The Mass Meeting To-Night.

We trust, this evening, for such a gathering at the Clarence Association, as to political assemblages has seldom, with for many a year. The people, in the full and the strength, casting aside ... [illegible] ... which will unite as one ... in the call for the [illegible] ... to the high ... and adopting those ... which in best calculated to ensure the ... [illegible] ...

Let every one, with the political opinions ... of the locality, or name of New Orleans, glance at the list of names appended to the call, and he will find it to contain the paramount popularity of ... evidenced by the fusion of ... the necessity of his nomination was ... essential. We declare, as we are, of the rapid ... that will bind together the Democratic party in close union, and preserves it under ... almost every contingency, from schism and sepa... ration, we confess ourselves astonished at behold... ing the imposing array of democratic gentlemen ... who have exhibited the moral hardihood to slan... der a party and co-leave with the mass of our Whig ... fellow citizens, in behalf of the lauvelled Hero of ... Buena Vista. There is no doubt, too, that the call ... numerously signed as it is, would have included ... thousands of others, who are equally solicitous to lend the weight of the names and influence in the ... great association of the popular choice. But the ... object in view was not so much to fill the columns of the newspapers, with an extended list of names, as to convince the sceptical that party organization ... cannot withstand the boisterous torrent of popular ... feeling. This is unquestionably established by the ... signers of the call, who are, for the most part, ... eminently known, as members of the Democratic ... party, and also River Attic, in the parish of Natchitoches.

Senator May gave notice of a bill to authorize James K. Love and his wife, Hannah Love, to adopt Mary Eveline Tubbs as their legal heir.

Mr. Scranton gave notice of a bill to amend the act creating the office, and defining the duties of Recorder for the several Parishes of the State, the Parish of Orleans excepted.

The Senate then adjourned.

House of Representatives.

The House met pursuant to adjournment. 87 members present.

Mr. McVea introduced a bill providing that no person shall be guilty of abuse or assault for the purpose of creating a quarrel, in order to criminal prosecution, and is punished at the discretion of the Court, or municipal jurisdiction. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Bruce, according to notice, introduced a bill to amend the act regulating the police of the City of New Orleans, and in the parish of Orleans. Read twice and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Several other bills of a local character were introduced and referred to appropriate Committees.

Mr. Smith of Ouachita presented a petition of ... [illegible] ... for the ... [illegible] ...

Mr. Hardy, the Senate and House of Represen... tatives of the United Louisiana, in General Assembly convened, thus the General Assembly of Louisiana, have met with admiration and delight ... [illegible] ... Ford, while laboring under temporary insanity, attempted to commit self destruction. He placed the muzzle of a pistol on his right temple, but fortunately for him, the percussion cap failed; fortunately the weapon to operate, and the ball passed through his right eye, behind the bridge of the nose, and lodged in the left eye. His condition, however, is extremely dangerous.

TESTIMONIALS TO WINES.—An institution for the purpose of awarding testimonials to wines has just been opened in the metropolis, and will, we trust, very soon shed forth branches in every town of the kingdom. The institution is, as yet, but little known; but after our report of its proceedings (they took place yesterday, in presence of a host of amateurs) its objects will become as public as they are acknowledged to be laudable.

The testimonials were distributed to the well-deserving wines—who attended with their families and friends—from the Pantheon. A gay throng in the order they were distributed to the Public by the Rev. Robert Montgomery, with an appropriate speech.

The Wine Bottles, matured to John Bottles twenty years. Had they been, at all, of that time given for husband gold mutton for dinner. Prize—a silver tea pot.

To Mrs. Poppy-flower, married twenty years. Mr. Poppy-flower, a constant attendant at the Cheapside Club. His wife, in all that time, had never asked him at what time he would come home, but always stayed now and then upon his own solicitation, and expressed her determination to sit up for him, ready with a supper and kitch him." Prize—a silver cream ...

To Mrs. Rhubarb, married eighteen years. Had never given an unprovocation, and never got out with her husband, because she knew she had no grown. Prize—a shawl, value five guineas.

To Mrs Mirabel, married seventeen years and never asked her husband for money. Prize—a ... of suede mitts and ripper."

What the other testimonials are we cannot clearly say; the amusement and continued applause consequent on the delivery of the prize, prevented its being heard. We can only add, by way of encouragement to wives in general, that Mrs. Mirabel was taken home to Baker street drawn in a carriage to which was coupled horses, and preceded by a band of music—Punch.
