Foreword

The 1943 Pine Needles is trying to portray for you the true spirit of a great woman's college; to give you the picture of young women who—in the midst of a world at war—are seeking to equip themselves to play a useful role in a post-war world in need of a responsible youth; and to aid you, the students, to recall the laughter and hard work, the study and recreation, and—above all—the pure joy of living which was so much a part of your college life.

You May Not Remember: . . . the times you were homesick . . . your struggle in Statistics . . . the payments you made in the Treasurer's Office . . . the term papers you ground out in the Library . . . how long the lunch lines were . . .

But Just Try To Forget: . . . those solitary walks by the lake . . . those ever-welcome boxes from home . . . initiation day for freshmen and how queer girls look minus make-up . . . coming from chapel in the rain . . . the snowballs you threw . . . registration day and the struggle to avoid "eight o'clocks" . . . that blankety-blank alarm clock . . . dashing into Junior Shop for cokes and crackers between classes . . .

... "after-school" hockey games and the appetites you worked up ... a W. C. formal with its dance cards and crowded floor ... dance group and how you wished you were in it ... those dorm parties which always surprised you ... riding at Mary Lee ...

the jam around the Milk Bar on Saturday nights . . . the sophomore Christmas pageants which were always lovely . . . waiting for the mail to be put up . . . rolling up your hair at night in hopes that it won't rain the next day . . . learning to aim at your target . . . !

We Dedicate

THE 1943 PINE NEEDLES to Dr. Meta Helena Miller, our class chairman, our understanding adviser, and our devoted friend, who has never been too busy to talk with us about our problems or to join with us in our fun. Dr. Miller has one of those rare personalities which prove attractive to everyone, always smiling when it does the most good.

As a means of expressing our pleasure in her friendship and our appreciation for her assistance, we delight in making this dedication.

Administrative Officers . . . W. C. N. C.

Governor James Melville Broughton

A WELL-LIKED MAN and an optimist, Governor Broughton is one of our most welcome guests at Woman's College. We all may profit by his simple philosophy of life; "It is not so much the results or achievements as it is the making of an honest effort that gives the greatest satisfaction and happiness."

Dr. Frank Porter Graham

DR. GRAHAM is recognized as one of the South's truly great men, but this is not what endears him to us. He is a particular favorite of ours because of his easy manner, his very effective speeches, and his delightful conversation. Our only complaint is that we see too little of him.

Nineteen Hundred Forty-Three

Mr. William Donald Carmichael, Jr.

POPULAR MR. CARMICHAEL has the difficult task of balancing the budget for the "Greater University"—long may his success continue! On his occasional visits here he helps our morale as well as our budget; no other visitor pays us as many nice compliments or gives us any better advice than his "Be happy, girls."

Miss Harriet Wiseman Elliott

SO MANY PEOPLE APPRECIATE the talents of Miss Elliott that it's impossible for us to keep her to ourselves; and it's a happy day for us when she leaves Washington where she is pleading "Buy Bonds and More Bonds!" to pay us a visit. We are very proud of Miss Elliott and her work; although we miss her, we cheerfully share her with the war effort.

Dr. Walter Clinton Jackson

DR. JACKSON'S DRY WIT and his interest in each girl at Woman's College are the attributes which gave him the popularity that he has among the students. With a word of encouragement or praise, as the occasion demands, he inspires us to meet any situation which may confront us. Being our indispensable administrator and friend, he is generally thought of as "Woman's College" Jackson.

WHILE WE ARE STUDENTS at W. C., we think more often about the Alumnae House than we do about the Alumnae Association. There are only a few of us who haven't, at one time or another, wondered what it would be like to slip in some night and sleep in one of those wonderful beds. After graduation our point of view changes, and the Alumnae Association means more to us as it has become our main link with the college and the girls we knew there.

The Alumnae Association has a many-sided program which may be divided into these general classifications: The Alumnae House, which is not only headquarters for alumnae work but is the home of three student publications—PINE NEEDLES, Carolinian, and Coraddi—and of the Student Government Association; the alumnae office; the Alumnae Magazine; Alumnae Day; alumnae homecoming; class reunions; the Alumnae Council; the fifty-six local alumnae clubs and associations; following up the thousands of alumnae and former students, their occupations and activities, their changing names and addresses; seminars; hospitality and entertainment; scholarships; and aid with the legislative program.

Student Government

STUDENT GOVERNMENT at Woman's College is a going concern that knows where it's going. It is the large and busy corporation of the student body, administered by officers elected by and from the student body and working through the various subdivisions into which it has been organized. This year, in addition to its responsibilities of integrating and overseeing the activities of ordinary campus life, it has had the additional task of adjusting the campus to making a maximum contribution to the war effort.

Things start cooking on the front burner at the pre-school conference of student leaders. This venerable body confers several days—but not without results. This year's motto, a minimum of talking and a maximum of action, was carried out to the letter. Conference tested existing rules and regulations for practicality, efficiency, and hardening of the arteries, and then recommended to legislature a number of additions and subtractions.

One of the most important steps recommended to legislature by the conference was the strengthening of the honor policy, which was formally inaugurated two years ago, by the resolution that a student is responsible not only for upholding her own honor but also for helping others to uphold theirs. This resolution gave rise to a decision to lighten some of our social restrictions and to a big argument to determine whether or not the terms "date" and "friend" are synonymous! An impressive Student Government candlelighting ceremony acquainted the freshmen with our existing honor code.

Operating for the first time this year was an Election Board, which was set up to supervise our campus elections and to establish a uniform procedure; and now we've bid "Mr. Ballot Box Stuffing" a fond farewell.

Another comparatively new addition to the family of Student Government is our Service League which coordinates the campus war effort. It has already proved itself worthy to be called a child prodigy because of the wonderful job it has done in offering defense courses, in providing opportunities for would-be volunteer workers, and in persuading us to shell out some of our allowance for war bonds and stamps.

ALTHOUGH the legislative branch of Student Government does not originate tax bills, it does keep an interpretative finger on the pulse-beat of the campus. Composed of three members from each class, a representative from each dormitory, house presidents, presidents of the Recreation Association and the "Y," Legislature meets more or less regularly in the Student Government room of the Alumnae House to debate until twilight on campus problems or lack of same.

The vice-president of Student Government, Phyllis Crooks, wields the gavel with proper respect for the Alumnae's mahogany table and for Robert's Rules of Order. Janet Holmes, Student Government Treasurer, acts as secretary of the Vox Pop body, and Dr. Lyda Shivers, Miss Genevieve Walberg, and Miss Clara Giese act as faculty advisers and chief referees.

The first business of Legislature this year was to consider the recommendations of the pre-school Student Government conference. These recommendations were passed with notable dispatch (the legislature members were members of the conference)!

Early in the year, Legislature set up a Chapel Board to handle cases of chapel absence and thereby relieved Judy Board of the burden. This innovation has proved to be a well-advised one. In the interest of conserving electricity and health, a rule was passed requiring that lights be turned out at twelve o'clock; this rule almost produced a minor revolution among students who found it necessary to make new schedules or to start adhering to the ones they had already made. Use of candles, kerosene lamps, and coal miner's caps was definitely discouraged by both Legislature and the administration.

Though Legislature represents the interests of all the various groups on campus and is responsible for keeping faith with both the groups and common sense, there have been few casualties. The latest movement afoot is to pass a rule abolishing term papers in order to save our Library from extreme "over-congestion" every January and May!

“Why Don’t You Do Right?”

EVERY MONDAY NIGHT the judicial branch of Student Government, garbed in austere black robes, goes into action. The Board is presided over by Chief Justice Jody Rendleman, otherwise known as Student Government President Rendleman; Student Government Secretary Doris McRoberts acts as secretary for the Board. The Judiciary Board, as it is known in common parlance, is renowned for administering impartial justice to offenders, large or small, freshmen or seniors, neurotics or Physical Education majors. None need fear to enter the room with the green horseshoe table—nine times out of ten smiles are lurking in the eyes of these “judges” (unaccustomed as they are to looking stern)!

Under the supervision of Judiciary Board are the hall boards which handle minor cases in each dormitory. Our hall boards are composed of the house president and four members of the dormitory and a member of the Judiciary Board. Judiciary Board records and reviews all hall board cases, and every girl has the right to appeal a hall board decision.

The goal of Judiciary Board is to consider each case individually and to make the student understand how its decision was reached. It is probably the only court for miles around where rule-breakers are given every opportunity to talk back.

With the experience they have had, we might expect to see some of our Judiciary Board members appointed to the Supreme Court some day.

COMPOSED of student and faculty members, the Finance Board manipulates the intricate purse-strings of the campus. All treasurers and business managers of student organizations which desire pecuniary backing must present their budgets to the Board early in the school year, and it's their problem to convince the Board that they have need for the amounts they request. The approved method of doing this is to present an itemized account of the organization's estimated expenditures and hope the Budget Balancers can see it that way.

Considering the needs of all organizations, the Finance Board has always complied with these requests so long as it could make all ends meet. This year, however, both the Board and the student financiers were faced with the necessity for strict economizing in the interest of the war effort; thus, organizations willingly cut their expenses to the bone, feeling that any frills would be in poor taste at this time of national emergency.

WE PASS IN REVIEW . . .

At Last!

*H*ERE WE ARE seniors, and to believe it is harder than it was to learn to study when we were freshmen. We came to W. C. looking forward to this year; now we're beginning to look backward. Our freshman year we spent half our time admiring seniors; now we spend it envying freshmen.

These four years have been fun: our class formals, "open house" in our dormitories, bull sessions in 210, midnight snacks, everlasting bridge games, long term papers, and hard exams. It has all been part of the game, and playing it has been a wonderful life.

This year we have felt our importance in more ways than one. We have had children call us Miss Jones, and we have attended teachers' meetings. We were the ones who selected the May Queen and her court. We have been leaders in student government activities and have stayed up all night to hear Judy Board cases. And if you don't think experiences like these make you feel important, just try it.

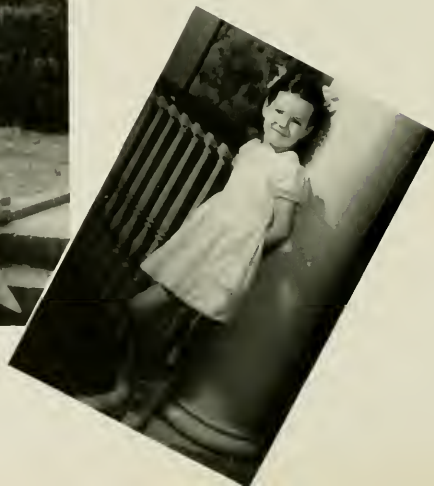

We have grumbled over long hours of study, but now we take advantage of our last chance to thank the faculty for having given us something to do in all of our spare time! Hats off to all those girls who have been our class leaders each year; we're proud of our class and of those girls who were the hammer behind the nail which drove us to be the class we are—a class unified in service.

Our Eight Outstanding Seniors

*I*N ANY GROUP OF PEOPLE living together, leaders emerge—leaders to give direction to the work of the group and to mould its spirit by the force of their personalities. Certainly this has proved true in the student body of Woman's College.

After four years of living together, the Senior Class is definitely aware of the leaders in its midst who are also the pace-setters for the whole student body. They are the girls who have oiled and operated the machinery of campus organizations this year and who have greatly influenced the tone of campus life. Elevated to responsible positions, they have fulfilled the trust that was given them and have worked tirelessly for the welfare of their college and their classmates.

Chosen by the vote of the Senior Class with the hearty approval of all W. C. students, these are the girls who have seen us through.

“Three Down and One to Go”

JUNIOR YEAR—that gap of humility between sophomore sophistry and senior superiority. We no longer fancy that we know it all, but spend our days in a fevered pursuit of learning and apt quotations—a pursuit enlivened by frequent repasts at the renowned Junior Shop. What memories of emptying ash-trays and collecting coke bottles the mention of Junior Shop recalls! What praises do we sing to untiring managers Katheryne Levis and Ida Harper. Characteristic of the enterprising Class of '44 is the addition of a handsome inlaid linoleum for us to trample on in the Shop.

The Junior Adviser gang remembers the swell time it had giving lecture-tours and motherly advice to freshmen who pretended to believe every word of it. The strange combination fashion show-and-carnival we gave for the freshmen was an amazing success with only one clown and one light bulb passing out in the excitement. Who can forget that racing steed “Flustered Mustard” and his young rider “Bessie Custard”!

We settled into the regular pattern of school days, only occasionally sleeping through breakfast. We crammed for tests and exams, frowned over term papers, and played an important part in extra-curricular organizations. Week-ends brought dates to the super-magnetic and time to play bridge and sweep under beds to the intellectual type.

Boys from nearby colleges as well as paratroopers showed up for the Junior Dance on November 21; and a smooth dance it was, under the capable direction of Linda Lyon. “Serenade in Blue” was carried out in every detail except the mood of the dancers.

In addition to regular work, the class carried on many projects. Bulbs and shrubs were collected for the beautification of the lake region, with Dot Levis in charge; skits, posters, and a chapel program carried on the Good Grooming Campaign started last year and headed by Blanche Thies; two orders for class rings were handled by Kay O'Brien; a well attended University Sermon was sponsored by the class, with Lucy Corbett as chairman and Chaplain Bayne from Columbia University as speaker.

The big social event of the spring was Junior-Senior, given in honor of the departing. Many were the dresses and brothers borrowed in its behalf!

Another semester zips by. More exams. (Regular little pests, aren't they?) And we bid our senior pals farewell, hoping we can fill their moccasins.

“Let Me Tell You . . .”

THE CLASS OF '45 advanced to the no-closed-study, class-jacketed age this year. With the new dignity which comes with being upperclassmen, they made a success of their project, they produced an excellent Christmas pageant, they had a super formal, and—in general—they lived up to their motto of “Strive to excel.”

To be more specific, the sophomore project was a very timely one—that of selling defense stamps at all social functions on campus. Under the leadership of Anna Gillespie and members of the Sophomore Council, business has boomed and defense stamp books have been filled.

The Christmas pageant was one of the highlights of this Sophomore Class career. Barbara Sutlive directed, and members of the class contributed their talents and time toward making this year's pageant memorable.

The Sophomore formal on February 13th had, appropriately, a Valentine theme. Against a romantic background of hearts and cupids, the sophomores and their dates (yes, really!) danced their newly-ratoned shoes thin.

The class jacket this year broke tradition. With Margie Robbins as jacket chairman, a navy blue wool jacket was chosen instead of the usual white. And a very smart—like in Vogue—choice it was!

The class of '45 had found a new world as freshmen; but, as sophomores, they were able to explore it more thoroughly. There was the excitement of being free to wander from 7:30 to 10:30; the thrill of “unlimited social engagements and week-ends”; the glory of staying up past eleven; and the realization that a senior is not really so awe-inspiring.

“Could You Tell Me . . . ?”

“OUR COLLEGE DAYS run swiftly by”—and with what feeling we can sing that line! It’s amazing that so much could have happened in one short year.

It all began with Freshman Week: a week of seeing new faces in a bewildering maze of buildings; a week of rushing from test to test; a week of waiting—for pictures, for food, for books, for gym suits, for post office boxes, for nothing; a week of saying, “Do you . . . ?” and “Oh, you’re from Raleigh?” Junior advisers, counselors, house presidents, and Miss Burns all helped to get us acquainted with everything.

And then came the feeling that we knew all there was to know. We knew where the Administration Building was, and we had finally learned how to open our post office box. We knew the Tavern and the Junior Shop, the Grill and Bert’s. But that was only the beginning.

We soon found out what the required courses were and what Registration Day meant. We signed up for Hygiene and European History, 101 this and 101 that. We found out about house meetings, closed study, and lights out. We learned that the laundry went out on Wednesday morning. We passed the “blue book” test. We survived society initiation—carrying books in pillow cases, making beds, singing laundry cards, writing “love letters,” and wearing green or blue or red or yellow to conform to society colors.

Our education and progress went rapidly on: the honor policy and the candlelight service on the quadrangle; the Fiftieth Anniversary and mass meetings with Jody; chapel programs and special seats; the first class meeting and our favorite “big sister,” Toni; banner girl, Julia Taylor; “Strength through Unity”; song of “Oh, forty-six, we hail you, the class of truth and fame”; the Freshman Commission; six weeks tests and “unsats.”

We were excited about Christmas and going home—and rather surprised to find ourselves not too adverse to coming back. We lived through exams and felt ourselves veterans, able to hold our own with any upperclassman. We elected class officers; we sponsored a University Sermon; we had our formal; we had a no-campus-cutting campaign. And more exams. Our year as freshmen was actually completed.

Yes, we’ve survived our first year, but taking a downstairs seat in chapel isn’t going to make us forget the experiences we had as freshmen!

Pine Needles 1943

“Take A Letter!”

*I*F THE NEED of the business world is secretaries with looks and efficiency, the commercial class of '43 should be able to fill the bill. Ambitious and cooperative, the class this year personifies the real spirit of W. C. toward the war effort. Their “White Elephant Sale,” an auction of anything and everything contributed by the girls, netted enough money to buy almost two hundred cartridges for some soldier's gun.

Along with their typing and shorthand, the girls take time out for fun and partying. Their Halloween party in the “Hut” was a howling success, but their “Stardust” formal in January was their most memorable social event of this year. Under the bright stars and big half moon, they had a superb time.

The commercial class is made up of recent high school graduates, former Woman's College students, transfers from other schools, and a few college graduates; it is a very heterogeneous group, but an outsider would never know it from the miraculous way they work together. By the way, they too have their share of the engaged and married girls on campus. Because of the excellent course of study offered and the crying need for girls who can pound a typewriter and be the boss's right-hand man, this class always has a mile-long waiting list. These girls are such crackerjacks that they often can't wait until June to take advantage of the many positions offered them but must leave as early as February or March.

LOUISE BOATMAN, President of Inter-Faith Council.

The "Y" Does It Again

"THE 'Y' IS DOING IT." This often-heard remark is a tribute to an organization which knows its job and is always in there punching. Every student who can read is made aware that the center of campus religious life is an active organization which is untiring in its efforts to contribute something to the life of each of us.

Jane Wyche Adams was president of the W. C. branch of the national Y. W. C. A. which has as part of its creed, "We . . . unite in the desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God." With this as their purpose, W. C. girls identify themselves with the college "Y" and become active in its program—a program broad in scope and influence.

Freshman members of the "Y" join one of three Freshman Clubs in which they learn about the college community and their responsibilities as members of it. These clubs undertake many and varied projects such as caring for groups of Greensboro children, giving Christmas parties for children from the underprivileged districts, and promoting improvements in campus life. "The Hanging of the Green" the Sunday night before Christmas holidays begin is a freshman tradition which calls forth a certain amount of work and an unlimited amount of fun. If fingers get pricked by holly and pine while wreathes are under construction, such wounds are forgotten in the excitement of singing carols around campus as the finished wreathes are presented to the dormitories.

The Sophomore Club and the Junior-Senior Club carry on a program which also combines labor and enjoyment. Some of this year's projects were: serving late breakfast for church-goers on Sunday mornings, collecting Christmas cards for soldiers, exchanging programs with other colleges, giving teas at examination-time, and giving students practical experience in leadership.

The Cabinet is the nucleus of the "Y." It is composed of the "Y" officers, the Director of Religious Activities (Miss Maxine Garner), and the chairman of the standing committees. The work of the cabinet is to coordinate the work of the whole "Y" and to support activities related to the "Y."

Students who are not actively affiliated with the "Y" benefit from its campus-wide program which includes Friday night vespers, weekly dormitory devotionals, and aid to the classes sponsoring University Sermons. One project which is particularly appreciated by all students is International Week-end when foreign students from neighboring colleges visit our campus.

Through study, worship, fellowship, and service, the "Y" endeavors to make religion meaningful and vital for every W. C. student. It seeks to interpret religion as constant growth and to give incentive, direction, and opportunity for that growth to each girl at the college.

The coordinating force in religious activities is the Inter-Faith Council which, as its name implies, endeavors to promote understanding and cooperation between the various denominations and faiths. The Council is composed of two representatives from each religious group. Louise Boatman was head of it this year, and under her guidance the Council has done a valuable piece of work.

A DOLL'S HOUSE

On the STAGE

FROM TRYOUTS to final curtain calls,

Playliker productions are great events for the cast, technical crew, and audience. All the plays are acted, the sets built, the costumes made, and the lighting executed by students under faculty direction. And the anticipation and reception of any of their plays is sure-proof of the kind of talent we have on campus.

The first play this year was Ibsen's A Doll's House with Mary Childs as "Nora" and Mr. W. R. Taylor as director. It was followed by Night Must Fall; Anne Pitoniak and Mr. Richard Corson had the leads, and Mr. Corson directed. Barbara Sutlive played the title role in Alice In Wonderland under the direction of Miss Kathryn England.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

Nineteen Hundred and Forty-Three

Although Playlikers does an admirable job of keeping the students of Woman's College in touch with the legitimate stage, the major productions are not the stopping point for these energetic Thespians. On Hallowe'en night they had a spooky campus party for the "Little Old Lady" who haunts Aycock. A benefit performance, directed by Mr. W. R. Taylor, was given for the soldiers. The annual "Hecks-a-poppin'" brought down the house—a drastic occurrence in this day of building material shortage.

Lydia Taylor is automatically president of Playlikers as she is president of the honorary dramatic group, Masqueraders. The other officers of Masqueraders are: Anne Pitoniak, vice-president; Rachel Barrett, secretary; Mary Childs, publicity chairman; and Carolyn Wilson, business manager. The selection of new members for this group is based on the outstanding ability of the girls, whether in a dramatic or technical capacity. The tapping of new members is a rather frightening ceremony to the mere layman for it consists of the silent investing of those chosen with masks by a masked group; when they walk through the dining halls, one might expect "mystery meat" to rise and follow.

A W. C. chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, was revived on campus this year. Members for this society are selected from among the outstanding Masqueraders.

Vim and Vigor... Fun and "Figger"

*C*OMPANY, HALT!" With the precision of seasoned militia, the columns of girls obey the commands of the officer. The little boys stand on the sidewalk staring. A truck driver narrowly escapes driving up a 'phone pole, as he gapes at these Amazons. Woman's College Company is on the march.

No one should be surprised that marching is the latest addition to the sports program offered by the Recreation Association which is in step with wartime. The R. A. offered sports to appeal to all kinds of muscles—disintegrated or just relaxed. There was everything from swimming and boating to basketball, baseball, and hockey. What we want to know is why they didn't flood the field and let us have ice-skating?

The two big events that end the year with a great show of muscle are Sports Day and the Gym-meet. Sports Day is the occasion when everybody participates in some sport even though it's only bridge, discus-throwing, or hopscotch. The climax of the day is the Student-Faculty baseball game which gives both teams a chance for vengeance. Gym-meet is the time when members of the Alexander, Barkley, Elliott, and Phillips League try to out cheer each other and to cheer their teammates on to victory.

In addition to League competition, awards are made on a dormitory basis for participation and winning teams. Happy the dorm that gets to turn its parlor into a trophy room.

Although the Recreation Association includes all girls who participate in sports, the heart of campus sports activity is the Advisory Council of the Recreation Association. This Council is responsible for all the big sports events of the year and for the general events of the year and for the general plan of sports activities. It is the brain behind the muscle-building. Officers of the Association, a representative from each dorm, presidents of the athletic clubs, and the heads of sports make up this husky group.

Productions by the Council include such memorable fetes as the Barn Dance. Everyone drank tanks of cider, but the night watchman reported no arrests for insobriety. "Birdie-in-the-Cage" and "Shoo Fly Swing" proved to be as hep to the jive as "Strictly Instrumental."

At the end of the fall, winter, and spring seasons, the Council gives a big banquet for all those who have gone out for a sport. These banquets are really super jobs all done up with speeches, awards, floor shows, and ending in a general melee. Some of the floor show units bear watching; vaudeville has come back, hasn't it?

The Council is in charge of the week-end cabin located several miles out from town. This cabin is a very popular refuge for students with frayed nerves and batteries that need recharging. If there's somebody in the crowd who can make good coffee, a good time is had by all. Bridge, sleeping, hiking, wood-carrying, fire-building, bull-shooting, and other indoor sports are enjoyed.

Various clubs are sponsored by the Cabinet. Boot 'n Spur (you guessed) rides, even though not to the hounds. The Dolphin and Seal Clubs are chlorined-water lovers, and present an annual pageant which is always well received. The Archery Club, the Clogging Club (the Zeigfield girls of W. C.), the Square Dance Club, and the Modern Dance Group are a few of our active (and we do mean it) organizations.

“On the Social Side . . . ”

*W*ONDER what that swishing noise behind you is? Ooops! It's a toothbrush following you—with a girl on the end of it. But don't be alarmed—it's just initiation day at W. C., and all the societies . . . “What societies?” Well, say, you've really missed something. The four societies just about hog the social whirl at W. C., and everybody's happy about it—even the freshmen, who once a year become general cleaning women for upperclassmen for the benefit of tradition and the collective saddle shoes of their sisters.

Way back in 1893 the first two societies (Adelphian and Cornelian) were formed to encourage writing and debating among the students. Since that time, as the student body grew and two more societies (Aletheian and Dikean) were organized, the four groups have turned away from their literary beginnings and have become purely social organizations.

OH, ABOUT THE TOOTHBRUSH! Well, that happens at the beginning of every year. The freshman class is divided into four parts and meted out to the societies in order to keep democracy on the campus and to prevent the politics of sororities. One bright morning the freshmen awaken to the gentle hum of their favorite alarm clocks and stagger out in the hall enroute to a brisk cold shower, or a dental brush-off, or a splash in the face just for luck—depending on the time—when what should appear outside the door but a brightly-colored crepe paper ribbon and a card of directions for wear and tear. After chewing and digesting the contents of this card, the innocents begin to wonder what foul fate has subjected them to this indignity. With sad, expectant, shiny faces (no make-up is allowed) they search frantically for clothes to match their society colors, tie the ribbons in their hair, sling their books in a pillowcase, wear towels around their necks, and trudge out to meet their enemies—the upperclassmen—who have discovered that it is initiation day and who are on the warpath, eyes gleaming with anticipation.

The freshmen have been instructed to obey upperclassmen in their respective societies and to get in the gutter whenever their sisters appear; therefore it's a long hard day for the initiates. They make more beds, sweep more floors (with that toothbrush we were talking about), write more love letters, sing more laundry cards, polish more shoes, and praise more Allah than they ever will again. But it's all in fun; and when six p. m. comes and the antics are over, the freshmen can hardly wait for the next year when it will be their time to walk on the sidewalks and have their shoestrings tied. At six-thirty a formal dinner completes the initiation, and plans are begun immediately for the four formal society dances of the year—the highlight of each society's program.

Weeks ahead of time invitations are sent out to neighboring towns, colleges, and army camps to round up eligible prospects. As soon as the answers come, laundry cards are filled out saying who has which dance with whose date and where. All this information is transferred later to cleverly-designed cards made by the dance committee. Another important job of this hard-working committee is the decoration of the gym Saturday afternoon before the dance. At this time, the old mats and trapeze jobs are set aside for the soft lights and shadows of "night life"; you'd never know the place—and who wants to? About four in the afternoon a tea dance is held, usually in Spencer gameroom or the ballroom between Winfield and Weil. This dance is girl-break because some of the dates haven't arrived yet, and the boys enjoy the table-turning for a change. At dinner that night there is a pleasant hum of male voices in the dining halls—well, at least one or two have ventured in. Everybody is ready for the dance now, and between eight-thirty and nine o'clock the tuxedos and uniforms arrive to claim their shimmering party dresses and depart. Flowers are gone for the duration, but there are still such things as fun and excitement; and the society formals overflow with these.

Another feature of the society calendar is Sports Day, which comes in the spring and brings with it many pleasant things such as the end of gym classes and two baseball games in which Dr. Jackson, Dr. Graham, and certain faculty members participate. There are other events of the day—relay races, slow bike racing, tug-of-war, etc., that are lots of fun and give each society the opportunity to chalk up points in its favor. The competition is lively, and the society with the greatest number of points wins the day.

Our four societies have cooperated with the W. C. Service League in trying to provide recreation for the hundreds of girls here on campus who have been rendered "dateless" by the Selective Service Act. One means has been to have huge bridge parties at which the card sharks may demonstrate their prowess and the gossipers may catch up with things—if they've missed anything. Another undertaking which has proved popular this year has been the series of informal teas which the different societies have held in Students' Building.

A lovely and capable girl is elected by the student body to serve as chief marshal, and each society chooses eight girls at the beginning of the year—three juniors and five seniors—to act as marshals at all the college lectures and concerts; looking very lovely in their long white dresses, these girls add sparkle to our festive occasions as well as skillfully performing a difficult job. Things run smoothly at Aycock most of the time, and the chief marshal and her assistants deserve a lot of credit for it. They are the tactful girls who keep the students from sitting in the townspeople's section and vice versa. Of course they enjoy getting all dressed up and looking pretty, but their feet get mighty tired and they really wear out evening sandals!

The Nineteen Hundred and

IT'S WITH ASTONISHMENT that we, the staff, look upon this twenty-third volume of PINE NEEDLES—amazed that our ideas have become realities. Along with the ordinary run-of-the-mill difficulties which customarily beset a yearbook staff, we have had to cope with wartime priorities, wartime economy, and wartime shortages. We have many times been confronted with the answer "C'est la guerre" and have rearranged our plans accordingly.

Last fall we were forced to revise our original plans for the book and feeling that we could not have a "bigger and better" PINE NEEDLES this year, we decided not to sacrifice quality for quantity. Because of this decision the 1943 book has less pages than last year's; it also lacks some of the features customarily found in our yearbooks—such as pictures of all the clubs. We make no apology for this as the reason for our action is obvious; we merely wish to say that we acted impartially and tried to include those organizations affecting the greatest number of people on campus.

In spite of these omissions, we think you will like the book. For three years we have noted campus comments on the PINE NEEDLES, and the pleas most often heard have been for more snapshots, more informality, and more color. All of these pleas we have answered. We have not attempted to put out a perfect book according to conventional standards; our aim has been to give the campus what it has told us it wanted.

We sincerely hope you like it!

The CAROLINIAN of 1943

IS THERE a student newspaper at Woman's College? Right you are! The Carolynian for 1942-1943 has as its aim to reflect in its pages student life and student opinion in an effort to clarify and preserve the democracy existing at Woman's College—"Distinguished for Its Democracy." Truly a student enterprise, the paper is written, managed, and distributed weekly by some 120-odd students interested in the fields of journalism and advertising.

Carolynian has had a double duty this year. Besides trying to keep students informed about themselves and their college, Carolynian has tried to keep students somewhat informed about events on the home front and on world fronts. It has backed unreservedly student participation in the war effort which is centered in the College Service League. It has attempted to cooperate fully with the Government Office of War Information. It has, at the same time, tried to portray clearly all phases of student life.

If you should wander over to the basement of our beautiful Alumnae house some Tuesday or Wednesday night and had the courage to poke your head into the maelstrom which is the Carolynian office on these nights, either you would be told instantly and firmly that the PINE NEEDLES' office is down the hall and to the right or you would have time to hear five typewriters going full speed with associate editors shouting above them, "Make that a B-head with a 10-point lead"; or, "Recital story fell through—Miss So-and-So is going on a honeymoon instead"; or, "That story s(censored)s!" (quote the rewrite editor). Columnists dash in and then out again. Reporters type frantically on a last-minute story. The staff photographer comes in with the pictures which everyone immediately flocks around to see. The business manager and her efficient advertising manager calmly rake in ads and money from a circle of ad-gatherers.

And at 8 a. m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays the faithful printer (drafted as of January 23rd) comes for the copy which is proofread on Thursday afternoons and "put to bed" early Friday morning. Each Friday night after supper, for twenty-five weeks, students have found their Carolynians with the brown rotogravure Collegiate Digest shoved under their doors.

We have had our troubles this year, along with everyone else. Operating under a reduced budget we have had more four-page papers than ever before. We have wondered at times whether or not we were going to be able to take any more pictures, or, even if we took them, whether or not we could have them engraved. We have wondered why it is that we have trouble getting ads when there is a lot of news for one particular issue and still worse trouble getting news when there are a lot of ads for another issue. We have wondered if we would have to learn the printing business as well, if all our printers are drafted.

But Carolynian has come through it all with a successful year—proof that you can't keep 120 good women down!

The CORADDI . . . 1943

"*H*ERE, ROOMMATE, do my math—a new Coraddi's out!"

With some such enthusiastic remark we receive each new issue of our literary magazine, and with avid eyes we read it only to discover that the girl down the hall is a short story writer ranking with Katherine Mansfield and that the blonde who sits behind us in Spanish 107 can really give with the onomatopoeia when it comes to writing poetry.

Margaret Jones, the Coraddi editor, has done a handsome job of giving the campus magazine back to the campus. Without relaxing the literary standards of the material appearing in the magazine, "Jonesie" has gotten out a quarterly "slick" that has brought a large number of new campus writers into the limelight.

"Jonesie" and May March, the mag's business manager, seemed to get much inspiration and many new ideas from the Collegiate Press Conference which they attended in Chicago, and thus Coraddi continues on the upswing in value and popularity.

Into the magazine has gone plenty of good hard work: endless chasing down of copy, and haranguing over what goes in and what stays out, copyreading, making up pages, and plaguing typists. The result of all this effort is cheering to the hearts of those concerned; the students' magazine is not only written by the students but is also read by the students.

The "readability" of the publication is heightened by the attractiveness of its covers which are simply super photos of interesting angles of student life—photos of the make-you-want-to-look-inside type. And the contents justify the interest thus aroused, for—inside—students find satisfaction for their diverse tastes. From Steinbeckian realism to delightful fantasy; from Dorothy Parker and Ogden Nash poetry to Keatsian romanticism and T. S. Eliot's free verse; from youth-in-war prose to literary criticism—Coraddi covers all.

The art work within the magazine is as diversified as the written material; there's everything from simple sketches to ultra-modern surrealism. By using illustrations done by students, Coraddi gives a further opportunity for creative expression.

The contributions to this publication do not come solely from the members of the staff as each issue brings to light the talent of some new campus writer. The page known as "Breaking Ground" keeps us posted on the interesting facts about and eccentricities of the new contributors—even "Anonymous" got a write-up in one issue! The majority of the contributions this year was poetical—a fact which should be significant as an indication of some sort of trend in the minds of students or is it merely the influence of soldier dances?

All in all, we can feel pretty sure that Coraddi is the starting post for many a future winner, so we'd better save all our copies—they may be valuable collectors' pieces some day.

May Day, 1943

*I*NTO THE OLD SOUTH of the Civil War days came a beautiful queen and there was dancing and singing in her honor. As if by fate, there also came a handsome prince; and, as the old story goes, "they lived happily ever after." They met each other, we are told, over a punch bowl at a party where she was guest of honor on the first of May. In those days men wore tight-fitting trousers and women wore huge billowy skirts; such costumes made the guests a sight to behold when they danced a Virginia Reel. This little story of the queen, the prince, and the party furnished us with a theme for our May Day celebration this year.

Julia Pepper, the Queen of May, was attended by Sara Mundy Hamrick and Dorothy Furr as maids of honor. The other members of the Court were: Carolyn Jordan, Ann Hardison McGoogan, Betty Hopkins, Betty Johnson, Dorothy Odum, Ann Spivey, Elise Rouse Wilson, Ann Mumford, Georgia Mack Keeter, Gladys Sessoms, Josephine Dees, and Dorothea Severance, May Day Chairman.

The committee assisting Dorothea Severance were: Margaret Ann Bittick, dances; Barbara Johnson and Elizabeth Jackson, costumes; Holt Pleasants and Anna Bell, music; Pat Wooley, arrangements; Elizabeth Rogers, programs; Ann Pitoniak and Lydia Taylor, script; and Betty Dahlin, properties and publicity. Miss Ione Grogan was faculty adviser.

TOWN STUDENTS' DANCE

The TOWN STUDENTS...

THE GIRLS IN THESE PICTURES worked hard, and—thanks to their originality and diligence—the Town Students' Formal was strictly a success (of course we weren't surprised at that because the town students themselves are A-1). The girls who live off-campus are organized as the Town Students' Association which functions as does a campus hall unit and is represented as such in Legislature; however, it has its own Judy Board and a very attractive clubroom. This year the course of the association has been steered by: Dorothy Hendrix, President; Janice Hooke, Vice-President; and Eleanor Dare Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer.

The staff of 1943 wishes to thank The Lassiter Press, The Charlotte Engraving Company, and Taylor-Ames Photographers for their excellent cooperation in producing the 1943 Pine Needles.

If there are any mistakes, and no doubt there will be, they were unintentional of course, and we hope you will excuse them.

The mutual goal of all who have worked on the book in any capacity has been to please the students, the faculty, and friends of the college. We sincerely hope we have reached our goal.
