ANNE B. COOKMAN MARRIED TO EARL THOMSON

Elaborate Church Ceremony for Local Girl and Champion Athlete

The wedding of Miss Anne B. Cookman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Cookman of 638 North Louise street, and Earl Thomson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thomson of Long Beach and who won the distinction of champion high hurdler at the Olympic meet in 1920, took place Saturday night, August 26, 1922, at 8 o'clock in the Pacific Avenue Methodist church. Rev. Cookman, father of the bride, and former pastor of the church, officiated at the single ring ceremony, which was witnessed by approximately 200 friends.

The chance of the church had been transformed into a beauty spot and was decked with asparagus and maidenhair ferns, a variety of palms and greenery, intermingling which were sprays of fluffy white baby breath and pink carnations. Dainty bouquets of baby breath and carnations were tied to the ends of the pews, marking the aisle down which the bride and groom were to pass. Especially on account of the prominence of the bridegroom in athletic circles the wedding was an event which is of national wide interest.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts sang, "Oh, Promise Me," and "At Dawning," accompanied at the piano by Miss Ethel Wilson. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Wilson at the piano, with violin accompaniment by Miss Genevieve Mulligan. These two young women also played very softly during the reading of the wedding service, "I Love You Truly."

Act as Bridesmaids. Miss Helen Chase of Whittier and Miss Margaret Cashin of Los Angeles were the bridesmaids, gowned in pale green taffeta and carrying bouquets of delicate pink sweet peas tied with orchid ribbon. Miss Frances Smith of Whittier was maid of honor. She was gowned in apricot georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The ushers were Alfred Cookman and William Cookman, Jr., brother of the bride, Harry William Perry of Tulare, and Arthur Wilcox of Long Beach, Glenn (Continued on Page 12)

CAMPAIGN ENDS; VOTERS READY TO REGISTER CHOICE

Polls Will Open Tomorrow at 6 a. m. and Will Close at 7 p. m., Sharp

Tomorrow is primary election day. From 6 a. m. until 7 p. m. registered voters of Glendale will cast their ballots for those whom they consider competent to hold the various county, state and national offices to be filled.

As important to the city of Glendale as the primary election, however, is the municipal ballot which will determine whether or not Glendale will approve the three bond issues totaling $100,000. Forty thousand dollars is asked for the construction of an addition to the city hall; $35,000 for the improvement of streets and installation of water pipes and fire protection facilities adjacent to schools and other public property; and $25,000 for the construction of public comfort stations.

According to Judge F. H. Lowe, a number of names of registered voters have been omitted from the "great register" of voters, probably due to a mistake on the part of the printer. Judge Lowe has secured a copy of the list for the seventh precinct in Glendale and he found missing from the list the names of a number of prominent persons who he is certain have registered since the first of the year.

In order that those who have registered may not be prevented from voting because their names have been omitted from the register, Judge Lowe recommends that all voters take their registration receipts to the polls tomorrow. By doing so, they may prevent confusion, and assure themselves of an opportunity of voting.

A complete list of the twenty-eight precincts of Glendale, together with the polling places for each precinct and the election officials was published in a recent issue of The Evening News. These polling places will be open to voters between 6 o'clock tomorrow morning and 7 o'clock in the evening.

Voters are reminded that those who registered as republicans may vote for no party nominees in the primary election other than those on the republican ballot; those registered as democrats may vote for no party nominees other than democratic; those registered as prohibitionists may vote for none; those registered as socialists may vote for nominees of none other than the socialist party; and those who have declared themselves affiliated with no political party may vote for only the judicial, school and county nominees on the non-partisan ballot.

Those who registered as having political affiliations, or in other words, those who have declared themselves as republicans, democrats, prohibitionists or socialists, are to vote for the nominees of their choice on the non-partisan ballot, as well as those on the ballots of their respective parties.

GEORGE GRAY, AGE 68 YEARS, ENDS LIFE BY PISTOL

Ill Health Is Believed to Have Been Cause for Taking Own Life

The first local suicide in a number of months occurred at 8 o'clock this morning when people living at 129 1/2 North Brand boulevard, were aroused by the report of a revolver in one of the rooms.

George E. Gray, about 68 years of age, shot himself through the stomach with a Colt's automatic and died half an hour later.

The case was investigated by Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of police, and Lieut. Joe Griffin, assistant chief of police. They consider the smoking revolver which lay beside the body conclusive proof of premeditated suicide.

Mr. Gray, who had been a resident of Glendale for about two years, had been in ill health for the past month or so and this is believed to have been the cause of his action.

Search for Relatives

No relatives reside in Glendale so far as is known. Papers revealed the name of Mrs. Mary A. Gray of Salt Lake City, who is believed to have been a wife of the deceased. A telegram was dispatched to her.

Mr. Gray was a carpenter by trade and was a member of the local carpenters' union. He was also a member of the Modern Woodmen of America. He was honorably discharged as a corporal from the United States army in 1875.

After the coroner's office had been notified the body was removed to the funeral parlors of L. G. Seavern.

GIRL SCOUTS ARE AT HOME FROM CAMPING TRIP

Members of Troop No. 1 Get Real Experience While on Summer Outing

Glendale Girl Scouts, Troop No. 1, returned Saturday night from their annual summer camping trip, which was spent at Crater's Camp, on Malibu creek, a distance of forty miles from Glendale. Nine automobiles rolled in at the end of the homeward journey, filled with the tired but happy scouts, and their parents and friends who had motored up in the morning and spent the day assisting them to break camp and joining them in the last plunge in the swimming pool, and the last camp dinner.

Their tents were pitched in a beautiful grove of ancient liveoak trees, near a large apple orchard. The altitude is not great but the first few nights were found to be almost too cool for comfort. The latter part of the week, however, was quite warm.

The girls enjoyed many short hikes over the picturesque trails in the vicinity of camp, and found the swimming pool to be ideal, a number of the scouts taking their first lessons in the art of swimming who will soon be ready to take the tests for merit badges for swimming.

Real Endurance Test

Wednesday a party of ten, including the captain, left camp for a 5 o'clock a. m. strenuous hike, which was a real endurance test for girls, as they followed an undefined trail over rocks and crags to the mouth of the Malibu creek, returning to camp about 6 in the evening, after climbing practically all day, without accident. One rattlesnake was encountered, but no one was in danger.

Each morning one hour and a half was devoted to scout work and signal practice, with the result that a number of the girls are now ready to pass the speed test for first-class scouts.

The setting-up excises were under the direction of Lucille Beach, Mary Stanley, Alexandria Bagley, Frederica Browne, Bertha Brown, Lina Borthick and Carolyn Ayars, all of whom have won health winner merit badges. The emergency kit was in charge of Margaret Longley, Mary Stanley, Frederica Browne, (Continued on Page 12)

Mrs. Homer B. Miller Surprised by Friends

Mrs. Homer B. Miller of 434 West Burchett street was pleasantly surprised on Friday afternoon when a number of friends from all parts of the country just "dropped in" for a shower in honor of Mrs. Miller's infant son, Homer, Jr. The women were all former members of the "Merry Matrons," which was an organization of a number of young women who attended the Eastside Christian church in Los Angeles. Although the club has been disbanded the former members still hold informal gatherings every few weeks.

After a "general inspection" of the numerous beautiful and appropriate gifts which were bestowed upon the youthful honored host, the afternoon was spent in music, games and a general social time. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Miller and Miss Paulina Hooker.

The guests included the following: Mrs. Estol Rush, Mrs. Arthur Bryant, Mary Bryant, Mrs. Robert Bryant, Mrs. Jerome Bryant and infant son, Mrs. Roy Ames, Mrs. Howard Gunnell and Mrs. Russell Beale of Los Angeles, Mrs. Harry Bartlett and daughter, Alice Marie, of Huntington Park, Mrs. Clarence Burwell and children, Clarence, Jr., and Alice Marie of Los Angeles; Mrs. Frank Johnson and daughter, Gloria, of Long Beach; Mrs. Van Larimore and son, Jackie Lee of Pomona, Mrs. Lamartine Larimore of Huntington Park, Mrs. Robert King and daughter, Phyllis, of Huntington Park, and Mrs. Oscar Whitaker, Beverly Whitaker and Mrs. Harry Marple of Glendale.

MEN IMPRISONED FAR BENEATH EARTH'S SURFACE

JACKSON, Cal., Aug. 28.—Forty-eight miners are trapped 4500 feet below the surface of the earth in the Argonaut mine where a terrific blaze is burning at the 3000 foot level. Little hope is held out for the safety of the trapped miners. Three men came through the flames to safety but the fire has cut off the others beyond hope of early rescue. The entire population of this little mining center has flocked to the scene of the disaster. All but two or three of the imprisoned men are Americans. Normally 300 men are employed at the mine and had the fire broken out in daytime, about 250 men would have been trapped. The big water pipes which lead into the mine are pouring a flood of water down on the flames but the fire has eaten them off far above the blazing levels and this method of fire fighting is not very effective. Another shaft leads into the mine but runs only to the thirty-ninth level. There is a possibility that a rescue squad may try to force its way down to this level to investigate conditions although such a step is fraught with danger as it is conceded that these lower levels by now are gas filled. The Red Cross is on the scene and a mine rescue crew is rushing here by automobile over mountain roads from Nevada City. They will assume charge of the measures being taken to effect a rescue upon their arrival. Gathered about the top of the mine shaft are the frantic members of the families of the entrapped men.

POSTOFFICE FOLK HAVE GOOD TIME AT BIG PICNIC

Day of Sports at Verdugo Park Is Closed With Night of Dancing

Hospitality was the keynote of the first annual picnic given Saturday in Glendale Verdugo park by the local employees of Uncle Sam. Letter carrier and postal clerks vied with each other in seeing that their guests had a good time. A general atmosphere of congeniality prevailed and those who attended considered that the affair was a tremendous success.

A ball game between the clerks and carriers was the main event of the afternoon. It was a fast and furious affair and both sides raised considerable dust. Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson was a sight to behold at third base and Assistant Postmaster George Falzett proved to be a heavy hitter when he got a chance at bat. A. S. Wood and "Bill" Standley each made two-baggers for the carriers while Henry Weger was "the chicken-chaser" for the clerks. The game ended with the score of 10 to 7 in favor of the "mail-toters."

How They Lined Up

The two teams seemed to be fairly evenly matched. Those playing for the "mail-sorters" were the following: H. H. Dreyer, George Williams, John Boettner, Leo Smith, D. R. Jackson, Henry Weger, Lloyd Ganes, Mike Camargo and E. T. Holmes.

The "mail-packers" team was composed of the following: A. S. Wood, Roger Boss, William Standley, J. M. Hague, E. I. Hamlin, O. W. Wright, I. Irmischer, E. J. Bolefeld and Lewis Richards. The athletic events of the occasion were started about 4:30 o'clock after the end of the baseball game.

About six youngsters under 9 years of age all "rearin' to go," lined up for the first race. The first prize, an order for a boys' "flapper suit," donated by Ed Nisler of 135 South Brand boulevard, was won by Edwin Van Wile of 620 North Adams street, son of City Clerk A. J. Van Wile. The second prize, which was a kiddie car donated by the Brenkman Electric company of 1424 South San Fernando road, was won by (Continued on Page 12)

DRINK OF WATER USED AS BASIS FOR ADDRESS

Rev. Keith L. Brooks Tells Men's Bible Class of Incident at Well

Rev. Keith L. Brooks, in his talk to the men's Bible class of the Presbyterian church, held Sunday in the council chamber at Glendale city hall, spoke on the fourth chapter of John, saying in part: "We have seen Jesus talking to a great teacher. Now we find Him talking to a woman—a bad character. Both are in the same state—unsaved and needing the waters of life."

"We see Jesus sitting at Jacob's well located near Sychar. There came a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus asked her for a drink. Jesus here makes use of an ordinary incident of daily life to open up spiritual matters. The incident became the turning point in a woman's life and led to the evangelization of the whole city."

Truths of Eternal Life
"The woman at first thought it strange, that He, being a Jew, should ask a drink of her. Prejudice of race and contempt of woman are passed over by Christ. He was independent of all such distinctions. Having asked for water, he sets forth the truths of eternal life under the symbol of water."

"Whoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst, but the water that I shall give him shall become in him a fountain of water springing up throughout everlasting life."

"The woman, having had her desire for this gift kindled, says, 'Connect me up with this spring.'"

Must Thirst for It
"Salvation is not had just for the asking. One must thirst for it. The woman is forced to admit that she is living with one who is not her husband and that she had done so with five others."

"Having been born into Christ's Kingdom, we read that the woman left her waterpot and went to the city to tell what had happened."

"There is one satisfaction that Christians can give Christ in return for what He has done for us—quench His thirst for souls."

PASTOR TALKS ON SECRET OF POWER AND SUCCESS

Dr. James F. Winnard at Tropico Presbyterian in Discussion of Needs

"Determination is the secret of power and success in both temporal and spiritual affairs," declared Dr. James F. Winnard last night at the Tropico Presbyterian church.

"A large portion of the failures in this life are due to a lack of this very essential element," he continued. "Determination was the keynote of the man, who said he would and did. When Paul said: 'I am determined,' he meant that he had his mind and heart set on the accomplishment of a certain purpose and nothing could hold stand in his way."

"The very theme of such a theme as we discuss tonight is refreshing. After three word pictures of lives that failed in the presence of great opportunity, a study of the life of the Apostle Paul gives us a vision of a new spirit. It is the spirit of determination, of stick-to-itiveness and of the consecrated energy that wins by the grace of God."

Offers Inspiration
"Paul did not belong to the family of Used-to-Can'ts nor to the Do-Little branch of the household of faith, but rather stood as leader among those who could do all things. His very language has inspiration in it. To him the Christian life was a race, a warfare, a conquest, a victory. And he both lived and wrote of it in such terms."

"Paul was not a man of great strength but of great faith—and faith after all, is the measure of a man."

"Back of Paul's determination was a conviction of duty and nothing could swerve him from the path. His conversion was a remarkable and definite event in his life and his next thought was service. What a contrast to many so-called Christians in the church today who never lift a hand or go out of their way to serve their fellow men in the name of the Master."

"Paul was a prize-winning Christian—not the kind that wins a cut glass bowl at a social card table on prayer meeting night, but the kind that won the prize of the high calling of God in Jesus Christ."

Klan Candidate In Texas Holding Lead

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 28.—Although late returns had slightly reduced his lead, figures compiled up to 8 o'clock this morning indicated certain victory for Earle B. Mayfield, reputed Ku Klux Klan candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. Mayfield's opponent in Saturday's primary election was former Governor James E. Ferguson, advocate of light wines and beer.

Rolling hub caps is the newest sport indulged on East Broadway, and the game is limited as to players.

Then, as the cartoonist says, the fun begins. When the flivver gets close enough to the pipe, the right front hub cap strikes a joint and the car stops with a jolt.

He "gives her the gun," and the startled flivver gives a yelp of dismay and plunges forward. Off flies the hub cap, and lands spinning on the sidewalk.

Vote for the Bonds for Paving Streets Adjacent to Schools in Glendale

Provide Proper Approaches to the Schools for Your Children
Vote "YES" on the Proposition Quoted Below

"Shall the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $35,000.00 for the improvement of streets (including the installation therein of water pipes and appurtenances for fire protection and the municipal water supply), adjacent to public school property and other public property in the City of Glendale?"

Yes	X
No

As one of the results of the very rapid growth of our city the approaches to nearly all of our schools are in very bad condition, and a great deal of street improvement work is necessary.

The Board of Education is unable to meet the situation because of the large amount involved in improving the streets adjacent to twelve school buildings. If this matter had to be taken care of out of the current funds of the district, and it cannot be otherwise taken care of except by the proposed bond issue, it would seriously cripple the work of the schools for the coming year.

It is very important both from the standpoint of the comfort and convenience of the children in the schools and from the standpoint of advertising Glendale as a progressive city in public matters, that the streets adjacent to the schools and other public buildings should be in excellent condition at all times.

The effect of not having the funds to meet this emergency may be seen by a visit to the Doran Street school on the corner of Doran and Everett streets, where it was found necessary on three sides of the school grounds to make half a street, leaving a dirt road on the school side.

The Board of Education and the City Council have held several conferences looking toward a solution of the problem, and have found it impossible to solve it in any other way by the proposed bond issue.

If these bonds are not voted it is inevitable that every school in Glendale will be surrounded by half-made streets, a condition which the progressive citizens of Glendale will not tolerate.

MUSICAL FEATURE, SAXOPHONE SIX, AT GLENDALE

Noted Organization to Be Here Tonight In Big Harmony Program

Today only, at Glendale theatre, matinee at 2:30 and two evening performances at 7 and 9 o'clock. William A. Howe will present for the entertainment of his patrons the original Brown's Saxophone Six, a musical organization of international reputation. The performance of this organization, described as "the world's greatest musical attraction," has played the large cities throughout the country and received the most favorable newspaper comment wherever they have appeared.

This organization recently filled a two weeks' engagement at one of the great Los Angeles theatres, at which time Mr. Howe endeavored to secure them for Glendale, but unsuccessfully, owing to previously arranged bookings in the north, but learning they would return through this territory on their world tour he went to San Francisco, and while there arranged for this engagement.

Brown's Saxophone Six are widely known through their phonograph records made for the Columbia company, and Glendaleans who plan to attend one of the three performances at Glendale theatre have a treat in store.

The picture to be shown in connection with the Browns will be Marie Prevost's newest feature, "The Married Flapper."

NURSE PROBLEMS TOLD TO PUBLIC IN REPORT

Training of Nurses to Care for Sick and Prevent Disease Explained

NEW YORK.—A committee organized in March, 1919, for the study of nursing education, its members representing physicians, nurses, public health agencies and hospital administrators, made public today a general report on the problems of training nurses for the care of the sick and for the prevention of disease.

The committee, after making a thorough analysis of the nursing situation, has unanimously agreed upon a comprehensive plan of nursing service, embracing the three following grades:

(1) The trained registered nurse for the care of the acutely ill, the present training course of three years to be enriched and improved and at the same time reduced 20 per cent in length, without lowering standards.

(2) The public health nurse, the supervising nurse, and the teacher in schools of nursing, who are to receive specialized post-graduate training in addition to the standard course for registered nurses; and

(3) The subsidiary nursing worker, to be trained by an eight or nine months' course and licensed as nursing aide or nursing attendant for the care of minor and chronic illness and convalescence.

Throughout the report emphasis is laid on the fundamental necessity of generous financial support—which has never yet been provided—for all forms of nursing education.

The original conference which resulted in the appointment of the committee was called by the Rockefeller foundation. The foundation has also given financial support to the investigations conducted under the auspices of the committee but is in no way responsible for its conclusions and recommendations.

Public Health Nurse
The work of the committee originated in an effort to determine what the training of the public health nurse should be. And, although the scope of the inquiry was later broadened to include the entire field of nursing education, a large part of the report is devoted to the work and training of the public health nurse.

The function of the nurse in public health is explained as follows:

"The new educational objectives of the health administrator may be approached to a limited

Ohio Newspaper Man and Bride, on Motorized Honeymoon Trip Around World Arrive In London

—Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

To "keep smiling" and to see the world are the objectives of R. J. Jeffreys, an Ohio newspaper man, and his bride, formerly Miss Pauline Mayo, of Omaha. They expect to return to the state of presidents and corn about 1925. Their trip will carry them from Britain to the Continent, across France and Germany, and then across Russia and Siberia. The photo shows them with their car all ready for traveling (in London) and with their "limousine tent" pitched and portable stove set up for cooking dinner.

extent by mass methods. The printed page, the public lecture, the exhibit, the cinematograph, the radiogram, help to prepare the ground and make success easier. The ultimate victory over ignorance is, however, rarely attained in such ways. Direct personal contact with the conditions of the individual life is essential to success in a matter so truly personal as hygiene. We have sought during the past twenty years for a missionary to carry the message of health into individual homes; and in America we have found this messenger of health in the public health nurse.

In order to meet generally accepted standards we should have approximately 50,000 public health nurses to serve the population of the United States, as against the 11,000 now in the field. All public health authorities will probably agree that the need for nurses is the largest outstanding problem before the health administrator of the present day.

Has Big Advantages
The committee emphasizes the supreme value of combining bedside and instructive public health nursing and holds that the nurse who renders direct professional service in lessening the burden of illness "has an overwhelming advantage then and thereafter in teaching the lessons of hygiene."

As to her training, it is the judgment of the committee that the public health nurse, as a "teacher of hygiene in the home," should be equipped with no less rigorous training than that accorded to the bedside nurse further supplemented by special studies along lines of public health and social service.

The committee finds conditions in nursing have changed materially in the three years since the close of the war. The census report shows for the decennial period 1910-1920 the surprising increase of 82 per cent in the number of trained registered nurses.

The problem is one of distribution rather than of numbers.

Savannah, Ga., lays claim to the youngest woman—or girl—lawyer in the United States. She has just passed her seventeenth birthday and but recently passed the state bar examination and was admitted to practice. Under the laws of Georgia there is no age limit for persons admitted to the practice of law.

Cow Wrecks Auto In "Tail-End" Collision

BUCYRUS, Ohio.—Jimmie Fenner, a Bucyrus lad, has his own opinion as to what constitutes an immovable force. Never, never again will he attempt to spank a cow with the front end of an auto.

Jimmie was driving his car along the smoothly paved thoroughfare, several miles east of Bucyrus, at a fair rate of speed when he saw directly ahead, traveling without warning tail-lights, a lonesome cow.

The animal was going "on low" in the same direction that Jimmie's car was moving. In less time than it takes to tell the automobile and the cow made a most forceful contact. There was a frightful crash, a surprised "Moo!" and the automobile stopped dead.

Not so with the cow. She scrambled to her feet and shot off into the darkness, leaving the car with the radiator smashed back on the hood, the hood bent back on the cowl and the cowl slightly crumpled.

TWO CLASSES OF MEN DESCRIBED BY MINISTER

Rev. C. A. Cole Speaks of Those Who 'Get By' and of Their Methods

"The Habit of Getting By," was the sermon topic yesterday morning at the Central Christian church.

According to Rev. C. A. Cole, there are two classes of men in the world. First, those who are willing to do their duty but are careful to do no more. Second, the man who habitually overstates his own case and overdoes his duty. He remarked that the person who comes under the first category, measures his margins closely and is satisfied if he clears the bar by a fraction of an inch.

"His aim, in the language of the street is 'to get by' but nothing more," said Rev. Cole. "He takes the arrows of opportunity in his hand and, if he thinks three blows will suffice, he strikes three times and stops."

Under the second classification the person is not content merely to get by but must have a wide margin as well. When three blows would meet the letter of the law, he strikes five or six times for good measure.

Driving Sharp Argains
"One of the most familiar figures we see in the world today is the man who is always driving a sharp bargain, who is on the ragged edge of moral rectitude. He is the employer who is always buying in the lowest market irrespective of every other human consideration. He is the laborer who deliberately keeps the output of the market down. He is the student who is content with any mark above the dead line. He is the fellow who declares his action hasn't hurt anybody."

"I am touching upon an important point in the Christian life. If there is one heresy against the Christian life it is the most nearly prevalent point of view of being content with merely a 'pass degree'; the heresy of satisfying the great examiner of conscience with just getting by."

"The Christian religion is not a religion of passmen. It is the religion of those who elect the honor school. It is a religion that makes a safe margin between one's self and evil. One doesn't need to be either a prude or a coward to come to the conclusion that there are many aspects of human life and action which he might as well give a wide berth."

Mr. Rigdon, one of the best known builders in Glendale, has purchased 12 lots and taken an option on others, upon which he will immediately build residences of from $3500 to $8500 in value and many others will follow his example without hesitancy.

We have rearranged the prices on these lots and are now offering them from $1000 to $1600 and on terms that make them the most inviting residential proposition ever offered in Glendale. All Improvements included.

This is the last right close-in subdivision available in this city, and in view of the rapidity with which other and similar tracts have been disposed of and at prices far greater than those asked for Roland Square, QUICK ACTION in selecting your lot is recommended. ## The Riddle of the Frozen Flame

By M. E. & T. W. HANSEW

"Pretty awful," returned Cleek, quietly. "eh, Mr. Lake?"

"God bless my soul—yes!" threw in that gentleman, with a shudder. "Now then, boys, if you don't mind, let's take the attitude of a casual acquaintance with his two assistants who helped to bear the burden. 'Come along inside. This way—that's it. Where did you say, Merriton? Into the morning room? All right. Ah, Borkins, has been getting things ready, I see. That concourse is a broad one. Good thing, as there are two of 'em.'"

"Two of 'em, sir?" exclaimed Borkins, suddenly throwing up his hands, his eyes wide with horror. Mr. Narkom nodded with something of professional triumph in his looks.

"Two of 'em, Borkins. And the second one, if I don't make any mistake, answers to the description of James Collins—eh, Headland?"

"Cleek gave him a sudden look that spoke volumes. It came over him in a flash that Narkom had said too much; that it wasn't the casual visitor's place to know what a servant who was not there at the time of his visit looked like.

"At least—that's as far as I can make out from what Sir Nigel told me of him the other day," he supplemented, in an effort to make amends. "Now then, boys, put 'em there on the couch. Poor things! I warn you, Sir Nigel, this isn't going to be a pleasant sight, but you've got to go thru with it, I'm afraid. The police'll want identification made, of course. Hadn't you better phone the local branch? Someone ought to be here in charge, you know."

Merriton nodded. He was so stunned at the actuality of these two men's deaths, at the knowledge that their bodies—lifeless, extinct—were here in his morning room, that he had stood like a sound.

"Yes—yes," he said, rapidly, waving a hand in Borkins' direction. "See that it's done at once, please. Tell Constable Roberts to come along with a couple of his men. Very decent of these chaps to give you a hand, Mr. Lake. That's your man, Dollops, isn't it, Headland? Well, hadn't he better take 'em downstairs and give 'em a stiff whiskey-and-soda? I expect the poor beggars have need of it."

"Cleek held up a silencing hand. "No," he said, firmly. "Not just yet, I think. They may be needed for evidence when the constable comes. Now—"

He crossed over to where the bodies lay, and gently removed the covering. Merriton went suddenly white, while the doctor more used to such sights, bit his lips and laid a steadying hand on the younger man's arm.

"My God!" cried Sir Nigel, despairingly. "How did they meet their death?"

"Cleek reached down a finger and gently touched a blackened spot upon Wynne's temple.

"Shot through the head, and the bullet penetrated the brain," he said, quietly. "Small-calibre revolver, too. There's your Frozen Flame for you, my friend!"

But he was hardly prepared for the event that followed. For at this statement, Merriton threw a hand out suddenly, as though warding off a blow, took a step forward and peered at that which had once been his friend—and enemy—and then gave out a strangled cry.

"Shot through the head?" he fairly shrieked, as Borkins came quietly into the room, and stopped short at the sound of his master's voice. "I tell you it's impossible—impossible! It wasn't my shot, Mr. Headland—it couldn't have been!"

CHAPTER XV

A Startling Disclosure

Cleek took a sudden step forward.

"What's that? What's that?" he rapped out, sharply. "Your shot, Sir Nigel? This is something I haven't heard of before, and it's likely to cause trouble. Explain, please!"

But Merriton was past explaining anything just then. For he had bowed his head in his hands and was sobbing in great, heart-wrenching sobs with Doctor Bartholomew's arms about him, sobs that told of the nerve-strain which gave them birth, that told of the tenseness under which he had lived these last weeks. And now the thread had snapped, and all the broken, jangling nerves of the

ATMOSPHERIC DISTURBANCES

At this season of the year atmospheric disturbances are so prevalent and productive of complaints from radio fans as to deserve special mention in these series.

It is safe to say that the man who can eliminate "atmospherics" or "static" in the operation of radio has a fortune awaiting him.

Atmospheric disturbances show themselves in various forms and are due to innumerable causes, but they are all included in any of the various terms commonly used to denote them, i. e.—atmospherics, X's, strays, static, etc.

Although little has been accomplished in the matter of eliminating this "bugbear" of radio, a great deal of work has been spent by the brightest minds in the profession in seeking a remedy.

VARIABLE GRID LEAK

In tube sets the grid leak is a highly important part and component of the tube circuit, hence an adjustable grid leak such as is described below proves a welcome addition to the radio apparatus market.

The instrument is enclosed in highly polished bakelite, has a knob and ten tap control and two metal binding posts. The taps are carefully calibrated values of leak-resistance ranging from 1-4 to 5 megohms. By proper adjustment of the grid leak the potential of the grid and hence the signal strength is accurately controlled.

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SHAVING SOAP

"Nurse Jane, please don't let any one bother me for a few minutes," requested Uncle Wiggily one morning of his muskrat lady housekeeper.

"Why not?" asked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Not that I want to bother you," she went on, "but what is the idea, if I may kindly ask?"

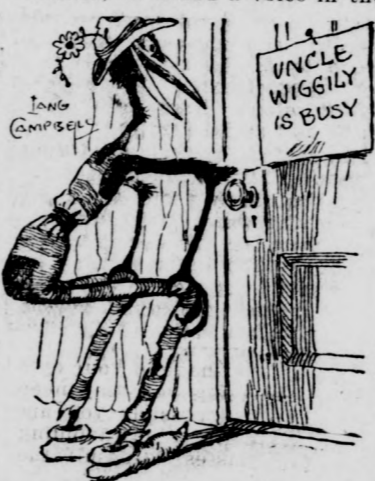

"You may ask, and I'll gladly answer you," said Mr. Longears, with a sideways twinkle of his pink nose. "I am going to shave, and if some of the animal children, especially Baby Bunt, happen to come in they might stick their paws or wings in my shaving soap."

"That's so," agreed Nurse Jane. "Well, you go shave your whiskers, Wiggily, and I'll keep any one from bothering you."

Up to the bath room went the bunny rabbit gentleman. He mixed his shaving soap with warm water until he had made on the brush a lot of foamy lather like the whipped cream that mother puts on the strawberry shortcake. Of course, if there isn't any strawberry shortcake, the whipped cream can as well be put on a huckleberry pie.

"I'll just sit down in this easy chair and knit while Uncle Wiggily is shaving," thought Nurse Jane, as she tied her tail in a double bowknot so it wouldn't get tangled under the rockers.

Uncle Wiggily spread some of the shaving soap on his whiskers, and he was getting ready to use the sharp edge of a clam shell, which was his razor, when, all of a sudden, he heard a voice in the

He read the sign, the Skeezicks did.

"Where's Uncle Wiggily?" asked Baby Bunt.

"Up in the bath room shaving," answered Nurse Jane. "What did you want of him, Baby Bunt?"

"Hum, I thought he'd be over after me," said the bunny uncle to himself. Then he listened to what Nurse Jane replied:

"Run away, Baby Bunt," spoke the muskrat lady. "Uncle Wiggily can't come down just now."

"Oh, dear," sighed Baby Bunt. "I wanted him so much to come and play tag with me."

"Some other time, Baby Bunt," called down Mr. Longears from the upper window. "I'm busy now."

"I'll wait for you!" laughed the little rabbit girl.

Uncle Wiggily kept on shaving, and pretty soon Billie Bushytail called up the yellow stump bungalow to have the rabbit gentleman help him fly a kite. But Nurse Jane sent Billie away. Then came Neddie Stubaal, the boy bear.

They Say That

An international fight for supremacy of the air has begun in the wake of failure by the Washington arms conference to agree on terms of a new operating in this potential war zone of the future. While reports received by officials here have acquainted this government with the activities of Japan in aircraft construction, and while Great Britain has just officially announced her intention of creating a 500-plane fleet for home defense, a definite and comprehensive program to provide an adequate air defense for the United States has been quietly worked out by the air experts of the army and navy. The Washington Herald comments:

"The activity of the three leading naval powers toward air-craft construction indicates that, both in the matter of money and craft, competition already has been transferred from the water to the air. The American program is now ready in tentative form for submission to congress when it is finally approved—expected by the time congress reconvenes for the short session." The Herald says that the program contemplates:

"First—Construction of sufficient plans for the army Air Service to assure 600 on either coast and approximately 1,000 planes at strategic points in the interior.

"Second—Detail of 2,500 officers and 40,000 men to the Air Service.

"Third—Construction of between 250 and 300 new airplanes for the two huge aircraft carriers into which two of the treaty-doomed battle cruisers are being converted.

"Fourth—Equipment of every fighting ship and many of the auxiliaries with an airplane, cata-

FACING FACTS

"I could have a crackerjack car if I didn't have to support you." That, according to a wife who was seeking freedom (with ample alimony) on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, was one of the things her husband frequently said to her.

Of course he was cruel to say it. But, on the other hand, I wonder if she wasn't a fool not to realize that it was true and that it meant something in relation to their life together.

She Cost $3000
According to the testimony he was a man who made a good income. They had no children. They lived at an apartment hotel, which meant, of course, that she made a very small contribution in labor and time toward the partnership. He gave her a reasonable dress and spending money allowance, and, of course, paid her board. Presumably she cost him $3000 a year. If he had not had her to support he could have lived at that same hotel, paid someone a few dollars a week to do the mending for him and had the balance of that $3000 to spend on a car.

Of course it was a cruel thing for him to fling at her, but you can't quite get away from its truth can you?

Would She Ever Be Tempted
And as I read the testimony I fell wondering this. Suppose that woman, if she did not have him, could have had the luxuries she craved most—beautiful clothes, perhaps, and jewelry to outshine her neighbors, could have lived in the same comfort and could have had plenty of masculine society and all the masculine flattery she could stand—would she never think of that fact, would she never be tempted to throw it at him?

And, of course, there is no doubt that he could have all the feminine society, all the feminine flattery he wanted if he were in possession of his income and not married.

True, he had married her and it was up to him to share his income with her fairly. But wasn't it up to her to recognize that he was sharing and to be grateful for it, instead of taking it as a matter of course as she most evidently did?

Many Wives Contribute More
Of course that's not an average marriage. In many marriages the wife contributes as much to the partnership as the husband, and in some she contributes more. But there are many of the other kind, too.

All marriages have their basis in economic facts and in human nature as it is. Many people, in thinking on these subjects, try to substitute for this certain fine ideas about human nature as it ought to be. But that doesn't help them to understand things as they are and the result is a lot of muddled thinking. The first step toward handling any situation is to understand it as well as one can. The man or woman who recognizes the economic and human nature foundation in marriage will be able to think more clearly on the whole subject and, hence, react more sanely and happily.

THE HOUSEWORKER'S HANDS

In a loose calculation, it may easily be assumed that the majority of present-day women are doing housework. Many women who once hired their housework done for them, due to changed conditions of living, are doing their own work today. The young couple, and often it is a business couple, solve their home making problems by starting life in the attractive housekeeping apartment. The business women who prefer to board are the exceptions, although most of them add some housekeeping to their tasks for the sake of a home of their own making.

Such conditions mean work which would make a woman's hands look coarse, if she did not take precautions against it. A generation ago a woman was excused if her hands showed the effects of her housework; although most of them were so sensitive about their reddened hands as to keep them covered in gloves whenever possible. Today, a woman must present dainty hands in spite of her housework. And she usually does.

I know a woman who has done most of her housework for twenty years, without ever showing any trace of it on her hands. Since she installed modern equipment for the work she has rarely needed gloves to protect her hands. Her method is to scrub the hands and clean the nails a number of times during a period of work. She claims this keeps the skin from becoming grimy. She also uses a honey and almond lotion after cleansing the hands, as it is absorbed quickly and supplies the skin with oil.

Another woman with equally well preserved hands attributes their condition to the use of salt. After she is through with the kitchen work she scrubs her hands in warm water, dries them partially on a towel and then completes the drying process by rubbing some dry coarse table salt all over the skin. She also keeps a box of this salt in the bathroom since the whole family has followed suit in adopting her habit. The salt acts like a pumice on the skin making it smooth, while

This need not spoil your hands.

Ellen—The cream you have been using is not suited to your skin, which accounts for the dryness and scaling. You should use a nourishing cream, one that contains good vegetable oils.

"The Enchanted April" is the title of "Elizabeth's" new novel which Doubleday, Page & Co. announce for publication in the fall. "Elizabeth" is the author of "Christopher and Columbus," "The Pastor's Wife," "The Caravans" and "Vera," last season's much-discussed history of the marital affairs of "the meanest man in fiction."

"Non-Violent Coercion" is the stimulating title of a book announced for autumn publication by The Century company. The author is Professor Clarence M. The Gandhi movement in India and some less well-known but like manifestations of non-violent coercion in other parts of the world give the book a timely interest. The growing realization, too, that destructive machinery is so powerful now that even a victor in war is almost certain to be a loser along with the conquered,

BLOOD PRESSURE—Part 1

Every day, in every way, my pressure gets lower'n lower. Have you a high blood pressure?

Are you worried for fear you may die suddenly of apoplexy or heart disease or kidney disease if your blood pressure goes a couple of points higher? Don't worry about it! Don't let it get higher. Reduce it. It is easy.

What will raise blood pressure? Many things. There is a normal temporary rise in blood pressure after eating, after exercising, excitement, change of position from sitting to standing, etc.

There may be an abnormal rise in blood pressure from: 1. Psychic influences—fear, excitement, anger, worry; 2. Overeating and over-drinking; 3. Over-exercise and over-work; 4. Toxemia (poisons in the blood—emia, means blood) from poisons swallowed or admitted and retained in the system from infections and chronic diseases; 5. Obesity.

Can all of these factors be controlled? Yes, to a large extent.

Before we discuss this control let me tell you some things you should know about blood pressure. Blood pressure is the pressure or tension exerted on the walls of the blood vessels by the blood, caused by its being driven through the constantly diminishing size of the blood vessels. When spoken of simply as blood pressure, we mean the arterial blood pressure usually taken on the main artery of the upper arm.

The two chief mechanical factors that maintain and regulate the blood pressure are: 1, the heart; 2, the blood vessels, especially the elastic dilating and contracting arteries.

There are two rhythmic fluctuations in the blood pressure. The highest phase, or systolic, is during the contraction of the heart; the lowest, or diastolic, is during the rest period of the heart. The difference between this pressure is known as the pulse pressure.

Instruments to measure blood pressure are called sphygmomanometers, if it means anything to you. They are delicate instruments. Roughly described, they consist of an arm band connected to a graduated scale. The arm band is made of an elastic bag. This is usually placed around the upper arm and pumped full of air until the circulation is cut off from the main artery of the upper arm.

The amount of pressure which it takes to do this is equal to the highest or the systolic pressure in the vessel. The pressure is regis-

Pacific-Southwest Review

By H. NELSON

Mgr. Glendale Ave. Branch, Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank

HERMAN NELSON

The modest savings account which carries a greater significance than the convenience, protection and opportunity it affords its owner. The savings account is a vital factor in the economic welfare of the nation.

The individual depositor is apt to look upon saving as a purely selfish matter, bringing no direct benefit to anyone but himself. He wants a home, or an automobile, or any of a number of things that systematic saving will give him. His savings account is a means to that end. And that's as far as it goes with him.

But could he contemplate the enormous development that has taken place in the Pacific-Southwest, as well as throughout the entire nation, solely because of such deposits, he would awake to a full appreciation of what thrift means to the nation. When one pauses to consider that the savings deposits of the United States exceed fifteen billion dollars it is easy to realize the vital part the savers play in the industrial development and economic progress of this country.

Has the commercial activity of Glendale any effect upon your business or salary or income? Would you, in any way, profit by its additional development? The answer must be YES for only in proportion to the prosperity of the community can the individual prosper.

The success of the farmer in the vicinity of Glendale is as essential to you, almost, as it is to himself. If he could no longer develop his lands, the result would be seriously felt by you. Very well, then. The farmer must borrow money to develop those lands. That money he secures from the banks of Glendale—the money you deposit with them. The

LOCALS AND ALL-STARS PLAY TEN INNINGS; SCORE 16 TO 15

Yes, Glendale Takes Long End; Plenty of Features Provided In Contest

"Comedy of Errors," combined with some high-class witting, yesterday afternoon netted the Glendale Merchants 16 scores against the Joe Pirrone All-Stars 15, although ten innings were required to knock out the winning drive. The Merchants now have a team standing of .850, having won seventeen out of twenty games played this season.

There were a number of features in yesterday's game, which was played on the local diamond, and prominent among them was the fact that 16 errors were recorded during the two hours and ten minutes of play. What prowess players on both teams displayed in batting, they mostly lost in loose fielding.

Registers Four Hits

Arnold, third baseman for the Pirrone gang, distinguished himself by driving out four hits in his five times at bat, but evened up his standing by successfully registering four errors, the prize number of the game. King, Glendale's big catcher, made one of the real records of the day by converting four offerings into hits out of six times up, and by keeping out of the error column.

Harris, who started at center field and ended on the mound, batted three out of five, and in the fifth inning drove out the only home run of the game.

From the first, the game was loosely played, and the scores pretty evenly balanced. Agesson started on the mound for the Merchants, but in the second, the Pirrones found him and gathered in seven runs. Thereafter, Manager Cobb exchanged Harris and Agesson, placing the latter in center field. Harris struck out ten men, allowed but one base on balls, knocked out a home run and a two bagger, and in general covered himself with glory.

Locals Get Good Lead

From the second on, the Merchants increased their lead for three innings, until at the end of the fifth they were ahead by six runs. In the next, the Pirrones gathered in two, and then Chevalier, their twirler, was pulled and exchanged places with Joe Pirrone himself, then playing in center field. In the eighth and ninth the Merchants were unable to find Pirrone's offerings, while the Los Angeles team brought in four more runs, leaving the score at the end of the ninth at 15 to 15.

In the extra inning, however, King singled, and then pilfered second. With King on second, Wilson, Glendale's classy little bunter, rapped out a single which brought in King and rang up the winning tally.

With a win over the Pirrones to their credit, and a standing of .850, the Merchants are easily among the few high-class semi-professional teams of the southland. The result of their top-notch playing is shown by the fact that in their third game against the Cleary Athletic club of Los Angeles, which they play next Sunday, they have been offered the use of the White Sox ball park in Los Angeles for the game. The Clearys and Merchants have each taken one game from the other, and are both eager to play off the rubber. Next Sunday afternoon they will stage the third game on the popular Los Angeles park.

MODERN BOXERS NOT SO GOOD?

Lord Lonsdale Says Dempsey and Carpenter Are Under Standard

By DAVID M. CHURCH

For International News Service.

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The old boxing days are in the past, according to Lord Lonsdale, the modern counterpart of the Marquis of Queensberry.

Jack Dempsey, Georges Carpentier and the rest of the modern school of boxers do not come up to the standards of the old rulers of Fisticland, according to Lord Lonsdale.

"Basting back over at least half a century of boxing, one cannot help experiencing a pang of regret, even of sadness, in comparing the eras that lie at the beginning and the end of this period," Lord Lonsdale said. "For it seems that the old days are gone—gone beyond dreaming and desiring; those great, grand old days when smart men, lusty men, went up against wily, lusty men for the sheer glory and honor of the fight and left all thoughts of cash and kind in the locker at home.

Big Purse Ruin Art

"I have no hesitation in saying that the enormous purses offered and the moneys made by promoters in getting up exhibitions are going to ruin the art. They are utterly out of proportion to the science.

"Where are the Charlie Mitchells today, the Frank Slavins, Jimmy Corbetts and Peter Jacksons? These giants of their age were the successors or contemporaries of equally virile stalwarts in Kilrain, David, John L., Fitzsimmons, Jem Mace and Tom King.

"Have we any cause for pride, when we try mentally to match our greatest with these? I doubt if even Dempsey could have stood to the assault of any of these warriors, although Dempsey is, without doubt, the one outstanding figure of our day, a great boxing fighter. He is the sole exception to the general rule of mediocrity, but it is open to doubt if even he could survive the grim fitness, the fighting prowess that was an innate part of every one of those giants of the past.

Difference In Hurt

"The old 'raw knuckle' fights were so much terribly gory affairs as are generally imagined. They were more injurious, certainly, but not half so punishing as the modern glove fight.

"In those bold days a gallon of beer and a five-pound note were felt sufficient provocation for a real fight between men who knew how to fight and who had studied

Jess Willard says he would not go into the ring against Jack Dempsey if he did not think he could whip him. How many times does Jess need to be whipped before he changes his mind?

As a fighting champion, Benny Leonard is the only one who is measuring up to the standards of the old time title holders. The most flimsy of critics could hardly complain that the lightweight king has not been tolerably active in the defense of his crown.

Because Strangler Ed Lewis, heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, failed to get a fall out of Renato Gardini in their two hour match recently, the countrymen of the Italian wrestler believe the old time title holders. The most flimsy of critics could hardly complain that the lightweight king has not been tolerably active in the defense of his crown.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Harry Willis may know too much for "Tut" Jackson in the battle of the brunettes at Ebbets field tomorrow night, he may out-smart him and again he may out-game him, but he will not out-strangle him. Willis' fistic endeavors to date have operated along the accepted ethics of a boa constrictor. His theory is to choke them first and explain afterwards.

It is no more of a trick for Harry Willis to do this than it is for him to pull such men as Norfolk, Fulton and others towards him with his left hand and then sock them with his right, in direct contravention with the rules of boxing.

A few days ago Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion—except in New York state, where the commission now says Johnnie Dundee is champion—was told that the plans are under way for a fight between himself and this same Dundee, said it was O. K. with him "provided they get enough money into the Polo grounds to make it worth while."

We don't know just what Champion Kilbane thinks is "worth while" in the way of his end of a purse, but we are prone to believe that it will be some thousand times more than the eight dollars he received for his original professional fight with Pat Campbell back in 1907. Since those days a fight that does not draw gate receipts of five figures is poor and today most of the best contests are drawing gates in six figures. Under these conditions we presume the featherweight champion is within his bounds by wanting something "worth while."

It is not only the Dempseys vs. Carpentiers that draw enormous gates, but the little chaps are also drawing record breaking gates. Note for instance the fight last July between Benny Leonard and Lew Tendler which drew the unheard-of—for a lightweight contest—gate of $450,000.

Kilbane and Dundee get together there is hardly a doubt but that this fight will draw a record breaking amount for the little chaps. Pete Herman and Joe Lynch last year drew $193,315.30 when Pete regained his title. There have been innumerable contests of lightweight and smaller fighters drawing gates that a few years ago would have been a record and they easily excel some of the greatest battles when such men as Jeffries, Fitzsimmons, Corbett and other stars fought. Benny Leonard and Mitchell, for instance, drew six figures, $133,745 to be correct, last year. They Rocky Kansas, when he beat Jackson in New York in March last year, attracted a gate of $77,395.

Even boxers of lesser light than the ones mentioned are capable of "packing them in." Note for example in January last year, that $28,825 was the total gate when Chaney beat Beecher in New York. Joe Lynch and Sharkey drew $41,719 when they boxed in New York. Going back a few years to the days when Terry McGovern fought the comparison of early day fights with the receipts of the events today is interesting and shows the general public interest in the mitt game.

There seems no doubt but that Mr. Champion Kilbane can draw, but he will have to be satisfied, probably, with a percentage basis, which, in any event, will give him a small fortune, probably more than any old time fight drew as the total receipts for a contest. We believe his coming contest with Dundee will not only be "worth while" for Kilbane, but also for Dundee.

Dundee and Pepper Martin Meet Tonight

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Johnny Dundee, the busiest boxer in the ring, will defend his 130 pound title against Vincent "Pepper" Martin tonight at the New York velodrome in a fifteen-round bout. Martin's only claim to fame is a one-round knock out scored over Babe Herman of California last winter. Dundee rules an 8 to 5 favorite.

SENATOR HIRAM W. JOHNSON

Roosevelt Statement

In Hiram Johnson we have a man whose every word is made good by the deeds he has done, a man who, as the head of a great state, has practically applied in that state, for the benefit of the people of that state, the principles which we intend to apply throughout the Union as a whole.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"Tuesday, California, voting at the primaries, will tell what she thinks of Hiram Johnson.

"To people living in the East, especially at the national capital, the fact that Wall Street newspapers in the East predict Johnson's defeat is puzzling. Usually such newspapers are well-informed, and they assert positively 'plans are complete to get rid of Johnson.'

"California must be consulted in that matter, however, and that California men and women should vote to take Hiram Johnson out of the senate seems about as probable as a vote to cut down all the redwood trees, or to exchange the California climate for that of Nova Scotia.

"In the East Hiram Johnson has been criticized for his hard fight—which he won—to get high protection for California's products, fruit, almonds, walnuts, etc. But in fighting for California, he fought for the whole country interested in the prosperity of the magnificent Pacific State. In any case his tariff work surely will not hurt him with REAL Californians.

"A state does not readily destroy what adds to its credit and standing among all the states. Forty-seven states outside of California know of Hiram Johnson as well as California knows of Niagara Falls.

"Of ninety-six men in the Senate, how many are known to all the states? Not half a dozen. And Hiram Johnson is the most widely known of them all. A born Californian, Hiram Johnson so impressed the nation before the last national campaign that his nomination would have been CERTAIN had the people voted for the Presidential nominee.

"The things that he undertook in California when he was Governor, went through. He proved himself more powerful than the corporations, but just to them all.

"Senator Johnson is a fighter, sincere, courageous, democratic, loyal. No man could better represent the spirit of California. That his fellow citizens should retire him in favor of an estimable, handsome gentleman whom the rest of the country never heard of, and never would hear of, is unthinkable to anyone who has traveled through California, a thousand miles north and south, studying the people and their intense loyalty to everything truly Californian.

"Tuesday will tell how much Wall Street knows about California men and women, and their loyalty to their own friends."

—ARTHUR BRISBANE.

From Comments Published in Many Leading Papers of U. S. on Friday, Aug. 25.

YOUR VOTE WILL TELL

the monied interests that California cannot be sold out to the highest bidder. As Brisbane says:

"You can imagine how eagerly Hiram Johnson would be welcomed as a practicing lawyer by Wall Street gentlemen that are so eager to get him out of the Senate—where he represents California, instead of representing them. They would say to Johnson: 'Come on with us, Senator. We will show you how to make some REAL money. Don't waste your time with politics. We will let bygones be bygones, and make you a rich man in five years.' And they would do it. Any one of a dozen big corporation law firms would gladly guarantee Senator Johnson ten times what the Nation pays him, and twice that."

EUROPEAN SOIL IS COMPARED WITH AMERICAN

Department of Agriculture Sends Man to Obtain Proper Analysis

By H. K. REYNOLDS, For Information News Service, WASHINGTON. — Exhaustive comparisons of the principal soils of Europe and America have been made by Dr. C. F. Marbut, of the department of agriculture, who has just returned to the United States after nearly three months' travel in western, central, southern and southeastern Europe. The purpose of Dr. Marbut's visit was to study the soils, collect samples and to confer with scientists in various countries. While in Europe he covered between 5,000 and 6,000 miles, collecting 250 soil samples in France, Germany, Czech-Slovakia, England, Italy and Greece. The object of his investigation, according to Dr. Marbut, was to get samples and to see how nearly the great soil groups of the continent compare with those that are recognized in this country. Dr. Marbut's report to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace gives the following comparisons of European and American soils: The soils in central Czech-Slovakia are almost identical with the soils in southeastern Pennsylvania, known as Chester soils. Hungarian Soil Dark The Hungarian plains, known locally as the Puszta, have a rich, dark soil, with plenty of lime that results in soil of the southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois. In other respects, however, this soil is more like the type found in Western Minnesota and the eastern Dakotas, the eastern quarter of Nebraska, the extreme western part of Iowa and east central Kansas. Corn, wheat, oats, barley and alfalfa are the principal crops on this level land of Hungary. The great interior prairie of Transylvania belongs to the same types as the Houston black clay and Houston clay, the black, waxy lands of Texas. The principal crops of this prairie are corn—known throughout southeastern Europe as cucurus—small grains and alfalfa. The plain of Rumania, a southwestern extension of the great plains of southern Russia, is divided into three principal parts. The western mountainous border originally supported a great oak forest and has a subsoil containing much more lime than is usually found in the oak-growing soils here. Rich Brown Loam The soil is a rich brown loam. East of these oak-forest soils is a belt of black soils which covers the greater part of Bessarabia and a part of Moldavia and resembles the wheat-growing soils of the central part of the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas. Still farther east in Rumania are lighter colored brown soils which seem to correspond to the soils of the high plains of Texas in the region about Amarillo. Throughout the Athens basin in Greece lime carbonate accumulation is found in the soil at shallow depth except locally, where recent accumulations of alluvium have taken place. The soils here are comparable to those near Tucson, Arizona. The soil of the plains of Thessaly, in northern Greece, resembles that of western Nebraska beyond the sandhills country. The color is dark, and there is an abundance of lime in the subsoil. Much of the land to the north and east of Rome is poor and badly eroded, the lack of crops other than sparse pasture being due to lack of soil. To the east there is much soil with a compacted subsoil in the shape of a brick that found in the San Joaquin Valley of California. In his trip across northern France, Dr. Marbut found the best grass lands in Europe. It is a limestone soil, much like that found in the famous Blue Grass region of Kentucky, but shallower. German Soil Brown In the western part of southern Germany is a dark brown limestone soil that grows great deal of alfalfa and much fruit. Farther east the land is more hilly and grows much grass, but the stock is not kept on pasture. These soils of southern Germany also resemble those of the best part of Kentucky, the Shenandoah valley of Virginia and the Lebanon and Cumberland valleys of Pennsylvania. In the vicinity of Leipzig the land in many respects is not unlike that of central Indiana, known as Miami soils. The typical English farm soil was found to be similar to that in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. Dr. Marbut became a member of committee of the International Conference of Soil Scientists, of which Professor Murgoci, of Bucharest, is chairman. The committee is to take up and make recommendations to the next meeting of the conference regarding the nomenclature and mapping of soils.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Re-elect Hiram Johnson Richardson and Economy Three Former Service Men Other Suggestions

By Gil A. Cowan ACCORDING to a friend of mine, the campaign is closed. True, but the voting at the primary election doesn't begin until tomorrow morning and the counting of votes will take some time—possibly far into the night. Of utmost importance to local voters are the municipal bond issues, all of which are urged as necessary. The next thing in line is the election of good officials. The Glendale Evening News stands by Hiram Johnson for re-election as United States senator because of his great record. Further, every good citizen should deeply resent the malicious campaign of vilification which has been waged against this faithful public servant. In the Republican gubernatorial race there are two candidates, both officeholders, both respectable and nothing justifies an unwarranted attack on them, but—Friend William Richardson, as state treasurer, has effected great economy and pledges to cut the cost of government in California by more than $100,000,000. William D. Stephens incumbent, seeking a third term, makes no such promise and spends his time defending the inefficiency of various state commissioners he has appointed. There are 234 newspapers in the state of California, as well as thousands of business men, who believe Governor Stephens can be retired at this time, with thanks, and Friend Richardson advanced to the higher post. It is customary in lodges, clubs and other organized bodies to pass the honors around a bit. I am going to vote for Richardson without malice aforethought. There are three former service men I am going to vote for, also. Major Walter F. Linberger is the Republican candidate for congress. He already has shown his ability to represent this district. His principal opponent has had his opportunity and failed. Frank C. Weller, candidate for assembly, is a Glendale man, a member of Glendale Post No. 127, American Legion, and merits the recognition. J. T. Millan, a disabled veteran, is in the field for state treasurer. Bear him in mind, folks. Franklin D. Mather, candidate for state senator, once more is faced by A. Burlingame Johnson, whom he defeated several years ago as representative of the 67th district. Joseph A. Rominger of Long Beach would make a good lieutenant governor with Friend Richardson in office. C. C. Young has served with Stephens. Frank C. Jordan for secretary of state, Ray L. Riley for controller and U. S. Webb for attorney-general are not opposed. W. S. Kingsbury undoubtedly will retain his office as surveyor-general. Sidney S. Gilhuly of Glendale is a candidate for member of the state board of equalization, fourth district. Having signed his nominating petition, I feel duty bound to vote for him. In other columns will be found recommendations regarding the county central committee. The non-partisan list provides little of local interest.

Jail Ten Men for Death, Destruction

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Ten men were under arrest today and one had made an amazing confession of death and destruction in the rail strike, according to Lieutenant Michael Grady, "ace" of the detective bureau. A number of those under arrest were said to be "red" students of the Lenin-Trotsky reign of terror in Russia. According to the police, four of the men who were first arrested are implicated by the confession in the wrecking of the million dollar express of the Michigan Central at Gary, Ind., a week ago.

PIRATES CARRY ON HUGE ROBBERIES OFF CHINA

Daring Sea Thefts Are Being Committed Along Chinese Coast With Success

By EDNA LEE BOOKER For International News Service, ABOARD THE S.S. SOOCHOW, OFF FOOCHOW.—Hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of treasure is captured yearly by the pirates operating along the China coast from Foochow to Canton in raids made upon the coast and river steamers, according to Captain M. S. Monkman, of the S. S. Soochow. The days of the pirates hold with their "heave ho and a bottle of rum" are not all past, for pirates are as daring and murderous as Robert Louis Stevenson's favorite variety are carrying on a flourishing business in South China. The pirates are organized in bands and live in picturesque junks boasting great patched sails, huge eyes and gaily painted bodies. They fear neither man nor evil spirits and will attack any boat whether large or small if they have reason to believe the loot is worth the effort. We were sitting out on deck admiring the islands covered with grass and trees, the fishing boats being rowed by husky Chinese men and women, and the little villages nesting in the hills when we were passing when the captain began to spin tales of the Chinese pirates. "Pirate Hard to Capture There are so many pirates and so many ways in which they can escape along the coast from Foochow to Canton that it is almost impossible to capture them," said Captain Monkman. "The rivers emptying into the China Sea are filled with small islands, which are havens for the pirates. "Why, only six months ago a band of pirates disguised as second class passengers, boarded a large coast steamer at Foochow. A day or so out of Hongkong these men suddenly took charge of the ship. The pirate chief, a great burly fellow, and an assistant, entered the captain's cabin, ordered him to hold up his hands and they searched the room. "Other members of the gang were at work all over the ship. A group of confederates in a junk came up to the side of the steamer and the loot was handed down to them. Altogether they made a haul of more than $100,000 worth of silver. "The pirates disabled the machinery and escaped. I believe that one Chinese passenger was killed in the fighting. "Are we carrying any treasure?" asked a girl from Georgia en route from Shanghai to Hongkong, for large quantities of silver are carried back and forth on the coast steamers from the various banks and also for wealthy Chinese. "Oh, yes," answered the captain nonchalantly, "we have about a million dollars in silver on board." Passengers Watch Boats After that every Chinese fishing boat, junk or launch we saw spelled pirates in big letters. Incidentally it explained the unusually heavy police guard on the boat. The Indian men in their brown uniforms paced back and forth night and day on the decks, ready for any emergency. The captain told of the favorite method of the river pirates in attacking a river boat. Two junks will go up the river on either side of the boat. A heavy rope connects the two junks and when the prow of the boat hits the rope it draws the two junks toward the boat and it is a simple matter for the men to spring on board. The pirates are very agile and can board a boat simply by hooking a long bamboo pole on the side and climbing up hand over hand. Many of the most successful pirates come from a long line of pirates. They grow up on the pirate junks and know no other life. Others are farming people, and after a good haul will retire to their little farms for maybe weeks before they again attack a boat. The pirates spare nothing and attack any boat from the houseboat carrying a small load of rice to the coast and river steamers. When captured they are shot at once and their junk is stripped, partially buried in the sand and an inscription, which is a warning to other pirates, painted on the portion of the boat left exposed.

Dillingham of Long Beach was the best man. Harry William Perry, Jr., of Tulare, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer, carrying the circlet on a white satin pillow. Just preceding the bride was the little flower girl, Mary Moore, of Glendale, who was attired in white and scattered rose petals.

The bride, who is a very attractive and charming young woman, was attired in her mother's wedding dress of heavy white corded silk with duchess and point lace. She wore a wedding veil caught with orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley tied with tulle. The pillow on which the young couple knelt was covered with a beautiful white embroidered scarf which was an heirloom in the Cookman family. As the party left the church Miss Wilson and Miss Mulligan played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March."

Why Progressive Republicans Should Support Chas. C. Moore

By CHESTER H. ROWELL
In six years in the United States senate Hiram Johnson has accomplished less than he did in his first six minutes as governor of California.

As governor he stood for construction; as senator he has been and continues an obstructionist. He has gained and deserves the reputation of being the world's champion obstructionist.

A. BURLINGAME JOHNSON
In my own public life I have found that those who have been successful in their own affairs are best fitted to cope with the problems of legislation and the business of the State.

I am, therefore, supporting Mr. A. Burlingame Johnson for State Senator because he has stood the test of experience in public affairs, and in his business affairs, therefore, I believe him well equipped for the position and will vote for him for that reason.

Run Race Over Again
Owing to the fact that four of the contestants did not get started on the word "go," it was necessary to run the men's free-for-all race over again. Capt. Ralph E. Dodsworth of Fire Station No. 1, who had arrived on the scene just in time to take first place in the first trial, was unable to place in the second trial and first place went to Assistant Postmaster George Hallett. It was an order for a tailor-made shirt from the Baldwin Shirt company at 1725 South Brand boulevard. The second prize, which was a silk necktie donated by the Dewey Shop, 48 South Brand boulevard, was won by J. O'Farrell of 1831 Gardena avenue.

The women's free-for-all race was one of the most exciting events of the afternoon. First place was won by Mrs. L. Lakey of 1211 East Wilson avenue and second place went to Mrs. G. McComb of 332 Ethel street. Prizes were a fourteen-quart aluminum kettle donated by the Wilson-Bell Hardware company, 221 North Brand boulevard, and a sewing basket donated by Fischer's Variety Store, 212 East Broadway.

Mrs. Alice of 14 1/2 Ethel street won the potato race and was given a basket of groceries donated by C. F. Boss of 401 West Dryden street.

A big laugh was secured by the spectators out of the nail driving contest which was open to the wives of the letter carriers. Mrs. Anderson of Hollywood won first place and Mrs. O. W. Wright of 408 Cameron place won second place. The prizes were a leather bound loose leaf diary donated by C. H. Kirkman of 14 1/2 South Brand boulevard and a pound of coffee.

Women Hurl Baseball
The women's ball-throwing contest was won by Mrs. R. W. Dick of 424 West Windsor road. The prize was an order for $2 worth of hardware from the store at 601 East Broadway of the Glendale Hardware company.

An order for five gallons of gasoline donated by the Mission Supply station of 243 South Central avenue went begging because it was impossible to have the post-office supervisors' race because George Hallett was the only one on the premises. The yellow "Lark" was seen going down the road a few minutes previously.

The program given by the Letter Carriers' Band of Los Angeles was much applauded during the afternoon. It consists of about 35 players, all members of Uncle Sam's family. Glendale is represented among them by A. C. Holcomb, Donaldson, Newton Clark and W. W. Hunt.

Dancing Much Enjoyed
The evening was devoted to dancing in the new pavilion and many compliments were paid to the condition of the floor.

Music was furnished by the Shrine Club orchestra consisting of A. M. Kelly, E. J. Donaldson, Mike Kaufman, Roy Mason and Earl Floyd and N. A. Fraser.

"Three o'clock in the Morning" served as the tune for the prize waltz. This caused much debate on the part of the three judges, Mrs. A. S. Wood, Mrs. Al Holcomb and J. O'Farrell. It was finally settled by the spectators, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Jennings of 555 Salem street. Second place went to A. G. Williams and his sister, Miss Evelyn Williams.

Several weird selections were played on the bagpipes by Harry Fraser and his son, Howard Kenneth Fraser, and Donald MacDougal and his son, Alec McDougal. All were in Highland costume. Although all of the members of the local postoffice department

R. E. Brown of the Glendale Bootery, 221 North Brand boulevard, states that he is very much pleased with the progress of his sale, as it has exceeded his expectations. He said:

"I made up my mind to give the people of Glendale some real values in shoes, which I did, and they have been exceedingly generous in their response."

He has now decided to continue the sale until the end of the month. With new fall stock coming in, it was necessary to reduce the summer footwear stock to make room for the early shipments.
