ANDANTE. p

When si - - lent night o'er land and sea, Has spread its deep'ning gloom; Oft mu - - sing'neath some lone - ly tree My thoughts away at home; Each star with ling'ring gaze I view The e - ver changing moon; Far rol - -ling in the heavens blue; They're shining on my home. ad lib

The name, how dear, the sound, how sweet, When far a - way we roam; And When gen - -tle spring in li - ving green, Has robed each vale and hill; When stran - ger scenes our vi - sions greet; The name of home sweet home. When bloom - ing wild - flow'rs deck the scene, I weep for something still. Oh o'er this earth no more I stray, When life's last hope has flown; Oh where's the wil - low drooping low; The oak that wav'd a - - lone; Their
