THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES,

TRANSMITTING

A report of the operations of the Mint and its branches, including the Assay Office, for the year 1855.

MARCH 27, 1856.—Read and ordered to be printed. Motion to print 1,000 additional copies, 500 of which to be for the use of the Director of the Mint; referred to the Committee on Printing.

APRIL 1, 1856.—Report in favor of printing 1,000 additional copies, 500 of which for the use of the Mint.

To the Senate of the United States:

I transmit, herewith, a report of the operations of the mint of the United States and its branches, including the assay office, for the year 1855.

FRANKLIN PIERCE.

WASHINGTON, March 27, 1856.

MINT OF THE UNITED STATES,
Philadelphia, January 31, 1856.

SIR: I have the honor to present the following report of the operations of the mint of the United States and its branches, including the assay office, for the year 1855.

The deposits received and coinage executed at the principal mint during the past year were as follows: gold deposits, $10,534,103 84; gold coins struck, $10,594,454; fine gold bars, $16,298 14; silver deposits, including silver separated from the California gold, and silver purchased pursuant to the act of March 3, 1853, $2,680,556 75; silver coinage, $1,419,170; copper coinage, $16,030 79; total deposits of gold and silver, $13,214,660 59; total coinage, $12,045,952 93. The coinage was comprised in 10,885,619 pieces.

The operations of the mint, except the receiving of deposits and melting, assaying, and paying the same, were suspended on the 19th of July last, at which time the repairs authorized by an appropriation made by the last Congress to the mint building were commenced.

The construction of these repairs was entrusted to officers designated by the Treasury Department, and they are being completed in the most thorough and substantial manner, so as to render the mint edifice, in all its departments, entirely fire-proof. Advantage has also been taken of the opportunity thus offered to introduce useful changes and improvements in the rooms appropriated to the different branches of business, whereby the efficiency of the mint and the security of the treasure therein will be greatly advanced and promoted. During the suspension of coinage deposits were received and paid as heretofore, so that no inconvenience to depositors has resulted therefrom. But the accumulation of bullion, and the necessity of supplying coin, especially to the treasury of the United States, have made it necessary to resume the coinage operations, notwithstanding the work upon the repairs is in an unfinished state. The preparation of standard ingots for coinage was commenced on the 4th of the present month, and the delivery of coins to the treasurer was resumed on the 19th instant. The mint is now in active and efficient operation, although considerable inconvenience is experienced in consequence of the repairs not being fully completed. The suspension of coinage for the period of six months will sufficiently account for the diminished operations at the principal mint during the past year.

The deposits received at the branch mint at New Orleans amounted to $2,852,510 69; of which the sum of $431,156 83 was in gold, and $2,420,953 86 in silver. The coinage was $450,500 in gold, and $1,918,000 in silver; total coinage, $2,368,500; the number of pieces struck was 5,556,100.

The branch mint at San Francisco received of gold deposits the sum of $20,876,310 08; of silver, the sum of $259,787 47. The coinage operations were as follows: gold coin, $17,598,300; fine gold bars, $88,782 50; unparted or unrefined gold bars, $3,270,594 93; silver coinage, $164,075; total coinage operations, $21,121,752 43; comprised in 1,471,272 pieces.

The deposits received at the branch mint at Dahlonega were, in gold, $116,662 07; the coinage (gold) $116,778 50; the number of pieces struck was 25,366.

At the branch mint at Charlotte, the sum of $216,988 86 was deposited for coinage; the coinage, comprised in 53,268 pieces, amounted to $217,935 50. The operations of this branch, as well as that established at Dahlonega, are confined to gold.

The assay office at New York received, during the year, the sum of $26,687,701 24 in gold bullion, and the further sum of $350,150 08 in silver; of this amount, the sum of $195,241 44 was parted from gold, and $2,061 87 was derived from the Lake Superior mines. The number of fine gold bars stamped at this office was 6,182, of the aggregate value of $20,441,813 63. For the bullion deposited during the year, payment has been made in fine gold bars to the amount of $17,246,247 74; and in coins to the amount of $9,791,603 58.

The entire amounts received at the mint and its branches, including the assay office, during the year, were as follows: gold, $58,862,922 92; silver, $5,711,448 16; total, $64,574,381 08. The coinage operations for the same period were as follows: gold coins, $28,977,- 968 ; fine gold bars, $20,546,894 27 ; imported bars, $3,270,594 93 ; silver coins, $3,501,245 ; copper coins, $16,030 79 ; total coinage, $56,312,732 99 ; comprised in 16,997,807 pieces.

It is proper to remark that the aggregate of the deposits above presented embraces a considerable amount of re-deposits ; as, for example, unparted or unrefined bars made at San Francisco are sometimes re-deposited at the other minting establishments, and a portion of the fine bars formed at the assay office are transferred to the mint for coinage. Deducting these re-deposits, the actual amount of the precious metals brought into the mint and its branches, during the year, was $55,151,902 37.

The amount of gold of domestic production deposited in 1855 was $49,351,789 11, viz: from the Pacific side of the Union, including a deposit of $900 from New Mexico, $48,989,439 54 ; and from the Atlantic States $362,349 57.

Since the passage of the act of March 3, 1853, authorizing a reduction in the weight of the silver coinage, there have been issued the following amounts, viz: In 1853, $8,654,161 ; in 1854, $8,619,270 ; in 1855, $3,501,245 ; making a total of $20,774,676. As few, if any, of these coins have been exported, and but a small amount used in the arts, it will be seen that a large addition has been made to the silver coinage in circulation. The issuing of a few millions more of silver coins may be all that may be required in view of the exclusion of the circulation of silver, and of the small denominations of the gold coinage, in many of the States of the Union by the use of bank notes of a low denomination. We shall never, it is believed, fully realize the benefits of a sound specie circulation until all bank notes, at least below the denomination of twenty dollars, shall be excluded from circulation. And it seems well worthy the consideration of Congress, as suggested in the mint report of 1853, whether some provision is not practicable, either by taxation or other efficient means, to remedy the evil in question.

It may be interesting to present, in one view, the entire coinage operations at all the mints and the assay offices since their organization. They are as follows :

Mint of the United States, Philadelphia, (1793)	-	$377,383,808	87
Branch mint at New Orleans, (1838)	-	57,386,665	00
Branch mint at Dahlonega, (1838)	-	5,690,266	00
Branch mint at Charlotte, (1838)	-	4,222,626	50
Branch mint at San Francisco, (1854)	-	30,853,326	64
Assay office at New York, (1854)	-	23,329,872	81
Total -	-	498,866,565	82

The chief part of this large amount has been received since December, 1848, and is the production of the mines of California, viz: $313,234,502 77. In a former report some reasons were suggested tending to show that the large amount of gold from California, and that produced from Australia, need excite no apprehensions in regard to any material disturbance in the value of the precious metals ; yet it cannot but be apparent that this increase renders it highly important that States and nations should extend the uses of gold and drive out of existence that which circulates in the place of it.

There is one point connected with this subject and with the general management of the national coinage, which although left by law to the discretion of the director of the mint, and cannot be made the subject of particular legislation, yet is of so much importance to the community generally, that this occasion seems appropriate to give it a fair and general understanding. The thirtieth section of the general mint law—act of January 18, 1837—provides that “in the denominations of coin delivered, the treasurer shall comply with the wishes of the depositor, unless when impracticable or inconvenient to do so; in which case the denomination of coin shall be designated by the director.” In view of the fact that depositors are always paid before their bullion is operated upon, out of a stock of coin previously made ready, it is evident that in the preparation of such a supply of coin the director is to use his discretion in regard to the denomination before conferring with depositors; and they may or may not be exactly suited in the payment. Undoubtedly, in the issue of coins, every proper attention should be given to the probable demand, and especially in the silver coinage, which, it is to be presumed, is wanted for immediate use, and not for storage in vaults. Heretofore, the general practice has been to pay depositors in the coin they have desired, and it is not intended by these observations to give notice that this usage will be entirely abandoned. But the chief design of a national mint is to subserve the interests of the people at large preferably to a few large owners of bullion or coin. The interests of the public and of depositors are not always concurrent in the matter under discussion. Depositors of large amounts call for coin in a form which gives the least trouble to count; and banking institutions, in addition to that, may prefer it in a form not likely to be drawn out. Many who present their checks at these institutions would, doubtless, ask for specie, but are deterred from doing so by the expectation of securing double eagles instead of half or quarter eagles. In a word, the plain effect of issuing gold coin of a large size is to keep down the circulation of specie and increase the use of paper money. This remark, of course, does not apply to such localities where paper money is prohibited, as, for example, in the State of California, because, in such cases, the different currencies cannot come in conflict.

Before the act of Congress authorizing the issuing of gold in stamped bars, there was, it is true, a necessity for the issue of large coins, as well to meet the demands for shipment to Europe as, in some measure, to relieve the pressure upon the mint. There was no kind of propriety in going through the manipulations and bearing the expense of making small gold coins to be directly melted down in foreign mints or refineries. But since the important change in our mint laws, before referred to, a distinction has been made to meet the demands of trade, by which gold intended for exportation is cast into fine bars, whilst that which is needed for home currency is converted into coin. If we look to the example of the wealthiest and most civilized nations of the globe we shall find that their largest gold coin, to speak in a general way, does not exceed our half eagle in value. Such is the case in Great Britain, France, Russia, the Netherlands, and other countries. There are pieces of ten thalers—about eight dollars of our money—coined in Germany, but apparently for international use. The same may be said of the American doubloon, of which the amount coined is small. It would no longer be an embarrassment to the principal mint, nor to the branches, except perhaps the branch at San Francisco, (and to that institution these views are not intended particularly to apply,) to coin all the gold that is likely to be offered in pieces of five dollars and less. It is true that nearly as much labor is expended in the manufacture of a gold dollar or a quarter eagle as of an eagle or double eagle; and in thus offering to make the smaller denominations a large increase of work is assumed; but this consideration is met by another—that the division of labor, and the present efficiency of the mint establishments, especially when the repairs at the principal mint are fully completed, will enable us to meet such increase without additional expenditures. The manufacture of fine bars at the assay office in New York, and the coinage of the branch mint at San Francisco, have so divided the work upon gold bullion as to remove all apprehension of difficulty or delay. In the coinage of half eagles particularly we shall be materially aided by a very remarkable machine lately invented for the final adjustment of the weight of the individual planchets. This instrument was manufactured at Paris, and has been introduced into the mint there, and one of similar powers is also employed in the mint of England. The one imported for the United States mint is adapted to the half eagle only. It is justly regarded as a triumph of mechanism. It is not by any means assumed that the coinage of the eagle and the double eagle should be discontinued. On the contrary, they will be indispensable at San Francisco; they may, in some emergencies, be required at Philadelphia and at New Orleans; but, as a general rule, adapted to the principal mint and to the branches in the Atlantic States, it is believed that the time has come to return to the smaller denominations of gold coin, issuing almost the whole in pieces not larger than the half eagle; and this, upon the ground already adverted to—particularly applicable to a country so greatly favored with the original production of the precious metal—that the people at large are entitled to a greater portion of real, imperishable money, and that a cardinal point, at which this reform is to be begun or aided, is the place where the gold is put into shape and size for circulation.

The propriety of the organization of a medal office at the mint is respectfully recommended to your consideration. The reasons for this measure heretofore presented need not be repeated here. The frequent calls upon us to strike medals, and to furnish copies of the public medals from the dies which are deposited at the mint, indicate that the establishment of such an office would be of great public benefit. As the statement of the medal dies annexed to my last report did not embrace all that are at the mint, and was in one or two other particulars not precisely accurate, I have caused a more correct list to be prepared, which is herewith presented.

I also attach to this report several tabular statements, exhibiting the full details of the operations of the mint and its branches, including the assay office, for the past year ; also several statistical tables relating to the deposits and coinage of previous years, and showing the States and Territories from whence the precious metals have been received.

I have the honor to be, with great respect, your faithful servant,
JAMES ROSS SNOWDEN,
Director United States Mint.

To the PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Legend.—Resolution of Congress, July 16th, 1846. Palo Alto, May 8th, 1846. Resaca de la Palma, May 9th, 1846.

OCCASION.—A second medal of gold was awarded to General Taylor, by resolution of Congress of March 2, 1847, for his brilliant victory over the Mexican army at Monterey, and the successful storming of that city by his forces.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Bust of General Taylor.

Legend.—Major General Zachary Taylor.

REVERSE.—Device.—A wreath formed of two oak branches within which is the—Legend.—Resolution of Congress, March 2d, 1847. Monterey, September, 1846.

OCCASION.—At the suggestion of Professor Bache, Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey, medals of silver were struck, under the authority of the Treasury Department, for presentation to the surviving officers and crew of the coast survey brig Washington, commemorative of the loss of Lieutenant George M. Bache, United States navy, commander, and ten of the crew of that brig, who perished while in the performance of their duties, in a hurricane encountered off the coast of North Carolina, on the 8th of September, 1846. The then Secretary of the Treasury, in communicating with the Secretary of the Navy upon the subject, said: "I concur in opinion with the superintendent of the coast survey in regard to the conduct of Lieutenant Commanding George M. Bache on that melancholy occasion. He did all that nautical skill, coolness, and courage could accomplish, and it is certain that the safety of the vessel, and of the surviving officers and crew, is due, under Providence, to the last order which he gave, and which was in process of execution when he was swept by the sea from the deck of the vessel. He perished in the discharge of his duty, and his last act, which placed him in a position that occasioned his loss, secured the safety of the vessel and that of the surviving officers and crew."

REVERSE.—No device.

Legend, surrounded by a wreath formed of laurel branches.—For gallantry and humanity, Dec., 1846.

OCCASION.—By resolution of Congress of March 3, 1847, gold and silver medals were directed to be prepared and presented to the officers and men belonging or attached to the French, British, and Spanish ships-of-war in the harbor of Vera Cruz, who so gallantly, and at the imminent peril of their lives, aided in rescuing from a watery grave many of the officers and crew of the United States brig Somers, which was capsized and sunk in ten minutes, during a heavy gust in the Gulf of Mexico, on the 10th of December, 1846. Of the seventy-six persons composing the crew of the Somers thirty-nine were lost, including two officers, the acting sailing-master, and a passed midshipman.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Representing the United States brig Somers, when struck by the heavy gust in the Gulf of Mexico. The brig has been capsized, and the waves are dashing over her side.

Exergue.—Ante Vera Cruz, Dec. 10th, 1846.

REVERSE.—Device.—The brig Somers represented in the gust during which she was lost, in the Gulf of Mexico, off the harbor of Vera Cruz. In the foreground, three boats carrying respectively the English, French, and Spanish colors, are pulling to her assistance.

Legend.—Pro vitis Americanorum conservatis.

OCCASION.—A third gold medal was presented to General Taylor, under the resolution of Congress of May 9, 1848, for the victory obtained by the American force under his command over the Mexican army of much superior strength, on the 22d and 23d of February, 1847, at Buena Vista.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Head of General Taylor, about which is a wreath of oak and laurel branches.

Legend.—Major General Zachary Taylor.

Exergue.—Resolution of Congress, May 9, 1848.

REVERSE.—Device.—A circle formed by two snakes—one of them a rattlesnake—encloses a representation of the battle of Buena Vista. The distant back ground is skirted by a chain of mountains; on the left, the Mexican force is drawn up, and a party of Americans are advancing to attack them. From the right back ground, a body of Mexican lance is approaching. In the left fore ground a breastwork has been thrown up, from behind which a fire is kept up upon the Mexican line. On an elevation in the right fore ground, General Taylor is seen mounted, with his staff about him, and to his right the American reserve corps in position.

Legend.—Buena Vista, Feb. 22 and 23, 1847.

OCCASION.—By resolution of Congress of March 9, 1848, a gold medal was awarded to General Scott for the several victories of the American army, under his command, obtained over the Mexican troops during the war between the United States and the republic of Mexico.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Bust of General Scott, at each side of which are fifteen stars, representing the thirty States then composing the confederacy.

Legend.—Major General Winfield Scott.

Exergue.—Resolution of Congress, March 9, 1848.

REVERSE.—Device.—Representations of the several engagements during the Mexican campaign at which General Scott commanded, each one enclosed by a wreath formed of laurel and oak branches, with the names of the several localities at which the battles occurred. The centre is occupied by the view of the taking of the city of Mexico, and is surrounded by others of the actions at Vera Cruz, Cerro Gordo, Contreras, San Antonio, Churubusco, Molino del Rey, Chapultepec.

OCCASION.—A second gold medal was voted to General Scott by the State of Virginia, for his brave and gallant conduct while in command of the American troops in the war with Mexico.

OBVERSE.—Device.—A bust of General Scott, resting upon a branch of laurel and of oak, is placed upon a pedestal, supported upon each side by an eagle, behind which, projecting at either side, are several colors and various other military emblems. The pedestal bears the—

Legend.—The commonwealth of Virginia presents this medal to Major General Winfield Scott, as a memorial of her admiration for the great and distinguished services of her son while commander-in-chief of the American armies in the war with Mexico, 1847.

REVERSE.—Device.—A column upon two stands of colors, entwined by a branch of laurel. A wreath formed of oak branches encloses the designs and inscriptions, and is held at the bottom by a shield bearing the coat-of-arms of the State of Virginia. Upon the top of the column an eagle, with outstretched wings and carrying a twig of laurel in its beak, has alighted. The cap of the column bears the date 1848, and just below is the word Mexico. The leaves of the laurel branch surrounding the column bear the names of the several battles during the campaign at which the recipient commanded, viz: Chapultepec, Del Rey, Churubusco, Cerro Gordo, Vera Cruz; and upon the base of the column is the date 1812. On the right background a party are bombarding before the walls of a town, to the left another party are storming a fort upon the brow of a hill; on the left back ground troops are advancing upon a fort, and to their left a besieging party are about opening fire upon a city before them.

MEDALS STRUCK SINCE THE WAR WITH MEXICO.

OCCASION.—Martin Koszta, one of the Hungarian refugees, and formerly of the suite of Kossuth, was suddenly seized in a café at Smyrna, by the Austrian authorities, in the latter part of June, 1853, and was placed on board of the Austrian brig-of-war Hussar, orders being issued by the Austrian consul, on the 29th, that he should be carried away. On the 28th Captain Ingraham, of the United States sloop-of-war St. Louis, having learned that Koszta had taken the preliminary steps to secure his naturalization in the United States, and that he was furnished with an American passport, entered his protest against the orders of the Austrian consul until the facts of the case could be fully ascertained, and on the next day brought the guns of his vessel to bear upon the Austrian brig in which Koszta was confined. Having obtained a delay until the 2d July, on that day Captain Ingraham, having learned from Mr. Brown, United States chargé at Constantinople, that Koszta was entitled to American protection, went on board of the Austrian brig, accompanied by the Austrian consul. In his interview with Koszta the latter claimed to be an American citizen and demanded the protection of such, which Captain Ingraham promised he should have, and subsequently notified the Austrian authorities at Smyrna that Koszta must be released by four o'clock that afternoon. Both vessels then cleared for action, and appearances inicated that the difficulty would be decided by an appeal to arms. Fortunately, however, by an arrangement made between the Austrian and American consuls, it was agreed that Koszta should be placed in the custody of the French consul, who consented to become his custodian, until his claim to protection should be decided by the two governments. Eventually Koszta was released and returned to the United States. He would, doubtless, have been immediately executed had he been taken to Vienna. The spirited conduct of Captain Ingraham on the occasion was endorsed by his government, and a gold medal awarded to him by resolution of Congress of August 4, 1853.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Smyrna in the distance, surrounded by the shipping, hills, and fortifications. The American sloop-of-war St. Louis and the Austrian brig-of-war Hussar, confronting each other, are at anchor before the city.

Exergue.—The inscription—Smyrna, American sloop-of-war St. Louis; Austrian brig-of-war Hussar.

INVERSE.—Device.—Eneireled by a wreath of branches of oak and laurel, in bold relief, (within the lower part of which and beneath, diverging columns of rays, and the thirty-one stars, representing the States composing the American constellation, is seen the American eagle, with wings expanded, and grasping in its talons an anchor,) is the—

Legend.—Presented by the President of the United States to Commander Duncan N. Ingraham, as a testimonial of the high sense entertained by Congress of his gallant and judicious conduct on the 2d of July, 1853.

OCCASION.—The San Francisco, a new ship, left the port of New York upon her first voyage on the 22d of December, 1853, under the command of Captain Watkins, with the United States troops forming companies A, B, D, G, H, I, K, and L, of the third regiment United States artillery, amounting, with the non-commissioned staff and band, to nearly 550 men. Including her passengers, officers, and crew, and cabin and steerage waiters, she carried over 700 persons. When off Charleston, on the 24th of December, she met with a northwest wind, which soon increased to a gale. At 9 o'clock on the evening of the 25th December, she shipped a heavy sea amid ships, which washed about one hundred and fifty of the troops overboard. The ship opened in the seams, over the wales a large portion of the quarter deck was stove in, and it was only by the greatest exertion that she was kept afloat. In this deplorable state, the condition of those remaining was rendered still more terrible by the outbreak, on the 27th of December, of a disease resembling Asiatic cholera. The steerage passengers and waiters broke into the provision-room and feasted at will, and broke open and pillaged the trunks of the ladies, while the raw recruits, in imitation of their example, became also unmanageable. By this time the ship had drifted northward and was nearly opposite to Boston, in longitude sixty-one degrees. On board, all was confusion and consternation. The barque Kilby, from New Orleans, Captain Low, which, although herself suffering from lack of provisions, had remained by and relieved the San Francisco of her lady passengers, disappeared during the night of the 29th of December. On the 2d of January following. (1854,) the Three Bells, Captain Creighton, of Glasgow, appeared in sight and remained by the San Francisco, rendering her such assistance as was possible, receiving on board as many of her passengers as she could carry, and taking her departure with them, after remaining by the San Francisco all night. The Antartic, from New York, Captain Stouffer, which had overtaken the ship on the 3d of January, rescued the remaining persons on board of the San Francisco, about one hundred and forty soldiers, with some officers, including Captain Watkins of the ill-fated ship, who was the last to leave his vessel, and which, having been scuttled by his order, went down soon after they left her. After the Kilby parted from the steamer, on the night of the 29th of December, the passengers rescued by her, together with her own officers and crew, suffered terribly from hunger and thirst. Several times she approached the coast, but was driven back by adverse winds. The first day a ship biscuit and a small slice of bacon was allotted to each, but, on the second, the biscuit was withheld from the males on board. A small quantity of corn on board, partially wasted and served out by the handful, formed their chief nourishment for fourteen days, with the daily allowance to each passenger of a wine glass full of water. Fortunately, several rain storms occurred, and once a fall of snow. Garments were spread to catch the precious drops, and the famishing creatures devoured the snow as it descended, and, but for this benefaction of the elements, large numbers must have perished with thirst. To complete the intensity of their sufferings, the crew threatened to mutiny. On the morning of the 13th January, however, the Kilby was overtaken by the Lucy Thompson, Captain Pendleton, of New York, who removed all the passengers and crew from the barque, except four of the former and twelve of the United States troops, who volunteered to assist the captain to work the Kilby into Boston, where she arrived in due time. The Lucy Thompson reached New York in safety, on the 14th of January, (1854,) where the Three Bells had preceded her on the previous day, with the portion of the passengers rescued by her from the San Francisco, the remainder of whose surviving passengers and crew reached Liverpool in safety, on board the Antartic. By this disaster and extreme suffering from exposure and starvation nearly two hundred persons perished. In testimony of the conduct of Captains Creighton, Low, and Stouffer, the city of Philadelphia presented to each of them a medal of gold.

OBVERSE.—Device.—The coat of arms of the city of Philadelphia. A shield supported on either side by two female figures, one holding in her right hand a scroll, and in her left, above the shield, a pair of evenly balanced scales, rests upon various agricultural products. The shield bears upon its centre a plough upon a field of grain, and below a ship is represented under full sail.

MEDALS STRUCK COMMEMORATIVE OF EVENTS DURING REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

OCCASION.—By vote of Congress, of March 25, 1776, a gold medal was ordered to be struck for General Washington, and a vote of thanks also passed to him and the officers and troops under his command for their wise and spirited conduct in the siege and acquisition of Boston.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Head of General Washington in profile.

Legend.—Georgio Washington supremo duci exercituum adsertori libertatis.

Exergue.—Comitia Americana.

REVERSE.—Device.—In the back ground the British troops are embarking from the city of Boston in vessels upon the bay. In the left fore ground the American entrenchments opposite the city are seen, with the troops drawn up under arms preparatory to marching into the city. On an elevation in the right fore ground, overlooking the American position, General Washington is mounted, with his staff, to whom he is pointing out the embarking enemy.

Legend.—Hostibus primo fugatis.

Exergue.—Bostonium recuperatum XVII Martii, MDCCLXXVI.

NOTE.—The die for this medal was executed at Paris, and is now deposited at the Mint Museum thereat.

OCCASION.—A medal, intended, most probably, to commemorate the Declaration of Independence by the thirteen colonies from the British yoke, and in honor of Benjamin Franklin, was struck more than fifty years ago at the mint. The die for this medal is wanting to the mint collection.

OBVERSE.—Device.—The bust of Franklin.

Legend.—Lightning averted—Tyranny repelled.

REVERSE.—Device.—An oak, at the root of which the American beaver is gnawing, symbolical of the destruction of the authority and supremacy of the mother country in the colonies.

No legend.

Exergue.—The date 1776.

OCCASION.—The battle between the American and British forces at Germantown, near Philadelphia, during the war of the revolution.

OBVERSE.—Device.—A representation of the prominent circumstance of the battle, viz: the taking, by the 49th British regiment under Lieutenant Colonel Musgrave, of Mr. Chew's house, while the body of the American line were pursuing the retreating British army. Artillery playing upon a stone house from a distance. Fields at either side and troops advancing between them.

REVERSE.—No device.

Legend.—Germantown, October 4, 1777.

OCCASION.—A silver medal was struck, (probably by the French government,) commemorative of the consummation of the alliance between the governments of France and the United States during the war of the revolution.

OBVERSE.—Device.—A head of Liberty, with a staff on which is the liberty cap over her right shoulder.

Legend.—Libertas Americana, 4 Jul., 1776.

REVERSE.—Device.—Pallas is holding in her left hand a shield with the arms of France (three fleurs de lis) upon it. In her right she holds a barbed javelin, which she is about to thrust into a leopard springing against the shield, beneath which, an infant, representing America, is seen strangling a serpent in each hand, and is stooping to another lying at its feet.

Legend.—Non sine Diis animosus infans.

Exergue.—17 1777.

Oct:

19 1781.

NOTE.—The representation of the infant America strangling the serpents, in the device upon the reverse of the medal, is evidently an allusion to the story in ancient mythology of the destruction by Hercules, assisted by the protection of the goddess Pallas, of the two serpents which attacked him in his cradle. The dates upon the exergue are those marked by the two principal epochs of the war of the revolution, viz: the destruction of the two British armies, (represented by the serpents,) first, by the surrender of General Burgoyne at Saratoga, October 17, 1777, and second, by the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, October 19, 1781. The legend is from the 4th ode, 3d book of Horace.

OCCASION.—A gold medal was awarded to General Wayne, by resolution of Congress of July 26, 1779, for the taking of Stony Point, on the North river, by storm on the night of the 15th of July, 1779.

OBVERSE.—Device.—An Indian queen, crowned, wearing a short apron of feathers, a quiver upon her back, and a mantle hanging behind from the girdle of her apron, holds in her left hand a mural crown towards General Wayne, to whom she is presenting with her right a wreath of laurel. General Wayne, his chapeau in his right, is receiving the wreath with his left hand. At the feet of the queen is a bow and an alligator, resting upon which is a shield bearing the American stripes.

Exergue.—Comitia Americana.

REVERSE.—Device.—A fort, with the British flag flying, and having two turrets, is shown upon the brow of a hill, up the sides of which troops are advancing in Indian file. Vessels on the river, to the left of the hill, towards which more troops are advancing along the edge of the river. In the left fore ground a piece of artillery is so posted as to beat upon the fort, and to the right a party of the American line are seen marching towards the hill.

Legend.—Stony Point Expugnatum.

Exergue.—XV Jul., MDCCLXXIX.

OCCASION.—A second medal, (of silver,) commemorative of the taking of Stony Point, was awarded by resolution of Congress of July 26, 1779, to Captain Stewart.

OBVERSE.—Device.—An Indian queen, personifying America, is represented with quiver upon her back, and bow and an alligator at her feet, presenting a palm branch to Captain Stewart. With her left hand she sustains a shield resting upon the ground, and bearing the American stripes.

Legend.—Johanni Stewart cohortis prefecto.

Exergue.—Comitia Americana.

REVERSE.—Device.—A fort upon an eminence; troops advancing in front and rear up the hill to storm it. An officer is leading his men, with charged bayonets, over abatis in the fore ground, in pursuit of a retreating enemy. Ships in sight upon the river, and troops advancing along the shore.

No legend.

Exergue.—Stony Point oppugnatum XV Jul., MDCCLXXIX.

OCCASION.—The third gold medal, struck under the resolution of Congress of July 26, 1779, in honor of the taking of Stony Point from the British, was of silver, and awarded to Colonel Fleury, for his conduct during that engagement.

OBVERSE.—Device.—A soldier, helmeted, clothed, and armed after the ancient Roman fashion, is standing among the ruins of a fort, tramping upon a flag with his right foot, the staff of which he holds in his left hand. In his right hand, which is extended, he carries a naked short sword.

Legend.—Virtutis et audacie minum et premium.

REVERSE.—Device.—A fort with two turrets, and a flag flying upon a hill overlooking the river below, upon which vessels are visible. At the left base of the hill are two water batteries, one of which is being discharged at a vessel upon the river.

Legend.—Aggeres paludes hostes victi.

Exergue.—Stony Pt. expugn. XV Jul., MDCCLXXIX.

OCCASION.—By resolution of Congress passed October 16, 1787, a gold medal was awarded to Captain John Paul Jones, of the Bon Homme Richard, of 34 guns, for the capture of the English frigate Serapis, of 44 guns, Captain Pearson, after a very severe engagement by moonlight, of four hours' duration, on the 23d of September, 1779.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Bust of Captain Jones. (Believed to be a good likeness.)

Legend.—Joanni Paulo Jones Classis Prefecto.

Exergue.—Comitia Americana.

REVERSE.—Device.—A representation of the engagement between the Richard and the Serapis, which are grappled, yard arm and yard arm. The Serapis is very much shattered in the side. The Countess of Scarborough, of 22 guns, the consort of the Serapis, is lying across her bows. Sailors are in the water clinging to floating spars.

Legend.—Hostium navibus captis aut fugatis.

Exergue.—Ad oram Scotie XXIII Sept., MDCCLXXVIII.

OCCASION.—Three silver medals were awarded by vote of Congress of November 3d, 1780, to John Paulding, David Williams and Isaac Van Wart, who intercepted Major John Andre in the character of a spy, and notwithstanding the large bribes offered them for his release, nobly disdaining to sacrifice their country for the sake of gold, secured and conveyed him to the commanding officer of the district, whereby the dangerous and traitorous conspiracy of Benedict Arnold was brought to light, the insidious designs of the enemy baffled, and the United States rescued from impending danger. These medals, which were of oblong shape, were presented to the recipients in the presence of the whole American army, during the following year, by General Washington, together with a copy of the resolution of Congress, awarding them a pension, to each $200 annually during life, and a vote of thanks for their patriotic conduct.

OBVERSE.—Device.—A raised shield surrounded by branches of laurel and palm.

Legend.—Fidelity.

REVERSE.—Device.—A wreath formed of palm branches enclosing a blank for the insertion of the name of the recipient of the medal.

Legend.—Vincit Amor Patriæ.

OCCASION.—In honor of the brilliant victory obtained at Cowpens by the American troops, over a much superior force of British regulars, under Lieutenant Colonel Tarleton, a medal was struck as follows:

OBVERSE.—Device.—A mounted officer in front is leading a body of American cavalry in pursuit of fleeing British troops. Victory, with a palm branch in her left, and a wreath of laurel in her right hand, is seen flying over the heads of the American soldiers.

Legend.—Gubielmo Washington legionis equit præfecto.

Exergue.—Comitia American.

REVERSE.—No device.

Legend.—(Enclosed by a wreath of laurel.) Quod parva militum manu strenue prosecutus hostes virtutis ingenitæ præclarum specimen dedit in pugna ad Cowpens, XVII Jan., MDCCLXXXI.

OCCASION.—By a resolution of Congress of March 9, 1781, a silver medal was awarded to Lieutenant John Eager Howard, for his intrepidity and skill at the battle of Cowpens.

OBVERSE.—Device.—A mounted officer is pursuing, and about to strike down, with his uplifted sword, a retreating foot soldier bearing a stand of colors. Victory, carrying a palm branch in her left hand, is descending between them, and in front of the officer, over whose head she holds a wreath of laurel in her right hand.

Legend.—Joh. Egar. Howard, legionis peditum præfecto.

REVERSE.—No device.

Legend.—(Enclosed within a wreath of laurel.) Quod in nutantem hostium aciem subito erruens præclarum bellicæ virtutis specimen dedit in pugna ad Cowpens, XVII Jan., MDCCLXXXI.

OCCASION.—By resolution of Congress of October 29, 1781, a gold medal was awarded to General Green, for his gallant conduct at the battle of Eutaw Springs, South Carolina, September 8, 1781.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Bust of General Green.

Legend.—Nathaniel Green egregio duci. Comitia Americana.

REVERSE.—Device.—Victory, bearing in her left hand a palm branch, and holding in her upraised right a wreath of laurel, is in the act of alighting upon the earth, stepping upon a broken shield, beneath and about which another shield, broken arms, a laurel branch and colors are lying.

Legend.—Salus regionum australium.

Exergue.—Hostibus ad Eutaw debellatis die VIII September MDCCLXXXI.

OCCASION.—A medal was struck (by what authority does not appear) commemorative of the recognition of Hon. John Adams as envoy extraordinary to the Dutch government during the war of the revolution.

OBVERSE.—Device.—An altar, with incense burning, over the front of which is a caduceus between two cornucopiæ. Over it the goddess Pallas, bearing in her left hand a lance, having upon it a hat of Dutch fashion, is shaking hands with an Indian queen, personifying America, under whose foot the head of a prostrate lion is pressed down, and upon whose head she is about to place the hat. The sun is shining above them.

Legend.—Libera Sorar.

Exergue.—Solemni Decr. agn. XIX April, MDCCLXXXII.

REVERSE.—Device.—The Rock of Independence, against which the British unicorn has broken his horn, part of which is lying upon the ground.

Legend.—Tyrannus virtute repulsa.

Exergue.—Sub Gallie auspiciis.

OCCASION.—A medal was struck (by what authority is not known) in honor of the treaty of friendship and commerce entered into between the Dutch government and that of the United States.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Fame, bearing in her hand the shields of the two nations, is proclaiming from the clouds through her trumpet the consummation of the treaty of amity and intercourse between the two governments. Underneath is the club of Hercules and the British lion.

Legend.—Faustissimo Fœdere functæ die VIII Oct., MDCCLXXXII.

REVERSE.—Device.—Against a pyramid is placed a group composed of a battle-axe and shield, and on the top of which rests a crown. From the base of the pyramid hangs a scroll, bearing the inscription PRODROMUS. Mercury is crowning the group with the caduceus, which he carries in his hand. A cock is standing upon an anchor stock.

Legend.—Justitiam et non tempere divos.

Exergue.—S. P. Q. Amet. sacrum.

OCCASION.—A medal was struck at Paris (and in all probability by the government of France, in compliment to Benjamin Franklin) which would appear to be commemorative of American Independence and the recognition of Franklin as United States envoy to the court of France.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Head of Benjamin Franklin.

Legend.—Benjamin Franklin, Minist. Plen. des Etats Unis De l'Ameriq., Sept., MDCCLXXXIII.

REVERSE.—Device.—Representing the construction of the temple of liberty by the nine sisters, four of whom are laboring with chisels upon a block of stone; three are at work upon the columns of the edifice, and the remaining two are conversing.

Legend.—De leurs travaux naître leur glorie.

MEDAL STRUCK IN COMMEMORATION OF EVENTS SUBSEQUENT TO THE REVOLUTION

OCCASION.—A medal was struck more than half a century since at the mint, (by what authority is not stated,) which was intended probably to commemorate the conclusion of the hostilities between the mother country and her united colonies.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Busts of Washington and Franklin, side by side.

No legend.

REVERSE.—The eagle of America, carrying a branch of olive in its beak, and bearing lightning in its talons, is descending from the clouds upon the United States.

MEDAL STRUCK IN COMMEMORATION OF THE EVENTS OF THE WAR WITH MEXICO.

OCCASION.—In the year 1849, the State of New York, by a vote of its legislature, presented to Colonel Bliss a gold medal for his distinguished services as an officer in the United States army, during the Mexican campaign.

OBVERSE.—Device.—Bust of Colonel Bliss.

Legend.—Presented to Lieutenant Colonel Bliss of the United States army for his gallant services in Mexico.

Exergue.—By the State of New York, 1849.

REVERSE.—Device.—The coat of arms of the State of New York. A tablet (or shield) upon which the sun is represented rising from behind hills, its rays reflected in the water, is supported upon the right by Justice with her scales and sword, and upon the left by Liberty sustaining a staff bearing the liberty cap. To the right of Justice a vessel under full sail by a pier, and to the left of Liberty a steam engine is crossing a bridge. Supported by a shield is a globe upon the top of which is an eagle, and below the tablet is the motto of the State, “Excelsior.”
