HEAVY RAINSTORM STOPS BATTLES BETWEEN CHINESE

GOVERNMENT OVERTURN IN CHILE BRINGS ALTAMARINO, ARMY CHIEF, AS PRESIDENT

Arturo Alessandri, Deposed President, and His Family Are Allowed to Leave Country in Safety; Change Came After Days of Great Excitement Among People.

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 9.—President Arturo Alessandri of Chile has resigned and has been succeeded as President by General Luis Altamirino, head of the military cabinet which assumed power Friday night.

President Alessandri tendered his resignation after it had been requested by the cabinet and the leaders of the military group, who asked him to absent himself from the country and asserted they would guarantee his own personal safety and that of his family.

Alessandri and his family were guests of the United States Ambassador to-day while they waited constitutional authorization to leave the country.

DAYS OF EXCITEMENT

The swearing in of the new cabinet Friday night came after three days of excitement on the part of the people because of the tangled political situation. When the members of the new Ministry faced the Senate there were no speeches. General Altamirino merely said the Government desired prompt approval by Congress of pending bills looking to the welfare of the country. The chairman of the Senate then consulted with the members, who gave their approval to all pending bills. Immediately afterward the cabinet went to the Lower House, where the same programme was carried out.

Wong Sing Cross-examined at Second Janet Smith Death Inquiry

Body of Nursemaid Re-interred After Being Viewed By Jury

Vancouver, Sept. 9.—Proceedings at the investigation of the death of Janet K. Smith, nursemaid, were delayed nearly half an hour this morning while Provincial Police and court officials searched for Wong Sing, the Chinese houseboy, who yesterday was submitted to a grilling examination by C. W. Craig, K.C., representing the Attorney-General. Finally the missing witness, accompanied by his uncle, arrived. They had made a mistake as to the time of adjournment.

The Chinese was at once placed in the witness box and a cross-examination by Alex. Henderson, K.C., representing the Scottish Societies, was begun. It appeared from Mr. Henderson's early questions that he intended to trace the movements of the houseboy step by step on the day of the tragedy, when the nursemaid was found strangled through the head in the basement laundry of the Baker home on Osler Avenue.

JELLOGE EXPLAINS JUTLAND HISTORY

Admiral Tells How Official History of Battle Came to be Published by Admiralty

Special to The Times Wellington, N.Z., Sept. 9.—In spite of much criticism for his conduct of the Battle of Jutland, Lord Jellicoe has said little in his own defence and although press representatives interviewed him on the latest version of the battle issued by the British Admiralty, he would not make any statement, he said, likely to further the controversy.

been referred to him after the war and what he had done about it. It seems that in 1919 the Admiralty appointed a committee to draw up an account of the battle. This was done and then the Admiralty staff wanted to alter it. On this Lord Jellicoe was asked for his comments, but said he did not want to give them as the committee which drew up the account had his confidence.

A NEW ACCOUNT When he found the amendments that were proposed by the Admiralty staff, however, he strongly objected to them and asked that the committee's independent report should be left unaltered. After Lord Jellicoe came to New Zealand the Admiralty refused to publish the committee's report at all and in place of it had its own account drawn up by the Admiralty's naval staff. This account was sent out to New Zealand and to Lord Jellicoe was strongly opposed, as he felt it was full of misstatements and inaccuracies. Some were corrected on his remonstrances, but others were not and while he was endeavoring to induce the Admiralty to delay publication until his full corrections were available the account of the battle was published. "I have not had the opportunity yet," said Lord Jellicoe, "of correcting all the misstatements, nor have I seen the published remarks of the Admiralty upon the corrections I was able to make."

CUTTING OF WHEAT OVER HALF DONE

Farmers' Work on Prairies Carried Forward With Out Serious Interruption

Encouraging Reports as to Yield From Both C.P.R. And C.N.R.

Winnipeg, Sept. 9 (Canadian Press)—With favorable progress reported in the cutting of wheat in the three prairie provinces, the yield is proving fully up to expectations, and in many instances exceeding earlier estimates, according to a crop report of the Canadian Pacific Railway. There is still considerable late grain in the more northerly portions of each province which will not be past frost danger for another week. Frost has been reported from a number of districts, but the damage has been exceedingly light. In Manitoba favorable weather has prevailed and harvesting is now in full swing. Wheat yields generally are surpassing early estimates, while cereal crops are also showing up well. Southern Manitoba has eighty to ninety per cent. of its cutting completed, with the remainder of the province from forty to fifty per cent. in Saskatchewan.

of wheat cutting finished in Saskatchewan, threshing is expected to be fairly well under way next week. Favorable conditions continue in Alberta, although the cool weather of the past week has delayed ripening of the late crops. In the southern part of the province from sixty to seventy per cent. has been completed, in the north from ten to fifteen per cent., while in the southeast, where the crops are reported to be very light, use of headers has been necessary.

REPORT OF C.N.R.

Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—A Canadian National Railway report for the week ended September 8 says: Good harvesting weather during the last week has assisted the farmers in the harvesting of crops all over the prairie provinces, according to the twentieth weekly crop report issued by the Canadian National Railway. Cutting is in full swing everywhere, many cases being from seventy-five per cent. to eighty per cent. completed. Manitoba reports but little change as to damage by rust, frost and sawfly. In the majority of districts it is stated the losses from any or all of these causes will be slight. Farmers are cutting their crops on the green side to avoid further frost damage. The Portage la Prairie district reports wheat yields of thirty-two to thirty-five bushels per acre, with barley forty-five bushels and over. The cutting will be general by the end of the present week. The Minnabito district reports a seventy-five bushel oat crop, with wheat twenty to forty bushels.

IN SASKATCHEWAN

Some frost damage to late crops is reported from Saskatchewan. The weather has been favorable and cutting is making good progress. Crops in many districts are turning out better than expected. Second growth and second cutting are being difficult for some farmers. The Yorkton and Tonkin districts, where the crops are late, have suffered from frost, which has reduced both yield and grade. The Regina district expects fairly good yields, one or two acres estimating they will be better than last year. The Saskatoon district reports little or no frost damage, with conditions better than had been expected.

ALBERTA CROPS

Late crops in Alberta are stated to have improved recently. Some frost, but not enough to cause damage, is reported. The weather has been cool and ripening is slow, although cutting at this time is fairly general. The crops are looking full and in some districts will run thirty to forty-five bushels per acre. High winds have caused wheat to shell out in some areas. Difficulty is being experienced in cutting due to second growth and heavy weed growth following recent heavy rainfalls.

POICE INQUIRY IN MONTREAL STARTED

Aldermen Appoint Committee of Investigation; Royal Commission Suggested

Montreal, Sept. 9.—At a meeting of the City Council yesterday, Alderman Dubreuil laid before his colleagues a scathing indictment of the Montreal police service. Among the more outstanding allegations were the following: "Tony Frank, one of the six bandits now sitting execution for his share in the Hochelaga Bank collection car looting and murder, up to his arrest was a collector of 'protection money' from certain business concerns on behalf of the police. "Some of the six condemned bandits were keepers of evil houses and intimate friends of certain police officers. "An order was given to the police to stop supervising the Hochelaga Bank car when it was known the holdup that actually took place was in preparation. "Certain police officers received money for preventing or neglecting the arrest of alleged criminals in connection with recent crimes."

COUNCIL INQUIRY

These were the points laid before the meeting by Alderman Dubreuil in support of his motion for a royal commission to investigate the administration of the Montreal police. It was finally decided that an investigation into police affairs in the city should be undertaken by a committee of the aldermen.

TIDAL WAVE HIT SMALL STEAMSHIP

Special to The Times Auckland, N.Z., Sept. 9.—Seeing a wall of water approach him almost as described in Rudyard Kipling's story, "A Matter of Fact," the skipper of the little steamer Tees off the Chatham Islands, lonely outposts of the South Seas, turned his vessel's head just in time to prevent another tragedy of the ocean.

The wall of water was a tidal wave set up by an earthquake down near the Antarctic ice. Slowly the little vessel righted herself, for a tremendous heat of water fell solidly on her decks, throwing her on her beam ends for several moments. Then she lurched violently, hurling the crew in the fo'c'sle in all directions. The captain himself was badly hurt against the wall of his cabin, which was wrecked by the force of the wave.

An awe-inspiring experience befell a party of fishermen at Mangere, one of the Chatham Islands. They were mending their gear on the shore when looking seaward they saw an immense wave apparently about forty feet high, a veritable wall of water, approaching rapidly. Shouting an alarm, they dashed for the higher ground on the west side of the island and there reached safety. The wave burst along the shore, smashing the wharf to matchwood and wrecking all the fishing boats, several of which were carried far inland.

The Chathams are 400 miles east of New Zealand, and there is a small white population mainly engaged in fishing and sheep raising.

CONCILIATION BOARD AND STRIKE VOTE

Canadian Press Asks Arbitration of Telegraphers' Wage Question

Men Want Increase; Company Says Time For Decrease Has Come

Toronto, Sept. 9.—A strike vote by the men and a request to the Dominion Department of Labor for a conciliation board by the company are the results of the meeting here yesterday of the executive of the Canadian Press and the general committee of its telegraphers in an effort to get together on the wage dispute separating them. Just four years ago, as the company points out in its argument, the existing wage agreement was negotiated through a conciliation board about the time when the year's high cost of living was reached, this being the month of July, 1920. Immediately after this settlement went into effect, giving the men a five per cent. increase, the cost of living index figure started dropping, until now it is back to near what it was in 1917.

MEN ASKED INCREASE

The agreement has continued unchanged, but two months ago the men gave notice of a request for a considerable increase. To this the company replied by notice of a decrease, aimed especially to help the situation in the smaller Canadian cities, where members of the Canadian Press receive their news service over leased wires and where the minimum wage of $45 a week paid the Canadian Press telegraphers is, such members claim, out of all proportion to the wages paid other newspaper employees.

In opening the proceedings yesterday, E. Norman Smith, president of the Canadian Press, pointed out the difficulties faced by Canadian daily publishers due to loss of revenue consequent on the economic and industrial depression. On behalf of the company, he said, they could not consider at this time a single dollar increase in the wage bill. A number of members were already finding the cost of the news service greater than they could carry and from the smaller newspapers there came some very time insistent demands for a cut in the telegraph bill.

ARBITRATION PROPOSED

A deadlock thus being reached, Mr. Smith, on behalf of the company, proposed either an arbitration or a conciliation board under the Department of Labor. Mr. Schnur, international vice-president of the men's union, offered to arbitrate if the company would withdraw its proposal for a decrease; to arbitrate, that is to say, whether the wages should remain unchanged or should be increased.

To this the Canadian Press executive could not accede, but offered to submit the whole dispute to a board of conciliation. Mr. Schnur declined to go before a board of conciliation at all and declared he must take an immediate strike vote of the men. The company therefore has applied for a conciliation board, similar to that which is already dealing with the dispute between the commercial telegraphers and their employers, the same union, the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, being involved.

THE REPRESENTATIVES

Besides President Smith the company was represented by W. J. Taylor, of The Woodstock Sentinel-Review; A. R. Ford, London Free Press, and J. F. R. Livesay, general manager; while the other members of the men's general committee were R. H. Hope of Brantford, Ont., and J. A. McDougall of Vancouver, B.C.

WASHINGTON HAS PRIMARY ELECTION

Ku Klux Klan, Coolidge's Course and Hydro-electric Power State Issues

Seattle, Sept. 9.—The Ku Klux Klan, President Coolidge and a contest between advocates of private and of public control of hydro-electric power were issues to the fore to-day in a primary election throughout Washington State. Registration of voters was estimated at 425,000.

The question of the agencies to direct development of hydro-electric resources, in which Washington has been pronounced by the State Government to have 7,800,000 horsepower and to lead the nation, entered into a campaign to choose three justices of the Supreme Court.

ELECTION NOVEMBER 4

The Klan, through a bill to abolish private and parochial schools, and the hydro-electric contest, through a bill to permit municipalities to sell electric current outside their limits without taxation and to condemn property for the development and distribution of hydro-electric power, will be high lights in the general election November 4 and the clashes of personalities and policies in the primary campaign, particularly among those seeking the Republican nomination for Governor, have been shot through with gleams of these two issues.

CRIME WAVE SWEEPS CITY OF MELBOURNE

Special to The Times Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 9.—Since the police strike of last year in Melbourne a crime wave of amazing strength has swept across the city. There have been four or five murders—of peculiar atrocity, hundreds of burglaries, a dozen or more armed hold-ups and endless minor crimes.

The city has just been stirred by another atrocious murder—that of a little girl, Irene Tuckerman, daughter of Henry Joseph Peters, a poor workman, who was strangled in a lane. So great was the indignation raised by the crime that parents refused to let

"IMPULSE" MURDER IN NEW ZEALAND

(Special to The Times) Auckland, Sept. 9.—All New Zealand is discussing the strange crime of Henry Joseph Peters, a poor workman who when ill and out of employment gave way to what is described as "impulse murder." When giving food to his infant son and his other children during the mother's absence he leaned over the cradle with the bread knife in his hand and cut the little one's throat from ear to ear. When the mother returned Peters was nursing the dead baby, having quietly removed all traces of blood-stains from the clothing. He made no attempt to attack his other children and when charged with the crime said he had an impulse to do it that he could not resist. He was out of work and ill and he had had frequent promptings to take his wife's life. He resisted them and also to kill his infant son, but finally found it impossible to resist any longer. He is not insane in any sense, the experts say.

THE MERCHANTS SPEAK OUT

THERE is a very simple reason why the retail merchants of this city should have no hesitation in making known their objection to so many race meets within such a comparatively short space of time. They find that it hurts their business because it keeps a good deal of money from circulating in the numerous channels of local trade and delays the payment of bills by those who wager.

To argue that several weeks of betting, for that is what the race meets amount to, is good for this or any other community from a business point of view is sheer nonsense. If John Jones is getting fifty dollars a week and depends upon his weekly pay cheque to keep his home going it stands to reason that if he loses a few dollars a day, or even a few dollars a week, at the race track, he is going behind and some of his bills have to wait. Very often the man who makes a "killing," always the exception, more likely than not makes a purchase of something in the luxury line which takes most of his money out of the district.

There are already too many ways of escape for any loose cash that may be lying around Victoria. We even close our stores on Wednesday afternoons and leave ourselves open to a charge from the visitor, upon whom we depend to such a large extent, that we appear to have all the business we want. We can not afford to "play the ponies" for so long.

SCHOOL TEXT BOOKS

THERE is too much changing of school text-books from year to year, especially in the higher grades, imposing a heavy burden of cost upon parents, many of whom can ill afford to bear it.

There was a time when almost an entire set of books would descend from one pupil to another in the same family as he or she passed upward, sometimes over a period of three or four years. This effected a substantial saving in the annual school-book budget, and judging by results the arrangement was altogether satisfactory. The pupils made as good progress in their studies as they do now. In fact, continuity of text-books is more conducive to the advancement of pupils than frequent changes.

It is time for a definite standardization of these books in the interests of both the pupils and the pocketbooks of their parents. Nobody need be alarmed over the danger of these publications getting out of date. In the sense that new ideas are continually arising in material and the manner of imparting instruction, text-books always will be out of date, even if they are only a few months old.

The important thing is to see that the main principles of sound instruction are preserved. Loading the young mind with a mass of inconsequential detail which has not even the merit of consistency from year to year is mere waste of time, energy and money.

NO CABINET MINISTER

THE VANCOUVER PROVINCE fails to understand why Mr. Oliver did not appoint a Vancouver member of the Legislature to a position in the Cabinet. It declares that the people of that city went to the polls in June on the understanding that the representation which ceased when Mr. Farris retired from the Executive would be made good during the course of reorganization which the election and Mr. Hart's exit from the political field made necessary. In support of its argument The Province points out that any one of the three businessmen whom the Liberals elected in the Terminal City would make an excellent Minister. It extends this contention in the following fashion:

The trouble is that though they might very well be acceptable to the citizens of Vancouver they are not acceptable to those in control at the capital. In the pre-session skirmishing they have shown too much independence of spirit and too little disposition to take orders from the party machine. So, for their sins they are left out, and for her sin in returning them, Vancouver is left without cabinet representation.

For the last two decades Vancouver has had a Cabinet Minister. From 1916 it has been represented in the Legislature by five supporters of the Government and the Leader of the Opposition. Up till 1922 one of those members was a Cabinet Minister. During the whole of that period Vancouver's interests were well looked after. Its problems are no doubt better understood by the Government than the problems of any other part of the Province. And our mainland contemporary will surely agree that with five private members, three of whom are prominent businessmen, "any one of whom would make an excellent Minister," Vancouver is scarcely likely to go to the bow-wows. It should, however, be represented in the inner councils of the Government.

ONTARIO'S PLEBISCITE

ACCORDING to The Toronto Globe the submission of the liquor plebiscite in Ontario will be carried out in the simplest form possible. It is suggested that the inquiry of the electorate may be limited to just the one question as to whether the Ontario Temperance Act shall be continued or not. "Wet" interests, however, are urging that a second question on the ballot paper shall submit, as the alternative, the proposal of Government control and sale on similar lines to British Columbia and also on Government premises in municipalities asking for such sales—virtually local option as far as open sale is concerned.

In view of the fact that only the principle is to be voted upon, and no bills submitted as was the case in Alberta, the Ontario Government would do well to leave the matter in the form of a straight vote. Once it has received a definite instruction from the electorate, that is to say if a majority shall be given against the continuance of the O.T.A., it will be free to employ the experience of other provinces in the framing of an Act to implement the wishes of the people.

In this respect the "wet" sections of the Dominion now cover practically the whole range of liquor sale and distribution short of the ancient bar. British Columbia and Quebec furnish the two extremes of the restricted privilege. Manitoba has its own delivery system. Alberta permits the open sale of beer in licensed premises. Quebec adds wine to this privilege. Saskatchewan will follow British Columbia's policy. So Ontario has a variety of systems to examine.

A USEFUL AGENCY

ON his return from Europe a few days ago Mr. J. L. Beckwith took occasion to refer in terms of warm commendation to the activities of British Columbia House in London. He had found the Agent-General an extremely busy man and looking after the affairs of the Province in an energetic and effective manner. He also described Mr. W. A. MacAdam, the indefatigable secretary of the agency, as of "invaluable assistance to British Columbians visiting England."

The people of this Province naturally appreciate an unbiased opinion of the work which the Agent-General and his staff are doing in the Empire's metropolis. Mr. Wade literally talks British Columbia all the time and it would not be surprising if his hours of slumber were disturbed by protests about the use of foreign timber at Wembley and other questions which sometimes qualify the meaning of Imperial solidarity. In all these matters, however, he finds a stout pillar of support in Mr. MacAdam, whose invaluable assistance to British Columbians in London, freely given in many hours which belong to himself, is actually only a small part of duties which embrace inquiry and advice of a very much wider range than most people imagine. From the time the office opens in the morning until it closes at five-thirty at night there is a constant stream of callers whose wants are sifted, or dealt with in their entirety, by the secretary.

Confidential reports reaching Paris indicate that Russia will soon face the worst famine in her history. Another advertisement for the failure of the Soviet system.

Former Canadians continue to cross the border from the United States into this country. They have apparently come to the conclusion that their native land is worth living in and working for.

The Willows property is now valued by the city at $82,000. It is not only a question of what it is worth when its disposal is under consideration; it is what property with equal accommodation and possibility for development would cost to replace it.

Mr. Meighen was very doleful in Montreal before the recent by-elections; he says the country is going from bad to worse. As a political tactician he is woefully at fault; does he imagine the country is going to turn the job of government over to such a gloomy prophet?

MAN AGAINST HORSE

From The New York World
London reports a six-day race between a fifty-nine-year-old man and a racehorse. The man won by a margin of eight miles after the horse was withdrawn, exhausted. While 345 miles in six days may seem a good record for an elderly man, Western horsemen are likely to sniff at the 337-mile record set by the horse and recall feats of endurance by mustangs or Morgan-bred horses as evidence that Haucy Lassie was not much of a horse for the test. There is no question, however, that an active and able man can run down the best and most vigorous horse if he sets out to do so. A race between the hardened broncho and even a young man would be a real test. If the London backers of the fifty-nine-year-old runner feel confident, they might bring him to one of the Western rodeos and match him against a good range pony. The chances are he would need to run a good many more than 345 miles to win.

THE BALLOON PEDDLER

Who is the man on Chestnut Street
With colored toy balloons?
I see him with his airy freight
On sunny afternoons—
A peddler of such lovely goods!
His heart leaps to behold
His mass of bubbling, green
And blue and pink and gold.
For sure that noble peddler man
Hath antic merchandise:
His toys that float and swim in air
Attract my eager eyes.
Perhaps he is a changeling prince,
Bewitched through magic moons,
To tempt us solemn busy folk
With meaningless balloons.
Beware, oh, valiant merchantman,
Tread cautious on the pave!
Lest some day come some realist,
Some heedful soul and grave,
A puritan efficient,
Who deems thy toys a sin,
He'll stifle them maddly from behind
And prick them with a pin.
—Chris Morley.

Dr. Frank Crane
On "The Self-Contained Locomotive"

THE first practical test of a self-contained locomotive, using oil as fuel, was made yesterday by the New York Central Railroad in its freight yards on Eleventh Avenue, New York. This locomotive, the first of its kind made in America, was built jointly by the General Electric Company and the Ingersoll-Rand Company.

The locomotive is, in effect, a complete power house on wheels. It is independent of a third rail or any outside electric connections and was designed especially for switching service.

It consumes but twelve or fifteen cents worth of fuel an hour, approximately one-third the cost of fuel used by the ordinary steam locomotive in similar service.

James McCue, for thirty-two years an employee of the New York Central, and driver of a steam locomotive since 1905, learned to operate the new locomotive after ten minutes instruction.

"It is the simplest locomotive in the world to operate," he said. "Cleaner and much better in every respect. Just what we have needed for such yards as this."

What pleased the engineer most was that the moment he opened the throttle he had the full power of the plant at his command. There were no slow preliminary starts, like those in getting an ordinary locomotive under way.

The oil-burning locomotive is practically a one-man affair. A fireman is required under the rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission, but his sole duty is to ring the bell. If an automatic bell is attached to the engine the fireman's duty will be nothing.

In the absence of smoke in the fact that it is necessary to operate the engine only when the locomotive is in use the new type of locomotive is much the same as an automobile.

This invention bids fair to revolutionize the motive power of railroads.

Sir William Johnson

ON September 9, 1755, Major-General William Johnson, shortly afterward Sir William Johnson Bart., reclining wounded in his tent in the British camp on the grand, open plain of Lake George, at the southern end of Lake George, wrote his reports to the Governors of the Colonies of Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, from each of which colonies he had a contingent of raw militia in the little army of two thousand two hundred men which he commanded. The day previous there had been a battle by the shores of this most beautiful of mountain lakes, and the attacking French had been defeated. General Johnson's men were even at that moment about burying the English and French dead, and the French fugitives were miles away to the east making good their escape by their boats on South Bay, the southern extremity of Lake Champlain. Instead of one report General Johnson had several to get off because each colony kept close control of its own contingent, and each colony had commissioned him separately as a major-general to be able to command them all.

Johnson was an amateur major-general, and practically all the officers and all the men were amateur soldiers also. The battle had been a very amateur battle and the fact that there were any British left was due to the lack of discipline of the amateur French militia whom their general, the Baron Dieskau, who was an amateur, could not induce to move at the right moment. The wildness of the French-Canadian and New York farmer lads and clerks when the affair had settled down to a firing-match from cover, saved the situation for the British commander, who had committed most of the blunders possible under the circumstances. Yet William Johnson was very lucky. Wounded early in the action, he had retired to his tent and his second-in-command, General Lyman of Connecticut, saw the business through. For the victory the British Parliament voted Johnson an honorarium of five thousand pounds, and King George II. created him a baronet with the peculiar provision that his eldest son should not wait till his father's death, but should bear the title also on attending his majority.

Many years before, Johnson had come out, a poor though well connected Irish lad, to manage the wilderness estates granted in the valley of the Mohawk River to his uncle, Admiral Sir Peter Warren, the same who commanded the British naval squadron which cooperated with Sir William Pepperell's wild New England army in the unexpectedly successful siege of Louisbourg in 1745. Tall, impressive, strong yet genial, William Johnson obeyed his uncle's advice: "Dear Billy—Keep well with all mankind."

He was, however, no heaven-born general, officer and man, yet his neglect of elementary military precautions was such, that if he had been an English regular officer it would have roused the angry contempt of his troops and of the population from which they were drawn. Governor Shirley of Massachusetts had insisted on the capture by the British Colonies of the French fort at Crown Point which commanded them in the north. Johnson, whose reputation and popularity were great, was the only person upon whom the jealous colonies could agree as commander. He got started from his base at Albany on the Hudson very late, though this was probably less his fault than on account of the dilatoriness and incessant bickering of the various colonial governments.

The Governor of Canada, the Marquis de Vaudreuil, receiving intelligence of Johnson's preparations at Albany, sent the Baron Dieskau with three thousand five hundred men, regulars, Canadian militia and Indians, to Crown Point. From here Dieskau moved south to Plonderoga where the outlet of Lake George enters Lake Champlain, and thence dashed on with nine hundred regulars and Canadians and six hundred Indians down Lake Champlain and overland from South Bay to Johnson's position. He almost took the British by surprise. Just in time Johnson sent out a thousand men, who, three miles from camp, were ambushed and driven back with heavy loss. It was only now that, in feverish haste, trees were felled and wagons piled up to form a rude barricade about the camp. Dieskau attacked at once, but just when he wanted to charge the barricade his Canadian militia and Indians became unmanageable and scattered through the surrounding forest, not in flight, but each carrying on the war by himself. Dieskau had only two hundred regulars and they were too few. The affair became a melee. After hours of furious firing the British colonials broke over their barricade and routed the disordered French. Dieskau was dangerously wounded several times and taken eventually to the tent of General Johnson, who protected him against the savage rage of the Mohawk allies of the British.

With this vicarious triumph ended Johnson's activity. He did not follow up the fugitives nor advance against Crown Point, but until late in November awaited another attack in the camp which he had now turned into a fort.

Lumbermen Furnish Main Clientele of Business Firms and Professional Practitioners

A WELL known B.C. retail merchant remarked recently: "The lumber trade is my business barometer. I regulate my business, by advertising and the activities of my sales department by the strength or weakness of the lumber market."

Another prominent Vancouver retail merchant says: "I cannot say, of course, how many of my customers are actually loggers or lumbermen, or their wives, or sons or daughters, but I do know that if I lost the business I do with the people who depend on the lumber industry for their income, I would have to shut up shop and move out of British Columbia."

Forest Industries Motive Power
These two cases go to prove the truth of the statement that the Forest Industries are the motive power of this Province's progress.

One-fourth of the working population of British Columbia are on the payroll of the lumber industry and they, with their families and dependents, must necessarily constitute the main support of the storekeeper in our cities, towns and settlements.

How many of these, but for the business the lumbermen brings them, would also be compelled to "shut up shop and move out of British Columbia."

A temporary drying platform will be erected in one of the municipal sheds and the purchase of longer ladders and a new truck be left to next year's council.

Councillor Pomeroy replied that the money spent on the park should have gone on this work. The Reeve pointed out that the works appropriation for the current

NOT READY TO REPORT ON OFFER

Willows Park Proposal Not Yet Recommended to Council

Two Officials Report on Cost of Property and Buildings

The civic finance committee is not ready at the present time to report on the offer to purchase the Willows Park, offered by H. M. Fullerton and associates, the City Council was informed last evening.

Meanwhile data from the city comptroller and the building inspector was presented for the information of members, dealing with the cost of the buildings on the property.

City Comptroller Macdonald stated that the cost to the city of the Willows grounds and buildings had been as follows:

1891 by-law 137, $25,000.
1894 by-law 229, $25,000.
1906 by-law 492, $50,000.

The first debentures were paid off in 1911, the second issue would mature in 1944, and the third in $50,000 in 1956. The amount of the sinking fund on hand at December 31 in respect of these two by-laws was $16,613, the comptroller stated.

Mr. Macdonald proceeded: "The first amount of $25,000 was a loan to the B. C. Agricultural Association for the purpose of erecting buildings. The second amount of $25,000, $20,000 represented additional buildings erected by the Association, and the balance to clear off in debentures. In return for this expenditure the Association conveyed to the city 4.9 acres at the Willows. The third by-law of $50,000 was for the purpose of purchasing 60.33 acres at a price of $40,000 and the balance for buildings. In 1922 the city paid out of revenue $104 for a small strip at the entrance to the grounds extending to 0.27 acres, which had been sold at tax sale.

"In October 1907 fire destroyed some of the buildings, and $10,478.75 was recovered from the insurance companies and expended on replacements.

"The property has no encumbrances, it was said.

Rent received from the Department of Militia and Defence in 1931-32 amounted to $20,550. In addition $10,344.62 was recovered as compensation for damage to buildings which latter amount was handed over to the Association to be disbursed on repairs," Mr. Macdonald reported.

Mr. Barf placed the value of buildings and fence at $52,000, making no allowance for expenditure on the track, nor the installation of fire hydrants, water service and sewers," these might easily account for a further $12,000 or $15,000. "The building inspector carefully goes into each detail of the various buildings. The finance committee will report later.

SUMAS PAYMENT CAUSES DISPUTE

A dispute with the contractors over payments for work done on the Sumas Reclamation Scheme is being considered by the Government now, it was learned to-day. About $180,000 is involved, it is understood.

No prospect of settlement has appeared so far but the Cabinet will go into the whole question further shortly to seek an amicable arrangement with the contractors. The latter, it is understood, insist on the payment of $180,000, which the Government does not feel is due to them.

When Hon. E. D. Barrow, Minister of Agriculture, returns to the city next week, it is expected that he will advise the Cabinet on the whole Sumas situation and recommend action on the contractors' bill.

SOME VIEWS ON INDUSTRIES OF SOUTH AMERICA

Makes a Plea For People to Perpetuate Relics of Past

Great progress is being made in Patagonia in the sheep industry, according to C. W. Whittemore of Buenos Ayres, representative of the Singer interests in the southern countries of South America, who is now staying in the city accompanied by Mrs. Whittemore. They have just returned from an Alaskan tour.

The southern sector of the Argentine republic, stimulated by the hardy Scottish settlers who went out there to engage in pastoral activities many years ago. The wool during war years fetched high prices, and the frozen meat trade is one of great importance, the produce being sent direct to the Old Country. Liverpool being the chief market.

Mr. Whittemore has been in the habit of traveling regularly around the southern coast to Cape Horn, and says that the pastoral industry of that part of the country is among the most important in the world, although the grazing opportunity for stock is certainly surpassed in many other countries, yet discouraging as is the natural herbage, the sheep wax fat and fleshy, cutting a good clip, he pointed out.

Mr. Whittemore stated that one of the best features of the Argentine people was the splendid business morality of the poorer classes. While a large amount of the Singer business in Latin America is done on the instalment plan, defaults are less than in the United States, and the general tone of commercial morality is surprisingly high. Conditions generally in the Argentine republic have been good, he stated.

The visitor voiced an appeal, based on what he has seen on this coast, in the Yukon, Alaska and British Columbia, for more protection to be given to the relics of the past. He expressed his surprise at the decay which had been permitted to historic buildings in Sitka, capital of Alaska, in the days of the Russian occupation, and mentioned that several buildings with interesting records have been pointed out to him in this province which were rapidly falling to decay, destroying links with the storied past.

MILLIONS ARE NEAR THE BRINK OF RUIN AND DON'T KNOW IT, SHE SAYS

Victoria Has a Vast Multitude on Physical and Mental Brink of Ruin—What is Being Done to Bring Relief to Sufferers—Many Men and Women Give Their Testimony

SAY THEY ARE AMAZED AT WONDERFUL RESULTS

Mrs. Sallie King Wants the World to Know How She Was Quickly Relieved of Stomach Trouble—John Bassinger Says: "Your Grand Medicine Has Made Me Well and Strong Again"

"IT WORKED WONDERS—NEIGHBORHOOD SURPRISED"

"Physically and mentally on the brink of ruin, there are few sufferers who would not give anything they possess to live their lives over again in health and strength," declares a well-known authority on health and hygiene in a recent interview.

This place is full of half-sick people. Those who have good health should appreciate it—the others did not, and there is not one of them but in common sense would warn you against the danger of neglect.

It is mostly stomach trouble that is making this a place full of sick people—stomach trouble and its complications, and the many forms of kidney, liver, blood and bowels disorders that come mostly from stomach trouble.

Neglect of the first symptoms of stomach trouble brings on more ill health and vicious diseases; the uneasy feeling after eating, gas belching, undigested food in the stomach, constipation, dizziness, spots before the eyes, shortness of breath, and many other little disorders may all wrong and will get worse unless attended to in time.

But there is good cheer and hope in the news that there has been introduced here a new root and herb medicine that is being pronounced a boon to all sufferers from stomach neglect. This wonderful, natural medicine is called Dreco and is now being distributed at Vancouver Drug Co., Limited, Victoria.

No matter how slight or long-standing the case may be, no matter what kidney, liver, rheumatic, or catarrhal complications may have set in Dreco is promised to pave the way for quick recovery and return to health, strength and happiness.

"Life Was a Constant Misery

"I had no use in my left arm for two years. I couldn't raise it high enough to put my suspenders over my shoulders, or tie my tie," said Mr. Martin Helfman, the well known contractor, of 309 E. Fox Street, South Bend, Ind. "My joints creaked and popped every time I went to move, my back felt like it would break and if any one touched my arm I would yell out with pain. I couldn't clutch anything with my hand for my fingers were stiff and sore. This interfered with my work so that I couldn't handle my tools.

"I took many treatments without success, but Dreco had cleared every pain and trace of rheumatism from my system. I consider it the greatest medicine in the market to-day."

Confined to Bed

Mrs. Dora Peterson, of 210 W. Frank Street, Kalamazoo, Mich., said, "I had severe pains in my stomach and everything I ate laid there like so much lead. I was filled with gas and, too uncomfortable to keep my clothes on. My bowels wouldn't move unless urged by strong laxatives and it seemed they left me more constipated than ever. Dreco was quick to overcome constipation and rouse my lazy liver working out the excess bile which was poisoning me. My stomach began digesting my food and stopped the gas forming and eased the cramps. I never had a dizzy spell now and I haven't been laid up in bed since Dreco cleaned out my system."

Dreco Within the Reach of All

These are just a few cases selected at random from the mass of signed testimonials received from scores of men and women in all walks of life. Who is there can doubt the plain, straightforward statements of these people.

Dreco is not an expensive medicine. It is easy to get easy to take and remarkably quick in its action.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Victoria by The Vancouver Drug Co., Ltd., corner Fort and Douglas Streets. Go there to-day and ask for Mr. Vaughan, the Dreco Expert, and let him explain the merits of this great remedy. There is no charge and he will tell you honestly if he believes Dreco will benefit you. Dreco is also on sale in New Westminster and Vancouver by the Vancouver Drug Stores and in other towns as follows:

SOCIAL PROBLEMS OF CITY DESCRIBED BY DR. HOLMES

Women's Council Hears of Need For Detention Homes; Tuberculosis Menace

The lack of a suitable detention home for delinquent girls and provision for the mentally deficient of British Columbia and the crying need in Victoria of a temporary detention home for the insane pending removal to an asylum were the points emphasized by Dr. Denton Holmes in the course of an interesting address on social service before the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon.

MENTAL DEFECTIVES

Dr. Holmes described social service work in the terms of the motto adopted by the nurses of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital, "Not for ourselves, but for all."

DETENTION HOME FOR GIRLS

Another want experienced in Victoria was that of a detention home in this province for delinquent girls suffering from disease. For these suffering the speaker pleaded with the women to give them all the help and human sympathy possible.

MEASURE OF "T.B."

Tuberculosis was also described as a menace by Dr. Holmes. If taken in its incipient stages the disease could be arrested. The speaker condemned the laxity of law which allowed sufferers from the disease to go around carelessly and thoughtlessly spreading infection, and expressed his opinion that a marriage should be contingent upon a clean bill of health for both of the contracting parties.

FARMERS' WIVES TO DO AWAY WITH MONDAY WASHDAY

Ontario Legislative Committee Hears Appeal For Rural Community Laundries

Toronto, Sept. 9.—Women's view of the problems of farm life were presented to the agricultural inquiry committee of the Ontario Legislature. Domestic, social, educational and economic phases of farm life were all covered by the various speakers.

The Monday wash-day and the Tuesday ironing were particularly assailed as institutions which should be eradicated. Accounts of how American communities had replaced this work by co-operative laundries were given to the committee and were being worthy of imitation. It was explained that co-operative laundries could be established in connection with co-operative creameries, the same machinery being adaptable to both purposes.

RURAL NURSING NEEDED

Rural nursing and more enlightened medical care for the rural mother were also stressed as one of the great advances needed in the country. Producers of quality produce and the adoption of intelligent co-operative farming were further recognized as of financial importance and the need of rural education which would foster an appreciation of rural life was strongly emphasized.

Another suggestion which was heard from one woman for influencing greater contentment in the country was that there should be liquor "Some people," Mrs. Maud Jones of Brantford declared, "say that we should not have the liquor. I say that we should have the liquor. I say that don't think I mean that we should have whisky and the sale of liquor in hotels, for I do not. But what I do mean is that if the working man wants to have an honest glass of beer, I think he should be able to get it."

LOCAL AUTHORS HEAR MRS. ADAMS BECK ON CANADIAN POETRY

The Victoria and Islands Branch, Canadian Authors' Association, held its first general meeting since the holidays, in Victoria College last evening, the president, Mrs. A. de R. L. Shaw, in the chair. The principal business of the meeting was the reading and endorsement of two resolutions to be forwarded to Lawrence Burpee, Dominion president at Ottawa, pertaining to matters discussed with Mr. Burpee during his visit to Victoria in July. Mrs. L. Adams Beck, the speaker of the evening, was then introduced by Mrs. Shaw. The subject chosen by this extremely versatile and clever speaker was "Canadian Poetry."

It seemed to the speaker unnecessary and too restricting that the poets of Canada should seek only a

DIVERTING FILM PROVES ATTRACTIVE FEATURE AT COLUMBIA

Most of the audience who came yesterday to witness the opening of Elinor Glyn's "How to Educate a Wife," at the Columbia Theatre, were not disappointed. On the contrary, they got the treat of their lives.

When the announcement was made that Elinor Glyn, the creator of the book, "Three Weeks," which has gone on a thrilling generation after generation, had a story on the education of wives, all who are married, or going to be married, made mental resolves to see the picture.

It is a wonderful picture. The acting of Marie Prevost and Monte Blue in the leading roles is a thing worth seeing. Marie as the wife who tries to help her struggling husband to success by flirting with his clients, and Monte as the husband who likes the idea of educating his wife to help him, until the moment when his jealousy masters him, and he sees red. Good, too, was the acting of Claude Gillingwater, Creighton Hale, Edward Earle and Nellie Hly Baker.

It is a Warner Brothers Classic of the Screen, and a good one. The direction of Monte Bell deserves high praise. This is the second picture of this young man who stepped out of the newspaper editorship, won his spurs with Charles Chaplin in that latter's "A Woman of Paris" and has made two pictures for Warner Brothers.

The action moves zippily, amusingly, with a tempo. The comedy element, while not over-emphasized, is fine. In short, there is entertainment in this pungent satire of modern matrimony, by an authoress whom Jack London considered "the greatest woman psychologist of Europe."

The story concerns Mabel Todd and her husband Ernest, who can't make so of insurance, and whose home is threatened with foreclosure if he cannot make a near due payment. In despair, he takes a tip from a successful friend on training a wife to help him. She does so with a flirtatious extent that the couple separate, and are later drawn together after the muddled situation is cleared.

BALZAC, AUTHOR OF "SLAVE OF DESIRE," OF PEASANT STOCK

Honore de Balzac, author of "The Magic Skin," a screen version of which, under the title of "Slave of Desire," showing this week at the Playhouse, was often accused, during his life time, of trying to conceal his ancestry by changing his name and adding the particle "de" to the sign of gentility in the France of that period.

SHANGHAI IS CENTRE OF RAGING CONFLICT

Manchurians Will Only Let Peking Forces Take City After Defeat

Feeling of Educated Chinese Against Peking Government, Says Student

"I believe that general public opinion in China is favorable to Sun Yat-Sen and the Canton Government," said Ming K. Chao, A. C. commissioner for the studying of American municipal matters, sent from Shanghai for a year's stay in America, and who was a passenger on the President Jefferson Sunday when he docked here en route to Seattle. "The educated Chinese are not partial to the Peking Government, which now controls the greater part of China."

Peking, continued Mr. Chao, had more soldiers than had their opponents, but the northern forces were better trained and equipped, he believed. "The Manchurians, too, have confidence in their air force, which is really far superior to that of the Peking troops, as many of their aviators are Russians. Manchuria thus has a distinct advantage in the air and will probably make the most of it."

The Manchurian armies are trying to protect Shanghai, which is a particularly important and well fortified city and where British, French and American concessions make it necessary that troops of these three countries be prepared to take action of a quick and decisive nature at any time. Peking has tried to win over the sentiment of Shanghai, and the last resort, war, is not apparently giving any greater success than their previous attempts offers.

There is no doubt, asserted Mr. Chao, but that Wu Pei Fu is a very able man; but he said that he doubted whether the man could handle the China's twenty-two provinces under one leadership with any degree of success.

Mr. Chao said that he did not wish to express his political feelings, but that the trouble in China was not threatening to foreign concessions there. He said, however, that before Shanghai fell into the hands of the Peking forces there would be terrific slaughter, for the feeling of those protecting the city ran at a high ebb and they would fight desperately. For this very reason Mr. Chao did not think Shanghai was in any danger.

Mr. Chao himself will travel from New York, Washington, Boston, Chicago and other big eastern cities across the continent to San Francisco.

Sent by the municipal authorities of Shanghai, Mr. Chao is not the ordinary student such as China sends to America or other parts of the world. He already is a university graduate. But he has the welfare of his country at heart, and is deeply interested in a system which he believes will make China a more desirable place in which to live. Good municipal policies count much in making a people happy, he thinks.

The adjournment was granted for the production of the resolutions.

At the regular meeting last week of the Victoria Assembly of Native Sons of Canada, in their hall, 704 Pandora Avenue, the "J.K.L.s" of the Assembly provided an unusually fine programme. After short business sessions, Brother J. Little gave an instructive lecture on "Diamonds and other precious stones, followed by a lecture, equally instructive, on "The Cities of Dundas and Hamilton in Ontario," by Brother T. W. Lang. At the next meeting of the Assembly, the members, whose names begin with "M" will have charge of the entertainment portion.

There is a great need for an organization that will function for island development, said C. P. W. Schwengers, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, in reporting on the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island at yesterday's meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce. He did not think the chamber could be better employed than working for the co-operation of the whole of the island. There had been propaganda from Vancouver to create the impression that Victoria hogged everything that came to the island. He was convinced that an organization was organized a year ago by the Associated Boards, did, could not function efficiently. B. C. Nicholas voiced similar views and warned of the danger of the island north of the strait being made a backyard for the thriving and hustling city on the mainland.

Witness and Adviser. Another unusual episode occurred when E. L. Tall, municipal prosecutor, in his capacity as witness and sworn by Mr. Brandon, commenced to give evidence, of convictions secured against Owen Lloyd and D. Pallantieri. Reeve Macdonald dubbed this as character evidence, broke in upon Mr. Tall's statement and claimed priority for a question of legal advice from Mr. Fisher. The latter, in turn, claimed evidence be properly heard at an inquiry of this character, which is not a criminal court. The Reeve asked Mr. Tall to claim that at most the inquiry was merely quasi-criminal, and considered character evidence should not be heard. The Reeve so stated at once, and Mr. Tall, for his fairness and regretting having placed him in such a peculiar position, where he had to decide against the eligibility of his own evidence.

PEACEFUL PLEASURES. A third abnormal feature of the proceedings was the presentation of evidence for Chief Brogan by A. J. Christie, at whose home the famous Rithet Farm fracas was alleged to have occurred. Both denied that fighting had taken place, that whiskey drinking had occurred or anything out of the ordinary of a happy card party.

Then Fred Burgess swore that Chief Brogan had never asked him to go on a drinking bout at a Gorge yard, he called him and then went on with her work. Started by the sound of three revolver shots, she rushed into the restaurant and the four men running away, while the four men standing supporting himself by holding to the counter. He lapsed into unconsciousness, from which he did not recover.

BEER, BROTHERS, CASH ARE EVIDENCE IN SAANICH CASE

Chief Brogan Tells of Anonymous Bonanza; Witnesses Undermine Charges Laid

Banked three rows deep around the Saanich Council Chamber, an audience which evidently came to be amused by last night's Police Commission inquiry into written charges against Chief Peter Brogan, received more than one surprise, and before the end of the session gave evidence of their support of the chief as rebuttal evidence accumulated in his defence.

The climax of the proceedings occurred when Chief Brogan, at the conclusion of his statement, laid upon the centre table a sack, poured therefrom an array of bottles and a bottle of brandy, reinforced these exhibits with three $1 bills, and announced with feeling: "Gentlemen, while I was on my way up the West Coast on the Princess Maquinna upon my vacation, which was well advertised by press notices, these were brought to my house by a Hindu. He gave the sack to my daughter, and in the house at the time, tried to make her take the money in her hand, and when she refused, rolled the bills into a ball and threw them through the doorway into the house before driving off.

Herbert Davey, attorney for Owen Lloyd, deprecated any suggestion that his client was interested in the matter, and advised the court that he never the recipient of such gifts. On the suggestion of the chief, the cash was ordered placed in the Police safe, and the brandy contributed to the Health Centre and the beer ordered destroyed.

The Surprising Sex

By MILDRED BARBOUR—A 'her of 'Love Stakes,' Etc.

They were seated in his car, drawn up by a roadside eminence to afford a superb view of rolling prairie. It was a favorite trysting place. They had driven there many times before when Anna had tried her wiles rather unsuccessfully upon Blake. He wasn't given to take advantage of the situation this place afforded. He had never lost his head with Anna, with the single exception of the stormy night he had gone to bid her good-bye before his first departure for Washington and found her waiting, wrapped in flame, with flame in her eyes and on her eager lips.

His first words, after he had parked the car by the roadside, had sent her heart plunging down into the blackness of despair. Mingled rage and disappointment made her speechless, for which she was afterward thankful when she had rallied a bit. Normally she was far too clever to show him the vixenish spirit that lurked under her smiling sweetness.

As her senses gradually reasserted themselves, she became acutely aware of what her real status with Blake was. It was her friendship, her companionship, which he valued most of all. As a sympathetic friend, almost a confidant, she was dear to him. As a sweetheart, she had failed to register permanently. Perhaps she thought shrewdly, if she stuck to the former role, all might not yet be lost.

So she checked the recriminations which leaped to her lips and said gently, quite as if his announcement had no slightest personal significance to herself.

"John dear, do you really think you have chosen wisely for your own future? Julie is very young and untrained to be a wife to a man in your position."

"I can't be completely selfish," he insisted stubbornly. "You wouldn't have me jeopardize the future of a young, friendless girl for the sake of my own whim or ambitions, surely. Besides, it's no use denying that I am cleaning my own slate by this move."

"But you are being unfair!" cried Anna. "What of her? Hasn't she the right to love? She is young, inexperienced. Suppose she finds someone her own age—when it's too late?"

"I have thought of that," he went on to tell her of Latimer's letter asking him to marry Julie and of his first reaction to it, adding: "I believe, however, that the gravity of the present situation outweighs my scruples in that direction. But, should Julie, at any future time, want her freedom, I shall give it to her without question."

Anna caught at this as a straw of hope.

"The path to ambition wasn't ever closed to her after all. Who could tell what the future held with this quixotic impulse of Blake's to beckon her onward?"

She reflected shrewdly that perhaps this marriage to Julie might serve her own ends in the final reckoning. She couldn't have Blake herself while her mother lived, and the world was filled with other attractive women who might usurp her place in the interim. But with Julie—that insane child, Anna characterized her—she would be perfectly safe. Julie, by her mere title as wife, would be a sort of danger signal to ward ambitious posers off a preserve which Anna fully intended even yet to post some day as her own. The silly child could easily be disposed of when the time came. Meanwhile, decided Anna, there was no danger of Julie's capturing Blake's affections.

With this thought in mind, she did the one thing which bound him subtly to her by the very nobility of her renunciation.

Turning to him, with limpid eyes tear-filled and lips trembling, she said falteringly:

"John—oh John—" her voice broke pitifully, "is it—goodbye?"

It was her sole reference to the tacit understanding which had existed between them.

Blake was grateful for the way she had taken it, though he felt guiltless of the charge of jilting Anna.

But he would have been less than a man if he hadn't comforted her in the way she obviously expected to be comforted.

Anna returned home with hope gleaming brightly through the gloom of her wrecked ambitions. Her last vague fear that Julie might somehow have touched Blake's affections was set at rest. She knew him well enough to know that he would never have taken her into his arms and kissed away her tears as he had done, if his forthcoming marriage to Julie were other than an alliance of convenience.

Meanwhile, on the veranda of Blake's house, a similarly painful scene was in progress. Julie was having her first unpleasant encounter with masculine nature.

JIMMY GETS HIS CONGE

Jimmy Phillips had sauntered over to see Julie after luncheon, a tennis racket tucked under his arm as an excuse for his sport flannels.

He found her sewing behind the chair. Her eyes sparkled with suppressed excitement for all the placidity of her task, but Jimmy was too intent on his own affairs to notice.

"I've got a job," he announced, seating himself on the step at her feet. "Al Gleason's taken me on to sell automobiles. Of course it isn't much to start, but what I don't know about cars! In a year, I'll bet I'll have an agency of my own."

"That's splendid, Jimmy," Julie was appropriately impressed. "It means a new car for you, too, doesn't it?"

He nodded.

"It means more than that," he leaned over and grabbed her hand. "It means we can get married, Julie."

"Oh!" with the soft little exclamation, she drew away from him.

"What's the matter?" he demanded. "Don't you want to?"

Julie laid down her sewing. Her face was troubled.

"Oh, Jimmy, I—I can't be—"

His weak, young mouth tightened. "Are you throwing me down?"

"I never promised," she replied with spirit, "and Jimmy I—I'm glad you came to-day because I wanted to tell you I'm going to marry John."

His chin dropped in astonishment. When he found his voice, he said hoarsely:

"John—John Blake?"

She nodded happily and, forgetful of the feelings of her disappointed suitor, added:

"Isn't it wonderful? I'm perfectly wild with joy."

There was a long, long silence. She learned forward to look apprehensively at his averted face.

"Jimmy, you're not angry with me, are you?"

"—oh Jimmy, I like you awfully but—"

"But a man with money, a big man's come along and offered you more," he finished with the sentence for her bitterly.

"Jimmy!"

"Oh well, you women are all alike! What the dickens do I care! His mouth twisted unpleasantly in a grin. "I wish you joy of your bargain. You're a fool, that's all!"

"Jimmy, you're horrid! You're—"

"Take Anna Denniston's leaving, if you want to. You'll be sorry enough some day."

"Is Miss Denniston—"

"You know very well Blake's crazy about Anna Denniston, always has been."

Julie whitened. Her proud little head went up.

"I don't believe it! If he cares for her, he wouldn't want to marry me."

"He wouldn't, eh? Well, I could tell you—" he broke off with a savage jerk of his head. "What's the use, you'll find out soon enough."

Suddenly he whirled about and stared at her steadily with something in his gaze which brought the color to her cheeks from an instinct she couldn't analyze. No man had ever eyes were accusing, speculative, ugly with suspicion. They weren't the eyes of the Jimmy she knew.

"By gad, I wonder if you are—what they're saying you are!"

Julie was bewildered.

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"No!" he gave a short disbelieving laugh. "You'll find out soon enough—if you don't know already. You're a clever one, playing the innocent like you do."

Even to Julie's unsophisticated mind, some inkling of the character of his references, penetrated, though she was totally in ignorance concerning the references themselves.

SCHOOL DAYS

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily at School

By Howard R. Garis

"Well, it seems good to be at home again," sighed Nurse Jane Fuzzy as she sat down in her easy rocking chair and carefully curled up her tail so Uncle Wiggily wouldn't step on it.

"Yes," answered the bunny rabbit gentleman, looking around the hollow stump bungalow in the woods. "I have had enough of the seashore for a time. I'm glad to come back here." Then he twinkled his pink nose.

"There goes the bell!" chattered Jacko. "The rags must have fallen off the clapper. We'll have to go to school anyhow."

And, they did. And other animal children came trooping through the woods when they heard the cow's bell, which they thought was the school bell. And when school opened the Lady Mouse asked Uncle Wiggily to say a few words. And the bunny never said a word about the trick Jacko and Jumbo had played. He just said something was wrong with the school bell, but that it would be fixed by next morning.

Then, taking Jacko and Jumbo one side of the playground, the bunny told them to take the rags off the bell, and they did, so after all no harm was done. And, if the school bell doesn't try to jump over the hot stove and turn into a water pancake, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Bunt's lesson.

It was quite early yet and that's why Jacko and Jumbo wanted to play their trick—before the Lady Mouse Teacher or any of the other pupils arrived. Hidden in the bushes Uncle Wiggily watched Jacko, while Jumbo wrapped rags around the clapper of the bell so it wouldn't ring. Then the monkey boys slid down and hid behind the school.

"Am I getting deaf, or what's the matter?" squeaked the janitor.

"Jacko and Jumbo are playing a trick so the won't come to school," whispered Uncle Wiggily, hopping behind the bushes.

"But we'll fool them. I'll go down in the meadow and borrow the cow bell from around the neck of Mrs. Moo. We'll ring the cow's bell to call the animal boys and girls to school."

Jacko and Jumbo, hidden around the hollow stump school, soon heard the sound of "Ding-dong! Ding-dong! Ding-dong!" They looked at each other in surprise.

"There goes the bell!" chattered Jacko. "The rags must have fallen off the clapper. We'll have to go to school anyhow."

And, they did. And other animal children came trooping through the woods when they heard the cow's bell, which they thought was the school bell. And when school opened the Lady Mouse asked Uncle Wiggily to say a few words. And the bunny never said a word about the trick Jacko and Jumbo had played. Uncle Wiggily saw Jacko and Jumbo Kinkytail.

helped Nurse Jane unpack the trunks and began looking for his hat.

"Where are you going?" inquired the muskrat lady.

"Out to seek an adventure," replied Mr. Longears. "I haven't had one since I soaked the Bob Cat in the wobbly bath tub at the driftwood cottage on the beach. Yes, I must have a woodland adventure."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped along the Wall Street TO-DAY

Last Minute News on Stocks and Financial Affairs. ELECTION NEWS STIMULATES STOCKS. New York, Sept. 9 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—There was a rather sharp bulge in quotations at the beginning of today's trading. Gains in some instances approximating three to four points in the high price in the industrial issues.

TRADE AWAITS CROP REPORT. Chicago, Sept. 9 (By R. P. Clark & Co.)—Wheat—the lack of sustained buying power was the cause of the reactionary tendency in wheat to-day after the early bulge. Government estimates were expected to be a little bearish, and there was a disposition to even up, while most of the day the trade volume was rather light.

Foreign news is bullish and cables were 1 1/2 cent higher. Dry weather in Argentine, frosts in Canada, and too much rain in Mexico, were responsible for some of the buying support abroad. The continental demand is good, and there was a fair business in the neighborhood, although not as keen a demand as has been the case for some time back. The market is in a trading position, with export buying likely to be encountered on the setbacks.

Corn rallied on private reports of frost, although the official map did not show any freezing expectation of any point. A broad expectation of a bullish government report, however, gave the market considerable support. Cash corn was relatively quiet, while futures were active, sales being 5,800 bushels. While country offerings are small, the corn market is a weather affair, and the weather is the factor which will determine the price until the crop is secured. Would wait for the setbacks when the market becomes congested to buy corn for quick turns, but three times as large as a year ago, and shows the load the trade is carrying at present. On the merits, the rate is cheap, but would not care to buy on expectation the market will show any immediate strength.

Legionaires were present from Cumberland, Vancouver, New Westminster, Ladysmith, Victoria, Port Angeles and Nanaimo. Ladysmith football club lost the first game of the season in an Upper Island League schedule match played at Cumberland on Sunday by a score of two to one. The game was not the best football by any means that has been played on the island. Ladysmith having quite a number of their regular players off for this game, and will surely have to strengthen up considerably if they hope to take the honors this year. Heaps was responsible for Ladysmith's tally.
A strong wind is blowing to-day which will cause a little anxiety to residents of Ladysmith and vicinity as the recent fires in town have had the effect of putting all householders on the alert. Quite a bush fire is raging in the neighborhood of the Timberland Camp, and with this strong wind will take watchings.

DONEGAN'S CASE COMES UP AGAIN

Threat of Proceedings Against City is Sounded
That there is no just cause of a grievance by J. Donegan against Alderman Woodward, and against officials of the health department was the advice tendered by City Solicitor Pringle to the City Council last evening after considering the lengthy correspondence of J. A. Aikman, counsel on his behalf. Mr. Aikman declared that the aggrieved ratepayer, a dairyman, threatened damages against the city for the constant circumstances leading to public criticism of the quality of his milk.
Alderman Woodward declared that rather than embarrass Mr. Donegan during the last year when he had been chairman of the parks and pound committees, Donegan had not been prosecuted, although it was alleged by the speaker that the dairyman's herd had been frequently offenders against the Pound By-Law. Mr. Aikman wrote in part: "My client insists that his milk is

MAY AGAIN WANT CITY PRIVATE BILL

City Solicitor Asks Council For Instructions
The city will probably promote a private bill in the Legislature, the City Council learned last evening when City Solicitor Pringle suggested a list of subjects, requiring legislation.
Alderman Todd stated that the solicitor now thought that no further legislation was necessary to license pleasure craft on Elk lake, and under the circumstances he believed they should send the suggestions forward to the legislative committee.
Some questions were matters for private legislation, others for amendment of the Motor Vehicles and Municipal Act, City Solicitor Pringle stated.
Alderman Todd added that the city needed additional powers in connection with land transfers, while Alderman Marchant said some of the issues under discussion were approved by the Municipal Union last week.
Learning that advertising of a private bill would not be imperative until September 20, the council referred the matter to the legislative committee without definitely pledging the council to promoting a bill.
Mr. Pringle reported in part:—"Legislation enabling the municipality to make any exchange of closes for tax sale lands whether above or below the actual valuation of $2,000 and to be able to treat the lands so received in exchange as if they were tax sale properties."
"In connection with this matter I may say that during the past year five exchanges have been made in addition to the one authorized by the last meeting of the council, which fact may enable you to decide as to whether or not you are warranted in making application along the lines indicated."
"It has been also suggested that further specific legislation be obtained enabling the city to grant

MANILA MARU WAS LOST IN FOG SO PILOT HARRIS WENT OUT TO FIND HER

Master of Japanese Liner Declined to Take Chances in Mist, Obscured Straits so He Sent Out Wireless Call for Assistance and Promptly Received it.

An appeal for pilotage aid offshore marked the final stages of the trans-Pacific voyage of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Manila Maru.

The Japanese liner was scheduled to make port about noon today, but fog intervened and she was delayed. Finding himself shut off from land by an impenetrable blanket of mist, Capt. Y. Somekawa sent out a wireless, suggesting to the agents here that it would be a good plan to arrange for a local pilot to board the Manila off the Strait and navigate her safely into harbor.

Accordingly, Capt. Charles Harris, the well-known pilot who usually handles the O.S.K. ships here, left in a speed boat about 11 o'clock this morning, headed for the Straits and the isolated Manila Maru. He expected to be aboard the ship within two or three hours as she was reported to be slowly finding her way up the strait.

GOOD SILK CARGO The Manila Maru has aboard forty tons of general freight for discharge at this port, as well as fifteen steerage passengers and seventeen bags of mail.

For Seattle the ship carries 2,255 bales of silk, and forty packages of silk goods. As well as this she has 138 tons of general freight to land at the American port. There are four cabin and eight steerage passengers for Seattle.

Immediately on leaving here the ship will sail for Seattle, and after unloading there will dock at Tacoma. There she will discharge 225 tons of general cargo, for inter-coastal trade.

For Vancouver the Manila carries sixty-five tons of cargo and 127 tons of passengers. There are no passengers for the mainland port.

There was at quarantine shortly before 7:45 o'clock, after a fair passage across the Pacific.

She struck a bank of fog off the straits which slowed her down. The ship was at quarantine shortly before 7:45 o'clock and about an hour later moored alongside the Rithet piers, where she discharged cargo.

There was about 100 tons of general freight for this port. The greater part of the contents of the ship's hold for the Seattle port is still left for the addition to about 1,000 tons of general cargo, the ship brought about 700 tons of silk for export to Seattle, which will be transhipped through Seattle. The Shizuoka also carried ten first class passengers.

Merle Benninghoff, a young student attending university in the States and spending his vacations in the Orient, was a passenger. D. M. Williams, globe trotter and tourist, was also aboard. The remainder were Japanese.

Capt. N. Nari was in command of the Shizuoka Maru.

The Union Oil tanker Warwick, which was damaged at Astoria recently, arrived here yesterday in tow of the Red Stack Tug Sea Lion. It will be repaired here, it is understood.

The Army and Navy Veterans will hold a general meeting at headquarters at 8 o'clock to-morrow night. The meeting will be the last held before the departure of the delegates to the Dominion convention.
