"Rush" Conferences Will Bring About Early Adjournment

RACE AND RELIGIOUS STRIFE

Eliminated in House by Defeat of Resolve of Sectarian Nature—Turn For the Better in Taxation Legislation—Cat Bill Has Good Show of Going Through Successfully

President Coolidge of the senate and Speaker Cushing of the house are responsible for a new invention called "rush" conferences. These take place on the average of once a week between the presiding officers of the two branches and the various chairmen.

The object of the "rush" conference is to impress anew upon the minds of the chairmen the necessity of getting through with the business assigned to each committee upon the bulletin. Every chairman who appears at the conference is asked what is the earliest possible time that he can promise that all of the matters in his charge will be reported upon. The slow committees are hurried up and the fast committees are told to go faster.

These conferences have had a decidedly beneficial result. Never before has there been such a volume of business before the general court as this year. At the pace usually set the general court would this year last until September. But business is actually being transacted so fast that it is possible now to see the end of the session at about the first week in June.

The Mexican situation instead of complicating matters has caused even greater hurry. The adjutant general bill, instead of causing delay, actually gave all matters a greater spur. Coolidge and Cushing have set out to make history in the matter of dispatching business and they are really doing it.

Better House Feeling

Three weeks ago it did look as if the house intended to get itself into such a deadlock that it would presently be impossible to transact any business whatever. Race and religious feeling was the cause of a great deal of it.

While Speaker Cushing has back Bay mannerisms that have made him disliked by certain men in the house, it is hardly any secret at all that the trouble was the presence of the resolve which provided that never should the legislature appropriate any money for sectarian purposes.

There is no suggestion that the legislature is likely to do this. But the resolve was backed in the house by a few extremists and the story was spread abroad that the passage of the resolve and the election of Mr. Cushing as speaker were part of the program.

There is no evidence that this is so and the prompt defeat of the resolve by a combination of both Protestants and Catholics has much to do with clearing the atmosphere. The wise men in the house congratulate each other that the matter is now out of the way and there is a much better feeling than at any time since the house was organized with the election of Mr. Cushing.

The speaker, moreover, has been in consultation with a number of the men said to be dissatisfied with his administration of affairs and they understand each other better than they did.

This change in the complexion of things of itself has had much to do with the speed with which business is now being transacted. It has been a valuable aid to the "rush" conferences.

Tax Situation Clearing

There is a sudden turn for the better in the situation surrounding taxation legislation. The supreme judicial court has now before it an order which seeks to obtain an opinion as to the power of the legislature to impose low taxes upon stocks, bonds and notes which are now taxed at the same rate as any property, both real and personal.

Just what this order has accomplished has completely missed comment by the newspapers. And yet it is one of the most important measures of the year. The significance of it is just this:

Five years ago the court was asked if it was constitutional for the legislature to impose a 3 mill tax upon such securities. A 3 mill tax amounts to $3 on $1000.

The court replied that it was unconstitutional because of the presence of the word "proportional" in the constitution. In other words, a low rate on these securities and a higher rate on real estate would be disproportional. And so what other states have been doing with success Massachusetts found she could not do.

This order assumed that for the purpose of avoiding double taxation the supreme court has the right to exempt such securities from taxation and to impose an excise tax upon the privilege of the exemption. Our constitution does not say that an excise tax shall be proportional, but only reasonable. And it is well decided that an excise is a tax on a privilege and that commodities mentioned in the constitution as subject to excise are really privileges.

If the answer to questions covering this point should be answered in the affirmative it would be possible to exempt securities which now flee from the state to share in the benefit extended by the laws of other states.

Furthermore the order inquires if incomes are subject to excise. This is a more difficult question. But it has been thought that an income tax is really an excise tax and not a property tax and that therefore there is reasonable ground for asking the opinion of the court upon the point.

Should these questions be answered "yes," it would be possible to consider at once the enactment of new tax laws. And it would also be perfectly proper for the legislature to send along a constitutional amendment providing that the 3 mill tax, which the court five years ago said could not be imposed upon securities, may be imposed by a law which would have a chance of enactment in the course of four years.

The taxation order was put through both branches in one day.

Cat Bill Winner

It looks now as if the bill licensing cats had a good show of going through the legislature this year. The bill has been completely successful in the house. It is now undergoing a storm of ridicule and that may settle it in the senate, where things are successfully beaten by ridicule quite as often as by argument.

The principle of the bill, however, is a sound one. It provides for a license for a cat just as for a dog, and says that an unlicensed cat may be disposed of. In this way thousands of stray cats who suffer from starvation and who prey upon the bird life of the state may be put out of the way. The bird experts show rather convincingly that the very birds which destroy moths and beetles are the ones which suffer most from cats.

General Factotum

A brilliant man in the senate who is winning recognition is "Charlie" Gifford of Barnstable, for several years a member of the house and now serving his first term in the higher branch.

Gifford is a sort of general factotum in his town, where he runs a summer hotel, is a successful farmer, an insurance man and real estate expert. The things he discusses in the senate range from forest fires to insurance and taxation, upon which he is probably as well informed as any man in the general court. He is a clear thinker and a first class debater. President Coolidge very frequently relies upon his judgment.

Social Legislation

The fate of quite a good deal of the so-called social legislation is forecasted in the quick defeat of the bill which imposes certain impediments to marriage. The two principal impediments defined in the bill were imbecility and disease.

Lomasney of Boston, who bore a prominent part in the discussion, gave utterance to the old New England idea of marriage, that when two people took each other they did so for better or for worse, that it would be difficult to prove the impediments and to annul marriages by them in any cases except where persons who had no ground for divorce would resort to this means of getting a separation. He thought the bill would be more productive of separation than the ordinary process of divorce. The house took his view and killed the bill. Now there are a lot of other matters of similar nature on their way to one branch or the other, and it looks as if they might go the easy way over to the legislature which meets next year.

The Souther Bill

A great fight is brewing over the tax bill presented by "Billy" Souther of Cohasset, who is also assessor for his town. Souther objects to that part of the law of 1911 which gives the tax commissioner the right to fix the valuation of a town by adding to the valuation as found by the assessors other property of which he has knowledge. By means of this little clause several million were added to a number of towns, among them the town of Cohasset, which Souther says was being extremely well valued by his board.

Souther packed the hearing before taxation with a great crowd of assessors from all over the state, and he has since gone about the state making addresses upon his bill and stating that if this power is left with the tax commissioner, at least he ought to be required to show assessors where the property is which has not been valued by the assessors and which he thinks ought to be added to the town or city valuation.

Meanwhile there has been prepared a steady back fire on the Souther bill by those who say that the power ought to be left unimpaired with the tax commissioner. Meetings upon the bill are being held all over the state and assessors everywhere are on tiptoe.

The bill really means that the law will be put back where it was before the power of revaluation was placed in the hands of the commissioner.

Trefry Storm Centre

The office of Tax Commissioner Trefry is a storm centre these days. Mr. Trefry favors laws for a low rate upon intangible securities discussed above. At the same time he favors more power for his department and more drastic laws for the enforcement of taxes. But under an oppressive tax system he finds much objection to the enactment of such laws, and he finds, nevertheless, an active school which urges all measures for more effective enforcement of the present system.

Cushing Unlikely to Seek Re-election as Speaker

JOB OF LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

Effort to Have Bird Try For It on Republican Ticket—Governor Appears in Strong Position to Succeed Himself—No Boston Charter Changes of Moment Expected This Year

The speakership situation for next year is beginning to grow large in the deliberations of the house this year. The talk of a few weeks ago that Speaker Cushing will seek re-election is dying out. There is some truth in the report that several of the speaker's friends had talked with some of the men who are trying to get into position for the honor.

But today the chances of Speaker Cushing's re-election to his present office are fading. And the sharpness of the contest between Channing Cox of Boston and Tom White of Newton is growing. Around the house they say it has come along to the extent that the two men are dividing upon questions in the house because of the contest.

Cox has looked like a winner up to the past few weeks. His progressiveness, however, has not helped him with some of the more conservative men and White has remained an inflexible conservative. Cox, however, has gained credit for being a radical and he decidedly is not that.

Meanwhile both sides of Newton have been sending out feelers and flirts that he can get some support for the speakership. It will be a pretty row unless the house should go Democratic.

Other Places

The boom of Mr. Cushing for lieutenant governor looks more promising. He has conferred with Ex-Congressman McCall upon the matter and has found that there is considerable sentiment for a ticket composed of McCall and Cushing.

This would bring the fight at the polls between Cushing and Lieutenant Governor Barry, who will be re-nominated by the Democrats. Many Republicans would like to see Charles S. Bird, the Progressive candidate for governor, on the Republican ticket. Mr. Bird has been asked if he would run with Mr. McCall but has given no assurance that he will. Recently the suggestion has been made that Mr. Bird ought to run for state treasurer against Treasurer Mansfield.

This is an office of hardly less importance than governor and one that Mr. Bird, as a successful business man, would be highly competent to fill. It is unlikely that William S. Kinney of Boston, who was the candidate for secretary last year, will seek another nomination. Maurice Kane of Whitman, who was a candidate for the nomination against Kinney, talks of making another try.

The recurrence of political talk serves to remind the state that the campaign really begins before the session of the legislature is finished.

The evidence of a tendency on the part of the Republicans and Progressives to get together is found in the declaration of most of the Progressive members of the legislature that next fall they will be candidates for Republican nominations and that those who try for them have a very good chance of winning them. Both Senators Cox and Durbin will be candidates for Republican nominations. Representative Webster of Roxford, the Progressive candidate for speaker, Cleveland Chandler of East Bridgewater and Lyle of Gloucester have excellent opportunities of being re-elected on the Republican ticket.

Governor's Luck

Governor Walsh is having first rate luck with the legislature and says that he has been used handsomely. The governor has shown himself possessed of an uncommon amount of smoothness in getting along. He has several matters in mind for veto, but upon none of them does he have reason to suppose that there will be a great amount of trouble. He was bitterly attacked upon the veto of the bill which would give the governor the responsibility of naming the Chelsea license commissioners, but received handsome support.

The one measure of the session that gave him the most personal satisfaction was the bill to give him his own adjutant general. This matter he regarded as almost personal, although he sent for no legislators to impress upon them his views.

If the governor can live through the next six weeks as easily as he has lived through the past four months he will be in a strong position before the people of the state next fall.

Boston Charter

The Boston charter amendments will be a burning question for several days longer. Defeated in the committee and in the senate Longway has again proved himself capable of "pulling" a new idea upon the subject of charter reform every minute.

The practice that the reformers have gained in the opposition of Longway seems likely to make them the most astute politicians anywhere except for him.

In the house the bill for dividing up the city into councilmanic districts has had the votes from the start. In the senate the question has shifted from one side to the other by one vote or two votes and all of the senators have been on record making an even split.

It is a good guess that out of it all there will be no charter changes of moment this year, but the wonderful showing made by those who believe that the council ought again to be elected by the old district methods leads to the belief that the changes may come some day.

Probation Matters

The probation commission says that since its organization in 1908 its effort has been directed toward a wiser and more general use of probation in suitable cases.

The rapid extension of the work during the past year shows that the courts generally have been convinced of the value of probation as a part of the judicial system.

The next important step, according to the commission, must be an effort to standardize probation work. Probation has to do with the most intimate relations of society with its individual members, and, therefore, it cannot be completely standardized, but it is none the less true that there are certain improvements in the service which should be sought.

The standard of probation cases can only be improved by the closest co-operation of judges and probation officers. The probation officer, says the commission, should make his recommendation after a most careful study of the case, and the court should never place on probation any person unfitted for the treatment.

The number of persons placed on probation in all the courts during the year ending Sept. 30, 1913, was 3536 in excess of those placed on probation the year previous, and the total number of persons placed on probation at the end of the year was 1166 more than at the end of the previous year.

Making Them Pay

The amount of money received in restitution and non-support cases amounted last year to $217,664.02. This is a gain of $81,152.17 over the year 1912. While this large sum does not go into the state treasury it is nevertheless of very large financial public benefit.

Consisting very largely of enforced payments from otherwise non-supporting husbands and fathers, it goes to the same extent and without diminution to the natural dependents. It relieves the state and the municipalities of the cost of caring for those persons who would otherwise seek public assistance.

Direct Legislation

The initiative and referendum resolve is being hard fought throughout the legislature. This is the first time in the history of the state that such a measure has received the support of a legislative committee. It is one of the most important measures of the year and provides new ways of passing constitutional amendments and legislative acts and resolves.

Heretofore this has been by an act of the legislature. But if the resolve goes through it will be possible for measures to be submitted to the people upon petition. The question being raised is whether or not the number of signers is right. It takes 50,000 to submit a constitutional amendment and 15,000 to submit a bill, as the measure is drawn.

Governor Walsh himself, it is understood, examined the measure with a great deal of care and said that it conformed to his wishes.

Inasmuch as this is a constitutional amendment it will have to be passed by two successive legislatures by a two-thirds vote of the house and a majority vote of the senate.

Anti-Injunction Bill

The anti-injunction bill which went through the house with a whoop is marked for defeat in the senate. The bill provides that no injunction shall issue except for the preservation of property rights. Hobbs and Gordon, in the senate, say it is the most drastic measure of the kind that ever came over. During the house debate Channing Cox said that it would help drive out of the state a great many industries.

Boxing Bill Dead

The boxing bill is dead. It was dead even before the committee on legal affairs reported it to the house. The strange part of it is that the bill had no votes in the committee. It was like the cab stand bill, which suddenly got a favorable report only to be overwhelmingly defeated.

Probably a great many men in the house believe in a bill to establish the legality of boxing under strict supervision, but the church societies and reform associations have determinedly opposed such a measure.

McLean Asylum Tax

The proposed taxation of the McLean asylum in the town of Belmont has been vexing the senate for over a week. The hospital objects to the principle of taxation and rests upon the court decisions that a corporation running a hospital is a charity so long as it does not pay dividends. But the town of Belmont, which supplies lights, fire and police protection and derives no revenue either directly or indirectly from the hospital, has pushed almost through the legislature a tax bill. There are no free patients at the McLean asylum with the exception of the occasional case.

The bill probably could have been stopped in the committee but the trustees of the Massachusetts general hospital, who are also the trustees of the asylum, waited until the bill reached the enactment stage in the senate and then offered to compromise with the town of Belmont. That offer of compromise has not yet arrived at anything.

WHEN CARUSO SINGS.

The Scene in His Dressing Room Before the Opera Begins.

The opera was "Aida." Caruso was to sing Rhadames, and he was in the dressing room. In his train came his two valets. Wonderful indeed were they. Color and softness raised to the nth power, with silencers on their feet, they passed and repassed each other in inconceivably small spaces without once touching each other or bumping into their lord and master.

Caruso sits before a stationary washstand, and one of the valets hands him a toothbrush and powder. Then for three solid minutes by his Swiss movement watch does Caruso cleanse and scrub and polish. The ever alert dressers stand behind him, watchful for a shrug of his shoulders, which they immediately interpret into a command.

Caruso takes a long breath, and he needs it. It must be a signal, for one of the valets has a glass of warm water in one hand and in the other a big, round pasteboard box full of little brownish crystals. Caruso takes a handful of the crystals and drops them into the warm water, where they dissolve immediately.

"That's gargling salt," he says. "I use it for my first gargle."

The gargle takes four minutes, and then comes the vaporizer. A glass of water containing bicarbonate of soda and glycerin is placed on a little stand. A rubber hose connected with the vaporizer is put into the glass, and a thin, forceful sputtering spray shoots out a full foot. Into this tiny Gatling gun spray Caruso plunges, mouth open.

Then the heavy artillery answers the little Gatling gun, for Caruso coughs back at the spray, chokes, bellows and sputters. Into each nostril, then deep down into the throat, go the bicarbonate of soda and glycerin over and over and over again until Caruso coughs no more.

The vaporizer bath has taken eight minutes by Caruso's infallible watch, but the end is not yet. There is a cold water gargle—sterilized water, please—minus the salt, to follow and that in turn by a spray for the nose only. Only about six sniffs apiece for each nostril and the spray is put away.

Then menthol and vasoline on absorbent cotton attached to long sticks and Caruso swabs out his throat with these as a gunner would a cannon.

"Dilates the throat," he says between gasps. One more gargle of cold water and the homage to the throat is finished. It has taken twenty-two minutes.

On goes his bathrobe, and he is in the corridor—smoking a cigarette! Twenty-two minutes of hard work he has given to that throat, and now he is calmly smoking a cigarette and inhaling every blessed puff of it. Shades of bicarbonate of soda, of gargling salt, of glycerin and of menthol, of what avail are you when a nervous man wants a cigarette and wants it now?—Charles Bloomingdale, Jr., in Saturday Evening Post.

Shortest Charge to Jury.

If brevity is the soul of wit, Judge Taylor, K. C., has not many rivals among his judicial brethren. Summing up a case which lasted several hours, says the Liverpool Post, he said no more than this: "Gentlemen, you have heard both sides. It is for you to say which you believe." Even this does not represent Judge Taylor's best effort in the way of saving his breath. A few years ago he delivered himself of what is supposed to be the shortest summing up on record. He turned to the jury, raised his eyebrows inquiringly, and remarked: "Well, gentlemen?" The art of brevity could no further go.

Lions Made Excitement.

Three lions broke loose and attacked a mule harnessed to a cart during a cinematograph rehearsal, recently at Lurin, Germany. They killed and devoured the animal, after which two of the animals were captured. The third escaped into the country.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

Now is the time to get after the tent caterpillar. Don't wait until he has eaten the leaves off the trees.

One of the best signs of the times in Weymouth to-day is the large acreage which is being turned up to the sun light. Keep it up if you have more than you can eat it will bring a good price elsewhere.

Keep on the constant watch to destroy insect eggs and cocoons frequently seen near rubbish heaps and on the bark of trees.

String beans can go into the ground about May 1st, or with the coming of settled weather. Light, dry, and warm soil. Plant 3-4 inches apart, 1-2 inch deep, rows 18 inches.

The stable fly is regarded by the department of agriculture as a menace, not only to domestic animals, but to human beings and this is the season of the year when means for exterminating and controlling the pest should be adopted.

Can't you fix it so that you will not have to buy any garden stuff this year? Of course you can. What any farmer can do, you can do. Get right at it now and make the best garden in town. Surprise yourself and the neighbors.

Don't think for one moment that, simply because the poultry have plenty of range, and get many varieties of feed, they need no grit furnished them. Try offering them a handful and see how quickly they devour it; then keep it before them constantly, at the rate of about a quart for every fifty fowls three times a week.

Instead of the matted row in strawberries, some are substituting the matted hill. It is more trouble to maintain, but gives slightly better berries. It will scarcely pay unless one has a special market for extra fine berries.

The bounding vitality so desirable in chicks will not be found in chicks hatched from eggs laid by pullets themselves hatched late and forced to mature in the teeth of a hard winter. Make sure that your hatching eggs are the product of hens well matured and mated with males more vigorous than themselves.

A ten-acre farm is sufficient to make a good living on, with fruit, hens and business methods, providing it is not too far away from a city large enough to have a demand for strictly fresh eggs. The 1,000 hens should produce $1.25 each in profit if properly handled.

Eggs of fair size and as nearly as possible uniform in shape and color are best. If well selected eggs are set in April it will usually be the case that the chicks will pop from the shells a few hours ahead of time. Such chicks gladden the heart of the poultryman and make heavy his bank account.

Planting corn in drills is now the common practice. Flat culture is in order except on low lands, where cultivation in hills is still practised. For large growing varieties of corn the rule is drills from four to five feet apart, while for small corn a distance of three feet is sufficient. The plants are thinned to from three feet to 18 inches in the drill according as the variety may suggest.

After the discovery of America the use of corn spread rapidly to other countries, and it is now very generally raised in all regions of the world where it will flourish. So generally has it come into use that it now ranks with wheat, rye, barley, oats and rice as one of the food grains of the world, and may be called the American Indian's greatest gift to modern civilization.

Before the calf is wholly weaned from milk it should be in a thrifty, growing condition and carry some fat. It should then be fed and handled so that it will keep right on growing and never lose its original calf fat. Few calves of either sex are ever fed liberally enough to make them as fat as they should be. Fat on the calf is an indication of health and thrift. The calf that is kept fat and growing rapidly till it becomes a cow or a steer will become a valuable animal.

The sow should be fed for a few days after farrowing. If she does not eat anything for a day or two, it is so much the better. For a few days she should be fed small quantities of this slop made of middlings and water. Increase the supply gradually from day to day until she gets on full feed at the end of a week or ten days.

George F. Warren, Professor of Farm Crops in Cornell University is authority for the statement that planting potatoes in a well lighted room some time before planting increases the yield, and that sprouting in a dark room is harmful and reduces the yield.

Cut seed should never be left in bags or piles so that there is danger of its heating. Seed that has heated even a very little is unfit to plant, and if it comes up at all it is weak and spindling and beyond any possibility of making a paying crop.

A HISTORIC BELL.

From the Guerriere to the Constitution, Then to a Mill.

One would hardly expect to find an object of historic interest in so prosaic a place as a New England mill—an object older than the oldest title of the English peerage, an object made before the English parliament was formed. Yet such an object is in daily use in a factory at Saylesville, R. I. It is a bell, whose history is a most interesting one. Around the bell, about four inches from the crown, is this superscription: "Peter Secest Amsterdam, Anno 1263, me feelt."

The date, together with other well authenticated facts, leads to the belief that the bell was long used in a convent belfry in England and was taken therefrom for public use during the reformation. But the connecting link between its life in the old world and its advent to America is the famous naval battle between the Guerriere and the Constitution.

The Guerriere, a helpless wreck, was rolling in the trough of the sea, while her brave but defeated commander, Captain Dacres of the royal navy, on the deck of the American frigate, the Constitution, was offering his sword to gallant Captain Hull.

The two officers had been friends in time of peace, having often exchanged hospitalities at the Mediterranean ports, and now Hull's magnanimity shone out.

"I'll not take your sword, Dacres," said he. "Keep it."

In the meanwhile the boats of the Constitution were busily engaged in transporting the crew of the defeated ship to the deck of the victor. A midshipman reported to the first lieutenant that the ship's bell had been carried away by a grapeshot from the Guerriere and that there was no way of announcing the time to the ship's company.

At that moment the Guerriere gave a succession of heavy plunges, and the clear tones of a fine bell rang over the water.

"Go get the Englishman's bell," said the lieutenant to the midshipman. "There will be no further use for it on board that craft."

The Guerriere surrendered at 7 o'clock in the evening of Aug. 19, 1812, and at 8 o'clock the same evening Peter Secest's bell in sonorous tones rang out the hour on board "Old Ironsides."

With the lapse of time the bell, amid the confusion and debris common to a great navy yard, became misplaced, lost its identity and was thrust carelessly to one side. It found its way to the scrap heap, was afterward sold by the United States and finally came to rest in its present quarters.—Boston Post.

AN ANIMAL IN PAIN.

It Suffers Less Than Man on Account of its Low Intelligence.

It is a platitude that "pain is as one feels it." But that statement falls a considerable way short of the truth. The measure of pain undoubtedly depends as much upon realization, comparison and constructive memory as upon sensation. In other words, the individual with the most highly developed imagination enjoys and suffers most intensely, though not perhaps most violently. Pain and death are terrible in proportion as one is capable of relating them to experience. To children they are not terrible in this sense, because children have small experience and even smaller powers of imagining relations.

In the case of animals the power of constructing a memory picture and relating the same to present conditions is probably exceedingly low, if not entirely absent. Pain to an animal represents an unpleasant experience begun and ended sharply. It is un-related. It has no social or moral significance. It is not terrible in the wide sense. An animal lives from moment to moment. At any given moment its happiness is a question in the main of physical comfort. The caged skylark (though it must not be supposed that this is any defense of an objectionable practice) experiences none of the misery of the caged man. It does not know that its liberty is hopelessly lost. It cannot relate its present position to past experience in the way in which a prisoner can and must do. The cage is merely an accidental obstruction which may at any moment disappear. Should the bird stop struggling it does so because struggling is unpleasant, not because it is hopeless.—London Chronicle.

Old, Simple Names.

Tabitha and Dorcas are both names that owe their origin to the gentle gazelle—although Dorcas in its meaning suggests nothing of the animal's gentleness, for the name signifies dark and beautiful eyes.

Expensive Acquaintance.

Wife—I suppose we must send Miss Spicer a wedding present. Hub (grouchily)—I warned you not to get too intimate with that girl. I knew she was one of the kind to get married soon.

Conceit.

Conceit loses a man more friends and gains him more enemies than any other foible, perhaps vice, in the world. It makes him harsh to his inferiors and disrespectful to his betters.

Art of Living.

The art of living resembles wrestling more than dancing, for here a man does not know his movement and his measure beforehand. No; he is obliged to stand strong against chance, and secure himself as occasion shall offer.—Marcus Aurelius.

Beyond the Styx.

Plato—Let me see: They condemned you to die, but permitted you to choose the manner of your death. Am I right? Socrates—That's right. I told them hemlock juice was my poison. I said ice cream first, but they made me guess again.—Puck.

FRIDAY, MAY 8, 1914

The Gazette & Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all News-stands in the Weymouths and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fee is charged must be paid for at regular rates, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

Elsewhere in this issue we say that the Selectmen have granted 22 victuallers' licenses, which leads us to remark that if there is any one thing which is more a snare and delusion than the liquor and smelt law, it is a victualler's (?) license. There are in East Weymouth, two places where a person can get a nice, well served meal at all hours and possibly a few other places in town where a like service can be had, but our sympathy goes out to the man who tries to get a "feed" at many of the other licensed places.

A Rebekah Honored.

At a meeting of the Massachusetts Rebekah Assembly, held in Odd Fellows Hall, Boston, on the 6th inst., Mrs. Mary C. Granger of South Weymouth, was elected to fill the office of warden. During the past year she has acted as treasurer and by the act of the assembly she is now advanced to the new position.

Before Mrs. Granger's election as treasurer of the assembly, she filled a like position for several years in her own Lodge. She also last year, acted as deputy to several Lodges.

The trust placed in her seems to voice confidence of the central assembly of the Rebekahs of the State.

Mrs. Susan J. Lund At Rest.

Mrs. Susan J. Lund, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. D. Adams in North Weymouth, Thursday evening, April 30 at the age of 96 years. Mrs. Lund was the oldest resident of North Weymouth at the time of her death.

She was born in Boston, January 12, 1818. She attended the old Hancock school and was a school girl chum of the Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, the noted anti-slavery worker.

After her marriage Mrs. Lund resided in Milford, N. H., for many years. She has made her home with her daughter since 1898.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Charles A. Clark, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church conducted the services. Burial was in Milford, N. H.

Firemen's Annual Reunion.

The annual reunion and banquet of the Fire Department of Ward 3, including Combination 3, Hose 3, Hook and Ladder 8 and Steamer 1, took place last Monday evening in the Engine hall at Weymouth Landing. Wallace H. Bicknell, Henry Phillips, J. Ralph Bacon, A. F. Burrell, E. T. Ryan and W. S. Our comprised the committee.

The guests included Chief Engineer Walter W. Pratt, his first public appearance since becoming the chief; District Engineer Russell B. Worster, Selectman W. Hunt, F. A. Coolidge and D. A. Donagan.

After the banquet with Capt. W. H. Bicknell presiding, speechmaking and a musical program was in order.

65th Annual May Party.

The 65th annual May Party of the Universalist Society was held in Fogg's Opera House South Weymouth last Friday evening. A program consisting of orchestra selections by Mace Gay's orchestra, operatic numbers and groups of songs by Mme Wilhelmina Wright Calvert cornet solos by Mace Gay and xolophone solos by F. B. Jones. Miss Freda Gerhard was the accompanist. Following the concert, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

The floor director was Charles E. Brown assisted by Elliott Veazie and the following aids: J. Leonard Bicknell, W. N. Holbrook, Kenneth L. Nash and William F. Barnard.

How Often You Hear This Remark

"Of all the gifts we received at our wedding their are none we enjoy more than the electric grill, percolator and iron. The electrical appliances make ideal wedding gifts."

This is true! It is also true that these electrical appliances are just as valued in every home. If your house is without electric lights, you are denied these appliances. Why not settle it now for all time. Be progressive whether you own or rent, have electric lights and electricity in your home, so you can use this power to cook, heat, or rid your house of dust. We have an unusual wiring offer this spring — find out about it. Ask us.

PASTOR'S RECEPTION.

A Most Hearty Welcome to Rev. and Mrs. Edward Torrey Ford.

The Congregational church at East Weymouth has been the scene of several brilliant and pleasing social events but that of last night excels them all in point of cordiality and social uplift. The occasion was a formal reception to the new pastor, Rev. Edward T. Ford and Mrs. Ford, held under the management of the Ladies' Social circle. Mrs. E. E. Leonard, presided.
 The entire church building was open to the public but the most attractive room was the chapel, beautifully fitted up and arranged for the occasion. Music was by an orchestra composed of Miss Ethel F. Raymond, Miss Hazel Clark, Harold W. Raymond and John Tover. C. Will Bailey was general master of ceremonies and at 8.15 he, to music of the orchestra, ushered in the receiving line, consisting of the following persons: Rev. and Mrs. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Leonard, Deacon and Mrs. David W. Bates, Deacon and Mrs. T. H. Emerson, Deacon and Mrs. Joseph E. Sampson, W. C. Earle, president of the Good Fellowship club, and Mrs. Earle.
 The ushers were William Rix, Richard C. Cuter, Marshall Tirrell, Emerson Dizer, Ward Humphrey and Bryan Leonard, who had a very busy hour, and the same is true of a most efficient corps of young ladies, who served ice cream, cake, and other refreshments.

Looked Like Business.

Father—"Jane, are that young man's intentions serious?" Daughter—"I think so, pa; he says our carriage shed could be easily transformed into a garage and the attic would make a dandy billiard room and bowling alley."

Valuable Hint.

When gasoline is used to remove a spot from clothing a ring is often left around where the spot has been. A little salt in the gasoline will overcome this, leaving no trace of the soiled spot.

All the Difference.

The pessimist Fletcherizes his quinine pills. The optimist gets tired by a bear and enjoys the view.—Yale Record.

Perfectly True.

Military Examiner—"What must a man be to be buried with military honors?" Recruit—"Dead."

Which do you prefer?

Some people take great pleasure in
 A moving picture show;
 While many others much prefer
 A lecture good, you know.

Some men prefer to hit the pipe,
 And read the daily news;
 While others with more leisure time
 The latest book will choose.

The most of us prefer the eats
 At any time of day;
 And in the night we'll not forget
 The spread that comes our way.

Now don't forget our Marble Cake,
 Our Sponge Cake and eclairs;
 Also our Boston Jelly Rolls,
 And our Chocolate Squares.

Suggestions for Improving Town Government.

Mr. Editor:-
 The experience of the town at the annual meeting in March makes it seem prudent that consideration be given at once to possible improvements in the conduct of town affairs.
 It must be manifest to all that the town hall is hopelessly inadequate for the accommodation of more than three thousand voters, when twelve hundred can with difficulty be crowded into it at one time. Moreover, to secure fair deliberation, wise action and proper expedition of business in such a meeting as was held this year, is a matter of great difficulty and demands the energy and task of an expert moderator.
 As the town increases in population, the present unsatisfactory conditions are likely to become decidedly intolerable. A much larger and better arranged hall must soon be provided, or else some plan devised to avoid the occasion for so large an attendance.
 It should be noted also that in whatever ward the town hall may be located, attendance at town meetings will be much more convenient for the voters of that ward than for those of any other, and under the present system, they have an advantage that savors of unfairness.

Another source of dissatisfaction is the unequal distribution of town officers. Ward Two contains nearly one-third of the voters of the official boards, and the four members from the other wards represent but little more than two-thirds of the voters. Consequently the officers from Ward Two have a very unequal share of work and responsibility.
 Such conditions indicate either the need of important changes in the method of our town government, or else the approaching substitution of a city charter. But there is strong and well-grounded prejudice against a city form of government. Under the prevalent form of city charters, there is great additional expense, a distinct loss of popular, or democratic, control, and a corresponding centralization of power, which admits of improper combinations, uncontrollable, ring rule, and exploitation of the community. Even the experiments in government by commission as yet do little but shift the responsibility of the executive department, without restoring the rights enjoyed by citizens of towns.

There seems to be a marked encongruity between city government as now exemplified and "government of the people, by the people, for the people".
 There ought to be a form of government for the largest community, which shall conserve all the rights of the citizens and at the same time be fairly simple and thoroughly efficient.
 It is with this sentiment in mind that the following suggestions are offered as applicable to present conditions in Weymouth; and it is hoped they may be interesting enough to incite intelligent and helpful discussion and so aid in evolving plans that will assure the continuance of a town form of government and promote its efficiency.

The first suggestion is that the present wards be abolished and be replaced by the precincts, with perhaps, a partial rearrangement with reference to centers of population; and that a hall be provided at or near the principal schoolhouse in each precinct, for the use of the precinct.
 A second suggestion is that the several boards of town officers be enlarged so as to consist of one member from each precinct; that they be elected for terms of three years; that each officer have stated office days, or hours, at the hall of the precinct he represents; and that certain town offices be open on all working days.
 A third suggestion is that the number of voters who may take action in town meetings be limited to a maximum number from each precinct selected annually for the purpose.

Without impairing the right of any voter to attend town meetings, or to participate in the orderly discussion of questions, the offering of motions and the voting thereon might be confined to a list of designated voters. They should be designated in such a way that every voter shall have an equal opportunity to enjoy the privilege within a reasonable period of years.

The town meetings would continue to consider all matters as they have in the by-laws and other matters of very great importance might be referred, to the precincts for ratification by special ballot.

A plan along the line of these suggestions could be put in force with very little disturbance of present conditions and without the great expense required to organize and conduct a city.

It would effect a considerable saving of time and effort to the citizens, with the virtual conservation of all the rights they now enjoy. There would be less temptation to crowd, or "pack", town meetings, to pass objectionable, or ill-considered, measures, or to encourage sectionalism.
 Though the population might increase several fold, we could still continue to be a town.

Now let some one criticize these suggestions and offer a better solution of the problem that confronts us.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts PROBATE COURT.

NORFOLK, ss. PROBATE COURT, County of Norfolk.
 WHEREAS, Lucy G. Tirrell of Weymouth in the County of Norfolk, has presented to said Court a petition representing that she holds as tenant in common, two undivided third parts or shares of certain real estate lying in Weymouth, in said County of Norfolk, and described in said petition; and, as said real estate cannot be advantageously divided, praying that partition may be made among the tenants in common according to law; and that the commissioners who may be appointed to make such partition be ordered to make sale and conveyance of said real estate and to distribute the net proceeds thereof.
 You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Brookline in said County of Norfolk, on the twenty seventh day of May, A. D. 1914, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.
 And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each person interested who can be found within the Commonwealth, fourteen days at least before said Court; and if any one cannot be so found by publishing the same once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Weymouth Gazette, a newspaper published in said Weymouth, the last publication to be one day at least before said Court.
 Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this fifth day of May, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.
 J. R. McCOLE, Register.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

To the Honorable the Board of Selection of Weymouth:
 Respectfully represents the Bay State Street Railway Company.
 That it owns and operates street railway tracks in said Weymouth, and that public necessity and convenience require a certain alteration and relocation thereof.
 Wherefore, your petitioner as such Street Railway Company, prays for an alteration and relocation of its tracks on the southerly side of Broad Street, Weymouth, at its car house property, originally known as the Quincy and Boston Street Railway Company, substantially in accordance with plans to be filed with this petition, and that it be granted the right to operate said tracks with electricity as the motive power, and to make all necessary changes in poles, wires or other appliances connected therewith. And your petitioner further asks for authority to act as common carrier of newspapers, baggage, express matter and freight, upon the above petitioned for location for track in said Weymouth in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 40A of the Acts of the year 1912.
 BAY STATE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY, By P. F. Sullivan, President.

DUTY YOU OWE YOUR TOWN

Be Faithful and Honest With Yourself.

OBLIGATIONS OF CONSUMER. Before Sending His Money to Distant Concerns Every Citizen Should Consider the Duty He Owe His Home Town—Local Merchants Ready and Willing to Compete.

A Dollar Lost. It should be the slogan of every rural consumer never to send money for goods that he can just as well buy at home.

Not a Robber of Chest. We know that the average consumer does not feel that his local merchant is a robber or a cheat; but, like at him, mankind, the catalogue and price of mail order houses appeal to him.

Cash Versus Credit. It seems unalterable, but it is nevertheless a fact, showing the cutting edge of our sense of justice, that many people regard their local stores as merely institutions of accommodation.

Dealing With Neighbors. In buying from your home merchants you deal with neighbors. Buy with goods before you. Pay what you get the goods if you so want. Have goods delivered free. Return goods if not satisfactory. Build up your home trade.

Help build up your own home town and make of yourself a man worthy of your pride and time. Every man should take joy in being a good American citizen, and we believe most men do.

Be Faithful and Honest With Yourself. When you do the very simplest of us will be serving in that great army which achieves the welfare of the world.

Food Habits.
 "Food habits have queer foundations," commented an Assemblyman Charles Sutherland at breakfast. "In Massachusetts people eat baked beans Saturday night, but not west of Worcester. Along the Connecticut shore all over the state is the regular Sunday morning breakfast diet. In Vermont they eat pie for breakfast—always apple pie. Neck Shaving an Old Custom.
 A study of the many necks to be seen on the works of the National Portrait gallery suggests one to state that the custom of neck shaving, although said to have been imported from America, was undoubtedly known and most likely popular in the days of America. The portrait of George V. shows unambiguously that his neck was shaved, and if the king did it, it must have been fashionable in London and New York City.

THE CREED OF THE CONSUMER

Set of Principles Worthy of Practice.

HOME PATRON'S PHILOSOPHY

Founded on Facts and Should Be Lived Up to by the American People—Not Religious Creed—People of North, South, East and West Can Unite For Good.

[Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.]
Every failure is a step to success; every detection of what is false directs us to what is true; every trial exhausts some tempting form of error. Not only so, but scarcely any attempt is entirely a failure; scarcely any theory, the result of steady thought, is altogether false. No tempting form of error is without some latent charm derived from truth. With these thoughts in mind I have prepared what I call the consumer's creed.

A Gate to the City.
It is not a religious creed. If it were I would not be writing it, as I am afraid I might get my metaphors crossed. This is a business creed, something like the people of New England unconsciously adopted when Lord North undertook to tax them. Therefore they had always been accustomed to divide on points. It so happened, fortunately, that their opposition to Lord North was a point on which they were all united. It was a business point.

I have written a creed upon which the people of the north, south, east and west can all unite for their own good.
A good creed is a gate to the city which has golden foundations; a misleading creed may be a road to destruction, or if both misleading and alluring it may become what Shakespeare calls a primrose path to the eternal bonfire.
Perhaps my creed is nothing more than a set of principles which it would be well for every consumer to practice. Read them and then adopt them as your very own.

A Business Creed.
First.—I do not patronize the mail order system because it is selfish and greedy and for the reason that I buy at home, where my interests are.
Second.—If this community is good enough for my family and I to live in it ought to be good enough for my family and I to buy our necessaries in.
Third.—I will not take the word of the mail order house for its goods, as I want to see what I am buying, and I want to get what I pay for.

Fourth.—I do not patronize the mail order houses because they demand cash in advance, and when I am "broke" and sick and need supplies my home dealer is willing to "carry" me.
Fifth.—I patronize the home dealer because he stands back of his goods and in case of error is willing to rectify.
Sixth.—I patronize the home merchant because I believe a man ought to spend his money in the community in which he earns it.

Seventh.—I patronize the home merchant because I believe the man who sells what he produces and buys what he needs at home cannot be injured by deceptive catalogue pictures or alleged bargains.
Eighth.—I do not patronize the mail order houses because they frequently sell damaged and inferior goods, which it avails a man nothing to attempt to exchange. But the man I patronize—the home merchant, the man who helps to pay the town, county and state tax—will exchange any article I buy from him which is unsatisfactory.

Ninth.—I spend my money with my home merchant in preference to some mail order house in a distant city because the local merchants help to support the public schools where I send my children, the churches and the dependent poor in my vicinity.
Tenth.—I patronize the local merchant because he does not try to trick me into buying "cheap" goods, which because of their defectiveness prove to be expensive, and, further, because should ill luck or bereavement come my way my local dealer would not only prove that he was a neighbor and a friend, but a man with a man's heart and a man's inclination to do good; not a soulless corporation like the mail order system, whose only instinct is greed and a further desire for gain.

"Do Unto Others."
Let all citizens follow this creed and they will be blessed with happy homes and a happy life. They will prosper financially and at the same time improve their moral standard. Do for your neighbor what you would like him to do for you; then you are doing your full duty to yourself and to all mankind.
Moral.—Buy and sell at home.

LIVE WIRE CANINES.

Queer Little Watchdogs on the Canal-boats in Holland.
For many generations the breed of dog now known as the schipperke was nameless, but as they became familiar features along the banks of the canals in their native country, Holland, they won their present name, which means "little skipper." Tourists of the present day in Holland will see few canal boats that have not their two skippers, man and dog. His popularity is much more than national in extent. Travelers and dog breeders, attracted by the intelligence and nervous energy of this twelve pound mite, have carried him into other countries.

The schipperke is an excellent watch-dog. For generations he has been trained to guard his master's boat. His bark is peculiarly rapid and piercing, and his oval eyes see everything. He has the reputation of never sleeping except in "cat naps" of a few minutes' duration. The activity, alertness and endurance of the schipperke are really astonishing. He has been compared to a bundle of "live wires."

In appearance the schipperke is an odd little fellow. As a rule, his coat is entirely black, abundant, thick and harsh except on the head, erect ears and legs. It increases to a mane or frill round the neck. The head is foxy in type, the muzzle fine, but not weak; the neck strong and rather short and the chest broad. Many of the schipperkes are born without tails. Those that are not so born have their tails docked when very young since custom insists on a tailless schipperke.—London Standard.

OLD ENGLISH FORMALITY.

When a Wife Never Called Her Husband by His First Name.

There is a curious picture of the formality of a former generation in Sir Algeonon West's "One City and Many Men," wherein he states that in his youth it was considered highly improper for a wife to address her husband by his Christian name or for a son to address his parents without saying "sir" or "mamam."
"I never heard my mother call my father by his Christian name," he writes, "and I recollect distinctly that the fame of a very fashionable and brilliant woman was seriously imperiled because after some great man's death a letter from her to him was discovered beginning with his Christian name."
"The formal 'sir' was current everywhere. At Eton we never recognized any departure from this practice, and letters between boy friends began, 'My dear sir.'"
"A friend of mine dining with Lady Jersey heard her say she never recollect her father, Lord Westmoreland, though specially attached to her sister, Lady Lonsdale, calling her anything but Lady Lonsdale. And Henry Greville, who was present at the same dinner, said that he remembered his mother, Lady Charlotte, and her brother, the Duke of Portland, meeting in the morning at Welbeck abbey, when the salutations were:
"How is your ladyship this morning?"
"I am quite well. I am obliged to your grace."

Railroad Fatalities.
A contemporary has estimated that since the average length of a railroad journey in this country is thirty-four miles, and a passenger may take 2,275, 122 such journeys with only one chance of being killed, it would take him, at two trips a day, 3,792 years to run the full gamut of risk. That is to say, if the one fatal accident happened to him in the present year it would have been necessary for him to start his railroad traveling, at two trips a day, in the year 1879 B. C. It must be borne in mind, however, that he might be killed on his first trip.

Schoolboy Blunders.
These mistakes by British school-boys are reported by the London Times:
"When the late French attack at Waterloo proved a failure Napoleon turned very pale and rode at full gallop to St. Helena."
"A problem is a figure which you do things with which are absurd, and then you prove it."
"When Chaucer describes the priores as 'amiable of port' he means that she was fond of wine."
"The mineral wealth of a country is ginger beer and lemonade."

A Giant Redwood.
The largest tree in the United States is said to be the mother of the forest, a giant redwood in the Calaveras big tree grove in California. It is supposed to contain 140,619 board feet of lumber. There are, however, many claimants for the honor of being the "largest tree" and the "oldest tree," and these claims, according to foresters, cannot always be verified.—Indianapolis News.

Sizing Up a Tip.
"I'm afraid I gave that waiter too big a tip," said the frugal diner.
"He seems quite appreciative."
"That's it. I merely wanted him to say 'Thank you.' I didn't expect him to bow and say 'Good night, sir.'"
—Washington Star.

Principles.
We must be careful to have our principles and be ready to die for them. But we must be careful not to label our prejudices "principles" and proceed to die for them.
Friendship is the only thing in the world concerning the usefulness of which all mankind are agreed.—Cicero.

Following Are a Few of the Items Which Appeared in the Gazette Years Ago This Week.

FOURTY-SIX YEARS AGO.
The number of fish returning to their spawning ground annually increased so much that an act was passed by the Legislature vesting the control of the fishery in the hands of a committee of the town, chosen annually, each member so chosen being required to serve or pay a fine of ten dollars.
This committee were to determine the place where the fish were to be taken and give public notice thereof and were empowered to properly protect the fishery against "poachers."

A difficulty afterwards arose with the proprietors of the falls and the water privileges on the Alewife river who were inconvenienced by the fishery and an act was passed authorizing them to construct fishways and commissioners were appointed to settle difficulties which might arise between the contending parties and new complaints being made by the fish committee.

Seth Mann, Amos Stetson and Joseph Cleverly, the commissioners appointed by the Governor, gave a hearing to the parties at Asa B. Wales hotel, Aug. 17, 1841 and decided that the Weymouth Iron Co. should erect a new fishway, longer than the old one, so as to make the ascent less steep; also that they should make a grating in the river so as to turn the fish into the new fishway and also construct grating at the entrance of all the canals or flumes through which the water is conducted from the main stream or pond to the several mills or wheels.

They were to let off from the pond, water sufficient to fill the fishway when the fish were going up or down and to keep open a narrow channel in the bed of the river and also to construct a passage way for the fish.

Continued trouble and agitation finally culminated in the transfer by legal enactment of the fish-right to the Weymouth Iron Co. in 1846 the company paying the town a sum of money the annual interest of which would be equal to the net annual income of the fishery for the preceding thirty years.
Under this arrangement each householder is entitled to purchase four hundred alewives at 25 cents per hundred.

THIRTY-TWO YEARS AGO.
Whitman's Pond, at East Weymouth, is 54 inches above high water mark.

By the report of the special committee of the Legislature on a redivision of the Congressional districts, Weymouth will be in the second, and with one exception will be the largest in population of the thirty-seven towns included.
The auction sale of a large part of the valuable personal property of the late Albert Tirrell, at the Agricultural fair ground, on Wednesday, was attended by nearly a thousand people. Bidding was lively from the start, and the horses and carriages and in fact nearly everything of that kind brought high prices, quite up to the late appraisal of the same.

A large number of persons from South Weymouth visited Nantasket on Monday, to witness a fine display of the breakers, made powerful by the long continued storm. Mr. F. W. Loud conveyed two large parties and Mr. Otis Cushing took another large party during the day to the beach. Large numbers of private teams passed through the village on their way to the shore, and work at the shops was at a discount.

ANCIENT MEDICAL HUMOR.

Specimens From the Rome of Nearly Twenty Centuries Ago.
That there was no lack of medical humor in the classic days of Rome is made sure by the ancient epigrams of Martial of nearly 2,000 years ago. The London Lancet shows that the poet bore a grudge against the specialists of his day, for it seems they had this variety of practitioners then and pokes fun at the oculists and at the surgeons who indulged in clinical teaching. Of the latter he has a patient complain in good Latin, and this complaint has been made over into current English:
I lay ill, but soon Symmachus sought me With a class of a hundred young men, Whose hundred cold paws have brought me
The fever I lacked till then.

The Journal of the American Medical association calling attention to the medical ways of the ancient city notes that diseases due to luxurious habits had multiplied greatly in Rome. What was called gout—that is, pains and aches in joints and muscles and the vague conditions that we now call rheumatism—had also greatly increased. Pliny, who was an older contemporary of Martial, says, "Gout used to be an extremely rare disease, not in the times of our fathers and grand fathers only, but even within my own memory." Although the gouty were usually rich and of luxurious habits, some of them evidently were not good pay. An evidence of this is thus given:
Diodorus, while he sues in court, On gouty feet can stand, But when the lawyer's bill is brought The gout sets fast his hand.

Queer.
One queer thing about a woman is that she will live with and depend for her living upon a man who is never able to do anything to suit her.

THE HUM OF THE HUMBUGS

Catalogue House System Offspring of Humbuggery.

CHEAP AND FLIMSY SECONDS

It is supposed that Satan was the original humbug--The Retail Catalogue House People Have Developed the Art Until It Has Become a Disease With Them.

Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan. On a certain occasion some boys thought they would play a trick on the great naturalist, Darwin.

They caught a beetle, glued various parts of other insects upon its head and body, placed it in a little box and humbly knocked at Darwin's door, seeking to know what the great scientist would call this wonderful bug they had assembled.

Mr. Darwin looked it over very critically and asked the boys very seriously. "Did this bug hum when you caught it?" "Yes, sir; it hummed a great deal," replied the boys, with sly winks at each other.

"Then this must be a humbug," said Darwin.

It is supposed that Satan was the original humbug, but since the mail order houses have been established he has had to take a back seat, and among so many modern improvements he must feel dreadfully useless and antiquated.

Love to Be Humbugged.

That the American people love to be humbugged long since has passed into a proverb. Trickery may be called our national vice, our besetting sin. Like liberty, it appears to be in the very air we breathe. We take to it as naturally as we do to politics. Our entire social system has become saturated with it. Even at times it masquerades under the mantle of charity, which, like a well filled purse, covers a multitude of sins.

There are various kinds and classes of fakery and tricksters, but the princes of them all, the incarnations of fraud, are the advertising humbugs, who, when stripped of the sugar coating by which they impose upon the public, are simply professors of falsehood.

Would Strike Liars Dead.

The ancient scribes tell us that the Lord once attempted to check the humbug habit by striking the liars dead, but when he looked into the future and saw the huge catalogue houses looming in the distance he reluctantly relinquished the idea, as he saw that such a plan in the congested centers would prove more fatal than a second flood.

The mail order houses word their advertising so as to appeal to the credulity and weakness of human nature, as it is generally known that every son of Adam and daughter of Eve possesses a disposition to resort to games of chance, an inclination to get something for nothing.

Possess the Gambling Instinct.

A noted gambler once said: "Life consists in taking chances. Providence has instilled into the brains and hearts of men the betting instinct." So when the mail order houses came into existence they at once opened up an avenue for the development of humanity's well known weakness--a desire for gambling.

As the catalogue houses passed from the elementary and experimental stages to that of a permanent and pronounced reality the gambling instinct of the consumer kept pace with the humbug's progress.

The consumers read the bewitching circulars describing the many wonderful bargains; they fumbled the pages of the huge catalogue in bewildering amazement. The angel of doubt hovering near whispered warnings to the fascinated buyer, but the god of chance was beckoning from the distance, and the order was sent forward.

Cheap, Flimsy "Seconds."

The advertising humbug's advertisements and catalogues depict his goods as something marvelous. Bedsteads, chairs, tables, couches, picture frames, heaters, etc., which appear to be massive, handsomely carved pieces of work, are nothing but cheap, flimsy "seconds" when delivered, and the buyer is often ashamed to cart them home in the daytime, but waits for the darkness of night to cast its mantle over their defects.

Sometimes the gambling instinct is so deeply set in the natures of some consumers that one evidence of the trickery of the advertising humbug is insufficient, and they again indulge their passion for gambling by taking a "chance" with another order and again getting imposed upon, and so on ad infinitum.

Paraguay's Sweet Plant.

A herb called by the natives caa ebe, but botanically Eupatorium rebaudianum, grows wild in Paraguay. It is remarkable for its sweetness. Indeed, the native name means the "sugar plant." It grows along the borders of the river Amambahi and attains a height of only about five inches. The smallest bit of this plant when placed upon the tongue produces a surprisingly sweet flavor, which, it is said, lasts for hours. The saccharine power is much greater than that of sugar.

BREAKING ICE BARRIERS.

Dynamite and Little Tugs Lead the Assault on the Great Lakes.

Up on our great lakes winter holds those waters in a stiffened grip for several months, substantially putting an end to well nigh all traffic, but even so, it is the mission of certain of the big car ferry steamers to maintain something of an approximate schedule. However, every now and then the gathering ice packs catch and hold them despite the best the steamers can do, and it is only by using dynamite that they then succeed in breaking through these frigid barriers. Occasionally it is a veritable battle between titanic forces, and it takes courage for officers and crew to maintain the struggle. Success is not always the fruit of these strenuous efforts, because it is still fresh in the minds of many how gallant Captain McLeod and thirty others perished aboard the Marquette when that ship foundered in December, 1909.

What strikes one most forcibly, if he has seen winter conditions upon the great lakes, is the manner in which little tugs are used to break a passage clear for large steamers when their big kin are quite incapable of working their own way through the ice, notwithstanding their greater bulk and far more powerful engines. The secret lies in the fact that the tugs are able to roll about after poking their noses into the floe, and in this manner they attack the ice in a direction where it is least capable of offering effective resistance. Instead of assaulting the ice edge on where it is supported by hundreds of yards--if not, indeed, by several miles of solid pack--the small craft bear down upon a thickness of so many inches, and by sheer weight and the rapid shifting of this by a rocking motion, they force it aside.

The big steamers upon the great lakes, especially the large car ferries, could do this very thing for themselves, and do it upon a greater scale, if they could be given the needful rolling motion, but the difficulty lies in finding a way to effect this.--Technical World Magazine.

FICKLE FORTUNE.

Romance of a Discredited Gold and Copper Mine.

When the great mineral wealth of this nation has been finally developed a chronicler will write the "American Arabian Nights of Mining." One of the tales, all of which will be true, will run somewhat as follows:

Once upon a time there was a poor man of the name of Billy Harris, who lived at Spokane, Wash. He was a horseman, among other miscellaneous activities, and had acquired a considerable block of stock in a certain Lerol Mining company, having taken most of it in payment from those who owed him money and who had no other assets more tangible. This stock had kicked about without a sponsor for two years and was nominally quoted at around 10 cents a share.

One day a friend came along with a handsome stallion, and Billy looked upon the animal with covetous eyes. Dickering began and ended by his paying over $5,000 of the stock for the stallion. The seller, on sober reflection, became dissatisfied with his bargain and brought suit to recover the horse. He won, and Billy, with a sigh, took back his stock and bade the animal a fond farewell.

Eighteen months later Billy sold the same stock for $250,000 and the remainder of his holdings for as much again. The Lerol mine was taken over by Whitaker Wright and an English syndicate and produced $40,000,000 in gold and copper. It is not on record what the original owner of the stallion said or thought--and perhaps it is just as well.--Wall Street Journal.

Example of British Humor.

The late Lord Salisbury had a pretty wit. At the beginning of the South African war both his private secretaries volunteered, and they were followed, says the London Express, by the Duke of Norfolk, who asked to be allowed to resign his post of postmaster general and go to the front. "I suppose you may," said Lord Salisbury, "but I do hope Cross won't want to go." Lord Cross was then lord privy seal and was nearly eighty!

They Learn Early.

Bessie was sitting on the hotel veranda one afternoon when another child, gaudily dressed, began to parade up and down before her, flirting her fan and swishing her skirts airily. Bessie stood it as long as she could, but finally burst out: "Dresses an' fans does not make ladies." "But they helps," the other flung back over her shoulder as she sauntered away.--Dellinger.

Source of His Love.

"Do you like your new mamma, Harry?"
"Yes; I like her awful much."
"That is nice. Do you like her because she is pretty?"
"No. I like her 'cause I broke her neck yesterday and she blamed it on the maid."--Judge.

Getting It All.

"What can I bring you today, sir?"
"I hardly know. The doctor says I must have carbohydrates and protoids, and I want something nitrogenous, I think."
"Yes, sir. How about an order of hash?"--Pittsburgh Post.

Persistent Girl.

Ethel--Have you heard of Jack's engagement to Eleanor? Harold--Dear me, no! Then Jack has finally succeeded? Ethel--No. Succumbed.--London Tatler.

East Africa's Big Game.
Big game of British East Africa, outside of the three preserves of the colony, is rapidly vanishing and, according to W. T. Hornaday, "is absolutely certain to disappear in about one-fourth the time that it took South Africa to accomplish the same result." Mr. Hornaday points out that the present legal limit is ruinously extravagant. For $250 any man may buy the right to kill 300 head of hoofed and horned animals of forty-four species, not counting carnivorous animals that may also be killed. Thus the richest big game fauna of any one spot in the world, which nature has been several million years in developing and placing there, seems likely to be wiped out by man within the next fifteen years.--Chicago News.

Just an Oversight.

It was 9 o'clock in the morning in an English town, and the roads were blocked with snow. The maid, who had been given a week's notice, was facing the last day of her sojourn in the house. She handed the usual cup of tea to her mistress; bed and then said sweetly, "Oh, ma'am, when ye asked me yesterday if we had everything in for tonight's party I forgot to tell ye we are out of coal and the furnace is goin' out."

TUFTS LIBRARY.

Pictures for Children by Randolph Caldecott.

—"The Pictures for Children" now in the reading room are reproductions of the work of Randolph Caldecott, a book illustrator, with a most delightful sense of humor. He was born in England, March 23, 1846 and died in Florida, March 18, 1886.

The children's books illustrated are Baby Bunting, A frog he would a-wooing go, Hey, diddle diddle, The house that Jack built, The milkmaid and The three jovial huntsmen. The exhibit will remain until May 25.

MONUMENTS TO THE POTATO.

There Are Several Handsome Ones in England and Germany.

Although America is the original home of the potato, it is only in Europe that monuments have been erected to honor the familiar vegetable. There are several such monuments in Germany and England costing large sums of money and presenting the work of famous sculptors. The most elaborate is that at Offenburg, which honors Sir Francis Drake as the first man to introduce potatoes into Europe.

The monument consists of an excellent statue of Drake, rising from an elaborate base decorated with garlands of the potato plant, with full grown tubers. Several tablets are placed about the base stating that Drake first brought the potato to Europe, with various laudatory inscriptions as to the value of the potato to civilization. A similar monument to Drake and the potato has been erected at Murz.

As a matter of historic fact, Drake had nothing whatever to do with introducing the potato to Europe. It is generally supposed that Sir Walter Raleigh was the discoverer of the potato, and stories are told of his appearing on the streets of London wearing a buttonhole bouquet of potato blossoms in order to attract attention to the new vegetable.

According to one version, the potatoes were first planted by Drake in Ireland. The fact is that the potato was first taken from America by the Spanish long before the exploration of either Drake or Raleigh.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE GOLDEN MANIA.

Baths in Gleaming Coins That Seemed to Soothe the Victims.

Some years ago a London journalist who had speculated in railroad stocks netted £5,000 as the result of a lucky venture. Drawing it in gold, the fortunate man repaired to a hotel, emptied the bags of gold in the bed and went to sleep literally in the sands of "Pac-tols." The man was so crazed by his good fortune that he found indescribable pleasure in reveling in a golden bath.

Paganini, the violinist, when he received the proceeds of his concerts—he insisted upon being paid in gold—used to wash his hands in sovereigns.

A French novelist, Soule, wrote a book entitled "The Memoirs of the Devil." It took. The publishers paid him for the first volume $10,000 in gold. The author carried the gold to his bedroom, poured it into a bathtub and enjoyed for half an hour the excitement of moving his feet to and fro in a bath of gold coins, smoking meanwhile the biggest of Havanas.

A Boston merchant of great wealth, believing certain symptoms indicated that he would become insane, consulted a specialist and, under his advice, became an inmate of a private asylum. For twelve years there his recreation was piling up gold coins and then knocking them over. At times he washed his hands in gold eagles and half eagles. At the end of the long seclusion he returned to his counting room and in twelve months confirmed the thoroughness of his recovery by amassing $500,000.—St. Louis Republic.

An Exchange of Compliments.

This correspondence, ending in true Irish fashion, actually passed between two men in England some years ago.

"Mr. Thompson presents his compliments to Mr. Simpson, and begs to request that he will keep his dogs from trespassing on his grounds."

"Mr. Simpson presents his compliments to Mr. Thompson, and begs to suggest that in future he should not spell 'dogs' with two gees."

"Mr. Thompson's respects to Mr. Simpson, and will feel obliged if he will add the letter e to the last word in the note just received so as to represent Mr. Simpson and lady."

"Mr. Simpson returns Mr. Thompson's note unopened, the impertinence it contains being only equalled by its vulgarity."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Toothpicks in England.

Toothpicks are not so generally used in England as in the United States, being in no real sense considered a household necessity. At the hotels and restaurants, especially those frequented by Americans, they are often supplied, though in a large percentage of eating houses they are given only upon request, and there are thousands of restaurants and other eating places where they are not obtainable even on request. Silver and gold toothpicks suitable for carrying in the pockets are sold to some extent among the well to do classes.—New York Post.

Human Failing.

A man kicks about the weather the year round. The only variation he makes is to look at different ends of the thermometer.

WEYMOUTH AND EAST BRAINTREE

—Court Monatiquot 150 Foresters of America is arranging for a class initiation the last of the month when 40 will receive the degrees. The work will probably be performed by the degree staff of Quincy court and the Knights of Sherwood Foresters of Brockton.

—James Jordan of Brockton, a former resident of this place, has been visiting his brother, Calvin Jordan of Lincoln square.

—W. Francis Leach is home from a visit with Herbert Pray at Waldoboro, Maine.

—A committee consisting of Jeannette Drexheimer, Mabel E. King, Maud M. Hill, Margaret L. Gross, James E. Fisherty, Burton F. Johnson and Charles I. Newcomb is arranging for the 25th anniversary of Safety Lodge 96 N. E. O. P. which will be observed May 26. The exercises will include a banquet, entertainment and dance. A number of the State officers will attend.

—Mrs. Charlotte Hender, who underwent an operation at a Boston hospital some weeks ago, has now almost wholly regained her health.

—Pauline, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Ahearn, who was knocked down by a motor cycle last Thursday was more seriously injured than was first thought. The X-ray showed that the little girl had sustained a broken collar bone.

—The operetta "Voices of Nature" is to be given at the Baptist church next Wednesday evening.

—Favorable reports are received from Miss Margaret Moore, who was operated on at the Carney hospital, Boston, last week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Berthiaume of Spencer, who were married a few days ago have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Floyd. Mrs. Berthiaume before her marriage was Miss Olive G. White, daughter of Paul White, a native and for years a resident of this town.

—Charles Jefferson, a former resident of this town, has been in town from Tampa Florida, on a visit to William Cain and other friends.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Hobart and son, Stewart, who have been spending the winter at Southern Pines, N. C., are expected home next week.

—The newly organized Fore River base ball team won the opener by a score of 1 to 0 with the strong Norwood Press team on the losing end. William Wall caught for the Fore River's and his work was largely responsible for the team's winning the game. He made 13 put outs, 1 assist and one hit.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Walls of Lynn have been visiting her parents, Captain and Mrs. Everett Whitmarsh.

—William Shanahan, William Daley, Edward Ryan, Phillip F. Haviland and William Burns attended the County convention of the A. O. H. at Roxbury, Sunday as delegates from Division No. 6, A. O. H. of this town.

—A number of shade trees have been set out between here and Weymouth Heights on Commercial street. The money for the work is furnished from the Tufts fund left for that purpose.

—The citizens of Washington street in the vicinity of Federal and Congress streets are up in arms against a public dump opened up on Washington street, near Federal street "Clean-Up Week" and a petition liberally signed has been sent to the Board of Health asking that the nuisance be abated.

—William Boudrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boudrow, died at his home on Liberty street, East Braintree, Saturday morning, aged 27. He was unmarried. Deceased had been in poor health for a number of years. The funeral took place from the Church of the Sacred Heart, Monday morning. The burial was in the family lot at St. Francis Xavier cemetery.

—Mr. and Mrs. John J. Heaney of Quincy avenue, while out driving Monday evening, were run into by an automobile at the corner of Adams and Commercial street, East Braintree. Mrs. Heaney received a fracture of the left rib and minor injuries. Mr. Heaney escaped with a severe shaking up. The machine was operated by Harry White of Braintree, who had been in Hingham collecting eggs for the grocery store in which he works. In the auto with White was Miss Helen Stoddard, a daughter of the proprietor of the store. They had collected 100 dozen eggs and about 40 dozen of the eggs were not damaged. The machine was going at a good rate of speed and in the collision turned upside down. The wagon of Mr. Heaney was but slightly damaged.

—Comrade Benjamin F. Torrey of Post 58 G. A. R. is seriously ill at his home on Allen street with no hope of recovery. Mr. Torrey has been confined to his home for the past four years, the result of a shock, and he sustained another severe one Wednesday.

—The concrete sidewalk is being continued up Front street as far as Garfield avenue and from Lincoln square to Webb street.

—Division No. 6 A. O. H. has received an invitation to participate in the dedication at Cohasset, Memorial Day, of a monument to the Irish immigrants who lost their lives in 1849, off the coast of that town by the foundering of a vessel.

from Weymouth to Quincy bridge, with a heavy greasy mass. The tank car, which was consigned to the Braintree Street Department, contained 8,000 gallons. There was a defect in the valve it is claimed, and it was impossible to stop the flow of oil until jacks could be secured. Superintendent Robert Gibson of the street department and Charles Wilson, an employee, were completely covered with the fluid and the services of a physician were required.

—Roman Springston, who has been spending the past year with relatives in this town, started for his home in Chicago, Illinois, Sunday.

—The Union Literary Circle held its closing social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Crane, Tuesday evening, May 12th. A very pleasing program of vocal solos, violin and piano duets and readings was given, followed by a social and refreshments, thus bringing to a close another season of interest and pleasure to the members, who have held together for many years.

Trinity Church Notes.

The churches have been asked by those interested in peace, to observe next Sunday as Peace Sunday and the day will be observed in that spirit at Trinity Church, Weymouth. Rev. William Hyde will preach in the morning on Peace and War, and the service will be in harmony with peace. In the evening the subject will be Confirmation, and at 4 p. m. members of the confirmation class will meet in the church for instructions.

On Thursday May 21st at 10 A. M. the Holy Communion will be administered at Trinity Church Weymouth.

On Friday May 22nd the Rt. Rev. Samuel Babcock D. D. Suffragan Bishop of Mass. will visit Trinity church Weymouth. The Bishop will preach and Rev. William Hyde will present a large class to him for confirmation.

Weymouth Choral Society.

The Weymouth Choral society have had a successful season of rehearsals, having given in concert a miscellaneous program in January, and are now prepared to perform "The Messiah" next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock in Fogg's Opera house, with Mr. Calderwood conducting, and accompanied by a home orchestra.

This is a permanent organization and it is hoped more of our good citizens will lend their support by becoming associate members.

Now is the time to determine whether we will own our own orchards or let the caterpillars have them.

Weymouth Board of Trade

A Day With Nature and High Manufacturing Art

The Weymouth Board of Trade, to the extent of about 60 members and guests, took an outing on Wednesday with South Framingham, its principal factory and suburbs, as the objective point.

The plans were made by the president, E. W. Hunt, with Washington square, Weymouth Landing, the starting point. It almost goes without saying that outings of today are auto outings and at 8.30 a. m. this modern and rapid conveyance was quite in evidence in Washington square.

perature and beauty of scenery. Thirty miles of beautiful landscape of hills, valleys, broad green fields, elegant lawns, shrubbery arranged in high art and homes which in beauty of design and elegance of finish are not excelled on the American continent.

An hour and a half brought the party to South Framingham where a little rest was taken and then a line was formed and started out to take in the surrounding country. Ashland, the lakes, ponds and other features there which are a part of the Metropolitan Water System, the drives and other features of that section, may be beautiful and suggestive of skilled engineering and large investment of money, but our advice to any one wishing to see them is to go in a small party or singly; otherwise you will come back with more than the peck of dust which every man is supposed to "consume in a life time."

GRAND ARMY MEMORIAL.

Reynolds Post 58 G.A.R. and kindred organizations have completed the Memorial Day and week, program, a part of which we give this week but will give in our next, the exercises of the men on Decoration Day.

The P. I. Mrs. Margaret Culley, wishes to remind Corps members as well as the members of the other Ladies' organizations to provide flowers for the water service next Sunday. Mrs. Culley has arranged an excellent program to take place at Quincy Point bridge at about noon, to be followed by a Memorial service at the Pilgrim church. The superintendent of the car barn will furnish an extra car to follow the regular quarter of twelve car to the bridge, and will be held there to bring those who wish, back to the church for the services there.

- 1. The Post having accepted the invitation of Rev. Charles Clark to attend divine service at the Pilgrim Congregational church, North Weymouth, on Sunday, May 24, they will assemble with Camp 36, S. of V., and kindred organizations at Thomas's Corner, at 1.30 o'clock, and march to the church. Comrades in uniform and white gloves, officers with belts.

PRESENT THE "MESSIAH"

Extra Large Audience at Fourth Grand Concert of Weymouth Choral Society in Fogg's Opera House South Weymouth Last Sunday Evening.

Miss Angela C. McCarthy

With grand weather conditions and an extra large audience, the fourth concert in the history of the Weymouth Choral Society and the second this season, was given in Fogg's opera house, South Weymouth last Sunday evening, when members of the society to the number of sixty five, with James W. Calderwood conductor, assisted by Mme. Wilhelmina Wright-Calvert, soprano; Miss Angela C. McCarthy, contralto; Frederic Kennedy, tenor; Oscar L. Huntington, bass and an orchestra of seventeen pieces presented "The Messiah" in a most able and pleasing manner.

Every seat on the floor and in the balcony of South Weymouth's fine opera house, had been sold, therefore when Mr. Calderwood stepped upon the directing stand at a few minutes after eight o'clock, he was greeted with a well merited round of applause from one of the largest audiences that ever attended a musical performance in this town. The chorus also was well applauded when the curtain went up, showing the society members grouped artistically on the large stage, the ladies all in white and the men in full dress suits.

The orchestra, consisting of seventeen of the talent in the Weymouths and East Braintree, was stationed on the main floor in front of the stage. In the possession of such a fine orchestra, the Weymouth Choral Society should feel very fortunate and proud, as the musicians added much to the efficient rendering of the concert, last Sunday evening. The orchestra was composed of the following members:

- Miss May Hanley, Miss Marion White, Miss Pauline Bergeron and Cyrus Rosso, first violins; Robert McNeill and Francis E. Bergeron second violins; Victor P. Dubois, viola; A. S. Hawes, trombone; G. M. Kimball, baritone saxophone; Miss Theodora Keith, cornet; George R. Kemp and Seth C. Vining Jr., clarinets; A. W. Hastings, flute; P. Troiano, oboe; Bates

Torrey cello; A. E. Ordway, contra-bass. The accompanist was Mrs. William A. Hodges of East Weymouth and, as usual, her playing was of a very high standard. Of the artists, who assisted, no comment is needed on the grand singing of Mme. Calvert. It was, as usual, beyond imagination. Miss McCarthy's voice was a delight to all, and like Mme. Calvert, she was roundly applauded for her fine work. Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Huntington are both well known to Weymouth audiences, and the popularity of both was manifest by the burst of applause they received upon their appearance on the stage. Their singing was of a grand nature, as usual.

Mr. Calderwood, the genial conductor of the society, directed the fourth concert in the same able and decidedly pleasing way, as he did the three previous presentations, and the Choral society is indeed, in luck to have such an interested and efficient director.

The chorus work was a great credit to the hard work put in at weekly rehearsals by the choral members and by Mr. Calderwood, and it showed very careful study and much practice in every way.

The fourth concert was directly in charge of the officers of the society, viz: E. E. Leonard, president; W. L. Swan and Mrs. H. B. Bachelord, vice presidents; Mrs. Ella C. Richards, secretary; W. H. Pratt, treasurer and Bela P. French, librarian.

The able corps of ushers at the concert was in charge of Charles T. Heald. His assistants were J. Leonard Bicknell, Thayer McBride, Warren Bates, Arthur Hyatt, Harold Soule, Samuel Robinson, Kenneth Brennan and Elliott Veazie.

The fourth concert of the Weymouth Choral society is now a matter of history but it is safe to say that lovers of good music in town are awaiting with keen anticipation, the presentations of the society to come in the fall of 1914 and the spring of 1915.

JUDGE LOUIS A. COOK SAILS.

Given Royal Send-off Last Tuesday on Journey to Weymouth, England.

Amid cheers and best wishes from a host of friends and associates, Hon. Louis A. Cook sailed from Charlestown last Tuesday on the steamship Arabic for Liverpool, England. Judge Cook is to represent this town, at the celebration the first week in June, of the town of Weymouth, England when the memorial to the first governor of Massachusetts Bay Colony, John Endicott, who sailed from Weymouth, England, June 1628, will be unveiled.

The town and the Board of Trade of Weymouth was represented at the dock by A. P. Worthen, D. M. Easton, M. Sheehy, William C. Earle, Louis A. Cook Jr., S. R. Cook and E. W. Hunt.

Town Council A. P. Worthen presented Mr. Cook with his credentials and then D. M. Easton, in his own original manner, presented the tourist with an elegant bouquet of choice flowers.

President E. W. Hunt of the Board of Trade, extended best wishes to Mr. Cook and sent greetings and congratulations to the Mayor of Weymouth, Eng., and all his countrymen, also an invitation to attend our coming 300th anniversary celebration.

Mr. Cook was accompanied by Mrs. Cook. After spending some time looking up historical records in Weymouth, Judge and Mrs. Cook will return to London and then go to Paris where their daughter, Miss Florence Cook will join them from Rome. They will return about August first.

Mr. Cook takes with him the following credential from the Town Clerk of Weymouth and testimonial from Gov. Walsh:

To the Mayor of the town of Weymouth, England.

The people of Weymouth, in the County of Norfolk and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, accept with great pleasure the invitation extended by the people of Weymouth, England to send a representative to visit them upon the occasion of the unveiling of a memorial marking the place from which the first Governor of Massachusetts Bay and Richard Clark sailed in 1628.

In common with the numerous other settlements in this country which bear the names of the places in old England from which our forefathers came, the people of Weymouth, Massachusetts, cherish sentiments of sincere esteem and respect for the more ancient mother town of Weymouth, England.

Moreover, in the words of John Endicott himself, whose departure from your shores you propose to fittingly commemorate:

"God's people are all marked with one and ye same mark, and sealed with one and ye same seal, and have for ye maine, one and ye same harte, guided by one and same spirite of truth; and where this is there can be no discordie, nay, here must needs be sweet harmonies."

In furtherance of this purpose and in token of their endorsement of the above sentiments, the people of Weymouth, Massachusetts, at a legal town meeting held March 11, 1914, elected Judge Louis A. Cook, as their duly accredited representative from said town to attend the proposed celebration.

In testimony whereof I hereunto set my hand and affix the seal of said town, this eighteenth day of May in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

JOHN A. RAYMOND, Town Clerk.

To the Mayor and Inhabitants of the town of Weymouth, England.

Weymouth was the first settlement in Massachusetts Bay Colony of which John Endicott was the first governor. Just as that Colony has developed into the Commonwealth of Massachusetts so in its course of nearly three centuries has that first settlement become one of the largest and most beautiful of the many towns in which the Commonwealth takes pride.

We of New England can well understand why our fathers, in many instances, brought with them and bestowed upon the place of their new home, a name "in honor and love to their dear and native country. Not only that, but they also brought with them those lofty and sterling principles of thought and action which have contributed so much to our prosperity and secured for us the manifold blessings we now enjoy.

As the present Chief Executive of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and on behalf of all her people, I send to the town across the sea of which our Weymouth is the namesake, greetings and congratulations.

DAVID I. WALSH, Governor.

Great Seal of the Commonwealth.

MRS. MARY HOWLEY AT REST.

Prominent Life Long Resident of East Weymouth Dead After Long Illness.

After a long illness Mrs. Mary Howley passed away at her home on Broad street East Weymouth early last Friday morning at the age of 62 years.

Mrs. Howley was born in the house now occupied by D. Cohen and has lived all her life in a house about a hundred yards from her birthplace. She was a sister of the first Catholic child born in Weymouth.

In 1863 she was married to John W. Howley. Mr. Howley passed away in 1899. Mrs. Howley is survived by three sons, Leo, who lives at home; Walter, foreman of the East Weymouth Division of the Bay State Street Railway; and Daniel P., catcher of the Montreal Baseball club; and four daughters, Mrs. Mary McCormack of East Braintree; Mrs. P. F. Talbot of Quincy and Miss Christina and Miss Alice Howley, who live at home.

Mrs. Howley was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary to Division 9, A. O. H. and of Reynolds W. R. C. and all during her life was an active worker in both organizations.

Funeral services were held Monday morning in the Immaculate Conception church in East Weymouth. Solemn high Mass of Requiem was celebrated by Rev. James Allison, assisted by Rev. Father Lynch of Watertown, formerly of this town and Rev. Father Brosnahan of East Weymouth. Music was by the church choir with Miss Nellie F. Noonan organist. Interment was in St. Francis Xavier cemetery. The bearers were Daniel Looney, John Kelley, James Murphy, Edward Faircloth, John Noonan and Augustus Noonan.

The floral tributes were many and very beautiful. Among the tributes were set pieces from the Ladies Auxiliary of Div. 9 A. O. H.; Reynolds W. R. C.; Bay State Street Railway Co.; Employees of East Weymouth Division of the Street Railway; Louisville Baseball Club; Montreal Baseball Club; Old Colony Gas Co.; Rudd Heater Co.; New England Tel. and Tel. Co.; and the Edwin Clapp Shoe Co. The large number of floral tributes testified to the great esteem and love Mrs. Howley was held in by a host of friends, and she will be remembered by every one who knew her, as one of the most upright and kind-hearted women it is one's fortune to meet.

Mr. Albert F. Thayer.

Mr. Albert Francis Thayer died at his home 104 Front street at midnight Sunday. He had been in poor health for several years past. He was born in Braintree March 2, 1840 and was a son of Gideon and Sarah H. Bates Thayer. He received his education in the Braintree schools. He was for years employed in the livery stable business with his brother H. L. Thayer in Weymouth and also in the same business for a number of years with another brother Daniel Thayer at South Braintree. He ran express business between Boston and North Weymouth for several years. Mr. Thayer is survived by two sons Fred A. of Weymouth with when he had made his home since retiring from business and Wallace Thayer of Randolph. Two daughters Mrs. Sylvanus B. Richmond of this place and Mrs. Susie Pray of Camden, N. J., a brother Henry L. Thayer of this town and two sisters Miss Hannah Thayer of Boston and Mrs. Elvora Penniman of Braintree.

The funeral took place from his late residence Wednesday afternoon and was attended by many of the friends of the deceased. Rev. C. J. Underhill pastor of the First Baptist church conducted the service. Mr. Charles Price sang "Lead Kindly Light". There were many handsome floral tributes. The interment was in the family lot at Pond street cemetery South Braintree.

Citizens' Association.

The Citizens' Association of Weymouth and East Braintree held an open meeting in Pythian Hall, Weymouth, last Monday night. President R. B. Worster presided. Mrs. Mary Atherton Howe of Newville gave an interesting talk on "Equal Suffrage."

Signs to be Erected.

The committee of the Board of Trade has decided on the following signs, one to be erected at the Quincy Point bridge, one in Washington square and one at the Abington line on Main street.

The committee selected two which were among the many from High school scholars and divided the prize between the two aspirants.

Weymouth Beats Brockton.

After ten straight wins, the fast Brockton nine went down to defeat on their own grounds last Thursday, at the hands of the speedy Weymouth High team, by the score of 6 to 3 in 14 innings. Callahan pitched excellent ball for Weymouth and Gorman's all around work featured. A complete story of the big win by W. H. S. over the Shoe city boys, will appear in next week's issue of this paper.

Loyal Order of Moose.

A large number of Moose and their friends enjoyed the last Moose social of the season on Wednesday evening, when Mr. Edwin Mulready of Rockland, talked on the Massachusetts System of Probation. Mr. Mulready is a most eloquent speaker and a man of wide experience in the modern methods of treating the victims of circumstance and the degenerates brought before the courts of the Commonwealth. He showed the magnitude and importance of this work by showing that 160,000 or nearly the population of Norfolk County were before the courts each year. Mr. Mulready also told of the convention of the Sociological Congress at Memphis this month, which he attended. Musical selections were given by Gardner's Novelty Orchestra.

Weymouth Lodge of Moose will turn the first milestone on next Tuesday evening, and a celebration of the anniversary of its institution will be held at Masonic Temple. An entertainment and supper will be followed by dancing.

Louis Beach and Harry Vogel have been appointed delegates to the N. E. Loyal Order of Moose convention, to be held in Haverhill, June 15, 16 and 17.

Resilient. Mrs. Naybor—"Well, did you have some of the sponge cake I sent to the picnic?" Willie Nextdoor—"Yes'm; we played ball with my piece."

GLEANINGS ON BEACON HILL

Remarkable Efficiency Being Shown by the Legislature

RESPONSIVE TO PUBLIC WILL

Conservatives Win Their Point In Notable Instances—Stiff Fight Over
Milk Bills—Governor is Exceedingly Busy—Crisis in Railroad Controversy Will Soon Be Reached

It is not the worst legislature in years despite what some of the morbidly critical say about it. There never has been a general court session where business has been transacted with the dispatch shown this year.

With one-third as many more petitions than last year there has been up to this time about two-thirds as much legislation. Without decided disposition to go through with matters this could not have been done. Of course one of the reasons for it is the systematic way that the presiding officers of both branches have kept after their committees.

Earlier in the year it was explained in this column that frequent meetings of committee chairmen had been arranged for and the need of haste was emphasized. The fruits of this policy are now being gathered. It is safe to say that when the year's work is reviewed it will be shown that the legislature was remarkably efficient.

A Responsive Machine
As a machine the legislature is quickly responsive to the public will. It is probably true that the system of direct nominations has not resulted in the election of a much higher type of legislator. But it probably has kept them rather close to the popular view of matters. And the popular view is apt to be a radical view.

But when the conservatives have carried out a carefully planned campaign they have found it not impossible to win their point. This is shown in the case of the anti-vaccination bill, which was killed in the house after it had swept the senate. It would have easily been disposed of in the senate had the conservative forces which finally fought it hard got busy sooner.

The same thing is true of the anti-injunction bill, which went through the house only to meet with determined and successful resistance in the senate.

As one examines the laws already enacted it will appear that not one really radical or so-called dangerous act has been placed on the statute books. And the fact stands out all the more boldly when it is remembered that the governor has sent but one veto message to the legislature this year and this was upon nothing more noteworthy than giving the governor the right to appoint license commissioners in the city of Chelsea.

Those Milk Bills
One of the much discussed measures now before the legislature is the so-called Ellis milk bill and another is the so-called Wright milk bill. Both of these deal with milk inspection. But the Ellis bill is like the one of previous years in giving more power to the state board of health, while the Wright bill more particularly limits and defines the present system of milk inspection.

The Ellis bill is out of the committee with an unfavorable report and the Wright bill has a favorable report. The Milk Consumers' league, with ex-Representative Myron E. Pierce of Boston acting as counsel, has been putting up a big fight for the Ellis bill and against the Wright bill.

The brunt of this fight has fallen upon Senator Charles E. Ward, who quite frankly does not like either measure. The producers are divided and the Boston newspapers generally support the Milk Consumers' league.

The milk fight has been carried on with great determination by both sides for a number of years. Once the Ellis bill, which was then less advantageous to the producers than now, got up to Governor Foss, who vetoed it. The governor wants to have it settled.

Governor Didn't Realize It
Governor Walsh looked over this column last week and said he had not realized how much he was doing to earn the title of the reorganization governor. But his excellency added that he felt that the reforms with which he has been identified were very necessary measures.

But the governor's advisers, who have been watching his work closely for some time, are really coming to the conclusion that he is trying to do too much. Any one of the things he has been in consultation over every day would take up the time of one first class administrative officer. But in addition to it all he has been giving liberal attendance to the evening functions which threaten every governor with their exactions. It means that a governor is expected to be in half a dozen places every night, eat as many dinners and make as many speeches.

All this does not help out any for the following day's work and Governor Walsh is beginning to find it out in time. The executive offices are open for business at 9:30 each morning and the governor is usually prompt. The offices are packed with visitors as they have never been before. They come to talk politics, reorganization, appointments, militia, war, health and scores of other things. And they stay late.

Traction Crisis
A few of the biggest things in the legislature were discussed here several weeks ago. But the matter that outstrips all the rest is apparently the railroad problem.

This has now come along to a point where a crisis will soon be reached. The hot June days always bring about the annual railroad crisis in the legislature. The merger question broke when the mercury had touched 100 in the shade.

The governor now has his railroad message before the legislature. It represents an understanding between the federal authorities, the New Haven and the governor's office for the separation of the Boston and Maine from the New Haven. But nobody believes that the matter will go through the legislature without a good sized fight shaping up.

It looks now as if there were to be two prominent points in the controversy. One touches upon the personnel of the trustees who will be named by the United States supreme court to take over the Boston and Maine stock formerly owned by New Haven interests and now in the control of the Boston Railroad Holding company.

The other point is associated with the safeguard in the disposal of that stock. Nobody wants it to remain directly or indirectly in the control of the New Haven. It must be disposed of at a fair price, and it ought not to go into the hands of interests who would be no more acceptable to the people of the state than the New Haven.

Washburn Gives Notice
Robert Washburn of Worcester, who fought the late Governor Draper on the question of the holding company to take over the New Haven shares, is giving out a daily interview against the acceptance of Messrs. Hall and Richards upon the board of railroad trustees on the ground that they are too closely allied with the Elevated interests. He also has several copiously drawn amendments to the suggestions laid out in the governor's message.

Meanwhile the testimony being offered in Washington promises to have its influence upon the attitude of the legislature. What the circumstances were under which the Railroad Holding company bill went through the legislature are being talked of in connection with the methods which Charles S. Mellen says were used in other places to get through railroad programs.

The paramount influence in Massachusetts was that of the late Governor Draper, who conferred with the New Haven officials just as Governor Walsh is doing and who gave it as his opinion that the only way to act was to pass the holding company bill to bring the stock to Massachusetts from Connecticut.

Legislative Curiosity
The new Sabbath bill, which has been having its ups and downs in the senate, is a legislative curiosity. It provides among other things that a man may work in his garden on Sundays.

Senator Bagley of East Boston, who has been helping the bill along, says that the word "man" should be construed liberally. But Dr. Clark of Brockton, who doesn't like the bill, says that the word "man" means man. It doesn't mean a boy 15 years old or a girl of 20 or a suffragette of any age.

It took a long time for the Sabbath Protective league to get up an interest in the bill. But now its members are quite wide awake and they have been fighting vigorously against the bill. They say that while the Sunday laws are being strictly construed that they do not apply to garden work on Sunday, and that the passage of this bill would operate to demolish the present law.

The league has shown itself rather a powerful interest this year in the legislature and has fixed the bill up for a quick journey to the waste basket.

First Tax Sale Bill
Senator Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford has been making sharp opposition to the little tax bill which provides that the law of real estate sales for taxes shall be put back where it was before the amendment was passed.

That amendment, proposed by the commission on municipal finance, of which Senator Doyle was a member, provided that the sale for non-payment should take place within a year, whereas if used to be two years, as the bill now provides.

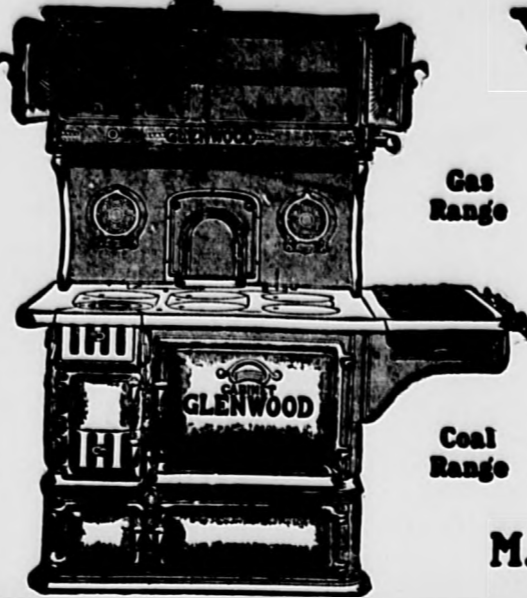

The new bill changes the amendment, which does not go into effect until next October, and Doyle says that the bill ruins one of the best recommendations that came from his commission.

His argument is that the two-year limit for selling makes the collections slower than they should be and actually results in the necessity of issuing bonds to pay current expenses, when taxes ought to have been collected for the purpose. He also says that the year law is the law of other states and works well.

The bill was presented upon the petition of Representatives Ryan of Holyoke and Tague of Boston, who say that the amendment shortening the time of sale to a year is favorable to the tax title buyer. Opposition did not form against the return to the old law until it had got through the committee on taxation and through the house.

King Edward's Memory of Faces.

On one occasion Louis Sterne, an engineer and inventor and a friend of Charles Dickens, showed King Edward when Prince of Wales his exhibits at South Kensington and the Crystal Palace.

"The next time I met the prince," said Mr. Sterne, "I was crossing Piccadilly, at the top of St. James' street, before the days of refugees. In trying to escape being run down I ran directly into the arms of his royal highness. He at once recognized me and said, 'Mr. Sterne, you should give this traffic time and never cross the bows.' I expressed surprise that he should recognize me, to which he replied that he never forgot either face or name if associated with any matter of interest."—London Telegraph.

A Useful Dunce.

During the war between the states General Sedgwick had on his staff a very dull lieutenant, who seemed never to be able to do anything without making mistakes. One day a friend asked the general:

"Why do you keep Jones on your staff? He seems a perfect dunce."

"Do you know," replied General Sedgwick, "Jones is one of the most useful members of my staff? Before I issue an order I always have Jones read it. If he can tell what it means I am sure there can be no chance that any one will misunderstand it."

Her Club.

Mrs. Subbubs had joined a club for the first time. Mrs. Towney asked her what the club was for, its aims and so on.

"I really don't know," said Mrs. Subbubs.

"You don't know? Why did you join a club when you don't see its object?"

"Because it meets on Mondays, and that's the only day in the week I had nowhere to go."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Then He Subsided.

"I never saw such a woman in all my life," said Bass. "You are never satisfied with anything."

"People who know the man I took for a husband," replied Mrs. B., "think, on the contrary, that I am easily satisfied."—Liverpool Mercury.

Pastime for Youth Only.

A sixty-two-year-old Sydney man is dead as a result of injuries received while trying to "skin the cat," after watching his grandson perform the feat. "Skinning the cat" is one of the most fascinating of youthful pastimes, but let us remember, as we contemplate our gray hairs, that it is a youthful pastime only, and govern ourselves with commensurate dignity.

In Foggy Old London.

Visitors to London in old days were in the habit of making fun of the fog just as the visitors of today. Condemara, Spanish ambassador in Queen Elizabeth's time, said to a friend who was returning to Spain: "My compliments to the sun, whom I have not seen since I came to England."

Better Toll Rates

New telephone toll regulations provide that unless you talk to the person asked for there will be NO CHARGE FOR THE TOLL CALL.

Formerly a reduced rate was charged when the number called was reached even though the person asked for was absent or not ready to talk.

Why not make a call now to some one who would like to hear from you to-day? No talk—no charge.

Wouldn't it be worth the price?

If you don't know the rate, ask the Toll Operator. No charge for a call for rates. If you want the Toll Operator to report to you the actual cost of a completed call, please notify her when you give the order for the call.

A toll call is more satisfactory than a letter or a telegram, and in some instances is more economical, because you get the message and the answer for one price.

BROODING OVER MISTAKES.

It Does No Good and Is Merely Committing a Second Fault. Mistakes are to be laughed at. If one were to take seriously every little mistake he made life would become a burden to him. Laugh at your own little mistakes and do not feel grieved if others laugh at them. Laughing will help you remember to avoid them another time quite as well as giving away to serious regrets.

Some people are forever taking themselves to task for some shortcoming. They are the overconscientious ones. If we act foolishly on the impulse of a moment it is no more fair to punish ourselves than to punish a child for a little mistake. It is right to look for the error and acknowledge it. If one has wronged another he ought to confess it and be more careful, then put it out of mind.

To grow morose and solemn is to commit a second fault. No one is doing any good to himself or others by constantly eating the bread of penitence. The only time to remember a mistake is when one is tempted again to the same fault. Daily and hourly keeping up self reproach, one is worn out. This does not mean never to listen to the warnings of conscience, but to see the fault, start afresh and keep cheerful and hopeful. — Milwaukee Journal.

LINCOLN TOLD A STORY.

It Was So Good It Inflicted and Then Remitted a Fine. Abraham Lincoln, during his early career as a lawyer, traveled a circuit in Illinois. Judge David Davis and Lincoln were close friends, says the author of "Lincoln's Own Stories," and the judge always showed a keen appreciation of Lincoln's stories.

"I was never fined but once for contempt of court," said a man who was a clerk of court in Lincoln's day. "Davis fined me $5. Mr. Lincoln had just come in, and, leaning over my desk, had told me a story so irresistibly funny that I broke out in a loud laugh. The judge called me to order, saying:

"This must be stopped. Mr. Lincoln, you are constantly disturbing this court with your stories."

"Then he said to me:

"You may fine yourself $5." "I apologized to the court, but told the judge that the story was worth the money. Shortly afterward the judge called me to him.

"What was that story that Lincoln told you?" he asked.

"I told him, and he laughed aloud in spite of himself.

"Remit your fine!" he ordered."

Health Note.

A Chicago physician says: "Good health demands that the mouth be kept closed while asleep." Cases are known where a man's health would be in better condition if he'd kept his mouth closed while awake.

ON THE FARM

Read this column and you can have it delivered at your house with something new every week for a full year by sending $2.00 to this office now.

It pays to take a little time in making rows in the garden. Long, straight ones will make an easier job of cultivating.

The dairyman has no right to complain of the labor problem unless he is willing to give a good faithful man steady work all the year around.

Raise a first class article, whether grain, vegetables, chickens or pigs, and there will be no difficulty in finding people who want your product if you will but let them know what you have and what you sell it for.

Conditions are right for money making by the agricultural class. It simply remains for the farmers themselves to develop methods of selling by which they can take advantage of the improved markets. The rapid growth of cities and the sharp demand for all kinds of produce are substantial evidence of this improvement.

While the horses are hard at work in hot weather, they should be given the greatest possible stall comforts. Manure should be removed daily and ample dry, clean bedding supplied. A clean, cool, soft bed will rest an animal over night.

Early crops for the fowls will reduce the cost of feeding and give the birds succulent food which is essential to egg production. As soon as the winter crops are eaten off have early spring crops ready. Oats, wheat, rye, barley, rape, alfalfa, clover and many other crops are suitable.

A sound horse, well fed and handled, is able to do a surprisingly large amount of work during the year on the farm. On the other hand, a good horse may be so poorly nourished and carelessly handled as to become worthless as a work animal in a short time. The care he receives will make him valuable, indifferent or worthless.

If you have a rough, rocky pasture, such is an ideal place to turn the colts frequently to harden and develop their feet. Wet stalls and soft lots are dangerous to all horses' feet. Colts and young horses must have exercise regularly on hard ground, to make the hoofs wear off as fast as growth takes place to give a neat, well-shaped, strong and hard hoof. Allowing a colt to run with hoofs too long will result not only in poor feet, but most likely in poor legs.

There is a tendency now to plant corn later than formerly. This is really better all in all, for the April cold spell can often overcome the effects of early sprouting. Then the main thing now is that later planting permits that extra preparation of the soil bed by repeated disking and harrowing, which is the key to success now.

A farmer raising fruit should make contracts with private customers or grocers as early in the season as he can—that is, as soon as he can tell something about what the yield is to be. He will thus get better returns than by shipping to a large produce market. The same method is best in marketing poultry, eggs and vegetables.

The team that is worked not more than ten hours a day in the field can do more work in a month than the same team worked twelve to fourteen hours a day. They will have more strength and spirit while in harness, for they will have more time evenings, nights and mornings for rest and recuperation of power. It is not regular daily work that injures horses, but irregularity, long days and careless handling. Ten hours in the field is enough.

Almost all of our soils are fairly well supplied with mineral matter. Some of this is already available, or usable, form, while there is an unlimited amount of rich mineral compounds in the deeper layers of soil not in an available form for plant growth. Manuring the soil and working the manure into it deeply will cause it to come in contact with the insoluble mineral elements, and unite chemically with them to make them soluble and immediately available for plant growth. Manure then, has a twofold use in the soil. It supplies plant foods directly, and by acting chemically with soil mineral compounds, it creates new plant foods.

Buckwheat is a good crop to grow on weedy lands; it is a nitrogen gatherer like clover; it may be sown late with safety, when the rush of other seedling is over, and it is a good yielder. Whole buckwheat has about the feeding value of corn, but its middlings have a high protein content, 22 per cent, oil meal has 28 per cent, and the manure from that feed is rich in nitrogen. Ground buckwheat made into a thick slop is good for the brood sow, and its flavor soon induces the little pigs to learn to eat. Horses eat whole buckwheat and they seem to do well on it and welcome it to break a monotonous diet. Fowls like it and relish it for a long time continuously.

Masked Women. Upper class Swahilli women wear curious masks, which are made of leather and beads on a wooden frame. The mask is derived from the traditional usage of Moslem women, who must keep their faces covered in the presence of men. For several centuries Arab traders have frequented this east African coast, and to their influence are due most of the civilized customs found today among the natives of the district. The clothing worn by these prosperous dames is of silk, their shoes are partly of silver, and they wear much silver jewelry. The Moslems in Zanzibar, by the way, are less fanatically strict about religious usages than their brethren in Morocco and Turkey.—Wide World Magazine.

To Bed With Drum and Shot. From the following story it would seem that the cadets at West Point are not the only persons who sometimes find taps and the sunrise gun annoying.

The wife of one of the officers there had a colored maid who was giving satisfaction and was apparently well pleased with her position. Mrs. Brown was therefore amazed when Sallie came to her and told her she could not work there any longer.

"Will you tell me why you are leaving, Sallie?" her mistress asked.

"Mis' Lizzie," she answered, "Ah likes you an' Ah likes de kumel an' Ah likes de chillen. But Ah can't stay nowher whar Ah has to be drummed to bed at night and shot out of bed in de mawnin'."—New York Post.

Gaucha and Gringo. The gaucha (now nearly extinct) was the cowboy of the Argentine pampas, a half wild fellow who, dressed in his "poncho," spent his entire time looking after the great droves of cattle that roamed over the South American plains. "Gringo" is a term applied by the South Americans to a North American or Englishman and sometimes by the people of Mexico to an American.

Feathered Police. "Our aerial police force" is the picturesque and at the same time accurate phrase that the state ornithologist of Massachusetts has applied to the birds. They concentrate rapidly on any unusual irruption of insects or of the smaller animals that we class as vermin. They guard alike the property of rich and poor, demand no salary, accept no "kraft" and ask only to be protected in the performance of their beneficent work.—Youth's Companion.

Weymouth Gazette AND TRANSCRIPT

Entered in the Post Office at Weymouth, Mass., as Second Class Matter

FRIDAY, MAY 22, 1914

Is it too late for the School Committee to fall in with DeKalb, Illinois? In that town the committee has fixed the limit to three dollars a high school girl can go in preparing for the June graduation.

"The cherry blossoms are here—a few of them. The apple blossoms are coming on and the shad bush is growing gray and gray, preparatory to bursting into bloom. The lilacs have leaped out and when the morning air is moist they give forth a perfume almost as sweet as the flowers themselves. It is a long and weary time to wait for this miracle of May, but once it comes, all else is swept aside. Daily life renews itself as nature renews herself and all is great and glorious and fresh and verdant. This is the spring! And May is May! Just May!"—Dedham Transcript.

"But half of May so like May ain't 'T would rile a shake or an average saint. It just gets itself in tune, Then gives one leap from April into June." Lowell.

Don't get discouraged. June will soon be here. Then watch out for roses, blushing brides and sweet girl graduates. They always have come and will in the Year of Our Lord 1914.

Since our article of last week in regard to the herring, or alewife, fishery which the town sold to the Weymouth Iron Co., subject to certain conditions, in 1846 we have several times been asked "what did the Weymouth Iron Co. do with it?" We intended to answer the question as best we could, but on Saturday last while looking over our files for some interesting items of ancient history we came across the following which came out in the Gazette of May 20, 1887.

"The run of herring has continued good through the week, there have been no extra large days, but town's people have had all they could take away. An additional supply has been carted to the pond and one hundred and fifty barrels have gone to the Boston market."

By this it is shown that for forty-one years, at least, the Weymouth Iron Co. carried out its contract to the limit if not in excess of its agreement.

A few years later the Weymouth Iron Co. like most of the iron industries, especially nail works, from East Boston to Taunton, Wareham and other places were driven to the wall by competition with mills which had sprung up in western Pennsylvania and Virginia and in eastern Ohio and eventually the Weymouth Iron Co. property passed into the hands of different people and corporation.

The East Weymouth Wool Scouring Co. now own the entire flowage system which cost several hundred thousand dollars, the "lower factory" and wharf property where its business is conducted. A part of its system however is leased to the Light & Power Co.

The big rolling mill building has passed into the hands of the Bay State Street Railway Co. and has become the center of a large part of its car service in the South Shore district.

The "center factory" is the home of the Leather Art Co., while the building near by, once known as the "Forge" is occupied as an auto garage by Percy L. Bicknell.

The several stables and tenement houses of the Iron Co. were sold at private sale, or public auction and are owned by different individuals. Here we will stop and answer the question "what did the Weymouth Iron Co. do with it." Just this—at a public sale of some of the assets the herring fishery became an item and was bid off to the late John P. Lovell and is still held by his heirs.

Home Comedy Presented.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Social circle connected with the Methodist church, East Weymouth, the comedy, "Mrs. Titlar's Mission," written and arranged by Mrs. Stephen F. Joy, was enacted under Mrs. Joy's direction in the vestry of the church, Thursday, May 14th. The parts were taken as follows:

- Mrs. Titlar Mrs. Stephen F. Joy
- Quassia Olive Sylvester
- Roanoke Harold Lincoln
- Saginaw Irma Jones
- Tissot Pauline Blackwell
- Miss Keturah Noodle Mildred Bates
- Miss Eleanor Henderson Hazel Aylsworth
- Richard Bubier Harry Purchase
- Sattie Colby Ruth Joy
- Miss Garaphelia Chlotilde Addie Brown
- Simmy Burton Stetson
- Unit (the horse) Harold Burgoyne and Arthur Aylsworth
- Shakespeare Noodle David Joy
- Peleg Arthur Aylsworth
- Ham Edwin Lincoln
- S. S. Scholars, Cemira Blackwell, Dorothy Stetson and Earle Burgoyne.

Stage committee, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Matson. Mrs. Charles R. Denbroeder presided at the piano and was also stage manager. There was a candy sale in charge of Mrs. Charles H. Chubbuck and Hazel Cann.

Good Advice.

An editor, in reply to a young writer who wished to know which magazine would give him the highest position quickest, advised "a powder magazine, especially if you contribute a very article."

The Fact Remains

No amount of misrepresentation by the peddlers of alum baking powders, no juggling with chemicals, or pretended analysis, or cooked-up certificates, or falsehoods of any kind, can change the fact that

Royal Baking Powder has been found by the official examinations to be of the highest leavening efficiency, free from alum, and of absolute purity and wholesomeness.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable for making finest and most economical food.

Daily Thought.

Never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three—all they have now, all they ever had, and all they ever expect to have.

Great Many Are Like This.

"You must quit worry and take a vacation," said the suave practitioner. "My dear doctor," replied the irritable patient, "if I could get my affairs into a shape that would permit me to take a vacation, I'd be so relieved that I wouldn't need one."

Mean Remark.

"Why do you say that Brown is smarter than you are?" "Why, you see, he had a chance once to marry my wife—and didn't."

SOUTH WEYMOUTH

The sad news came to South Weymouth yesterday morning of the death of Mrs. Mary E., wife of Joseph Hawes, of Dorchester. Funeral services will be held at the home in Dorchester Saturday afternoon, and the interment will be at Mt. Hope cemetery.

Two new billiard tables and a new pool table have been installed in the Norfolk club headquarters.

Mrs. John Hackett is home from a Boston hospital, where she underwent treatment.

Miss Etta Cushing is back at her duties at N. E. Williams news store, after being off duty a few days with sickness. The alarm from box 54 early last Sunday morning was for a fire in a carload of hay at the South Weymouth depot. The hay was consigned to A. S. Marsh of this place. The loss is placed at $250. The fire is supposed to have caught from the midnight train from Boston.

The Ladies' Social circle of the Universalist church held a supper and social in the vestry last evening.

A number from this place are to attend the dance in the Rockland High School hall this evening, given for the benefit of the baseball nine of Rockland High.

A whist party was held in Engine hall last Monday evening in the interest of the fancy table at the St. Francis Xavier parish entertainment in Fogg's Opera House this evening.

Mrs. Edward MacQuinn has been on the sick list the past ten days.

Bert Shaw has returned to his duties at the Stetson Shoe Co's plant, after several weeks vacation.

Henry C. Kohler, the local Fleischman Yeast dealer, is driving a new automobile.

Fred Barnes has purchased a new Overland touring car.

Miss Marjorie MacBride was home over Sunday from Bradford Academy.

Oswald Ralph has purchased an Overland touring car.

Otis Soule left yesterday for a trip to New Mexico, being called there by the illness of relatives.

The Elmwood Cemetery Association has chosen these officers: Henry F. Pratt, president, and Miss Mary Chandler, secretary and treasurer.

The Bassobee club met last Monday night with Mrs. Sumner Bowker, at her home on Bates avenue.

Rev. A. V. House, pastor of the Union church, has been in Gardner this week, attending the annual State Conference.

A delegation from the South Weymouth Improvement Association and from the Pond Plain Improvement society attended the meeting of the West Abington Improvement Association, held in Arnold's hall in West Abington, last Monday night. The subject of discussion was the proposed street car line from South Weymouth to Brockton.

Last Sunday was observed as "Peace Day" at the Old South church. Rev. Mr. Alvord spoke on the subject "War and Peace."

At 11.50 last Sunday, an alarm was rung in from box 58 for a small fire in the woods on Union street, near the Rockland line.

George Davis of Main street, stubbed his toe while on his way to the South Weymouth depot last Saturday night and sustained a broken leg. Dr. E. R. Rand of North Abington treated him and later took him to the Brockton hospital in his auto. It will be about two weeks before he will be able to walk again.

Mrs. Bessie Ricker of Maine, a former resident of this town, is visiting relatives in this place.

Invitations are out for the wedding of W. J. Holbrook of this place to Miss Esther Devens Jorgensen of Cambridge on June 3.

St. Francis Xavier parish is arranging for its annual church party on the church grounds on June 27.

South Weymouth Grange entertained the Rockland, Hingham and Braintree granges at a neighbors' meeting in Clapp's hall, last Tuesday night. The first degree was exemplified by the degree staff of Braintree grange and the second degree by the Rockland grange staff.

Mrs. Henry Benson of Leomister and Mrs. W. T. Harris of Wakefield have been visiting Miss Hannah Barnes.

Universalist Church Notes. Morning worship at 10.30. Sabbath school at 12. Men's Bible class at 11.45. All are cordially invited to these services.

Music by the newly vested chorus choir under direction of Miss Deane.

Mr. Rose will continue the series of sermons upon "And Five Were Foolish," at the point interrupted last Sabbath by the sermon upon "Peace" Topic for Sunday, "The Remedy For Shallowness."

CARD OF THANKS.

The long days of doubts and fears are ended and a patient sufferer, a dear and loving mother is at rest. As we think of our loss, we can but truly be grateful to those who were so kind and helpful during the long period of care and anxiety and we take this opportunity to thank our many friends for the kind words and deeds and also for the many beautiful floral tributes as final tokens of love.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP CLUB

Season Closes With A Pleasing Ladies Night.

The Men's Good Fellowship club connected with the Congregational church of East Weymouth closed a most satisfactory season last night by giving the much talked of "Ladies Night."

Time and space are limited with us this morning but the event was a decidedly social and satisfactory occasion.

Capacity of the reception room, parlors and dining room were tested to the limit and "Good Fellowship" was exemplified on every hand.

A. L. Russo was the caterer and the banquet was up to his well know standard.

At the conclusion of the banquet the president W. C. Earle, to whom the club is largely indebted, called the meeting to order for the transaction of business.

The meeting was the closing one for the year and as Mr. Earle retires a new list of officers became necessary and the following were chosen.

Geo. M. Hoyt, president; R. S. Hoffman vice pres.; Emerson Dizer, secretary; John A. MacFann, treasurer; W. C. Earle Fred L. Alden, M. P. Garey, W. M. Tirrell and James A. Melville executive committee.

The closing event was a concert in the audience room by the Massachusetts Institute Technology Glee Club and for a full hour they kept the audience on the guess as to what was coming next and what the limit of the club as entertainers. Solos, quartettes and choruses came in rapid order and the only limit, was that of time.

Railroad News.

With the starting of the Green Hill to Nantasket run for the season on Saturday last, the railroad boys in the East Weymouth car barn picked runs once more and several changes resulted. The crews in the daytime in the new pick are as follows: East Weymouth and Quincy, George Maynard and James Ford in the morning; Charles Hollis and Bert Loud in the afternoon. George Maynard has been on the East Weymouth and Braintree line all winter and Bert Loud was on the Rockland and Braintree. On the East Weymouth and Braintree line, Frank Maynard takes Harry Tabor's place with John Gannon and Otis Wing, fresh from a winter on the South Weymouth depot line, takes George Maynard's run with Will Wilder. On the Rockland and Braintree line, Charles Nash and George Smith, George Walker and Charles Loring, Bert Nash and Parker Condrick, all retain their former runs. On the other car, Arthur Blanchard and David O'Connell are in charge. Blanchard has been on the East Weymouth and Quincy line and "Dave" O'Connell has been running a relief trip only a short part of the day on account of his recent illness. The East Weymouth to South Weymouth depot line is now run by P. Kearns and Alfred Sanberg, Charles Hollis and Bert Loud in the a. m. and George Maynard and James Ford in the p. m. The Fast Weymouth to Nantasket line is now run by George Dunham and Louie Beach and Joseph Little and James Thomas. Queen Ann's Corner to Hingham is in charge of Joseph Ashton and Everett Clapp and George Jones and William Moore, while Harry Tabor and William Fields take care of everything on the Green Hill line.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Weymouth People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and bright's disease may follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, which are so strongly recommended right here in Weymouth.

C. D. Packard, Weymouth, says: "I had weak kidneys caused by constant jarring. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and annoyed me at night. I also suffered from pains across my back which were worse when I was very tired. I knew about Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. In a few weeks time I could see a marked improvement and by continuing their use I was greatly relieved."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co. Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Cheap Paint.

The cheapest paint is the one that goes farthest and wears best; there is most in a gallon of it.

What is a quart of milk worth? Depends on the milk.

So of paint; depends on the paint.

Devoe is worth the top price, whatever it is. Poor paint is worth nothing at all; you've got to pay your painter $3 or $4 a gallon for putting it on; and it isn't worth it.

Devoe goes twice as far and wears twice or three times or four times as long.

The cheap paint is Devoe at the top of the market.

Rockland Beats Weymouth.

After shutting Rockland High school out for eight innings last Thursday at Hartsuff Park Rockland, the Weymouth boys lost in the ninth inning 2 to 1, when Callahan weakened and allowed the Rockland boys three hits, one of which was a three bagger by Dunn, the home third sacker. The game was close from the start, Weymouth scoring its lone run in the fifth inning. The feature of the game was the fielding of Mauro, Weymouth's leftfielder. Batteries: Baker and Ford, Callahan and Fraher.

Baseball Notes.

The Weymouth A. C. won a fast game from the Breezy Hill nine of Hingham, at South Weymouth, last Saturday. The score was a the until the twelfth inning, when Bergen weakened and the Weymouth boys batted in two runs, winning the contest 3 to 1. The batteries were L. Callahan and Griffin for the Weymouth A. C., and Bergen and S. Townsend for the Breezy Hill aggregation.

Troop 2, Boy Scouts of America of East Weymouth defeated Troop 3 of Lovell's Corner, at the latter's field last Saturday, 10 to 9.

"Reggie" Nash played a great game in centerfield for Brown last Saturday against Amherst. Brown won 6 to 4, Nash scoring the winning run by stealing home in the sixth inning. "Reg" was at the bat twice and got two hits, stole a base, scored a run and had one chance in the field.

William ("Pappy") Wall is catching a fine game this season for the Fore River nine in the Manufacturers league. Wall is hitting better than for several seasons.

The Stetson Shoe Co. is not to be represented on the diamond this season.

The Weymouth A. C., a hustling bunch of youngsters in the vicinity of Nash's Corner, are cleaning up the 18 year old nines in this vicinity. Breezy Hill of Hingham went down to defeat by the Weymouth lads last Saturday 3 to 1 in 12 innings.

King Sol In Flowerland.

A very pretty entertainment was given in the vestry of the Universalist church, North Weymouth, on Thursday evening, when the cantata "King Sol In Flowerland" was presented under the auspices of the Universalist Sunday school. Mr. Edwin N. C. Barnes of Brockton conducted the performance and Miss Bertha Estes was accompanist. The parts were taken by members of the Sunday school, and each and everyone in the cast enacted their part in a pleasing manner.

Spring Poets

The poets write about the spring
And of its beauty rare;
Also of resurrected hope
Arising from despair.

Such lovely thoughts encourage some,

As they appear in rhyme;
But how about the tired wife
During hours cleaning time.

She resurrects a pile of dirt
And many odds and ends;
And by her hard persistent work
Our future weal depends.

Then during these house cleaning days
The easiest way is best;
To Whitcomb make your needs made known,
And he will do the rest.

How a Nation Was Made

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

"Count," said King Victor Emmanuel at a time when both were playing a diplomatic game to keep the European powers from standing in their way of affecting the unity of Italy.

"The woman who turned the heads of all the men in the capital last winter and caused three duels?" "The same. She is enthusiastic for Italian unity.

In a chateau near Paris the Princess Paolini was sitting in an easy chair, while Emile Lavoisier sat near her.

"That's exactly where"—"He stopped short. He did not suspect this woman of having any interest in his documents.

"I will send!" "She looked at him as if hurt that he would not himself do this favor for her, and, rising, he left the room.

It was not long before Lavoisier began to nod, and, rising, he staggered to a lounge and lay down. He was soon in a deep sleep.

"Well," he asked anxiously, "what success?" "The princess handed him the stolen document. He cast his eyes over it rapidly, then muttered thanks that were inaudible.

HUSBANDS IN WILLEDSEN.

They Mind the Babies at Home While the Wives Go Out to Work.

Willedsen is a perfect paradise for a certain type of husband. There is no need for him to go out to work; his wife will see to that. All he need do is stay at home and mind the baby. He has a job for life and practically nothing to do.

The Gilbertian arrangement is due to the peculiar industrial conditions of Willedsen, where there are many laundries and factories and female labor is much in demand. Although it is cheaper than male labor would be at the same class of work, the wages are good, considering that only five days a week are worked in the laundries, the women not being required on Mondays. As much as from 20 to 30 shillings a week can be earned, £1 being a common wage, even for girls.

Consequently the women rule the industrial world of Willedsen. The positions of man and wife are reversed. There is no need for the man to go to work. Not only would he be unsuitable for the job, but the labor and the wages would not suit him.

Therefore a working girl, when she has saved sufficient money and thinks of marrying, looks around to find an eligible man, whom it would be her duty to keep in after life. He must know how to bathe, dress and feed a baby; how to amuse it and what to do when it has convulsions other than rolling it on the floor or slapping it on the back. If he can do all this the girl proposes, is accepted if she is strong enough to work, and the knot is tied.

When the children grow up they are packed off to the laundries or to one of the biscuit, incandescent mantle or cedar pencil factories that abound in the neighborhood, and their wages go to swell the family income. As for father, he continues his congenial task of warming the baby's milk and performing other little duties. — London Cor. Philadelphia Ledger.

HIDING THE JOKER NUGGET.

An Incident of the Early Australian Gold Diggings.

Among the rich finds in the Australian gold diggings the Joker nugget ranks among the chief. It turned the scale at thirty ounces and was sold for $600. In size and shape it resembled a man's hand, thick at the wrist part and tapering off toward the fingers. The claim had been a good one from the first, and the owner did not have to work hard. One day he was reclining full length idly searching for nuggets when he caught sight of the Joker. He at once covered it with his hand and sat up, rather wondering how he would secure the treasure without being seen. If the find became known every man in the field would tramp to the spot and invade his claim and so prevent his working.

A man in an adjoining claim looked up. "Found anything?" he asked. "No. Seen the color; that's all. Pitch my coat over to me, will you? It's lying near there. I want a smoke." "Here you are, mate. But what's the matter? You look pale. Don't you feel right?" "I'm all right, only the sun is a bit hot."

He was struggling with an insane desire to laugh, but he got his coat over the nugget and seated himself on the top of it. Then laughter overpowered him, and he became hysterical. Those about him wondered, but thought the sun had affected him.

In a little while he gained his composure and decided to go to his tent. In lifting his coat he managed to take up the lump of gold, and no one knew that he had found anything. It was not until ten days had passed that the fact was noised abroad, and even then few knew the claim whence the Joker came.

Carlyle and Ceremony.

Thomas Carlyle and his wife were so wedding frightened that it is sad to think of. Replying to a letter of his describing his fantastic terrors, she wrote: "For heaven's sake get into a more benignant humor or the incident will not only wear a very original aspect, but likewise a very heart breaking one. I see not how I am to go through with it."—T. P.'s Weekly, London.

Isle of Man's Busy Governor.

For plurality in office the palm must go to the governor of the Isle of Man. According to Spencer Walpole's account of the "Island of Home Rule," the governor is chancellor, president of the common law courts, president of the council, president of the Tynwald court and, in addition, acts as his own prime minister, home secretary and head of the treasury.—London Chronicle.

A Case of Dropsy.

She—Do you know it is dangerous to use some words carelessly? Thus, if you were to drop the first letter in music it would make you sick. He—Yes, and if soldiers in battle were to drop the first letter in griddled they'd get riddled.—Buffalo Express.

On the Way.

"Why doesn't that dachshund come when I call him? The idea of sulking on me!" "He's coming as fast as he can," said the man's wife. "He's got his front legs started."—Washington Herald.

Considerable Opening.

"What a dear little mouth Peggy has." "Yes; her last dental bill amounted to $87.50."—Boston Transcript.

Don't throw away your old shoes till you've got new ones.—Dutch Proverb.

DECEPTION A GRAVE OFFENSE

Exaggeration a Blood Relative to Falsehood.

EXPERIENCE OF CONSUMERS.

In the Art of Deception the Mail Order Houses Excel the World—Where is the Doubting Thomas Who Does Not Remember the "Sight Unseen" Trades of Boyhood Days?

[Copyrighted, 1914, by Thomas J. Sullivan.] Of all the evil spirits abroad in the land deception is the most dangerous. It is the first and worst of all frauds.

Exaggeration is a blood relative to falsehood and nearly as blamable. Some men and some business concerns can never state an ordinary fact in ordinary terms. All their geese are swans till you see them.

There is no strength in exaggeration. Even the truth is weakened by being expressed too strongly.

A Gaping Monster.

Mankind in the gross is a gaping monster that loves to be deceived and has seldom been disappointed. They say that idiots only may be cozened twice, but how about the mail order buyers? How often are they deceived by the large catalogue houses?

In the art of deception the great mail order houses excel the world. In their greed for gain and rush to victimize the poor and unsuspecting they paint their pictures of alleged bargains too alluringly. They instill confidence in the mind of the buyer, only later to fill his heart with doubt and disgust.

Who does not remember the "sight unseen" trades or "swaps" of boyhood days? One of the parties in the transaction usually got the worst of it, didn't he? And as a rule it wasn't the one who proposed the deal, was it? There is a lot of the same sort of "sight unseen" trading going on today, only nowadays it is called merchandising by mail.

Catalogues Look Inviting.

The illustrations in the catalogues of the retail mail order houses look inviting. The reading matter sounds nice, and sometimes the deal turns out all right.

But, even supposing it does, where in is the buyer any better off than if he bought from the home merchant? Take any article you choose from the long list of things sold by mail and you will find upon investigation that you can buy it just as cheaply and just as well at home. The expense of selling it by mail is just as great as the expense of selling it over the counter.

Your local merchants have rent, taxes, clerk hire, etc., to pay, and the mail order houses have the same expenses, only rent and taxes are higher in the large cities than in the country town. And, in addition, they have to maintain a small army of bookkeepers, stenographers, shipping clerks and other employees, besides the immense cost of advertising.

How many of the rural consumers know that advertising appearing in what are known as mail order advertising mediums costs from $42 to $85 an inch in single columns? It is true nevertheless. Where does the enormous profit come from out of which these enormous bills are paid? Out of the pockets of the consumers.

Would Welcome Such Bargains.

The city people would go wild with joy if these mail order houses actually had values with style and quality. They would not need to leave their own large cities to sell at the prices they quote, as the city people would swoop down upon their bargains like hungry hen hawks on green goslings. But with style and value lacking they do not dare show their goods in the city where the prospective customers would have the opportunity of comparison, but by cleverly worded and exaggerated description they make the country people believe they are offering more desirable wares than the country merchant carries and at a less price, and, having no opportunity for comparison before buying, many people naturally are duped.

Everybody knows the picture of a five dollar suit of clothes looks as good as the picture of a twenty dollar suit. The description reads well. The suit seems to be what you want.

Cash With the Order.

You send your good money because the mail order house will not accept an order where the money does not accompany it. Then the suit arrives. It was to be all wool, but it is not. It is fully a size too large and several years out of date, and, besides, it has the style and general appearance of the prison made garment.

If Mr. Mail Order Man were right there you would not accept the goods, but he is, far away, selling suits, no doubt, to some other unsuspecting sons of man.

Next time you are attracted by an ad. of some mail order "bargain" just flip it out and take it to your local dealer and see if he will not duplicate it. That's the only neighborly and fair and gives your merchant a chance to make good his statement that his prices are the lowest and his goods the best.

BROCKTON FORFEITS TO WEYMOUTH.

With Score a Tie at 3 Each the Shoe City Nine Leaves Field in Eighth Inning Last Monday.

With the score 3 to 3 in the last half of the eighth inning on the C. M. A. field last Monday afternoon, the Brockton High school nine refused to abide by a decision of Umpire Fred Nolan and left the field, Nolan declaring the game forfeited to Weymouth H. S. 9 to 0, making the second win for the local boys over the Shoe City nine in a week, the Weymouthites winning on the Center street grounds in Brockton last week, Wednesday 6 to 8 in 14 innings.

On Monday in the eighth inning Vender, the first batter for Weymouth, grounded out to shortstop. Callahan fled to center field, making two out. Mauro was walked and the crowd of 500 Weymouth fans rushed off of the hill to the ropes and commenced a yell for a Weymouth rally. LaRoque, the visiting twirler, was visibly nervous and became more so when Fraber singled. LaRoque then hit Gorman and the bases were full. Talbot, with two strikes and three balls hit to third and Bogigian threw the ball a mile over the first sacker's head, Mauro, Fraber and Gorman scoring. The scoring of Gorman caused a wild yell from the Brockton boys and Capt. Creedon immediately claimed that Gorman should have been held at third. Umpire Nolan ruled that, according to the agreement between the captains before the game, Gorman was entitled to score. After much argument the Brockton boys left the field and Nolan declared the game forfeited to Weymouth 9 to 0.

Langford started the game on the mound for Weymouth, but was touched up for three hits and two runs in the third. Callahan finished the game and held the Shoe City boys in the palm of his hand, except in the fifth, when two errors and a man hit by a pitched ball allowed Brockton to score their third run.

LaRoque pitched fine ball for Brockton and received wonderful backing up from his teammates. Carroll, Riordan and Hickey excelled for Brockton and LaRoque was on the job with the stick getting two clean hits. For Weymouth Fraber, Gorman, Condrick and Callahan starred.

Farmers' Ball.

The committee in charge of the Farmers' ball of Weymouth Council K. of C. scheduled to have been held this evening in Town hall, met last evening and decided to hold the event this evening in Bates' opera house, Weymouth. The parade will start at the scheduled hour, 7 o'clock from Jackson square and will march over Broad street to Washington street to Bates' opera house.

Men's Club, North Weymouth.

The last regular meeting of the Men's Club of the Universalist church, North Weymouth, was held on Monday evening of this week, May 25th. A reception was held in the church parlors, after which a banquet was served in the vestry by a committee consisting of Mrs. D. A. Jones, chairman, Mrs. J. P. Holbrook, Mrs. G. A. White, Mrs. M. P. Keene, Mrs. F. E. Baker, Miss Marion White and Miss Elizabeth Holbrook. Following the banquet Rev. W. W. Rose of South Weymouth addressed the members of the club and their friends upon the subject "Socialism and Christianity."

GENERAL ALARM FIRE

Biggest Conflagration in History of Town, in East Weymouth on Wednesday Evening. Help Summoned From Surrounding Towns.

What is said to be the largest fire in the history of the town of Weymouth occurred Wednesday evening, when the Town hall, Bicknell's garage, the East Weymouth Leatherette Co.'s factory and two storehouses were completely destroyed, the total loss being estimated in the vicinity of $85,000.

At seven thirty an explosion, said to have resulted from spontaneous combustion, took place in one of the out houses on Water street, filled with celluloid, owned by the East Weymouth Leatherette Co., George H. Lowe of Braintree, proprietor. A sheet of flame 20 feet wide shot into the air to a height of 500 feet and in an instant the entire storehouse was in flames. The other out house soon caught and the large mill, a building about 30 ft. by 100 ft. immediately became enveloped in flames. An alarm from box 23 was sent in at once.

District Engineer John Q. Hunt was soon on the scene arriving in an automobile and he ordered a second alarm rang in.

The East Weymouth department raced to the fire at breakneck speed and the Ward 3 auto truck got away to a flying start, but engine trouble on the road delayed them somewhat, and they were not up to their usual standard in making time.

When the Ward 2 department got into action, the two storehouses, the mill, the Town hall and Bicknell's garage were all in flames.

A general alarm was pulled in and help summoned from surrounding towns by telephone.

Two auto fire trucks responded from Hingham and also the chief's chemical truck with Chief George Cushing in charge; a steamer and a combination auto truck from Quincy put in appearance in short order after the call for help was received, Chief Billings being in charge; and to show the efficiency of auto fire apparatus, two Hull fire trucks tore up the roads, making East Weymouth in thirteen minutes, getting into action immediately under the direction of Chief Mitchell of Hull.

All the buildings mentioned above were beyond saving and the fire ladders turned their attention to the dwellings in the vicinity. All the residents were forced to get out hand hose and wet down roofs and bucket brigades were numerous. The fine work of all the fire companies with the assistance of the residents kept the damage to the residential section at a low figure. Among the residences whose homes were somewhat scorched or damaged by sparks were: A. B. Smith, High street; E. E. Merchant, Water street; H. E. Raymond, Myrtle street; P. Sheehan, Water street; Frank Hobart, High street; Everett Loud, High street; H. C. Belcher, Myrtle street; Mrs. J. H. Ronan, Water street and Henry C. Benner, Water street.

The Washington school building was directly in the path of the flying embers and at the beginning of the fire Miss Martha J. Hawes, principal of the school, was looking after its interests and through her supervision, many valuable books and other articles were removed to safer quarters.

Sparks flew for a half a mile all over the vicinity and that more damage was not done speaks volumes for the work of the fire companies.

At 8.30 the huge tower on the Town hall fell into the burning structure with a loud crash, making a most extraordinary and imposing sight. By this time most of the burning buildings were reduced to ruins.

Several firemen were injured by falling timbers, smoke and flames. The most seriously injured of all was Charles Dunbar, janitor of the Town hall, who worked like a Trojan to save the furniture in the hall. Mr. Dunbar was overcome by smoke and the severe shock to his system. David Hall and A. Blanchard of Lovell's Corner were also overcome. Several other firemen required the attention of physicians, but were able to return to their duties.

The estimated loss on the Town hall, a structure of two and one-half stories, built in 1883 and rebuilt in 1907, is placed at $25,000. On account of the Town's policy of carrying no insurance on buildings it owns, there was no insurance on the Town hall. The estimated loss on the mill and storehouses of the East Weymouth Leatherette Co. is placed at $29,000. The building is owned by Percy Bicknell, who also owned the garage. Mr. Bicknell's loss on the garage is estimated at $25,000. The stock and machinery of the Leatherette Co. is placed at $15,000, covered partially by insurance. The mill and garage are partially covered by insurance. There were eight automobiles in the garage at the time of the fire, but through the heroic efforts of L. Carleton White and others, every car was safely removed. Mr. Bicknell also saved a few tools. The garage is about 60 by 100 feet and the mill was about 30 by 100 feet. The two out buildings were about 20 by 40 feet.

At the Town hall several hundred seats were saved and both pianos were safely removed.

In spite of reports to the contrary the new East Weymouth police station was damaged but little, the side nearest Town hall receiving a slight scorching.

The big 65 foot ladder of the Hook & Ladder truck of Ward 2 was so badly damaged as to be useless.

Several explosions occurred throughout the big blaze and the lives of the firemen was very hazardous at every moment.

At midnight the all-out was sounded by Chief W. W. Pratt. The East Weymouth department stayed on duty all night to prevent any further breaking out in the ruins. The other companies left for home about 10.45 o'clock.

The Town hall, a garage, a mill and two storehouses are now in ruins, but the commendation of every citizen of this town is due the fire ladders from all parts of Weymouth and from our "ready to help" neighboring towns for the heroic and valiant work performed in confining the gigantic blaze to the above five buildings. Each and everyone of them fought nobly and none would give up the fight until he dropped from sheer exhaustion.

The blaze could be seen for miles around and hundreds of automobiles journeyed to the big fire. A party of seven autos from Everett drove out in fast time. All the car lines brought loaded cars and Foreman J. W. Howley had twenty extra cars running to accommodate the huge crowd. Everybody seemed to be at the fire and to each and all who saw the terrible conflagration, the fire of Wednesday evening, May 27, will linger in their memory as the worst in the history of our town.

Quincy Burrell Dead.

Mr. Quincy Burrell passed to the higher life on Friday evening, May 22nd, at his home on Athens street, North Weymouth.

In the death of Mr. Burrell, North Weymouth loses one of its oldest and universally respected citizens. He was born in and had always made North Weymouth his home. He was greatly interested in the social life of his native village and the oldest member of the Wessagusset club, where he had always been a member of the board of directors.

Funeral services were held from his late home on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. Rev. Charles Clark, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational church officiating. Vocal selections were rendered by the Pilgrim Quartette of Boston. The interment was in the North Weymouth cemetery. Many beautiful flowers made fragrant and sweet his last resting place.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Abbie E. Beals, and one brother, Mr. Ancil Burrell of North Weymouth.

St. Peter—Delorey.

Miss Mabel Rose Delorey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Delorey, and Mr. Louis St. Peter were married at the church of the Sacred Heart last evening, by Rev. J. B. Holland. The bride's sister, Miss Mildred Delorey, was bridesmaid and Mr. William Delorey of North Weymouth was best man. The bride wore a handsome travelling costume and carried a bouquet of brides roses. The bridesmaid's dress was of white and she carried lilies of the valley. The couple left immediately after the ceremony on their wedding trip and will visit at his old home in Greenville, N.H., before returning home. They will reside on Commercial street, East Braintree.

Camels in Queensland.

Over a thousand camels are used in Queensland as a means of transport across the arid districts, and the number is rapidly increasing.

ANOTHER SHIP AFLOAT

Beautiful Addition to the Merchant Marine.

Thousands of people gathered in the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation on Tuesday or crowded along the Quincy Point bridge and the banks of Weymouth Fore river to see the launch of the Atlantic a sister of the Pacific two gigantic ships being constructed at the yards of the Fore River Corp'n for the Emery Steamship Co. of Boston. The ships were designed by Geo. Simpson, naval architect and recorded the highest class in Lloyd's register. The vessels are designed to carry lumber and general cargo on the Atlantic and Pacific coast via the Panama Canal.

The dimensions of the sister ships are: length over all 405ft. 6in. breadth between perpendiculars 388ft. 6in. length moulded 347ft. 4in. depth moulded 31ft. 8in.

The ships will be equipped with all modern appliances for both tropical and temperate regions, a twenty two evaporator, refrigerator system, steam heat etc., wireless system of telegraphy, in short a complete home on the ocean.

The launching hour was set for 12 noon and at that moment Miss Dorothy Louise Emery the 14 year old daughter of Ralph T. Emery of the Steamship Co., who had been selected as christener with a few officials of the Fore River Corp'n and the S. S. Co. stood at the bow of the ship waiting for the moment and the signal. Then forth came a motion of the arm of Miss Emery, a clear articulation "Christen thee Atlantic" and in less than three minutes another grand triumph of gray matter over all other matter floated in Fore River.

Town Business.

Monday was a busy day with the Board of Selectmen, and following is a part of the hearings, petitions and results.

Voted to order 1200 gallons more of tarvis, to be used on Pond street, between Independence square and the railroad station.

The Light and Power Co. petitioned for permit to locate 5 poles on Vine street, and a hearing will be held at the office of Board, Monday, June 8th.

There was a hearing on the petition of the Street R. R. Co. for relocation of its tracks to the "Quincy car barn."

On a petition of the L. and P. Co. to locate 6 poles on Beals street and 4 poles on Lake street, also petition of Tel. and Tel. Co. for 3 poles on Humphrey street, there being no remonstrants all of the above were granted.

A second application by W. H. Teasdale for license for a picnic by the Finnish Workmen's Association of Quincy, at Downer Landing on the 3rd of July was turned down.

Knights of Columbus asked for permit to have a parade on Pleasant, Broad and Middle streets, this, Friday, from 7 to 9 p.m. and the same was granted.

License was granted W. H. Mace to run a dancing pavilion at Lake View Park, the same not to be open after 11 o'clock Saturday night.

Patrick Corridan, one of the veteran registrars of voters, received appointment for another term, which carries him to April 1, 1917, when he will have rounded out 15 years on the Board.

It was voted to ask the Street Railway Co. to put a "Stop" sign at the sharp curve just north of the residence of Bradford Hawes on Pleasant street.

The Selection authorized a further issue of notes by the treasurer in anticipation of taxes. 4 notes of $10,000 each and one of $5,000.

The notes were negotiated with Loring, Tolman and Topper of Boston at 3.46 and payable May 24, 1915.

The Selectmen were notified by the Directors of the Post of Boston, that there would be a hearing on the petition of Metropolitan Water and Sewerage Board for license to erect a structure for an out-fall sewer at Nut Island. Hearing May 28th at the office of the directors, State House.

Fiske—Garey

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Garey announce the marriage of their daughter Mary Humphrey to Styles Anthony Fiske.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Edward Norton at his home in Quincy on the 22nd.

Mr. and Mrs. Fiske are spending a few weeks at Mr. Garey's cottage, Oak Bluff, and in June will travel extensively through the North West to the Pacific coast where they may remain indefinitely in connection with Mr. Fiske's railroad business.

SECOND ANNUAL SOCIAL.

Weymouth Teachers' Association Entertains Friends in High School Hall, East Weymouth, Last Friday Night.

The Weymouth Teachers' Association held its second annual social in the high school hall, East Weymouth, last Friday evening and a large number of the teachers and their friends were in attendance.

The affair opened at 7.45 o'clock, when the following program was presented:

The accompanists for Miss MacDonald and Mrs. Hoffman were Miss Marjorie Keith and Mrs. William Fitzsimmons.

After the entertainment refreshments of ice cream and cakes, punch, salted nuts and fancy candy were served by the committee in charge of the affair, assisted by a number of young ladies of the association and of the high school.

The committee in charge consisted of Charles Y. Berry, Miss Martha J. Hawes, Miss Stella L. Tirrell, Miss Elizabeth Hall, Miss Iuz Allen, Joseph E. Crowell and E. J. Goughart. The floral decorations were in charge of Miss Irene Fraser and Miss Marguerite Connors.

The guests were warmly welcomed by President Charles Y. Berry of the association. Special guests were P. T. Pearson, superintendent of schools, and Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Fletcher W. Howe of South Weymouth, a member of the school committee and Mr. Howe.

The affair was voted by all to be one of the most pleasing social events of the year.

GLEANINGS ON BEACON HILL

State Tax Will Be In Neighborhood of $11,000,000

WAYS AND MEANS REPORTS

Not Received With Unanimity of a Few Years Ago—Governor and Federal Officials Planning Substitute For Boston Railroad Holding Company—Crisis in Tax Situation Near

Not quite eleven millions is the estimate of State Auditor Frank Pope upon the subject of the state tax for 1914. This is a little more encouraging than the estimates recently submitted by the ways and means committee of the two branches.

Channing Cox said the other day at the dinner of the Republican Editorial Writers' association that it would be eleven and one-half millions, but this figure is obviously high.

But eleven millions is somewhat of a jump. It is about seven times as large as it used to be fifteen years ago.

People often ask why this increase has been brought about. More state control, more paternalism, is the reason and the tax is going to be a great deal higher before it is any lower.

Ways and Means Hit

The ways and means committee of the two branches has been about as conservative as in former years. But never have there been so many over-turms of the reports of that committee.

Party leaders of each side lay the blame on the leaders of the other side. Whichever is right, there is no denying the fact that there is much less respect for such committee reports than six or seven years ago.

Then, if a ways and means report was negative, it was sufficient excuse for long and grave editorials in the Boston Herald and Transcript. But now it passes unnoticed until the state has to pay the bills.

Senator Ward of Buckland, who is now senate chairman of ways and means, was then house chairman of ways and means, and he was surrounded by quite a group of sound legislators, such as Charles Taft of Worcester, H. Heustis Newton of Everett and James Lowell of Newton.

Those were the old conservative days, but even then there were signs of a change, for an occasional coalition between Martin Lomasney and "Billy" Brigham of Marlboro would stop ways and means.

Situations Are Alike

Close observers of the railroad situation remark that there is a similarity between the situation that existed in 1909 and the one of today.

The question is now as then: "What is to be done with the majority block of shares of Boston and Maine stock?"

The late Eben S. Draper, then governor, showed a great deal of courage in taking charge of the situation single handed when his act was almost sure to be misunderstood and was misunderstood in many quarters.

He told President Mellen of the New Haven that he thought the solution of the problem lay in creating the Boston Railroad Holding company, which should take the stock and hold it.

It has been popularly supposed that the railroad holding bill was a New Haven measure. But the other day in Washington, Mr. Mellen himself brushed away that illusion by the remark that the New Haven was forced to accept it as better than nothing.

The Republican organization at the state house stood by Governor Draper almost to a man, and the Democrats came pretty well into line so that there was really no party lineup at all on the question and hardly any votes were finally recorded against it, although the brilliant and versatile Robert Washburn led the opposition in a three days' debate.

Now Governor Walsh and the federal department of justice are together upon a plan to substitute a board of five trustees for the Boston Railroad Holding company.

How much power shall be given to this board of five trustees, how long they shall continue to hold the shares of Boston and Maine stock, what shall be the conditions of the sale, what the powers of the commonwealth to buy it shall be are all subsidiary questions which hang upon the main question.

As the matter now rests there can be no sale of the stock until the legislature acts. It is effectively bottled up in the vaults of the Railroad Holding company.

Tax Situation Acute

This week the tax situation has become acute. The committee on taxation has voted to report a constitutional amendment providing for the classification of personal property into two classes, tangible and intangible. And the latter class is defined to consist of money, credits, stocks, bonds, notes and other evidences of indebtedness.

This amendment merely provides that the tax on property of the same class shall be proportional. That means that a stock shall bear the same tax as a bond, and it would prevent anybody from coming forward with a demand that a mill stock should bear any different tax from a trolley bond.

The amendment is really one of the most progressive ever offered. Governor Walsh and the committee have been in consultation all the week since their meeting Monday, when they sat down with the two chairmen and the tax commissioner.

There have been many suggestions of an income tax amendment, but as the discussion has gone on it has seemed more unlikely that such an amendment could go through the legislature.

It will be interesting to see whether or not the big lot of work that has been done this year on the taxation question will bear any fruit, or whether it will all go by the board as it has in former years.

Preventing Accidents

Few people realize the strides that have been made in Massachusetts during the past two years in handling industrial accident cases and the prevention of such accidents.

One of the chief functions of the industrial accident board is to study the causes of industrial accidents and to suggest preventive methods.

The new point of view which began to be taken quite generally after the enactment of the workmen's compensation act has pervaded every industry.

Chairman Carroll of the industrial accident board, when asked the other day how much money he thought was being spent annually by big employers to stop accidents, though that it was several hundreds of thousands of dollars. One big concern in the middle of the state expends about $50,000 a year. Another in the eastern part of the state expends about $40,000 a year in this way. And the surprising part of it is the employers regard this as economy. They never used to, until they began to observe that one accident disorganized the whole shop for a week, to say nothing of the liability involved and the high figure of the insurance rates, and the popular condemnation that always follows in the wake of accidents.

One of the chief troubles now, according to members of the accident board, is to make employes take advantage of the safety devices. It means a little more trouble and they often dislike to take trouble.

Holidays and Vacations

The Saturday half holiday for employes of the state went through the ways and means. This takes its place with the laborers' two weeks vacation bill. The two have been strongly opposed by state and city officials, but the sweep of sentiment in the legislature has been too strong.

There is probably enough law already for executive officials to grant half holidays and vacations; but the excessive cost of administering such a procedure has operated against it.

When referred to popular vote, however, as they will be, there is no doubt but what both measures will become the practice of the state, but it undoubtedly means big taxes.

In Boston the two weeks vacation bill will be on the ballot at the coming state election. Mayor Curley will oppose it, as he has before the legislature. But it will be carried by a big vote.

The measure is equally certain of success in other cities. This situation has led to some talk of a system of vacations in the winter time.

But it is much to be doubted if winter vacations would please those who are to benefit.

Interesting to Householders

The bill extending the time for sales of real estate for unpaid taxes has gone along to the governor. This makes the law what it is now and has been for many years. It prevents the going into effect of a new law passed last year which provided that beginning with next October it would be necessary for a tax collector to sell property for taxes within a year in order to have the city or town hold its tax lien on the real estate.

The present law says that the lien shall last for two years, and it was severely criticized by the commission on municipal finance a year ago on the ground that it made tax collectors dilatory.

The amended law, say the municipal finance reformers, will bring up the old dangers. But the fear of the tax title buyer has sent it along.

The bill was proposed by Representative Ryan of Holyoke, who has put a special request to Governor Walsh that he be given the pen with which the bill is signed.

This law, and the one which gives the tax commissioner the right to approve sales of tax titles already acquired by a municipality for a sum less than interests and costs, affect very closely the rights of the small householders. Every such householder ought to study both laws and keep them in his mind for the possible effect they may have on his little property.

End in Sight

The close of the session is in sight. It looks now as if the year would be one devoted largely to minor questions. Whether there is any railroad legislation or not, that which will be enacted does not look like decisive legislation.

For the past few days the committees have been going at full head on the balance of the matters entrusted to them. Most matters are going out of the window.

President Coolidge of the senate says that a couple of weeks more of hard work ought to wind the session up. This is very likely too close a guess. A better one would be the middle of June, which is really remarkable considering that the legislature this year has had several hundred more matters to deal with than in any other year.

The "Goat" Turns.

Every friend of Charles S. Mellen will rejoice that at last he has the opportunity that he sought for more than a year—the opportunity to place the sins bequeathed to him by some of his former employers upon the shoulders of the real sinners. He has been the "goat" long enough, and his side of the New Haven story has long enough been buried under malicious indictments and vicious newspaper attacks. Mr. Mellen has never posed as a candidate for angel's wings. But there is not the slightest shred of evidence, and nobody who really knows him believes, that he profited a cent's worth by any of the transactions under investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission. He simply carried out orders, just as any other man in those days would have done in his place. Things now considered criminal were common practice then and few thought they were wrong.—Truth.

Better Paint.

Better paint this year if your property needs it. Mistaken men have been waiting for paint to come down. The cost of their job has gone up, not down; it always goes up by waiting; never comes down.

Better paint than Devco? There isn't any.

Suppose one had waited 20 or 30 years ago for a better paint than Devco; how long would he have waited? How long would he still have to wait?

The price a gallon makes some difference; yes but not much; it's the paint that counts; the quality counts.

It's the go-for that counts. Protection of property counts more yet.

Weymouth H. S. 2; Hingham H. S. 1.

In a well played ten inning game at the Agricultural Grounds in Hingham last Friday, the Weymouth High school nine pinned a 2 to 1 defeat on the Hingham boys. The game was a pitcher's battle between Langford and Magner, with the odds favoring the Weymouth mound artist. The teams lined up as follows: Weymouth: Mauro lf; Fraher c; Gorman; 2b; Talbot rf; Kelly ss; Gloster 3b; Condrick cf; Vender lb; Langford and Callahan p. Hingham: Fee; Thaxter 2b; Magner p; Mitchell 3b; Campbell cf; Wallace ss; Gent lb; Bergen rf; Brewer lf; Disnard rf. The score:

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10
Hingham 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0

Runs made, by Fraher, Langford, Disnard. Two-base hit, Fraher. Stolen bases, Mauro, Fraher, Gorman, Talbot, Gloster 2, Langford, Fee, Campbell, Wallace. Base on balls, by Magner, 3. Struck out, by Magner 7, by Langford 7, by Callahan 4. Sacrifice hits, Bergan, Gloster. Hit by pitched ball, Brewer, Talbot. Passed ball, Fraher. Time, 2h. Umpire, Downey.

When Roasting Meat.

When meat is being roasted, and there is danger of its becoming too brown, place a basin of water in the oven. The steam will prevent scorching, and the meat will cook better.

Sense of Smell.

Like the senses of sight and hearing the sense of smell quickly tires. Hence it is only before fatigue sets in that a doctor can diagnose different ailments by the sense of smell alone. If he is a smoker or a drinker it is useless to depend upon the nose.

THE CENTRAL SQUARE BARBER Central Square East Weymouth

Memorial Day

By JOHN E. DOLSEN
Copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.

THE few survivors left of all That mighty host of stalwart men Who answered once the country's call For help are gathered now again.

While 'neath the flag they fought to save They totter on their weary way To deck a fallen comrade's grave, Their dreams are of a vanished day.

As memory takes a backward sweep What recollections crowd their souls! They see again the red flame leap; Above the plain the dun cloud rolls.

Below the locks now thin and white And wrinkled brow of age we see From those old eyes leap into sight The deathless soul of '63.

Those four dark years, when tears and blood Mixed in a carnival of strife, To us are but an episode; To them they shaded all of life.

The march through cold, heat, snow or rain, Body and nerve strained overtime, The wounds that maimed with racking pain, Made of them wrecks before their prime.

The few now left are marching on; They'll cross the river soon and rest. 'Tis well before the last are gone That they should know we hold them best.

BATTLE HYMN'S BIRTH.

Story of Writing of Famous War Song by Julia Ward Howe.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe told the story of how she came to write her stirring song, the "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

"It was during the second year of the war," she said, "and I had gone to Washington with my husband and my pastor, the Rev. James Freeman Clarke. I had wished many times that I could do something for my country, but the way seemed closed. My husband was too old and ill to go; my son was only a boy. My children were so young that I could not leave my home for long myself. While we were in Washington there was a great review of the troops across the river. We drove out to see it. While it was in progress there was a dash made against some of our troops by the enemy. It was repulsed, but the review was abandoned, and the troops came marching back to Washington and we with them.

"The progress of our carriage was slow, for the roads were crowded with the soldiers. To encourage the men we began singing various songs and hymns, and they would join in the chorus. After we had sung 'John Brown's Body' Dr. Clarke turned and asked me why I did not write some new words for that music. I replied that I had tried several times, but never could seem to write any good enough.

"The next morning just about 4 o'clock I woke suddenly. As I lay there in bed the words of the hymn began to form themselves in my mind. I got up and by the faint light of the early morning scrawled them on a piece of paper and then went back to bed and sound asleep again. That is the way the hymn was written."—Saturday Evening Post.

"Five Minutes For Memories."

A custom which is becoming national is the silent dedication of the five minutes beginning at noon on May 30 to those civil war heroes who now are passed away. Soldiers, veterans, public men and just plain citizens all help to observe the beautiful custom of devoting five minutes to the memory of the men who fought to keep this country one nation.

First Northern Memorial Day.

The first observance of Memorial day in the north was in 1866 at Waterloo, N. Y., when General Murray laid the veterans of his post decorate the graves of their comrades. In 1867 T. C. Campbell of Cincinnati marched his post to the graves and laid wreaths on them. In 1868, following General Logan's request, there was a general observance of the day wherever Union soldiers were buried.

The Oldest Veteran at the Gettysburg Reunion

GETTYSBURG saw many old men, of course, during the great reunion of veterans last year, but none other nearly so old as Micajah Weiss, who had completed a century and a decade of life when he joined with his Union comrades in celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the great battle. He was born on June 3, 1803, and was thus 110 years old when he journeyed from his home in Beaver Brook, N. Y., to Gettysburg. Old Micajah made the trip in an automobile, reached the encampment in good physical shape and remained until the close of the celebration on July 4. During his stay at Gettysburg he occupied much of the position of a guest of honor, for veterans from both sides assembled to see and talk to "the oldest man at Gettysburg." Weiss served through the four years of the war in the One Hundred and Fourteenth Pennsylvania volunteers, enlisting at the age of fifty-eight. His mental alertness and his willingness to talk of his war experiences astonished visitors to Gettysburg in view of his very advanced age. An interesting incident of the encampment was the photographing together of Weiss and Colonel John L. Clem, who was the youngest veteran at the Gettysburg encampment. Colonel Clem was only sixty-one at the time of the reunion, although that occurred fifty years after the battle.

Old Micajah is a native of Delaware Water Gap, Pa. All his life, save his four years in the Union army, was spent in the woods hunting, fishing and trapping. He survived three wives and at the time of the Gettysburg celebration was living with his fourth wife, who was seventy-eight years old. When Weiss and his wife walked up to the United States provision hospital at Gettysburg orderlies spring forward. They thought he was ill. Weiss waved them aside with his cane. "Not yet," he said. "I only stopped in to see if a tired and hungry old man could get a bite of sandwich and a bit of coffee to stimulate him so he could continue on his way feeling stronger."

He was fixed up in a hurry. The surgeons wanted him to come in and lie down because he was overheated, but he would not hear of it. The veterans at Gettysburg seemed old, but it is certain that some of them will be there twenty-four years hence to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the battle. Bakeman, the last soldier of the Revolution, lived eighty-six years after peace was signed, or until 1869.

COWARDS WERE SCARCE.

All Sorts of Men Made the Best Soldiers, Said Hawley.

General Hawley was asked one day by a Hartford reporter, "Who made the best soldiers?"

"Who made the best soldiers?" repeated General Hawley reflectively. "You mean what kind of men make the best soldiers, I suppose. It was my experience that the best soldiers came from all walks of life and were of all kinds and conditions. When I was captain I had a great, towering private that was a swearing, frenzied creature in battle, absolutely fearless, and I had another soldier, a little fellow not more than seventeen years old, who looked like a girl, and he was as calm and brave a soldier as ever went into an engagement.

"He was wounded in one battle, and saw him drag himself and his gun down to a stream. There he washed his wounded leg, bound it up with bandages made from his shirt, and he came back proudly to the firing line, where he stayed all day. There were many men of special bravery in every company, and those who were cowardly were very few, as my experience in the late war taught me."

"TAPS" A Memorial Day Poem

THEY are marching with a halting step— A halting step and slow— And many in those blue clad ranks Have hair as white as snow. Their youth lies on the battlefields Of fifty years ago.

THOSE faded, tattered flags they bear, All torn by shot and shell, Are sacred emblems of the dead Who loved their country well. How great their love and sacrifice No human tongue may tell.

THEIR serried ranks are thinning fast That once with martial tread The knapsack and the musket bore Where Grant and Sherman led. Their sleep is sound and peaceful In the bivouac of the dead.

NO more the reveille at dawn Shall rouse them from their sleep; No more shall wives and sisters mourn; No more shall mothers weep. Their names upon the roll of fame Time's hand has graven deep.

AND some lie on those hard fought fields Where now the blue and gray Clasp hands across those battle lines Their blood has washed away. Where once the tide of battle flowed Their children's children play.

THE passing years speed swiftly, And silence round them wraps, And to their listening ears there comes No sweeter song, perhaps, Than when the battered bugle sounds Again the old call—"Taps!" —National Magazine.

Civil War in the Air. During the hottest fighting at the battle of Chickamauga an owl, alarmed by the unusual sounds, was frightened from its usual haunts. Two or three crows spied him and made pursuit, and a fight in the air followed. The contest was observed by a soldier. He dropped his gun to the ground and exclaimed: "Whew! Even the very birds in the air are fighting!"

How He Was Wounded. At a council of Confederate generals early in the civil war one remarked that Major Blank was wounded and would not be able to perform a duty that it was proposed to assign to him. "Wounded?" said "Stonewall" Jackson. "If it really is so I think it must have been by an accidental discharge of his duty."

The Gazette & Transcript is printed and mailed Friday afternoons, and is for sale at all News-stands in the Weymouths and at the South Terminal, Boston.

All communications must be accompanied with the name of the writer, and unpublished communications cannot be returned by mail unless stamps are enclosed.

Notices of all local entertainments to which admission fee is charged must be paid for at regular rates, 10 cents per line in the reading matter, or regular rates in the advertising columns.

It may not be nice to say "I told you so" but East Weymouth has had a part of the fire which has long been predicted and that village and the whole town may congratulate themselves and thank the local Fire Department and those of the city of Quincy and towns of Hull and Hingham that the calamity was no worse. For several years the town has been bidding for this fire and now it has come. At the annual town meeting men who had made a careful study of existing conditions, knew the strength of Fire Department as it existed, the immense hazard at stake and lack of material with which to cope with fires, were denied even the privilege of telling the story. The fire of Wednesday, the relief which came from abroad demonstrated what is needed and the need is even more strong now than it was before the fire.

D. A. R.

The annual meeting of the Susannah Tufts Chapter D. A. R. Weymouth, was held at the home of Mrs. Fred O. Sterling May 25 1914. The Regent Mrs. Edward Senior presided.

The reports of the officers for the year showed that there had been a gift of money to the Memorial Continental Hall at Washington, D. C., also, a gift of twenty-five dollars to the school at Hindman, Kentucky; the Executive Committee had provided for the meetings an attractive and enjoyable program; a set of By-laws have been adopted and printed. The chapter has lost four members by death and has received eight new members during the year.

The following list of officers were elected for 1914 and 1915. Regent, Mrs. Lavonne E. Crane; 1st vice regent, Mrs. Harriet B. Voorhees; 2nd vice regent, Mrs. Susan P. Thompson; recording secretary, Mrs. Susie C. Gutterson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Arria W. Aldridge; registrar, Miss Mary F. Loud; treasurer, Miss Lucy M. Crane; historian, Miss Annah E. Hayward; auditor, Mrs. Harriet B. Bachelier executive committee, Mrs. Alice Pierce Jewell chairman, Mrs. Anna K. Newman and Mrs. G. Senior.

The retiring regent Mrs. Senior was presented by the Chapter with the D. A. R. insignia pin, which she gracefully acknowledged. After a salute to the flag, the Chapter adjourned to September 28 1914.

Refreshments were served by the genial hostess assisted by Mrs. W. B. Clapp and Mrs. D. J. Pierce.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous For Weymouth People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and bright's disease may follow as the kidneys get worse. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, which are so strongly recommended right here in Weymouth. C. D. Packard, Weymouth, says: "I had weak kidneys caused by constant farring. The kidney secretions passed too frequently and annoyed me at night. I also suffered from pains across my back which were worse when I was very tired. I knew about Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. In a few weeks time I could see a marked improvement and by continuing their use I was greatly relieved."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co. Buffalo, New York. Sole agents for the United States.

Mrs. Margaret Culley, Patriotic Instructor of Reynolds Women's Relief corps presented the troop with a flag. Rev. R. H. Dix received the flag and responded in his usual pleasing manner. Mrs. Agnes Baldwin, president of the W. R. C. addressed the Scouts. Many parents and friends of the scouts were present at this meeting and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

WEYMOUTH HEIGHTS

—Robert Atkinson of Melrose has been visiting his aunt, Miss Addie Taylor.

—The L.B.S. will hold an all day sewing meeting in the chapel of the Old North church next Tuesday.

—Mrs. F.C. McDowell's Sunday school class will entertain the members of the Sunday school and their parents this evening (Friday).

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevenson of Charlestown were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George Stevenson of the Heights last Sunday.

—By invitation of Russell Sanborn, the Uwikana club enjoyed on last Monday evening, the Kinemacolor pictures at Tremont Temple, where Mr. Sanborn is organist.

—The fire bell on last Sunday morning at quarter of nine, called Hose 7 to extinguish a fire on the roof of Benjamin Smith's barn. The quick work of the firemen extinguished the blaze in a few minutes, which would have resulted in a more serious loss if the blaze had not been discovered when first starting.

—Mrs. R. C. Steele and Miss Theoda Merrill pleasantly entertained the Uwikana club, at the home of Mrs. Steele last Wednesday evening. An interesting program of games was indulged in, after which dainty refreshments were served.

—A special service was held in the Old North church last Sunday evening, at which Dr. Ewing of Boston, representing the Sunday School Publishing Society, gave an interesting address. The "Wide Awake" furnished music and Miss Bertha Nash rendered a solo.

Surplus of Stock.

"What do you think of this bride having 8,000 guests at her wedding?" "I wouldn't invite so many. I wouldn't care to get 3,000 or 4,000 pickle forks." —Courier-Journal.

"What means dis heah p'ltical 'conomy?" asked Rastus, who was endeavoring to work through a paper. "Frum de way de politicians down ouah wahd is actin'," answered Rufus. "I spects it means de mos' votes foh de least money."

MEMORIAL SUNDAY

Tribute to the Sailor Soldier and other Exercises.

It became quite evident on Sunday that, in Weymouth at least, as the days and years go by the time honored custom of paying tributes to the men who gave their lives in defence of the flag is not on the wane.

For a long time the several patriotic organizations in town have been maturing plans to make the Memorial season of 1914 one worthy of so important an occasion and public observance of the memorial season began at the Quincy Point bridge at noon on Sunday.

This event was scheduled as a tribute to the Sailor Soldier dead and was arranged by and in charge of Reynolds W. R. C. Corps 102.

At the appointed hour several hundred people including the Relief Corps.; Reynolds Post 58 G. A. R.; Sons of Veterans; Dorothea L. Dix tent D. of V.; Ladies Auxiliary to S. of V.; Boy Scouts and citizens were assembled at the bridge and following is the order of exercises in charge of Mrs. Agnes F. Baldwin, president of the Corps.; who was assisted in her ritual work, by Mrs. Annie Jordan and Mrs. Estella W. Richards.

Invocation by Leonard M. Cain, vice commander Post 58, G. A. R., singing, "Nearer My God to Thee", scripture reading, Corps chaplain Mrs. Ferris singing, "Jesus Lover of My Soul". Strewing of flowers by officers and members of the corp on the waters of Weymouth Fore River. Many rare and beautiful floral tributes were borne down the harbor.

Memorial services Post 58 G. A. R. by commander Andrew Culley and others.

Service Dorothea Dix Tent D. of V. Mrs. Clara Maynard, president; assisted by Miss Marion Bowker soloist.

Memorial service Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, Mrs. Charles A. Stoddard.

The exercises at the bridge closed by singing "America" and taps by Post bugler Miss Keith when cars were taken for Thomas Corner where a line consisting of Post 58, G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, W. R. C. 102., D. of V., Ladies Auxiliary and Boy Scouts proceeded to Pilgrim church when by invitation of the pastor

Rev. Charles Clark the annual memorial service of Post 58 G. A. R. was held.

CHURCH SERVICE

As we have said the memorial services were held by invitation of the pastor in the Pilgrim church and with the several organizations and citizens at large the auditorium was filled to its seating capacity.

In his musical features the organist Herbert A. Hayden had his usual chorus choir and soloists and the addition of a fine orchestra.

The several selections were an anthem, "The Battle Cry of Freedom", "The Star Spangled Banner" and "America."

Scripture reading was from Samuel and told of David's conquest over Goliath "In the Name of the Lord of Hosts" theme of the discourse, "The Unconquerable Power of Right" which received many pointed illustrations and concluded with the strong points for the soldier of "What You Were" "What You Did" and "What You Are."

The pastor also read a poem "Stars and Stripes" by Charles Francis.

LOVELL'S CORNER

—Miss Murphy, principle of the Pratt school is ill at her home with the grip. During her absence, Mrs. Harris of South Weymouth has been substituting.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sturges have returned to their summer home on Pleasant street after boarding in Boston during the winter.

—The Lovell's Corner scouts were defeated on their home grounds Saturday afternoon by the Weymouth Landing troop. Although the team from Troop 1 had smaller boys, luck was with them and they won by a score of 6 to 3. After this game the defeated team played and defeated a team of young men who thought they could show the boys how to play.

A WARTIME WEDDING

By CAPTAIN F. A. MITCHEL.

DURING the civil war the United States navy was largely distributed on the coast of the southern states, blockading the ports of the Confederacy in order that no goods might be exported or imported. The service was usually very dull work.

One afternoon one of the blockading ships was anchored very near to the South Carolina shore. The two junior officers were midshipmen. They were Samuel Keith and James Conyers.

"Jimmy," said Keith, looking longingly at the shore, "how would you like to stretch your legs in that field?"

"Mighty well," replied Conyers. "I wonder if the 'old man' would let us go!"

"Let's try him."

"Boys," said the commanding officer when approached, "I'd like to let you go, but that's rebel territory."

But the middies begged so hard that at last he told them they might take a boat and go to the pasture that looked so enticing. But he ordered them to be back on board by six bells, which meant 7 o'clock in the evening. So a boat was sent ashore, manned by eight oarsmen and commanded by the two young officers. Before leaving her the midshipmen directed a petty officer to let the boat's crew wander about with in call.

Then the two started inland. What the young men were after was a house where they could get fresh eatables and drinkables. Seeing a small plantation house ahead of them, a short distance inland, they went there. There was a number of negroes in the surrounding cabins, but only one white person in the house, a woman.

She was a widow, tall and angular and speaking with a drawl. She set before the young men some cold chicken, eggs, vegetables freshly plucked from her own garden and berries with rich cream.

The two middies gorged themselves. When they had finished they asked for the reckoning.

"Fo' hundred dollars," replied the widow.

"Four hundred dollars! Why, we have only four between us!"

"They drew forth their money, in greenbacks.

"That ain't no 'count heah," said the woman. "I want fo' hundred dollars in good Confederate money. Yo' pay up or yo' can't leave this heah plantation. All I got to do is to send fo' some o' mah folks from ovah thar an' they'll come an' take yo'."

THE MEN COVERED THEM WITH COCKED GUNS.

The matter looked serious. At that moment several white men came toward the house, each carrying a gun over his shoulder. They had seen the middies and were coming for them.

"Mawnen, Mis' Fletche'," said one of them. "Got a couple o' Yanks heah?"

"Reckon."

"Well, young fellahs, reckon yo' kin come along with us."

The boys were revolvers, but before they could draw them the men covered them with cocked guns.

"I'll tell yo' what I'll do," said Mrs. Fletcher. "I'm t'ed a-runnin' this heah plantation without a man. Ef one of yo' uns will marry me I'll let yo' off."

With a choice between Andersonville prison and matrimony, even with this homely woman, they chose the latter. While they drew lots as to which should be sacrificed one of the men went for a parson. The lot fell to Conyers, and he married the widow. She didn't even ask for a kiss, but permitted the young men to go back to their boat unmolested.

The story was too good to keep from their shipmates, and from that time forward Conyers was made a butt of many joking remarks. He bore it all stoically.

When the Confederacy collapsed Conyers, who had meanwhile fallen in love with an admiral's daughter, went to South Carolina to find out what had become of his bride and to endeavor to buy her consent to a divorce. When he returned he was asked:

"Well, how about your wife?"

"Dead!" She was hanged by a Federal commander as a spy."

SOUTH WEYMOUTH

—Louis Cushing has accepted a position at the George Keith Co. factory No. 8 in East Weymouth.

—Mrs. Frederick Bauer of the Old Colony Ladies club has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's clubs.

—Last Thursday forenoon, Melbourne, the 8 year old son of Mr. F. E. Waite of Park street, received injuries which necessitated several stitches in his face.

Boys were tormenting him and one threw a stone which resulted in severely cutting the child's face, just over the eye. Officer Ford was notified and the boys who were chasing the Waite boy, were placed on probation after strict warnings if caught again.

—Miss Ruth Robinson is visiting in Northfield, Vermont.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. Walls have gone to Boston to reside.

—Mrs. Charles Vinson of Main street is home from the Emerson hospital where she went for treatment.

—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene DeRusha are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Monday, May 18.

—Mr. and Mrs. Stillman H. Bishop of Randolph have moved into the dwelling at 210 Pleasant street.

—The regular meeting of the Pond Plain Improvement society Ladies Auxiliary, was held in Pond street hall last Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Albert Abot Betteley of Roslindale gave a talk on "Current Events."

—The funeral of George Lord, age 76, who came to this place recently from Chicago, took place last Monday afternoon at the home of his brother-in-law, E. N. Baker. Rev. W. W. Rose conducted the services. Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery. Mr. Lord is survived by a widow.

Old South Church Notes.
The service at the Town Home last Sunday afternoon was in charge of the pastor, aided by members of the choir. An address was given by Rev. John W. Lees of Pleasant street.

The annual memorial service of Widley Lodge No. 21, I. O. O. F. and Abigail Adams Rebekah Lodge No. 90, will be held at the invitation of the pastor, at the Old South church, on Sunday afternoon, June 7th, at three o'clock.

Universalist Church Notes.
Morning service at 10.30. Men's bible class at 11.45. Sabbath school at 12.

Music by the newly vested chorus choir under direction of Miss Deane. Sermon by the pastor, "The Possibilities of Gospel," the third in the series entitled "And Five Were Foolish." These sermons are all based upon Scriptural texts and illustrate that better part of unlovely human traits. Sermons yet to be preached upon "Fault Finding" and "Selfishness."

On Memorial Day Honor Women Nurses of the War

THE women who did hospital service continuously, or who kept themselves near the base of armies in the field, or who moved among the camps and traveled with the corps, were an exceptional class—as rare as heroines always are—a class representing no social grade, but coming from all, belonging to no rank or age of life in particular, sometimes young and sometimes old, sometimes refined and sometimes rude, now of fragile physical aspect and then of extraordinary robustness, but, in all cases, women

WOMAN NURSE AT GETTYSBURG REUNION. with a mighty love and earnestness in their hearts, a love and pity, and ability to show them forth.

Moved by an indomitable desire to serve in person the victims of wounds and sickness, a few hundred women, impelled by instincts which assured them of their ability to endure the hardships, overcome the obstacles and adjust themselves to the unusual and unfeminine circumstances in which they would be placed, made their way through all obstructions at home and at the seat of war or in the hospitals to the bedsides of sick and wounded.

They were really heroines. They conquered their feminine sensibility at the sight of blood and wounds; their native antipathy to disorder, confusion and violence subdued the rebellious delicacy of their more exquisite senses; lived coarsely and dressed and slept rudely; they studied the caprices of men to whom their ties were simply human—men often ignorant, feeble minded, out of their senses, raving with pain and fever. They had a still harder service to bear with the pride, the official arrogance, the hardness or the folly, perhaps the impertinence and presumption, of half trained medical men whom the urgencies of the case had fastened on the service.—"Woman's Work in the Civil War."

Chickamauga.

The word Chickamauga is of Indian origin. It is said to be a Cherokee name signifying "the river of death." The stream received its name from the accidental drowning of the people of a village by a sudden rise attributed to a cloudburst.

"War" Governors North and South

HERE is the list of "war" governors: California furnished John G. Downey, Leland Stanford and Frederick F.

Low: Connecticut, William A. Buckingham; Delaware, William Burton and William Cannon; Illinois, Richard Yates and Richard J. Oglesby; Indiana, Oliver P. Morton; Iowa, Samuel J. Kirkwood and William M. Stone; Kansas, Charles Robinson and Thomas Carnegy; Maine, Israel Washburn, Jr., Abner Coburn and Samuel Cony; Massachusetts, John A. Andrew; Michigan, Austin Blair and Henry H. Crapo; Minnesota, Alexander Ramsey and Stephen Miller; Nevada, Henry G. Blasdel; New Hampshire, Ichabod Goodwin, Nathaniel S. Berry and Joseph A. Gilmore; New Jersey, Charles S. Olden and Joel Parker; New York, Edwin D. Morgan, Horatio Seymour and Benben E. Fenton; Ohio, William Linnison, David Tod and John Brough; Oregon, John Whittaker and Addison C. Gibbs; Pennsylvania, Andrew G. Curtin; Rhode Island, William Sprague, John R. Bartlett, acting, William C. Cozzens, acting, and James Y. Smith; Vermont, Erastus Fairbanks, Frederic Holbrook and J. Gregory Smith; West Virginia, Francis H. Pickens, provisional, and Arthur I. Boreman; Wisconsin, Alexander W. Randall, Louis P. Harvey, Edward Salomon and James T. Lewis.

The southern governors were: Alabama, Andrew B. Moore, John Gill Shorter and Thomas H. Watts; Arkansas, Henry M. Rector, Harris Flanagin and Isaac Murphy; Florida, Madison S. Perry and John Milton; Georgia, Joseph E. Brown; Louisiana, Thomas O. Moore and Henry W. Allen; Union military governors, George F. Shepley and Michael Hahn; Mississippi, John P. Pettus, Charles Clarke and Jacob Thompson; North Carolina, John W. Ellis, H. T. Clark, acting, and Zebulon B. Vance; South Carolina, Francis W. Pickens, M. L. Bonham and A. G. Magrath; Tennessee, Isham G. Harris and Andrew Johnson, Union military governor; Texas, Samuel Houston, Edward Clark, acting, Francis R. Lubbock and Pendleton Murrah; Virginia, John Letcher and William Smith.

The border state governors were: Kentucky, Beriah Magoffin, James F. Robinson and Thomas E. Bramlette; Maryland, Thomas H. Hicks and A. W. Bradford; Missouri, C. F. Jackson; Union, H. R. Gamble and T. C. Fletcher.

Whole Army From "Little Rhody." One of the Rhode Island boys in the civil war on picket duty near Yorktown, Va., declared a truce with a Confederate soldier. This frequently happened during the war. "What regiment do you belong to?" asked the inquisitive Yankee. "The Seventeenth Georgia," was the reply. "And what is yours?" "The One Hundred and Fifth Rhode Island." The Confederate gave a long, low whistle and departed.

General Smith's Threat. "Extra Billy" Smith, the Confederate general, was as truculent as he was brave. One day he had his soldiers on an exceedingly difficult march. When they halted the general had a hard time getting them started again. Finally he exclaimed, "If you fellows don't get up pretty quick I'll march the regiment off without you and leave you all behind."

GREATEST OF ALL MEMORIAL DAYS WAS THE REUNION AT GETTYSBURG

Photos by American Press Association.

THREE SCENES AT GETTYSBURG DURING THE FIFTY-YEAR-AFTER CELEBRATION.

NEVER again will the world see so splendid a reunion of veterans of the civil war as that which assembled at Gettysburg July 2, 3 and 4, 1913. The fiftieth anniversary of the greatest battle of the war. Fifty thousand veterans of both sides gathered to participate in the formal and informal celebrations and to fraternize not only with their brethren of their own side, but with the survivors of the other cause. It was the glorious climax of the "one land, one flag" movement which has united north and south since the unhappy days of the war.

A Southern Spy
A Memorial Day Story

By CAPTAIN F. A. MITCHEL.

[Copyright, 1914, by American Press Association.]

In our regiment in Virginia in 1863 was a soldier in the ranks who was a thoroughbred. No one even of his own company seemed to know exactly when or where he enlisted, where was his home or anything else about him except that he said he was a Marylander. Maryland was a border state, the inhabitants being part northern and part southern in their sympathies.

There was nothing unusual about Davis' fighting on the Union side, for in the border states whole Federal regiments were made up of their citizens. But it was singular to hear him abusing Confederates with the accent of a southern man.

Davis in other respects was a good natured fellow, perfectly fearless and seemed to have no selfishness in his nature—indeed, was a type of the real southern gentleman. We wondered why he had not been able to obtain a commission, but he reminded us that the flower of the Maryland population was on the southern side. Maryland was not a good state for northerners.

We were cavalry, and Davis was one of the best of us so far as horsemanship was concerned. He was constantly being punished for roaming about wherever he liked. He rode all over our camps and, whenever he took a fancy to do so, sallied forth single handed against the Confederate pickets. That he was a good fighter was evident whenever there was trouble on the picket lines. On such occasions he would ride right up under the enemy's rifles. He always came back unhurt, and we could never understand how he managed to escape.

One night while out on vedette duty Davis disappeared. Shooting was heard in the direction of the point where he was stationed, and it was believed that at last he had reaped the payment of his recklessness. A party was sent out next morning to look for his body, but it was not found. Six months passed, during which everything was changed with us. Armies are like packs of cards—they are constantly being shuffled. One day while on picket duty I saw a man running from the Confederate lines toward ours, while men on that side were firing at him. "There comes a deserter," I remarked. The man stumbled two or three times, fell, got up and came on, reaching us in safety. I was at the time a sergeant in command of the picket post into which he ran, and he came right up to me.

What was my astonishment to see Davis!

Davis' astonishment at seeing me was equally great. Besides astonishment, I noticed chagrin. His face fell momentarily; then, grasping my hand, he shook it heartily, exclaiming:

"How are you, Charlie? What luck to come in right among my own boys?"

I withdrew my hand, saying to him, "I don't shake with deserters."

"Deserter! I reckon I am a deserter. I had to be or fight with those cursed southerners."

"I mean deserter from our side."

Davis looked hurt. He told a story of having ridden on the night of his him the fact that he was a southerner, ordered that he be held under arrest and charges of desertion be made against him.

Davis laughed at the idea of charges against a man who hated Confederates as he hated poison, and if he felt the least doubt about his being able to clear himself none of us could detect it.

But the evidence came in heavy against him. He was recognized as having belonged to an entirely different corps from ours and as having played the same game before, doubtless serving as a Federal soldier and carrying information to Confederate generals. Before the court finished the case it came out that Davis belonged to an old Maryland family, that he held a commission as lieutenant colonel in the Confederate army and was high in favor with several Confederate generals, whom he had furnished with enough information to enable any army to defeat twice its numbers.

Davis was sentenced to be hanged. His family might have saved his life had he been convicted of desertion. Indeed, they were handicapped, knowing that he was a spy—in fact, an officer of high rank in the Confederate army. The best they could do for him was to obtain a change in the mode of his death. The sentence was made shooting instead of hanging.

Davis maintained the same coolness of outward appearance to the moment of his death. Before he was a spy of the enemy; now he was one of nature's princes.

DAVIS' ASTONISHMENT AT SEEING ME WAS GREAT.

disappearance right in behind a Confederate camp. The opening was closed behind him. There was nothing for him to do but surrender. Being a southerner, as was proved by his accent, he had told his captors, he said, that he had been forced into the northern service and had long been watching for an opportunity to desert.

Notwithstanding this story, I marched Mr. Davis up to headquarters, where the general commanding interviewed him. The general, not being satisfied with this passing from one side to another and weighing against

AN OLD BATTLEFIELD.

The softest whisperings of the scent of south
And rust and roses in the cannon's mouth,
And where the thunders of the fight
The wind's sweet tenor in the standing corn,
With songs of larks, low lingering
And low skies bending over love and home,
But still the thought: Somewhere
Or where the vales ring with the whippoorwill,
Sad, wistful eyes and broken hearts
For the loved sound of unreturning feet,
And when the oaks their leafy banners wave
Dream of the battle and an unmarked grave!

FIRST ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.

Weymouth Lodge 1299 Loyal Order of Moose Entertain in Grand Style Last Tuesday Evening in Masonic Temple East Weymouth.

On May 26 1913 Weymouth Lodge 1299 Loyal Order of Moose was instituted in East Weymouth with forty six as charter members.

Last Tuesday evening May 26, the first anniversary of the order was held in Masonic Temple East Weymouth and an extra large crowd attended.

The affair started at eight o'clock, when an entertainment was given by Miss Caroline Ingalls, soloist; Miss Marie White, reader; C. E. Wallace, humorist; and Gardner's novelty and singing orchestra of Rockland.

At nine thirty o'clock, with Dictator L. M. Beach and Mrs. Beach at the head, the march to the banquet hall begun and in the lower hall Caterer C. C. Whitmore of Boston was waiting to serve the members of Weymouth Lodge and their friends with a most bountiful and appetizing banquet.

After the supper the party adjourned to the dance hall and the first annual grand march of Weymouth Lodge 1299 was started with Dictator and Mrs. Lewis M. Beach in the lead, followed by Vice Dictator Harry M. Vogel with Mrs. Vogel and sixty couples. Gardner's orchestra furnished music for the dancing until 2 o'clock.

The floor marshal was Lewis M. Beach assisted by H. W. Vogel. Fred A. Beals was chief of the aids and W. L. Orcutt, William Forsyth, W. O. Gibson, N. H. Holmes, Parker Stowell, James Healey, A. T. Blanchard, L. C. White, George Glosier and H. C. Belcher were aids.

Special guests were William J. Reid, secretary to the National Organizer of New England; Dictator and Mrs. J. A. Hancock of Brockton Lodge; Vice Dictator John J. McKinnon of Brockton Lodge and Dictator W. A. Laurie of Quincy Lodge.

Weymouth Lodge started with 50 members. Last Tuesday night, after one year it has 220 members and is still growing. The officers are Lewis M. Beach, dictator; Harry W. Vogel, vice dictator; G. F. Mitchell, prelate; F. E. Briggs, secretary; George C. Dunham, treasurer; T. M. McCleary, A. F. Sherman, James I. Peers, trustees; W. L. Orcutt sergeant-at-arms, F. A. Beal inside guard and James R. Healey, outside guard.

The first anniversary was a huge success in every way and Weymouth Lodge 1299 is to be congratulated on its fine beginning.

RAILROAD BOYS LOSE 4 to 3.

High School Nine Wins From East Weymouth Carban Team Last Saturday Morning.

After nine innings of good, poor, indifferent, exciting, farcial baseball on Clapp's field, East Weymouth, last Saturday morning, the railroad boys' team of the East Weymouth carban ambled on of the field on the short end of a 4 to 3 score, the victors being the Weymouth High school nine.

The game was a dandy from the start. Umpire Howley, panama and all, tried his level best to hand the carmen the game, but Weymouth High drove in the winning run in the last half of the ninth and one of the best games ever seen at the C.M.A. was at an end.

Along the sidelines were some hundred odd local railroad men and they gave several original ideas in rooting, led by the relief base-runner, Paul Mulready.

Caulfield at second for the railroad boys played a fast game and Tom Reid excelled at third. Phil Cullen, the old C. M. A. star played first and did part of the pitching and Morris Mullen stopped everything that traveled on the shortstop line. P. Kearns played a fine game in right field when the ball wasn't coming in his direction and Dave Kearns made a fine ornament in left field. However, the railroad lads put up a far better game than was expected and with a little more assistance from "Ump" Howley would have beaten the high school team.

A sideline feature of the game was the accurate scoring of the game by Paul B. Mulready. The teams lined up as follows: W.H.S.—Mauro, lf; Fraher, c; Gorman, p and 2b; Riley, ss; Talbot, cf; Sampson, p; Cross, 3b; Hunt, rf; Reis, 1b; Shanahan, 2b. Railroad men—Caulfield, 2b; Reid 3b; Mullen, ss; Cullen, 1b and p; Haley, lf; Connell, c; Jones, p and 1b; D. Kearns and Sullivan, lf; P. Kearns, rf. The score:

Innings 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 W H S. 0 1 0 1 1 0 0 0 1-4 R R Boys 2 0 1 0 0 0 0 0-3

Runs made by Talbot 2, Hunt, Reis, Caulfield, Reid and Mullen. Scorer, Mulready. Umpire, J.W. Howley. Attendance 300.

Baseball Notes.

Good work Weymouth, 6 to 3 and 3 to 3 or 3 to 0 looks great!

Since Monday there has been much argument as just what the dispute was that caused Brockton to leave the field. Umpire Nolan based his decision in letting Gorman score as follows: At the time there were two men out and men on every base, Gorman being on first, Mauro on third and Fraher on second. Talbot was at the bat and was two strikes and three balls. He hit to third. Before Boggian got his hands on the ball Mauro had scored, Fraher was rounding third and Gorman, who had started with the pitch was half way to third base. Boggian threw the ball ten feet over the first sackers head and as the captains had agreed on the ground rule that the base runner was entitled to one base besides the one he was going for at the time of the overthrow at first, Nolan declared the overthrow came while Gorman was on his way to third and therefore was entitled to home plate. Coach Staff of Brockton refused to abide by the decision and took his team off the field.

By request of the management of the High School nine and also to prove that Umpire Nolan's side of the decision on the much argued disagreement of Monday, we publish the rule on which Nolan based his decision. It is rule 72, section 3 on page 304 of Spauldings official guide for 1914. The rule is as follows: "In all cases where there are no spectators on the playing field, and where a thrown ball goes into a stand for spectators, or over or through any fence surrounding the playing field or into the players bench (whether the ball rebounds into the field or not), the runner or runners shall be entitled to two bases. The umpire in awarding such bases shall be governed by the position of the runner or runners at the time the throw is made."

At the time the throw was made, Monday, Gorman was between second and third and according to the agreement of the two captains he was entitled to two bases. Brockton certainly has a fast team in every department, but against Weymouth seem to have a hoodoo chasing them in the eighth and ninth innings. Brockton fielded and batted better than Weymouth in the early part of the game last Monday but the hoodoo showed itself in the eighth and Weymouth came to time with three runs.

It is rather unsatisfactory to have a game end like that of Monday. Weymouth might have won and then again they might not have. The crowd was sorry to see Coach Staff takes his team off the field, as he has always had the reputation as being a fighter and game to the core, but refusing to abide by the decision of an umpire of "Sav" Nolan's experience and knowledge of the game doesn't show the proper spirit.

In speaking of Coach Staff the youngster who threw the stone that hit the man in the eye should be severely dealt with. Throwing stones at a crowd on a ball field is uncalled for and decidedly dangerous. Mr. Staff received a bad wound from the stone. The stone was evidently meant for Nolan who was standing above the crowd on the bench, but unfortunately Mr. Staff got the stone directly above the eye. Such capers show a decidedly poor spirit indeed.

"Hope" Gorman is surely playing a great game at the second sack for Weymouth. He is one of the fastest key stone men in the game to-day and should be heard from in higher circles later on. He is batting higher than any other man of the High School nine also.
