Leicester, July 14/61.

Dear Burleigh;

You will oblige me by notifying me, as soon as convenient thereafter, when you have finished & sent off [to Whipple] the final copy of the Report of 59-60. I particularly wish to know this, i.e., when it is finished & sent; - and also, according to the best calculation you can make, how many pages of print it will probably make. This is needful to help me determine on the Appendix.
- The printers, - as of course you must be aware, - have long been without any copy. - They propose to send you proof of all yr. Mss. - What think you of an Index? You can judge best of the need. And if you think it advisable, I shall consider that conclusive, & shall wish you to prepare it, as before; - provided it can be done without materially delaying the printers.

The Exec. Comtee had another meeting on Friday last - the main business relating to the "Standard", and the "Wraps and Means" of the Society, - on which, I regret to say, (in confidence) no increase of light yet breaks. - The "Report" was again talked over, and I submitted some ~~new~~^{exact} figures & ^{new} calculations, as to the cost of past & future reports. The Comtee decided not to change their previous vote; - Phillips (who was not present at the previous meeting) giving his voice in favour of immediate & separate publication of the year 59-60; but, he says, "Say to Burleigh that if the Rep^t for 60-61 can be completed by the time the printers have got thro' with 59-60, we will have the two printed together". That however - (I said) - was impossible to be done. - The Comtee say they Wish you to proceed, just as you would otherwise have done, with the Rept. for 60-61, and they will fulfil their contract with you (as to payment) whether they then print 60-61, or not. - They will, probably, choose to reserve it, to be printed next Spring in connexion with the Report for 61-62; as, if it is of 75 pp. only, or thereabouts, it would seem to be best to join it with the current year, which also might be of similar length.

I will say here that, on further reflection, I am more reconciled than when I wrote you before to the ~~present~~ plan of printing 59-60 by itself; - 1st Because of the great size of the pamphlet - 208 pp. are already struck off; 2 more are in type, making 210; to which add the matter you are yet to send (probably not less than 20 pp.), & the Appendix (say 10 pp.), and we have, even for that year, a pamphlet of 240 pp. - very much the bulkiest we have ever issued, & therefore (in these days of much reading matter) less likely to be thoroughly read. Now to add 75 pp. more to that, giving a pamphlet of 315 pages, I confess it looked to me too formidable, and I could not reduce the number to any lower figure, by any possibility. Then I. The cost - the increased cost of the larger pamphlet, at a time when money is so hard to be got, and we need every dollar we have to sustain ourselves in ordinary operations, - indeed with a great diminution of our ^{Lecturing} Agents. - Then, if the 75 pp. of 60-61 are ~~deserved~~ ^{deserved} to go with a like number for 61-62, we shall have a ^{57 pp} clever pamphlet of 150 pp. (or, with Appendix, 160 pp.) - and of that we shall print but 500 copies, ^{instead of} ~~instead of~~ ^{formidable} 750, as we are doing of 59-60. For these reasons - ^{and} increased cost, I am reconciled to the policy, which on general grounds I depict to as much as ever, of printing - once more - a report which will seem 2 years old, instead of fresh. - But I think too that present, daily events, are investing John Brown's movement & his character with a new & lively interest; and as he will be decidedly the hero of the pamphlet, it will after all have a timeliness, freshness, & applicability, which in most cases the story of the year before last would lack.

Whenever the year (59-60) is completed, I shall make an effort to have additional pay granted for the work, - on account of its length & laboriousness. You have already expressed some thoughts to me, on that point; - if anything more occurs to you to say, you will speak to me frankly.

Our Comtee have voted a Confidential Circular, of earnest appeal to our friends, for the "Standard". If you can supply me a few names of True friends, who can each give something in their circle; I shall be much obliged. - Truly Yrs. S. May Jr.
