SELLS-FLOTO MAY OPEN THE NEW VELODROME IN NEW YORK

Negotiations Pending — Big Stadium Ready Next April

J. A. Poulin in Europe in Search of Feature Attractions

Sohmer Park Coliseum in Montreal To Be Opened in June

New York, Oct. 2.—The Sells-Floto Circus will probably play in the new quarter-million-dollar Velodrome, which is being constructed in upper Manhattan, in the Harlem district, by a million-dollar organization, headed by George Young, the six-day bike race promoter. Negotiations are under way, it is understood, between Edward Arlington, of Sells-Floto, and the Velodrome Company. As the Velodrome, which will have a total seating capacity of over 30,000, will be completed by April 1, it seems more than probable that New York will have two giant circuses within its gates next spring. The Velodrome will be an open affair, but Mr. Young informed a Billboard representative today that it will be covered, of course, in the event a circus plays there, and it would require something like 150,000 feet of canvas to cover the mammoth oval.

The lighting plant of the Velodrome would cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. There will be eighteen entrances, eight toilets and training quarters. J. A. Poulin will be foreign representative of the New York Velodrome Company and starts today for Europe in search of attractions to play the Velodrome. He will be gone about two months and expects to visit every important European center in his quest for shows. The big stadium will be oval shaped and its primary purpose would be bicycle races and like track events, as there will be a permanent banked oval track, but with the passage of the Walker bill Mr. Young says that important boxing events will be staged and all sorts of shows will be booked into the Velodrome, which will be the largest of its kind in the country. It is planned to change the field into a huge ice skating palace and skating stars of the world will compete there. There will be fifty days each year tied up

HUGE DE RECAT PRODUCTION TO BE SHOWN AT DALLAS FAIR

Chicago Producer Will Stage
Mammoth Spectacle

Big Show Will Be Known as
"The Smiles of 1920"

Cast Will Include Many Well-Known Feature Acts

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Emile de Recat, widely known Chicago producer of revues and big vaudeville acts, has announced to The Billboard the plan of a huge spectacle, incidentally a production, not a musical comedy, which he will show in Dallas during the sessions of the State Fair of Texas, October 9-24. The production will be called "The Smiles of 1920."

Two Pullmans will carry the people, seventy in number, to the Texas City, where rehearsals will be held in their finality after previous rehearsals here. Two seventy-foot baggage cars will carry the scenery. Among the principals will be Swan Wood,

BIG EASTERN STATES EXPO. IS CROWNED WITH SUCCESS

tended by 239,668 People

An Increase of 53,007 Admissions Over Last Year

May Be Extended to Ten Days or Two Weeks in 1921

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 2.—The all-purpose, all-weather show of the Eastern States Exposition, which came to a most successful close last Saturday evening here, did not have to use the second part of its name, for the weather man smiled with six pleasant days—real fair weather. Paid admissions to the exposition grounds totaled 239,668 for the week. The number of paid admissions in 1919 was 186,661, or an increase this year of 53,007.

So satisfied are the officers and directors of the exposition with the attendance mark that it is strongly rumored that next year the show will be extended to cover a period of ten days or two weeks, altho no official statement to this effect is expected until the annual meeting, which takes place about the first of the year.

Some of the most noted show horses in the country were entered and took part in the horse show, which was held in the huge coliseum, and which catered to a capacity crowd of more than 6,000 seated persons and several thousand who were allowed to stand. Likewise the horse races, which took place the first four days of the week, had entered some of the fastest steppers, and drew more than capacity to the grand stand. The auto races on Friday and Saturday afternoons and the hippodrome spectacle and fireworks on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings in front of the grand stand were eagerly patronized.

Every inch of available space being contracted for in both the industrial building and the cattle and horse barns three months in advance of the show, exhibit space was augmented by fifteen big-top tents. Concession spaces were also sold far in advance for soft drinks and eatables exclusively, as there is no midway. Altho

A FILM MYSTERY

But the Puzzle Is on the Outside of the Picture

MANDAMUS IS FILED

To Compel Chicago Board of Motion Picture Censors To Show Cause Why "The Dregs of a City" Should Not Be Passed

Chicago, Oct. 2.—A. L. Gottlieb, manager of the Alice Clement Picture Corporation, today filed a mandamus against the city of Chicago to force the Board of Motion Picture Censors to show cause why "The Dregs of a City" film, written by Alice Clement, policewoman, should not be passed.

Five days were allowed by Circuit Judge Frank Johnson to the defendant board in which to answer to the writ of mandamus. The case is an odd one. Miss Clement, better known as Alice Clement Faubel, has been for many years attached to the Detective Bureau. The welfare of girls coming to the city has been one of her main activities. She has haunted the different railway stations in this work and has figured in scores of exciting episodes. When she concluded to write a scenario on her experiences she consulted Chief of Police John J. Garrity and Chief of Detectives James Mooney. She thought the film would be not alone popular, but would, at least in a measure, safeguard girls coming from the country.

The police executives agreed to aid Miss Clement's venture, even to the extent of appearing in the picture as actors, which both they and a number of other policemen did.

Here comes an odd angle into the story. Chief Garrity is the head of the Board of Censors. On September 25, when the film was shown to the board in the City Hall, the members abruptly refused to pass the picture. Chief Garrity's duties that day made it impossible for him to be in attendance. According to Mr. Gottlieb, the members of the board made no charge of any kind against the film, and some of the members told him, he said, that they did not wish to enter into any argument in the premises. When the matter was brought to Chief Garrity's attention he treated it lightly, but declined to make a statement to the newspapers.

Just what is the matter with the Chief's board is one of the things the newspaper men have not yet solved. They are feverishly trying to do so. Mr. Gottlieb called at The Billboard office today and asked that if necessary the picture will be shown to the City Council as a body, or, if necessary in a fast effort, the Appellate Court will be invoked.

Miss Clement told this publication that Aaron J. Jones and Ralph Kettering, of Jones, Linick & Schaefer, had viewed the film at her solicitation, and, after suggesting some minor changes, which were made, had told her it should be a success. The film had already been booked in the Bandbox Theater this week, and was canceled following the action of the Board of Censors.

THEATER COSTS $8,000,000

New York, Oct. 2.—In an article in a recent issue of The Dallas (Tex.) Morning News, E. M. Dealey, staff correspondent of The News, speaks of the National Theater, which is about three-quarters completed, in the City of Mexico. It is an enormous building with domed roof and walls of white stone, no work being done on it since the fall of Diaz. When work was stopped, Dealey says, about $8,000,000 had been spent on its construction. One of the curtains of the theater was made by Tiffany's, and is said to have cost $10,000 ten years ago. One of the interesting places spoken of in the Dealey story is the Fronton Nacional, where the Pelota games are played, Pelota being a game resembling our hand ball. While attending the Covadonga Fiesta Mr. Dealey heard the band which is to play at the Dallas Fair. It is the leading band of the City of Mexico and, Dealey says: "It is as good a band as I have ever listened to. State fair visitors have a treat in store for them."

ROSA RAISA A BRIDE

Bangor, Me., Oct. 3.—Rosa Raisa, noted opera singer, has announced her marriage to Giacomo Rimini, opera baritone. The ceremony took place in Naples, Italy, just before the couple sailed for this country. They reached New York last Thursday. Both are members of the Chicago Opera Company and are here for the musical festival.

ROB THEATER—CAPTURED

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 3.—Four yeggmen were discovered this morning burglarizing the safe of the Stratford Theater here. One of the quartet escaped, but three were captured with a bag containing $2,000 in cash. The office of the theater was wrecked and the safe ripped open. Several thousand dollars in Liberty Bonds were overlooked in the confusion.

The value attached to The Billboard as a "best seller" by the news-dealer is very graphically shown by the accompanying illustration which was authorized by the Kansas City circulation promotion representative of The Billboard. This stand is located in the railroad terminal station, Kansas City, and is one of the stands of the Fred Harvey system. Mr. D. J. Greenwald, the enterprising manager of this stand, refused to grace the picture with his presence.

SOUSA OPENS SEASON

At Renovated Lyric Theater, Baltimore —Noted Bandmaster Offers New March and Entertains Audience With Speech

Baltimore, Sept. 30.—If the snap and go of Sousa, the "march king," and his band are indicative of the season formally opened with a concert by that organization last Monday night, the renovated Lyric is destined to play an even greater part in the musical history of Baltimore than it has in the past.

Enthusiasm was rampant, and the audience was one of the largest ever seen in the big music hall. The "standing room only" sign was out when Dr. Hugh H. Young, president of the Lyric Association, opened the proceedings with a brief address. As he closed he called on Governor Ritchie, who, speaking from one of the boxes, expressed full confidence that the high expectations entertained in connection with the acquisition of the Lyric would be realized.

No sooner had the Governor resumed his seat than the band began its part of the program by breaking into the strains of a composition written especially for the occasion.

In the middle of the program the bandmaster made a few remarks on his appearance in Baltimore, and especially on the improved aspect of the Lyric. He then called upon Mayor Brown, who occupied a box opposite the Governor.

The present decorative scheme of the theater is decidedly cheerful, without the slightest touch of the garish. It is all in a high but softly modulated key—French grays and ivory predominating—with touches of gold and garnet for relief. Pink shaded lights illumine the boxes and also the lobby, and thick new carpets cover the floor. The lighting arrangements are a particularly welcome relief, and especially pleasing are the alterations that have been made in the entrance, the foyer, the smoking room and the ladies' dressing room.

All in all the Lyric can now be compared favorably with the best music halls of other cities.

SUE FOR ACCOUNTING

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 29.—The business of the Garrick Theater in Minneapolis always had been conducted faithfully and skillfully, according to the answer filed in United States district court yesterday by Pierre Butler, attorney for Finkelstein & Ruben, in the suit brought by H. N. Backus and other former stockholders against the theater management for an accounting of stock.

Finkelstein & Ruben deny the allegation of the stockholders that no dividends were paid, and declare no greater expense was ever charged against the New Garrick Theater than that incurred in skillful and business-like management.

The stockholders are asking permission to examine the books of the theater. Judge Wibur F. Booth said he would take under consideration the petition of the stockholders and the cast of the company.

DISCREPANCIES

Cited by Showmen, Who Claim Oklahoma Railroads Do Not Conform to Commission's Ruling

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 4.—The corporation commission has set October 12 for rehearing of the controversy between circus and carnival men and the railroads.

Since the recent order by the board, issued to govern transportation of shows and circuses, neither the showmen nor railroads are satisfied. The circus people have complained the roads are not obeying the order, and the roads have served notice of appeal from the board's ruling to the Supreme Court.

The Santa Fe, since the order by the board, charged $1,814.52 for hauling the Ringling Bros.' Circus trains from Oklahoma City to Fort Worth 201 miles, it is claimed, while the Frisco road charged $3,215 for hauling the same trains from Tulsa to Oklahoma City, a distance of only 118 miles. It is against the apparent inequality that the show people are protesting.

It is announced by the commission that details of the differences will be investigated more thoroughly at the next hearing, and an order made that will not be easily misinterpreted.

Judge Henshaw has been engaged to assist the showmen at the rehearing. W. H. Rice reports that Fred Buchanan, of the Yankee Robinson Circus, has sent Will J. Farley, secretary of COMA, $125 for his 25 cars, and will give $500 more if needed.

Lack of attractions may influence Mr. Linton to run motion pictures with perhaps a combination program when unable to get a show. Two Gus Hill shows have played the Linton this season, both making money at $1.50 top.

A BIG ONE

Put Over by Press Agents

When James M. Cox, Presidential Nominee, Is "Snapped" With Showman

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 3.—Erville Sutton, press agent for the Oklahoma State Fair, and Beverly White, press agent for Clarence A. Wortham's World's Best Shows, put over a big one in Oklahoma City when they photographed Governor James M. Cox, the Democratic Presidential nominee; Sheik Clarence A. Wortham, Mayor J. C. Walton of Oklahoma City; Johan Aason, the Norwegian giant, and Edw. A. Bronson, secretary of the Oklahoma Press Association, at the fair grounds Friday by a clever ruse.

The press agents concealed Mr. Wortham, Giant Aason and Mr. Bronson in a cattle barn which Governor Cox had to pass. At the crucial moment Mr. White stepped in front of the candidate's machine, while the trio stepped out of the cattle barn and alongside the car. "Governor," said Mr. Bronson, "please pose for a picture for The Oklahoma Press."

Governor Cox arose. Directly in front of him was the Mayor. Beside the car were Mr. Wortham, Mr. Bronson and Aason, the giant. Four cameras, already carefully focused, clicked. The candidate's party drove on. Saturday morning a thousand picture postcards went thru the mails bearing the picture of Governor Cox, Mayor Walton, Mr. Bronson, Mr. Wortham and Mr. Aason, the giant.

The Latest News and This Week's Reviews This Week

NO TRUTH IN STATEMENT

That A. A. F. Is To Be Dissolved and Taken Over as Department by A. E. A., With Mountford and FitzPatrick as Equity Organizers

JUST ANOTHER ONE OF THOSE PIPE-DREAMS "VERACITY" IS NOTED FOR

Says Mountford: "Veracity" Has Been Hoaxed Again and as Usual Swallowed the Kidding Eagerly—Swallowed It Hook, Line and Sinker"—Yarn Gets Big Laugh From Gillmore

A story amazing in misstatement and inference appeared in Veracity last week. The garbled, twisted yarn had it that the A. A. F. was to be dissolved, that the Actors' Equity Association was to supersede it, that Mr. Mountford was to be made an Equity organizer and that James W. FitzPatrick was to be retained in a similar capacity.

The romancer who wrote the tale quite outdid himself, marshaling conjecture, fancy and pipe-dream to his purpose and weaving them together with either blunder, ignorance or inspired mendacity.

There is nothing in it—at least so nearly nothing that it can serve no purpose other than to mislead and confuse all those credulous members of the profession who peruse it.

It is a deliberate and flagrant case of manufacturing news—a switch back to the methods that obtained among yellow papers forty years ago, when the rule was: "If news stories do not break make them—and make them lurid." There is not sufficient fact in it to hang it on.

The author probably took his cue from an editorial in our last issue stating that Fred High would probably organize the chautauqua people, made a wild and blundering guess at its significance, and after reaching his deductions recounted them sneered up with much misinforming, gross exaggeration and plain spoofing.

When Mr. Mountford had been prevailed upon to glance thru it he merely smiled broadly and remarked: "Veracity has been hoaxed again and as usual swallowed the kidding eagerly—swallowed it hook, line and sinker."

"Do you wish to deny it, Mr. Mountford?" he was asked.

"Deny drive like that!" he laughed. "Why? No actor with the intelligence of a ten-year-old child will credit it. Why dignify the vaporings of an ignoramus with notice? Ignore it."

Mr. Gillmore laughed long and loudly when it was brought to his attention.

"It does seem as if the author," he chuckled, "might have got at least one assertion or statement right out of so many."

"Deny it! Tut, tut. It is an excellent bit of humor."

But for all of that we feel that there are some actors and artists, too, that will credit the amazing mess of bunk or parts of it. You can fool a certain class of players all of the time. They are bunk addicts. So to these be it known "Equity has not the slightest intention of taking over the A. A. F. It has never entertained any such desire. It would not if it could and it could not if it would."

Nothing that has ever transpired officially or otherwise would lead anyone but the possessor of a disordered mind or a foolishly credulous one to suppose any such move was contemplated.

Last year Mr. Toohy put on a similar act with other riders and packed his house for an entire week.

The merest child can see that no possible advantage would result, but that on the contrary endless jurisdictional friction and dispute would result.

Perhaps Veracity saw this much clearly and the wish was father to the thought, but the likelier inference is that some practical joker has fed her one.

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, October 4)

A rather peculiar bill is presented here this week. It is hard to analyze.

Margaret Taylor opens with a novel wire act. She shows that there are still some feats in this line that get a hand. There are other ways of killing time besides trying to sing, a fact that is not as generally understood as it should be. Eight minutes.

Rae Eleanor Ball and Brother do some fine work with the violin and cello. The brother is too conspicuous as a director. He gives the impression of being in a studio rather than at the theater. The lighting effects are not what they are intended to be. They make the pantomime effects more pronounced than the acting. The bird-like effects were very clear, clever and effective. They did well for fifteen minutes.

"Kiss Me" opened with the usual telephone episode. The chorus edged in at the first sign of an opening and trotted around with all the grace of a flock of elephants. They get away without being disturbed with any interruption such as applause. They try it over and do as well on their second effort as they did on their first. The entire act was well conceived, superbly costumed, but poorly acted. One spectator sighed and said: "The mountain labored and brought forth a mouse." Thirty minutes.

Barnes and Freeman have a style all their own. The speech and matter are such that no one else could steal it and get away with it. Their work is ninety-five per cent showmanship, three per cent nerve and worth and the rest is tucked away in two per cent. They are real laugh producers. Seventeen minutes.

Owen McGivern presents what he styles "A Quick Change Episode from Dickens." A truly marvelous quick change stunt. One wonders how he can do it. The characters of the sketch are from "Oliver Twist," the scenery is truly Dickensian, in fact, a Dickensian atmosphere surrounds the play, yet there is hardly a line from Dickens in the sketch. This may be just as well, for the words of the actor are very indistinct. The characters are poorly drawn, badly acted, illy costumed. They appear almost grotesque at times. "Bill Sikes" is like a coal heaver. "Nancy Sikes" a fish-wife, "Fagin" a Baxter street pawnbroker. Yet McGivern holds the audience spellbound by the rapidity of his transitions in character, and displays genius in "putting it over."

Ed Healy and A. Grossman, songbirds who sing and say things that please and entertain. Nothing distinctly good or bad about this act. It just went well, that's all. Fifteen minutes.

Maria Nordstrom showed all monologist artists how to lift the monolog into the realm of real dramatic art. She has a sketch that is classic in matter and workmanship. She acts up to the opportunities presented, and is so clever and realistic in her character presentation and the sentiment that is back of it all that she actually stunned the audience with the reality of her effort. Twenty minutes.

Moss and Frye have their usual killing with "How High Is Up," and a thousand more just as cleverly foolish questions and quips and situations. They are the real funmakers of the bill. Their voices blend in perfect harmony. They cleaned up, took three bows and went away.

The Three Danolise Sisters deserve credit for staging a closing act that starts right in with the desire to please and they have cut out all efforts to stall along. They do some very good work that justified all the audience in waiting until the very close. Five minutes.—FRED HIGH.

Pantages, San Francisco

(Reviewed Sunday Matinee, October 3)

A packed house greeted the opening of this week's bill at Pantages, which but for the usual poor seating arrangements would have filled the bill in every particular.

Mack and Williams, novelty dancers, opened the vaudeville end of the bill, following pictures. It took the audience some time to warm up, but the team wound up their turn with a bang and secured two bows and a generous round of applause. Both man and woman of team are clever steppers.

Gus and Esther Elmore, in second spot, stopped the show with a comedy turn, entitled "Circus Days." Gus as the wild man had the audience verging on hysteria.

Howard and Fields have the third place on the bill and with the assistance of Oscar Lee present a clever blackface turn, "The Ragtime Dining Car." They furnish some good harmony and a clever line of humor. Three bows.

Steed's Syncopated Sextet have this spot, together with Anna Mae Bell and Ralph Hertlets. Jazz music, harmonizing and solo singing. Unusually attractive set and altogether a finished act. Generous applause.

Jarrow, the humorous trickster, stopped the show in the next to last spot with some fast card work and his original lemon trick. Stopped the show twice. Four bows.

The Columbia Park Boys' Band, a local organization of boys, wound up the show with band selections and made big hit with the audience.—STUART B. DUNBAR.

B. F. KEITH'S PALACE NEW YORK
AMERICA'S FOREMOST THEATER DEVOTED TO VAUDEVILLE

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, October 4)

Mere man played no part in the scoring of the hits this afternoon worthy of any especial recording unless it was John McFarlane in Valeska Suratt's offering. Woman, lovely, talented and artful, swept everything before her.

The house was packed by the end of the third act, and weather conditions favored materially in enhancing the value of the presentations because it was comfortable within. No criticism can be advanced that would aid the vaudeville hereinafter recorded, as every act was one of merit and justly entitled to be classed as diversified entertainment.

At 1:50 Frederick F. Daab started with an overture.

1:58—The Gelli Troupe of accomplished acrobats occupied full stage, with special "props." One male midget, a girl and three men, make up this French Risley novelty combination. They have a decidedly different mien and routine and scored with several bows.

2:00—The Marconi Brothers, two accordionists, played a well chosen program before a regular house drop, in one, or, should it be said, a special black one—matters not. They know the instruments and did as well as any act could expect in the position.

2:12—EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION. George Choos again presented his tabloid musical revue, "The Little Cottage." Ten comely maidens amid sumptuous surroundings and gorgeous costumes enable Frank Sinclair, Cliff Dixon and Goldie Collins to get all there is to it, over to a solid hit. There is plenty of entertainment to satisfy the most exacting.

2:45—ENGAGEMENT EXTRAORDINARY. Kate Ellmore and Sam Williams did James Madison's comedy conception, "Wanted, a Cook," which is a capital vehicle for the talent of the players. The stage structure is practically the same as employed in their former offering. The comedy and song material are old and new and of the hit and miss variety, mostly depending on the costuming worn by Miss Elinore and the antics indulged in by her for success, and that is not questioned.

3:03—FEATURE EXTRAORDINARY. Yvette Rugel, a real queen of song, with Albert Hookey at the piano. Since showing this house last time this gifted woman has rounded into an artist that vaudeville will do well to retain as its very own. She had her own way from her opening medley until the exit with "My Persian Rose." One would expect any moment that the stage would be covered with flowers. Nay, not so, tho she deserved them.

3:20—INTERMISSION, with an orchestra selection, while the folks were being watered by the aristocrats of New York's lady ushers.

3:27—"Topics of the Day," with music, did much better than usual, the big laughs going to excerpts from New York World, Harper's Weekly, Houston Post, Winnipeg Free Press, Wichita Eagle, Jack Canuck and Salt Lake City Free Press.

3:34—EXTRA FEATURE. Mae and Rose Wilton, versatile entertainers to His Majesty the American Vaudeville Fan, lived up to their former hit at this house. They used the same material as before, with the exception of the opening and closing songs. The Misses Wilton are fast finding themselves and are broadening out, getting away fast from a set routine so fatal to other so-called "youthful entertainers."

3:49—ENGAGEMENT DE LUXE. Valeska Suratt and Her Players, John McFarlane and Jack Hayden, assisted by two other men and a woman, not named, did in masterful fashion "Scarlet," a melodramatic farce-comedy of the life of "two souls with but a single heart," one from the "life above" and the other of the lower strata. Jack Lait has gone over the heads of his contemporaries in this so different story of love and longing between woman and man of the two different spheres in life that he leaves room for a great question as to the moral sanity of the theme. It will draw and please. To review its intricate maneuverings would require columns. Suffice, we will maintain that it suits the talents of the star and first male assistant, both of whom scored emphatically. Chester De Vonde is credited with the staging, and he has made much of it.

4:30—EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION. Margaret Young, apparently a newcomer at this house, but well known in vaudeville in this city, stopped the performance with talent and material of the Sapollo variety. She sings songs with force and a natural smile always in evidence. She had to do "Oh, By Jingo" and "My Little Bimbo" before they would let her go.

4:55—George N. Brown was given the stage to do his walking. At the same time the audience started to do some of theirs. "Pedestrianism," as presented by this showman, has become a distinctive stage act and will endure as long in the two-a-day as is the wont of George N. Brown.

No programs or Kinograms. Both seem to have become synonymous by reason of frequent absence.—WILLIAM JUDKINS HEWITT.

SET HIP, ELEPHANT'S LEG

New York, Sept. 29.—Jennie, the elephant that does the ahimmie at the Hippodrome, aided materially in setting the leg of Lena, her stable mate, when the latter slipped off a platform this week and dislocated the stifle joint. Proper padding was placed about the injured foot and with block and tackle fitted up and Jennie pulling strong at the other end, Lena's dislocated limb was set and she is now as well as ever, except for a slight lameness.

WANTS "WIZARDS EXTRAORDINARY"

New York, Sept. 29.—In a communication to The Billboard, Esther Miles Stanley writes from her home, 307 Jefferson street, Muncie, Ind., that she is anxious to get in touch with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bronson, known professionally as "The Wizards Extraordinary." She has something of importance to tell them.

YANCEY AND YANCEY HOME

Yancey and Yancey, comedy sketch team, will be at their home in DuQuoin, Ill., for a few weeks, as Mrs. Yancey is suffering from a broken arm as the result of an auto wreck. The team recently closed with the Daly Big Fun Show, with which they had been for ten months.

TED LEWIS ROBBED

Toledo, O., Oct. 2.—Ted Lewis, one of the principal players in the "Greenwich Village Follies," reported that thieves had entered his room at a hotel here and stolen money and jewelry to the amount of $2,500, besides taking furs and jewelry belonging to his wife.

VAUDEVILLE NOTES

Charles Reed is doing well playing in and around Chicago with his blackface singing, talking and drum major acapinity.

Murry Weston writes that he will spend the fall and winter in Brooklyn. He also announces his engagement to Miss Helen G. Lewis of Brooklyn.

Andy McLaughlin writes that he is with Tom Powell's act, "At the Turn Pike," finishing out a few weeks before starting on Butterfield Time. "Everything lovely and business pretty good all along the line," he says.

Palace, Chicago

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, October 4)

The Palace Theater opened today to a full house and a bill of really exceptional merit.

La Toy and Vesta, in "Something Different," were splendid. It was good, clean comedy high, sustained all the way thru. Ten minutes, in three; four bows.

"The Man on the Ice Wagon," whose name was not bulletined, stopped the show and kept it stopped within all reasonable limitations. He is a lyric tenor, and he stayed away from all alapstick and made them love it. After singing a number of popular airs he made his strong stand in Tosti's "Goodbye," and received an unquestioned ovation. Encores and many bows.

Jack Dillon and Company in "The Frameup" presented Al Racklin, Guy Kibbee and Jane Dillon and gave us a touch of real drama. The judge, the attorney and the defendant, who was Jane, brought back us back almost to the old melodrama days. All were good, all consistent and all effective. Eighteen minutes, full stage; four bows.

Frances Pritchard, in "The Dance Duet," featured three dancers, all of whom are deserving of emphatic praise. Twelve minutes, in two; one encore and three bows.

Harry Anger and Netta Packer, in "Two Fifth Avenue Types," they stopped the show again thru sheer clean, catchy comedy. One encore, several bows, all in fourteen minutes; in three.

Harry Carroll and Co., in "Varieties of 1920," sustained the strong merit of the bill. Grace Fisher, Tom Dingle, Patsy Delaney and Ruth Savoy appeared. It's a musical and conversational mixture. Was worth applause and got it in plenty. Sixteen minutes, full stage, and quite a few bows.

Anthony Hughes and Ollie Debow, in "Two Duds from Dixie," gave us one of the best blackface teams we have had in moons. These boys are well known here. They don't overdo and they have some clever stunts all their own. They work fast and there is no lost motion. They are really funny.

Walter Ward and Ethel Dooley, in "What Can We Do," closed the bill and held the crowd, which had been encouraged by the previous numbers. It is a talking and singing act and the team is well up in its work. Nine minutes, in three; two bows.—FRED HOLLMAN.

Keeney's Theater, Newark

(Reviewed Friday, October 1)

A good comedy bill and many of the acts appear to be of the high price sort, tho only act that could hardly be termed even little big time being the Three Alverettas, billed as European Eccentrics. It wasn't even good humor. They appear in second spot, full stage bedroom set. Opening with all three men asleep and their bare feet sticking out toward the audience. They maul each other up, toss bed clothes about and do marathons about the stage to the amusement of a few simple-minded people in an otherwise intelligent audience. A person amused at their brand of wit would eat peanuts at his grandmother's funeral.

Robert and Gold open the bill. Good singing comedians with some fair material.

Three Alverettas on second. Wheeler and Potter in third spot. Man and woman. Both make a very neat appearance and use a unique opening in "one." The man develops into a remarkable eccentric dancer of the soft shoe variety and the girl is a talented singer and dancer. Very good act.

Arthur Finn and Company in the well-known "Music in the Trenches" act have a wacko setting, but in spite of this the house is regaled with some clever verbal cross fire, and the girl in the act as well as the blackface comedian easily score. There is also a "straight" man in the turn who acts as a "feeder."

Henry and Hoyt on next in a song review. Special drop and the use of the twin "baby spots" in the footlights trough helps make the act more effective. The young man sings popular songs and the girl appears in a hoop skirt in the opposite end of the stage and responds with some familiar old ballads, to show contrast.

Manning and Leonard, billed as "Two Gentlemen From Nowhere," have sixth position on the bill. Eccentric makeup and dances. They are very good and offer a novel act.

Thornton Flynn and Company next. Man and woman in parlor act, using a Victrola in connection with a McCormack song, which Flynn sings with the record. The woman ought to try and get her lines over more effectively. As it is her piano playing is about her only stage asset.

Ash and Hyans, Hebrew talking and singing comedians, in one, get over with up-to-date

Noted Magician, Houdini's Secretary, Poet and Friend of All, Buried in Bangor, Maine

New York, Sept. 29.—The funeral services of John W. Sargent, Houdini's secretary, who died recently, were held at the Campbell's Funeral Church, and the burial was beside his only daughter, Bertha Lord, in the family plot at Bangor, Me. In his funeral sermon the officiating pastor referred to Mr. Sargent as being a magician with a good heart. "His magic was white magic," said the minister. Among the many famous people who attended the services were Houdini and Mrs. Houdini, Oscar Steele, G. G. Laurence, Dr. and Mrs. Hartley, George W. Heller, William Berol, Elmer P. Ransom, T. Francis Fritz, Mrs. Hornmann, R. H. Fitch, secretary of the S. A. M., Lieut. Arthur B. Chase, Mrs. Grace Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Werner and P. H. Cannon, 90 years old and the oldest living magician, who came over from his home in Bloomfield, N. J., to attend the funeral.

Dean Keller sent a lengthy telegram to Mrs. Sargent from the coast and the casket was blanketed with floral tributes, which were later distributed to New York City hospitals. Mrs. Sargent was accompanied by her niece, who also accompanied her to Bangor. On the breast of his coat the dead Sargent wore the emblem of the S. A. M., in which organization he had held an unbroken chain of offices from the time of its inception. He was its second president, an office now held by Houdini, and at the time of his death was a member of the council. He had been a friend of Houdini for the past thirty years and for the past three years had been Houdini's private secretary. He also represented the San Francisco branch of the S. A. M.

Mr. Sargent was one of the thirteen men to organize the S. A. M., and was its first secretary. He was also the first member to lay down a $2 bill, representing the first year's dues. His ancestry dated back to the Mayflower and he had been an exceptionally clever magician, and was also noted for his poetry.

"PAUL" SHOW STOPS

New York, Oct. 2.—"Edwarda," who styles his act as "Marie Ventriloquist," called at The Billboard office this morning from Philadelphia. He stated that "Paul, the American Magician," opened a road tour September 20 at Havre de Grace, Md., and closed eight days later in Milton, Pa. Ten people were carried, he said, and S. O. Paul did the principal work of the performance, which included, besides, his ventriloquist offering. Mr. Edwards attributes the early closing to local conditions which would not permit $1.50, and owing to overhead expense. Mr. Paul figured the performance could not be given for less. Paul and Edwards both plan to enter vaudeville singly.

New York, Oct. 2.—T. P. J. Power, general manager "The Klitties Band," of Belleville, Ont., was called to the city this week to attend the funeral of his brother, the late W. W. Power. "JUST VAUDEVILLE" By WILLIAM JUDKINS HEWITT

Address Communications, Care New York Office, 1493 Broadway.

WHERE VAUDEVILLE HAD ITS ORIGIN. "LES VAUX DE VIRE" STARTED VARIETY SHOW NAME. Says THE NEW YORK EVENING SUN, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, in the following: "The Fairest Lady, who would be a much pleasanter companion if she weren't always thinking of a fool question like that, turned to her escort at the variety show the other night, during the intermission, and asked him where the word, 'vaudeville,' came from anyway."

"Movies" is simple. Anyone can trace the origin of the word originally coined by Young America, and now generally used. The British 'cinema,' applied to cinematograph pictures, is also easily traced.

"It wasn't until next day that the escort—who had pretended not to hear the Fairest Lady's question—got a chance to look it up. Then he found that the word came from the French words, 'les Vaux de Vire,'—two valleys in Normandy, where originated many humorous and satirical drinking songs that became popular all over France—known by the name of the place of their origin. Eventually the word became corrupted to 'vaudeville,' and was applied to a certain kind of popular song. Its application was limited to such songs until the end of the eighteenth century, when it began to refer also to an entertainment that included singing and dancing, as well as dancing and variety acts."—THANKS TO "THE SUN" WE NOW KNOW WHERE VAUDEVILLE ORIGINATED. If anyone in the business has any objection to the foregoing we would be pleased to hear from them.

This is the season of long routes.

As much as two years consecutive booking is starting some artists in the face. Is there a man so narrow that he would say vaudeville is not going ahead?

B. S. Moss' Coliseum seats 3,500. It's the largest theater in New York (except two others, the Capitol and Hippodrome).

MR. E. F. ALBEE, B. F. Keith's Palace Theater, New York. Dear Mr. Albee—We are informed that the Palace Theater, on Wednesday morning each week, is now a "try-out" house. Kindly pardon our presumption in suggesting "Mornings" for the exclusive entertainment of children from the various Orphan Homes and other institutions that care for the neglected and transient ones of this and nearby towns and cities. Make up the program of inspirational talks, as well as amusing ones like "Punch and Judy," magical, ventriloquist, juggling, musical and character studies, cartoon comedies and educational pictures. Moral—Educate children to appreciate vaudeville like the circus man does for the circus and the carnival man for the carnival. Thanks.

It's the orchestra that drives a lot of 'em crazy.

Table with 2 columns: Act Name and Performer. Includes EIGHT ACT BILL, OVERTURE, INTERNATIONAL NEWS REEL, and COLORED ILLUSTRATED SONGS.

It's been a long time since we have seen an acrobat do a "forward" under a table. Arthur Daly of the old team of Baldwin and Daly did it.

Nothing is more pleasing for the youthful vaudeville fan than a musical or acrobatic clown. All of us are youthful. Let's have more of 'em.

"Bluch" Landlof—What about the new act?

We do believe that Martin Beck is not particularly interested in our new invention—the "self-playing" golf ball.

If an artist wants to work regularly and have his appearance on the circuit become an annual event—just let him buy stock in the said circuit.

ARTISTS DO THESE: Buy Liberty Bonds. Take out life, accident and public liability insurance. Bank a good portion of your earnings. Stop booking those "hop, skip and jump" routes.

Use your own minds. Take the initiative in things you know and are convinced are good for your profession.

ARTISTS—DON'T DO THESE: "Tip, just to be a good fellow." "Listen to scandal about acts on the bill with you."

"Trust every agent just because he has his name on a door and a pretty stenographer." "Send your laundry to New York to be washed when you are playing outside the metropolitan district." "Break up an act just because you can do it."

"Follow in the footsteps of the professional agitator."

EDDIE LEONARD—Kindly put that dance you do with the "sand" back in your act. Criticism, as printed in the trade papers, is generally just the opinion of one person—but my how it does circulate if it is printed in those with a hale and hearty circulation. Many artists say they do not care what is said of their act—but they do.

HOW THEY WERE ONCE BILLED: "Irish comedian." "Song and Dance." "Musical mokes." "Singing comedian." "Club juggler." "Wire walker." "Tramp juggler."

JOHN P. MARTIN says: "Gus Sun vaudeville may not be seen on Broadway, and he will have his name over the door. We have had such vaudeville on the big street for years—but under another trade-mark."

Wise men have always looked toward the sun.

Many stories have been told of James Thurston. This one is not so bad. He wandered into the lobby of a vaudeville theater, read the bill, which listed a reform lecturer, two base ball players, the local mayor doing a monolog and the chief of police juggling switchmen's lamps. James walked to the box-office and inquired what week the house played actors. The boy in the box-office said: "Why?" To this Thurston informed him that he would pay to see actors, but never for such as the house was then offering.

Roger Imhoff is the only man we have ever seen who could make people laugh by shoveling coal.

Have you heard about the new big vaudeville combination? Well, it's in the making. Talk about a vaudeville war? Why not? Nothing like it will ever have been witnessed before.

What Henry Ford did for the automobile business Gus Sun and Alexander Pantages can do for the vaudeville game, aided and abetted by the tangible connections soon to be available.

NORMAN, THE "FROG MAN," says if a person is born lazy, or just becomes habitually so, he has no business taking up space in vaudeville's mad whirl.

We know some "leg" drops that look bow-legged from the front.

There is a vaudeville theater on Broadway that needs some reasonable "drops" and appropriate settings for acts that work in one.

What does this "guy," Hewitt, know about vaudeville anyhow?

Some of the "Topic's" paragraphs are as old, we will say for instance, as Hostetter's Stomach Bitter, Beecham's Pills or Sloan's Liniment. Should be of "the Day," not of yesterday, to be consistent with the caption.

REASONS FOR NOT GOING INTO VAUDE: "Absence of talent."

NOVELTIES: All-women bills. All-men bills. Bills made up of acts that have been in the business for a quarter of a century. A quartet of male singers with whiskers below their knees. Transformation acts. Sylvester Schaffer. A quartet of old maids, with short hair, wearing business suits and high silk hats of the vintage of 1861 and '65. Pianos all over the stage—are not. Dancers imitating stars of the profession—are not. Midget and fat men quartets. Violinists playing "Humoresque"—are not. $10,000 worth of scenery and 10 cents worth of talent—are not.

Alfredo handed us a card, on which appears: "Do you know BERT SPEARS, in the Boston office of KEITH'S VAUDEVILLE EXCHANGE? Bert has resigned, and leaves the firm October 9. We don't know where he is going, or what he is to do, but here is a chance to show a regular fellow that he has the best wishes of thousands whom he has befriended, favored and cheered. Send him your best wishes—by letter, postcard or telegram—and let him know that we wish him luck, whatever he plans or wherever he goes. It's an opportunity to show one of the real 'Soldiers of Show Business' that we wish him well. Get your friends to do the same and give him a royal sendoff. Do it today!"

BUTTE THEATER

Badly Damaged by Fire

Butte, Mont., Sept. 29.—Final estimates place the damage from the fire which broke out in the People's Theater at 2 a.m. Friday at from $35,000 to $40,000. The roof was destroyed, crashing down into the auditorium and wrecking the balcony. An investigation indicated that the blaze started in the balcony some hours before the alarm was turned in.

No plans for repairing the structure have been made by the National Investment Company, which owns the theater. The building was valued at $100,000 and carried $60,000 insurance, it was said.

SARATOGA TO REOPEN

Chicago, Oct. 3.—One of Chicago's historic hotel titles—the Tremont—is to be placed on another historic tavern, the old Saratoga Hotel. The latter place, known to show people from Coast to Coast, has been closed up for some months thru litigation. A. Sluger, who operates the Union Hotel, Randolph street, has leased all the upper floors of the eight-story building for a term rental of $372,500.

The remaining weeks of October will be played at Dayton, Columbus and Toledo. The Polish artiste has sold her European home, and intends to make her permanent home in this country, it is said.

CHASING THE GLOOMS

New York, Oct. 2.—The hatchet is buried. Suffers Breakdown and Cancels Engagements

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 1.—Daisy Nellis, the distinguished American pianiste, who has been touring the Orpheum Circuit, suffered a nervous breakdown today and was forced to cancel her entire list of engagements over the two-day circuit. She has been playing at the local Orpheum up to today and made a decided hit. She left for her home in Kansas City this afternoon.

KEITH ESTATE INVENTORY

New York, Sept. 30.—An inventory of the estate of A. Paul Keith in Massachusetts has been filed in Suffolk Probate Court office, Boston, by executors of the estate and shows the theatrical man left personal property and real estate to the value of $3,883,424.80. The real estate is valued at $1,207,245, represented chiefly by the Keith Theater in Boston and real estate in Boston, Marblehead, Swampscott and Lowell. Personal property left by Mr. Keith amounted to $2,670,179.60, representing stock, theaters and other securities, together with $200,000 in Liberty Bonds. The value of Keith property in other States, consisting chiefly of theatrical property, will be determined thru court proceedings in these States.

RAIN? HERE'S AN UMBRELLA!

New York, Oct. 1.—A unique innovation has been installed by Harry Shirley, manager of the Palace Theater, of Schenectady, N. Y., who recently succeeded to the management of this house, following his brother, William M. Shirley, accepting a position of general manager for the Spiegel interests in New York. Patrons of the Palace on rainy days are given umbrellas by making a small deposit. The deposit is returned to patrons when they return the rainstick. This system will be installed in all the Spiegel motion picture houses, it is announced.

NEW LOEW THEATER OPENING

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 30.—The opening date of the magnificent new Loew State Theater in Memphis, Tenn., has been tentatively set for October 7 by E. A. Shiller, general representative of the Loew Southern and Southwestern Circuit. The new house represents an outlay of $1,250,000, and will seat 3,500 people. It has been announced that Marcus Loew and many other notables from the stage and screen will be present at the opening.

"FASHION" ACT TO CANADA

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 1.—Hugo Jansen's "Fashions-A-La-Carte," under the management of Roy Wilcox, has finished the tour of the Loew Southern and Southwestern Circuit. Wilcox will now pilot the act over the Loew Canadian Circuit and will follow up with the Eastern Time. Telma McCarthy has been released from the P. and S. Hospital of San Antonio, Tex., and has again joined the act, assuming her original role.

PRESS & ADVANCE AGENTS

Julius Michael is doing the advance work for the "Powder Puff Revue."

The man ahead of "Oh, Daddy," a Kilroy-Britton production, this year is Al Oakes.

Michael Hennessy, connected for several years with the Jefferson Theater at Auburn, N. Y., has become advance man for the "Buddies" Company.

W. H. Brownell, a well-known manager, will be seen this season as manager of the Great Blackstone, magician. The show is now playing the Trans-Canada Circuit.

Harry Lambert, ahead of Edna Goodrich, and M. F. Coughlin and Harry Gilbert, with the "Million Dollar Doll in Paris," spent a very pleasant day together in Fargo, N. D., recently.

Mrs. J. B. Swafford, wife of the well-known show manager and agent, has been confined to the Rutland Hospital, Rutland, Vt., on account of illness for some time. Manager Swafford is staying in Rutland until she is fully recovered.

Chas. (Kid) Koster will have charge of the advance with the new burlesque attraction, "Wine, Women and Song," being launched by the Superior Amusement Co., of Cleveland. Harry Johnson will be second man.

Paul (Dudley) Hollen, a former press advance agent, and Vanya Swartz, a non-professional, were married at Parsons, W. Va., September 22. They will reside in Richwood, W. Va., where Mr. Hollen is manager of the Oakford Theater.

On a post card bearing the legend, "Happiness is a habit worth cultivating," E. J. Sharpsteen sends the announcement of the arrival recently of a little "Sharpy." So Sharpy has found happiness, if he did have an eccentric old uncle who made queer wills.

John W. Gates, of Billings, Mont., said to be the oldest billposter in the United States, has written The Billboard that he will go out as agent ahead of the Norton Big Funie Show. Mr. Gates is 74 years old, but writes that the Norton Show is going to have some real billing on its tour.

Harry Gilbert writes that Harvey D. Orr's "Million-Dollar Doll in Paris" opened August 22 and that business up to date has been big. "The show is the best billed I have seen in Minnesota, Iowa and the Dakotas," says Harry. M. F. Coughlin is agent for the show. Harry Gilbert second man, and Harry R. Pierce manager of the company.

Donald J. Flamm has resigned as assistant to the general press director of the Shuberts, a position he has held for three years, to embark on a publishing venture of his own, The Program Magazine Publishing Co., with offices in the Tribune Bldg., New York. The new concern will publish a weekly magazine pertaining to the movies and society.

DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGES IS MADE BY MEMBERS OF N. A. T. E.

At a mass meeting of stage hands and other theater employees, members of the National Association of Theatrical Employees, notice was given to terminate the present agreement with all London theater and vaudeville managers and demand higher wages. The matter will be handled by the Entertainments National Industrial Council's conciliation board, but, failing settlement, the matter will probably be referred to the Industrial Court, or, perhaps, a strike will be declared by N. A. T. E. The Cinema N. A. T. E. members have volunteered a 50-cent weekly strike levy. N. A. T. E. unanimously adopted the following: That this meeting instructs its executive to give 60 days' notice to terminate the present agreement and award with the Society of West End Theater Managers, the Variety Theater Managers and the Independent Hall Association, and further requests executive to submit the proposals adopted at this meeting for acceptance by the managers on the ground that present rates of pay are unfair and insufficient, and ought to be increased.

"THE WHITE-HEADED BOY" RICH IN HUMOR

Lennox Robinson's "The White-Headed Boy" was produced at the Ambassador's Theater September 27. It is a model of pure comedy, rich humor and racy human nature. Marie O'Neill, as Aunt Ellen, is excellent. Sara Allgood also is fine as the adoring mother, while Arthur Sinclair, as John Duffy, towers above the men.

"THE MEDIUM" A REAL HAIR RAISER

"The Medium," produced at the Little Theater by Grand Guignol September 27, shows how a lady with psychic gifts works as artist's model in a studio where a murder has been committed and the body hidden in a plaster column. The play is a real hair-raiser, culminating in a shudder as the lamp goes out, with a green focus revealing the face of the dead woman in the plaster debris. Sybil Thorndike, as the medium-model, gives a good performance.

"THE RIGHT TO STRIKE" CAUSES SENSATION

"The Right to Strike," presented at the Garrick Theater September 28, caused a sensation, with columns of news matter, owing to a minute section of the audience objecting to the blunt language on labor matters in Ernest Hutchinson's play. Landerdale Maitland got the honors as the signal man on strike. Charles Kenyon was vigorously convincing as the doctor who lays down his tools, but takes them up at the final curtain. Leon Lion undoubtedly has a big success in this play, but is now troubled to find another home, as "Brown Sugar" goes to the Garrick October 11. Nettlefold is supposed to have purchased the remainder of the Garrick's fourteen-year lease as from next March. Nettlefold is a wealthy man who imagines he is an actor, and his money, made in Birmingham, is spent in theatrical ventures.

"EVERY WOMAN'S PRIVILEGE" A SORRY AFFAIR

"Every Woman's Privilege" opened at the Globe Theater September 28, but is a sorry affair, and J. Hastings Turner's new play for Marie Lohr is very disappointing.

REMARKABLE RECEPTION ACCORDED "THE CROSSING"

The spiritualistic play, "The Crossing, Namely Death," received a remarkable reception at the Comedy Theater September 29. Mirjory Gordon excelled as the sympathetic daughter possessed of psychic feeling. Irene Rooke, Mera Cameron, Hubert Sarton and the rest of the characters deserve the greatest praise. "The Crossing" should have a long run.

SEYMOUR HICKS TO MANAGE LYRIC THEATER

Seymour Hicks goes into personal management of the Lyric Theater in November, producing "A Little Dutch Girl," the English version of which is by Captain Harry Giallam. The music is by Emmerich Kaimann, who is now called a Czecho-Slovak. No wonder "I Promise" Hicks pleads the cause of ex-enemy plays.

Maggie Teyte, Cicely Debenham, Laurie De Frece and Leo Darnton, a new tenor, are in the cast of "A Little Dutch Girl."

THEATRICAL NOTABLES ON WAY TO AMERICA

Charles B. Cochran, Mlle. Delysia, Mary Nash, Frank Collins, W. H. Raulings (as substitute for John Humphries) and Lauree Lane are all on the Olympic Bound for America. Robert Lorrain and Michael Morton are also on the Olympic, Lorrain on pleasure and Morton on Selwyn business. R. H. Gillespie sailed on the Aquitania.

CARL ROSA OPERA OPENS NOVEMBER 15

SON OF FAMOUS MAGICIAN DIES

Edward, better known as Archie, Mankelone, second son of the famous magician and a magician himself, has just died at the age of 44.

MYROM GILDAY PASSES ON

Myrom Gilday, of the team of Gilday and Fox, died suddenly last week. The body was cremated at Golden's Green September 29. Cass, who worked with Gilday, will continue if a suitable substitute can be found.

"NAUGHTY PRINCESS" AGAIN POSTPONED

"The Naughty Princess," due at the Adelphi September 30, has been again postponed, owing to the fact that the piece is without a leading woman. It is expected that Lily St. John, now playing the lead in "A Night Out," at the Winter Garden, or Margaret Bannerman will play the "Princess" at the Adelphi October 7.

SIR HARRY LAUDER TENDERED LUNCHEON

Members of the Scottish Musical Artists' Benevolent Fund lunched Sir Harry Lauder at the Grand Hotel, Glasgow, October 1, to celebrate the comedian's knighthood. Sir Harry got much news publicity by pawky referring to various rumors of his financial nearness. Albert Vayce, in proposing a toast to the Scottish Musical Artists' Benevolent Fund, suggested its widening its viewpoint and tackling the situation like the British Variety Artists' Benevolent Fund.

Sir Harry opens in Glasgow in November, probably at the Alhambra, then has a short London season in February, to be followed by another world tour.

OLD NOLL'S COAT OF ARMS

At Shirley Kellogg's home at New Barnet, called Shirley Grove, a coat of arms of Oliver Cromwell, elaborately engraved in oak, has been found, and it is in an excellent state of preservation, and is considered to be of considerable historic value. Numerous legends are associated with Shirley's home, which possesses many underground passages. Cromwell died in 1658, and the owner of the house in 1650 was a wealthy man named Parker, and afterwards it became the home of Sir Richard Fanshawe. De Courville prides himself that there is a celebrated ghost on the adjoining estate, said to be a member of the Mandeville family who was drowned there. This spook keeps watch and ward over a chest of gold and jewels. The association of De Courville and "ghosts," they say, is not inappropiate.

SIR JOHNSTON FORBES ROBERTSON INTERVIEWED

"It is nothing new to have a large number of American and French plays running in London. Thirty or thirty-five years ago we had to look to France for our many successes. We must recognize that American dramatists have developed greatly during the last ten or fifteen years. We must also remember that we have often sent English plays across the Atlantic. Considering how well the British productions have always been received in the States, we must not grumble if American plays are now to be the vogue in London. It has been suggested that the staging of any new French plays we are presently to see is due to a prejudice in favor of foreign names. Some people appear to think that we should produce better plays if our poets and authors were more familiar with stage technique, but many successful plays have been written by people who had no such knowledge. In my judgment it is much more important that a playwright should have a sense of drama than a knowledge of stagecraft. But I think the British playwright of today is quite a match for American or Continental competitors."

THE ITALIAN THEATER AND THE NEW SCHOOL

Catania has been celebrating the eightieth birthday of Giovanni Vega, one of Italy's greatest living writers. The famous and incomparable Sicilian actor, Angelo Musco, mounted one of Vega's plays, "Dal tuo al mio," while the versatile and prolific Pirandello gave a conference in the theater on Vega's art. It will be remembered that "Cavaliere Rusticana" is an adaptation of a story written by Vega. Altho Vega is most esteemed by cultured folk, he is by no means a popular author. He is perhaps too objective to arrive at the maximum popularity. According to some people his masterpiece is "I Malavoglia," while others consider "Don Gesualdo" his greatest work. Both belong to a series called "The Unquished," of which the first recounts the havoc wrought by Destiny in a family of fisher folk, while "Don Gesualdo" illustrates a similar theme in the houses of the bourgeoisie.

It is now suggested that some enterprising English manager should turn his attention to the modern school of Italian dramatists, and try a translation of one of Pirandello's or Rossi di San Secondo's dramas on the London stage. The latest impression of the Italian drama with the kids," was a caller at the Cincinnati office of The Billboard a few days ago, while in the city on business. Ernie, who has been with Gus Hill for seven years, and was with some of the leading shows previous to that, says that business is good with his show.

Wallace Sackett, publicity manager of the Theatre-Duffield Fireworks Company, was a caller at the Chicago office of The Billboard last week. Mr. Sackett had just returned from the State fairs in Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota and the Dakotas, where he had charge of the Theatre-Duffield fireworks spectacle, "The Siege of the Dardanelles." He will go to New York at once and will be identified with a well known star for the winter season. He has also been re-engaged for the coming season as publicity manager for the Theatre-Duffield people. Mr. Sackett has in previous years piloted the tours of Marie Wainwright, Madame Mojeska, Lewis Morrison and Bertha Galland and was the sole promoter of the benefit given the widow of Patrick Sarsfield Gilmore, bandmaster, at Manhattan Beach, several years ago.

"HUMAN AIRPLANE" THRILLS CROWDS

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 2.—"Dare Devil" Johnny Reynolds, who styles himself the "human airplane," has given several sensational exhibitions in this city and vicinity by climbing tall buildings and flag poles. This afternoon Reynolds defied death by hanging by his chin from the edge of the roof of a 10-story building.

SLAVIN TO APPEAR BEFORE DISTRICT ATTORNEY

New York, Oct. 4.—Following a week of recuperation after leaving the hospital John O. Slavin, the actor who figured recently in a dispute at the Lamb's Club, will appear before the district attorney this week and formally charge John J. Motiaw, part owner of the Giants, with responsibility for injuries received by Slavin. It is believed that Slavin's testimony will help to clear what has remained largely a mysterious affair.

BUYS LUCHS' INTERESTS

Marietta, O., Oct. 1.—The Cambridge and Marietta Amusement Co., owning and operating the Hippodrome Theater here, has taken over the interests of L. M. Luchs, for the past 23 years manager of the Auditorium Theater. The C. & M. company also takes over the Shubert and K. & E. franchises held by Luchs and henceforth road attractions will appear at the Hippodrome. Luchs will, it is understood, continue to render his services at the Auditorium for all local and home talent performances.

NOTABLES BACK FROM EUROPE

New York, Oct. 4.—Constance, Natalie and Norma Talmadge, film stars, and Commandatore Alessandro Bonci, lyric tenor of the Chicago Opera Company, were among the passengers arriving yesterday on board the Imperator. Bonci leaves for Chicago to open the opera season.

GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Billie Biddle and Elizabeth Smith, two young women employed as ticket takers at the Colonial Theater, a Cincinnati motion picture house, were given a suspended sentence after they had pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzlement. The girls testified that they were paid only nine dollars a week wages.

THEATER OWNERS ANSWER

In the suit of Margaret McHugh against Charles E. Manqua and Durban E. Volker, proprietors of the Moss Theater, Cincinnati, for injuries received when the floor of the theater lobby collapsed in August 1919, the proprietors have filed answers denying the charge of negligence.

ADMISSIONS

Tilted by Orpheum Theaters

Reason Given Is Increased Cost of Production—Only "Senior" Orpheums Affected

New York, Oct. 4.—Practically all the Orpheum senior theaters have tilted their admissions, according to reports. The reason offered at the Orpheum offices is that the cost of production has increased to an extent that makes former prices no longer possible.

According to a new agreement between the musicians' union and the Orpheum Circuit in Portland, Ore., the Orpheum Hellig Theater must employ ten musicians and the Baker, Panthea and Lyric each an orchestra of six musicians.

At the Orpheum offices today it was stated that musicians, stage crews, actors and freight and passenger transportation expenses have all taken a jump in prices and the only salvation is boosting admission prices.

GARVIE TELLS ABOUT IT

New York, Oct. 1.—In an article by Billy S. Garvie in The Hartford Daily Times of September 24 Mr. Garvie, who is an authority on such matters, tells of the opening of Hartford's first Capitol Theater in 1883. Both the old Capitol and the American theater were located in the same building, and there was a merry theatrical war between the managers of the two theaters. Wilson Ross was manager of the American and Charley Cole manager of the Capitol. Mr. Garvie devotes considerable space to a description of the oldtime programs. Hartford has a new Capitol theater now, recently completed by S. Z. Pell, on the site formerly occupied by Poll's Theater.

New York, Oct. 4.—A romance that started at the beginning of the war culminates October 27, when Marguerite Case, a cabaret girl of this city, and Lieut. Duluth, Minn., Oct. 2.—The Clinton-Meyers Company made further additions to its chain of theaters this week by taking over the theater at Proctor, a village near Duluth, and acquiring a site for a new picture house in the West End, Duluth, where a new theater, with capacity for 2,000, will be built.

Two houses, the Plaza and the Rialto, which were recently taken over by this company, have just been opened under their management. The Plaza opened Saturday night, with Charlotte Greenwood, in "Linger Longer Letty," and the Rialto opened Sunday with William S. Hart, in "Sand," a film. "The Girl in the Limousine" played at the Plaza for the remainder of the week.

Mr. Wells will rewrite and produce some new and novel features for the show prior to leaving. James E. Mr. Brophy also has sold to the same company his theaters in McAlester. It is understood that Mr. Brophy will continue to operate the old Yale Theater in Muskogee and the other theaters in his present circuit. He expects to organize a quarter-million dollar corporation, it is said, with which to buy or build theaters in cities of from three to five thousand population.

AN INTERVIEW

With Victor Sutherland

Leading Man of Blaney Players Talks Interestingly of Early Ambitions and Stage Experiences

"Isn't he a splendid looking man. He should be on Broadway." "They say stock work is very trying." "I formed an entirely different impression of Mr. Sutherland from his pictures in front of the theater." "He's familiar looking, isn't he? I wonder if I've ever seen him at the movies."

After listening to the above from a box seat at the Yorkville Theater, where the Blaney Players are proving themselves strong favorites, a Billboard representative, after the second act of Rachel Crothers' dainty comedy "39 East," made it a point to interview this Victor Sutherland person, the new Yorkville stock leading man whom the box party was making a fuss over.

"Did you ever encounter more enthusiasm in a theater?" he began. "They surely are dandy audiences to work to in Yorkville."

"There's a bet on in the right hand box," I said, "as to your nationality." Mr. Sutherland's face beamed as he stroked his curly blond hair. "One young lady insists that a man with your jovial countenance must be Irish." He smiled a broad smile. "Another says she hopes you are not an Englishman, the third lady laughing said, 'you seem too witty to have come over on His Majesty's Ship.'"

"You may convey to them if you want to that I am just a plain Kentuckian. Paducah is the town I came from. It's just across the Mason-Dixon line."

"How did you ever break into the show business living in Paducah?" "I didn't," Sutherland replied with a laugh. "I just got the fever there, that's all. Paducah gets three or four New York shows a year. I saw them all. The balance of the season is filled with touring stock or repertoire companies—I saw them all."

"Where did you do your first stock work?" I asked.

"I accomplished the feat at Oklahoma City, Ok., Sutherland answered with laughter. "Stage fright didn't affect me as it does some people—perhaps because I'm not temperamental."

"How long ago was that?"

"Let me see, that was in 1908. I felt about as important after my first stage appearance as Senator Gore, the blind politician from Oklahoma, who came to the front about that time. While playing in stock I ran across some New York actors, who told me men of my type were wanted in the East. Charles E. Blaney gave me a chance soon after when I created the part of Paul in 'One Day' in which I scored."

"After this I alternated between the Messrs. Shubert and important stock companies in Eastern cities. No actor feels his career is complete without a try at motion pictures, and in this I have been fairly successful for six years. I was Nance O'Neil's leading man in three pictures, 'Those Who Tell,' 'Flames of Johanna' and 'Woman in Bondage.' I had the leading role in Rex Beach's 'The Barrier,' 'Bar Sinister,' 'Sign Invisible' and 'Catherine.' Then I signed with William Fox to play leads opposite Virginia Pearson; we made pictures together for three years."

"It is no wonder," the interviewer interjected, "the box party thinks your face familiar."

"Bless them for remembering me. Dramatic stock is a great game. I love it because its audiences take a personal interest in the players. I suppose the reason I am here is because of creating Paul for Mr. Blaney when I first came East. But New York always has been kind to me."

"Places, third act," shouted Allan Ramsay, the conscientious stage manager and official prompter.

"You will excuse me, now, won't you?" said Sutherland. "I'll have to go on and marry the girl in the last act or business will take a drop the rest of the week."

SHUBERT PLAYERS IN "39 EAST"

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 1.—The Shubert Players this week are presenting Rachel Crothers' play, "39 East." Altho James Blaine and Frances Melleny, in the principal parts, worked with evident sincerity, they just didn't seem to fit the roles. With the exception of Mrs. DeMally, the "boss" of "39 East," played very humanly and well by Esther Evans, the rest of the parts are the smallest of bits. Of these Alice Mason, as the gushing widow, and Grace Baird, as the acid-tongued spinster, were by far the best. Manager Niggemeyer gave the play a splendid mounting, the second act being one of the prettiest pictures seen in some time. The Shubert Players are enjoying good business. "A Sleepless Night" is listed for next week.—H. R.

AUDIENCE IS DISMISSED

In Utica, N. Y., When Kitty Brown, Leading Lady, Fails To Appear

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Kitty Brown, leading lady of the stock company in the Park Theater, failed to show up for Monday's matinee of "The Woman in Room 13" and Manager Cotter had to dismiss the audience. The manager explained that he had given Miss Brown two weeks' notice to leave, but that she broke her Equity contract by leaving the day after she had received the notice. Her husband, Edward Hanrette, went to the theater Monday noon and took Kitty's trunks from the dressing room. In answer to the theater manager's statement that his wife had broken her contract by quitting, Hanrette said she was ill in bed, suffering from a nervous breakdown.

Manager Cotter telephoned to A. H. Woods' office in New York and secured another leading lady, Linda Carlon, who learned her lines while coming on the train from New York to Utica, and that night played the show without a break. She was warmly welcomed here.

For the week beginning October 4, a new leading lady, Dorothy Beardsley, has been engaged to remain for the rest of the stock season.

"THREE FACES EAST"

Offered by Blaney Players—Draws Big Crowds—Hal Crane To Appear Soon

New York, Sept. 30.—Offering Cohan & Harris' "Three Faces East" the Blaney Players are giving Eastsiders a thrill this week. The company is presenting the bill in a highly satisfactory manner, with an augmented cast of most competent players, headed by Victor Sutherland and Ann Hamilton. As early as Tuesday the week's tickets were exhausted and standing room was at a premium at each performance.

George M. Cohan's "Broadway Jones" is underlined, and, with the coming of this comedy, Blaney Players' patrons will welcome a return to the cast of Hal Crane, who scored heavily with this excellent stock organization last season. Included in the cast will also be seen Rollo Lloyd, a sterling actor of many parts, and, like Mr. Crane, a strong favorite among Yorkville theatergoers.

Manager Elmer J. Walters, on Yorkville Celebration Day, supplied comedy stunts and songs for the Chamber of Commerce dinner, which proved most successful, with Mayor Hyman and staff attending.

The company will confine its territory to Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

LUTRINGER STOCK OPENS
Plays to Capacity With "The Rosary"
—Ann Kingsley Leading Woman

New York, Sept. 29.—The Al Lutringer Stock Company opened its regular stock season at the Quincy Theater (formerly Kincaide) in Quincy, Mass., last week. Mr. Lutringer is a strong favorite in Quincy, and the first week showed he had lost none of his popularity, as the show played to capacity. The house seats 1,400, and Mr. Lutringer tells the Billboard that the only possible way they could do more business would be to play a larger theater.

"The Rosary" was the play selected for the opening. The piece had never been previously shown in Quincy. "Playthings" was the second play selected. The company retains all its former members. Ann Kingsley, the popular leading woman, was presented with numerous floral offerings the opening night, while Mr. Lutringer was forced to address the large audience. The success of the Lutringer Company is due to the fact that he selects well-seasoned actors, as well as plays that please audiences.

EDNA PARK PLAYERS
Please Large Crowds With "Within the Law" at Miami, Fla.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 2.—"Within the Law," at the Park Theater, featuring Edna Park and her players, in attracting large audiences the last half of this week. The piece gives every member of the company a chance to appear, and illustrates the versatility of several of the members. Jack Edwards and Edna Park play the leading roles. Mr. Edwards as Joe Garson, a notorious forger, and Miss Edna Park as a lady crook. Beginning with Sunday matinee, October 3, and continuing through the week, "Johnny, Get Your Gun," will be offered.

NATIONAL THEATER CO.

Presents "The Other Wife" Creditably

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Under the directorship of Griff Barnette and the management of Cliff Hastings, the National Theater Company has hit a wonderful stride. In a plot that was supposed to be a death trap for stock, this company has finely established itself. The play this week is "The Other Wife," and to say the production is beautiful is far from enough. The management of this popular company can well be proud of such a director, stage crew and scenic artist. Howard Hall presented a well-balanced portrayal of the character of Mr. Livingston, the lawyer, his gray hair being very becoming. As the real wife Emma Martin gave a sincere and finished performance, her low, well modulated voice being very pleasant to the ear at all times. The little ingenue, Adele Lawton, was fresh and sparkling, as she always is; very prettily dressed, and best of all the part of the young daughter. Space will not permit giving everyone his or her just reward for good work, but special mention is due the entire cast for clean-cut portrayals from start to finish, including Louis Hollinger, in the role of the Butler, and Virginia Stuart, who very capably played the part of Grace Vane, "The Other Wife." C. E. Hoxworth was exceptionally good in the role of Riley, "the politician." Earl Ross, as Frederick Stillman, made a short part stand out, and Milton Kibbee, with Lois Wilson, furnished the bulk of the comedy. The rest of the cast, including Ross Robertson and Rose Deane, were both good in their respective parts, not forgetting Griff Barnette, the hard-working director, who played well the role of the Policeman and afterwards a plain clothes man. This company will go a long way in establishing stock in the suburbs of Chicago, and the patrons of the South Side are to be congratulated on having such a wonderful company in their midst.—CHIC.

"LOMBARDI, LTD."

Presented by Academy Players, Haverhill, Mass.—Walter Gilbert Plays Title Role to Good Advantage

Haverhill, Mass., Sept. 29.—The fifth offering of the popular Academy Players, "Lombardi, Ltd.," was given its opening performance with a capacity audience on Monday. It can be said without exaggeration that this play is proving to be the most popular piece presented by the Academy organization thus far. Walter Gilbert, the popular leading man, was seen as "Tito Lombardi" and so excellent was his performance that even his friends were most agreeably surprised. Iona Magrane, leading lady; Carl Jackson, Jane Gilroy, James Naylen, Betty Browne, Arthur Buchanan, Bessie Warren, William Hennessy and Carroll Daly all contributed to the enjoyment of the play.

Florence Moore's scoring vehicle, "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath" will be next week's offering.

GENE LEWIS-OLGA WORTH CO.

Opens Season at Kyle Theater, Beaumont, Tex., With "A Prince There Was"

With many of last season's favorites back in the lineup, the Gene Lewis-Olga Worth Stock Company opened a stock engagement at the Kyle Theater, Beaumont, Tex., last week. "A Prince There Was" was the opening play, and it was witnessed by good crowds. Mr. Lewis has never been seen to better advantage than in the Geo. M. Cohan role. Those who were members of the company last season and still with it include Pauline Lettroy, Isabelle Arnold, Klock Ryder, Irving Cherry, Joseph Remington, and last, but not least, Frank Powell, scenic artist. Among the new faces are: Grace Young, Howard Sydney, Ed Beach, Hal Worth, Larry Sullivan, Ethel Halcome, Geo. Eman and Samuel Maine.

Dave Hellman, manager of the No. 2 company, playing at Eastland, Tex., was a visitor during the opening week and reported excellent business with his organization.

MUNNELL AS "GRUMPY"

Scores Hit at Colonial, Albany, N. Y.—Players Give Him Good Support

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 1.—Cyril Maude's former vehicle, "Grumpy," is this week's offering at the Colonial Theater. Franklin Munnell, until a comparatively young man, was brought here by the Colonial Players to play the character lead and he transforms himself into a veritable octogenarian. Mr. Munnell has played in stock for the past 19 years, and until a few years ago handled the leads. He was leading man in the Keith Stock Company at Portland, Me., a number of years ago, when Belle D'Arcy, also of the Colonial Players, was a member of the company. The players give him wonderful support, Frances Anderson playing her scenes with Mr. Munnell with gracious tenderness. Other roles are

PHILADELPHIA

Office Hours Until 1 P.M.

"Cinderella on Broadway" opened at the Shubert Theater for a three weeks' run, presenting a sumptuous production and the latest word in ornate spectacle of its kind. Business immense.

"The Girl in the Private Room" opened last week at the Lyric Theater for a limited engagement.

Grant Mitchell, in the new comedy, "The Champion," opened last week and scored heavily at the Broad. Much favorable comment was given by the local dailies.

Mae Desmond and her players, in "Civilian Clothes," at the Orpheum Stock, gave a fine presentation last week. Frank Fielder played with excellent appreciation as the Captain, and Miss Desmond was splendid in the role of the Red Cross Nurse.

Splendid vaudeville bills are being presented at the Globe, Allegheny, Broadway, Grand Opera House, Nixon, Cross Keys, Albambra, William Penn and the Dunlair, Keystone and the Girarde Avenue. Big business.

Despite the sudden change in the weather to exceptionally hot and sultry nights of last week business was very good at all the burlesque houses.

Had a chat with Manager Frank Livingston, of the "Sweet Sweetie Girls," at the Bijou Theater. Said business was fine and that he is getting everything he wants except one, and that is, he "wants the railroad fares reduced," so there you are.

Met Ed (Bozo) Fox, of the "Sweet Sweetie Girls," and renewed oldtime friendship. Ed, with his jazz band, is some riot in the show. Some recollections of the past were brought up during the interview.

Jack Beck, the popular manager of the Hurley House and manager of the Key Club Theatrical Agency, is some busy man, flying around to his auto looking acts for his time and booking actors for his hotel.

Work is progressing fine on the rebuilding of the Walnut Street Theater, and it will be some showhouse when completed. The opening will not be far off.

Howard Evans, the hustling and live-wire business manager of the Dument Theater and Emmet Weleb Minstrels, is some booker of benefits at his house. Howard's smiling face just makes them buy tickets and book a benefit SURE.

Alice Carman, of the Gaiety Stock Burlesque, has recovered from her severe illness and started in to work again this week. Also Mabel LeMonaler, the popular manager of the chorus at this house, is much improved from her recent indisposition.

Harry Worrell, the well-known stage manager of the Keystone Theater, has always a helping hand and kind word for all acts playing his house, and across the street, at Mrs. Mack's Theatrical House, he can always get a "prop" when needed at the last minute. On opening days Harry is everywhere.

Ole Olsen, steward of the Musicians' Club, and Harry Schwab, formerly of the vaudeville act, "Presto," are running a refreshment privilege at the fairs in Pennsylvania and are making a big bit, which means big money.

The hits atop the Hotel Walton are the talk of the town. Last week the acts were: Pierrot Revue, Dempsey and Hayworth, Illec, Iariat thowser; Pam Lawrence, Miss Falger, prima donna; Jim Miller, saxophone soloist; Vera Hayworth, dancer; The St. Clair, dancers, and added attractions, Tropical Marlina Band and Amelia Allan, dancer. Business excellent.

Griffith's "Way Down East" at the Chestnut Street Opera House, is drawing capacity business. At all of the leading picture houses and others the attendance is steadily growing.

Charles Auerbach, of the Karr & Auerbach Supply House, is making a flying trip to the fairs and big carnival shows in the South. Minerva Sherman, the charming secretary of the firm, has always a welcome greeting to show folks, as well as the head shipper, Harry DeVine.

Carber, of the well-known South Street Supply House, is some busy man these days owing to the wants of the various carnival and fair workers from all parts of the country.

Isador Rudolph, of the Rudolph Toy and Novelty Co., has returned with his bride from his honeymoon, and is busy filling orders, ably assisted by his co-workers, Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Boyer, for the carnival and fair concessioners.

Jack Singer, who was playing the new People's Theater last week, has booked "Tarzan," the human ape, as an added attraction. The act is a riot at every show.

BILLING RECOVERS

H. H. Billing, who has been confined to Noyes Hospital, St. Joseph, Mo., has completely recovered from his operation. He and the Mrs. will soon appear with C. Ward's Princess Stock Company.

NUTT SHOW No. 1

Will Start Winter Engagement in Florida City November 1, With Practically Same Cast

W. E. Jack, general agent of the various Nutt attractions, has returned from a trip thru Florida and brings the glad tidings that he has arranged for the No. 1 show to again return to Pensacola, Fla., for an extended run of stock. The news brought smiles to the entire company, for it was an excellent season they had there last winter. They will open November 1 with all the old favorites back in the lineup, with but one exception. A band and orchestra consisting of twenty-five pieces will be carried. The show will go into Pensacola thirty-five strong.

E. V. Dennis and wife (Josephine De Costa) will join next week, replacing Larry Foster and wife, who leave to associate themselves with the Lewis-Worth attractions. John S. Garver, after an absence of a year, has joined the No. 2 outfit and is looking after the front, in addition to handling the bookings.

WALKER STAGES PROLOG

New York, Sept. 29.—Harry Walker is organizing a repertoire show for Jimmie Hodges, which will be shown around the East. Bills will change weekly. Mr. Walker will stage and cast the organization. Mr. Walker is also staging a prolog for an Armenian motion picture, "The Harem Master," which will be shown in New York later. Rose DeAlba will play the leading feminine role, and Doc Ansley will play the principal male lead in this picture. There will also be six girls and a character man, taking the part of a slave.

JENNINGS BROS.' SHOW

Running Nicely Thru Texas

The John Jennings Company is showing in the neighborhood of Austin and San Antonio, Tex., and doing an excellent business. Manager Jennings has purchased an auto and uses it for pleasure and business purposes a great deal. "Sharkey" Sheldon and Jack Carr are also listed on the motor squad. The company is playing from one to two weeks of repertoire at each stand, presenting very good shows, which meet with the approval of the natives. The cast is composed of capable performers.

The Jennings Brothers have been showing for the past fourteen years, and they attribute their success principally to the cleanliness and high standard policy. Tom Jennings, brother to John, has purchased a home in Houston, Tex., and has been off the road several months resting up. He and members of his family visited Fred Jennings, another brother, in California recently, and it is possible the three will put out another show within the next few weeks.

MRS. HARMOUNT INJURED

Train Hits Auto at Leipsic, Ind.

A late report from Tad Harmount, owner and manager of Tad's "U. T. C." Company, states that his car was hit by a fast train at Leipsic, Ind., and a picture enclosed shows that the auto is mangled up a bit. Mrs. Harmount was the only one injured, the sustaining three broken ribs. Willie Holmes and Charles Nelson were also riding in the car at the time of the accident. Tad said that it certainly was a miracle that all weren't injured or killed.

FORCUMS ORGANIZE COMPANY

The Forcums arrived in Pittsburg, Pa., last week after closing twenty-five weeks with Nicol & Reynolds' "Hal o' the Hills." Jack Forcum began on the organization of The Forcum Players immediately for the winter season, which he expects to open the latter part of October.

A new piece has been prepared for presentation, and, like the Forcums' other plays, "The Power of the Sex" and "The Yellow Sin," is well constructed and deserving of consideration. The new play has been titled "The Price Tag" and is entirely original.

It is written around the inhabitants of the coke region, is realistic and contains a pretty love story woven into the hardships of an unfortunate one, and never detours from the plot. The show will carry eleven people and three sets. It will be first-class in every respect. Prominent in the cast will be Eddie (Hayden) O'Connor and Jeanne Alox, who have been with the Forcum Players for several seasons. Mr. Forcum (Jack, as he is known by his many friends) says that he wants to have the cast 100 per cent Equity before he opens the show. —J. A.

PERCY'S COMEDIANS

To Florida for the Winter

J. L. Percy's Comedians are headed for Florida for the winter, under canvas. The show last week played Morgansfield, Ky., moving to that point from Lawrenceville, Ill. The tour is being made by auto, and the folks seem to like that mode of travel very much.

The bunch with Percy's Comedians is very congenial, according to Joyce LaTelle, one of the members of the cast. Miss LaTelle joined Mr. Percy a few weeks ago after leaving the Shannon Show, on which she filled Hazel Shannon's place while the latter made a trip to New York. Previous to joining the Shannon Show Miss LaTelle spent several weeks at her mother's home near Toledo, O.

Social gatherings on the Percy Comedians are a common thing, Miss LaTelle states. Especially was this true when the show played Illinois and Indiana, in the latter State of which Mrs. Percy's brothers live. Mrs. Percy herself has a farm in Indiana, and Miss LaTelle has sent The Billboard a photograph, showing a stock of corn raised on it measuring fourteen feet, two inches.

HUGO PLAYERS CLOSE

After a very successful season of twenty-five weeks, the Hugo Players closed September 29 at Rosalie, Neb. The new tent, which arrived only a few weeks ago, is a 70-foot round top, with a 40-foot middlepiece, with a seating capacity of 1,200, was used until closing. The cast remained practically the same as opening, likewise the band and orchestra.

The roster includes the Hugo Brothers (Harry and Chester), Will H. Bruno, J. A. Williams, Charley Rowe, John and Will Peterson, Fred S. Moore, George Struck, Bryce Wilson, Byron Manrose, J. W. Norman, Helen and Ross Du Voyle; Helgra Hanford, Doris Hugo and Irene Chester.

The show will go into houses for the winter, playing the Dakotas. Chester will be in charge. Harry Hugo and his wife will winter in Chicago.—C.

MINNELLI PRODUCTION CO.

Will Produce Musical Tabs.—Nina Genell To Be Featured

Delaware, O., Oct. 2.—Activities of the Minnelli Producing Company will begin the first of the week, according to announcement of V. C. WHITNEYS VISIT CINCY.

Popular Musical Team on Way to Terry's U. T. C.—Tad's "Tom" Closes at Harrison, O.

With the closing of Tad's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company at Harrison, O., after a very successful season under canvas, the Whitneys (M. C. and Cecilia), better known to their many friends of the show world as the Mustang Whitneys, came into Cincinnati to do their winter shopping and paid their respects to the editorial department of The Billboard. Both were high in their praise of Tad Harmount and his real professional treatment.

"On last Wednesday night he called all the performers around him before the performance," said Merne, "and told us that this would be the last night for the show this season, as the weather was getting too cold. Then he handed us our envelopes with the regular 'two weeks' enclosed and bid us all the best of luck. If the word 'prime' means anything, he's a 'king,' for he surely stands that high with his performers. He asked us to come back to him next season, and we expect to do so." Tad and Mrs. Harmount are going to Florida for the winter.

The Whitneys are en route to join Terry's "U. T. C." Company at Little Stou, Ia., where they will resume activities. Merne is a well-known band leader, and will take over the band and play "Tom." Mrs. Whitney will play her favorite parts of "Eliza" and "Ophelia."

SAN FRANCISCO

By STUART B. DUNBAR
605 Pantages Theater Bldg.

"Daddies," David Belasco's New York success, which has just completed a phenomenal run at the Alcazar, commenced a road tour of the principal cities of California under the Alcazar management on Monday evening, September 27, at the Victory Theater, San Jose.

The placing of "Daddies" on the road was accomplished only after the special permission of David Belasco had been secured, and is looked upon as an event in California's dramatic history.

A special company of high quality has been assembled for the tour. Thomas Chatterton, of wide popularity as a star of stage and screen, and Elwyn Hasey, charming young Australian actress, are cast in the lead parts.

They head an ideal cast, including Charles Yule, Bert Chapman, Lee Willard, Frederick Green, Albert Watson, Helen MacKerrich, Miss Valentina Zilina, Jessie May Walsh and the gifted juvenile players, Sylvia Yafe, Phyllis Chatterly and the Wynn triplets.

The play is being staged under the personal direction of Henry Shumer, Alcazar stage director.

Following the San Jose date "Daddies" was scheduled to show in Modesto, Fresno, Sacramento and then play a week's engagement at Ye Liberty Theater, Oakland. Other bookings are being arranged and will be announced shortly.

"Just Around the Corner," G. M. Anderson's rural comedy, which scored a success in New York, is to open here for a five weeks' tour of the Pacific Coast on October 5.

Edna Wallace Hopper has been brought here from the East by Mr. Anderson to play the lead, the spitefully New York widow, and the cast will include Frank Darien, prominent with Kolb and Dill for two seasons; Oral Humphrey, well-known character man; Frank Wallace and Leona Anderson, sister of the producer.

The company is now busily rehearsing in this city.

Word comes from the Northwest that Anderson's "Frivolities of 1920" is "cleaning up" in that territory.

Motion picture men will be present in force at the three-day convention to be held at the Exposition Auditorium October 5, 6 and 7, under the auspices of the Motion Picture Theater Owners' Association of America.

According to a wire from Galen Harper, secretary of the Los Angeles Theater Owners' Association, a large delegation will come from the southern city.

Ed Ray and Harry Vardon, club swingers, are booked to arrive here on (Dupleum Time early in January, and local golfers are eagerly looking forward to the arrival of the former, who is reckoned as one of America's foremost swingers of the malleable and malleable. Ray's "drive" has won him an enviable reputation, and the devotees of the game here expect to learn something from him.

Robert Burdette and Kay Vereker arrived here last week after breaking in their new vaudeville act, "Coffee And," in Los Angeles, and are en route to Chicago to book for a vaudeville tour.

"Coffee And" is from the pen of James W. Egan, well-known Western newspaper man and writer of baseball and detective stories, and has made a decided hit with the Coast critics. It is adapted from the magazine story of the same name.

Burdette is well known in Pacific Coast vaudeville circles, and Miss Vereker has won a reputation as a motion picture actress.

Bob Kelly, who recently left the H. T. Freed Shows in Wisconsin, stopped in at The Billboard office during the week, en route for Los Angeles. Kelly was chief electrician and tram-master with Al G. Barnes for three years prior to joining the Freed Shows.

Harry Gordon, general agent for the Babcock Greater Shows, called at The Billboard office during the week, en route to Los Angeles, where the shows will go into winter quarters. According to Gordon, the shows were to have run all winter, but a combination of circumstances, including a string of unsuccessful dates, led to the change.

Dick Collins, according to Gordon, was with the Babcock Shows for several months. The shows have just completed a date in Bakersfield.

Sam Griffin's Premier Minstrels opened a week's engagement at Ye Liberty Theater, Oakland, Monday evening, September 27, after a successful tour of the State, including Southern California, where the show stepped into the big money. Following the Oakland date the Griffin show will open at the Savoy Theater in this city.

Harrison and Francis, featured by Sam Griffin, proved a success in Fresno with their dancing and were given a royal reception. They were tendered a banquet and afterwards were entertained by the Elks. It will be well to watch this team grow.

Pal Casey, head of the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association, stopped over in San Francisco last week on his return trip east after a business visit to Los Angeles. Casey managed to squeeze out enough time to spend a day at a nearby ranch, owned by an old pal, before he started for New York to resume the grind of business.

The home of Fred Sheldon, Orpheum doorman, was robbed last week and every vestige of clothing he owned was taken by the intruders. Sheldon awoke to find himself the possessor of a single pair of pajamas.

SELLS-FLOTO MAY OPEN THE NEW VELODROME IN NEW YORK

Mr. Poulin, who has just returned from Montreal, where he was managing director of the Sommer Amusement Co. of that city, tells The Billboard that the new $100,000 Sommer Park Coliseum, which is in course of construction there, will be opened next June. It will have a seating capacity of about 15,000, of steel and concrete construction, and will be available for exhibitions, circuses, boxing matches and fairs. This building replaces one that was burned. Mr. Poulin was promoter of the Carter Centenary Fair at Fletcher's Field, Montreal, last year. He says that rain and cold weather hit the outdoor show business of Eastern Canada this season, but that on the whole business was very good. Caruso, who sang last Monday night, at the Mt. Royal Arena, got $8,000 for his share and admissions were $4, $6, $7 and $10. The arena seats 10,000.

CABLES FROM LONDON TOWN

the mass of the British public probably does not extend beyond D'Annunzio and Grasso's Sicilian players, or at the very most implies a faint knowledge of Bracco's works. But there has developed an entire new school since then, and they have now a Sicilian drama—Sicilian inasmuch as its protagonists are mainly Sicilians—which instead of being violent like the plays which Grasso showed London years ago, is severely intellectual. San Secondo's "Marionette che passione" and the Torinese Chiarelli's "Maschera ed il Volto" are examples. These dramas may derive possibly to some extent from Wilde, Shaw and the German Wedekind, but they have an Italian character which is all their own.

LONDON GLOOMY ABOUT THE "LANE'S" PANTO

From time immemorial there has been a pantomime at Dury Lane, but "The Garden of Allah" having caught on in so unmistakable a manner the directors are very dubious about transferring it or even terminating it. It was suggested that a solution might be found in transferring to Covent Garden or even to produce the usual Lane panto at Covent Garden, but nothing definite is announced at the moment. Whatever happens there will be the usual pantomime at the Lyceum Theater, despite the fact that Albert Chevalier is playing around the $15,000 mark weekly with that "sob" drama, "My Old Dutch."

The Guy E. Long's comedians are said to be packing 'em in down South. Texarkana was an elegant stand, they say, and the same is expected in Paris next week.

THE DRAMATIC STAGE

Without neglecting its homely and prosaic business end, we are devoting more and more attention to its finer artistic phases and accomplishments:

MAUDE ADAMS

Will Not Act "Mary Rose"

Rejects Title Role in Barrie's New Production and Ruth Shepley Is Substituted

New York, Oct. 2.—Wide interest was stirred yesterday when announcement came from the Charles Frohman, Inc., office that Ruth Chatterton will play the title role in Sir James M. Barrie's "Mary Rose" when it is produced at the Empire Theater during the Christmas holidays, instead of Maude Adams. Miss Adams, it was generally understood, would make her return to the footlights in this tragic production, and it was not until yesterday that she positively decided to reject the role.

Last spring "Mary Rose" was first produced in London, at the Haymarket, and immediately it was evident that Barrie had again scored not only a popular but an artistic success.

The role of the man will be in the hands of Tom Nebit, a young English actor, who has never appeared in this country. He is a brother of the well known Cathleen Nebit.

It has not been learned what Miss Adams' plans are, but it is supposed that she will tour in one of her earlier Barrie plays. It will be recalled that she was booked for a long tour in "Peter Pan" last season, but canceled at the eleventh hour at the advice of her physicians. She is now fully recovered, it is said.

"Mary Rose" will be produced out of town during November, coming to the Empire Theater in time for Christmas.

"SCRAMBLED WIVES"

Opening Attraction at the Playhouse, Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 1.—A. H. Woods, under whose direction the Playhouse in Chicago will remain indefinitely, has for several years been eager to seek some other producing center besides New York. In his opinion, which he has reached after a careful study of the theatrical situation, Chicago offers the best opportunities. The Playhouse is only one of the Woods theaters in this city. Another has borne his name for some time. Still another is under construction. This will make the producer's holdings in Chicago equally as large and representative as are his holdings in New York. The premiere of "Scrambled Wives" at the Playhouse is set for Sunday, October 10, with Roland Young and Juliette Day as the featured players.

ENGAGED TWO WEEKS—TO WED

New York, Oct. 1.—Addison Barnes Gattling, grandson of the inventor of the Gatling gun, will marry Norah Sprague this week. Miss Sprague takes the part of Peggie Graham, an ingenue part, in the play, "Opportunity," at the Forty-eighth Street Theater. Only close friends of the two families will be present at the wedding, which will take place in the apartment of the bride's aunt, Mrs. MacLaren, at East Seventy-first street. Miss Sprague will continue her theatrical engagement, she says. The two met about six weeks ago and have been engaged two weeks.

HARMOUNT'S U. T. C.

C. T. Harmount writes The Billboard that he has just closed a prosperous season under canvas with Harmount's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Company and is now booking the winter show. "I will have an extra strong company," he says, "and am looking forward to a good winter's business." Fred Finley, who was with the company during the summer season, is resting at his home in Cleveland, but will rejoin the company for the winter.

TO AID FOREIGN BORN

New York, Oct. 1.—To aid the League of Foreign Born Citizens in its Americanization program, a benefit program will be staged at the Selwyn Theater on the night of Sunday, October 10. Frank Tinney, Sam Bernard, Florence Moore, Irene Bordoni, Florence Reed, Wellington Cross and Taylor Holmes are among the stars who will entertain.

NO CHANGE IN HOUSE STAFF

Lee and J. J. Shubert, who recently bought Parsons' Theater in Hartford, Conn., will make no changes at present. The dramatic season is in full swing, with a long list of bookings. Manager H. H. Parsons and Wm. Stevenson, treasurer, are in charge of the house for the Shuberts.

ESTATE DWINDLES

New York, Oct. 3.—According to an accounting of his property made by his widow, Nora isn custom, Miss Marinoff says: "I have a sweetheart, Fogany Willie. The first time he sees me he love me at one look. Dear boy, just now he have no work. His pictures he do not sell. But I lend him a little money, and he spend it on another woman. He pay me back when he marry me, perhaps."

ANOTHER "LADIES' NIGHT"

New York, Oct. 3.—There will be a second "Ladies' Night" production, in spite of the way critics "panned" the A. H. Woods show, it is reported.

STENOG. 'N EVERYTHING!

WILLIE POGANY SUES

New York, Oct. 2.—Alleging that his family life was nearly wrecked as the result of the use of his name in a bit of stage dialog, in the Belasco play, "Call the Doctor," which recently opened, Willie Pogany, artist and writer, has sued Charles Frohman, Inc., David Belasco and Fania Marinoff, an actress, for the sum of $200,000 damages, and asked for an injunction restraining them from further use of his name. Reversing the order of names, as is the Hungar-pride to his new stenog., Miss Daisy H. Merican, who types letters and manuscripts for the energetic Harry.

TAG DAY

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Many managers and owners of Chicago theaters have offered their services to a forthcoming tag day, planned for dependents of firemen and policemen killed while on duty. Ed Wynn has promised the services of the members of his "Carnival." John Garrity, representing the Shuberts, has done likewise, as have also the managers of the Star and Garter Theater, the State-Congress Theater and the Hurlitz & Seamon enterprises. The tag day is being conducted by The Chicago American.

SPECIAL PERFORMANCE

Of "Humming Bird" Staged for Elizabeth Parkinson at Sanitarium

Denver, Col., Oct. 1.—Elizabeth Parkinson, former grand opera star, is too ill to go to a theater so the theater will go to her at the Phipps Sanitarium, where she is waging a determined battle for health.

"The Humming Bird" is the play which will carry Miss Parkinson's thoughts back to the happy days when, as Lisa Parkina, she was the idol of London, entrancing thousands with the wonderful beauty of her voice.

Such is friendship. Maude Fulton, author of "The Humming Bird" and its leading lady, is a long time friend of Elizabeth Parkinson. She wants Miss Parkinson to see her play. The former opera singer is too ill of tuberculosis to leave the sanitarium. So this afternoon in the sanitarium auditorium Miss Fulton will stage the play in complete detail, with full scenic and electrical effects, orchestra and all. The regular stage crew and electricians from the theater will handle the stage lighting. The entire cast will participate in the play.

Miss Parkinson will be hostess to all the other patients and has joined in the plans of the company to make the affair an elaborate entertainment. Profuse decorations will attend the special production.

The footlights have dimmed for Miss Parkinson. Billed as Lisa Parkina she sang with Caruso, Melba and Scotti and a score of other opera idols. She was prevented by ill health from ever appearing in America, but gained for herself much renown in Europe.

Miss Parkinson has been a patient at the Phipps sanitarium since last April.

NEW PLAYS

"DON'T TELL"

"DON'T TELL"—A comedy in three acts by Graham Moffat. Presented by William Morris at the Nora Bayes Theater, New York, September 27, 1920.

The pleasure of hearing a natural Scotch dialect roll easily from the tongue is about the only novel thing in "Don't Tell." The story is far from being new and the acting never reaches any very great height.

The scene of the piece is laid in Glasgow and the story tells of the theft and pawning of some old family jewelry by a "bailie's" son, who is fond of playing the horses. The theft is laid at the door of several innocent characters and there is another story woven into the play of the arrest of the "bailie's" daughter for getting mixed up in a suffragist disturbance. There is plenty of complication, all of it is obvious, and the dialog is never very funny or brilliant.

Mrs. Graham Moffat made the best impression of the cast, in the part of a spinster cousin. She was always natural and played with no little skill. Graham Moffat was heavy-handed at all times. Eva MacRoberts and Winifred Moffat as the "bailie's" two daughters, were quite equal to their roles, and George Tawde as the senescegrace son, gave a good account of himself. The rest of the cast, including Grace Embert, Jean Runciman, Neil McNeil, Clyde Campbell, George Tawde, Margaret Noble, John Campbell, J. Wright Aitken, Marie Stuart and Margaret Dunsmore, were quite competent.

"Don't Tell" is a slow-moving comedy and not very funny. It is extremely doubtful that it will please American audiences, who are so enamored of swift, hilarious farce. However, it gives us an insight into the methods of other workers than ours in the theater, and for that we should be grateful to William Morris for importing this Scottish company and play.—GORDON WHYTE.

EXCERPTS FROM THE NEW YORK DAILIES
Tribune: "It stands on its merits in the sincerity and charm of the performance, altho the play does move heavily at times."

World: "Things move briskly and for the greater part entertainingly, thru the three acts."

Eve, Sun: "It would seem impossible for the author of so whimsical a comedy as 'Buntz Pulls the Strings' to create the utterly tiresome 'Don't Tell.'"

Post: "The play, may be commended to all those in search of wholesome and very mild entertainment."

"THREE LIVE GHOSTS"

"THREE LIVE GHOSTS"—A comedy, in three acts, by Frederic S. Isham. Presented by Max Marchin, at the Greenwich Village Theater, New York, September 20.

THE CAST—Mrs. Gubbins, Beryl Mercer; Peggy Woofers, Beatrice Miller; Bolton, Emmett Shackelford; Jimmie Gubbins, Charles McNaughton; William Foster, alias "William Jones," Percy Helton; Spoofo, Cyril Chadwick; Rose Gordon, Flora Sheffield; Briggs, of Scotland Yard, Charles Dalton; Benson, Arthur Metcalfe; Lady Leicester, Mercedes Desmore.

After an epidemic of rowdy bedroom farces, tawdry musical plays and dramatic attempts that never should have seen the light of day, Max Marchin's presentation of "Three Live Ghosts," at the Greenwich Village Theater, is a relief to the weary critic. The players act their parts like real, everyday folks—not like a lot of mannikins. Seldom, in our opinion, has a character been so cleverly done as the part of Mrs. Gubbins, by Beryl Mercer. It is the old lady of the English provinces who is not bereft of a sense of humor, altho her son, just returned from prison camp, does insist that her breath betrays the same old love of a nip o' gin, and she is just a wee bit eager for a "reward." A thousand "quid" has a strong appeal to poor old Mrs. Gubbins, and a thousand pounds is the reward that is offered her for the return to an American detective of a boy she is harboring in her house.

This boy part, with the single exception perhaps of the part of Jimmie Gubbins, the old lady's son, stands out pre-eminently, and Charles McNaughton, in the part of Jimmie Gubbins, has omitted no minor detail in his makeup, either facial or sartorial. You see his kind every day in certain parts of England. With the boy, who is Percy Helton, taking the part of William Foster, alias "William Jones," and Spoofo, a shell-shocked soldier pal, the trio present themselves at the cottage of Jimmie's mother, who has believed them all dead. Hence the title, "Three Live Ghosts." The story, while interesting, is second in importance to the acting, and Cyril Chadwick as "Spoofo" has one of the most difficult if not the most important part in the play. The old-fashioned detective, with a derby on the side of his head, and a hard-boiled egg he is, too, always strutting about with his thumbs in his vest, appears in "Three Live Ghosts." He is Charles Dalton, programmed as Briggs of Scotland Yard. He belongs to a rapidly disappearing type of the American stage.—CLIFFORD KNIGHT.

EXCERPTS FROM NEW YORK DAILIES
Times: "Of the somewhat meager amount of laughter which has been New York's portion in the theater this season, the new play that arrived last evening at the Greenwich Village Theater has rather more than its share."

Tribune: "With an exception or two Max Marchin's company is excellent."

Globe: "Three Live Ghosts" is dexterous melodrama, pleasantly spoofed by its authors. And it is played with delightful skill."

Sun: "Three Live Ghosts" should haunt New York for some time."

"THE TAVERN"

"THE TAVERN"—A play in two acts, by Cora Dick Gantt; presented by George M. Cohan at the George M. Cohan Theater, New York, September 27.

THE CAST—Tavern Keeper's Son, Phillips Tead; Hired Girl, Wanda Carlyle; Tavern Keeper, Dalton Mitchell; Hired Man, Spencer Charters; Vagabond, Arnold Daly. Woman, Eisle Rizer; Governor, Morgan Wallace; Wife, Lucia Moore; Daughter, Alberta Burton; Fiance, William Jeffrey; Sheriff, Lee Sterrett; Sheriff's Man, Joseph Guthrie; Sheriff's Other Man, William Gaunt; Attendant, Joseph M. Holleyck.

Rumor has it that George M. Cohan took the script of "The Tavern" after Miss Gantt had finished, and applied the same formula to it that he used so successfully with "A Royal Vagabond." That is to say, he attempted to "kid" the play while it was being played. The result in his former effort was a happy one. The same can hardly be said in the case of "The Tavern."

The story is supposed to be on the lines of a mystery melodrama, all the action taking place in a tavern, using all the phrases and business associated with "melo" and getting comedy from their use and the interruptions of a hired hand, who wants to know what it is all about at most inopportune moments. To get humor with this method presupposes an audience wise in the ways of melodrama, first, and a writer wise in the ways of travesty, second. For a few moments there is some rattling good burlesque, the rest of the time the play is neither flesh, fowl nor good red herring.

Arnold Daly plays splendidly. He is certainly one of the great actors we have, and it is too bad that his reappearance, after too long an absence, is not in a more suitable vehicle. One shudders what "The Tavern" would be without him. As it is, he makes it a passable entertainment.

The comedy bit of the piece is made by Spencer Charters. It is he who bursts in and wants to know what it is all about and voices the sentiment of the audience whenever he does so. They are doing it even when he is off the stage. Dalton Mitchell plays the tavern keeper and plays him well. Eisle Rizer is very good as the "wronged woman" of the piece. The play is exceedingly well played; in fact Phillips Tead, Wanda Carlyle, Morgan Wallace, Lucia Moore, Alberta Burton, William Jeffrey, Lee Sterrett, Joseph Guthrie, William Gaunt and Joseph M. Holleyck, who compose the balance of the cast, all do their work well.

The authors of "The Tavern" had an idea and a good one. They deserve credit for daring the unusual. It is too bad that they weren't more successful with their self-appointed task. What Mr. Cohan should do now is dig up a play worthy of Arnold Daly. The sooner he does that the better he will please the discriminating playgoer.—GORDON WHYTE.

EXCERPTS FROM NEW YORK DAILIES
Times: ". . . the sum total of its capacity to entertain is quite disappointing."

World: "In some respects 'The Tavern' is very amusing and clever. But it is never quite as amusing or clever as 'A Royal Vagabond.'"

Post: "Taken all in all, the piece contains many elements of success."

Evening World: "The play is a strange mixture of mystery and humor."

"MARRY THE POOR GIRL"

"MARRY THE POOR GIRL"—A farce by Owen Davis. Presented by Oliver Morosco at the Little Theater, New York, Sept. 25.

THE CAST—Morgan, Wilbur Braun; Steve Ripley, William David; Tom Harrison, Frank Allworth; Kittle Porter, Frances Mann; Mrs. Paddington, Gertrude Maitland; Wallace Paddington, Halbert Brown; Julia Paddington, Isabelle Lowe; Jack Tanner, William Roselle; Bradley Littlefield, Harold de Becker; Ann Winsted, Nintha Irtzkow; Rev. Carlton Gibbs, Stapleton Kent; Rose Cary, Beatrice Noyes; Sara Grogan, Mrs. Anna O'Connor; the boy, Raymond O'Connor; the girl, Agnes O'Connor.

"Marry the Poor Girl," at the Little Theater, is an expurgated, dry cleaned bedroom farce. But the deodorizing process job was not so thoro but that the Little Theater's seating capacity was taxed last evening to take care of the crowds who still profess to care for near-dirty plays. Perhaps "Marry the Poor Girl" seemed to lack the niceties of the Great American Home because the motion picture, "Way Down East," next door offers such a contrast, with its clean living New England characters. Perhaps we thought the play was slightly off color because a man is discovered at the very opening scene emerging from the bedroom of a girl at whose home he is a house guest. But even granting that in the best ordered households of this great country of ours little lapses of the conventionalities do sometimes occur, why make it worse by dragging in a woman of loose morals, who appears in negligee to furnish, for $700, the necessary evidence for a divorce to be procured on a charge of infidelity? One woman in the rear of the house laughed so uproariously at this situation that she could scarcely stop, and hysterically made her way out to the lobby, where she could enjoy further the sweet recollections of the hilarious situation. William Roselle does manfully in the part of the inebriated, unwilling stock broker husband, and he is ably aided by Isabelle Lowe, the wife, who isn't sure that she wants a divorce. Harold de Becker would be commendable in his part of the goggle-eyed half wit of a lover if he would only put some serious effort into his role and quit sneaking. The tough girl who would furnish grounds for either a separation or absolute divorce—altho, of course, the latter would be at a higher figure—is very good and Frances Mann is to be commended for faithfully portraying the type of an inquisitive but over-talkative spectator.—CLIFFORD KNIGHT.

BELLE BENNETT

Making Good on Broadway

An Interview With New Star From the Coast Playing Tillie in "Happy-Go-Lucky"

New York, Sept. 28.—Every week, reg'lar, it is the custom of the news editor to shift around in his chair, light one of those gold tipped, monogrammed Turkish cigarettes that were made right over here in Avenue B and remark: "Well, how's our interview comin' along, old top?"

And me (I'm the "old top"), I say, casual like: "Well, I'll tell you; I called up a lotta birds and they all dated me up for some star, but something happened at the last minute. I'll see what I can do, tho, with Whatehismame, who just opened last night in 'Scrambled Beds.'" But this particular star had an early dinner engagement after the matinee and couldn't possibly arrange for an interview. I had made up my mind that altho I could write the story to beat Rex Beach, Holworthy Hall and Irv. Cobb all rolled into one, there wasn't any use trying to write something when you couldn't get the material.

Just then the n. e. hung up his telephone. "Good news," he said, lightin' another Mecca. "Belle Bennett is coming in to see you. I arranged for the interview over the phone. On her way down now in a taxi."

And it was raining little elephants outside. Broadway was swimming. But Miss Bennett reached The Billboard office o. k., with just a little bit of a droop to the green feathers in her hat that looks like a parakeet. She's only a recent arrival in New York. Came here from the Coast to appear in the part vacated when Marial Martin Harvey, a London importation, dropped out of the cast.

Miss Bennett has enough personality for three of her size, beauty enough to make Ziggy throw all his good lookers out of the window and offer her a ninety-nine-year contract, and brains that make you feel as if you ought to have taken a post graduate at six more colleges. That's her!

Miss Bennett entered the cast of "Happy-Go-Lucky," which was originally named "Tillie of Bloombury," on September 21, after only three company rehearsals, under the direction of Arthur Gillmore and Major Ian Hay, the author, and she's very proud of the fact that in the first act she makes an entrance wearing the Burberry greatcoat that was worn by Major Hay when he went into battle as an English army officer five years ago last Friday. There were 800 men and 27 officers when they entered the engagement and they came out five officers and ninety men, after a furious engagement with subjects of a half crazy kaiser. There are numerous gaping, jagged holes in the Burberry coat that were made there by barb wire entanglements.

For eighty-five weeks previous to coming to New York City Miss Bennett was a leading woman with the Fred Belasco dramatic stock company playing at the Alcazar Theater, Frisco. Mr. Belasco, who is brother of David Belasco, is owner of the company, and Miss Bennett, long before she had completed her long engagement on the Coast, was known far and wide and lovingly referred to as "San Francisco's Sweetheart."

An idea of the vast range of characterization done by Miss Bennett may be gained when we discovered that she had done Mother LaGrange, a feeble old Irish woman, in "The Thirteenth Chair," and accomplished with similarly striking success the child in the play of suspense, "Pollyanna." Maude Fulton saw Miss Bennett do her part in "The Brat" and pronounced it a most artistic piece of work. The only rehearsal lost by Miss Bennett during her engagement in Frisco was on the occasion of her mother's death in Milaca, Minn., where Miss Bennett's father, William Bennett, known thruout the show world, owns a ranch.

In the favorite photograph of Miss Bennett appears a Maltese poodle, "Snoozlums," which was purchased for the play, "Excuse Me." Miss Bennett became so attached to the dog that Mr. Belasco made her a present of it, dispatching E. D. Price, assistant manager, with the poodle to Miss Bennett's dressing room following the presentation of "Excuse Me." The dog has appeared in many plays with his mistress.

Previous to her experience in stock Miss Bennett was engaged in motion picture work on the Coast, working in Triangle pictures at Culver City. Associated with her in the company was Olive Thomas, whose funeral was held this afternoon. "To Belle, the Sweetest Thing in the World," is the inscription penned on a photograph of the late Miss Thomas, which she presented Miss Bennett. "She was acteristica she invited her to her home, to the theater and entertained her royally for a week. When she went on to play the part of Mother LaGrange she gave a perfect duplicate copy of the old Irish woman she had befriended, and after the show the old lady, recognizing herself, hobbled up to Miss Bennett and said: "Shure, you were foine, but about ten years older than Ol an'."

Miss Bennett has worked in vaudeville, doing aerial work with Harry and Kitty Sutton on the Orpheum Time, and she is an accomplished contortionist.

The girls of Frisco organized what they called the "Belle Bennett Pollyanna Club" during her stay in Frisco. They are all high school girls and they write faithfully to Miss Bennett, telling of their progress in school, the help that Miss Bennett has given them and their ambitions in life. Miss Bennett aided every Liberty Loan drive on the Coast and was presented by Captain Pondstone and Lieut. John Cooke to the 1,000 men stationed at the submarine base during the war in Feb-the biggest hearted girl I ever saw," says Miss Bennett.

Naturally, knowing her father as a showman, we asked Miss Bennett if she had early experience in the amusement field. She had.

When a baby five weeks old Miss Bennett appeared in her first play. It was "The Fatal Wedding," one of the very first efforts of A. H. Woods. "And to think that here I am, again under the A. H. Woods management," said Miss Bennett. Her mother, who appeared professionally as Hazel Bennett, appeared in lead parts in the old plays, which were under the road management of William Bennett, and such successes as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "Ten Nights in a Barroom" toured the country with the little daughter traveling right along and generally being cast in some part. She was the curly-haired, velvet suited Little Lord Fauntleroy. Her mother died of the "flu," and Hazel Bennett's death was mourned among the hosts that knew and loved her.

An interesting example of her faithfulness to details of her work while in stock was related me by Mr. Bennett, who was an interested "innocent bystander" during the interview. It seems that in "The Thirteenth Chair" Miss Bennett was particularly anxious to portray her part artistically, realizing that it was a difficult characterization. She was making purchases in a department store and noticed an old, bent Irish woman bargaining for a bedspread. In order that she might become acquainted with the woman to study the characteristics she invited her to her home, to the theater and entertained her royally for a week. When she went on to play the part of Mother LaGrange she gave a perfect duplicate copy of the old Irish woman she had befriended, and after the show the old lady, recognizing herself, hobbled up to Miss Bennett and said: "Shure, you were foine, but about ten years older than Ol an'."

ESTABLISHES OFFICE

New York, Sept. 29.—Sidney R. Ellis has opened an office in Room 1114 George M. Cohan Theater Building, 1482 Broadway, for the routing of all attractions that desire consecutive and appropriate road time. Trained newspapermen will be in charge of this department, which Mr. Ellis hopes to make an important factor of his organization. Having been himself a producer for many years he is acquainted with the problems that confront a producer. For years he was manager of Al H. Wilson, the famous yodeling comedian, and also toured the country with such plays as "The Evil Eye" and "Darkest Russia."

DRAMATIC NOTES

Matheson Lang will produce "Spanish Love" at the Garrick Theater, London, in December.

"Mom," the new play in which Minnie Dupres is playing the stellar role, will not be seen in New York for several weeks.

Doctors abroad think they can cure Frank Mills. He has fallen heir to a third interest in a prosperous hotel in France.

On Saturday evening, October 9, the Neighborhood Players (New York) will put on "The Mob," John Galsworthy's production.

Margalo Gillmore does not leave "The Famous Mrs. Fair" cast as reported, but will continue in her present role indefinitely.

Even if William Hodge and "The Guest of Honor" did fail to start a riot on Broadway, Little Graham Lucas made a hit with the street.

Mme. Halina Bruzovna, an actress of reputation in Europe, will make her debut on the American stage in "The Mandarin," which is described as a "play of another world."

Beatrice Noyes, who is appearing in "Marry the Poor Girl" at the Little Theater, New York, has been given a three-year contract by Oliver Morosco.

Nine times out of ten prologs, so-called, in modern plays are nothing more than first acts. In "Opportunity," however, Owen Davis has written a real one which goes for a first act.

Earl Carroll announces a last-minute addition to the "Daddy Dimples" cast. It is Charles Brandt, who will play the important role of "Silney Danks" in the Carroll-McCutcheon play.

At the Woods Theater, Atlantic City, Monday evening, September 27, A. H. Woods presented Louis Mann in "The Unwritten Chapter" for the first time on any stage.

Mary Brandon, who plays an important role in "Welcome, Stranger," the Aaron Hoffman comedy, at the Cohan & Harris Theater, New York, is a niece of Booth Tarkington.

Lee Engel has engaged Jessie Binsley to play a prominent role in "She Needs the Money," William J. Rathbun's three-act comedy, which will be seen in New York soon.

Robert Casadesu, who was prominently connected with the Theatre Parisien last season, is preparing a vaudeville act. He will be assisted in the sketch by Nellie Leach and Henriette Delannoy.

The Lambs is rapidly acquiring a reputation for having a high percentage of very unalike members. Don't be surprised if you hear of the theater the clubhouse boasts being supplemented with a ring.

Robert Warwick, the screen star, will be starred by the Shuberts in a comedy, entitled "The Dauntless Three," by Walter Hackett and Horace Annesley Vachell. Estelle Winwood will play opposite him.

Norman Trevor is earning all kinds of encomiums in "Enter, Madame." Hardly a day passes that some warm tribute to his artistry is not uttered in the New York offices of The Billboard, and it is generally by some person who knows and loves good acting.

"Grumpy," with an all-English company, will tour the Trans-Canada Time to Vancouver and back. The company started September 13 at London, Ont. Edward Lewers, Frank Crompton, Galway Herbert, Peggy Dundas and Violet Hall Caine are the principals.

It will take much more than the loyal Belasco following and the wave of interest in pacible investigation to keep "One" alive long. It is off to the poorest of poor starts and not only shows no sign of picking up, but is weakening perceptibly.

Earl Carroll announces he will present Henry Herbert, who is now playing a featured role in "The Lady of the Lamp" at the Republic Theater, New York, in special matinee performances of "The Comedy of Errors" shortly after election.

The Socialist play, "Sanin," was presented at Kessler's Second Avenue Theater, New York, last Thursday night as part of a gala program in honor of the five ousted Socialist Assemblymen. All five were present and made speeches between acts. About 1,500 attended the performance.

It is a bit strange that William Hodge, who does not need a Broadway endorsement, should court the street's favor so persistently. All it is worth is the boost it lends a star outside of New York and in that direction it can do nothing at all for Mr. Hodge. He is firmly established in the all-American cities.

Henry Miller and Blanche Bates have added another week to their engagement in James Forbes' "The Famous Mrs. Fair" at Henry Miller's Theater, New York, and will continue their run until Saturday evening, October 16. From here they will go to the Broad Street Theater, Philadelphia.

Harold de Becker again demonstrated his capacity, his ability and his conscientious sincerity in "Marry the Poor Girl." Nothing lives in vain, however briefly. Beatrice Noyes also is indebted to it (to for the briefest of brief opportunities) for chance to show that her art is ripening.

Allice Brady is much too fine for her present vehicle. It should be discarded at the very earliest opportunity, for fat as her role is and numerous as the chances afforded her to display her versatility and great talent, she is loser every week she continues in it.

The power of association cannot be ignored. A very small percentage of playgoers are discriminating enough to judge play and playing separately—each on its own merits. Some of the sins of the play are bound to be visited on the players and the latter are sure to suffer most.

The shorter Miss Brady's season in "Anna Ascends" is curtailed the fewer regrets she will have to entertain.

A DRAMATIC AUTHORITY

New York, Oct. 1.—Alfred Becks, librarian for Houdini, has probably one of the best recollections of oldtime actors. He is a brother of the actor, George Becks, and at one time lectured on Tobin's "Deapitation," at the Boston Athenaeum, Boston Howard Athenaeum, Boston. He saw the original Bosco work in 1890 in Manchester, England, and was with Edwin Forrest when they played the old Union Square Theater. His handwriting was so good that Manager Palmer made him his secretary. Mr. Becks is an authority on drama. He was for five years secretary to Dion Boucicault, who exploited the Davenport Brothers in England. Boucicault was author of many of the oldtime melodramas and Irish dramas.

ACTOR A SUICIDE

New York, Sept. 29.—After taking a liberal dose of bicarbonate of soda in the belief that it was cyanide of potassium Ned Finley, actor and motion picture director, then calmly penned a note telling of his suicidal intent in his room at the Hotel de France. Finally, according to the police, he penned a second note after taking a dose of strychnine and was found dead in bed last Monday. Another note left by Finley requested that his funeral be in charge of Actors' Fund of America and that his personal effects be given his wife, a Miss Henri, whom the police so far have been unable to locate. Only one cent and a heap of pawn tickets were found in the room. Dr. George Hobbmann, assistant medical examiner, is quoted as saying that Finley had taken enough strychnine to "kill an elephant." Finley was born in Virginia about fifty years ago. Stationery found in the room bore the legend, "Ned Finley—Theatrical and motion picture productions; Ned Finley, general manager."

MARC KLAW MAKES STATEMENT

New York, Oct. 1.—Referring to the complaint of Abraham Erlanger, filed recently in the Supreme Court, Marc Klaw, in a statement to The Billboard, said: "I have not had time to go over the complaint carefully, but will go over it with my counsel. But there is nothing in the papers so far as I can see that has not been discussed during the past two years. During that period Mr. Erlanger and I have divided the greater bulk of our assets, and I am quite as willing as he is that the court adjudicate the differences now remaining and sever the partnership."

DELYSIA EN ROUTE

New York, Oct. 1.—In a cable to Comstock & Gest Alys Delysia, who will appear in "Algar," announces that she has started for this country. Lupino Lane, the London comedian, and A. L. Rawlins, character actor, are also on the same boat, it seems.

TO JOIN "ADAM AND EVA"

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Gilbert Douglas, who acted here in "Peg o' My Heart," as well as in other comedies, will join the cast of "Adam and Eva," now playing in the La Salle Theater, in the near future, according to report, taking the place of Cyril Kelgittley in the titular role of Adam.

CHICAGO OFFICE

The Actors' Equity Association has furnished a room in the "Charlotte Cushman" home in Philadelphia.

With the approaching referendum vote on the "Equity Shop" proposition it behooves every member to examine his card and find out whether he is in good standing. The vote of anyone behind in his dues will not be counted. And if the vote be favorable to the "Equity Shop," what a humiliating position delinquents will find themselves in, to be compelled to pay rather than do so of their own free will.

A manager writes us that his company travels by automobile, and that the actors had consented to this arrangement before the tour started. Now, however, certain members desire their return fares home and so are raising the point that their contracts have been broken, as they call for RAILROAD transportation. If the facts be as stated (and, of course, we shall enquire into the matter) our sympathies are with the manager. To verbally agree to a condition and then, because one tires of it, to try and make the manager give two weeks' notice, is not equitable.

A rumor reaches us that certain members in the Windy City object to being called "Chicago Actors," as was done at the recent meeting.

The very last thing in our mind was to offend anyone, especially members who live in the West. This is proved by the fact that at the time we were handing them bouquets of a large and generous size, and therefore we feel that the protestants are unduly sensitive.

How can we specify the Chicago actor, the one who works in and out of that city, except by some such title? We shall be glad to receive suggestions. In the meantime let us assure them that "Chicago Actor" is to us as distinguished a title as "New York Actor" or any other.

The Spanish actors have won their strike, and did so, like us, thru association with Federated Labor. On this side of the water we could do little more than hold our thumbs for them. We could not even send a cable wishing them luck, as neither their address nor official title was known to us. The American actor has good cause for satisfaction in that he was the first to dare, and he did it neither foolishly nor recklessly, but only after years of careful preparation. The result has been noted around the world and actors in many other countries have backed up and demanded recognition. This has been sometimes secured without even a struggle, and, sometimes, as in the case of the Spanish actors, after a short period of opposition.

After this last victory for the actor, how can anyone whose heart is genuinely with his fellow players protest against his association with labor? Can the French, the Spanish, the British, the Australian, the American and others all be wrong? Remember, they came to their conclusions regarding affiliation with labor separately, without collusion, tho, of course, the trend was felt more or less by all.

One dear old friend, loyal to the marrow, sometimes sighs and says we have made our art commercial, but then he is a brilliant actor, he gets his hundreds a week, and always did. If a play is a failure he would willingly release his manager from every obligation. Our friend is rich and has never known what it is to be out of a job or hold a contract for months and then be told that the play was indefinitely postponed, or to be laid off for weeks and then have his salary cut fifty per cent. If what we have done is to make acting commercial, then thank God for it. But it is not so. The actor is as free as ever to soar into the highest realms of art. Labor has not arrested American music, nor the histrionism of the Barrymores. So, cheer up, old friend, but if you point to the cabinet maker and to the mason as an argument to the contrary we shall reply that machinery and not trades unionism has been responsible for the loss of individualism.

In conclusion, we would ask again, is there any actor today who would like to see the work of the Actors' Equity Association swept aside and return to the "good old times?"

Once more we quote from a letter of an esteemed member: "Last week we played Jasper, Ala. There was some excitement about the place. The town had been made the headquarters of the militia, which was there to settle disturbances. There were a few killings, riots, both big and small, but our business suffered nothing in consequence. In fact Jasper proved to be one of our best weeks. The week before that we were in Russellville, Ala., another scene of a strike trouble.

"I want to speak of meeting a most interesting young man at Jasper. I was standing at the entrance to the theater Saturday morning when he came up and questioned me relative to the nature of our attraction. I told him all I could, and then inquired if he went to the theater often. He gave me a big surprise when he said that he had never seen any kind of a performance in all his life—not even a moving picture. Now what type would you imagine such an individual to be? I think your mental impression would be something very close to a cave man. He confessed to being thirty-four years of age, and had lived all his life within forty miles of Jasper. Altho attired in overalls and blue cotton shirt he was neat and clean. His face was freshly shaven, and any man might envy him his teeth, which bespoke excellent care. His conversation was easy and natural. That he had had the advantage of a fair schooling was evident. His smile was engaging and his voice really musical. He had no prejudice in the matter of amusements. Asked how it was that he had never witnessed any sort of a performance he replied that he was orphaned at an early age and adopted by country people. He said that he had heard others speak of moving pictures and theatrical performances, but he 'just had never happened to attend one.' I made him our guest that night. He was delighted. But I feel certain that he enjoyed the novelty of witnessing his first play (at thirty-four years of age) no more than we enjoyed the novelty of contributing to the entertainment of so exceptional a person."

THE AMERICAN CONCERT FIELD and American Endeavor in Grand Opera, Symphony and Chamber Music and Classic Dancing

BY IZETTA MAY MCHENRY

TWO AMERICANS

To Direct Destiny of Nashville Symphony Orchestra—Organization Is Being Watched With Interest—Consists of Seventy Players, Professionals and Amateurs

In the city of Nashville there was organized last February the Nashville Symphony Orchestra, consisting of seventy players, including professionals and amateurs, all of whom were residents of the Southern city or its immediate vicinity. Only one concert, on April 23, was given, and so great was the demand for tickets that the concert was given in the Auditorium instead of the Princess Theater, which has a capacity of 5,000, and even then it was impossible to accommodate the crowd and hundreds were turned away. The founding of the orchestra was largely due to the efforts of George Pullen Jackson, president of the Nashville Symphony Society, and Frederick Arthur Heakel, conductor, both of whom are Americans. Mr. Jackson was born in Maine, and spent his boyhood days in Alabama. He studied at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, and while studying medicine in Europe he also took up the study of music in the Dresden Royal Conservatory and also at other universities in cities where he was receiving further instruction in medicine. He has been instrumental in the formation of several symphony orchestras in this country, one, the Oberlin Conservatory Orchestra, and others at the Northwestern University and the University of North Dakota, and in founding the Nashville Symphony Orchestra Mr. Jackson carried out his belief that American music must be developed in our own country and not borrowed from foreign lands.

Frederick Heakel is a native of Cincinnati and began his study of music when but a small lad, his instruction being given at first by his father, who played in Theodore Thomas' orchestra. For a number of years he studied piano and took up the study of organ with Heald G. Andre of New York and later studied both piano and organ at the Cincinnati College of Music. At the Cincinnati Music Hall he played the organ in the symphony concerts when Frank VanderStucken was the director. Since 1906 he has been very active in Nashville musical circles and is director of organ in the musical department of one of Nashville's largest schools. He has composed music and directed the choruses of several pageants held in Nashville.

Due to the enthusiasm of these two American musicians interest has been aroused among Nashville citizens and money has been raised by public subscription to cover the expense of the orchestra for this season. Five concerts are to be given on Sunday afternoons, one in November, one in December and one each in January, March and April, and for the April concert the Nashville Symphony Orchestra will join forces with the Nashville Choral Society, a chorus of more than one hundred voices, which has been in existence for several years.

The Nashville Symphony Orchestra has taken out a charter and the progress of this body of players will be watched with much interest, as it is one more step towards Americanizing symphony orchestras.

NEW ORCHESTRA SCHOOL Planned for Kansas City

Kansas City, Oct. 4.—For the past several weeks Francois Boucher, head of the violin department of the Kansas City Conservatory of Music, has been striving to obtain sufficient financial backing to establish a School of Fine Arts in Kansas City, the feature of the school to be instruction in orchestra work. When a Billboard representative called on Mr. Boucher it was learned that he had already received $5,000, one-fifth of the amount necessary for the establishment of an orchestra school, and he stated that all of his time outside of his private lessons and classes at the Kansas City

Conservatory is being devoted to securing the additional amount of subscriptions to make possible the new School of Fine Arts.

Mr. Boucher is very optimistic and believes it will be possible to get the school started early in October and in good running order before the winter season closes. The present plans include teachers for all the various instruments required in an orchestra, and the orchestra school to have quarters in the Kansas City Conservatory of Music for the first year, or until such time as it is large enough to have quarters of its own.

Three evening performances and a Wednesday matinee will be given, Mr. Gallo presenting "La Tosca" the opening night. Other operas to be heard will be "Lohengrin," "Miguelito" and "Madam Butterfly." The opening concert in the course, October 22, will bring Marie Rappold, Jose Mardoaes and Josef Lhevinne. Rosa Raisa will be heard with Giacomo Rimini on November 13, and on Sunday afternoon, December 6, Titta Ruffo and Teta May are on the program. AMERICANS

Well Represented in Behymer's Concert Series—Exceptional Musical Events Assured for Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Sept. 30.—L. E. Behymer, enterprising concert manager of Los Angeles, has returned to the city after spending two busy months in the East signing contracts for the forthcoming season. His announcements indicate that the musical events to be given this coming winter under his direction will be exceptionally brilliant.

Mr. Behymer is to be heartily commended for his booking of many American artists. During the 1920-1921 season he will present the following American soloists: Anna Pritlit, of the Chicago Opera Company; May Peterson, lyric soprano; Mary Jordan, Charles Hackett, the American tenor; Samuel Gardner, Lada, the American dancer, and a joint recital by Anna Case, soprano, and Cecil Fanning, barytone.

Many of the world's most famous artists will be heard, among them Josef Hofmann, Jan Kubelik, famous violinist; Mischa Levitski, Benno Moisewitsch, pianist, and Frances A'ida. He has five others which will soon be in preparation, and the music for all of these will be written by Jim Conlin. NOTED SINGER IS DEAD

New York, Sept. 29.—The death of Mme. Etelka Gerster, once a famous coloratura soprano, is reported from her villa near Bologna. Her death occurred August 20, according to the report. She was at one time a great favorite in America, appearing here as a member of the company that Col. Henry Mapleson brought from His Majesty's Theater, London, to the Academy of Music. She appeared there first on November 11, 1878, and was immediately successful, sharing honors then with Mme. Patti. She was born in Kaschba, Hungary, in 1855. In spite of her triumphs her career was short. She leaves a daughter, also a singer, who is the wife of Walter Kichhammer, tenor of the Royal Opera, Berlin.

March 2 by the following artists: Eddy Brown, Mary Kent, Lada, Christine Langenhan, William Robyn, Mana-Zuzza, Hans Hess, Leo Ornstein, and a joint recital by Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini.

At Carnegie Hall, New York, the evening of November 2, another violin genius named Duci Kerekjarto will make his debut. The youth is 20 years old, and has for many years been studying with Jenö Hubay, the famous Hungarian violinist. He has played in public in Europe since he was 12 years old.

Albert Reves Norton, who for some years has been organist of the Apollo Club of Brooklyn, and an academic member of the American Guild of Organists, has assumed his duties as teacher of piano and organ at Pittsburg Musical Institute. Mr. Norton is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Boston.

Walter Damrosch and his orchestra will give another interesting series of lecture recitals for the Washington Society of Fine Arts, in the auditorium of the Central High School, Washington, D. C., the lecture recital to follow the afternoon concert which will be given at the National Theater on Tuesdays.

Julius Jahn and Walter Friel, both formerly of the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music, have been meeting with much success in Dallas, Tex. Mr. Friel is conductor of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, and Mr. Jahn is director of the women's chorus of the Schubert Club, of which Mrs. W. S. Bramlett is president.

Eleanor Freer's musical setting of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's "Forty-four Sonnets From the Portuguese" will be presented at four afternoons of music to be given at Orchestra Hall Foyer, Chicago. The dates are November 15, 22, 29 and December 6, at 4 o'clock, and the entire proceeds of these concerts will be given for local and foreign philanthropy.

A campaign is being waged in Mobile to organize a Junior Music Lovers' Association, with a membership of 1,000, with the idea of bringing to the city celebrated artists so that young music students and young people in general can hear and learn to appreciate good music. The present plans include a concert by Nedda Hewitt Stevens during November, Frances Nash in December and the Zoellner Quartet in December, with others to follow.

The Macphail School of Music, of Minneapolis, maintains an orchestra band and saxophone ensemble for the benefit of students. There is also a Girls' Glee Club, made up of students in the voice department, and the club under the direction of Mrs. R. Campbell Ledward, is arranging several concerts to be given during November and December.

"HURLY-BURLY"—A musical surprise, in two acts and five scenes, entitled "You'll Be Surprised." Presented by Jos. Wilton, Books, Lyrics, music and dancing written and produced by Joe Wilton.

THE CAST—Joe Wilton, Jim Bennett, Phil Fletcher, Phil Walsh, Charley Teye, Bob Bennett, Nelly Nice, Arlene Johnson, Belle White, Mlle. Tulane.

CHORUS—Glenn Walsh, Robbie Williams, Eugenie Wood, Florence Thomas, Buddy Gordon, May Moore, Virginia Everett, Kay Allen, Tillie Gentle, Peggy McKay, Babe Cyr, Mae Kelley, Ethel Harrington, Peggy Woodford, Bessie Quinn, Edna Floyd.

REVIEW

The curtain arose on a typical tropical island scene, with a ship in port and a full moon shedding its silvery rays on an ensemble of attractive feminines, which in itself made a most favorable impression, which was heightened by a double quartet of harmonizing vocalists.

Arlene Johnson, as a female reporter, in a stunning ingenuit attire, is an exceptionally attractive brunet who knows the value of clear enunciation, and when she reappears as a peppery soubrette, with a cultivated Southern dialect, she sure does put pep into her every action.

Nelly Nice is one of those pleasingly plump blonde doll types of soubrettes that the masculines notice and admire. Belle White is a petite, pert kewpie, Frenchified type of soubrette, who breaks the speed laws in lines and action.

With three soubrettes on and off the stage continually it required something exceptionally clever in the way of masculines to keep pace with them, and it was done, and well done at that, by Joe Wilton, in a straight comedy role, and Jim Bennett, in a typical Hebrew comedy role, and the way they worked up to each demonstrated careful rehearsal. They got much laughter and applause, for their every line and action was clean and clever. Wilton, as Mr. Gaby, the advertising man, was as suave as they make them, and his own personality is likable.

There were several bits in the first part worked along somewhat different lines, such as women dressing according to color of hair, Bennett's different languages to Soubrette Nelly and Bennett's imaginary drinking session, with Nelly's laughing jag and Bennett's staggering falls, Joe's census taking of Phil Walsh, an Italian artist; Bennett's summertime vs. Walsh's Italian Soma-time, etc., which evoked much laughter and applause. During the first part there were numerous musical numbers by the principals and chorus. Joe's self-introductions of Mr. Gaby, the advertising man, went over great.

Mae Kelley, as a solo dancer, leading the girls in a ballet dance, demonstrated remarkable ability, and the same is applicable to the girls.

Charles Teye and Belle White, as the Dancing Fools, put over a novelty dance that was highly pleasing. Bob Bennett and Phil Fletcher blended harmoniously with an accordion, xylophone and clarinet, accompanied by dancing, followed by an imitation of Ted Lewis' Jazz Band.

Messrs. Wilton, Bennett, Teye, Bennett, Fletcher and Walsh, in full evening dress, proved their vocalistic ability with Italian opera that made a decided hit with the Olympians. Soubrette Johnson and Nice made a pretty picture, spotlighted upon chairs, while singing "Apple Blossom Time." A novelty finale was the introduction of the girls as various brands of drinks, with their individual recitations on their characterizations, and repartee by Wilton and Bennett in a burlesque.

Part two was the tutelet of Gaby's summer home, with Bride Nelly in bed awaiting Groom Bennett, with Wilton as a modernized devil in a devilish interpolation that was highly ludicrous.

The Hurly-Burly Jazz Band was instrumentalism par excellence, supplemented by vocalism of high order by Phil Walsh and Arlene Johnson. Joe, as the cater-out in the audience, with Bennett in feminine attire on the stage, in a mind-reading act, kept the audience in a continuous uproar of laughter by Joe's easily understandable cues to Bennett and Bennett's manner of answering.

Joe, as a fight promoter of "One-Arm Hogan" and Bennett, as Hogan, meeting all comers, was a good burlesque on the fighting game and how it may be done.

COMMENT

Having seen Wilton in other shows which he was credited with producing, we fully expected to see a rehash of all his old bits, and was agreeably surprised to find that he had injected new lines and actions, if we except his mind-reading bit, which was worked better by Bennett than we have seen heretofore.

Scenery is new and of quality and quantity. The gowning we noticed was the first appearance of Arlene Johnson as a female reporter, who looked and acted the part well, but who discarded it for a more appropriate soubrette makeup and mannerism that compares favorably with any in burlesque, for Arlene has a personality somewhat different from the average and one that will make for future popularity, for she has the ability as well.

The costuming of the feminines was new and attractive, and changed frequently. The choristers a credit to burlesque, for they are there personally and artistically.

We were not at all surprised to see Wilton appear in morning, afternoon and full evening dress, but when Hebrew Comic Bennett did likewise he set an example that others could follow with benefit to themselves, for a Hebrew Comic can be as fast and funny in full evening dress as he can in a bum attire, and it will make a bigger hit with the Hebrews.

Mr. Wilton, we commend you and your associate artists for an enjoyable presentation of burlesque that is remarkable for its legitimate comedy entirely free from suggestiveness, and prophesy a beneficent future for you and those who are assisting you in giving to patrons of burlesque an entertainment of merit.—NELSE.

MOUNT MORRIS

Out of American Circuit

New York, Oct. 1.—Due to the continued poor business at the Mount Morris during the season it was decided to eliminate it from the American Circuit, and, commencing next week, the American Circuit attractions booked for that week will lay off until the week can be booked in elsewhere, and this is being negotiated by President Herk.

HERK AND GALLAGHER START SOMETHING

New York, Oct. 1.—Letters sent out by General Manager George W. Gallagher, of the American Burlesque Association, putting the kibosh on bare legs and calling on house managers to provide a piano on the stage gratis to shows requiring one in an act, followed by President Herk's announcement of six official critics to report on shows has started something among house and road managers, for they are making inquiries in an effort to discover who are the designated critics who are pledged to secrecy by President Herk, therefore it's a foregone conclusion that those who aren't will act as if they are, and those that are will act

SEEN AND HEARD

By NELSE

Lee and Lassiter—We have no information of the Century Burlesque Circuit for publication other than that already published in previous issues.

Frank (Somebody) desires it to be known that Miss Bittie (Somebody) has had a nervous breakdown in Minneapolis and removed to a hospital in Chicago, but as Frank fails to sign his last name or indicate who he is we can not rely on the authenticity of his communication, therefore we have not used the lady's last name.

We welcome information that may be converted into interesting news for this column, but we must insist that the writers sign their full names and addresses.

When we complimented Murray A. Marons, formerly of "Paterson" Bittie Watson's theaters and the People's Theater, Philadelphia, on the publicity that Jean Redlin's "Tinkie Toes" is getting in the dailies, Murray modestly admitted that he visited the editors in person.

Sign Daly was one busy agent around the Casino, Brooklyn, Tuesday last, and, take it from Sign himself, he is going to make some of these newcomers sit up and take notice to the press publicity that he gets for Jacobs & Jermon's "Sporting Widows."

Walter Lucel, who signs himself "Burlesque King" of St. Paul, communicates that he and his friends consider "Razzie Dazzle," with Harry Stepe, and "The Lid Lifters," with Harry Lang and Violet Penny, the two best burlesque shows on the circuit, at the same time admitting that all shows this season are improved over former years.

Bittie Wood communicates that we did her a good turn when we sent her to Louis Rejtschelder, for Louis engaged her for George Jaffe's "Joy Riders," where she finds Al Lubin a fine manager and the entire company congenial companions. All right, Bittie, the pleasure is as much ours as it is yours.

Miss St. Clair—The "Midnight Maidens" is no more, but Hurlitz & Seamon are operating "Puss Pass" in its place, but where Rose is this season we do not know.

Sam Conover—If you will visit the "Monte Carlo Girls" when they play Pittsburg you will find Frank (Rags) Murphy doing his tramp characterization, and 'tis said he is doing it better than ever. As for the other party you inquire about, we can not say where she is this season.

Walter Middleton has a justified grievance against the doorman who claimed not to know who Irons & Clamage were when everyone in Detroit who claims to know anything at all about theatricals knows that they are two of the most progressive theatrical promoters in that city. Maybe the doorman sized Walter up for a Broadway kick and thought he was to be kidded; in any event, the Cadillac lost a paid patron.

Sam Lewis, manager of the People's, Philadelphia, in a communication states that Jack Singer's Show, with the "Great Tarzan," was a riot on the opening night, that the big business continued all week and that the show got better with every performance; also, if he gets more attractions like the Singer Show he will make a killing that will do down in history for box-office receipts for 1920. Ike Weber booked the "Great Tarzan" for Singer.

Frank Damsel, of Herk, Kelly & Damsel, was a visitor to the American Burlesque Association office on Friday last and reports that their shows are all well set and doing good business.

Bert Weston, of the James E. Cooper office, is being commended highly for the dance numbers that he has produced for the burlesque stock company at Shea's Bowery Theater, formerly Miner's Bowery.

Sam Dawson, in a letter to William Judkins Hewitt, of The Billboard, says that he has seen several burlesque shows since the opening of the season, but none to compare with Jack Reid's "Record Breakers," which he considers one of the best on the circuit.

Johnnie Hughes, formerly the Dutch Noodle Maker in the "Midnight Maidens," has just returned from a two weeks' engagement at the Folly, Baltimore, and Gayety, Philadelphia, and speaks very highly of the treatment received at both houses, which are doing good business. Ed Johnson was working opposite Hughes at each house.

COLUMBIA BURLESQUE CIRCUIT

Attraction at Casino Theater, Brooklyn, N. Y., Week of September 27

"JOLLITIES OF 1920"—Sam Howe's. A revu-salistic fable in two acts and ten scenes. By Addison Burkhardt and Sam Howe.

THE CAST—Chief Bragdon, Sammy Howard, Harold Carr, Frank Mallaban, Win. F. Collins, Joe Williams, Fred Ravekes, Paul Redman, A. J. Addieg, Helen Tarr, Norma Barry, Helen Rikhoff, Lillian Norwood.

REVIEW

The opening scene was in Central Park, with its ensemble of ultra-fashionable New Yorkers in appropriate attire who exited for their reappearance in a modernized department store conducted by Sammy Howard, a Hebrew merchant with comedy proclivities. In the store was a dummy that came to life in the person of Chief Bragdon, an eccentric little chap, whose every line and act evoked laughter and applause.

Frank Mallaban looked and acted the part of the well-dressed straight as a lawyer in search of a missing heiress with a mole on her back, whom he apparently expected to find by piping the feminine patrons of the store in the persons of Helen Tarr, a voluptuous blond; Norma Barry, an attractive brunet; Helen Rikhoff, a ringleted blond, and Lillian Norwood, a pleasing damsel, who one and all helped to make a merry-making cast of principals who were ably assisted by Harold Carr as Heza Quack, supplemented by William F. Collins, Joe Williams, Fred Ravekes, Paul Redmond and A. J. Addieg, who appeared frequently in minor roles and musical specialties.

Chief Bragdon started the merriment as a come to life, interloping dummy and fight promoter between Howard and Mallaban. Helen seeking a new hat and losing her own, Norma introducing eight modelistic choristers in a lingerie parade, Harold's book on hypnotism and Howard's song and dance went over well. In front of a street drop Howard, Bragdon, Mallaban and Carr as a singing quartet could have stopped the show had they been permitted to do so.

In the Mariba Washington Hotel Bragdon, as a typical Irish biddy in charge of the desk, kept the audience working overtime with their applause makers at his funnyisms in which he was ably assisted by Howard as a feminine guest. A novelty was offered by the introduction of three boxing bouts by the choristers, and the way the first two went at it they are evidently rehearsing for the real thing, thereby getting the big hand for their activities.

In front of a drop in one Joe ("Jazz") Williams started with a violin specialty until the uprising drop disclosed to view his Synco-Melody Orchestra, and their manner of jazzing music was all to the good. Norma Barry, leading the girls in a butterfly dance, made an exceptionally pretty stage picture and finale for part one.

The second part opened with an ensemble led by Helen Rikhoff, which gave way for the entry of Comics Bragdon and Howard with an auto that Bragdon got more laughs out of than any tin tizzie ever seen or heard before. Mallaban held a humorous session by introducing the girls as various brands of cigarettes.

In front of a street drop Helen furnished much comedy in a love making bit with the comics, which was heightened by Helen stripping Howard of his clothes in an I can love and I can hate bit. The comics, in a novelty black art William Tell bit, put over something new with an electric lighted bullet that left the gun and lighted its own way to the apple target. The closing scene was an elaborate cabaret scene with Joe ("Jazz") Williams furnishing the music for the singers and dancers in their respective turns.

COMMENT

The scenery was new and elaborate. The gowning and costuming costly and attractive. The choristers were there with youth, beauty and ability. The company talented entertainers. Bragdon's reference to being in bed with two nurses for two weeks was emphasized sufficiently to make it suggestive. In the finale of the first part Helen Tarr, a voluptuous blond prima of pleasing personality, marred her otherwise attractive stage presence to characterize an overgrown kewpie soubrette, and we wonder why unless it was intended for a burlesque which could have been left to the others. NELSE.

as if they aren't, so where is the road manager to get off who hopes to cheat or put over something beneath the standard set by the A. B. A.? Verily, the fellow inclined to cheat or put over lewdness will find it hard sledding, and as for some of the comics who can not or will not eliminate the lewd stuff it looks like snowballs instead of cakes. If he gets the can in one show he will find it hard to land another, for President Herk is apparently sincere in his declarations that he will not stand for any more suggestive or lewdness in American Circuit attractions.

ROSE SYDELL'S LONDON BELLES

Our customary "Comment" after our review in the last issue having been mislaid we consider it of sufficient importance to publish it in this issue, viz.:

COMMENT

The scenery was far more elaborate than other shows that the "London Belles" have presented in the past, and compares favorably with many shows on the circuit.

The gowning of Miss Campbell was exceptionally costly, attractive and away from the usual, running to gold and silver fringe effect, and this charming woman wore them like one to the manner born.

Miss Theda sported several attractive gowns, likewise Misses Davis, Sydel, Howard and the choristers, who made frequent changes. Comics Marks and Howard worked with a will and a way that pleased the audience. The feminine principals have individualities that are attractive and their work at all times is clean and clever.

The choristers are there in variety, and, while a couple of them reminded us of the Ancient Order of Varieties, for the most part they were acceptable.

Jimmie Madison, of "Madison Budget" fame, is credited with the book in "Pleasure Before Business," and he has evidently taken his idea from numerous musical successes and given to "The London Belles" something entirely different from anything heretofore presented by them in the way of burlesque.

Taking it all in all, it proved highly entertaining to the audience, who laughed and applauded thruout the performance.—NELSE.

WEBER'S BURLESQUE BULLETIN

New York, Oct. 1.—Harry Rodger, at the Iko Weber Agency in the Columbia Theater Bldg., reports engagements, viz.: For the "Raw Recruit," in vaudeville, Al Simms and Sid Marion. For Jack Singer's show, "The Great Tarzan," direct from the Winter Garden. For Al Reeves' "Joy Bells," Harry (Helnie) Cooper and Matt Kennedy. For Jacobs & Jermon's "Bon Tons," Jim McAnley.

CHANGES IN CASTS

Harry Hastings Attractions—Has changed five principals in two weeks, and Harry has replaced them with others more to his liking.

Hilda Le Roy has replaced Violet Buckley as prima donna, and La Veva, formerly of Barney Gerard's "Follies of the Day," has been added to the cast of the "Kewpie Dolls."

Frank Manning, ye oldtime burlesquer, has been signed up for Joe Woods' "Girle, Girle," a twenty-six-people act, playing the Loew Time.

Al Reeves' "Joy Bells" will have a change in cast, due to the illness of Al Shean, the principal comic, who will retire for a couple of weeks, and in the meantime George Wright will enact the role of comic.

BIRTHDAY PARTY IN BUFFALO

New York, Sept. 29.—A communication from Buffalo sets forth that one of the events of the burlesque season in that city was a birthday party tendered Pauline Russell, of Lew Talbot's "Lil Lifters," by her associate players at the Palace Hotel, where Billie Levy, the genial manager, officiated as manager of ceremonies, and everyone present acclaimed it a most enjoyable affair. Miss Russell was the recipient of numerous ornamental and useful gifts from members of the company and admirers outside the profession, who participated in the festivities that lasted until the wee small hours.

BARE LEGS TABOOED

New York, Sept. 29.—A letter has been issued by the A. B. A. to managers playing American Circuit attractions that bare legs are taboo on the Circuit.

THEATRICAL MUTUAL ASSOCIATION

Leslie J. Yonngsen, of Milwaukee Lodge, is endeavoring to create more enthusiasm among the members there. He is looking for the younger set to carry out his plans, which he feels will meet with success.

Chas. R. Wells, of Minneapolis, will pay the St. Paul brethren an official visit some time during the present week. They have been very quiet of late. His presence there undoubtedly will create new life among the fraters.

The secretary of Newark Lodge, M. A. Carney, has distributed a number of applications to prospective candidates. One of the largest classes known will be admitted to the mysteries of our order during the fall term.

Thomas H. Foley and Richardson Webster, secretary and treasurer of Brooklyn Lodge, have sent in for their reservations for the World's Series. Both are ardent fans, and, naturally, pulling hard for their home town team to cop the world's championship bunting.

From Gotham comes an encouraging report that New York Lodge is adding new members at each meeting, due to the never-tiring propagandist trinity, Al M. Ruland, William T. Butler and George C. Krast, respectively the president, treasurer and secretary.

Spokane Lodge sends its greeting to all members. Its president, C. E. Edwards, and his scribe, Chas. F. Mancke, assure members visiting No. 47 a cordial welcome. Delegates and visitors will never forget the splendid time aboun during the convention week in 1913.

Graham F. Walker, Edward F. Raysinger and M. J. Fitzgerald, having looked over the roster, find all members of Baltimore Lodge at their stations at the various theaters. At the opening of the theatrical season several were missing, who were up in their summer camps, apparently not worrying about such trifles as "work."

President P. W. Barrett, of Parkersburg Lodge, has issued a call for all members of No. 53 to be present at the next regular meeting, his purpose being to have the members survey the various houses in Parkersburg in search for a larger membership. Bro. P. W. Barrett is the manager of the Strand.

James F. Blake informs us that San Francisco Lodge has adopted a new set of by-laws, which will be submitted to the Committee on Laws for approval shortly. The goal, a 300 membership, will soon be a reality. W. R. Whorff, the secretary, has seventeen petitions for membership to be acted on at the next stated meeting.

The deputy of Quebec, Romeo R. Marcell, has the ball rolling in Ottawa. He is lining up some 200 musicians to get under our standard, and is positive of their membership. It will take several months before the initiations will take place, due to the reports of the various investigating committees out on these applicants. Romeo is a real hustler, and too much credit can not be given him.

STAGE LIGHTING

Is Poor in Musical Comedy

With a Few Exceptions More Careful Attention to This Detail Is Badly Needed

Perhaps it will be conceded that advances in stage technique are more generally made on the dramatic stage than in the field of musical comedy. There are exceptions to this rule, of course. But, as a general proposition, a more careful attention to details and a greater willingness to take advantage of new ideas is more noticeable on the dramatic stage than in its companion field of endeavor.

This thought comes to the writer's mind particularly in connection with stage lighting. Scrupulous care is generally given to it on the dramatic stage, and it has gone steadily thru a process of development until the average drama has few flaws in illumination. The opposite often occurs in the musical show.

There are some producers of musical shows who handle stage lighting with much skill. Such a man is John Murray Anderson. In his productions he takes advantage of all the latest kinks. He was the first man to use the modern "daylight" lamp. In "What's In a Name," where he first used it, he achieved some beautiful effects.

The average producer is not like Mr. Anderson however. Stage lighting seems to be beyond his ken. In a show recently produced here the lighting was atrocious. Shadows from the sky borders were seen on a landscape supposedly miles away. In another the interior lights were placed in exactly the wrong place to get the illumination seen on the stage. Bunch lights in entrances are often seen placed in such a position that the player can not help casting a shadow on the backing. And if there is anything calculated to make the eye of an audience wander sooner than the shadow of a player waiting to make an entrance this writer doesn't know it.

When a character in a play pushes an electric switch in a dark set there is often a perceptible lapse between the time the switch is pushed and the lighting of the lamps. Unless the man at the switchboard is very much on the job this will always happen. When will some practical electrician think of putting an automatic switch on the board that will be operated by the act of pushing the stage switch and throw the stage lights on simultaneously with the pushing of the stage switch by the actor? It can be easily done, and could not help but be effective. It is ludicrous to see it done the way it is now.

Modern gas-filled lamps offer many possibilities to the producer who will study them. They can be purchased in sizes that will give just the right intensity of illumination. They are economical of operation. So far the methods of the illuminating engineer have been utilized by only a few producers, but the results have well repaid them for their pains. The great advance that would be made in stage illumination by even a cursory study of the subject should well pay the producer for the doing of it. He would progress, and the stage with him. And he could save money, too. It is to be hoped that the last reason will prompt him to do it if the others fail.—G. W.

MAYFIELD BACK OCTOBER 18

New York, Sept. 29.—Cleo Mayfield, of "Look Who's Here," who recently had to undergo an operation at St. Bartholemew's Hospital, this city, is fast recovering, according to reports and will probably rejoin the "Look Who's Here" Company with Cecil Lean at the Crescent Theater, Brooklyn, October 18. In Miss Mayfield's absence her sister Georgia is assuming her role and most satisfactorily.

STONE'S 20TH ANNIVERSARY

New York, Oct. 2.—When Fred Stone opens at the Globe next Tuesday night he will celebrate the twentieth anniversary of his first association with Charles Dillingham. It was in 1900 that he first appeared under Dillingham's management at the Herald Square Theater in

"The Girl From Up There." Then Stone went to London with his partner, Dave Montgomery, and stayed there several years.

Upon their return they appeared in "The Wizard of Oz," and then appeared under the Dillingham management in a series of shows, including "The Red Mill," "The Old Town," "The Lady of the Slipper" and "Chin Chin." After Dave Montgomery's death Fred Stone appeared in "Jack o' Lantern," and now "Tip Top," which opens at the Globe October 5.

MICHAEL FOKINE ILL

New York, Sept. 29.—Michael Fokine, the Russian dancer, was taken suddenly ill Tuesday while staging a number in the new Comstock & Gest production, "Merca," and was rushed to Roosevelt Hospital for an operation. The nature of his attack was not divulged at the hospital.

"APHRODITE" IS O. K.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—When Arthur Burrage Farrell, who heads a law enforcement league, filed charges against "Aphrodite," Comstock & Gest's colossal spectacle, now playing in the Auditorium, Assistant Corporation Counsel Breen said he'd go and look things over. He did so and decided that the spectacle was all right. Mr. Breen is quoted as saying no changes should be made in either the words or the costumes of the play.

ANOTHER "IRENE" CO.

New York, Sept. 29.—Still another "Irene" Company, making the fourth to be presented by the Vanderbilt Producing Company, has started its career, opening last Monday in Springfield, Mass. In the title role is Dale Winters, while Marjory Dalton has the part played here by Florence Mills. Mildred Miller has the Eva Puck part, and others in the cast are Raymond Crane and Howard Freeman.

BIG BUSINESS, SAYS GEORGE

New York, Sept. 29.—George Alabama Florida, ahead of "Look Who's Here," was a visitor at The Billboard office this week. He reports a smashing business for "Look Who's Here" thru New England, where it is playing one-night stands.

"PITTER PATTER"

"PITTER PATTER"—A musical comedy in three acts; book by Will M. Hough, music and lyrics by William B. Friedlander. Presented by William B. Friedlander at the Longacre Theater, New York, September 28.

THE CAST—Bob Livingston, John Lytle Jones; Bryce Forrester, Jack Squires; Violet Mason, Mildred Keats; Mrs. George Morlen, Helen Bolton; James Maxwell, Frederick Hall; Muriel Mason, Jane Richardson; "Dick" Crawford, William Kent; George Thompson, Albert Warner; Howard Mason, Hugh Chivers. Proprietor of Candy Shop, George Smithfield, Street Car Conductor, George Spelvin; Butler, Arthur Greeter.

"Pitter Patter" is an adaptation of Willie Collier and Grant Stewart's farce, "Caught in the Rain," embellished with the usual paraphernalia of musical shows. In other words, it has music, girls and lyrics. The latter are mostly of the "I'm so blue; lonesome, too," school of poetry, and the music has many reminiscent strains. The idea used in "Left All Again Blues" is used in one song, where the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" is sung against a "blues" counter-melody; in another number a strain from the "Mya Sana" chorus of "Mikado" is heard, and in still another triplet's "Morning" from the first Peer Gynt Suite is used for the verse. It may be gathered from this that the score is not strikingly original.

The book does not give many opportunities for comedy, but what chance there are are made much of by William Kent, a diminutive comic, who resembles Ernest Truex in size and manner. Mr. Kent overlooked few bets in the comedy line, and gave a splendid performance. John Price Jones put over his numbers in a pleasant manner and Jack Squires gave a good account of himself as an actor and singer.

Much of the singing was done by Jane Richardson, who did it well. Helen Bolton, in a widow role, was very good, and Mildred Keats danced excellently, but did not shine either as a singer or as an actress.

The balance of the cast, composed of Frederick Hall, Albert Warner, Hugh Chivers, George Smithfield, George Spelvin and Arthur Greeter, handled smaller roles capably.

The chorus will have a lot to do with any prosperity which may be coming to "Pitter Patter." They are all earnest workers, and the staging of the numbers by Dave Bennett is novel and very effective. The costuming of the piece is good, and the scenery well designed. The lighting of the sets should be looked to, some very bad shadows appearing on the landscape drops at times.

"Pitter Patter" is mildly entertaining. It moves along at an even pace, never hitting any very high spots, and on the other hand, never sagging very far. One thing is in its favor—it is clean all the way thru. It deserves unstinted praise for this.—GORDON WHYTE.

EXCERPTS FROM NEW YORK DAILIES

Times: "It is as good as the run of musical comedy—nor better, nor worse."

World: "... as heady and effervescent a musical comedy as any audience could wish to hear."

Mail: "It is typical of its class, as entertaining as most of them and more tuneful than many."

Globe: "By a liberal application of the pruning knife, 'Pitter Patter' can be made a bit beyond much question."

"ZIEGFELD MIDNIGHT FROLIC"

"ZIEGFELD MIDNIGHT FROLIC"—A musical entertainment in two parts, written by Ballard MacDonald, composed by Harry Carroll. Presented by Florenz Ziegfeld, Jr., at the Ziegfeld Roof, New York.

THE CAST—Billy Mason, Kathlene Martyn, Herbert Hoey, Annette Bade, Arline Chase, Teddy Gerard, Alice Forest, George and Dick Rath, William and Gordon Dooley, John Steele, Edythe Baker, Helen Shea, The Fairbanks Twins and Jack Hanley.

Mr. Ziegfeld has set up the claim that the spectator does not need the assistance of good, red liquor in order to enjoy the latest "Midnight Frolic." And he is right. He has built a show that moves swiftly and entertains continuously.

It is almost entirely musical. There is no dialog and the comedy is of the silent variety. The latter is furnished by William and Gordon Dooley, who first do a burlesque on the Rath Brothers and then their "Apache dance." Both are exuberantly funny. Jack Hanley, a juggler, who resembles W. C. Fields; Archie Onri or the late Paul La Croix, according to what he is doing, made a decided hit with his specialty.

John Steele sang one song only, but it was a worthwhile number, and he scored heavily with it. Edythe Baker played the piano and

The jump cost $620 and Bennie believes his is the first show in tab. to make such a big jump since the raise in rates. The company consists of 13 people and a musical director.

BENNETT AND MCINTIRE closed a week's engagement recently with the "Joy Girls" at Mason City, Ia., as an added attraction. They state that the engagement was one of the most pleasant in many "moons" for them. In a letter to The Billboard they speak highly of the "Joy Girls" Company, saying that it is one of the newest and most up-to-date ten-people musical comedy tabloids they have ever seen.

THE BOBBY BARKER Musical Comedy Company, booked exclusively by the Hyatt Booking Exchange, Chicago, is now in its sixth week of an indefinite engagement in the Empress Theater, Lansing, Mich. It is produced and managed by Bobby Barker. Mr. Barker is supported by Ben Mainuba, Palmer Hines, Mrs. Hines, Amole DuFault, Ethel Hurst, Helen McIntyre and ten choristers. It is said the scenery and wardrobe would grace a $2 production.

THE WILKS BROS., Monte and Billy, are now organizing the "Joy Riders" Company, a musical comedy tab. of 12 people, in Cincinnati. Script bills will be exclusively used and new wardrobe, scenery and a lobby display purchased. The direction will be in the hands of Monte. FAD AND FANCY, after finishing the Coast trip in their vaudeville act, joined "Will Sue Win," a big girl act, formerly known as "Temptation," now playing over the Low Time. The act is owned by William Friedlander. Fad and Fancy say that it will top its success of previous years. Billy Melbourne is playing the role of "Satin" with great results and Ray Ewing enacting the role of the cabman, formerly done by Bobby Vail. Fad and Fancy are doing the light comedy and principal feminine roles, respectively. The act carries a chorus of "California Bathing Beauties."

JACK MURPHY opened his Maryland Beauties Company in Baltimore, Md., October 4. Jack has always had a good show, but says that the "1920 Edition" will top them all. One reason is that he has secured Ed "Pop" Lowry as his producer and given him five good principals and six fast-stepping "ponies" to work with. Brand new wardrobe and special scenery, along with costly electrical effects, have been secured. The roster includes Jack Murphy, manager; Ed "Pop" Lowry, producing comic; Leo Wilson, second comic; Jack Carson, straight; Dottie Courtney, prima donna; Ray Nelson, soubrette, and the chorus.

THE JEWEL GOLDEN COMPANY, owned and managed by Max Golden, is doing a remarkable business this season. Everybody seems to favor the show. It will play a couple more weeks in the oil fields, then start north, covering the larger cities. Several short stock dates will be played, finishing the season in Philadelphia, Golden's home. The roster includes Max Golden, Honey Harris, Hal Thompson, Jack Bell, Webster Morgan, Lillian Bassett, Lam Le Clair and the chorus, Madge O'Dowd, Slocum Sisters (Rose and Sofa), Smith Sisters (Pearl and Gladys), Grace Luella Webb and Lillian Conroy. Four regular vaudeville features are introduced during the show by members of the company.

BILLY WEHLE'S "International Revue," J. Y. Lewis, manager, closed a successful stock engagement at the Liberty Theater, Springfield, Mo. The show is said to have been the bit of the summer season, playing to big business through its engagement. Fred Hayer, manager of the Liberty, spared no time or money in making the house one of the best tabloid houses in the State of Missouri. It has been completely remodeled and is patronized by the best class of people in Springfield. "Oh, Sweet Daddy" Company followed the "International Revue" into the house. Frank King's "Dainty Girls" is listed as the next attraction. The theater will hereafter be known as the New Empress.

THE VIRGINIA BEAUTIES, owned and managed by Herman Lewis, is still doing excellent work over the Barbour Circuit (Western). Mr. Lewis has made some changes in his organization in his offerings as well as the roster. He has recently purchased three new books, in tab. form, from Snowball Jack Owens, and is well satisfied with them. The present roster includes Herman Lewis, owner and manager; Mrs. Lewis, soubrette and chorus director; Nig Shope, comic; Mrs. Shope, prima donna; Blackie Blackburn, comic; Mrs. Blackburn, general business; Mr. and Mrs. Briggman, straight and general business, and eight chorus girls. THE POPULAR SONG BOURSE

COMMUNICATIONS TO OUR NEW YORK OFFICES

AUGUST HALTER, Composer and Arranger

A very pretty song has just been brought to The Billboard's attention that deserves more than passing thought. The title is: "My Ship Is Coming In." The text is by Thomas J. Harris and the musical setting is by August Halter, the eminent pianist and organist. Not since "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" has there appeared on the musical horizon such a stately and impressive sea song as "My Ship Is Coming In." It is full of rich vocalistic climaxes and the piano accompaniment is finely worked out. Just the song for a big, manly, robust tenor of baritone voice. A few nights ago a Billboard representative heard a big singer sing this song and was so impressed with it that he immediately went up and asked the soloist the name of it and who wrote it. When informed it was by August Halter he was further interested because he had recently read a little article that was run in the "Musical Enterprise" written by Clay Smith. The article follows:

"The world is so full of substitutes and shoddy imitations it is indeed refreshing to come across the real, genuine article once in a while. It sorter gives one a new perspective. There are so many glaring advertisements of music arrangers that turn out like patent medicine or the corn cure that shows you how to lift it out with the thumb and the index finger after a three-day application, that one becomes so skeptical he hardly knows whom to trust.

"There are many composers who may be able to make a fine orchestration or band arrangement, yet, not being practical pianists, are unable to make a satisfactory piano arrangement. In many cases these folks are at the mercy of musical carpenters thru fake ads who make you a near-arrangement at a 'close-up' price. For these very people I am penning these lines: At 4160 Ellis avenue, Chicago, Ill., United States of America, lives one August Halter, who, for years, has held down the most prominent positions on organ and piano. Thru a serious physical impairment he has had to give up his public recitals and is now devoting all his time to arranging for voice, organ and piano and various instrumental and vocal combinations. You are assured of musical excellency as well as a harmonically correct arrangement of the first water when you send your work to him. He is certainly deserving of this patronage. How ever, I consider I am doing the musicians as large a greater favor than I am Mr. Halter in calling your attention to his genius. Write the address down in your date book; it will come in handy some of these days. You may be one who will help make a path to his door."

RANDOLPH IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Jack Randolph (John F. Carroll), the cowboy song writer of Oklahoma, was a Billboard visitor this week. Jack has some of his stuff going down thru the Southwest and placed five songs with the Imperial Player Roll Company while here, hence the inference is that he is getting along very well indeed.

Mr. Randolph is the author of "I Never Had a Pal Like You," "That Lovin' Roof Garden Rag," "The Oklahoma Oil Field Blues," "Mother, I'm Thinking of You," "My Little Ossage Indian Maid," "Jamaica Ginger Blues" and "If Only You Are True." All of the songs but the first named have had a sale. The Corral Department of The Billboard will doubtless recognize Jack's name and his former occupation as a rider. He left Chicago well pleased with his trip and feeling that songs may quite likely prove more profitable than riding the night herd.

STORK NUMBERS ARE FAVORITES

"We have been very fortunate in picking worthwhile songs this season," says the Stork Publishing Co., "and of all the 'picks' we ever picked we think 'My Little Grey Lady,' by Frances Adele Wilson, gets the medal."

Among the many acts using the above-mentioned song are The Musical Barbers, The Peerless Minstrels and "Happy" Harry Foote's Jubilee Minstrels, and the song has only been on the market two months. In the Stork's Black and White Series there are "Dream of Home," by Robert Hewitt, and "When You Dream of the Girl Who Dreams of You," by T. F. Cornell. The company announces that three great novelty numbers will be out soon. They are "These Aggravating Morning Blues," by Mark Mitchellson; "Try It Once," by Jane Smith, and "The Only Thing My Wife Can Sing Is Do, Do, Dough." The Stork Co. states that professionals are invited in to try these numbers at the company's offices, Gaiety Theater Bldg., 1547 Broadway, New York.

EIGHT VICTOR ARTISTS CHOOSE "BURR" SONGS

New York, Oct. 1.—Eight celebrated recording artists, including Henry Burr, Billy Murray, The Peerless Quartet, The Sterling Trio and others, have already started their series of concerts for the coming season. They are at present playing in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. These famous artists have chosen two of the Henry Burr Music Corporation's numbers and are featuring them in each concert.

"In Babylon" and "Oh, My Lady" are the two songs in question, and from the reports of the shows they are going over in a big way. The Burr Corporation is co-operating with live dealers in every city covered by a concert and exceptional results in sheet music sales are being obtained.

RAY PLACES NEW SONG

Edgar Ray, the Western song writer, of Kansas City, Mo., has just placed his latest song, "From Our Town," with the L. J. L. Music Company of Chicago and it should be issued soon. This song was written in collaboration with Ethwell Hanson, writer of "Desertland" and other hits, and is said to be a very beautiful selection. Mr. Ray has two numbers with a music publisher of Kansas City, and these will be ready soon in sheet music, and are now ready in player piano rolls. Mr. Ray lives at 320 W. Thirtieth street, Kansas City, Mo., and is interested deeply in his art. He arranges lyrics and makes ready for publication songs, etc., in addition to his song writing.

ANOTHER ONE-STEP

"Pocahontas," classed as "a new idea in an Indian one-step," which J. A. MacMeekin, the New York publisher, has just released, is going over the top with a bang. Orders are beginning to come in strong, and several mechanical companies have sent in their contracts for early releases. A good line of acts, as well as scores of orchestras thruout the country, are using the number, and, from all outside appearances, "Pocahontas" looks like a winner.

C. J. MacMeekin, who is in charge of the office, at 316 W. 30th street, while J. A. is visiting the Pacific Coast trade, has announced that professional copies and orchestrations are being sent to all parts of the country, and no effort will be spared to make the number one of the big noises of the season.

STELLA WIRTH WRITES SONG

New York, Oct. 2.—Stella Wirth, of the famous Wirth Family act, has completed a new song, which will be incorporated in the Wirth turn when it starts its vaudeville tour this fall. The song has attracted the attention of Henry Von Tilzer, the publisher, who will publish the number in the near future. Miss Wirth has a thorough musical training, having received her degrees in this study at Mount St. Angelo College in Australia, altho few people have been aware of her talents in this field. Dixie Wilson wrote the lyrics for the song.

"JUST ONE GIRL"

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Carl Raymond, 87 years old, author of "Just One Girl," which swept the country eighteen years ago, was admitted to the County Hospital this week, where he made application for a bed. Mr. Raymond is said to have been once an opulent realty dealer. He told reporters that somehow after "Just One Girl" passed its popularity he was unable to write another winner. The old man, who is a Civil War veteran, carried a number of his keepsakes to the hospital when he applied for entry.

Yesterday some unknown person who read of the old man's condition sent him $2. That was all.

DEECORT HAMMITT WRITES

New York, Oct. 1.—Deecort Hammit writes the editor of Melody Mart from Alcester, S. D., as follows: "Am writing to let you know that I am in this section at present with 'Decker's Jazz Band,' and they are having wonderful success with Pace & Handy's latest hits, 'Long Gone,' 'Pickaninny Rose,' 'That Thing Called Love' and the never to grow old 'Yellow Dog Blues,' by the king of blues writers himself, W. C. Handy. I also might state that they published a snappy one-step of mine, 'I Want To Love You All the Time,' and that they are bringing out one of my ballads in the near future that promises to be a 'knockout,' the title of which will be withheld for the present."

"QUEEN OF DREAMLAND"

Is Said To Be Receiving Royal Reception

Nat Conney's newest number, "Queen of Dreamland," is said to be hitting with a bang among orchestras and singers. Conney, who does most of his writing around Ripon, Wis., was in Chicago for several weeks recently. But has now returned to his home in the Badger State. He writes that while in Chicago he placed the fox-trot with all the recognized orchestras and is highly pleased with their praise of it.

Among the orchestras using "Queen of Dreamland" are Paul Hesse's at the College Inn; Isham Jones' Rainbow Orchestra, Edelweiss Orchestras, Marigold Gardens, Green Mills and other of the liveliest entertainers in town. Mr. Conney also stopped over in Milwaukee and reports that the orchestras there are using the number, too. It is said to be hitting the stride in the East, and Cleveland & Stack, of Boston, the composers and publishers of the new number, report that it is in demand with orchestras and singers. Professional copies and orchestrations may be secured from Cleveland & Stack, 84 Freeman street, Wollaston, 70, Boston, Mass.

CLASSY STUFF

New York, Sept. 30.—Classy announcements on wedding plates are being mailed to 4000 dancing teachers in the United States by Belwin, Inc. The announcement reads: "Acknowledging with thanks your kind cooperation on 'That Cat Step' (El Gato), Lon Breaux, manager, professional and dance service department, Belwin, Inc., New York City." The number, which is now being published, has received extraordinary publicity all over the country.

DRAKE'S FIRST NUMBER

Bob V. Drake, manager of the Drake Music Publishing Co., of Norfolk, Va., writes that he is introducing his first number, a snappy one-step and a swell soubret song. "I believe I've got a winner," he says. "and am going the limit to find out." The title of the number is "That Ought To Get 'Em."

Mr. Drake states that he has two more numbers which he is working on. Professional copies of the first number are ready and may be obtained from Mr. Drake, whose address is P. O. Box 54, Debece Station, Norfolk, Va.

Associated with Mr. Drake in the Drake Music Publishing Co. are Wm. J. Avery, well known as a musical director of burlesque, and H. C. Chappell, business agent of the company.

WANT CASE DISMISSED

New York, Sept. 26.—Counsel for the Consolidated Music Corporation, Leo Feist and other music publishers named as defendants in action instituted by the government and charging conspiracy to violate the anti-trust law has asked Judge Charles M. Hough, in Federal District Court, to dismiss proceedings. Counsel was directed to submit briefs today.

"JAP LAND" FEATURED

New York, Oct. 2.—Jack Darrell says that "Jap Land" is leading the list of sellers in his catalog. Jack Wilson, the singing juvenile with "Echoes of Minstrelsy," is using it and "Devil's Jazz Revue" and says both are going good for him.

"RIO NIGHTS" BIG WINNER

From all indications it appears that "Rio Nights" is going to be the biggest waltz sensation of the coming season. This number is taking the West by storm and from the way all things point will soon sweep the East. There are already about twenty big time acts using it, besides numerous other acts. It is now being featured in the Marcus "1920 Review," which is touring the country. Ernst Lutz, who is general musical director for the Marcus Loew Interests, has just made it the theme for the Mack Sennett feature, "Great Scott," which is playing all the Loew theaters.

As a number for the dancers it is proving its popularity by taking insistent encores, and as one leader in Winnipeg, Manitoba, says: "For the last week I have been using 'Rio Nights' on every program. At its first rendition people swarmed around to find out the name of the waltz. Since then the crowd has demanded it nightly. It is a dandy number."

RIVIERA MUSIC CO.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Comfort Brown, Philadelphia manager of the Riviera Music Company, is making a tour of the West and is centering his efforts on "Rose of China." The composition is by Paul Biese, widely known Chicago conductor and composer.

The publicity campaign inaugurated last season by the Riviera people, whereby all artists singing Riviera hits got a good share of the advertising, will be resumed in October. The Riviera firm reports that "Desertland" is now past the quarter-million mark in sales. Other big catalog numbers are "Empty Cellar Blues," "Rose of China" and "Sweet Southern Dreams."

Jack Nelson, of the above firm, who has written a new jazz number, has submitted the song to the members of Northwestern University Glee Club, in an effort to get an appropriate name.

Marcelline's real name is Tridre Marcelline Orbes Martini. A letter came addressed that way to him and it took him two days to remember that it was his name.

Ollie Mack has joined the "Rainbow Girl" Company, to play the principal comedy part, replacing Sam Sidman. The show is routed south and to the Coast.

There is a chorus boy in "Pitter Patter"—name unknown—who appears to have the real stuff in him. He seems to take a keen interest in his work, and in a little scene with Jane Richardson acts splendidly.

Four musical shows open in New York this week: "Mecca," at the Century; "Kissing Time," at the Lyric; "Tip Top," at the Globe, and "Jim Jam Jem," at the Cort.

Whether "The Sweetheart Shop" endures on Broadway or not, Harry K. Morton has vendicatively all right, all right.

ROB EDNA BATES

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Edna Bates, leading woman in "Honey Girl," now playing in Cohan's Grand Theater, reported to the police today that thieves had robbed her room, 2105 Calumet avenue, of clothing and jewels valued at $3,000.

CHORUS EQUITY NEWS

Fifty-one new members joined the Chorus Equity in the past week.

A prominent manager in New York signed contracts with twenty girls early last summer for a production which was to open in September. As these contracts were signed two months before the date given in the contract as the time of opening, the manager could not let any of these girls out unless he paid her two weeks' salary. That means that even if she had not yet rehearsed and the manager decided not to use her he would have to pay her two weeks' salary and could not take advantage of the ten-day clause in the contract. But the contract works two ways—if the manager could not let the girl go without paying her two weeks' salary, she could not leave the company until after the opening and then only by giving her two weeks' notice. When the rehearsal call was sent out more than half the girls failed to report. Some of them gave as the reason for this that they had a better engagement. Others did not give any reason at all. Seven of these girls were Chorus Equity members. The manager sent a list of these girls to this office, and every effort was made to locate them. Three of the girls were found, the terms of the contract explained to them and they returned to the company. Two others are paying back to the manager two weeks' salary. The remaining two have not yet been found. And as a result of this—the manager is so pleased with the work done by the Chorus Equity that he has agreed to engage only Chorus Equity members and to send a list of the persons he engages to this office so that we may be certain they are members. This is a great step in advance and the Chorus Equity owes a big debt to the girls who were self-sacrificing enough to keep their contracts, even at a loss to themselves, so that the organization need not suffer. If every one of our members would live up to every clause in our contract our fight would be an easy one. Show the managers that Chorus Equity members can be depended upon.

We are holding checks for Jean Lawrence, Evelyn Napier, Bessie Jones and Paulette Lorraine.

New York, Oct. 1.—George M. Cohan has engaged Adele Rowland and Bessie McCoy for his forthcoming revue. So far Sam Bernard, Lew Fields, Joe Weber and Marguerite Sylva have been announced as engaged for the show by Cohan. This week a notice was sent out by the Shubert press department reading:

"So many producers have announced that they have engaged Lew Fields to appear under their banner that Mr. Fields, who devotes most of his time to the management of his musical comedy, 'Poor Little Ritz Girl', at the Central Theater, has issued a statement in which he says that as far as he is aware, he contemplates devoting his future time exclusively to his own productions."

Mark Hart is doing "Father" in the play, and Baroness Blane is "Maggie." Emily Seymour does the "We-gee" dance and puts it over. "Bringing Up Father" will play over the newly formed Gus Hill Circuit.

Frank Cosgrove is manager of the "Bringing Up Father" Company, L. T. Meehan is secretary and E. E. Schimpf business manager.

LIKED CARSON AND CAMPBELL

Veray, Ind., Sept. 30, 1920.

To the Editor:

Could we say a good word for Carson and Campbell in their knife-throwing and riddle-shooting act?

They were here last week at the American Legion Jubilee and Festival and gave entire satisfaction in every respect.

The American Legion host at this place wishes to thank them for the friends they made us last week by giving a high-class act—one that was much better than the people were expecting.

Very truly yours,

BYRON BAILEY CORRECTS

Akron, O., Sept. 29, 1920.

To the Editor:

Your Akron correspondent, under date of September 18, stated that the Rialto Theater reopened that week, and that it had been dark while remodeling was in progress. This is not true. The Rialto Theater of Akron first opened its doors to the public last May. It is the largest, most complete, artistic and distinctive playhouse devoted to the showing of motion pictures in this city, and there is no occasion, at least not for some time to come, for us to close its doors for the purpose of remodeling.

Yours sincerely,

(Signed) BYRON D. BAILEY, Mgr. Rialto Theater.

WE THANK YOU, GEORGE

New Orleans, La., Sept. 30, 1920.

To the Editor:

I have been reading your wonderful publication, The Billboard, for some time, as your subscription list will show. How you can sell it for 15 cents is beyond my ken, as the Scotchman says. The writings of Patterson James, "Neise" and Marion Russell are alone worth 15 cents of anyone's money. As for Pat. James, I read his writings twice over. Such wit, such caustic remarks, such English, and such "I don't give a d— if you like it or not" way of telling acts, actors and also managers of what he thinks of their acts and their actions—he certainly is great. I am a movie fan, and I read what the lady says with a great deal of interest, altho I believe the lady is a bit severe at times.

For your interest, I might say that all of the theaters of our city have signed up with the four theatrical crafts, Musicians, Movie Operators, Stage Hands and Billposters, at their (the four crafts) figure.

Al G. Barnes' Wild Animal Circus played three days in our city to capacity audiences. I attended the first night performance, and it was a wonderful show. There is a lady vocalist with the circus who is a wonder. The band of 18 pieces was good and worked hard. I met the leader, a very nice fellow, but his wife was paying him a visit, so he had no time to waste on a brother musician, and I don't blame him.

While waiting to get inside I was a witness to the Pass System. Why is this so? A gentleman had three passes, and this man could not be made to understand that he had to pay a war tax, and all of that time the line of people was blocked. He finally paid the tax and passed on. I believe a circus should issue passes only to owners of billboards, and not to every Tom, Dick and Harry because they may have a political pull. An instance: A friend of mine had three passes and did not use them. He received them from a theatrical man. There was a waste. A theatrical man needs no pass; all circuses that I know of recognize the profession. I never accept a pass, because I feel it deprives me of my right to criticize an act or a picture. Quite a number of years ago I was the Southern correspondent for a musical journal in Philadelphia, and only once did I use my credentials to see a play, and that was Anna Held, and the reason that I used it then was because I could not afford the price asked to see the show. I sincerely believe the Pass System should be killed. In no other line of business can you get anything for nothing—try it and find out.

Every month I send four of your Billboards to a friend of mine at Arenal, San Carlos, Costa Rica. He writes that he cannot purchase any American magazines in that part of the country, and as I want him to have the very best I send him The Billboard.

I am not writing this so as to get my name in your journal; it is just to let you know what I think of it. I have fame enough in my own home town. I am secretary of my local union. I am a State officer of the A. F. M. for Louisiana. I am a public speaker at civic functions as well as political. I am a past president of the Central Labor Body. I have been a delegate to various conventions in most all of the big cities, representing my local, and I have also been in jail for raising hell—when I was a boy 45 years ago. I am now 61 years of age, so as I said before I am NOT looking for any fame. I just want to assist a first-class theatrical journal by telling just exactly what I think of it.

Yours truly,

Band and Orchestra Director.

THE GROSS SALES TAX

A. S. McSwigan, President N. A. A. P., Gives His Views

315 Lyceum Building,

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 24, 1920.

To the Editor:

Very much pleased indeed was I to read your editorial in this week's Billboard, urging the substitution of a general gross sales tax of one per cent for the present complex Federal tax laws. This gross sales or turn over tax was discussed at the last annual meeting of the National Association of Amusement Parks in Chicago last February. While the members did not know much about it at the time, it was the consensus of opinion that such a tax would not only relieve the public of the objectionable admission taxes, but would remove from the park managers the vexatious problems in connection with the whole present tax proposition.

The editorial statement in The Billboard that you have reached your gross sales tax conclusion after much reading, consultation and careful consideration will have much weight in the amusement world. The people in our business naturally cannot be expected to go into an exhaustive study of our present tax laws and find their own conclusions. It is well that we have such a champion of our interests as The Billboard, and if it, after studying the matter, finds that we can get relief for our patrons and ourselves thru a gross sales tax, it behooves everyone of us to get behind The Billboard and the Business Men's National Tax Committee and urge our representatives to change the laws.

Our law makers in Washington will do what the people want them to do, but we must speak up and tell them what we want. There is hardly a park manager of showman in the business who cannot get the ear of his Congressman or Senator by personal interview or thru a telegram or letter. My advice to every amusement man is no matter where you live, vote or do business, get in touch immediately with your Congressman and Senator. Tell them what they already know—that the present tax laws, which were hurriedly devised in war time, satisfy nobody and should be abolished in favor of a gross sales tax which it is estimated by those who can figure properly will produce more than enough revenue each year to run the Federal Government and pay off our war debts within one generation. If we make a noise like this our representatives at Washington will make the change when Congress again gets on the job.

How would the proposed new tax affect the amusement business? As I see it, instead of collecting one cent tax from each child on the merry-go-round for each ride, the Government could collect one per cent on the gross sale of tickets for one day, one week, one month or one year, as may be determined by the Internal Revenue Bureau. If the merry-go-round grosses $10,000 on the season, the tax will be $100, which I would rather pay than pass it on to the patron. No bother with pennies or delays making change, no extra accounting labor in the office and none of the worrisome details which the present laws demand.

I hope The Billboard will keep hammering on this matter to the end that you will wake up the amusement people, who are vitally interested, whether they know it or not, in this tax change. We have in the business too many "Let George do it" people. The score or more of men in the Park Managers' Association have done much for the general good of the park business. The first year admissions were taxed the parks were exempt on ten cents or less stuff and this was due to the work of the association. But we cannot do everything without help. Team work counts in the park game as it does in any other business and we want every park manager in the association before our next annual meeting, which will be held in Chicago next February. How about it, brother?

Incidentally, let me say in closing that the only objection I have heard against the gross sales tax is that the consumer pays. The only answer to this is that the consumer always pays.

A. S. McSWIGAN, President, National Association of Amusement Parks.

MUSICAL MUSINGS

By O. A. PETERSON

At a "Fair and Carnival" to be given October 18-25 by the Cresskill Volunteer Fire Department at Cresskill, N. J., one of the main attractions will be Tom J. Graham's Broadway Jazz Band, which is to furnish music for the block dancing in front of the Fire House.

Fred Wedemeyer was again chosen musical director of the Yaarah Temple Band, Atlanta, Ga., at the annual election. Wedemeyer resigned from this position two years ago, and his reappointment was by unanimous vote at the meeting. The Yaarah Temple Band is known as one of the best musical organizations in Shrinedom.

Karl King, director for the past two years of the Grand Army Band, known as "McKinley's Own," and head of the King Music Publishing Company, at Canton, O., has resigned as leader of the Canton band and was to leave that city last week to assume the directorship of the Mercer Club Concert Band, at Ft. Dodge, Ia. Canton musicians and members of the band honored him at a banquet. He was presented with a medal. King is recognized as one of the leading circus musicians of the country. His marches are known the country over. His wife also is known to the profession. They quit the "big tops" two years ago and took up their residence in Canton when King assumed charge of the local band and established his music publishing house.

Why is it that so many orchestra leaders beat time vigorously thruout a straight time march movement where it is not needed? Then, when it comes to a simple retard, they are unable to give us any helpful guidance? The retard, where direction is really needed, has to take care of itself. I notice, also, that they never beat time thru a long tremolo note, as often found in modulations, where a "down" beat or two is absolutely essential in order to count time. How are we all going to guess at the length of a half or a whole note?

He will probably say: "Listen to the fiddle and get with it." Well, brother, it is pretty hard to hear the fiddle when you are sitting among the drums and basses.

THE STORK

Music by T. F. CORNELL

STORK MUSIC PUB. CO.

1547 Broadway, NEW YORK

The proper thing for you to do, Mr. Leader, is to beat out every measure of a retard or change of movement and let your arm rest a little on the straight tempos; they will take care of themselves. No need for you to beat time thruout the entire movement with such diabolical persistency and headish regularity. That only makes us nervous and causes us to wonder what you want—faster or slower.

When a tempo gets to going good don't interfere with it. It looks very bad to see a leader arbitrarily change his tempo in the middle of a strain merely because he imagines we are not going at a rate to suit him. Besides it is very unprofessional and offends the bunch. No need of exposing an error. Stay with the bunch and then the bunch will stay with you. Don't take a delight in showing them "who is leader."

They are all trying to get your tempo as nearly as they can, and if they fail to do so look to yourself for the reason. Maybe you didn't make it plain enough. Perhaps you expect them to be mindreaders. Don't glare at them in anger if they should happen to go wrong. A pleasant smile is much better, even if a mistake is really made. Remember they are trying to get with you, and if they fail it is probably your own fault—you didn't make it plain enough.

Never scold your men. Never nag, as much of your success is in having their good will and their freedom from fear. Don't make them nervous. Let them feel perfectly at ease. Then, and then only, will you get best results.

If they know they are going to "catch hell" every time they make the slightest mistake—well, that only makes them worse, because of nervousness and dread.

Now, Brother Leaders, I've learned these things by long experience in the business—"forty years on the firing line"—so there's no use of your getting sore at me for telling you these things. Take the advice in the same kindly spirit that it is offered—and it's all to the good.

Correct the errors in private or at rehearsal if you have any; never bawl a man out in public. Be friendly to your men—not familiar. Treat them right. Learn to direct intelligently. And learn to play the fiddle loud enough to be heard. Then your men will "go with you" as nearly as they can. They never go wrong on purpose, and it's up to you to lead them right.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing," etc. I do not remember the entire quotation, but the sense of it is that a shallow draught at the fountain of knowledge causes us to become intoxicated with effervescent wisdom of a superficial kind, while drinking deeply, going to the bottom of things, and getting the accurate facts, sobers us again.

There are those about us who feel it to be their exclusive duty to extinguish the fires we kindle. Creatures of heredity and victims of environment, who will never accept a new idea; who cling to inherited opinions, handed down to them from one generation to another; whose thick skulls and pachyderm hides are impervious to the percolation of new ideas.

Less than one per cent of the people do their own thinking. The great majority accept their inherited opinions without question, and without mental effort.

In all ages, since the earliest recorded history, truth has fought its way against the combined opposition of ignorance, prejudice, religious intolerance and egotistic incredulity, while error slides along on greased skids, meeting with little or no opposition, and falsehood catapults, like a "bat out of hell," gaining in momentum at every jump.

Now comes a certain horn manufacturer, writing in a Midwest musical magazine, who says that the tone of a band horn is influenced by vibrations of the metal—right in the face of accurate scientific facts to the contrary.

All acousticians and scientific men, such as Helmholtz, Edison, Dr. Zahn and others, know that the material of which a horn is made has no effect on the tone produced by the vibrating lips of the player acting on the air column within the horn, causing it to vibrate longitudinally and in sections, similar to the vibrating segments of a violin string when played in harmonics.

All its tones are harmonics, whether open tones, valve tones or positions are used.

The vibrations do NOT "bound from side to side," as this deluded writer says, but pass thru the horn in longitudinal vibrations only. Horns have been made—for experimental purposes—of cement, plaster, gutta-percha, wood, paper and other materials. Under the most careful tests no difference could be noticed in the tone, as long as the length and thickness of the air column are exactly the same.

All pipes or tubes of equal length, such as trombones and organ pipes, produce tones of the same pitch. Difference in caliber causes tones of different timbre, but does not alter the pitch. Positions are exactly the same on all different makes of trombones, provided, of course, that the pitch of instruments is the same. Length alone determines pitch in pipes and tubes. Length and tension determines pitch of strings.

The seven positions of a trombone are not equal distances apart, as the writer would have us believe, but gradually get further apart as the slide goes out and the instrument becomes longer; commencing with a length of three and a quarter inches, the final shift, down to seventh position, is four and one-half inches long.

I am willing to debate these questions with any intelligent man who would care to take the opposite side. We care nothing for mere opinions. We care little for so-called "expert opinion" of those whose only concern is to prove themselves right, regardless of scientific facts.

MINSTRELSY

COMMUNICATIONS TO CINCINNATI OFFICE.

Aside from the fact that the Lassies White All-Star Minstrels is a 100 per cent laugh producer, particular mention is credited to the costumes, settings and electrical effects.

On September 26 Leahy Brothers, the Great Weber, Tracy and Moran and Reese Williams closed with De Rue Bros.' Minstrels at Wintrop, Me., according to a communication received last week.

That Norfolk is entitled to be classed as a week stand is evidenced by the fact that the A. G. Field Minstrels have played to capacity business at every performance at the Colonial to date, with the house sold out for the remainder of the week.

We had a pleasant chat with our congenial friend, Harry English, business manager of J. A. Coburn's Minstrels, recently. Mr. English spent several days in the Queen City before jumping into Southern territory. He spoke very highly of this year's show.

An unconfirmed report has it that John W. Vogel's Big City Minstrels, Needham & Denner, managers, closed the season at Morrison, Ill. The news is rather mystifying, the minstrel editor having been informed previously that the show was drawing good patronage.

"Lasses" White, whose minstrel troupe played in Jackson, Miss., recently, missed the train for the next stand, Natchez, and had to take a later train to Vicksburg and journey from there to Natchez by auto.

William Elliott and Raynor Lehr contradict the statement made in the issue of September 25, wherein it was said that they would troupe

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, Management, Circulation, etc., required by the Act of Congress of August 24, 1912 of The Billboard published weekly at Cincinnati, Ohio, for October 1, 1920.

State of Ohio, County of Hamilton ss
Before me, a Notary Public in and for the State and County aforesaid personally appeared E. W. Evans, who, having been duly sworn according to law deposes and says that he is the Business Manager of The Billboard, and that the following is to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption required by the Act of August 24, 1912 embodied in Section 4329 Postal Laws and Regulations to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor and business managers are: Publisher—The Billboard Publishing Co., Cincinnati, Ohio. Editor, A. C. Hartman, Cincinnati, Ohio. Managing Editor—W. H. Donaldson, Cincinnati, Ohio. Business Managers—L. M. McHenry and E. W. Evans, Cincinnati, Ohio.
2. That the owners are: W. H. Donaldson, Cincinnati, Ohio; F. G. Kohl, Cincinnati, Ohio; I. M. McHenry, Fort Thomas, Kentucky; C. F. McHenry, Fort Thomas, Kentucky; C. Kohl, Cincinnati, Ohio; E. W. Evans, Cincinnati, Ohio; O. Bailey, Cincinnati, Ohio.
3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees and other security holders owning or holding 1% or more of the total amount of bonds, mortgages or other securities are: None.

E. W. EVANS, Business Manager,....

with "Happy" Jim Bonham and his All-Star Minstrels this season. They write that even tho they will in no way be connected with Mr. Bonham's show they wish him lots of success.

Last week found members of the Price-Bonnelli Minstrels smoothing off the rough edges of this year's production, preparatory to the opening Monday, October 4. Mr. Bonnelli reports that his boys have been working strenuously the past few weeks and all seem anxious to get going. "The show as a whole," stated Mr. Bonnelli, "is far superior to anything previously attempted."

It looks as tho J. A. Coburn's Minstrels are welcome back to Millersburg, O., at any time. The show played Millersburg Monday night, September 20, to a packed house, and it is said many were turned away. Did they enjoy it? Well, evidently, for the exponents of the burnt cork generated a feeling with their clever and diverting entertainment which will long be remembered by the citizens of that locality.

We were much surprised, yet delighted, to see our friend, "Doc" Samson, last week. When asked the nature of his mission "Doc" frankly stated that he had resigned as interlocutor with John W. Vogel's "Black & White Revue." He spent the week end in Cincinnati, incidentally renewing acquaintances with members of the Coburn Show, who had over in the Queen City between jumps. "Doc" left for Chicago to open in vaudeville with a single novelty talking and singing act. The turn will be handled by Marie James.

RALPH PARLETTE TO RETIRE?

At the Close of His Lyceum Tour, May 15th, the Editorial Desk and the Lyceum and Chautauqua Platform Where for Years This Hard Worker Has Labored and Reaped May Have a New Corona and a New Voice

Ralph Parlette has announced his intention to retire from the lyceum and chautauqua platform at the close of his lyceum tour, May 15, 1921. He will also retire as editor of his personal organ, and, as said organ is for sale, it is probable that he will cut loose from the lyceum and chautauqua entirely, as he wants to devote his time to writing and publishing books and pamphlets which he and his partner, William Padgett, have found so lucrative.

Parlette's literary fodder seems to fit the ultra-conservative's allo, and so there is an ever-increasing demand for his green stuff. Parlette is writing and Padgett is selling the stuff so fast that the great work of uplifting the heathens must look for others to do the uplifting.

Mr. Parlette wants to visit Japan and study, first-hand, the Japanese problem as it affects our own country, especially with reference to our California situation. There is much real philosophy in his move. There is much that is truly Parlettian in the way he starts to get at the basis of this problem.

William Padgett did not take time to even visit the I. L. C. A. Convention this year. Ralph Parlette was there and distributed his magazine and left before the convention adjourned. These are significant facts.

We have been repeatedly approached with the proposition that such as even we might be permitted to desecrate the sanctuary, if we would cough up the price. The writer is not hunting a job.

For the good of all we certainly do hope that the old Family Album will fall into the hands of some one who will make it reflect the real life and fighting spirit of the offerings of the lyceum and chautauqua. Gumshoers are as deadly to its journalism as they have been to the art of the platform.

There is a better condition facing the future. Some managers are now getting to where they see that there is a difference between presenting artists and trying to make them. There is a real hope looming up that those managers who have vision, and who want to work in the open, are coming to the front.

The good work that The Billboard has done is now acknowledged by some who fought us so bitterly but a few months ago.

There is much to be hoped for in the future. Let's make merit the test. Let's win by friendly comparisons of the way we do things and of the article we have to sell. Let's learn from the greatest Universities that we have in America—the State and county fairs. Law is fundamental, truth is eternal, while persons are merely incidental.

We do not rejoice at the passing of Ralph Parlette, but we do rejoice that what he represents is on the wane. There is hope and evidence of greater things to come in the conditions that confront us.

That Parlette has a great deal of good in his makeup is but stating the truth. He is extremely sensitive to criticism, which is a trait of many men and women of character. No one likes to hear disagreeable things said about themselves, but if a person expects to get thru the world without disagreeable things being said about them they must go to the jungles or camp on a desert. Parlette has his way of looking at things. Everything looks good to him. There is no evil in the world to him. No one ever does wrong. All is well in his philosophy.

We have tried to show him that his famous nut and bean story is as full of fallacies as the nuts are of worms. He is as fatalistic in his teaching by this example as any Oriental philosophy ever promulgated.

His lesson that the nuts come to the top and the beans go to the bottom of a jar when shaken is silly, but to some minds it is so easy to work that it must be really great. The fact that the beans have far more life-giving sustenance in them than the nuts—worms and all—makes no difference to this philosopher. His answer is: Well, it sells. So does booze. So do the trashy novel and the censored movie.

Parlette has always claimed that we are destructionists. We have boasted what we thought is right and fought what we thought was wrong. When we felt that we were right we fought, no matter whether there was one to oppose or a million—or even a billion. Which of us is right is not for us to say. Which one has accomplished most is not now a matter for settlement. Time will tell that.

Mr. Parlette is a writer of ability. He is a speaker with many arts, some of which are near the demagogic line, but with it all he is a very entertaining speaker. Montville Flowers has said that he measures all things by passing them thru himself. Perhaps the best illustration of the way Parlette thinks would be illustrated by the present baseball scandal. Ralph would say: "I see so much good in baseball that it seems useless to waste time on the crookedness of the few who have brought disgrace, dishonor and suspicion on the great American game." Gamblers and crooks thrive on this mollycoddledism. It takes heroic action to clean up the Augean stables. It isn't pleasant, but it certainly must be done if the great sport is to live. The insidious commercialism that robs the game of its value must be killed—and it matters not whether this is gambling or pure profiteering, the effect is always the same.

We believe in the great lyceum and chautauqua movement. We will continue to believe in it even if we should leave this field for other lines of activity. We only hope that Ralph Parlette is as well satisfied with his years of lecturing and writing as we are with the results that have been piled up on the side of right in the fights in which we have engaged. Mr. Parlette entered this movement as poor as a church mouse. He is now worth a real fortune, as money goes.

Parlette and the writer started into this work about the same time. We were friends. But for the past few years we have drifted apart. As for William Padgett, we were never more than mere acquaintances. That we can probably be for years to come.

If Ralph Parlette and William Padgett do pass from this scene of action we hope, for the good of the movement, that whoever takes up the task which they lay down will do so with the determination to praise the right, set forth the truth and expose the false, discourage the sly and fight the fakery that is so rampant in the disguise of uplift and pretense.

The lyceum and chautauqua platform needs its real friends to fight for it now when it is settling down to its real stability where it must needs take on the adamant form where custom and habit rule. We are certain that for the good of America and the world the lyceum and chautauqua needs to take stock in its own wares at this time.

ACTORS AND ACTRESSES, ATTENTION

The Community Chautauqua in its De Luxe program, presented by "America's Greatest Chautauqua System," used the photograph of Frank Bacon, one of the biggest and brightest stars on Broadway's firmament, to give luster to its production of "The Cinderella Man." The advertising matter stated that "Such fairy tales as 'The Cinderella Man' do come true." It also stated that "this wonderfully simple, unusually successful Broadway production will be presented to Community Chautauqua audiences complete, with full cast of talented players, special scenery and effects."

The announcement of cast makes no mention of Mr. Bacon, altho in two scenes the folder has presented his picture as being the star. Those taking part in the cast are: Mildred Davis, John Ryan, Chauncey Causland, Fred Stronc, Margaret Newton, Wm. P. Ryan, John York, Clinton Lyons and Benedict Brown.

It is such as these that C. O. Bruce, of The Standard Bureau, in a fit of self-appointed guardianship, warned his chautauqua attractions to consider seriously before entering the deserted house where all such cattle dwell.

We wish that all of you actors and actresses who see the injustice of these hypocritical pretensions and who have done chautauqua work during the summer would write us a letter and tell us your side of this affair. Send your summer's route to us so we can check up on some of the managerial birds. Write to Fred High, 35 S. Dearborn street, Chicago.

BILL AND PAUL UNITE FORCES

W. I. Atkinson and Paul Kemerer have joined forces to take over the lyceum and chautauqua business formerly booked by the Western Lyceum Bureau, of Waterloo, Ia. Friend Atkinson will take to the field and give his time exclusively to the booking of attractions, summer and winter. Paul will have charge of the office and take care of the publicity work, and there is where he shines. Mr. Kemerer will make his home in Waterloo, Iowa copped a good "Buckeye" when the Hawkeye crowd enticed the I. L. C. A. publicity booster to make Waterloo his home.

THE PRIVATE PEAT CANADIAN LYCEUM BUREAU

Private Peat has started a real Lyceum bureau and the bureau has started its first indoor chautauqua with sixty-two towns booked. The circuit opened August 30, and will close December 2. They already have sufficient time guaranteed to assure them a strong six-day chautauqua for 1921. They are already planning for a strong three-day circuit for the smaller towns. One of the talking points about this circuit is the beautiful scenery. "One, much less a company, can not live on scenery alone," sayeth the Good Book, which is also a truth established by experience, but since one has to travel in making dates it is thought to be to some advantage to the traveler to pass thru a country rich in scenery rather than to spend one's life on a desert. With this in view, the first circuit, as laid out by A. J. Heskett, manager, routes the talent thru the beautiful part of Western Canada, opening at Courtney, B. C., on Vancouver Island, traveling up the British Columbia Coast to Prince Rupert, east over the Grand Trunk to Edmonton, returning thru Jasper National Park and over the Canadian Rockies to Vancouver, then east again thru the Kettle Valley Falls and the Crow's Nest Pass country to Winnipeg, and returning again on the main line of the C. P. R. thru wonderful Canadian Rockies to Vancouver. The traveling is done by boat or rail, and only two auto trips are necessary to make the route. The Canadian Chautauqua, Limited, is incorporated and has been given a Dominion charter. The offices are at 210 Orpheum Bldg., Vancouver, B. C., Canada. Harold R. Peat is president and A. J. Heskett is manager.

GEWECKE COMPLETES ENGAGEMENT

Larry Raymonde Gewecke, a recent pupil of the Peabody Conservatory of Music at Baltimore, has completed a very successful chautauqua engagement with the Radcliffe people. He has played in "Everywoman" and "The Regular Army Man" with success, and was for a time accompanist for Vale LaRue in vanderbilt. Mr. Gewecke this season was with a soldier act, which did not require any special amount of the better music, but his songs and pianologs helped largely to pull over the act. It is hoped that next season will find him doing much better things, as he has every earmark of a promising artist. Mr. Gewecke is also an accomplished organist and has for a time been organist and choirmaster in a large Episcopal Church in Baltimore.

CHAUTAUQUA NEWS NOTES

The following attractions have been booked at Albion, Ia., where the High School is selling season tickets at $2, with student tickets at $1 for the course: Hippie Concert Company, September 24; C. H. Pfattenger, October 29; Dr. Preston W. Bradley, November 30; Proctor Concert Co., December 22; Clarissa Harrold, February 15.

W. L. Radcliffe, of the Radcliffe Attractions at Washington, D. C., is booking an extended tour of the U. S. Marine Band, Lieut. Wm. H. Santiemann director. They are asking $1,500 for a matinee and evening concert. They open at Baltimore and play as far West as Omaha, Neb. The tour is to last eight weeks.

H. C. Daaforth, who represented The New York Star and whose principal mission at the I. L. C. A. Convention seemed to be to head off any possible move that the big vaudeville and theatrical moguls had feverishly dreamed would be made to corral all platform people and drive them into the Actors' Equity, gave a practical demonstration of why he was sent to the convention when he walked up to one of the members of the I. L. C. A. and nonchalantly asked: "Is Mr. Redpath here?"

Sammy Schlickret will return to the lyceum and chautauqua with his wonderful organization with which he cleaned up for so many years. Yes, he will display the fact that he got a medal from "the Kink." He returns for both winter and summer, to be booked with the Mutual Lyceum and Chautauqua Bureau. Robert F. Glosup engineered the deal that brought our own Sammy back to us.

The Buckner Jubilee Company has signed up for both winter and summer with the Mutual Bureau. Robert F. Glosup piloted this deal thru to safety and thereby earned the thanks of the entire lyceum and chautauqua movement. For Buckner has a real contribution to make to the lyceum and chautauqua, and he deserves better bookings than he has had during the past spasmodic, now and then seasons that he has had in America.

Roy Ellison is walking on the clouds these days. Since September 23 little Roy has been hosing his mother and three sisters, and big Roy has been busy trying to learn how to make the most of slavery. It is wonderful what a baby can do. We are certain that everyone will rejoice that it is a boy. Ellison & White interests are looking up.

Agricultural Chautauqua a Success

Purdue University Takes a Hand—Fred Reppert Rejuvenates an Abandoned Fair—What Expert Management Did—45,000 People Paid Admission to First Chautauqua Fair

Written By GUY GREEN

Reprinted from The American Hereford Journal by special arrangements with the publisher, Mr. Hayes Walker.

Well, people, Fred Reppert put across the Northern Indiana Fair at Decatur in a way that opened the eyes of the oldest patriarchy of the State. Never in all Hoosier history has there been any other fair, outside the big State event at Indianapolis, to equal it. I have been attending county and district fairs all over that portion of the United States lying between the Rocky Mountains and the Atlantic Coast through the variegated years of a somewhat lengthy career, and I will confess that I never before lit in the midst of anything quite in the class of Fred's initial effort.

There were bands and vocalists and Hawaiian musicians and meat and bee demonstrations and dancers and trained quimms and acrobats and war exhibits and motion pictures and lecturers and acrobats and airplanes and balloon ascensions and child welfare and Red Cross tents and war exhibits and humming machinery and race horses and the fruits of the field and the vegetables of the garden and a midway and purebred hogs and cattle and sheep and pet stock and fireworks—note this because it marks a milestone in America's fair annals—the first successful agricultural chautauqua ever put on in connection with a fair in the history of this country, and revolving world.

STRONG IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

The Northern Indiana Fair was strong everywhere. Its amusement and race programs were beyond criticism. Its midway was clean. There were no "couch" shows or "chuck" games with the barker's singsong of "Three numbers for you and three for me." There were no crooked "squeeze spindle games and no frowny females singing dirty songs from trestled stages. A lot of self-respectable gentry, who applied to John Stinson for privilege and concession space before the fair opened and were turned down, went away grumbling out of the corners of their mouths that no fair could succeed without their presence. But, strange as it may seem, their absence was never noticed.

AGRICULTURAL CHAUTAUQUA A SUCCESS: From time to time different fair associations have tried to put on agricultural chautauquas, but they have invariably fallen down on them, probably because they were never made as interesting or attention-compelling or entertaining as they should have been. Because a thing has never been done, however, there is no reason why it should not, sometime, be done.

John T. Stinson and Fred Reppert, between them, hatched the idea of an agricultural chautauqua bigger than anything of the kind that had ever before been attempted, the plan being to promote and stimulate the purebred livestock interests of Adams County and to convince Northern Indiana farmers, right in their own dooryards, of the necessity of getting rid of the scrub of all breeds. All ablaze with enthusiasm, Mr. Reppert wrote to Purdue University, outlining his chautauqua plans and asking for help and co-operation of that institution. Back came a reply saying that an agricultural chautauqua at a county fair was absolutely impracticable, that people went to a county fair to see the horse races, look at the stock, ride the merry-go-round and enjoy themselves, but not to receive instruction.

That letter from folks who ought to know what they were talking about didn't discourage Fred and John a bit. They decided to go right ahead with their chautauqua plans anyhow and asked the Purdue people to come over to Decatur for a conference. They came, bearing bloom with them, and the whole agricultural chautauqua question was argued at length, pro and con. Finally Purdue agreed to give its unreserved support to Reppert's fair chautauqua, and the university certainly kept its promise. Very much of the success of the Northern Indiana Fair Chautauqua was due to Purdue's assistance.

For the chautauqua was a success, a regular whole of a success. Starting at 10 o'clock each morning in a big tent, it ran till noon, and the tent was filled every minute of the time. On Thursday, the big day of the fair, people packed and jammed the tent and then stood half a dozen deep around the outside, while hundreds were unable to even get within hearing distance of the program. Anyone looking for the biggest crowd on the grounds at any time during the forenoon could find it right at the chautauqua tent. Why was this? Simply because the people were apprised of what was going to occur, when it was going to occur, and then, when they responded to the invitation to attend it, they were given a dazzling program of real entertainment and instruction by the very best talent in the Middle States.

Take the matter of advertising, for instance. A lot of people have the idea in their heads that because the name "chautauqua" is bung onto an entertainment it is too dignified for circus methods. That idea was thrown into the discard at the Decatur Fair, and ten minutes before the program began each morning Col. Claude Madden, the race starter, rode a big bay horse up and down the fairground streets and, with his megaphone, hillyhoed the chautauqua just as he did the big roundup over to Danville, Ill., a few weeks before. Undignified, perhaps, but mighty effective, because the minute people heard Claude's thunderous voice they began to streak for the tent in droves.

ALL ARE HEADLINERS

Music? Fred used the very best on his chautauqua program—three big musical attractions every forenoon, Miss Jean McCormick of Indianapolis, soprano soloist; Vierra's Hawaiian Musicians and The Indianapolis News Newsboys' Band of 50 pieces. All the big chautauqua systems of the country think they are doing their duty by the public in providing one musical attraction a day and they are. But Reppert met ordinary requirements and then multiplied them by three.

Speakers? Well, I guess. And every one a "live one" who had a message and a voice adequate to the delivering of it in a big tent crowded with people.

COLONEL REPERT HAD A VISION

Oldtimers tell me that Decatur held a fair in 1911. The fairground from that time until Reppert acquired it stood idle except as it was used for an occasional ball game or for agricultural purposes. It seemed a shame to Fred that one of the most beautiful places of its kind in the world should go unused year after year. Reppert tried repeatedly to buy it, but without success. He wanted the fairground for two reasons. First, he owned the land on both sides of it, and second, he had a gnawing desire to put on a real fair in Decatur, figuring that it would be the biggest boost to the agricultural interests of Adams County that could possibly occur.

Finally, in the fall of 1919, Reppert succeeded in making a deal for the fairground, embracing 112 acres, at a price of $500 an acre. That was quite a price, but what's $50,000 when a man feels called to run a fair? Reppert secured possession of his new property January 1 and immediately induced his brother, "Bill," who is a road contractor, to drop everything else and give his undivided time to the putting in shape of the fairground. From the first of the year until the time for opening of the fair "Bill" Reppert had from 20 to 40 men working on the job of improving the grounds and buildings. "Bill" accomplished wonders. A cyclone park fence, supported by steel posts imbedded in cement, cost $5,000. Other improvements were made on every hand, and when the gates of the fair swung open Fred had a whole lot more money than his original purchase price tied up in his grounds. But what grounds they are!

Ten thousand big shade trees beautify the place. One enters the grounds thru a long lane of maples whose branches, meeting, form a long, cool, verdant tunnel running from the gate on past the grandstand and away to a big lagoon. A belt drive, 2½ miles long, tree-bordered on both sides, winds in and out around the grounds. There is an animal park containing deer and buffalo and pheasants and peafowl and other beginnings of a zoo. Librarians, thick and soft as a carpet, covers the ground. There are, at present, all of the buildings that the ordinary fair association would think necessary for years to come, but these are not a patchin' to the ones that will greet his visitors next year.

MANAGED BY EXPERTS

After Reppert got his grounds he was still a long way from the realization of his dream of a fair, because he didn't know a darned thing about running a fair. So he went for advice to the place where so many go, the office of Secretary R. J. Kinzer, of the Hereford Association. Kinzer listened to Fred's story, then parked four ounces of Climax chewing tobacco in the corner of his face and said:

"Well, if you are willing to pay the price you can get the best fair promoter in the world, John T. Stinson."

"Lead me to 'im," replied Fred. When Stinson and his son, Ben, appeared in Decatur, Fred took them over to the bank, introduced them to the wise-looking officials behind the bars, gave them a stack of checkbooks, had them leave their identifying signatures in the bank's filing case and instructed the financial institution to honor their checks as long as their arms held out to write.

"Now, bop to it," Fred said to Stinson, "and spare no expense to make a fair that we can be proud of. I have put away just $10,000 that I expect to lose on this fair, but to — with the losses, it's a fair we want."

Stinson "hopped to it," with such good results that Reppert didn't need any of the $10,000 to meet losses, because the fair paid out. The success of the fair was due, Fred says, to the loyal support of his assistants as much as to his own efforts. I agree with Fred. I never before saw such an aggregation of hustlers around a fair grounds in my life. Reppert insisted that each one of them bring his department up to a high standard, and all of them delivered. W. P. Schrock, manager of the Fanner Stock Farm, well known to all Hereford men, was president of the fair and superintendent of the cattle department. County Agent Fred Gray, who Reppert affirms is the best man in his position in America, acted as general utility man and adviser on everything of an agricultural character. Gray got so enthusiastic that he persuaded his wife, a bride of eight weeks, to come out to the fairgrounds and take charge of the clerical work of the office. Mrs. Gray worked as hard as the men and to just as good purpose, because, previous to her marriage, she had charge of the office of the General Motors Co. in Indianapolis, and possesses a gold medal, as big as an old-fashioned watch, which was presented to her for being the fastest typist in the Central States.

Jess Sellemeyer, Reppert's business manager, to whom Fred pays real money, worked himself to a frazzle. The best I can say for him is the fact that he stepped right along with Reppert and went strong as long as the boss went, and then some. Jess is a good mixer, a college graduate, a star athlete and ought to prove a jewel in his new job.

The town and the grounds were a blaze of national colors. A big Chicago decorating concern brought in a carload of American flags and put them everywhere. When I walked up Decatur's principal business street from the depot all I could see, as far as the eye could travel along the main thoroughfare, was a waving, billowy sea of red, white and blue. And when I reached the grounds and started thru the main gate I gasped with astonished delight because the August sun shone down on an entrancing vista of emerald trees and fluttering flags.

THERE WERE ACRES OF PEOPLE

And people! Why there were so many of them there that they should be computed not by thousands, but by acres. On Thursday night, which is, of course, the big night with all fairs, one looked out upon grandstands, race track and quarter stretch enclosure literally packed with human helms. People, people, people, acres and acres of them. On Tuesday, the opening day, 8,000 entered the grounds. On Wednesday the attendance jumped to 11,000. It leaped to 20,000 on Thursday, and on Friday, when it seemed that there surely could be no one left to come, the ticket sellers' count showed 6,000 admissions sold.

Motion pictures? Certainly. Every night and showing all breeds of purebred stock and all phases of farm life.

Why shouldn't people have come out to programs like that? Why shouldn't they have filled the seats day after day, listening to more agricultural information of real worth than many of them had heard in all the previous years of their lives?

I have dwelt on this chautauqua at some length because I believe that when a man makes a success of something of real value to the public in the face of predictions of failure he deserves credit and congratulations for plowing ahead with it to the triumphant end of the furrow.

And so Reppert's first fair ended in a blaze of glory, with an attendance of 45,000 people, with everybody, Fred as well as the rest, astounded at its remarkable success and with the big "peer auctioneer of the world" peeled down to as few clothes as the law allows, mopping the rivulets of sweat from his face and telling his friends to watch for next year "because, folks, she's going to be bigger and better than ever."

A SAFEGUARD AGAINST MISREPRESENTATION

"We have heard much in reference to a very particular injustice that was done to a certain attraction of high merit by the publishing of a single report, and that report was taken up by an opposition bureau and used to give the impression that an unquestionably good attraction, one that had been pleasing audiences for years, was an actual failure. To which I answer that while this is much to be regretted yet the probabilities are ten to one that this is not the first time that even this particular standard attraction was made to suffer because of one single alleged failure to please an audience. Furthermore, after the system has been in operation at least long enough to have a fair trial, even the humblest attention on our lists will have not one, but scores and hundreds of reports made on it. Furthermore, had this Talent Record been collecting during all these years this particular attraction under consideration could have appealed to this record and made the falsehood harmless. And so I repeat that the objections urged are due to

Editorial Comment

ONCE more the "flu." Another epidemic of the dread malady which, introduced into the United States at the Commonwealth Pier, Boston, in 1918, was carried to Camp Devens and thence spread to all parts of the country, is due to hit us again between Thanksgiving Day and Christmas.

Prediction? Yes—but confidently predicted by science, which proves almost conclusively that influenza is recurrent for three years. This fall's visitation would be its third.

Its recrudescence will be marked by a virulence much less virulent than prevailed last year, just as last year's was marked by far fewer fatalities than that of the year before, but for all that showmen, exhibitors and managers of theaters, if they will take time by the scruff of the neck and act now, can save themselves much of the loss, inconvenience and annoyance which the mere panic accompanying its advent is sure to produce.

Get in touch with Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner of New York City. Do it today. Dr. Copeland took New York thru two epidemics of "flu," with a lower death rate than that of any great city in this country—or the world—and did it without closing a single theater, opera house, school or church. Get in touch with your local authorities. Do this at once also. And then put the latter in touch with Dr. Copeland. But do it now.

GLASGOW, Scotland, maintains her supremacy over her many rivals in shipbuilding because she possesses—among other advantages—the best "measured mile" for the trial trips of new craft. The New York—or rather the Broadway—stage has for many years now been regarded in the same light. Drawing principally from the many mammoth hotels in that district supposedly filled with guests from all parts of America, the playgoers of the Rialto houses were regarded as the best "measured mile" over which to try plays intended for American consumption.

It hardly tops many of the "also-rans." The pity of it! And, seemingly, all the sacrifice made in the interest of a type of genius formerly well content with his only available medium—the walls inside toilets and water-closets.

THE drama, of all forms of literary art, can least reckon without its responsibilities. As long as it is true to them, it need fear neither antagonist nor competitor.

Marriages

- COCHRAN-WALSKA—Alexander Smith Cochran, said to be New York's wealthiest bachelor, and Countess Ganna Walska, Russian actress, were secretly married in Paris recently. COLLINS-TAYLOR—Thomas E. Collins, of Rochester, N. Y., and Dorothy M. Taylor, of Bay City, Mich., both in the cast of the Arthur Hawk Sunshine Revue Company, were married September 20 at Marion, O., by Justice G. Farr Larie. They will continue with the show. FARRELL-WELCH—W. Earhman Farrell, song writer, and Elsie Allen Welch, relief organist at the Strand Theater, Nashville, Tenn., were married in the South several weeks ago. "Jealous Blues" is one of Mr. Farrell's late numbers. LA MONTE-GAYMER—Ruben La Monte, well-known outdoor advertiser and entertainer, and Rose Gaymer, of Detroit, Mich., were married at Detroit September 9. The couple are members of the Great Patterson Shows.

THE PLAY, THE IDEA OR ITS DEVELOPMENT—WHICH?

Ezra Pound, writing from Paris in the current issue of The Dial to illustrate a point, uses the following colloquy between himself and a traveling Belgian, viz.:

He said: "Oh, he is wonderful, that man." And I said: "Poet?" "Oh . . . No." And I said: "Prose?" And he said: "Oh, no, he can not write une seule line of poetry. He can not write a single line of prose." And I: "What the devil does he do? Critic?" "Oh, no, he can not write a seule ligne de critique." And I: "But . . . eh! . . . ?" And he: "No, no, no-o-o, he can not write a single line, he can make the critique, mais vous lui donnez une idee et il le developpe . . . il . . . il DEVELOPPE!" And whenever I tell that story in Paris, I hear: "Voui, ah . . . c'est l'image tout crachee de . . ." And then the name differs, for the portrait fits several heads.

If "The Tavern," with Arnold Daly, is a flop, as, at this writing, it seems to be, there will not be wanting many who will see that the portrait fits also one New York playwright. And one more failure will raise a chorus, chanting, "Back to your old idea picker, George."

And now a new need is manifest, i. e., a "measured mile" for plays designed for Broadway. Atlantic City, Washington, Boston, Baltimore, New Haven and, possibly, Philadelphia are each claiming the distinction, while Chicago, with much show of reason, advances the contention that hers is better even than that of Broadway.

WHEN Laura Bromwell, at Mineola, N. Y., September 5, came whirling down to Curtiss Field from an altitude of 8,200 feet, turning airplane somersaults continuously all the way, the official count of her loopings footed up to 87. Even this amazing figure is short of her actual performance, as she had started turning in a bank of clouds that at first hid her plane, from sight, and she herself counted over 100 loops altogether. But 87 will do very well, for the present, as the world record, which previously a French aviatrix had held with 25.

"THE Greenwich Village Follies of 1920" boasts idea and artistry enough to entitle it to a place among the very top-notch productions of musical comedy, but it is so befouled with cheap, witless and filthy allusion that MARSHALL-DONNELLY—George Marshall, musical director, and Genevieve Donnelly, former chorus girl, were married recently in the office of the City Clerk of New York, it became known last week.

MARSHALL-HOUCK—Hugh B. Marshall, of LaCrosse, Wis., singer of unusual talent, and Ruth Houck, of Sioux City, Ia., were married at Sioux City, August 19. The marriage was the culmination of a romance that started when the bride and groom met two years ago when Mr. Marshall appeared at Sioux City with the Molland Chautauqua. They will reside in Chicago.

SARRE-SHEPLEY—Gordon Sarre, a New York exporter, and Ruth Shepley, actress, were married in New Haven, Conn., July 6. It became known recently. The bride is appearing in "Wild Cherry," and says that married life will not interfere with her professional career.

TEFFY-ROUFF—Doe" Tuffy (Doy Landers) of the Babcock Greater Shows, and Esther Rouff, concessioner, with the same organization, were married at Bakersfield, Cal., while the show was playing there recently.

WULP-WITKOSKIE—Charles Wulp, concessioner, and Mamie Witkoskie, nonprofessional, were married at Barra, Mass., September 27. Mr. Wulp is trouping with Robert Gilbright.

Births

To "Doe" and Mrs. Jones, a girl, at St. Bernard's Hospital, Chicago, August 18. Mrs. Jones, known professionally as Bonnie LaTour, is a dancer, and Mr. Jones is a well-known outdoor showman. They have christened the child Evelyn Betty.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. H. B.—No! The Great Patterson Shows played Toledo, O., the week of August 27.

U. F. F.—Molly Pearson played the role of Bunty Biggar in "Bunty Pulls the Strings." Scotland was the setting for this production.

J. G.—"The Girl in Stateroom B" was a musical farce with many songs. O. J. McCormack played the role of "Captain of the S. S. Havana."

T. G.—Of course, any composer runs a risk in submitting music, the same as a writer of verse. To have music copyrighted address the Register of Copyrights, Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.

T. V.—Arpeggio should be pronounced as tho it were spelled "ar-ped-gee-o" with the accent on the second syllable. It is an Italian word signifying "in harp style." The word describes a chord in which the notes are struck successively, not sounded together.

G. W. T.—There is nothing in your by-laws preventing you from playing a part or bit in any show, but you must be remunerated for same. However, it must not interfere with your other work, and you must be on the stage when strikes are made to attend to same, and not changing costumes. Your local is probably in a better position to settle this dispute.

A. F. W.—France's "Passion Play," rivaling that of Oberammergau, has opened its season at Nancy, after five years of war's interruption. It is being presented at the Passion Theater, as it has been since 1904, under the direction of M. Pettit, the village priest, with his parishioners as the cast. There are sixteen scenes depicting New Testament incidents, from the Birth to the Resurrection. The play, which is to be given every Sunday until the middle of October, runs from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1:30 to 5 p.m.

KANSAS CITY

By WM. W. SHELLEY 1117 Commerce Bldg. Home Phone, Harrison 3687.

MAUDE LEE KING, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. Eugene King, left October 1 for New York to take up the study of dramatic art under Quirk and also vocal music.

ED LEE WROTIE, an oldtime favorite with Kansas Cityans, made the Gayety Theater give as a laugh festival the week of September 27 and made this popular burlesque house have an unusually good business week.

THE J. L. LANDES SHOWS are expected here shortly to play a return engagement at Shelley Park. These shows opened their season here early in April and will receive a hearty "glad to see you."

H. P. BARNUM, a grand nephew of the famous "P. T.," died here September 23. Very little is known of this Mr. Barnum and we have been unable to ascertain whether he was a showman. He died suddenly and in straitened circumstances.

The weather is turning cooler now and this is helping to make all the theaters and movie palaces do well. The forepart of September was "the good old summer time," and there was naturally a slump. But now we can safely say the 1920-'21 season has started off good.

FRANK L. NEWMAN'S NEW ROYAL THEATER had the "Humoresque" for three weeks, finishing Saturday night, September 25, and it is estimated that 80,000 people paid the admission price. This is considered a record in motion pictures here, both financially and artistically.

WILLIAM L. (BILL) OLIVER spent two weeks in K. C. after he closed with the Toby Wilson Dramatic Show and left Sunday, September 26, for Eldorado, Kan., where he joined Munson's Stock Company. Billy has many friends here who always give him the glad hand.

E. B. GREBS, proprietor of the Western Show Properties Company, will leave about October 1 for a business trip to New York. He will be away about ten days or two weeks. Mr. Grebs is very mysterious about the trip, saying he "will talk afterwards," but it is in connection with his well-known doll factory.

THOS. L. TAAFFE, manager of the Century Theater, the man who wears "the smile that won't come off," is to be congratulated upon the fine big new sign he has just installed on this theater, reading "Century, Burlesque," which shows up brilliantly up and down Twelfth street, "the Broadway" of Kansas City.

MATTHEW DeCHRONIC, director and manager of DeChronic's All-American Band, who opened the season with Veal Bros.' Shows, has returned to K. C. for the winter, having made this his winter home for the past twelve years. Matthew DeChronic is a conductor of known ability and reputation.

FRED GEORGE, capable trumpet player, finished his engagement with Lange's Band at Electric Park at the close of the season there and is now temporarily located in K. C. Mr. George came up to The Billboard office the other day and told us of his going out the week of October 4 with the Chamber of Commerce

MAGIC AND MAGICIANS

Edited at the Cincinnati Office of The Billboard. Where Letters and News Items Will Be Gratefully Received Best Kalmar, the song writer, is also a magician of considerable ability.

"Resleta," "the 98-pound girl whom no man can lift," is making a bit on the Orpheum Time.

Marco and his wife left Chicago last week for their old territory, the Pacific Coast, playing the Loew Time en route.

Olin L. Josten, the boy magician, writes that he has just finished a successful tour of Ohio with a thirty-minute card act.

One of the last things written by the late John W. Sargent was a poem for "The Sphinx," which appears in the current issue.

Houdini is collaborating with Erwin Connelly in a story for a forthcoming motion picture, which has a working title of "The Duke."

The Great Leon arrived in New York last week after a most successful vaudeville tour. His early appearance in the East is soon to be announced.

Mrs. Houdini has collected an extraordinary assortment of cook books and is continually digging up new dishes for Houdini. He's a lucky fellow.

Mrs. T. W. Hardin, wife of the only legitimate imitator of Houdini, the Handeuff King, was taken to a hospital last week quite ill, it is reported.

Howard Thurston, in his first essay into motion pictures with a picture called "Twisted Souls," has taken pains to expose the methods of fake spiritualists.

The new Magic Theater in New York which is being discussed will come up for consideration at the first season's meeting of the S. A. M. Monday evening, October 4.

T. W. Hardin is now general manager of the Film Developing Corporation, and due to his able management it is destined to become one of the country's leading film laboratories.

Brander Matthews wrote an interesting full-page article for The New York Times, which appeared two weeks ago, and discussed in an interesting manner the past, present and future of magic.

The Billboard of September 23 contained a review of a mindreading act by the Magic Company. This should have read, "The Chicago Magic Company," and referred to the act as advertised in these pages.

A note from Prof. Corank, "man of mystery," hypnotist and handeuff king, announces his arrival in New York City after having spent some time in India, Porto Rico, San Domingo, Haiti and other countries.

Edwin Brush has deserted the lyceum field. He is now booked on a lecture tour. Magic, however, has not been neglected. His second-night lecture is entitled "The Other Man's Game," thirty minutes of deception illustrating how easy it is accomplished.

While this fall season is here the weather has been very warm. Nevertheless, the Chicago Club workers have all been doing first-rate. Perry Taylor, Sherman, Wassman, DeLawrence and Harry McVoy all report plenty of engagements on the little book.

"Strange we never hear any more about the magicians who congregate at the cigar stand of the Park Hotel in Chattanooga, Tenn.," writes Harry Clark. "There's a young fellow down there named Burns," says Clark, "who is one of the cleverest sleight-of-hand performers I have ever seen."

Commodore Beaumont, a life member of the S. A. M., and a donor to the Wright Monument recently unveiled in Le Mans, France, is due back to this country in October. Commodore Beaumont is organizing the Aerial Derby, which will be flown around the world. He is well known as a magician and entertainer.

"Triv and Chatter" is daily nearing completion and will soon be in the printers hands. It will be a real value as far as magical literature is concerned, for seldom has a book been published embracing under the same cover so many new and novel innovations. Not only snappy patter, new tricks and so on, but interesting biographies of several of the present day better known amateur and professional magicians, suggestions, travel, etc., will all tend to place it in the foreground of magical literature.

The Long Tack Sam Chinese Wonder Troupe topped the bill at the Chicago Hippodrome recently. A wonderfully dressed and finely presented act, so many people participating that it resembles a little town in itself. The act is well known to most magical enthusiasts, as it has been a headline attraction for a number of years.

Edwin Brush, the popular lyceum and chautauqua entertainer, is all set for the coming season with his magical entertainment as well as his lectures, the most prominent one being entitled "The Other Man's Game." It is a discourse proving how utterly impossible it is to beat gamblers, etc., and shows some of the means employed by them in obtaining results.

Arthur D. Gans, one of the founders of the Baltimore Demons' Club, is certainly profiting thru magic. Gans traveled around the country for the B. & O., giving lectures on safety prevention, drawing out the crowds and furthering interest in his talks thru a program of magic. Rides in a private car, too. Pretty soft, say we.

The semi-annual meeting of the Newark (N. J.) Magicians' Club was held recently with President Blair in the chair, and Clarence Blair, Alex Ren, Clarence Smith, Joseph Sosa, Frank Harrison and James McKnight, members, present. Plans for the annual entertainment were discussed and several members entertained with sleight-of-hand magic.

Dr. Pierce, editor of the Magic World, has arranged with Will Goldston to publish some of his exclusive effects in each forthcoming issue of his splendid paper. This is something that will mean a great deal to magicians, as Goldston is famous the world over for his creations. Pierce is fortunate in having secured these items for his journal.

"Parlor Problems," a little book on mental mathematical magic by Preston Langley Hickey, has come to the editor's desk. It contains explanations of a number of amusing, puzzling and astonishing problems that will make excellent entertainment for parlor gatherings. Mr. Hickey is at work on another book, "Expert Thumb Manipulation."

Maybe the magicians are not making money, but the dealers—well, Art Felsman is running around in a very fine new car. Another sign of prosperity: He bought DeLawrence a drink last week. Yes, and Gilbert, of the Gilbert Magic Company, was so swamped that he had to lay off on his ads for a couple of months in order to get caught up. Yep, again, business is good.

Samuel Lingerman, well-known Philadelphia ventriloquist, writes that Lucy Lingerman has been made temporarily insane as the result of typhoid fever and the flu, and asks that magicians write her cheerful letters, using their letterheads, as this will help to interest her and possibly restore her mind to normal. She can be addressed care Samuel Lingerman, 705 North Fifth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Their success in opening the bill at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theater, New York, last half of week September 13, is not questioned, even by the most critical magicians, many of whom saw their act during its appearance at this house.

Three magic acts in Chicago in one week recently: The Yokio Trio at the Great Northern Hippodrome, two very young Japanese maidens perform some very clever feats while the male member concludes with a fancy bicycle act far above the average. At the Rialto Frank Juhaz and his comical assistant, "The Royal Goof," furnish a bunch of laughs with a "nut" magical offering. Perry Taylor, formerly president of the Chicago Conjurers' Club, makes a big hit at McVicker's. Perry used to be in "hyp" and very recently entered the magic field; for a new entrant he certainly is going some. Can't keep a good fellow down.

Blackstone, master magician, and his big company are now on the Trans-Canada Circuit, playing the principal cities of Canada, and getting capacity business. The Blackstone show will again play the K. & E. Time in the States under the direction of Roy Sampson, who managed Blackstone last season. While in Toronto Blackstone presented his latest illusion, "The Arabian Mystery," which created a big sensation. The C. C. C., of which the magician is

OUR WARS AT HOME

(AMERICA)

Once a year New York has its traction strike. In some years there are two. They "end" when the strikers are at the point of starvation. They are never "settled." The strike of 1920 is now heading toward the usual melancholy "end." A score or so of the dead have been decently buried. More than 100 men and women injured in riots and accidents now face death, or the road to recovery. The money loss mounts into the millions. Presently the cars will begin to operate on a regular schedule. Next year the strike will come again, and the story of starvation and death be repeated. For the 1920 strike has only "ended," that is, adjourned temporarily. It has not been settled.

This is a feature sufficiently grave, but the most gravely significant fact is the cause of the annual recurrence, not only in New York, but throughout the country, of strikes in every industry. The resultant financial losses are counted by the millions, if not billions. Worse, every new industrial disturbance sets in motion new elements of disorder, and of discontent among the workers. It is true that some of these strikes are brought about by demands of the workers which, under current conditions, are exorbitant. But after making generous allowance for the evil influence of the professional striker and the agitator, the basic cause of industrial unrest remains untouched. That cause is the fearful economic inequality in the United States. And it will remain untouched so long as an almost inconsiderable minority of the people own or control the major part of the sources of wealth.

Until this inequality is destroyed strikes will increase or can be suppressed only at the point of the bayonet. Some of the means suggested a few years ago by Frank P. Walsh, on the limitation of wealth to be held by a single individual or family, and of power to transmit wealth by will, were severely criticized as "Socialistic." They were nothing of the sort. When private fortunes become so great as to menace good order, and no other remedy is at hand, the State may rightfully limit them. That 50,000 men sweat and slave in coal mines or in oil refineries to support in luxury a small group of millionaires is no contribution to social or moral order, but the opposite. Until these and all similar inequalities are removed we must expect that our industrial wars will become both more frequent and disastrous.

About This Season's New York Productions

GEORGE ARLISS

"POLDEKIN"

Direction of George C. Tyler. (All publication rights of "Poldekin" are the property of McClure's Magazine.)

As the opening gun of the campaign to Americanize America on a hundred per cent basis "Poldekin" may be characterized as a wet firecracker. It contains all the hysterical arguments of professional patrioters and the palpitating ignorance of editorial writers on the subject involved. At the risk of being accused of being second cousin to Trotsky one must admit that Bolshevism, anarchism, communism, syndicalism or whatever social economic philosophy Mr. Tarkington is trying to confute, refute or dispute in his play does not exist. Nothing so infantly stupid could live under the laughter it would be sure to stimulate in the people who would be its adherents and propagandists. Radicals may be dangerous elements in our civilization, but they are not fools? As a class they are apt to be far more alert, intelligent and discriminating than the class they are fighting. That is why they make so much trouble for everyone, even the patrons of the theater who pay to witness Mr. Tarkington's little mental relaxation. No such mob of loons as is turned loose in "Poldekin" by Soviet Russia to preach the gospel of unrest to sound, sane, conservative Americans could get by the Red Guard. Even the Bolshevik knows who can do him harm and takes steps to prevent it. What Mr. Tarkington can be after in turning out such preposterous nonsense is hard to see, unless it is that he must have his little joke. If plays about such really dramatic subjects as the revolt of the proletariat are to be made the authors at least might school themselves soundly in the rudiments of whatever social economic and social hearsay they want to oppose. We have passed beyond the acceptance of "hise dixits" on political subjects, especially when they are uttered by writers of very humorous small boy stories.

Everyone realizes the lack of knowledge theentogers have of the most vital world questions, but to present "Poldekin" as a serious or even humorous attempt to counteract the "wave of red unrest" is an insult to our intelligence.

Between the acts of the play pamphlets are distributed with the lurid caption, "Are You With Lincoln or Lenin?" The explosion in Wall street is definitely fixed with charming modesty, into the responsibility for the occurrence has not yet been determined by anyone except private detective agencies and official discoverers of mares' nests. The inference to be drawn from the handbill is that if you want to defeat Lenin buy a ticket for "Poldekin." Nothing surer to turn theatergoers into Bolsheviks could be constructed than the piece which George Arliss tries valiantly to carry on his slender shoulders. The pamphlets distributed are a red rag to an already gored bull.

Mr. Arliss is a player of reputation and skill. In certain parts he is excellent, despite the accumulation of mannerisms, which are getting very tiresome. But to be saddled with a role like this is a crime against both his reputation and his talent. The supporting company is entirely capable. Elsie Mackay, who is a real beauty, plays the Rooshlan girl consecrated to bomb tossing. She is so lovely to look at she can be forgiven almost anything. Julia Denn is a smashing hit as a representative of the oldest profession. She is vigorous, natural and effective. In fact the one sound characterization in the play, tho her affectionate regard for a family of tomato-cann clad geraniums is a bit too polyantha. In spite of everything the impression will persist that Mr. Tarkington has been playing G. B. Shaw and not playing the part very well. If "Poldekin" is the best argument to be advanced against Bolshevism America is doomed.—PATTERSON JAMES.

About This Season's New York Productions

Geo. M. Cohan's Production of the Cora Dick Gantt Play

"THE TAVERN"

(By Arrangement With Brock Pemberton)

Staged by John Meehan Under the Personal Supervision of Mr. Cohan

Arnold Daly is one of the very few actors we have who possesses the quality of distinction. He has the dramatic manner as well as certain mannerisms which are nothing more than the effort to conceal the limitations to which we are all subject. He has the faculty of investing whatever he does with interest no matter how trivial it may be. And he is a workman. In "The Tavern" he displays all these qualities admirably. He gives the role of The Vagabond an indescribable air of pathos, which makes it insistently effective. He has commendable repose when it is needed, and he can swagger and posture on demand, with all the sureness many other players exhibit when neither swaggering nor posturing are in the character. In short he gives a performance which justifies his reputation and position. But he should never, never, never dance. There is such a thing as "stage license," the why there should be is not clear to me. There is no license which covers Mr. Daly's dancing. As far as evorting it is admirable of its kind, but if it must be done a rigid course with the acrobats in Brown's Gymnasium would help to reduce its proportions.

"The Tavern" is a Cohanized mystery drama. Mr. Cohan knows all the tricks of this sort of piece. He proved it in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and there are many instances in "The Tavern" to show he has not lost his craftsmanship. However, there is serious question whether in overaccenting certain melodramatic characterizations he has not spoiled the effectiveness he strives for. The outbursts of The Woman from the woodshed are justified by the denouement of the play, as are Mr. Daly's eccentricities, but The Tavern Keeper's Son, played earnestly and well by Phillips Tead, would be far more effective if directed more naturally. The necessary element of contrast in the character playing is wanting. As that is a question of matter of direction Mr. Cohan must take the blame, as the credit is indubitably his for doing so many good things in the arrangement and staging of the piece.

In spots the play is genuinely funny. Spencer Charters, as the Hired Man, who wants to know what everything is about, makes a solid hit in a broadly comic sense. Dodson Mitchell, Elsa Rizer, Alberta Burton, Morgan Wallace and William Jeffrey are altogether excellent and the stage effects are well done. At least "The Tavern" is different. There is plenty of virtue acting in it which is a great relief amid the effeminate "niceness" which is getting to be so nauseatingly common on our stage. It is entertaining and it has Mr. Daly. If it is not a success it will be because Mr. Cohan in reaching for mystery has missed the mark, the fatal bit and bit on confusion. No matter what happens it is a good shot.—PATTERSON JAMES.

About This Season's New York Productions

OLIVER MOROSCO Presents "MARRY THE POOR GIRL"

A Perfectly Innocent Farce. By Owen Davis. Staged by Priestly Morrison.

The mother of Julia Paddington, discovering that a gentleman drunk has spent the evening in her daughter's room, innocently sleeping in a chair, exclaims dramatically, "What will society say?" You can see from that maternal moan that the Paddingtons are "swell" people. No one but "swell" people get drunk and sleep in innocent young girls' boudoirs all night. It simply isn't done, that's all. No one but the daughter of "swell people" could be such a sound sleeper as not to discover drunken strangers snoring thru the long night in her bedroom, unless the swell daughter had a ladylike bun on herself when retiring. However, the damage is done, so the Paddingtons decide the only thing to do with a girl like that is to make the man marry her. New idea that! "You have wronged my daughter," says irate father. "You have snored in her boudoir all night. To protect her reputation as society's best young light sleeper, you must marry her. You must do the right thing by 'Our Jule.'" So Mr. Davis marries the poor girl to the poor drunk, and the farce begins.

Properly played the piece would have a chance, but, as it is, it neither is nor has. There is no "tempo," if you know what that means, and farce needs "tempo" even more than anything, except nonsense. It might also escape if the male actors would occasionally take their hands out of their pockets. They never do, however. The show starts with everybody's hands submerged, and they never come up. No one even sits down. In the three acts at least four people sit down, once each. The rest of the time they stand. And how they stand! One lady turns her back to the audience and remains that way for some minutes, with her feet spread at least eighteen inches apart. Things like these are innumerable. There are certain rudiments of stage deportment which every actor should know. If they do not know them they should be taught. That is a director's business, and he must bear the responsibility. It is not altogether the player's fault. A director who can not watch his charge's hands and feet and teach the uses of these members to actors who do not know what to do with them, does not know his job. Beatrice Noyes, as Rose Gary, a lady who is willing to play co-respondent or Larry-rup, specially-hired wives, is a goddess in the piece. She knows character playing, she is natural and human and is not afraid to raise her voice to put a point over. She with the exception of Stapleton Kent, who plays the part of the kind of clergyman who makes you believe Christianity is a failure and plays it very well, is all there is to "Marry the Poor Girl." But what can you do with a play where one of the characters wants to know "what will society say?"—PATERSON JAMES.

About This Season's New York Productions

JOE WEBER Presents the Zimbalist Play With Music "HONEYDEW"

Book and Lyrics by Joseph Herbert. Music by Efram Zimbalist. Staged by Hassard Short.

It sounds like a bromide to say that the music of "Honeydew" is delightful, since Efram Zimbalist wrote it. Mr. Zimbalist has not been treading old jingles for musical shows long enough to have exhausted his musical ideas nor tainted his expression of them by wailing notes "on contract." It is to be hoped he never will.

If the book and lyrics of the piece were half as good, "Honeydew" would be running season in and season out, the Joseph Herbert has not done too bad a job. Perhaps the book suffers by contrast with the music. At least Mr. Herbert has not gone into the trough for his material. That is a concession which any wound-stripped reviewer will appreciate. He has handled a risky story with real delicacy if not with humor. Calling a son-in-law a poor fish by a tycoonish mother-in-law and doing it over and over is not joyously funny. It is not even funny once.

Hal Forde, a skilled and attractive-mannered musical comedy player, gives an excellent performance as the slightly dotty Henry Honeydew. He knows how to be funny without resorting to beans-in-the-mouth comedy tricks, and he acts at all times with intelligence and pleasantness. Sam Ash is, as always, a masculine young lover, and sings well. There is no special distinction about either Dorothy Fellis or Ethelred Terry, unless it is that Miss Terry speaks as if she were frightened to death. Both look pretty, and that is always something.

A riotous bit is made by Mile. Marguerite, a Spanish dancer, who has lately been rescued from the vaudeville treadmill. She is as tiny as Spanish dancers seldom are after sixteen, and she dances with all the fire and fling of a real artist. It is unfortunate that she is forced to play a bit which adds nothing to the piece. The chorus is extremely pretty and well behaved. "Honeydew" is most satisfying if only for Mr. Zimbalist's charming music, Mr. Forde's playing and Mile. Marguerite's dancing.—PAT-TERSON JAMES.

MONOLOGUES—Original; send $1.00; mention character, subject. Satisfaction or money refunded. HAROLD WILLIAMS, Playwright, 9 Raynes Court, Willimantic, Connecticut.

Pleasing poems cheer the mind, and such as these you seldom find. They please the young and the old. In lines of truth are treasures told. RINGLING-BARNUM

Does Big Business in Texas

Engagement at Fort Worth Excellent, While Dallas Turns Out Exceptionally Good at Both Performances

The tour of the Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows thru Texas proved very successful. Exceptionally big business resulted in Ft. Worth and Dallas in particular. At Dallas Joseph Boyten, who has charge of the main reserve ticket wagon, stated that all tickets for the night show were sold out at 12 o'clock noon, and many disappointed folks were seen leaving the lot.

At Dallas Toto, the famous clown, who was playing at the Majestic Theater at the time, gave a party on Monday night, after the show, at the Park Inn, halfway between Ft. Worth and Dallas. The guests of honor were: May and Phil Wirth, Blad Millman, Tommy Thomas, Fred Bradna and wife, George Austin Moore, Doc Baker and Company, Dixie Wilson and 30 others from the Majestic theaters at Ft. Worth and Dallas. Needless to say, all had an enjoyable time. At Dallas, also, Al Baker entertained his many friends. Dallas is Baker's home town. At Ft. Worth Ed Jinks, oldtimer, was a welcome visitor to the show. The Millettis (the Ed and Mrs. Millettis) visited at Dallas. They are playing the Inter-State Time and doing well. Harry (King) Clemings Pindexter entertained his folks at Dallas and Ft. Worth. The Texas "king" has discarded Texas as his home and is now a New Yorker.

Hank Young, well-known bass drummer, for many seasons an old head in the band, left at Emporia, Kan., to join the Sells-Floto Circus. He was replaced by Jack Dressell, of the J. J. Richards Concert Band. Merle Evans, band leader, entertained many of his oldtime friends at Wichita, his home town. James Ward and Bert Keller, formerly of the Sells-Floto Circus, have joined Merle Evans and his band. Keller was a member of the Barnum & Bailey band when Ned Pitt was bandmaster.

Bud Hutchinson, triple cyclist, has given up trick riding. He has been very successful in his imitation of Joe Jackson. Helou Cohen, Wild West performer, who was injured during the concert recently, is improving rapidly, according to latest reports from Wichita. Wilbur Wierick has broken all records as a trap drummer and is gaining much popularity around the show. Abe Seidler, a personal friend of Toby Thomas, gave a banquet at the St. Nicholas Hotel, Springfield, Ill. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Pat Valdo, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Selgerst, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hedder, Everett Hart, Tom Hart, Toby Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Harry (King) Clemings, Mickey McDonald and the writer.

At Greenville, near the Sells-Floto Shows, and many of the folks from there visited. Among them were: W. E. Wells, Chas. Rooney, Fred Seymour, Jimmy O'Connell, "Curly" Stewart, Mr. Bennett, 24-hour man, and others. The John Robinson Shows played near Waxahachie, and many members came over. Among them were: Jerry Mugavin, Fred Ledgett, Ab Johnson, Buck Regar, Arthur Nelson and Joe Wallace.—HERMAN JOSEPH.

CLOSING DATES

Where do we close? That question is the topic of discussion in the dressing rooms of all circuses intending to go into winter quarters. It is officially announced by Charles Ringling that the Ringling-Barnum Shows will terminate their tour at Richmond, Va., October 27. Bridgeport, Conn., will again be their winter quarters. Unofficially it is learned that the Yankee Robinson Circus will close about November 6 and return to Granger, Ia.; Sells-Floto, October 17 at East St. Louis, Ill., and back to Denver, Col.; Al G. Barnes' Circus, November 20 at Ventura, Cal., and into Culver City for the winter; John Robinson, Hagenbeck-Wallace and Howe's Great London, about November 23. The Howe and Robinson shows will no doubt return to Peru, Ind., and the H.W. show to West Baden, Ind. Andrew Duwaine has arranged to keep the Walter L. Main Circus in operation this winter. Nothing has been learned regarding the closing of the Sparks Circus, but it is definitely decided that the show will again winter in Central City Park, Macon, Ga.

EVANS PLAYING FAIRS

Massillon, O., Sept. 28.—The Evans motorized Dog and Pony Circus, owned by J. J. Evans, well-known local showman, which took the road from here early last May, carrying fifteen trucks and thirty head of stock, together with twenty-eight performers, closed a most disastrous season last week at East Palestine, O. Evans told The Billboard representative here that he lost an average of two to three stands a week, because of the help shortage, inability to get truck drivers and the continued rainy weather. Evans now is playing fairs and has a repertoire of seven free acts. He has had successful engagements at the Portage County Fair, Ravenna, O.; Mahoning County Fair, Youngstown; Columbiana County Fair, Lisbon, O., and at Zanesville. He still has contracts for presenting Daniel, the horse with the "human brain," at the Wooster, Dover and Warren, O., fairs. His offering is a performance by dogs, high school horses and monkeys.

CHRISTY SHOWS IN STORM

Mrs. Dennes Burned by Stroke of Lightning

The Christy Bros.' Shows encountered a storm at Augusta, Ark., and the side-show tents were blown down. There was no damage to property, however. Mrs. Burt Dennes, wife of the question director, formerly of the Al G. Barnes Circus, suffered the effects of a stroke of lightning, and was badly burned, while on her way to the lot for the afternoon performance.

RAE IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Robert M. Rae, who has handled the canvas on the side-shows of the Yankee Robinson Circus, was a Chicago visitor last week. He closed with the show in Stillwater, Ok., and sold a wonderful business had been done on the season. Mr. Rae will remain in Chicago for the present.

HARLAND WITH H.-W.

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 29.—Gilbert Harland, well-known troupier and musician, has returned from his season abroad and is now with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows in the Carolinas. He writes friends he is doing well and hopes to get home here in time for the holidays.

PRODUCING CLOWN KENNETH R. WAITE

ILLNESS PREVAILS In the Famous Robinson Family

The legion of friends of "Gov." John F. Robinson and family in Cincinnati and vicinity were grieved, last week, when the announcement came from the Robinson home that Mrs. Robinson was seriously ill and the "Governor" also confined to his bed. At this writing (Saturday) however, the veteran showman is reported almost completely recovered, but there is very little hope entertained for Mrs. Robinson's recovery. Mrs. Robinson was operated upon for liver trouble and for nine weeks was confined to a local hospital. She was then removed to her home, 3316 Reading Road. Gil Robinson arrived in Cincinnati Friday night from Atlantic City. John G. Robinson was also in Cincinnati last week.

The wife of John G. Robinson, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the St. Bartholomew Hospital, New York City, three weeks ago, was expected to leave New York, October 2, for Cincinnati, accompanied by her twin daughter, Mrs. Gordon Mougey who has been constantly at her bedside, provided Mrs. Robinson was able to make the journey.

The oldtime circus performer and close friend of the Robinson family, "Johnny" Wilson, whose health for some time had been failing, was confined at the Good Samaritan Hospital for about a week, but has recovered and returned to the Hotel Savoy, where he has made his home for a number of years.

FRANK CROMWELL IMPROVING

New York, Sept. 29.—Frank Cromwell was forced to leave the Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Shows in Peoria, Ill., because of an injury to his right hand in a baseball game played in St. Paul. He closed September 8. One of the bones was broken, but is fast knitting together, and Mr. Cromwell expects to open in vaudeville again with the Aerial Cromwells.

Gentlemen. The 40x100 tent which you shipped last week, arrived safely and I cannot express in writing the satisfaction it has given. It is now in use and every showman here has admired it.

It has been said that I am hard to please, while this may be true, I want to say that you have pleased me, in fact have hit the bulls eye right in the middle. You sent just what I wanted, just what I ordered and I consider this tent the best that I have ever seen both in material and workmanship.

While the tent cost plenty of dollars I consider that not a penny was wasted and that we got a square deal and more, in fact you couldnt buy it back if you added a third to what was paid for it.

Very Truly Yours
Omar Sami.

The Ringling interests have purchased the railroad running from Hannibal to Perry, Mo.

Mrs. Mae Dunlap writes Solly that she will spend the winter at her home in Jamestown, N. Y.

It seems almost a sure thing that the Foreboughs Circus will be brought out next season by the Ringlings.

Rex de Rosnell is reported ill in a hospital at Hot Springs, Ark. He was taken sick when the Al C. Barnes Circus appeared in that city.

Many workmen will stick with a show, regardless of tempting offers of the "skimp life," provided there is good eating at the workhouse.

On meeting an old acquaintance and being told that he was soon to depart for foreign lands, the trumper casually asked: "Still following the ponies?" "Depends on just what 'ponies' you refer to," came the answer.

Late official reports have it that the exact closing date of the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows has not yet been decided upon. It is thought the season will end some time about the middle of November.

The shortage of help in the construction departments is probably being heavily felt by all the big shows now in the South. And their versatility in this line is making itself evident by many tinkers in aid of their organizations.

Late announcements have it that Edward Russell, well known in dramatic stock circles, and to many of the "sawdust trail," will be with one of the big circuses next season as

MENTION US, PLEASE—THE BILLBOARD.

THE CORRAL

By ROWDY WADDY

Col. H. A. Moss, of Tulsa, Ok., and his cowboys joined the Weather Shows at Popoka, Kan., with a Wild West Show that holds its own among the attractions.

C. F. Hatley (California Frank) has written the Chicago office of The Billboard that he and his attractions were playing the fair in Wilson, Kan., last week.

It has not yet been fully decided, but there looms up on the outdoor amusement horizon the noticeable light of a big Wild West Show for next season, and backed by prominent interests.

Cut out prejudice and jealousy, both managers and contestants, and lend every effort to the advancement of interest in the contest business. Be good sports; be friendly with each other, and let the spirit of contest—with good fellowship—prevail as an important factor.

Let us hear from managers of local contest associations, or thru their secretaries, their views on a big organization to include the various associations, to advance and in protection of their own interests. Make them brief and to the point, and we will reproduce them in this column.

Several Roundups have either been slow, or have not sent in their results. By the way, a number of results have not appeared in the issue following receipt of them, but this was caused by having too many previously received for the space available, or that they reached the Cincinnati office of The Billboard after the page was ready for the press.

Please remember that Rowdy Waddy and The Billboard are doing all in their power to augment interest in both the traveling Wild West shows and contests, and we ain't "hobbin' any stirrups" to win a straight victory. In other words, we're working with and for you, ask your aid, and are not downing one fellow to help another.

The Polson Cowboy Band, of Polson, Mont., and under the direction of W. L. Floyd, is attracting no small amount of attention thru that section of the country, and was a big feature at the Helena and Missoula fairs. Incidentally, we note that local interests are pushing the project of sending the band eastward, as a big advertising campaign for Polson. This action displays marked home interest on the part of the populace of Polson, and let's hope their plans materialized into a reality.

About three months ago rumor had it that after finishing the taking of moving pictures up in the Colorado Mountains Bill Penny and associates were to launch the Colorado Ranch Wild West, with the following executive staff roster: P. C. Timson, owner of a large horse ranch in Colorado, president; Roy Miller, vice-president and secretary; Bill Penny of K-Bar Wild West, manager, and Jack DeVidts, arena director. Let's hear of the progress of the project, Mr. Penny.

From Red Oak, Ia.—Monty Festo Roundup went over big here. Large crowds were on hand for the broncho contests, and the patrons had plenty of excitement to keep them interested. Parades were held on the main street and each township had a float, in which it tried to out rival its neighbors. The result was that there were some mighty fine floats in the line and it was a hard job to award the prizes to the best ones.

Days of the old West were revived at the Fresno, Cal., District Fair, last week, in a roundup that included all the horsemanship contests that make these affairs interesting. Frank J. Griffin, well known in the West in connection with the roundup game, promoted the contest events, and Tom Mix movie star, was present and gave daily exhibitions of his skill with the lariat and in the saddle. The first San Joaquin Valley motor class was held the closing day of the fair on the new $250,000 speedway.

Guy Weadick has been devoting his summer season to his ranch that he purchased in the foothills of the Canadian Rockies last spring. It is called the T. S. Ranch and is located 35 miles off the railroad, southwest of High River, Alberta. The Canadian Government has installed a telephone station at the ranch, and called the place Stampede, Alberta. Besides running stock on the ranch Weadick has inaugurated a camp for summer tourists who desire to spend their vacation on a ranch. The place is ideally located for such a purpose, it being on the beautiful Highwood River, one of the most noted trout fishing streams in the Rockies. The ranch headquarters consists of fine log buildings, which have been fitted up in a very attractive manner. The location is only five miles from the base of Mt. Head, one of the high peaks of the Highwood range, being 10,500 feet high. Big game hunting is to be had in season, as well as grouse, chicken, etc. The Canadian Pacific Railroad is said to be advertising the ranch extensively, and Weadick says that he is building many more log cabins to accommodate the guests he has already secured reservations for next season. The T. S. Ranch joins the famous Bar-U Ranch, the property of George Lane, the cattle king of the Canadian Northwest. The E. P. Ranch, belonging to the Prince of Wales, is only eight miles distant, and the Two-Bit outfit, the property of the Earl of Minto, is also close by. Many prominent people from the East have spent the summer at the T. S., and next season will likely see more. Mr. Weadick does not say anything as to his future plans in show business, altho we are informed on reliable authority that at least one city of prominence is negotiating with him to produce "The Stampede" in 1921.

RINGLING-BARNUM

First Big Show in Atlanta This Fall

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 28.—Members of advance car No. 1 of the Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Shows were busy here yesterday announcing the date of the show, for one day only in this city, Monday, October 18, nearly a month earlier than last year.

It seems that the big combination always brings rain to Atlanta, but should it have favorable weather the big show should do capacity business, as both organizations were favorites here before their consolidation. It will be the first big show in Atlanta this fall. The tents will be pitched on the old Jackson and Wheat streets show ground for the first time since 1918, when the Ringling Shows played that location.

CIRCUS PICKUPS

By FLETCHER SMITH

After touring the South for six weeks, hitting the spots that depend principally on cotton and tobacco for show money, and finding business capacity almost everywhere, it leads one to believe that the two-car circuses and minstrel showmen who stick in Dixie all summer know where they are. Not a bale of cotton has been sold in open market down here yet, and the farmers are holding it, possibly for a hoped-for raise in price. But the money is here and the people are spending it. This leads me to also remark that as all the shows are trying to beat each other down here, getting thru with the good spots before the harvest has been gathered, the circus man who hides his time and hits the cotton belt the last of October and in November ought to mop up—think it over.

One by one the oldtimers in the circus game are dropping out. The latest is H. I. Ellis, the well-known 24-hour man, who has been with John Robinson, Al G. Barnes and last with Sparks. "H.I." started in the business years ago as an advance agent for Mura and other New England repertory stars, and then drifted into the circus branch of amusements. Eventually he married a Lancaster (O.) lady, and now H.I. is up there with nothing to do but sit on the front porch, look wise and collect the rents from his business properties. He says he has canned the canned heat and likes Mrs. "H.I.'s" cooking much better.

I hear another oldtimer, "Java" Cohn, is going to quit the game. Java has the lights on the Sparks Circus, but will soon leave for his home in Havre de Grace, Md., where Mrs. Cohn and the new baby await him. He will engage in the electrical business with a son of "Pop" Coy as a partner.

Learn with regret the affliction that has befallen "Mack" McGowan, the well-known circus tuba player, late with Jack Phillips. Mack was obliged to leave for his home, and is threatened with total blindness.

Also learn that Russell ("Punk") Fwling is confined in a hospital at Asheville, N. C., and was obliged to close with the Sparks Show this time.

The writer's old side partner, Harry F. Willis, the world-famous callope player, is now sporting the "antlers," having been made an Elk at Salisbury, N. C., recently by Salisbury Lodge No. 699. He had as companions and fellow "sufferers" on this occasion, Jack Phillips, Lewis Reed and some eight other members of the Sparks Circus. The Salisbury Lodge has about thirty showmen on its roster at present.

While in Bloomington, Ind. (made famous by the Gentry Bros.), I spent a pleasant hour in an undertaking parlor. The undertaker was Walter Allen, the formerly well-known animal trainer and elephant man, who was for years with the Gentry Bros.' Shows. Walter has quit the business for good. He is in partnership with his brother and is doing fine. He has two touring cars and an automobile hearse, and his place of business is just behind the Court House. Look him up when you play Bloomington.

Marvin Arnold, who for years had the Side Show with Sun Brothers, and crated out in front to good returns, is now making good in his brother's tab show, and his talented wife is making a hit with her wonderful voice. At the same time Marvin has a longing for the "white tops" again.

Things are moving so swiftly, business is so big, and the writer has been so busy sorting tickets and checking up that Sunday is about the only day the workers with the Main Shows get a minute's relaxation, and hence these notes missed a week, as I had to wait for a said Sunday. More anon.

"THINGS I SEE AND HEAR EVERY DAY"

By BILLY EXTON

In Houston, Tex., at the Rice Hotel, I came face to face with that grand old man of circus agents, John Henry Rice. Of course, John admits he is pretty well along in years, but he also boasts of his ability to step around with the rest of 'em. To see him rushing in and out of the hotel lobby, telephone booths and telegraph offices reminds one of his being about 20 years of age. He is forever telling jokes and stories, and always ready to listen in on a "good" one. A great reminder of a story John once heard, and which he never forgets to tell, is the one about the "Assortment." Mention of this word to him is bound to bring forth a chuckle, followed closely by the story.

Saw Grady Blackwell here also. Grady has just been discharged from a local hospital, where he underwent several minor operations. "At the hospital where I was confined," said Grady, "my cot was so placed that I could look up and down several streets, and one day noticed the hillers and hammersmen from the John Robinson and Ringling shows, and from then on I had been very impatient about my release, and when the circus day arrived I just had to be out." Blackwell is one of the (Continued on page 59) auditor and press representative, also that the management has placed him under a long term contract. Mr. Russell's long experience in the dramatic field will no doubt prove a valuable asset in his new activities.

'Tis said that Sid Kridello hasn't missed a train in two weeks, and that every time Aug. Kanerva goes with Sid they both miss the train. A. J. Anderson says he worries every time he sees them leave the cars together. What's the idea?

According to late authentic reports, several carnival managers will be presiding over circuses next season. Already there are two or three almost sure projects. James A. Patterson, one of the most wealthy in the carnival branch of amusements, is one of them.

When the Hagenbeck Wallace Shows played Clintonoga, Tenn., Frank N. Clinton, former boss property man on the Sun Bros' Shows, spent the day at the lot and enjoyed visits with his old friends. Frank pronounces the performance one of the best ever hitting Clintonoga.

Clarence Anskings, general agent of the Campbell Bros. Trained Animal Circus, writes that the show is playing to very good business in California. Milton Jehu is still a member of the advance forces, as brigade agent. Anskings says he will spend the winter in California.

Geo. Wormald (Wombold), the veteran boss canvasser, unexpectedly dropped into The Billboard offices at Cincinnati on September 28, being again able to be out and around from the effects of a bad case of blood poison in his right leg, from which he is recovering nicely, and past the "limp" in his pedestrian efforts. He is still making headquarters at his home in Bellevue, Ky., across the river from Cincy.

Adam Damm, of the Famous Damm Brothers, comedy acrobats, closed with the Russell Bros. Shows at Aledo, Ill., on September 18. The Damm Brothers were working for the Bedini French Circus. Adam writes that the Bedinis paid them a good salary and also gave them a bonus when they closed. The Bedinis play the Lantages Time this winter. Adam adds that while carnivals are all right, he doesn't think they (the Damm Bros.) will again be with one, as their trumping "home" is with a circus, also that he will likely remain home the coming season, as Joe Damm goes with the Bedinis on their vaudeville tour.

The following from Chas. (Bounding) Johnson, No. 11415, State Prison, Jackson, Mich.: "I wish to thank my friends with the Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows for their donation to me. The contributors' names were: Jerry Alton, Bill Harding, Joe Coyle, Jake Kogan, Lonis Plomondon, Bill Hart, Gene Enos, Dave Costello, M. Perez, A. E. Lenjeon, Geo. Connors, Ernest L. Doux, H. Nassah, "Kid" Kennard, Alex Brock, Arthur Adair, M. Masiker, E. W. McDonald, Gordon Orton, Joe Welland, Walter Hostenough, Harry Green, Mr. Brown, J. P. Jackson, Ed Raymond, 'A Friend', Fred Cradall." "On September 24 I did my act at the Centerville (Mich.) Fair and made a big hit. Mr. Cummings is the secretary of the fair, and is also a new member of the Pardon Board." "I wish some of my friends would write again to Governor Albert Sleeper, Lansing, Mich., asking him to help me, as he will go out of office at the end of this year."

Either the accepting of out of the ordinary evidence or marked credit given to monkey justnessness rules in Constantinople, as per the following news dispatch, via London, clipped from a Toronto newspaper and forwarded to Solly by W. Wilek, of the Brown & Dyer Shows:

"A monkey was brought into the court at Constantinople in connection with the murder of the manager of the Ackerman Circus, which had been giving performances for a season in the Turkish capital.

A married couple named Starr, who were members of the circus troupe, were suspected of the crime and arrested, but no evidence could be discovered against them. The Judge thereupon resorted to a reconstruction of the crime. The circus manager had been murdered at the moment when he was feeding an Indian monkey named Seamp. Starr and his wife were conducted to the cage.

"The instant the animal, which had previously shown much affection toward them, saw the couple it broke into a furious rage, throwing itself against the bars of its cage in its attempts to attack the Starrs. At a subsequent sitting of the court the monkey was led in, and hardly caught sight of the Starrs when he again flew into a paroxysm of terror.

"The spectacle produced a great impression on the court, and notwithstanding their emphatic denials, Starr and his wife were judged guilty."

G. L. ALDERFER IN CINCY

G. L. Alderfer, well-known circus man, was in Cincinnati last week on business and paid The Billboard a visit. Mr. Alderfer, who in 1918 sold his entire show, the Great Alderfer Shows, is now superintendent of the Union Bros. Shows, an overland organization, transported on Michigan all summer to excellent business. The program presents acts of varied nature, also trained dogs and ponies. The show is now in Southern Ohio, headed south, and the management intends remaining out all winter.

BARNES AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, Sept. 28.—The Al G. Barnes Circus did a capacity business Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and gave as good a performance as seen here in many seasons.

THE RAILWAY PROBLEM

Viewed With Alarm From an Amusement Standpoint and With Apprehension as to the Future

By LOUIS E. COOKE

Looking backward with all the vigor of accumulated years and experience one can readily recall when railways were built and run with profit by men of practical efficiency. The present writer remembers that in recent years, when "only a farmer's son" in his early teens, he was employed as a teamster in the labor of grading and constructing a portion of one of the now prominent trunk lines thru Michigan.

At that time fifty cents per day, with board and lodging in camp, was considered good pay for a husky boy who was expected to do a man's work, and as my elder brothers had a contract to grade and prepare the roadbed for a number of miles in our immediate vicinity the whole family, including father, was "working on the railway" during the off season, after the frost was on the pumpkin and the corn was in the shock. Since then I have often journeyed over that very section of the road in private and peace cars, and one particular morning, having just finished my breakfast in the dining car, and feeling quite satisfied with myself, at least, as I surveyed the old stamping ground from the car window, the waiter banded me the change due on my check, and in the exuberance of the moment of good spirits I left a bright silver fifty-cent piece on the tray with the remark that it represented a day's wages that I received as a boy while helping to build that very stretch of railway over which we were then traveling.

This incident, and the fact that in more recent years I have contracted for the transportation of the world's greatest shows by land and sea, in all parts of the world, also arranged and ran over fifteen hundred special excursions for the public in a single season, may establish a right to speak by the card while commenting on the subject of railways and their relation to the amusement profession.

First we will recall the olden days when the owners and builders of railroads had something to do with their management and operation. The people were then apparently, proud and somewhat boastful of their transportation facilities and rates with the best service in the world, which was the truth in all respects. The business was then prosperous; bonds sold rapidly and the work conducted with profit. New lines were surveyed and built by practical men who grew up with the business. Men who struck the grades, carried the surveyor's chains and strung the telegraph wires often became the president, superintendent, train dispatcher or chief engineer of the line which they had constructed and knew every inch of the roadway. Railway management was then considered the high water mark of American efficiency. Railway workmen were paid higher wages than prevailed in other industries. It was considered elevating, and young men were anxious to get into railroad employ, where high standards of service and wages prevailed. Lobbies were maintained in the national and State capitals to see that fair and friendly legislation was adopted to insure efficiency and progress in transportation. Such men as Senator Ingalls, of Kansas; Chauncey Depew, of New York, and other equally representative men were sent to the legislature to look after these matters, and were often menly accused as being "railroad candidates," but it was their business to see that the railways were fairly treated and enabled to improve their facilities, extend new lines and keep up with the growth of the country. There was sometimes talk of corruption, but freight and passenger rates were always reasonable, competition for the carrying trade strong, and the business handled promptly with general satisfaction to all. Freight and passenger agents were distributed all over the country to bid for business. Competitive lines were in vogue. High-class cars and equipment were in demand and furnished. American railways set the pace for perfect comfort in transportation and good management.

Then came the era of proposed reform. Every political convention began its proceedings with promises to fight the railroads. They were looked upon as common outlaws because they treated the public fairly and offered inducements for trade. Different States passed laws to suit themselves and the nation enacted bills that conflicted with many State regulations, and various commissions were appointed to inquire into the matter. The result you know. From the high water mark of the greatest efficiency railway management became so poor that in a critical emergency it broke down completely, and the Government took charge, only to make it worse. Experienced operators were retired and incompetent politicians or theorists put in their place. Previously the business had been handled at a profit, and the service was good. Under the new order all was chaos and the Government was compelled to make good an enormous deficit. But this was not the worst of it; grain, fruits and foodstuffs rotted everywhere because they could not be sent to market and the high cost of living further increased. Rates were almost doubled, but the situation grew worse instead of better. Rolling stock ran down with no funds or practical workmen to replace it; no new lines were built and railway bonds were not considered good investments. The transportation business was at its lowest ebb, and instead of being managed by men long trained in the calling it was badly bungled by politicians not trained in any business, and their salaries, as well as the cost of their blunders, had to be paid by the public whether they were shippers or not. There might have been some waste in the old days of low rates and good service, but there is more in these days of high rates and inefficiency. Formerly the pilferings, if any, went to men who at least kept the rates low and the railroads in good order, while at present they go to men who have doubled the rates and so thoroughly disorganized the service there is not a business concern in the country that is not suffering in consequence. This seems to be a brief and fair statement of the true conditions and I challenge anyone to controvert the facts.

Taking the amusement business as an example: Is it not a conceded fact that, as a profession, the art of entertaining is one of the most popular industries of the age? It is certainly recognized as a most fascinating calling and the percentage of its receipts turned in to the United States treasury as a revenue, to say nothing of the many charitable benefits contributed by its exponents, all testify to this assertion; and as further evidence of its mission and importance in the field of endeavor we will take an impartial view of a small section of the world, situated in the center of the city of New York, to prove the force of this claim:

Quite recently a well known New York divine declared from the pulpit that in the Times Square district (where The Billboard, New York office, is situated) there are one hundred city blocks, bordered by Twenty-eighth and Forty-eighth streets and Park and Eighth avenues. Within this territory there are two Jewish synagogues, four Roman Catholic and thirteen Protestant churches. These churches have a combined seating capacity of 10,400, but on a recent Sunday evening only 1,817 people, by actual count, were found in all of the churches, at service, in the entire district.

In this district there are forty-five theaters and ten moving picture houses, with a seating capacity of 78,817. On the Sunday evening when the count was made there were only 1,817 people in all the churches, while it was carefully estimated that there were over 75,000 in the theaters and "movies," while the attendance at these places of amusement, on six week days and nights, amounts to more than 1,000,000 men, women and children. These facts and figures from such a reliable source ought to be convincing as to the number of people interested in wholesome amusements throughout the world. Then why should blind prejudice, unfair legislation or incompetent judges rule it off the road by making the rates almost prohibitive and then offering such indifferent service as to impoverish the management?

As an observant bystander it is noted that in many instances railway rates have been increased three and four fold over former prices. Some of the big concerns are paying more per train than it formerly cost to move the entire show. It is positively known that some of the big shows have paid as much as $1,000 to $2,000 for a single run, and in many cases flat refusals to quote rates are recorded. The traffic situation has become chaotic. Routes cannot be determined with any degree of certainty, and when it becomes known that some railways are open to negotiation they are overrun with shows of all classes and the territory soon exhausted, thus making long and expensive jumps necessary, to avoid close opposition, and in one instance, at least, one big show had to route thru Canada and then back into the United States, on a foreign railway, in order to get into Boston, and then there was only one railway out of that great city—where the monument of Bunker Hill stands as a symbol of American independence and justice—that would contract to take the show out of the hub of the New England States.

If the outdoor showmen have suffered in particular, the theatrical people have been put to their wits' end to make both ends meet, and many of them have had to abandon tours or get unprofitable towns in order to "get by" without traveling on their baggage; and many a thespian knows what that means.

The remedy, if there be one, for this evil, lies in concerted action on the part of the amusement profession. All kinds and classes are identical in interest. The big and little fellows are in the same category. The good of one is for the good of all and it behooves the profession to stand together in contending for their legitimate rights, as they are, practically, in a class by themselves. No other profession or calling is so largely dependent upon the conduct of their business. Almost constant movement is a part of their heritage and a large portion of their lives is passed in transit. They cannot settle down in a given city or town and remain there the same as in any other calling. Necessity makes their journeys frequent, therefore as a class they are distinct from the ordinary or casual traveler, and should be so considered. Special rates for their transportation in parties or en bloc would inflict no hardship upon others, and being almost constant patrons of the railways they are entitled to some consideration for the gross amount of their expenditures in travel. Otherwise many of them will be forced to the wall, and even the biggest and best of them compelled to confine themselves to the larger cities, where they can remain indefinitely, and then fight their way to the next stand.

To accomplish anything united action is necessary, and with all the influence that can be brought to bear upon legislative bodies from different parts of the country a favorable hearing is assured, and, in my opinion, a propaganda of this kind should be started at once, with a view of keeping someone in touch with every movement that is being made by the railway commissioners, or the railway managers themselves; and then, if necessary, have every member of the amusement profession carry their appeal to the house of Congress and the law makers of the land in such a way that the influence must be felt, and at this writing I am sure that with equal franchise votes will count, regardless of party or politics, but in the light of common justice and fairness.

As an argumentative document I would suggest that a committee be appointed to confer on this subject to formulate plans, devise ways and means as to how best to proceed in the matter, and then adopt a reasonable scale of rates based upon existing tariffs, rules and regulations governing each particular line or territory under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. In my opinion it would be reasonable to ask for a reduction of at least 25 per cent on all party or company tickets of ten or more up to fifty people, and 30 per cent on all over that number, when traveling in railway company or private cars on regular trains, with baggage in such cars and on regular trains.

For special or additional cars, to be handled in regular trains, a mileage basis should be adopted to prevail on all lines at tariff rates, less the percentage asked for. When special train service is required a graduated rate, according to the number and class of cars, should apply. Starting on a basis of three to five cars, and then six to ten, eleven to fifteen, and sixteen to twenty, thus constituting one train or section; when two or more sections are required the additional section or sections should be figured on a basis of fifty per cent of the first section. A mileage rate per train should be adopted, allowing a given number of people for each car, regardless of class, to be hauled in special trains, with a fifty-mile minimum for each movement or exhibition stand, and any additional mileage to be charged for the actual distance traveled per train mile.

In consideration of the show companies furnishing their own rolling stock, loading and unloading their equipment, and keeping same in good repair, subject to inspection under Master Mechanics' rules and regulations, free from any charge to the railway company, for service or mileage, the special commodity rate, for right of way, motive power, operating crew and service, with terminal facilities at each exhibition point and during the performances in said places of exhibition, a uniform rate per train mile may be fixed as follows:

- 3 to 5 cars, $2.00 per mile
- 6 to 10 cars, 3.00 per mile
- 11 to 15 cars, 4.00 per mile
- 16 to 20 cars, 5.00 per mile

On this basis an average 100-mile jump would cost $200, $300, $450 and $500, respectively, for each train, and in the same ratio for any distance over fifty miles, that being the minimum.

It should also be specified that upon payment of twenty per cent of the total amount, when the contract is signed, mileage books or other individual transportation shall be issued equal to the amount so paid, for the use of bona-fide advance agents or managers of their respective show or shows. Above all things so-called exclusive contracts should be prohibited, so that all shows may stand on an equal footing as to "rights, and not be ruled off the road by more powerful concerns, or by paying a bonus for the right of way. All contracts, on equity, and equality is the foundation of all honorable pursuits. The big and little fellows must get together and play fair to win. Who will be the first to act?

"THINGS I SEE AND HEAR EVERY DAY"

fastest hammers and hitters I have ever seen work, and will not be idle very long. George C. Meyer, general agent of the John Robinson Circus, is meditating on a contract between the show and a team of aviators from a small town in Texas. If engaged these men will be used in brigade work in conjunction with the opposition men next season. They have three large Curtiss planes, and ought to be a very valuable asset to the advance of the above show.

At Little Rock, Ark., Al Smith, who has been doing lithographing of the "three" car of the John Robinson Show, left to return to his home in Kansas City.

Bob Gilbert, who last season did a dancin' specialty with Henry Dixon's "Big Review," and up till the present writing has been with Kitty Doner's big act, left for New York to jump into another big-time act. He was replaced by Ted Doner, a sister to Kitty, and who is well known thruout the country as a dancer.

Kitty, Ted and Mrs. Doner spent the last three days of the week, which was a layoff, at Hot Springs, from where they go to Tulsa, Ok.

That the regular legit season has opened is a fact, according to George McBride, who does the billing for the Kemper Theater at Little Rock. George gave out a list of big attractions, due in real soon, and is wondering why they all come at once. "Robin Hood" opens the season, and that cheerful and ever-smiling advance and press agent, Harry Gardner, has been in and merrily on his way. "Hitchy-Koo" follows, just one day behind, allowing one open date, but the Ringling-Barum Show is in on this date so that balances up the show. Then come "Ep in Mabel's Room," "Neil of New Orleans," "The Mikado" and others.

Sam Rice is in Little Rock, and is well remembered by the members of all circuses, owing to the many years spent on the road with the Sun Bros., Cole Bros., Mighty Haag and other shows. Sam is in charge of the bill plant, and says he is very well satisfied, but anxious to see "how tall the trees have grown since his last season out." Another oldtimer anchored here is Al Epper. Al is the property man at the Gem Theater.

At the Gem Theater, Little Rock, Ed Gabby and wife are putting on musical stock, and have an able cast of players and a very fine looking chorus. Among the principals are: Jim Daly, characters; Patsy Wilson, the blue singer; Harry Cordroy and wife; Babby, doing principal comedy, and his wife, doing the leads. Denny and Morrison just closed and have gone to join the Dubinsky Bros.' "Toby Wilson Players" at Hutchinson, Kan. Babe Harris, one of the dainty choristers, left to join a road attraction playing Houston, Texas.

FRESNO FAIR

Opens With Record Crowds

Exhibits Larger and More Varied Than Ever—Fine Lot of Entertainment Features

Fresno, Cal., Sept. 29.—With the exception of a few commercial exhibits in the main pavilion the fourteenth annual Fresno District Fair was complete for the reception of visitors when the gates swung open at noon Monday to admit a record breaking crowd.

The exhibits this year are larger and more varied than ever before and besides the regular fair buildings occupy two big tops especially secured to house them. In one of these is an extensive machinery display, including every type of mechanical device for use on the farm. Industrial exhibits and motor trucks occupy the other.

This year's poultry show is one of the outstanding features of the fair and is the largest that has ever been seen in California, while the live stock display is if anything more complete than the one at the recent State fair at Sacramento.

The big feature of the fair is the $250,000 speedway. The track is a mile around and built on the triple radius plan, with a dirt track inside for horse races. On Saturday Ralph De Balun, Gaston Chevrolet, Joe Thomas and other famed auto racers will compete in the first annual San Joaquin Valley motor classic over the new course.

The free acts include a roundup and wild West show, unrushed by Tom Mix and a troupe of sixty cowboys and cowgirls; Dare-Devil Fencer in his sensational "ride for life," bull fights, and day and night fireworks. Hagies & Kogman's three rides are cleaning up in the midway, as are 106 concessions, not including the lunch and soft drink stands.

The list of shows on the midway includes Wheeler's Animal Show, Johnson's Hawaiian Show, Tom Ryan's "Elizabeth" Show, John Rybil's Flea Circus, Gus Olsen's autrolome, a five-in-one show and a big snake show. "Lumber Jack Charlie" sings with the band in the arena afternoons and evenings.

OBSTACLES

In Form of Car Strike and Rain Do Not Phase Tennessee State Fair

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 29.—All attendance records for the past 15 years were broken by the Tennessee State Fair this year in spite of the fact that Nashville was in the midst of a street car strike and rain was encountered on two days. This remarkable feat is attributed to the drawing power of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition and "Dare Devil" Jersey Ringel, the plane-changer, as well as the excellent daily program offered the visitors. All stock, poultry and other exhibits surpassed anything ever attempted by the promoters of the Tennessee State Fair.

Under the supervision of James A. Cayce the fair was given more real publicity than heretofore, a notable feature of the publicity campaign being column after column of live press matter which was run continuously for weeks before the opening. Due to a heavy rain on Saturday, the closing day of the fair, the art races were postponed until Monday, and on that day hundreds of people journeyed out to the grounds to see this widely advertised feature. When the gates of the fair were thrown open every available inch of concession space was occupied, and at the conclusion of the fair all the boys reported a very successful week. This year's fair was without doubt the best ever offered the Tennesseans, and the result was everybody made money and the patrons were satisfied.

FINE START

Is Made by Mississippi Valley Fair and Exposition

The first annual Mississippi Valley Fair and Exposition, held at Davenport, Ia., August 16 to 21, scored a gratifying success.

The total attendance was 108,200; total receipts were $115,000 with net profits amounting to $30,000. Thursday was the banner day, with an attendance of 54,000 paid admissions.

The free attraction program in front of the grand stand was furnished by P. M. Benson, Inc., of Chicago, and consisted of the Kansas Japs, Fisher Sisters, Flying Varieties, Gruber WANTED—THE GEORGIA-CAROLINA COLORED FAIR AND AMUSEMENT CO. FOR 25 to 30 AUGUST, GA. THE GEORGIA FARMERS INDUSTRIAL FAIR, Crawfordville, Ga., Nov. 15 to 20. Forty Concessions, Ice Show, One Merry-Go-Round, one The Whip, Ferris Wheel, one the same Car for the two Fairs. J. P. STONE, President, Crawfordville, Georgia.

Animals, Ebenezer, the "Ham Tree" male; the J. Hess Trio and Aroaty Brothers. The added feature attraction on Thursday, Friday and Saturday was Ethel Dare, in punne-changing and aerial acrobatics, and she was considered by all those in attendance to be a thriller. At night the feature attraction was the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks, "Siege of the Dardanelles." The C. A. Wortham Shows were the midway attraction.

The fair was favored with fine weather throughout the week except a shower on Friday afternoon. Saturday, the busy day of the fair, was set aside for auto races and auto polo, which was furnished by J. Alex. Slonn, and the entertainment was very pleasing to the crowds in attendance. The crowds at this fair were loud in their praises of the new fair grounds and the splendid buildings erected thereon. The horsemen considered the half-mile track to be one of the best and fastest ever erected in the Mid-West. The grand stand has a seating capacity of 6,000 and is declared to be the finest constructed grand stand on any State or district fair grounds.

The success of the first annual Mississippi Valley Fair and Exposition was beyond the fondest expectations, and was due to the hard work of the management and the directors of the fair and the interest and co-operation of the entire community. Dates for the 1921 Fair have been selected as August 15 to 20.

THE AERIAL PATTS

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The Aerial Patts have written The Billboard from Clear Lake, S. D., where they were just closing their engagement with the fair in that city. Tony Patt enclosed several photos taken during the engagement in Clarinda, Ia.

The letter stated that the fair underwent a continuous rain in Clear Lake. The Patts, it seems, caught a farmhouse across from the fair grounds where milk, eggs and other things edible were fresh and appetizing. "We hated to leave it," averred Patt, in his letter. "Durrant, Wis., next week is our last fair date. After that we open on Butterfield Time in Jackson, Mich., October 17, having a little vacation in the meantime."

BARNET FAIR

Still Retains Its Ancient Character

The following account of a British fair, taken from The Manchester (Eng.) Guardian of September 10, will be interesting as showing the marked difference between British and American fairs:

"Barnet Fair has survived into another year and still keeps its ancient character as a horse fair. A large proportion of the dealers this week are Welshmen, who bring their droves of cart horses and Welsh ponies and cobs up by train, the many Irishmen were present; indeed, the greater part of the cattle were Irish, offered in blocks of 30 to 40 head, and the fair has still sufficient importance from the horse-dealing standpoint to attract foreign buyers, for both Dutch and French were to be heard frequently, and one of the purchasers was a young French small-holder, with his black smock frock worn over boots and breeches, so common a sight in the rural districts of France. It is a sign for the gods to see a small Welsh pony, about 12 1/2 hands high, being cut out of a mob to be shown to a prospective purchaser. Some of the ponies wear a halter, most are devoid even of that ornament, and have to be surrounded by men shouting and waving colored catico flags to prevent them breaking away; even then, to force one's way into the seething mass and drag the pony forth is often more than one man can accomplish, and frequently one saw two burly, profane men dragged away and being dragged downhill by a small pony picking at the end of the leading rope like a newly run salmon. Prices ruled high, £14 being paid for a two-year-old pony, often unbroken, and whoever thinks he can rescue the average Welsh dealer anything of horse dealing will be undeceived. I saw one amusing instance of coping, and doubtless there were many more. When a horse has changed hands, all the mea-round at once shouted: 'Ribbon 'er up,' a piece of ribbon being plaited into the tail forthwith to mark the pony in case it breaks loose again.

"On the other side of the road were the old-time accompaniments to the fair—merry-go-rounds with weird horses, geese and dragons to ride upon, to the sound of much raucous music squeezed forth from a protesting organ. Every variety of sweetcakes and buns was on sale. A man who drew crayon portraits while you waited, an Indian who told fortunes with incantations, while he finally drew your horoscope forth from a chemical test tube for the modest sum of 6d.; a lady, ingeniously decorated as part woman, part fish and part bird, 'all alive,' which was captured by shipwrecked sailors in some part of the world undescribed, while another booth offered the sight of 600 colored mice, rats and cats performing amiably together.

"Finally, as an indication of the passage of time, it was to be remarked that in a lengthened survey of the scene not one drunken man was visible—perhaps the most remarkable point of the whole fair."

ABUNDANT ENTERTAINMENT AT MARION (O.) FAIR

Marion, O., Sept. 30.—The annual Marion County Fair justified the statement that it would be the greatest in point of entertainment ever held in this county. Fine attractions were in abundance. The Helco Light high jumping horses and other novel acts provided entertainment for the crowds. The balls were filled with exhibits.

This was the first time that a night fair was held, and, according to J. H. Eynou, the innovation was a big success. Fireworks provided entertainment at night. Attractions were furnished by the National Attractions, of Cincinnati.

Perry, Ia., Holds Successful Fair—$100,000 Raised for Buildings

Perry, Ia., Sept. 29.—The Tri-County Fair Association pulled off the first fair held in this city in twenty-five years last week. It was a great success, and the Henry and the Milwaukee Railroad bands gave splendid musical programs every day. Twelve thousand dollars in premiums and prizes were awarded, and the exceptionally fast track turned out some mighty fine jacks. Barns, sales pavilions and exhibit buildings were all completed in record time for the opening day. The grand stands and bleachers were the best that could be built and proved satisfactory. The Perry Bureau of Commerce raised almost $100,000 to complete the grounds and buildings.

HARDY SCORES AT OTTAWA

James E. Hardy, well-known high wire performer, was accorded a big reception at the Central Canada Exhibition, Ottawa, Canada, on his third consecutive engagement at this exhibition. His attraction proved the big aerial feature, the performance being given at night amid a lavish display of fireworks. The total attendance at the exhibition was 320,000 for the six days. This is a record for the Ottawa Exhibition. It is expected that there will be a surplus of $50,000.

NEW FAIR ASSOCIATION HOLDS SUCCESSFUL EVENT

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 29.—The first Adams County Fair under the management of the newly formed association enjoyed a successful week, with the exception of rain for a couple of days. But for the inclement weather a record would have been set for this part of the country. The fair was run without carnival attractions. Officers of the association for the coming year are: President, S. H. Thompson; vice-president, W. T. Duker; secretary, C. E. Bowers; treasurer, W. J. Singleton. Races and exhibits were the best ever seen here.

CO-OPERATION

Puts Dawson County Fair Over to Big Success

Lexington, Neb., Sept. 29.—The Dawson County Fair Association has just completed the thirteenth annual fair, September 13-18. This is the first year six nights and four days were used for the fair, this being made necessary by the big crowds drawn by the presence of the Patterson-Kline Shows. The officials of the fair highly praised Mr. Kline and his organization, and Secretary Falkenberg, of the fair association, says the public is still praising the shows. The hearty co-operation of the carnival company with the fair officials put the fair over to a big success.

The exhibits this year were unusually large, with the exception of horses. There were spirited horse and auto races, and on Friday night there were special carnival features, with crowning of the king and queen.

With the July 5 auto race improvements to the fair receipts, permanent improvements to the amount of about $10,000 have been put on the grounds and actually paid for this year. This includes new grand stand, new boxes, band stand, fences, parking streets, gates and improved race track. The financial report shows that this was the best year the association has ever known.

BLAKELY TO HAVE FIVE-DAY FAIR

Blakely, Ga., Oct. 2.—The Early County Fair, to be held here October 19-23, is going to be by far the biggest the association has ever held, according to Secretary L. B. Fryer. "We have spent several thousand dollars improving the grounds," says Mr. Fryer, "and made several changes which give us the largest and best half-mile track in the South. We have an exhibit house with eighty nice large booths, and they are all taken now."

The fair will be held day and night for the entire five days, and a splendid entertainment program has been arranged. The Zeldman & Polie Shows will furnish the midway. Two good free acts also have been secured, and the Newton Fireworks Co. will give a big fireworks display. There will be horse races the first four days of the fair, and auto races on the last day.

"I have met with more encouragement this year than ever before," says Mr. Fryer, "and see no reason why we should not have the greatest year the fair has ever known."

COUNTY FAIR EXPANDING

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 2.—At the last meeting of the directors of the Kanawha County Fair steps were taken for greatly enlarging the scope of the exhibition. The event has been steadily expanding each year, and its backers hope it will ultimately be a State fair.

This year's fair will be held October 13-16 in Kanawha Park. It will be essentially educational in nature, special attention being paid to boys' and girls' club work. Additional funds are available for premium purposes this year, and it is expected that exhibits will be quite extensive. Charleston merchants also will have a large exhibit. No announcement has been made of the entertainment program, but it is understood that there will be amusement aplenty.

PERMANENT ASSOCIATION

To Be Formed at Alice, Tex.—Fair November 11-13

Alice, Tex., Sept. 29.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Jim Wells County Chamber of Commerce, a few days ago, it was decided to hold a fair at Alice, November 11, 12 and 13. It is proposed to organize a permanent fair association and buy a tract of land near the city and improve the same, that Jim Wells county may have an up to date fair.

The Jim Wells County Fair Association entered into a contract with Mr. White, representative of Clark's Greater Shows, to furnish the attractions for the fair.

Jim Wells County is being developed rapidly and the farmers of the county are enjoying greater prosperity than ever before.

POSTPONES SEMI-CENTENNIAL

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 4.—Bellevue's Semi-Centennial Celebration, scheduled for next month, has been postponed. It will likely take place next spring. Park H. Martin, president of the Borough Board of Trade, says the features would require all fall and winter to develop and that it was thought inadvisable to attempt the celebration with only six weeks' preparation.

SACKETT RE-ENGAGED

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Wallace Sackett, manager of the "Siege of the Dardanelles" attraction at the Huron (S. D.) Fair, was a Billboard visitor this week. Mr. Sackett is press representative for the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks Display Company and has been re-engaged for the next season. He was for three seasons ahead of the Madame Modjeska Company.

SIGNAL SUCCESS

Scored by Northeast Michigan Fair Under Management of J. H. Rutherford

The Northeastern Michigan Fair held at Bay City, Mich., September 13 to 17, proved to be the greatest success in the history of the city. After a lapse of four years a new association was organized by the leading merchants of Bay City and the surrounding counties and the officers elected included Hon. S. G. Houghton, president; Jim H. Rutherford, George Prescott and Ira J. Miller, vice-presidents; Leslie Hale, treasurer, and Stanley Armstrong, secretary.

The association then engaged Jim H. Rutherford, who represents the Butterfield interests in Bay City and manages the Orpheum and Casino theaters, to act as general manager. Rutherford, with twenty-five years' experience with the leading fairs in the United States and in the vaudeville game since his infancy, injected into the new organization the one essential asset which they had evidently lacked—"showmanship," and the result was gratifying beyond all expectations. Not only was the fair a big financial winner, but the exhibits, the races, the free attractions, aviators, fireworks and concessions were far superior to the previous fairs.

The association intends starting immediately on plans for next season. Several improvements, including a larger grand stand and large main building, are under consideration.

IMPROVEMENTS

For Next Season at Carthage, Ill., To Cost $25,000

Carthage, Ill., Sept. 29.—The stockholders of the Hancock County Fair will make many improvements in the grounds and buildings for the next season. Ellis E. Cox, the secretary, reported the best showing in the history of the fair, and it was decided to spend at least $25,000 on additions and buildings. A new lease of ten years for the grounds was closed with the owner, W. O. Kunkel, and now preparations for the next year will begin in earnest.

COUNTY FAIR AT SUMTER

Sumter, S. C., Oct. 3.—The State County Fair Association has made public its plans for one of the largest county fairs ever held in this section of the State, beginning November 16 and continuing four days. Many attractions have been engaged, including the Royal Scotch Highlanders' Band. Floor space for exhibits has been increased, and many new exhibits and attractions have been booked. It is the plan of the officers of the association to make this a combined fair and jubilee week, and the co-operation of the city authorities has been asked with this end in view.

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITS AT CEDAR RAPIDS, IA.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Oct. 2.—A manufacturers and farm exhibit will be held in the city auditorium the latter part of this month. Exhibits from various manufacturers and complete farm exhibits will be the feature of the big show. The theaters will have special feature bills for the week, and the management are preparing for record-breaking crowds. This city is in the heart of the corn country, and there is plenty of money being made here, not only by the farmer, but the workmen as well.

STARK COUNTY FAIR "BIGGER AND BETTER"

Canton, O., Sept. 28.—"Bigger and better than ever" is a much-abused expression in the amusement profession, but it adequately describes the annual Stark County Fair, which closed Saturday. While not a record-breaker in the matter of attendance, it was by far the most successful fair ever held by the Stark County Agricultural Society, according to Secretary Ed Wilson. Official attendance records show 57,750 people attended the fair the four days, and total gate receipts were $27,020.60. In keeping with the fair board's policy, no gambling was allowed on the grounds. Two shows were not permitted to open. H. C. Lefever was in charge of announcing the free acts, which were offered on a stage in front of the grand stand. On the midway were a merry-go-round and Ell wheel, owned by M. C. Taggart, and three shows, also owned by Taggart: "King Bull" and two 10-in-1 shows. Other attractions were: MacLaughlin's "Death Valley," and Count Jewell, a steed weighing more than 3,500 pounds and being exhibited by Kurt Vougel.

There were night sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with big attendance. Fireworks the three nights proved a big attraction. Night vaudeville with band concerts was also on the program. All exhibits were up to the standard, and the live stock display was better than in previous years.

KIRCH FURNISHES ATTRACTIONS

The Miami County Fair at Troy, O., opened on Monday, September 20, and continued until Friday, September 25.

The free attractions were all furnished by Johnny Kirch and his Wild West performance, including May Kirch, Peggy and Joe Pecantico, May, Jess and Bill Carver.

Their work was exceptionally good. May Kirch is a born horsewoman, and Johnny is there with a rope; Joe Pecantico is an all-round rider and roper and did some mighty clever trick riding.

They are closing the company with Troy Fair. May and Johnny Kirch are going to make the trip overland, with their stock, to their home in Warren, Wyo. Joe and Peggy Pecantico expect to spend the winter in Troy, and the Carpenter family are going to their home, also in Ohio.

THE RIGHT IDEAL

Quincy Scott, manager of the Western Montana Fair at Missoula, has the right ideal as to entertainment for fair patrons. In the premium list issued by the fair he says: "We want the public to be amused. We want plenty of pep. But only those concessionaires are invited to do business with the Western Montana Fair who have something clean and straight to offer the public."

Manager Scott says that when the fair opens on September 28 it will have as fine a lot of exhibits and attractions as has ever been seen in this section.

ARGENTINA'S BIG CATTLE FAIR

"What is perhaps the world's most important exhibition of pure-bred live stock began last week with the formal opening of Argentina's annual exposition at the Palermo grounds in Buenos Aires," says The New York Sun of September 8. "The great scale on which this event is carried out is indicative of the magnitude of the live stock industry in the River Plate region. Live stock interests have not in the past been fully awake to the advantages of active participation in Argentina's great fair. British breeders have usually been well represented; in fact, British influence may be seen in the whole machinery of the exposition. Now the United States has assigned a special live stock commissioner to Argentina. The results of these activities are already apparent in the space that is given in this year's program to American entries."

HIGH-CLASS RACES

New Orleans, Sept. 29.—Secretary A. H. George of the Mississippi-Alabama Fair announced that enough horses have been entered to assure the racing events at the coming fair October 11-16, to be held at Meridian, Miss., being the best in the ten years' history of the association. The program will include running and harness races on the half-mile track each day of the week.

BESS HARBOR IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Dave Anderson, known professionally as Bess Harbor, was a Billboard visitor this week. She and Mrs. Anderson are promoting the big stock show and exposition in Columbia City, Ind., at the present time. The Andersons recently closed a splendid week in Memphis, Mo., under American Legion auspices.

LARGEST CASH RECEIPTS

Fremont, O., Sept. 28.—The cash receipts from the Sandusky County Fair, which closed here Friday, were the greatest in the history of the society. The attendance Thursday was estimated at more than 30,000. More than fifteen acres were devoted to parking automobiles alone, according to fair officials. The races were good and the exhibits better than in former years.

FIRST ON NEW GROUNDS

Jerseyville, Ill., Oct. 1.—The Jersey County Fair pulled more than 30,000 admissions this year. The show was the first to be held on the new grounds purchased on South State street by the reorganized fair association. The exhibits were of a high standard, and amusements and racing program went big with the crowds.

SUWANEE COUNTY FAIR

The Suwanee County Fair Association has set the dates for the fair at Live Oak, Fla., for November 9 to 13, inclusive. It will be the seventh annual of the event, and will open with a new stock building, an addition to the main building and a new women's building. The amusements will be announced within the next few days.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—William Bixby Lorella is now playing fairs for F. M. Barnes, Inc. Mr. Lorella recently came from Los Angeles, where he had been filling picture engagements.

ROGERS IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A. J. Rogers, for eleven weeks with Capt. Jack Payne, the high diver, was a Billboard visitor this week. During five weeks of his engagements Mr. Rogers had parts.

TWO-WEEK EVENT

Is Being Pushed by Several Members of New York State Fair Board

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Plans for extending the New York State Fair to a two-week event with ten days of grand circuit racing have been started by Commissioner John H. Cahill and several other members of the board. Lieut. Gov. Harry C. Walker, president of the commission, is understood to be opposed to the move.

In his initial effort to have the fair extended Commissioner Cahill will go before the Grand Circuit stewards at Lexington and state his case. Failing to get the two weeks' racing program the plan of holding independent races for the second week of the fair will be given serious consideration.

The State law prevents the opening of the fair on Labor Day, but the repeal of this legislation is believed possible. However, in case it is not repealed advocates of the longer fair would have it open on the following day and run for the remainder of the week and all of the following week.

The State Fair Commission is now busy sending out checks to winners of prizes at the recent fair.

FAIR NOTES

"Daredevil" Wilson was slightly injured in his leap from a 75-foot ladder to a short chute at the Tennessee State Fair recently, but was able to continue through the engagement.

"Everything passed off nicely," writes W. L. Otey, secretary of the Bluefield (W. Va.) Fair, "albeit we had threatening weather all week. Our attendance was good—total, 40,000—and we are being congratulated on all sides for having pulled off the best fair ever seen in this section."

All buildings and improvements at the Florida Parish Grounds at Hammond, La., are nearing completion and preparations are being made to handle a greater volume of exhibits and greater crowds of people. Lagg's Empire Shows will play both the Florida Parish Fair and the one at Danadonville.

J. S. Berger, general manager of the forthcoming Fair and Exposition in Houston, Tex., has written The Billboard that he is getting things in wonderful shape, and said he looks for a most remarkable exposition, as nothing of the kind has been held in Houston for the past twenty years.

The Adams County Fair, Quincy, Ill., paid its way this year, a remarkable showing, as it rained on two of the best days and there were many expenses the first year that will not be required for the next season. More than $10,000 was spent on permanent improvements on the grounds and buildings.

The first week in November has been set for the Taylor County Fair, at Perry, Fla., and committees are rushing work on the final preliminaries. The premium list is about ready. F. S. Jackson, L. K. Moore and Pearl LaFitte announce, and close to twice the prizes offered last year, will be offered for this fair.

The annual Macoupin Fair, Carlinville, Ill., was a success this year. The banner day attendance was 15,000 and, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather for two days, all attendance records were broken. Exhibits in all departments were unusually complete and the racing and free acts were the best ever put on by the fair management.

The circus acts secured for the Evansville (Ind.) Exposition, October 4-16, include some of the highest class acts in the business. Performances will take place on a stage in full.

RIDDLE RESIGNS

As Manager of Canton Park, Due to Pressure of Other Business

Canton, O., Oct. 2.—C. Y. Riddle, for seven years manager of Meyers Lake Park here, resigned October 1, because of pressure of other business. Mr. Riddle is one of the best known Ohio park managers and has seen the local resort grow from its infancy to one of the leading amusement and recreation centers in Eastern Ohio. Riddle told The Billboard representative this week that his future plans were indefinite. He does not expect to desert the amusement field, as he intends keeping both his concessions at the local park. No successor has been named. The park is owned by the Northern Ohio Traction and Light Company.

HEIM GOING ABROAD

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 29.—Electric Park has closed for the season and M. G. Heim, president of the Electric Park Amusement Co., says this has been the most successful season the park has ever had. The park closed with its usual Mardi Gras festival. Mr. Heim and John McGuire, manager of the park, leave soon for an extended trip to Hawaii, China and Japan, where they will combine business with pleasure.

DARE-DEVIL DOHERTY BIG DRAWING CARD

New Orleans, La., Sept. 29.—Spanish Fort Park, which was to have closed September 28, will remain open until October 3. "We engaged Dare-Devil Doherty for two weeks, ending September 26," says Chas. F. H. Deize, chairman of arrangements at the park, "when we intended to close our park for the season." (Continued on page 63)

WM. J. HEPP

In New Park Device Company

Other Members of New Firm Well Known in Amusement World—Will Manufacture Rides

New York, Oct. 1.—A new company, known as the outdoor Amusement Device Co., Inc., has been formed, having for its purpose the building and operating of park amusement devices. William J. Hepp, the man who made a success of Luna Park, Coney Island, is secretary and treasurer of the new company. Henry Hehl is president and Charles J. Geiser is vice-president.

The company is located at Coney Island, N. Y., and on their stationery is pictured the Virginia Reel, Honeymoon Express and Over the Top, three popular park rides.

The coming season will see the new firm actively engaged in the work of building and operating rides, and with thoroughly experienced men directing the company's business they doubtless will take a prominent place in their particular field.

The outdoor Amusement Co., Inc., will construct the well-known rides, Virginia Reel, Over the Top and Honeymoon Express. "Our policy," said a member of the firm, "will be to erect these rides throughout the country on a cost plus and royalty basis, as well as erecting same for operation by the company."

The personnel of the company should make a combination which will be hard to beat. Henry Hehl, the president, is well known in the outdoor field, having constructed Luna Park, Coney Island, under Thompson & Dundy; the Pan-American Midway at Buffalo, the New York Hippodrome and numerous rides, and he will supervise the construction of all the new company's rides. William J. Hepp was formerly manager of Luna Park, Coney Island, and is given credit as being the first manager since Thompson & Dundy to put the park on a paying basis. He is an executive of high ability. Charles J. Geiser has spent the last ten years in developing high efficiency in the operation of amusement rides.

LUNA PARK CIRCUIT

Is Planned by Richard Pitrot

New York, Sept. 29.—Richard Pitrot, well-known New York amusement man and American representative of Carlos Seguin, is planning a Luna Park Circuit, which, if it is consummated, will make an important addition to the amusement parks of the world.

Mr. Pitrot states that he is forming a company to build a Luna Park in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, the report to have every modern improvement. He will make arrangements with Carlos Seguin to secure the artists who play Mr. Seguin's Japanese Park, whereby, after they have completed their engagement with Mr. Seguin, they will go to Rio. From there they will go to Buenos Aires, playing Luna Park there.

In connection with this, says Mr. Pitrot, Oscar Jurney, formerly president of Luna Park, Coney Island, N. Y., will build a Luna Park in Havana, and a big Dutch concern will build a similar park in Amsterdam, Holland, and Peter F. Meyer, the architect of Luna Park, Coney Island, and of parks at Berlin and many other cities, will build the Rio park. As it is summer there all year around, the park will be open every day in the year. Mr. Pitrot also plans to establish there a Little Monte Carlo, with buildings the same as the original in design. Henry Bach, for sixteen years with Carlos Seguin, will manage the Rio park. The proposed circuit will include New York, Havana, Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires and Amsterdam.

SEASON EXCELLENT

Says D. G. Hartman, of Lake Brady Park

D. G. Hartman, of Hartman & Gardner, proprietors of Lake Brady Park, Kent, O., writes that the recently published statement that the season at Lake Brady was a disastrous one was incorrect. Says Mr. Hartman: "We have had far from a poor season. In fact, the present season was at least $100,000 better than the last one, everything on the park doing much better than last year, unless it was the bathing beach, where patronage was cut down somewhat by the exceedingly cool season. In order to give you an idea as to the business we do at Lake Brady, I might say we have just refused an offer of $60,000 for our buildings. If business was poor we would hardly refuse such an offer. Our past season has surpassed our fondest hopes and has shown the usual percentage of increase."

Speaking of plans for next year, Mr. Hartman said: "We have many new matters under consideration; in fact, we are contemplating more extensive improvements than in any previous year."

FROM BEAUTIFUL VENICE

Venice, Cal., Sept. 27.—Prof. Victor Lavarne has contracted to go to the Orient for eight weeks and sailed from San Francisco September 22, with a company of four people, after closing a very successful season on the Pier at Venice.

Robert Beford and Mr. Curtin, the popular brother of Manager Frank Curtin of the Venice Pier, has bought "The Sun-Kissed Girl" from Mrs. Edward Nye and will run it in conjunction with their other interests on the Pier.

M. Maxwell, manager of the Bug House for H. W. McGeary at Ocean Park, has left for the East to join some of the carnival companies for the Southern fairs.

Max Klase, of 10-in-1 fame, is now interested in spring water in Los Angeles, and he and his brother, Fred, report that selling water is good biz.

Curtis Ireland and his wife are taking a much-needed rest at Venice. Curtis and his old chum, Col. Ramsden, are seen often out in the Colonel's big car. Curtis talks Florida, but he has taken a lease on a house here. How about it, Curtis?

Leroy Raymond, the amusement device man of the West Coast, and H. W. McGeary were seen looking over some blue prints the other day at Mac's place at Venice, and were talking very confidentially.

Prior & Church have finished their water ride. The scenic work was done by Klein, the artist, while on his visit home from El Paso, and it's some swell flash.

Mr. Church and family have departed for the East. While away Mr. Church will place contracts for some new additions to the "Race Thru the Clouds."

Col. Ramsden, manager of "Over the Falls," is still in the lead as far as business on the Venice Pier is concerned.

Things look like another pier will be built at Center street and Ocean Front, Venice. According to all local reports, a number of capitalists will start work before the first of the year, building in a horseshoe shape from Center street to Linnie street.

C. Johnston has arrived in Venice direct from the Parker factories, where he has completed a new ride that he has patented and is ready to put on the market. He also has a new riding device that is portable and will haul itself to and from the lots and train; no tearing down or putting up, and generates its own power.

Many new attractions will be erected on the Abbot Kinney Pier this winter, according to rumor.

WOLFSON SPIKES RUMOR

Rumors that Chester Park, Cincinnati, would be discontinued as an amusement resort were characterized as wholly without foundation by Manager M. M. Wolfson. "These rumors are so absurd that we ignored them," he said.

"Our ground is leased from the Cincinnati Traction Co. under a lease that has eight years yet to run, and is renewable. Besides, we have so heavy an investment in buildings and amusement devices that it is ridiculous to think we would want to give them up. The past season has been a big success, financially and in every other way, despite the unfavorable weather."

Mr. Wolfson and Col. I. M. Martin will study the latest wrinkles in amusement creations in the East this month in quest for new devices for Chester. Jack M. Martin, assistant general manager of the resort, was in Chicago and Detroit recently contracting for approximately $35,000 worth of improvements for next season.

TO SCRAP "BIG WHEEL"

A special cable from Paris to The New York Sun and Herald recently carried the news that the "Grand Roue," a duplicate of the famous ferris wheel built for the World's Fair at Chicago, is to be scrapped. The cable says that the "Big Wheel" has not missed its daily revolution since 1900, when nearly 1,000,000 Parisians thronged the Champ de Mars quarter to watch the first daring passengers take a reckless voyage skyward.

CLIONI OPENING RINK

Roland Clioni, world's champion roller skater, is opening a new rink in Akron, O., that is expected to be the mecca for skaters of that city during the season just opening. The rink is to be known as the Paramount Skating Palace, and is located at 200 S. Main street, right in the heart of the city. It has an excellent skating surface and there is a main reception as well as a ladies' lobby and ladies' spacious dressing room.

The entire place is new thruout, both as to floor and the furnishings and decorations. The furniture and fittings, as well as the carpets and hangings, are very elaborate and expensive, and the whole decorative scheme is arranged to create a garden effect, with a light blue sky above.

The skate room is in charge of Benny Speck, with Fred Martin as floor manager. Adam Franke's band, one of the best known musical organizations in Akron, will furnish music for the rink. At the start of the season and until the weather grows colder only evening sessions will be held. Later both afternoon and evening sessions will be inaugurated. The rink is equipped with Fred Nall Twin Plate Skates.

Clioni has made arrangements to allow the use of the rink one day a week to the team representing Akron in a professional polo league.

THE OAKS SKATING RINK

From away up in the Pacific Northwest comes the plant that we have overlooked the Oaks Rink at Portland, Ore., of which we presume W. J. Morgan is manager. Sorry, Brother Morgan—we don't want to overlook any rinks, and thank you for calling our attention to the omission. Mr. Morgan states that the Oaks is open every day in the year, afternoon and evening, and enjoys good patronage. Fancy skaters and entertainers are frequently on the program at the Oaks and aid in keeping up attendance. "The interest in roller skating seems to be reviving out here," says Mr. Morgan, "and we anticipate a large business the coming winter."

The Oaks Rink is situated in Oaks Park, one of the leading amusement parks of the Pacific Northwest. During the winter season, when the park proper is closed, the address of the rink is W. J. Morgan, care Oregon Yacht Club, Millwaukie, Ore. We hope Brother Morgan, also other rink men on the Coast, will favor The Billboard with news notes during the season. You're always welcome, "boys," and this goes for rink men and skaters in general.

OTTAWA RINK BURNS; REBUILDING

The big Glastone Rink at Ottawa, Canada, burned to the ground recently, taking along with it a big dairy and twenty-two dwellings. J. A. Christin, lessee of the rink, was the heaviest loser, as he had recently put in a new floor at a cost of over $10,000, and his organ and skates also were lost. An application for an insurance policy on the building had been filed by Mr. Christin, but had not yet been granted, so there was no insurance, and Mr. Christin loses about $20,000. He is going to rebuild the rink at once, in fact has already started reconstruction, and has given the International Rubberoid Skating Floors, of Montreal, Canada, an order to lay a new rubberoid floor, the same as the one in the old rink, and which had proved so successful that Mr. Christin would consider no other kind.

D'VORAK BACK EAST

Adelaide D'Vorak has been playing rinks in the Middle West and scoring her usual big success. Week of September 6 she packed the rink nightly for Manager Shelley Charles at the Forum Rink, Waterloo, Ia. On Sunday night, September 11, Miss D'Vorak and Mr. Charles gave a team exhibition which the Waterloo press and public was unanimous in declaring the finest team skating ever seen in that city. Mr. Charles was formerly a very well known exhibition skater, having toured all of the Southern and part of the Western States, but gave up skating to manage rinks during the seasons of 1914, 1915 and 1916, and gained the reputation of being a first-class manager. He keeps in practice for exhibition work, and we would not be surprised to see him return to this branch of the game some time.

Miss D'Vorak returned East after her Waterloo engagement and played at the rink at Medina, O., week of September 20. She played in Pennsylvania week of September 27, and has other Eastern dates to follow.

CARPENTER MOVES RINK

Billy Carpenter, well-known fancy skater and also rink manager, writes that he is moving his outfit from Kane, Pa., to the Roller-drome, Lewistown, Pa., where he will open about the middle of November. Billy is still playing rinks and recently closed a successful three-day engagement for Arthur Karlsake at Bellefonte, Pa., where he packed 'em in nightly.

ELYRIA RINK CLOSES

Riverview Rink, Elyria, O., under the management of H. W. ("Hogie") Colston, closed a very successful season Sunday night, September 19. Manager Colston states that the rink will open next spring May 15. "The only fault we have found," says Mr. Colston, "was that the rink was not large enough. However, the Eastern States Park Co., which operates the park, has already started plans to enlarge the dance hall, which will be converted into a rink for next season."

RINK AT CHICAGO HEIGHTS

A new roller rink was recently completed at Chicago Heights, Ill., we are informed, but have not learned who are the men in charge. The rink, it is said, will compare favorably with any in the State.

SKATING HAMILTONS HOME

The Skating Hamiltons have returned to the United States after a successful trip on the Seguin Tour in South America and opened recently on the Poll Time in New England with their novelty roller skating act. They report a very fine trip to South America.

MUSIC HALL RINK OPENS

Music Hall Rink, Cincinnati, under the management of Al Hoffman, opened Friday night, October 1. The rink has been overhauled and redecorated and presented an attractive appearance on the opening night. A good crowd of skating fans were out to inaugurate the season.

PALLADIUM OPENS

The Palladium Rink, Grand avenue, near Washington, St. Louis, has opened for the season, under the management of Rodney Peters.

SKATING NOTES

J. T. Sherlock, of the Carnival Court Park Co., Buffalo, N. Y., writes that the company's summer rinks at Fort Erie Beach, Canada, and Woodlawn Beach, Buffalo, recently closed and he is now looking for winter locations.

A postcard signed only "Portable" comes from Carlton, Mich., with this information: "A new portable roller rink will open at Carlton, Mich., October 1. Three miles from Saginaw. Will play attractions." Please, Brothers, sign your name to all communications. We can't take a chance on unsigned communications, and for that reason news we would like to use frequently goes into the waste basket.

The Stratford Rink, Rochester, N. Y.; Luna Park Rink, Charleston, W. Va.; Riverview Rink, Milwaukee, and Riverview Rink, Chicago, all opened the last week in September.

To those who asked about Baby Margaret Chapman, her father, E. B. Chapman, writes from Texas that Baby Margaret is attending school in Memphis, Tenn., and is out of the skating game for the present. Mr. Chapman is vacationing in Texas and is thinking of opening a rink in that State for the winter.

FAIR NOTES

view of the amphitheater. In addition to the outside acts Mrs. E. A. Terralce has arranged a number of local shows, to be put on each day just before the big circus starts.

The Alachua County Fair at Gainesville, Fla., will be held Nov. 16 to 19 the Board of Directors has announced. Midway attractions and free acts will be announced later.

A two-day stock show and fall festival will be held at Holden, Mo., on October 21 and 22. Fred McWeathy and Brad Harmon were placed in charge of all arrangements. Several free attractions will be engaged.

Forty thousand people attended the largest county fair ever held in Tiffin, O., recently. The gate receipts on Thursday were $7,000, or more than those of the entire week last year. Because of the new high mark in exhibits and attendance plans are being made by the fair board to hold a four-day fair next year. Secretary A. H. Unger of the fair board has announced his resignation.

Total attendance at the annual Columbiana County Fair, Lisbon, O., was approximately 30,000, the largest in the history of the association. Ideal weather boosted attendance and stimulated interest. The Barberton Ladies' Band and circus acts, together with vanderlille acts, provided entertainment for the crowds. Vic Donahy, candidate for Governor, was a fair visitor.

However, Doherty proved such a drawing card, breaking all previous crowd records during his first two weeks, that the committee decided to extend Doherty's engagement for the third week and keep the park open until October 3."

During the past few days Doherty has been posing for and giving special exhibitions for the Fox, Paibe and Harcoal film companies, which are making special moving pictures of his wonderful stunts. Last night he made his ride with a burning flare attached to his bicycle and motion pictures were taken.

"I might also add," says Mr. Detzel, "that we first became interested in Doherty thru reading his ad in The Billboard, and we are in hopes of having him with us again next year."

PALISADES IMPROVEMENTS

New York, Sept. 29.—With the close of the sea water surf bathing at Palisades Park on October 1 extensive improvements will be started, as Nicholas M. Schenck, one of the proprietors of the park, has devised a scheme to improve the surf which promises to eclipse anything ever attempted at any similar enterprise.

"THE DODGEM"

Stoebner & Pratt Dodgem Corporation, of Salisbury Beach, Mass., has put on the market a new ride, which it claims is the greatest of all repeating rides. It is called "The Dodgem," and the company has launched an active campaign, which will no doubt result in the ride being placed in many parks for the coming season.

PIPES

By GASOLINE BILL BAKER

A drink with a "kick" in it—calling for only a glass of water at a soda fountain.

Who was the real oldtimer working scopes at Nashville during fair week?

Walter Hayward, exceedingly fine business with pens at Nashville, Tenn., during the State Fair.

Wonder what a depot joungeur would think if you should drop off a rattler and ask him: "Is this town open?"

A party of lads is said to have had a monstrous fine time just over the bridge at Ottawa with old friends.

M. N. Singel says while strolling up the drag in Lynchburg, Va., he met Rusty Rhoads, who was doing some stepping with paper.

Well, Doc Bender, how's the old boots holding up? Still taking 'em out and makin' 'em limp? "Whoinell" shot that pipe?

Mitchell C. Graham passed thru Chicago recently on his way to Hot Springs, Ark., and was a caller at The Billboard office there.

M. S.—The Billboard being a neutral publication as to politics, we can not enter either a boast or knock to either of the political parties.

Seen purveying subs. with excellent results at the Helena (Mont.) Fair were Leland, Ken Drake, "Slim" Gorman, Joe Keyes and Ed Piney.

Wonder how Geo. Lytell, of gyroscope fame, is doing since he has listed himself among the "Dees"? How 'ya like the med. business, Geo. L.?

Jack O'Leary must be doing some real business on his ring cleaner. It is reported that early this year Jack purchased a $50,000 building on Seneca street, Buffalo.

Bill Murray says there are few pitchmen in the Charlotte (N. C.) diggings, but Charlotte is open to the sheet as long as you're O. K. and act the gentleman with it.

Gus Schnitz states his opinion of prospects in Georgia as follows: "The good old days are of the past. Crops are bad, prices of cotton low, wire jewelry business on the bum."

Al Reed and the Missus were among the industrious ones in one of the big buildings on the grounds at the Tennessee State Fair at Nashville, working gummy to nice business.

Sol Cohen asks: "That fast-stepping boy of the leaf, that boy of Broadway, Sol Castle, what has become of him? All the old boys would sure like to get a word from him thru Pipes."

Jack MacOrin has been doing some stepping about. After the American Legion's Hippodrome in Kansas City he went to the Legion-town Circus at Topeka and back to Kansas City, then Louisville for the races, after which he rambled out to Colorado Springs, Col., on street work, and is now back on his old stamping grounds—Milwaukee—testing up.

Speaking of Dr. Herzog reminds us that he underwent an operation recently; had a pair of "monkey glands" inserted within his anatomy, to which he attributes his rejuvenated appearance.

Detroit and Pittsburg got hawled up in a recent pipe, wherein it was reported Al Cronin was seen with a yardstick in his hand on a street corner, as it was Pittsburg, practically his home town.

Wait, Shuman, the soap worker, is now doing patrol duty for the B. R. & P. Railroad at Rochester, N. Y. Oh, yes, he pulls a pitch now and then during his off hours in the daytime, so we hear.

Rleton says he will have a 15-people tabloid medicine show, under the caption of "Rleton's Baby Pills," and will remain out all winter, and for his engagements will rent theaters outright, including the movies.

Word reaches us that Mark A. Steele now has a car for his crew of paper workers, and they are taking in all the country routes. Good business is reported for them in Oklahoma, with the exception of El Reno, which is registered as hard.

If there are really sentimental folks in the medicine game, one of them surely is Prof. R. P. McKeen, ventriloquist, with Heber Becker's Show. One of the lads tells us that Prof. is exceedingly careful in dressing his wooden assistants, as he might stick a pin in them.

Among the boys touring Wisconsin and Iowa are: F. C. Greenwald and A. (Wings) Kohl, working paper, and the well-known jewelry workers, S. K. Wiener and his partner, J. Waudt. The boys are doing nicely, according to reports, and when last seen were headed for Sioux City, for the Inter-State Fair.

We learned last week that Al Case, the well-known form demonstrator, underwent an operation for appendicitis at New York City about seven weeks ago. Al's many friends greatly missed his usual presence at the Toronto Exhibition. A few words as to your recovery, Al?

E. B. Wilson (Raida Daida) writes from Denver, Col., that he is confined in the county jail there and is badly in need of financial assistance, as his trial comes off some time this month, and wants friends to write him care of that institution. Bill has had no information on the case.

On the leaf around Charlotte, N. C., D. L. Rader and H. Harvell, making 'em "one to every home." Rader claims the East is much better for paper than the West, and North Carolina has the coal mines of Virginia and Kentucky.

tucky beat. They are keeping the wires hot for maps until the North Carolina fairs start in earnest.

Davie Harris and John Cathbert, the well-known subscription stimulators, made the Automobile Show at Music Hall, Cincinnati, and certainly did big business with "Meier Guide." Both boys had their wives with them, and put up at one of the best hotels in the Queen City. The lads were callers at The Billboard offices on September 23.

Should you happen to meet Ray Pierce, of cement fame, all smiles and with an expanded chest, there's a reason. Here 'tis: A nifty engraved card from St. Louis last week states that the friendly stork paid Ray's family a visit on Saturday, September 23, leaving them a bouncing baby boy. And what selected handle will the new arrival sail under, oldtimer?

From Los Angeles comes a pipe from Doc Needles, stating that he met the veteran, Dr. Geo. Herznot, of "Romany" old fame, and who has a four-room office on the main stem and taking in plenty of Jack; also that Geo. H. looks younger than he did twenty years ago—the same old long-haired representative of Itchdom. Needles says business with himself is nothing to crow about, but he is doing nicely.

Jay W. Johnson left his old romping grounds at Appalachia, Va., and made the Pearisburg Fair, where he intended connecting with a carnival company, but, seeing the boys of the leaf realizing good fortune, he changed his mind and returned to the paper fraternity, according to late reports. Among the hustlers at Pearisburg were: "Goo Goo" Davis, Foley, Rex Rogers, Salsberry and Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

Eddie Robinson, known on the Coast as "That Boy Who Sings," writes that he is making good at the Lodge Cabaret, Seattle, with Harry Von Titzer's "That Old Irish Mother of Mine," and intends throwing his trio, the well-known Falls Trio, on it as soon as his tenor recovers from his present illness. The act is to return to vaudeville and start the Pantagea Time in the near future.

Little Benny Smith still has headquarters at Kinston, N. C., where he intends to again spend the winter. Benny says he has a big stock of dandy "novelty dancers" specialties lined up for the fall and winter business. Sometimes known as the "little drummer boy," this hustler has been in the pitch game a long time. We heat remember him when he used to work humanitones thru the Eastern and Southern States.

Word reaches us, thru Davie Harris, that Mrs. Alex Chambers, wife of the manager of the Des Moines office of the Capper Publications, presented her husband with a 12-pound daughter on August 27. Harris, with a convincing air of disappointment, remarked that if it had only been a boy—well, he would be out the coat of swell suit of clothes later—providing they had named it "Davie." Time may tell, Harris—eh, Chambers?

When a bunch of worthy pitchmen lead their every effort and do all in their power to have others do likewise in order to keep a town open, and with an 85-cent reader any gink who would impose on their good sense and interest in the business by ringing in a jam on them, then "crow" about it and expect a hearty handshake for being a "wise bird" (?) need not expect to get it thru Bill in Pipes. A wise jammer would not swell up, but would keep his own council and be satisfied.

The Meltone Medicine Co. was in a big storm at Dillon, S. C., the entire show being blown down and causing an estimated loss of over $1,000. There was no showing time lost, however, as Mrs. Meltone and Blair hastened to McBee in Meltone's big "six," got last year's top and had the show in the air and ready for the night performance. The Meltone Co., consisting of fourteen people, including a ten-piece band, is reported to have had a very successful tour thru South Carolina. After closing at Dillon the next stop is at Wilson, N. C. J. W. Meltone is manager and L. H. Blair assistant.

J. H. Keirna, who until about 1916 was one of the prominent of the paper fraternity, queries from Spokane, Wash., as to what has become of some of the boys of eight years ago, including Max Allen, Louie Levey, Valley, Dixon, Al Thoman, Bascom and the many other boys he knew and "pelled" with. J. H. says he well remembers the time he and his old sidekicks, Thoman and Frank Roth, enjoyed the times of their lives while handing out Kelley's pins all thru the East. He wants us to reproduce a poem by Thoman in a former issue, which we will do in the near future.

F. P. Cornish, of "dear old Rochester" town, dropped into Billyboy's office in Ciney on September 23—and he was still possessed of that habit of "dry-smoking" his cigar (by the way, what would you say to him, "Have a smoke" or "Have a chew"?). Cornish and E. V. Harris have been doubled on "Electric" garters all summer, and claim it the biggest season ever. They did very big at Toronto. Were passing thru Cincinnati on their way to Memphis and other cities where big fairs and other celebrations are to be held in the South. F. P. said he will return to Rochester for the winter.

L. E. Tibetta asks: "If you were the manager of a town of 40,000 population, Hill, and you felt kindly toward pitchmen, and should give three men permission to work on one of the principal street corners, and one would locate on one side of the street with a strong bally and the other two would locate on the other side, directly opposite, with a couple dry goods boxes and a lot of tinpans and cowbells, and kept continually pounding on these noise-makers, what would you do?" Well, in the first place, it is the duty and the endeavor of every true knight of the road to show his appreciation of courtesies and consideration for his profession rendered, and if the location is where an overamount of noise would be distasteful, encourage oppression and taking advantage of a good fellow. If I were manager or Mayor of the town I would have the lady informed that they would have to soft-pedal that dally-hoo or vamoose, as I would figure that if they did not care about my prestige in my home town I wouldn't give a whoop about them. However, I would not hold their inconsideration against other pitmen who would show appreciation of my trying to be their friend.

The Frantz Big Medicine Show closed at Petaheum, Ia., after a very good summer season. Jerry Frantz states that this has been the best season the show has had, and several supposed-to-be closed towns have been opened. The roster included Jerry Frantz, lecturer and manager; Mrs. Frantz, treasurer; Chas. Giesley, business manager and magician; The Derais, acrobats; John Davis, blackface comedian; Fay and Butt Frantz, singing turns; Harvey and Grace Wilson, musical act; Geo. Skinner, blackface, May Thomas, piano. This was one of the best free shows on the road this summer. Dr. Frantz is now sporting a big auto. The show will again be in the field early in the spring.

A little news on those prominent and veteran knights of the medicine fraternity. James Ferdon, Wm. Vurpillat and John Eagan, is to the effect that Ferdon (Tuzaro) worked Moline, Ill., all summer; Vurpillat, Daveport, Ia., and Eagan, Rock Island, Ill., all within a radius of 25 miles. The Tri-Cities it is reported, have been phenomenal for them. Rumor also has it that James F. has started in his big "eight" to motor to his winter home near Los Angeles, intending to reach there in three or four weeks, also to do a little hunting and fishing en route. It is also stated on very good authority that it will be Dr. James Ferdon and several medicine shows in California this winter.

"Curly" Burns, of the team of Halliday and Burns, playing the Palace Theater (vaudeville), Cincinnati, was a guest at Bill's desk on September 23. Curly whose home is in Texas, was formerly in the lineup with several prominent med. shows in those diggings, including Dr. T. A. Smith and others. He is also well acquainted with Geo. Holt, Ed Frink, the Gasaways, and, in fact, all the oldtimers in that section of the country. He is still doing blackface, with his partner working straight, and, fellows, it's some dandy act. Said he is greatly interested in his old buddies and the game—reads about 'em in Pipes each week.

That smiling, unassuming and good-fellow-well met, "Curly" Seleck, stopped over in Cincinnati and paid us a visit one day last week while on his way to Cleveland. This was Curly's first time in Cincy for some twenty-five years, and the extreme pleasure he enjoyed in again visiting locations which brought back fond memories of bygone days can only be imagined. His reminiscences and amusing incidents connected with his former activities and association with veteran knights of the tribes and torch—many since passed on—are interesting in the extreme and would fill this whole column. He visited with the Johnny J. Jones Exposition at London, Can., and Nashville, Tenn. His intentions are to operate indoor shows in Cleveland this winter, having several well-known and entertaining freaks under his management.

"Zip," of corn dope fame, figures one phase of life thus: "A fellow in New York inherited $50,000,000 (no respect for figures in this case). A towner in Detroit asked me what would I do if it had been me. I told him I'd buy all the street car lines in the city and carry all the 'birds' with corns on their feet free of charge. Speaking of 'millions', how would you like to be a millionaire? I'll put you hep: Discover a formula which will cure skepticism and the world's yours. But how nice it would be if all the corn doctors were to bump off and leave it all to me—then you could keep your skepticism formula—and I'd stick to corn dope. The fact that I have stuck to it so long is sufficient evidence that I am deficient in reasoning powers. However, there's so many dambloos in this world that I console myself with the fact that we're likely all bughouse. History tells us that kings kept fools to amuse them. Nowadays they can't distinguish one from another. Another thing: Ants in an ant-hill were never so confused as the people in our large cities today, and all this turn a desire to make money. As a pitman each night I pat myself on the back that I am my own boss, and that I can at least take time."

CARNIVAL AT WASHINGTON, D. C.

T. A. WOLFE PLANS 30-CAR CARAVAN FOR NEXT SEASON

Preparations for Enlargement of Superior Shows Will Start Immediately After Close of 1920 Tour—Winter Quarters To Be in Tennessee—S. Wire Joins as Press Agent

If present plans do not fail T. A. Wolfe, owner and manager of the Superior Shows, will next season have one of the leading organizations in carnivaldom. From his very entry into this field of entertainment that has been his ambition, and he has worked indefatigably to that end.

Bubbling over with enthusiasm and optimism, Sheik Wolfe gave The Billboard (Cincinnati office) a call last Friday, October 1, and made the announcement that next year will find him on the road with a thirty-car caravan. He will have no less than fifteen attractions and eight riding devices—he now has six—in addition to a clean line of concessions, and promises that everything will be up to standard and a credit to the carnival world. The executive staff and every department of the show will be materially strengthened with men of experience in their respective capacities. Practically all of those at present on the staff of the show have been or will be re-engaged for the 1921 tour. Mr. Wolfe has just added Sydney Wire, the widely known press representative, to his staff, and Wire is to take up his duties this week at Trenton, Tenn., making a jump from New York City to join. That the publicity end will be well taken care of goes without saying.

Mr. Wolfe's rise in the show world has been a rapid one. Just five years ago he entered this field with a five-car gilly show, with Joe Lavine as his partner. The partnership continued for two years, and Mr. Wolfe then took full charge. Today he has his own train of cars, twenty in number, and one of the best organizations of its size in the country. It has been out since spring, and has met with gratifying success, according to Mr. Wolfe. Six fair dates have already been played, and the one at Trenton, Tenn., this week (October 4) will end the string. The show will "pull up stakes" for the season after five more weeks, and immediately preparations will be started for next season's big caravan. Last week the company played Carrollton, Ky., under the auspices of the Knights of Lythia, on the streets, and altho the weather was somewhat chilly Mr.

Wolfe reported that a nice business was done. The event at Carrollton is known as the Fall Festival and is held annually. The new frolic, which was delivered to the show at Wausan, Wis., August 23, has been topping all rides on the midway week after week, Mr. Wolfe stated. The show, following its engagement at Trenton, is booked for a return date at Dyersburg, Tenn., which is considered an excellent stand. The jump from Carrollton to Trenton is 500 miles. The Superior Shows will go into winter quarters somewhere in Tennessee. Mr. Wolfe has been looking over several places for this purpose during the past week or two.

LADIES' AUXILIARY BAZAAR Is Set for November 29 and 30—Many Donations Coming In Chicago, Oct. 1.—The dates of the bazaar to be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Showmen's League of America are Monday and Tuesday, November 29 and 30, opening Monday afternoon and continuing thru Tuesday afternoon and evening. The Sherman Hotel Company has very kindly donated its mezzanine floor for this purpose, and a better spot could not be found in the city of Chicago, as this overlooks the main lobby thru which thousands of people pass daily. Thus there is a big field for transient buyers in addition to the support that will be given to this affair by the showfolks.

The donations continue to come in, and the following have been received since the last report: Emma Cornella, a handsome collection of handmade articles, including a luncheon set, a dresser scarf, a piano scarf, two crocheted yokes and a collar. The work is exquisite and will make a fine addition to the fancy work booth.

Alfred Munzer, of New York, two dozen Rose O'Neil Kewpies; the Silk Weavers, at Rerview Park, two silk flags and a dozen silk handkerchiefs; Mrs. Charles H. Duffield, a bed-set, with crocheted edges, and a satin camisole—Mrs. Duffield says this is only the beginning and that more will follow; Mrs. W. Fred McGuire, six ivory bags and a large dressed doll; Sluger and Yebion, New York, one dozen gold-filled rings; H. H. Tammen, Denver, three "Snookum" dolls; Touraine Candy Co., Philadelphia, forty bars of chocolate; Miss L. M. McHenry, two dresser scarfs, a pin cushion, a pair of baby shoes (all hand embroidered), a hand-painted Japanese tray and a three-tray Japanese sewing basket; Charles G. Kilpatrick, the on-legged insurance man, is donating one of his fam us $20 travel, accident, and health policies, that is the best protection ever offered to showfolks.

The regular meetings are now being held weekly, every Friday evening, in The Billboard office, Chicago. Many important matters are coming up each week now, and it is vital for every member, who can possibly do so, to be present.

WORLD'S FAIR SHOWS

To Play Fourteen-Day Closing Engagement at Gary, Ind.—Will Winter in Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Al Fisher, general agent of the World's Fair Shows, was a Billboard caller this week. Al has scored big by making a contract for his shows in Gary, Ind., under the auspices of the Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion, to furnish all attractions for the big Fall Festival and Exposition, to be held for fourteen days, beginning Monday, October 4.

This will be the closing date of the World's Fair Shows, after which the organization will come to Chicago for the winter. Mr. Fisher will go at once to Portland, Ore., to visit his little son, whom he has not seen since his return from army service in France. He will come back for the Gary engagement and following that will promote indoor circuses for the winter. Incidentally, the Gary date, according to Mr. Fisher, will be the first carnival date in that city this season.

JURNEY TO START WORK ON NEW AMUSEMENT PARK

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 2.—Oscar C. Journey, of the Journey Amusement Park Corporation, New York, will arrive here October 6 and open offices on the boardwalk. Work on Rendezvous Park will be started about the middle of the month, complete construction plans being under the personal direction of Mr. Journey.

POLACK BROS.' 20 BIG SHOWS

To Close at Tampa, After Circuit of Florida Fairs—Will Winter at Richmond, Va.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 28.—After completing a six-week engagement at the Eastern Canadian fairs, where fine business was enjoyed at Ottawa, Shebrooke and Three Rivers, the Polack Bros.' 20 Big Shows left the Dominion September 20 for a sixteen-week tour in the South, to furnish midway attractions at fairs and celebrities. Breaking the jump from Watertown, N. Y., to the Virginia State Fair, the shows played a five-day engagement at Fifteenth and H streets, this city.

Manager Larry Boys, who left the show at Watertown for Jacksonville, Fla., has returned with contracts for the "Twenty Big" to furnish the midways at the Florida Circuit of Fairs, which include events at Marlanna, Tallahassee, Gainesville and Ocala. This is the second consecutive year that the Polack Shows have supplied the amusement features at these fairs.

Mr. Boyd announced last evening that he had also closed contracts to furnish the midway on the streets of Tampa, Fla., during the Mid-Winter Celebration in that city, Christmas and New Year weeks. Following the Tampa engagement the show train will be transported to Richmond, Va., where permanent winter quarters have been established.

The Polack Bros.' 20 Big Shows are rounding out their thirty-second consecutive week, having opened the 1920 season at Jacksonville, Fla., on January 29. With the closing of the present season at Tampa the organization will register the longest tour it has ever made since its birth, having played forty-eight weeks, and jumping from Florida to Western Canada and return.—JAY WILKINSON CROWTHER.

WORLD WAR VETERANS ENTERTAINED AT FRISCO

San Francisco, Sept. 27.—Twenty thousand veterans of the 91st Division assembled yesterday at Idora Park, filling the East Bay resort to overflowing and giving the occasion-alikes the busiest day they have experienced since Idora first opened. The occasion was the celebration of the second anniversary of the Battle of the Argonne.

The 91st Aero Squadron flew in battle formation, reviving memories of the air battles witnessed by the doughboys overseas, and two 35-piece military bands furnished music for dancing in the big pavilion.

As a special feature for the day a pageant of more than fifty bathing girls, attired in fancy beach costumes, entertained the war veterans.

Arthur Azevedo, veteran of the 363d infantry, was killed in a scuffle between park employees and a number of ex-soldiers during the celebration. Emerson Gould, ticket taker at the "Race Thru the Clouds," arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter following Azevedo's death, told the police that the altercation arose over a disagreement as to change when the dead man and his companions bought tickets for the ride. R. H. Love, assistant manager of the park, and the police declare that Azevedo, whose neck was broken in the melee, and his companions were the aggressors.

GREATER SHEESLEY SHOWS

Trenton, N. J., Sept. 29.—One of the big fairs of the country, namely, the Trenton, or "U-Kno-Us" event, had a rip-roaring big day for its opening, Monday, despite an overcast sky, and it being Children's Day at that. The grounds were literally jammed. Mother Nature was kind enough to keep off the rain until after the day's program was ended. Hence the painstaking cares of the management and those of the Greater Sheesley Shows, which spelled joy unbounded for the kiddies on the midway, materialized in all that the most optimistic expected.

Word comes from General Agent Bill Fleming that a liberal number of towns have been engaged for the remainder of the present season, after the string of fairs is ended. Bill is out getting "em. W. H. Hicks, the stout and genial local adjuster, a very happy those days for no other reason than that his loneliness will be ended in a few days by the termination of his wife's vacation at home. "Capt. John" himself is in a conspicuously jolly mood, even more so than his wonted joviality, owing to the fact that "Daddy" and "Mother" Sheesley, from Harrisburg, Pa., joined him for a short stay.—WILLIAM A. HAPP.

"SUPERIOR MODEL" CARRY-US-ALLS

even discount the beautiful "SPECIAL MODELS" that have proven so popular in past years. SUPERIOR Model Carry-Us-Alls are the last word in perfection, studded with hundreds of special bevel-edge French Plate Mirrors and a multitude of electric lights. C. A. Wortham says of his new SUPERIOR model: "People from the East, West, North and South, as well as myself, all say it is the most beautiful electrically-lighted machine any one ever saw." GREAT WHITE WAY SHOWS

To Jump South in the Near Future

The Lodi (Wis.) Fair was the last stand in Wisconsin for the Great White Way Shows, and the only spot in that State that the shows will not play next season, as the fair was entirely a one-day affair, and that day was not up to expectations.

From Lodi the shows moved to Knoxville, Ill., where Burgdorf, the agent, held a contract for the 65th Annual Fair. The show moved thru three States in order to play this spot, and crossed the Mississippi twice—from Wisconsin to Illinois, to Iowa, and back into Illinois.

Everybody was well pleased with the Wisconsin fairs, and Manager C. M. Negro has a nice balance on the profit side of the ledger.

General Agent Burgdorf has purchased the beautiful "ocean wave" formerly owned by James, who had it on the Nat Reiss Shows this season. It is running the ferris wheel a close second.

Claude Fondow, the free act man, is negotiating for the purchase of a new "whip" and "frolie" for next season. A couple of more spots, and then for the "Sunny South" till Christmas.—BINGO.

GREAT PATTERSON SHOWS

Owner Patterson Contemplating Circus for Next Season—Notes on Taylorville (Ill.) Engagement

Taylorville, Ill., Sept. 28.—James Patterson, owner and manager of the Great Patterson Shows, which furnished the attractions for the Moose Fall Festival here last week, told the writer that he intended to take a circus out next season, and that it would be not less than a fifteen-car show, with all new tops. Mr. Patterson still owns the greater part of the wild animals and other paraphernalia which he got when he took over the Gollmar Bros' Circus a few years ago. Those who know Mr. Patterson best predict that it will be a circus worth while.

The business done last week by the shows was far ahead of any previous receipts during the twelve times the Patterson Shows have been here. The Moose committee and the writer entertained Mr. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Brainard, Mrs. V. J. Yearout, Prof. Earl Strout and lady, Eddie Hart, Carl Cox and the Patterson Band on Friday evening at a big chicken supper. Eddie Hart said he did not care for chicken, but the writer saw him eat six gizzards and five livers, besides the trimmings. Ruben La Monte, who does the "rube" clown stunt on the shows, and Rose Gaymer, of Detroit, were united in marriage on September 9 at Detroit. The Masas is now helping her husband entertain, and they certainly make a good team in their "rube" impersonations. Raymond Bowers, James Gazy and Claude Hamblin, all concessionaires, were by request of the Elks' Lodge at Osawatimie, Kan., initiated into the Elks here, their application having been accepted by the Kansas lodge. Mrs. Charles Strout, of La Salle, Ill., visited her son, Earl Strout, and his wife several days here.

Mrs. John Warner, of Hannibal, Mo., was the guest of her son, Charles Warner, who is a member of the band. John Brunen, former owner and manager of Mighty Doris Shows, came down from Chicago to pay a visit to the Harry C. Mohr Circus Exposition Shows at Balford, Ill., and spent a few hours visiting friends on the Patterson Shows between trains. Patterson's "Golden Rod Special" pulled out of here Sunday morning at 9 o'clock for Cairo, Ill., the next stop.—CRUS D. SIMPSON.

HOSS-HAY AT MASSILLON, O.

Massillon, O., Sept. 28.—With tents spread on Ebuster lot in the heart of the city, near the downtown business district, the Hoss-Hay Shows are playing here this week to good business, despite the fact that it is the third carnival to make the stand this season. No other carnival this season, however, has been privileged to play the Shamster lot.

A Billboard representative strolled onto the lot Thursday night to find Mr. Hay out of the city, but was taken in tow by Bert Hoss, his partner.

In the lineup there were five shows, three rides—merry-go-round, Eli wheel and "whip"—and thirty concessions. Wallace's All-American Band provided the music. It is the third year for this musical organization on the show. Twelve cars are being used to transport the outfit. Besides "Music Hall," "The Beauty Revue," 10-in-1, under management of Happy Keltz, and the Athletic Show, there was the "Fashion Revue," something new and a departure in carnival offerings. The idea is claimed original with Hoss & Hay. It is modeled along the line of a style show in the larger department stores. Three living models are used. A lecturer describes each garment as the fashion revue passes across the stage.

The Hoss-Hay Shows will wind up their season's tour within the next six weeks. Bookings include all Ohio stands. Next week Orrville, O., then Alliance, the first carnival to play uptown in many years, and under the auspices of the American Legion. Last week the shows had a successful engagement at Wellsville. New equipment was purchased here from J. J. Evans, well-known showman.—REX McCONNELL.

LORMAN-ROBINSON ROSTER

Following is the present roster of the Lorman-Robinson Famous Shows—there are two rides, eight shows and forty-five concessions: J. Francis Flynn's three-abreast merry-go-round and Big Eli Wheel; Lorman-Robinson's Plant Show, led by Mike McDonald and wife, the famous colored comedians, and ten assistants; Magic Show, under Prof. Charles King, wife and daughter, Betty, assisted by Etta and Beasie Ramsey. Announcer is Mac McDonald, whose wife sells tickets. Harry Taylor has the 10-in-1, with the ten pits filled with freaks and curiosities. Prof. Robinson has Jungleground; in it are: Mike, the educated chimpanzee; two of the largest pythons in captivity, educated cockatoos and a whole lot of small animals. It is, the fat midget, is a star attraction in one of the platform shows. Al Jones has charge of the Snake Pit, assisted by his wife, as lecturer. The Athletic Show is ably attended to by Geo. Kearnos, a Greek champion, and his brother A. E. Desmond, of the Desmond Family's Musical Comedy, has joined, and the show is making quite a bit. He and his family change their program every night. Concessions: Cookhouse, Thomas & Abrams; Juice, Nathan Jackson; fruit wheel, chicken huckly-buck, chicken tipover and cigaret wheel, FitzWinters and crew; candy knife rack and pocketbook wheel, Chl. Morgan. The genial Ollie Bucklin and wife have pitch-till-you-win, groceries and candy wheel, ably assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Kitson. James and Mia Merritt have the long-range shooting gallery, dog wheel and ball game; Mr. and Mrs. Halpern (Coney Island Red), blanket, jewelry and unbreakable doll wheels; Margaret Stratton and Baby Peggie, Chinese baskets; Mrs. John Lorman, kewpie dolls; Buck Reed, pillow wheel; W. S. Kohler, plaster doll hoopla and ball game; Fat Ferdinand, cigaret gallery; Col. Mayo, high striker; L. S. Printer, pitch-till-you-win; Mike Polskie, marble tivol; Chandler & Mansfield, arrows; J. James, swinging ball, and quite a few others. The staff: J. Sheeran, general agent; Pete Zorn, special agent; Ed Sweeney, secretary; Chl. Morgan, lot superintendent; Harry Stewart, electrician; Jack James, trainmaster.

SAY "I SAW IT IN THE BILLBOARD."

CARNIVAL CARAVANS

By ALI BABA

Benny Beckwith has an automobile. He says he is for better roads in Missouri.

Sam Kaplan is said to be buying cars, and it looks like a twenty-five-car show next season.

Many a Redoubt has fallen for a racetrack still while playing the fairs. The longer some people travel—but, what's the use?

Archie Meltzoff, late of Lee Bros.' Shows, recently joined the Hoss-Hays caravan, and the boys have voted him a "regular fellow."

Loudeville, O., Fair last week; Coshocton and Lancaster, O., fairs to follow—Jim Poulos and his coterie of athletes doing nicely.

Just what is meant by being a contender for fair dates next season—popularity and prestige, or to overbid the other fellows? If the former, fine and dandy. If the latter, r-o-t-t-e-n.

Louis J. Herger says he has combined with Oliver J. Bucklen, and is busy booking indoor bazaars, to open the season early in November for the winter. He's working in Pennsylvania.

A. L. Vought, the novelty man on the H. T. Freed Exposition midway, is anxious to have an report that his business at Galena "busted" or shattered or broke all his previous weeks' returns.

Understand that Jack Oliver wants to know what Marshall did with the bottle at his room in the hotel at Rome, Ga., and whether he thinks "the boss" will replace it? Wonder what was the contents of said bottle?

and it is said sure did wake 'em to the fact that some shows were coming to town. Result: Good business for both attractions. This is claimed a new stunt on the part of agents.

Otis Adams, the well-known carnival man and former sheik, recently left the hospital at Gallipolis, O., where he underwent an operation. While on his way South Otis was met at Knoxville by E. L. (Doc) Richards, who reports the old boy getting along nicely and in good spirits.

Some class to Frank Iurns, wrestler, with Charlie Farmer's Athletic Arena on the H. T. Freed Exposition. He owns and operates his big seven-passenger car with which he makes all jumps, often beating the show train in town. He likely also takes a fall out of good old home-cooked farmer eats occasionally.

Geo. W. Mathis, concessioner, formerly with the Allied Shows, who has been playing fairs and celebrations thru the Middle States, is leaving off a few weeks at his home in Cincinnati. He expects to connect with some caravan in the South. Says he found the fairs none too good this year and the rates charged for space 'way up yonder.

William B. Evans is now numbered among riding device owners, as "Bill" recently purchased a seaplane, which he is now operating on the World at Home Shows. This speaks well for the big freak animal show, which has been registering big receipts at the fairs. It is also reported that Ira Watkins is now the possessor of two French racing cars, which he is using upon the walls of the Antodrome. The cars are

PARK PRENTISS' BAND

One of the worthwhile features of the Johnny J. Jones Exposition is Park B. Prentiss' Band, shown in the accompanying photograph. Mr. Prentiss is an efficient band leader and he has an organization of real musicians. Mr. Prentiss and his band will play engagements in the South this winter.

Dr. Frank La Marr has placed a new attraction upon the World at Home Shows. Doc's banners are lettered the "World's Greatest Vice Exposed," and a visit to his attraction discloses an "Underground Chinatown" exhibit, arranged in pit form.

Dame Rumor has it that "Talking Tom" Terrell promoted Alliance, O., as an independent proposition, under the American Legion, and then booked the Hoss-Hays Shows there with an uptown location. Some general agents do be resourceful. What?

Albert Edward Bertini, of the Bertini Family, left the Majestic Shows at Hagerstown, Md., where he made many friends, to again take up his schooling at Shenandoah College, Baston, Va. He joined his parents earlier in the season, when they were with Sol's United Shows.

Harold (Red) Lemmon, concessioner, this season with the K. G. Barkout Shows and the United Amusement Co., returned to his home in Cincinnati last week for the winter. "Red" says it has been the best season of his career as a caravanite.

Charlie Ramo, musician at the Elks' Club, Roanoke, Va., writes that Prof. Angelo Mummolo and his Royal Italian Band, with the Rubin & Cherry Shows, gave some fine concerts during the fair there, which were greatly enjoyed by the people of Roanoke.

L. E. Dnke, manager of H. T. Freed's Exposition, says the Texas climate is certainly above par and he was glad to return to the caravan's cooler nights, anyway, in Illinois. He enjoyed a fine visit to his home folks. For two years seems altogether too long an intermission.

Two agents unexpectedly ran into each other on the main stem of Hickmau, Ky. They were C. S. Cooter, ahead of the C. E. Pearson Shows, and "Dad" Zelno, advancing for the W. I. Swain Show. The following dialog ensued: "Hello, Dad. 'What the hel-lo, Slim (Cooter)?" Being Saturday and the streets crowded, both good-naturedly "cried" their respective shows, "beauties," and he ties up traffic when he journeys to the city in the miniature racing car.

From Wortham's World's Greatest comes the report that besides breaking all records for attendance and gross receipts at Minnesota State Fair this year, they established some individual attraction records. "Over the Falls," which is managed by W. E. Rodgers, grossed over $6,000 on the week, and on Labor Day took in $2,224.00—which is riding some people at 20 cents each.

The Quincys, high divers, late of the World of Mirth Shows, have joined the Kaplan Greater Shows, where Miss Quincy is featuring her single high plunge and artistic springboard dives as the principal free attraction. Doc (Quincy) is kept quite busy with three concessions and the dive.

Word reaches us that C. B. Schleyer, last season sidodrome rider with the Williams Standard Shows, decided to in the future travel in "double business," and on September 22 was married to Madeline Dail Branstetter, of Hannibal, Mo. Mrs. Schleyer has not yet been initiated into the ranks of showdom. The newly-weds will make their home in Detroit, Michigan.

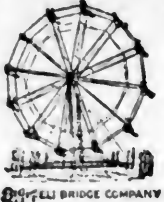

Dare-Devil Ruhl, after closing with the Torrens United Shows at Kokomo, Ind., played vaudeville dates, with which they report success. Also state that they have sixteen balloon rides booked in the South, each of which was secured thru their ads in The Billboard. Mrs. Ruhl, professionally known as Ethel Brown, toe dancer, is making good as a balloon rider.

Ruth Ellwood, formerly palmist with the Torrens, and last with the Famous Broadway Shows, with which she closed last spring in Paducah, Ky., was a caller at The Billboard, Cincinnati, one day last week. She expects to remain in the Queen City several weeks. Mr. Ellwood, she stated, is with Miller Bros.' Circus Exposition, now playing the South.

As a carnival train was passing thru Knoxville, Tenn., recently several members of the caravan ran across the street from the depot to get a lunch. A stranger (a trouper) asked one of them what show it was and received the reply that it was the "American Legion Show." He must have seen the name of the show on the last stand on the billing.

Manufacturing Jewelers,
DEPT. A, READFIELD, MAINE.

James T. Clyde was a recent visitor at Chillicothe, O., during the "Fall Festival," and paid a visit to the members of the World at Home Shows. Mr. Clyde was loud in his praise for the lineup of attractions which comprise that organization, and stated that he was more than pleased with the hospitality shown him during the visit.

Word comes from Chicago that John A. Politt wishes to enter the shark class as a pool player. Reports emanating from the billiard rooms of the Showmen's League of America differ as to John's score—all of which seems to bother him not at all. "I rejoice," says John, "is all that is back of my story seeking to dim my glory or wilt my laurels. And, besides that, mathematics don't lie."

Charles Jameson, the old reliable band director of the C. A. Wortham Shows, received a greatly appreciated and highly valued gift last week. As a testimonial of their high esteem and friendship a number of the Wortham show folks purchased a goldplated cornet for him, the best money could buy, and Jameson says it is the prettiest he has ever seen.

It is said Jan Van Albert, the Holland giant, managed by Ike Rose, continues to set the pace on the C. A. Wortham World's Greatest. This huge individual is attracting a great deal of attention and hundreds come out to the fair grounds with the fixed determination to see him, as they walk up to the ticket box without waiting for a bally, purchase tickets and go right in.

"Back in dear old Ohio again and making my home at the Hotel Hannah, Cleveland," writes Flo Rockwood (Princess Florazi). "That Inherent Dancer" had been on a several weeks' pleasure trip to England. Her first engagement since returning was played at Amherst, O., for the American Legion. Myrtle Clark worked with her on this occasion, and their dancing made a decided hit.

Numerous managers have satisfied themselves as to the true meaning of the "handwriting on the wall" (opposite publicity—very seldom placed in the hands of the majority of the Showmen and Bedouins) and will organize their forces next season into offensive-defensive lines, thru which the majority of the populace will decide for themselves as to the value of clean outdoor amusements, presented at carnivals.

Either "Jonsey Jones" has been pulling some big publicity, or there is to be a conspicuous visitor to the Brundage Shows at Fulton, Mo., this week. The newspaper article says that Jack Dempsey recently accepted the invitation of his old friend, "Bull Dog" Billy Lutz, who has the Athletic Show with Brundage, to be his guest for a week this fall, and preferably the fore part of October, and, of course, the Fulton folks wanted it to be while the show were in their city.

It has often occurred to All that in case of a locale crying that the "carnival is taking all the money out of town," how great would be his surprise should he be required, even with the receipts, to foot the bills for a few stands. Another strange connection is that in most cases a yell of this nature comes from a guessing few in a town where the manager only figures on getting a part of the show's expenses.

C. A. Wortham recently lost his dog, Gyp, and no expense was spared to find this thoroughbred. It was finally located in the city the show had just left, and one of the showmen went back after it. Gyp turned in an expense account of $21, among the items being one of 75 cents for breakfast. Manager Walter Stanley asked the man how the dog came to spend so much for the morning meal, and he said that 45 cents was Gyp's meal and only 10 cents for himself. Needless to say, the bill was O. K'd.

R. L. (Doc) Metcalf arrived in Cincinnati last week from Illinois, and was soon saying howly to the lurch at The Billboard office. He was on his way to Chattanooga for the fair. Incidentally, Doc wants it known that since leaving the Rubin & Cherry Shows, about seven weeks ago, he has been on the midways of nine carnivals, each of which could well follow the business methods adopted by Rubin & Cherry to their everlasting advantage. Doc will again winter in Cincinnati, where he will later be joined by Mrs. Metcalf, who is spending a few weeks with relatives in Danville, Ill.

When movie managers practically admit during the summer that they put on big features during the week a carnival company was playing their town, and that they lost heavily on the transaction because of lack of patronage, does it not logically suggest that the majority of the populace prefer outdoor amusement? And, when the outdoor attractions are clean and entertaining, should the "powers that be" legislate against and discourage against the choice of their own home people (nearly all of whom crave open air pastime in warm weather—if only to mingle, carefree, with their friends on a midway) in order to balance the books of one, or a few, when even oppositional "big features" fail to attract the people's fancy and evident choice as to their recreation?

LEEMON & McCART SHOWS

At this writing the Leemon & McCart Shows are playing to a very good business at Fairview, Ok. Pawhuska is the next stop, and then, after two more weeks in Oklahoma, the show heads for "Flowery California," playing New Mexico and Arizona en route.

The lineup of the attractions now is the same as all season, with very few exceptions: Leemon & McCart's Circus Side-Show, Doc Rutherford, manager and talker; "Cabaret," Charles Mellaney, manager and talker; Bob Chetfield's "Paris Mystie Hall," Athletic Show, "Swede" Johnson, manager and wrestler; Three Generations of Midgets, Mr. West, manager and lecturer; "Hawaiian Village," Dolly Taylor, manager; the writer, talker. The rides: Parker carry-us-all, F. Osgood, manager; Eli wheel, John Taylor, manager. There are twenty concessions.—L. M. J.

ST. LOUIS

By WILL J. FARLEY
Gamble Bldg., 620 Chestnut St.

Last week I paid a two-day visit to the J. Geo. Loos Shows at Peoria, Ill., and in hospitality no one has it on George. The show is the best that Mr. Loos has ever had, and looked exceedingly pretty on the fair grounds. Four rides, twelve shows and about thirty-five concessions comprised the outfit, and all of it was in splendid condition. John Wortham, with his rides and several shows, was in a happy frame of mind, as he was getting all the visitors that entered the carnival section, and this meant most of the visitors to the fair. Business was good for the show, and rides and concessions did well under hard conditions, as the State Aid Law worked a handicap. Mr. Loos has a wonderful aggregation this season, and there is perfect harmony throughout. His train is perfectly equipped and his reputation has preceded him to the point that he will be compelled to stay out until Christmas. Arthur Davis, his hustling agent, just rolls into town, and the Loos Shows play it and come out with flying colors. The press book, which contains clippings from all towns played, is full of wonderful endorsements. The show will make a big jump to play the Wichita celebration, and then into Texas as fast as railroads will permit, as many of the Texas fairs will be played. The Loos Shows are to undergo a complete renovation for next season, and will play many of the cities visited this year. Adams Hawaiian Village is new and joined but recently. The framework is unique and picturesque proves the idea good. Details of the show have been published before in these columns, but the word that the season has been very successful is more than of interest for especially a Texan who has invaded the Northern territory with a big show.

Leo Lipka was a Billboard caller last week. He had just left the Torrens United Shows as general agent, due to the fact that Mr. Torrens' health compelled the cancellation of all the Southern dates. The rides on the show were leased for twelve weeks to H. R. Marteney. Mr. Lipka will play fairs with his own troupe.

Murray Pennock, Clint Finney and George Neehan were among The Billboard callers last week. Getting towards the home stretch, and all are patronizing the gent's furnishing goods stores of St. Louis.

Dave Anderson, who has just finished the promotion of the big stock show at Memphis, Mo., has found that it resulted in a big success. It was the biggest fair Memphis has had and most successful in every way. Dave moves over to Columbia City, Ind., where he will conduct the second big stock show. It was a great success last year, and conditions are more favorable this year. Dave handles the program entirely, and has a big popularity contest on that is creating much excitement. Mrs. Anderson is his lieutenant.

Dave Ray Phillips, of the Ray Show Property Exchange, is anxious to correct the impression circulated as to his health. He is in perfect health; in fact, he is arranging to open a No. 2 store in down town section of St. Louis to demand more of his attention.

The Big Wellington Carnival in St. Louis this year did not prove as successful as during the last few years. Outside of a few of the concessions, no one made any big money. No reason could be assigned, outside of an off year. This has always been a banner spot for the showmen.

Lena Daley, after a short absence, again made her appearance in St. Louis with the "Kaudy Kids Burlesque Company" at the Standard Theater. It seemed as though her popularity increased, for business has been good and Lena surely has not lost any pep or attractiveness.

H. T. Freed and his general agent paid The Billboard a visit. They are looking over some Southern territory and are going south along with all other caravans that make the South their home in the winter. They report a wonderful season and sure looked it.

Geo. Dyran, who recently entered the hospital here for a serious operation, is out and around with the bid of a cane. He has lost 24 pounds. In a short while he will be able to resume his duties.

WORTHAM'S WORLD'S GREATEST

Beat Last Year's Gross Receipts at Tri-State Fair, Sioux City, Ia.

Salina, Kan., Sept. 21—The Tri-State Fair, at Sioux City, Ia., is now a matter of history, and again the C. A. Wortham Shows have bettered the mark hung up last year for gross receipts, even if the attendance did not quite come up to the 1919 mark. It has got to be a habit with the Wortham Shows, and, while it may mean a little extra work and a little harder effort on the part of those in charge of the different attractions, it fully sustains the Wortham reputation of having the best list of attractions available.

On the long run to this city the Wortham Shows narrowly escaped a wreck. One of the boys on the flats became excited when a blanket caught fire and suddenly applied the air. The train stopped with a jerk, and three drawheads were pulled out, one of them falling under the first flat, and only good fortune caused it to roll under the trucks instead of throwing the train into the ditch. It resulted in a delay of a few hours and the loss of Monday night in this city.

Tuesday night opened big here, with a large crowd on the midway, and all the attractions gave three or four shows to crowded houses. Salina's second annual Fall Festival and Prosperity Week has been well advertised thru-out the state, and many of the Kansas residents came to Salina for the big event, just as they formerly came to the fair. There are many free acts in front of the grand stand, also dills by the soldiers and companies of artillery from Camp Funston, and fireworks at night.

From here the Wortham Shows go to the Texas State Fair at Dallas. The advance reports indicate that it will be bigger and better than ever this year, and Shreveport follows Dallas.—WM. F. FLOTO.

BLUE GRASS SHOWS

The Blue Grass Shows found business very good in Nashville, Tenn., and adjoining towns. Five weeks were spent in Nashville at various intervals this season, and each proved a good one.

While the shows were in Nashville M. L. Morris, special agent, dropped over to Georgia and booked a fine string of fairs.

H. S. Windsor has purchased a doll and vase factory and is now manufacturing the goods used on his seven big concessions, as well as supplying the boys on several other organizations. Windsor has one of the best lines of concessions with any carnival. His response is a beauty for appearance, and, consequently, gets good play. The Minstrel Show is doing well, and several showmen visiting the outfit recently declared Mr. Crager has the best line of talent they had ever seen in a carnival minstrel show.

W. D'Amon is handling the "Parisian Show" and getting big play. Dave Reed, of the C. E. Pearson Shows, visited the shows in Nashville. Several from the Metropolitan Shows and the Johnny J. Jones Exposition were also visitors.

BABCOCK GREATER SHOWS

After playing to but fair success in the Northwest, the Babcock Shows moved to California and played their first fair of the season, the San Joaquin County Fair at Stockton, to enormous crowds and immense business. The concessioners who played the State Fair at Sacramento a week previous reported that the Stockton date was much more profitable. From Stockton the shows jumped to Bakersfield, and altho the shows, rides and concessions were all ready to open on Monday night, Proprietor F. W. Babcock decided not to open, but to give the boys a night's rest, after the strenuous week at Stockton. On Tuesday, at 7 p.m., there were over 2,000 people on the lot, when Manager Charles Haley gave the order to open—and how they did patrolize the shows, rides and concessions. At 10 o'clock the bam and doll stands were out of stock. On Wednesday Manager Haley put on a new show, which he calls "The Wets and Drys." It created a sensation from the opening and Chief of Police Charles H. Stone was its greatest booster.

On Monday afternoon, at Bakersfield, "Doc" Tuffy (Roy Landers) surprised the members of the company by marrying one of the couples—hers, in the attractive person of Esther Rouff. Thursday night the members of the company held a reception for the newlyweds in the side-show. Manager Haley, on behalf of the troupe, presented them with a beautiful traveling case and in a neat little speech offered congratulations, wishing them long life and happiness. Director of Concessions J. G. Smith then commented the battle of rice, barley and old shoes. The "Doc" and his blushing bride had to be escorted out of the tent to the car that was held in readiness for them. Next week the Babcock Shows jump to Taft, Cal., and all look forward to the same good luck that has attended the show ever since entering California.—H. W. SCHAFER.

GLOTH GREATER SHOWS

Everything opened up big for the Gloth Greater Shows at Clairton, Pa., and even the weather "smiled" upon the well-laid-out midway.

The Athletic Show, under the management of Steve Paasas, did capacity business, and the local champions were hot on Steve's trail. Frank Yoeman, the ice skater, pulled off some extra fine figures, and the natives patronized him liberally. Robert Gloth has succeeded in booking a wonderful spot in Mt. Oliver, Pa., and everything looks fine for this engagement. The outcome of a conference between General Representative Lou Adolph, Assistant Manager Billy Klein, Business Manager Billy Fox and Manager Robert Gloth will doubtless lead to the booking of a fine spot in the heart of Pittsburgh.—KID LOC.

JOHNNY J. KLINE SHOWS

West New York, N. J., Sept. 28.—The entire staff of the Johnny J. Kline Shows is putting every effort forward to make the "Old Home Week" celebration and carnival at West New York, which will be held for one week, beginning October 11, including Sunday, a success, and the committee is co-operating in every way with the Kline office, sparing no expense in advertising the event in a proper manner. Special attractions have been contracted for, and Mr. Kline has secured Joe Hawley's brand new Herschell-Spillman carousel for the occasion, and Manny Kline has purchased for his sister the ferris wheel from Harry Endy, which was with the Endy Shows all season, for the West New York date.

Several showmen have signed contracts to place their various individual shows for this spot and other dates which Mr. Kline will play during "Indian summer", for the balance of October.

Following the outdoor events the Kline office will take up the matter of playing bazaars for the winter months, while arranging and routing the Johnny J. Kline Shows for the season of 1921.—DIAMOND.

Theater owners and business men of Watertown, N. Y., have asked the City Commission to take action toward restricting the number of carnivals that are permitted to show there during the season. Four carnivals have visited Watertown this summer, all under auspices.

My Dear Mr. Williams:
For the past four or five years I have used The Billboard as an advertising medium on various propositions.

I have always found it to be a result producer, and on several propositions the way in which The Billboard has paid out has been marvelous.

If you ever want to refer any one to me in regard to the worth of The Billboard you are at liberty to do so.

Yours cordially,

"JIM" CONKLIN, Well-Known Showman, Passes Death Results From Heart Failure—Had Served as Executive With Numerous Organizations

Last week saw the passing of a widely known member of the outdoor show world, when James W. Conklin, familiarly referred to and addressed by his friends as "Lucie Jim," suddenly departed this life at Lancaster, Pa., while the organization with which he was connected was exhibiting during the fair at that place. The following from Lancaster gives details of Mr. Conklin's untimely end:

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 29.—James Wesley Conklin, legal adjuster with the Famous Broadway Shows, died Tuesday evening, September 28, at 5 o'clock, at the Brunswick Hotel, this city, while the shows were playing the Great Lancaster Fair. He was 50 years of age, was a resident of Woonsocket, N. J., where he at one time owned the Family Theater, and was also a prominent Elk of that city.

According to a statement made by his wife last night, Mr. Conklin complained of feeling bad in the afternoon, while at the fair grounds. He returned to his room soon after, and at 4:45 became unconscious in the presence of Mrs. Conklin, their son and a few friends, who put him to bed and summoned Dr. Weaver, of this city. He passed away, however, without regaining consciousness.

Mr. Conklin had forty-three years' experience in the show business, and was also connected as legal adjuster at various times with the Ringling Bros.' Shows, Barnum & Bailey Shows, Campbell Shows, H. W. Campbell United Shows, and was formerly owner of the Clark & Conklin Shows, and in which capacity he became widely known throughout the country. He is survived by his wife, Ella Conklin, and one son, Patrick.

He was a member of Woonsocket Lodge, No. 850, B. P. O. E., and arrangements were made last night by the local Elks to conduct funeral services here at Groff's Undertaking parlors at 8:30 p. m. Friday, following which the remains will be sent to Mrs. Conklin's home in Newburg, N. Y., for interment in a local cemetery.

The Famous Broadway Shows have completed all necessary arrangements in the way of paying last respects to the noted showman, whose friends were many and who always held the respect and confidence of the entire organization with which he was associated.

WORLD AT HOME SHOWS

Knoxville, Tenn., September 29.—Forty-five thousand people assisted in registering the largest one-day gathering on Tuesday at the East Tennessee Division Fair since its birth, some five years ago. According to officials of a local railway company, more people were transported to Chilhowee Park on Knoxville Day than on any day since the establishment of the park many years ago.

H. D. Faust, secretary of the fair, was elated over the patronage, and stated yesterday that the event will eclipse all previous records in every department.

Free attractions are of the highest variety, and Roy Smith and his Scotch Royal Highlanders' Band furnished the musical program. Jersey Ringel, the new "ace," introduced to fairgoers by Jos. R. Curtis, has thrilled thousands of people with his sensational looping-the-loop while standing upon the wings of an airplane.

The World at Home Shows occupied the midway section for the second consecutive year and had the honor of registering the largest one day's gross receipts on Tuesday. The shows have outgrown the midway space allotted to amusement, and Secretary Faust gave an extra exhibit space for the additional rides.

Frank H. Scott, manager of Chilhowee Park, and who, for a number of years, was associated with the Leon W. Washburn and K. G. Barkoot Shows, was a welcome visitor during the engagement.—J. WILKINSON CROWTHER.

SOUTHERN EXPOSITION SHOWS

Farmville, Va., Sept. 28.—The Southern Exposition Shows, W. A. Stride, owner and manager, opened in Farmville, on the River Side lot, Monday, September 27, for one week's engagement. They carry an attractive bunch of shows, riding devices and concessions, and as fine a lot of people, numbering 250, as one would want to meet in the carnival or circus business.

The attractions are located on a good lot in the heart of town, and they deserve a good nightly patronage and attendance during their stay here, which the writer is sure they are going to receive. The lineup consists of six shows, thirty-five concessions, a large and well-lighted ferris wheel, a large and attractive four-abreast merry-go-round, and an Italian band.

E. B. Braden, assistant manager, and A. C. Duffey, the genial advance agent, are truly of the old school.—H. WARREN WALKER.

PERFECTING PLANS

New York, Oct. 2.—Elwood Salisbury, one of the best known park men of the country, was in the city this week from New Haven. Mr. Salisbury's energy is now directed toward perfecting plans for the new park at Bridgeport, which will be built under the direction of himself and associates.

tour of good roads in Missouri, and their fellowship campaign. They always take a good banal along with them, not that noise is necessary, but just to add to the merriment.

A. N. HICE, of the Mid-West Hair Doll Factory, was in K. C. for a few days, coming in from Topeka, Kan., and leaving for Oklahoma City, Ok. Mr. Hice reports business the best ever during the past thirty days, that the Lincoln, Neb.; Hutchinson, Kan., and Topeka, Kan. fairs were "bumdingers" and that all concessions fared exceedingly well.

THE H. JINKS COMPANY COMMENCED ITS fiftieth week at the Empress Theater September 27. Al and Lule Bridge have their original parts in the laughable playlet, "The Grouch." Needless to say this musical stock company is putting it over when it can pack the theater week after week, always presenting pleasing musical comedies.

THE RUSSELL BROS.' SHOWS, Jim and John Russell's thirty ears of carnival entertainment, will play here the week of October 11, on Baltimore avenue, from Fourteenth to Eighteenth streets. The streets are to be closed to traffic during the carnival, which promises to be one of the city's biggest gala events.

THE CON T. KENNEDY SHOWS had expected to play a week here on Seventeenth street, from the Paseo to Woodland. This street was to be devoted exclusively to the carnival company, but for some reason it was decided the street couldn't be closed and so the Kennedy Shows went to Kansas City, Kan., and exhibited at Seventh and Packard to a very successful week's business.

CAPT. E. H. HUGO made another of his "angel" visits to the Kansas City office of The Billboard. The Captain was in K. C. just a day, September 27, en route from Holyoke, Col., where he finished an engagement, to Trenton, Mo., for the fair there, where he puts on his high dive. Captain Hugo was the big free act at Electric park during August and the first two weeks in September and made a sensation with his marvelous high dives. He plays the fair at Fairbury, Neb., the week of October 11.

EDGAR RAY, the well-known Western song writer, made us a nice little visit last week and talked very interestingly of his new and latest song, which he has just placed with the Riviera Music Company, of Chicago. It is entitled "From Our Town" and was written in collaboration with Ethwell Hanson, writer of "Dessertland" and other hits. Mr. Ray has two numbers now with a Kansas City publisher and these will be ready soon in sheet music and are now ready on player piano rolls. Mr. Ray lives in Kansas City at 320 W. Thirteenth street and is devoting his attention to the revising of lyrics and making songs ready for publication, etc.

MARGARET HUNGERFORD AND DIANA REED, two Kansas City girls, have been chosen by the Mesco Pictures Corporation, the new film producing company which is putting on

"Jesse James Under the Black Flag," to play leading roles. Miss Hungerford has the part of the 1860 girl and Miss Reed the 1920 girl. Miss Hungerford plays opposite to Jesse James, Jr., who enacts his father's life, that of the outlaw, Jesse James. Miss Reed played here for a time in the stock company of Eva Lang. Later she had the part in "Buddies," which Peggy Wood made famous. Franklin B. Coates, director of the Mesco Pictures Corporation, says that the Middle West affords film companies a fertile field in which to find beauties.

After the close of his fair season will return to New York and open his office, and will launch "Whirl of Mirih" Amusement. Mr. Bistany played Toronto with Johnny J. Jones, and says that half has not been told as to the merit and magnitude of the Jones Exposition.

"BILL" FLEMING

Lands Fine String of Fairs for Greater Sheesley Shows in Southeastern States

Wm. C. (Bill) Fleming, one of carnivaldom's most energetic and productive general agents, has done some remarkably good work ahead of the Greater Sheesley Shows since taking up his duties with that organization. This season he has piloted the shows over an extensive route, which carried them northward across the country into Canada, where they remained for the greater part of the summer, then back to the United States with consecutive weekly bookings, back to the land of cotton and "sunny Florida."

Mr. Fleming has of late been active in the contracting of fair dates in the Southeast, and among the events landed by him for his caravan are the Madison County Fair at Huntsville, Ala.; Southern Georgia Exposition, Eastman, Ga.; Georgia-Florida Fair, Valdosta, Ga.; Tallahassee, Fla., Fair; Live Oak, Fla., Fair, and the Alachua County Fair at Gainesville, Florida. Some string!

SMITH GREATER SHOWS

The attendance on Tuesday at the Covington (Va.) Fair beat all opening day records, and the receipts of all attractions and concessions with the Smith Greater Shows were far greater than any other opening day in the history of the Smith Shows. The following three days were all "big days" and quite out of the ordinary; Saturday was one of the biggest days of the week. On all sides complimentary remarks were heard regarding the cleanliness and sterling merit of entire Smith Greater Shows, not a jarring note to mar a perfect engagement.

Top-money honors of the shows went to the Old Kentucky Minstrels, managed by W. H. Hopkins, closely followed by the Big Wild Animal Arena and Moore's Society Circus, while the ferris wheel, merry-go-round, Ed K. Smith's new whip and the tango swings were crowded at all times, and the stock concessions were kept busy handling out goods. It was the banner week of the season. Warborough's Black Hussar Band has been augmented and its concerts in the grand stand, between races, receives many complimentary notices. Jack Holloway is in charge of the whip, C. R. Gentry manager the merry-go-round, T. B. Knox and wife, new arrivals, have charge of the Illusion Show. Capt. Moore's little daughter, Gracie, who has been sick at Winchester Hospital, is better and has rejoined the show, Arthur D. Rice, who was operated upon at St. Mercy Hospital, Winchester, is back and conrealesing rapidly. Mrs. Holloway and two sons Dave joined. Ernest MacIntyre was married in Winchester to Virginia Small. Robert Taylor, chief electrician, was married in Woodstock to Corn Parker. Mrs. Chris M. Smith made a shopping trip by airplane from Covington to Lynchburg. Billy Stauder has returned from a business trip to Pittsburgh. George R. Harris has joined the concession force. An important announcement may shortly be made by Chris M. Smith regarding his next season's activities. The Smith Shows may remain out much longer than originally intended.

MRS. SCHILLING APPRECIATES

Mrs. Herman Schilling, wife of the late wrestler and all-round athlete, who was killed recently when struck by a train at Pittsburg, Mass., wishes to express, thru The Billboard, her appreciation to friends who consoled her in her hour of bereavement. She especially thanks the management of the Francis Ferrari Shows, who paid all the funeral expenses. Herman Schilling was very popular with all of the sport world, and at the time of his death had the Athletic Arena with the Francis Ferrari Shows. He is survived by his wife and an 18-month-old child. Mrs. Schilling was always with her husband's attraction, and was a great aid to him, in both an executive and athletic way. She tried bravely to keep the show going after the death of her husband, but broke down after a few weeks and retired to the home of relatives, 499 Howard street, Detroit.

JOHN W. MOORE

Preparing for Indoor Season

Finishes Ten Weeks' Outdoor Dates at Jersey City and Turns Attention to Winter Bazaars

New York, Oct. 2.—John W. Moore, who has just completed his outdoor bazaar dates, closing at Jersey City last Saturday, ten consecutive weeks in that city, states that his coming season for indoor shows should be the best he has ever enjoyed. Contracts held by him will cover the larger cities, including the metropolis New York City.

Mr. Moore has contracted with Joe Main, the big Broadway producer, for a big musical revue, with twenty-five beautiful singing and dancing girls. Other attractions will be George Auger, the giant; the midgets, King and Prince; Rose Rentz Trio and others. The roster of his company will number upwards of seventy people this season.

Mr. Moore is really the pioneer producer of bazaars, his first venture being for the East St. Louis Lodge of Elks, fifteen years ago. His best endeavor, last year, at Newark, N. J., for the J. O. U. A. M., netted $32,814.70. He has made his home in New York the past seven years and has a suite of offices at 703 Eighth avenue.

LIKES "BAZAARLAND"

William Judkias Hewitt.
The Billboard, New York City:

It was with keen pleasure that I saw in this week's Billboard the new added news feature, "Bazaarland."

Coming, as it does, right now, when the outdoor amusement season is nearing the close, this move of The Billboard to exploit indoor celebrations of every legitimate sort and variety is deserving of the wholehearted praise and support and co-operation of every individual engaged in this rapidly expanding field of amusement endeavor.

I might add, too, that it is right in line with The Billboard's alert spirit of enterprise and progressiveness to make initially this commendable move and thereby add just one more useful department of public service to the allied amusement interests and trades. But, after all, what medium of publicity is so well qualified and naturally adapted for the work of bringing the indoor show folks and their interests into a close and harmonious union as The Billboard? Unquestionably this is a Billboard mission, and in "Bazaarland" you already seem to have hit the big keynote. Mark my word that ere the "robins nest again" "Bazaarland" is going to occupy an absolutely impregnable position among the news features of The Billboard. It is surely going to be the one main bridge across which the indoor fair promoter will go to meet the auspices committee, and vice versa, and it will serve exactly the same purpose to bring these ever-important indoor celebration factors in close direct touch with the vendor of novelty goods and with the concessionaire and his agents.

As you know, it was my early plan and purpose to launch a bazaar outfit this fall and winter under this striking title, "Bazaarland." That intention was announced months ago in these columns, but the "call of the Western wild" is too strong, and instead I am to be at the pilot's wheel of the W. S. Cherry Bazaar and Exposition Company, as told in this week's Billboard. To me the word "Bazaarland" has become a sort of treasured pet, but in the news columns of The Billboard I know that it occupies a safe and useful place. And it fits there, too.

That The Billboard's "Bazaarland" may prosper and grow into the greatest of usefulness ought to be the earnest and sincere wish of all indoor showdom. And that it WILL succeed can not well be doubted by anyone the least bit familiar with the vast field of usefulness that this department covers and with a familiarity of The Billboard's distinctly persistent manner and method of doing the things really big and meritorious.

(Signed) HARRY E. BONNELL, Promoter,
New York City, Sept. 30, 1920.

COLEMAN & GOODWIN

Entering Indoor Events Field for Winter Months on Extensive Scale

The Coleman & Goodwin Amusement Company is making extensive preparations for the launching of its two organizations for indoor events during the fall, winter and early spring months. This company made marked success with its affairs of this nature last winter, and with the benefit of experience and prestige gained thereby, together with energetic and capable management, and the enlargement of its interests, far greater successes are looked forward to the coming season.

A. I. Goodwin, of the Coleman & Goodwin Amusement Co., is now in New York, securing high-class vaudeville acts for the two companies. Mr. Goodwin states that the No. 1 show is booked solid and that Mr. Coleman has signed contracts for the largest organization in the country, and is now very busy working on the No. 2 company.

The No. 1 organization will feature seven A-1 vaudeville acts and a full uniformed ladies' band, Mr. Goodwin having contracted one of the best ladies' bands in the country. Singers of real merit will also be featured.

Each show will carry a complete outfit, now being built at Pottstown, Pa.

George Coleman will arrive in New York in two weeks to a visit Mr. Goodwin in contracting for merchandise. Each company will carry a special baggage car.

BAZAAR-ETTES

Watch John W. Moore's smoke this winter. Remember his big promotion in Jersey a few years ago? He has some more that look as good tucked up his sleeve.

It has been announced that following the outdoor fall events, the offices of the Johnny J. Kline Shows will turn their activities to the promotion and presenting of bazaars for the winter.

Latest reports from Canada have it that Michael J. O'Grady, concessionaire, who has been meeting with much success this last summer in the Province, will shortly return to New York City and invade the bazaar field.

Reports have it that Fred Sulkworth, jefe of the E. S. Corey Greater Shows, is making up his brigade of attractions, and will launch his winter carnival and bazaar company in a few weeks, the first stand being at Norristown, Pa., and the lineup to consist of four shows, two rides and about forty five concessions.

Harry E. Bonnell and Fred A. Danner are not going to team up this season on indoor fair promotions, as previously announced. The former is to go in advance of the W. S. Cherry Bazaar and Exposition Company, according to late reports, while the latter is expected to promote independently under a single name standard.

Harry Row, contest promoter, who broke into the indoor game last season with the W. J. Bloch Amusement Co., and later on was ahead of the Coleman & Goodwin outfit, is reported to have had a couple of attractive offers for this season and is pretty certain to line up with the advance force of one of the leading Eastern bazaar organizations.

Altho it is somewhat early for indoor winter events, such as bazaars, festivals, circuses, exhibitions, museums, store shows, etc., becoming actually active, yet there are a number of managers preparing their organizations and booking attractions and dates for the fall months, and there are very good prospects of these being successful ventures.

B. C. McGuire and Company, bazaar operators, out of Pittsburgh, Pa., are now putting on a winning salesboard promotion for the Loyal Order of Moose in Philadelphia, and also are conducting a successful salesboard campaign for the Moose in New York City. The McGuire concern is generally credited with being the leading operators of this country in this particular line.

Irving Udowitz, who was a prominent concessioner with Stevens Bros.' Model Exposition, this summer, and who is now operating over a Southern circuit of fairs, is reported to be infected with the bazaar germ to the extent that he is planning to return to New York City some time this month and launch an indoor celebration outfit. Associated with him is expected to be a couple of very well known contest promoters, who are credited with past season successes in this line.

Al Smedes, who directed the operations of the Black Diamond Shows this last summer, and whose present headquarters is at 1416 Broadway, New York City, will line up with the most actively engaged bazaar promoters in the East this fall and winter. His initial promotion will be in Somerset and Raritan, the twin towns of Somerset, N. J., where he is arranging a bazaar for a prominent Polish church in Manville, a very closely adjacent suburban place.

BUSSING'S NEWARK DATE

Newsrk, N. J., Sept. 28.—Harry R. Busling, general manager Broadway Amusement Company, states that he will put on a bazaar here, from October 16 to 25, under the auspices of the Independent Order of Foresters.

AVIATION

AMERICAN FLYERS

Out of World's Air Race

New York, Oct. 1.—Word was received here early this week that Sadi Lecoq, the famous French aviator, won the International Airplane race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy September 25. He covered the course of 300 kilometers (186.3 miles) in one hour, six minutes, 17.1-5 seconds.

F. P. Rayham, the sole British representative, and the two other French fliers, withdrew after covering the first lap, and the two American contestants—Major Randolph Schroeder, flying in a United States army airplane, and Howard Rhehart, flying in a Dayton-Wright monoplane—were compelled to abandon the race in its early stages. Schroeder had too much gas for the exhaust pipes of his plane and he feared it would set on fire. He landed at 2:35 o'clock and was officially disqualified for failing to pass the first turning point. Rhehart was unable to control the direction of his machine.

CRUIKSHANK'S REGRETS

Last week The Billboard received a letter from H. R. Cruikshank, well-known stunt man and trick flyer, expressing regrets on the passing of "Tex" McLaughlin, who met death after being struck by a propeller of an airplane. "It's the way of the game and we never know when it is coming," said Cruikshank. "We all must face the Reaper sooner or later."

Cruikshank's wonderful exhibition of stunts has been attracting considerable attention for some time throughout the country and the "Little Bundle of Nerves," as he has been termed, for he is small in size, is establishing a stronger reputation with each performance. Recently, at Galax, Va., he thrilled thousands at the fair. Then he went over to the Alleghany County Fair at Cornington, Va., and duplicated his success. His list of dates includes some of the biggest events in the South and East and he is keeping himself busy with new thrillers.

SCHROEDER TO RETIRE

Holder of World's Altitude Record To Quit Flying

Dayton, O., Oct. 1.—It was announced here this week that Captain R. W. Schroeder, holder of the world's altitude record, will retire from the air service as soon as he returns from France, where he competed in the Gordon Bennett race this week. Announcements say that he plans to go into business.

Before going to France Schroeder failed to apply for a commission in the regular army, in accordance with a ruling authorizing the transfer of all air service men who desire to remain in the service.

ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION OF STATE EXHIBITORS HELD AT INDIANAPOLIS

SUBSCRIBE TO NATIONAL FUND AND WILL ELECT NEW EXECUTIVE MEMBER

The State Convention of Indiana exhibitors, held on Monday, September 29, at the Hotel Severn, in the City of Indianapolis, was one of the largest ever held in the Hoosier State, and was marked thruout by a spirit of harmony and enthusiasm. The exhibitors of the State had been invited by special letters issued under the auspices of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America. As a result of the impression that there might be opposition to the convention because of the attitude of the executive member from Indiana a number of men prominent in national organization affairs attended the convention. Among them were E. T. Peter of Texas, treasurer of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America; W. A. Steffes, president of the United Theatrical League of Minnesota; S. I. Berman, executive secretary of the New York State Motion Picture Exhibitors' League; W. D. Burford, executive committee member from Illinois; Samuel Bullock of Ohio, executive secretary of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America; and A. F. Kinzier, of the Miami Valley Exhibitors' League. The anticipations of possible trouble proved wholly groundless, for there was not even a whisper of any opposition.

During the proceedings a letter was read into the record stating the lack of co-operation on the part of the Indiana executive member. There was some debate on this, but the executive member present at all stages of the convention had very little to say. The report sent to the editor says: "Despite open debate on the letter, stating the lack of co-operation of the executive member the latter failed to substantiate the charge he had made in an unsigned letter he had sent to some of the trade journals."

The election of officers was entirely harmonious, and the following ticket went thru:

To Be Seen in Wisconsin

A new State-right exchange has been established in Milwaukee to handle the Wisconsin distribution of Robert McLaughlin's picture, "The House Without Children," directed by Samuel R. Bradley for Argus Enterprises of Cleveland.

H. E. K. is the style of the new firm whose destinies will be presided over by Sam Hixon from suite 606 Majestic Building. Mr. Hixon contemplates putting out two road shows to cover the smaller towns after sectional engagements in the prominent cities. He has ordered a full assortment of oil paintings and lobby display from Kraus Manufacturing Co., and is now casting about for some experienced picture men to manage and do advance work for "The House Without Children."

NEW REGIONAL TRADE PAPER PLANNED

New Orleans, Sept. 30.—A move is on in this city to establish a motion picture trade magazine to cover New Orleans and the surrounding territory devoted to the exchange-men, exhibitors and supply men. A prize of $10 has been offered for a suitable name for the publication. The committee appointed to make the selection is Jack Austler of Pathe, A. J. Bethancourt of Houma, president of the Louisiana Exhibitors' Association recently organized to fight the so-called trust methods in this section, and Turk Carter, who was refused admission to the recently formed Louisiana association because it was said he was an employee of the Saenger Amusement Company, against whom the fight is practically centered in this section. While the writer of this article is not competing for the prize still he might suggest as an emblem, or trade mark, a lion couchant with a lamb reposing peacefully inside.

President, G. G. Schmidt, of Indianapolis; first vice-president, Charles Miller, of New Albany; second vice-president, Joseph Romersheim of Bluffton; treasurer, S. G. Helfer of Anderson; secretary, Ray Andrews of Muncie.

The convention unanimously and amid considerable enthusiasm went on record in favor of sustaining the principles adopted at the Cleveland Convention and resolved to affiliate itself formally with the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America. Several prominent exhibitors of the State deplored the lack of activity in the State up to this time, and declared that hereafter the management of the affairs of the organized exhibitors of the State of Indiana would be characterized by a good deal of vim and energy.

The convention demonstrated the practical character of its enthusiasm by subscribing the full amount of the quota assigned to the State of Indiana for the purpose of raising a preliminary fund for the national organization.

Theater Owners of America from his State, presided at the sessions, which were held in private. Mr. Bethancourt declared that 400 exhibitors were eligible for the organization, and that he expected to sign up not less than 90 per cent of them. At the last session thirty-nine new members were received into the new league.

After the business session was concluded the visiting exhibitors and newspaper men were invited to be the guests of Eugene F. Pearce at Tony Fabacher's famous restaurant. St. Clair Adams, former District Attorney of Orleans Parish, was named as attorney for the new organization.

The movement is supported by the Pearce film interests. It is claimed that the Saenger Amusement Company, which is closely affiliated with First National, had made things somewhat hard for the independent exhibitors in the two States of Louisiana and Mississippi, and that

THE EDITOR'S SAY

SILENT PARTNERS IN CENSORSHIP

Objection has been made to a scene in "Way Down East" in the course of which the pain and labor of childbirth are hinted at pictorially rather than depicted. It is admitted by the critics that the scene is "done artistically" and that the subject matter, rather than the treatment of the subject, is the target of the fault-finders.

I do not know what the official censors in the afflicted States of Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kansas are going to do about this, and it makes little difference after all, because in their cases the presumption always runs against the rule and use of reason.

I am taking notice of the criticism because it came from men closely associated with the production and exhibition of motion pictures. If the virus of Puritanical hypocrisy is beginning to touch the souls of the men who make and show the pictures, and if they join even sotto voce in the chorus of noisy ignorance and blatant superstition, then they have in their hearts at least become silent partners of censorship, and to such men legalized censorship will come as a just punishment for disloyalty to the principles and the freedom and the requirements of their art.

If we ourselves are not sure of the scope and the just privilege of our art; if, in other words, we can not give an intelligent and convincing account of the faith that is in us, we will be powerless to prevent the victory of the poor narrow bigots whose renewed clamor for censorship of motion pictures is heard thruout the land and will presently re-echo in the halls of legislation in some thirty odd States.

Nothing that is human can be strange to the screen. Statutes exist now in every State to prevent the showing of what is vulgar, obscene, lascivious and suggestive. Aberrations of well meaning but misguided directors and the deliberate sins of the commercial directors and producers, whom no consideration for the dignity of their art restrains in their mad chase for the dollar, are easily punished by means of existing laws. To confine the director's sphere of activity to a limited number of subjects (enumerated and defined perhaps by the sexless or the witless of both sexes) will be the worst form of censorship imaginable.

It is a well-known fact, recognized by every student of affairs who has given the subject any thought at all, that the so-called censorship laws in the afflicted States are a dead letter. The decisions of the various boards have rarely "stood up" in the courts, and for the last four or five years the boards have done little by way of serious "censoring." They submit regular reports to the Legislatures, which give

CAPITOL NEWS

New York, Oct. 1.—For the feature picture next week the Capitol Theater announces the first special production which Thomas H. Ince has produced under the banner of the Associated Producers, "Homespun Folks." Heralded by film critics as a notable addition to the ranks of rural classics, with the honor of American manhood as its theme, a broiling political campaign as its plot, and a locale which takes audiences back to the old homestead of a gentle New England village, "Homespun Folks" makes a human absorbingly wholesome document of real people.

The Julian Josephson narrative has been personally supervised by the noted producer himself and the direction is by John Griffith Wray. The character sketches, remarkable for their vividness and fidelity to detail, are exquisitely enacted by such well-known players as Lloyd Hughes, Gladys George, George Webb, Al Filson, Fred Gamboa, Charles Malles, Lydia Knott, Gordon Sackville, Willis Marks, James Gordon and Edith Yorke.

"Homespun Folks" has been dedicated to the families of America. It is a drama of small towns and small town people, and hits the greatest target in the world—the human heart.

Louisiana and Mississippi Exhibitors Form New Body

The Independent Motion Picture Theater Owners of Louisiana, and the Exhibitors' League of Mississippi held an important meeting last Monday at the Hotel Gruenewald in the City of New Orleans. It was decided that the two organizations unite into one body to be hereafter known as the Gulf States Exhibitors' League. Despite this amalgamation the two bodies will retain their separate identities within the national organization.

more freedom in booking is one of the aims of the new organization.

It will be remembered that the Saenger organization has been the object of attention on the part of the Federal Trade Commission. The investigation has been completed, but no decision has so far been announced.

"ONE AND ONE MAKES THREE"

Selznik Franchise Holders Are Wondering What Will Happen

It is rumored that the house of Selznik has given up the idea of providing valuable franchises for exhibitors (you remember the "one and one makes three" advertising campaigns in the trade press), which makes all exhibitors who interested themselves financially in the proposition kind of curious how they are going to fare in the matter.

It is believed that an effort will be made on the part of the Selznik people to induce franchise holders under the "one and one makes three" system to waive any right for a cash reimbursement, but consent to use Selznik pictures until their claims are exhausted. No great degree of enthusiasm can be detected in the ranks of the exhibitors for this easy way of getting rid of obligations. From information easily obtainable from any of the "one and one makes three" clients it would appear that they expect their money back. "Possibly they will get it," according to the most conservative prophecies made.

COOLEY IS A FIGHTER

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 29.—Unions are unostentatiously boycotting the Strand, the Bonito, the Grand, the Alcazar and the Prince theaters here, the houses which have refused to take back the operators who struck for higher wages several weeks ago. No open boycott has been announced, but one woman admitted that she had to slip away to the movies without hubby knowing it. It happens that these houses are the only first-class houses in town, the Ybor City houses, which signed up on a compromise

"CURTAIN"

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Picture of the stage and its people. Handsomely staged and finely acted by splendid cast.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Nancy Bradshaw, successful actress, is weaned away from the stage by a wealthy clubman, slighting the offer of playwright who has long worshipped her. After the marriage to Dick she finds herself neglected for another woman. Returns to stage and fame when learning of her husband's infidelity. He agrees to a divorce and the author remaining faithful waits for her freedom.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

The lax methods of the rich in treating the sacrament of marriage and the easy road to divorce is one of the big features of this picture. Otherwise it is a lavishly presented tale of theatrical life in its highest state. It shows the theater from all angles and the doings behind the scenes as well as in front of the curtains. It is classy in its splendor, extravagant in its gawking, generous in its casting of finished actors, but it lacks heart. All thru the pretty scenes, including a large country scene, a millionaire's stable of magnificent thoroughbreds and social functions where gaiety reigns, we were still waiting for the throb that would lift the picture out of the conventional rut—but it did not materialize. It is all too artificial, coldly polite and brazen at times to make any appeal to the emotions. Miss MacDonaid is a beautiful woman, but she never reaches the heights of screen acting. Charles Richman was the non-chalant clubman to the life, E. B. Tilton a fine manager, and Florence Doshon a correct prototype of a worldly woman.

SUITABILITY

Limosine trade will like this film on account of its dazzling surroundings, and exposure of the intimate conditions of the theater will attract many out of curiosity.

ENTERTAINMENT VALUE

"OVER THE HILL"

Suggested by Will Carleton's famous poem, scenario by Paul H. Stone, directed by Harry Millarde. Fox production. Shown at Astor Theater September 17.

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

The greatest tribute is the tears of men and women who suffered with the characters and applauded through the entire showing. We have never seen a screen story which struck home so forcibly, nor wrenched our emotions so deeply.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

The Benton family consists of four boys and two girls; John, the black sheep, gets all the whippings, deserved or not, while Isaac, the hypocrite, recites Scripture, but forgets the most important of all, "Honor Thy Father and Thy Mother." The mother is devoted to all her children and even makes excuses for the shiftless father, who refuses to work while she labors for her loved ones. Twenty years later the children are married except John, who sacrifices his youth for his father, who has stolen horses and is liable in arrest. John serves three years in prison for the crime, and when he comes out he bids his loved mother goodbye and goes West, the father having died while the boy was in prison. He sends monthly allowances for the support of his mother, which Isaac appropriates to his own use. None of the children is willing to support the old mother, but they take her furniture and sadly she goes to the poorhouse to live. John not hearing from her, returns from a successful business in the West and severely punishes Isaac for his dishonesty. He then brings the dear mother back to her home, neatly refurnished for her reception, where her thoughtless children come to crave pardon for their selfishness. She sweetly says: "They didn't mean any harm."

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

Be sure to take a couple handkerchiefs along when you witness this epic of mother love, for even the adamant yield to the charm of this old-time poem so beautifully presented on the silver sheet. It is a picture as sweetly tender, so realistic and unerringly constructed that its homely virtues will live in the minds of the public so long as life shall last. It is a picture of the enduring mother love, which saw no harm, uttered no complaint, cherished no resentment against the offspring who ill-treated her in the winter time of her life. "Her children could do no harm." She was imbued with the all forgiving—all adoring maternal instinct which lifts mother love above all earthly possessions. This role was played by Mudge Carr, whose every touch, every expression, every tear was so genuine that her work can be termed truly inspirational. Never once did this drama of devotion, of sacrifice, of overwhelming love strike a false note. The homely atmosphere, the every day happenings of a poor family, the joyous school days, the whippings and the syrup-soaked pancakes all belong. No artifice or trickery was necessary to compel a thoughtless public to sit in silence, trying to stifle the sob in the throat—or laugh at the antics of the school children—who acted like human beings, and not puppets of shadowland. That's why the simplicity of the life revealed affected us because it's life as you know it, as I know it, as our neighbor knows it.

Never was a cast so perfectly picked, never did actors enjoy their roles as in this picturization of laughter and tears. John Walker as the black sheep could not be improved upon for a truly wonderful impersonation; he deserves stardom for this effort alone. Noel Tearle was inimitable as the grouchy Isaac. William Welch excellent as dad. Only one criticism could be recorded and that was the title of Over the Hills to the Poor House, which fortunately has been changed to Over the Hill.

My advice to you all is go and see it; take your family and tell your neighbor's family. You will get your money's worth and more, for it will make you understand life in a broader sense, and it will prove that love is the finest thing in the world—and mother love the greatest of them all.

SUITABILITY

"KING OF THE CIRCUS"

Adapted by Anthony W. Coidewey, directed by J. P. McGowan, starring Eddie Polo, serial, four episodes reviewed, Universal picture.

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

An excellent beginning with plenty of plot to keep the interest alive. Circus atmosphere very realistic and sure to please.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

James Gray, owner of a circus, has adopted and trained for circus life a young girl, Mary Warren. He wants Eddie King put out of the way, as he knows the secret of the young man's parentage, and that he is really the owner of the big show. Old John Winters, a half wit, and the foster parent of Eddie, is shot at by Gray's pistol, to put him out of the way, for he, too, holds the secret of the young man's estate. Gray's henchmen try to kill Eddie by burning a hotel in which Helen Howard, ward of a noted philanthropist, has sought refuge. Eddie saves her at the risk of his life and is welcomed in the rich home of her adopted parents. Many complications ensue, in which the young people have narrow escapes. Eddie recovers and Julius the circus only to place his life in constant jeopardy thru the hatred of Gray.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

Thus far the interest is well sustained and there is enough pep and punch to put over a dozen serials. Something of a thrilling nature is constantly happening which forces Eddie to fight like a demon and knock out a quartet of huskies who attack him from all sides. The best part of the serial is really to come, but the first four episodes establish the characters and motive in a most comprehensive manner and piques the appetite for more. The huge circus with its animation, life and bustle; its wild animals, and big white top, its mess hall and daily routine of the employees proves quite as interesting to adults as it does to the boy who longs for the smell of sawdust and the glamour of pink tights, flying rings and performing horses.

Eddie Polo is well placed in this picture and his many admirers will not be disappointed. A good cast assists, including Harry Madison, Kittoria Beveridge, Charles Fortune and Corinne Porter.

ENTERTAINMENT VALUE

Constantly diverting.

"THE CONFESSION"

National Film Corporation, directed by Bertam Brackie, starring Henry B. Walthall, five reels, story by Hal Reed.

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Very interesting story with pathos and colorful outdoor scenes adding to its charms. Deals in a delicate manner with the sacredness of the confessional.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Tom, the brother of Father Bartlett, is accused of the murder of a friend and convicted of the crime. The priest knows that his brother is innocent thru the confession of a Canadian who had really killed the man, believing that he had wronged his little sister Annette. When he learns that she has been secretly married to him the man in terror asks the priest to absolve him. At the trial the father must not speak, for the confessional is held inviolate and he cannot tell the truth. The Canadian travels far into the backwoods and Tom makes his escape from prison, going in the same direction. In a box car he meets the Canadian, who confesses to him his guilt, but escapes when he recognizes Tom. Then comes a pursuit thru the woods, the father trying to find Tom, but encounters the Canadian, whose conscience drives him to tell the truth. He is taken back to the prison and arrives in time to save Tom from the gallows.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

This is a very engrossing story dealing with the Catholic religion and in such a fine manner as not to offend. It is appealing to all classes, for the story is a probable one and well handled. The continuity and suspense maintain a high level thruout the many dramatic sequences, and the acting of the large cast upholds the melodramatic situations in an excellent manner. Forming a background for the watch of incident are many scenes of woodland, lake and rushing rapids. The elements also play a part in the depiction of the story, the rain storm with its weird night effect supplying realism to a marked degree.

Henry B. Walthall was mildly pleasing as the priest, the best acting being contributed by the Canadian.

A clean picture that will be liked by most any class of fans. The story has been elaborated from the stage play of the same name.

"MADAME PEACOCK"

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Nazimova gives wonderful interpretation of the titular role, forming a strong contrast in the dual impersonation of the actress' daughter. Exotic atmosphere in bizarre surroundings make this a very different type of picture in which the star positively shines resplendent. While submerged in theatrical locations, heart interest breaks thru the glamour of its artificial veneer.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Jane Goring is a famous actress, followed and adored by the public. She affects a highbrow pose, scorning human feeling, living only for fame. She has deserted her consumptive husband and crying child, trampling on everything to attain the pinnacle. As a reporter her husband visits her years after, but she repulses him. At the premiere of a new play she becomes jealous of a young girl who makes the hit of the performance. The curtain calls are for Gloria Cromwell, not for herself. Infuriated and humiliated, she commands her manager to discharge the girl. Seeing the new arrival's success, he tells the star she may go—not the girl. Alone in her luxurious rooms, Jane lives over her past life and realizes at last the devotion of her husband. When he calls with the girl, Gloria, she learns that it is her own child, who has superseded her in the public's favor. Mother-love at last awakened, the family is reunited.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

The opening reel depicting an ovation at the stage door for the famous actress was very cleverly manipulated and all the artifice, assumed mannerisms and selfish egotism of the popular idol were skillfully portrayed by Nazimova, of whom we have no counterpart on the screen or stage. All the tyrannical whims of a temperamental artiste were employed to convey the varying moods as her mobile countenance expressed the entire gamut of emotions, each one as different as were the various patterns in her glorious peacock gown. Artistic and alluring, fascinating and repelling, her arrogant insolence was at times even fascinating. Against a luxurious background the story swept into the triumphant glamour of a theatrical first night with an applauding audience, and the rise of a new star. As a startling contrast in the dual part of the daughter, Gloria, she won sympathy for the poorly clad girl who dared succeed over a famous player.

The heart interest does not enter until late, but the reformation of the woman's soul came gradually and convincingly.

There is nothing to the picture but Nazimova. She dominates as usual and is most fetching with her almond-shaped eyes, her unusual personality that suggests a child of the Orient. There is no warmth in her impersonations—she scintillates but, like cold steel, gives out nothing to affect our emotions. Of suspense or dramatic intensity there is none. But many will like this particular style of screen offering which is, all told, superior to Nazimova's last production. George Probert and John Stepping were efficient in leading roles. Some splendid specimens of photography were shown, and the draggy in spots the direction skillfully held the story together.

City theaters will admire this offering.

"ONCE TO EVERY WOMAN"

Directed by Allen Holubar, starring Dorothy Phillips. Seven reels. Jewel.

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Extravagantly presented picture, which makes the mistake of showing the heroine as an unsympathetic, selfish egotist who reforms too late to win approval of audience.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Small town girl neglects her family who give her the opportunity to educate herself for grand opera. Winning success, her career is cut short by a jealous suitor who shoots from a stage box, injuring her throat, which deprives her of the golden notes. Returning home she accepts the country lover who had remained faithful.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

Hard, glittering and cold are the first few reels of this picture which no doubt cost a pretty penny to produce with its legions of extras and high bowed people shown in the auditorium of the Grand Opera House. Also two acts of a Chinese opera were filmed with Miss Phillips singing the star role and the applauding crowd flashed from many angles. But with all this attempt at the spectacular the story has no direct appeal until the very last reel, and then it seems questionable whether such a woman would consent to marry the rube-like Swede—even if his love was faithful. This throws a damper over the enthusiasm one feels for the outcome of the story, and dissatisfaction results.

A lot of tinkering has taken the pep out of this picture, for it evidently was made four years ago—we believe its first title was "Ambition"—and as the actress looks out her hotel window onto the great White Way she sees an electric sign reading "James K. Hackett and Viola Allen in Macbeth"—which production occurred February 7, 1916.

We have always noticed that a film play revamped and twisted out of semblance to its former self rarely registers successfully. It's like an old dress, which a seamstress tries to remodel—usually with disastrous results.

The present Holubar offering is near great—it has some very gripping moments of suspense, and its sensational scenes behind the curtain as well as in front give an insight into theatrical life which the public devours eagerly. Ostensibly Miss Phillips is an emotional actress of unlimited ability, as witness her "Hearts of Humanity," but in the present offering she is sippant and self-centered, which militates against her charm as the heroine. Her entire performance is surcharged with the progress of her ambition and on thru the years of study, while her successful debut is exciting and skillfully handled. In the last reel her tears proved her ability to arouse the emotions of her auditors.

Both Mr. Holubar and Miss Phillips have improved in their work since the inception of "Once to Every Woman," and we rejoice that they have done so, for this picture, with all its scintillating trappings, its fine costumes and theatrical environment, cannot atone for what it lacks in human interest. It was much too long—the final climax could have come a reel earlier without detracting from the general value.

The cast is a finely selected one, the main weakness being in the construction of the story. But the star has many admirers, and the glitter of this production will no doubt appeal to many fans.

"TIGER'S CUB"

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

A new departure for Pearl White. As a persecuted heroine in an Alaskan atmosphere she smiles, battles and fights her way to happiness. Snow scenes realistic and interest well sustained.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

"Tiger's Cub" is a young girl full of the joy of living despite the rigors of an Alaskan climate and the brutal treatment of her supposed father. David Summers stumbles, almost frozen, into her cabin, where her mother lies ill. He is searching for his father, owner of the Colconda mine, who has been cheated out of his property by two villains, The Tiger and Bill Stark. The Colonel dies from her shots, but leaves a written message with Lone Wolf, a devoted Indian servant. A report is circulated that he committed suicide. Stark promises Tiger a half interest in the mine if the Cub will marry him. Tiger promises, not knowing Stark has a wife and newborn baby, which is found hidden in a basket by the Cub, who takes it home and later claims it as her own when her father forces the distasteful marriage upon her. He beats her cruelly at her refusal and finally wins her consent by threatening to turn her invalid mother out in the snow. After the marriage Stark takes her to his cabin, where his real wife, Hilda, is hiding. When the Cub objects to his advances Hilda shoots him dead. Summers also arrives in time to save the Cub, but is badly wounded. The Sheriff comes to arrest Tiger for Colonel Summer's death and Hilda is left free by the authorities agreeing that Stark committed suicide. The Cub is proclaimed the daughter of her mother's first husband and finds happiness with her lover.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

While this story does not possess the intense qualities which made a former release so thrilling, it nevertheless makes most acceptable screen entertainment. There is not much diversity in the beginning, the action being very slow, advancing nothing, but it gathers momentum as the reels progress. One must take into account the primitive surroundings of the heroine and her helpless condition in the lonely wastes where law and order were too widely scattered to come to her assistance when desperately pressed. Her sacrifice for her mother was logical, and the brutal force brought to bear against her fragile strength drew sympathy for the character. A few discrepancies are apparent, such as the transfer of the mine having no value given, which would void the agreement in law. Also the "suicide excuse" of two characters weaken its effect; an accident could have been introduced in the latter case. The heasty natures of the bad men make many of the situations raw, but none will deny their dramatic power.

The hero was the weakest role in the picture and proved much too negative to appeal. Pearl

"BLACKMAIL"

Scenario by A. S. Le Vino, directed by Dallas M. Fitzgerald, starring Viola Dana, six parts, Metro.

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Most absorbing story, realistically played by the clever star. Is placed in high-class surroundings, and has a surprise finish.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Glossie Golden tries to follow her dying father's advice to be a good crook. In conjunction with his pal Larry, she tries to blackmail a rich young fool, but his mother sends him West. She then vamps the lawyer in the case and it being a matter of mutual love she refuses to obey Larry's commands to go on with their schemes. Harding, the lawyer, marries her and upon their return from the honeymoon Larry threatens exposure. Rather than suffer his blackmailing demands she confesses the truth. Her husband smilingly takes her in his arms, saying he knew all about her career from the beginning, and was sure she would some day confess of her own accord. Larry and his accomplice are arrested.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

The novel twist to this comedy-drama makes a breezy finish quite apart from the general excellence of the work. Fortunately there are no sordid scenes of crookdom—no hideous leering faces of the underworld, but just a mischievous loving girl brought up by a doting father, who stole to keep her in luxuries. She is not a wanton, nor a thief—yet—for her first attempt at the crooked path lends her in the hands of her savior—the man who loves and marries her. To prove the mettle of her character, she up and confesses to her husband, knowing that her glorious love romance may fall forever on account of this avowal. But the skillful arrangement of the scenario makes an entirely different finale—for which the fans will rejoice.

Viola Dana is as cutesy cuddling as ever—big eyed and piquant, and caught the right conception of the role immediately. The story was surrounded with luxuriant settings, attractive gardens, and the costuming was classy and conventional.

Also another big asset is the fine and polished acting of Wynneham Standing, who took a chance of love—but knew pretty well what he was doing.

Alfred Allen, as the father, gave one of his rugged performances. While "Blackmail" is not the sweetest idea in the world it has been so smartly handled that all objectionable features are eliminated. Rather paradoxical to call this a clean story—but it is nevertheless.

Some long shots were very picturesque and the direction left nothing to be desired.

"THE MARRIAGE PIT"

Story by Frederick Isham, scenario by Wallace Clifton, five reels, Universal

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Frank Mayo in a dress suit is always handsome and magnetic, tho we prefer him in the atmosphere of out-of-doors, where his struggles and combats set the heart to vibrating.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Richard Strong is a power in Wall Street, but loves his adversary's daughter, Elnor. The haughty society girl maintains a barrier of caste between the newly rich broker and her angst family. Her father's failure is covered up by Strong, and the girl marries him, even tho she is mildly attached to young Dalton, a society parasite, who marries a cabaret dancer while in a drunken state. Elnor refuses her husband's advances and they drift apart until she learns the nobility of his nature, then her heart awakens with genuine love for the man who wins in a financial battle over his enemies.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

Nothing startling, original or entertaining in this picture which would prove anything but acceptable if denied the strength of Frank Mayo's performance. It is hackneyed stuff and lacks suspense, sympathy and dramatic sequences to put it over. It is neither a good nor bad picture—merely negative. The leading lady is too much stamperish and always looks as tho terribly pained. Also the central idea is foolish—men don't marry women nowadays for platonic reasons and one becomes impatient with a woman who treats her bridegroom with disdain. All this is so obviously movie-made—so wooden and dull, that it seems a shame to waste the time in making such a picture when a good one could be made in the same length of time. Every effort was used to squelch a situation the moment it appeared likely that something would happen. Hence our emotions were not deeply stirred.

Frank Mayo worked conscientiously to implant a degree of life into the story, but his efforts were severely handicapped by poor cast and shoddy story.

"SUNDOWN SLIM"

Starring Harry Carey, Universal, five reels

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Starts out as a good story, but the continuity gets sadly mixed. Not up to the Harry Carey standard.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Box-car tramp bulging with poetry is kicked off a freight at small Western town. He seeks a job as cook and gets mixed up in an attempted murder between a Mexican, Fernando, and Fedeaway, a bad cowboy employed on the Concho ranch. The tramp, Sundown, improves his appearance for the sake of Anita, daughter of Feruando, but, released by the Sheriff on account of his innocence of the first crime, he tumbles into another complication in which a former pal of the road is attempting to rob his brother's safe. The lad is shot by Fedeaway, who places the blame on Sundown, who shoots the intruder when he attempts to enter the shack. The law is on the side of the hero, who is defending his home. Fernando dies from a wound inflicted by the villain, and his daughter showers her love on the lad, Billy, leaving Sundown to settle down a rancher.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

This might have made an interesting picture, but there is too much confusion, too many characters scattered about, with no definite interest centered on any one—not even the star. Carey's role suffers from the weakness of the man portrayed—is not a likable sort even tho he sacrifices himself for the pal of whom we know little. In fact, the picture is much too jumbled, contradictory and undecided to satisfy. It lacks punch and pep. Too frequent shooting affairs—no settled love romance and very ordinary locations spoil what would otherwise have been an interesting story. Besides, the public does not like a dirty, weak-kneed hero unless some extenuating circumstances have brought this condition about. Carey did not seem his old virile self, but we must not place the blame there, for the scenario was too flabby for any actor to stiffen its vertebrae.

This sterling actor should not waste his reputation in such an inferior offering.

"THE SILENT BARRIER"

Story by Charles T. Dazey, directed by William Worthington, starring Sheldon Lewis, five reels, released thru Hodkinson.

Reviewed by MARION RUSSELL

Story lacks punch until the final reel. Depends largely upon its winter scenes at Mowitz, hazardous mountain climbing and an anti-climatic climax which does not materialize. Sheldon Lewis consistent as the villain. Not a totally bad picture, but it attempted something it could not complete.

THE STORY IN SKELETON FORM

Girl reporter on The Argus is pursued by Spencer Bower, noted for his many flames. He has ruined Etta, the daughter of a Swiss guide. Cameron, an American, takes an interest in the girl reporter and supplies the editor with money for a trip to the Alps, where a big carnival takes place. The girl is sent on the mission, closely followed by Bower, who seeks her ruin. She brings the Swiss guide and his daughter together and has many experiences climbing the mountains with the supposed friendly Bower. At last he traps her in a abelter but on the rim of the mountains, where she is rescued by the arrival of Cameron, and Bower in a subsequent struggle with the Swiss falls over the balcony to his death in the glacier canyon below.

THE CRITICAL X-RAY

Telling the story in sub-titles weakens its effect, for its action is slow and arrives at nothing. Many finely arranged scenes go for naught, as the situations lack dramatic strength. Real interest is not aroused until the picture's end and then it is the same old fight and scratch of a girl fighting for her honor. There is nothing subtle about the villain's plans, altho he appears to be a gentleman of polish and refinement. The best part of the picture is the ascent of the Alps and many scenes of deep snow looking decidedly wintery. A big opportunity was lost to supply suspense and thrill during this action, but the hoped for deouement flittered away to our disappointment. Mr. Lewis is a good actor, and Gladys Hulette was the most appealing of the feminine cast. Corrine Barker was lost in an inferior role.

The atmosphere of the Swiss country was about the best thing in the weak and fluctuating story, recalling at times parts of a similar picture—but lacking its greatness. But there are localities where this picture will interest deeply, as care has been taken in its building. Camera work was exceptionally notable. A gripping theme would have made this a splendid offering.

PROGRAM

For Convention of Motion Picture Owners of Southern Ohio

The following program has been announced for the convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of Southern Ohio, at the Hotel Gibson, Cincinnati:

October 7, Morning Session—Registration at 9:30 a.m.; opening session at 11:00 a.m.; address of welcome, by Mayor John Galvin. Afternoon Session—Meeting called to order at 2:00 p.m.; address by Senator Walker of New York at 2:30 p.m. (Senator Walker is the man who was instrumental in passing the Sunday Motion Picture Bill. He also killed the Deposit System in New York State). Sam Burman will address the convention as the official representative of the M. P. T. O. of America, and outline in detail the workings and purposes of our national organization. Automobile rides for the ladies in the afternoon. At the time of registration theater tickets will be issued, which will admit all members and their wives at the various theaters. At 8:00 p.m. a smoker and private screening of the latest feature subject obtainable: Banquet Hall, Hotel Gibson.

October 8, Morning Session—Convention called to order 10 a.m.; address by Harry W. Kress, Piqua, O., who will outline past legislative accomplishments, also the attitude of the Ohio State Screen League. Business to be discussed: organization, deposits, music tax, advance payments, five per cent rental tax.

Afternoon Session—Meeting starts 2 p.m.; open discussion; election of officers, reports of committees, unfinished business, new business. Adjournment. Banquet in banquet hall at the Hotel Gibson at 6:30 p.m. Vandeville, cabaret, etc. At least two movie stars are expected to be present, and Cox and Harding, Davis and Donahy have been invited.

The following letter has been sent to all exhibitors of Southern Ohio:

Fellow Exhibitor:
To make quite certain that you will be in Cincinnati next Thursday, October 7, at 10 a.m. I am writing you this letter from a sick bed. The doctor told me to "take it easy," but I feel that my FIRST duty at the present time is toward YOU.

Yesterday, the temporary executive committee held another meeting; as a result I can now tell you that our convention next week will be second in importance only to the one held at Cleveland last June.

Senator Walker of New York will in all probability be with us; Berman is going to be there as the representative of the National Organization. Cox, Harding, Davis and Donahy all have been invited.

Enclosed herewith please find copy of our program. The entertainment committee has provided a dandy layout for exhibitors and their wives. It is very important that you immediately return the enclosed postal card, as the limited time requires quick action.

I want to make it clear that the convention will be for independent theater owners ONLY. Our prime object will be to perfect a permanent State organization for YOUR benefit and mine.

ALL PRESENT OFFICERS SERVE TEMPORARILY ONLY UNTIL THE CONVENTION ELECTS PERMANENT OFFICERS. I want to make it clear that STEAM ROLLER tactics will not be tolerated. YOUR voice means and counts as much as anybody's; the small exhibitor will be given just as much consideration as the "big fellow."

Hotel reservations should be made at once, as the races bring an unusual amount of strangers to Cincinnati. Write the Gibson direct if you like and tell them to reserve your room. In the meantime, please be sure and drop the enclosed postal card in the nearest mail box.

Very urgently yours,
FRED S. MEYER, Chairman,
Publicity Committee.

NEW COMEDIES IN THE FIELD

Denver, Col., Sept. 29.—Edward LaZar, comedian, who recently finished work here in "On the Work Market," the first of a series of one reel comedies to have been produced by Billiken Comedian, Inc., announced that henceforth he would head a local company of his own to be known as LaZar Comedies, Inc.

The first picture of a series of six will be "The Haunted Hotel," after which will be produced "The Plumber," to be followed by burlesque on "Romeo and Juliet," and "The Taming of the Shrew."

Mr. LaZar announced the names of the following as officers of the corporation: S. N. Marsee, president; Charles E. Patrick, secretary and treasurer; Dr. L. K. Painter, first vice-president; Dr. A. P. Alexander, second vice-president.

He said he would go to California soon for the purpose of securing a director for the production to be made. The first of the comedies is to be completed October 15, according to Mr. LaZar.

LANSING CONVENTION

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 2.—Arrangements are being made in Lansing for the annual convention of the Michigan Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, which is to be held October 5 and 6. Among the matters to be taken up are the continuance of plans to defeat censorship, legalized Sunday opening, the deposit system, equitable contracts, reduction in taxation, fair film rentals and elimination of the music tax. Efforts will be made also to solidify the association already formed so the exhibitors will be a unit in every action. In the announcement of the convention commendation is made of Speaker Thomas Reade of the Michigan House of Representatives, and his nomination on the Republican ticket for lieutenant governor. He is praised as a friend of the motion picture exhibitors and for his efforts in defeating movie censorship. The statement declares that the movie houses aided in his campaign by displaying political announcements in his behalf in the theaters of the State, and that his success was partly due at least to this support. It is expected that Mr. Reade will be present to address the convention.

In connection with censorship attention is directed to the fact that efforts were made at the Republican State convention in Saginaw last week to insert a plank in the platform calling for censorship of motion pictures. This feature was included in the original draft of the resolutions sent out by the Associated Press, but it was later eliminated, the committee or convention having accidentally decided it was not wise.

"SCREEN TESTS"

Edward Small, head of the Edward Small Motion Picture Enterprises, proposes to revolutionize the old time-worn method of presenting stage and screen artists to the producing managers. Mr. Small has just returned from a motor trip thru the Middle West, where he looked over a number of the large studios. He says he noticed that many innovations have been made in the studios, and that the motion picture producers are right up to the minute in latest efficiency methods. The progressive spirit, he says, shown by the movie men, has given him the idea for this new innovation, which will be known as "private screen tests."

"What I propose to do," said Mr. Small, speaking of his observations in the various studios, "is to erect a star motion picture photograph gallery. By this I mean that instead of using photographs to show managers the various women and men stars, whose business affairs we manage, we will use a studio projecting room and throw the star on the screen in scenes and closeups, so that the producing manager can see the star that he is negotiating for just as he or she will appear in a screen production. These will be known as 'screen tests.'

"Of course, we will also use 'still' photographs, too, but the still photograph of a star as a means of selling producing managers a star is fast becoming obsolete. It does not really meet the demand of the motion picture producer when it comes to getting a line on how a star will appear on the screen. I propose to have," continued Mr. Small, "this projecting room right next to my office, with a door leading into it, so that I can take a manager into the studio projecting room and say throw five to ten selected players on the screen so that he may see them just as they appear and thereby save time in showing photographs and arranging interviews. This will be done purely as an efficiency method and as a convenience for the producing manager and the motion picture actor as well. I believe it is going to save a lot of time and trouble. While it will cost considerable money, I believe it will prove a good investment. I am now looking for a building where I can have this projecting room and all the offices of my various enterprises connected together."

Mr. Small's motion picture gallery of stars will be the first one to be erected in this country, and shows the advancement being made in the motion picture world. Ever since the beginning of photography there has been the time-worn photograph gallery. But these have always been the still photographs.

Mr. Small's new gallery for screen tests will show the stars under his management in actual life poses, so that the various screen characterizations and mannerisms of the star may be seen by the manager who is negotiating for him or her services.

REVISED TAX REGULATIONS PUBLISHED

The National Association of the Motion Picture Industry has secured for its members thru its Washington office a supply of copies of the regulations relating to the collection of tax on motion picture films, revised to August, 1920, and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury Department.

The regulations quote Section 906 of the Revenue Act of 1918 and excerpts from the various sections of the law relating to the imposition of the tax, the persons liable, the measure of the tax, how and when the transfer of burden of tax may be made; reference to the Act of February 24, 1919, imposing a tax and the fact that persons liable under the original act are not relieved of such liability under the additional law.

Provisions are made for the rate and payment of the tax. The power of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue is also further extended to assist him in collecting the tax and he has the benefits of all existing internal laws which are made applicable to films.

Special mention is made of medium of payment of tax and for the use of uncertified checks. Also the procedure given with respect to dishonored or bad checks.

Misrepresentation of tax and penalty for failure of the person liable for payment of taxes are given at length.

Copies of the regulations have been forwarded to all National Association Company members throughout the United States.

C. D. Cooley, president of the State exhibitors, and who is one of the leading factors in the fight here, states that the men have exhibited a willingness to return on the old scale, but that neither he nor T. F. Kane, the Lynch Enterprises manager here, can see their way clear to throw out the men whom they brought here and who kept their houses open when the union men went out without awaiting his (Cooley's) return from New York, he not having an opportunity to pass on the new contract sought, as the men presented it while he was in New York and refused to wait until his return for an answer.

They state that so far as they can learn the boycott is having no effect on business.

MOTION PICTURE LAWS

MONTANA

The State of Montana does not require a special license for motion picture theaters. This is controlled entirely by counties and towns.

Section 8309 of the Revised Codes of Montana of 1907, as amended by an act approved March 6, 1915, Session Laws of 1915, page 146, provides as follows:

"Every person who on Sunday, or the first day of the week, keeps open or maintains, or who aids in opening or maintaining any dance hall, dance house, race track, gambling house or poolroom, variety hall or in any other place of amusement where any intoxicating liquors are sold or dispensed, is guilty of a misdemeanor; provided, however, that the provision of this section shall not apply to such dancing halls or pavilions as are maintained or conducted in public parks or playgrounds where no admission is charged, and where good order is maintained, and where no intoxicating liquors are sold."

The Supreme Court in construing this act held that the operation of moving pictures shown on Sunday is not a violation of this section where it is shown that the pictures are of a clean and moral character and have been approved by a general board of censors located in another State. Stata vs. Penny, 42 Mont. 113, 111 Pac. 727, 31 L. R. A. (N. S.) 1156, and Chapter 81 of the Laws of 1913 provide as follows:

"No license shall be required for the operation or exhibition of moving pictures shown in any city, town or village where the population does not exceed 1,500. In all other cities the license shall be twenty-five dollars per year."

The building requirements, etc., are usually governed by city ordinances and such building regulations as a rule come under the supervision of the Fire Marshal or Fire Chief of the various cities and towns.

MUSICIANS DROP DEMAND

Canton, O., Oct. 1.—After weeks of agitation the Canton Musicians' local has dropped its fight to compel downtown theater managers to install orchestras in their houses. When the agreement expired September 1 this was one of the demands submitted to the theater managers, who insisted that they could not afford to maintain orchestras in the houses. Only three of ten theaters here have orchestras regularly, the Grand Opera House, Strand and Lyceum.

these reports no more than routine consideration. Once in a while the censors make a little stir in the press, all of which serves to justify their existence to themselves and the regular drawing of their salaries. As to the rest, the censors are very much afraid of the laugh of public opinion, and they "censor" accordingly.

There is no room for censorship of any kind in this country if men of intelligence, with an American spirit in their hearts, will stand together to fight and prevent it.

NEWS ITEMS

The National Board of Review has noted several pictures lately which have positive value for church people. Attention is called to such dramas as "The Great Redeemer," "The Love of Youth," "Way Down East," "Over the Hill to the Poor House," "The Land of Opportunity," "The Servant in the House" and "The Eternal Light," formerly "Christus."

A great and growing demand is being made for motion pictures which clearly depict the processes of industry. Schools desire to arouse boys and girls to the romance of business. Working men welcome facts about other lines than their own. It is of importance, therefore, to announce that these films are being listed with full facts by the National Committee for Better Films, a department of the National Board of Review, in New York.

A compact and informative catalog also of motion pictures dealing with health, disease, nursing and preventive agencies has been gathered and made available by the National Committee for Better Films. CARNIVAL AND CIRCUS NEWS

LIVE STOCK SHOW

The International Will Open in Dexter Pavilion, Chicago, Nov. 27—American Assn. of Fairs To Meet Nov. 30—Dec. 2—Showmen's League Ball Dec. 1

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Announcement has been made that the International Live Stock Show will open in Dexter Pavilion November 27 and last until December 4, inclusive. It is also announced that the annual meeting of the secretaries of the American Association of Fairs will be held in Chicago November 30-December 1-2. The annual banquet and ball of the Showmen's League of America will be held on the night of December 1, at a time when all of the persons interested in the outdoor show world will be present and have the opportunity of attending.

STEPANI FUNERAL IMPRESSIVE

Tonight in the extreme were the scene and services that marked the funeral and interment (on September 22) of Oscar Stepani, Armenian musician, who lost his life in the recent railroad wreck that befell the Great Southwestern Exposition Shows near Peppy, Tex. The management of the shows had the body prepared for burial in Paris, Tex., and transported it to Bonham, their next stand, where, with some 150 members of the shows and many citizens of Bonham attending, the "stranger in a strange land was given a decent, Christian burial," as The Bonham Daily Favorite fittingly describes it. Led by the band, playing sacred selections, dear to the hearts of all, and with a long line of filled autos and pedestrians following the funeral car, bearing the flower-laden casket, the cortege wound its way to the beautiful Willow Grove Cemetery at Bonham, where Rev. F. W. O'Malley held a brief but very impressive service, and all that remained of Oscar Stepani, save the fond memories, love and respect left to be ever cherished by his surviving family and friends, was laid to rest in a most commendatory manner.

CONEY MOURNS PRINCE

New York, Sept. 29.—Paul Bergfeld, steward of the Atlantic Athletic Club, wishes the show folk members now on tour to know that the club's mascot, "Prince," the spaniel owned by Joe McGary, was run down and killed by a speeding antelope. Mr. McGary had it buried at Sheephead Bay amidst the mourning of his numerous admirers. Prince was well known to everyone at Coney, and its intelligence was remarkable, so much so that at a regular meeting of the Atlantics it was enrolled as an honorary member for life and led the parade at their recent outing.

CASSIDY-VAN DIVER NUPTIALS

"WORLD'S BEST" LIKED

Oklahoma City, Ok., Oct. 2.—The C. A. Wortham World's Best Shows, in charge of genial Fred Beckmann, as general manager, gave very satisfactory exhibitions during the State Fair at Oklahoma City this week. The big show pleased a large number of people and is expected to return in the future, as it has been doing for several years past. Muskogee, Ok. (fair), will be the next stop.

"KIL" IN THE SOUTH

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Charles (Kil) Kilpatrick will visit all the carnivals, circuses and State fairs in the South, pinning his insurance and boosting his trip around the world this winter. Next week he will be with the Johnny J. Jones Exposition at the Alabama State Fair, Birmingham, going from there to the Texas State Fair at Dallas, to be with the Clarence A. Wortham Shows.

MEMORIAL LEAGUE CELEBRATION

Long Island City, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The War Memorial League will hold a celebration on the streets of this city, from October 11 to 20. The district in which it will be held is heavily decorated. Bernard W. Timony is the chairman in charge for the committee. Record crowds are expected.

NEGOTIATING FOR PATENTS

New York, Oct. 2.—A number of prominent showmen are negotiating for the purchase of all the patent rights of the late Frederick Thompson from his widow, included in the list is his last sensational achievement in mechanical devices, "The Fly-A-Way." This is admirably adapted for indoor and outdoor construction.

"TEXAS" CLARK IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 2.—"Texas" Clark passed thru this week, en route from Kansas City to Bridgeport, Conn. Swope Park, Kansas City, recently purchased two elephants from Ringling Brothers, and Mr. Clark was sent East to attend to the shipment, which was routed thru Albany and Buffalo, according to him.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS

Business with the Sells-Floto Circus has been very good thru Kansas and Oklahoma. With favorable weather and the show moving on schedule time, every stand surpassed all expectations. H. H. Tammen and Otto Floto and wife came on at Muskogee to look the show over. Ed Brennan, former circus man, but now employed by the M. K. & T. Railroad at Parsons, Kan., was shaking hands with old friends at Parsons. Val Vino was in the dressing room at Parsons combining business with pleasure. He is agent for a Louisiana oil company. Hank Young, probably the best known drummer in the circus business, is the latest addition to C. L. Brown's band. Minnie Malone Travis, formerly a circus performer, and who is now playing fair dates, stopped over between trains in Muskogee and enjoyed a Sunday dinner in the cookhouse with friends. Afternoon tea parties are quite a fad these days, especially in the ladies' dressing room, and quite a few of the men folks find time to drink a cup between card games. Albert Hodgini is doing his principal act again, after an enforced layoff, due to an injury to his back during the "Indian" act. Tony Parker filled in during Mr. Hodgini's absence and rode a principal act in a very creditable manner. Carl Milvo and wife closed with the show in Salina, Kan., and returned to their home in Cortland, N. Y. Joe Miller, of the Ringling-Barnum Shows, was a visitor at McKinney, Tex., the R.-B. Show being only a few miles away, at Greenville. Among the Sells-Floto people to motor over to Greenville and visit were: J. W. Braun-don, W. E. Wells, Frank Loftus, Chas. Rooney, Duke Mills and James O'Connell. McKinney, Tex., turned out to be one of the best stands of the month—a turnaway in the afternoon and very big at night.—EARL SHIFFLEY.

HOWE'S GREAT LONDON SHOWS

Business with Howe's Great London Shows for the first week in Texas was not as anticipated, for, as a whole, it was bad. Harry L. Joffre rejoined the show at Hubbard, after an absence of four weeks. Ben Haasan remained in Hubbard to take a course of hot mineral baths to overcome malaria fever. Harry Deango is also laying off there for the same purpose. Claude Orton, the boss hostler, joined at Stamps, Ark., and will take charge of the baggage stock in the near future. Joe Bonhomme joined from Velda, Kan., at Bay City. Sydney Procter Colari, cornetist and son of the band director, died at Bay City of typhoid-malaria. Sydney was one of the most polite and best liked members of the show. Hubbard, Tex., Sept. 20.—Very poor business in the afternoon. In fact, it was the smallest attendance of the season. Night business was very good. McGregor, Tex., Sept. 21.—Very small attendance at the afternoon performance, with excellent patronage in the evening. Cameron, Tex., Sept. 22.—Business very good at both performances. Caldwell, Tex., Sept. 23.—Very good attendance in the afternoon; fair in the evening. Eagle Lake, Tex., Sept. 24.—Capacity at both performances; the best day's business of the week. Bay City, Tex., Sept. 25.—Fair business in afternoon, with very good attendance at night.

CUBAN BUYING MATERIAL

COMA

Secures Hearing in Kansas

W. H. Rice advises that COMA is to be given a hearing at Topeka, Kan., October 26, by the Court of Industrial Relations of the State of Kansas. It is the hope of showmen that out of this hearing will come more equitable railroad rates for the movement of show trains in Kansas.

W. W. POWER'S FUNERAL

Many Showmen Attend Last Rites of "Elephant Man" in Fort Lee, N. J.

New York, Oct. 2.—W. W. Power, who died Friday, September 24, was born in Belleville, Ont., Can., July, 1869. He is survived by a wife and an eight-year-old son, Thomas; a brother, T. P. J. Power, manager of Killies Band, and a sister, Maud, who resides in Belleville, Ont. Mr. Power entered the show business with a brother, Tom, in 1892, and managed the Carman Opera House in Belleville for seven years, under the name of Power Brothers. After this he took a position with the Rhoda Royal Circus for a season and then went with the Walter J. Main Circus for six years. He became treasurer for Col. Cummings' Wild West Show in 1905. He purchased a herd of elephants from Walter L. Main and one of his first vaudeville contracts was made with Thompson & Dundy of the New York Hippodrome. He went to the Hippodrome on a two weeks' contract at the opening of the house, about fifteen years ago, and played there every season since. Power's Elephants are still a big drawing card for that house. "Bill" was known all over the show world and had a great host of friends. He was buried from his late home in Fort Lee, N. J., and the house was filled with showmen, who paid their respects to a man who everyone knew as "Bill". There was a profusion of floral tributes, among them being a perfectly formed elephant, symbolic of his life vocation. It stood three feet high and four and a half feet long. It was sent by officials of the New York Hippodrome.

ROY GRAY SHOWS

Somerville, Tenn., Sept. 30.—The Roy Gray Shows are playing their first still date in two months here, under the auspices of the American Legion, the location being on the streets. Monday night started off good, but cold weather has since put a damper on business. The fall for this season have all been bigger than ever before. There are still five fairs on the itinerary, which carries the show into Alabama the first week in November. All shows and rides are under new canvas. Mr. Gray has purchased another light plant. Every bally and panel front has been repainted. Dare-Devil Apple is again riding the dome, after two weeks in hospital, due to a fall and "burns" received four weeks ago. The lineup of attractions and their managers is as follows: Roy Gray's merry-go-round, Lewis Schlamp; Mrs. Harry Allen, tickets. Boat swing, Sam Parks; Dan Haley, tickets. Animal Show, Mack McKenzie; Albert McKenzie, tickets. Minstrel show, Harry Allen, featuring Kid Nelson and eight performers, and Gaines' Jazz orchestra. The owners and riders at the Motor-drome are: Dapsy Jones, Lester Knox and Dare-Devil Apple, Joe Funk being the talker and Stella Peck selling the tickets. Lewis Bright's "King Mac-a-Dula," Scotty Wood, manager. Capt. Worley's Monkey and Bird Show and other exhibits, featuring Prof. Rex, in upside-down escapes; Walter Dixon, tickets. The concessions are: Mrs. Roy Gray, cuples and glass; Mr. and Mrs. Nat Perlman, Chinese baskets and cigar wheel; Chas. Funk, candy; Lewis Bright, pop-em-in; Tom Detrick, country store, pitch-thru-you-win and two ball games; Mr. and Mrs. Derough, juice and ball game; Bill Inman, ball game; Mr. and Mrs. John Doyle, palmistry and jewelry; Sam Parks, high striker; Chief Kosumbangh, palmistry; "Fat" Price and Dad Foster, cookhouse. Staff: Roy Gray, owner and manager; Mrs. Gray, treasurer; Joe Funk, secretary; Louis Bright, assistant secretary; Mae McKenzie, trainmaster; Harry Allen, lot superintendent; John Murphy, electrician.—LITTLE DUTCH.

MILLER BROS.' SHOWS

Rome, Ga., Sept. 29.—The Miller Bros.' Circus and Exposition Shows arrived here from Johnson City, Tenn., in good time. The engagement opened under the auspices of the American Legion, on a very good location and the shows and concessions are in for a good week. Among the many visitors on the lot was Felix Biel, general agent of the Zeldman & Poille Exposition Shows, who will have his shows at the North Georgia Fair, to be held here the week of October 11. Mr. Biel started his carnival connection as general agent with the Great American shows, under the management of Morris Miller, now the owner of the Miller Bros.' Shows. Mr. Biel found many of his old friends with the show, among them W. F. Latham, secretary, who was the secretary for four years on the Great American Shows, as well as on the J. F. Murphy Shows, when Mr. Biel was the general agent of both shows. Louis Friedell, better known as "Jew Murphy," gave a dinner in honor of Mr. Biel at the Hotel General Forrest, and had, besides Mr. Biel, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller and their son, Maurice, and W. F. Latham. From here the show goes to the Cartersville (Ga.) Fair.

PATTS CLOSE

Will Rest for Two Weeks

Chicago, Oct. 2.—The Aerial Patts, who closed their fair season in Durand, Wis., this week, were Billboard visitors today. Tony Patt said it was the most successful fair season the Patts have ever had. The Patts will take their first rest in fourteen months at their home in Grand Rapids, Mich., for two weeks. While there they will make a lot of repairs which Tony is said to enjoy doing when he is "resting." The Patts said that the season has been an exceptionally long one, about fourteen months without the loss of a single day. Following the two weeks' rest the team will open on Butterfield Time in Jackson, Mich., October 24.

the number of these concessions was three times that of the previous year, when Saturday night came many were enthusiastic over the week's business and no dissenting voices were heard.

Camp Vail, which housed more than 2,000 boys and girls from the ten North Atlantic States, was another feature of the exposition, as was an Indian Village, constructed by Boy Scouts of this section and inhabited by them during the week. The Massachusetts Building, erected by the State a little over a year ago, and which contained the exhibits of the Commonwealth, received its share of attendance. It is expected by the time of the exposition in 1921 that both the State of Maine and the State of Vermont will have work well under way for separate buildings. Both of these States have been taking large spaces in the exhibit hall heretofore.

Among the many distinguished visitors who paid the exposition a visit was Secretary Edwin T. Meredith, of the United States Department of Agriculture, who went away completely "sold" on the prospects of New England being able to take care of itself as a food-producing territory, and also to the exposition as being "the show window of the North Atlantic States." Other prominent guests of the exposition included the Governor of Vermont and many Massachusetts State officials.

Financially the exposition exceeded even the fondest hopes of those whose untiring effort made it a success. The throngs which crowded the grounds and paid admission not only to the gate, but to the race track and to the horse show, were partly responsible for the financial end of it, but the work of the exposition heads should not go unnoticed. President Joshua L. Brooks and General Manager John C. Simpson came in for their share of the praise. Undoubtedly the financial record will prove an inspiration to them to make the 1921 show even greater. As it is, the Eastern States Exposition today stands in a class by itself. In no other place in the East is there a show of the same high caliber and dimension. The beautiful grounds, the permanent buildings and the fast track are not exceeded in any Eastern

"CELEBRATION CITIES LEAGUE" FROM COAST TO COAST PLANNED

or celebrations on a pretentious scale are requested and urged to join the league. They are invited to participate and to send delegates to a mammoth convention to be held in Cincinnati at the earliest date the visiting members may indicate by wire or letter.

The object of this congress of celebration cities is to arrange dates chronologically, thereby obviating conflict of interests. It is the high aim that each member of the League shall be for all and that all shall be for each one—making a happy and powerful unity of community interests.

Mr. Hutchin, who has achieved great distinction as a master of pageantry, staged many of the more important pageants and spectacles at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition. He was prominently identified with the production of motion pictures at Los Angeles. He was the creator of the Rose Festival that made Portland world famous, and he has directed the greater celebrations and expositions of other centers of population.

It is Mr. Hutchin's intention to issue soon the call for the convention and to make Cincinnati the hub of the grand cycle of national events.

Cincinnati is launching a very magnificent program of celebrations. Its first big event will be known as "The Pageant and Masque of Cincinnati." Probably more than 10,000 people will participate in the production. It will cost a princely sum and will surpass in splendor and artistry any similar event ever attempted. Already arrangements are being made for a chorus of 5,000 voices to round out the pageant and masque. A commodious site for a gigantic stadium and arena to be used for the pageant and other mammoth productions has been chosen near the University of Cincinnati. It is hoped that the International Olympian Games will be held here.

Will R. Reeves, of the Community Service Bureau, was the originator of the organization, which is composed of the most notable public-spirited men and women of Cincinnati.

The Mayors of a thousand cities will be invited to attend a congress of municipal executives in this city during the pageant, and all cities in the League of Festivals, extending from coast to coast, will labor for its success and will attend the ceremonies. It is fully believed that practically every large city of the United States will be represented.

All cities interested in the welfare of their people, in the growth of their industries and the entertainment of their citizens and the world at large should indicate that interest by a wire or letter to George L. Hutchin, care of The Billboard, Cincinnati, Ohio. All are invited to participate.

"Old Joe" Campbell Passes On

God has pardoned "Old Joe" Campbell and has taken him home. The old circus man, for whose pardon The Billboard has been working, passed peacefully away, following an acute attack of stomach trouble, Wednesday evening, September 29, in the hospital of the penitentiary at Philadelphia. He was 70 years old. Burial took place Saturday, October 2, from the home of Campbell's newly-found niece, Mrs. Ada Smith, of Philadelphia. Months ago The Billboard started a movement to secure the release of Campbell from the penitentiary, as there were good grounds for believing him innocent of the crime with which he was charged. Matters dragged along thru seemingly interminable lengths of red tape, but of late indications pointed to a favorable outcome of the fight, and it was the hope that "Old Joe" could be set free before Christmas. His passing on is a merciful relief from the misery he endured for years.

pantomime Miss Hylton established quite a reputation during the eighties. Among the songs she made popular were "By the Side of the Zuerder Zee," "Linger, Linger, Loo," "Dear Old Boy," "The Last of the Dandies" and a score of others. In 1894 Miss Hylton married H. E. material, using the baseball scandal as an added verse in one of their parodies. They have sense enough to omit any parody on prohibition.

AHaire and Sheldon have a mediocre juggling act. Indian clubs were juggled on stages in Noah's time, and this act nearly dies on its feet. A little novelty injected in the act would help put it over.—CLIFFORD KNIGHT.

Kelth's, Cincinnati

(Reviewed Monday Matinee, October 4)

Variety was the keynote of the new bill this afternoon. No thrilling, hair-raising stunts nor musical comedy offerings were presented, but other good vaudeville was capably handled and combined into a very entertaining show, thru which there ran just enough comedy—refined and ridiculous—to relieve any monotony. Headline honors went to George Kelley & Company and McConnell Sisters, with Senator Frank Murphy and Joe Cook making about a 50-50 race for spirited laughter, the latter satisfactorily continuing his antics thru the final offering. About a two-thirds house was in attendance.

Kinograms was offered while the last ones were being seated.

Sylvia Loyal and Company, in "La Charmeuse de Pigeons," opened and gave the show a fine start. Remarkable grace and versatility, introducing slack wire, juggling, hat juggling, a trained canine and large flock of pigeons. Eleven minutes; full stage; two curtains.

Lew and Paul Burdock, in a song and dance cocktail. These boys do clever work, on the more quiet "scarecrow" dance order. More variety in style and steps would go over better, altho the comedy exit after each number got applause. Eight minutes, in one; three bows.

George Kelley and Company, in "The Flattering Word," kept their audience on the alert so that not a line of situation was missed. Mr. Kelley registered with his appearance and talent in the leading role, and the supporting cast comprising G. Davidson Clark, Doris Dagmar, Alice Parks and Polly Redfern, each did justice to their respective characterizations. This playlet is truly refreshing and affords much opportunity for good acting. The many amusing lines call for almost continuous outbursts of laughter. Particularly in this notable "Mrs. Zooker," played by Miss Parks, a worthy four minutes; four curtains; special set; full stage.

Anna Chandler, with Sidney Landfield at the piano. This titian-haired comedienne stopped the show and was the recipient of deserved appreciation throughout her offerings. Twenty-six minutes, in one; two bows, encore, bow, speech, encore.

Senator Frank Murphy had his audience going right from the start with his "political campaign stump speech," and kept them with him until the finish. Stopped the show. Current subjects make the act quite up to date. Twenty-five minutes, in one; three bows, speech.

Harriet and Marie McCounell, in "Bustles and Frills." In a quiet, easy-going manner they sang themselves into favor and made a commendable display of talent and wardrobe, the "butterfly" number being especially elaborate. Numerous popular selections were rendered, and some of the oldtime favorites, including "Annie Laurie" and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," aided by clear tone of voice and novel scenic production, were exceedingly well received. They were repeatedly recalled and responded. Twenty minutes, in one and two; four bows.

Joe Cook and his "One-Man Vaudeville Show" caused many outbursts of unrestrained laughter from various parts of the house. He went big—that tells the whole story. Twenty minutes, in one; three bows.

Alexander Brothers and Evelyn, billed as the "world's greatest ball bouncers," closed the show, and did wonderful work with the small rubber globes. All worked in straight makeup and pretty wardrobe, ahead of a special plush drop, in which several pockets are used to good advantage. This is a commendable act, but badly of sufficient life to close a bill. However, Joe Cook, the comical cutup, pulled some fine burlesque—ouija board "telling him where there was a bottle," etc.—and nearly all remained in their seats. Fourteen minutes, full stage.—CHARLES BLUE.

LYCEUM AND CHAUTAUQUA COMMITTEE REPORTS

Thus do all these alleged wrongs spring from conditions which exist now and have existed for years. Therefore our system of committee reports did not create them, but it alone can right the wrongs from which talent has so unjustly suffered—the wrong of misrepresentation. Under the present condition an attraction getting a severe newspaper criticism, or an unjust adverse report by some spiteful committeeman, has no defense. But after our report system has been operating for a term of years the attraction injured can proudly appeal to its record as shown by the verdict of scores and hundreds of committee reports. Thus are these committee reports rendering a mighty service everywhere to the people on the platform and to the general public which supports them. They are a bulwark of defense, a source of freedom and independence—in short, an assurance of permanent employment for all attractions of real merit.

But the chief complaint against the committee report system is that our Lyceum and Chautauqua committeemen are not really competent for the task, that they are not the proper persons to make out these reports. To which I answer that surely the men who buy all the talent have a right to give their opinion of the quality of the thing bought. These committeemen serve without pay. Their only motive is to benefit the community in which they live. They report not to a bureau, but to their fellow committeemen thruout the country. It is a co-operative system that enables the committeemen to tell each other what they think of the talent we are furnishing them. The honor and reputations of these committeemen are at stake. Who are the men and the women thruout the country who voluntarily serve on Lyceum and Chautauqua committees? As a rule they are the best educated and most public-spirited people in each community. Therefore I contend that they are logically and by right of service the chosen individuals who should make the reports.

EQUAL RIGHTS TO ALL MEMBERS

Talent and managers alike, and all others who believe in equality of opportunity, and that the success of each should be in proportion to the merits of the service rendered, should defend and promote a system which gives up to the most reliable information obtainable the facts as to actual merits and achievements of our platform people.

Already we have secured more real and vital information thru these committee reports in this one year than in all the years of our organization. They will be studied by Psychologists and Sociologists. They alone can furnish the basis for a real Science of Public Entertainment. They will become a mine of information on the psychology of public audiences.

Each year, amidst the multitude of things that claim our attention, we should endeavor to do some one really great thing, that will remain as a permanent achievement, as a monument to the particular convention which had the wisdom to adopt it. I yield to no one in my love for the I. L. C. A. My anxiety and zeal for its welfare were never greater than at this sad hour. And so I offer as my humble contribution to the welfare of this organization a system for the Classification of Talent and the Committee Report Service—the one telling what we do, the other telling how we do it. The Classification of Talent seems to have been universally accepted as a permanent contribution. And I am grateful for that. The fate of the proposed Committee Report hangs in the balance. But so strong is my conviction in the need and justice of these reports, and so strong my faith in the ever-expanding vision of the members of this organization, that I shall leave this field of noble endeavor in the belief that it will come some time, even tho it does not come now.

Have you looked thru the Yester List in this issue? There may be a letter advertised for you.

was one of the big hits of the evening with her syncopated selections.

The production is gorgeously costumed and Ziegfeld has selected the usual bevy of beauties that compose the chorus of his shows. The numbers are led by Teddy Gerard, Billy Mason, Kathlene Marlyn, Herbert Hoey and Annette Ude, none of whom have remarkable voices, but are quite sufficient vocally to put the songs over. The Fairbanks Twins, Arlue Chase and Helen Shea danced; all were good, particularly the Fairbanks Twins.

Joseph Urban has provided several effective settings for the numbers, which have been ably staged by Edward Hoeyce. A word of praise is rightly due Al Dalby for the colorful orchestration he has provided for the score. He has fresh ideas and displays sound musicianship in the way he works them out.

The new "Midnight Frolic" is speedy, tuneful, gay. It makes good on its merits as an entertainment despite the fact that the show bowl only contains "Bevo."—GORDON WHYTE.

EXCERPTS FROM THE NEW YORK DAILIES

World: "... far excels any entertainment of this class attempted by Florence Ziegfeld, Jr."

Evening Sun: "... quite up to the high standard of beauty and production which Mr. Ziegfeld has set in the past."

"BROADWAY BREVITIES"

THE CAST—Hal Van Rensselaer, George LeMaire, Teck Murdoch, Peggy Mitchell, Alrah Penton, Ona Hamilton, Eddie Buzzell, Peggy Parker, Genevieve Houghton, Maxwell Francis, Natalie Kingston, Ula Sharon, Bert Williams, Edith Hallor, Eddie Cantor, Paul Van Dyke, Vera Grosset, Alexia Kosloff, William Sully, Marcelle Barnes, Florence Kern.

"Broadway Brevities" scores strongest from the comedy angle. It is a splendid laughing show, as might have been expected from the fact that Bert Williams, Eddie Cantor and George LeMaire are in the cast. These men deserve much credit for getting the laughs they do, for the Winter Garden is no easy place to get comedy across.

The piece has no plot, of course. It is composed of numbers, girls, costumes and comedy. Outside of the Williams-Cantor-LeMaire trio nobody has much of a chance to do much of the last named. But they provide plenty of it. What little is done by other members of the cast is of the "prohibition" variety, a brand of humor which is fast becoming very boring.

Bert Williams has a better chance in this show than he has had for a long time, and makes the most of it. Eddie Cantor shines more as a comic than as a singer and makes good. George LeMaire plays a splendid straight and has much to do with the laughs the "comics" get.

The show is shy on voices. Edith Hallor makes a pretty picture, but her vocal equipment is not for the Winter Garden. Hal Van Rensselaer and Maxwell Francis essay some singing with indifferent results. Paul Van Dyke yodeled and made abundantly good.

The music is tuneful, but not distinctive. "Lu-Lu" and "Spanish Love" being better than the rest of the numbers. "Lu-Lu" would probably be a smashing hit in a smaller theater if sung by a good vocalist.

Ula Sharon, a diminutive dancer, gave a very finished performance. She scored with a couple of solo dances and in a story dance with Alexia Kosloff. There is little other dancing in the show worthy of mention.

The costumes and staging are first-rate. The scenery is well designed, and one or two acts make beautiful stage pictures. The one blot on the production is some dirt used by Eddie Cantor. There is not much of it and what there is could well be left out, and should be. Cantor is too clever a comedian to use this stuff. He is a leader in his profession and should show the way to his fellow players. If he would set his foot down and say, "I won't do it," he would set an example which the lesser lights would follow. No one expects the stage to be a Sunday-school. On the other hand it should not reach the level of the "honky-tonk."

"Broadway Brevities" is speedy and entertaining. It is much superior to the last two shows seen at the Winter Garden. It will probably be prosperous, and if Cantor will put the corker on the garbage can will deserve to be.—GORDON WHYTE.

"THE MIRAGE"

"THE MIRAGE"—A drama in three acts by Edgar Selwyn. Presented by the Selwyns at the Times Square Theater, New York, September 30.

THE CAST—Betty Bond, Florence Nash; Mack, Mildred Whitney; Mrs. Irene Moreland, Florence Reed; Wallace Stuart, Reginald Mason; Ruth Martin, Rene's sister, Alison Bradshaw; Mrs. Martin, Catharine Proctor; Chester Martin, William Williams; Al Manning, Alan Dinehart; William, Bert J. Norton; Mlle. Elise, Wanda Laurence; Dolly McMahon, Helen Maginnis; Henry M. Galt, Malcolm Williams; Stanley Northrup, William Bain; Charles Stanwood, John Alexander; Peggy Arnold, Camilla Lyon; Grace Warren, Maybelle Elkins; Edward Gedding, George Le Sor; George Clayton, Howard Benton; Carrie Williams, Rose Mints.

The author of "The Mirage" evidently intended it to be a large, juicy slice, cut from the flanks of the underworld. Perhaps it is, but it is also dull and at times stupid. The depth of its stupidity may be gaged by this speech, which one of the men spouts to the chief feminine character. It runs approximately thus: "You think there are two kinds of women, good and bad. You're wrong. There is only one kind—bad women—except in Erie, Pa., where they don't know any better..."

The story is of a girl who treads the crimson path and meets an oldtime sweetheart from Erie, Pa., after a lapse of seven years. She loves him and he loves her. They become engaged. He discovers her method of living and turns her down. She convinces him that her love can overcome the difficulty, but later, feeling that it will not, she breaks with him with the promise that when she is fit for him she will come back.

Naturally all this calls to mind "The Easiest Way" and several other plays, but Mr. Selwyn presents his case without the sincerity that made the Walter play. It is always theatrical and often pure drivel.

Florence Reed, who plays the lady of love, acts continually. She is always stager, but the author has written her a stagey part and the blame can not be wholly hers. Florence Nash has one of those sure-fire fat parts that anyone who can read lines could make good in, and this she does. Alan Dinehart made the best impression of the cast as the homespun lover from Erie. Malcolm Williams, as a captain of finance, played the part well, as did Reginald Mason in the role of the financier's assistant. George Le Sor had only one good chance, but got all possible out of it, and Catharine Proctor was very good in a mother part. The balance of the cast, including Mildred Whitney, Alison Bradshaw, William Williams, Bert J. Norton, Wanda Laurence, Helen Maginnis, William Bain, John Alexander, Maybelle Elkins, Camilla Lyon, Howard Benton and Carol Ray, were all competent.

"The Mirage" is like the natural phenomenon it is named after. It presents an inverted image, showing the truth upside down. The most enjoyable part of the performance for this reviewer was Miss Reed's piano playing. She played a theme from Tschalkowski's "Pastelique" Symphony excellently.—GORDON WHYTE.

EXCERPTS FROM THE NEW YORK DAILIES
Times: "... a gaudy and extremely theatrical retelling of 'The Easiest Way.'"

World: "... too trite to be impressive as a precept, and it is too dull and ordinary to be interesting as a play."

Evening Sun: "While 'The Mirage' plays smoothly and is not badly constructed it will never dim the reputation of 'The Easiest Way.'"

Post: "... aggravating mixture of crude vulgarity, false pretense and emotional absurdity."

WORTHAM'S WORLD'S BEST

Plays to Big Business at Oklahoma State Fair

Vast show-hungry throngs attended the Oklahoma State Fair at Oklahoma City. The C. A. Wortham World's Best Shows arrived Sunday about noon, several hours earlier than last year. The work of construction was done with such dispatch that some of the shows opened Sunday evening, and the rush patronage started. Monday found the crowds eager for any kind of amusement. One hundred and thirty-five girls from the Oklahoma State Industrial Home were guests of the management on that day. Tuesday was Children's Day, and the little folk from St. Joseph's Catholic Orphans' Home were guests of the show. Wednesday was Oklahoma City Day. The stores closed at noon and everybody went to the fair. Every show with the company played all day to a milling crowd. D. A. Moss' Wild West was most liberally patronized at several performances. M. A. Gowdy's 10-in-1 old a rubbing business all day. The crowd "snowballed" the ride, "Over the Falls." Johan Asson, the giant, was constantly on his feet before a constantly changing string of patrons. Every performance of the Wild Animal Show and Circus was jammed. And all concessions played to capacity. The Rice & Dorman Shows were close to Oklahoma City and many members of that company visited. George Robinson, general agent, got his first glimpse of the show since they left Oakland, Cal., for their trip to Eureka and back and to the Great Lakes section. Clarence A. Wortham visited the show for the first time since it left Waco last November. Steve Woods visited for the first time in more than one year. Major Gordon W. Lillie (Pawnee Bill) spent the greater part of Monday with Manager Fred Beckmann. The familiar shoulder to the Major are gone. Yet there is the distinctive mark about him which identifies him as a Western man, despite any effort to lose that identity.—BEVERLY WHITE.

HATCH AMUSEMENT CO.

The engagement at Murfreesboro, Tenn., for the Hatch Amusement opened very auspiciously. The shows are located on Maple and Vine streets, on a lot one block from the city square. This is the first time in five years this location has been obtained by a carnival company.

The lineup has been greatly strengthened this week by the addition of Clifford's Carolina Minstrels. This well-known one-night organization carries twenty-four performers, a ten-piece band and travels in its own Pullman car. It is not overstating the fact when it is said that the Hatch Amusement Co. carries one of the finest attractions of this character or that precincts minstrelsy under canvas. The unusually large top is 100x50 feet. It is notable that the high advance in railroad rates has caused many of the one-nighters to make three-day and week stands. For the week of October 4 the Hatch Amusement Co. will play the Waverly (Tenn.) Pumpkin Fair, around the Court House square.—SEYAL.

POLACK DENIES REPORT

A report in circulation in New York last week had it that the Polack Bros.' Twenty Big Shows would be sold following the close of the Virginia State Fair at Richmond, and that the Polack Bros.' Enterprises would have only the World at Home Shows out next season. Immediately upon hearing of the rumor The Billboard wired Irv. J. Polack, and in reply received the following telegram from him, dated at Knoxville, Tenn., October 2: "Report not correct. If anything develops will advise."

H. W. CAMPBELL SHOWS

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 30.—The H. W. Campbell United Shows are playing their first stand in Texas this season at Fort Worth, located on the Y. M. C. A. show grounds and up to this writing have been enjoying fine business. New arrivals on the show are: Jerry Blair, with a string of concessions, and Fred Forrester, formerly of the Firstco Shows and Mighty Doris Shows, now has a ticket box on Frank Carl's 10-in-1. Ted Custer entertains during the up-town concerts of Prof. John Victor's Band with vocal selections. H. W. Campbell has received from St. Louis one of the finest—brand new—stateroom cars on the road. Harry Potter, as general agent, will doubtless give these shows, which are now headed for the oil fields, some fine spots. Secretary-Treasurer Theo. Porsiall is a popular member of this caravan. Jim Wilson has the baggage stock in fine condition and always gets the show out on time, as well as the daily parade. The feature attraction, the Wild Animal Circus and Society Horse Show, under direction of The Webbers, is considered everywhere as one of the best with any organization of this character. The lineup now consists of fifteen shows, four rides and forty-five concessions, also Prof. Victor's Concert Band, two free acts and a big circus parade. The shows have fifty head of stock and travel in thirty cars.—T. C.

METROPOLITAN SHOWS

Hartsells, Ala., Sept. 29.—The fair at Lebanon, Tenn., played by the Metropolitan Shows during the week of September 13, was one that will live long in the memory of members of this caravan. In the first place, it was a maiden fair, new grounds having been made, new grand stand built, and the officials in charge of the fair were pep and energy personified. From the moment the fair grounds were thrown open to the public there was not a throug, but a mob, clamoring for admission. In the showman's vernacular, it was a general "mopup" for all.

Columbia, Tenn., as a still date, followed Lebanon, and, altho previous reports were anything but promising, it proved to be a wonderful date. It was a grand reception that was accorded the show members, both in a personal and a business way.

A delectable evening was devoted recently to initiation into the Elks' Lodge of Mike McGee, Matt Logan and Bob Burke, and the realization of this long-cherished dream has been responsible for new wardrobes, boxes of cigars, and even promises of new pipes. At any rate, no more material evidence of the success of the Metropolitan Shows is required.—“HUBBY.”

DANDY DIXIE SHOWS

The Dandy Dixie Shows are at this writing in their twenty-sixth week, with business very good. The past two weeks the show has been in the tobacco belt of Virginia, which section is full of shows and practically no market for tobacco. Manager Gregory has decided to go to the cotton districts. At Clover, Va., the show played day and date with the Great Keystone Show, and pleasant visits were exchanged. The members of this show recently paid a visit to the O'Brien Bros.' Shows, also to Johnny Maurice's Show at Bakeraville. Both shows looked prosperous. Manager Ogden, of the James Shelby Show, was a visitor at Lacrosse, Va., also Manager Christie, of the Christie & Leonard Show, Chas. Kippel joined at Arrington, Va., to put on his three acts. Gus Kippel is ably assisting Manager Gregory this season. The show has passed last year's receipts, and the management expects to stay out until December 1.—SUG.

WAYNE-WEYGINT AM. CO.

After closing with the Savidge Amusement Co., Doc Wayne and wife and Master Joe Wayne formed a company together with W. C. Weygint, under the title, Wayne-Weygint Amusement Co., and opened in Nebraska, with a small aggregation, on August 22, to good business. The next week at Clearwater was also good. The fair at Hooper turned out fine, including Labor Day, and from there the show went to the big fair at Gordon, followed by a like event at Valentine, where excellent results were enjoyed, this being the only show there. Hoyle and (Billie) Streeter were at Gordon with their show, and it is reported that they were getting good business. At the Nelson (Neb.) Fair, this week, another big success seems assured. Master Wayne is pleasing the natives with his songs and saxophone solos, and is a free attraction at most of the fair dates played. The Wayne is getting a new motor truck at Nelson. Next, Clay Center, Neb., for another big fair engagement.—W. C. W.

WANTED MAN TO PLAY UNA-FON

A good winter position. Good salary. I go South for the winter. Travel by truck with Filipino Midgets. Write or wire me Hamilton, O., all this week. G. W. FAIRLEY, Manager Filipino Midgets.

JOHNNY J. JONES' EXPOSITION

The Tr' State Fair at Memphis, Tenn., despite two days (Wednesday and Thursday) of cold weather, both nights being accompanied by heavy frosts, has been another big winner for the Johnny J. Jones Exposition.

Cliff Wilson, manager of the Monkey Circus, spent the past week in Cincinnati, and his charming wife held reins of management in a masterly manner. The writer was in error, last week, in stating that Mabelle Mack and Lyman Dunn "stood up" with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Close on the occasion of their marriage at Nashville. The real "best man and bridesmaid" happened to be Mrs. Edward Mahoney and Tex Sparks, William Jay Coughlan, who has had two extremely profitable seasons with his motor-drome on the Jones Exposition, has sold out to Max Kemper, who has the past season managed Johnny J. Jones' Midgets attraction. Mr. Kemper takes immediate possession, and states that the structure will be entirely rebuilt; also that next season he will have six of the best riders obtainable, having already engaged two famous lady auto-motor drivers.

Distinguished visitors continue to "pour in." Among late ones were James Dent, manager Alabama State Fair; Colonel Puckett, manager concessions at Mobile Fair; Irving J. Polack, owner of the shows bearing his name; Mabel Stire, manager Mississippi State Fair, accompanied by her assistant, Miss King; Andy Nolan, Sam Goldman, Sam Burton, Colonel Hunt, manager of Western Fair, London, Ont., Can., accompanied by Mrs. Hunt; Mr. George, manager Meridian, Miss., Fair, and Ed A. Schiller, general manager of the Marcus Loew Theatrical Circuit.

Fireside & Adams have disposed of the "Fireside Inn." Adams & Fireside, having so many outside deals to handle, could not devote the time necessary to properly conduct the exposition cafe. Isidor (Murphy Patrick) Fireside advises that his Winnipeg, Man., hotel will open February 1. He calls it "Fireside Inn."—ED R. SALTER.

GREAT WONDERLAND SHOWS

The Great Wonderland Shows played a two weeks' engagement at Flat River, Mo., in the heart of the lead belt, and had fair business, despite rather cold weather the last week. Fredericktown, week of October 4, is the last stand in Missouri for this caravan, starting its string of Southern fairs the following week at Blytheville, Ark., with Parsgould, Ark., to follow.

Several new people joined the past week, also two more shows, making the lineup consist of eight shows, two rides and thirty-five concessions. Jack Morro joined with his boxers and wrestlers, and took over the Athletic Show.

Harry Adams is taking over the Circus Side-Show, and has already made plans to strengthen that attraction. L. G. Bowen and his band joined at Flat River, and their daily street concerts are greatly appreciated by the natives. Several members paid visits to St. Louis while the shows were in Flat River, some on business, others on pleasure bent. Taken as a whole, considering weather conditions, the season so far has been prosperous for this caravan.—C. P.
