NOVELLO'S PARISH CHOIR BOOK.—A Collection of Music for the Service of the Church, by Modern Composers.

PREFACE.

The history of this Volume is briefly as follows:—

The Committee of the Ely Diocesan Church Music Society finding that one of the principal desiderata amongst Parish Choirs was an arrangement, or rather several arrangements, of the Te Deum laudamus, adapted especially for country churches, determined to endeavour to supply the want.

Accordingly they put themselves in communication with some of the most eminent Church-music composers, and also with Messrs. Novello and Co. Several composers entered into their views, and Messrs. Novello and Co. expressed themselves as being willing to co-operate heartily in the work.

The Compositions which are now offered to Church Choirs and to the public generally are the first fruits of the effort made by the Ely Diocesan Church Music Society; it will be understood, however, that each composition is to be regarded as resting upon its own merits, and that the Society claims no other share in the work than the credit of having first conceived the idea, and put in motion the machinery by which it has been produced. It may be added that in the belief of the Society the names of the Composers may be regarded as a sufficient guarantee for the character of the music.
