

The whole body of women in the world are held subjugated to the proud and despotic will of man. I am for their immediate and unconditional emancipation, and the full assertion and complete enjoyment of all their rights. "They who would be free, themselves must strike the blow."

Wm. Lloyd Garrison.

New Bedford, Aug. 13, 1842.