

El Señor A. BEAUVAIS, candidato a la plaza de Gobernador del Estado de la Luisiana, será sostenido en Julio próximo por un gran número de ELECTORES.

(Comunicado.)

Que los editores de El Español dedican a su Rey con el calor que acostumbra...

Los Srs. editores claman altamente contra un insulto que dicen se ha hecho a su amo en unas cartas que publicó la Abeja...

Las cartas en cuestión no lastiman el nombre español y si en ellas se ridiculiza a Fernando 7.º nada tienen que ver los Españoles que por su causa...

Se quejan estos señores de que desagravan al gobierno de España con los apóstrofes de tirano, usurario, imbecil, tirano, despótico...

Y no se diga que el que suscribe es de aquellos que han dirigido representaciones ni oficinas para pedir la gracia de su amo...

En fin, acuerdese el editor de El Español de lo que fué otro tiempo; de lo que ha sido después, y de lo que es ahora...

Concluye, pues, diciendo al que se ha constituido magistrado nato de su patria, que otra vez que quiera sacar la cara por su monarca...

The Navy.—Few things have occurred under the operation of our government so extraordinary, so unaccountable, and I will add so generous and unjust, as the denial of higher rank to the officers of the Navy!

at another time I will advert to other considerations connected with it, and if it be not shown that the apparent derogation of Congress to keep our old officers forever tied down to the rank and pay of Captain...

Legislature Bachanallians. The Harrisburg Intelligencer gives seriously, the following extraordinary account of a scene acted in the Legislature of Pennsylvania...

The last night of the Session.—The legislature of Pennsylvania had resolved to adjourn on the seventh of April, and return to their constituents.

different inns, taverns, &c. drinking healths, wishing each other re-lections, and singing.

'Here's a health to jolly Bacchus, 10! 10!'

The midnight bell rang, and five minutes after the usual rap an exclamation was heard from the speaker's chair—'The House will come to order.'

This was not to be expected, however, now; it had rarely happened during the session. After waiting considerable time, it was found that counting was in vain.

The clerk was ordered to call the names of the members to ascertain whether a quorum was present in body, for it was evident that the minds of some had been left behind at the taverns.

The two hours besides the business of adjournment had to wait for the governor to read over and sign a number of bills that during the preceding day, had passed.

This occupied something like two hours during which time the house was a scene of all sorts of fun. One honest old gentleman from the committee of vice and immorality had the day previous made a report on the subject of intemperance.

It was then laid on the table. One gentleman from the tavern who was so full of patriotism that he could scarcely walk without staggering under its load, moved that 500 copies of the report be printed.

The motion was seconded by one nearly or quite as patriotic. The honest old gentleman was then called on to explain and defend the principles of his report.

No sooner had he risen, than balls of paper were whizzing past his head from all quarters, and the old man after explaining for a moment, dodged to his seat amidst a roar of laughter, which showed how great was the moral dignity of the representatives of the people.

The speaker was thus unpleasantly situated—he was obliged to put the senseless motions. A member from York made a motion to reconsider the vote on the division of Miffin country, in order to tease an old gentleman who had been in its favour.

The old gentleman retorted by reading it its place the dolorous resolves of a York county meeting upon the loss of the rail road. The old gentleman acted as a speaker too, for at the end of every resolve he would sing out in his humorous tone, 'will the house agree to the resolution?'

Aye! was the universal response, accompanied with paper balls at the old man's head. When the old man had finished his rail road resolutions, he concluded by asking leave of absence for the rest of the session for his friend from York as he understood there would be a cock fight the next day at York, and his friend probably wished to attend.

This was granted and the whole house rung with laughter. The York man was completely put down, and thus ended the fun. During the whole time the speaker often requested members not to leave their seats as there were present but one or two more than quorum.

Parish Court for the Parish and City of New Orleans—Present the hon. James F. Cheval, Howard Bond vs. his wife, Marie F. Cheval.

THE plaintiff in this case, Howard Bond, a f. m. of c. having married the defendant, Marie-Francoise Cheval, a f. w. of c. in 1826, has now instituted a suit against her for both a separation from bed and board and divorced from her, on the ground that she has rendered herself guilty of adultery by running away from the matrimonial domicile with a certain individual of the name of Delile Bayard, and continuing to live with the same at his house, and dwelling since some time last year 1829, in open perpetration of her said guilt.

Whereupon the defendant having failed to answer to this demand, and judgment having been entered against her accordingly by default of the court, at a regular trial of the cause, for confirmation of said judgment, having been fully satisfied by the evidence on record, that such has been the culpable behaviour of the said defendant towards her husband, the plaintiff in the present case; it is ordered and decreed, that judgment be rendered in favour of the said plaintiff, Howard Bond, with costs to be paid by defendant, Marie-Francoise Cheval, and it is further ordered by the Court, that pursuant to the provision of sect. 4 of the laws of the 19th of March 1827, that the said defendant remain convicted of adultery the parties of this suit are not only separated from bed and board, but are moreover by this judgment, divorced from each other, and thereby placed forever, by the dissolution of the bonds of matrimony between them, on the same condition, with respect to each other as if no marriage had ever been contracted between them. Signed JAMES FITZ, judge. I do hereby certify written to be a true copy from the original judgment in this case.

THOS. S. KENNEDY. I do hereby tax the cost in this case at the sum of twenty dollars eighteen and three quarters cent. $20 18 3/4 May 20 THOS. S. KENNEDY, Clerk

THE Rev. Mr. BORGNA, of the Cathedral of this city, has been appointed agent for the following Catholic Newspapers: The Catholic Sentinel and Express of Boston, The Catholic Press of Hartford, The Methodist of Baltimore, The United States Catholic Miscellany, of Charleston.

The Agency of the Miscellany has been transferred to him and he requests all who are indebted, to come forward and settle their accounts, as soon as possible.

The historian, the antiquarian and the lover of fine arts will find in those publications, much interesting matter. The Catholic will find his religion ably defended, against the scoffs of the infidel, and the calumnies of other denominations. Those who wish to subscribe will find lists at Mrs. L. Poimere, book store; at Mr. J. Fitz-Williams, or at the Cathedral. May 20—10
