

Fechando a lacuna de gênero na Wikipédia

ART + FEMINISM

OK, aqui está a situação...

Menos de 10% das pessoas que editam a Wikipédia se identificam como mulheres cis ou trans.

E os editores que se identificam como mulheres são mais propensos do que os homens a ter suas edições revertidas.

apenas 18,9% das biografias
da Wikipédia lusófona são
sobre mulheres

As mulheres também são sub-representadas no mundo da arte

Q. HOW MANY WORKS BY WOMEN ARTISTS WERE IN THE
ANDY WARHOL* AND TREMAINE
AUCTIONS AT SOTHEBY'S?

Então aqui é onde você
entra.

Ao se tornar uma editora ou
editor na Wikipedia, você pode nos ajudar a fechar a lacuna.

Art+Feminism é uma organização sem fins lucrativos que aborda diretamente a desigualdade de gênero, o feminismo e as artes na Wikipédia.

Com sede em Nova York, a campanha é liderada por artistas, historiadoras e historiadores de arte, ativistas, Wikipedistas, cientistas dedados, educadoras e educadores, curadoras e curadores, bibliotecárias e bibliotecários, escritoras e escritores, sediados em cidades de todo o mundo.

Através da construção de uma comunidade global e do realização de edit-a-thons ao redor do mundo, nós nos esforçamos para fechar as lacunas no conteúdo e com as editoras e editores

Na Art + Feminism, nós treinamos indivíduos para editar a Wikipédia e organizamos maratonas de edição para melhorar a cobertura sobre mulheres cis e trans nas artes na Wikipedia.

Acreditamos que representação importa. Também sabemos que as experiências das mulheres são variadas e complexas e valorizamos e honramos essas diferenças.

Wikipedia:WikiProject Women in Red

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

WikiProject Women in Red (talk) (photos)

Welcome to Women in Red (WIR)! We are a group of editors of all genders living around the world focused on reducing systemic bias in the wiki movement. We recognized a need for this work as, in October 2014, only 15.53% of English Wikipedia's biographies were about women.^[1] Founded in July 2015, WIR strives to increase the percentage, which has reached 18.83% as of 5 April 2021. But that means, according to Humaniki, only 338,874 of our 1,798,906 biographies are about women. Not impressed? "Content gender gap" is a form of systemic bias, and WIR addresses it in a positive way through shared values.

There are more than 18,000 general forum comments on our talkpage. You don't have to be a member in order to participate in the conversations, just please be civil.

Wikipedia

Our Wikipedia WikiProject focuses on creating content regarding women's biographies, women's works, and women's issues. Our editors create articles in many different language Wikipedias. The objective is to turn "redlinks" into blue ones. That's why we are called "Women in Red".

We take an inclusive view towards subject matter, editors, and language communities:

- Editors: We do not focus on the gender of the editor. Anyone/everyone is welcome to be a member, participant, enthusiast of Women in Red. If you participate in WIR, you can join up officially using the box in the top right-hand corner of this page. You are also welcome to add our userbox template `{{User WikiProject Women in Red}}` to your user page, to produce:

- Language communities: While Women in Red began on English Wikipedia, it is an international commitment with dozens of other language communities. Please add a link to your language's coordination page here.
- Subject matter:
 - If the subject of the article self-identifies as a woman—binary and/or non-binary and/or other, that person is included within the scope of Women in Red. Historic cases where what they self-identified as is unknown also count. The goal of the project is to increase inclusion, and we'd rather not block article subjects from being included in an article creation drive.
 - In addition to creating new articles, we create and maintain hundreds of lists of "missing" notable women. Some of these women have an article on some language Wikipedia, while others have no article in any Wikipedia. We call these lists, "redlists".
 - Click on our Redlinks index to see our lists of missing articles by focus area, occupation and nationality. Like everything else on Wikipedia, this is incomplete, so feel free to add pertinent items to our crowd-sourced lists.
 - While all redlists have redlinks, our redlists are generated in numerous ways:
 - crowd-sourced (example, Crafts)
