If you could hear Joseph Barber speak as he does in such enthusiastic terms of respect and admiration of Wendell Phillips you could feel there was something good of him.
The man who appreciates W. P. as he deserves must have a high idea of excellence. He says he should make it a point to see him when he goes to America. If you were to read Kay's book that I speak of in my last Standard letter you would see that an artoway such as ours have to a great extent the unjust power & influence of your Standarders. That book has explained to me ~~unfathomable~~ much that seemed unjust & harsh in Barber's entries about our custodians. He has been one of the pioneers of the good & the wise has entered into his soul as you & I could never feel it.
