TO : SCAP (MACARTHUR) TOKYO JAPAN

NR : W 95970

As you know, Johnson, with your approval, also invited Senate Appropriations Committee to visit Japan during recess of Congress. Unfortunately committee could not accept as group, although some members will probably stop there en route home from round the world trip via Europe. However, Senator William Knowland of California, committee member, now desires trip to Japan. Am accordingly issuing invitational orders for him. He will leave West Coast by Pan American 7 Nov, stop off at Honolulu, and arrive Tokyo 1630 local time 11 Nov, where he will place himself in your hands. Suggest that, provided acceptable to Dodge and Sheets, Capt Donnan might be assigned to Knowland as aide on arrival Japan to facilitate his trip. Mrs. Knowland accompanies him as far as Japan.

Senator also wishes to visit Korea, Hong Kong, Philippines and possibly Batavia. Believe we would be fully justified in furnishing him special mission plane wherever commercial transport not reasonably adequate. Senator McKellor, Committee Chairman, has written Johnson personally, requesting we facilitate Knowland trip, thus making visit not merely individual trip but in real sense representative of committee. Suggest for your consideration cable of personal invitation from you to Knowland. His address is care Oakland Tribune, Oakland Calif.

September 6, 1949

My dear Courtney:

There is an illustrious man here by the name of Dr. Louis Talbot, who is the pastor of the "Church of the Open Door" with a congregation of over ten thousand people, who is a relative by marriage of my brother's wife.

He told me that he is leaving this week for a trip around the world for a visit to the numerous missionaries they have in Asia and in the Middle East. He said he hoped that he could have a brief audience with General McArthur, and I told him that I would write you in his behalf. If you can arrange a brief meeting, I will be grateful to you. In view of his pre-eminence in the ecclesiastical world out here, I hope that he may be entitled to such an audience. It may also be true that a message from General McArthur to Dr. Talbot's missionaries would be a useful thing.

The Doctor told me that he is a very good friend of Major C.O.Miller of the Chaplain's Corps, who was with you in the Philippines and who is now stationed in Tokyo. It may be that you know Major Miller. I suggested to Dr. Talbot that he contact the Major upon arrival and that they together call upon you.

With all good wishes, I am

Sincerely,

Ralph

Accommodations for VIPs

Govt Sec Chief of Staff 16 August 1949

3 This Section doubts the wisdom of a severance of the Visitors Bureau from its existing responsibility for the reception, departure, etc. of this classification of VIPs, for which it is especially equipped. It is felt that it would be much more effective to continue as heretofore with the Visitors Bureau retaining its present responsibility and the responsibility of this Section being confined to one of orientation after each individual has been established in his assigned quarters. Continuing cooperation of the Visitors Bureau thereafter is mandatory, as this Section is not set up and never intended to undertake the various and sundry housekeeping duties which are inherent in VIP care. Arrangements for such cooperation can be worked out informally by the undersigned with Colonel Singer.

C of S Government Section 15 Aug 1949

2 1. Current regulations on use of government passenger vehicles, coupled with the very limited availability of sedans, restrict the assignment of sedans to staff sections of General Headquarters.

2. Government Section's request for assignment of an additional sedan to meet special transportation requirements until 1 November 1949, indicates, after study, that Mr. Hopkinson, Mr. Vosberg, Mr. Cousins, and Mr. Palmer need transportation during the actual presence of these individuals in Tokyo. It appears that Mr. Palmer will leave Tokyo on 15 October and that Mr. Smedberg presumably would require assignment of a sedan to Government Section throughout his visit.

3. In view of the above, G-4 has been directed to assign an additional sedan to Government Section on daily dispatch during the period from 15 August to 15 October 1949. If, by 15 October 1949, further requirement for an additional sedan is foreseen, a new request should be submitted to the Chief of Staff.

4. In the Chief of Staff's subject discussion with Chief of Government Section, it is understood that the Chief of Staff will be notified of each instance in which a special assignment of a VIP visitor to Government Section has been made.

5. If Visitors Bureau assistance with regard to reception, departure, or any other aspect of a visit of a VIP sponsored by Government Section is desired, requests for such assistance will be submitted to the Chief of Staff.

1 1. The C-inC has directed that this Section assume primary responsibility for the proper orientation of American publishers, editors, political writers, commentators, etc., determined by him to be entitled to special VIP privileges and treatment. This is, of course, an extremely delicate assignment, the confidential character of which must be preserved if it is to be effectively implemented.

2. At present the following are under the guidance of this Section pursuant to the foregoing assignment:

Norman Cousins - Editor, Saturday Review of Literature
Peter Hopkinson - March of Time representative
Frederick Vosberg - Editor, National Geographic Magazine

Enroute are the following:

Renwick Smedberg - ABC correspondent
Kyle Palmer - Los Angeles Times political editor

3. Apart from the full cooperation of Col. Echols, PIO, and Col. Singer of the Visitors' Bureau, so necessary if the objective of this matter is to be achieved, this Section will require adequate facilities to meet the attendant transport requirements.

4. G-4 has pointed out by checknote dated 13 August that current GHQ policies and directives strictly limit the assignment of additional transportation to meet intermittent requirements upon the several staff sections. Currently, however, it is indicated that through the month of October Government Section will require a minimum of one assigned sedan with driver in order to meet the requirements of this new phase of its responsibility.

5. Request is therefore made for the assignment to Government Section of one sedan with driver until 1 November 1949--subject to continuous review of the situation to determine future requirements.

1. 1. Pursuant to telephone conversation this date, the last fifty-two (52) issues of The Saturday Review of Literature were examined for titles pertaining to Japan. The only title found was in the issue of 31 July 1948: "Japan: Propaganda to Pornography," by Ralph Chapman. A copy of that issue is inclosed herewith.

2. Norman Cousins is not personally known to the Chief, CIE but the following information concerning him has been furnished by members of this Section who know Mr. Cousins quite well:

Norman Cousins, editor and vice-president of The Saturday Review of Literature, is a relatively young man -- 37 -- who has come into prominence during the past decade because of his propensity to speak out loudly and clearly about what he likes or dislikes.

He came to The Saturday Review of Literature with experience on the New York Post and Current History and helped to convert its directors to a policy of concern with national and international affairs normally thought of as outside the realm of literature.

During the war, he edited for the Office of War Information the magazine USA, which was distributed widely in Allied and neutral countries. In 1945, his book titled Modern Man Is Obsolete made him the spokesman for those who in reaction to the atomic bomb believed that world government was imperative.

His status and interests are reflected in his holding of the following positions outside The Saturday Review of Literature: consultant on international relations to the American Broadcasting Company, member of the board of directors of Freedom House and the Wilkie Memorial Foundation, and trustee of Briarcliff College.

An associate of his in the Office of War Information has the following personal comment to offer: "Cousins, though normally a genial individual, appears to be under some compulsion to keep himself to the fore and is a better talker than listener. His typical approach to a problem is inclined to be aggressive. He looks for and is intolerant of weak spots in an argument. By temperament and conviction, he is not even remotely sympathetic toward Communism."

Missions, Visiting

Tokyo, Japan.

June 8, 1949

Dr. Carl Shoup,
Head of the Tax Mission to Japan,
Tokyo, Japan.

Sir:

Taking this opportunity of your arrival to Japan, kindly permit me to express my frank views anent the prevailing conditions in Japan with reference to the rumored 450 or 500 million dollar aid to Japan now being discussed in the American Congress.

You have undoubtedly familiarized yourself with the conditions in Japan, but there are certain aspects predominant in the Japanese mind which tend to stress too much reliance and dependence on America that the Japanese people somehow seem to have forgotten that the initiative of economic recovery rests with themselves and not with America. So far as can be perceived, little effort is being made on the part of the Japanese people to return American goodwill. Moreover, pessimism seems to be taking root in their minds; the reasons of which may be attributed to the following:

1. Lack of political leadership
2. Economical weakenss resulting from material shortages
3. Lack of a dominating ideology (The people still do not understand what Democracy is.)

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 11652 SEC. 3(E) AND 5(D) OR (E) NND # 773012

4. Housing shortages and insufficient arable land

5. Lack of proper industrial facilities

But we have been able to maintain peace and order, and, to a certain extent, stability of livelihood since the surrender, thanks to the brilliance of General MacArthur and the aid extended to Japan by America. However, stabilities so far have been merely ostensible and what remains now seems to be only passive cooperation. Unless some means and ways are found to counteract this pessimistic and reluctant attitude, greater and heavier burden will befall on the American taxpayer. Occasional "jolts" like the recent Nine-Point Economic Stabilization Program produce good psychological effects; but reports like the rumored 450 or 500 million dollar financial aid to Japan for the fiscal year of 1950 tend to make "loafers" of the Japanese and stamp in their minds the belief that America will always come to the aid of Japan. This does not mean that Japan is able to weather all storms without American aid, for it is obvious that economic recovery is impossible without it. The point is to implant enough hope, enthusiasm and initiative into the people so that they may strive forward with their own sweat and toil towards recovery without overburdening the American taxpayer. Pouring vast sums of dollars into Japan at this phase is like throwing water on a thirsty soil; firstly, because whatever sum is brought to Japan will be consumed in a few months for food and clothing unless it is strictly used for reconstruction purposes, and secondly, the factor that the people have not yet quite awakened politically, economically, culturally, or otherwise.

DECLASSIFIED E.O. 11652 SEC. 3(E) AND 5(D) OR (E) NND # 715012

It, therefore, seems wise to induct only one-half of the aforesaid amount at this time and use it strictly for industrial recovery purposes; the other one-half, or $250,000,000 if the deciding amount is $500,000,000, may be used as follows:

1. Purchasing of Japanese manufactured goods (including materials in stock) at discount prices to be shipped to Southeast Asia, India and Africa where they are welcomed.

2. The participation of American companies to market Japanese goods in the aforesaid areas on a percentage basis or barter for raw materials like rubber, tin, quinine and the like which American manufacturers need.

The dollars accumulated in America from shipment of Japanese products to America can easily be used as a "revolving" fund if America buys, but the hitch is that Japan, at present, cannot produce anything suitable for American consumption. The barter system, therefore, seems to be the only outlet.

All in all, a smoother flow of Japanese goods are necessary to revive not only the economy of the nation but also to act as a bulwark against the surging communism. All nations, moreover, may benefit therefrom.

Before the war, most of the Japanese goods were exported to nations with low cultural and living standards; shipments to America were limited to specific items like silk and special industrial art objects. But since the war, non-dollar countries have lost all purchasing power---all trade being centered around America.

"That shipments to countries without dollars simply cannot be done" is rational and understandable. But we must consider here the fact that the difference of cultural standards between America and Japan is at least 100 years, and that this nation is not yet in the ppsition to satisfy American consumers. Japanese manufacturers must be given some time. The situation at hand, however, is urgent and requires an immediate outlet for Japanese goods lest further pessimism grows. An indirect economic aid such as mentioned in the previous paragraphs, therefore, seems to fit the prevailing conditions in Japan and further boost the morale of the manufacturers as well as the workers.

Few sacrifices are necessary at first but, I am sure, good results will be produced therefrom. If manufacturers know that their products can be sold, they will undoubtedly endeavor to make better products at cheaper prices; while, simultaneously, living up to American expectations.

The problem is of reality and policy.

Any child monopolizing all the toys will be despiced by his playmates. It is only by dividing the toys that harmony arises. Children are happy even if the toys are lent them.

America, possessing most of the gold in the world, is the only harmonizing agent which can bring peace and order to this world.

Faced by cold and bare facts, we would like to know "What we must do?" "What must be done?"

We ask your advice from the condlusions reached after giving due consideration to the habits, traditions and idiosyncracies of Japan, and how best they can be fitted into the project of economic recovery.

It has been very audacious of me, but I hope you will

Dear General MacArthur:

I am delighted to have your letter of the 9th of April.

I wonder if the new publisher of Collier's, whom Mr. Winger and myself appointed, were to designate a thoroughly reliable and high type of writer to visit you at Tokyo, if you would be willing to give him the true story of your American-Far Eastern effort, and facts and data concerning it. It seems to me that it is a great story that should be published if for no other reason then to fend off unauthorizied and unworthy stories that undermine your efforts.

I am asking Mr. Anthony to communicate with you in this connection, and if you decide favorably may I assure you that the material will be handled with the greatest care, courtesy, and distinction.

With sincere regards to you and your lady.
