in his limousine.

A GASOLINE FAMINE.

To the Editor—From reports often seen and especially those from the oil companies themselves, a great shortage of gas must be looked for in the near future unless some one can step into the breach and manufacture a substitute. Without a doubt if the waste that has been allowed for quite a number of years had been stopped, or users of the precious fluid been more careful in the past, the day of reckoning would have been farther away. Still, there is ample time even now to conserve the supply and make it last years more, or until that day arrives with its substitutes.

The motor public have been looking in vain for the long-talked-of or promised electric storage battery. Electricity being so simple and cheap to produce, no doubt when the storage battery arrives that alone will reduce the consumption of oil considerably, for to produce electricity waste millwood or city garbage could be used to drive the motive power required. I have seen people rise out a suit of overalls in a quantity of gas will have sold to private people quantities just to dip a suit or blouse or some such article of apparel which could have been done in the old-fashioned way of washing with soap and water, a longer process, no doubt, for such hurrying times, but yet a saving on the ultimate cost and a useless waste of the precious gasoline.

The Victoria and Island Development Association will put out a pamphlet on the industrial opportunities offered here for the benefit of the intending manufacturers in the Province. The booklet shows an imposing list of industries in Victoria including the financial conditions locally and the natural and logical industries that can be supported on the raw materials to hand. Shipping, fish products, fruit, canning, woollens, hide tanning, box manufacturing, pulp and paper, and many allied industries are quoted and figures given as to their progressiveness. Talc and Silica are quoted in the mineral class.

A portion of the booklet deals with the facile arrangements that can be made to secure economical leases of the new industrial area of the Old Songhees Reserve, and points to the trend of development in that direction. The booklet is attractively got up and should be productive of much good.

HOPES TO INDUCE OFFICIAL ACTION

Former Resident of Port Renfrew Would Have Development Initiated

Sixty miles up from Victoria on the West Coast of Vancouver Island, in the edge of a virgin forest, lies the settlement of Port Renfrew. With its complement of logging, prospecting and other personnel usual to that type of outlying district, the San Juan district has hitherto been regarded as a little community much like that of its neighbors on the West Coast.

Lying on the southern shore of San Juan Harbor close to the head of the bay, Renfrew is capable of immense possibilities for development in timber and other resources. Mr. Wm. Murton, a former resident there, writing on the point, makes a number of suggestions that might bring some light into the question of economical expansion for this community.

His suggestion Mr. Murton offers the suggestion that all that is necessary to bring wonderful expansion and development to the community and, at the same time, reduce the Provincial burden of taxation on the sparsely tried population, is that an up-to-date harbor be made at Port Renfrew. This can be accomplished by placing a breakwater across the entrance to San Juan Bay. It could be done very economically, and would render San Juan Harbor one of the best in the Province and a distinct asset to the West Coast, he contends.

Timber, mineral and other natural resources lie waiting the hand of man, states Mr. Murton, and all that is necessary to commercialize the wealth of the ground is the harbor that will bring ocean-going vessels in touch with the products of the land.

In timber resources alone, he claims there are over 600,000 acres of merchantable timber, that figure not being a total of the larger stands alone—but of all woods, most of it suitable for pulp and fuel.

That there is a market for all the timber that can be put out in merchantable size there can be no doubt and in the pulp wood alone there is many a fortune waiting the concern with the necessary capital to commence operations.

Mr. Murton suggests that the government, taking Renfrew as the centre and a working base, explore that section of the island, utilize the timber limits and by forming a harbor at San Juan Port become owners of an industry that will bear any amount of exploitation in the markets of the world.

Lack of Transportation Mr. Murton's point in the establishment of a harbor is that other facilities of entry into that productive district are regrettably few, and that railways would be out of the question on the coast that they would be only enormous additional expenses that would have to be born by the government. A harbor, on is the direct result of impaired or congested kidneys. At the first suggestion of pain in the back in the region of the kidneys you should at once procure a box of and avoid the far more painful and dangerous results from the secretion of stones and gravel. Send for a free sample of Ginpills, or get a box from your druggist or dealer, 50c.

the other hand, once created is maintained with little expense in comparison, and would have the immediate effect of bringing vessels to the port for the raw material that is abundantly procurable in that virgin district.

Regarding government ownership of the timber industry for the purpose of control and development, Mr. Murton contends that as the taxation question in this Province is rapidly amounting to a crisis—any source of revenue that will not come directly from the pockets of the people will tend to relieve the burden that the latter already carry.

Mr. Murton points to the great development effected at Gray's Harbor entirely on the lumber business, which has built up Aberdeen, Hoquiam and Cosmopolis, and similar lines, in a generation.

It has to be admitted of course that the installation of a breaker at Port Renfrew would be expensive and that would come indirectly from the public pocket book—but the revenue arising out of the consequent development would offset the crushing taxation that the government has now to impose, in his judgment.

Figures on this point will form an interesting comparison in that the tax on the land at Renfrew amounts to but $140 per section of 640 acres. Timber on the stand as valued recently in Ontario was worth from $18 to $22 per thousand, and actually brought those prices to its owners in the lumber markets.

Mr. Murton argues that if timber is worth even only half that figure the government would still be clearing an enormous margin in developing a portion of the timber resources of the Province for the purpose of providing for itself a little of the accumulated wealth that oils the intricate mechanism of the delicate engine of the state.

Whether one agrees with Mr. Murton or not, the suggestions are worthy of more than passing thought, the point about development of natural resources by the government for the government, exchequer, as a relief to public taxation being a new idea that will require some exhaustive investigation before being pronounced unsatisfactory.

Want Parent-Teachers of Saanich to Unite Under Main Board

The annual election of officers took place last night at a meeting of the Craigflower Parent-Teachers' Association. Mr. Pidcock, president; Mrs. Lorimer, vice-president; Mrs. Witty, secretary-treasurer (re-elected), filled the new offices with an advisory board of Mrs. Palliser, Miss Ozard and Mr. Ives. The meeting was well attended.

An interesting address on the subject of a high school for Saanich was delivered to the assembly by Trustee P. C. Coates, chairman of the Saanich School Board. He pointed out that the opening of an arts extension in the Victoria High School would probably have the effect of crowding out the Saanich pupils of that institution, as it would encroach considerably on the already limited space at the city building.

The speaker rehearsed the ground under which the Board will ask for a high school, and sought wide support when the time came to promote the project of the Saanich High School. There are seven parent-teachers' associations in the municipality, it was stated, and last night a sincere effort was made to unite them all under one advisory board, with a representation of two members from each local to attend the main board. The preliminary discussion showed all in favor. It was also decided to hold the annual sports on the closing day of school, June 25, and a large programme of events has been drawn up. In closing $5 was voted to the Jubilee Hospital Fund.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN AND THE HOME

Shopping In Japan

By M. Leoda Crawford, in "The Tourist," of the Japan Tourist Bureau

Despite the influence of foreign civilization, Yokohama is attractively Japanese, from its rows of jirnikishas with their human steeds to the interesting shops filled with every variety of Japanese art. It is the fourth largest city of the Empire, and has a population of over four hundred thousand.

An Overwhelming Passion.

Our first expedition began opposite the Grand Hotel, where the shops were rather modern in size, architecture and mode of display, while prices far exceeded those in the quarter around Benten-dori and Honcho-dori. Here the fascinating products of Japanese art so excite the foreign taste that shopping becomes an overwhelming passion, in the gratifying of which one forgets fatigue, hunger and indeed all else but the joy of buying, and the charm of the soft-voiced merchant as he bows and smiles you through his treasures. The joy of this excessive politeness lies in the fact that it contains no element of selfishness, but bespeaks innate hospitality and goodwill without hope of gain, for whether you purchase or not your admiration for his wares meets the same gratitude.

Bargaining

But if "shopping in Japan" is poetry there is a prosy side, as full of excitement and interest as any feature of the expedition. This is the bargaining. To pay the first demand would be to show your ignorance of customs, and would raise the price upon any goods, and you are, therefore, interested. Hence, on the purchase of your first article the dickerer begins, and if one is wise he shows little interest in the thing he intends to purchase, making his offer as low as he is always refused—insisting along even leaving the shop, whereupon he will follow and present you with the article at a price which continues to grow smaller until it has reached the amount first offered. He wonderfully have they tutored their memories to retain impressions, that days after visiting a shop its owner may stop your carriage as you pass, with, "Please, missie, you pay more to-day," and when you refuse he looks sad: "So sorry missie no can do." This performance may be repeated several times before your offer is finally accepted, after which you are besought with bows and smiles to enter his shop and have tea.

Patronage Wanted

On emerging from doorway's one is accosted by a dozen "kurumayas," who wheel their tiny carriages to the very threshold of their eager rivalry for patronage, and though you prefer to walk, you will be followed down the street and accosted at the door of every shop until at last you make a choice to ride. These "runners" are licensed "kurumayas," they belong to the lower class of coolies, such as one finds around the docks and stations, for the better class of a regular and orderly carriage is engaged at the first class hotels. If these many pass examinations and become authorized guides, and from this guild I chose a little brown boy named Yama, who proved himself intelligent. While I retained his services during my brief sojourn in Yokohama and vicinity, and felt genuine regret when our final "sayonara" had been said. And now, recalling the many adventures which my feet have carried me in sunshine and rain, through city and country, over hills and stony paths, I feel that the few yen he received were but poor recompense for the chief merriment of his happy delusion that he spoke English well was so touching that I found myself continually deceiving him into the belief that I understood perfectly his woful attempts.

Yama's dress was picturesque beyond description. A very tight-fitting dark blue cotton trousers reached to his ankles, while on his sockless feet he wore sandals of straw. The back of his short kimono coat of the same color was decorated with a large white ideogram of his guild, and surmounting all this the curious umbrella-shaped hat of woven bamboo. From the right shaft of his tiny carriage hung a piece of cotton crepe decorated with poems and birds with which, at intervals, he wiped his perspiring face.

This little two-wheeled "kuruma" is a sort of miniature phaeton, quite comfortable and the chief mode of travel throughout Japan. The "kurumaya," or coolie who pulls it, makes about four miles an hour.

Dreams of the Orient

Having crossed a wooden bridge over the wide canal that divides Japanese town from the Settlement, my dreams of the Orient became real. Later I was able to segregate and analyze and appreciate the many strange new things that met my gaze, but the first impression was one wildly fascinating conglomeration of gay shops, waving flags, fluttering draperies, slanting poles, strung with strips of brilliant colors, small blue-clad men with glaring white scrolls upon their backs, girls with spots of vermilion on cheek and lip, crowds of children with babies strapped tightly to their backs, the click, click of stilted shoes, and the reverberating notes of sweet-toned gongs!

Here the miles of unpainted shops and houses are wedged so closely together that they appear as one great spreading gabled roof of blue-gray tile, and are so low that from the street one can almost touch the narrow latticed balcony across the upper story. The front of the shop is entirely open, the door being raised at least a foot above the street, and at the entrance one sees many straw and wooden sandals awaiting those within. Upon the floor lies a soft thick matting, and if the day be chilly the "hibachi" is placed in the centre of the room. Here the vendor warms his hands, lights his tiny pipe, or brews the cup of tea with which he treats the customer.

The symbols and vertical writings in white upon the widths of dark blue cotton crepe which screen the shop fronts are in pleasing harmony with the blue dress of the laborer, whose calling is denoted by the ideogram in white upon his back. These fantastic calligraphic combinations form no small part in the artistic ornamentation of the land, appearing as they do, in city and country, chisled in rock and metal, carved on wood and ivory, woven into fabrics and brushed upon tissues.

Umbrella Makers

Very interesting and picturesque were the umbrella makers, sitting upon their heels, cutting bamboo splints, shaping oiled paper, or brushing upon the finished piece, strange geometrical figures.

Here we found many streets but eight or ten feet wide, mere alleys, where were wedged thousands of shops whose laborers used the same methods and implements in vogue hundreds of years ago. Here, entering one of these, a "tea" shop, we were astonished at the wonderful display of decorated rice cakes artistically and fantastically cut. There were bronze bells painted and shaded in natural tones with powdered tea leaves veined and edged with ground maple-seeds, and many other dainty forms. They were most delicious too, served with tiny cups of pale green tea, which we enjoyed while watching the shopkeepers place into pretty wooden boxes our selection of cakes. This was done with studious care and that notorious disregard for time which is certainly going towards making ends meet must entail; when we could look forward to spending our vacations without having to lightheartedly of the credit side of the ledger.

Yet—and it does seem incongruously inconsistent—never has any of us known a Spring when money flowed so freely, when merry-making so flourished; when clothes were so gay, or so expensive. Why? One is not quite sure unless there be the psychological reason that as people become discouraged in one direction they seek solace in another.

On the Abacus

When paying for our purchases we look care as usual to watch a merchant's rapid calculation on the abacus, which is always used even in the most trivial accounts. Some days later, possessing myself of one of these little counting frames, I endeavored to unravel its mystery, but Yama's first attempt at assistance considerably dampened my ardor, and the second killed the ambition entirely; and so, for all my watching and poking, I never saw the mechanism at work, its secret is still quite safe.

It was growing late as we mounted our jirnikishas, and as darkness came on, Yama fastened to my carriage a lighted paper lantern, which danced and bobbed an accompaniment of his trotting feet as we bumped over cobbled streets, turned sharp corners, recrossed the wooden bridge and swept into the city avenues. Here, where business practically closes with the day, all was dark except upon the more modern streets, where the car lines, where an occasional arc-light revealed dark shops closed with wooden shutters for the night, with here and there an open tea-house, fruit stand or flower shop. Among the unfamiliar sounds that greeted our ears none impressed us as did the high-pitched voice of the blind masseur—for in Japan massage is the profession of the blind, and is practiced upon by no other guild—and his plaintive call upon the night air is one of the cities' familiar sounds.

UNIQUE FAD.

Women have actually been going without stockings in Paris—as a protest, it is recorded, against the excessive price of silk. The fair-Parisienne will have silk—or nothing—where hosiery is concerned; and since she feels she can no longer afford to buy stockings, she goes to a gala occasion she decides to do without any stockings at all. Several young women, well and sufficiently dressed in other respects, have been noted on the boulevards of Paris quite sans hosiery; their smart walking shoes or slippers donned over the bare foot. Children were seen at play everywhere without stockings, their bare little legs sun-tanned from knee to instep.

America would certainly look askance at such a style—even in the little folk—and though the American woman this Spring wears her skirts much longer than in former times it is scarcely probable that the stock-length vogue will obtain in this country. At any rate, the American woman feels—and rightly—that the smart buttons walking boot cuts same hosiery, in company with silk hosiery of new openwork pattern. These openwork ribbed stockings are particularly fashionable, and the favorite shades seem to be putty gray and navy blue.

MODES FOR THE SUMMER MAID'S EVERY MOOD.

Bathing suit of taffeta and striped wool jersey.

There have been Springs—and they are still fresh within the memory of all of us—when life was far more simple; when we were not harassed throughout the days of one month with doubts as to where we would lodge the next; when we could go about our business quietly and with out the nervous strain that bending every effort incessantly towards making ends meet must entail; when we could look forward to spending our vacations without having to lightheartedly of the credit side of the ledger.

Yet—and it does seem incongruously inconsistent—never has any of us known a Spring when money flowed so freely, when merry-making so flourished; when clothes were so gay, or so expensive. Why? One is not quite sure unless there be the psychological reason that as people become discouraged in one direction they seek solace in another.

When paying for our purchases we look care as usual to watch a merchant's rapid calculation on the abacus, which is always used even in the most trivial accounts. Some days later, possessing myself of one of these little counting frames, I endeavored to unravel its mystery, but Yama's first attempt at assistance considerably dampened my ardor, and the second killed the ambition entirely; and so, for all my watching and poking, I never saw the mechanism at work, its secret is still quite safe.

CULINARY KINKS.

When you are using egg white to cover croquettes or other things that are to be dipped in crumbs beat the white only until it is broken, not until it is frothy. Add one tablespoonful of hot—not boiling—water for each white, if you use the yolk with the white add two tablespoonfuls for the entire egg.

Never use the yolk only for this purpose.

When frosting a cake first sprinkle lightly with starch in order to prevent the frosting from spreading rapidly when put on the cake.

Association Helps

Widows and Orphans of Fallen Patriots

A great work has been carried on in British Columbia by an organization which is little heard of outside its own city. Organized over three years ago, the "Widows, Orphans and Mothers' Association of Vancouver" has been instrumental in furthering the interests of the widows and orphans of those who died in the war. How well the association has carried out its objective in looking after war widows and war orphans may best be judged by the fact that it has practically taken the place of the fallen hero in an endeavor to render all the necessary support to the bereft families. Realizing the inadequacy of the pensions in many cases, and knowing that the struggle for existence has been made harder by higher living costs, the association has been doing its utmost to have the pensions increased.

During a recent visit in Victoria, Mrs. Kemp, president of the association, in conversing with members of the Government, said: "It is our duty, as citizens, to keep you men at the head of affairs conversant with the needs of the people and with the conditions so that you may know how to make laws to meet these requirements. It is always our aim to present just and absolutely correct statements of facts to the members of Parliament in order to help the Government adjust the affairs of the nation, which we believe they will do and that they will see that the people get justice." "Meantime, the association has been rendering assistance wherever possible and to be able to do so, has had to raise funds. This help is not charity. It is merely an expression of gratitude which the whole nation should feel for those who have fallen."

fewer and the end is not yet in sight. It may be as a relief from these daily and hourly problems that you and I and the rest of us are rushing about, making ends meet must entail; when we could look forward to spending our vacations without having to lightheartedly of the credit side of the ledger.

Some Interesting Facts About the Fair Sex

The Belgium Senate has passed the woman suffrage bill. More than one hundred women are employed as chemists by German industrial companies. St. Mary's Catholic Church in Phoenix, Ariz., bars women wearing low necked dresses. About ninety per cent. of the commodities used in the American homes are purchased by women. Women will be admitted as students to the new Harvard Graduate School of Education. It is no uncommon sight in Spain to see women smoking cigarettes while dining. Before being married in Norway, a girl must first secure a certificate showing that she can cook. Girls graduating from Barton College, Mobile, Ala., this Summer will wear gingham dresses. About two hundred women employees of the army supply base in Norfolk, Va., have formed an overall club. Nurses in the United States army will hereafter wear uniforms of khaki instead of the regulation navy blue. A new marriage law, which strengthens the wife's independence, has been passed by the Swedish Parliament. The words and music of the national hymn of the Transvaal Republic were composed by a Dutch woman—Mlle. Catherine F. van Rees. Billiards have superseded dancing as an after dinner pastime in England and the women's billiard clubs are springing up all over the country. Dr. Alice Salomon has established a school in Germany which teaches a special course for training women of the working class to do social work. The only woman violin maker in Ohio and probably in the United States is Mrs. J. W. Klein, of Norwalk. The instruments are all of her own make. Halide Edib, the most prominent woman leader among the Turkish Nationalists, has been appointed Minister of Education of the new Republic of Ankara. Daisy Norton and Catherine Lochrey, of Jamaica, L.I., acted as firemen on a Long Island Railroad shifting engine during the recent strike of railroad workers. With the addition of 5,000,000 new women to the voting lists in England, feminine voters there will now outnumber the men by probably more than one million. In the one year that Mrs. Jane Maxwell, sixty-two years old, has been the town marshal of Percy, Ill., there have been no arrests. Her only weapon has been her worthy smile. Miss Eliza Bass, of Lumberton, N.C., has had her coffin and burial robe for several years, having had it made to order in Lumberton. Miss Bass, who keeps the coffin under her bed, has made her own burial clothes and even purchased her tombstone. Despite these preparations she is active and healthy at the age of eighty-five.

Offensive Display

In Store Windows Draus Criticism

It is not unreasonable to prophesy that there may be a movement against the display of women's undergarments with which many stores endeavor to attract customers. A woman's paper published in Canada has already given publicity to the fact that such displays are offensive to women who would much prefer that the intimacies of a woman's wardrobe were on exhibition inside the stores and not in the windows. "The publication says that many men's garments show that which though charming and dainty should not be pictured for the public gaze. "Women's dressing-room scenes draw crowds amongst whom are male loiterers utterly devoid of any respect for womanhood, and their remarks are the source of burning indignation in decent women. Dealers in women's wear are by such displays catering to the worst element amongst women, to the thriftless, the luxurious and to those who in turn cater to the worst element amongst men. And perhaps they do not know that by the same means they are antagonizing many of their best customers."

"It is reasonable to suppose that they are personally interested in keeping up respect for womanhood, and any appeal on this ground would meet with a ready response."

Milady Selects Her Shoes

For Comfort as Well as for Beauty

Are you one of those women who when they go into a shop to buy a pair of shoes, are so intent upon style and price that they fail to consider that other and more important matter, how to make the feet comfortable?

In selecting shoes one of the first things to consider is the shape of the foot. If you have a high arch and a high instep, you will not be comfortable in a flat shoe; if you have a low arch you will not be comfortable in a high heeled shoe. In neither case should the curve or arch of the foot actually rest upon the curve of the sole of the shoe. Pain akin to that of toothache often results from even a slight pressure of the nerve of the arch directly upon the sole of the shoe. The springy strength of the normal foot is perfectly able to support the weight of the body.

In order to preserve the natural shape of the foot and to prevent deformities it is essential to see that the inside line of the shoe does not step on to the very nearly straight. A sharply curved shoe distorts the toes and often causes painful deformities. The inner length of the shoe should be two-thirds of an inch greater than the length of the foot when you are standing with the weight of the body on it. The surplus is necessary to allow for the stretching and spreading of the shoe during the course of the day. The increase is often as great as half an inch. Have the salesman measure both your feet, for there is usually an appreciable difference between them. A shoe that is too short will cause enlarged joints and finally bunions. A shoe that is too long will turn up slightly at the toe.

It is also essential to consider the width of the shoe. One that is too narrow not only will pinch the foot, but will bulge at the sides after the first weeks of wear, and thus lose its trimness of shape. The difference between one size and the next is an amount hardly perceptible to the eye, and certainly not great enough to make it worth while to squeeze the foot into a shoe that is too small. Too loose will usually cause abrasions of the skin—that is, blisters or chafed places. A shoe when buttoned or laced should fit snugly, especially at the heel.

For dry weather walking shoes, shoes of medium weight leather, vegetable tanned and porous, allow for the evaporation of both the sensible and the insensible perspiration.

NO MEN GRADUATE FOR SOCIAL SERVICE

Dr. Falconer Says States of Mind Is Cause of Unrest

Toronto, June 5.—"It seems to me as I look abroad, as all of us do in these troubled days, and speculate on what is to come, that what is at the root of our trouble is not economic. It is a state of mind," President Sir Robert Falconer told the graduating class of thirty-seven in social service at the closing exercises in Convocation Hall. "It is a disease. People everywhere are irritable. But what is really at the root of it is a lack of goodwill." To the social service workers was given the task of going out from the university and attempting to restore and promote goodwill.

A change of mind in the functions of a university had come, he stated. It was now recognized that the university existed not merely to provide instruction from Montreal. Proceeding anything which would provide good for the people should flow from the university. "The people of the province have a right to expect from the university, the staff and the graduates not merely intellectual training, but service," he stated.

ADMONITION.

The times are grave and wise men mourn. The quiet folk are overborne. Nor simple advice has any praise; Debt counts as wealth and pulp as gold. Hard work is shame and thrift is greed. Only the bad are overbold. Take heed! Take heed! Riot and Luxury and Strife Go forward to their certain goal. The angry tongue, the seared life Burn like a furnace in the soul. This is our lot, our fate, our doom. Bearing with unrepented speed. Our own and our dear Country's all, Take heed! Take heed!

We need our father's nobler ways, Old virtues founded on their Faith, Their quiet homes, their ordered days, Their joy in work, their gain in Death, Shall we who love them, not proclaim Their merits for the present need. Their censure on our modern shame. Take heed! Take heed! —H. B. in The London Times.

A STAMP HINT.

A stamp without mucilage may be quickly attached to an envelope by rubbing it on the mucilage of the envelope when it is moistened and you are sealing it. Rub the back of the stamp on the ends furthest from the point of the envelope flap and you will find both envelope and stamp will stick well when the mucilage bottle is not handy.

Budget Speech Favorably Affects Victory Bonds The Minister of Finance announced that no new loans are to be issued during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1921. New taxes are imposed, increasing public revenues by $100,000,000 and enabling a reduction of the loans outstanding by $70,000,000 per annum.

Funds available for investment are increasing rapidly. Bank deposits alone increased by $88,000,000 in March, and now stand at $2,453,000,000, as compared with $2,064,000,000 a year ago.

The bonds are unequalled as collateral and are instantly marketable. The exemption from Dominion income taxes is now still more important. The present yield of 5.43% to 6.61%, according to maturity, are most excellent, as compared with the pre-war yield of 3.90%.

We cannot too strongly recommend that those with funds, either large or small, should purchase and permanently hold a substantial proportion of their investments in Government bonds. We have every facility for handling War Loans and give special attention to this business.
