PREFACE.

Jonathan Glatfelter, father of the author of this volume, was born in the year 1803, and reared in Springfield Township, York County, Pa., being the region where Casper Glatfelter, the original immigrant, settled, the center from which all the various branches radiated. Being, therefore, most favorably situated for obtaining a knowledge of the spreading of the family, and being endowed with a good memory, active and intelligent faculties, it is to him we are indebted for the possibility enabling us, at this late day, to unravel the early branchings of the parent stem. On April 30, 1859, the author, then 21 years of age, constructed a family tree from his father's dictation, placing every then known name in proper relation. With this manuscript tree still in his possession, he has been enabled to place every living descendant of whom he has knowledge to his proper niche, as he believes, on the Great Family Tree. Without this document, the writer does not hesitate to state, the accomplishment of this work would, to-day, be an utter impossibility. Records of our early ancestors are very limited — inscriptions on tombstones, often obliterated, traditions confused and mostly unreliable. Being in possession, therefore, of the only key wherewith to unlock the past, the author felt an incumbent responsibility which would not be shaken off. He was impressed with the idea that it was a good work that ought to be done; and, though now unappreciated by some, the encouragement received from others, together with the conviction that as the years roll by the importance of his work will be more and more realized, became a sufficient motive to engage in it. A work of this kind must be a labor of love. Financial considerations, even if ample, which is seldom the case, are no adequate recompense.

Owing to the strenuous pressure of our daily necessities, we are too apt to forget our noble forefathers, who, impelled by the love of civic and religious liberty, braved the hardships of pioneer life, and by infinite sacrifices paved the way for us. We should cherish their memories and venerate them with pious remembrance. Even heathen nations outdo us in pious homage of their ancestors. The sentiment of patriotism must have its beginning in sentiment of family, and they whose sympathies are bounded by their own narrow circle of near relatives, are not likely to be imbued with those higher spiritual inculcations of neighborliness to all men. Moreover, being careless of their origin, they are likely to be likewise careless of their destiny.

The author is indebted to many friends for generous help. Among those deserving special mention, are Mr. Luther Glatfelter, Rev. Adam Stump, both of York, Pa.; Lewis K. Glatfelter, of Neiman, Pa.; Mr. James Glatfelter, Mount Joy, Pa., and, above all, to Mr. Granville Glatfelter, Brillhart Station, Pa., who was untiring in aiding to make the record complete. The work is submitted to the generous consideration of my friends, believing it will fulfill all reasonable expectations. Inaccuracies and omissions no doubt occur. Only those who undertake similar work can realize the extent of labor demanded. The author requests to be informed of all mistakes and omissions, to the end that should a second edition be called for, either he or some other may make the corrections. He regrets exceedingly that the limits of his book did not permit of fuller personal narratives, which, in many cases, are very interesting.

NOAH M. GLATFELTER, M. D.

HISTORICAL.

“The Rhenish Palatinate and places adjacent have furnished the ancestors of those citizens of York Co., who now constitute its principal families in wealth and culture.” * The emigration was very extensive from 1727 to 1750–1760. They came down the Rhine, took ship at the seaport, Rotterdam and landed at Philadelphia. We are in possession of the registers of the various ship-loads of emigrants arriving there, now published in the Pennsylvania archives, Vol. 17, 2d series, 1890. Among the passengers of the good ship “Francis and Elizabeth,” was “Gasper Glattfelder,” aged 33 years, who with the rest qualified August 30th, 1743. He came from Glattfelden, Canton Zurich, Switzerland. The evidence is as follows: First, Casper Glattfelder, son of Felix Glattfelder and Barbara Gorius, was baptized 1709. See old church record of the town of Glattfelden, investigated by Mr. Edwin Jaggli, of same place, in behalf of my friend S. F. Glatfelter, York, Pa.

Second. “Casper Glattfelder and family, together with many other families and persons, emigrated to North America, 1743.” This record is taken from a little book, a “History of the Glattfelden Church,” by A. Nef, issued 1863, at Bülach, Ct. Zurich, and reported to me by the well-known historian of Switzerland, Prof. Dr. Dändliker of Zurich. The same writes to me, he has no doubt whatever that all bearing the name Glattfelder had their origin at Glattfelden, which name is derived from “Feld der Glatt,” a branch of the Rhine river. Also, that at various places throughout the Canton of Zurich the name is still to be met with. So then, these records established: 1709, baptized; 33 years old; 1743, landed. The only Glattfelder on record having entered the State of Pennsylvania, makes the inference conclusive that this Casper was our great ancestor. Glattfelder, it seems, should be the spelling.

Very recently, after the foregoing was written, the author received a letter in answer to one of inquiry from Mr. Henry Glattfelder, residing at Indianapolis, Ind., confirmatory of the Swiss origin of the Glatfelter family. This Henry was born 1849, in Bezirk (Section) Bülach, Ct. Zurich. He has a brother, John, living at Baden, Ct. Aargau; also a sister married to R. Shellenberger, whose son, Mr. R. Shellenberger, at Indianapolis, a more recent immigrant, was the means of the above communication. Attention is directed to what, no doubt, was the original orthography of the name, probably dating back to the time when that region was first occupied by a German tribe.

Casper Glatfelter settled in Springfield township, York county. At that period the town of York was but two years old; only 23 lots had been taken, and no more until 1746. The county was part of Lancaster county until 1749. As regards the orthography of the name, it is to be noted that the registered form was by the ship's officers, phonetically. The same applies to the spelling we find in the muster rolls of the Revolutionary soldiers enrolled in the county of York, where we come across the names of four of the sons of Casper. "Casper Clotfelter" is enrolled in the 5th Company, Capt. John Erman, 7th Battalion, Col. David Kennedy. In the 6th Company, Capt. George Geiselman, we find Henry, Michael and Felix "Klotfelter" enrolled.* At the present day I find the spelling also "Glattfelder," "Clodfelter," "Gladfelter," "Clotfelter" and "Clotfelder." Finally, in one branch, the name has changed to "Glotfelty." The author begs pardon if, in the body of his work, he occasionally misplaces a d or a t in spelling the name. Such mistakes were unavoidable.

* See "The Spangler Families," by Edw. W. B. Spangler, York, Pa., 1896.

TWO OTHER IMMIGRANTS.

Very recently there came to the writer's knowledge the names of two immigrants from Europe, constituting two entirely distinct branches of the Glattfelder family. One of them landed at Baltimore, the other at a seaport of North Carolina. The name of the first was Solomon Clotfelder, born 1738, arrived 1765, settling near Grantsville, Md., 1766, then in 1795 moved to Salisbury, Somerset county, Pa., where he died, 1818, in his 81st year. He was the father of nine children, four sons and five daughters. Jacob, the youngest, was born 1784. Jacob had six sons and two daughters. One, named Michael, moved to Fairfield, Iowa. The youngest son, John, had nine children, seven sons and two daughters. One of the sons was killed in the Civil War. One, named Josiah M., to whose kindly favor I am indebted for these facts, moved to Lanark, Ill., 1864. A member of the board of education, evidences his standing in his community. He has two sons, aged 20 and 33. Read backward we have, therefore, the sons⁵ of Josiah M.⁴, of John³, of Jacob², of Solomon¹. A published sketch of this branch of the family, respecting the descendants of the original Solomon, evidences their excellent character and honorable standing in the communities where residing. The author regrets that the plan of his book could not also include a full record of this very numerous family; he, however, begs to extend the hand of friendly greeting to it. The name has undergone a singular change, being now written Glotsfelty. When this change took place appears not known to the present generation.

For an account of the other branch mentioned above, the writer is indebted to Doctor George A. Clotfelter, of Hillsboro, Ill. His great-great-grandfather, named George, lived in North Carolina. Whether an immigrant, is not now certainly known, but at least probable. His speech was German. He had a large family. One son, David, on his way westward, died in the mountains of Tennessee (1833). His widow, five sons and two daughters continued the journey to Cape Girardeau, Mo., leaving after a few months and settling in Montgomery County, Ill. One of these sons, named George L., had a son named David H., who is the father of Dr. George A., my informant. "There is in the county a small army of relations," he says. One son of the original George, named Philip, settled in Perry, or Cape Girardeau county, Mo., where his descendants are now resident. They write their name Clodfelter. How interesting if the three branches could be traced back to the same household, perhaps!

PLAN OF ARRANGEMENT.

Casper Glattfelder, the immigrant stem, as already stated, located in Springfield township, probably at or near Glatfelter Station, Pa. R. R. He was the father of five sons, named Felix, Henry, Michael, Casper, and John, no daughters. The first four were soldiers of the Revolution. John is not on record as a soldier. We obtain an historical glimpse of four of the sons in 1783. In the list of taxables of N. Codorus township, we find the names of Felix and Michael, and of Shrewsbury township (part of which later became Springfield township), the names of John for 240 acres, and of Henry for 146 acres.*

Michael had an only son, George, who moved to Ohio and had son and daughter. Here our knowledge of this branch ends. Our account, therefore, will be limited to the remaining four sons, or branches, naturally forming four grand divisions or parts of the body of this work. The order of birth is not known, neither of these sons nor their children. The third generation will be divided into chapters, as follows:—

EXPLANATORY.

The families only are numbered. The system, though simple, will be found practically efficient. The figures above the names indicate the generations; thus, figure 5 above a name means belonging to the 5th generation. Abbreviations used: b., born; d., dead or died; m. or =, married; unm., unmarried; res., residing or resided; ch., children; lab., laborer; farm., farmer; Luth., adheres to Lutheran church; Ref., to Reformed church; Presb., to Presbyterian church; U. B., to United Brethren; U. Evang., to United Evangelical; Episc., Episcopal church; Meth., Methodist Episcopal; unaf., unaffiliated, not joined any church; un., unknown; cig. mnf., cigar manufacturer; c. m., or cig. m., cigar maker; pref., preference.

Two indexes are supplied for family names, one for the Glatfelters, one for all others connected.

PART IV. — HENRY, AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

HENRY² GLATFELTER (Casper¹), m. Margaret, daughter of John Heilman, original owner of the tract on which Okete is located. He introduced the "Heilman pear" from Germany. Henry was probably the youngest of Casper's sons. Farmer. A deed made 1834 in the possession of Andrew B. Glatfelter, grandson of Henry, notes that by reason of a will made by Henry, 1833, 125 acres in Codorus twp. is conveyed to his son Jacob, and further notes that this was part of a tract conveyed from Michael Heilman to Henry Glatfelter, April 10th, 1802; that the same was originally entered by warrant by Felix Miller, 1746. The reason those first comers settled in the hilly parts rather than in the richer limestone valleys, is said to have been, the natural springs of water; also the quicker and surer growth of rye. Henry's children were:
(686) Michael, (700) Philip, (701) Jacob, (767) Harry,
(800) Frederick, (801) Amelia, (728) Daniel.

(700) PHILIP³, moved to Juniatta co., Pa., some 60 years ago. He had 8 children. Have not been able to secure further knowledge of his family. (800) FREDERICK³ died about 50 years ago at Okete, Pa. He had 6 or 7 children. A son, Solomon, is said to live in Lancaster, Ohio; a daughter in Baltimore, Md. (801) AMELIA³ was married to Mr. Hosler, had 3 children, Jacob, Harry and Catharine, all dead.

 Jacob, b. 1831; York, Pa., of Casper, of Casper.
 Susan, b. 1840, m. Tarbox; Princeville, Ill., of Casper, of Casper.

NOTE B. — EIGHTH GENERATION.

It will be noticed that nearly all the living belong to the fifth, sixth, and seventh generations. Those of the fourth are listed in Note A. above. Those of the eighth — the vanguard — are the following: — Walter⁸ C. Kauffman, b. March 15th, 1894; Abraham⁶ F. Kauff., Sept. 28, 1899, of Harvey⁷ C. Kauffman (Salina⁶, Franklin⁵, Jacob⁴, John³, Felix²).

Esther⁸ M. Lerew, b. 1896; inft. b. 1898; Roy C., b. 1900, — children of Martha⁷ Day, of Henry⁶ Day, of Lucinda⁵ Keeseey, of Elizabeth⁴ Glatfelter, of Jacob³, John², Casper¹.

Mocleta Reeve, b. 1897; Cora E. Reeve, 1898; Kerwin H. Rever, 1900, — children of Leah Day, sister of the preceding.

A child⁸ of Mr. Emig m. Sarah⁷ Hoke, of Wm.⁶ J. Glatfelter, of Jacob⁵, Charles⁴, Philip³, Felix², Casper¹.

Annie⁸ E. Keach, b. 1900 (Clara⁷ Small, Ella⁶ S. Glatfelter, Amos⁵, Jacob⁴, Jacob³, John², Casper¹).

NOTE C. — KINSHIP.

It will be noticed that all of the third generation were first cousins; those of the fourth are second cousins; all of the fifth, third cousins; and so on. Thus comparing any generation of any one of the four branches with the same generation of any other branch the relationship is readily perceived.

NOTE D. — INCREASE.

My record is far from being complete, yet it embraces 861 families containing 3,065 descendants from the one ancestor, Casper.

From a scientific standpoint, an entirely complete record of such a rapidly multiplying family as the one exhibited in this book, would be very interesting.

The record as it is represented here, including only the four branches, viz.: of John, Felix, Casper, and Henry, shows the following succession of increases: Gen. 1st, 1; 2d, 4; 3d, 33; 4th, 176; 5th, 749; 6th, 1,319, — the last three not being complete. The descendants of three of the 3d gen., viz., of Jacob³, Felix²; of Philip², Henry²; of Rosanna³, Casper², being missing.

The dates of the beginning of the successive generations, after the second, are as follows: the 3d, 1778 (about); 4th, 1800 (about); 5th, 1824; 6th, 1848; 7th, 1870; 8th, 1894, showing a new generation to have stepped forth at each period of 22 or 24 years.

NOTE E.

Too late for the body of this work were received baptismal and marriage records of the Glattfelders at the church of Glattfelden, carefully investigated by the Rev. Edwin Jaggli, its present pastor, and communicated to S. F. Glatfelter, Esq., York, Pa. The earliest record is 1674, the birth of Felix, father of our Casper. Records antecedent are said to be lost, "though it is certain the name of Glattfelder dates very far back." "Felix' father Hans was a Deacon of the church." "Glattfelders held important offices in the town. One was Ammann (President and Sheriff), and Hans, the brother of Felix, was Judge in the 17th century. Later, another, was again Ammann." "There are now three Glattfelder families living at Glattfelden. The forefathers of this name were of the Reformed faith (Zwingli)." For the information of our Glotfelty friends, the record of their ancestral immigrant, Solomon, is given as the son of Casper, born Feb. 23d, 1738, — precisely the date given me by Mr. Josiah M. Glotfelty, Lanark, Ill.
