The Voyagers' Adventure.

On a cloudy day, one Autumn, several years since, two voyagers were descending the Yellowstone in a single canoe. One was seated near the stern, while the other was slightly forward of the centre and was engaged in plying a long Indian paddle. There having been a severe storm recently, the river was muddy, and so greatly swollen, that it rushed forward with the velocity of a mill-race. For this reason he who flourished the paddle had comparatively an easy task to perform; his chief occupation being that of guiding their vessel clear of the fallen trees, that becoming imbedded in the stream, and projecting upward, formed the much dreaded and dangerous "saw-years," so formidable in all the western waters. Occasionally, however, the river broadened until it seemed a vast inland sea, where the current was more sluggish and navigation less dangerous. At such times, the pilot dipped his oar beneath the surface, and with one effort so accelerated the progress of the canoe, that it seemed to leap forward like a swallow. Then again, as the waters were compressed within their natural channel, he held the instrument motionless, until, at the sudden appearance of danger, he sheered it clear, and darted on as before. Scores of times was the boat in imminent danger of swamping, and was only saved by the skill and presence of mind of him who controlled its movements. Calm, cool and collected, he dipped the paddle first on one side, then on the other, now darting it off nearly at right angles, now spinning it around like an eggshell; now holding it absolutely stationary in the yeast of dashing waters, and then shooting over some foaming whirlpool; until once more they were gliding over the comparatively placid surface of the widened river.

The canoe was a "dug-out," made from an unusually large trunk, so that there was no danger of its being torn apart, or even sprung, by the terrific strain to which it was continually subjected. Between the two occupants lay a pile of closely packed furs, and upon them, secured against every accident, were a couple of rifles, indispensable articles of their profession in a section like this.

The inmates of the canoe were two brothers, George and Myrick Dunham; who had been trapping together, a considerable distance farther up the river, and meeting with unsatisfactory success, were now on their way to a point lower down. There was a remarkable resemblance between them, both being middle aged, and bronzed and hardened by years of privations and hardship. Their life was such, that they had long been inured to all species of danger, and in the perils which environed them, there was no kindling of the eye, nor quick drawing of the breath, to show any fear or unusual excitement.

Gliding smoothly and swiftly forward, George, who sat facing down stream, spoke to his brother without turning his head:

"Myrick, there is a storm gathering fast; notice how dark and strange the sky appears."

"I have been watching it for the last hour; it'll be snow, this time, sure. Hello! there's a flake this minute, on my hand; you needn't turn your head to look, for it is a drop of water now."

"I warn't going to twist my neck off and get ourselves upset, to see what's right afore my eyes. Whew! what a hole that would punch in a flat boat," remarked the other, as he steered clear of a sharp pointed "sampler" that was slowly nodding from the force of the current. "I tell you, Myrick, it won't do for us to travel down this brook, without a powerful heap of daylight to steer by; and the way the sky begins to look, we've got to run into shore, before many hours."

"Of course; and it is my private opinion it had better be done inside the next ten minutes. We're in for a good storm, and it can't be far from night, anyway. We've got some meat aboard, but it ain't cooked, and if we are agwine to dine, what's the use of postponin' it?"

"There is only one reason," replied the brother, instinctively lowering his voice; "I'd like to stay out in the stream till it is dark; for you know as well as I do, that we ain't in the safest part of the world."

"You are too skeerish, George, altogether. I've kept a watch all day of both shores, wherever they warn't under water, and we haven't seen a single red skin to-day, and only the sign of one. Recollect that that smoke we saw was early this morning; and as it came from out a patch of woods, behind them hills, where we couldn't get a glimpse of what made it, why, I says, it is just as likely to be whites as reds. Do you 'spose there are any of the Blackfeet watching the Yellowstone at such a time as this?"

"It don't do to 'spose anything about them creeters, Myrick, and I should think you and I knowed enough of 'em to have learned that, long ago. I don't fancy, myself, that there is much risk in putting into shore; but, for all that, just as I told you, it don't do to be too sartin about such matters."

"Take my advice, and put in without waiting to get upset in the dark. I'll run the risk of Injins, Blackfeet, Sioux, or Crows."

The pilot seemed to decide at once in favor of the suggestion of his brother, and heading toward the left bank, he approached it so rapidly, that in a few moments, the canoe struck the muddy shore, where it was pulled far enough upon the land to prevent the current from floating it away. By this time, the air was full of snow, which came down in large, feathery flakes, undisturbed by the slightest breath of wind.

It was a difficult task indeed for the hunters to start a fire; but their skill and patience overcame all obstacles, and they soon had, in spite of the swift falling snow, a vigorous crackling blaze. Over this, a large slice of meat was toasted, which being devoured, they brought forth their pipes to indulge in a half hour's enjoyment before retiring. The snow which had commenced so suddenly as suddenly ceased, and while smoking, not a flake drifted downward.

"Is there going to be any more to-night?" asked Myrick, as he knocked the ashes from his pipe and looked up at the sky.

"I think not, as I see the stars shining. The air doesn't seem cold to me, so I'm opposed to turning the canoe bottom side up and sleeping under it as we did last night."

It was finally agreed to allow the canoe to remain in its present position and to sleep where they were, with no covering but the clear sky. Their thick substantial blankets were wrapped around them, and with their feet toward the fire they stretched out upon the ground, and in a few moments the two were asleep.

From some cause or other, the slumber of Myrick Dunham was fitful and feverish. His uneasiness, which was greater than his brother was aware of, was probably the first cause. He started and mumbled in his sleep, turned from side to side, drew long sighs, and at length, throwing his blanket from his face, arose to the sitting position. The place chosen for the encampment was probably the best that could have been selected under the circumstances. They were within a few yards of the river, while the bank, rising several feet, effectually concealed the light of their fires from any eyes inland.

It was less than an hour after they had lain down, that the voyager arose. Drawing another deep breath, he looked furtively around, as though he more than half expected the appearance of some dreaded enemy. Before him, the broad, surging Yellowstone mowed swiftly downward, its waters washing the shore with a sullen, monotonous sound, and, as he arose, and looked over the bank he saw nothing but the snow, stretching away in the distance like a shroud. He listened, but not a breath of air was stirring, and no sound but that of the river, caught his ear.

Still tormented by a vague uneasiness, he walked to the water's edge and looked out over its surface. The fire by this time had sunk so low, that the range of vision extended but a few yards from shore. Occasionally a floating tree or stump was discerned; and, as the voyager was about to turn, he caught the shadowy outline of a long, dark object floating downward with an unusual swiftness, but curiously enough it failed to arouse his suspicion.

It was at this time that he noticed it was snowing again. The sky was dark and ominous overhead and he concluded to awake his brother and make preparations for spending the night more comfortably. As he walked toward the fire, he observed him lying upon the ground as before, but a slight movement of the body showed that he was already awake. "We shall have to pull up the canoe and crawl under it," said Myrick, or take the chance of being snowed under."

"As you're up, Myrick, 's'pose you bring an armful of wood, and throw on the fire. You will find a pile a few rods up stream."

"All right!" was the commentary of the brother as he turned to obey. He was obliged, however, to walk a considerable distance before coming upon a sufficient quantity. The trapper had filled his arsus and had taken a step toward retiring, when he suddenly halted in blank dismay. Directly between himself and the fire he saw half a dozen shadowy figures stealing along like so many crouching panthers. Beyond these, dimly outlined by the smoldering fire, he discerned the prostrate form of his brother, all unconscious of his peril,—he probably having lain back for a few more minutes slumber ere drawing the canoe further up the bank. Comprehending in a second the imminent danger that menaced him, Myrick gave utterance to a low, warning signal which was well understood between the brothers. He then deposited his wood upon the ground, and seating himself upon it, quietly watched the progress of events. Having left his rifle behind, he had no arms, but a long and keen hunting knife resting idly a girdle at his waist.

The trapper had not been seated a single minute, ere his trained ear caught a suspicious sound behind. He quickly turned his head, but at that very instant a dark, ball-like body came bounding through the air, and alighting upon his shoulders, with crushing weight bore him to the ground, and he found that a lithe and stalwart Indian was upon him. The muscular hunter, however, was a skilful wrestler, and he turned the savage with astonishing quickness, and held him at disadvantage. Resolved to dispatch him at once, he reached down for his knife, but found that the wily redskin had drawn it himself and was endeavoring to plunge it into his side. The trapper was roused to the highest pitch of fury, and grasping the hand of his adversary, he bent it violently down over the wrist, until it unclosed of itself and the weapon fell to the ground. Catching it up, he raised it on high—and a few seconds later, his implacable enemy was no more.

In the meantime, George Dunham had had his adventure. He was lying flat upon his back, and was half asleep and half awake, his nerves being in that peculiarly susceptible condition when the slightest sound disturbs them. As he caught the signal of his brother, he merely turned his head, and understanding his danger, encompassed as he was in the folds of his blanket, he shut his eyes, lay perfectly motionless and feigned slumber. The next moment a hideously painted Blackfoot glowered upon the bundle, and turning down the blanket, looked upon the placid face beneath. Supposing his unconsciousness to be real he unwrapped his covering, and, as he saw how soundly the trapper slept, he uttered a suppressed "ugh!" and addressed his companions in a low tone. Their words seemed nothing but grunts, although they decided the fate of the recumbent white man. Their discussion was whether to slay him or carry him off as prisoner. Finally the latter was determined upon, and the first mentioned savage stooped down and lifted him in his arms, as if he had been a child.

Some yards down stream lay their canoe, the object which had been dimly discerned by the other brother. Toward this, the savage made his way, although why he chose not to awake his prisoner and compel him to walk, we cannot tell. The latter lay limp and helpless in his arms, and it never once entered the skull of the bronzed Blackfoot, that, to use a rather figurative expression, he was "walking upon the verge of a volcano."

The redskin had reached the canoe, and was about to deposit his burden, when it sprang out of his arms with the quickness of lightning, and catching him up in turn, flung him headlong far out into the muddy current of the Yellowstone. The dumbfounded aborigine gave one furious yell, as he rose to the surface, and struck out for the shore. The latter was soon reached, but it is scarcely necessary to say that he saw no sign of his late prisoner, and his howling, discomfited companions gathered around him, exasperated at the escape of their prey.

At this juncture, one of their comrades, who had heard sounds of a strife further up stream, came upon the body further by Myrick Dunham. A doleful wail communicated the fact to the others and brought them in an instant around him. When they stooped down and found that his much prized scalp lock was gone their lamentation and rage seemed un-governable.

The hindmost of their number had scarcely left the long, beautiful Indian canoe, when a figure emerged from the darkness and stealthily approached it. First assuring himself that he was unobserved, he carefully examined the interior. Here he found several rifles, a number of costly blankets and trinkets and a few furs. Seemingly satisfied with the survey George Dunham sprang in and shoved off from the shore. Under his skilful hand he soon carried it out far enough to be invisible from the land, and then checking its motion as much as possible, he uttered a low, tremulous whistle.

The signal was repeated several times, and then he heard the answer, as he expected, on the left bank some distance above him. Turning the head of the canoe toward shore, he carefully worked it forward until he caught the outlines of a man upon the shore.

"That you, Myrick?"

"Nobody else; you, George?"

"I rather guess so; jump in!"

"I've lost my rifle, and our canoe and pelts and got nothin' to show for it, except a Blackfoot top-knot."

"I opine you'll find as many furs and blankets and rifles in here as we lost, not taking into account this 'ere fine Indian canoe worth a hundred such dug-outs as ours."

"Wal, George, I rayther suspect them Blackfoot fellows will soon be able to tell how a couple 'o trappers got slightly the best of 'em."

"Wal, they will."

How THEY DO IT.—Among the mysteries which envelope those dear creatures, the young ladies, is how they go to bed; and we propose, Messrs. Editors, to enlighten the unmarried reader, or "any other man," as to how they do it.

The young girl trips gaily to her chamber, and with the cautious timidity peculiar to her sex, first locks the doors and arranges the window curtains, so that by no possible chance a passer by, or a belated nocturnal wanderer, from the pavement, can catch a glimpse of a budding beauty when en dishabile. This task completed, she turns on the light to its full, and institutes a general search throughout the apartment, that she may be sure it does not contain a "horrible bugbear," or a "desperate ruffian," in big whiskers, and crisp black hair. Carefully, with her delicate little fingers, she lifts the bed valance, peers into places where even Tom Thumb could not squeeze his diminutive corporation, and takes a cursory peep into half-emptied trunks, not forgetting to glance nervously under the sofa, the space between which and the floor is not sufficient to contain the ghost of Cavin Edson, much less an ordinary robber. Having ascertained that she is really alone, she leisurely proceeds to divest her fair form of "the silk and linen conventionalities of society." First she relieves her glossy hair of the pins and combs which enthrall it, and "does it up" more compactly. Then off comes the little collar, and the light vapory cloud of lace she calls undersleeves, which all the day have been clasped around her white, plump arms by a couple of India rubber straps. Next, the love of a silk dress is unfastened in front. Then sundry waist strings and button straps are loosed, and lo! what a collapse, like Lowe's balloon. She stands like Saturn, the center of rings. There they lie upon the soft carpet, partly covered by the linen underfixings and overfixings, with no more expression in them than there is in the bare floor under the carpet. Sits she now upon the edge of the snowy bed, and begins the unlacing of gaiters, and the disrobing of those fair swelling limbs of the stockings. The pretty little foot is carefully perched upon the knee—down drops the gaiter, off comes the elastic, and her thumb, inserted at the top of the stocking, pushes it down—down over the heel, and the cotton rests beside the prunella. So with the other foot, only involving a slight change of position. There is a smile that peeps out from behind the blushes of her sweet face, now, as standing before the glass, she places upon her head the night-cap, and with a quick twist of her fingers ties the bewitching bow. Then the night-gown is thrown over the frilled chemise, concealing the heaving bosom and the shoulders in the linen folds. Then the counterpane and sheets are thrown back, the light is turned down—very, very low—and the little form presses the yielding couch, and the angel goes off into the world of dreams. That's the "how they do it."

OLD BACH.

THE PURE HEART.—The springs of everlasting life is within. There are clear streams gushing up from the depths of the soul, which flowing out to enliven the sphere of outward existence. But like the waters of Siloam, they "go swiftly." You must listen to catch the silvery tones of the little rill, as it glides from its mountain home; you may not witness its silent march through the green vale, but its course will be seen in fresh verdure and the opening flowers; its presence will be known by the forms of life and beauty which gather around it. It is ever thus with the pure. You may not hear the "still small voice," or heed the silent aspiration, but there is a moral influence and a holy power which you will feel. The wilderness is made to smile, flowers of new life and beauty to spring up and flourish, while an invisible presence breathes immortal fragrance through the atmosphere.

"ERIAN'S ISLE OF GREEN."—The editor of the Oregonian has received an original "poem" under the above caption, of which the following is the first stanza: Cum awl you sons of erian's isle and listen to my dity; A bout the Galent 69 and fire boys of New York city: the yankys know are stein the sodern cherrilly, and our banered shines most gloriois A mozt the stars of liberty.

The author "still lives."

BEAUTY OF YOUTH.—Is it not true that the young not only appear to be, but really are, most beautiful in the presence of those they love? It calls forth all their beauty.

COMPLIMENTARY.—We are under obligation to Hon. I. N. Hoag, Secretary, for a complimentary ticket to the State Fair, which will be held at Sacramento, commencing on Friday next and continuing until the 2nd of October.

CHURCH BELL.—The Lark brought up yesterday from Sacramento a clear-toned and good sized bell, intended for the school house in this place. The funds were raised among the citizens under the auspices of Rev. Barnes.

FISH MARKET.—We observe that Mr. W. P. Yordy, otherwise and familiarly known as "West," has opened a stall on Front street for the sale of fresh fish.—We anticipate that the new "institution" will become quite popular with the house-keepers of our town.

THE WAR NEWS of this week do not amount to anything. A report comes from Morris Island that Gen. Gillmore has some disagreement with Admiral Dahlgren and has tendered his resignation, but it is further said that the President will not accept it, and has approached Admiral Farragut with a view of giving the latter command of the fleet before Charleston.

TO-DAY the masonic fraternity perform the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the Court House at Woodland in accordance with the usages of the Craft. We regret that we have not the programme of proceedings to lay before our readers this morning. No doubt these impressive ceremonies will be witnessed by a large number of spectators and participated in by affiliated masons generally in the county.

We have not been able to learn whether other orders will join in the procession or not, nor can we say at what hour the procession will move or the address be delivered, but presume that the ceremonies at the ground will begin about eleven.

HERSPERIAN COLLEGE.—We are requested by the President of the Board of Trustees of the above named Institution, to say that its Fifth Session will commence on Monday the 5th day of October next. We would say to the friends of education, and particularly to parents and guardians that said Institution does honor to its founders, and offers most excellent educational advantages to all who may choose to avail themselves of them. It is a mixed school, embracing both sexes. We hope that the good people of our own and adjacent counties will give their sons and daughters the benefit of the facilities which this school offers them, and that a host of educated and accomplished young ladies and gentlemen will go out from it to be a blessing and an honor to their friends and to society at large.

ROBBERY.—On Saturday evening last Charles Watson, alias Donelson, who escaped on Wednesday last week from the Sacramento Jail, entered the house of J. Wilcoxon at Fremont and stole about $75. After the discovery Mr. Wilcoxon started in pursuit, an followed the tracks as far as Mr. St. Louis', about two miles from this place, where he got breakfast. Then he came to this place where he was followed by several citizens, after a little search he was found in the brush having hid his treasure. Besides the money he had a lot of table spoons and tea spoons, also 3 packages of new plated forks, which had never been opened. After his arrest it was found from the description in the Union he was the same one who stole a span of horses from Woodland. He was examined before Justice Rinehammer, who ordered him to appear before the Grand Jury, then in session at Woodland.

BABIES.—Not long since, a gentleman counted seventy-five babies under ten months of age, in the branch of the Market Street Orphan Asylum of San Francisco.

BRID, the defaulting Treasurer of Sacramento, is supposed to have sailed for the Sandwich Islands. Jas. C. McDonough has been appointed by the Supervisors, as Treasurer in his place.

KILLING CHINAMEN.—The Indians on Trinity river attacked Little Prairie, a few days since, and killed six Chinamen. It is thought the Fort Gaston garrison, Hoopa valley, is besieged by Indians.

The State Fair.
The Fair of the State Agricultural Society commences on Friday next the 25th and continues till October 3d. Our county has heretofore exhibited liberally at Agricultural Fairs, evinced more spirit, taken more pains and paid more attention to the raising of good stock than any other county in the State to our knowledge. This is all in the right direction. Agricultural Fairs should be fostered and encouraged, and when conducted in a proper manner are productive of immense benefit. For the last two years many complaints have been made by our farmers who have exhibited at the State Fair, of a want of sufficient attention in the selection of proper Judges of the various departments. For instance on horses, men have been selected who have been entirely unqualified for the position: lawyers from Sacramento, tin workers, carpenters, &c.; men who are considered the best judges in the State on thorough bred horses placed on the committee on roadsters; men who have been all their lives dealing in trotting stock on the committee on thorough bred horses, and when the committees are not all present for examination one is selected from the audience of visitors as a good fellow and an honorable man. This has not only been the case in the department of horses, but in every other class. This is wrong. Our farmers see this—they are not blind—and consequently lose all interest in the exhibition. They go home cursing agricultural fairs and swear they never will go again.

We are glad to see more pains being taken in the selection of the Judges of the various departments this year. Letters have been addressed to competent men all over the State to send in to the Secretary a list of men in their county who would be qualified to act in each department. Those lists have been sent, they have been canvassed by the Board of Directors and a judicious selection has been made, consulting at the same time parties high in position in the various branches of each department. And we are confident that our farmers who exhibit this year will be entirely satisfied at the interest manifested, and attention to their wants, that the fair will far exceed any of previous years. One thing more. We urgently advocate the paying of premiums in coin, with a choice of plate if so desired by the parties receiving the premiums. This expression is almost universal in our county, and we know from the feeling exhibited at Marysville at the District Fair that it gave universal satisfaction. There can be no objection and many arguments in its favor.

Then the officers of the society should be elected at the time of holding the fair, as all who are members can vote at that time, whereas at the elections as now held only a few in the neighborhood of Sacramento can be present. We have heard complaint of this in various parts of the State, and give this suggestion as of importance to the interests of the society. Another thing, we urge most strenuously a larger premium for fine stock and graduated down to impure breeds. A man imports a fine stallion or a fine bull at an immense cost and gets no more than a blooded animal of a few hundred dollars in value. Notwithstanding the objections waged against racing, and giving premiums or purses to racing or trotting stock, we regard this feature of immense benefit to our farmers, and of decided advantage to the society pecuniarily.

Liberal purses bring numbers of people from all sections, and the success of agricultural fairs depends on the accommodation to exhibitors and the public, with an eye single to the financial condition of the society. And we are confident that this year the society with our most worthy Secretary have spared no pains to make this a fair worthy of any State or Nation.

THE ASSESSOR has made return of 1665 persons subject to military duty in Solano county.

THE BALANCE in the State Treasury Sept. 14th was $357,588; of which amt. $34,018 was in the General Fund.

A SHETLAND pony has been imported, and is an object of general attraction at the Bay.

THE ALLISON RANCH mining Company, for a crushing of twenty-four hours, one day last week, took out 500 ounces of gold.

STATE FAIR.—About 220 stalls have been engaged for exhibition of stock at the State Fair, and five or six are being engaged daily.

FARMING.—The farmers in Siskiyou county, says the Yreka Journal, have raised splendid crops of grain this season. The abundant harvest has overstocked the market and reduced the prices, while the expenses of harvesting has been greater than previous years, on account of the scarcity of labor.

THE TOTAL WEALTH of Boston, as valued by the city assessors, is $302,527,000; an increase from last year of $26,569,000. The rate of taxation under the increased expenses consequent upon the war and the augmented State tax, is $11.50 per $1000.

THE ENROLLMENT.—Wm. H. Parks, of Sutter, has been appointed Provost Marshal of the Marysville Enrollment District; Dr. Lorenzo Hubbard, Surgeon, and Wm B. Latham, Jr., Commissioner of enrollment. Headquarters at Marysville.

W. HIGBY, Member of Congress elect, will leave for Washington October 1st—Cole and Shannon, the other Members, will leave about the middle of October.

FAIRS.—According to the Chronicle, the Second Annual Fair of the Amador Agricultural Society is to be held in Ione and to commence on the 21st instant. This is the third County Fair which is advertised to open on that day. The three are San Joaquin, El Dorado and Amador.

ED. KNIGHT'S LANDING NEWS.
Sir—As there is considerable interest manifested by citizens of the county in regard to the plan, dimensions &c. of the new Court House and Jail being erected in this county, I herewith send you the size of building, interior arrangements, finish, &c.

The extreme length exclusive of projection of central portion of front is 75 feet 6 inches; width is 60 feet 4 inches; the porch in rear 6 by 8 feet; the yard walls extend back 50 feet from the building, exclusive of pilasters. The foundations commence 4 feet below the surface and are 6 feet 4 inches on the base. The first floor is elevated 3 feet above the ground, and from thence to top of second story floor is 15 feet 6 inches; from top of 2d story floor to roof beams 20 feet 2 inches, from thence to top of fire walls is 3 feet 5 inches. The yard walls are to be 14 feet 8 inches above the surface. The attic on the front forming the clock tower to be 9 feet 4 inches above the fire walls. The interior walls 4 feet 8 inches wide on the bottom; the main walls are to be 18 inches thick. The front steps, check blocks, cornices of pedestals under the columns, bases and caps of the columns, rear door sills and corner stone are to be cut of the best quality of Freestone in the State and obtained at quarries in Yolo county. The jail and court room are to be 57 by 35 feet in the clear. The cells are of two thicknesses of 2 inch sound lumber filled with nails. Windows and doors grated; with no egress except through two offices and three doors occupied by the Sheriff and Jailor. All the outside walls from surface to top of fire walls to be stuccoed. The jail is on the first floor in the east end of building, and court room directly above. On the first floor will be two Sheriff's offices, an Assessor's, Treasurers, and one Grand Jury room. On the second floor will be District Attorney's, Judge's and Supervisors offices and one Jury room. The contract is let to P. McManus of Sac City for the sum of 25 thousand dollars. The building is to be enclosed by December 1st 1863 and finished in the fall of 1864. Persons wishing further information are requested to examine the work as it progresses, or examine the plans and drawings at the office of
G. E. SILL, Sup't.

Court of Sessions.

Monday, September 15, 1863. Court of Sessions of Yolo county commenced. Present Hon. I. N. Hoag, Judge. O'Neal and Frost, Associate Justices. People vs. Lewis Keisburg. Indictment heretofore found charging defendant with assault with intent to commit murder answered to and demurrer sustained. Case remanded to the next Grand Jury.

People vs. F. M. Russell. Grand larceny and burglary—both cases continued to next term of this court.

At this day comes H. G. Burnett and offers the adoption of appropriate resolutions in memory of the death of Hon. L. R. Hopkins, late County Judge of Yolo county. Resolutions adopted and placed on file to be recorded in the Journal of the Court.

People vs. William Hudson. Grand larceny. Defendant pleads guilty and is sentenced to imprisonment in penitentiary for the term of two years.

People vs. Henry Schwan. Petit larceny. Jury trial. Verdict "not guilty." People vs. Henry Davis, charged with grand larceny. Jury trial and verdict of guilty of petit larceny. Sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and to be imprisoned in County Jail till paid.

Charles Watson (alias Donaldson) charged with grand larceny. Defendant answers to indictment. Demurrer overruled. Apd defendant pleads not guilty to indictment. Cause then continued to next term.

THE CHAPMAN PIRATES.—Judge Field, in the United States Circuit Court rendered his decision, on the 9th inst., that the prisoners in the piracy case were entitled to be admitted to bail, and fixed the bail of Greathouse, Harpening and Rubry at $15,000 each. Mr. Greathouse was immediately bailed, Messrs. Lloyd Tevis and Seals becoming bondsmen for him. The bail of the other prisoners was fixed at $10,000. Mr. Greathouse alone has furnished the necessary bonds for his release; all the others will remain in durance vile at Alcatraz.

THE COMANCHE.—This iron-clad steamer, built expressly for this coast, was shipped on board the ship Aquilla, now over one hundred days from New York. The vessel will be immediately prepared for service after her arrival.

GAME LAW.—The game law expired on the 15th instant. Hunters can blaze away now at their pleasure until the 15th day of next March, when this law goes into effect again.

The San Jose Tribune tells a wonderful story about a native California boy who lately recovered his speech during a fit of drunkenness, after a dumb interval of many years.

MARRIED.
At the Golden Eagle Hotel, Sacramento, September 15th, by Rev. Dr. Phelps, James W. Dawson of Yolo to Mary V. Russell, lately from Ohio.

DEATHS.
At Buckeye, Yolo county, September 9th, the wife of H. Frekericks, aged 43 years and 5 months.

Summons.

State of California, county of Sutter.—Justices Court, Sutter Township.
The People of the State of California to William Geller, Greeting.
You are hereby summoned to appear before me at my office in Sutter Township on the 3d day of October A. D. 1863, at 1 o'clock P. M., then and there to make answer unto the complaint of J. P. Farrer, who sues to recover the sum of two hundred dollars ($200) with interest thereon at two per cent. per month from the 20th day of June A. D. 1863 until paid, being a note of hand executed by you to said J. P. Farrer for the direct payment of money, when judgment will be taken against you for said amount and interest together with costs if you fail to appear and answer.
Given under my hand and seal this 16th day of September A. D. 1863.
C. L. N. VAUGHAN,
Justice of the Peace.

It appearing from the return of the Constable on file in my office, that the above named defendant cannot be found in this county, and it appearing to the satisfaction of the Court that the defendant is within this State. It is therefore ordered that service of Summons be made by publishing the same in the Knight's Landing News of Knight's Landing for two weeks or until the 3d day of October A. D. 1863, including three insertions in said Knight's Landing News.
Given under my hand this 16th day of September, A. D. 1863.

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.
The stomach is the fountain head of scores of diseases which infest the human system. Indigestion, badness of per se, generates diarrhoea, dysentery, faintness, vertigo, palpitation of the heart, general debility, &c. Get rid of it, then, at once, by going through a course of Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.
A palatable and refreshing preparation, which as surely relieves all complaints of the stomach and its dependencies, as the sunshine melts the snow. A course of the medicine may not be necessary. One bottle frequently accomplishes a complete cure.—Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

HOSTETTER, SMITH & DEAN,
Sole Agents, San Francisco.

IN CALLING ATTENTION TO DOCTOR GUYSSO'S Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, we feel confident that we are doing a service to all who are afflicted with Scrophulous and other disorders, originating in hereditary taint, or from impurity of the blood. We have known instances, within the sphere of our acquaintance, where the most formidable distempers have been cured by the use of Guyssot's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla alone.

It is one of the few advertised medicines that cannot be stigmatized with quackery, for the "Yellow Dock" and the "Sarsaparilla" are well known to be the most efficient, (and at the same time, innoxious) agents in the whole Materia Medica, and by far the best and purest preparation of them is Dr. Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla.

Rheumatism.
Has meta coaquor at last.
Sweet's Infalible Liniment is warranted under a forfeiture of $500, to cure the most obstinate case of Rheumatism in twenty days (it will do it, however, in less than half that time,) and as a universal external remedy is unrivalled by any preparation before the public. No family should be without this truly valuable remedy, for it has thoroughly proved itself to be a friend in need. Sold by all Druggists.

A WORD TO THE AGED.—In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay, can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which re-its the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

As an invigorant and restorative, immediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effect. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, acts like a charm upon the spirits. For dyspepsia, oppression after eating, bilious cholera, wind cholera, spasms of the stomach, sick or nervous head-ache, chills and fever, tremors, prostration, and all the complaints special to the feeble sex, the Bitters are earnestly recommended by thousands who have witnessed their superior efficacy in such cases. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

THE INDIAN WAR DEBT.—On the 5th of the present month Treasurer Ashley received, through Wells, Fargo & Co., from Washington, the sum of $218,489 29, that being the amount allowed, aside from commissions, &c., by the Government on the Indian War claim presented by the State. The aggregate amount of the claim as originally presented for adjudication was $497,572 38. The proportion of these which came within the law and were acted upon by the Auditor at Washington, amounted to $449,605 74. Out of this sum, $229,987 67 was allowed and 219,618 07 was rejected. Of the amount allowed, $76,538 25 is due to the State, and $153,449 42 is due to individual holders of bonds, certificates, etc. The amount received into the treasury, is less, however, than the amount allowed and paid over at Washington, by $11,498 38, which sum is presumed to be the cost of transmission, insurance, etc. The entire amount was paid by the General Government in greenbacks, and is paid, of course, to claimants in that currency. In the adjudication of the original claims, those for services and supplies only were allowed. All claims for spoils and for property damaged or stolen were rejected. The law passed by the Legislature, April 9th, 1862, regulating the payment of these moneys to the holders of bonds and certificates, requires that five per cent. of the amount of each claim be retained to pay the cost of collection, etc. A law passed April 25, 1857, provides that all the moneys collected shall be paid, etc. Basing their action upon this contradiction in the law, those who have presented their claims and received their pay have done so protesting against the retention of five per cent. on the amount allowed by the United States, which amount is retained under and by virtue of a law of the State of California, and that it is our intention to apply for, demand and recover the same from the State.—Union.

REVIVAL OF TRADE IN NEW ORLEANS. The New York correspondent of the S. F. Bulletin, says:

Letters from New Orleans in the morning journals furnish many interesting particulars concerning the revival of trade in that city during the short time that has elapsed since the opening of the Mississippi. Several steamers from St. Louis had arrived deeply laden with produce, and the levees are being crowded with merchandise intended for the up river depots, and the bustle in some branches of trade was beginning to show some of its former activity. The decline in some articles of produce was very great. Flour had fallen from $14 to $7.50; potatoes from $11 to $2; beef from 50 and 60 cents the pound to 14 cents. At the date of the latest letter, a large fleet of transports, laden with produce, from St. Louis and intermediate points, was hourly expected. The prospect now is, that the market will be stocked far beyond the wants of the community. Cotton, however, came in slowly.

The citizens, too, seem to be in better humor with themselves and with the world at large. Says one letter writer: "A walk on the levee now, on a cool, bright evening, is a pleasure really worth enjoying. Instead of half a dozen stragglers loafing about the almost deserted wharves, people now flock there by hundreds—among them well dressed ladies—as an agreeable promenade. There is something to look at—something doing—and if the eye cannot yet gaze upon the "forests of masts" that greeted it of yore, there is at least the happy consciousness that the spring time of commerce has returned, and that the said forest trees are sprouting very fast."

HEAVY EXPRESS ROBBERY.—The St. Louis correspondent of the Bulletin, dated August 25th, says:

The United States Express office, in this city, was robbed last night of $40,000. An effort is being made to hush up the matter, but it is on everybody's tongue, and is the town gossip. The office, situated on the corner of St. Charles and Fourth streets, was entered after midnight by breaking the iron bars of one of the side windows. The watchman was asleep at the time, and was kept so by a vigorous application of chloroform. The burglars then broke open the safe. The exact means are unknown, and the Managers are very loth to give the public any information whatever. The money stolen was chiefly in greenbacks, and had just arrived from New York. A large portion of the sum belonged to soldier's families, but will not be lost, as the Company is abundantly responsible for the whole loss. Detective policemen have been placed on the scent, and telegrams have been sent to other cities to endeavor to head off the robbers in case they have left town.

SAD ACCIDENT.—This morning, says the Sacramento Bee, of the 12th, as the cars were about leaving Lincoln for Sacramento, N. Arrington, a banker of Virginia City, placed one of his children, aged two and a half years, upon the platform of a passenger car, and while turning around to lift another on to the platform, the engine coming up struck against the car, the child fell off and the wheels went over it crushing both legs and one arm. The child has since died.

The assessed value of Sacramento city and county property, real and personal, since the roll has been modified by the Board of Equalization, is $9,453,000. The Board added to the valuation of the Assessor, chiefly on personal property, to the amount of about $450,000.

PRIZE FIGHT.—The Sacramento Republican says, by way of variety, we are to have a prize fight during the State Fair—no connection with the State Agricultural Society. The combatants will be Ned Ryan and George Taylor, both of whom are under trainers, the former under the care and superintendence of Billy Pratt, and the latter under the eye of Charlie Salmon. The match is for $200.

The supervisors of San Joaquin have accepted the proposition of Conley & Patrick to sell to the county the files of the Stockton Times, and San Joaquin Republican, from March 15th, 1850, to December 13th, 1862, for the sum of $500.

The prices of passage by the steamship Moses Taylor are: Cabin, $160; saloon, $135; 2d cabin, $90; steerage $60.

EDITING A PAPER.—Editing a paper is a very pleasant business. If it contains too much political matter, people won't have it.

If it contains too little, they won't have it.

If the type is large it don't contain enough reading matter.

If the type is small they can't read it.

If we publish telegraphic reports folks say they are nothing but lies.

If we omit them, they say we have no enterprise, or suppress them for political effect.

If we have a few yokes, folks say we are a rattle-head.

If we omit jokes, they say we are an old fossil.

If we publish original matter, they damn us for not giving selections.

If we publish selections, folks say we are lazy for not writing more and giving them what they have not read in some other paper.

If we give a man complimentary notices, we are censured for being partial.

If we do not all hands say we are a greedy hog.

If we insert an article which pleases the ladies, men become jealous.

If we do not cater to their wishes, the paper is not fit to have in their house.

If we attend church, they say it is only for effect.

If we do not, they denounce us as deceitful and desperately wicked.

If we speak well of any act of the President, folks say we dare not do otherwise.

If we censure, they call us a traitor.

If we remain in the office and attend to business, folks say we are too proud to mingle with our fellows.

If we go out, they say we never attend to business.

If we do not pay all bills promptly, folks say we are not to be trusted.

If we do pay prompt, they say we stole the money.

If we wear poor clothes they say business is poor.

If we wear good ones they say we are a spendthrift.

Now what is a fellow to do?

FIXED HIM THAT TIME.—A nice, respectable lady not a thousand miles away, had long toticed to her dismay, that her "worse half" was growing foolishly suspicious and jealous of her. She resolved to teach him a lesson. Some evenings since, as he was leaving, she told him he need not hurry back—she would not be lonely—she wished her ducky to enjoy himself, etc. Benedict smelt a veritable mice under that hypocrisy, and resolved to be avenged. About eight o'clock an "individual" about his size might have been seen creeping cautiously along to the door, and noiselessly peeped in. Just as he expected, there they were—a pair of boots, a coat on the back of a chair, and a hat on the table. Benedict shivered like an aspen leaf, as he stopped, pulled off his boots, and drew a pistol from his coat pocket. With "resolution flashing from his eye," he made tracks for the bed room. There he was kneeling at the bedside, coat and vest off, and head on the pillow. Miserable villain! his time had come.

"Say your prayers, villain—your time is short!" and a flash and a report told that the bullet had sped on its fatal mission.

"Help! murder! watch! Oh, is that you?" and madam popped her little head up from the foot of the bed.

Benedict seized the body, and found it to be a missellaneous collection of old coats, vests, pillows, handkerchiefs, and the like, made up expressly for the occasion.

"I say, my dear, what does all this mean?" exclaimed the husband, with a blank, sheepish look.

"Well," replied his wife, "I did get lonely, after all, and just amused myself by dressing up that puppet, and making believe you were at home. I'm sure, I didn't think you would suspect."

"There, there," said the chagrined husband—"say no more about it; I thought it was a robber; dear creature, I'm so glad it didn't hit you!"

Benedict immediately repeated "Now I lay me," &c. and went to bed, resolved not to watch any more, at present.

SPURGEON, the celebrated Baptist clergyman of London, has published five hundred sermons. Of these sermons eight million copies are in circulation. One wealthy gentleman, a zealous friend of Spurgeon, has alone circulated, each year over a quarter million of copies. Since he has been pastor, Spurgeon has baptized three thousand persons.

Mrs. PARTINGTON naturally requests, "Ike, never be a picket, for I see in every paper that they are driven in, and, if ever they drive you in you'll stick."

THE COURSE of true love with a certain couple in Elmswell, England, recently terminated in a happy marriage, after a courtship of twenty-six years.

MUFFHEAD wants to know whether a wooden-legged politician would not have the advantage of an adversary in stamping the State.

INCIDENT OF THE DRAFT.—There is a gentleman now in New York who was drafted in Boston. He furnished a substitute, paying a good price, and the fellow ran off; he hired another substitute, and he skeddaddled. Not liking such luck, he concluded to go himself, and went before the officers for that purpose; but the Board of Enrollment threw him out on account of disability.—Eastern paper.

PROVERBS WORTH PRESERVING.—Death's the only master who takes his servants without a character. A sour-faced wife fills the tavern. When pride and poverty marry together, their children are want and crime. Where hard work kills ten, idleness kills a hundred men. Wisdom is always at home to those who call.

A PAIN CASE.—The following colloquy took place between a New York census marshal and a native of Germany: "Who lives here?" "Yaw." "What's your name?" "Sharmany, on der Rhine." "What's your father's name?" "Nix for stay." "When did you arrive in Albany?" "Mit a steamboat." "Got any children?" "Yaw—two barrels, mit krout." "How long have you resided in this house?" "Two rooms and der basements." "Who owns the building?" "I pays nothing. Hans pays der same twice a month." "Where did you live last year?" "Across der red store as you come up wid der market in your left hand, behind der pump vat belongs to der blacksmith shop."

Having purchased the well known DRUG HOUSE, corner of J and Sixth streets—late D. W. Whitmore—formerly Bowman & Whitmore—we will continue the Drug business in all its branches. We shall keep the largest assortment of goods and sell at the lowest prices, and by prompt attention to business hope to secure the former patronage of the House, and that of the public generally.

LICK HOUSE.

ALSTROM & CO.—The undersigned, formerly proprietors of the Oriental Hotel, respectfully inform the public that they have purchased the Lease and Furniture of the Lick House. Our friends and the public can rest assured that we shall leave nothing undone to merit their patronage.

It is conceded that the Lick House, has far superior advantages over all other hotels in California.

The house being but three stores high, the rooms are easy of access, well lighted, and contain all the modern improvements; the staircase and halls are wide, spacious and airy.

The Kitchen and Pantry are being enlarged, and we are certain of being able to give complete satisfaction in the Dining-hall department.

The Office will be under the superintendence of Mr. FRANK J. LAWLOR, late of the St. Nicholas, New York.

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

THE OPERATION OF THIS PALATABLE remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties.

Invigorate the System.

Vigorous digestion and pure bile produce nutritious blood, and nutritious blood a healthy frame. Does the victim of a dyspeptic stomach and a disordered liver desire to know how the digestion may be improved, the bile and other fluids of the body purified?

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters Will accomplish this desirable revolution in the system, regulating the secretions and excretions, giving tone to the animal juices which dissolve the food, strengthen every relaxed nerve, muscle and fibre, and brings the whole machinery of vitality into vigorous and healthful play.

Strengthen the System.

The best means of imparting vigor to the broken-down frame and shattered constitution, which has yet been invented or discovered, is proffered to the feeble of both sexes and all ages in

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

Debility, from whatever cause arising, may be cured; strength, in whatever manner it may have been wanted, may be restored by the use of this powerful and healthful invigorant. For indigestion and all its painful effects, bodily and mental, they are a positive specific.

A Word to the Aged.

In the decline of life the loss of vital force consequent upon physical decay can only be safely supplied by some vivifying preparation which recruits the strength and spirits, without entailing the exhaustion which is always the final effect of ordinary stimulants. We tender to the aged

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.

As an invigorant and restorative, intermediate in its beneficial action and permanent in its effects. It tones the stomach, improves the appetite, and acts like a charm upon the spirits.

For Females.

Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility, and all peculiar disturbances & derangements to which, as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and enlightens the oppressed mental powers, as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any reaction.

Beware of Counterfeits. Purchase only of reliable dealers, Sold everywhere.

Dr. Guysott's Improved

Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla Will Cure without Fail

Scrofula or King's Evil, Cancers, Tumors, Eruptions of the skin, Erysipelas, Chronic Sore Eyes, Ringworm or Tetter, Scald Head, Rheumatism, Pains in the Bones and Joints, Old Sores and Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Diseases of the Kidneys, Loss of Appetite, Disease arising from the use of Mercury, Pain in the Side and Shoulder, General Debility, Dropsy, Jaundice, Lumbago, &c.

Dr. Guysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla put up in the largest sized bottles, contains more of the Honduras Sarsaparilla than any other preparation extant, which is combined with the extract of Yellow Dock, the extract of Wild Cherry and the Balsam of Fir, thus making the remedy more thoroughly efficient than any other Sarsaparilla before the public. At the same time it is perfectly free from ALL mineral poisons, which can not be said of any other of the Sarsaparilla compounds. The Invalid should beware of poisons. Mercury, Iron, Quinine, Potash, Iodine, Sulphur, Arsenic, and many other mineral and metallic poisons enter into and form the active basis of most of the Sarsaparilla and panacea of the day. Guysott's Compound Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla does not contain a particle of the substances; as any one can ascertain by applying the necessary tests.

These poisons may occasionally remove disease, but they vitiate the blood and impregnate the whole system with their baneful effects, that the first cold or the first attack of disease, prostrates the patient's strength and subjects him or her to the most excruciating torture, and renders another cure almost impossible and hopeless. Let all poisonous Sarsaparilla preparations alone, and use Guysott's Improved Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, which is thoroughly efficacious, perfectly harmless and purely vegetable. All kinds of diseases yield to its genial influence.

Caution.—Beware of counterfeits. All genuine Dr. Guysott's Extract of Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla has the name of JOHN D. PARK, Present Proprietor, Cincinnati, O., on the label.

Remember this fact when buying, all without the name of "JOHN D. PARK, Cincinnati, Ohio," on the label are counterfeits.

Sold by all Druggists.

BAKER & HAMILTON, IMPORTERS and DEALERS IN Farming Implements & Machines,

J STREET, BETWEEN FRONT AND 2D, Sacramento.

VIZ: Threshing, reaping and mowing machines; horse hay rakes, cast and steel plows, plow castings, cultivators, harrows, harrow teeth, churns, cheese presses, grain cradles, seed sowers, corn planters, corn shellers, hoes, horse hoes, shovels, spades and trowels, garden shears, reels and lines, garden rakes, straw cutters, sugar mills, fan mills, hay and manure forks, hay knives, axes, hatchets, ax-handles, sickles, scythes, snathes, bush scythes, road scrapers, grind stones, wheel barrows, sausage cutters and stuffers, ox yokes and bows, patent bow pins, budding and pruning knives, well wheels and buckets, etc., etc.

PATENT COMBINED GANG PLOW, SEED SOWER and HARROW.

We have purchased the right this great labor-saving implement for the State of California, and are having a number made in the Atlantic States for this market.

With this combined Machine one man, with six horses, can do the work of three twelve inch plows, besides sowing the grain, and harrowing it in as he proceeds, thus finishing his work in the best manner possible, without being obliged to travel over the plowed ground. This Machine was very thoroughly tested by the farmers of Santa Clara county, where some eighty are now in use; also, by the Messrs. Hensel & Kethley, of this county, and Messrs. Hoppin Brothers, near Cacheville, Yolo county.

It is made very substantial; is not liable to get out of order, and being on large truck wheels, the Gang Plow, Seed Sower and Harrow, runs lighter than in three plows would, cutting the same amount of land.

We are desirous of having these plows generally introduced throughout the State, and are therefore prepared to offer very favorable inducements to farmers and the trade. The following are some of the names of our customers who have used them for the past two seasons:

Sacramento county.—Hensel & Kethley.

Yolo county.—Hoppin Brothers, L. M. Curtis, Caleb Davis, C. Travers, A. J. Scroggins.

Sutter county.—M. Bouliware, A. L. Chandler.

Colusa county.—James Timothy, J. Crouch.

Butte county.—Major J. Bidwell.

Placer county.—E. Miles.
