This pamphlet aims to place in the hands of interested people a condensed list of what has been written about recreation. There is no attempt to make this an exhaustive list. Only the most up-to-date books, pamphlets, and magazine articles dealing directly with recreation in its many phases have been included. We shall be glad to hear of other publications for future mention.

The arrangement is by subjects, with annotations on the more formal publications, many of which deal with other phases of recreation than the subject under which they are listed. A book or pamphlet is listed but once. At the end of each section reference is made by number to other sections which may contain similar material.

The local public library will doubtless already have many of the books, pamphlets, and magazines listed. Where funds are available, the library authorities are usually glad to add new material for which there is an evident demand.

NOTE: The Russell Sage Foundation has in stock only its own publications and can not furnish any of the others listed. Orders should be sent directly to the publishers whose addresses will be found on pages 32-35.

Pamphlets Published by the Department of Recreation, Russell Sage Foundation

As the prices indicate, these pamphlets are not sold for profit. The small charge is made for the purpose of helping to meet the cost of printing and postage, thus enabling the Department to put out a larger number of publications than it otherwise could with its allotted funds.

Year Book. Playground and recreation association of America. Playground, 7: 370-409, Ja. '14.

The Playground and Recreation Association of America, 1 Madison Avenue, New York City, deals directly with the problems of public recreation. It keeps in touch with the recreation development throughout the country and serves as a clearing house for information. The Playground Association cooperates with individuals and organizations through correspondence, the use of lantern slides and photographs, consultation at its own offices, and personal visits by members of its field staff who are available to all sections of the country. It publishes "The Playground" ($2.00 per year, 25 cents per copy), a monthly magazine devoted to play and public recreation. A large number of pamphlets are issued on all phases of the recreation movement.

The following magazines give special attention to the discussion of public recreation problems:

American City.

American Physical Education Review.

Association Monthly.

Boys' Life.

Mind and Body.

Playground.

Rural Manhood.

Survey.

Work with Boys.

This pamphlet aims to place in the hands of interested people a condensed list of what has been written about recreation. There is no attempt to make this an exhaustive list. Only the most up-to-date books, pamphlets, and magazine articles dealing directly with recreation in its many phases have been included. We shall be glad to hear of other publications for future mention.

The arrangement is by subjects, with annotations on the more formal publications, many of which deal with other phases of recreation than the subject under which they are listed. A book or pamphlet is listed but once. At the end of each section reference is made by number to other sections which may contain similar material.

The local public library will doubtless already have many of the books, pamphlets, and magazines listed. Where funds are available, the library authorities are usually glad to add new material for which there is an evident demand.

NOTE: The Russell Sage Foundation has in stock only its own publications and can not furnish any of the others listed. Orders should be sent directly to the publishers whose addresses will be found on pages 32-35.

Pamphlets Published by the Department of Recreation, Russell Sage Foundation

As the prices indicate, these pamphlets are not sold for profit. The small charge is made for the purpose of helping to meet the cost of printing and postage, thus enabling the Department to put out a larger number of publications than it otherwise could with its allotted funds.

Recreation Problems in Middle-Sized Cities and Small Towns

Two Typical Cases Studied and Recommendations Made

Recreation in Springfield, Illinois

(A study of a middle-sized city)

Recreation in Springfield, Illinois, is a 150-page illustrated pamphlet by Lee F. Hanmer and Clarence Arthur Perry. Plans for equipping school playgrounds, large and small, are shown by means of illustrations in color drawn in perspective. Details about organizing school athletics for boys and girls are given. Some of the chapters of this report are: The Basis of Public Concern in Recreation, The Homes, The Schools, The Parks, The Streets, Commercialized Amusements, Athletics, Festivals, Pageants, and A Recreation Program.

PRICE, 25 CENTS

Play and Recreation in a Town of 6,000

(A recreation survey of Ipswich, Massachusetts)

Play and Recreation in a Town of 6,000 is a 100-page pamphlet by Howard R. Knight. What the boys and girls do during play time and recommendations for dealing with the situation are discussed. Some of the chapter headings are: How Young Ipswich Plays, The Responsibility of the Schools, Revitalizing the Recess Period, Extending the Physical Training Course, Community Centers, Commercial Amusements, Americanization of the Immigrant through Recreation, and A Recreation Program.
