The Disenthralled.

BY J. G. WHITIER.

He had bowed down to drunkenness;
An abject worshiper;
The pulse of Manhoods pride had gone,
Too faint and cold to stir;
And he had given his spirit up
Unto the humblest thrall;
And, bowing to the poisoned cup,
He gloried in his fall.

There came a change--the cloud rolled off,
And light fell on his brain--
And like the passing of a dream
That cometh not again,
The shadow off his spirit fled,
He saw the gulf before--
He shuddered at the waste behind--
And was a man once more.

He shook the serpent's fold away,
That gathered round his heart,
As shakes the swaying forest oak
Its poison vine apart;
He stood erect--returning pride
Grew terribly within:
And conscience sat in judgement on
His most familiar sin.

The light of intellect again
Along his pathway shone,
And Reason like a monarch stood
Upon its golden throne:
The honored and the wise once more
Within his presence came--
And lingered off on lovely lips
His once forbidden name.

There may be glory in the might
That treadeth nations down--
Wraths for the crimson conqueror--
Pride for the kingly crown--
But glorious is triumph hour
The disenthralled shall find,
When evil passion boweth down
Unto the godlike mind.

Additional from the North.

The following items are from our exchange papers received from the North:

From Oregon and Washington.
The Rock Creek Mines.--The Northwest (Fort Townsend) of 26th July says: A letter has been received in Port Townsend from George T. Andrews, formerly of Port Discovery Mill, dated at Rock Creek, July 4th, in which he states that along Rock Creek, for thirty miles, a man can average $5 or $6 per day. There are sixty claims open, some of which pay from $20 to $25 per day to the hand. It was reported by two men that they had taken out as high as $250 in one day. A large number of men awaited the receding of the waters in the Similkameen.

Murder at Chinacum Island.--Puget Sound Rascals.--Some relics of a murdered man had been found on Chinacum Island. He was supposed to be William Bowen, a colored person, formerly a cook at Port Townsend. The Northwest makes this a text for the following homily:
The coast of Puget Sound has been long cursed by a band of as graceless scoundrels as ever went unhung--who, on the pretense of trading, vend whisky to Indians, and as occasions offer, murder or rob people, get into their canoes and leave for other parts with their booty. There are among us several men, with no visible means of support, against whom evidence is strong of their having been or now being engaged in these nefarious practices, and the sooner the community is rid of them the better. Several of these gentlemen, known as "sports" or gamblers, are constantly watched; and as any man who lives by the "science of cards," or in other words "slipping" of them to get the money of another, is by nature and profession a thief; only occasion is needed to obey what they term "the first law of nature," and murder to prevent the discovery of their vile deeds. Murder is the same, whether the negro, the Indian, or the white man loses life, and the heart that could prompt the murder of one would perpetrate the other.

Miscellaneous.
News had been received at Portland that Major Steen's command had another skirmish with the Snake Indians. Five of the Indians were taken prisoners.
James Tevis was drowned in the Columbia river on 23d July, somewhere between the Cascades and Dalles. He was engaged in navigating a sloop, and was knocked overboard by a sudden turn of the boom.

Considerable excitement was lately created in Salem, Oregon, occasioned by the finding of the body of a new born infant floating in the river near that place. The neck and face of the child bore marks of violence, indicating that it had been strangled previous to being thrown in the river. It is supposed this deed was committed to hide an act of shame, though no clue has been obtained to the perpetrator.

Capt. Olney, who is running a schooner between Portland and Tillamook, says that parties are now looking out the most practicable route for a wagon road to the settlements in the Willamette Valley: They are sanguine of success. There is much good farming land in the Tillamook country not taken up. Mr. Olney says the harbor is first rate, and that he is confident he can take a vessel of 400 tons safely over the bar.

Two new papers, one to be devoted to the Democratic and the other to the Republican cause, were to be established in Olympia, W. T.

The population of the county in which Portland is situated, has decreased some 300 within the last year.

From Crescent City.

Copper Mining.--Reports from the Myrtle Creek mines this week speak of more progress than has been made for some time back. At the Avoca, one of their leads is being followed in by some Cornish miners, under a contract. They are taking out ore as they go in which is represented as being of rich quality. At the Excelsior, they are proceeding with the lower tunnel, of which he have before spoken, expecting to strike the lead one hundred feet below the surface. There is nothing new from the Low Divide this week. Some ore has come in from the Alta.--Crescent City Herald, 4th August.

Gold Mining.--Some new diggings have been discovered in the Redwoods which promise to pay well, as soon as water can be got. We have seen some of the gold from there which is coarse and very bright in appearance.

The accounts published a week or two since in relation to the large amount of work being done, and the good pay of the miners at Happy Camp, is confirmed by late reports. A good deal of fluming is going on, and in one instance a flume is being put up to take the water one hundred and four feet above high water in the river. A man named Brown was drowned there last, by the upsetting of his skiff, while crossing the Klamath.--Ib.

New Fishing Trade.--Whale Island, which was first fitted for the purposes of whale fishing, but has been unoccupied for some time on account of no more of those fish being taken, is now used for a new branch of trade. A party is engaged in taking the red fish, which they get in quantities a few miles off shore, in from twenty to forty fathoms water, and salting them for either San Francisco, or interior markets. These fish are considered very good when well prepared, and quantities of them can be taken. The number of men engaged is four, and they get from 400 to 800 pounds a day. They are mostly caught by trolling.--Ib.

Crops of Del Norte.--The farmers in the valley have commenced cutting their oats, which never looked finer. The wheat too, promises abundantly.

From the British Possessions.
Newspaper Changes.--The British Colonist (Victoria) is now published daily. The Victoria Gazette will be published weekly until arrangements are completed to enable it to appear as a daily journal upon an enlarged scale.

A Threatening Monopoly.--The Victoria Gas Company is circulating a petition for signatures praying the Legislature to grant it a fourteen years' monopoly. The Colonist is "down" on the scheme, and calls on the people to "spurn the monopoly petition as they would a viper."
The Case of Piracy.--A couple of weeks since the Port Townsend Register alluded to two cases of piracy, which were alleged to have occurred near Seattle, about eighteen months ago. It was said that the schooners Blue Wing and Helen Maria sailed from Olympia in the month of January, 1859, since which time nothing had been heard of them. For a long time, it was thought that the vessels had both been lost during a gale; but a short time since an Indian woman called upon Chief of Police Bale, and complained that a Hyday named "Jim" had ill-treated her; and in revenge stated that she knew something about him, which, if told, would cost him his head. After being rigidly questioned, the squaw finally said that Jim had, in company with several others, about a year and a half ago captured a Boston schooner, near Seattle; and after murdering the crew, robbed the vessel, and burned her to the water's edge. Diligent search has been made for Jim ever since, until Friday last, when he was found and conveyed to jail. On 29th July the case was called in the Police Court. Judge Pemberton stated that he had no jurisdiction in the matter unless a requisition was made, under the Extradition Treaty, by the American authorities. "Jim is accordingly at large again. Our American neighbors should stir themselves, and procure a requisition from the acting Governor of Washington Territory at once; otherwise the scamp may succeed in making good his escape."
--British Colonist.

Col. Baker and the Colored People.--The negroes of Victoria gave Col. Baker of California a grand serenade, on Tuesday evening, 24th July. Every conceivable instrument--whether musical or not--was brought into play, and the sonorous voices of several of our best barbers and bootblacks were heard loud above the instrumental din, chanting a hymn of praise, especially dedicated to the colonel's political exploits in Oregon. After the discordant sounds had ceased, a very good speech was made by one of the negroes, who mounted a handcart for the purpose. Any quantity of poetry was thrown out by the colored orator, and much praise accorded the colonel for his exertions in the cause of "liberty." The colonel replied in brief terms, saying that "he was very glad to see so many familiar faces present; that he believed they had always behaved themselves in San Francisco, and hoped they would continue to do so here." A few bottles of champagne were then broken, and toasts drank. After the champagne came the rye whisky, which seemed more to the taste of the serenaders, and tended to raise their spirits--so much so that one of them declared that "the colonel ought to be carried to heaven on angels' wings!" The colonel replied that "that was more than he deserved; it was too good!" After a few more toasts, a number of cheers, another song, and a horrible discord from the instruments, the happy fellows marched off two and two, headed by George Hunter Cary and Selim Franklin, M. P. P.--Ib.

How He Had Him.--A man named Wells kept a tavern in one of our western villages; but though his house had a very good name, it was more than he had himself; for it was surmised by his neighbors that he used a great deal of fodder, corn, etc., for which he never gave an equivalent, though this had never been clearly proved upon him. Early one morning he was met by an acquaintance, named Wilkes, as he was driving before him a heifer, which he had most probably borrowed from some farmer.

"Hallo, Wells! where did you get the heifer?" cried Wilkes.

"Bought her of Col. Stevens," was the unhesitating reply.

"What did you pay for her?"

"Twenty dollars," said Wells, as he hurried on.

About an hour afterwards, as Wilkes was sitting in Wells' bar-room, Col. Stevens entered. After a few minutes conversation, Wilkes said:

"A fine animal that you sold Wells?"

"I don't understand you; I never sold him any animal."

"Didn't you? Why, I met him this morning with a heifer, which he said he bought of you for twenty dollars."

"He did, eh? Well, since he said so, he has got to pay me for her."

Wells entered soon after, and Stevens stepping up to him, said--

"Come, Wells, I'll trouble you for the money for that heifer; it was a cash bargain you know."

"I never bought any heifer from you."

"Don't you remember you bought one of me for twenty dollars? Here's Wilkes can prove it."

"No he can't," said Wells.

"You told me so this morning," said Wilkes.

A curious expression passed over Wells' face; he felt himself cornered: he had either to confess where he got the animal, or lose twenty-dollars; and thinking it not safe for him to do the first, he took out his wallet, counted out the money, and handed it to Stevens, saying:

"So I did--so I did; I had forgotten about it; you must excuse me."

"How do you and your wife get along?"

"Oh, rather badly; she gave me her hand a year ago, and I thanked her, but she gives it to me now every time I dare speak, and I'd thank her not to."

HINTS ON TRAVELING.--Don't wear your best pink bonnet, of people will think you have no better opportunity than the inside of a railroad car to display it. Plain straw is in far better taste. Light gloves are an abomination for traveling costume. Pack your jewelry in your trunk instead of hanging it about your person, and don't judge your travelers by the splendor of their dress or the number of yards in their matillas. Disagreeable mistakes have been made in this way. Don't deem it useless to be polite to the spectacled old lady behind you, or the pale young girl at your side. They may not belong to the butterfly ranks of fashion but they are none the less capable of appreciating that kind of etiquette which springs from the heart. Don't laugh loudly and boisterously in the cars or on the teamboat. Your private affairs may be very engrossing to yourself, but they can hardly be expected to interest the public. Don't load yourself down with parasols, fans, baskets, parcels, shawls, reticules, and books enough to last you during a voyage to Europe. The less "hand baggage" you can get along with the better. Don't discover, just as the boat is on the point of starting, that you have left your shawl on the seat in the cars, and send your luckless escort back to find it, unless you want to disgust him thoroughly with lady travelers. Don't begin to complain when you are a little tired. Some ladies think it interesting to behave like grown-up children on such an occasion. Nobody likes to hear people fret over weariness that cannot be helped. Remember that others besides yourself may possibly be fatigued. Don't find fault with all the hotel accommodations that you meet. Don't scrutinize the napkins and turn the plates upside down, and declare it is impossible to eat your breakfast without a silver fork, and alluded ostentatiously to "what you would have been accustomed to. Those who know the world will need no more convincing proof that you are outside the pale of really good society. Just make up your mind before you set out from home, that you will look on the sunniest side of everything, enjoy yourself as much as you possibly can, and use every endeavor to make the journey pleasant to those around you, and it will be very singular if somebody isn't the better for it!

CAN ANY ONE TELL?--Can any one tell why men who cannot pay small bills can always find plenty of money to buy liquor and treat when happening among friends? Can any one tell how young men who dodge their washerwomen, and are always behind with their landlord, can play billiards night and day, and are always ready for a game of poker or seven up? Can any one tell how men live and support their families who have no income and cannot work: and others who are industrious and constantly employed half starve?--Exchange.

It is stated that Mr 'Marble lately married a Miss 'Stone'. The marriage ceremony took place in 'Granite' State, and the nuptial knot was tied by Mr. 'Flint.'

A thin old man, with a rag-bag in his hand, was picking up a large number of pieces of whalebone which lay on the street. The deposit was of such a singular nature that we asked the quaint-looking atherer how he supposed they came there. "Don't know," he replied, in a squeaking voice: "I s'pect some unfortunate female was wrecked hereabout."

"There's no humbug about these Sardines," said Brown, as he helped himself to the third plateful from a newly opened box; "they are the genuine article, and came all the way from the Mediterranean." "Yes," replied his economic wife, and if you will only control your appetite, they will go a great deal further." Brown didn't ask for any more.

DROWNED.—On yesterday, at about 1 1/2 o'clock P. M., while Robert Armstrong, a brick mason of this place, was bathing in the Sacramento river he was taken with the cramp and drowned in about 20 feet of water. His body has not yet been found. Notwithstanding several persons seen him go down, and every effort was made by quite a large number of men, yet his remains are still shrouded by the sombre waters of THE GREAT SACRAMENTO.

EAGLE STEAM FLOURING MILLS.—We would call the special attention of the public generally, and of the FARMER most particularly, to the fact that the Eagle Steam Flouring Mills at this place are doing some of the best work of any mills in this or any other State. Give them good wheat and we challenge any other mill to equal, much to excel, them in the fineness and the superiority of the quality of its flour. We speak of what we know, when we say that the Eagle Steam Flouring Mills, at this place, owned by Z. Gardner, are second to no other mills on the Pacific coast. We have sampled the flour time and again. See advertisement.

To THE country merchants and dealers in boots and shoes we would most respectfully say that on J street, between 2d and 8d may be found the firm of Dexter & Fogg, dealers in boots and shoes, of whom can always be obtained some of the best of bargains. We would advise all to give them a call and see for themselves. See advertisement.

THE attention of grocery-men hotel-keepers and all "lovers of lager," is hereby called to the Columbus Brewery, situated on the cor. of K and 16 sts. Sac. The retail establishment is situated on 6th, between J and K streets, owned by J. Gruhler, where the best lager beer is manufactured in the state.

THE notice of the public and heads of families is respectfully referred to the advertisement of Bostwick & Lane, on Front street, between J and K streets Sacramento. They are selling all kinds and sorts of and all descriptions of tin-ware at greatly reduced prices.

HEAVY SUIT.—Charles P. Duane has commenced a libel suit in the United States District Court against Chas. Goodall, master of the steam tug Hercules, for $25,000; Captain R. H. Pearson, of the John L. Stephens, for $50,000; and Capt. J. T. Watkins and first officer J. T. Watson, of the Golden Gate, for damages, growing out of his being forcibly carried away from California by order of the Vigilance Committee in 1856. Nugent and Judah are Duane's counsel.

CONFIRMATION.—Sixty persons were confirmed by Archbishop Alemany, at the Catholic Church, on Vallejo street San Francisco, on Sunday, August 12th.

QUITE A HAUL.—Warrants to the amount of $137,500 were drawn out of the State Treasury by McCauly and Tevis on Monday, last.

ANOTHER MURDER.—Another murder was committed on Tuesday last, in Brighton township, at Davis' ranch, twelve miles from Sacramento city, on the Coloma road. The particulars, as we learn them from R. D. Stevens, are as follows: At about one o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, Robert Pool and William Price engaged in a quarrel of words, when Price made six shots at Pool, five from a revolver and one from a dueling pistol. At the first shot by Price, Pool commenced running off, and continued to retreat until the sixth shot was discharged from the dueling pistol, which took effect in the spine near the belt, and which brought him down. One of the other shots also took effect, striking him in the back and passing out near the shoulder blade. Pool lived but a short time after he was shot. At the place of the shooting, there was only one other man present, and Price was allowed to make his escape. He immediately left on the road towards Folsom or Placerville. The following is a description of the murderer and his dress: He is five feet ten inches high; dark complexion and dark hair; hair rather short; nervous temperament; three upper front teeth gone. He had on light linen pants, blue cloth dress-coat, check shirt, black spring neck-cloth, new white opera hat, and heavy boots. He was from Winfield, Winchester county, South Carolina, and was twenty two years of age. Officer McClory left last night in search of him.—Union.

Great Democratic Meetings.

Agreeably to a previous call a Breckenridge meeting convened in this place on the afternoon of the 16th inst. The Hon. H. Gwin was elected President of the meeting; whereupon, Zac. Montgomery, of Sutter, was introduced to the audience as the orator of the occasion. He proceeded to address the assemblage (which, by the bye, was not very large, owing to the extreme warmth of atmosphere. He discussed the convention question, both at Charleston and Baltimore. He labored long and hard to prove that neither Douglas nor Breckenridge was the regular nominee of the Democratic party. He then gave the Sacramento Union a regular overhauling for "its Black Republican proclivities" (?) and "direlections" (?) and "Staleness" (?) After demolishing the Sacramento Union (not our glorious Union (?)) he came back to conventions, platforms and non intervention etc., and wound up as he began by making it all as lucid as the most shrewd politicians are wont to do. Taken all in all it was a good piece of oratory.

On the same evening, at about 7 o'clock, the Douglasites called a meeting, a procession was formed at the new saloon, preceded by the new Band, it marched up Front street to the Yolo House, whither the entire population of the town congregated. Col. Hall was called to the Chair, who proceeded to present the Hon. Humphrey Griffith to the crowd. Mr. Griffith arose and expressed his regret for not being present when Mr. Montgomery was speaking. He then went on discussing the merits of the Charleston, Baltimore and Richmond Conventions, Democratic usages, platforms, doctrines, non-intervention, popular sovereignty, etc., etc. After speaking some considerable time he took his seat.

Mr. Montgomery being still in town, and present, responded to him, whence there arose a right lively debate between them which was carried on in the most courteous and gentlemanly manner, after which the meeting dispersed, each party claimed the victory in the debate.

As we are a neutral and independent journal we will not express our own individual opinion on this subject, but will only add that the speakers both are "no small fry," but should rank with the first orators of the State.

Later from Europe

THE MASSACRE OF THE CHRISTIANS.—We extract the following from the Union's telegraphic reports by the Pony express. ST. LOUIS, July 31st.—Liverpool dates to the 18th of July have been received by the Bohemian.

Mr. Roebuck attacked the Government for prosecution the unjust war with China and encouraging the opium trade. Mr. Gladstone replied, denying that the war was unjust, and asserted that the treaty of Tientsin was as binding an engagement as could be made, and that its ratification was most important. Mr. Gladstone made a statement of the financial condition of the country, proposing to levy an immediate duty of 1s 11d per gallon on ardent spirits, which was agreed to.

In the House of Lords, on the 17th, Lord Brougham called attention to the case of a negro lady who was recently refused a first class passage in a Cunard steamer on the ground of color. He said no doubt but the damages could have been recovered if the matter had not been compromised.

Lord Woodhouse confirmed the news that five hundred Christians had been massacred in Damascus, and all the Consulate houses, with the exceptions of the British, had been burned.

The attack of the Druses on the Christians at Damascus was commenced on the evening of July 19th. Several men were killed, and women carried off. The French, Russian and Greek Ambassadors took refuge in the house of Abdel Kadrud. The attitude of the Turkish authorities was undecided and rather injurious than useful to the Christians. Three thousand Turkish soldiers arrived to-day. The allies of the Christians are redoubled, and Commissioners Derby and Norwick are expected with impatience. Details to the 1st of July say that it was then ascertained that the Druses had burned and pillaged 113 villages since the 29th of May, while from 7,500 to 8,000 Christians, inhabitants of Lebanon, many of whom are wealthy men and all strangers to anything like poverty, are homeless beggars, depending on charity for their daily bread. Over and above the number of Christians shot in actual warfare, it is believed seven or eight thousand have been butchered in cold blood. The massacre at Damascus was not known at this date. A French vessel had been sent to Lokota, and was obliged to take up a position within firing distance of the town in order to restrain the fanatical portion of the inhabitants from committing further outrages. The Austrian frigate Radetzky had been ordered to proceed to Syria, to co-operate with vessels of other powers there.

LETTER FROM SACRAMENTO.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

SACRAMENTO, August 15, 1860. Another homicide took place in this county yesterday, at Davis' ranch, twelve miles from this city, on the Coloma, road. The victim was Robert Pool. William Price is the name of the man who killed him. Whether the affair was a murder or not remains for our Courts to decide. The only version of the affair which I heard states that Pool threatened the life of Price, who drew a revolver and commenced shooting at Pool, who retreated until he was mortally wounded. Price is said to have fled, which looks bad for his side of the case. In the meanwhile our Courts have a plenty to do in the way of trying murder cases. James Hilan, indicted for the murder of two Indians, and who has already been on trial twice, the jury failing to agree each time, was yesterday on a nolle prosequi, on the motion of the District Attorney discharged, John Roberts alias San Juan Jack, was put on trial to-day for murder, and Henry Devoe, also for murder, is to be put on trial to-morrow.

The Supreme Court rendered a decision on Monday last of some importance to the State. Adolphus Koppikus brought an action against the State Capitol Commissioners to set aside their award fixing the compensation to be made to plaintiff as owner of a parcel of land intended for the site of the Capitol. The unconstitutionality of the Act which created the Board of State Capitol Commissioners was asserted on two grounds: 1st. that it creates an indebtedness or liability on the part of the State exceeding the limit of three hundred thousand dollars prescribed by the eighth article of the Constitution; and 2d, that it provides that the compensation to the owners of the property taken shall be ascertained by three Commissioners, and thus deprives the owners of the right to a trial by a jury. The Court, however, overruled these objections, thereby virtually declaring our State Capitol law to be constitutional. That matter being settled, we will no doubt have a Capitol worthy of our great and growing State all in good time.

The Pony (may all the gods protect him!) still gives evidence of vitality. The agents have now reduced the price of carrying letters to two dollars and fifty cents for all letters not weighing over a quarter of an ounce. An envelope and three sheets of tissue paper will not out weigh the quarter of an ounce. At this price, the Pony ought to carry away a thousand letters each trip. As every Californian is interested in keeping the Pony going, and as the Public spirit of our people is of the most liberal kind, I cannot see why they will not come to the rescue of the gallant little Pony. Give him a lift, all you who want the political and other intelligence from the East in ten days, instead of having to wait twenty for the now "slow coach."

The politicians throughout the State are now enrolling themselves under the banner which they will serve during this political canvass. Now and then some person comes out and joins just exactly the party which he was not expected to join, which makes this campaign an unusually interesting one. Judge Daingerfield, of Shasta, comes out for Douglas, believing him to be the regular nominee. But the coolest piece of egotism which I have seen during this canvass came from Botts, of the Standard, last Sunday. In commenting upon the fact Gen. Denver giving his adhesion to Douglas, Botts says that he has no doubt that if Gen. Denver had shown him his letter before it was published that it would never have seen the light of print! His known friendship for the General, Botts intimates, was above all cavil; and the logic he could have brought to bear upon the General's production would have caused him (the General) to hide his diminished head. But as Denver did not show his production to Botts, the latter states that he is obliged to print just what he would have said to Denver privately and alone. Whether the logic of Botts has made the General ashamed of his position I have not heard. But I would advise any aspiring politician who is about to publish his reasons for "the faith that is in him" to visit Botts, who will give him a political curtain lecture gratis, and perhaps by so doing he will escape the infliction of one of Botts' whole page leaders.

On Saturday night, we are to be stirred up with the political long pole, by Milton S. Latham and Calhoun Benham. They are to appear in front of the St. George. By the way, have you room here to print my great conundrum, the opportunity of getting off which I never lose? Yes? Well, here it goes: Why will their speaking at the St. George be much like speaking in a lumber yard? Because there's a great many boards there!

John Hickman has made a very effective and able speech in Philadelphia, (published in the Union on Tuesday, and brought by the last Pony) in which he gives Douglas a terrible overhauling. Between Douglas and Breckenridge he much prefers the latter, as he thinks him much more honest, but he can conceive of no contingency in which he could vote for either. He is out flat footed for Lincoln. Considering that he knows Douglas so well, and acted with him during the Lecompton struggle in Congress, his speech is rather a "crusher" on Douglas.

A little fire occurred in town on Monday evening, breaking out about five o'clock. The engines were promptly on the spot, notwithstanding which property to the amount of about nine or ten thousand dollars was consumed.

Some fine racing will take place over the Centerville and Oak Grove Race Courses, near the city, during the continuance of the State Fair. Bob. O'Hanlon, of Marysville, has leased the former, and will put it in splendid condition, and it is said some of the best stock in the State will be seen upon it at the time mentioned.

Yours, P.

[CACHEVILLE CORRESPONDENCE.]
Robbery.

On Tuesday last the store of H. C. Yerby, in Cacheville, was broken open and the safe robbed of about $1,800.—The robber entered the sleeping apartment of the clerk, Mr. Pace, through a window, and obtained the keys of the safe, took the money and left the keys in the store and absconded. Many of our citizens have been on the lookout since, but no clue to the robber has been discovered. Eight hundred and twenty dollars of the money taken belonged to the Rev. Dr. Hadley, of this place, who had deposited it in the safe with the view of sending for his family, now in one of the Atlantic states. It was a sorrowful affair to the Doctor, for there could have been no more laudable purpose than such a use of his money, and we understand that it leaves him without the means of sending for them. He had written to his wife to be ready to start by the first of October. It will be a sad disappointment to them, as well as him.

Mr. Yerby has offered a reward of $300 for the apprehension of the thief and recovery of the money. Z.

THE Knight's Landing News.

The Retort. BY GEO. P. MORRIS.

Old Nick, who taught the village school, Wedded a maid of homespun habit; He was stubborn as a mule, She was playful as a rabbit.

Poor Jane had scarce become a wife, Before her husband sought to make her The pink of country-polished life, And prim and formal as a quaker.

One day the tutor went abroad, And simple Jenny sadly missed him; When he returned, behind her lord She slyly stole and fondly kissed him!

The husband's anger rose!—and red And white his face alternate grew! "Less freedom, madam!"—Jane sighed and said: "Oh, dear! I didn't know 'twas you!"

Another Harper's Ferry Affair.

The following extra is from the Bonham (Texas) Era, of July 15th: "The destructive and mysterious fires that occurred throughout our portion of the State on the 8th were a theme for speculation until to-day. Some reputed their occurrence to be from the spontaneous combustion of prairie matches, caused by the excessive heat of that day, but the conviction seemed to prevail that they were the result of preconcerted arrangements set on foot by Abolition emissaries who had heretofore been expelled from the country. That this latter position was correct is verified by the subjoined letter from Dr. Pricer, editor of the Dallas Herald:

DALLAS, July 17, 1860

CAPTAIN DELISLE—Dear Sir: I write in haste that you may prepare your people for the most alarming state of affairs that has ever occurred in Texas. On the 8th July, the town of Dallas was fired and the whole business portion entirely consumed. Every store in town was entirely destroyed. The next day the dwelling house of J. J. Eakus was burned, after that the dwelling house of E. P. Nicholson was fired, but discovered in time to arrest the flames. On Thursday, the premises of Criell Miller, with a large amount of oats, grain, etc., were totally consumed. This led to the arrest of some negroes and white men. A most diabolical plan was then discovered to devastate this entire portion of Northern Texas, extending to the Red River country. White men, friends of the Abolition Preachers, Blunt & McKinney, who were expelled from the country last year, are the instigators of the plot. The whole plan is systematically conceived and most ingeniously contrived. It makes the blood run cold to hear the details. This whole country was to be laid waste with fire, destroying all the ammunition, provisions, arms, etc., to get the country in a state of helplessness, and then, on election day, in August, to make a general insurrection, aided and assisted by emissaries from the North and persons friendly to them in our midst. Their sphere of operations is districted and sub-districted, giving to each division a close supervision by one energetic white man, who controls the negroes as his subordinates. A regular invasion and a real intestine war. You all at Bonham are in as much danger as we are. Be on your guard, and make these facts known by issuing extras to be sent in every direction. All business has ceased and the country is terribly excited. In haste, yours truly,

CHAS. R. PRICER.

Comment on the above would be superfluous. Everybody will see the necessity of immediate, energetic action, a through organization throughout the country; and to this end it is proposed that a meeting of the citizens of Fanning county to be held in the Court House at Benham, at ten o'clock, Saturday next, when the subject will be fully discussed, and measures adopted for future safety. The fires that occurred on the 8th instant, as far as we are yet able to learn, are as follows:

Dallas—The entire business portion of the town, including every mercantile house in the place—loss estimated at $400,000; Belknap—Eight large storehouses were destroyed—the buildings were owned by Drs. Foote and Thogmorton, of McKinney, loss not given; Millford, Ellis county—Totally destroyed; Black Jack Grove—One mercantile house, loss $30,000; Waxahachie—One house; Denton—The storehouse of J. M. Smoot, with the house of Jacobs and that Baines & Turner—total loss estimated at $100,000; Pilot Point—house, owned by J. M. Smoot, of Denton—total loss $10,000; Fort North—a mercantile house, loss not given; the storehouse of E. Du totally destroyed, loss about $25,000. It is also reported that two houses were burned in Jefferson; and at Honey Grove, in this county, one house was fired, but put out before much damage was done. A steam flouring mill was burned at Millwood Texas.

"WHATEVER success I have had in business I owe mainly to continuous advertising; and I deem it good policy to advertise long in the same papers. From a close observation, I am fully convinced that it is impossible to make much headway in any branch of commerce without the facilities which the press alone can give."—JACOB RIDGEWAY.
