I took my lesson from an incident which I will relate to you. M. Lepman, S. Lepman, (clown—Lewis.) When I was a journeyman printer, one of my companions, an apprenticed hatter, having served out his time, was a boat to open a shop for himself. His first concern was to have a proper signboard with a proper inscription. He composed it in these words, "John Thompson Hatter makes and sels hats for ready money,' with a figure of a hat submit it to his friends for their amendments. The first he showed it to so the Boxes in Officens street, to the Park thought the words 'hatter,' tautologous, in Royal street. because followed by the words makes halts,' which show he was a hatter. It was struck out. The next observed that the word 'makes' might as well be omitted, because his customers would not care who made the hats if good and to their mind, they would buy, by whomsoever made. He struck it out A third said, he thought the words, for ready no money, were useless, as it was not the enstore of the place to sell on credit : every one who purchased expected to pay. They were parted with and the inscription now second "John Thompson sells hats, 'Selle hats says his next friend; why nobody will expect you to give them away. What then is the use of that word?'
