VOLUME VI

No. 1 British Flying Training School
Terrell, Texas
U. S. A.

Foreword

The war has entered its sixth year and No. 22 Course graduates with the commencement of the final phase in Europe taking place. Already we are participating in mounting strength in the far East, and it is reasonable to suppose that many of those now graduating will see action in that theatre. It is gratifying and encouraging to the training staff, to observe—after five years of war—the same keenness and enthusiasm of our graduates to come to grips with the enemy wherever he may be. We are justly proud of the distinctions gained by our past trainees, and we feel confident in the quality of the present product of No. 1 British Flying Training School and feel sure that they will give a good account of themselves. The advancement of the war has produced new and intricate devices and equipment, that will require you to exert every effort, if you are to succeed as a Service Pilot. Remember; your training never ceases—there is always something more to be learned. The Royal Air Force depends on you to retain that necessary energy and urge to equip yourself fully for the not far distant day when you will be called upon to play your part, and bring the day of victory nearer. Good luck to you all.
