REPORT OF THE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

OF THE

—TENTH—

CINCINNATI INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

1882.

With discouragements from nearly every quarter—with failure feared by many of the staunchest friends of the Cincinnati Expositions, and after much discussion as to its advisability, the Board of Commissioners commenced their preparations for the Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition. The season was so far advanced before organization was completed, that unusual exertions were called for on the part of the Commissioners. How well they each responded is attested by the marked success of every department, and the general success,—greater than its warmest friends had anticipated.

The Commissioners had no fund on hand with which to pay its expenses, but backed by a generous guarantee fund it borrowed such money as was needed, and on the opening day had a debt of ten thousand dollars.

As an exhibition of Art and Industry, the Tenth Exposition fully maintained the prestige of former Expositions. Especially were the departments of Art, Horticulture and Machinery of unusual merit, and each department presented many new attractions.

The Exposition opened Wednesday, September 6th. The opening exercises—thanks to the “Pageant,” organized and carried out at a great expenditure of time and money, by gentlemen entirely outside the board—attracted an immense number of visitors to the city; and from its opening day until its close, on October 7th, favored by fine weather, the attendance was very satisfactory. The detailed statements accompany this report, giving the number of visitors with exhibitors from 33 States and Territories.

Financially, its success was very marked, and the Board have much pleasure in turning over to the Commissioners that follow them, a balance of $16,345 85. The Board recognize that much of the success of the Tenth Exposition is due to the enthusiastic support given by the press of Cincinnati, and the members of the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, and Ohio Mechanics' Institute, to all their efforts, and beg to ask for future Expositions a like support, which of itself insures success.

The Board desire to bear testimony to the faithful discharge of duty on the part of all the officers and employes, during the Exposition.

OPENING DAY.

THE PAGEANT.

The Committee on Exposition Parade was composed of the following citizens:

AMOR SMITH, JR.
CHARLES A. WITHERS,
SAMUEL BAILEY, JR.,
LOUIS A. HERANCOURT,

JOSEPH P. CARBERY,
WILLIAM B. WILSON,
SAMUEL W. TROST,
JOHN E. BELL.

C. A. WITHERS, Chairman.

The Board of Commissioners having approved of the plan of inaugurating the Exposition by a grand pageant, the details of same were intrusted to the above committees, to whose ability and untiring efforts were due its great success. The subjoined description is taken from the press reports of the following day:

THE ROUTE.

The procession formed on Freeman Avenue and moved South to Ninth, East on Ninth to Vine, South to Fifth, West to Central Avenue, South to Fourth, East to Walnut, North to Fifth, East to Main, North to Twelfth, West to Vine, North to Findlay, West to Elm and to the Exposition Buildings.

DESCRIPTION.

The one great and essential condition of success was bestowed for the civic display of yesterday in weather that was simply perfect. From the earliest glimpses of day all the signs indicated an assured splendor of sky; the atmosphere was pure, bracing and fragrant. The incense of harvest was borne upon the breeze that gently fanned the city, reminding the busy dwellers of autumnal riches which anon shall bless their table and their trade, and make the year of our Lord 1882 memorable. Indeed, it was a morning for which the poet might fitly be quoted, although his muse was evoked for far distant Italy.

"The day so mild was Heaven's own child,
With earth and ocean reconciled."

A day that Longfellow's greeting most appropriately recurs to memory, and never found a more fitting application.

"To the Queen of the West,
In her garlands dress'd,
On the banks of the beautiful river."

By the earliest dawn the citizens were astir seeking "coigns of vantage" from which to view the procession, or to drape and decorate windows and house fronts to bid it welcome. And for once in the history of such demonstrations, the Venetian custom was observed, of exhibiting richly colored rugs and fabrics on window sills; serving double purposes of setting off the delicate toilettes of the fair occupants and preserving them from soiling.

House decoration was not extensive, being mainly confined to the route along which the Pageant passed. The fact is the people were more intent on enjoying the spectacle than contributing to the general effect, which after all was made up of the Pageant itself and the multitude beholding it. Many were the devices for this purpose. Throughout the entire route, from Freeman Avenue and Ninth street, where it commenced, along Ninth to Vine, down Vine to Fifth, along Fifth to Central avenue, down that thoroughfare to Fourth, along Fourth to Walnut, up Walnut to Fifth, along Fifth to Main, up Main to Twelfth, along Twelfth to Vine, thence up to Findlay, where it turned down to Elm for dismissal at the Exposition Buildings, front yards and vacant lots were terraced with scaffolding, and furnished with seats for the accommodation of spectators. The irrepressible boy utilized the public gas lamps and tree boxes. The windows were filled with bright faces, the house-fronts, doorways and sidewalks were literally packed with people exercising a patience sustained by an unconquerable spirit of expectation and enthusiasm. The average boy and little girl had the advantage of their elders in beholding the attractions and wonders of the spectacle. They pre-empted and enjoyed seats on the curb-stones lining the sidewalks, where the children of larger growth stood all the eager and exciting hours.

It would be in vain to attempt details of the many false alarms to which the waiting multitude were subjected, alarms spread by the uncontrollable boys, who would shout their wish that "It is coming! It is coming!"

But it came at last. Never was such joy before at the sight of a procession. The little boys shouted, the little girls screamed with delight, and both sides of the street presented a fluttering vista of handkerchiefs and fans. The venturesome men and boys on the house-tops looking down remained quiet and attentive, the critical character of their situation imposing restrictions which admitted of few and slight demonstrations of admiration.

FIRST DIVISION.

Heading the procession come patrol wagon No. 1, the Ed. Armstrong. Following it came the three new patrol wagons, driven abreast, making a clear, broad roadway from curb to curb to allow ample room for what was to follow. Mounted police were next, followed by a band, and then came Chief Reilly on horseback, flanked by Captain Devine and Police Surgeon Armstrong also mounted and heading a large detachment of police, whose rear was guarded by the Gatling gun and its squad. The police turnout, from the patrol wagon to the gun squad, was highly creditable to the department.

After it came Grand Marshal Amor Smith, Jr., with his numerous staff, of which Tom Zimmerman was Chief. They were all mounted, of course, and wore black suits, black alpine hats, blue silk sashes, and saddle-cloths of blue trimmed with yellow. Bill Loder, a local statesman, was somewhat conspicuous on account of his plug hat; the only one on the staff. Next came carriages with invited guests and citizens connected with the Exposition. The first carriage was occupied by Governor Foster, W. W. Peabody, President of the Board, and W. H. Stewart, Secretary. In the other vehicles were the Commissioners, Governor Foster's military staff, Mayor Means and other city and county officials. Following these came the Pageant Committee on horseback, with Major Withers at their head, escorted by a mounted staff. They all wore dark clothes, white helmets, white sashes, and their saddle-cloths were white bound with gilt.

Here the pageant proper began with the "frontispiece car," a huge affair drawn by sixteen carparisoned horses. It was an elaborate affair. In front was a female figure representing a herald with trumpet. The center piece was a representation of a bank of clouds, on which was the golden chariot or calliope, drawn by peacocks. Around the center pieces were the nine muses, represented by that number of young ladies, each bearing an appropriate emblem. On each side of the car was the city's coat of arms, set between gold griffins. Just in the rear was a band in Roman costume, followed by the "First Roman Cohorts." The Centurions in command were Messrs. H. Richter and L. Heurer.

The car illustrating Cincinnatus at the plow, introduced the first epoch of the historical representation that the pageant was intended to illustrate. A plow of the ancient style, to which were hitched papier-mache oxen, led by slaves, is for the moment idle, while the Roman Senators standing beneath a tree hand the sage and soldier plowman the address of the Senate. The car was quite a neat affair, and showed good workmanship. Another cohort of Romans followed, in command of Clarence Lucky and Jno. Rown, Centurions. The third car represented Cincinnatus in his chariot. The triumphant vehicle was drawn by four high-mettled, blue-roan, papier-mache horses. Before it were trumpeters and behind centurions. In the rear of the car, which was a handsome affair, followed a guard of Roman soldiers.

The fourth float was a good representation of an ancient Roman galley manned by soldiers, with sturdy negroes, wearing gilt ear-rings and brass collars tugging at the oars.

The fifth float was an allegorical picture of the landing of Columbus. The discoverer has just stepped from his boat to the shore. He holds the flag of Spain in his hand; a priest stands under a palm tree with a wooden cross. In the rear are red natives, awe-struck at the approach of what they believed to be divine beings.

Following this car came a detachment of Continental troops with band, the soldiers carrying their guns at the old-fashioned "left shoulder shift."

The sixth car, "Valley Forge," although simple in design, was a telling piece of work. On the snow-covered ground was an old log hut that looked as if the winter wind was whistling through its chinks. Outside and at the foot of a leafless tree were crouched a half a dozen tattered Continental soldiers, encircling a miserably small fire, in an effort to get warm. At either end of the car paced faithful sentinels.

The seventh car was "Washington crossing the Delaware." The costuming was good.

"The Order of Cincinnati" was the title of the allegorical picture represented by the eighth car. The society of the Cincinnati was founded in 1783 by officers of the Revolutionary War, to cherish and perpetuate feelings of patriotism and friendship among them. General Knox was one of its founders, and General Washington was its President until his death. On a rocky elevation on the rear of the car was a large, stout woman, in a long velvet dress and helmet, personating an Amazon. At the base of the rocks was seated a child personating the Goddess of Liberty, representing the infant Government. Upon her right was seated an Indian maiden, and on her left a maiden in the dress of the Dutch Knickerbockers, and standing about the altar were officials of the Continental army. On the front of the car was a forge and men at work "beating swords into plow shares."

"A Primitive Forest" was the ninth tableau car, and it was really excellent. It depicted the American Indians before the advent of white men with the soul-destroying fire-water and life-destroying fire-arms. Under the shade of trees were pitched the wigwams, inside and outside of which were squaws and little papooses. At the back end, peering over the rocks, were Indian braves watching with curious interest the approach of white scouts. Suspended from the trees were the results of the hunt, and near by the implements of the chase. The ground was made realistic by shrubbery, moss, scattered boughs and rocks.

The "Pioneer Advance," represented by the tenth car, was a credit to the Sixth Ward. It exhibited four scouts descending the Ohio in a dug out. Two were paddling, while the others with rifles were watching on either side for the enemy. Following this car came the rangers—backwoodsmen in buckskin suits and coon-skin caps, leggings, etc.

"The First Keelboat" was a good scene. It was shown descending a river. As passengers was a pioneer family, the woman cooking and washing, the boys using the sweep-oars, and the men doing guard duty with rifles.

A lively band of exceedingly wild Indians was the next thing in order. They were made up in first-class style, and if they were not entirely realistic, they were ugly and noisy enough to attract a large amount of attention.

"The First Settlers" was the title of the twelfth car. It was out of place in the procession, following car fifteen. In this representation excellent taste and judgment was shown by the workers of the Twentieth Ward, in which it was built. There were the men hewing additional logs for the nearly constructed house, while the mother and wife are cooking the noon-day meal in an iron kettle, suspended over a fire. Trees are near the spot and under one of them is erected a tent, in which the children are playing. A cub bear and dog add realism to the scene.

A stockade inclosed log house was on the next car.

This car was followed by a detachment of the "old French Guard," in proper uniform, and armed with flint-lock muskets. The Stove Mounters' Union furnished the soldiers.

Fourteenth car, "Sketch of Losantiville," from the original drawing, enveloped in clouds, from out of the top of which rise two feudal towers, through whose gates is seen the advance of the white man, before whom, in the foreground, the red man is passing away.

Fifteenth car, "Fort Washington," was a reproduction, on a small scale, of that celebrated structure, and gave a very fair idea of Cincinnati's earliest work of defense.

The sixteenth car represented the United States troops cheering the raising of the American flag on the walls of Chepultepec.

"In Memoriam" was the seventeenth car—a monument in honor of an army that never lost a battle. This was a military representation. Under the flags were scrolls with the names of Scott and Taylor upon them.

SECOND DIVISION.

Heading the Second Division came Marshal John E. Bell and staff, with alpine hats, black suits, blue sashes and blue saddle-cloths. Then came the series of cars furnished by the Water Works Department, and intended to depict its history from the time of the settlement of Losantiville. The first of the number, car No. 18, had at its forward end an Indian seated by a running spring. Behind him was a well, out of which was being drawn an old oaken bucket by the primitive method of a stone-weighted lever resting in a forked sapling. Approaching the motherly looking woman drawing the water was a frontiersman looking thirsty enough. Back of this scene was another improvement, in the shape of a long-handled pump, with the use of which many pioneers of to-day are familiar.

"The ancient water supply" was the title of the next car. For greater household convenience receptacles were placed near the early dwellings, to which the supply was brought in a barrel on a sled hauled by a steer. This scene was well pictured, even to the sun-browned driver with his ox whip, stopping to talk to his wife before proceeding for another load.

On the next car the advance made is more notable. Here runs a tread mill operated by a horse and steer, harnessed to an overhead horizontal wheel. Close by was a workman busily engaged in boring out the core of a long log for use in laying as a water pipe.

Last in this series came "Modern Hydraulics," in representation of the existing water-works system, with the Eden Park reservoir in miniature. In front and securely set on cleverly imitated masonry, was a beam engine, actively at work.

After this came the Veteran Corps, Colonel Hawkins commanding. They made a handsome and soldier-like display.

Twenty-second Car, "The last war." A battle scene, in which two mounted officers are fighting over the standards. The wounded and dead are lying around, and illustrating the absence of all personal feelings between the brave soldiers of both armies, a Union soldier is seen giving comfort to a wounded Confederate.

"Peace" was depicted on the twenty-third car. In the back ground was an eagle-surmounted monument, upon which paper-capped and apron sculptors were at work putting on its surface in enduring letters, the names of localities where occurred the more important battles of the late war. Separated from the monument by a sheaf of wheat, was a canopy under which stood Columbia, with hands resting on the shoulders of two officers, Union and Confederate, who are settling differences by a grasp of friendship. The figure is completed by a dove on the peak of the canopy, holding in its bill a small olive branch.

Preceded by a band came General Will's escort to the "Queen of the West." They were costumed with black suits, white helmets, white sashes and white saddle-cloths.

Twenty-fourth Car, "Queen of the West." Car handsomely draped in royal purple, drawn by 20 horses, 4 abreast, upon which sits the queen on a throne and canopy of roses. Her courtiers seated on steps of the throne, are the merchants and mechanics, to whom she is indebted for her proud position. As the future of the queen depends upon her young men, she was escorted by two (2) regiments of the same, uniformed and mounted.

Colonel Whitfield also preceded the "Queen of the West" car, as did mounted delegations from the Twelfth and Twenty-first Wards.

Following the "Queen of the West" was the Duckworth Division, costumed like Whitfield's and Will's staffs, excepting that Mr. George K. Duckworth, who rode at the head, wore the Duckworth Club light plug hat.

Twenty-fifth Car, "Paris of America." Rival cities having given this title, and a number of others, to this Queen City, to show that the jest bears no sting, the Paris of America is represented by an immense Hog, seated upon a pyramid of city merchandise and singing. The escort to this car were an imitation of beer bottles, cigars, etc., walking.

THIRD DIVISION.

Among the many magnificent attractions, no portion of the pageant presented more engaging features than the Third Division, under the Marshalship of Mr. Louis Herancourt. The staff of assistants had been judiciously selected, and every member seemed animated by a personal desire and individual interest to make the occasion a memorable one, which should redound to the credit of Cincinnati and honor her visitors. The staff of Marshal Herancourt consisted of thirty-three gentlemen, whose names were announced yesterday, all of whom are well-known citizens from the ranks of active business men of the younger class, with Dr. W. H. Woodward as Chief of staff. The uniform was very tasty and appropriate, consisting of a black broadcloth suit, with coats of the Knights Templar fashion, closely buttoned in front, and Alpine hats, decorated with gold cord and tassel, which were unexceptionally becoming. With these were worn a white silk sash, bordered with gold. The horses of this staff, which were uniformly caparisoned, were all fine specimens, and their riders displayed a remarkable knowledge of equestrianism—the result, probably, of late regular practice.

The Third Division was formed on Clinton and Everett streets, a portion on each street. It was after 12 o'clock when the Marshal's staff fell into the line of march, and was followed by the band of the First Regiment, which appeared in full force. Following this came the First Regiment, O. N. G., which made a splendid and soldierly appearance, under the command of Col. C. B. Hunt, with the following field and staff officers: Lieutenant Colonel John A. Johnson, Major James Morgan, Surgeon A. E. Jones, Assistant Surgeon M. C. Aubrey, Adjutant Paul T. Wegelin, Quartermaster Frank G. Jobson, Commissary E. J. Lukens, Aid-de-camp E. M. Bemiss.

Company A was under the command of First Lieutenant Charles Becht and Second Lieutenant Wm. Brachman, with thirty men in line.

Company B, Captain John J. Desmond, First Lieutenant E. Deitz and Second Lieutenant C. Hynson, with thirty-six men.

Company C, First Lieutenant George Brenner and Second Lieutenant J. Proctor, with thirty-two men.

Company F, Captain Richard Shafer, First Lieutenant Harry Franklin, and Second Lieutenant Harry Williams, with thirty-six men.

Company H, Captain J. W. Carroll, First Lieutenant T. H. Wright, and second Lieutenant Orin LaBoiteaux, with twenty-five men.

Company I, Captain John Foeliger and First Lieutenant Emil Helferich, with thirty men.

The appearance of the men, their correct maneuvering and splendid marching fully justified the pride which the city takes in her favorite military organization. The "boys" appeared to excellent advantage, and their uniforms and equipments were fresh and bright as a morning in the spring time, and they seemed eager for the fray, and vigorous enough to march for a whole week.

After the regiment came a large picturesque and remarkably suggestive float, called the "Paris of America." It was a "work" composed upon the inspiring themes of music, bacon and beer—three subjects which have made our city famous throughout the land. A monstrous hog, nearly as large as an elephant, was grandly posed upon a pedestal formed of beer kegs, and from his proud elevation seemed to be gazing serenely upon the mighty surging mass, and breathing a stolid defiance to the whole world. The sides of the float were ornamented by a representation of what may be termed a porcine concert—hogs of every condition and stature in life, of every conceivable form and quality, playing upon musical instruments, some of them appearing to be wrapt in an ecstasy produced by their own harmony. This representation was received with much applause, and its latent sarcasm was greatly enjoyed by thousands of our citizens as well as our visitors.

The Duckworth Club, accompanied by Ackerman's Band, followed, with about 250 members. They are a splendid body, and were decidedly one of the marked features of the entire procession. They were all in elegant citizen's dress, and wore plug hats, nearly white in color, and each carried a small bamboo cane. It would be difficult to find a body of gentlemen, in this or any other city, who could make so handsome a display in mere street costume, and their marching was as good as their appearance was imposing. "Molly, there isn't an ugly man in the whole crowd," remarked a young lady, evidently from the rural districts, to her lady friend, in tones of undisguised admiration. "That's so," said Molly, and her acquiescence appeared to be an echo of the general sentiment of the vast throng.

The citizens of the Twenty-fourth Ward appeared in this division in a delegation of one hundred. They made a fine appearance, being well mounted and uniformed in blue helmets, and blue sashes and saddle covers. The horses especially were handsomely decorated, and appeared to be well drilled. Each rider carried a small riding stick ornamented with ribbons.

The Societa Nazionale Italiana turned out fifty men, who marched with the third division. This is an Italian benevolent society, and they wore the national colors of Italy, green, white and red. The regalia is very striking, and the members of the Society made a commendable appearance. The company bore, in addition to the American colors, the Italian standard, a beautiful flag, which bore also the motto of the society, "De Mutuo Succorso" (mutual assistance). The society was marshaled by Mr. John Cella.

A delegation of the German Pioneer Association was also in this division. They were in open carriages, and appeared to enjoy the spectacle greatly. There were not as many out as had been anticipated, but as one of the old gentlemen observed: "There seems to be a plenty of people without us."

The "Cigarmakers" and "Schwaebischer Unterstutzungs Verein" did not appear. Their places were taken in the division by citizens of the Twenty-fourth Ward.

FOURTH DIVISION.

This division was commanded by Division Marshal Samuel Bailey, Jr. The division was composed of the First, Second, Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Nineteenth, Twentieth, Twenty-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards.

The Ripley Silver Cornet Band, Albert Stamm, leader, led the division. The band contained thirteen men.

Commodore Foote Post came next, and turned out fifty mounted men wearing cavalry uniforms and carrying swords. The Post also turned out a gun-boat mounted on wheels, commanded by Captain Cullom, and manned by hardy and trained seamen. The wagon was drawn by six handsome horses.

The Marine Railway and Dry Dock Company was represented by a ten-mule empty wagon drawn by one mule. The wagon was beautifully trimmed in red, white and blue cut papers, and the patient mule carried a couple of tri-colored plumes in its head.

The Mowry Car and Wheel Works had a six-mule team, with a wagon filled with car wheels and trucks.

Beck & Greenamyer, the East End coal dealers, had a wagon drawn by two horses and laden with coal.

J. Kramer, sawdust dealer, had one wagon loaded with sawdust.

The Farmers' Hotel, Fulton, was represented by two wagons, one carrying hay in bales.

George Rettig, saw-mill owner on Eastern avenue, had one six-horse wagon, but he met with an accident at Point Isabel, near the Little Miami Depot, by the breaking down of a hind wheel, and fracturing the leg of Buck Epply, one of the employes of Rettig. Epply was seated on top of the wagon when the accident occurred, and fell with the wagon on top of him.

One of the Marine Railway and Dry Dock Company's wagons, loaded with saw logs, also had an accident on Race and Canal, by the breaking of an axle.

Higginsport (Brown County) Cornet Band came next, with sixteen men. Prof. Netterhouse, leader.

The Nineteenth Ward mounted escort appeared, twenty-four in number, wearing red caps.

The Woodrough & McParlin saw works had a fine display; one four-horse wagon carried a tall pyramid covered with saws of all descriptions, covered with flags. The horses were gayly caparisoned with small flags and plumes.

S. Obermayer & Co., foundry facings, of the Twenty-first Ward, turned out with one six-horse wagon, handsomely trimmed with flags and streamers.

John Underwood, florist, was out with a wagon decorated with sunflowers and silver plumes, and filled with ladies.

The Lawrence Street Coal Elevator had a four-horse wagon carrying a miniature stern-wheel steamer, the "Youghiogeny," and a model barge filled with coal and coke. The horses were covered with blue and white blankets, and their heads surmounted by plumes of red and white.

The Cincinnati Coal Exchange, represented by the Campbell's Creek, Phillips Coal Elevator and Sol. P. Kineon, turned out a number of fine wagons, loaded with coal, notable of which was one drawn by ten horses, handsomely harnessed and comparisoned.

The Sixth Ward was well represented by citizens in fine carriages, who conferred a quiet dignity upon the whole business. As our reporter was unacquainted with the whole delegation, it would be invidious to mention only a few of the twenty.

Thompson & Leonard's commission and sales stables made a noticeable display. They had a handsome band wagon, covered, containing two live mules, and drawn by eight horses, two abreast; wagon surmounted by an American flag.

John Grossius was out with one two-horse wagon; carrying an immense furnace and a school-house stove. The wagon was beautifully trimmed in evergreen, flags and banners of various devices. The wagon was managed by Frank Grossius, an expert driver. This was the only representative of school-house stoves and furnaces in the procession.

The Dayton (Ky.) Mullet Club had one wagon drawn by four mules. The wagon contained bread, seines and fish, with eight men in fishing costume. The Club distinguished itself by getting up some fine pan fish, smoking hot, with all the accompaniments, while they were waiting for the procession to move.

Geo. F. Kestner, Jr., dealer in groceries and fishing tackle, cor. Main and Canal, had a beautiful display of groceries and fishing tackle, seines, etc., of a varied sort. The display attracted general attention.

Hunter's "sifter" was represented by one two-horse wagon, carrying an immense sifter, made of galvanized iron, ten feet high, about four feet in diameter; horses tandem. The company also turned out fifty-two men and boys, carrying sifters, baking pans, and banners with appropriate devices.

Pyle's Pearlina had one wagon in the line, decorated with flags and streamers. Horse covered with red, white and blue colors, and head with plumes of black and yellow.

A Deer Creek butcher wagon was drawn by a diminutive mule, and decorated with small American flags.

F. J. Berger & Son, the coal oil men, were well represented by five two-horse wagons, beautifully gotten up. Three of the wagons carried horizontal tanks, in which oil is delivered to customers.

The Zoological Garden was represented by a six-pony carriage, containing a leopard managed by Tom Stevens, the trainer. His brother, Sol Stevens, had charge of the elephant "Hatton," bearing a covering with seats, occupied by four children.

Foss & Schneider appeared with one eight-horse wagon, the horses beautifully caparisoned. The horses were abreast, and were led by men in Turkish costume. The wagon bore huge bottles ten feet high, one at each corner, hung with flowers and garlands. In the center was an immense cask marked "Nonpareil," and seated on top was King Gambrinus. Back of the casket was a representation of a rail fence, and between the large bottles were disposed rows of small bottles, with the labels of the "Nonpareil" lager, while the borders of the wagon were trimmed with barley and barley in sheaves.

Then followed tableau car drawn by eight horses, four abreast, and led by two men in continental costume. The wagon represented Fort Washington, Cincinnati in 1790, with a rough sketch of the place, containing about fifteen small houses. Half a dozen men in the wagon represented Indians.

Musselman's tobacco showed up with one wagon containing Bootjack plug tobacco.

The Enterprise Carriage Company had a four-horse wagon, containing buggies and carriages, covered with a beautiful canopy of tri-colors, horses finely caparisoned and decked with plumes.

Then came an eight-horse wagon, four abreast, carrying a miniature block house, and seven men representing noble red men and trappers.

The E. D. Albro Company appeared with one eight-horse wagon, two abreast, containing a solid block of Spanish mahogany, ten feet long, four feet wide, and four feet high; flags at each corner of the wagon; waving plumes decorated the horses' heads.

FIFTH DIVISION.

The Fifth Division formed on Hopkins and Clark streets, bounded by the squares of Freeman and John streets. In the line of march first came the staff, Samuel W. Trost commanding, and W. H. McDowell chief; S. Elwood Livezey Aid-de-camp, and Messrs. L. E. Wertheimer, M. Heister, Jr., W. B. Stevens, R. J. Purcell, Sam. Strauss, Andy J. L. Rice, Frank Schwab, W. L. Carle, Herman Knuwener, J. M. Watters, Charles Nicholai, B. F. Haughton, H. H. Baeder, Sid. A. Loth, Dr. J. C. Marcus, Jos. Roth, George Higbee, R. J. Archibald, F. B.

Sowles, B. J. Bachman, Monroe Rust, A. A. Kahn, Harry Ackerland, Geo. Hoeker, Jr., W. N. Siebern, W. H. Voige, Charles M. Warth, and Leo Newburgh, staff officers.

Following next in order were two tableau cars which were prepared by the citizens of the Eighteenth Ward. The first was made in the form of a bee hive, presumably to represent Industry, surrounded by little children, running around a flower garden just beyond the thatched hive. The Goddess Ceres occupied a place in the front of the wagon, under an arch. A banner, seven by ten feet arose from the top of the bee-hive, marked "Eighteenth Ward."

The second car consisted of a regular fort, with four guns, parapets around the top and a magazine in the center. The guns were manned by two gunners, commanded by an officer. From the fort, at intervals of three shots a square, peanuts, bon-bons, and fancy knick-knacks were discharged, to the delight of the surrounding crowds, who received the gifts with shouts of applause.

Seidensticker's Band came next, followed by three wagons belonging to the Favorite Stove Works, representing the three various branches of the stove trade—molding, mounting and casting. The wagon upon which the last two were displayed, little children in white were arranged, making a very pretty exhibition, following came 400 employes of the Favorite company in line, the brawny brethren being decorated with a sunflower and a band, bearing the name of their employers.

The Fulton Brass Band was followed by a wagon handsomely stocked with choice fruit, built in the form of a pyramid. Fruit from the smallest to the largest types were there, culled from nature's bowers in every portion of the globe. The wagon was drawn by four gray steeds, and bore the name of the wholesale fruit firm of Charles E. Moore & Co.

Philip J. Ritter, the preserved fruit man, had four of his magnificently built wagons tastefully ornamented.

The Union Pacific Tea Company was represented by a team driven by a Japanese—at least so he appeared.

Jos. Weil, baker, had a team in line, with a little fellow seated beside the driver, in the full habiliments of a baker at work.

Wm. Sumner & Co., agents for the new Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine Company, made a very pretty display in the form of a decorated wagon, hauled by four horses; on the wagon was stationed three machines in constant operation.

Gaff, Fleischmann & Co., contributed one of their fine wagons, propelled by two spotless steeds, to this division.

R. Rothschild & Son made a pretty display of furniture in two wagons.

R. M. Bishop & Co. had a shetland pony and a banner in line.

T. G. Neski, the Court street plumber, arranged one of the neatest features of the pageant. It was a running fountain in the midst of a massive bed of flowers and plants.

F. Franzell and Louis Krauss each had a decorated wagon in line.

The prime band of Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrel Company occupied the "Highland Chief," drawn by a fine span of horses, and at frequent intervals during the march the crowd was favored with the most delicious music.

Then came Manager R. E. J. Miles' famous tally-ho, made to blossom like the rose in the gayest holiday attire. The seats were covered by a raised canopy, strewn with buds and flowers, and in fact the entire vehicle resembled a floral bower more than anything else. Seated beside the genial manager were Messrs. Thatcher, Primrose and West, each wearing a white plug hat, and it must have done their hearts good to hear the cries of "Hurrah for Bob Miles," for which the appearance of the tally-ho was the signal. The popular minstrel proprietors also came in for a good share of a hearty welcome.

Mr. Sam Chester drove immediately in the rear of the tally-ho, "Michigan Billy," a thorough-bred stallion, attached to the gentleman's lately-introduced Chester Park Surrey, a splendid looking coach, that will soon be seen in general use on the avenue, if our people know what a good thing is when they see it.

A wagon bearing a miniature Music Hall, an exact prototype of our own, on a small scale, proved an interesting element. The model was made by A. J. Eich, and is formed of 12,000 different pieces of wood, contains 535 windows, is roofed with 5,850 shingles, and took seven months to construct.

H. C. Stewart, of the Vienna Bakery, instituted a little bake shop in the line the men in charge of the wagon were neatly attired in a full suit, such as bakers wear while working.

The Famous Hat Company had a large wagon next, and A. W. Frank's finely polished vehicles, three in number, followed immediately after.

The Ohio Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals had a double turnout. The first was an ambulance containing a horse supposed to be sick, but which looked decidedly healthy, nevertheless, the purpose of the display was plain. The Society wants Council to provide for it an ambulance that shall relieve animals suddenly taken ill upon the street, and convey them to their place of abode.

The ambulance bore two signs. One read, "The dumb beast's cause I plead, through all the land, and stay the torture of the oppressor's hand." The second was more emphatic, even if it was less poetical: "The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty wants an ambulance for disabled animals."

The second portion of the display was a pretty phaeton, drawn by a beautiful bay filly. It was arranged so as to make an original of the Society's ensign. Miss Kate Becker, garbed as angel of charity, representing the good Samaritan, sat on an elevated seat. At her feet were four little girls, representing her assistants in her mission of charity. Officers Smith and Herron were in charge of this display.

H. L. Benham & Co., had one wagon, and Geo. Warner, Jr., preserver of fruits, followed with two wagons.

Messrs. John O. Moore & Co., commission merchants, were represented by two large wagons filled with the fruits of the soil, and a buggy containing the members of the firm.

T. T. Haydock, the carriage firm, had a great wagon in line, elaborately decorated and surmounted by two handsomely painted buggies.

The Ohio Valley Seed Works had one four-horse wagon, freighted with a large number of their employes.

The Union Omnibus Company displayed a United States mail wagon bearing the legend, "This wagon made expressly for the U. S. Mail Service for Washington, D.C., by the Union Omnibus and Wagon Company."

The Penny Paper had a phalanx of boys in line bearing banners.

The staff of the Fifth Division comprised a fine body of men, who were tastefully dressed in dark suits, black slouch hats with gold band, brown sashes and high cuffed buckskin gloves. They rode as a rule, very fine horses.

SIXTH DIVISION.

The Sixth Division was under the command of Colonel John B. Moser, with J. L. Gaul as Chief of Staff, and some twenty or thirty aids.

This division showed energy and courage, and willingness on the part of the men who had charge. To be sure, it was not expected that the last of the divisions would make as good a display as would the first or second.

Now, comparing the difference between the various divisions, and considering also the disadvantages under which the sixth division rested, the display made by that section was truly remarkable.

Schweibel's Band headed the division which was under the immediate supervision of John B. Moser.

In this division there were found many designs, wagons and decorations that might be worthy of brief mention. Among them were a steamboat and a flat boat, the gift of people of the Eighth Ward; then came the Mowry Car Wheel Company with a grand display of wheels used in carrying people over the country.

Then we have Leverone & Co., probably the largest dealers in tropical fruits known in this city. They made the best display of this sort ever seen in the city of Cincinnati.

The Enterprise Carriage manufacturing company carried their buggies on one large car.

John Underwood, of Ludlow, made a fine display on a four-horse wagon, of flowers and plants.

Woodrough & McParlin made a grand exhibition of circular saws and other tools used in the manufacture of furniture.

The coal interests were well represented in the firms of Daniel Stone & Co., the Campbell's Creek Company, and S. P. Kineon. By the coal interests were turned out thirteen carts.

One of the features of the affair was the turnout of the men employed by W. C. Davis & Co., the well known stove dealers of Smith and Third streets. Besides one thousand men which they had in the procession, they had three wagons out.

T. J. Johnson & Co., W. H. Harrison, J. E. Frey, W. G. Fischer, and Woodside & Peyton, all had wagons representing their various business interests.

There were twenty-five or thirty exhibitors making displays of their specialties, and nearly all were of a good character.

The display of the Fire Department, under the direction of Chief Bunker, was one of the finest ever seen in this vicinity. Ten companies and two hooks and ladders turned out and made an excellent appearance. The feature of the parade was the little engine, that is described in a letter from New England by a member of the fire department there, to a friend in this city. In this letter he says: That the engine which is now here, was built in Sheffield, England, and still has the stamp of the maker of the iron used in making the tires on the wheels. We are unable to give you the exact age of the engine, but we have two old gentlemen living in this city who remember the engine when they were small boys. One of the gentlemen's name is George L. Perkins, who has just celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday. Mr. Perkins is still the treasurer of the Norwich and Worcester Railroad, under the charter of the New York and New England Railroad. I believe the engine to be over one hundred years old. The house that she occupied when I found her, was located but a few steps to the south of the store in which the traitor, Benedict Arnold, learned the business of a druggist, and also within a few rods of his birthplace (of course, you know that he was born in this town). I am unable to trace her back any further, but from all I can learn of her, she is the oldest engine in the United States.

OPENING CEREMONIES.

The opening exercises were held at eight o'clock in the evening, at which time President Peabody, arm in arm with Senator George H. Pendleton and Governor Charles Foster, entered Main Hall, followed by Mayor Means and Congressman Butterworth; Secretary W. H. Stewart; Commissioners Hugh McCollum, F. W. Clarke, W. A. Collord, J. F. Walton, Michael Ryan, Thos. G. Smith, A. W. Ross, Samuel W. Ramp, Ben. E. Hopkins, Joseph Hargrave, Louis Krohn, Chas. H. Law and Joseph G. Sextro; and Ex-commissioners R. H. Galbreath, John Simpkinson, J. R. Murdoch, W. L. Robinson and L. M. Hosea. Arriving at the Stage in front of the Grand Organ, the Rev. Dr. Eells, of Lane Seminary, invoked the Divine blessing as follows:

PRAYER BY REV. DR. EELLS.

Great God, our Father, Thou who hast made us: who hast endowed us with all our faculties, and capacity for doing and appreciating great things: who hast surrounded us with all the various materials upon which we may exercise the powers Thou hast granted unto us, we acknowledge Thy goodness and Thy protecting care and ever watchful and abiding presence with us and over us, and we pray Thee for Thy blessing at the opening of this Exposition. We bring together within the inclosure of this magnificent edifice—a temple of art and science—all the products of our skill, our industry and our invention to cultivate the public taste; to stimulate in all classes the love of whatsoever is good and beautiful and useful, and to open wide the doors of all our departments of manufacture and science. We rejoice to know that these products do not come in the order of accident, of chance or of fate, but are the proofs that a personal Director, the living God, takes an active interest in these things which have such a great and absorbing interest for His creatures. May Thy favor attend us in whatever may be attempted by us in the attainment of these ends. Do Thou bless the officers of this Association and the people of this city that contribute so largely to further the success of human enterprises, and the crowds of people who may come here to attend and be benefited by this, our Exhibition, during these coming days. May no evil, and may great good be the result. May we all feel that God is our helper and upholder, and we pray Thee that in our pleasure and in our profit, yea, in all things, we may be willing to recognize the hand of the Lord God upon us. Bless the region in which we have our homes, and this great Commonwealth, in which we have so great an interest, in whose welfare we are so deeply concerned. Bless our great country, the Union which we all hold sacred. May peace, prosperity and freedom prevail. May all our public officers be men who shall fear and honor God. May all our public interests in all departments be fostered and protected by Thee, and may we, as a people, follow after that righteousness which exalteth a Nation, that we may continue to be a people whose God is the Lord. All these blessings and mercies, with the forgiveness of our sins, we ask in the name of Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Music by the Cincinnati Grand Orchestra, followed after which President Peabody introduced His Honor Mayor Means, who delivered the following address to the assembled multitude :

SPEECH OF MAYOR MEANS.

Mr. President and Ladies and Gentlemen:—It gives me great pleasure to welcome, on behalf of the Board of Commissioners of the Cincinnati Industrial Exposition, and on behalf of the city of Cincinnati, the numerous visitors who have honored us by their presence on this occasion.

It gives me sincere pleasure that the gentlemen of this Board, who have gratuitously labored, how strenuously none know but those who have been tried in a similar capacity, should receive the approval of which your presence here to-night is a cordial expression as their reward, indeed, I may say about the only reward they are likely to get, or can hope for in this world.

Through their self-sacrificing, untiring efforts, through many, many months, Cincinnati to-day opened her Tenth Exposition of Industry and Art [applause]; an Exposition free to the competition of the world.

Every available foot of space in this vast and magnificent structure is filled with the products of the workshop, the mine, the field, and the studio, and the marvelous variety of inventions that emanate from the fertile brain of genius. I said that this great building is filled, but I should have stated that it is crowded, absolutely packed, with works of art, of Industry and beauty, and the exhibit in Floral Hall is marred by its narrow dimensions, and made to appear as but the miniature of what could and would be done in a proper area.

The Exposition, a growing mammoth, has taken the space allotted to it, and demands more territory, and more territory it must have [applause] or exhibitors will seek more generous quarters and expansive accommodations elsewhere.

The splendid pageant we have witnessed to-day is another forward movement in this great interest, and illustrates the enterprise, the genius, and the public spirit of our citizens.

While Cincinnati originated these annual exhibitions of Industry and Art, yet they have themselves inaugurated a new era in her progress, and to them does she owe that spirit which causes her to lead and to succeed in enterprises ever new and ever grander, so that she may continue to stand, as to-day she stands, without a rival, the Queen City of the West. [Applause.]

It is this spirit which impels her merchant princes to cast their wealth at her feet, and the flower of her young men to give their time and their talents and their energies to such labors of love as this, rearing into form before us this scene of enchantment, which has risen as it were almost in a single night. It is this spirit which quickens generous impulses, broadens our sympathies, and awakens within the hearts of the people of this city a feeling of generous, noble emulation which will sustain and guide her steps in the onward march to civilization.

Some years ago at a banquet given to the Board of Commissioners of the Exposition, a distinguished citizen, honored in our midst, said: "Our Exposition is enthroned, let us give her a palace." Since that period, this splendid temple has been reared as its royal home. This assemblage of beauty and manhood is its Court, and now let us, as loyal subjects of this our Queen of the West, renew in her behalf our vows of homage and fealty to the Exposition, that the prosperity of our Queen Mother may be increased, and her proud pre-eminence maintained long after these walls shall have crumbled, and that the crown may continue to glisten on her brow for generations to come. [Applause.]

The President then said: We have with us among our honored visitors, to whom we desire to renew a cordial welcome, the Chief Executive of the State, of which Cincinnati is the proud metropolis. I have the distinguished honor of introducing to you, Charles Foster, Governor of Ohio.

SPEECH OF GOVERNOR FOSTER.

Mr. President and Ladies and Gentlemen:—It has been a source of great pleasure to me personally to have had the privilege of attending the demonstration of to-day, and of participating in the opening exercises of this great Exposition of Industry and Art.

The people of Ohio are justly proud of her grand position in the sisterhood of States, but proud as her people are of her agricultural and mineral resources, of her schools and colleges, of her great charitable institutions, of the intelligence, thrift and enterprise of her citizens, of her manufacturing industries, of her overflowing mercantile prosperity, of her thriving villages, towns and cities, yet in no one thing do they take more pride than in the Queen City of the West, the city of Cincinnati.

They are proud of her commercial prosperity and progress, and of her great industrial establishments, of her wealth, and of her abounding charity. They are proud of her in these things. They are proud that with them she does things that other cities do not do. The munificence of her people has placed music and art upon a higher and more exalted plane, than any other city of the Union. [Applause.]

In the name of the people of Ohio, I congratulate you upon the favorable auspices that attend the opening of the Tenth Annual Exposition of your city, and I have no doubt that it will prove to be the most successful one you have ever yet had. [Applause.]

Permit me to urge you to turn your attention to making this Exposition permanent, and modestly to express the opinion that such action will increase the pride that the people of the whole State feel toward you. It is due to your own pride, to your own growth, and your own accelerating prosperity. Again permit me to thank you for the courtesy you have extended to myself and my staff, and for the pleasure you have this day given me.

Another overture having been rendered by the Orchestra, the Hon. Benjamin Butterworth was introduced and spoke as follows:

SPEECH OF HON. BENJAMIN BUTTERWORTH.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Board of Managers, Ladies and Gentlemen:—The autumn of the year has come to us again. The husbandman has gathered his harvest and the gleaner has finished his work. The early rains were sent and the later rains were not withheld, and the glad earth has yielded a bountiful harvest.

The reaper, whether he went forth to sow in hope or sorrow, has "come again rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him."

Especially has this been so in the Ohio Valley. Behold each mow packed, and every granary heaped, and the goodly season gives full assurance that the ungarnered crops will be, in quantity and quality, beyond the hope of the husbandman, and equal to his just desire.

The "feast of the ingathering" in our fertile valleys is over, and from the rejoicing over the abundant grain and fruit gathered from field and orchard, we come here to this harvest home to view, not the result of the labor of a single year; not the fruit grown from seed strewn last spring or last fall; not products of earth whose growth was quickened by the rain and sunshine.

Here we behold the gathered harvests of many centuries. The ripening and the ripened fruit of seed sown in the minds of men away back in the ages.

Here science and philosophy have opened up their stores. Here learning and art have produced their treasures, while inventive genius demonstrates how those stores and treasures may be made to minister to the comfort of men. The keys to nature's ample storehouse have been placed in our hands, and the secrets of the earth, the ocean and the air in part revealed to the children of men for their instruction and use.

I do not assert that philosophic truths and principles are but newly discovered, or that art was unknown to antiquity or learning among the ancients. But in those early days philosophy wrapped itself up in its cloak of dignity and glorified itself. Science and learning were for the few—the favored few—and scorned the utilities of life. Art was for the palace and the temple, it shunned the unpretentious cot.

Philosophy, learning, science, art, all rebuked the genius of invention, and scorned to aid in the ends and aims and common purposes of practical life.

Science and philosophy had long since searched out the forces of nature and learned the properties and law of matter. But they disdained to use that knowledge as a means to increase the source of human happiness. It is but about three centuries since learning began to recognize any obligation to minister to the comfort of humanity.

This recognition was the result of the growth of the idea which suggested the equality of men. It came with the acknowledgment of the dignity of labor and the exaltation of the laborer.

It grew with trade and commerce, with the exchange of ideas and opinions, which always attend upon the exchange of commodities.

From Aristotle to Bacon, science, which includes philosophy, sought only to glorify itself, and useful inventions were considered degrading and vulgar.

Architecture exhausted itself on temples, while the people lived in dark hovels.

Splendid specimens of eloquence have been handed down to us, but not one plea for pure air and light, for warmth and comfort, for household conveniences and improved means of labor.

We read with interest their speculations about the stars. We note their finely constructed maxims, never intended for use, but no skillfully constructed plow, no planter, no reaper, no mower or thresher for the husbandman. No engine, no lathe or other contrivance to lighten the burthens of the mechanic and artisan. The art of printing was, in its essentials, known to the Chinese more than twenty centuries ago, but instruction of the people through its agency is still practically unknown in China.

The mariner's compass, if not first introduced among the Chinese, was at least known among them before the Christian era—but it never served to guide the craft of a Chinaman ten leagues from his native shore—nor did it serve to teach that sluggish people the way into the paths of trade and commerce.

Gunpowder was in use among the Chinese many centuries ago, but it never enabled them to hold their own in battle against the warriors of other nations, armed with only short lance or sword.

The plow which breaks the sod in the fields near Jerusalem is, to this day, much the same in structure as that which Elisha held when the prophet Elijah placed his mantle on him.

Until recently the fields along the Tiber were plowed by the same rude contrivance that first marked the boundaries of Rome.

Amid all the early triumphs of learning, of science, of philosophy, and art, one great controlling fact and influence remained obscure. That was the equality of men. That the fatness of the earth, and the good things that abound therein are in fact for the many, not for the few.

That science and philosophy, art and learning, seek companionship with the humble and the lowly to teach them how to rise; to illumine their homes; to fill them with joy and happiness. Bacon, whom Pope described as "the greatest, wisest and meanest of mankind," was one of the first to seek the glory of "making knowledge useful to men."

But the fact was grudgingly conceded that the term "mankind" included all races and nations—all states and conditions of men.

That controlling fact conceded, the bars that shut out the people from the fields of science, and temples of art were thrown back, and those to whom science in all its forms, philosophy in all its researches, art in all its fullness and beauty were intended to minister, entered in. Learning no longer hid itself away in cloisters, but sought the home of the humble and the lowly. It gave knowledge to all who sought. Science and philosophy sought the companionship of the workman, the mechanic, the artisan. In the field, the shop and factory, they sought and found the genius of invention, and together strove to benefit mankind. They exalted the laborer, and crowned labor with new dignity and honor.

They sowed the seed in the minds of men, and inventive genius garnered the ripened fruit.

The light of science sought out Franklin, and taught him how to chain the lightning to the earth. The genius of invention taught Morse to make that lightning the messenger of our race.

Come Olympian Jove and witness the boy who sits at the instrument yonder, send a message to the pillars of Hercules, or the field of Troy, while fleet Mercury is putting on his winged sandals.

Science says to Watt: Behold the expansive force of steam. Inventive genius whispers in the other ear, this is for man's use, and from these suggestions grew the mighty engine that with resistless force turns the wheels in Power Hall.

Whitney was found among the cotton fields, and his genius bid our mothers throw away the hand-cards, and slow process of preparing the cotton for the spinner, and gave to the planter the cotton gin.

Hargreaves, in an English factory, taught the world to dispense with the wearisome wheel and distaff, and in their place gave the spinning jenny.

Cartwright, guided by the same light, brought rest to the weary weaver by supplying to the world the power loom; Jacquard, in Lyons, France, did for mankind a kindred service. With these appliances we are now enabled to pick the cotton from the stalk in the morning, card and ship it at noon, weave the cloth and make the garment in the afternoon, and wear it in the evening. The tired reaper has long since put away his sickle and cradle, and now cuts his harvest with the reaper. His flail is throw aside and the thresher takes its place. The stage is supplanted by the railway train.

We whisper to a friend one hundred miles away as if he sat across the table. Genius with science allied has taken the thunderbolts from the hand of Jove, and wrested the trident from the grasp of Neptune.

Let the sages and philosophers of Greece and Rome, and the wise men of antiquity come from their graves, and here in this temple, dedicated to industry and art, learn of the workman, the mechanics, the artisans and the manufacturers of Cincinnati, how their science and philosophy, their learning and art, may be made to minister to the comfort of mankind. How their architecture may turn from work upon temples dedicated to the worship of unknown gods, and engage in rearing and beautifying homes for our people. How true wisdom may teach the affluent humility, and crown honest poverty with dignity and honor.

Gentlemen, what an Exhibition you have prepared—what a feast you have spread before us—what grand opportunities it suggests for the present—what possibilities for the future—and what great responsibilities are their concomitants.

Mr. President, Aristotle, Archimedes and the sages and philosophers of their times, would stand in your presence with uncovered heads—would stand among the mechanics and artisans, the workmen and manufacturers of our city, wrapt in wonder and admiration at these exhibitions of the triumph of their genius—the skill and cunning of their handiwork.

Why, sir, those sages following the farthest reach of their philosophy, within the utmost limit of their scientific research, caught no glimpse of a scene like this, nor dreamed of the possibilities which are to us here present realities.

But to the lesson. What good? What the prime, the foremost end and aim of what we behold about us? Whom will its lessons profit? Whose labors brighten? To whom and how will its choice blessings bring?

All these treasures of art, all these fruits of science, all these results of philosophical research, these products of inventive genius, serve as helps to industry, and to lighten the burdens of toil; to give to industry a home, which sobriety and economy may keep, art beautify, and at whose hearthstone intelligence and virtue may preside.

Home! a word that calls up more pleasant and tender recollections than any other, save that of mother, with which it is so closely allied. The homes of our country! They are the true source of a Nation's strength. They may be the source of its weakness and decay.

Science and art, with inventive genius, can have no higher mission than to aid in securing homes for our people, and enriching and beautifying them with their gathered treasures. The home is the fountain of a people's hope and the citadel of a Nation's strength. Your laws are but the reflex of your homes.

Those who at the hearthstone hold the guiding strings over the children exercise a greater influence than they who wield the reins of government. The school of enlightened civilization is the home circle. Right teaching at the hearthstone is to a nation a surer defense than armored ships of war.

Intelligent and virtuous influences in the home are the only reliable safeguards against National decay. You may trace the decay, the decline and fall of Athens to the fact that citizens had no true home or family life.

Place even a high-minded philosopher amid vileness and discomfort, and he will insensibly gravitate toward brutality.

Make the homes of our people bestial, and those who dwell in them will become brutal.

So I conclude that all these ministering agencies, combining the useful and the beautiful, are but the varied means to securing homes for the people, and filling each of them with sunlight and cheer: each heart at the hearthstone with purity and love for the good and the true. They are but instrumentalities for dignifying and exalting labor, that each home in our valley, however humble, may be graced with learning and become a temple of industry and palace of art.

That those who assemble at its hearthstone shall realize that true happiness is only found in observing the precepts of virtue and lasting honor won in serving humanity in defense of the right. Gentlemen, your efforts must be attended with most beneficial results. Industry gets a new impetus as it beholds these exhibitions of its products. The workman, the mechanic, the artisan is cheered by the display of his handiwork, and addresses himself to new improvements, and the still greater enlargements of opportunities for lightening labor, and trade and commerce are invigorated.

By your zealous efforts you have made these Expositions one of the richest jewels that sparkle in the coronet that crowns Cincinnati the Queen of the West.

I close, but first let me here and in this presence, in justice single out one honored name for special mention, that of him who gave to our people this temple of industry and art. A noble gift from a noble man. It is at once a monument and a benediction.

So long as industry and art find votaries here, so long as virtue and intelligence are cherished among us, so long will the people of the city of Cincinnati and the Ohio Valley hold in grateful remembrance the honored name of Reuben Springer. [Loud applause.]

Captain Peabody then introduced the Hon. George Pendleton, who, in a brief speech, made the following remarks:

SENATOR PENDLETON'S REMARKS.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—It has often been said, and most truthfully, that acts speak louder a time than words, and that deeds are more eloquent than all the music of the human voice divine. The pageant so imposing, which we saw in the streets to-day; this city decorated on the morning of her triumph; this Exposition, intended to mark the advancement of physical science in the age of material development—all these attest the welcome which Cincinnati and her people will give to all who to-day or hereafter may come into her midst to partake of her festivities. The crowd that thronged her streets, their faces all radiant with admiration, satisfactorily attest their appreciation of the intelligence, the enterprise, the energy, and the fidelity of those who have made this already a marked success.

No words of mine could add either strength or significance, one or the other. In the presence of these facts, silence is golden, and I imagine it will be with hearty approval from all of you here to-night, when I condense all that I have to say into two words:

To those who shall come to our city as guests, a right hearty, warm and sympathetic welcome. To those who have prepared this right royal entertainment for the city's guests, a most appreciative "Well done." [Applause.]

After music, Captain W. W. Peabody, in the course of some apt remarks, said :

WHAT PRESIDENT PEABODY SAID.

I desire, ladies and gentlemen, on behalf of the Exposition Commissioners of the city of Cincinnati, to most cordially and emphatically thank the gentlemen who organized and carried through to its successful consummation, which you have to-day witnessed—the Exposition Pageant—a feature which has made our success possible. It helped us in more ways than the gentlemen knew, and we most heartily thank them for it.

Fellow-citizens, this Exposition is yours. Cincinnati should never cease with her Expositions, but the Expositions, fellow-citizens, should be Cincinnati Expositions. You have within your borders treasures of art. Your industrial workshops are crowded with mechanical instruments of superb workmanship, and with your machinery second to none in this country, you should take this Exposition and make it your own. Fill it up. Extend it still further out.

It seems to me almost a shame, that sitting as you do, upon the borders of three great States, with your capital, with your means of transportation to the North, to the East, to the West, and to the South, that you should be obliged to ask any exhibitor outside of your own border.

You ought to fill up your Exposition yourselves: and gentlemen, I trust that your next Board of Commissioners will be appointed in time to work up your Exposition sure; that they will find that it is not necessary to go outside the limits of our own noble city to give such an Exposition as the world may well envy.

Let me reiterate that this Exposition is yours, ladies and gentlemen, its success is your success. Its failure is your failure. No, I'll take that back—there can be no failure about it. I thank you on behalf of the Commissioners for the magnificent Pageant, and remembering and delighting in our work and the evidences of the appreciation it meets with, we shall forget our trials and tribulations. And now, commending it to your good graces, I declare this Tenth Exposition of Industry and Art of Cincinnati to be opened.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

TENTH CINCINNATI INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION, 1882.

The following Rules for the government of the Exposition of 1882, will be strictly enforced:

RULE I.

The halls and grounds will be open for the reception of articles from and after Wednesday, August 16th. The Exposition will be open to the public on Wednesday, September 6th, and will continue open from day to day thereafter (Sundays excepted), from nine o'clock A. M. to ten o'clock P. M., until Saturday evening, October 7th, inclusive.

RULE II.

SECTION 1.—Articles named in the Premium List may be entered either in “competition” for the premium designated, or for “exhibition only,” at the option of the exhibitor. The Premium List is not intended to exclude articles not named therein, but such will be received for exhibition and assigned space; and, if entered for premium, will be examined by the jurors with a view to suitable recognition by the Board.

SECTION 2.—Exhibits intended for competition must be actual and genuine specimens or articles, entered and the entry tag attached, on or before the opening day. Failure on the part of an exhibitor to comply with this rule will forfeit his right to compete, unless the written consent of the other contesting exhibitors for the same premium shall be obtained and filed with the Secretary.

SECTION 3.—It being impracticable to notify exhibitors of the date of jury examinations in order that they may be present and explain their exhibits to the jury, each competing exhibitor will be required to file with the Secretary, prior to September 15th, a brief written or printed statement of the points of superior excellence claimed for the exhibit. These statements will be submitted to the juries, and are intended to aid them in making careful and thorough examinations of the articles exhibited.

SECTION 4.—Articles for competition must be of American manufacture or production, and entered in the name of the manufacturer or producer, either directly or through an authorized agent—except the articles marked in the Premium List with an asterisk (*), which will not be required to be of American manufacture, nor to be entered in the name of the manufacturer or producer.

RULE III.

Each exhibitor (except amateurs and exhibitors in Fine Arts and Natural History) will be required to pay an entry fee of two dollars. An exhibitor competing for more than one premium (except in the Horticultural Department) shall pay two dollars for each additional premium competed for.

RULE IV.

Applications for space may be made at any time after May 10th, 1882, and should be made as early as possible, and at least three weeks prior to the opening of the Exposition. All applications must be made on the printed blank forms which will be furnished by the Secretary. Space will be awarded as early as practicable (after the application has been received), consistent with the plans for the classification and proper arrangement of the goods. Notice of the award of space will be mailed to the applicant. Space allotted to applicants and not taken possession of by them, by the arrival of their goods or otherwise, to the satisfaction of the Space Committee, on or before Saturday, August 26th, may be assigned to other exhibitors. The Board reserves the right to exclude from the Exposition, patent medicines, nostrums, and articles of an explosive, highly inflammable, dangerous or offensive character. Whenever the articles will admit, exhibitors are requested to exhibit them in glass cases, and all articles and packages shall be correctly and plainly labeled.

RULE V.

Exhibitors will be furnished by the Entry Clerk with original and duplicate cards or tags describing each article, and indicating whether it is entered for exhibition or competition. The duplicate card shall be conspicuously attached to the article which it describes, and the original must be retained by the exhibitor, and be presented as his order for the delivery of the article specified, at the close of the Exposition.

RULE VI.

SECTION 1.—Jurors will be disinterested persons, selected on account of their knowledge and experience in the classes assigned them; and awards will be based upon examinations made in the exercise of ordinary business skill and judgment.

SECTION 2.—There shall be three juries in each class, to be appointed by the Board of Commissioners.

SECTION 3.—Jurors will award premiums only to the most meritorious exhibits in each class, and where but one exhibit is entered for a given premium, no award shall be made, unless such exhibit is, in the unanimous opinion of the jury, worthy of award, notwithstanding the absence of competing exhibits.

The jury may refuse to award a premium in any case where the articles fall below a proper and reasonable standard of excellence.

No awards for second degree of merit shall be made or reported, except those specially provided in Horticultural and Tobacco Departments.

SECTION 4.—Jurors will confine their official examinations to exhibits in position at the Exposition Buildings, and entered for premium. No examinations will be made elsewhere without written authority from the Committee on Awards, which shall be attached to and filed with their report. When jurors have reached a decision the same shall be at once reduced to writing, and filed in the Secretary's office. Upon the approval of the jury report by the Board, a premium badge shall be issued to the successful exhibitor, to be conspicuously attached to the article on which the award is made.

SECTION 5.—Should any juror, either before entering upon the examination, or while it is in progress, die, or become for any reason incapacitated from serving, the Board shall select another juror.

SECTION 6.—There shall be no appeal from the decision of the jurors, except in cases where the award has been made in direct violation to the printed rules; and the Board reserves the right to vacate the action of the jury when made in violation of those rules.

RULE VII.

SECTION 1.—The driving engines will be in operation one week previous to the opening of the Exposition to the public, and exhibitors of machinery in motion will be required to have their machinery in running order on the day of opening.

SECTION 2.—Exhibitors of steam engines entered for competition shall furnish the jurors with indicator diagrams of their engines, taken in the building, and under the supervision of the jurors. These diagrams shall be used by the jurors in determining the efficiency of competing engines.

SECTION 3.—Specimen diagrams, accompanied by complete data, from each competing engine, to be furnished to each competing exhibitor.

RULE VIII.

The two lines of shafting, from which power will be furnished for machinery in operation, are each $2\frac{1}{16}$ inches in diameter. These lines will be driven at a speed of 200 revolutions per minute. In addition to these, there will be two lines of shafting in the second story $2\frac{7}{16}$ inches in diameter, for light machinery, driven at a speed of 200 revolutions. Driving pulleys of any required diameter, also counter-shafts and pulleys, and belts and hangers, will be furnished to exhibitors at cost, if timely arrangements for them are made. All pulleys for the main lines of shafting must be split pulleys, if furnished by exhibitors, must be accurately balanced, and must have the exhibitor's name plainly marked upon them, and should be received before the 30th of August, to enable them to be put in place on the shaft without unnecessary labor and inconvenience.

RULE IX.

No article on exhibition can be removed from any department during the Exposition; but all appropriate facilities for making sales of articles, for delivery at the close of the Exposition, will be afforded.

RULE X.

An adequate police force will be in attendance upon the premises during the day and night; but all articles on exhibition will be at the risk of the owner. Insurance against loss by fire will be effected by the Board in behalf of all exhibitors who apply and pay for the same.

RULE XI.

In order to preserve the general harmony of the Exposition, and to make the display of goods attractive, the Board reserve the right to direct the general arrangement of all articles on exhibition, and to regulate the dimensions of all signs and advertisements.

RULE XII.

SECTION 1.—Each exhibitor may procure for himself and one employe (when it can be shown that such employe is absolutely necessary for the care of exhibitor's articles), season tickets, at two dollars each, from the Secretary, said tickets to be registered and numbered at the Secretary's office; but no more than one employe shall receive such tickets for each class of articles exhibited, unless by permission of the Executive Committee.

SECTION 2.—Employe's tickets found to be unnecessary for the purpose for which they were issued, will be taken up and forfeited.

SECTION 3.—Every ticket of general admission will be registered, and taken up and forfeited if presented by any other person than the party to whom issued.

RULE XIII.

SECTION 1.—All packages and articles upon which the freight has been prepaid, will be taken in charge by the Board of Commissioners, and removed to the Exposition Buildings at the expense of the exhibitors.

SECTION 2.—Any articles left by exhibitors in the Main Hall uncalled for on or before October 14th, and in the Side Halls thirty days after the close of the Exposition, will be stored and disposed of according to law.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 8, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz :

PREMIUM No. 195, ENTRY No. 118.—The Goodyear & McKay Sewing Machine Co., Boston, Mass., Turn Welt and Shoe Stitching Machine. Gold medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars: Boots and Shoes sewed on these machines are free from the following objections, which exist in all other machine-made Boots and Shoes, viz: Nails, screws, pegs or wax-thread through the insoles. Shoes made by these machines possess all the pliability of hand-made work. The lightest and finest as well as the most durable and substantial work can be made with them. The machines appear to do their work with a high degree of perfection, and can not be recommended too highly.

PREMIUM No. 197, ENTRY No. 126.—Ross, Davis & Co., Cincinnati, O., Sample of Shoe Dies. Silver medal, for material and workmanship, seeming to be of the best quality.

PREMIUM No. 199, ENTRY No. 120.—The McKay & Bigelow Heeling Machine Association, Boston, Mass., Heel Nailing Machine. Silver medal, this is a well known, tried and meritorious labor-saving machine.

PREMIUM No. 200, ENTRY No. 123.—Ross, Davis & Co., Cincinnati, O., Display of Boot and Shoe Machinery in operation. Gold medal, being the largest and best display.

PREMIUM No. 202, ENTRY No. 38.—Randall & Co., Cincinnati, O., Creasing Machine. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in creasing the leather as a guide for the stitcher, thus enabling the workman to make finer work and do it quicker.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 73.—Schipper & Dobell, Aurora, Ind., Boot and Shoe Jack. Silver medal, for ingenious mechanism, which enables the workman to adjust it in any position necessary to complete the work without taking it off the Jack, thereby saving time and contributing to the comfort of the workman. It is superior to all other Jacks now in use.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 119.—The McKay & Bigelow Heeling Machine Association, Boston, Mass., Heel Compressing Machine. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz: The pricking of the holes for nailing the heel on the shoe seems to be perfect and superior to other pricking machines. Compressing the heels from the sides is no doubt a great help to the operator in setting the heels straight, and labor-saving in trimming.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 124.—Ross, Davis & Co., Cincinnati, O., Union Beating Out Machine. Silver medal, we consider this the best machine in the market for leveling and closing channel of boots and shoes after they have been sewed.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 125.—Ross, Davis & Co., Cincinnati, O., Power Sewing Machine Fixture. Silver medal, being the most practical and useful fixture for this purpose known to the Jurors.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 127.—The McKay Metallic F. M. Association, Boston, Mass., Standard Screw Wire Machine. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz: This machine in its process turns the wire and screws it into the leather, thus making a very strong and durable fastening of the different parts composing the bottoms of shoes.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 128.—Taply Heel Burnishing Machine Association, Boston, Mass., Heel Burnisher. Silver medal, being the best Heel Burnisher suitable to be run by power known to the trade. A great labor saving machine.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 130.—Busell Trimmer Co. Boston, Mass., Edge Trimming Machine. Silver medal, being a very fine working and labor saving machine for trimming the fore part of shoes, and can not be recommended too highly.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 131.—J. H. Busell, Boston, Mass., Heel Trimmer. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz: It trims the heel closer and nearer to perfection than the ordinary machines in use for the purpose.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 132.—W. W. Crocker & Co., Boston, Mass., Brushed and Burnished Colors for Bottoms of Boots and Shoes. Silver medal, for the great variety of different colors and shades for the finish of boot and shoe bottoms, most excellently executed.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 190.—B. W. Campbell, Cincinnati, O., Collar Stuffing Machine. Silver medal, on account of being labor-saving and doing good work. Said to be the only machine for this purpose.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 221.—J. J. Sullivan, Boston, Mass.,

Button Hole Machine Attachment. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit, in that it enables one operator to run two machines at the same time, thus doing more work than on one machine, while the work is as well done.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, No. 222.—J. W. Lufkin, Boston, Mass., Button Hole Machine. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit, in that it enables the operator to change from the lightest to the heaviest leather without change of tension. It appears to be a strongly built and good working machine, doing very good work.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of class No. 10, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz :

PREMIUM No. 218, ENTRY No. 22—A. M. Dolph, Cincinnati, O., Washing Machine. Silver medal, for design, principles of operation, and adaptation to use intended. This is a horizontal cylinder machine. The cylinder which contains the clothes and which rotates within a concentric cylindrical case, is ribbed longitudinally, and is perforated with numerous half inch holes ; and in operation the ribs serve to carry the clothes through the water, up the sides of the cylinder and to turn them and drop them into the water again. As the cylinder rotates first in one, and then in the opposite direction, and as the water is continually entering and passing out through the holes, the operation is such as to thoroughly cleanse the clothes. The case and cylinder are provided with suitable openings on the side for the admission and removal of the clothes. The sides of the rotating cylinder, which have previously been made of wood, were in this case made of brass.

PREMIUM No. 219, ENTRY No. 184.—E. Tettenborn & Co., Cincinnati, O., Wringing Machine. Bronze medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz : Large and long rolls ; provision by means of the arrangement and construction of the springs for great variation of the thickness of the clothes put through ; shape, strength and arrangement of the parts and good workmanship.

PREMIUM No. 222, ENTRY No. 172.—Bennett & King, Cincinnati, O., Clothes Drying Apparatus. Bronze medal, for general good arrangement of parts both of the stove and of the dryer. The feed door of the stove remains open, when required, without holding, and a wire screen is placed above the horizontal stove pipes to prevent the clothes from falling on them while drying.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 214.—W H. Nicholson, Cedar Point, O., Washing Machine. Bronze medal, for design, principle of operation and adaptation to use intended. The machine consists of a rectangular box, supported on legs, and having a curved and ribbed rubbing board placed in the bottom and against one end, and a segmental ribbed board, which is attached to a horizontal shaft, is made to move backwards and forwards over the first board, in such a manner as that the clothes are rolled over, and in contrary directions between them, while being saturated and squeezed. The shaft of the movable rubber is moved by means of a hand crank.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition :

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 17, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz:

PREMIUM No. 305, ENTRY No. 136.—Goble Bros. & Co., Cincinnati, O., Mill Stone Dressing Machine. Silver medal, for mode of securing the diamond. Inclination of diamond holder forward at top, so that while one point is worn off another is prepared and brought into use by simply turning the holder. It is more simple and practical than any competing machine.

PREMIUM No. 311, ENTRY No. 211.—G. W. Howell, Covington, Ky., Rain Water Cut-Off. Bronze medal, being well adapted to the purpose but not new.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 183.—J. P. Edmonds, Knoxville, Tenn., Portable Folding Derrick. Bronze medal, for general usefulness where heavy articles are to be loaded or unloaded.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY 133.—A. J. Mershon, Warsaw, Ind., Hand and Power Rock Drill. Silver medal, for simplicity of construction, durability of working parts and general adaptability to varying circumstances.

PREMIUM SPECIAL. ENTRY No. 192.—Levi Hetfield, Plainfield N. J., Coal Car. Bronze medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz: Keeps the material dry and safe, a good move in the right direction.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 225.—J. R. Alsing, New York, N. Y., Pulverizer for Minerals. Silver medal. We consider this machine to be one of great practical value in its line, owing to the simplicity in its construction, and the efficiency of its work.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 162.—Martin Bare, Cincinnati, O., Hoes, Ice Tools, etc. Silver medal, for completeness and general utility of the tools, being well made and adapted to the uses for which they are intended.

SPECIAL MANUFACTURING MACHINES.

Special Complimentary Awards for Manufacturing Machines.

In addition to the foregoing list of premiums to be awarded for superior merit in competing machines, the Board of Commissioners will award a "Complimentary Medal" of Gold, with silver medallion center, to each of such important power machines, or accompanying set of machines, as are adapted to manufacture marketable articles.

Each person desiring to compete for these awards must make application in writing for the privilege at least ten days before the opening of the Exposition. The number and character of the machines allowed to compete will be decided by the Board of Commissioners before the opening day.

The entries for these premiums can be made by either the manufacturer of the machine or the manufacturer of the goods the machine is intended to fabricate; and the machines are to be awarded these premiums subject to the condition that they are to be started on the day of opening of the Exposition, and operated so as to actually manufacture goods in the building at least six hours every day. Power for the manufacturing machines and for all other machines in motion will be steadily supplied from 9 till 12 A.M., 1 till 6 P.M., and 7 till 10 P.M.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 26, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us and concur in recommending the following awards, viz:

PREMIUM No. 400, ENTRY No. 668.—William Miller, Cincinnati, O., Wrought Iron Range. Gold medal. The contest for premium No 400 is between Wm. G. Fischer & Co., Entry No. 512, and William Miller, Entry No. 668, both manufacturers of high repute in Cincinnati, who have exhibited in competition fine and attractive displays of their several styles of wrought Iron Ranges, which have been fully and carefully examined. The Jury find it difficult, however, to decide between them, owing to the great excellence and many good qualities of each of the rival exhibits. As the Premium List does not specify any particular class of wrought iron ranges, the Jury have taken into comparative view all the merits and demerits existing singly or combined, in the manufactures of both competitors, and after much hesitation, in view of the even balance of merits on all essential points, award the regular premium to Wm. Miller, for the large hotel range exhibited; at the same time the Jury are of opinion that a special award should be given Wm. G. Fischer & Co., for their "Family Range," which combines in one structure a greater number and variety of useful features and appurtenances than any other of its class.

PREMIUM No. 401, ENTRY No. 925.—The Michigan Stove Co., Detroit, Mich., Coal Cooking Stove. Gold medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 402, ENTRY No. 886.—The Favorite Stove Works Co., Cincinnati, O., Wood Cooking Stove. Silver medal, for excellent provision for draft in fire grate; heat non-conducting oven doors, and good arrangement for heating reservoir, and for controlling draft. Also for general excellence in design and workmanship.

PREMIUM No. 403, ENTRY No. 777.—The Peninsular Stove Co., Detroit, Mich., Anthracite Heating Stove. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence of construction and design.

PREMIUM No. 404, ENTRY No. 526.—R. J. Howdon, Cincinnati, O., Range and Stove Furniture. Bronze medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 405, ENTRY No. 889.—Goodwin Gas Stove Co., Philadelphia, Pa., Gas Cooking Apparatus. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM NO. 406, ENTRY NO. 577.—The Cleveland Stove Co., Cleveland, O., Gasoline Cooking Apparatus. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit in the following particulars, viz: Those features of the apparatus securing comparative safety by extinguishing the burners while filling the Gasoline tank, and also the "air pressure" devices, which render the ordinary lighting cups unnecessary. These, and the construction of the burner in respect to the provision for preventing carbon deposits within the orifices, we deem especially commendable, as exhibiting progress in the right direction.

PREMIUM NO. 408, ENTRY NO. 654.—R. E. Dietz, Chicago, Ill., Oil Cooking Apparatus. Silver medal. This award is made as between wick stoves only. Among several excellent exhibits we give preference to the Dietz Stove, on account of neat design and workmanship, and completeness as an article of household use; also for the provision for safety in the oil feeding devices, and in the insulation of the reservoir from heat.

PREMIUM NO. 412, ENTRY NO. 887.—The Favorite Stove Works Co., Cincinnati, O., Display of Stoves. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY NO. 700.—The Victory Stove Co., Cincinnati, O., Oil Vaporizing Stove. Bronze medal. We have distinguished between oil stoves using wicks and those having vaporizing retorts, and have awarded the regular premium to the wick stoves. Deeming the vaporizing oil stoves worthy of separate notice, and finding competition between entries 700 and 717, on this basis we recommend a special award of a bronze medal to entry 700 for greater simplicity of construction, and for the covering hood which can be used as an oven, or heating chamber, or thrown back and used as a shelf, making it a convenient utensil.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY NO. 923 —Michigan Stove Co., Detroit, Mich., Cast Iron Ranges. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 27, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz:

PREMIUM No. 422, ENTRY 592.—John Grossius, Cincinnati, O., School Stoves. Silver medal. Besides the well known features which have given this heater a wide reputation in the past, we find new improvements in the devices for regulating the volume of cold air; in the introduction of a foul-air register for taking foul air from the apartment where used; in the “Gas burning” ring for insuring more perfect combustion, and in the generally improved design and workmanship of the heater.

PREMIUM SPECIAL. ENTRY No. 661.—G. R. Ricketts, Ironton, O., Attachment for Household Grates. Bronze medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition :

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 32, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz :

PREMIUM No. 500, ENTRY No. 641.—J. B. Casley, Coolville, O., Sheet Metal Roofing. Silver medal. Its excellence is in its fastening of the metal roofing to the planks or sheathing which holds the roof to its place by a strip of metal, coming up through the sheathing and passing over the seam of the separate sections, and being overlapped by the next section, thereby saving all nailing and soldering the nails, making a much more secure roof.

PREMIUM No. 499, ENTRY No. 749.—Chas. Jackson, California, O., Machine Made Sheet Metal Pans. Bronze medal. It being a double close pan, thereby confining the heat close to the article cooking in it, it expedites the cooking, and helps to retain the flavor over ordinary cooking pans.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 511.—Austin, Obdyke & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., Galvanized Iron Water Spout. Bronze medal. The corrugation in the spout is sufficient to give expansion in case of its freezing when full of water, to prevent same from bursting. We believe it to be a very great improvement over the old style of spoutings.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 802.—F. C. Deckebach, Cincinnati, O., Copper Brewers' Beer Cooler. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz: The ends of the pipes being perfectly flat or smooth, which enables one to keep them clean easier than the elbow style. The gutter in the top is revolving, and tilting, thereby preventing the removal of the gutter for cleaning purposes, which is a great saving of time, and prevents the denting and breaking as in the ordinary gutter.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 37, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz :

PREMIUM No. 547, ENTRY No. 558.—Clunet, Brown & Co. Cincinnati, O., White Filler, Navy Plug Chewing Tobacco (smooth work). Gold medal. It contains the best stock and sweetening which combined makes it much the pleasantest chew. It is also very superior in its workmanship.

PREMIUM No. 548, ENTRY No. 581.—P. McNamara & Co., Covington, Ky, White Filler, Rough and Ready, Navy Plug Chewing Tobacco. Gold medal. It contains the best stock and sweetening which combined makes it much the best chew ; also found it very superior in workmanship.

PREMIUM No. 549, ENTRY No. 560.—Clunet, Brown & Co., Cincinnati, O., White Filler, Plug Tobacco (small work). Silver medal. It contains the best stock and sweetening which combined makes it much the best chew ; also found it far superior in workmanship.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 572.—C. W. Allen, Chicago, Ill., Display of Plug Tobacco. Gold medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence. All who have seen this exhibit must have been struck with the numerous designs the beauty of which is apparent to the most casual observer. The difficulty of getting them up can only be appreciated by those well acquainted with the article.

M. V. B. WEIGHELL, }
THOS. MADDUX, } Jurors.
PAUL J. SORG, }

PREMIUM No. 550, ENTRY No. 534.—J. A. Crawford & Sons, Covington, Ky., Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco. Gold medal. The "Old Gold Fine Cut," bright red and dark, fine stock and well handled, very free of shorts, and excellent flavor.

PREMIUM No. 551, ENTRY No. 561.—J. A. Crawford & Sons, Covington, Ky., for R. M. Bishop & Co., Granulated Smoking Tobacco, manufactured from Western Leaf. Silver medal. The brand of "Princepee," made for R. M. Bishop & Co., and displayed by them We consider this an exceedingly good smoke for Western Leaf.

PREMIUM No. 552, ENTRY No. 562 —J. A. Crawford & Sons, Covington, Ky., for R. M. Bishop & Co., Long Cut Bright Smoking Tobacco, manufactured from Western Leaf. Silver medal. The brand of "Star" made by J. A. Crawford & Sons, for R. M. Bishop & Co., is made of well-cured leaf, well cut, neatly packed.

PREMIUM No. 553, ENTRY No. 563.—J. A. Crawford & Sons, Covington, Ky., for R. M. Bishop & Co., Long Cut, Dark Smoking Tobacco, Manufactured from Western Leaf. Silver medal. The Star brand made for R. M. Bishop & Co., by J. A. Crawford & Sons we consider well worthy of the premium.

PREMIUM No. 555, ENTRY No. 565.—W. C. Thomas, Richmond, Va., Virginia or North Carolina Granulated Smoking Tobacco. Silver medal. The Grape brand, we think, for color, and flavor equal to any.

PREMIUM No. 556, ENTRY No. 567.—W. S. Kimball & Co., Rochester, N. Y., Virginia or North Carolina Long Cut Smoking Tobacco. Silver medal. The Vanity Fair Smoking (long cut), we have never seen equaled for color, flavor, and cut.

PREMIUM No. 557, ENTRY No. 568.—Staiton & Storm, New York, Cigars manufactured of Tobacco grown in the United States. Gold medal. The display made by this house is certainly worthy of the premium given; we have never seen finer stock, better put together, and the taste displayed in their exhibit is excellent.

PREMIUM No. 558, ENTRY No. 569.—Goodwin & Co., New York, Cigarettes. Silver medal. The Old Judge Cigarettes, for flavor and smoking qualities, we decided were entitled to the premium.

PREMIUM No. 560, ENTRY No. 571.—R. M. Bishop & Co., Cincinnati, O., Display of manufactured Tobacco, Cigars and Cigarettes. Gold medal. We have never seen a finer display in any exposition. Not in any one particular article is their display superior, but in all; quality of goods displayed, variety, arrangement and quantity, and we think they are particularly entitled to this premium, for the immense labor and expense they have gone to, to make it one of the features of the Exposition.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition :

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 47, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz :

PREMIUM No. 712. ENTRY No. 573.—C. G. Pease, Concord, O., Display of Wooden Ware. Silver medal. While his exhibit is strictly not a display of Wooden Ware, yet there is decided merit in his work, viz: 1st, In having his covered buckets made from one piece or block of wood, by which the lid can season and dry no faster than the bucket itself. 2d, In general finish. 3d, In durability and usefulness of most of the articles exhibited, particularly in his covered buckets for sugar, etc., which are airtight and prevent the entrance of insects.

PREMIUM No. 719, ENTRY No. 665.—S. G. Rice, Cincinnati, O., Packages for shipping berries. Bronze medal, for intrinsic merit in the following particulars, viz: 1st, The corners of the boxes are better protected than in the old styles, insuring better shipment and makes them more durable. 2d, The boxes are so made as to insure a perfect ventilation, thus preventing the forming and collecting of mould. 3d, The double brace for cover adds to the strength of the box and cover.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 52, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz:

PREMIUM No. 797, ENTRY No. 718.—Albert Krell, Cincinnati, O., Violin (American manufacture). Gold medal, for fine finish, original shape, fullness, richness and brilliancy of tone. The violins entered for competition were first tried in a small room, and then in the large Music Hall, and the instrument, Krell's make, No. 208, was pronounced to be the one that would carry the greatest distance.

PREMIUM No. 798, ENTRY No. 683.—R. Wurlitzer & Bro. Cincinnati, O., Assortment of Silver and Brass Wind instruments. Bronze medal, for intrinsic merit in the short and easy action of the pistons, the round and metallic tone, the fine shape, and the unusually fine finish of the six instruments, viz: E Flat, B Flat, Alto, Tenor, Baritone, and Tuba.

PREMIUM No. 800, ENTRY No. 719.—Albert Krell, Cincinnati, O., Quartette of Stringed Instruments. Silver medal. The four instruments constituting the Quartette are noticeable for their very excellent finish, the readiness with which they speak, and the evenness of tone in all the positions of the different strings. The tone is full and unusually rich for new instruments.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 685.—R. Wurlitzer & Bro., Cincinnati, O., Reed Organ. Bronze medal, for easy action, full tone and fine finish.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 557.—W. H. Rodgers & Co., Cincinnati, O., Autophone. Bronze medal. It can be manipulated by a child of five or six years, and will do some good in cultivating a taste for music where people have no chance of hearing skillful performers on instruments.

REPORT OF JURORS.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition :

GENTLEMEN—We, the undersigned Jurors of Class No. 72, have carefully examined the exhibits referred to us, and concur in recommending the following awards, viz :

PREMIUM No. 1191, ENTRY No. 1013.—United States Electric Lighting Co., New York, N. Y., System and Apparatus for Electric Lighting. Gold medal. The System and Apparatus exhibited by the U. S. Electric Lighting Co., is complete and fully answers all demands, and is fully abreast of the highest attainments in the art.

PREMIUM No. 1192, ENTRY No. 1014.—United States Electric Lighting Co., Dynamo-Electric Machine. Silver medal. The capability of the machine for self-regulation, under varying demands in actual use, was fully demonstrated by throwing in and out of circuit more than one half the entire number of lights supplied by the machine, without perceptible variation in its action: we regard this feature as one of very great importance, and, so far as we are aware, peculiar to the Weston Machine.

PREMIUM No. 1195, ENTRY No. 1010.—Post & Co., Cincinnati, O., Pole Changer for Reversing Line Currents. Silver medal. The method of mounting the armature upon flat springs acting torsionally seems to possess advantages worthy of special notice. The device is well worthy of the award.

PREMIUM No. 1196, ENTRY No. 1018.—Gamewell Fire Alarm Telegraph Co., New York, N. Y., System of Fire Alarm Telegraph in operation. Silver medal, for the well established perfection of the system for use in cities, and particularly for the non-interference principle and mechanism.

PREMIUM No. 1203, ENTRY No. 1019.—Gamewell Fire Alarm

Telegraph Co., New York, N. Y., Fire Alarm Signal Box
Bronze medal, for perfection of mechanism and operation.

PREMIUM No. 1204, ENTRY No. 1011.—Post & Co., Cincinnati, O., Display of Telegraph Instruments and Supplies. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 1206, ENTRY No. 1012.—Post & Co., Cincinnati, O., Electric Hotel Annunciator. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 1209, ENTRY No. 1022.—Cummings & Brinkerhoff, New York, N. Y., Telegraph Set Key, Sounder and Relay. Bronze medal. We regard this device well worthy of award, as showing inventive progress. While we have had no opportunity for actual test, a careful examination of the construction satisfies us that the principle is a sound one, and excellently applied in this device, and must tend to prevent the "Sticking" of the Key.

PREMIUM No. 1210, ENTRY No. 1021.—American Watchman Time Detecting Co., Cleveland, O., Watchman's Clock. Bronze medal. A most useful device for insuring faithful attention on lonely beats: would suggest the addition of mechanism in the nature of "a combination lock" such as is used on safes, requiring a clear head to operate same before a signal could be sent to headquarters.

PREMIUM No. 1215, ENTRY No. 1159.—Cincinnati Electric Gas Lighting Co., Cincinnati O., Electric Gas Lighting Apparatus. Silver medal, for convenience and real usefulness. A valuable device in case of sudden emergencies, such as sickness, robberies, etc., occurring at night. The invention appears to be well thought out and all details carefully provided for.

PREMIUM No. 1217, ENTRY No. 1020.—Cincinnati Electric Clock Co., Cincinnati, O., Electric Clock. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 1218, ENTRY No. 1015.—United States Electric Lighting Co., New York, N. Y., Electric Engine for motive power, not less than one horse power, in operation. Gold medal. The Motor exhibited (understood to be the Weston Dynamo Machine) seems to fulfill the conditions of the premium list, and to be worthy of the award. It is a compact and powerful machine, and embodies certain improvements in the commutator worthy of notice.

PREMIUM No. 1219, ENTRY No. 1016.—United States Electric Lighting Co., New York, N. Y., Incandescent Electric Light. Gold medal. The incandescent lights exhibited in continuous operation in various exhibits form a most attractive feature of the Exposition, and display the advantages of this form of the electric light for indoor use in a striking manner. We regard the exhibit as well worthy of the award.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 1041.—Gilliland Telephone Co., Indianapolis, Ind., Acoustic Telephone. Silver medal, for general completeness and perfection in construction as a marketable device for common use.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 1083.—Jerome Kidder Manufacturing Co., New York, N. Y., Electric Machine (for medical purposes.) Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 1220, SPECIAL PREMIUMS.—For Electric Lighting. For 15 Electric Lights of 2000 candle power each.

First Premium—Brush Electric Light Co., Cincinnati, O., $500, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence in the following particulars, viz: Steadiness and reliability throughout the Exposition, as observed and reported by the Special Committee, as per their written report hereto appended. The observation of the Jury confirms the report so far as they were able to exercise it during occasional visits to the Exposition.

Second Premium—United States Electric Lighting Co., New York City, for their creditable display of Electric Lights.

REPORT OF SPECIAL COMMITTEE.

Mr. HUGH McCOLLUM,

Chairman of Committee on Furors and Awards :

DEAR SIR—As requested by you, we carefully examined the Electric Lights at the Exposition, and found both, from our own observation and the unanimous testimony of others, that the Brush Electric Lights had been by far the steadiest and most reliable throughout. We therefore recommend that the 1st Premium of $500 be awarded to the Brush Electric Light Co., and the 2d Premium to their only competitor, The U. S. Electric Lighting Co.

Respectfully,

F. W. CLARKE,
J. F. WALTON, } Committee.

PREMIUM No. 1255, ENTRY No. 1105.—Geo. S. Shaw, Cincinnati, O., Crayon Drawing (Portrait.) Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM No. 1256, ENTRY No. 881.—Jas. Landy, Cincinnati, O., Crayon Portrait. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 1224.—Estelle Case, Cincinnati, O., Portrait in Charcoal. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 1230.—F. Gutekunts, Philadelphia, Pa., Landscapes or Panorama Pictures. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM SPECIAL, ENTRY No. 1231.—F. Gutekunts, Philadelphia, Pa., Photographs in Printers' Ink. Silver medal, for intrinsic merit and superior excellence.

PREMIUM SPECIAL.—James Landy, Cincinnati, Ohio, Display of Photographs. Silver medal, for his very fine and meritorious display. The Jurors desire also to express their admiration for his display of large heads in Photograph. This recommendation is made for the reason the Mr. James Landy did not enter his collection of Photographs for competition under the classification of “Best Photographs touched,” and that in awarding the premium for “Best Photographs touched” his collection of Photographs was not considered.

HORTICULTURE.

CLASSES 85 86 AND 87.

RULES

FOR THE

HORTICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

I. The Horticultural Hall and grounds will be opened for the reception of plants from September 1 to September 6, on which day exhibitors must have their plants [Secs. 1 to 61] in position, at 12 M. All those marked in the list with an asterisk [*] [Secs. 62 to 74], will be required to be in position at 12 M., September 28.

II. Applications for space must be made at the Secretary's office as follows: For Class No. 85 [plants, trees and flowers], previous to August 30, 1882, on which day the Committee on Horticulture will designate the position and arrangement of plants, etc. For Class No. 86 [cut flowers and floral designs] and Class No. 87 [fruits], one day previous to the day set apart for the respective displays.

III. It is desirable to know in advance the exhibitor's estimate of the space required; but on the receipt of the plants and flowers, etc., the exhibitors will be restricted to the amount of space which, in the opinion of the Committee, is sufficient for the proper display of their plants and floral work.

IV. Each exhibitor will be required to pay an entry fee of $2 for his articles, and will have the privilege, upon paying $2 in addition, of securing a ticket of admission (positively not transferable). No more than two exhibitor's tickets will be issued to one firm or corporation. Entry tags or cards must be placed on the plants or groups entered for competition.

V. All articles [plants, trees, flowers, floral work and fruit] offered for competition must be the property of the persons in whose names they are exhibited.

VI. All plants and flowers entered for competition, either on show days or during the Exposition, must be reported to the Committee, and placed at once in their proper positions. All plants exhibited for premiums, whether in groups or as specimens, must have their names legibly and correctly written and attached to them.

VII. Plants entered as specimens, or for special premiums, will not be allowed to compete for premiums in collections. No collection of flowers or ornamental designs will be allowed to compete for more than one prize. Articles must be so marked as to designate what prize is competed for. No second prize shall be awarded to the same person in the same class.

VIII. No plants will be permitted to be removed, after being arranged and placed in position, until the close of the Exposition, except such as are in a perishable condition, and which immediately upon removal must be replaced by other plants.

IX. Each exhibitor will be required to keep the space allotted to him filled, and to keep said space in good order. If space assigned is not covered by the exhibit, the Committee may contract the space assigned, or may assign other smaller space, in their discretion.

X. On floral days, all exhibitors must have their floral designs and cut flowers in position on the tables at 12 M. Under no consideration can any article be placed in position after that time. At 12 o'clock all exhibitors and their employes must leave the tables, and not again approach until after the awards of the day have been made. No exhibitor will be permitted to remove his floral work or cut flowers until after the close of the Exposition, on the day following their respective displays, except on permission of the Horticultural Committee. Any disregard of this rule, or the other rules of this department, or of the Exposition, will debar from competition the display of those who so disregard them.

XI. Any exhibitor failing to compete for all the premiums entered for by him shall forfeit his right of competition for any premiums, unless excused by the Committee.

XII. Premiums on plants and other articles will be awarded by the Jurors, commencing September 6, 1882, or as soon thereafter as the Jurors are ready to report. Except the premiums on the specials set for September 28, and on floral designs, cut flowers, fruits, etc., will be awarded on the days set apart for the respective displays.

XIII. Jurors will be appointed on or before the day of public opening, and on or before special exhibition days, as follows: Two will be appointed by the Board of Commissioners, and these two will select a third. There shall be ABSOLUTELY no appeal from the decision of the Jurors, except where an infringement of the rules of the Exposition can be established.

XIV. Awards shall be based on merit alone. In any display the number or variety of plants in excess of the requirement shall not entitle it to extra consideration.

XV. No article or plant, or lot of plants, on exhibition, will be entitled to a premium, unless they possess points of superiority. Jurors are strictly required to withhold awards, if, in their opinion, the articles or plants do not merit them.

XVI. Qualifying words used in the premium list are entitled to preference in the order of their priority.

XVII. Exhibitors must furnish glasses or other vessels required for the display of flowers; also, furniture and table-ware for decoration, and plates for fruit display.

XVIII. Hose for watering plants shall only be used before the opening hours in the morning, between 12 and 1 o'clock mid-day, from 6 to 7 in the evening, and after closing hour at night.

XIX. The privilege of selling bouquets in the Floral Hall under the supervision of the Horticultural Committee, or in such other parts of the Exposition buildings as may be set apart for that purpose, will be given under such rules and restrictions as the Committee may think proper.

XX. In all matters not provided for in the foregoing rules, the general rules of the Exposition shall control.

AWARD.

To the Board of Commissioners of the

Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition:

We, the undersigned Jurors appointed to examine the entries of Corn, made in competition for the premium of a water set, have carefully examined all the entries; and finally brought it down to exhibit No. 11 (Crawford Tibbetts, Greenup Co., Ky.)

and No. 31 (W. H. Kirby, Warsaw, Ky., and after a further examination, we unanimously awarded the premium to entry No. 31 (entry of W. H. Kirby). The exhibits were all of such excellence your committee had great difficulty in arriving at a conclusion.

REPORT OF SALES.

During the Exposition, the Board of Commissioners determined to secure, if possible, statistics concerning the money value of the enterprise to exhibitors. With this end in view, the following circular was issued, and after the close of the Exposition the results were tabulated.

CINCINNATI, September, 1882.

THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE TENTH CINCINNATI INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION are very anxious to secure full statistical information as to the results of their enterprise, especially in regard to its beneficial effects upon exhibitors. Recognizing the fact that large quantities of goods are annually sold in the various departments of the Exposition, they believe that a statement of the grand total of such sales will be of great interest, and highly serviceable to their successors in organizing the Expositions of future years. They, therefore, earnestly request you to communicate to them, as early as October 10th, the total value of sales effected, or orders taken by you, at your space in the Exposition Buildings, and also, if possible, your estimate as to the effect of your display in attracting business outside. Please give a careful reply upon the accompanying blank. All individual responses will be considered strictly confidential. By order of the Commissioners.

WM. H. STEWART, Secretary.

W. W. PEABODY, President.

[Blank for Reply.]

TENTH CINCINNATI INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

CINCINNATI, October, 1882.

To W. W. PEABODY, President of the Board of Commissioners :

DEAR SIR—We respectfully submit the following estimate of sales effected by us at our display in the Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition :

Value of Goods sold from our actual exhibit	$.....
Additional orders taken at our space in the Exposit'n Build.....
Total.....	$.....

Goods to the amount of at least $..... have also been sold at our place of business to customers who were attracted by our display at the Exposition.

Respectfully,

Class of Goods Sold.....

Unfortunately, replies were received from only about one eighth of the whole number of exhibitors. Some replied that although they had derived great benefit from exhibiting, no estimate as to its amount could be made. Others said that they had not sought to make direct sales, but had received many outside orders, which were directly traceable to Exposition influence. Still the figures actually returned were sufficient to show that in and through the Exposition the exhibitors must have transacted business to a vastly larger amount than even the most sanguine commissioner had anticipated. One prominent Cincinnati firm replied that their business had increased forty per cent. in consequence of the Exposition. The following are the results of the inquiry, grouped according to departments.

Department A.—Machinery,.....	$116,106 00
“ B.—Minerals, Metals, etc.,.....	46,201 00
“ C.—Groceries, Liquors, etc.,.....	7,100 00
“ D.—Household Goods,.....	39,167 00
“ E.—Textile Fabrics,.....	35,480 00
“ F.—Scientific and Educational,.....	6,962 00
“ G.—Fine Arts,.....	5,000 00
“ H.—Horticultural (only one reply),.....	400 00
Tobacco Auction,.....	257,892 26
Total of all replies,.....	$514,308 26

The foregoing statement represents answers from a fair average list of exhibitors, large and small. Many of the largest firms neglected to respond at all. It is safe to say that complete statistics will show, at the lowest estimate, the money value of the Exposition to the exhibitors was not less than a million and a half, and possibly even two millions of dollars.

F. W. CLARKE, Committee on Statistics.

THE EXPOSITION POST-OFFICE.

It remained for the Commissioners of the Tenth Exposition to originate the happy idea of introducing a bona fide post-office. In response to suggestions, Col. S. A. Whitfield, postmaster, obtained authority from the Post-office department to establish a branch post-office in the building during the Exposition ; also to make an exhibit of the paraphernalia of the Postal service, so far as was permitted in the space available.

Postmaster Whitfield designated the following-named gentlemen as a committee in charge of the branch office and exhibit : A. Burt, superintendent of mails ; Benj. Brown, superintendent of city delivery ; J. W. Kahler, chief clerk ; W. F. Dubois, secretary to the postmaster ; and F. W. Foulds, chief clerk railway Mail Service.

Space was assigned the Post-office at the south end of the main corridor, one of the most convenient and public locations in the building. The Committee arranged with the Yale Lock Manufacturing Company, of Stamford, Conn., to put up suitable screen work with lock drawers, call and general delivery boxes, stamp wicket, letter drops, etc., etc. The screen was of hard ash, tastefully finished in the Queen Anne style. The lock drawers were faced with beautifully burnished bronze, and fitted with the celebrated Yale locks. These drawers and boxes were placed at the disposal of exhibitors free of rent, a deposit of one dollar being required to secure the return of the keys at the close of the Exposition. The railing around the portion of the office not occupied by the box screen, was a novelty in construction, the top being of hard pine, varnished, with mail bags of various styles and colors, doing service instead of the usual upright palings of wood.

The Committee, realizing that comparatively few persons understand the "catching" of mails by postal employes, while trains are in motion, secured, through the courtesy of Mr. C. Jay French, superintendent of Railway Mail Service, the small postal car exhibited with such success at the Centennial Exposition, and had the same in operation with "crane" and "catcher," showing, to the delight of visitors, the actual manner of exchanging mails, at points where trains do not stop. The post-rider, mail-coach and steamboat, were also shown in miniature, representing, with the postal car, the several modes of carrying the mails.

The exhibit also included the following :

Leather mail pouches, of every design in use, for ordinary letter mail.

Horse mail-bags, for use on "horse" or "star" routes.

Pouches for registered mail.

Canvas bags, of the various sizes and colors used for newspaper mail.

Street letter-boxes, from the date of their introduction to the present time.

Several frames of printed wooden and card labels, for labeling pouches and sacks of mail-matter.

Frame of samples of all of the mail locks in use from 1800 to 1882.

Frame of samples of each issue of United States postage stamps, from 1847 to the five cent Garfield stamp of 1882, including the official stamps used by the several departments of the Government.

Frame containing cabinet photographs of—

Hon. T. O. Howe, Postmaster General.

Hon. Frank Hatton, First Assistant Postmaster General.

Hon. R. A. Elmer, Second Assistant Postmaster General.

Hon. A. D. Hazen, Third Assistant Postmaster General.

Col. S. A. Whitfield, Postmaster of Cincinnati.

Chart showing the relative growth of the revenues and expenses of the Post-office department, from 1790 to 1882.

Chart showing the revenues and expenses of the department, by States, for the year 1882. These charts were executed by Messrs. R. J. Jones and C. L. Doegen, of the Post-office, and deserve special mention.

Frames and books of samples of difficult addresses, or "conundrums," to be deciphered by postal employes.

Frames of stamped envelopes and wrappers.

Frame of miscellaneous post-marking and rating stamps.

Frame of post-marking stamps, used at Cincinnati from as far back as 1840.

Wooden letter-box, with partitions and subdivisions, formerly used for holding mail-matter while in transit.

Letter-balances, etc. etc.

There was no corner in the Exposition where a half hour could be spent with greater interest to visitors than the Post-office. It was, however, not only a curiosity, but also a real convenience. That it was so appreciated will be seen from the following statement of stamps sold, and of mail-matter handled.

Statement of receipts and amount of mail-matter handled at the Exposition branch of the Cincinnati Post-office, during the Industrial Exposition of 1882:

Cash received from sales of postage stamps, stamped envelopes, etc.	$332 41
Number of letters deposited for mailing	18,350
Number of postal cards	3,709
Number of newspapers and packages	966
Total number of pieces mailed	23,025
Number of letters, newspapers, etc., delivered to exhibitors and visitors	2,950
Total number pieces handled	25,975

Messrs. John Angert and Ferd. Myer were detailed from the clerical force of the main office to serve the patrons of the branch. They discharged their duties in an obliging manner, and answered the numerous inquiries of visitors to the entire satisfaction of all.

Arrangements are being perfected to continue the Post-office during the Eleventh Exposition. New features will be introduced, and no efforts spared to make it an attraction as well as a convenience to exhibitors and visitors.

REPORT OF WEIGHT OF MEN AND WOMEN, WEIGHED AT THE TENTH CINCINNATI INDUS- TRIAL EXPOSITION, OCTOBER, 1882.

Permission was given the Department of Scientific and Educational Appliances to employ a clerk to record the weights of men and women being weighed on scales in the exhibit of the Howe Scale Company. The committee reported as follows:

The object sought was a determination of the average weight of men and women, a fact often required by civil and mechanical engineers. Haswell states that the average weight of 20,000 men and women, weighed at Boston in 1864, was—men, 141½ pounds; women, 124½. We have always thought these weights too low for Western people. The number weighed at the Tenth Cincinnati Industrial Exposition was, 22,155; and the total weight, 3,072,306 pounds.

Men weighed	7,467,	Weight,	1,150,108 lbs.
Women weighed	14,688,	“	1,922,198 “
Average weight of men			154.02 lbs.
“ “ “ women			130.87 “

For men this is 12.52 lbs. higher than the Boston average, and for women 6.37 lbs. higher.

We also determined with reasonable certainty the average weight of people from the country, independently of the general average. This was rendered possible by the excursions that were coming here at various times from this and the adjoining States, parts of which were weighed.

For Ohio—

Average weight of 141 men was	157.38 lbs.
“ “ “ 179 women was	133.86 “

For Southern Indiana and Illinois—

Average weight of 124 men was158.52 lbs.
“ “ “ 193 women was133.55 “

For Kentucky—

Average weight of 114 men was158.43 lbs.
“ “ “ 188 women was133.76 “

The mean of these averages is so much above the general average as to attract attention. For men it is 4.09 pounds higher, and for women 2.65 pounds. The very high and approximate average of those from Southern Indiana and Illinois, and from Kentucky recalls the Kentucky origin of the former.

ELEVENTH

Cincinnati Industrial Exposition

1883.

THE ELEVENTH

Cincinnati Industrial Exposition

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

APPOINTED BY THE

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE,

BOARD OF TRADE AND OHIO MECHANICS' INSTITUTE,

WILL BE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC ON

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5,

AND CONTINUE UNTIL

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6,

1883.

GENERAL PROSPECTUS FOR 1883.

The Cincinnati Industrial Exposition Opens Sept. 5, and Closes Oct. 6.

The Board of Commissioners of the Eleventh Cincinnati Industrial Exposition invite the attention of the People of the United States, especially of the Central, Western and Southern States, to the NATIONAL CHARACTER of the Exhibitions of Industry and Art that have been held in Cincinnati since 1870. These Exhibitions have, on account of their dignified character and real worth to the commercial interests of our country, commanded the attention and confidence of exhibitors and visitors from nearly every State and Territory of the Union; the Exposition of 1882 had exhibitors from 29 States and 4 Territories, and was attended by 351,000 visitors.

The great success that has attended the Cincinnati Expositions is owing in a great measure to their plan of management. They have no stockholders, no dividends, and no private interests to subserve.

They are managed for and in behalf of the citizens of Cincinnati, who guarantee all expenses by a popular Guarantee Fund. The direct control is submitted to a Board of Fifteen Commissioners, five of whom are appointed by the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade and Ohio Mechanics' Institute, respectively.

VISITORS.

Arrangements for reduced rates of fare have been made with the railroads radiating from Cincinnati.

Persons desiring to visit the Exposition will be furnished, on application by mail to the Secretary, with full information of rates of fare, etc.

The Hotel facilities of Cincinnati, heretofore sufficient, have been largely increased. Ample accommodations for all visitors. The Hotels and Restaurants only charge their regular rates during the Exposition.

EXHIBITORS.

Liberal preparations have been made for the exhibition of Machinery in operation and for the display of Manufactures, Works of Art and products.

Arrangements have also been made for the cheap transportation of articles for the Exposition from all parts of the country, and for their removal from the depots and wharves in this city to the place of exhibition, with safety and at low rates.

NO CHARGE FOR SPACE OR MOTIVE POWER.

Remember that the Eleventh Exposition Opens September 5th, and Closes October 6th.
