And then, on motion of ———, the House, at 5 o'clock and seven minutes, adjourned until to-morrow, at 12 o'clock, meridian

THURSDAY, APRIL 20, 1848.

The Journal of yesterday having been read,

Mr. Palfrey stated that he rose to a question of privilege, and that common report had represented to members of this House that a lawless mob had assembled for two nights past, and committed acts of violence, setting the laws at defiance, and menacing individuals of this body and other persons residing in this city; and that he proposed to submit to the House a preamble and resolution thereon; when

Mr. Bayly raised the question of order, and inquired whether the recital of a fact, upon rumor, that a member of this House had been menaced, could make it a question of privilege?

The Speaker decided that the allegation of the gentleman from Massachusetts raised a question relating to the privilege of members, and that it would be for the House, and not for the Chair, to decide whether any breach of privilege was involved, or whether any steps were necessary for the protection of any of its members. The House might call for specifications, and if such specifications were not made, it might be sufficient ground for the House, in their own judgment, to refuse the inquiry; but it was not sufficient reason for the Chair to rule it out of order, the House alone having the power to determine a question of privilege.

The Chair therefore ruled that it was a privileged question, and that it was for the House to determine whether any steps were necessary to be taken for the protection of any of its members.

From this decision Mr. Brodhead appealed.

And, after debate,

Mr. Bayly moved that the appeal be laid upon the table.

And the question being put,

It was decided in the affirmative.

And thereupon Mr. Palfrey offered the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas common report has represented to members of this House that a lawless mob has assembled within the District of Columbia on each of the two nights last past, and has committed acts of violence, setting at defiance the laws and constituted authorities of the United States, and menacing individuals of this body and other persons residing in this city; therefore,

Resolved, That a select committee of five members be appointed, to inquire into the facts above referred to; that said committee have power to send for persons and papers, and to report facts, with their opinion whether any legislation is necessary or expedient in the premises; and that they further have leave to sit during the sessions of the House.

The said preamble and resolution were read.

And, after debate,

Mr. Venable moved to amend the said resolution, by striking out the word "five," and inserting in lieu thereof the word "nine," by inserting after the word "appointed" the words "by ballot," and by inserting after the words "referred to" the following:

"And that said committee be authorized to inquire into and report to this House, whether any member or members of this House were instrumental in procuring the slaves who were recently decoyed from their owners in this district to leave their owners, and whether the said members of this House have not been guilty of felony in attempting, or aiding in an attempt, to kidnap slaves."

And, after further debate, and pending the question upon the said amendment,

The following petitions, memorials, and other papers, were laid on the Clerk's table, under the 24th rule of the House, to wit:

By Mr. Grinnell: The petition of citizens of New Bedford, in the State of Massachusetts, praying for a uniform rate of postage, of two cents, on letters not weighing more than half an ounce each, and one cent on newspapers for all distances.

By Mr. Richardson: The petition of citizens of Brown and Pike counties, in the State of Illinois, praying for the establishment of a mail route from Mount Sterling, in Brown county, to Griggsville, in Pike county.

Ordered, That said petitions be referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads.

By Mr. Maclay: The memorial of Catherine Clark, of the city and State of New York, widow of Joseph Clark, deceased, praying for a pension, on account of wounds and disabilities received by her late husband at the battle of Tripoli: which was referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Ordered, That the said message be laid upon the table.

By unanimous consent, the following message from the President of the United States, heretofore received, was read, and is as follows:

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

I communicate to Congress, for their information, a copy of a despatch, with the accompanying documents, received at the Department of State from the envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States at Paris, giving official information of the overthrow of the French monarchy, and the establishment in its stead of a provisional government based on republican principles.

This great event occurred suddenly, and was accomplished almost without bloodshed. The world has seldom witnessed a more interesting or sublime spectacle than the peaceful rising of the French people, resolved to secure for themselves enlarged liberty, and to assert, in the majesty of their strength, the great truth that in this enlightened age man is capable of governing himself.

The prompt recognition of the new government by the representative of the United States at the French court meets my full and unqualified approbation, and he has been authorized in a suitable manner to make known this fact to the constituted authorities of the French republic. Called upon to act upon a sudden emergency, which could not have been anticipated by his instructions, he judged rightly of the feelings and sentiments of his government and of his countrymen, when, in advance of the diplomatic representatives of other countries, he was the first to recognize, so far as it was in his power, the free government established by the French people.

The policy of the United States has ever been that of non-intervention in the domestic affairs of other countries, leaving to each to establish the form of government of its own choice. While this wise policy will be maintained towards France, now suddenly transformed from a monarchy into a republic, all our sympathies are naturally enlisted on the side of a great people, who, imitating our example, have resolved to be free. That such sympathy should exist on the part of the people of the United States with the friends of free government in every part of the world, and especially in France, is not remarkable. We can never forget that France was our early friend in our eventful revolution, and generously aided us in shaking off a foreign yoke and becoming a free and independent people.

We have enjoyed the blessings of our system of well regulated self-government for near three-fourths of a century, and can properly appreciate its value. Our ardent and sincere congratulations are extended to the patriotic people of France, upon their noble, and thus far successful, efforts to found for their future government liberal institutions similar to our own.

It is not doubted that, under the benign influence of free institutions, the enlightened statesmen of republican France will find it to be for her true interests and permanent glory to cultivate with the United States the most liberal principles of international intercourse and commercial reciprocity, whereby the happiness and prosperity of both nations will be promoted.

JAMES K. POLK.

WASHINGTON, April 3, 1848.

Ordered, That the said message be laid upon the table, and printed.

By unanimous consent, the following message from the President of the United States, this day received, was read, and is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I submit for the consideration of Congress, several communications received at the Department of State from Mr. Justo Sierra, commissioner of Yucatan, and also a communication from the governor of that state, representing the condition of extreme suffering to which their country has been reduced by an insurrection of the Indians within its limits, and asking the aid of the United States.

These communications present a case of human suffering and misery, which cannot fail to excite the sympathies of all civilized nations. From these, and other sources of information, it appears that the Indians of Yucatan are waging a war of extermination against the white race. In this civil war, they spare neither age, nor sex, but put to death, indiscriminately, all who fall within their power. The inhabitants, panic-stricken, and destitute of arms, are flying before their savage pursuers towards the coast, and their expulsion from their country, or their extermination would seem to be inevitable, unless they can obtain assistance from abroad.

In this condition, they have, through their constituted authorities, implored the aid of this government, to save them from destruction, offering, in case this should be granted, to transfer the "dominion and sovereignty of the peninsula" to the United States. Similar appeals for aid and protection have been made to the Spanish and the English governments."

Whilst it is not my purpose to recommend the adoption of any measure with a view to the acquisition of the "dominion and sovereignty" over Yucatan; yet, according to our established policy, we could not consent to a transfer of this "dominion and sovereignty," either to Spain, Great Britain, or any other European power. In the language of President Monroe, in his message of December, 1823, "we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety." In my annual message of December, 1845, I declared that "near a quarter of a century ago the principle was distinctly announced to the world, in the annual message of one of my predecessors, that 'the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed and maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European power.' This principle will apply with greatly increased force, should any European power attempt to establish any new colony in North America. In the existing circumstances of the world, the present is deemed a proper occasion to reiterate and reaffirm the principle avowed by Mr. Monroe, and to state my cordial concurrence in its wisdom and sound policy. The re-assertion of this principle, especially in reference to North America, should be respected; but it is due alike to our safety and our interests, that the efficient protection of the rights of every European nation should be respected; but it is due alike to our safety and our interests, that the efficient protection of America, is at this day but the promulgation of a policy which no European power should cherish the disposition to resist. Existing our laws should be extended over our whole territorial limits, and that it should be distinctly announced to the world as our settled policy, that no future European colony or dominion shall, with our consent, be planted or established on any part of the North American continent."

Our own security requires that the established policy, thus announced, should guide our conduct, and this applies with great force to the peninsula of Yucatan. It is situate in the Gulf of Mexico, on the North American continent, and, from its vicinity to Cuba, to the capes of Florida, to New Orleans, and, indeed, to our whole southwestern coast, it would be dangerous to our peace and security if it should become a colony of any European nation.

We have now authentic information that, if the aid asked from the United States be not granted, such aid will probably be obtained from some European power which may hereafter assert a claim to "dominion and sovereignty" over Yucatan.

Our existing relations with Yucatan are of a peculiar character, as will be perceived from the note of the Secretary of State to their commissioner, dated on the 24th of December last, a copy of which is herewith transmitted. Yucatan has never declared her independence, and we treated her as a State of the Mexican republic. For this reason we have never officially received her commissioner; but, whilst this is the case, we have, to a considerable extent, recognized her as a neutral in our war with Mexico. Whilst still considering Yucatan as a portion of Mexico, if we had troops to spare for this purpose, I would deem it proper, during the continuance of the war with Mexico, to occupy and hold military possession of her territory, and to defend the white inhabitants against the incursions of the Indians, in the same way that we have employed our troops in other States of the Mexican republic in our possession, in repelling the attacks of savages upon the inhabitants, who have maintained their neutrality in the war. But, unfortunately, we cannot, at the present time, without serious danger, withdraw our forces from other portions of the Mexican territory now in our occupation, and send them to Yucatan. All that can be done, under existing circumstances, is to employ our naval forces in the Gulf, not required at other points, to afford them relief; but it is not to be expected that any adequate protection can thus be afforded, as the operations of such naval forces must, of necessity, be confined to the coast.

I have considered it proper to communicate the information contained in the accompanying correspondence, and I submit to the wisdom of Congress to adopt such measures as, in their judgment, may be expedient, to prevent Yucatan from becoming a colony of any European power, which, in no event, could be permitted by the United States; and, at the same time, to rescue the white race from extermination or expulsion from their country.

Mr. Taylor moved to amend the said bill, by adding the following, as an additional section:

“SEC. 2. That the same right and privilege is hereby also extended for the same time to all such warrants as have issued subsequent to said 10th day of August, A. D. 1840; provided, that before the location thereof it shall be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner of the General Land Office that such warrant was issued justly and legally, and that the person or persons who received said warrant was legally entitled to the same.”

Mr. Goggin moved to amend the same, by adding thereto the following:

“And that such land warrants may be located upon any lands belonging to the United States which may, at the time of such location, be subject to private entry:” when

Mr. Collamer raised the question of order: That, as the proposed amendment embraced an appropriation of land, it was in effect an appropriation of money, and must, therefore, under the rule, be first discussed in a Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, further, that it was not germane to the bill, but of a subject differing entirely from that under consideration.

The Speaker sustained the second objection of Mr. Collamer, and ruled the amendment out of order.

And, after debate,

The following petitions, memorials, and other papers, were laid on the Clerk's table, under the 24th rule of the House, to wit:

Mr. McClernand raised the point of order: That a motion that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union is entitled to precedence over a motion that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House, for

It was read the third time accordingly.

And the question was stated, Shall it pass? when,

On motion of Mr. Root, the House, at 2 o'clock and twenty minutes, adjourned until Monday next, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

MONDAY, MAY 29, 1848.

Mr. Tuck offered the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas, citizens of the United States, in great numbers, have often memorialized Congress on the subject of abolishing slavery and the slave trade in the District of Columbia, and petitions for this object, signed by citizens of the District and others, have been presented to this House at its present session:

And whereas, all the memorials and petitions on this subject ever presented have either been laid on the table without being read or printed, or have been referred to committees who have never taken any action thereon nor reported whether said petition ought or ought not to be granted:

And whereas, it is the right of the citizens of these United States not only to present their petitions to Congress, but to have the justice and propriety of their requests carefully considered: therefore,

Resolved, That the several committees of this House to whom have been referred petitions or memorials for the abolition of slavery and the slave trade in the District of Columbia be directed to take the same into consideration, and to report thereon at the earliest practicable period.

The said preamble and resolution were read; and objection being made to the introduction of the same,

Mr. Tuck moved that the rules be suspended, for the purpose of enabling him to introduce them;

And the question being put, Shall the rules be suspended?

The rules being suspended,

Mr. Smith introduced his said resolution; and the question was stated on agreeing thereto: when

A message was received from the President of the United States, by J. Knox Walker, which was read, and is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I lay before Congress the accompanying memorial and papers, which have been transmitted to me, by a special messenger employed for that purpose, by the governor and legislative assembly of Oregon territory, who constitute the temporary government which the inhabitants of that distant region of our country have, from the necessity of their condition, organized for themselves. The memorialists are citizens of the United States. They express ardent attachment to their native land, and in their present perilous and distressed situation they earnestly invoke the aid and protection of their government.

They represent that "the proud and powerful tribes of Indians," residing in their vicinity, have recently raised "the war whoop, and crimsoned their tomahawks in the blood of their citizens;" that they apprehend that "many of the powerful tribes, inhabiting the upper valley of the Columbia, have formed an alliance for the purpose of carrying on hostilities against their settlements;" that the number of the white population is far inferior to that of the savages; that they are deficient in arms and money, and fear that they do not possess strength to repel the "attack of so formidable a foe and protect their families and property from violence and rapine;" they conclude their appeal to the government of the United States for relief by declaring: "If it be at all the intention of our honored parent to spread her guardian wing over her son's and daughters in Oregon, she surely will not refuse to do it now, when they are struggling with all the ills of a weak and temporary government, and when perils are daily thickening around them, and preparing to burst upon their heads. When the ensuing summer's sun shall have dispelled the snow from the mountains, we shall look, with glowing hope and restless anxiety, for the coming of your laws and your arms."

In my message of the 5th of August, 1846, communicating "a copy of the convention for the settlement and adjustment of the Oregon boundary," I recommended to Congress that "provision should be made by law, at the earliest practicable period, for the organization of a territorial government in Oregon." In my annual message of December, 1846, and again in December, 1847, this recommendation was repeated.

The population of Oregon is believed to exceed twelve thousand souls, and it is known that it will be increased by a large number of emigrants during the present season. The facts set forth in the accompanying memorial and papers show that the dangers to which our fellow citizens are exposed are so imminent, that I deem it to be my duty again to impress on Congress the strong claim which the inhabitants of that distant country have to the benefit of our laws, and to the protection of our government.

I, therefore, again invite the attention of Congress to the subject, and recommend that laws be promptly passed establishing a territorial government, and granting authority to raise an adequate volunteer force, for the defence and protection of its inhabitants. It is believed that a regiment of mounted men, with such additional force as may be raised in Oregon, will be sufficient to afford the required protection. It is recommended that the forces raised for this purpose should engage to serve for twelve months, unless sooner discharged. No doubt is entertained that, with proper inducements in land bounties, such a force can be raised in a short time. Upon the expiration of their service, many of them will doubtless desire to remain in the country and settle upon the land which they may receive as bounty. It is deemed important that provision be made for the appointment of a suitable number of Indian agents, to reside among the various tribes in Oregon, and that appropriations be made to enable them to treat with these tribes, with a view to restore and preserve peace between them and the white inhabitants.

Should the laws recommended be promptly passed, the measures for their execution may be completed during the present season, and before the severity of winter will interpose obstacles in crossing the Rocky mountains. If not promptly passed a delay of another year will be the consequence, and may prove destructive to the white settlements in Oregon.

JAMES K. POLK.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, required to transmit to this House, as soon as may be convenient, a statement of the duties, revenues, and public expenditures during the last and the present fiscal years, ending June 30, 1848; exclusive of trust funds, according to the form of statement A, in the last annual report of the Secretary, specifying particularly, and keeping separate the stock issued for specie deposited and that issued in funding treasury notes, and noting what amount of said stock was issued under the act of July 22, 1846; what amount under the act of January 28, 1847; and what amount under acts prior to July 22, 1846, respectively.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the Secretary of the Treasury, in making up his annual statements of the finances at the commencement of each session, to make those statements close at and embrace one period of time, so far as the circumstances of the case renders it practicable so to do.

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be instructed to inquire into the expediency of printing ten thousand extra copies of the report of the Committee on Public Expenditures on the report of the Secretary of the Treasury.

SEC. . Be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President of the United States, and the heads of the various departments, as soon as it may be deemed practicable and consistent with the public interest, to so arrange and adjust all officers coming within the range of the appointing power as to give to each congressional district in the United States (the District of Columbia inclusive) their fair ratio of the officers to be appointed to office.

SEC. . Be it further enacted, That immediately after all the offices shall be filled, upon the principle laid down in the preceding section, the President and the heads of departments shall divide the whole number of congressional districts into four equal divisions, or as near as may be practicable, classing them one, two, three, and four; the offices belonging to the first district, falling into the first class, shall be vacated at the expiration of eight years; those falling into the second class shall be vacated at the expiration of six years; those falling into the third class shall be vacated at the expiration of four years; those falling into the fourth class shall be vacated at the expiration of two years; so that one-fourth of the whole number of officers thus appointed shall be retiring from office every two years, and a new set coming in to fill the vacancies thus occasioned."

"Said appointments to be made by the heads of departments upon nomination of the members of Congress from each congressional district at the time the vacancies take place therein."

The amendment to the amendment was read; and,

After debate,

Mr. Cabell moved the previous question, which was seconded, and the main question was ordered and put, and the said amendment proposed by Mr. Evans to the amendment of Mr. Johnson was disagreed to.

The question was then stated on agreeing to the amendment offered by Mr. Johnson; when

Mr. Tallmadge, by leave, presented a memorial of citizens of the State of New York, praying the survey of a route for a post road between the cities of Philadelphia and New York, through the State of New Jersey; the line of such road to be retained under the perpetual control of the Union, and to be used for the construction of a railroad, to be constructed by the United States.

And then, on motion of Mr. Kaufman, the House, at 4 o'clock and forty minutes, adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

FRIDAY, JUNE 16, 1848.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Dickins, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Senate have passed a joint resolution of the House (No. 30) in relation to the transportation and discharge of the military forces of the United States, at the close of the war with Mexico.

And then he withdrew.

Mr. Vinton moved that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

Mr. John A. Rockwell moved that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House, for the consideration of private bills.

And the question being put on agreeing to the motion made by Mr. Rockwell, that being the first in order,

It was decided in the negative.

The question was then put on agreeing to the motion made by Mr. Vinton,

And decided in the affirmative.

And the House accordingly resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Tallmadge reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill of the House (No. 154) making appropriations for certain fortifications of the United States for the year ending the thirtieth of June, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, had come to no resolution thereon.

Mr. James G. Hampton, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined an enrolled joint resolution (H. R. No. 30) in relation to the transportation and discharge of the military force of the United States at the close of the war with Mexico, and found the same truly enrolled; when

The Speaker signed the said resolution.

Mr. Vinton offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That all debate on the said House bill No. 154 shall cease in one half hour from the time the consideration of said bill shall be resumed in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union; and the committee shall then proceed, under the rules, to vote on such amendment as may be offered thereto.

The said resolution was read, and,

On motion of Mr. Kaufman, amended, by inserting therein the words "five minutes," in lieu of "one half hour;" and the resolution, as thus amended, was agreed to by the House.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House again resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Tallmadge reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the said bill No. 154, had directed him to report the said bill to the House with sundry amendments.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said bill.

And the question was stated, "Will the House agree to the said amendments;" when

Mr. Vinton moved the previous question, which was seconded, and the main question was ordered and put; and

The following amendment was read:

Add at the end of the bill, as printed, the following:

"For additional preservation of the site of Fort Moultrie, in Charleston harbor, three thousand dollars"

And the question being put, "Will the House agree thereto?"

The question recurred on the passage of the bill; and before the same had been read a third time,

Mr. Featherston moved the previous question, which was seconded; when

Mr. White rose, and inquired if the bill was engrossed.

To which the Speaker responded in the negative.

Objection being thereupon raised to the bill being put upon its passage until it was engrossed,

The Speaker decided that, if objection be made, the bill must be engrossed before it could be put upon its passage.

From this decision Mr. Sims appealed.

And the question being put, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

It was decided in the affirmative.

So the decision of the Chair was sustained.

And then, on motion of Mr. Vinton, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Root reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill (H. R. No. 298) making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending the 30th day of June, 1849, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

The House, by unanimous consent, proceeded to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 219) making appropriations for the naval service for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849: which was ordered to be engrossed, and read a third time, on the 15th instant.

The bill was accordingly read the third time, and the question was stated on its passage; when,

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the said bill was amended, by the unanimous consent of the House.

And the question was then put, Shall the bill pass?

And decided in the affirmative, { Yeas 105

The said resolution was read; when

The resolution, as thus amended, was then agreed to by the House.

On motion of Mr. Crowell, from the same committee,

Ordered, That the said committee be discharged from the consideration of the petition of William Wickham, and that it be laid upon the table.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on Commerce, made a report upon the memorial of the Chicago convention, upon the subject of the improvement of rivers and harbors by the general government, and sundry other memorials upon the same subject; upon the message of the President of the 15th December, 1847, returning a bill passed March 3, 1847, for the improvement of certain harbors and rivers; and upon the bill introduced by the honorable R. Barnwell Rhett, in relation to tonnage duties, accompanied by the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States vests in Congress the power to appropriate money to open and improve harbors, and remove obstructions from navigable rivers, in all cases where such improvements are necessary to the protection and facility of commerce with foreign nations, or the commerce among the States.

Resolved, That the interests of our national commerce, the common defence, and general welfare of the United States, require a judicious exercise of the foregoing powers.

Resolved, That the reasons assigned by the President in his veto message of December 15, 1847, for his refusal to approve and sign the bill passed March 3, 1847, making appropriations for the improvement of certain harbors and rivers, are deemed insufficient and unsatisfactory.

Resolved, That it would be inexpedient, and contrary to the principles of the Constitution, to give the general consent of Congress, in advance of legislation by the States, to the imposition of tonnage duties by the several States, as a means of improving the ports and harbors at which such duties may be levied.

CLERK'S OFFICE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

July 3, 1848.

SIR: On a re-examination of the enrolled bill, entitled "An act for the relief of Russell Goss," it appears that a clerical error exists in the enrolled bill, by omitting the words "be it enacted," at the commencement of the bill. These words are contained in the engrossed bill, and the Clerk, on being advised of the omission, has had the said bill truly enrolled, and examined by the committee for enrolled bills, so that the beneficiary of the bill may not be deprived of its benefits, if these words may be deemed essential to the efficacy of the bill. The foregoing statement will explain why the "bill" entitled "An act for the relief of Russell Goss," has been a second time reported for the signatures of the presiding officers of the two houses of Congress.

Very respectfully,

THO. J. CAMPBELL,

Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Hon. R. C. WINTHROP,

Ordered, That said petitions be referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads.

By Mr. Thibodeaux: The petition of Godefroid Brand, of the State of Louisiana, praying for the return of moneys paid by him for certain lands, and for certain costs incurred: which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

On motion of Mr. Henley, the House proceeded to the consideration of the amendment of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 340) entitled "An act to incorporate the Washington Gas Light Company:" when

The said amendment was read, and concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

The said resolutions were then read as follows:

1. Resolved, That the constitution of the United States vests in Congress the power to appropriate money to open and improve harbors and remove obstructions from navigable rivers, in all cases where such improvements are necessary to the protection and facility of commerce with foreign nations, or the commerce among the States.

2. Resolved, That the interests of our national commerce, the common defence, and general welfare of the United States, require a judicious exercise of the foregoing power.

3. Resolved, That the reasons assigned by the President in his veto message of December 15, 1847, for his refusal to approve and sign the bill passed March 3, 1847, making appropriations for the improvement of certain harbors and rivers, are deemed insufficient and unsatisfactory.

4. Resolved, That it would be inexpedient, and contrary to the principles of the constitution, to give the general consent of Congress, in advance of legislation by the States, to the imposition of tonnage duties by the several States, as a means of improving the ports and harbors at which such duties may be levied.

5. Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Commerce on the memorial of the Chicago convention, respecting harbor and river improvements, the President's message of December 15, 1847, on the same subject, and the bill referred to said committee in relation to tonnage duties, with the minority report on the same subject, be printed; and that the Committee on Printing be directed to inquire into the expediency of printing — extra copies of said report.

So the said first resolution was agreed to.

Mr. Turner moved that the vote on agreeing to the said resolution be reconsidered; which was stated: when,

By unanimous consent,

Mr. Howell Cobb moved that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Root reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill (No. 298) making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending June 30, 1849, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

The following petitions and memorials were laid on the Clerk's table, under the 24th rule of the House, to wit:

By Mr. Goggin: The memorial of physicians and other citizens of Rockbridge county, in the State of Virginia, praying that all imported articles intended for medical use shall be subject to competent inspection: which was laid on the table.

By Mr. D. P. King: The memorial of citizens of Suffolk county, in the State of Massachusetts, remonstrating against the removal of the marine hospital in Chelsea: which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

By Mr. Atkinson: The petition of Thomas G. Clinton, one of the assistant examiners of the Patent Office, praying for an investigation into the official conduct of the Commissioner of Patents.

By Mr. Inge: The petition of citizens of the State of Alabama, praying for a modification of the laws in relation to granting copyrights and patents.

Ordered, That said petitions be referred to the Committee on Patents.

By Mr. William T. Lawrence: Three petitions of citizens of Chemung and Tompkins counties, in the State of New York, praying for the discontinuance of mail route No. 1,091, and the establishment of a new route from Elmira, in Chemung county, to Ithaca, in Tompkins county.

By Mr. Willard P. Hall: The petition of citizens of Daviess county, in the State of Missouri, praying for the establishment of a mail route from Gallatin to John Osborn's, in said county.

Ordered, That said petitions be referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads.

And then, on motion of Mr. Sawyer, the House, at half past 3 o'clock, p. m., adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

THURSDAY, JULY 6, 1848.

Mr. Williamson R. W. Cobb moved, by unanimous consent of the House, that the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union be discharged from the consideration of the bill of the House No. 257, to amend an act approved the 24th day of May, 1824, entitled "An act supplementary to an act approved on the third day of March, one thousand eight hundred and nineteen, entitled 'An act providing for the correction of errors in making entries of land at the land offices:'" which motion was agreed to.

And thereupon,

The bill was ordered to be engrossed, and read a third time.

And the bill, being engrossed, was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

Ordered, That the Clerk request the concurrence of the Senate in the said bill.

Mr. Preston, by leave, from the Committee on the Library, to which was referred the bill from the Senate (No. 114) entitled "An act authorizing the purchase of the papers of Alexander Hamilton," reported the same without amendment.

Ordered, That the bill be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of Union.

The following petitions and memorials were laid on the Clerk's table, under the 24th rule of the House, to wit:

By Mr. Moses Hampton: The memorial of citizens of Alleghany county, in the State of Pennsylvania, praying for the abolishment of the franking privilege, and a reduction of postage on letters to two cents each; and the same proportion on newspapers.

By Mr. Wilson: Two petitions of citizens of the State of New Hampshire, of similar import with the foregoing.

Ordered, That said petitions be referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads.

By Mr. McLane: The memorial of Henry Leef, of Baltimore, in the State of Maryland, praying indemnity for the loss and damage he sustained by the illegal seizure of his vessel, the Mary Teresa, by Alexander H. Tyler, consul at Bahia: which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

By Mr. ———: The petition of Joel Post, of the State of Iowa, praying for a grant of land in the late Winnebago reservation: which was referred to the Committee on Private Land Claims.

By Mr. Butler: The petition of citizens of the State of Pennsylvania, praying that the Mount Vernon estate be purchased by the general government: which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

On motion of Mr. Vinton,

Ordered, That the amendment of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 154) entitled "An act making appropriations for certain fortifications of the United States for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849," together with the said bill, be referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

A message was received from the President of the United States, by J. Knox Walker, his private secretary, notifying that he did yesterday approve and sign bills of the House of the following titles, viz:

No. 491. An act giving the consent of the government of the United States to the State of Texas to extend her eastern boundary, so as to include within her limits one-half of Sabine pass, Sabine lake, and Sabine river, as far north as the thirty-second degree of north latitude.

No. 81. An act further to extend the time for locating Virginia military land warrants, and returning surveys thereon to the General Land Office.

No. 109. An act for the relief of Stalker and Hill.

A message in writing was also received from the President, which was delivered in at the Speaker's table.

On motion of Mr. Hunt, the House resumed the consideration of the motion made yesterday by Mr. Turner, to reconsider the vote on agreeing to the first of the resolutions accompanying the report made by Mr. Hunt on the 23d of June last, from the Committee on Commerce, upon the subject of the improvement of rivers and harbors by the general government, the memorial of the Chicago convention, and upon the veto message of the President of the United States at the present session upon the bill of the last session, making appropriations for similar objects—(the said motion to reconsider was pending yesterday, when the House passed to other business.)

Mr. Caleb B. Smith raised the question of order, that the previous question having been ordered on all of the said resolutions, the motion to reconsider the first of said resolutions, which Mr. Turner was proceeding to debate, was not, therefore, debateable.

The Speaker decided that it was now too late to raise the point of order, the same having been overruled yesterday, and the debate having proceeded under that decision.

From this decision Mr. Smith appealed.

And the question being stated, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

It was decided in the affirmative.

And, after debate,

Mr. Wentworth moved that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table: which was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Root reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 394) entitled "An act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849," had agreed to the said amendments, and directed him to report the same to the House.

Also, that the committee had had under consideration the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 136) making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes for the year ending June 30, 1849, and for other purposes, and had come to no resolution thereon.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the amendments of the Senate to the said bill, (H. R. No. 394,) when the first of the said amendments was read and agreed to; and

The second, and only remaining amendment, was then read as follows:

"For transportation of the mails between Charleston, South Carolina, and Havana, by way of Key West, calling at Savannah, under the contract made with M. C. Mordecai, fifty thousand dollars; and for transportation of the mail by said line, or by other steamers, to other places on the coast of Florida, as the Postmaster General may deem practicable and expedient, five thousand dollars."

And the question being put, Will the House agree thereto?

It was decided in the affirmative, { Yeas 82

Mr. Vinton moved that the last named vote be reconsidered, and that the said motion be laid upon the table: which was agreed to.

Mr. James G. Hampton, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, moved that the bill of the House (No. 340) entitled "An act to incorporate the Washington Gas Light Company" be amended, by changing the name of "N. P. Callan" to "M. P. Callan:" which motion was unanimously agreed to by the House, and the bill amended accordingly.

And thereupon,

Mr. Hampton reported that the said committee had examined the said bill No. 340, and found it truly enrolled; when

The Speaker signed the said bill.

Mr. Abbott moved, at 3 o'clock and twenty-five minutes, that the House adjourn: which motion was decided in the negative.

The message from the President of the United States, this day received, was read, and is as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States:

I lay before Congress copies of a treaty of peace, friendship, limits, and settlement, between the United States and the Mexican republic, the ratifications of which were duly exchanged at the city of Queretaro, in Mexico, on the 30th day of May, 1848.

The war in which our country was reluctantly involved, in the necessary vindication of the national rights and honor, has been thus terminated, and I congratulate Congress, and our common constituents, upon the restoration of an honorable peace.

The extensive and valuable territories ceded by Mexico to the United States constitute indemnity for the past, and the brilliant achievements and signal successes of our arms will be a guaranty of security for the future, by convincing all nations that our rights must be respected. The results of the war with Mexico have given to the United States a national character abroad which our country never before enjoyed. Our power and our resources have become known, and are respected throughout the world, and we shall probably be saved from the necessity of engaging in another foreign war for a long series of years. It is a subject of congratulation that we have passed through a war of more than two year's duration, with the business of the country uninterrupted, with our resources unexhausted, and the public credit unimpaired.

I communicate for the information of Congress the accompanying documents and correspondence relating to the negotiation and ratification of the treaty.

Before the treaty can be fully executed on the part of the United States, legislation will be required.

It will be proper to make the necessary appropriations for the payment of the twelve millions of dollars, stipulated by the twelfth article, to be paid to Mexico in four equal annual instalments. Three millions of dollars were appropriated by the act of March 3, 1847, and that sum was paid to the Mexican government after the exchange of the ratifications of the treaty.

The fifth article of the treaty provides that, "in order to designate the boundary line with due precision upon authoritative maps, and to establish, upon the ground, land marks which shall show the limits of both republics, as described in the present article, the two governments shall each appoint a commissioner and a surveyor, who, before the expiration of one year from the date of the exchange of ratifications of this treaty, shall meet at the port of San Diego, and proceed to run and mark the said boundary in its whole course to the mouth of the Rio Bravo del Norte."

It will be necessary that provision should be made by law for the appointment of a commissioner and surveyor, on the part of the United States, to act in conjunction with a commissioner and surveyor appointed by Mexico, in executing the stipulations of this article.

It will be proper, also, to provide by law for the appointment of a "board of commissioners" to adjudicate and decide upon all claims of our citizens against the Mexican government, which by the treaty have been assumed by the United States.

New Mexico and Upper California have been ceded by Mexico to the United States, and now constitute a part of our country. Embracing nearly ten degrees of latitude, lying adjacent to the Oregon territory, and extending from the Pacific ocean to the Rio Grande, a mean distance of nearly a thousand miles, it would be difficult to estimate the value of these possessions to the United States. They constitute of themselves a country large enough for a great empire, and their acquisition is second only in importance to that of Louisiana in 1803. Rich in mineral and agricultural resources, with a climate of great salubrity, they embrace the most important ports on the whole Pacific coast of the continent of North America. The possession of the ports of San Diego and Monterey and the bay of San Francisco, will enable the United States to command the already valuable and rapidly increasing commerce of the Pacific. The number of our whale ships alone now employed in that sea exceeds seven hundred, requiring more than twenty thousand seamen to navigate them, while the capital invested in this particular branch of commerce is estimated at not less than forty millions of dollars. The excellent harbors of Upper California will, under our flag, afford security and repose to our commercial marine, and American mechanics will soon furnish ready means of ship-building and repair, which are now so much wanted in that distant sea.

By the acquisition of these possessions, we are brought into immediate proximity with the west coast of America, from Cape Horn to the Russian possessions north of Oregon, with the islands of the Pacific ocean, and by a direct voyage in steamers we will be in less than thirty days of Canton and other ports of China.

In this vast region, whose rich resources are soon to be developed by American energy and enterprise, great must be the augmentation of our commerce, and with it new and profitable demands for mechanic labor in all its branches, and new and valuable markets for our manufactures and agricultural products.

While the war has been conducted with great humanity and forbearance, and with complete success on our part, the peace has been concluded on terms the most liberal and magnanimous to Mexico. In her hands the territories now ceded had remained, and it is believed would have continued to remain almost unoccupied and of little value to her or to any other nation, whilst, as a part of our Union, they will be productive of vast benefits to the United States, to the commercial world, and the general interests of mankind.

The immediate establishment of territorial governments, and the extension of our laws over these valuable possessions, are deemed to be not only important, but indispensable to preserve order, and the due administration of justice within their limits; to afford protection to the inhabitants; and to facilitate the development of the vast resources and wealth which their acquisition has added to our country.

The war with Mexico having terminated, the power of the Executive to establish, or to continue temporary civil governments over these territories, which existed under the laws of nations, whilst they were regarded as conquered provinces, in our military occupation, has ceased. By their cession to the United States, Mexico has no longer any power over them, and, until Congress shall act, the inhabitants will be without any organized government. Should they be left in this condition, confusion and anarchy will be likely to prevail.

Foreign commerce, to a considerable amount, is now carried on in the ports of Upper California, which will require to be regulated by our laws. As soon as our system shall be extended over this commerce, a revenue of considerable amount will be at once collected, and it is not doubted that it will be annually increased. For these, and other obvious reasons, I deem it to be my duty, earnestly to recommend the action of Congress on the subject at the present session.

In organizing governments over these territories, fraught with such vast advantages to every portion of our Union, I invoke that spirit of concession, conciliation, and compromise in your deliberations, in which the constitution was framed, in which it should be administered, and which is so indispensable to preserve and perpetuate the harmony and union of the States. We should never forget that this union of confederated States was established and cemented by kindred blood, and by the common toils, sufferings, dangers, and triumphs of all its parts, and has been the ever augmenting source of our national greatness and of all our blessings.

There has, perhaps, been no period, since the warning so impressively given to his countrymen by Washington, to guard against geographical divisions and sectional parties, which appeals with greater force than the present, to the patriotic, sober minded, and reflecting of all parties, and of all sections of our country. Who can calculate the value of our glorious Union? It is a model and example of free government to all the world, and is the star of hope and haven of rest to the oppressed of every clime. By its preservation we have been rapidly advanced, as a nation, to a height of strength, power, and happiness, without a parallel in the history of the world. As we extend its blessings over new regions, shall we be so unwise as to endanger its existence by geographical divisions and dissensions?

With a view to encourage the early settlement of these distant possessions, I recommend that liberal grants of the public lands be secured to all our citizens who have settled, or may in a limited period settle, within their limits.

In execution of the provisions of the treaty, orders have been issued to our military and naval forces to evacuate without delay the Mexican provinces, cities, towns, and fortified places in our military occupation, and which are not embraced in the territories ceded to the United States. The army is already on its way to the United States. That portion of it, as well regulars as volunteers, who engaged to serve during the war with Mexico, will be discharged as soon as they can be transported or marched to convenient points in the vicinity of their homes. A part of the regular army will be employed in New Mexico and Upper California, to afford protection to the inhabitants and to guard our interests in these territories.

The old army, as it existed before the commencement of the war with Mexico, especially if authority be given to fill up the rank and file of the several corps to the maximum number authorized during the war, it is believed will be a sufficient force to be retained in service during a period of peace. A few additional officers, in the line and staff of the army, have been authorized, and these, it is believed, will be necessary in the peace establishment, and should be retained in the service. The number of the general officers may be reduced, as vacancies occur by the casualties of the service, to what it was before the war.

While the people of other countries, who live under forms of government less free than our own, have been for ages oppressed by taxation, to support large standing armies in periods of peace, our experience has shown that such establishments are unnecessary in a republic. Our standing army is to be found in the bosom of society. It is composed of free citizens, who are ever ready to take up arms in the service of their country when an emergency requires it. Our experience in the war just closed fully confirms the opinion that such an army may be raised upon a few week's notice, and that our citizen soldiers are equal to any troops in the world. No reason, therefore, is perceived why we should enlarge our land forces and thereby subject the treasury to an annual increased charge. Sound policy requires that we should avoid the creation of a large standing army in a period of peace. No public exigency requires it. Such armies are not only expensive and unnecessary, but may become dangerous to liberty.

Besides making the necessary legislative provisions for the execution of the treaty, and the establishment of territorial governments in the ceded country, we have, upon the restoration of peace, other important duties to perform. Among these I regard none as more important than the adoption of proper measures for the speedy extinguishment of the national debt. It is against sound policy and the genius of our institutions, that a public debt should be permitted to exist a day longer than the means of the treasury will enable the government to pay it off. We should adhere to the wise policy laid down by President Washington, of "avoiding the accumulation of debt, not only by shunning occasions of expense, but by vigorous exertions in time of peace, to discharge the debts which unavoidable wars have occasioned, not ungenerously throwing upon posterity the burden we ourselves ought to bear."

At the commencement of the present administration, the public debt amounted to seventeen millions seven hundred and eighty-eight thousand seven hundred and ninety-nine dollars and sixty-two cents. In consequence of the war with Mexico, it has been necessarily increased, and now amounts to sixty-five millions seven hundred and seventy eight thousand four hundred and fifty dollars and forty-one cents, including the stock and treasury notes which may yet be issued under the act of January 28, 1847, and the sixteen million loan recently negotiated, under the act of March 31, 1848.

In addition to the amount of the debt, the treaty stipulates that twelve millions of dollars shall be paid to Mexico, in four equal annual instalments of three millions each, the first of which will fall due on the 30th day of May, 1849. The treaty also stipulates that the United States shall "assume and pay" to our own citizens "the claims already liquidated and decided against the Mexican republic," and "all claims not heretofore decided against the Mexican government," "to an amount not exceeding three and a quarter millions of dollars." The "liquidated" claims of citizens of the United States against Mexico, as decided by the joint board of commissioners under the convention between the United States and Mexico, of the 11th of April, 1839, amounted to two millions and twenty-six thousand one hundred and thirty-nine dollars and sixty-eight cents. This sum was payable in twenty equal annual instalments. Three of them have been paid to the claimants by the Mexican government, and two by the United States—leaving to be paid of the principal of the liquidated amount assumed by the United States the sum of one million five hundred and nineteen thousand six hundred and four dollars and seventy-six cents, together with the interest thereon. These several amounts of “liquidated” and unliquidated claims assumed by the United States, it is believed, may be paid as they fall due, out of the accruing revenue, without the issue of stock or the creation of any additional public debt.

I cannot too strongly recommend to Congress the importance of husbanding all our national resources, of limiting the public expenditures to necessary objects, and of applying all the surplus at any time in the treasury to the redemption of the debt. I recommend that authority be vested in the Executive by law to anticipate the period of reimbursement of such portion of the debt as may not be now redeemable, and to purchase it at par, or at the premium which it may command in the market, in all cases in which that authority has not already been granted. A premium has been obtained by the government on much the larger portion of the loans; and if, when the government becomes a purchaser of its own stock, it shall command a premium in the market, it will be sound policy to pay it, rather than to pay the semi-annual interest upon it. The interest upon the debt, if the outstanding treasury notes shall be funded, from the end of the last fiscal year until it shall fall due and be redeemable, will be very nearly equal to the principal, which must itself be ultimately paid.

Without changing or modifying the present tariff of duties, so great has been the increase of our commerce under its benign operation, that the revenue derived from that source, and from the sales of the public lands, will, it is confidently believed, enable the government to discharge annually several millions of the debt, and at the same time possess the means of meeting necessary appropriations for all other proper objects. Unless Congress shall authorize largely increased expenditures, for objects not of absolute necessity, the whole public debt existing before the Mexican war, and that created during its continuance, may be paid off without any increase of taxation on the people long before it fall due.

Upon the restoration of peace, we should adopt a policy suited to a state of peace. In doing this, the earliest practicable payment of the public debt should be a cardinal principle of action. Profiting by the experience of the past, we should avoid the errors into which the country was betrayed shortly after the close of the war with Great Britain in 1815. In a few years after that period, a broad and latitudinous construction of the powers of the federal government, unfortunately received but too much countenance. Though the country was burdened with a heavy public debt, large, and in some instances unnecessary and extravagant expenditures were authorized by Congress. The consequence was, that the payment of the debt was postponed for more than twenty years; and, even then, it was only accomplished by the stern will and unbending policy of President Jackson, who made its payment a leading measure of his administration. He resisted the attempts which were made to divert the public money from that great object, and apply it in wasteful and extravagant expenditures for other objects; some of them of more than doubtful constitutional authority and expediency.

If the government of the United States shall observe a proper economy in its expenditures, and be confined in its action to the conduct of our foreign relations, and to the few general objects of its care enumerated in the Constitution, leaving all municipal and local legislation to the States, our greatness as a nation, in moral and physical power, and in wealth and resources, cannot be calculated.

By pursuing this policy, oppressive measures operating unequally and unjustly upon sections and classes, will be avoided, and the people, having no cause of complaint, will pursue their own interests, under the blessings of equal laws and the protection of a just and paternal government. By abstaining from the exercise of all powers not clearly conferred, the current of our glorious Union, now numbering thirty States, will be strengthened as we grow in age, and increase in population, and our future destiny will be without a parallel or example in the history of nations.

JAMES K. POLK.

Mr. John A. Rockwell moved that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House for the consideration of private bills: which motion was disagreed to.

And thereupon,

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Root reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 136) entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with the various Indian tribes, for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, and for other purposes," had directed him to report that the committee had amended one of the said amendments, agreed to some, and disagreed to others.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said amendments of the Senate; when

Mr. Vinton moved to amend the same as follows:

Strike out all of the fifteenth and sixteenth amendments of the Senate after the word "Indians," where it first occurs, in the fifteenth amendment, numbered as section 3, and insert the following:

"Who had their residence east of the Mississippi at the date of the ratification of the treaty of New Echota, of May 23, 1836, and who have not removed west of the Mississippi, or received the commutation for removal and subsistence, and report the same to the Secretary of the Treasury; whereupon it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to cause to be deposited in the treasury, to the credit of said Indians, out of the unexpended balance of the Cherokee fund, under said treaty, a sum equal to fifty-three dollars and thirty-three cents for each individual ascertained as aforesaid; upon which amount interest shall be allowed, at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date of said deposite.

“SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That whenever, hereafter, any individual or individuals of said Cherokee Indians shall desire to remove and join the tribe west of the Mississippi, then the Secretary of War shall be authorized to withdraw from said money, so deposited as aforesaid, so much thereof as may be necessary for the removal and subsistence of such individual or individuals, or families, as may go west of the Mississippi, and to disburse the same, so that the money withdrawn as aforesaid do not exceed the sum of fifty-three dollars and thirty-three cents, and the interest due thereon, for each person removing as aforesaid; and the remainder of said per capita, if any, and the interest due thereon, shall be paid to each of said individuals so removed, after deducting the costs of such removal and subsistence. And the Secretary of War is further authorized to pay the said sum of fifty-three dollars and thirty-three cents, in money, to any of the said Indians who shall prefer to remove him or herself, on his or her arrival in the Indian country west of the Mississippi river.”

Mr. Vinton moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered and put, and the first thirteen of the said amendments of the Senate were then read and agreed to.

The 14th amendment of the Senate was then read, viz: Strike out the 3d section of the bill, (as engrossed,) which section is as follows:

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That for the Indians east of the Rocky mountains, there shall be two superintendants of Indian affairs, with a compensation each of one thousand six hundred dollars per annum; to have the general superintendence, under the direction of the Secretary of War and Commissioner of Indian Affairs, of such tribes as the President of the United States may deem proper, and whose duties and powers shall be those defined in the third section of the act of June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and thirty-four, providing for the organization of the department of Indian affairs; and the organization prescribed by that act shall be further so modified that the number of agents shall not exceed nine, and the number of sub-agents six, for all the Indians east of the Rocky mountains except the Indians of Texas; to be assigned to the charge of such tribes as the Secretary of War, with the approbation of the President, may prescribe; whose compensation, each, shall be twelve hundred dollars for the agents, and for the sub-agents eight hundred dollars per annum; and whose powers and duties shall be those defined and prescribed by the said act of June thirtieth, eighteen hundred and thirty-four: Provided, That whenever the position of any of the tribes, or our relations with them, may become so changed as to require it, the President of the United States may so far exercise the power conferred by the fifth section of the above mentioned act, as to appoint such additional sub-agents, at the salary herein prescribed, as may be actually necessary.

And the question was put, Will the House concur with the Senate in the said amendment?

Mr. Stephens moved that the rules be suspended, for the purpose of enabling him to introduce the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the President be requested to communicate to this House the best and most reliable information in his possession relating to the proper limits and boundaries of New Mexico and California, with the population of each, respectively; and particularly, copies of the maps referred to in the late treaty between Mexico and the United States.

Resolved, further, That the President be also requested to inform this House whether there are not now civil governments organized in New Mexico and California; and, if so, what are their forms and character; by whom and when were they instituted, and by what authority; by whom and in what way they are maintained and supported. And particularly, that he inform this House whether the governor and officers appointed in New Mexico by General Kearny, in 1846, and the governor and other officers appointed by Commodore Stockton in California, during the same year, still hold the appointments thus conferred on them; and whether the salaries affixed to their offices have been paid out of the treasury of the United States; and, if so, by what authority of law.

Resolved, further, That the President be requested to inform this House whether there have been any trial or trials, and convictions of any person or persons, of treason against the United States in that part of New Mexico lying east of the Rio Grande, since the same has been in the occupancy of our army; and, if so, before what tribunal such trials were had; whether civil or military; and by what authority of law such tribunal or tribunals were established; and that he furnish this House with a copy of all the proceedings in such case or cases.

And the question being put, Shall the rules be suspended?

Thereupon,

Mr. Stephens introduced his said resolutions; which were read.

And, after debate,

Mr. Stephens, at the request of Mr. Donnell, modified his said resolutions, by adding thereto the following additional resolutions; which were read.

Resolved, further, That the President of the United States be requested to inform this House how much "public land" the government of the United States has acquired under the fifth article of the treaty concluded and signed on the second day of February, 1848, between the United States of America and the Mexican republic, which is free from, and not included within, grants heretofore made by the governments of Spain and Mexico; and also, how much of such "public land" is within the boundaries of Texas, as defined by the act of the Congress of the republic of Texas of the 19th day of December, 1836.

Resolved, further, That the President be requested to lay before the House copies of all such official letters, reports, or other communications, as contain any information of the quantity, value, or location of the "public lands" acquired under the said section of the treaty, the title of which is in the government of the United States, or which contain the evidence, or any part thereof, that the "extensive and valuable territories ceded by Mexico to the United States constitute indemnity for the past."

And, after debate,

Mr. Hudson moved the previous question, which was seconded, and the main question was ordered and put, and the said resolutions were agreed to.

The rules being suspended for the purpose, Mr. Vinton, from the Committee of Ways and Means, to which was referred the amendment of the Senate to the bill of the House No. 154, making appropriations for certain fortifications of the United States for the year ending the 30th June, 1849, reported that they had agreed to the said amendment.

Ordered, That the said bill and amendment be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Dickins, their Secretary:

They have passed a resolution (No. 32) authorizing the submission of certain claims to arbitration; and a bill (No. 314) entitled "An act to facilitate international exchanges;" in which I am directed to ask the concurrence of the House.

And then he withdrew.

Mr. James G. Hampton, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee did this day present to the President of the United States bills and resolutions of the following titles, viz:

S. No. 124. An act to extend the provisions of the existing pension laws to enlisted men of the ordnance corps of the United States army.

H. R. No. 32. Joint resolution disposing of two brass field pieces captured at the battle of Bennington, in 1777.

Ordered, That the foregoing petitions be referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads.

By Mr. Rose: The petition of citizens of West Bloomfield, in the State of New York, praying for Congress to make certain inquiries in relation to slavery, and report the result to the people: which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

And then, on motion of Mr. Pendleton, the House, at half past 3 o'clock, adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

TUESDAY, JULY 11, 1848.

Mr. White moved that the vote taken yesterday on agreeing to the resolutions introduced by Mr. Stephens be reconsidered, and that his said motion to reconsider be laid upon the table: which motion was agreed to.

It was decided in the affirmative.

No further excuses being offered,

Mr. Goggin moved that when the House adjourns to-day, it adjourn to meet to-morrow, at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Objection being made,

The Speaker decided that the motion could not be received at this time, except by unanimous consent.

From this decision Mr. Goggin appealed.

And the question being put, Shall the decision of the Chair be sustained as the judgment of the House?

It was decided in the affirmative.

So the decision of the Chair was sustained.

On motion of Mr. George W. Jones, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Root reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill No. 298, making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending June 30, 1849, and for other purposes, had come to no resolution thereon.

On motion of Mr. Vinton the House, by unanimous consent of the House, proceeded to the consideration of the message from the Senate, insisting upon their fourteenth amendment to the bill of the House 136, entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with the various Indian tribes, for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, and for other purposes, and disagree to the amendment of the House to the sixteenth of the Senate; and asking a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses.

Thereupon, it was

Resolved, That the House do agree to the conference asked by the Senate.

And Mr. Vinton, Mr. Nicoll, and Mr. Clingman, were appointed managers at said conference on the part of the House.

The following petitions, memorials, and other papers, were laid on the Clerk's table, under the 24th rule of the House, to wit:

By Mr. Garnett Duncan: The memorial of P. L. Loughborough, of Louisville, in the State of Kentucky, praying for a change in the November term of the United States district court in said State: which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

By Mr. Turner: The memorial of Henry Powell, of the State of Illinois, praying for a pension, on account of wounds and disabilities received and incurred in the service of the United States during the late war with Great Britain: which was referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions;

Also, two petitions of citizens of the State of Illinois, praying for a grant of land, to aid in the construction of a plank road from Peru to Savannah: which were referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

By Mr. Nicoll: The petition of citizens of the city and State of New York, praying for the survey of a route for a post road between said city and Philadelphia, the line of such road to be retained under the perpetual control of the Union, and to be used for the construction of a railroad.

By Mr. Turner: The petition of the State of Illinois, praying for the establishment of a mail route from Twelve Mile grove to Decatur, in said State.

Ordered, That said petitions be referred to the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads;

Also, the petition of citizens of Whiteside county, in the State of Illinois, praying for the extension of the ordinance of 1787 over the territory acquired from Mexico: which was referred to the Committee on Territories.

And then, on motion of Mr. Sidney Lawrence, the House, at 4 o'clock, p. m., adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1848.

The Journal of yesterday having been read,

Mr. Goggin moved to amend the same, by inserting therein, immediately after his motion providing that when the House adjourned yesterday it should adjourn until 10 o'clock, a. m., this day, the following:

“Mr. Cabell moved to amend the motion made by Mr. Goggin, by adding thereto the following: ‘and that all the committees of the House be discharged from the business before them.’”

And the question being put, Shall the Journal of yesterday be thus amended?

It was decided in the negative.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Dickins; their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Senate have passed bills of the following titles, viz:

No. 294. An act making appropriations for light-houses, light-boats, buoys, &c., and providing for the erection and establishment of the same;

No. 300. An act to make Bangor a port of entry for ships or vessels coming from and beyond the Cape of Good Hope;

No. 320. An act to change the time of holding the circuit and district courts in the State of Kentucky;

The Senate have passed the bill of the House No. 482, entitled “An act to establish a collection district in the State of South Carolina, and for other purposes, with amendments, in which I am directed to ask the concurrence of the House.

The President of the United States has notified the Senate that he did, on the 10th instant, approve and sign the bill No. 124, to extend the provisions of existing pension laws to enlisted men of the ordnance corps of the United States army.

And then he withdrew.

On motion of Mr. Botts, by leave, the House proceeded to the consideration of the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House No. 429, to amend an act entitled “An act supplemental to an act entitled ‘An act providing for the prosecution of the existing war between the United States and the republic of Mexico,’” and for other purposes, with the amendments thereto reported from the Committee on Military Affairs, the question being on the amendments reported from the Committee on Military Affairs to the said amendments of the Senate, which were read.

And the question was stated.

And, after debate,

Mr. Botts moved the previous question, which was seconded, and the main question was ordered and put, viz: Will the House concur with the Committee on Military Affairs in disagreeing to the first amendment of the Senate?

And decided in the affirmative.

All the remaining amendments proposed by the Committee on Military Affairs to the Senate’s amendments were then disagreed to, and the question recurred on agreeing to the amendments of the Senate to the said bill; and the second of the same was read, as follows:

“SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That so much of the provisions of existing laws as requires the discharge of the officers and principal musicians hereinafter named be, and the same is hereby, suspended until the fourth of March next, to wit: one additional major to each regiment of dragoons, artillery, infantry, and riflemen, as authorized by the third section of the act of the eleventh February, eighteen hundred and forty-seven, entitled "An act to raise, for a limited time, an additional military force, and for other purposes;" two additional surgeons and twelve additional assistant surgeons, as authorized by the eighth section of said act; four quartermasters and ten assistant quartermasters, as authorized by the tenth section of said act; one assistant adjutant general, with the rank, &c., of a lieutenant colonel of cavalry; and two assistant adjutants general, with the brevet rank, pay, and emoluments of a captain of cavalry, as authorized by the second section of the act of the third of March, eighteen hundred and forty-seven, entitled "An act making provision for an additional number of general officers, and for other purposes;" two deputy paymasters general and ten paymasters, as authorized by the twelfth section of the last mentioned act; and the two principal musicians allowed to each regiment of artillery by the eighteenth section of the last mentioned act, and no vacancies, happening under the provisions so suspended, shall be filled up in the meantime.

And the question being put,

It was decided in the negative—two-thirds not voting in favor thereof.

On motion of Mr. John W. Houston,

On motion of Mr. Burt, by leave,

Resolved, That the President be requested to cause to be communicated to this House a statement of the number of Indians in Oregon, California, and New Mexico; the number of military posts that will be necessary in each; the number of troops to garrison each

On motion of Mr. Hilliard, by leave,

Resolved, That the President be requested to communicate to this House (if not inconsistent with the public interest) copies of all instructions given to the Hon. Ambrose H. Sevier and Nathan Clifford, commissioners appointed to conduct negotiations for the ratification of the treaty lately concluded between the United States and the republic of Mexico.

On motion of Mr. Haralson, by leave,

Resolved, That it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the House of Representatives to cause each member of the House to be furnished with a printed copy of all the acts and resolutions which may be passed by both Houses of Congress, and approved by the President, as soon as practicable after the same shall be severally approved.

On motion of Mr. White, it was

Resolved, That the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union be discharged from the further consideration of Senate bill No. 246, reviving certain naval pensions for the term of five years, and extending the benefits of existing laws respecting naval pensions to engineers, firemen, and coalheavers in the navy, and to their widows.

The House accordingly proceeded to the consideration of the said bill, when the amendment thereto reported from the Committee on Naval Affairs was read and agreed to; and

The amendment was ordered to be engrossed, and the bill read a third time.

The amendment being engrossed, the bill was read the third time, and passed.

The title to the said bill was then read and amended, by striking out of the same the words "for the term of five years."

Ordered, That the Clerk request the concurrence of the Senate in the said amendment.

Mr. Lahm moved that the rules be suspended for the purpose of enabling him to introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Territories be instructed to inquire into the expediency of setting off the whole, or so much of the territory acquired by the late treaty with Mexico, west of the river Bravo, as shall be thought necessary, for the purpose of forming a colony for the free black population of the United States, and such slaves as shall from time to time be manumitted by their owners; and that said committee also inquire into the expediency of making a donation, or, for a certain compensation, selling a certain number of acres of land to every free black person who shall, within any specified number of years, voluntarily emigrate to said territory; also, into the propriety of holding said territory a certain number of years as a colony of the United States, previous to transferring the sovereignty thereof to those resident therein.

The said resolution was read; and the question being put, Shall the rules be suspended for the purpose aforesaid?

It was decided in the negative—two-thirds not voting in favor thereof.

The following petitions, memorials, and other papers, were laid on the Clerk's table, under the 24th rule of the House, to wit:

The Speaker stated, that under the peculiar circumstances of the case, it was very questionable whether such a motion could be entertained consistently with the rules of the House. By general consent, the question might lie over until the morning, when he would decide it after an examination of the precedents.

And thereupon, the question was informally passed over.

And then, on motion of Mr. Stephens, the House, at 4 o'clock and two minutes, adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1848.

Mr. James G. Hampton, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined an enrolled joint resolution and bill of the following titles, viz:

H. R. No. 10. Joint resolution extending the time for the erection of certain light-houses;

S. No. 210. An act to confirm the location and grant a quarter section of public lands for the county site of Hillsborough county, State of Florida; and found the same truly enrolled: when

The Speaker signed the said resolution and bill.

The Speaker announced, as the business first in order, the motion made yesterday by Mr. Stuart, to reconsider the vote by which the House yesterday (on the correction of Mr. Stephens's vote) decided that the provision relative to the removal of obstructions in the Savannah river, in the bill (No. 298) making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, and for other purposes, was not struck out.

The Speaker said he would proceed to decide the question of order raised last evening upon the motion of the gentleman from Michigan, (Mr. Stuart.)

Mr. King, of Georgia, rose to a question of order, and submitted that the gentleman from Michigan could not make the motion to reconsider, having voted for the motion to strike out.

The Speaker said he would decide that point with the other, and proceeded to state the question. It was well known to the House that the item in the civil and diplomatic appropriation bill which provided for the removal of obstructions in the Savannah river had been struck out in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and that the vote in the House upon concurring in that amendment was reported on the record yeas 86 nays 83. Of course the amendment was adopted and the appropriation struck out. Yesterday, however, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Stephens) rose and stated that his vote was wrongly entered, that he voted "aye" instead of "no," and called for a correction, which was accorded to him as his right. The vote was then reported yeas 85, nays 84. A case then arose under the rule, in which it was the duty of the Speaker to settle the question; the Speaker voted in the negative, making the vote yeas 85, nays 85, whereby the amendment was rejected and the original item as contained in the bill reported by the Committee of Ways and Means was retained. In the mean time, however, the bill had been ordered to be engrossed; a motion had been made to reconsider the vote ordering the engrossment, and that motion had been laid on the table. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. Stuart) had then raised the question of reconsideration, and moved that the vote by which the House had rejected the amendment of the Committee of the Whole, upon the correction of the Journal and by the casting vote of the Speaker, be reconsidered. A question was then made whether the motion to reconsider could be received.

The Chair now decided that, inasmuch as when the House ordered the bill to be engrossed a provision was not in it which was afterwards put in by the casting vote of the Speaker, the House was entitled to a new vote upon the engrossment. The question then arose upon the motion to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was rejected. Upon that question the Chair had found but one precedent, being that to which he had last evening referred:

"December 14, 1839. Mr. Mercer, who voted in the affirmative of the question, moved that the House do reconsider the vote of yesterday on the proposition of Mr. Wise, 'That the credentials of the following named members: John B. Aycrigg, John P. B. Maxwell, Wm. Halstead, Charles C. Stratton, and Thomas Yorke,' are sufficient to entitle them to take their seats in the House; leaving the question of contested election to be afterwards decided by the House."

"The Chairman decided, that as the vote proposed to be reconsidered was a tie vote, in consequence of which the proposition was lost, he did not consider the motion in order. The rule provides that 'when a motion has been once made and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member of the majority to move for the reconsideration thereof.' There was no majority on either side of the question; and he did not, therefore, think the rule applied to the case. No motion to reconsider a tie-vote would be in order on either side."

[The record further states that an appeal being taken by Mr. Mercer, the decision of the Chair was sustained: Yeas 147, nays 64.]

The Chair would state to the House, however, that this decision was made under very peculiar circumstances, arising out of the case of the contested election from New Jersey, and while there was no regularly elected Speaker in the chair. The Chair had no hesitation in saying he differed from the decision in this case. His own opinion was, that a fair construction of the rule was that any one who voted with the prevailing side had the right to move a reconsideration. This he thought was the spirit of the rule.

The Chair, therefore, decided that the motion to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was rejected could be made, but must be made by a gentleman who had voted with the prevailing side; if, therefore, the gentleman from Michigan had voted in the negative that motion was in order.

Mr. Stuart not having voted with the majority, was precluded from moving the said reconsideration.

Thereupon,

Mr. Franklin Clark, who had voted in the negative, moved that the vote by which the provision for removal of obstructions in the Savannah river was retained in the said bill, (No. 298,) be reconsidered.

Mr. Burt rose to inquire whether, in order to get at the question of reconsideration, it was not necessary that the House, by its vote, should refuse to order the bill to be engrossed?

The Speaker said the question of engrossment, owing to these mistakes, was now open; and after the reconsideration shall have been disposed of, the question would recur on the engrossment of the bill.

Mr. Kaufman moved the previous question: when

Mr. Pollock moved that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table.

Mr. Chase moved that there be a call of the House.

And the question being put, Shall there be a call?

Mr. Clingman moved that the vote on the passage of the resolution be reconsidered, and that his motion to reconsider be laid upon the table: which was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk request the concurrence of the Senate in the said resolution.

Mr. James G. Hampton, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined engrossed bills of the Senate of the following titles, viz:

No. 300. An act to make Bangor a port of entry for ships or vessels coming from and beyond the Cape of Good Hope;

No. 321. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to make a compromise and settlement with the securities of Francis D. Newcomb, late surveyor general of the State of Louisiana; and found the same truly enrolled: when

The Speaker signed the said bills.

Mr. Pillsbury, by leave, presented resolutions of instructions from the Legislature of Texas, concerning military posts on the frontier, and relative to intercourse with Indians: which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Pillsbury, by leave, presented resolutions of instructions from the same legislature, relative to the passage of a law to compel the judge of the United States district court for the district of Texas, to reside and remain permanently within his district: which were referred to the Committee on the Judiciary, and ordered to be printed.

Mr. Gaines, from a minority of the select committee appointed on the subject of pensions to the widows and orphans of soldiers who have been killed or have died whilst in the service of the United States during the war with Mexico, made a report thereon: which was laid upon the table, and ordered to be printed.

By unanimous consent the message, in writing, this day received from the President of the United States, was read, and is as follows:

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

In answer to the resolutions of the House of Representatives of the 10th instant, requesting information in relation to New Mexico and California, I communicate herewith reports from the Secretary of State, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of War, and the Secretary of the Navy, with the documents which accompany the same. These reports and documents contain information upon the several points of inquiry embraced by the resolutions. "The proper limits and boundaries of New Mexico and California" are delineated on the map referred to in the late treaty with Mexico, an authentic copy of which is herewith transmitted, and all the additional information upon that subject; and also, the most reliable information in respect to the population of these respective provinces, which is in the possession of the Executive, will be found in the accompanying report of the Secretary of State.

The resolutions request information in regard to the existence of civil governments in New Mexico and California; their "form and character;" by "whom instituted;" by "what authority;" and how they are "maintained and supported."

In my message of December 22, 1846, in answer to a resolution of the House of Representatives calling for information "in relation to the establishment or organization of civil government in any portion of the territory of Mexico which has or might be taken possession of by the army or navy of the United States," I communicated the orders which had been given to the officers of our army and navy, and stated the general authority upon which temporary military governments had been established over the conquered portion of Mexico then in our military occupation.

The temporary governments authorized were instituted by virtue of the rights of war. The power to declare war against a foreign country, and to prosecute it according to the general laws of war, as sanctioned by civilized nations, it will not be questioned, exists under our constitution. When Congress has declared that war exists with a foreign nation, "the general laws of war apply to our situation;" and it becomes the duty of the President, as the constitutional "commander-in-chief of the army and navy of the United States," to prosecute it.

In prosecuting a foreign war thus duly declared by Congress, we have the right, by "conquest and military occupation," to acquire possession of the territories of the enemy, and, during the war, to "exercise the fullest rights of sovereignty over it." The sovereignty of the enemy is in such case "suspended," and his laws can "no longer be rightfully enforced" over the conquered territory, "or be obligatory upon the inhabitants who remain and submit to the conqueror. By the surrender the inhabitants pass under a temporary allegiance" to the conqueror, and are "bound by such laws, and such only, as" he may choose to recognize and impose. "From the nature of the case, no other laws could be obligatory upon them; for where there is no protection, or allegiance, or sovereignty, there can be no claim to obedience." These are well established principles of the laws of war, as recognized and practised by civilized nations; and they have been sanctioned by the highest judicial tribunal of our own country.

The orders and instructions issued to the officers of our army and navy, applicable to such portions of the Mexican territory as had been or might be conquered by our arms, were in strict conformity to these principles. They were, indeed, ameliorations of the rigors of war, upon which we might have insisted. They substituted for the harshness of military rule something of the mildness of civil government, and were not only the exercise of no excess of power, but were a relaxation in favor of the peaceable inhabitants of the conquered territory who had submitted to our authority, and were alike politic and humane.

It is from the same source of authority that we derive the unquestioned right, after the war has been declared by Congress, to blockade the ports and coasts of the enemy, to capture his towns, cities, and provinces, and to levy contributions upon him for the support of our army. Of the same character with these is the right to subject to our temporary military government the conquered territories of our enemy. They are all belligerent rights, and their exercise is as essential to the successful prosecution of a foreign war as the right to fight battles.

New Mexico and Upper California were among the territories conquered and occupied by our forces, and such temporary governments were established over them. They were established by the officers of our army and navy in command, in pursuance of the orders and instructions accompanying my message to the House of Representatives of December 22, 1846. In their form and detail, as at first established, they exceeded, in some respects, as was stated in that message, the authority which had been given; and instructions for the correction of the error were issued in despatches from the War and Navy Departments of the 11th of January, 1847, copies of which are herewith transmitted. They have been maintained and supported out of the military exactions and contributions levied upon the enemy, and no part of the expense has been paid out of the treasury of the United States.

In the routine of duty some of the officers of the army and navy who first established temporary governments in California and New Mexico have been succeeded in command by other officers, upon whom like duties devolved; and the agents employed or designated by them to conduct the temporary governments have also, in some instances, been superseded by others. Such appointments for temporary civil duty, during our military occupation, were made by the officers in command in the conquered territories, respectively.

On the conclusion and exchange of ratifications of a treaty of peace with Mexico, which was proclaimed on the 4th instant, these temporary governments necessarily ceased to exist. In the instructions to establish a temporary government over New Mexico no distinction was made between that and the other provinces of Mexico which might be conquered and held in our military occupation.

The province of New Mexico, according to its ancient boundaries as claimed by Mexico, lies on both sides of the Rio Grande. That part of it on the east of that river was in dispute when the war between the United States and Mexico commenced. Texas, by a successful revolution in April, 1836, achieved, and subsequently maintained, her independence. By an act of the congress of Texas, passed in December, 1836, her western boundary was declared to be the Rio Grande, from its mouth to its source, and thence due north to the forty-second degree of north latitude. Though the republic of Texas, by many acts of sovereignty which she asserted and exercised, some of which were stated in my annual message of December, 1846, had established her clear title to the country west of the Nueces, and bordering upon that part of the Rio Grande which lies below the province of New Mexico, she had never conquered or reduced to actual possession, and brought under her government and laws, that part of New Mexico lying east of the Rio Grande, which she claimed to be within her limits. On the breaking out of the war we found Mexico in possession of this disputed territory. As our army approached Santa Fé, (the capital of New Mexico,) it was found to be held by a governor under Mexican authority, with an armed force collected to resist our advance. The inhabitants were Mexicans, acknowledging allegiance to Mexico. The boundary in dispute was the line between the two countries engaged in actual war, and the settlement of it of necessity depended on a treaty of peace. Finding the Mexican authorities and people in possession, our forces conquered them, and extended military rule over them and the territory which they actually occupied, in lieu of the sovereignty which was displaced. It was not possible to disturb or change the practical boundary line, in the midst of the war, when no negotiation for its adjustment could be opened, and when Texas was not present, by her constituted authorities, to establish and maintain government over a hostile Mexican population who acknowledged no allegiance to her. There was therefore no alternative left, but to establish and maintain military rule during the war, over the conquered people in the disputed territory who had submitted to our arms, or to forbear the exercise of our belligerent rights, and leave them in a state of anarchy and without control.

Whether the country in dispute rightfully belonged to Mexico or to Texas, it was our right in the first case, and our duty as well as our right in the latter, to conquer and hold it. Whilst this territory was in our possession as conquerors, with a population hostile to the United States, which more than once broke out in open insurrection, it was our unquestionable duty to continue our military occupation of it until the conclusion of the war, and to establish over it a military government, necessary for our own security, as well as for the protection of the conquered people.

By the joint resolution of Congress of March 1, 1845, "for annexing Texas to the United States," the "adjustment of all questions of boundary which may arise with other governments" was reserved to this government. When the conquest of New Mexico was consummated by our arms, the question of boundary remained still unadjusted. Until the exchange of the ratifications of the late treaty, New Mexico never became an undisputed portion of the United States, and it would therefore have been premature to deliver over to Texas that portion of it, on the east side of the Rio Grande, to which she asserted a claim. However just the right of Texas may have been to it, that right had never been reduced into her possession, and it was contested by Mexico.

By the cession of the whole of New Mexico, on both sides of the Rio Grande to the United States, the question of disputed boundary, so far as Mexico is concerned, has been settled; leaving the question as to the true limits of Texas, in New Mexico, to be adjusted between that State and the United States.

Under the circumstances existing during the pendency of the war, and while the whole of New Mexico, as claimed by our enemy, was in our military occupation, I was not unmindful of the rights of Texas to that portion of it which she claimed to be within her limits. In answer to a letter from the governor of Texas, dated on the 4th of January, 1847, the Secretary of State, by my direction, informed him, in a letter of the 12th of February, 1847, that in the President's annual message of December, 1846, "you have already perceived that New Mexico is at present in the temporary occupation of the troops of the United States, and the government over it is military in its character. It is merely such a government as must exist under the laws of nations and of war, to preserve order and protect the rights of the inhabitants, and will cease on the conclusion of a treaty of peace with Mexico. Nothing, therefore, can be more certain than that this temporary government, resulting from necessity, can never injuriously affect the right which the President believes to be justly asserted by Texas to the whole territory on this side of the Rio Grande whenever the Mexican claim to it shall have been extinguished by treaty. But this is a subject which more properly belongs to the legislative, than the executive branch of the government."

The result of the whole is, that Texas had asserted a right to that part of New Mexico east of the Rio Grande which is believed, under the acts of Congress for the annexation and admission of Texas into the Union as a State, and under the constitution and laws of Texas, to be well founded; but this right had never been reduced to her actual possession and occupancy. The general government, possessing exclusively the war making power, had the right to take military possession of this disputed territory, and until the title to it was perfected by a treaty of peace, it was their duty to hold it, and to establish a temporary military government over it, for the preservation of the conquest itself, the safety of our army, and the security of the conquered inhabitants.

The resolutions further request information, whether any persons have been tried and condemned for "treason against the United States in that part of New Mexico lying east of the Rio Grande since the same has been in the occupancy of our army," and if so, before "what tribunal," and "by what authority of law such tribunal was established?" It appears that after the territory in question was "in the occupancy of our army," some of the conquered Mexican inhabitants, who had at first submitted to our authority, broke out in open insurrection, murdering our soldiers and citizens, and committing other atrocious crimes. Some of the principal offenders who were apprehended were tried, and condemned by a tribunal invested with civil and criminal jurisdiction, which had been established in the conquered country by the military officer in command. That the offenders deserved the punishment inflicted upon them, there is no reason to doubt; and the error in the proceedings against them consisted in designating and describing their crimes as "treason against the United States." This error was pointed out, and its recurrence thereby prevented, by the Secretary of War in a despatch to the officer in command in New Mexico, dated on the 26th of June, 1847, a copy of which together with copies of all communications relating to the subject, which have been received at the War Department, are herewith transmitted.

The resolutions call for information in relation to the quantity of the public lands acquired within the ceded territory, and "how much of the same is within the boundaries of Texas, as defined by the act of the congress of the republic of Texas of the 19th day of December, 1836." No means of making an accurate estimate on the subject is in the possession of the executive department. The information which is possessed will be found in the accompanying report of the Secretary of the Treasury.

The country ceded to the United States lying west of the Rio Grande, and to which Texas has no title, is estimated by the Commissioner of the General Land Office to contain five hundred and twenty-six thousand and seventy-eight square miles, or three hundred and thirty-six millions six hundred and eighty-nine thousand nine hundred and twenty acres.

The period since the exchange of ratifications of the treaty has been too short to enable the government to have access to or to procure abstracts or copies of the land titles issued by Spain or by the republic of Mexico. Steps will be taken to procure this information at the earliest practicable period. It is estimated, as appears from the accompanying report of the Secretary of the Treasury, that much the larger portion of the land within the territories ceded remains vacant and unappropriated and will be subject to be disposed of by the United States. Indeed, a very inconsiderable portion of the land embraced in the cession, it is believed, has been disposed of or granted either by Spain or Mexico.

What amount of money the United States may be able to realize from the sales of these vacant lands must be uncertain; but it is confidently believed that, with prudent management, after making liberal grants to emigrants and settlers, it will exceed the cost of the war, and all the expenses to which we have been subjected in acquiring it.

The resolutions also call for "the evidence, or any part thereof, that the 'extensive and valuable territories ceded by Mexico to the United States constitute indemnity for the past.' "

The immense value of the ceded country does not consist alone in the amount of money for which the public lands may be sold. If not a dollar could be realized from the sale of these lands, the cession of the jurisdiction over the country, and the fact that it has become a part of our Union, and cannot be made subject to any European power, constitutes ample "indemnity for the past" in the immense value and advantages which its acquisition must give to the commercial, navigating, manufacturing, and agricultural interests of our country.

The value of the public lands embraced within the limits of the ceded territory, great as that value may be, is far less important to the people of the United States than the sovereignty over the country. Most of our States contain no public lands owned by the United States, and yet the sovereignty and jurisdiction over them is of incalculable importance to the nation. In the State of New York the United States is the owner of no public lands, and yet two-thirds of our whole revenue is collected at the great port of that State, and within her limits is found about one-seventh of our entire population. Although none of the future cities on our coast of California may ever rival the city of New York in wealth, population and business, yet, that important cities will grow up on the magnificent harbors of that coast, with a rapidly increasing commerce and population, and yielding a large revenue, would seem to be certain. By the possession of the safe and capacious harbors on the Californian coast, we shall have great advantages in securing the rich commerce of the east, and shall thus obtain for our products new and increased markets, and greatly enlarge our coasting and foreign trade, as well as augment our tonnage and revenue.

These great advantages, far more than the simple value of the public lands in the ceded territory, "constitute our indemnity for the past."

JAMES K. POLK.

WASHINGTON, July 24, 1848.

The said message being read,

Mr. Howell Cobb moved that it be referred to the Committee on Territories, and printed, together with the documents accompanying the same; and that the Committee on Printing be directed to inquire into the expediency of printing ten thousand extra copies of the same.

The Senate have disagreed to the amendments of the House to the bill of the Senate (No. 246) entitled "An act renewing certain naval pensions for the term of five years, and extending the benefits of existing laws respecting naval pensions, to engineers, firemen, and coal-heavers in the navy, and to their widows."

The Senate have agreed to the report of the conference (made to the Senate by the said conference on their part) upon the disagreeing votes of the two Houses, on the amendments to the bill of the House (No. 136) entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes, for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849."

And then he withdrew.

And thereupon,

Mr. Vinton, (by the unanimous consent of the House,) from the conference on the part of the House upon the said disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments to the said bill, (No. 136,) made the following report:

The Committee of Conference on the part of the House of Representatives on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the bill entitled "An act making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with the various Indian tribes, for the year ending June 30, 1849, and for other purposes," report:

That they have met the conferees on the part of the Senate, and, after a full and free conference on the subject of the disagreeing votes, have agreed to recommend, and do recommend to the respective Houses as follows:

1st. That the Senate do recede from their disagreement to the amendment of the House of Representatives to the sixteenth amendment of the Senate, and do agree to the same.

2d. That the House of Representatives do recede from their disagreement to the fourteenth amendment of the Senate, and do agree to the same with the following amendment: insert the following section in place of the one stricken out:

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That so much of the first section of the act entitled 'an act to amend an act entitled 'an act to provide for the better organization of the department of Indian affairs,' and an act entitled 'an act to regulate trade and intercourse with the Indian tribes, and to preserve peace on the frontiers,' approved June 30, 1834, and for other purposes,' approved March 3, 1847, as is in the following words: 'and the superintendents, agents, and sub-agents shall be furnished with offices for the transaction of the public business; and the agents and sub-agents with houses for their residences, at the expense of the United States; and, with the assent of the Indians, be permitted to cultivate such portions of land as the President or Secretary of War may deem proper," be, and the same is hereby, repealed.

C. G. ATHERTON,

D. R. ATCHISON,

Managers of the conference on the part of the Senate.

SAMUEL F. VINTON,

HENRY NICOLL,

T. L. CLINGMAN,

Managers of the conference on the part of the House of Representatives.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House, by unanimous consent, proceeded to consider the message from the Senate, announcing the agreement of the Senate in the report of the conference upon the said amendments to the said bill of the House, No. 136.

And the question was stated on concurring with the Senate in the report on their part, on the subject of the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the said bill, No. 136: when

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House proceeded to the consideration of the said amendments to the said bill, (No. 219,) entitled "An act making appropriations for the naval service for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849;" and

The question was stated on concurring with the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, in their report upon the said amendments: when

Mr. Vinton moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered and put, and the said report was concurred in.

Mr. Vinton moved that the last-mentioned vote be reconsidered, and that his motion to reconsider be laid upon the table;

And so it was

Resolved, That this House do concur in the said amendments of the Senate to the said bill, (No. 219,) numbered 3, 4, 7, 8, 9, and 11.

That the House do concur in the 5th amendment, with an amendment thereto; and that this House do disagree to the said amendments of the Senate, numbered 1, 2, 6, 10, and 12.

And then,

On motion of Mr. Stephens, the House, at four minutes past 4 o'clock, p. m., adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 26, 1848.

Mr. Wentworth offered the following resolution:

A message was received from the President of the United States, by J. Knox Walker, notifying that he did yesterday approve and sign a joint resolution (No. 34) relinquishing to the State of Missouri certain trophies of Doniphan's victorious expedition; also, a joint resolution (No. 10) extending the time for the erection of certain light-houses.

Mr. Mullin, under the rule of the House, handed to the Clerk a notice of a motion for leave to introduce a bill to authorize the Supreme Court of the United States to hear and determine, at the next term thereof, the question whether slaves may lawfully be taken into, and held as such in, the territories of California and New Mexico.

Mr. Vinton, by leave, from the Committee of Ways and Means, to which was referred the bill from the Senate (No. 315) entitled "An act for the payment of liquidated claims against Mexico," reported the same with an amendment.

Ordered, That the said bill be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

On motion of Mr. Caleb B. Smith, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Morehead reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill from the Senate (No. 315) entitled "An act for the payment of liquidated claims against Mexico," had directed him to report the same with an amendment; and the bill of the House (No. 201) to establish the territorial government of Oregon, upon which they had come to no resolution.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said bill from the Senate, (No. 315:) when

The said amendment was read and agreed to, and ordered to be engrossed, and the bill read a third time to-day.

The amendment being engrossed, the bill was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

Ordered, That the Clerk request the concurrence of the Senate in the said amendment.

Mr. James G. Hampton, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined an enrolled bill (H. R. No. 136) making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with the various Indian tribes for the year ending the 30th June, 1849, and found the same correctly enrolled: when

The Speaker signed the said bill.

And then, on motion of Mr. Atkinson, the House, at five minutes past 4 o'clock, p. m., adjourned until to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, a. m.

THURSDAY, JULY 27, 1848.

Mr. Conger, from the Committee on Printing, which was directed to inquire into the expediency of printing five thousand copies of the memoir, geographical, political, and commercial, on the present state and productive resources of Siberia and the Asiatic islands, by Aaron H. Palmer, reported the following resolution: which was read and agreed to.

Resolved, That said memoir be not printed.

Mr. Conger, from the same committee, to which was referred the resolution directing the Clerk of the House to furnish each member of the House with copies of the acts and resolutions which may be passed, as soon as possible after the same are approved, with instructions to ascertain the expense of the same, reported the expense, as near as can be estimated, at $200 a session.

The said report was read: when

Mr. George S. Houston moved that the said resolution and report be laid upon the table: which was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Putnam, by leave,

Resolved, That the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds inquire and examine as to the necessity of another building for the use of the different public departments; also, the fitness for such purpose of the building recently erected by Mr. Winder, near the War Department, and the terms on which the same can be purchased; and that the said committee report by bill or otherwise.

In pursuance of previous notice, Mr. Fulton obtained leave and introduced a bill (No. 628) to authorize the payment of invalid pensions in certain cases: which was read a first and second time, and referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Mr. Venable, by leave, from the Committee on Invalid Pensions, made a report upon the petition of John Gawney, accompanied by a bill (No. 629) for his relief: which bill was read a first and second time, committed to a Committee of the Whole House, made the order of the day for to-morrow, and the bill and report ordered to be printed.

Mr. McClernand moved that the House proceed to the consideration of the messages from the President of the United States, which on Monday last were made the special order for this day.

And the question being put,

It was decided in the negative.

Mr. McClelland, from the select committee on rules and orders, reported the following amended rule, to be inserted in place of the existing 135th rule:

“135. In Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, the bills shall be taken up and disposed of, in their order on the calendar; but when objection is made to the consideration of a bill, a majority of the committee shall decide, without debate, whether it shall be taken up and disposed of, or laid aside: Provided, That general appropriation bills, and in time of war bills for raising men or money, and bills concerning a treaty of peace, shall be preferred to all other bills, at the discretion of the committee, and when demanded by any member, the question shall be first put in regard to them.”

The said amendment to the rules was read.

And after debate,

Mr. Ashmun moved the previous question.

Mr. Howell Cobb moved that the said amendment be laid upon the table.

The question recurred on agreeing to the said amendments reported from the Committee on Public Lands, which are as follows:

“In the eleventh line of the first section of the printed copy, strike out “six” and insert “five,” and wherever in the bill the words “six miles” occur, insert “five miles.”

“At the close of the second section insert the following words: ‘And the alternate sections, reserved to the United States, shall not be sold for less than two dollars and fifty cents per acre.’

“In the third section, lines eight and nine, strike out the words, ‘main stem of the road and its branches,’ and insert, ‘place where the company so failed to receive said land.’

“Add to the fifth section the following words: ‘And also the United States mail.’ ”

The said amendments were read: when

Mr. T. Butler King moved to amend the last of the said amendments, by adding thereto the following proviso:

“Provided all the lands granted by the provisions of this bill shall be, and are hereby, declared to be granted to the States of Alabama and Florida for the use and benefit of the said railroad company, and for no other purpose whatever.”

And, after further debate,

Mr. Featherston moved that the said bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Lands: which motion was agreed to.

Mr. Ashmun moved that the rules be suspended for the purpose of enabling him to introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That in order to secure a more full, impartial, and prompt publication of the debates and proceedings of this House, the Clerk be directed to enter into a contract with the proprietors of each of the two daily papers in this city, the National Intelligencer and the Union, to take effect from this day, and to continue until otherwise ordered by the House, as follows: That they shall, on their part, cause to be reported at the fullest length, without exception, the proceedings and debates of the House of Representatives, and the same to publish in the National Intelligencer and in the Union forthwith, (allowing such members as desire it to revise the reports of their own speeches before being published;) and to publish, also, any speeches delivered at this session which have not been heretofore inserted in their columns, as well as any committee reports and public documents which may be directed by the House to be so published, and to furnish two copies of each paper containing the same to each member of the House of Representatives, upon the following terms, to wit: At the rate of two dollars and fifty cents to each of said papers for the quantity of a Congress small pica document page for every expense of reporting, printing, and extra paper required for the extra quantity of matter; and for any documents, bills, or other matter which the Clerk may be directed to have published in said papers, at a rate of charge of one dollar and fifty cents for the quantity of a document page; for which purpose the said proprietors shall agree to publish, without additional charge, such extra papers or supplements as may be required for the prompt publication of said proceedings, debates, and documents: payment therefor to be made weekly out of the contingent fund of the House.

On motion of Mr. Kaufman, the House proceeded to the consideration of the amendment of the Senate to the resolution of the House fixing a day for the adjournment sine die of the two Houses of Congress, (which amendment strikes out of the said resolution the word "seventh," and inserts in lieu thereof "fourteenth."

The question was stated on agreeing to the said amendment: when

Mr. Kaufman moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered and put, and the said amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Kaufman moved that the vote on agreeing to the amendment of the said resolution, be reconsidered.

Mr. Pollock moved that the motion to reconsider be laid upon the table: which motion was agreed to.

And so it was

Resolved, (the Senate concurring,) That the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House do adjourn their respective Houses on Monday, the fourteenth day of August next, at 12 o'clock meridian.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

On motion of Mr. Miller, by leave,

Resolved, That the Committee on Military Affairs be instructed to inquire into the expediency of reporting a bill to pay certain volunteers who have been in the service of the United States during the late war with Mexico, all sums of money which have been stopped from their pay and allowances under the provisions of a "joint resolution directing the payment of certain volunteers and militia under the limitations therein prescribed," approved August 8, 1846, and other enactments supplementary thereto.

Mr. Andrew Stewart moved that the rules be suspended for the purpose of enabling him to introduce the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, That "the power given by the constitution to the executive to interpose his veto, is a high conservative power, which should never be exercised except in cases of clear violation of the constitution, or manifest haste and want of consideration by Congress."

2. Resolved, That "the personal opinions of the individual who may happen to occupy the executive chair, ought not to control the action of Congress upon questions of domestic policy; nor ought his objections to be interposed where questions of constitutional power have been settled by the various departments of government, and acquiesced in by the people."

3. Resolved, That "upon the subject of the tariff, the currency, the improvement of our great highways, rivers, lakes and harbors, the will of the people, as expressed through their representatives in Congress, ought to be respected and carried out by the executive."

4. Resolved, That "war, at all times and under all circumstances, is a national calamity, to be avoided if compatible with national honor; that the principles of our government, as well as its true policy, are opposed to the subjugation of other nations, and the dismemberment of other countries by conquest; for, in the language of the great Washington, 'why should we quit our own, to stand on foreign ground?'"

And the question being put, Shall the rules be suspended?

On motion of Mr. Burt, the House proceeded to the consideration of business upon the Speaker's table: when

Two several messages from the President of the United States, heretofore received, were read, and are as follows:

FIRST MESSAGE.

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

In answer to the resolution of the House of Representatives of the 17th instant, requesting the President "to communicate (if not inconsistent with the public interests) copies of all instructions given to the Hon. Ambrose H. Sevier and Nathan Clifford, commissioners appointed to conduct negotiations for the ratification of the treaty lately concluded between the United States and the republic of Mexico," I have to state that, in my opinion, it would be "inconsistent with the public interests" to give publicity to these instructions at the present time.

I avail myself of this occasion to observe that, as a general rule, applicable to all our important negotiations with foreign powers, it could not fail to be prejudicial to the public interest to publish the instructions to our ministers until some time had elapsed after the conclusion of such negotiations.

In the present case the object of the mission of our commissioners to Mexico has been accomplished. The treaty, as amended by the Senate of the United States, has been ratified. The ratifications have been exchanged, and the treaty has been proclaimed as the supreme law of the land. No contingency occurred which made it either necessary or proper for our commissioners to enter upon any negotiations with the Mexican government, further than to urge upon that government the ratification of the treaty in its amended form.

JAMES K. POLK.

WASHINGTON, July 29, 1848.

Ordered, That the said message be referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and printed.

SECOND MESSAGE.

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

I communicate herewith a report from the Secretary of War, containing the information called for by the resolution of the House of Representatives of the 17th July, 1848, in relation to the number of Indians in Oregon, California, and New Mexico; the number of military posts; the number of troops which will be required in each, and "the whole military force which should constitute the peace establishment."

I have seen no reason to change the opinion expressed in my message to Congress of the 6th July, 1848, transmitting the treaty of peace with Mexico, that "the old army, as it existed before the commencement of the war with Mexico, especially if authority be given to fill up the rank and file of the several corps to the maximum number authorized during the war, will be a sufficient force to be retained in service during a period of peace."

The old army consists of fifteen regiments. By the act of the 13th of May, 1846, the President was authorized, by "voluntary enlistments, to increase the number of privates in each or any of the companies of the existing regiments of dragoons, artillery, and infantry, to any number not exceeding one hundred," and to "reduce the same to sixty-four when the exigencies requiring the present increase shall cease." Should this act remain in force, the maximum number of the rank and file of the army, authorized by it, would be over sixteen thousand men, exclusive of officers. Should the authority conferred by this act be continued, it would depend on the exigencies of the service whether the number of the rank and file should be increased, and if so, to what amount beyond the minimum number of sixty-four privates to a company.

Allowing sixty-four privates to a company, the army would be over ten thousand men, exclusive of commissioned and non-commissioned officers, a number which it is believed will be sufficient; but, as a precautionary measure, it is deemed expedient that the Executive should possess the power of increasing the strength of the respective corps, should the exigencies of the service be such as to require it. Should these exigencies not call for such increase, the discretionary power given by the act to the President will not be exercised.

It will be seen from the report of the Secretary of War that a portion of the forces will be employed in Oregon, New Mexico, and Upper California; a portion for the protection of the Texas frontier adjoining the Mexican possessions, and bordering on the territory occupied by the Indian tribes within her limits. After detailing the force necessary for these objects, it is believed a sufficient number of troops will remain to afford security and protection to our Indian frontiers in the west and northwest, and to occupy, with sufficient garrisons, the posts on our northern and Atlantic borders.

I have no reason at present to believe that any increase of the number of regiments or corps will be required during a period of peace.

JAMES K. POLK.

WASHINGTON, August 1, 1848.

Ordered, That the said message be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and printed.

The Speaker laid before the House a communication from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, enclosing a map or sketch of the estimated surface of the territories of the United States, north and west of the regularly organized States of the Union, compiled from Tanner's large map of North America, and Disturnell's map of Mexico, published in New York in 1847, and on which is represented the parallel of thirty-six degrees thirty minutes north latitude: which was referred to the Committee on Engraving, with instructions to inquire into the expediency of printing the said map.

The resolution was accordingly read the third time.

And, after debate,

S. No. 337. An act for the relief of James M. Scantland;

H. R. No. 178. An act to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to license yachts, and for other purposes;

H. R. No. 414. An act to refund a penalty remitted by the Secretary of the Treasury to John Hardorp;

H. R. No. 465. An act for the relief of Catharine Hoffman; and found the same truly enrolled: when

The Speaker signed said bills.

Mr. Peck, from the same committee, reported that the committee had examined an enrolled resolution of the following title, viz:

S. No. 33. A resolution authorizing the proper accounting officers of the treasury to make a just and fair settlement of the claims of the Cherokee nation of Indians, according to the principles established by the treaty of August, 1846; and found the same truly enrolled: when

The Speaker signed the said resolution.

A message, in writing, was received from the President of the United States, by J. Knox Walker, his private secretary: which was delivered in at the Speaker's table.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Cabell reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill of the House (No. 618) making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849; and, finding itself without a quorum, he had directed the roll of members to be called, and the following are the names of the absentees, to be entered upon the journal:

A quorum having appeared,

The House again resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Ashmun reported that the committee having, according to order, had the State of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the said bill, (No. 618,) had directed him to report the same to the House, with amendments.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said bill; and the question was stated on agreeing to the said amendments: when

Mr. Ashmun moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered and stated: when

Mr. George W. Jones moved, at ten minutes before 4 o'clock, p. m., that the House adjourn: which motion was decided in the negative.

The question recurred on agreeing to the amendments to the said bill, (No. 618,) which was read, and sundry of them agreed to without a division: when

Mr. Kaufman moved, at 4 o'clock, p. m., that the House adjourn; which motion was decided in the negative: and

The remaining amendments to the said bill (No. 618) were then disposed of; and

And, after debate, he moved the previous question, which he withdrew at the request of Mr. McClelland, who subsequently renewed the same.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said bill, the question being on the said amendments: when

And being put,

It was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Wentworth moved that the vote on ordering the said bill to be engrossed, be reconsidered, and that his motion to reconsider be laid upon the table: which was agreed to.

They have passed bills of the following titles, viz:

S. 207. An act to authorize the sale of reserved lands, and for other purposes;

S. 71. An act to apply certain alternate sections of the public domain towards the completion of the "Clinton and Kalamazoo canal," in the State of Michigan:

in which I am directed to ask the concurrence of the House.

The Senate have disagreed to the amendment of the House to the bill from the Senate (No. 136) entitled "An act for giving effect to certain treaty stipulations between this and foreign governments for the apprehension and delivering up of certain offenders."

And then he withdrew.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House again resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Caleb B. Smith reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the bill from the Senate (No. 294) making appropriations for light-houses, light-boats, buoys, &c., and providing for the erection and establishment of the same, had directed him to report the same with amendments. That the committee had also had under consideration the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 298) entitled "An act making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, and for other purposes."

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said bill from the Senate, (No. 294,) the question being on agreeing to the said amendments, which was stated: when

Mr. Grinnell moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered and put, and all the said amendments were read and agreed to, and ordered to be engrossed, and the bill read a third time.

The said amendments being engrossed, the bill was accordingly read the third time, and passed.

Mr. Wentworth moved that the vote on the passage of the bill be reconsidered, and that his motion to reconsider be laid upon the table; which was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk request the concurrence of the Senate in the said amendments.

Mr. Vinton offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That all debate in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union on the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 298) making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, and for other purposes, shall cease in fifteen minutes after its consideration shall again be resumed in committee, (if the committee shall not sooner come to a conclusion upon the same;) and the committee shall then proceed to vote on such amendments as may be pending, or offered to the same, and shall then report it to the House, with such amendments as may have been agreed to by the committee.

The said resolution was read and agreed to, under the previous question moved by Mr. Vinton.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House again resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Caleb B. Smith reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the amendments of the Senate to the said bill of the House, (No. 298,) had come to no resolution thereon.

And then, on motion of Mr. Boyd, the House, at half past 10 o'clock at night, adjourned until to-morrow, at 10 o'clock, a. m.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 10, 1848.

On motion of Mr. Smart, by leave, the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union was discharged from the consideration of the bill from the Senate (No. 36) entitled "An act to change the time of holding the terms of the circuit court of the United States in the district of Maine;" and

The bill was ordered to be read a third time to-day.

And thereupon the bill was read the third time, and passed.

Ordered, That the Clerk acquaint the Senate therewith.

Mr. Crozier moved that the rules be suspended for the purpose of enabling him to introduce the following resolution:

Resolved, That the resolution of the 1st of March, 1846, authorizing each member of this House to subscribe for twelve copies of the Congressional Globe and appendix, at the rate of six dollars for each copy for the long session, and three dollars for the short session, shall not be construed to extend to a longer period than the present session of Congress.

And the question being put, Shall the rules be suspended?

That they have met the conferees on the part of the Senate, and, after free and full conference on the subject of the disagreeing votes, have agreed to recommend, and do recommend, to their respective Houses as follows, viz:

1. That the Senate agree to the amendment of the House of Representatives, striking out all of the first section after the enacting clause, and agree to the substitute proposed by the House, modified to read as follows:

That all those widows and such child or children as are now receiving a pension under any of the laws of Congress passed prior to the first of August, eighteen hundred and forty-one, (excepting the law passed the third of March, eighteen hundred and thirty-seven,) and those widows and children who have received pensions at any time within five years prior to the passage of this act, may and shall continue to receive the same amount as they have received under any special act from the time such special act expired; provided such act ceased on or after the first day of September, eighteen hundred and forty-five, or may hereafter terminate; and all such pensions as are now in force, and such as are renewed by this act, shall be paid out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, so long as the said widows shall live as widows; and in case of the death before or after the passage of this act, of the widows, to the orphan child or children of the deceased parties until they respectively arrive at the age of sixteen years; and to the child or children of said widows, in case of marriage by said widows, until said child or children shall respectively arrive at the age of sixteen years; and that the act approved 30th April, 1844, shall not be so construed as to exclude officers, seamen, or marines from their pensions when disabled for sea service; provided, that the whole amount received by the pensioner, including pay for his service and pension, shall not exceed his lowest duty pay.

That the orphan child or children of the deceased parties shall have a pension in case the widow has died after drawing a five years' pension; to commence at the time when the widow dies, and to continue until the child or children shall respectively arrive at the age of sixteen years; and that any casualty by which an officer, seaman, or marine has lost or may lose his life while in the line of his duty, shall be considered sufficient to entitle the widow, child, or children, to all the benefits of this act.

And the committee recommend to the respective Houses to amend the third section of the bill to conform to the preceding modification of the first section, by striking out all after the enacting clause of the said third section to the word "fourteen," inclusive, in the 21st line thereof; and that the title of the bill be amended to read as follows:

An act renewing certain naval pensions, and extending the benefits of existing laws respecting naval pensions to engineers, firemen, and coal heavers in the navy, and to their widows.

A message from the Senate, by Mr. Dickins, their Secretary:

Mr. Speaker: The Senate disagree to the amendments of the House of Representatives to their amendments to the bill (No. 298) making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, and for other purposes. They insist upon their amendments disagreed to by the House, and ask a conference upon the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on said amendments; and have appointed Mr. Atherton, Mr. Hunter, and Mr. Mangum, managers of the conference on the part of the Senate.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said message: when

Mr. Vinton moved that the House insist upon its amendments to the amendments of the Senate to the said bill, (No. 298,) disagreed to by the Senate, and on its disagreements to sundry of the Senate's amendments, and agree to the conference asked by the Senate upon the disagreeing votes of the two Houses upon the said amendments.

Mr. Vinton, by leave, from the Committee of Ways and Means, to which were referred the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (No. 618) entitled "An act making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849," reported the agreement of the committee to some, and their disagreement to some of the said amendments.

Ordered, That the said bill and amendments be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and proceeded to the consideration of the said amendments of the Senate to the said bill, (No. 618;) and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Chapman reported that the committee had come to no resolution upon the said amendments.

Mr. Vinton offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That all debate on the Senate's amendments to the army appropriation bill, (No. 618,) shall cease in five minutes after the consideration thereof shall be again resumed in Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

The said resolution was read and agreed to; and,

On motion of Mr. Vinton, the House again resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, and again proceeded to the consideration of the said amendments: when the hour of 3½ o'clock arrived, and the House took a recess.

HALF-PAST FIVE O'CLOCK, P. M.

The committee resumed; and, after some time spent therein, the Speaker resumed the chair, and Mr. Chapman reported that the committee having, according to order, had the state of the Union generally under consideration, particularly the said amendments of the Senate to the said bill (No. 618) making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849, had directed him to report the agreement of the committee to some of the said amendments, and their disagreement to some.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the said amendments of the Senate to the said bill, (No. 618:) when

Mr. Vinton moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered and put, and all of the said amendments were disposed of without a division, except the eleventh, which was read, as follows:

"For payment of the expenses of the late military operations in California, under the orders of Commodore Stockton, and of brevet, afterwards Lieutenant Colonel Frémont, and also to defray the expenses of the civil government established in California by Commodore Stockton, so far as ascertained, and the amount evidenced by any written instrument, signed by Commodore Stockton or Lieutenant Colonel Frémont, while in command in California, or by muster rolls, in proper discharges, the sum of $200,000; and the men and non-commissioned officers of the battalion shall be paid as mounted riflemen, and in full of all claim for lost horses, for any cause whatever, and in full of all claims for forage as well as for pay, clothing, and use and risk of horses, shall be paid as follows: 1st sergeant, thirty-five dollars and twenty-five cents per month; other sergeants and corporals, thirty-two dollars and twenty-five cents per month; musicians, twenty-seven dollars and twenty-five cents per month; privates, twenty-seven dollars and twenty-five cents per month."

And the question being put, Will the House agree to the said amendment?

So the said resolution was not laid on the table.

The question recurred on agreeing to the resolution: when

Mr. Chapman, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee had examined an enrolled bill (No. 470) entitled "An act for the relief of John P. B. Gratiot and the legal representatives of Henry Gratiot;" and found the same truly enrolled: when

The Speaker signed the said bill.

The question was stated, Will the House agree to the said resolution: when

George W. Jones asked to be excused from voting thereon;

And the question being put,

It was decided in the negative.

Mr. Peck, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that the committee did this day present to the President of the United States a bill (No. 470) for the relief of John P. B. Gratiot and the legal representatives of Henry Gratiot.

A message was received from the President of the United States, by J. Knox Walker, his private secretary, notifying that he had approved and signed bills of the following titles:

H. R. No. 276. An act for the relief of Richard Reynolds.

H. R. No. 556. An act for the relief of William Pittman.

H. R. No. 599. An act to establish certain post routes.

H. R. No. 618. An act making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending the 30th June, 1849.

H. R. No. 130. An act for the relief of B. O. Tayloe.

H. R. No. 298. An act making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending 30th June, 1849, and for other purposes.

H. R. No. 470. An act for relief of John P. B. Gratiot and the legal representatives of Henry Gratiot.

H. R. No. 419. An act in relation to military land warrants.

H. R. No. 193. An act for the relief of William Triplett.

H. R. No. 188. An act for the relief of Frederick Durrive.

H. R. No. 40. An act for the relief of William Hogan, administrator of Michael Hogan, deceased.

H. R. No. 294. An act making appropriations for light-houses and light-boats, buoys, &c., and providing for the erection and establishment of the same.

A message in writing was also received from the President of the United States, by J. Knox Walker, his private secretary, which he delivered to the Speaker; and the Speaker announced to the House, on opening the said message, that it had relation to the approval by the President of the United States of the bill (No. 201) entitled "An act to establish the territorial government of Oregon."

Objection being made to the reading of the said message at this time, it remained on the Speaker's table when the House was adjourned sine die.

The question was again stated on agreeing to the said resolution of Mr. Conger; when,

The yeas and nays having been desired by one-fifth of the members present,

Mr. Hunt moved that the vote ordering the yeas and nays be reconsidered; which motion was disagreed to.

And the question was then put, Will the House agree to the said resolution?

And the Clerk proceeded to call the names of the members;

At this point of the call of the yeas and nays, the hour of 12 o'clock, meridian, arrived; when

The Speaker directed the Clerk to suspend the call; and said—

“The hour fixed for the adjournment of the present session of Congress having arrived, I now declare that this House stands adjourned sine die.”

And so the House, at precisely 12 o'clock, meridian, adjourned.

STANDING RULES AND ORDERS

FOR CONDUCTING BUSINESS IN

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES.

INDEX

STAINING BEES AND OTHERS

BY HENRY J. HAY

THE BENTLEY BROTHERS, NEW YORK

APPENDIX.

STANDING RULES AND ORDERS

FOR CONDUCTING

BUSINESS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNITED STATES.

TOUCHING THE DUTY OF THE SPEAKER.

1. He shall take the chair every day precisely at the hour to which the House shall have adjourned on the preceding day; shall immediately call the members to order; and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the journal of the preceding day to be read.—(April 7, 1789.)

2. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the House by any two members—(April 7, 1789;) on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the House.—(December 23, 1811.)

3. He shall rise to put a question, but may state it sitting.—(April 7, 1789.)

4. Questions shall be distinctly put in this form, to wit: "As many as are of opinion that (as the question may be) say Ay;" and, after the affirmative voice is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion, say No." If the Speaker doubt, or a division be called for, the House shall divide: those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative. If the Speaker still doubt, or a count be required, the Speaker shall name two members, one from each side, to tell the members in the affirmative and negative; which being also reported, he shall rise and state the decision to the House.—(April 7, 1789.) No division and count of the House by tellers shall be in order, but upon motion seconded by at least one-fifth of a quorum of the members.—(September 15, 1837.)

5. When any motion or proposition is made, the question, "Will the House now consider it?" shall not be put unless it is demanded by some member, or is deemed necessary by the Speaker.—(December 12, 1817.)

6. The Speaker shall examine and correct the Journal before it is read. He shall have a general direction of the Hall. He shall have a right to name any member to perform the duties of the Chair, but such substitution shall not extend beyond an adjournment.—(December 23, 1811.)

7. All committees shall be appointed by the Speaker, unless otherwise specially directed by the House, in which case they shall be appointed by ballot; and if, upon such ballot, the number required shall not be elected by a majority of the votes given, the House shall proceed to a second ballot, in which a plurality of votes shall prevail; and in case a greater number than is required to compose or complete a committee shall have an equal number of votes, the House shall proceed to a further ballot or ballots.—(January 13, 1790.)

8. The first named member of any committee shall be the chairman; and, in his absence, or being excused by the House, the next named member, and so on, as often as the case shall happen, unless the committee, by a majority of their number, elect a chairman.—(December 20, 1805.)

9. Any member may excuse himself from serving on any committee at the time of his appointment, if he is then a member of two other committees.—(April 13, 1789.)

10. It shall be the duty of a committee to meet on the call of any two of its members, if the chairman be absent, or decline to appoint such meeting.—(December 20, 1805.)

11. In all other cases of ballot than for committees, a majority of the votes given shall be necessary to an election; and where there shall not be such a majority on the first ballot, the ballots shall be repeated until a majority be obtained.—(April 7, 1789.) And in all ballots blanks shall be rejected, and not taken into the count in the enumeration of votes, or reported by the tellers.—(September 15, 1837.)

12. In all cases of election by the House, the Speaker shall vote; in other cases he shall not vote, unless the House be equally divided, or unless his vote, if given to the minority, will make the division equal; and in case of such equal division, the question shall be lost.—(April 7, 1789.)

13. In all cases where other than members of the House may be eligible to an office by the election of the House, there shall be a previous nomination.—(April 7, 1789.)

14. In all cases of an election by the House of its officers, the vote shall be taken viva voce—(December 10, 1839.)

15. All acts, addresses, and joint resolutions, shall be signed by the Speaker; and all writs, warrants, and subpoenas, issued by order of the House, shall be under his hand and seal, attested by the Clerk.—(November 13, 1794.)

16. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries or lobby, the Speaker (or Chairman of the Committee of the Whole House) shall have power to order the same to be cleared.—(March 14, 1794.)

17. No person except members of the Senate, their Secretary, Heads of Departments, Treasurer, Comptrollers, Register, Auditors, Postmaster General, President's Secretary, Chaplains to Congress, Judges of the United States, Foreign Ministers and their Secretaries, officers who, by name, have received, or shall hereafter receive, the thanks of Congress for their gallantry and good conduct displayed in the service of their country, the Commissioners of the Navy Board, Governor for the time being of any State or Territory in the Union, such gentlemen as have been Heads of Departments or members of either branch of the National Legislature, and, at the discretion of the Speaker, persons who belong to such Legislatures of foreign Governments as are in amity with the United States, shall be admitted within the Hall of the House of Representatives.

18. Stenographers, wishing to take down the debates, may be admitted by the Speaker, who shall assign such places to them, on the floor or elsewhere, to effect their object, as shall not interfere with the convenience of the House.—(January 7, 1802; modified to present form, December 23, 1811.)

19. No person shall be allowed the privilege of the hall, under the character of stenographer, without a written permission from the Speaker, specifying the part of the hall assigned to him; and no reporter or stenographer shall be admitted under the rules of the House, unless such reporter or stenographer shall state, in writing, for what paper or papers he is employed to report.—(March 1, 1838.)

20. The Doorkeeper shall execute strictly the 17th and 18th rules, relative to the privilege of the hall.—(March 1, 1838.)

21. The Clerk of the House shall take an oath for the true and faithful discharge of the duties of his office, to the best of his knowledge and abilities.—(April 13, 1789; and act June 1st, 1789.) He shall be deemed to continue in office until another be appointed.—(March 1, 1791.)

ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE SESSION.

22. After six days from the commencement of a second or subsequent session of any Congress, all bills, resolutions, and reports, which originated in the House, and at the close of the next preceding session remained undetermined, shall be resumed and acted on in the same manner as if an adjournment had not taken place.—(March 17, 1818.)

ORDER OF BUSINESS OF THE DAY.

23. As soon as the Journal is read, the Speaker shall call for petitions from the members of each State and delegates from each Territory, beginning with Maine—(December 23, 1811,) and the Territory of Wisconsin, alternately.—(September 15, 1837;) and if, on any day, the whole of the States and Territories shall not be called, the Speaker shall begin on the next day where he left off the previous day—(December 23, 1811;) provided that, after the first thirty days of the session, petitions shall not be received, except on the first day of the meeting of the House in each week.—(March 13, 1822.)

24. Petitions, memorials, and other papers addressed to the House, shall be presented by the Speaker, or by a member in his place; a brief statement of the contents thereof shall be made verbally by the introducer; they shall not be debated on the day of their being presented; nor on any day assigned by the House for the receipt of petitions after the first thirty days of the session, unless where the House shall direct otherwise, but shall lie on the table, to be taken up in the order in which they were presented.—(September 14, 1837.) Members having petitions and memorials to present may hand them to the Clerk, endorsing the same with their names, and the reference or disposition to be made thereof; and such petitions and memorials shall be entered on the Journal, subject to the control and direction of the Speaker; and if any petition or memorial be so handed in, which, in the judgment of the Speaker, is excluded by the rules, the same shall be returned to the member from whom it was received.—(March 29, 1842.)

25. The petitions having been presented and disposed of, reports from committees shall be called for and disposed of—(December 23, 1811;) in doing which, the Speaker shall call upon each standing committee, in the order they are named in the 76th and 104th rules; and when all the standing committees have been called on, then it shall be the duty of the Speaker to call for reports from select committees; if the Speaker shall not get through the call upon the committees before the House passes to other business, he shall resume the next call where he left off.—(September 15, 1837.) Resolutions shall then be called for in the same order, and disposed of by the same rules, which apply to petitions: provided that no member shall offer more than one resolution, or one series of resolutions, all relating to the same subject, until all the States and Territories shall have been called.—(January 14, 1829.)

26. All the States and Territories shall be called for resolutions on each alternate Monday during each session of Congress; and, if necessary to secure this object on said days, all resolutions which shall give rise to debate shall lie over for discussion, under the rules of the House already established; and the whole of said days shall be appropriated to resolutions, until all the States and Territories are called through.—(February 6, 1838.)

27. After one hour shall be devoted to reports from committees and resolutions, it shall be in order, pending the consideration or discussion thereof, to entertain a motion that the House do now proceed to dispose of the business on the Speaker's table, and to the orders of the day—(January 5, 1832;) which being decided in the affirmative, the Speaker shall dispose of the business on his table in the following order, viz:—(September 14, 1837.)

1st. Messages and other executive communications.—(September 14, 1837.)

2d. Messages from the Senate and amendments proposed by the Senate to bills of the House.—(September 14, 1837.)

3d. Bills and resolutions from the Senate on their first and second reading, that they be referred to committees and put under way; but if, on being read a second time, no motion be made to commit, they are to be ordered to their third reading, unless objection be made; in which case, if not otherwise ordered by a majority of the House, they are to be laid on the table in the general file of bills on the Speaker's table, to be taken up in their turn.—(September 14, 1837.)

4th. Engrossed bills and bills from the Senate on their third reading.—(September 14, 1837.)

5th. Bills of the House and from the Senate, on the Speaker's table, on their engrossment, or on being ordered to a third reading, to be taken up and considered in the order of time in which they passed to a second reading.

The messages, communications, and bills on his table, having been disposed of, the Speaker shall then proceed to call the orders of the day.—(September 14, 1837.)

28. The business specified in the 26th and 27th rules shall be done at no other part of the day, except by permission of the House.—(December 23, 1811.)

LOCAL OR PRIVATE BUSINESS.

29. Friday and Saturday in every week shall be set apart for the consideration of private bills and private business, in preference to any other, unless otherwise determined by a majority of the House.—(January 22, 1810, and January 26, 1826.)

30. On the first and fourth Friday of each month, the calendar of private bills shall be called over, (the chairman of the Committee of the Whole House commencing the call where he left off the previous day,) and the bills to the passage of which no objection shall then be made, shall be first considered and disposed of.—(January 25, 1839.)

OF DECORUM AND DEBATE.

31. When any member is about to speak in debate, or deliver any matter to the House, he shall rise from his seat, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. Speaker;"—(April 7, 1789;) and shall confine himself to the question under debate, and avoid personality.—(December 23, 1811.)

32. Members may address the House or committee from the Clerk's desk, or from a place near the Speaker's chair.

33. When two or more members happen to rise at once, the Speaker shall name the member who is first to speak.—(April 7, 1789.)

34. No member shall occupy more than one hour in debate on any question in the House, or in committee; but a member reporting the measure under consideration from a committee may open and close the debate: provided, that where debate is closed by order of the House, any member shall be allowed, in committee, five minutes to explain any amendment he may offer.—(December 18, 1847.)

35. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules of the House, the Speaker shall, or any member may call to order; in which case, the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the House shall, if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate: if there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed, in case any member object, without leave of the House; and, if the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the House.—(April 7, 1789, and March 13, 1822.)

36. If a member be called to order for words spoken in debate, the person calling him to order shall repeat the words excepted to, and they shall be taken down in writing at the Clerk's table; and no member shall be held to answer, or be subject to the censure of the House, for words spoken in debate, if any other member has spoken, or other business has intervened, after the words spoken, and before exception to them shall have been taken.—(September 14, 1837.)

37. No member shall speak more than once to the same question, without leave of the House, (April 7, 1789,) unless he be the mover, proposer, or introducer of the matter pending; in which case, he shall be permitted to speak in reply, but not until every member choosing to speak shall have spoken.—(January 14, 1840.)

38. If a question depending be lost by adjournment of the House, and revived on the succeeding day, no member, who shall have spoken on the preceding day, shall be permitted again to speak without leave.—(April 7, 1789.)

39. While the Speaker is putting any question, or addressing the House, none shall walk out of or across the House; nor, in such case, or when a member is speaking, shall entertain private discourse; nor while a member is speaking, shall pass between him and the chair.—(April 7, 1789.) Every member shall remain uncovered during the session of the House.—(September 14, 1837.) No member or other person shall visit or remain by the Clerk's table while the ayes and noes are calling, or ballots are counting.—(September 14, 1837.)

40. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is immediately and particularly interested, or in any case where he was not within the bar of the House when the question was put.—(April 7, 1789.) And when any member shall ask leave to vote, the Speaker shall propound to him the question—“Were you within the bar when your name was called?”—(September 14, 1837.)

41. Upon a division and count of the House on any question, no member without the bar shall be counted.—(November 13, 1794.)

42. Every member, who shall be in the House when the question is put, shall give his vote, unless the House, for special reason, shall excuse him.—(April 7, 1789.) All motions to excuse a member from voting shall be made before the House divides, or before the call of the yeas and nays is commenced; and the question shall then be taken without further debate.—(September 14, 1837.)

43. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Speaker; or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair, and read aloud by the Clerk, before debated.—(April 7, 1789.)

44. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Speaker or any member desire it.—(April 7, 1789.) Every written motion made to the House shall be inserted on the Journals, with the name of the member making it, unless it be withdrawn on the same day on which it was submitted.—(March 26, 1806.)

45. After a motion is stated by the Speaker, or read by the Clerk, it shall be deemed to be in the possession of the House, but may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.—(April 7, 1789.)

46. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lie on the table, for the previous question, to postpone to a day certain, to commit or amend, to postpone indefinitely; which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged;—(March 13, 1822;) and no motion to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the bill or proposition.

47. When a resolution shall be offered, or a motion made, to refer any subject, and different committees shall be proposed, the question shall be taken in the following order:

The Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; the Committee of the Whole House; a Standing Committee; a Select Committee.—(March 13, 1822.)

48. A motion to adjourn, and a motion to fix the day to which the House shall adjourn, shall be always in order—(April 7, 1789, and January 14, 1840;) these motions, and the motion to lie on the table, shall be decided without debate.—(November 13, 1794; March 13, 1822.)

49. The hour at which every motion to adjourn is made shall be entered on the journal.—(October 9, 1837.)

50. The previous question shall be in this form:—“Shall the main question be now put?”—April 7, 1789. It shall only be admitted when demanded by a majority of the members present;—(February 24, 1812;) and its effects shall be to put an end to all debate, and bring the House to a direct vote upon a motion to commit, if such motion shall have been made; and if this motion does not prevail, then (August 5, 1848,) upon amendments reported by a committee, if any; then upon pending amendments; and then upon the main question.—(January 14, 1840.) On a motion for the previous question, and prior to the seconding of the same, a call of the House shall be in order; but, after a majority shall have seconded such motion, no call shall be in order prior to a decision of the main question.—(September 14, 1837.)

51. On a previous question there shall be no debate.—(December 17, 1805.) All incidental questions of order arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.—(September 15, 1837.)

52. When a question is postponed indefinitely, the same shall not be acted upon again during the session.—(December 17, 1805.)

53. Any member may call for the division of a question, which shall be divided if it comprehend propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the House.—(September 15, 1837.) A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible;—(December 23, 1811;) but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.—(March 13, 1822.)

54. Motions and reports may be committed at the pleasure of the House —(April 7, 1789.)

55. No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.—(March 13, 1822.) No bill or resolution shall, at any time, be amended by annexing thereto, or incorporating therewith, any other bill or resolution pending before the House.—(September 15, 1837.)

56. When a motion has been once made, and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member of the majority to move for the reconsideration thereof, (January 7, 1802,) on the same or the succeeding day, (December 23, 1811;) and such motion shall take precedence of all other questions, except a motion to adjourn, (May 6, 1828;) and shall not be withdrawn after the said succeeding day without the consent of the House; and thereafter member may call it up for consideration.—(March 2, 1848.)

57. When the reading of a paper is called for, and the same is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the House.—(November 13, 1794.)

58. The unfinished business in which the House was engaged at the last preceding adjournment shall have the preference in the orders of the day; and no motion on any other business shall be received, without special leave of the House, until the former is disposed of.—(November 13, 1794.)

59. Every order, resolution, or vote, to which the concurrence of the Senate shall be necessary, shall be read to the House, and laid on the table, on a day preceding that in which the same shall be moved, unless the House shall otherwise expressly allow.—(April 7, 1789.)

60. The name of the member who presents a petition or memorial, or who offers a resolution to the consideration of the House, shall be inserted on the Journals.—(March 22, 1806.)

61. A proposition requesting information from the President of the United States, or directing it to be furnished by the head of either of the Executive Departments, or by the Postmaster General, (December 13, 1820,) or to print an extra number of any document or other matter, excepting messages of the President to both Houses at the commencement of each session of Congress, and the reports and documents connected with or referred to in it, shall lie on the table one day for consideration, unless otherwise ordered by the unanimous consent of the House—(December 13, 1820;) and all such propositions shall be taken up for consideration in the order they were presented, immediately after reports are called for from select committees; and, when adopted, the Clerk shall cause the same to be delivered.—(January 22, 1822.)

62. Upon calls of the House, or in taking the yeas and nays on any question, the names of the members shall be called alphabetically.—(April 7, 1789.)

63. No extra compensation shall be allowed to any officer or messenger, page, laborer, or other person in the service of the House, or engaged in or about the public grounds or buildings: and no person shall be an officer of the House, or continue in its employment, who shall be an agent for the prosecution of any claim against the government, or be interested in such claim otherwise than an original claimant; and it shall be the duty of the Committee of Accounts to inquire into and report to the House any violation of this rule.—March 8, 1842.)

151. Upon the engrossment of any bill making appropriations of money for works of internal improvement of any kind or description, it shall be in the power of any member to call for a division of the question, so as to take a separate vote of the House upon each item of improvement or appropriation contained in said bill, or upon such items separately, and others collectively, as the member making the call may specify; and if one-fifth of the members present second said call, it shall be the duty of the Speaker to make such divisions of the question, and put them to vote accordingly.—(February 26, 1846.)

152. The following resolution was passed by the House of Representatives, January 30, 1846.—(Journal House of Representatives, 1st session, 29th Congress, page 323.)

"Whereas the Clerk of this House is by law made the responsible officer for the proper disbursement of the contingent fund, and is required to give bond for the faithful disbursement thereof: therefore,

"Resolved, That, from and after the passage of this resolution, all contracts, bargains, or agreements, relative to the furnishing any matter or thing, or for the performance of any labor for the House of Representatives, be made with the Clerk, or approved by him, before any allowance shall be made therefor by the Committee of Accounts."

JOINT RULES AND ORDERS OF THE TWO HOUSES.

1. In every case of an amendment of a bill agreed to in one House, and dissented to in the other, if either House shall request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, and the other House shall also appoint a committee to confer, such committees shall, at a convenient hour, to be agreed on by their chairman, meet in the conference chamber, and state to each other, verbally or in writing, as either shall choose, the reasons of their respective Houses for and against the amendment, and confer freely thereon.—(November 13, 1794.)

2. When a message shall be sent from the Senate to the House of Representatives, it shall be announced at the door of the House by the doorkeeper, and shall be respectfully communicated to the Chair by the person by whom it may be sent.—(November 13, 1794.)

3. The same ceremony shall be observed when a message shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate.—(November 13, 1794.)

4. Messages shall be sent by such persons as a sense of propriety in each House may determine to be proper.—(November 13, 1794.)

5. While bills are on their passage between the two Houses, they shall be on paper, and under the signature of the Secretary or Clerk of each House, respectively.—(November 13, 1794.)

6. After a bill shall have passed both Houses, it shall be duly enrolled on parchment by the Clerk of the House of Representatives, or the Secretary of the Senate, as the bill may have originated in the one or the other House, before it shall be presented to the President of the United States.—(November 13, 1794.)

7. When bills are enrolled, they shall be examined by a joint committee of two from the Senate and two from the House of Representatives, appointed as a standing committee for that purpose, who shall carefully compare the enrolment with the engrossed bills, as passed in the two Houses, and, correcting any errors that may be discovered in the enrolled bills, make their report forthwith to their respective Houses.—(November 13, 1794, and February 1, 1827.)

8. After examination and report, each bill shall be signed in the respective Houses, first by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, then by the President of the Senate.—(November 13, 1794.)

9. After a bill shall have been thus signed in each House, it shall be presented by the said committee to the President of the United States for his approbation, (it being first endorsed on the back of the roll, certifying in which House the same originated; which endorsement shall be signed by the Secretary or Clerk, as the case may be, of the House in which the same did originate,) and shall be entered on the Journal of each house. The said committee shall report the day of presentation to the President; which time shall also be carefully entered on the Journal of each House.—(November 13, 1794.)

10. All orders, resolutions, and votes, which are to be presented to the President of the United States for his approbation, shall also, in the same manner, be previously enrolled, examined, and signed; and shall be presented in the same manner, and by the same committee, as provided in the cases of bills.—(November 13, 1794.)

11. When the Senate and House of Representatives shall judge it proper to make a joint address to the President, it shall be presented to him in his audience chamber by the President of the Senate, in the presence of the Speaker and both Houses.—(November 13, 1794.)

12. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed in one House is rejected in the other, notice thereof shall be given to the House in which the same shall have passed.

13. When a bill or resolution which has been passed in one House shall be rejected in the other, it shall not be brought in during the same session without a notice of ten days, and leave of two-thirds of that House in which it shall be renewed.

14. Each House shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

15. After each House shall have adhered to their disagreement, a bill or resolution shall be lost.

16. No bill that shall have passed one House shall be sent for concurrence to the other on either of the three last days of the session.—(January 30, 1822.)

17. No bill or resolution that shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate shall be presented to the President of the United States for his approbation on the last day of the session.—(January 30, 1822.)

18. When bills which have passed one House are ordered to be printed in the other, a greater number of copies shall not be printed than may be necessary for the use of the House making the order.—(February 9, 1829.)

19. No spirituous liquors shall be offered for sale, or exhibited, within the capitol, or on the public grounds adjacent thereto.—(September 18, 1837.)

20. A committee, consisting of three members of the Senate and three members of the House of Representatives, shall be chosen by their respective Houses, which shall constitute a Committee on Printing, which shall have power to adopt such measures as may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect or delay on the part of the contractor to execute the work ordered by Congress, and to make a pro rata reduction in the compensation allowed, or to refuse the work altogether, should it be inferior to the standard; and, in all cases, the contractor and his securities shall be responsible for any increased expenditure consequent upon the non-performance of the contract. The committee shall audit and pass upon all accounts for printing; but no bill shall be acted upon for work that is not actually executed and delivered, and which they may require to be properly authenticated.—(Joint resolution, section second, of the 1st session, 29th Congress.)

21. It shall be in order for the Committee on Printing to report at any time.—(1st session, 30th Congress.)

22. After six days from the commencement of a subsequent session of a Congress, all bills, resolutions, or reports which originated in either House at the close of the next preceding session, remaining undetermined in either House, shall be resumed and acted on in the same manner as if an adjournment had not taken place.—(August 14, 1848.)

QUESTIONS OF ORDER

DECIDED BY THE SPEAKER

AT THE FIRST SESSION OF THE THIRTIETH CONGRESS.

DECEMBER 20, 1847.—(Page 129.)

Mr. Pettit offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That if, in the judgment of Congress, it be necessary to improve the navigation of a river, to expedite and render secure the movements of our army, and save from delay and loss our arms and munitions of war, then Congress has the power to improve such river.

Resolved, If it be necessary for the preservation of the lives of our seamen, repairs, safety, or maintenance of our vessels of war, to improve a harbor or inlet, either on our Atlantic or lake coast, Congress has the power to make such appropriations.

The said resolutions were read: when

Mr. Pettit moved the previous question.

Mr. Sims moved that the said resolutions be laid upon the table.

Mr. Charles J. Ingersoll called for a division of the question upon the resolutions.

Objection being raised to a division of the question,

The Speaker decided that the resolutions were distinct and separate propositions, and that, under the express rule of the House, any member might call for a division of them. He thought it was not too late for such a call; and that, the resolutions being divided, the motion to lie on the table would apply to them separately.

From that decision Mr. Sims appealed.

And the question was put, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

And decided in the negative.

So, the decision of the Chair was reversed, and the question was decided not to be divisible.

JANUARY 3, 1848.—(Page 175.)

Mr. Hudson offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Military Affairs be directed to inquire into the expediency of requesting the President of the United States to withdraw to the east bank of the Rio Grande our armies now in Mexico, and to propose to the Mexican government, forthwith, a treaty of peace on the following basis, viz:

That we relinquish all claim to indemnity for the expenses of the war, and that the boundary between the United States and Mexico shall be established at or near the desert between the Nueces and the Rio Grande; that Mexico shall be held to pay all just claims due to our citizens at the commencement of the war; and that a convention shall be entered into by the two nations to provide for the liquidation of those claims, and the mode of payment.

The said resolution was read: when

Mr. Hudson moved the previous question, which was seconded; and the main question was ordered to be now put.

Mr. Stephens moved that the said resolution be laid upon the table.

Mr. Howell Cobb raised the following question of order: That a motion to lay upon the table was not in order after the previous question had been ordered.

The Speaker decided that the uniform practice of the House, for many years past, confirmed upon repeated appeals, left him no alternative but to pronounce the motion in order.

From this decision Mr. Cobb appealed.

And the question being put, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

It was decided in the affirmative,	{	Yeas.....	91

JANUARY 4, 1848.—(Page 196.)

The previous question had been ordered, upon a resolution introduced by Mr. Goggin, and sundry motions made to lay it upon the table; when a question being raised whether any modification of an amendment thereto was in order at this stage of the proceedings,

The Speaker stated that he was not aware of any thing in the rules and orders of the House which prevented a member from withdrawing or modifying his own proposition at any time before a decision or amendment. The rule to this effect was express as to the power of withdrawing, and he had always regarded the right to modify as an incident to the right to withdraw. He, therefore, decided that the proposed modification would be in order.

From this decision Mr. Toombs appealed.

And the question was stated, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House? when

Mr. Kaufman moved, at 4 o'clock and ten minutes, that the House adjourn: which motion was disagreed to.

The question was then put, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

And decided in the negative, { Yeas 51
Nays..... 105

So the decision of the Chair was reversed, and it was decided that a modification of an amendment was not, at that time, in order.

Mr. Giddings offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That a select committee of five members be appointed to inquire into and report to this House whether the slave trade is carried on within the District of Columbia; if so, by what legal authority it is sustained; and whether any modification of the existing acts of Congress on that subject is expedient at the present time.

The said resolution was read; when

Mr. Giddings moved the previous question.

Mr. Howell Cobb raised the question of order, that it was not in order, upon the introduction of a resolution, to move the previous question, and thereby cut off the House from its consideration, when the rule of the House expressly provided that in the event of debate, the resolution goes over.

The Speaker stated, that in conformity with the repeated decisions of his predecessors in the chair, sustained upon appeal by the House, he was bound to decide that the previous question was in order.

From this decision Mr. Cobb appealed.

And the question being put, "Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?"

It was decided in the affirmative.

So the decision of the Chair was sustained.

FEBRUARY 2, 1848.—(Page 343.)

Mr. Rhett, by the unanimous consent of the House, proceeded to make an explanation personal to himself; and, while so doing,

Mr. Caleb B. Smith raised the question of order, that the House, by unanimous consent, permitted the gentleman from South Carolina to make a personal explanation, and that he, abusing the courtesy of the House, is reaffirming his former positions, and supporting those positions by argument; whereas a personal explanation can alone consist in correcting a misstatement of fact, which imputes motives, or arguments, or positions to a gentleman, which, not being corrected, would be injurious to his standing as a gentleman or his character as a public man.

The Speaker said, that the gentleman was speaking by the unanimous consent of the House, there was no question before the House; and the remarks of the gentleman could hardly be objected to on the score of irrelevancy. The gentleman from South Carolina had received permission to say whatever he might deem necessary to an explanation of his personal course; and as long as he confined himself to the general subject of the charges which had been brought against him, and avoided personalities, the Chair could perceive no ground for arresting his remarks. Permissions to make personal explanations had always been subject to abuse, and the only remedy would be, for the House to make some specific rule in regard to them. It had been uniformly decided by his predecessors, that the Chair could not undertake to decide as to what any gentleman might think necessary to a personal explanation. The Speaker, therefore, overruled the point of order.

From this decision Mr. Smith appealed.

Mr. Stephens moved that the appeal be laid upon the table.

And the question being put,

It was decided in the affirmative.

FEBRUARY 14, 1848.—(Page 405.)

Mr. Kellogg offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee of Ways and Means be instructed to inquire into the expediency of increasing the duty on bar, bloom, pig, and manufactured iron imported from foreign countries into this; and that they report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Bingham moved that it be laid upon the table, and called for the yeas and nays thereon; which were ordered by the House.

Mr. Kellogg moved that the order by the House of the yeas and nays be reconsidered.

Mr. Pollock raised the question of order, that it required four-fifths to reconsider an order for the yeas and nays.

The Speaker decided, that according to the precedents a majority might reconsider the order; but that the question would immediately recur on ordering the yeas and nays, when one-fifth would be sufficient for that purpose.

The motion to reconsider prevailed, but the yeas and noes were again ordered.

MARCH 9, 1848.—(Page 526.)

The House resumed the consideration of the bill (No. 297) to amend an act entitled "An act to raise, for a limited time, an additional military force, and for other purposes," approved February 11, 1847, reported by Mr. Alexander Evans on Tuesday last from the Committee on Public Lands, and which was pending on that day, when the House proceeded to other business;

The question being on the motion made by Mr. Giddings that the bill be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

And, after debate, Mr. Haskell moved the previous question.

Mr. George S. Houston raised the question of order, that the bill must go to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union under the 131st rule, which is as follows:

"No motion or proposition for a tax or charge upon the people shall be discussed the day in which it is made or offered; and every such proposition shall receive its first discussion in a Committee of the Whole House."

The Speaker stated to the gentleman from Alabama and the House, that, in case this bill involved upon its face an appropriation of money, the previous question, if sustained, would bring the House to vote upon the reference to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union. The Chair did not, however, regard this as a bill which necessarily went to the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union. There was hardly a bill which came before the House which did not necessarily involve some expenditure; yet, if it did not on its face contain an appropriation of money, it was not required to go to the committee. There was no rule which required that a bill which made an appropriation of the public lands should be referred, nor was there any precedent for it. The rule, moreover, required that all proceedings touching the appropriation of money, must be first discussed in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union. If this, then, was an appropriation bill, the whole discussion had been out of order. The chair, however, regarded this as a mere declaratory act, explanatory of the act of last session, giving a construction to that act contrary to the construction given to it by the Department of War. He was, therefore, of the opinion that if the previous question was sustained, it would cut off the motion to refer, and bring the House to a vote, first upon the amendment, and then upon the engrossment of the bill.

From this decision Mr. George S. Houston appealed.

Mr. Stephens moved that the appeal be laid upon the table; which motion was agreed to.

APRIL 3, 1848.—(Page 651)

While the House was engaged in a discussion upon resolutions introduced by Mr. Cummins, tendering "our warmest sympathies to the people of France and Italy," Mr. Charles J. Ingersoll moved that a message from the President of the United States, that day received, be laid before the House.

The Speaker hearing no objection, accordingly handed the said message to the Clerk.

The Clerk was in the act of opening it, when Mr. Ashmun objected.

Mr. Charles J. Ingersoll raised the point of order that the objection came too late, the message having passed from the possession of the Speaker.

The Speaker decided that the objection was in season, the reading of the message not having been commenced, and that the message could not now be laid before the House.

From this decision Mr. Charles J. Ingersoll appealed.

And the question being put, "Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?"

It was decided in the affirmative, (by tellers,) { Yeas 90

The Journal of yesterday having been read,

Mr. Palfrey stated that he rose to a question of privilege, and that common report had represented to members of this House that a lawless mob had assembled for two nights past, and committed acts of violence, setting the laws at defiance, and menacing individuals of this body and other persons residing in this city; and that he proposed to submit to the House a preamble and resolution thereon; when

Mr. Bayly raised the question of order, and inquired whether the recital of a fact, upon rumor, that a member of this House had been menaced, could make it a question of privilege?

The Speaker decided that the allegation of the gentleman from Massachusetts raised a question relating to the privilege of members, and that it would be for the House, and not for the Chair, to decide whether any breach of privilege was involved, or whether any steps were necessary for the protection of any of its members. The House might call for specifications, and if such specifications were not made, it might be sufficient ground for the House, in their own judgment, to refuse the inquiry; but it was not sufficient reason for the Chair to rule it out of order, the House alone having the power to determine a question of privilege.

The Chair therefore ruled that it was a privileged question, and that it was for the House to determine whether any steps were necessary to be taken for the protection of any of its members.

From this decision Mr. Brodhead appealed.

And, after debate,

Mr. Bayly moved that the appeal be laid upon the table.

And the question being put,

It was decided in the affirmative.

MAY 3, 1848.—(Page 757.)

On motion of Mr. Taylor, by leave, it was

Resolved, That the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union be discharged from the further consideration of House bill No. 81, further to extend the time for locating Virginia military land warrants, and returning surveys thereon to the General Land Office, and that the same be put upon its passage.

The House accordingly proceeded to the consideration of the said bill; and the question was stated on ordering it to be engrossed: when

Mr. Goggin moved to amend the same, by adding thereto the following:

"And that such land warrants may be located upon any lands belonging to the United States which may, at the time of such location, be subject to private entry: when

Mr. Collamer raised the question of order: That, as the proposed amendment embraced an appropriation of land, it was in effect an appropriation of money, and must, therefore, under the rule, be first discussed in a Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union; and, further that it was not germane to the bill, but of a subject differing entirely from that under consideration.

The Speaker sustained the second objection of Mr. Collamer, and ruled the amendment out of order.

MAY 6, 1848.—(Page 775.)

Mr. John A. Rockwell moved that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House, for the consideration of private bills.

Mr. McClernand moved that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union.

The question was stated on agreeing to the motion made by Mr. Rockwell: when

Mr. McClernand raised the point of order: That a motion that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union is entitled to precedence over a motion that the House resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole House, for the consideration of private bills, inasmuch as there was a special order in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union still unfinished.

The Speaker overruled the point of order.

From this decision Mr. McClernand appealed.

And the question being put, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

It was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on Commerce, made a report upon the memorial of the Chicago convention, upon the subject of the improvement of rivers and harbors by the general government, and sundry other memorials upon the same subject; upon the message of the President of the 15th December, 1847, returning a bill passed March 3, 1847, for the improvement of certain harbors and rivers; and upon the bill introduced by the honorable R. Barnwell Rhet in relation to tonnage duties, accompanied by the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States vests in Congress the power to appropriate money to open and improve harbors, and remove obstructions from navigable rivers, in all cases where such improvements are necessary to the protection and facility of commerce with foreign nations, or the commerce among the States.

Resolved, That the interests of our national commerce, the common defence, and general welfare of the United States, require a judicious exercise of the foregoing powers.

Resolved, That the reasons assigned by the President in his veto message of December 15, 1847, for his refusal to approve and sign the bill passed March 3, 1847, making appropriations for the improvement of certain harbors and rivers are deemed insufficient and unsatisfactory.

Resolved, That it would be inexpedient, and contrary to the principles of the Constitution, to give the general consent of Congress, in advance of legislation by the States, to the imposition of tonnage duties by the several States, as a means of improving the ports and harbors at which such duties may be levied.

Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Commerce on the memorial of the Chicago convention, respecting harbor and river improvements, the President's message of December 15, 1847, on the same subject, and the bill referred to said committee in relation to tonnage duties, with the minority report on the same subject, be printed; and that the Committee on Printing be directed to inquire into the expediency of printing extra copies of said report.

The said resolutions were read, when

Mr. Hunt moved the previous question upon the first four of the said resolutions.

Mr. Sims raised, as a question of order, that the previous question not having been moved upon the last of the said resolutions, that resolution was open to debate; and, if any member desired to debate it, the report and resolutions must be laid over, under the rule.

The Speaker sustained the point of order; and the said report and resolution was laid over.

JULY 6, 1848.—(Page 989.)

On motion of Mr. Hunt, the House resumed the consideration of the motion made yesterday by Mr. Turner, to reconsider the vote on agreeing to the first of the resolutions accompanying the report made by Mr. Hunt on the 23d of June last, from the Committee on Commerce, upon the subject of the improvement of rivers and harbors by the general government, the memorial of the Chicago convention, and upon the veto message of the President of the United States at the present session upon the bill of the last session, making appropriations for similar objects. (The said motion to reconsider was pending yesterday, when the House passed to other business.)

Mr. Caleb B. Smith raised the question of order, that the previous question having been ordered on all of the said resolutions, the motion to reconsider the first of said resolutions, which Mr. Turner was proceeding to debate, was not, therefore, debateable.

The Speaker decided that it was now too late to raise the point of order, the same having been overruled yesterday, and the debate having proceeded under that decision.

From this decision Mr. Smith appealed.

And the question being stated, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

It was decided in the affirmative.

JULY 18, 1848.—(Page 1059.)

The following amendment was reported from the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union to the bill of the House, No. 298, (civil and diplomatic:)

Insert between the 36th and 37th line of printed bill the following: "For the purchase of the unpublished papers of Thomas Jefferson, late President of the United States, twenty thousand dollars; and for the purchase of the manuscript papers of the late Alexander Hamilton, twenty thousand dollars."

Mr. Howell Cobb called for a division of the question upon the said amendment.

The Speaker decided that the clause having been reported from the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union, as a whole, it could not be divided.

From this decision Mr. Cobb appealed.

And the question being put, "Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?"

It was decided in the affirmative.

So the decision of the Chair was sustained.

JULY 19, 1848.—(Page 1079.)

Mr. Stuart, of Michigan, moved that the vote by which the House this day refused to strike out, in the bill (No. 293) making appropriations for the civil and diplomatic expenses of government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1849—the provision for removing obstructions in the Savannah river—be reconsidered.

JULY 20, 1848.—(Page 1080.)

The Speaker proceeded to decide the question of reconsideration moved last evening by Mr. Stuart. He said, "it was well known to the House that the item in the civil and diplomatic appropriation bill, which provided for the removal of obstructions in the Savannah river, had been struck out in Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and that the vote in the House upon concurring in that amendment, was reported on the record, yeas 86, nays 83. Of course the amendment was adopted, and the appropriation struck out. Yesterday, however, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. Stephens) rose and stated that his vote was wrongly entered; that he voted "aye," instead of "no," and called for a correction, which was accorded to him as his right. The vote was then reported yeas 85, nays 84. A case then arose under the rule, in which it was the duty of the Speaker to settle the question; the Speaker voted in the negative, making the vote yeas 85, nays 85, whereby the amendment was rejected, and the original item, as contained in the bill reported by the Committee of Ways and Means, was retained. In the mean time, however, the bill had been ordered to be engrossed; a motion had been made to reconsider the vote ordering the engrossment, and that motion had been laid on the table. The gentleman from Michigan (Mr. Stuart) had then raised the question of reconsideration, and moved that the vote by which the House had rejected the amendment of the Committee of the Whole, upon the correction of the Journal, and by the casting vote of the Speaker, be reconsidered. A question was then made whether the motion to reconsider could be received.

The Chair now decided that, inasmuch as when the House ordered the bill to be engrossed, a provision was not in it which was afterwards put in by the casting vote of the Speaker, the House was entitled to a new vote upon the engrossment. The question then arose upon the motion to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was rejected. Upon that question, the Chair had found but one precedent, being that to which he had last evening referred:

"December 14, 1839. Mr. Mercer, who voted in the affirmative of the question, moved that the House do reconsider the vote of yesterday on the proposition of Mr. Wise, 'That the credentials of the following named members: John B. Ayer, John P. B. Maxwell, William Halstead, Charles C. Stratton, and Thomas Yorke,' are sufficient to entitle them to take their seats in the House; leaving the question of contested election to be afterwards decided by the House."

"The Chairman decided, that, as the vote proposed to be reconsidered was a tie vote, in consequence of which the proposition was lost, he did not consider the motion in order. The rule provides that 'when a motion has been once made, and carried in the affirmative or negative, it shall be in order for any member of the majority to move for the reconsideration thereof.' There was no majority on either side of the question; and he did not, therefore, think the rule applied to the case. No motion to reconsider a tie-vote would be in order on either side."

[The record further states, that an appeal being taken by Mr. Mercer, the decision of the Chair was sustained: Yeas 147, nays 64.]

The Chair would state to the House, however, that this decision was made under very peculiar circumstances, arising out of the case of the contested election from New Jersey, and while there was no regularly elected Speaker in the chair. The Chair had no hesitation in saying he differed from the decision in this case. His own opinion was, that a fair construction of the rule was that any one who voted with the prevailing side had the right to move a reconsideration. This he thought was the spirit of the rule.

The Chair, therefore, decided that the motion to reconsider the vote by which the amendment was rejected could be made, but must be made by a gentleman who had voted with the prevailing side; if, therefore, the gentleman from Michigan had voted in the negative, that motion was in order.

Mr. Stuart not having voted with the majority, was precluded from moving the said reconsideration.

Thereupon,

Mr. Franklin Clark, who had voted in the negative, moved that the vote by which the provision for removal of obstructions in the Savannah river was retained in the said bill, (No. 293,) be reconsidered.

AUGUST 14, 1848.—(Page 1288.)

Mr. Conger, from the Committee on Printing, reported the following resolution :

Resolved, (the Senate concurring,) That the Joint Committee on Printing be, and they are hereby, authorized to sit during the recess of Congress, in order to carry out the intention of the joint resolution directing the manner of procuring the printing for the two Houses of Congress, approved August 3, 1846: Provided, That no pay be allowed for any thing beyond the actual necessary travelling expenses of said committee, in coming to and returning from the capitol, in performance of the duties of said committee, and the usual per diem while thus engaged.

The said resolution was read; when

Mr. Howell Cobb raised the question of order, that the rule authorizing the Committee on Printing to report at any time, contemplated the expediting of the public printing; and that, in reporting the said resolution, the committee had transcended its powers; and, therefore, the resolution was not in order.

The Speaker decided the resolution was in order.

From this decision Mr. Cobb appealed;

And the question being put, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the House?

Order, questions of, decided—the question upon resolutions containing different propositions may be divided, and that after previous has been moved—(reversed)	129
it is in order to move to lay on the table, after the previous question has been ordered.	175
a member may modify his proposition at any time before decision or amendment—(reversed)	196
upon the introduction of a resolution, the previous question may be moved forthwith.	326
a member may make a speech, under leave to make a personal explanation , provided he confines himself to the general subject of the charges against him.	343
a majority may reconsider an order for the yeas and nays.	403
a bill containing an appropriation of public land need not, under the 131st rule, be committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union	526

Mr. Hunt having reported five several resolutions from the Committee on Commerce in a day, when debate carried reports and resolutions over under the rule, he moved the previous question upon four of them. Mr. Sims proceeded to debate the said fifth resolution; and, when called to order, the Speaker decided that the fifth resolution was open to debate, and if any member desired to debate it, the report and resolutions must go over under the rule.	944
if a series of resolutions be under consideration, and the previous question be moved on all, it is in order, if the question be taken upon each resolution separately, to move a reconsideration of the vote upon each one separately.	989
an amendment reported from the Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, as a whole , cannot be divided in the House.	1059
if a bill be ordered to be engrossed, and a motion to reconsider the engrossment be made and decided, and subsequently, by the correction of the Journal, a vote is changed which restores to the bill a provision not in it when it was ordered to be engrossed, the House is entitled to a new vote upon the engrossment, and any member who voted with the prevailing side, may move a reconsideration of the vote which restored such provision, as aforesaid, to the bill.	1080
