Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a list or account. The text is written vertically on the left page of the open manuscript. It consists of several lines of characters, some of which appear to be numbers or specific terms, though they are difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading. The text is arranged in a columnar fashion, starting from the top left and moving downwards.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, continuing from the left page. This page contains several lines of text, including what appears to be a signature or a specific heading at the top. The script is consistent with the left page, showing a high level of fluidity and connection between characters. The text is arranged in a columnar fashion, starting from the top left and moving downwards.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, yellowish paper. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the fading of the ink. The text appears to be organized into several lines, with some lines starting with a small mark or symbol. The overall appearance is that of an old, possibly official, document.

Handwritten text in vertical columns, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The characters are in cursive (sōsho) style and are difficult to decipher due to fading and the aged, stained paper. The text appears to be organized into several columns, possibly representing a list or a series of entries.
