this record of the service of her Sons

Preface

THE purpose of this book is to provide a permanent record of the military services of the alumni, students and faculty of Holy Cross College during the war of 1917-1918. Every effort has been made to make this record as complete as possible and, where we have failed of this objective, provision has been made for possible future additions and corrections. A blank space has been left when a record has been received unaccompanied by a photograph. On stubs at the end of the book, new pages may be added as new records reach us and are printed and distributed to subscribers. We shall be very grateful to receive any of the pictures or records now missing.

In each individual record the endeavor has been made to give the name, class, rank, branch of service, occupation in civil life, home address, date of enlistment, places and periods of service, engagements, wounds, citations and decorations, and date of discharge. In Part I, the records of the twenty-four men who made the supreme sacrifice are followed in chronological order by the records of the survivors. One exception to this class order has been made for brothers, who were members of different classes. There are thirty-seven instances where two or more brothers, Holy Cross men, were in the service.

Every device of the printer's and engraver's art has been employed to insure an artistic setting for this historical document. Some of the pictures have been made with great difficulty from snap-shots unsuited for reproduction. Nearly 800 pictures are included in this volume, and we are gratefully indebted to the service men, their relatives and friends and others who have made great sacrifices in lending them to us.

Introduction

O honor our heroes as they deserve, were impossible. We cannot honor those who stayed at home, civilians unable to don a uniform, while they burned with patriotic zeal manifesting itself in overwhelmingly generous contributions to Liberty Loans and every appealing cause. Nor can we honor sufficiently those who yearned to "go across" and were compelled through the exigencies of the service to serve in this country, far from the thunder of artillery and the flare of star-shells in No Man's Land. Much less can we honor adequately the men who served "over there" in shell-torn Flanders and France, where in the rain and mud, poisonous gases and malignant fevers laid the heartiest low, where science was wantonly rifled of all her death-dealing secrets for purposes of destruction and death hovered instantly near.

And yet they must be honored. In all history there is no parallel for the generous outpouring of American man power and material resources to vindicate a principle. Time and again it had been driven home to the American people that we were fighting, not to avenge a personal quarrel, but to prove to all the world and especially to the enemy that we had the courage of our convictions, that we believed in the principle behind the President's declaration of the right of small nations to self-determination. Our vast resources of men and money and materials were concentrated with unbelievable rapidity; two million and more men were transported three thousand miles across the ocean; five million were in training; when the "Hindenburg line" broke and crumbled and the power of the Hohenzollerns was crushed. We had fought and won; the world was "made safe for democracy."

In this titanic conflict, where the numbers engaged, the casualties suffered and the vast sums of money and materials employed baffle the imagination and defy the strongest superlatives, American college and university graduates and students played a conspicuous part. West Point could not begin to equip the National Army with sufficient officers; Annapolis advanced the graduation of two classes only to find the number of officers available far too few for the imperative needs of the navy. In this crisis the Government turned confidently to the colleges; officers' training camps were established and from all over the country came a generous response. Regular army and navy officers have time and again paid tribute to these young men who were for the most part without previous military experience; yet, fired with enthusiasm for the cause and quick to learn because of trained faculties, they not only assimilated rapidly the essentials of military technique but actually officered and sailed their own vessels three thousand miles through submarine infested waters and led their troops against the pride of a militaristic regime and triumphed!

In this triumph Holy Cross men shared to a degree which must ever be a source of rightful pride to every friend of Alma Mater. When we consider that military training has had no place in our curriculum; that more than one-fourth of our graduates are of the clergy, and over one-half of all of our surviving graduates were exempt from the draft on the score of age, and a far greater number on account of professional services; that students, in general, were constantly urged by all means to remain at their studies until called to the colors, the record of Holy Cross graduates, students, former students and faculty is remarkable. As far as their position and opportunities permitted, the faculty tried to aid the common cause. The record of graduates, students and former students is given in the summary on pages 505-507.

As a rule, service men are loath to speak of their experiences. Intimate friends may learn something of their story, but unless a permanent record is made others will have only tradition, and, often, fanciful imagination to commemorate their deeds. So when we planned to publish a service record of Holy Cross men we sought a memorial that would give in word and picture clearer and truer ideas of what each man has done.

The records in the following pages are statements of fact, with no embellishment or ornament. For the most part, they were prepared by the individual service men or by their relatives or friends, as in the case of the twenty-four who made the supreme sacrifice. Every walk of life is here represented, significant of the training Alma Mater gives her children. From the sanctuary and cloister holy priests have gone to minister to our soldiers and sailors. Lawyers have laid aside their briefs and doctors have hurried to heal the wounded and ease the pain of the dying. Business men and artisans, teachers and students, all put aside their peaceful avocations to don the olive drab or navy blue.

Some, indeed, paid the supreme sacrifice. Twenty-four golden stars illumined our service flag, commemorating the heroes who have gone to the Golden Throne to plead for their equally heroic brothers in arms who were spared. Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori. All honor to our heroic dead, who rest in the Lord, awaiting the grand day when all shall be summoned to the presence of our great Commander-in-Chief, the Lord God of Hosts, our Prince of Peace.

Of all, living and dead, Alma Mater is proud. Were it possible she would inscribe their names in letters of gold that all the world might know her pride in the glory of her sons. In presenting this volume, therefore, Alma Mater wishes to convey to all her patriotic sons and to their devoted relatives (for they also served) her sincere congratulations upon duties well and faithfully done, begging of Him who will reward every faithful servant eternal rest to the dead and a daily blessing to the living.

In Memoriam

To Rev. William J. Davitt, '07

Not with the kings within whose potent hands
The destinies of far-flung empires lay ;
Not with the marshals of a gorgeous day
Whose genius laureled victory commands ;
Not with the diplomats with ships and lands
As pawns against a direful hour to play,
But where the crimson Furies rage and slay
And Death stalks leering, he undaunted stands.

With steady gaze, with boyish face aglow,
His voice a clarion to the high emprise,
Soldier and priest, he sanctifies the sod
For quick and dead where Flanders' poppies blow ;
Until, the last, he yields his sacrifice
And deathless looks upon the face of God.

Joseph J. Reilly, '04.

REV. WILLIAM F. DAVITT, '07

FIRST LIEUTENANT

Senior Chaplain, 32nd Division, U. S. A.

Clergyman. Willimansett, Mass. He volunteered as a K. of C. chaplain when the United States entered the war; received his appointment in September, 1917; commissioned First Lieutenant (Chaplain) in 125th Regiment, 32nd Division, at Camp MacArthur, Waco, Texas. This regiment was composed mostly of recruits from the states of Michigan and Wisconsin. The first boat on which Father Davitt had been ordered to sail was wrecked with some loss of life. He arrived in France in November, 1917. During the advance of his Division along the Vesle River he learned that a party of Americans was cut off in a ravine. Calling for volunteers, Chaplain Davitt led them through a hail of machine gun bullets and rescued those cut off without the loss of a man. The French Army citation, signed by Marshal Petain, awarding Chaplain Davitt the Croix de Guerre with palm, states that "in the advance from the Ourcq to the Vesle, from July 31st to August 6th, 1918, he performed his duties constantly under violent fire, and regardless of danger. By word and example he encouraged the men of his regiment, in continuing the attack." He was cited by Major General Summerall, commanding the 5th Corps, "for faithful and conscientious performance of duty and for extreme coolness under shell fire in the performance of his duty as Acting Chief Burial Officer, 5th Corps, during the Meuse-Argonne Operations." Lieutenant Davitt was recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross. He had been transferred to the 3rd Corps, but on November 10th, 1918, he was sent back to his own Division. About an hour and a half before the armistice became effective on November 11th, 1918, Chaplain Davitt carried a large American flag to present to the Commanding Officer and had just stepped from the latter's room when a piece of a shell bursting on the roof of a barn near by struck and killed him. The very impressive funeral services were conducted by Rev. George S. L. Connor, '07, a fellow-classmate at Holy Cross, Captain and Senior Chaplain of the 3rd Corps. Lieutenant Davitt was the last American officer killed in the war.

REV. FRANK A. LEDERLE, JR., EX-'08

FIRST LIEUTENANT

Chaplain, U. S. Marine Corps

Clergyman. New York, N. Y. He was a curate in El Paso, Texas, and had served as chaplain with the troops from Massachusetts and Pennsylvania during the operations on the Mexican border. When the United States entered the war he applied for and received a commission as First Lieutenant (Chaplain) and was assigned to the U. S. Marine Corps at Fort Stanton, New Mexico. In the discharge of his duties he contracted pneumonia from which he died on February 8th, 1919.

THOMAS C. CARVER, '09

FIRST LIEUTENANT

Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A.

Lawyer. Worcester, Mass. He enlisted September 21st, 1917, at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., and was detailed to headquarters as clerk in the Intelligence Department until April 17th, 1918. He was then transferred to Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Florida, where he served as Intelligence Officer from April 29th, 1918, until his death from influenza on October 16th, 1918. Two days after his death, his commission as Captain came through.

DR. THOMAS J. COURTNEY, EX-'10

LIEUTENANT, SENIOR GRADE

Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Physician. Worcester, Mass. He enlisted in May, 1917, and was first appointed to Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston, Mass. He was transferred to the Harvard Radio School and later to the U. S. S. Oklahoma. He was one of three doctors on this ship with 2700 men during the influenza epidemic. When nearing the coast of France he contracted this disease and was transferred to the U. S. Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, Va., where he died on December 27th, 1918.

ELMER C. SCHUHART, '11

PRIVATE

152nd Depot Brigade, Infantry, U. S. A.

Medical student. Rochester, N. Y. After having served as medical student on a local draft board in Rochester, N. Y., he enlisted September 19th, 1918, and was assigned to the 27th Company, 7th Battalion, 152nd Depot Brigade at Camp Upton, Long Island, N. Y. Shortly before his discharge from Camp Upton on January 3rd, 1919, he contracted a cold which settled on his lungs, and he died March 4th, 1919.

DR. E. LELAND MOONEY, '13

FIRST LIEUTENANT

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. Syracuse, N. Y. He enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps in June, 1917, while still attending the Syracuse University Medical College. He was called for active duty in August, 1917, and sailed for overseas on August 29th. After serving in various hospitals in England until the first of November, he went to France with the 106th Field Ambulance, 35th Division, British Expeditionary Forces, having been assigned to the British by the United States. He was on active duty with this ambulance from November, 1917, to March 23rd, 1918, near Proven, Ypres, Yser Canal, Passion Dell Ridge, along Flanders front. On March 23rd, 1918, he was loaned temporarily to the 4th Staffordshire Regiment, near Albert, and was killed while in action with them on March 26th. He was buried in Laviéville, near Albert, France.

REV. SIMON A. O'ROURKE, '13

LIEUTENANT, JUNIOR GRADE

Chaplain, U. S. N.

Clergyman. Fall River, Mass. Father O'Rourke was ordained June 2nd, 1917, and after brief assignments at Sandwich, North Dighton and St. James' Church, New Bedford, Mass., he was commissioned as a chaplain in the U. S. Navy on June 14th, 1918. He was assigned to the Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston, Mass., and for three months looked after the material as well as the spiritual welfare of the sailors stationed there. In the discharge of his duties he contracted influenza, which developed into pneumonia, and he returned to his home in Fall River, where he died September 20th, 1918. He was buried with full military honors.

ALPHONSUS T. WICKHAM, EX-'13

CORPORAL

Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A.

Salesman. Worcester, Mass. He enlisted June 6th, 1917, and was called for active duty December 14th, 1917, at Camp Joseph E. Johnston, Jacksonville, Fla., as Corporal in Company E, 8th Reg. Division, Motor Supply Train, Quartermaster Corps, National Army. He applied frequently for overseas duty, but examination disclosed the fact that he was suffering from valvular heart disease (mitral stenosis) and he was discharged March 5th, 1918. Returning to his Worcester home he died from this disease September 27th, 1918.

CHRISTOPHER C. M. KELLY, '14

SEAMAN

Ordnance Department, U. S. N.

Insurance Agent. Fall River, Mass. He enlisted May 22nd, 1918, and was in training at the Newport, R. I. Naval Training Station until November, 1918, when he signed up for overseas service. While standing by for sea duty, he was called upon to do the work of two men because, owing to the influenza epidemic, almost the entire personnel of the Station had been temporarily transferred to Portsmouth, R. I. He contracted a heavy cold on night guard duty which, before he reported at sick bay, developed into pneumonia. As a result of this severe attack his lungs were weakened and, on March 16th, 1919, he was sent to Fort Lyons, Colorado, where he died, June 26th, 1919.

THOMAS J. MIGAUCKAS, JR., '14

SERGEANT

101st Regiment, U. S. Engineers

Lawyer. Worcester, Mass. He enlisted with the 101st Regiment of U. S. Engineers in May, 1917, at Boston, Mass. Here he received the usual training in the Boston Armory and was made a Corporal. He sailed for France, September 24th, 1917, and was there assigned to an officers' training school. With the rank of Sergeant he was in the engagements at Chateau Thierry, Marne River and St. Mihiel, and was killed by a machine gun bullet through the heart at St. Mihiel, September 12th, 1918.

JOSEPH E. BURCHILL, EX-'14

FIRST LIEUTENANT

306th Machine Gun Battalion, 36th Division, U. S. A.

Real Estate. New York, N. Y. He enlisted May 3rd, 1917, and entered the first officers' training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y. He was considered an expert in grenade throwing, and after being commissioned a Second Lieutenant he sailed for France about September 1st, 1917. In France he was sent to a machine gun school and soon became an expert. With the 36th Division, made up almost entirely of troops from Texas, he received his first baptism of fire in the Champagne drive. Their objective was to dislodge the enemy from the crests north of St. Etienne and the Arnes and throw him back to the Aisne. Of Lieutenant Burchill's part in this drive, the following extract from Order No. 15, 169 "D", by Marshal Foch and General Petain, Commander-in-Chief of the French Armies of the East, states that he "displayed audacity and disregard of danger during the operations near St. Etienne, October 8th, 1918. At the head of his men, encouraging them by his skill, he largely contributed to the success of the operations which made it possible to capture all the objectives. Killed at his post in action." In addition to citations by Marshal Foch and General Petain, Lieutenant Burchill was awarded the Croix de Guerre. He had an opportunity to return to this country as an instructor in machine gunnery, but he preferred to remain and "carry on" until the war was won. He was killed in action October 8th, 1918.

WALTER F. COONAN, '15

CORPORAL

304th Infantry, 76th Division, U. S. A.

Teacher. Worcester, Mass. From his enlistment, October 5th, 1917, to July 7th, 1918, Corporal Coonan was stationed at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., with Headquarters Company, 304th Infantry, 76th Division. In France he was assigned to the classification camp at St. Aignan, Noyers. He contracted pneumonia and died in Hospital No. 26 at the classification camp on November 30th, 1918, and was interred, December 2nd, 1918, in the U. S. Cemetery at Noyers, Loir et Cher, France.

EDWARD J. WELCH, EX-'15

PRIVATE

239th Aero Squadron, S. C., U. S. A.

Expert Accountant. Holyoke, Mass. On December 7th, 1917, he enlisted at Washington, D. C. in the Aviation Department and was assigned to the 239th Aero Squadron at San Antonio, Texas. After six weeks in camp he died of pneumonia in the Base Hospital at San Antonio, January 15th, 1918.

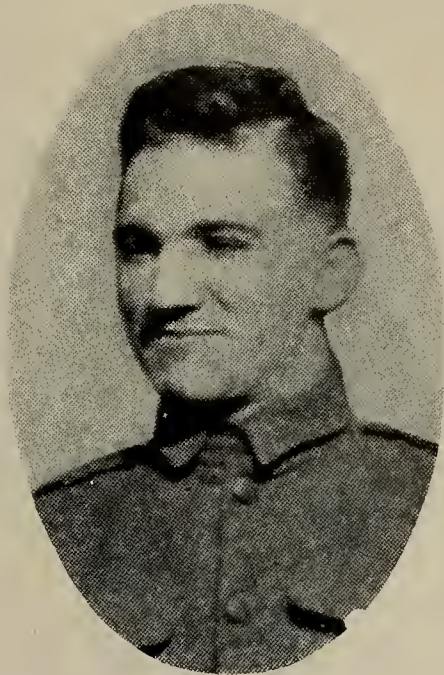

HAROLD F. FLYNN, '16

FIRST LIEUTENANT

Co. L, 314th Infantry, 79th Division, U. S. A.

Graduate student. Harvard University. From Woonsocket, R. I. He enlisted at Plattsburg, N. Y., August 27th, 1917, and was commissioned Second Lieutenant, November 25th, 1917. He was assigned to Camp Meade, Md., and attached to Co. L, 314th Infantry, 79th Division, which went overseas July 2nd, 1918. His Division went into action, September 26th, 1918, in the attack which resulted in the capture of Montfaucon. Relieved October 1, 1918. He was made First Lieutenant, October 10th, and placed in command of his company. Continuing the Meuse-Argonne offensive, they went into action October 31st and were driving the enemy back, north of the town of Crepion, when on November 9th, 1918, Lieutenant Flynn was killed by a machine gun bullet from a German airplane.

TIMOTHY J. DALEY, '17

CORPORAL

H Company, 304th Infantry, U. S. A.

Waterbury, Conn. Corporal Daley was graduated from Holy Cross College, June 20th, 1917, and enlisted at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., September 19th, 1917. He remained at Camp Devens for five months and was considered splendid officer material. During bayonet practice, February 26th, 1918, he was accidentally impaled on the bayonet of another soldier and died before an operation could be performed to save his life. He was buried with full military honors from his Waterbury home.

WALTER P. TALASKA, '17

CHIEF QUARTERMASTER

U. S. Naval Aviation

Rochester, N. Y. He was graduated from Holy Cross College, June 20th, 1917, and enlisted at Squantum, Mass., as a first-class yeoman in the U. S. Naval Reserve, October 22nd, 1917. After his honorable discharge, he enlisted in the naval aviation service and made his preliminary training as a Cadet at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., later being transferred to the training school at Bay Shore, Long Island. He flew for two months at the training school and was accidentally killed as the result of a fall of 300 feet from his seaplane into the Great South Bay, Long Island, September 2nd, 1918.

JOHN C. GAGNIER, EX-'17

SEAMAN

U. S. Coast Guard

Bank Teller. Springfield, Mass. He enlisted June 5th, 1917, and was sent to Fort Trumbull, New London, Conn. On October 7th, 1917, he volunteered for duty on the U. S. S. Tampa, which was engaged in escort duty in foreign service. He was accepted and from then until his death on November 28th, 1917, he served in escorting British ships in the North Sea, Mediterranean Sea and the Strait of Gibraltar. He died in service at Gibraltar, November 28th, 1917, and was buried there. In May, 1919, his body was brought to this country.

GEORGE W. KILLORIN, JR., EX-'17

SECOND LIEUTENANT

Aviation, U. S. A.

Furniture Manufacturer. Wakefield, Mass. In August, 1917, he enlisted and was sent to train at the Ground School at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass. From there he went to Houston, Texas, where he did his first flying, and was commissioned Second Lieutenant, April 22nd, 1918. From Houston, Texas, he was sent for a short time to Camp Dick, Dallas, Texas; later to Taliaferro Field, Texas, where he was appointed an instructor in aerial gunnery. It was here, at Taliaferro Field, Lieutenant Killorin met his death in an accident, while instructing on September 27th, 1918. His fellow officers sent his mother a silver loving cup in memory of her son whom they termed "A Real Man." When the train, bearing his body, left the field, an escort of six planes flew over the train for five hundred miles, scattering flowers.

ROBERT J. GARTLAND, '18

SECOND CLASS SEAMAN

U. S. N. R. F.

Providence, R. I. During his senior year he enlisted on April 9th, 1918, but was not called for active duty until July 19th, 1918. He received his diploma June 19th, 1918. His entire period of service was spent at Newport, R. I., in the Commandant's office, to which he had been detailed for yeoman work. In September, 1918, he fell a victim to the influenza epidemic and died on the 23rd of that month. He was buried with full military honors.

VINCENT P. PENTONY, '18

OFFICER MATERIAL SCHOOL

U. S. N. R. F.

New York, N. Y. Five days after graduation, June 19th, 1918, he enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserves and was sent to the Pelham Bay Training Station, Pelham Bay, N. Y. He was advanced to the Officer Material School and was in training for a commission when he succumbed to the ravages of the influenza and pneumonia epidemic and died October 12th, 1918. He was buried with full military honors.

THOMAS F. MacDONNELL, EX-'18

RADIO OPERATOR

U. S. N.

Student. South Boston, Mass. In May, 1917, he left Holy Cross College, where he was a member of the Junior Class, to enlist in the Navy. He served on the U. S. S. Virginia as a Radio Operator until about the end of August, 1917, when he was transferred to the U. S. S. Collier Cyclops. At the Halifax explosion the crew of this ship rendered much aid. The Cyclops then proceeded to Bahia, Brazil, for manganese and on its return to Hampton Roads reached Barbadoes, March 4th, 1918. Since then no word has been heard from any person on board.

EDWARD V. KILLEEN, JR., EX-'19

OFFICER MATERIAL SCHOOL

U. S. N. R. F.

Student. Brooklyn, N. Y. He had completed his Junior year at Holy Cross College and was elected Editor-in-Chief of the Purple for the following year. In July, 1918, he enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserves and was sent to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Illinois, where he was in training for a commission when he died of pneumonia, October 6th, 1918. He was buried from his Brooklyn home with full military honors.

GEORGE E. HOGAN, EX-'20

APPRENTICE SEAMAN

U. S. N. R. F.

Student. Lawrence, Mass. He was entering his Junior year at Holy Cross College when he passed the physical examination for admission to the Naval Section of the Students Army Training Corps, September 25th, 1918. Owing to the postponement of the induction ceremonies, on account of the prevalent epidemic of influenza and pneumonia, he returned to his home, September 28th, where he fell ill and died within a week, October 6th, 1918.

JOSEPH C. McGRATH, EX-'20

PRIVATE

Infantry, U. S. A.

Student. Brooklyn, N. Y. He was entering upon his Junior year at Holy Cross College, when he passed the physical examination and was inducted into the Students Army Training Corps. His enlistment had just drawn to a close and he was about to be discharged from the service when he died of influenza, December 17th, 1918.

I., and was assigned as regimental surgeon to 117 Sanitary Train, 42nd Division. In January, 1918, he was reassigned to Field Hospital 165, 42nd Division, and remained with them during the war as operating surgeon, Field Hospital 165, Lorraine, Champagne, Marne and Meuse-Argonne, and afterwards when they constituted the Army of Occupation. The 42nd (Rainbow) Division was in the following engagements: Baccarat, April 1st to June 21st, 1918; Champagne, July 5th to 18th; Chateau Thierry, July 25th to August 11th; Meuse and Moselle, October 3rd to November 11th, 1918. On November 17th, 1918, they went with the Army of Occupation. On December 9th, 1918, Captain O'Brien was sent to the S. O. S. Hospital, and from February 27th, 1919, to April of that year he was with the 117th Sanitary Train at Neumahr, Germany. He was honorably discharged with the rank of Captain, at Camp Dix, N. J., on May 13th, 1919.

REV. MICHAEL J. O'CONNOR, '97

Captain

Senior Chaplain, 26th Division, U. S. A.

Clergyman. 31 Buckingham St., Cambridge, Mass. He was a private in the 9th Mass. N. G. for three years, '91-2-3, and Chaplain of same from April 21st, 1911. He served with the 9th Mass. on duty during the strike at Lawrence, Mass., and on the Mexican border for six months in 1916. When the regiment was called into service on declaration of war with Germany he was on duty with it from March 25th, 1917. Later, August, 1917, the 9th and 5th Mass. were amalgamated into 101st Infantry, 26th Division. They went overseas, September 6th, 1917, landing at St. Nazaire, France, September 20th. They served in the trenches of Chemin des Dames sector, February 6th to March 21st, 1918; in Toul Sector, from April 3rd to June 23rd, 1918; Aisne-Marne offensive (Chateau Thierry) from July 10th to 25th, 1918; St. Mihiel offensive, from September 8th to October 8th, 1918; Meuse-Argonne offensive, from October 18th to November 11th, 1918. Captain (Chaplain) O'Connor was twice gassed and received a slight shrapnel wound. He was recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross. He served with the 101st Infantry until October 10th, 1918; although he had been appointed Senior Chaplain of the 26th Division in May, 1918, he remained with his Regiment until specifically ordered to attach himself to Division Headquarters. He was honorably discharged April 29th, 1919.

REV. JAMES J. RICE, EX-'98

Volunteer Chaplain

U. S. N.

Clergyman. St. Raphael's Church, Kittery, Maine. He took charge of the Portsmouth Navy Yard, December 12th, 1916, and remained as acting Chaplain until July 15th, 1918. On that date the late Rev. Edward B. Henry, K. of C. Chaplain, came to help him, serving as Chaplain until the early part of November, 1918, when he contracted influenza and died on December 8th, 1918. Father Rice re-entered the Yard during Father Henry's illness and has served as Chaplain since November 1st, 1918. He looked after the spiritual needs of the men on the U. S. S. Southey, then a prison ship, and those in the Naval Prison. During an epidemic in the Spring of 1917, he said Mass in the open for some time. In the Fall of 1917, he said Mass in a tent erected in the Yard between the Dry Dock and the Marine Camps, and sometimes in buildings where sailors were stationed temporarily awaiting sailing orders. In the Summer of 1917 the U. S. S. Southey transferred all her prisoners to the Naval Prison and became a recruit ship to accommodate the recruits who were pouring into the Navy Yard. The U. S. S. Topeka was also pressed into service to receive the overflow. Father Rice looked after both ships and the Naval Hospital and was gratified by the cooperation of all the naval officers and medical men. He still serves as Chaplain to the Yard.

REV. GERALD S. MCGOURTY, '99

First Lieutenant

Chaplain

Clergyman. 34 Chamberlain Parkway, Worcester, Mass. He was commissioned in July, 1918, and soon after sailed for France. After serving for ten months with the American Expeditionary Forces as Chaplain at the Beau Desert Hospital Center and later at 1st Army Headquarters he returned to this country and was honorably discharged in July, 1919.

DR. EDWARD J. HUSSEY, '99

Major

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Surgeon (Ophthalmologist). 1093 Dwight St., Holyoke, Mass. He entered the service June 2nd, 1918, and served for five months as Ophthalmologist at the Base Hospital, Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. Later he served in the same capacity for five months in France at Base Hospital No. 108, Mesves Hospital Center, and for four months at Evacuation Hospital No. 13, Germany, and Luxembourg City. He was honorably discharged August 3rd, 1919.

DR. THOMAS A. SHAUGHNESSY, '99

Captain

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 201 East 201st St., New York, N. Y. He entered the service April 10th, 1918, but was not called for active duty until July 15th. From that date to August 15th, 1918, he was in training with the Medical Officers' Training Group at Camp Greenleaf, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. From August 15th, 1918, to October 25th, 1918, he was with Base Hospital No. 108, in training, at Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, Minn. He sailed for France on October 25th, arriving November 9th, and was assigned to duty with Base Hospital No. 108 at Mesves Hospital Center, France, until June 22nd, 1919. For about five months after December 1st, 1918, he and Major Hussey, '99, shared the same room, just as they lived together when students at Holy Cross twenty years before. Captain Shaughnessy arrived in this country from France, July 6th, 1919, and was honorably discharged July 28th, 1919. In November, 1919, he was commissioned Major in the Medical Reserve Corps.

JAMES W. FITZPATRICK, '00

Secretary

K. of C.

Writer. 13 Wall St., Waterbury, Conn. He served from March, 1918, to September, 1918, at Camp Dix, N. J. In September, 1918, he went overseas and was attached to the 18th Infantry, 1st Division, serving with them in all their engagements and in the Army of Occupation in Germany. He received two citations and was decorated with the Fourragère, awarded by the French Government to only two American regiments, the 18th and 28th of the 1st Division. The first citation, by order of Colonel Hunt, signed by William Winters, Captain and Adjutant, 18th Infantry, dated March 11th, 1919, at Mogendorf, Germany, was "for distinguished conduct during the advance in the Ardennes toward Sedan. Mr. FitzPatrick displayed great courage and a self-sacrificing spirit in obtaining supplies and distributing them to the men on the firing line with a smile and cheering word for each man, never thinking of his own personal safety." The second citation, signed at command of Brigadier General Frank Parker by Major William Winters, 18th Infantry, dated June 1st, 1919, at Selters, Germany, was "for gallant conduct and self-sacrificing spirit displayed during the battles of Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne." In April, 1919, the Actors' Association cabled for Mr. FitzPatrick to return to take up their fight for them in the New York and Federal courts. He left Germany, May 12th, 1919, and was honorably discharged from the service on June 1st, 1919. A splendid tribute is paid to Mr. FitzPatrick by the chaplain of the 18th Infantry, Rev. Terence King, S.J., in the Purple for April, 1920.

FRANCIS C. REAGAN, '00

Candidate

Field Artillery, C. O. T. S.

Lawyer. 306 Marion Bldg., Seattle, Wash. He enlisted in October, 1918, and was sent to the Central Officers' Training School, Field Artillery, Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. He remained there until his honorable discharge in December, 1918.

HARRY S. AUSTIN, '01

Candidate

Military Intelligence Department, U. S. A.

Lawyer. 375 Fulton St., Brooklyn, N. Y. On August 15th, 1918, upon proper application being made for a commission in the Army, Military Intelligence Branch, he was accepted as a civilian attache until such time as the Adjutant General should pass upon his application. On the 19th of August, the granting of commissions was temporarily held in abeyance until the new draft law requiring those from thirty-one to thirty-seven inclusively to be inducted into the service should go into effect. He continued to serve with the Military Intelligence Department from August 15th, 1918, to November, 1918. On November 8th, 1918, his papers were approved for a Captaincy and he was assured that he would receive his commission within a week. Immediately upon the signing of the armistice, November 11th, 1918, he withdrew his application for a commission and obtained his release from the service.

DR. THOMAS J. NORTON, '01

Captain

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 181 Bartlett Ave., Pittsfield, Mass. He entered the service June 20th, 1918, and was stationed successively at Camp Dix, Wrightstown, N. J., August 3rd to November 16th, 1918, and Camp Crane, Allentown, Pa., November 18th to December 9th, where he was engaged in hospital work and training for service overseas. He was honorably discharged December 9th, 1918.

DR. WILLIAM H. CONNOR, '02

Lieutenant Commander

Medical Corps, U. S. N.

Physician. 33 Cole Ave., Pittsfield, Mass. He was attached to the U. S. S. Olympia from October, 1916, to October 1st, 1917, but did not get overseas. His commission dates from March 29th, 1909. From October 1st, 1917, until after the signing of the armistice, November 11th, 1918, he was attached to the U. S. Naval Hospital at Portsmouth, Va. He is still in service, attached to the U. S. S. Virginia, Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston, Mass.

DR. PATRICK J. KITTREDGE, '02

First Lieutenant

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 73 Congress St., Portsmouth, N. H. He enlisted in June, 1918, and served from August 23rd until his honorable discharge, December 23rd, 1918. He had been city physician of Portsmouth, N. H., and during his service he was attached to General Hospital No. 14, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga.

MATTHEW R. McCANN, JR., '02

Captain

Sanitary Corps, U. S. A.

Teacher. 122 West St., Worcester, Mass. He enlisted July 6th, 1918, and was commissioned August 17th, 1918. The first weeks of his service were spent at the Surgeon General's Office, Washington, D. C., planning for the physical reconstruction work which was to be instituted in the U. S. General Hospitals as soon as soldiers arrived in them. He was one of the first group of eight directors of this new work sent out by the Surgeon General, U. S. A. He was stationed successively at various army hospitals, Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., U. S. A. General Hospital No. 21, Plattsburg, N. Y., and U. S. A. General Hospital No. 8, Otisville, N. Y. At Plattsburg, he organized the physical reconstruction work in the shell-shock hospital. At Otisville, he organized and continued to direct until the closing of the hospital, the physical reconstruction department. The major part of his time was spent in developing a plan of vocational training for tuberculous soldiers at U. S. A. General Hospital No. 8, Otisville, N. Y. There were no precedents. The schools and shops and outdoor occupational work grew rapidly until 90% of a thousand bed hospital was engaged in regular assigned training for some part of the day. The duration of application to training depended upon each soldier's physical condition. Captain McCann's work was highly commended by his superior officers. He was honorably discharged September 15th, 1919.

DR. FREDERICK W. RICE, '02

Captain

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 158 W. 58th St., New York, N. Y. He enlisted in the New York National Guard, 69th Infantry, in 1911 and served as First Lieutenant until 1914. Then he was promoted to Captain and served with the 69th on the Mexican Border in 1916. On September 16th, 1918, he was sent to U. S. A. General Hospital No. 6, Fort McPherson, Ga., where he remained until November 8th, 1918, when he was transferred to the Surgeon General's Office, Washington, D. C., for temporary duty. He was honorably discharged at Chicago, Ill., January 28th, 1919.

DR. JOHN J. STACK, '02

Captain

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 1246 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass. On May 19th, 1917, he was commissioned First Lieutenant, M. C. From July 12th to October 15th, 1917, he was a member of the special examining board, Chickamauga Park, Ga. He was on duty at the Base Hospital, Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., from October 15th, 1917, to February 20th, 1918. From February 27th to April 10th, 1918, he was in training, Medical Officers' Training Group, Camp Greenleaf, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. He was heart and lung specialist of the Camp examining board, Camp Dix, N. J., from April 15th, 1918, to April 4th, 1919. He was on duty at U. S. General Hospital No. 10, Parker Hill, Boston, Mass., from April 5th to June 24th, 1919; Commanding Officer, Post Hospital, Fort Banks, Mass., from June 24th to September 10th, 1919; Attending Surgeon, Headquarters, Northeastern Department, Boston, Mass., September 10th, 1919, to March 1st, 1920. On March 1st he was sent to Amherst Agricultural College to examine candidates for the R. O. T. C. He is still in service, with the rank of Captain, M. C., as one of the medical officers retained by the Surgeon General, U. S. A., for service until June 30th, 1920.

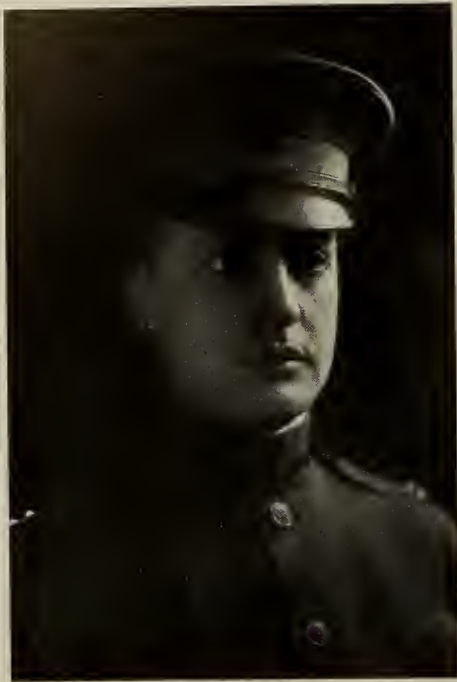

DR. MARTIN J. ENGLISH, '03

Captain

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

PHILIP H. DONNELLY, '10

Secretary

K. of C.

Lawyer. 132 Lenox St., Rochester, N. Y. He entered upon his work December 18th, 1918, and was all through France, touching nearly all of the important camps and large cities. He was on a lecture tour in connection with representatives of the various welfare organizations. They talked mainly on citizenship and the part that the soldiers were to play upon their return to the United States. They drew up a constitution or set of purposes, which was taken over by the American Legion when it met in Paris. The American Legion may be said to have grown out of their work in France. In Secretary Donnelly's party there was a representative from the Y. M. C. A., Jewish Welfare Board, Salvation Army, Red Cross and Knights of Columbus; about the only time in France these welfare organizations combined for work. Mr. Donnelly traveled through France with a Presbyterian minister, who wore a Y. M. C. A. uniform. They slept together, ate together, spoke on the same platform together, and often were ticketed out by the M. P. on the same ticket. Secretary Donnelly's work brought him in contact with a great many chaplains and welfare workers, and with many of the higher officials of the army, including General Pershing, Commander, A. E. F. He returned to this country and completed his work June 16th, 1919.

WILLIAM A. FLANIGAN, '10

101st Infantry, 26th Division, U. S. A.

Entertainer and Welfare Worker. 105 Franklin St., Lynn, Mass. He enlisted August 23rd, 1917, and sailed for France on September 7th, 1917. He took part in the following battles and engagements: Chemin des Dames, February 7th to March 20th, 1918; Toul Sector, April 1st to June 29th, 1918; Second Battle of the Marne, July 7th to 29th, 1918; St. Mihiel salient, September 7th to October 5th, 1918; Verdun, from October 7th to November 12th, 1918. He was nineteen months in France, leaving for this country on March 28th, 1919. Color Sergeant Connery was called the "Apostle of Cheer Up," whose weapons were a smile and a song. "It made no difference whether or not shells were coming over, or bombs dropping; Billy kept on singing. Wounded men called for him, so that he sang at the hospitals at Bazouilles, Revigny, Mesnes, Trovon, Auteuil, and a dozen other places. They hated to let him go, so that he was compelled time and again to improvise parodies on the spur of the moment. In the lines and out, in hospital or billet, the man who never lost his smile will always be gratefully remembered—Billy Connery, the Apostle of Cheer Up." He was honorably discharged on April 5th, 1919.

JOSEPH P. COURTNEY, EX-'10

First Lieutenant

Aviation, U. S. A.

Lawyer. 47 Arlington St., Worcester, Mass. He enlisted on April 10th, 1917, a few days after the declaration of war. He was stationed successively at Austin, Texas; Fort Worth, Texas; and San Diego, California, in training for about a year. He served for about seven months around Foggia, Italy, and for about two months at Grand Pré, France, being engaged in pursuit duty and observation. Returning to this country after the signing of the armistice he was stationed at Fort Omaha, Nebraska, for two months, and at Mitchell Field, Mineola, N. Y., for about six months. After about two and one-half years' service he was honorably discharged on October 3rd, 1919.

EDMUND P. CUNNINGHAM, EX-'10

Candidate

Field Artillery, C. O. T. S.

Sport Writer. Boston Herald, Boston, Mass. He was drafted and sent to Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass., from Worcester, Mass., July 24th, 1918. After serving as a private in the intelligence department for a short time he was sent to the Field Artillery Officers' Training School, at Camp Zachary Taylor, Kentucky. He was in training as a member of the 30th Training Battery when the armistice was signed. On November 26th, 1918, he was honorably discharged with the rank of private, unassigned.

DANIEL J. KELLEY, EX-'10

Chauffeur

Signal Corps, U. S. A.

Shoe Salesman. 9 Sheridan St., No. Easton, Mass. He enlisted on December 5th, 1917, and went to France with the 6th Army Corps. He served with them as a motor despatch rider, and with the 3rd Army for nine months, in the same capacity. His duties brought him all over France and often amid greatest danger. He was honorably discharged June 2nd, 1919.

REV. JEREMIAH J. MORLEY, EX-'10

First Lieutenant.

Chaplain, U. S. A.

Clergyman. St. Joseph's Rectory, Troy, N. Y. He enlisted June 15th, 1918, and one month later, July 15th, 1918, he was commissioned First Lieutenant (Chaplain) from the Chaplains' Training School at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky. He sailed for France, July 30th, 1918, and was first attached to the 141st Infantry, 36th Division, at Field Hospital No. 13. Later he was attached to the 16th Infantry, 1st Division. He was engaged in the battles of the Meuse-Argonne offensive, from September 26th to November 11th, 1918, and was awarded the Croix de Guerre with Gold Star. The citation, signed by Marshal Petain, Commander of French Armies of the East, speaks of Chaplain Morley as an "officer of very great bravery. During the attack of October 8th, 1918, near St. Etienne-à-Arnes, in spite of the fire of the enemy's artillery and machine guns, he gave proof of daring, valor, and technical knowledge. His example contributed in great part to the success of the day." After the armistice and work with the Army of Occupation he was attached to 1st Division Base Hospital No. 87. Returning from France on June 18th, 1919, he was discharged at Camp Dix, N. J., three days later, June 21st, 1919.

Infantry, U. S. A.

Lawyer. 125 West 70th St., New York, N. Y. From June, 1916, to March, 1917, he served on the Mexican border as a Private with the 7th N. Y. Infantry; later with 69th N. Y. Infantry as Second and First Lieutenant. From March to July 15th, 1917, he was in charge of recruiting for the 69th Regiment. In August, 1917, he was sent to Camp Mills, N. Y., for the mobilization of the Rainbow (42nd) Division, of which his regiment was part. On October 26th, he was detached from his regiment (now the 165th) and sailed for Liverpool in charge of a detachment of Aviators. Arriving there he was placed in charge of two base hospital units and conducted them to their stations in France. About the middle of November he rejoined his regiment as Adjutant of the Second Battalion in the Gondrecourt training area. In January, 1918, he was appointed Regimental Adjutant and in February went into the trenches near Luneville. From Luneville the regiment went to Baccarat and in addition to his duties as Adjutant Captain McKenna was appointed Personnel Adjutant. The regiment went from Baccarat to the Champagne, north of Chalons-sur-Marne, where on July 15th, 1918, they were part of General Gouraud's army which repulsed the Germans in their last attack of the war. In addition to his other duties, Captain McKenna was directed to assume the duties of Operations Officer of the regiment. The next engagement was an attack at Chateau Thierry in which the River Ourcq was captured. In this battle was killed Captain McKenna's brother James, a Major in the same regiment, commanding the third ("Shamrock") battalion, which was the first to take the river. St. Mihiel was the regiment's next engagement, after which, upon the request of Col. Haskell who had commanded the regiment at the Mexican border, Captain McKenna was ordered to Fourth Army Corps Headquarters to be Assistant G-3 (Operations Section of the General Staff). A short time later he was made Assistant G-1, Second Field Army, and after the armistice he went in the same capacity with the Third Field Army, preceding the Army of Occupation and organizing their sector in Germany. He returned to the United States and was honorably discharged May 1st, 1919.

How It Struck Them

The questionnaire sent to every service man sought information, among other items, about wounds, citations, decorations, etc. Below are some of the less serious replies:

Captain, Infantry: Wounds—"Vanity only." Decorations—"Only the brown derby."

"Next war I'm going to join the Y. M. C. A."

Sergeant, Engineers: Decorations—"None; bunch of humbug."

Chaplain: "I won the war, but please don't publish the fact."

Doughboy: "The transport Teneadores did not sail across; she shimmied."

Chief Boatswain Mate: Wounds—"Feelings and bank balance." Decorations—"Croix de Swab."

S. O. S.: "Participated in the bloody battle of Paris three times. While recuperating, made little ones out of big ones (breaking rocks). Most interesting experience, steaming into New York Harbor."

Ordnance Sergeant: "Most important—Discharged cum laude, 6/12/19."

Land Sailor: "Did everything. Had charge of the brig one time; another day worked in the Record office. Saw mountains of coal and oceans of water. Doing a shore watch or on dock watch with gun in hand, November 11th, 1918."

Buck Private: "Deaf right ear; lame right leg. Otherwise it was a great little war for me."

From a "sea-dog" of '17, who was in the transport service for almost a year: "Just a simple little story of not much service compared with most of the boys of 'mercurial' 1917."

Sergeant, Medical Department, U. S. A.: "In our post-chapel I acted as sexton, altar-boy, organist and choir. In my capacity of soldier I did everything except K. P., and I did it at all hours of the night and day. In the next war, I'll be in the Navy."

Private, first class, Medical Department, U. S. A., ten months in France: "When not in the hospital, performed all duties of a private from guard duty to messenger boy."

Captain, Royal Flying Corps (British): "Canada, one year; Overseas balance of service (15 months). Flew around and admired the way the 'prop' glistened in the sun. Always answered roll-call when the 'Bass' and 'Johnnie Walker' arrived. Incidentally crashed several busses for the King and won the 'Croix de Muffin' at countless Tea Fights." Wounded once. "With the exception of a love for flying and a bum leg on rainy days from a crash, I am the same H. H."

Sergeant of Supplies, Tank Corps: "I was cited as a clever K. P."

Second Lieutenant, Field Artillery: "Did not do anything I wished to do. Seems that the Government wanted you to do the opposite of what you wished most to do."

Doughboy: Wounds—"Cooties, once."

Ditto: Wounds—"To digestion only."

Machinist Mate, second class, U. S. N. R. F.: "Saw nothing but water. An occasional porpoise gave us a submarine scare."

Rank: "Private, with ambition."

Date of Enlistment: "Dies irae."

Date of Discharge: "Dies illa."

Commission (Rank): "2nd 'Loo', ('Shavetail')." "It was 'rank'!"

REV. CHARLES F. CONNOR, S.J.

First Lieutenant

Chaplain, U. S. A.

Clergyman, S.J. St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, Pa. He was commissioned First Lieutenant (Chaplain) on April 1st, 1918, and on April 10th he reported to Camp Jackson, S. C. On July 31st, 1918, he sailed for England, landing at Liverpool and a few days later arriving at Cherbourg, France. He served in the Vosges defensive sector with the 321st Infantry, 81st Division, and later with the 26th Infantry, 1st Division, in the Toul Sector in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. November 11th, 1918, found him in Haudimont, a few miles from Verdun. He accompanied the 26th Infantry, 1st Division, to Germany, traversing most of the territory held by the Army of Occupation. He was honorably discharged September 27th, 1919. He is now Dean and Prefect of Studies at St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia, Pa.

REV. THOMAS J. DELIHANT, S.J.

First Lieutenant

Chaplain, U. S. A.

Clergyman, S.J. 45 Cooper St., Boston, Mass. He entered the service August 23rd, 1918. He served in France from October 30th, 1918, to June, 1919, with the 141st Infantry, joining them back of Verdun. They had just come from the Argonne and were going into the lines at Verdun. They were going forward when the armistice was signed. As part of the 36th Division they marched southwest into the Department of the Aube and wintered there. The 141st Infantry was made up of cowboys from southwestern Texas, Baptists and Methodists, "fine fighters and good fellows." Chaplain Delihant was honorably discharged June 28th, 1919. He is now a member of the Mission Band in the Maryland-New York Province.

REV. EDWARD P. DUFFY, S.J.

Lieutenant, Junior Grade

Chaplain, U. S. N.

Clergyman, S.J. Holy Cross College, Worcester, Mass. He entered the service April 6th, 1918, and was first assigned to the Receiving Ship, Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y. He was then transferred to the U. S. Naval Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., and later to the City Park Barracks, Brooklyn, N. Y. He was Chaplain at the Receiving Ship, Bay Ridge, N. Y., when he was honorably released to inactive duty status September 23rd, 1919. He is now a Professor of Philosophy at Holy Cross College.

REV. JOHN A. COTTER, S.J.

Chaplain, U. S. A.

REV. HUGH A. GAYNOR, S.J.

First Lieutenant

Chaplain, U. S. A.

REV. JAMES I. MOAKLEY, S.J.

First Lieutenant

Chaplain, U. S. A.

REV. DANIEL J. LYNCH, S.J.

First Lieutenant

Chaplain, U. S. A.

Clergyman, S.J. Boston College, Chestnut Hill, Mass. He entered the service April 11th, 1918, and served as Chaplain of the 310th Infantry, 78th Division. They served with the British at Arras and with the A. E. F. on the St. Mihiel front, Limey Sector, St. Juvin Sector and Meuse-Argonne offensive. The casualties in the 310th Regiment numbered about 1900. Chaplain Lynch was known as the "Fighting Chaplain," and was cited once for exceptional bravery. After more than thirteen months' service overseas he was honorably discharged May 29th, 1919. He is now Professor of Physics at Boston College.

This picture of Chaplain Lynch appeared in Leslie's Weekly for February 22nd, 1919, with the accompanying note: "A real front-line chaplain on the job. Lieutenant the Reverend D. J. Lynch, 310th Infantry, on the line between Brignenay and Bouet-Aux-Bois."

JOHN A. FITZGERALD, '97

Purchasing Agent and Salvage Commissioner
K. of C.

Managing Director. Société Internationale de Machines Commerciales, Paris, France. 61 Hamilton St., Ogdensburg, N. Y. From May 15th, 1918, to December 19th, 1919, his duties as head of the Cinema Department, head of the Purchasing Department, and Salvage Commissioner for the Knights of Columbus, took him all over France, Belgium, Italy, Germany and Austria. He was decorated by the French Government with the medal of "Officier de l'Instruction Publique." He returned to this country for a short time in 1919. He was commended again and again for saving thousands of dollars in his work as Salvage Commissioner. He is now in Paris, France.

WILLIAM J. MULLIGAN, '19 (LL.D.)

Chairman

K. of C. War Activities Committee

Lawyer. 163 Pearl St., Thompsonville, Conn. From the very beginning of the war Mr. Mulligan devoted much of his time in behalf of the various Liberty Loan and War Saving Stamps' campaigns, speaking on preparedness at many places in New England. He was Chairman of the Connecticut State K. of C. War Fund which raised $385,000 for the general war fund of the Order, and while the campaign was on for the K. of C. War Fund, he spoke in every state in New England. As Chairman of the Knights of Columbus War Activities Committee he was in France at the beginning of the organization's work and during the war made four trips abroad, returning from his last trip on December 24th, 1919. During his last stay he was in charge of the salvaging and winding up of the Knights of Columbus activities. To facilitate this work he made several airplane trips between Paris and London. In recognition of his war work he was created a Knight of St. Gregory by His Holiness, Pope Benedict XV. He is now engaged in looking after the K. of C. employment bureaus and educational work for ex-service men throughout the United States.

ALBERT J. BARNAUD, '03

U. S. Diplomatic Service

Paris, France

Trade Expert. 1038 Union St., Brooklyn, N. Y. He served in the diplomatic service of the United States in Paris, France, during 1918 and 1919. He was United States delegate on the International Contingent Commission, Paris, 1918, and trade expert with the American Embassy, Paris, 1918. After the armistice he was a member of the American Commission to negotiate peace at Paris, 1918-1919. He is now Secretary of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce, Woolworth Building, New York, N. Y.

JOHN HEARLEY, '11

Diplomatic Service and Government Propaganda

Publicist. Albany, N. Y., and Wardman Park Inn, Washington, D. C. He was correspondent in Rome, Italy, for the United Press Association until January 1st, 1918, when he became an assistant to the American Ambassador at Rome. Afterward he served as Acting Commissioner for Italy of the Committee on Public Information, continuing to serve in this capacity until May 15th, 1919. He is now Foreign Editor of The Herald, published in Washington, D. C.

NEIL BOYTON, S.J., '08

War Orphans' Relief

Scholastic, S.J. Theological Student, Woodstock College, Woodstock, Md. During 1916-1917, he was engaged in relief work with the War Orphans, and teaching in St. Mary's High School, Bombay, India. In the Fall of 1918, he was an instructor in Naval English to the Naval Unit and instructor in War Aims to the Students Army Training Corps, at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C. He travelled about 43,000 miles through Allied territory.

JOHN MCCORMACK, LITT. D., '17

War Work

Tenor Singer. 140 West 5th St., New York, N. Y. He was not a citizen of the United States during the period of the war, but there are few civilians who have received such praise for their patriotism as Mr. McCormack. He volunteered his services constantly and his superb musical gifts enhanced the contributions to Liberty Loans, War Savings Stamps, and other war measures by sums variously estimated from one to four million dollars. His patriotic services were gratefully acknowledged again and again by officials and statesmen, including the President. He became a naturalized citizen of the United States on March 17th, 1920. The testimonial banquet in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City, May 4th, 1920, on the eve of his departure for a year's concert tour in Australia, was attended by one of the most distinguished gatherings ever assembled in the great metropolis and was tendered to Mr. McCormack in recognition of "his patriotic service to the United States, his transcendent ability as an artist and his sterling qualities as a man."

FRANCIS W. POWER, '15

Assistant Chief Chemist

Ordnance Dept., (Civilian), U. S. A.

Novice, S.J. St. Andrew-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. [18 Lowell St., Worcester, Mass.] He was sworn in as assistant chemist at Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J., June 20th, 1917. Then on August 15th, 1917, he was ordered to the Du Pont Carney's Point plant in New Jersey for inspection duty. He was promoted to Assistant Chief Chemist of the inspection laboratory in April, 1918, and held this position for more than thirteen months. Mr. Power had charge of the plant inspection, control (smokeless powder), laboratory inspection and test (smokeless powder, black powder and high explosives); executive and advisory work, analytical research, laboratory management over a force of twelve persons. The Carney's Point Plant was the largest smokeless powder plant actually operating in the United States. He was honorably released from service, June 1st, 1919, and on September 7th, 1919, he entered the novitiate of the Society of Jesus at St. Andrew-on-Hudson, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

REV. JEROME F. MCCARTHY, '15

Reserve Chaplain

Clergyman. St. John's Church, Oswego, N. Y. He was a fourth year theological student at St. Bernard's Seminary, Rochester, N. Y., when he volunteered in the Fall of 1918. He was one of four candidates, whose ordinations were advanced from June, 1919, to December, 1918, for military reasons, and had the war continued he would have been in uniform before the end of 1918. His name is included in the official list of chaplains by Archbishop Hayes of New York, Ordinary of Army and Navy chaplains.

DR. JOSEPH P. MULHERN, '14

Lieutenant, Junior Grade

Medical Reserve Corps, U. S. N.

Physician. 3 Perry Ave., Worcester, Mass. He enlisted December 21st, 1917, as a private in the Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps, U. S. A., and joined the Naval Reserves in August, 1918. He was never called to active duty because the armistice was signed before the completion of his required hospital internship of one year. He was honorably released in November, 1918.

DR. ALFRED S. O'CONNOR, '14

Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 22 Ledge St., Worcester, Mass. He enlisted on December 17th, 1917, while a fourth year medical student at Tufts Medical School and was listed as a doctor in the Medical Reserve Corps. He was given until March 21st, 1919, to get hospital experience, and on that date he was to receive a First Lieutenant's commission and proceed as ordered. However, in view of the signing of the armistice, November 11th, he was honorably discharged December 18th, 1918, without having been called to active service.

DR. JOHN F. ROONEY, '14

Private

Medical Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 11 Euclid Ave., Worcester, Mass. He enlisted January 18th, 1918, and was assigned to Providence Hospital, Washington, D. C., as a Medical Interne. He was honorably discharged January 15th, 1919.

DR. MICHAEL J. O'CONNOR, '15

Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps, U. S. A.

Physician. 55 Ellery St., Providence, R. I. He enlisted December 17th, 1917, and was allowed to continue his medical studies at Harvard Medical School. Two months previous to his discharge he was ordered to Cambridge, Mass., to examine candidates for the S. A. T. C. He was honorably discharged December 13th, 1918.

WILLIAM J. ALLEN, '16

Medical Enlisted Reserve Corps, U. S. A.

Medical Student, Fordham Medical School. 86 Park St., Orange, N. J. He enlisted in the Medical Reserve Corps, U. S. A., January 5th, 1918, but was never called for active duty, being permitted to continue his medical studies. He has not yet received his discharge.

ROBERT F. GRANDFIELD, EX-'19

Hospital Apprentice, First Class

U. S. N. R. F.

Medical Student, Tufts Medical School. 46 Sagamore St., Dorchester, Mass. He enlisted December 12th, 1917, but was not called to active duty. He was honorably discharged January 1st, 1920.

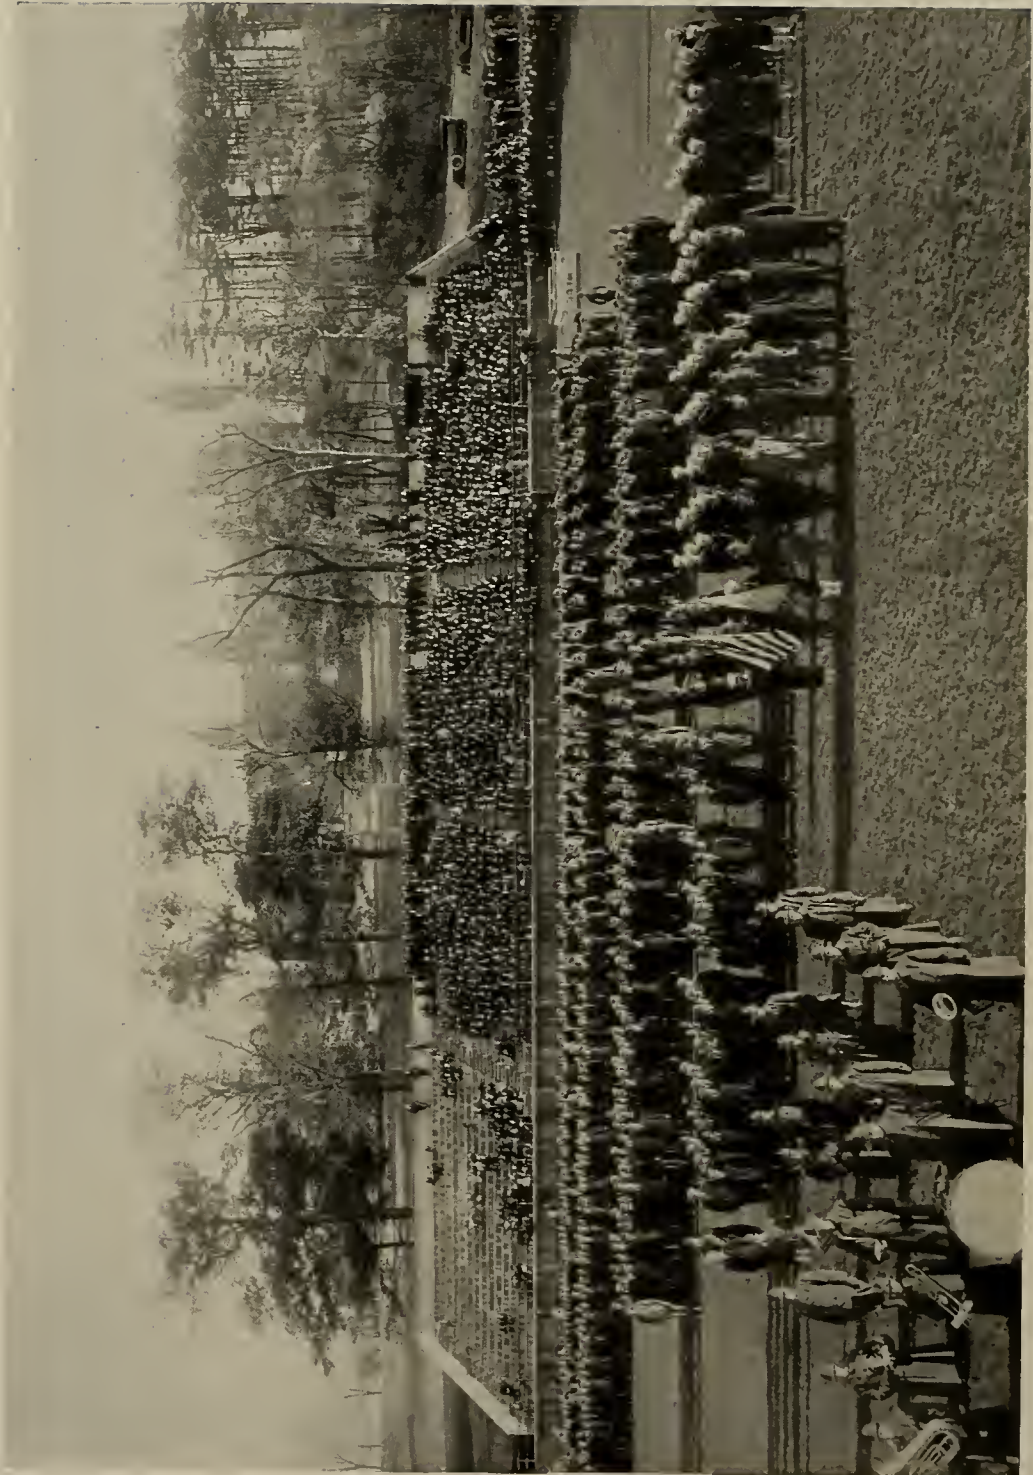

“The defenses of our Commonwealth are not material, but mental and spiritual. Her fortifications, her castles, are her institutions of learning. Those who are admitted to the college campus tread the ramparts of the State. The classic halls are the armories from which are furnished forth the knights in armor to defend and support our liberty. For such high purpose has Holy Cross been called into being. A firm foundation of the Commonwealth. A defender of righteousness. A teacher of holy men. Let her turrets continue to rise, showing forth ‘the way, the truth and the light’—

“ ‘In thoughts sublime that pierce the night like stars,
And with their mild persistence urge man’s arch
To vaster issues’.”

Induction

Students Army Training Corps

HOLY CROSS COLLEGE

OCTOBER 22ND—DECEMBER 17TH, 1918.

IN accordance with the plan of the War Department, August 28th, 1918, a Students Army Training Corps was established at the College of the Holy Cross, Worcester, Massachusetts, on October 22nd, 1918. The purpose of this organization, as announced by the War Department, was to give such military instruction to all college men in the United States as would enable them to enter the Officers' Training Camps to qualify for commissions.

Admission to the S. A. T. C. was confined to students graduated from a standard four-year secondary school or having equivalent educational qualifications. As the courses given in the S. A. T. C. were prescribed by the War Board Committee on Special Training and Instruction and not the usual courses pursued in the College, entrance requirements to the S. A. T. C. were satisfied if the student was a graduate of any standard four-year secondary school. It was announced that this course would not lead to a degree, for "in view of the comparatively short time during which most of the student soldiers will remain in college and the exacting military duties awaiting them, academic instruction must necessarily be modified along lines of direct military value."

Thursday, September 25th, 1918, was registration day and as soon as possible after that date students eighteen years of age and older at the college were to be given the opportunity of voluntary induction into the Students Army Training Corps. The Commanding Officer, Captain John G. Meem, U. S. A., arrived with his staff about October 1st, and the work of examining the candidates began. However, the epidemic of influenza, then prevalent throughout the country, prompted the War Department to order all candidates to their homes. The date set for their induction into the S. A. T. C. was thrice postponed, but finally on Tuesday, October 22nd, 1918, the 636 members of the Students Army Training Corps and 114 members of the Naval Unit swore their allegiance to the Stars and Stripes and were formally inducted into the service of the United States.

The student by voluntary induction into the S. A. T. C. became a soldier in the United States Army, uniformed, subject to military discipline, and with the pay of a private, thirty dollars a month. Officers, uniforms, rifles, and other equipment were supplied by the War Department. In view of the fact that student officers were on active duty status from the time they were inducted, the Government assumed the expense of housing, subsistence, and instruction of the students. They were given military instruction under the officers of the Army and were kept under observation and test to determine their qualifications as officer-candidates and technical experts, such as engineers, chemists and doctors. It was announced that it could not be definitely stated how long a student would remain at the college as "this will depend on the requirements of the mobilization and the age group to which the student belongs."

At the induction exercises on October 22nd, 1918, the Commanding Officer, Captain Meem, after administering the oath, read messages from President Woodrow Wilson, Benedict Crowell, Assistant Secretary of War, and General Peyton T. March, Chief of Staff, and the General Order instituting the Students Army Training Corps. President Carlin, after paying a tribute to Captain Meem and his assistant officers, formally turned over the College to the War Department. Patriotic addresses were made by United States Congressman, from Rhode Island, Ambrose Kennedy, '97, and United States Senator, from Massachusetts, David I. Walsh, '93. The Worcester Telegram, in its account, estimated that 3000 persons were present at the exercises, and continues to state that "it was an historic day for Holy Cross, an inspiring scene to those present, and the manner in which the afternoon's program was greeted by those present must have been a source of intense satisfaction to Fr. Carlin, Capt. Meem and Fr. Earls, under whose direction the exercises were arranged and carried out." Among the distinguished guests on this occasion were the former president of Holy Cross, Rev. Joseph F. Hanselman, S.J., now American Assistant to the Very Reverend General of the Society of Jesus in Rome, Italy, and Rev. Charles W. Lyons, S.J., then president of Boston College.

Upon the minds of students and people was impressed again and again the necessity for our young men to continue their college courses as long as possible. Repeatedly President Wilson, Secretary of War Baker, United States Commissioner of Education Claxton, Government, Army and Navy officials, assured the youth of the nation and particularly high school graduates and young college men that they were serving their country in the best possible way by remaining in school and preparing themselves to serve more efficiently when the time came. The Students Army Training Corps was devised to assist them to remain in college and at the same time to provide the quickest possible route to qualifying for a commission. It was recognized that the desire of these young men to render immediate service was praiseworthy, and that the spirit which prompted it should be encouraged. But it is effective service that finally counts and schools and school officers, teachers and students were constantly urged to keep this goal of effective service in mind.

The S. A. T. C. at Holy Cross College was composed of three companies, A, B, and C, arranged respectively according to age groups, 18, 19 and 20. The instruction was partly military and partly in allied subjects of value as a means of training officers and experts to meet the needs of the service. The average number of hours devoted each week to those subjects was as follows:

1. Military subjects, including practical instruction (drill, etc.), theoretical military instruction, and physical training—11 hours.
2. Allied subjects, including lectures, recitations, laboratory instruction and the necessary instruction therefor—42 hours. It was intended that each hour of lecture or recitation would ordinarily require two hours of supervised study.

The discipline of the college was entirely military and was in charge of officers appointed by the War Department. With the exception of the commandant, these officers were young lieutenants who had been selected from the different colleges and had been put through an intensive training of several weeks at Plattsburg, N. Y. Holy Cross sent sixty-two students to Plattsburg for this training, that is, one for every ten students in the College. Twenty-eight received commissions as lieutenants at the end of the training. This was much more than the average proportion. These young officers were assigned to the different colleges throughout the east. Besides the commandant, Captain Meem, eleven lieutenants, only two of them Holy Cross men, were detailed to discipline and train our 636 members of the S. A. T. C., and an ensign, with two assistants, was detailed to look after the naval unit of 114. This conversion of the College into an army and navy barracks was a notable departure from traditional methods, but faculty and students cheerfully submitted to inconveniences for the cause.

For the faculty, however, the most trying circumstance was the almost complete change of the schedule of studies. Colleges like Holy Cross, which have practically only one course of studies and that the classical, undoubtedly found it more difficult to conform to the war courses insisted upon by the committee on studies appointed by the War Department than did institutions having elective or scientific courses. Yet Holy Cross was complimented by the president of this committee for its generous and complete co-operation with the governmental directors.

But the S. A. T. C. was destined to be short-lived. Not being able to begin until October 22nd on account of the epidemic of influenza, it began to prepare for demobilization soon after the news of victory came on November 11th, 1918. Twenty-nine members of Company C, the twenty-year old group, who had been transferred to Officers' Training Camps, were ordered to return. All were demobilized by December 17th. The last three days were spent in spiritual exercises, directed by the veteran missionary, Rev. William J. Stanton, S.J., and the short-lived S. A. T. C. ended with the impressive ceremonies of a military Mass.

Grateful acknowledgment is made to the Alhambra Council, Knights of Columbus, Worcester, for generous contributions to the Students Army Training Corps and Naval Unit for recreational purposes.

Naval Unit

HOLY CROSS COLLEGE

OCTOBER 22ND—DECEMBER 17TH, 1918.

SOON after the War Department instituted the Students Army Training Corps as a means to secure officers for the expanding needs of the Army, the Navy Department adopted the same scheme but on a smaller scale.

The first naval organization at Holy Cross College was known as the Naval Section of the Students Army Training Corps. It consisted of those students who were inducted into the service for the Navy rather than for the Army. The quota assigned to Holy Cross was limited to sixty, in addition to those former students then in the Naval Reserve who wished to return to college. Fifty-four former students availed themselves of this opportunity; some of them having been in the service for more than a year. For these 114 student sailors all details of finances in regard to pay, subsistence, tuition charges, etc., were approximately the same as for the S. A. T. C.

The purpose of the Naval Section was to train and to select officer material for the Navy; to enable college students to continue their studies while training to qualify for commissions. Ensign Arthur F. Anderson, U. S. N., assisted by Ensign Hugh F. Bond, U. S. N., and Edward J. Gillis, Chief Boatswain Mate, U. S. N., were detailed to discipline and train the 114 members of the Naval Section. On November 21st, 1918, the name of this organization was officially changed to the Naval Unit of Holy Cross College, and Ensign Anderson was given sole command, independent of the authority of the Commandant, S. A. T. C.

The course of studies pursued was similar to the S. A. T. C., and consisted of military instruction (drill, etc.), lectures and recitations in war aims, mathematics (navigation), physics, French and English. The members of the Naval Unit were honorably released from active service simultaneously with the demobilization of the S. A. T. C.

The Civil War

HOLY CROSS College was eighteen years old and had graduated twenty-nine students when the North and South went to war in the spring of 1861. During five of those eighteen years, 1853-1857 inclusive, there were no graduating classes, as the College was burned July 14th, 1852, nine years after its humble beginning in 1843.

The student roster was small, but if we are to judge by achievements they made up in quality what was wanting in quantity. Certain it is that Holy Cross men fought in the ranks of both Blue and Gray and their records are glorious. In recording the deeds of Alma Mater's sons in the War of 1917 it is not inappropriate to recall briefly other sons of Alma Mater and their services in '61. The following extracts are taken from the lengthier accounts in the Holy Cross Purple for June, 1896:

MAJOR GENERAL FRANK C. ARMSTRONG, Ex-'52

MAJOR GENERAL FRANK C. ARMSTRONG, EX-'52, son of Major Frank W. Armstrong of Tennessee, who served under General Andrew Jackson, and was his personal friend, entered Holy Cross College in 1845. He fought against the Indians in Texas in 1854, and from 1854 to 1861 served as Lieutenant, 2nd U. S. Dragoons, in Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and Utah. In 1861 he resigned his commission and joined the Confederate Army. He served first as a volunteer aide-de-camp and, according to the records, "his conduct was ever active and soldierly; a meritorious officer whose value is lost to the service by his not receiving rank more accordant with his worth and experience." Promotion soon came; Lieutenant-Colonel, then Adjutant-General under General McCulloch commanding the Confederate forces in Arkansas; Colonel of 3rd Louisiana Infantry; then in command of cavalry in northern Mississippi and Alabama; Brigadier-General under Van Dorn and later under Forrest in Tennessee, saving the retreat to Chattanooga by prudently rebuilding at Corinth the bridge which the Northern forces had burned. At Chickamauga his brigade dismounted and fought on foot in advance of the infantry. After Chickamauga he moved to East Tennessee with Longstreet, under General Jo Wheeler, being repeatedly praised for gallant and good conduct. When Longstreet fell back to Virginia, Armstrong remained with him until the fall of Atlanta. He went with Hood's army to Tennessee, covering the retreat from Franklin to the Tennessee River, his being the last Confederate brigade to cross the pontoon bridge to the south of the Tennessee River. Hood recommended Armstrong for the post of Major General.

Armstrong now operated in Mississippi with Forrest; but on the surrender of Generals Lee and Johnston, Forrest's command was surrendered by General Taylor to General Canby. After the war General Armstrong was engaged for some time in overland mail service in Texas, Kansas and Indian Territory. In President Cleveland's first administration, he was United States Indian Inspector; later, he was appointed Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs, being recognized as the best informed man on Indian matters in the public service. He died September 8th, 1909.

REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD WORSAM MEADE, U. S. N., EX-'53, entered Holy Cross College from New York City in 1846. In 1850 he entered the United States Navy from California, his being the first Federal appointment from that state. His notable record of service for forty-five years is a glorious page in the annals of the United States Navy. We can only touch on some of his more distinguished achievements.

In 1862, Lieutenant-Commander Meade, when not twenty-five years of age, commanded the iron-clad Louisville on the Mississippi River under Rear Admiral Porter, and was repeatedly thanked by the Admiral for excellent service. Disabled off Island No. 10, he was sent East on crutches to a hospital. In 1863, having recovered his health, he commanded the steamer United States in chase of the rebel privateer Tacony. He fitted out the United States in twelve hours after getting on board. In a cruise of fifteen days he boarded and overhauled twenty-seven vessels and captured one British vessel as a prize. In July, 1863, Meade commanded the Naval Battalion during the draft riot in New York City. With his small force of 250 sailors and marines and three twelve-pounder guns he protected the entire lower part of the city as far as Chambers Street—the banks, sub-treasury, custom house and military arsenal of stores in Worth Street.

In September, 1863, he commanded the little gunboat Marblehead, six guns and seventy-five men. On December 25th, 1863, while on picket duty on the Stono River, near Charleston, S. C., he fought the battle of Legareville against tremendous odds (nearly ten to one); routing the enemy, who fled from his earth works and abandoned two eight-inch guns which Meade captured by a boat expedition and brought away. he was thanked by the Division Commander for bravery and skill under hot fire, and by the Admiral (Dahlgren) in a general order read on every quarter deck in the fleet of over seventy vessels. He was recommended by the Admiral for promotion for "gallant conduct in face of the enemy." Four Medals of Honor for valor were given by the Navy Department, for this action, to the crew of the Marblehead. As Captain Meade was a "regular" officer the law did not allow him to receive a medal. But on his return North President Lincoln personally thanked him in the presence of Assistant Secretary Fox for his conduct on the Stono River.

From May, 1864, to May, 1865, he commanded the gunboat Chocura in Admiral Farragut's fleet, and during this time captured or destroyed eight blockade runners, six of them under the British flag. Before he reached the age of thirty, Meade had successfully commanded eight vessels of the United States Navy.

In 1868-9 he commanded the Saginaw in Alaska waters and subdued the Kake tribe of Indian savages. On August 8th, 1870, he sailed the yacht America, belonging to the Naval Academy, against the British yacht Cambria, in New York harbor, winning by four miles in a race of forty miles. In 1871-2-3 he commanded the Narragansett in the Pacific Ocean and made one of the longest sea cruises in the records of the U. S. Navy, sailing 60,000 miles and being 431 days at sea. President Grant recommended the ratification of the first Samoan treaty, negotiated in 1872 by Meade "with great judgment and skill," but it was not done.

From 1879 to 1882, while commanding the Vandalia in the West Indies, he was entrusted with most delicate and difficult diplomatic service in reference to the Panama Canal proposed by M. De Lesseps. As president of a board to take account of naval stores and stock, Meade submitted a report on September 15th, 1886, in consequence of which Secretary Whitney issued his celebrated order No. 355 of December 1st, 1886, which completely revolutionized the entire business methods of the Navy and made it possible to find out the cost of ships and work. As commander of the Washington Navy Yard Meade built the new gun shops, making possible economy in transportation and speed in building high power cannon of American steel.

He was Naval Member of the Government Board with the Columbian Exposition from 1890 to 1893. On August 4th, 1894, he hoisted his flag as Rear-Admiral on the armored cruiser New York and commanded the North Atlantic fleet until May 5th, 1895, when he voluntarily gave up his command and applied to be retired May 20th, 1895, under Section 1443, Revised Statutes of the United States. The gratitude of the United States for the manifold services Admiral Meade rendered to his country was expressed in Joint Resolution, 54th Congress, 1st Session, House Resolution 78, January 13th, 1896: "Tendering the thanks of Congress to Rear Admiral Richard Worsam Meade on the completion of forty-five years of brilliant service to the Republic."

MAJOR HENRY F. BROWNSON, '52, son of the celebrated Orestes A. Brownson, entered Holy Cross College from Canton, Mass., in 1844, and was graduated in 1852. He was admitted to the bar at the general term of the Supreme Court, New York, in 1856. In June, 1861, he entered the regular army as an officer of the 3rd Artillery; he was Second Lieutenant in 1861; First Lieutenant in 1862; Assistant Adjutant General of volunteers, April 3rd, 1863; Brevet Captain, July, 1862; Major, May 3rd, 1863. He was made Brevet Captain in July, 1862, for gallant and meritorious service at the battle of Malvern Hill, Va., where he was severely wounded. On May 3rd, 1863, he was appointed Major for his gallant and meritorious service at the battle of Chancellorsville. After the war Major Brownson was employed in the reconstruction of Georgia and Virginia. In January, 1871, he resigned his commission in the army and made his home at Detroit, Mich., where he practised law until 1885. After 1885 he was engaged exclusively in literary pursuits, publishing a complete series (20 volumes) of the works of his father; a life of O. A. Brownson in three volumes, and numerous pamphlets and translations from the Spanish and Italian. He died in Detroit on December 19th, 1913.

BRIGADIER GENERAL MICHAEL T. DONOHOE, EX-'58, entered Holy Cross College from Lowell, Mass., in September, 1851. In the beginning of the Civil War he enlisted in Company C, 3rd New Hampshire Infantry, of which he was elected Captain. With his regiment he participated in the early battles of the war, and won rapid promotion by conspicuous gallantry on the field. He took part in Sherman's expedition to South Carolina and was honorably mentioned for his services. On June 6th, 1862, he returned to New Hampshire, where he raised a regiment (10th Regiment of New Hampshire Volunteers), of which he was appointed Colonel. His regiment joined the 9th Corps and served until March, 1863, participating in the battle of Fredericksburg. They were ordered to the 18th Corps and while at Fort Harrison, September 29th, 1864, Colonel Donohoe had a horse shot under him and later on the same day he received a gunshot wound in the right hip. He was specially mentioned in general orders for gallant conduct on the field, and was brevetted Brigadier General for his bravery. He remained with the Army of the Potomac until Lee's surrender.

Returning to New Hampshire, he was twice nominated by the Democratic party for Railroad Commissioner, at that time the second place on the ticket. He was twice nominated by the Democrats for the Office of Secretary of State. He served on the personal staff of Governor W. E. Russell, as aide-de-camp, during 1891, 1892 and 1893. For eight years he was Secretary of the Commissioners of Public Institutions; a few months before his death he was promoted to the superintendency of the Reformatory for Boys at Rainsford Island, Boston Harbor. It was here that General Donohoe died May 26th, 1895.

COLONEL FRANCIS A. LANCASTER, Ex-'58, entered Holy Cross College from Philadelphia, Pa., in September, 1851. When the college was burned he went to Georgetown University, where he was graduated. No sooner had war broken out than he raised an artillery company, called the Commonwealth Artillery of Philadelphia, and was its Captain during three months' service. He afterwards became Major of the 115th Pennsylvania Volunteers; he was severely wounded in the second battle of Bull Run; later he was promoted for bravery to the colonelcy of the regiment.

At the storming of Madee's Heights, Chancellorsville, May 3rd, 1863, the 115th

Pennsylvania Volunteers, an Irish regiment, were drawn up in line of battle in front of a breastwork which they held. From this they were driven at last by the Confederates at the point of the bayonet. The captors used it as a shelter and opened a destructive fire on the Federal troops. In the retreat Colonel Lancaster was in the rear in the center of his regiment, and while calmly issuing orders to his men was pierced in the forehead by a chance bullet.

Just before the beginning of his last battle Colonel Lancaster left his regiment to visit the adjoining camp of a brigade whose chaplain was Rev. Joseph O'Hagan, S.J., afterwards President of Holy Cross, who now lies buried in the College cemetery.

BRIGADIER GENERAL PATRICK R. GUINEY, EX-'61, born in Parkstown, Tipperary, Ireland, entered Holy Cross College from Maine in 1854. Leaving before graduation he returned to Portland, Maine, where he began the study of law and was soon admitted to the bar of that state. By 1859 he had made his home in Roxbury, Mass. When the war broke out he enlisted as a private, but Governor Andrew sent him out as a lieutenant with the infantry regiment organized as the Ninth Massachusetts, but recruited as the Thirteenth. Rising from grade to grade, he became intimately associated with this Irish-American regiment, which he led to battle more than thirty times, and which, by his unique dual service as colonel and color-bearer, he spurred to its most heroic achievement at Gaines Mills. During 1864 he was often called upon to command the Second Brigade, Fifth Corps, to which the Ninth Massachusetts Volunteers belonged; and in May of that year, at the Wilderness, he received, full in the forehead, the terrible wound, thought fatal at the time, which eventually killed him. A month later his term of service in the army expired, while he was still lying unconscious in the hospital, between life and death, saved by his own single and indomitable pluck in insisting upon an operation. His promotion to the Brevet Brigadier Generalship "for gallant and meritorious conduct in the field," was given with the proud endorsement of Charles Sumner, of Adjutant-General Schouler, and of others as famous and as beloved.

After the war he served as Assistant District Attorney, and as expert counsel in many celebrated cases, retaining his interest in the militia and his membership in the Loyal Legion. In November, 1874, he was nominated for Register of Probate and Insolvency for Suffolk County, and still held this office by re-nomination when he died March 21st, 1877.

REAR ADMIRAL JACKSON McELMELL, EX-'56, A.M. '96, entered Holy Cross College from Philadelphia, Pa., in September, 1849. He was appointed third assistant engineer in the navy, from Pennsylvania, on August 2nd, 1855. He was attached to the coast survey steamer Hetzel in 1856, and later transferred to the United States frigate Niagara, which sailed on the famous Atlantic cable expedition in 1857-58. It was in the latter period that he was promoted to second assistant engineer and detailed to the steamer Memphis, which accompanied the Brazil squadron on the Paraguay expedition in 1858-59.

Before the opening of the Civil War, Mr. McElmell was promoted to first assistant engineer, and was assigned to duty on the steamer Powhatan, which was attached to the West Gulf squadron in 1860-61, and later served in the North Carolina blockade and the engagement at Vicksburg, June 28th, 1862. On February 2nd of this year he was appointed chief engineer. He served in the battle of Mobile Bay, August 5th, 1864, and when the war closed was assigned to special duty at the League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia, Pa., where he remained until 1868. In 1869, however, he was ordered to the sloop-of-war Plymouth, which made a three years' cruise with the European squadron. From 1872 to 1875 he was on special duty at Chester, Pa.; from 1875 to 1882 at League Island; on board the U. S. S. Tennessee, as fleet engineer of the North Atlantic squadron, until December 3rd, 1884, when he was transferred to the U. S. flagship Richmond. On December 5th, 1887, he was ordered to Philadelphia as president of the Naval Examining Board of Engineers. He served in this capacity until June 4th, 1896, when by reason of his having reached the age limit of sixty-two years, he was placed on the retired list of officers of the Navy with the relative rank of commodore.

In 1906, by a special act of Congress, he was made Rear Admiral. He was a member of the American Historical Society and of the Legion of Honor. He died in Philadelphia, May 31st, 1908.

Statistics

WAR OF 1917

The Roll of Honor contains 960 names. Every record that could be obtained is included in the preceding pages. All figures are based on the Roll of Honor and the records obtained.

In the division according to classes, for the sake of convenience, we have grouped graduates and former students in each class.

Students who left to enter the service, returning later to college, have been listed with the class they rejoined and not with their original class. Thus, there are at least ten members of the present Senior Class, 1920, who were formerly members of the Class of 1918.

Service men, entering Holy Cross for the first time after the war, are not included.

The figures for "Wounded in Action" represent men wounded and not the number of wounds.

The figures for "Citations and Decorations" represent the number of citations and decorations. Some men were cited and decorated more than once.

"Candidate" means a soldier or sailor who was in an Officers' Training School preparing for a commission.

Of the 636 inducted into the Students Army Training Corps, 256 were in College on March 22nd, 1919. 380 left College.

Of the 114 in the Naval Unit, 60 were in College on March 22nd, 1919. 54 left College.
