CCORDING to a dispatch from Indianapolis, Ind., the governor of that state has been indicted by the Marion county exceeded that of any previous grand jury.

The charges in the indictment are numerous and in-our states under indictment on practically the same counts, the other being the governor of Oklahoma, who was indicted a short time ago. The latter, it will be remembered, was removed from his office by the legislature on impeachment charges.

R EADING over the specific charges will probably leave conflicting ideas in different minds. Some will look at these ex posures as an evidence of the loosening of morals in our public offi-

We do not accept this point of view. It is our opinion that such disclosures show that the citizens are demanding of their public officials the same confluct and efficiency as is expected in other lines of business. The time is past when grafters and boodlers can represent the citizens of any community and the house cleaning going on throughout the country in a political way will be of immense value to the country at large. The time will come and we hope in the near future, when men of known integrity and efficiency will be glad to seek office instead of running away from it as they are now doing.

OTHING will make political office worth accepting like raising the plane so an honest man may hold the position without being under suspicion.

Too much criticism of public officials is continually going the rounds. It does a grave injustice to many and in addition keeps the real men of the communities from accepting the responsibility of of-

THANKSGIVING DAY MAGNOLIA PARK IS IDEAL SITE FOR HOMES, STORES

"We are all, by nature, beauty lovers," said M. Reiss, prominent attorney of Los Angeles and president of the Magnolia Park Develop-ment company, which is subdividing Magnolia Park for Earl L. White, the owner, "and one of the phenomena brought about by this trait has interested me very much in watching the growth and devel-opment of Magnolia Park. "A surprisingly large number of persons came here to buy two or more lots in this tract merely for the future speculative value of their holdings in the vicinity of Pioneer boulevard, which shortens the route to Hollywood and Los 'Angeles from all points in San Fernando valley by about four and onehalf miles. These factors, together with several others, which insured splendid profits to investors, brought great numbers of people out to this tract. Nature, however, has beautified this level mesa with a lavish hand. To the north and east rise the ma-jestic Verdugo Hills. To the south isolated peaks gradually merge into a beautiful range of mountains. At an elevation of 600 feet, insuring against fogs in winter and extreme land which cradles Magnolia Park. Magnolia Park is a new communand shacks of by-gone days to in-terfere with the enjoyment of all

"The desire to make a home for their families in this ideal home-site spot soon developed. How site spot soon developed. How thoroughly this desire was carried out can be seen by the large num-ber of homes already built and in process of building. To supply the demand that will be created by this new community, a splendid busi-ness district will soon be in existence about the nucleus which is already formed. Plans are now un-der way for a solid block of stores, with offices above for the professions, on Pioneer boulevard. EMERSON SCHOOL GIVES NUTTING PARTY

The Emerson School of Self Expression entertained the students of the junior departments at the studio yesterday afternoon, with a MRS. WIDDOWS HOSTESS nutting party, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Floral decorations of asparagus fern and ivy and large bowls of cut flowers were arranged about the rooms in an artistic manner and sprays of asparagus fern tied with large yel-low crepe bows hung from the electroliers and at the windows.

After the guests arrived they were presented with fancy pieces of card board from which they were to fashion boxes, and prizes were awarded to those who excelled in this work. A search for the nuts was then begun and each person return with a well filled box. Much zest was shown in the tive prizes were presented to the winners who are as follows: "Blind holy bonds of matrimony Robert D. EAGLE ROCK NOTES

After stopping every few feet last night, for many minutes, Eagle Rock car No. 618 finally stopped traffic in all directions at the corner of First and Broadway. The car started to go down Broadway, at least the front wheels did. until those in the rear decided to go straight on. The result was that the car stopped midway, with the rear trucks swung away out from under the body of the car. The inctorman then disconnected the front switch and managed to back the car onto the same track. Meanwhile, a crowd appeared from how to run a street car to the goodnatured motorman. It is thought that the conductor let the switch drop too soon, thus causing the

TIMELY TIPS FOR. WINTER DRIVERS

How to Prepare Your Car for the Cold Weather

Burned out bearings and scored cylinder walls are a possibility during the freezing weather, if you neglect the precaution of draining the old oil out of the crank case at least once every 500 miles. The reason for this is, that during the cold weather there is considerable moisture in the air, which is drawn into the crank case through the oil breather pipe. This moisture, immediately it strikes the hot walls inside the crank case, condenses, with the result that it is not long before quite an amount of water collects at the bottom of the crank case. During the summer, this water cannot do a great deal of damage, but when the zero weather arrives, it is liable to cause very severe damage.

This water collects at the lowest point in the crank case and it is at this point that the oil pump or the end of the pipe leading to the oil pump is located. When the motor is standing idle, this water naturally settles at the bottom of the oil pump and freezes the pump mechanism together or freezes around the bottom of the oil pump any oil. When you go to start up the engine, as the pump mechanism together or freezes around the bottom of the oil pipe, so preventing the pump from drawing up any oil. When you go to start up the engine, as the pump gear and casing is frozen, something and a very short space of time you have a set of burned out bearings and scored cylinder walls, damage that may cost you anything up to $150.00 to repair.

For the cold weather, use a slightly lighter grade of lubricating oil

For the cold weather, use a slightly lighter grade of lubricating oil in the crank case than you have been using during the summer. If the oil is too heavy, it does not start circulating fast enough, with the result that some parts of the engine do not get properly indicated until the engine warms up and thins out the heavy oil. Consult the chart issued by one of the large oil companies, and use the grade of oil they recommend for your make of car for winter driving. A cover for the radiator is not an absolute necessity, but is one of the things that will soon save you its small cost and will also add considerably to your comfort when driving dur-ing the cold weather. If you have no cover for the radiator, the engine takes considerable time to warm up on account of the cold air being drawn through the radiator. You can warm up the engine in half the time by buttoning up the flap of the cover, so preventing the flap of the cover, so preventing the radiator. Then again, when driving during the zero weather, if you have no cover on the radiator, the cold air is drawn right through and strikes the floor boards, creating a draft that because the strength cold. you have no cover on the radiator, the cold air is drawn right through and strikes the floor boards, creating a draft that keeps the feet extremely cold. One of the greatest enemies to efficient engine operation is the dilution of the lubricating oil with gasoline. As you probably know, heat assists the vaporization of gasoline. If, however, a cold blast of air is continually passing over the Intake Manifold and the Carburetor, it keeps them cold, and to a certain extent condenses the mixture that is being drawn into the cylinders. The gasoline then enters the cylinders in drops, instead of finely broken up particles of gasoline. Only a small proportion of this coarse mixture is fired, the remainder of it settling on the tops of the pistons and on the cylinder walls and is drawn down into the crank case, mixing with the lubricating oil and destroying its lubricating properties. with the lubricating oil and destroying its lubricating properties. There are several more reasons why you should use a radiator cover, but I think I have given you enough to prove that if your car is not at present provided with a radiator cover, it will pay you to invest

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK

'My daughter, it is your faith that has cured you. Go in peace and be free from your disease." Even as he spoke people came from the house of the leader of the synagogue and said, "Your daughter is dead. Why should you trouble the Master any further?' But Jesus paid no attention to what they said, but said to the leader of the synagogue,

"Do not be afraid, just have faith."

He let no one go with him but Peter, James, and James' brother John. They came to the house of the leader of the synagogue, and there he found everything in confusion, and people weeping and wailing. And he went into the house and said to them,

"What is the meaning of all this confusion and crying? The child is not dead, she is asleep." And they laughed at him. But he drove them all out, and took the child's father and mother and the men who were with him and went into the room where the child was lying. And he grasped her hand

And the little girl immediately got up and walked about, for she was twelve years old. The moment they saw it they were utterly amazed. And he strictly forbade them to let anyone know of it, and told them to give her something to

Leaving there he went, followed by his disciples, to his own part of the country. When the Sabbath came he began to teach in the synagogue. And the people were astonished when they heard him and said,

Where did he get all this? How does he come to have such wisdom? How are such marvelous things done through him? Is he not the carpenter, Mary's son, and the brother of James, Joses, Judas, and Simon? And do not his sisters live here among us?"

And they took offense at him. Jesus said to them,

"A prophet is treated with honor everywhere except in his native place and among his relatives and at his home."

He could not do any wonder there, except that he put his hands on a few sick people and cured them. And he wondered at their want of faith. Then he went around among the villages teaching. And he called the Twelve to him and sent them off two by two, giving them power over the foul spirits. He forbade them to take anything for the journey except a staff-no bread, no bag, no small change even in their girdles; they were to go in sandals, and not to wear two shirts. And he said to them,

"Whenever you go to stay at a house, remain in it till you leave that place. If any place refuses to receive you or to listen to you, when you leave it shake off the very dust from the soles of your feet as a warning to them. So they went out and preached that men should repent, and drove out many demons, and cured many sick people by anointing them with oil. King Herod heard of him, for his name was now well known, and people were saying that John the baptizer had risen from the dead, and that that was why he was endowed with thee extraordinary powers. But others said he was Elijah, and still others that he was a prophet of the old prophetic kind. But when Herod heard of him he said,

John, whom I beheaded, has risen from the dead." For it was Herod who had sent and seized John and bound him and put him in prison, on account of Herodias, his brother Philip's wife, because Herod had married her. John said to Herod, 'It is not with for you to be living with your brother's Herodias felt bitterly toward him and wanted him killed. But she could not bring it about, for Herod stood in awe of John, knowing that he was an upright and holy man, and he protected him. And when he heard him talk he was very much disturbed, and yet he liked to hear him. When a holiday came and Herod on his birthday gave a banquet to his courtiers and officers and to the leading men of Galilee, Herodias' own daughter came in and danced for them. And Herod and his guests were delighted, and the king said to the

Come away by yourselves to some quiet place, and rest a little while. For people were coming and going in large numbers, and they had no time even for meals. So they set off by themselves in their boat for a secluded place. And many people saw them start and knew of it, and hurried around by land from all the neighboring towns, and got ahead of them. So when he got out of the boat, he found a great crowd gathered, and his heart was touched at the sight of them, because they were like sheep that have no shepherd; and he proceeded to teach them a great deal. When it grew late his disciples came up to him and said,

This is a lonely place and it is getting late. Send the people off to the farms and villages around to buy themselves something to eat.

But he answered, 'Give them food yourselves."

They said to him, 'Can we go and buy forty dollars' worth of bread and give it to them to eat? But he said to them, "How many loave have you? Go and see."

They looked, and told him. Five, and two fish."

And he directed them all to sit down in parties on the fresh grass. And they threw themselves down in groups, in hundreds and in fifties. FRANCIS W. READ Just what advantage rests with the football team that is confident of a victory? What effect has the psychological attitude of the player before the game upon the happenings that take place on the field? These questions are not fre quently asked in speaking of football, for everyone realizes that the mental attitude has a great deal to dol with any kind of competition. Some time ago in this column we commented on the motto: "A team that won't be beat can't be beat." This is true in a certain sense, and yet there are times when it does not apply. However, it with confidence of a victory has an advantage over its opponents. By confidence we do not overconfidence. an admission of defeat if not worse. Overconfidence makes a team althat their opponents are so far init has a real battle before it, perhaps an uphill one. It is that kind of confidence that usually wins for a team. There is a great psychological advantage in real confidence coupled with determination. Confidence and determination in this sense might be used synonomously. A team that is really confident of victory is determined to win and to fight hard every minute to win. A team that is determined that it is worth is confident of the victory. On the other hand, a team going into a game feeling that it is the under dog, that it cannot win and is outclassed, is defeated before it enters the field. It has not great American game back where been outplayed, it has quit before it belongs." the game started. This has been demonstrated so many times that Illustrations are unnecessary. The advantage in a football team lies with the confident and determined The team that expects a defeat or the team that is so confident that it will not work, is beaten before the kickoff.

> CAPTAINS CUBS NEXT SEASON

Cecil Hollingsworth, husky lineman of the Southern Branch football team, was yesterday announced as captain of the 1924 Cub gridders. Hollingsworth has been one of the most dependable line men on the team for the last two years and his election is a popular Baldwin one. He succeeds Walt Wescott, onas tackle, who led this year's outfit. In addition to Westcott, Art Jones and Cap Haralson will not be back next season. These are the only men Coach Jimmy Cline loses and unless some unforeseen calamity ensues the Cubs shouldfinish high in next year's race.

"The Champion," Another of the Willys-Knight Line is Getting Its Share of Favorable Comment From Stem to Stern It's a Real Car

That especially equipped Willys-Knight car, just built for Mr. and Mrs. Jot Woods, 1739 Del Valle avenue, Glendale, is, without doubt, one of the classiest bits of automobile in this section of the country. It is a car of which anyone might well feel proud. It was delivered to them this week by the Smith-Sloan, Inc., 226 South Brand, local Willys-Knight dealers.

This car is equipped with everything that makes motoring worth while, from the very latest thing in the way of a California top, down to modern bumpers. The have often wondered if it were better That a few people should be very happy And many miserable. Or that all people should be a little happy And none miserable.

And I have wondered, too, if it were better That a few people should have a great deal. And a great many people nothing at all.
Or that all people should have a little,
And nobody nothing.

I have wondered as well if it were better That some lives should be filled with gladness, And many lives be empty, Or that many lives have in them a little gladness, And no lives be empty.

And I have felt uncomfortable sometimes, Sitting by a warm fire, With a full stomach, And being comfortable and well fed. When I knew that many were out in the cold, With empty stomachs And shivering bodies.

And I thought to write it down In a kind of a poem, Unrythmical and disjointed, As life is sometime,

In the hope that more of us would feel like evening things up, . Sharing our blessings

And making a flower grow where none grows now.

Whimsical Film Is "The Clean Up" At the Glendale

Supported by a notable cast, Herbert Rawlinson comes to the Glendale Theatre today in his latest Universal starring vehicle, "The Clean Up," a whimsical com-edy marked by startling adventures and many thrills.

"The Clean Up" is the screen adaptation of a story by H. H. Van Loan, author of several photoplay hits. It tells the adventures of the grandson of an eccentric millionaire, who to teach the youth the value of money, leaves every inhabitant of the village a fortune, but nothing to his grandson. With John Gilbert in the title role and Gertrude Olmsted in the feminine lead, the picture will open Sunday at the Glendale Theatre. Few stage plays plays scored so heavily on the road as "Cameo Kirby." The story centers about a picturesque Mississippi river gambler of a former sippi river gambler of a former generation, who shoots straight and deals squarely, winning eventually when hearts are trumps.

And the Cars Came

Railroads Make Good on Promise to Move All Business Offered

A low freight rate and no cars in which to ship is as unsatisfactory as a low price for bread and no bread. Heretofore, fall harvest has brought a widespread car shortage. Last year it was 140,000 cars. This year there is generally a surplus of cars throuhout the country and especially of box cars in the West and Northwest, notwithstanding the roads are handling the greatest volume of business in their history.

There's a Reason! For 1923, all the railroads of the United States joined in a co-operative effort and with a defined program to improve traffic conditions and to establish new standards of service, even excelling pre-war records. In fulfilling this program 134,636 new freight cars and 2,963 new locomotives were put in service between January and October, 1923, a larger number than in any similar period within the past ten years.

Remarkable progress has been made in reducing the number of locomotives and cars awaiting repairs, 86.3 per cent of the Iccomotives and 93.3 per cent of the cars being in serviceable condition in October. More railroad coal has been placed in stock pile storage and more commercial coal dumped at Lake Erie ports than in any previous year, thus making equipment available for other necessary traffic during peak periods.

From an average movement of 22 miles per car per day (including idle time) in 1921, the railroads made 29.2 miles in September, 1923. In the 42 weeks from January 1 to October 20, 1923, the railroads loaded and moved 40,545,920 cars, which was an increase of 18% over 1922 and 10% over the record year of 1920.

Isn't this a splendid tribute to the efficiency of the carriers and the co-operation of shippers? The roads are spending this year 700 million dollars for new equipment and 400 million dollars for other improvements. Years ago James J. Hill, the great railroad builder of the Northwest, said that the roads must spend one billion dollars, every year for additions and betterments to keep abreast of the country's growing traffic, but this is the first year in twelve that the railroads have found it possible to obtain that amount. Such expenditures have a vital bearing on national prosperity, contributing to the expansion of industry and employment of labor, increasing the demand for products of mine, forest and

This $1,100,000,000 being spent in 1923 is almost entirely new money, and not taken from earnings. The expenditure is based on the conviction that the American people will encourage compensatory rates and discourage attempts to embarass the railroads in their efforts to provide adequate service. It is not predicted on present earnings for even in this record-breaking year, it is unlikely that the roads will earn the 5.75% on their valuation permitted by the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Transportation Act, but which if they do not earn they do not get.

Anti-railroad laws produce no freight cars. Constructive suggestions are always welcome.

Not only does real estate carry on an average between 75 per cent and 95 per cent of the whole of local tax levies, but there is a further unjust situation in the distribution of the tax burden among the owners of real estate, real estate groups throughout the National Association of Real Estate Boards are pointing out. Development of more scientific methods of tax apportionment so as to reach each man according to his actual holdings is a feature of tax reform campaigns in several states.

A campaign for standardizing assessments in the state of New York has been inaugurated by the New York State Association of Real Estate Boards. Weights of the state association and of New York local boards will be thrown in favor of modern full-value assessing. Standard assessment methods will be put before local assess-ors and committees of each local board will be formed to cooperate with city officials in regard to the local situation.

Small Single-Family Dwellings Are Much in Demand Value of Building Work is Unprecedented Plenty of Money for Realty Deals

The American real estate market, conservative index of American business conditions, has been more active during the season just coming to a close than during any other season in the business history of the continent, according to a survey of real estate conditions generally throughout the United States and Canada just completed by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

LETS KNOW A FEW CALIFORNIA

By Charles H. Shinn, U. S. Forest Service

In spite of California town camps, Forest camps, Park camps, to which pure vater is piped, we all get acquainted with many sorts of water-loving trees, among them the nine species of willows, one of which is the very same Black Willow found over the eastern states. Perhaps the "Weeping Willow" is the mind-picture that comes to all of us: but that sort, though a favorite near the wells of our grandfathers, was planted there and is not native to America. Ours, though somewhat "willowy," do not weep" much. Seven of the nine have the typical long-pointed narrow leaves, the other two-the mountain white and the mountain black, distinguished by their light or dark gray bark-have leaves broader in proportion to their length and rounded at the ends. All willows have at the foot of each leaf-stem and more strongly at the base of each shoot, a pair of odd little ear-shaped, leaf-like growths that are sometimes dropped during the summer, but most often persist and help us tell the willows from other trees. All the willows, too, have catkins (beginning be-fore the leaves as "bussy willows") for blossoms, and all have quininebitter bark. If you want to be perfectly sure a tree is a willow, off a tiny bit of the bark and taste None of the California tree barks is at all poisonous, and unless you are careless enough to have cut into poison-oak you will have had only an experience

The willows are not tall trees, seldom over fifty feet and more often from 20 to 40 feet high, the mountain sorts less than that and divided into many stems.

Even well-trained botanists, with all material at hand and a good glass, sometimes have difficulty in distinguishing species of willows from each other. It is enough for the rest of us to know that a willow is a willow, and to enjoy its beauty and shade, from the "pussies" of spring to the lemon-yellow foliage of fall.

PACIFIC READY-CUT HOMES EMBODY NEW FEATURES

The doors of a new model bungaw were opened recently on the exhibition grounds of Pacific Ready-Cut homes in Los Angeles and visitors were admitted to view what is believed to be one of the most complete small homes ever erected. According to Mr. Low, of the Low Building company, local distributors of these homes, the model home embodies more than 25 new features never before assembled in one home and many of these features have never been embodied in any structure. The each one of which has been carefully planned by architects and decorators who have literally outdone themselves in creating the most distinctive touches. The home is of modified Spanish design on the inside and the dining and living rooms are finished in Tiffanied walls. Canvas has been applied over the plastering and painted with an oil base over which the stippled colors have been laid. A new mantel design is shown in the front room, made of polychrome with Jacobean pillars supporting a heavy hand carved cap. The tiling in the mantel is delf blue with a visor projecting from the top of the mantel opening to catch all smoke from the flames. Copper paint is used in the finish of the mantel in combination with contrasting decorative tones. All of the fixtures are hand wrought iron decorated with Spanish designs. The switch plugs are of the new tumbler design with the surface plates stippled and over baked to harmonize with the wall treatment.

Costly Chinese rugs and walnut furniture are used in both the living and dining rooms and the davenport in the living room is of chocolate mohair with hand-decorated motiffs.

Wall paper of neutral grey is used in the front bedroom with a black decorative band used in place of a ceiling border. Handpainted satin rubbed boudoir furniture has been placed in the front bedroom, while in the rear bedroom mahogany furniture is used. The latter hoom is finished with a lavender pastel wall paper and woodwork to harmonize.

Single panelled doors are used throughout the structure finished in duotone enamels and with graduated moulding at the panel recesses which are rubbed in two tones of enamel.

Velour drapes of a henna tone hung on hand wrought iron rods beautify the windows in the living room while drapes of a greenish blue and gauze are used in the dining room. Gold and blue silk damask and old rose silks are used as drapes in the bedrooms.

A revelation in convenience of design may be noted in the kitchen where many new built-in fea tures have been placed. The sink is of a new design in which combination glazed and unglazed tile are used. The glazed tile are slightly raised around the edges

The Salvation Army is held in high respect in this country. Contributions to its are liberal. The belief that the organization is devoted, unselfish and honest to the core, is held generally. When it asks support, contributions are given abundantly because of the knowledge that the funds will be expended wisely and for good purpose.

In the army it is a first principle that the individual is to sacrifice himself to the machine. In the school room, church, scientific or literary movement quite the reverse is true; the organization exists merely for the sake of the human unit.

The more a church, school or political party emphasizes the machinery, the power, glory and influence of the organization, the less is its value

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Stealing automobiles is an industry that is looked upon with disfavor, and yet that is difficult to check. It prevails out here throughout the year because weather and roads permit uninterrupted use of the machines.

Every day some automobiles are stolen from the streets of Los Angeles. On a recent day the total of thefts was twenty-nine. Few cheap machines were on the list. The thieves evidently are well organized, and when they ride away in the stolen vehicle, know exactly where they are going. Later the machine comes out of the robber's garage spick and span and effectually disguised. It might with safety be offered for sale to the owner.

With the curtailment of downtown parking privileges the danger of losing a machine left by the curb becomes greater. It may be parked now only at some spot so remote as not to be under the eye of the police. Two things are happening to cheer the automobilists a little. More of the thieves are being caught, and the courts have learned to treat the crime of taking them less as a joke and more as an offense calling for a stiff term in the penitentiary.

Senator Albert Cummins will remain president pro tem of the senate and also hold his place as chairman of the interstate commerce committee. There was some talk that he would retire from the latter station.

but as this would have given La Follette a chance to succeed him, he thought better of it. Chairmanships in the senate are determined by seniority rather than by merit. Hence the fear of La Follette.

When a crooked lawyer is exposed, or, to play safe, when an apparently crooked lawyer, seems to have been exposed, he is foolish to blame the press for it. There is a lawyer named Roth who did this when he was charged with extortion and other irregularities. Roth is said to have tried to make his intended victims think that the money he sought from them was to appease editors and reporters. The rumor reached the ears of editors and reporters, and they haven't done a thing to him, as the saying is.

The press really does have influence in specific instances. It can chase a crooked lawyer out of his profession, and when it does so ought to have the thanks of the Bar association. Also thanks from the attorney for the hint at reformation, but the latter it willingly
