INTERESTING INTELLIGENCE.

The steamship Tennessee, Forbes, master, arrived yesterday morning, bringing dates to the 8th inst. Our files of papers and private correspondence enable us to gather more than the usual summary of information.

During the early part of the month the news was considered unfavorable to the Liberals. Gen. MEJIA, at the head of 2000 men, had encountered MIRON, the Reactionist, in command of more than 3000 troops. A sanguinary engagement ensued, which, after a struggle of five hours, resulted in the total defeat of MEJIA, who lost a large proportion of his force and twelve pieces of artillery.

On the 7th instant, however, intelligence was received of a more encouraging character. The Reactionist leaders, as will be perceived, have begun to pillage and defraud one another, and the presumption, therefore, is reasonable that their dominion is nearly at an end. An immensely valuable conducta had left Mexico for the Pacific coast. It contained not less than two million eight hundred thousand dollars, of which half a million was the private property of MIRAMON. When the conducta reached Leon it was placed in charge of Gen. MARQUEZ, who, with the troops under his command, escorted the treasure to Guanajuato. No sooner did the wily and covetous MARQUEZ find the specie in his power than he swooped down upon it, and at one grab helped himself to the sum of $600,000, depositing the remainder at the banking house of DOMECILLES, HERMANDEZ. When the intelligence was received in Mexico it occasioned great astonishment and vast indignation. Mr. MATHEW, of the English Legation, offered an energetic protest against this audacious act of pillage, and Count GABRIAC, the French representative, wrote personally to MARQUEZ, telling that unscrupulous adventurer that France had arms long enough to chastise rogues such as he, even though they fled to the end of the world.

President MIRAMON became much alarmed, and promised the foreign Ministers to bring MARQUEZ to his senses. Accordingly on the 31 inst. he left MEXICO, accompanied by several aids de camp, in pursuit of the defaulting General. At the last accounts MIRAMON had arrived at Queretaro, where he had issued orders by telegraph to the various commanders to unite their detachments and join him as rapidly as possible. The belief, however, in general that MARQUEZ has pronounced in favor of SANTA ANNA, and that he designs laying hands on the whole of the treasure in the conducta under pretenses that he will use it to restore peace and public order. What a set of inveterate scamps these Reactionist leaders must be!

The Liberal's tatters are considerably better. We learn, for instance, that Cols. ROJAS and COLONADO, when at TEPIC, imposed a forced loan on that town. Among the number included in this extortion was an English merchant named ALSOP. His complaint to the President was followed by immediate reparation, and he was reimbursed in both the principal and interest of the sum paid in by him.

Guanajuato, it is said, has been captured by DEGOLLADO, who fought and defeated the Reactionist troops under ALTAMO, who had seen possession of the town.

The MIRAMON Government have made an arrangement with the house of JECKER for the issue of bonds to the amount of fifteen millions of dollars. The notes or bonds are to bear interest at 8 per cent., one half the interest being guaranteed by JECKER for five years. The will be received by the Government in payment of the fifth part of all public debts, taxes, duties, &c. They are to be given in exchange for the bonds of the interior debt. No confidence whatever is felt either in the ability of the Government to redeem these obligations, or in the Administration which issues them.

In fine, the affairs of Mexico seem upon the brink of another crisis. The Reactionists are bound to succumb, but whether they will give way to the Liberals, or to the restoration of SANTA ANNA, is yet to be ascertained. Nor ordinary prescience can undertake to predict the course of events in Mexico.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—We take occasion to remind the public that the thirty days during which the additional stock set aside for Louisiana may be taken exclusively by residents, will expire on the 15th inst., after which the stock will be open to persons from other States. It is important, therefore, that all who desire to be connected with the grand, and now successful, enterprise should come forward at once, so that Louisiana may retain her legitimate influence in the company. Elsewhere we publish the new additional subscriptions are being taken up rapidly.

STOCK MUSICAL FRIEND.—The last number of this cheap and valuable publication has been received at BARNES', No. 7 Exchange Place.

We learn that the Vicksburg packet Magnolia, and the St. Louis packet T. J. M Gill, both bound to this port, are aground at Hole-in-the-Wall, in seven feet water. The T. L. McGILL has on board Ben DeBar's company for the St. Charles Theatre.

The steamship De Soto, Captain Bulkley, left her wharf this morning at 8 o'clock, for New York via Havana, with the following passengers, and $6500 in specie for New York:

For New York—Mrs. Harrison and lady, Jno. Harrison, Mrs. Hooper, Mrs. Mrs. Mrs.
