Dr. E. R. Bryant Succumbs to Injuries

Dr. E. R. Bryant, well known in Carmel, where his wife and mother-in-law, Mrs. Tisdale, have spent the past two summers, died last Thursday in San Francisco. The efforts of his professional friends to save his life proved unavailing.

His skull was fractured and he was otherwise severely injured by a fall through a skylight on the roof of the California building of the exposition, where he had gone to witness the illumination on closing night.

Dr. Bryant was a director of the of the Hahnemann hospital since its foundation, and he achieved a wide reputation in the medical world, holding degrees from colleges in Philadelphia, Vienna and Heidelberg. For several years he held the position of chief surgeon of the San Francisco city and county hospital, and was also president of the California Homeopathic Society. He had as well extensive fraternal and social affiliations.

Home Again

The two historic objects, one of the East, the other of the West, which attracted most attention at the Panama-Pacific exposition, have been returned to their homes.

A week or two ago Philadelphia gave a grand welcome home to the beloved liberty bell.

Last Friday morning the flag-pole belonging to the old custom house at Monterey was returned to its custodian, and in a few days will be placed in its original position.

What Think You?

Old age today to most people is a nightmare and a thing to be dreaded. Old age under Socialism will be the happiest and most pleasurable period of a man's life. He will have performed his full duty to society, and in his old age it will be the duty of society to perform its full duty to him. Dependent upon nobody, absolutely independent, he can enjoy all that the world has to give. A man will be in a condition physically and mentally to enjoy himself to his utmost capacity, because he will not be broken down during his working days by overwork and worry.—Appeal to Reason.

The Play's the Thing

All is in readiness for the performance to be given by the Cardinal players of Stanford University, in Arts and Crafts hall, on Friday evening.

The plays to be presented have been chosen for variety, a light comedy, a vaudeville farce and a dramatic tragedy make up the program in addition to a series of delightful songs to be rendered by Miss Margery Bailey.

Mr. Arthur Cyril, Canadian and Eastern star, late leading man with Constance Crawley, is featured in the farce-comedy. Cyril and Gordon Davis who also play in the cast, have taken it over the Orpheum and Pantages circuits.

The light modern comedy stars our own Miss Katherine Cooke.

The tragedy, "Simoom," by Strindberg, with Miss Nellita Choate, Stanford's leading actress, Gordon Davis and Glenn Hughes, has aroused enthusiasm at Palo Alto and at the Muir Woods theatre.

Tickets may be purchased at Miss Morgan's studio, at J. W. Hand's office, and the Pine Cone office.

New Year's Wish Lotta Sends Letter of Love and Appreciation

Secretary P. E. Magruder of the Peninsula Merchants' Association and of the Monterey Chamber of Commerce, writes as follows:

If the people of the Monterey peninsula will work together, and work fairly hard, 1916 will be the greatest year in the history of the community.

It is really too bad that these remarks must be prefaced by an "if," but many of the big things depend entirely and wholly upon united cooperation.

The first step toward accomplishing big things is cooperation. The large corporations have taught us that. Every commercial and civic organization which has for its object the advancement of the peninsula should be combined into one body. It may be trite, but never the less true, that in unity there is strength.

That all these organizations shall combine and that many more of our substantial citizens shall help in the movement is my New Year's wish for the Monterey peninsula. It is my opinion that such action will result in bigger things for the community than most of its citizens have even dreamed of.

Farewell-Surprise Party

On Saturday evening last Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Heron, who are to leave shortly for Los Angeles, were tendered a surprise party. Games, dancing, music and refreshments took up the evening. The following were present:

Lillian Herrick, Alice Hilby, Katherine Cooke, Bonnie Hale, Alice MacDougal, Phil Wilson, Eugene Gillett, Ernest Clewe, Mr. Taft, George Schwening, Lyman Grimes, Philip Adams, Donald Hale, Lewis Josselyn and Glenn Hughes.

From Carmel, where for several weeks she has found rest and quiet, Miss Lotta Crabtree has sent out her message of love and appreciation to the people of California, as follows:

"So many have sent invitations, messages of cheer and good wishes to me that it is impossible for me to acknowledge them all in person. I take this opportunity to thank each and every one for the splendid reception given me.

"Being a pioneer California actress who blazed the trail to the East for so many who have come after and then return and find the Golden Gates open to receive me and be greeted by such enthusiasm and love, was cheering and overwhelming, and the beautiful memories will ever be fresh in my mind.

"So with the coming of the New Year I extend to you all my heartfelt appreciation and wish the greatest possible success to the beloved people of California in 1916.

Lotta"

Bothered? Try This

A man in a western town was bothered by his neighbor's chickens. He threaded kernels of corn with tags at the end of the thread. Notices on the tags were as follows:

I've been scratching in Mr. Blank's garden.
I'm a naughty chicken.
I've been trespassing.
I'm a feathered bandit.
When the neighbor returned to his home he found the chickens running around with tags in their beaks. He was convinced that the fowls should be kept off of neighbor Blank's premises.

Jews Return to Spain Permitted

The news relative to the admission of the Jews to Spain, after their centuries of banishment, is an item of historical and human importance which rightfully takes its place beside any of the events of the present European war.

The war now raging calls up a history that is not altogether interesting or attractive, whereas the story of Spain and her treatment of the Jews runs back through four centuries and more, and reveals the picture of a tragedy without bloodshed, of sublime pathos without utter misery, which is well nigh unique in the annals of mankind.

Remembrance of the supremacy, the decline and fall of the only nation that ever held absolute control of both land and sea in two hemispheres, the nation that created in some respects the greatest colonial empire of all time, remembrance of those days of yore of which it was said "when Spain moves the world trembles," is something indeed to stir the imagination and kindle the spirit of romance.

That at the very beginning of her mighty career, however, Spain yielded to a fanaticism which deprived her of the presence and service of what was probably the most useful element of her population and thereby rendered her glory transient, is but one side of the extraordinary story.

Scattered all the way from the African Pillars of Hercules to the confines of western Asia and northward into European Turkey, through the lapse of the centuries, the Jews of Spain cherished in love the memory of the motherland that had driven them forth in hate, preserved her language, quaint with the diction of Ferdinand and Isabella, clung to her customs, and kept alive her traditions in the alien regions of her exile, casting many a wistful glance backward across the Mediterranean, and nourishing the hope that some day the injustice would be undone, and the motherland, now repentant, would welcome the descendants of her banished children to the home their ancestors had left so long ago with heavy hearts. Then, too, the thought of what the return of the exiles may mean to Spain of today and tomorrow, reviving her, strengthening her, and encouraging her once more to take her place of a great power among the nations of the earth, has about it an inspiration quick with the promise of future achievement.

The Puppy's Opinion

She taught me that I musn't bark
At little noises after dark,
But just refrain from any fuss
Until I'm sure they're dangerous.
This would be easier, I felt,
If noises could be seen or smelt.
She's very wise, I have no doubt,
And plans ahead what she's about,
Yet after eating every day
She throws her nicest bones away.
If she were really less obtuse
She'd bury them for future use.

But that which made me doubt the most
Those higher powers that humans boast

Is not so much a fault like that,
Nor yet her fondness for the cat,
But on our pleasant country strolls
Her dull indifference to the holes!
Oh, if I once had time to spend
To reach a hole's extremest end,
I'd grab it fast without a doubt,
And promptly pull it inside-out;
Then drag it home with all my power
To chew on it in a leisure hour.

Of all the mistresses there are,
Mine is the loveliest by far—
Fain would I wag myself apart
If I could thus reveal my heart
But on some things I must conclude,
Mine is the saner attitude.

Carry a Sponge

Do not lick a postage stamp or it may lick you. We gather something to that effect from another scare sent on its way by a health authority.

The case against the stamp is as follows: "Millions of people moisten postage stamps with their tongues every day. These may have been shoved across a soiled counter or torn off with dirty hands an instant before, but unfortunately a habit, plus convenience, leads the majority to the custom of affixing them in this manner. In view of the fact that there are thousands of sufferers from tuberculosis and other diseases, these seemingly insignificant acts are fraught with danger."

Value of Repetition

James R. Garfield, of Cleveland, son of the late President Garfield, told one of the editors of the American Magazine the following story about traveling in 1878 as a boy with his father, who was campaigning.

One night, after a speech in Michigan, young Garfield said to his father:

"Why do you repeat so much? Do you know that you said the same things tonight that you said this afternoon at Detroit?"

General Garfield made this reply:

"You happen to be an especially interested party and notice these repetitions. Others do not. I repeat the same statements deliberately in order that people may finally get them. Anything that I want an audience to get and remember I repeat several times—in somewhat different form perhaps."

"This practice I have developed out of my experience, which has shown me that people's attention is distracted in various ways and that a first or a second statement may not really get to them. You must insist on an idea or fact if you want to get anywhere with it."

Corsi Is Now A Movie Actor

Antonio Corsi, world-famous artists' model, who posed for C. P. Townsley's art classes here last summer, has taken up a new line of work. Nothing less than an actor for moving-picture films.

A Pasadena subscriber of the Pine Cone sends us the following clipping from the Star of that city:

Antonio Corsi of Pasadena, world famous artist's model, who has been connected with the Stickney Memorial School of Fine Arts for some time past, is the latest noted artist to join the moving picture forces. He is now with the Morosco Photoplay company, and has just finished his work in a feature film that starred Lenore Ulrich and that gave him one of the most important roles.

This picture play, which will be released in about a month, will go under the title of "Paula." Signor Corsi appears as Pedro Diego, an old family servant, who has a great deal to do with the interesting action of the play. The directors in charge of the production highly complimented Signor Corsi on his splendid interpretation of this character.

He has been an artist's model since 1882, so is accustomed to have his picture taken, but the new conditions under which he is working are far different from the old, for they require action and constant change of posture and expression, whereas in posing for artists the main thing was to assume one position and expression and maintain them unchanged for a considerable period.

"I believe I shall like the new work even better than the old," said Signor Corsi. "It is most interesting, and one meets many interesting people. I shall probably remain in the moving picture field indefinitely."

In his years as a model Corsi has posed for many famous artists and has accumulated a store of costumes worth thousands of dollars.

Newberry Has Pine Inn

Triple play.

Watson to Creaser, to C. D. Co., to Shields.

All out.

Pine Inn has a new boss.

Yesterday Roy Newberry of San Jose, brother of Perry, assumed the proprietorship of Carmel's oldest hotel.

It is said that Mr. Newberry plans to make many interior and exterior changes in the building, and being an experienced hotel man, it is to be hoped that he will make a success of the venture.

Many will regret Mr. Geo. H. Shields' departure.

"Poo Bah" Johnnie is still on the job.

Some Weather

During the past week Carmel has experienced several varieties of weather. We have had heavy frosts, for several days snow covered the mountains south of Carmel, and on New Year's Eve began what proved to be the most severe wind and rain storm of the season.

The damage by the storm in Carmel was slight. Several business signs were blown down, a fine pine tree in front of Leidig's store was uprooted and in the forest east of the town a number of fallen trees are reported.

Yesterday morning broke clear and fair, with glorious sunshine.

Sweet '16

It is quite the customary thing for individuals, at the beginning of a new year, to speculate as to what the future holds for them. But the purpose of this article is to point out and to contemplate for the edification of the residents of Carmel something of what the year 1916 holds for the town of Carmel.

First of all we are assured that before many months the highway leading from Carmel to Monterey and the State highway North and South, will be completed.

Even now plans are in course of preparation looking toward the incorporation of Carmel, which, if it should come to pass, would mean that we could arrange for many public improvements, and at only a very slight increase in taxes.

Many new homes will be erected in Carmel this year. Some of them have already been contracted for.

It may be that before the year is out we shall have a new library building and art gallery.

Who knows but what at the Forest Theatre next July there shall be produced what may prove to be the great American play, by a Carmel writer. And perhaps in Carmel there will be written the great American novel.

Vision.

And you and I who love this little town may dream on and on, and often we shall be disappointed, but never discouraged. Surely, some of our dreams will come true.

La Playa Personals

One of the most charming and interesting guests entertained at La Playa is Mrs. George J. Burkhill, who was the first child of American parents born in San Francisco. During the exposition she was one of the noted patronesses.

Fifty guests enjoyed the special New Year's dinner.

The remaining guests will miss the Misses Lassok, who have done much to make their days happy.

Late arrivals: Miss Mary Gardner, Miss Rose F. Sturla, Dr. and Mrs. Morton R. Gibbons, Mrs. Geo. J. Bucknall, Miss Marie D. Marriott, Henry H. Taylor, F. L. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. K. Hutchinson, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. G. Laumeister, Frisco; Mrs. Huston, Mrs. John A. Mitchell, Palo Alto; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Chippis Ross, St. Andrew, N.B.; Walter Mulford, Berkeley.

Pine Needles

A. A. Decker of Carmel was arrested near San Juan Sunday for speeding. He paid a fine of $10.—Free Lance.

Miss Tessie Tag come down from Palo Alto last week for a brief stay.

Prof. and Mrs. H. J. Hall of Stanford University are here for ten days, occupying the Cannon home.

A party of student delegates to the Y. M. C. A. conference at Asilomar visited Carmel mission last week.

The Baileys of San Jose are occupying the Hanson's Casa Verda on Dolores street.

Mrs. Bray, mother of Mrs. G. H. Boke, died recently at Palo Alto.

The Grabills came down from San Jose last Wednesday for a brief stay.

L. P. Narvaéz has obtained the contracts for painting and decorating the Manzanita Theatre and the pool parlors and bowling alley.

Mr. and Mrs. Laumeister were here for a few days last week.

Mrs. T. C. Warren has returned from Oakland, and has made plans to build and maintain her permanent home here.

Mrs. A. C. Lawson and her guests, Professor and Mrs. Weeks and daughter, returned to Berkeley by motor on Friday.

Mr. Ernest Clewe saw the old year out in Carmel at a gathering of friends.

Chancellor David Starr Jordan and family are here for a brief sojourn.

Friday afternoon's white elephant tea, at the Blue Bird, for the benefit of the local library, was a decidedly successful affair.

Mrs. S. W. Young and her son, Harry Lachmund, are here, to remain until next Sunday. Prof. Young is in the East.

The annual meeting of the Manzanita Club will take place at the headquarters of the organization this evening.

Prof. John M. Stillman and wife, who have been sojourning here, have returned to Stanford University.

Mrs. Clampett and son are spending a few days in their cottage here.

Mr. and Mrs. Delos Curtis entertained quite a number of friends at dinner on New Year's night.

No confirmation of the report that three young men were drowned near the Carmel bath house on Sunday morning has been obtained.

Mr. Roy Clark and family of San Jose spent most of last and part of this week here.

Dr. David Starr Jordan addressed a large audience at the Methodist church last evening. The subject was "The Peacemaker in History."

Geo. H. Shields knows how! The forty and more Pine Inn guests and town residents who partook of the dinner on New Year's night will testify to the above. The affair was one of good cheer and satisfaction, and Mr. Shields has further enhanced his reputation as a first class hotel man.

Miss Grace MacFarland, well acquainted here and in other sections of the county, is now located at Lincoln, in Placer county.

Frank Pixey, our Pebble Beach neighbor, was a visitor at the Pine Cone office a day or two ago.

Mrs. J. A. Desimone and daughter of San Jose spent last week in our midst.

Mr. Peixotto and Dr. Jessica Peixotto were guests at Pine Inn last week.

News items, personals, social notes. Bring or send them to the Pine Cone office.

The Spadoni family has returned to San Francisco, after several weeks here.

Miss Alice MacGowan and Mrs. Grace MacGowan Cooke, having given up their residence at Berkeley, will remain here indefinitely.

The Ives family returned to their Alameda home on Sunday.
