From the Mercantile Advertiser.

The following copy of a letter was obtained from a gentleman into whose hands the original was put for translation into Spanish. It may be read with some interest, and therefore I send it to you for publication.

To Don GUADALUPE BIZANTE.

blonde de La Bahia, Province of Texas, M.

The American schooner FOX, regularly cleared from the Custom-house of New-Orleans, for the Sabine, in the U. States of America, with no warlike armament—with nothing illegal on board, and in no condition to excite the suspicion of our own, or any other respectable commercial nation, while endeavoring to get out of the Bay of Matagorda, in which she had been obliged to make a harbor by stress of weather, after having lost her reckoning, was fired into and taken possession of by a band of marrauders, or pirates, claiming protection from the Mexican Anarchy, (for government it does not yet deserve the name of.) The vessel and her cargo are still under detention, and her captain and crew in prison. The whole vessel, cargo, captain and crew will, in all probability rot, before the tardy poco a poco movements of the imbecile administrators of Mexican justice give them a trial. I therefore in behalf of the owner of said vessel, and out of humanity for the unfortunate crew, hereby inform you that this conduct is a shameful breach of hospitality, an outrage to humanity and of the law of nations; and I trust you will have the affair immediately investigated—an indemnity awarded, the vessel and cargo restored to their legitimate owners, and the crew to the American flag and the government they are proud to acknowledge. Should this not speedily be the case, a representation will be made to Congress in the hope of obtaining justice.

In the mean time we have in our country what is termed Lynch's Law, which is sometimes resorted to when the ear of justice, by indolent, culpable or unskillful hands is driven too slow, or when the arm of the law is too short to reach the offender. This same law shall be applied to all concerned in this villainous transaction unless satisfaction is obtained promptly; and take care you do not experience, among others, the effect of it, by a criminal neglect of your duty towards the injured parties.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Extract from a letter dated March 20th, Northampton County, Pennsylvania.

"I will not attempt a description of the place now, but will reserve it till we meet, but this much I can say with truth, that there are 1300 inhabitants of the place, and at the last election, not one solitary vote was given for Adams in the whole county. Now they count 300, and think there are 500 in the immediate vicinity of this place, and changes are daily made in favor of the Administration."

Meadville, (Penn.) July 17.—The cause of the Administration bears a cheering aspect. The temper and tone of the public feeling disclosed on the 4th—the meetings held and being held, their number and character, and the spirit by which they are marked, throughout the State, are satisfactory pledges that Pennsylvania will be true to the cause of principle on the day of trial. The grey-headed, and reflecting part of the community, are beginning to act. A strong, yet silent current is rolling on in favor of the re-election of Mr. Adams. Several cases illustrative of this fact came within our personal observation very recently. On the 4th, after the honours of the day were over, several gentlemen called at our office and among the number, two most influential Jackson men in the country. The Presidential question was introduced—and a bet taken on the strength of the parties present—twelve in number, and three total strangers to us. We bet that Mr. Adams would have two to one, and won it. Our worthy opponents was thunderstruck when he found that some of the party, from honest convictions, had changed from Jackson to Adams."

Lancaster County.—A very intelligent gentleman from Pequea, in Lancaster county, in a letter to the editor, says: "The cause of the national administration I do assure you, is increasing in strength beyond all expectation in this section of our country. The people here have observed that the slanders and loud declamations against the administration for corruption, intrigue, burglar, and sale, has at length settled down as false and unfounded, as has been substantially proven (by our representative in congress). All the boisterous clamor has resulted in nothing more than a deep laid scheme of intrigue and electioneering ingeniously put forth and perseveringly pursued by the modest hero."

Extract of a letter from a very respectable gentleman in Lancaster county. "The participation of Jackson in the Burr conspiracy, has thrown our heroes into great confusion; Jackson is highly censured for his letter, calling on Judge Williams for a denial. One of his friends incisively observed, that all his letters on the presidential contest were highly imprudent, they did him much injury. This matter will make a mighty effort here against the general."

Columbus—(Geo.) July 12.

MURDER.

Some time last week a Mr. Redorr, returning to this place from a visit to Montgomery, Alabama, having arrived within about thirty miles of Columbus, was attacked by an Indian and a Negro, and most cruelly beat to death with a hatchet. The perpetrators of this foul deed were pursued by a large number of the Creeks, and have been overtaken and brought to justice. They were condemned by the Chiefs of the Nation to suffer death, and were to have been executed on Thursday last, by the infliction of blows upon their heads with the same hatchet they used in depriving the innocent subject of this item of his life—this is the law of their nation. The murderer confessed having killed him for the purpose of "getting his money."

A Hickory Toast.—The subjoined toast we selected from a number given at a military celebration of the 4th ult. in Virginia. It is unique of its kind, and from the concluding wish we might infer that he who gave it was some full-grown school boy, who yet remembered the smart of the oft-applied birch, and wished a like visitation upon the friends of the administration as he himself had received at the hands of the village schoolmaster.

"Here is to the present administration: may it run a four mile heat and out, and may the wheels of liberty never want for a hickory axle-tree, the President's chair be bottomed with hickory splits, and may a plenty of hickory be applied to the backs of those who say aught against it."

Libel.—Dr. Frederick E. B. Hintze, was convicted at the June Term of the Baltimore City Court on an indictment for a libel on Horatio G. Jamison, another Physician of Baltimore. The trial occupied eight whole days. The defence set up was two-fold:—that the material and leading facts in the alleged libel were true; and that, whether true or false, the pamphlet was printed in order to give information to the City Council of Baltimore. A motion was made for a new trial which was denied. The Court imposed a fine of $50 and costs.—Phil. Gazette.

Cure of Intemperance.—Dr. Preston, now in our city, has given notice to the public that he has discovered a new remedy which will effectually cure intemperance. We have seen various favorable notices of Dr. P's discovery, and do not hesitate to recommend a trial to all afflicted with this terrible disease.

Boston Patriot.

From the Boston Commercial Gazette. Extract of a letter from Manchester, Eng. dated 18th June, from a highly respectable house.

"We have heard with great regret, of the disastrous result of the spring shipments. All who did any thing, appear to have suffered alike, just in proportion to the extent of their operations—neither skill nor judgment availing anything. The house of Hutchinson & Co. who shipped so largely, and who did so much injury to others by their forced sales in America, have just stopped payment.—They bought chiefly for their own acceptances, and several of the printers are in from $10,000/ and one house they say about $6000."

"Business is extremely dull here, and the Americans are doing little or nothing. All appear disheartened and afraid to touch any thing."

The London Times, complaining of the new Wellington Cabinet, and questioning the fitness of the new Secretary for foreign affairs, Lord Aberdeen,—pays the following pretty compliments to the American character.—Nat. Gaz.

"At this very moment the most important of all our foreign concerns remain to be settled with the Americans. A pretty negotiator his Lordship's friend dignity will render him, to deal with those cunning, selfish, self-willed, obstinate republicans whom Mr. Canning, in his correspondence, with a felicit almost fearful (for his superiority must have been galling to his antagonists,) always contrived to place and exhibit in the wrong."

How lamentable to have placed the sister of a new president in America!

Subterranean Waters at Constantinople.

We entered a private house, descended a deep flight of steps, and found ourselves on the borders of a subterranean lake, extending under several streets. The roof was arched and supported by 330 massive marble pillars; a number of tubes descended into the water, and supplied the streets above; the inhabitants of which, as Gillius observes, did not know whence the water came—"Incolas ignorare cisternam infra aedes suas possum."

Of all the reservoirs which the prudent precautions of the Greek emperors established, this is the only one which now exists as a cistern; and such is the apathy and ignorance of the Turks, that they themselves, it appears, did not, in the time of Gillius, three hundred years ago, and do not at present, generally know of its existence. The Turk, though whose house we had access to, called it Tere battan Sarai, or the subterranean Palace; and said that his neighbours, whose houses were also over it, did not know any thing about it. Indeed, from the state of neglect in which the walls, and every thing about it appeared, it seemed probable that it had not been visited or repaired since the Turks entered Constantinople.—Should the Russians ever approach and lay siege to the city, a supply of water will be its first object.—In its present state, if the besiegers cut off the communication with the bendts, which it is presumed they would do in the first instance, the city could not hold out for a week. It appears that the Sultan had prudently supplied it with corn; it is probable he will clean out the cisterns, and supply it with water also.—Walsh's Journey from Constantinople to England.
