A Time To Remember

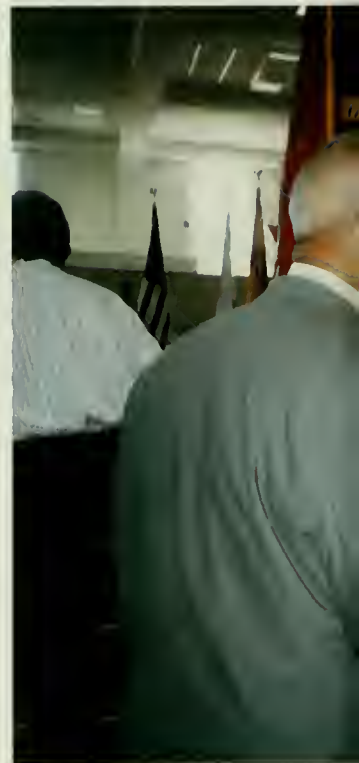

Phi Psi Cli 1995

Volume 80
Elon College
Haggard Avenue
Elon College, NC
27244

A time to remember is definitely the phrase that can be used to describe the years at Elon College. However, this year in particular calls for us all to really reflect on all of the changes that have occurred on the campus. We opened two new buildings, Moseley Center and Koury Center, we created the Emerging Leaders Program, and above all we improved Elon College's academic program. This college is moving forward quickly and with every passing day we only become better.

Over the past year, we have all shared so many memories. The theatre department put on "Oklahoma!;" Homecoming 1994 came and went; the athletic department became NCAA Div. II; ballets were performed; Turkey Trot was run; Elon's first annual Snowball dance went off without a hitch; and the list keeps going and going. The important thing to remember is that every moment one spends here at Elon is always...

A TIME TO REMEMBER.

This Fall Break the Student Union Board sponsored a white water rafting trip. Here the students obviously learn the importance of keeping focused when battling the big waves and long rivers of life.

Former Chairman of the United States Olympic Committee, Leroy Walker, shakes hands with a new generation-junior and president of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Corey Hatchell, while Darrell Blakeney looks on. Walker spoke at the convocation.

Studying happens almost anywhere on Elon College's campus, even in the stairwells of Elon's residence halls as freshman Briton Wertz does so here.

STUDENT LIFE

Life is filled with ups and downs. Everyday we experience the good and the bad, and of course we can reflect back on our past. There are certain times when we seem to be sitting on the top of the world, and other times when we wish something would end up going our way; but it's all a part of growing up and later on we can look back at those things which helped to shape us today.

Getting up at 7:00 AM for an 8:00 AM class is an experience that most Elon students face, especially freshmen. As the year progresses some students learn how to avoid those 8 AM classes, or at least only have them twice a week.

If it's not the early morning classes changing, it's the class schedule changing itself. This year Elon went to a four credit hour system, which means upperclassmen had to deal with a new class schedule time as well as decide which transition plan they were to use to graduate. Incoming freshmen didn't have to worry about this new change, because for them it wasn't a change.

These are the times to remember, because they will not last forever. For Elon College, this school year has been a combination of events that cause us to reflect on the many changing faces of Elon. In the heart of every student is the pride in just being a Fightin' Christian, that makes the best of times; but the sadness the Senior Class will feel when leaving behind their beloved institution and friends will make it the worst of times. But it is the memories that are presented here that will make it "A Time To Remember." So here's to Elon College!!!

Senior Jad Tompkins and Junior Michael Zuccarello take a minute out of their busy schedules to talk.

Heather Morrison and her family enjoy the Family Weekend football game at Elon. Many parents came to see their children during Family Weekend.

Mr. E was introduced this year. The name was chosen during a contest held at Elon this fall. The "E" stands for excellence, education, enthusiasm, effort, and Elon!

Time For A Change...

With the start of the spring semester, the 70,000-square-foot Moseley Center, Elon's new campus center, became fully operational.

The Center's main purpose on campus is to unite the two ends of campus, and to give the students a place to meet, eat, and be merry.

As the Celebration began, musicians provided some entertainment as the distinguished guests entered Moseley Center. This was a special night for all the financial donors to tour the building.

Elon was honored to have North Carolina's Gov. Jim Hunt speak during the banquet dinner of the "Victory Celebration."

President Fred Young and Governor Jim Hunt listen intently to the toast being given. Both men spoke at the "Victory Celebration" of Elon's surpassing of the $18 million Campaign of Excellence.

President Young and Governor Hunt share a laugh and a few words in front of Moseley Center.

A new student, her mother, and grandmother share a family meal at the Family Weekend Picnic.

Panhellenic President, Nicole Camia and her parents speak briefly with Elon Greek Advisor Amanda Harless during the Family Weekend registration.

Time For A Visit

Freshman Brooke Bohannon and her mother try to keep dry under their umbrella. The dismal weather, however, did not keep the "family spirit" down!

Time To Begin

The class of 1998 is welcomed into the Elon family by President Fred Young and faculty at the New Student Convocation: the first convocation in the renovated Alumni Gym.

A new student and her mother look over her orientation schedule for the next few days.

The new students discover that the fountain is a great place to meet new people.

Senior Thomas Brookshire, a New Student Orientation Leader, tie-dyes a shirt during training.

Orientation leaders Elliot Blue, Racheal Lee, and Iris Boutros share a laugh outside of West Hall.

Time To Celebrate Those Funky '70s

The winner of float competition, Student Union Board, waits for the parade to begin at Elon Elementary School. S.U.B.'s float celebrated the show "Sesame Street," a popular kids show that began in the '70s.

Alpha Omicron Pi's float, the Mystery Machine, makes its way down Maggard Ave. Overall, they won this year's Homecoming, followed by Zeta Tau Alpha, Alpha Xi Delta, Phi Mu, and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Phi Mu's Homecoming float is enthusiastically accompanied by sophomore Tracy Kunz who waves to the crowd.

Junior Christi Earnhardt dons '70s attire in support of the Homecoming theme.

Sophomores Becky Romig and Janet Closs are all smiles in front of Alpha Xi Delta's float. They walked alongside the float and supported their organization '70s style.

The Crowning Of The '70s

This year's Homecoming Court stands patiently on the football field as the new King Tait Arend and Queen Bridget Gibson are crowned.

One of the most popular and enjoyable Homecoming activities is the skits. It is also fun to be in them too.

Bridget Gibson and Brian Wright have their photograph taken in front of the Fine Arts Center unsuspecting that soon she would be crowned the new queen.

Kappa Sigma's Tait Arend and Bridget Gibson share a joyful hug as they were announced as this year's Homecoming King and Queen.

Alpha Xi Delta sisters gather around Bridget Gibson to congratulate her on winning this year's crown for their sorority.

The Adventures in Leadership White Water Rafting Trip over fall break was enjoyed by all of the participants. The trip definitely gave the students the chance to relax, laugh, and create new friendships.

On the Jordan Center field, Campus Recreation sponsors outdoor soccer, the fastest growing intramural sport at Elon.

Campus Recreation employees are always willing to help the students using the equipment in Koury Fitness Center.

PEOPLE

From Rolex to Timex is how we describe the people section. We start off with our graduating seniors and end up with our freshman class. Through this year, we have discovered ourselves, and recaptured the feeling of college life. Through our walk, we have become a united student body that understands that without each other success is not possible.

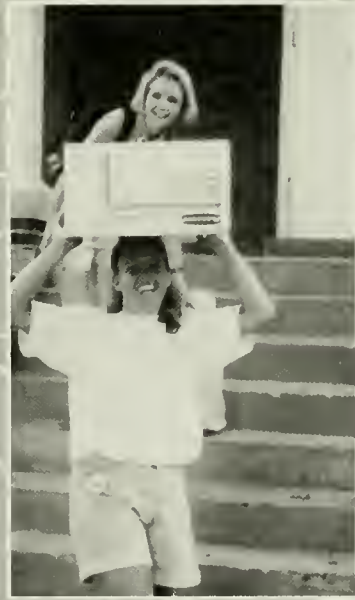

There are approximately 3,300 students from all parts of the world. The majority of Elon College students come from North Carolina and Virginia area, then northern states like New Jersey follow in line. We all have our differences when it comes to what we are going to do with our lives after we graduate. Some may attend graduate school, or go into the military, and others may go directly into the working world. Whatever our choices will be, we will always look back at this as A Time To Remember.

As new students move into their rooms on campus, Lori Johnson helps and talks to the students.

Students work-out in the new gym. Ever since the Koury Center opened it has been a hit with the students. The bicycles are being used by the students while they exercise and watch television.

The new students enjoy the work and hassle of moving into their home for the next year.

Those We Love

From the opening Convocation held in the newly renovated Koury Center to the visit of former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, 1994-1995 was filled with many memories at Elon.

■ Among the most valuable of these memories are the lives of students whose lives ended in tragedies. On Dec. 13, senior Douglas Suckow was one of 15 people who died as a result of an American Eagle commuter plane crash en route to the Raleigh-Durham airport.

Suckow, an economics major from Holmdel, N.J., was planning an internship on Wall Street. Students and faculty spoke highly of Suckow in The Pendulum, commenting that he was such an "angel" and asset to the college.

Lauren Anderson on "48 Hours"

Misty O'Day

■ Elon's Lauren Anderson was one of the survivors of the crash who suffered several broken bones but returned to campus spring semester. She remarked on C.B.S.'s "48 Hours" that she didn't know she was in the crash. She was found looking for her favorite sneakers after the plane crashed in a wooded area.

■ Another Elon student, Misty O'Day, is fortunate enough to only imagine what her fate could have been had she boarded flight 3379 that day as planned. Instead, her parents cancelled her commuter flight, and she was transported to the Raleigh-Durham airport via mouseine.

■ The hearts of the college community became heavy as result of this Dec. 13 tragedy only to be tugged once more on Feb. 24. Floyd Barrett, who would have been a senior this year, died as result of an automobile accident.

The Pendulum stated that Barrett was the "guiding force" behind the Elon College Bowl team's defeat of Duke University. He was also a member of the Honors Program as well as the North Carolina Student Legislature, Black Cultural Society, Student Government Association, and Gospel Choir.

This has been a year of rejoicing beginnings at Elon and mournful endings. But we'll always remember how the lives of Douglas Suckow and Floyd Barrett touched our community.

"But the righteous man, though he die early, will be at rest."

Your gentle face and patient smile, With sadness we recall, You had a kindly word for each And died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the heart That loved us well and true, Ah, bitter was the trial to part From one so good as you.	You are not forgotten loved one Nor will you ever be As long as life and memory last We will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by, we miss you more, Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can take your vacant place.

Tic, toc, you don't stop... is exactly how we describe our clubs and organizations at Elon because they never stop. Our organizations are always busy whether it's in the community or in the school. The clock speeds round and round everyday as the organizations keep pace by the hour.

Elon is composed of more than 85 organizations of every type on campus. Whether it be one of our Greek fraternities or sororities which are involved in many activities, or one of our religious life organizations, there is always something to do at Elon. So if you're bored and have nothing to do—it's time to join an organization.

Organizations like Sigma Pi always find ways to help themselves and the community.

The organization fair is a way to let students know what kind of activities are around Elon College.

Taking The Time For..

John Keegan was the lucky winner who was chosen to be "Fred for a Day." John spent the day with Dr. Young as he shuffled from call- to- call and person- to- person. John said that the highlight of the day was being able to assist Dr. Young with the planning for former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's visit to Elon in the spring.

YEARBOOK

... And Play !!!!

Anine Erdner is hard at work trying to put everything on the computer before time runs out. This picture was taken at the old office in Long Building. The staff is all packed up and ready to move into the new office.

Someone tell Racheal Lee to move the ball from in front of her eyes. She's going the wrong way.

Anwar Cruter is always smiling, at least when he isn't working. Here he turns around embarrassed at missing the pins. Maybe next time Anwar.

Felicia Massey is not only cited about being the yearbook adviser but also because she got a strike.

However, there are times when we all must be disappointed and face the ups and downs. Felicia's expression shows the trying times the yearbook faced this year.

A NOTE FROM THE ADVISER:

A combination of strikes, spares, and gutterballs highlight the scoreboard for the production of the 1995 yearbook.

Throughout the first frames of the game (fall semester 1994), Phi Psi Cli was featured in debasing articles in The Pendulum. It struggled to get the administrative and student support it needed to stay in the "strike" range of the lane.

Consumed by a chain reaction of gutterballs, the editor-in-chief and adviser decided to resign.

After accepting the challenge to become the new adviser and convincing the remaining staff that the game was only half over, we pulled together and began putting a few spares and strikes toward the production of the book.

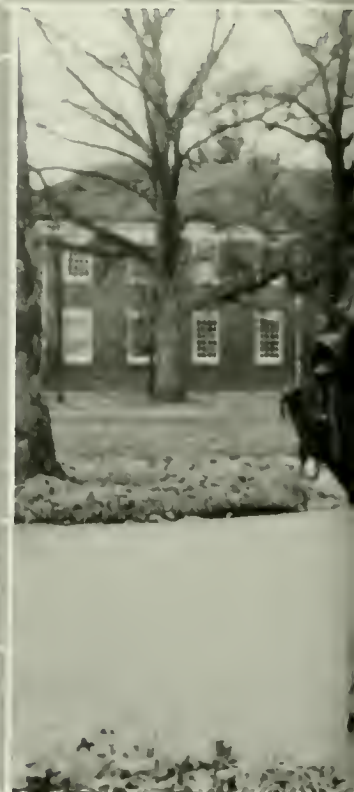

Unfortunately, there were times when we didn't aim just right (missing a deadline, or photo opportunity) and threw a few more gutterballs. But ultimately, we ended with a decent score.

I commend those who remained committed to produce the yearbook and I challenge them to stick with this "game" because there's still time to bowl that perfect score!

FACULTY & STAFF

During the students' time at Elon College, they will encounter numerous professors. These professors have the tremendous job of shaping young minds and futures. They prepare students for a world that is growing more competitive day by day. Speaking of growing, this year marks the 10th anniversary for Elon's MBA program. It has grown from 30 to 100 students.

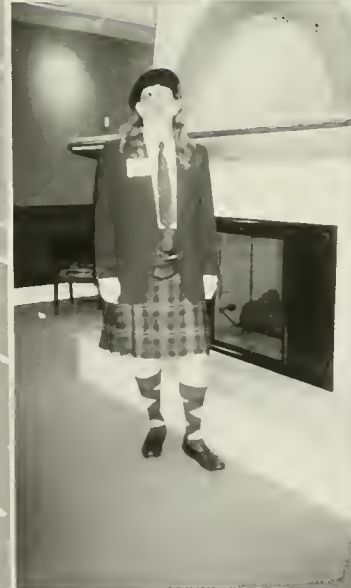

Professors cannot accomplish their tremendous task alone. They need the support of deans, secretaries, business officials, and the president. The operation of a college is complex and involves so many people that most are often overlooked. While clean grounds and residence halls are appreciated, the workers behind the maintenance may not get the recognition they deserve. Frequently, students forget to thank the cafeteria worker who takes their trays or a secretary who relays a message to a professor.

As the secretaries gather before their first meeting in the Moseley Center, they enjoy making and eating sundaes.

It is common all over campus to see professors stop and talk with the students.

Psychology Professor Jim Pickens said that when he found out Delta Sigma Theta sponsored "Dress-Down Day," he decided to dress up for a change! No, it is not part of his heritage.

This year made a special memory for Elon because we moved up to Division II in the NCAA. The players put out their all and gave their best. Every Fightin' Christian athlete lived up to the high standards of Elon. This year Elon has had many wins and losses, yet made every moment A Time To Remember.

THE YEAR OF TRADITION

*"Strive for excellence, not perfection."
-H. Jackson Brown*

1994 was a season of excellence for the Elon College Fighting Christian Football Team. Dressed in the bold maroon and gold uniforms, the team took to the field ready to fight. Leading all wide receivers was Sr. Rod Clark, who was named All-Conference wide receiver and kickoff return specialist and Honorable Mention All-American. The Fighting Christians combined the efforts of athletic ability with faith from within to win many of their tough games. The Fighting Christians had to realize that with winning, comes losing, and with knowledge, comes skill. They strengthened and prepared themselves to be the best they could possibly be. Coach Leon Hart, who is in his sixth year as head coach, led the Fighting Christians to a 5-5 record. The old adage, "practice makes perfect," describes the way the football team planned to make themselves better each and every day. Striving for excellence, the Fighting Christians were the best at their game.

An assistant coach demonstrates a holding strategy to offensive linemen Bubba Arnold and Karl Stewart. Patient and diligent, the offensive and defensive team coaches worked hard from the sidelines each game this season.

Leading teammates, captains Robert Burnett, Chad Chisholm, Rod Clark, and James Washington take their game seriously. Leadership was the key to the success, on and off the field.

Flemming Brewer and Robert Burnett give encouragement to one another before the next play.

SPIRITS

HIGH

*"You can fly higher than an eagle."
-Bette Midler*

In every dream, it's a chance to become a cheerleader, watching these excited and vivacious athletes along the sidelines trying to get the crowd on its feet, is a lasting memory for many. Here at Elon, that dream is fulfilled for dedicated cheerleaders who want to experience a thrill. On this campus, cheerleaders are an important asset to the football and basketball games. Their bright maroon and gold uniforms are the spirit of almost any athletic event, whether it is home or away.

Becoming a cheerleader requires athletic ability, dedication, and skill. There are many hours of practice for games and future competitions. Being prepared and ready to lead the Fighting Christians in their every move, the spirit of the cheerleaders are on high. Elon cheerleaders are the excitement of the Fighting Christians! Better check them out, you might miss the excitement.

The Fighting Christian Volleyball players were always spirited. Not only did they lead the conference in the number of victories per season, they played well together and were successful in nonconference as well. All types of players are needed to "bump" the title from the other team. The overall record for the team was 32-8.

GOALS

"It's your attitude that determines your aptitude, not your altitude" -M.L. King

A very special place comes to life for players of an international sport known as soccer. A place where the goals are standing tall, the grass is cut short, and the midfield is well worn. Second to heaven. This place is Bakatsias Field. Elon College soccer players live up to the tradition of the maroon and gold. At the conclusion of the season, Bakatsias Field was empty, awaiting the arrival of a new team. The place that brought happiness, tears, and an everlasting tradition was still there where players remembered that it was attitude that made them special and the field a piece of their life.

Forward Bob Artioli concentrates in hopes of scoring a goal. The Fightin' Christians played tough throughout the season, their success was seen in every aspect of the game.

Displaying fancy footwork, Ryan Lazavskas keeps an eye on his opponent. Rookie players were an important part of the team.

Going around a wall can be hard as the soccer team shows their strategy. Midfielders and defenders guarded the goals well all season.

"If you run into a wall, don't turn around and give up. Figure out how to climb it, go through it, or work around it."

- Michael Jordan

Never underestimate the power of a woman with a soccer ball. The lady Fightin' Christians played with strength and determination, scoring goals and dribbling downfield with everything they had. Elon, a dominant team in the conference, played well against schools such as Division I-A. In the South Atlantic Conference, the women played local teams such as Mars Hill, Carson-Newman, and Catawba colleges.

On any soccer field, there are no walls; only competition. In the sport of soccer, there are only players who want to win. The lady Fightin' Christians never gave up and they kept the goals filled. They followed their hearts and committed their minds to the game. Elon and women's soccer—a lasting tradition.

Looks like everything is up in the air for Kam Radford and Erin Abernethy as they struggle for the ball.

Molly Page tries to steal the ball away from a Mars Hill player. The Fightin' Christians went on to win the game.

Midfielder Christina Rosbert keeps an eye on the ball as she moves downfield. The women's soccer team worked hard in every game, their style was tough to beat.

"About winning: It isn't important. What really counts is how you play the game.

About losing: It isn't important. What really counts is how you play the game.

About playing the game: Play to win!"

-Robert Fulghum

Practice, weight lifting, training, winning. It takes all of these to be the best. The Elon College Fighting Christians practiced six days a week, lifted weights throughout the season, trained on the court, and found a win in their hearts. Clearly, they were the team to beat. In the South Atlantic Conference, the Fighting Christian Basketball teams netted outstanding wins, yet struggled to score in some disappointing losses.

The Men's Basketball Team, coached by Mark Simons and assisted by Wendell Staton, experienced a season of rebuilding. Fielding a team of mostly freshman, the Fighting Christians showed their weaknesses on the court. With only one starting senior, Ryan Latham, the team was still lacking confidence in itself.

The Women's Basketball Team, which was also young, showed their will to win during each game. Coached by Brenda Paul and Ann Lashley, the women were taught the plays and moves of the court. Their leadership and devotion made them a team to watch. The Lady Fighting Christians overcame injuries and illness to be one of the most competitive in the conference.

Freshman player Summer Bennington focuses on the basket as she shoots from the line.

Crystal Blatchley fights to get to the basket as a Lees-McRae player attempts to get a hand on the ball. Offensively, the women were competitive and knowledgeable.

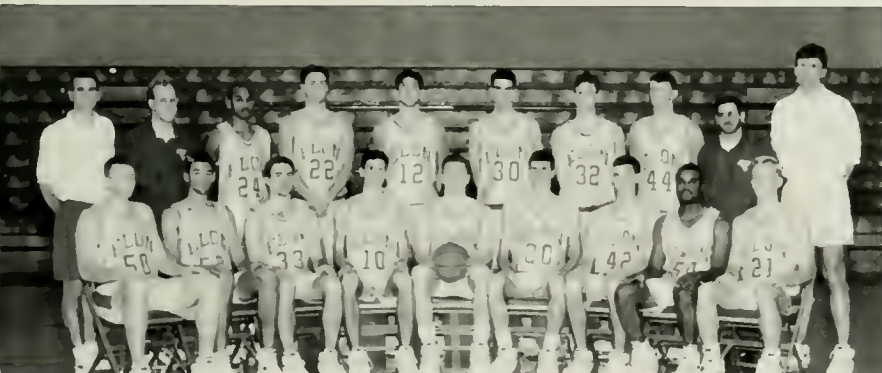

Practicing their shooting and game strategies is just one of the many drills that the teams have to go through at practice.

SWINGING WITH THE FIGHTING CHRISTIANS

*"Don't be called out on strikes. Go down swinging."
- H. Jackson Brown Jr.*

Whether or not we've ever played sports in our lives, we know what it feels like to go down swinging, especially in something we really wanted. Getting up in front of the hometown crowd and striking out can be the hardest moment, but striking out in life is much different. It's not a game, it's a journey. A player walks out onto Newsome Field here at Elon College where he prepares for the day's game. He hopes the Fighting Christians will be victorious. The player eyes the pitching mound, American flag, and the scoreboard as he thinks to himself what this game means to him. Will today bring a... no-hitter, a homerun, or a strikeout?

It's a quiet sport. It takes practice, patience, perseverance to make it into the final rounds. The Fighting Christian Golf Team traveled from course to course in search of victory.

Sounds of cheering are heard on the east side of campus. The Fighting Christian Softball Team found victories in more than just winning. They concentrated on their fielding skills and listened to the coaches from the sidelines throughout each game. Through all of this, they formed close bonds with each other.

Relief pitcher Melissa Rutt helps with Elon's victory over Bethel College, 2-0.

Brian Cobbler, a senior pitcher on the squad, concentrates on the next pitch. Even with many young players on the team, the Fighting Christians had many great wins.

A ARTS AND CADEMICS

All in a day's work is how we describe academics at Elon. We all realize the importance of academics in our college careers, and we all realize that academics come first at Elon.

All in a days work is a perfect heading for students of this fine institution, because we all do so many things in the course of a short day: if it is not one of our terrific plays such as "Oklahoma," its typing a paper in the computer lab before it closes. So here's to all those overworked and underpaid students, the hard work has finally paid off with excellence through arts and academics.

Kelly Parker studies in the LRC. The Larose Resource Center is a popular place to study and to get help from tutors.

The library is a great place for groups to converge and work on papers, tests, or just to study.

Music is a major part of many students' lives here at Elon. The wind ensemble performs many concerts and plays at every home football game.

A Time to Remember ...

Incorporating group work into the classroom has become an important part of the new four-hour curriculum. It is common to see small groups working on problem-solving in Math 210. Emily Wilkins, Rhonda Reid, and Marta Walker are using tangram pieces to complete a worksheet.

Sophomores Brian Pugh and Beth Everett camp out in the library to work on their World Religion in-class test. "When you are having a test on Zen-Buddhism, it really helps to work with other people so you can put your minds together and hear other people's differing views," commented Everett.

the stress of classes...

During his Science Materials and Methods class, senior Derek Sawyer does a demonstration on heat and pressure. Sawyer's demonstration was done as a "microteaching" exercise. Microteaching is a way that students prepare a lesson to teach to an actual class.

Dawn Gibian, a junior elementary education major, studies for a North Carolina History exam.

Group projects are common to many classes at Elon. Geology professor, Dr. Jimmie Agnew, discusses a project on earthquakes with Carol Lewis. The project included a paper along with a class presentation.

...work beyond the classroom

Visiting Philosophy Professor Martin Fowler takes his lecture beyond the classroom. "I like to try different things in different environments, if it will give a different perspective," said Fowler.

Mooney Building is the home to two of the computer labs on campus. Senior Beth Towe works on a part of her Psychology Senior Seminar while in the IBM lab.

...that preferred place to study

The library can be used for researching as well as just a place to study. Jessica Jewell spreads all her notes out as she studies for a media/law midterm.

It is common to find students studying outside when the weather permits.

Some people find it a lot easier to just stay in their room and study.

Oklahoma!

During the weekend of November 3-6, Oklahoma!, directed by Paul Kerr, was performed in McCrary Theatre. Here the full cast is shown in the finale.

The cast performs "The Farmer and the Cow Man."

(Curly) Troy Pitman and (Lauri) Jennifer Avery, sing the well-known song "People Will Say We're In Love."

(Will Parker) Pat Rutseager, dances with (Ado Annie) Cindy Jung.

The dance number "Many a New Day" included many of the female members of the cast.

...Enjoying the sounds

Elon's a cappella group Elan harmonized their way through two smashing performances of their fall concert "Steppin' Out." Proof of their success could be heard in the audience's enthusiastic response.

...and sights of Elon

The Pep Band is an important part of many of Elon's campus events, such as convocation. Jennifer Nottling and Deborah Alexander are adding the special sounds of their clarinets.

Several professors stop and look at a painting. These were displayed at the James H. McEwen, Jr. Visual Arts Series Opening Reception held on January 15 in the Isabella Cannon Room.

Linda Cykert, flutist, and Sally Duran, harpist, provide the entertainment for the guests at the Visual Arts Series Opening Reception.

...Expanding the horizons

Studying abroad is an exciting and educational experience for many students. Rome is a magnificent place as can be seen by these students sitting on the steps across from the Pantheon.

Winter Term also provides students with an opportunity to explore the world. Andi Lauri, Graham Tharp, and Carrie White took advantage of this chance by visiting the beautiful, peaceful Costa Rica. They even braved active volcanoes such as Irazu in the background.

...with study abroad

Students travelling to Jamaica over Winter Term especially enjoyed visiting Dunn's River Falls. Here, the students climbed and splashed through the waterfalls.

During the summer of 1994 Chrissy DiBenedetto, Mary Moffit, Iris Boutros, and John Morris traveled to rural India with Professor Tom Arcaro. The group worked with the Comprehensive Rural Health Project.

Travel abroad can involve new experiences with foreign transit. Donyell Owens, Michelle Hunt, Jim Kennedy, Lynda Ryan, Dawn higgins, Mariko Ohtsubo, Tiffany Heidlebaugh, and Amy Cowardin discovered this while waiting for the downtown train in London.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Another school year means another opportunity for local businesses to sell themselves to college students. The arrival of students means a revival of revenue flow for most area businesses. As parents gather odds and ends for their children, they raise the profits of nearby businesses. Students can be found in local hangouts such as Sidetracks Bar and Grill. Spending time in the community most often means spending money as well.

This is also an exciting time in the community for another reason—the newly created Moseley Center. To students it is a place to gather, eat, or buy books. For the retail community it equals profits from visitors attending conferences. This is another example of how Elon College benefits the community.

The Campus Shop is the biggest business on campus. Students can go here for their school and personal needs.

The Octagon Cafe does a booming business in its new location in the Moseley Center.

Remember

Then ... And Now

This 1960s aerial photograph of the once front side of Elon College's main campus wouldn't be recognizable if it weren't for the notable Alamance Building. Decade by decade and year by year, the college campus has developed and redeveloped.

Moseley
Center

The once circular parking area we see here at Alamance Building became the lawn to Long Student Center. This student center once housed everything from the Campus Shop to the Varsity Grille... student mailboxes, Campus Activities Office... game room... TV room and meeting rooms... to the S.G.A., Phi Psi Cli, and The Pendulum offices.

Long Student
Center

By the mid 1980s, the driveway that led to the front of Alamance was replaced by Fonville Fountain-- followed by the erection of the Faith Rockefeller Model Center for the Arts in the wooded area across the street accented by Lake Mary Nell-- once a green field.

Now, in 1995, the renovated alumni gym named the Koury Center and the fresh-out-of-the-oven $7.5 million Moseley Center are in the limelight along with the public figures that have graced their doors.

The Class of 1995 will have merely tasted the state-of-the-art facilities in Koury and the warmth of the fireplace or the thrill of the game room inside Moseley. Imagine what the 21st century has on the menu for Elon College!

Students now enjoy state-of-the-art fitness equipment in the Koury Center.

There's not a dull moment in the Moseley Game Room as students take advantage of the versatile games. Styles Haddad (Right) and Monte Davis (Left) play air hockey.

Student John Keegan enjoys being "Fred for a Day" as he discusses with President Fred Young and his secretary Sandra Fields plans to bring former Prime Minister of England Margaret Thatcher to Elon's campus on April 28.

Student's couldn't order a pint of Ben and Jerry's or a Chick-filA at the Varsity Grille --- but they can at the Octagon Cafe.

The new mail center combines all the student mailboxes and offers the convenience of an ATM machine on the way out.

Hootie and the Blowfish pack 3000 fans into Alumni Gym in February at $5 a ticket for students/staff and $10 for outsiders.

Another day comes to an end at Elon with the arrival of midnight. We have another day that will always be...

Phi Psi Cli wants to give a warm "Thank You" to everyone who helped and supported this 1995 yearbook. Some people and organizations went beyond just thinking to lending a hand in the production of Phi Psi Cli. They donated photos, artwork, and their time.

Thank You!

The staff of Phi Psi Cli would like to personally thank Felicia Massey for taking over as our adviser. Things did not look all that great for the yearbook and many people thought we were a lost cause. However, Felicia brought new vitalism into the staff and made us strive to get it done and "not pull out of the game yet." As she mentioned on page 73, we couldn't afford another gutter ball so we had to start hitting some strikes. That is what we did. Phi Psi Cli understands that it took a lot for her to do this and we appreciate it. We also have to thank Amber and Ethan for giving her the permission and understanding to advise the 1995 Phi Psi Cli book.
