shall cease to have effect, except for the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which this section does not apply; and, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, compensation in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which this section applies shall be assessed in accordance with the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (in this Act referred to as “the Act of 1919”).

(2) This section applies to every compulsory acquisition of an interest in land in pursuance of a notice to treat served after the twenty-ninth day of October, nineteen hundred and fifty-eight.

(3) In the application of this section to Scotland—

(a) for references to the Act of 1947 and to section fifty-one of that Act there shall be substituted references respectively to the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act, 1947 (in this Act referred to as “the Scottish Act of 1947”) and to section forty-eight of that Act; and

(b) for references to the Act of 1954 and to Part III of that Act there shall be substituted references respectively to the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act, 1954 (in this Act referred to as “the Scottish Act of 1954”) and to sections thirty-two to thirty-eight of that Act.

Assumptions as
permission.

2.—(1) For the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of any compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, such one or more of the assumptions mentioned in sections three and four of this Act as are applicable to the relevant land or any part thereof shall be made in ascertaining the value of the relevant interest.

(2) Any planning permission which, in accordance with any of the provisions of those sections, is to be assumed as therein mentioned is in addition to any planning permission which may already be in force at the date of service of the notice to treat.

(3) Nothing in those provisions shall be construed as requiring it to be assumed that planning permission would necessarily be refused for any development, notwithstanding that it is not development for which in accordance with those provisions the granting of planning permission is to be assumed; but, in determining whether planning permission for any development could in any particular circumstances reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of any land, regard shall be had to any contrary opinion expressed in relation to that land in any certificate issued under the following provisions of this Part of this Act.

(4) For the purposes of any reference in this section, or in section three of this Act, to planning permission which is in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, it is immaterial whether the planning permission in question was granted—

- (a) unconditionally or subject to conditions, or
- (b) in respect of the land in question taken by itself or in respect of an area including that land, or
- (c) on an ordinary application or on an outline application or by virtue of a development order, or is planning permission which, in accordance with any direction or provision given or made by or under any enactment, is deemed to have been granted.

3.—(1) In a case where—

- (a) the relevant interest is to be acquired for purposes which involve the carrying out of proposals of the acquiring authority for development of the relevant land or part thereof, and

Assumptions
not directly derived from
plans.

(b) on the date of service of the notice to treat there is not in force planning permission for that development, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, such as would permit development thereof in accordance with the proposals of the acquiring authority.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (b) of the preceding subsection, no account shall be taken of any planning permission so granted as not to enure (while the permission remains in force) for the benefit of the land and of all persons for the time being interested therein.

(3) Subject to the next following subsection, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947 (which relates to development included in the existing use of land).

(4) Notwithstanding anything in the last preceding subsection—

- (a) it shall not by virtue of that subsection be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in Part II of the said Third Schedule, if it is development for which planning permission was refused at any time before the date of service of the notice to treat and compensation under section twenty of the Act of 1947 became payable in respect of that refusal;

PART I
—cont.

- (b) where, at any time before the said date, planning permission was granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in Part II of the said Third Schedule, but was so granted subject to conditions, and compensation under section twenty of the Act of 1947 became payable in respect of the imposition of the conditions, it shall not by virtue of the last preceding subsection be assumed that planning permission for that development, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, would be granted otherwise than subject to those conditions ;
- (c) where, at any time before the said date, an order was made under section twenty-six of the Act of 1947, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, requiring the removal of any building or the discontinuance of any use, and compensation became payable in respect of that order under section twenty-seven of that Act, it shall not by virtue of the last preceding subsection be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for the rebuilding of that building or the resumption of that use.

(5) Where a certificate is issued under the following provisions of this Part of this Act, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in relation thereto in that certificate as being development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted :

Provided that if, in any such certificate, it is indicated that, in the opinion of the authority issuing the certificate, any such planning permission would only have been granted—

- (a) subject to conditions specified in the certificate, or
- (b) at a future time so specified, or
- (c) both subject to conditions so specified and at a future time so specified,

the assumption shall be that planning permission for development of that class would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, but would only be granted subject to those conditions, or at that future time, or both subject to those conditions and at that future time, as the case may be.

(6) In the application of this section to Scotland, for references to the Act of 1947, and to sections twenty, twenty-six and twenty-seven of that Act, there shall be substituted references respectively to the Scottish Act of 1947 and to sections eighteen, twenty-four and twenty-five of that Act.

PART I
—cont.

Special assumptions in respect of certain land comprised in development plans.

4.—(1) If the relevant land or any part thereof (not being land subject to comprehensive development) consists or forms part of a site defined in the current development plan as the site of proposed development of a description specified in relation thereto in the plan, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted for that development.

(2) If the relevant land or any part thereof (not being land subject to comprehensive development) consists or forms part of an area shown in the current development plan as an area allocated primarily for a use specified in the plan in relation to that area, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for any development which—

- (a) is development for the purposes of that use of the relevant land or that part thereof, and
- (b) is development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be.

(3) If the relevant land or any part thereof (not being land subject to comprehensive development) consists or forms part of an area shown in the current development plan as an area allocated primarily for a range of two or more uses specified in the plan in relation to the whole of that area, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for any development which—

- (a) is development for the purposes of a use of the relevant land or that part thereof, being a use falling within that range of uses, and
- (b) is development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be.

(4) If the relevant land or any part thereof is land subject to comprehensive development, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for any development for the purposes of a use of the relevant land or that part thereof falling within the planned range of uses (whether it is the use which, in accordance with the particulars and proposals comprised in the current development plan in relation to the area in question, is indicated in the plan as the proposed use of the relevant land or that part thereof, or is any other use falling within the planned range of uses) being development for which, in the circumstances specified in the next following subsection, planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be.

(5) The circumstances referred to in the last preceding subsection are those which would have existed if—

- (a) the area in question had not been defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development, and no particulars or proposals relating to any land in that area had been comprised in the plan, and
- (b) in a case where, on the date of service of the notice to treat, land in that area has already been developed in the course of the development or redevelopment of the area in accordance with the plan, no land in that area had been so developed on or before that date ;

and in that subsection “the planned range of uses” means the range of uses which, in accordance with the particulars and proposals comprised in the current development plan in relation to the area in question, are indicated in the plan as proposed uses of land in that area.

(6) Where in accordance with any of the preceding subsections it is to be assumed that planning permission would be granted as therein mentioned—

- (a) the assumption shall be that planning permission would be so granted subject to such conditions (if any) as, in the circumstances mentioned in the subsection in question, might reasonably be expected to be imposed by the authority granting the permission, and
- (b) if, in accordance with any map or statement comprised in the current development plan, it is indicated that any such planning permission would be granted only at a future time, then (without prejudice to the preceding paragraph) the assumption shall be that the planning permission in question would be granted at the time when, in accordance with the indications in the plan, that permission might reasonably be expected to be granted.

(7) Any reference in this section to development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted is a reference to development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted if no part of the relevant land were proposed to be acquired by any authority to whom the Act of 1919 applies.

(8) In this section “the current development plan”, in relation to any land, means a development plan comprising that land, in the form in which (whether as originally approved or made by the Minister or as for the time being amended) that plan is in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, and "land subject to comprehensive development" means land which, on the date of service of the notice to treat, consists or forms part of an area defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development.

—cont.

5.—(1) Where an interest in land is proposed to be acquired by a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers, and that land or part thereof does not consist or form part of— Certification of appropriate alternative development.

- (a) an area defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development, or
- (b) an area shown in the current development plan as an area allocated primarily for a use which is of a residential, commercial or industrial character, or for a range of two or more uses any of which is of such a character, then, subject to the next following subsection, either of the parties directly concerned may apply to the local planning authority for a certificate under this section.

(2) If, in the case of an interest in land falling within the preceding subsection, the authority proposing to acquire it have served a notice to treat in respect thereof, or an agreement has been made for the sale thereof to that authority, and a reference has been made to the Lands Tribunal to determine the amount of the compensation payable in respect of that interest, no application for a certificate under this section shall be made by one of the parties directly concerned after the date of that reference except either—

- (a) with the consent in writing of the other of those parties, or
- (b) with the leave of the Lands Tribunal.

(3) An application for a certificate under this section made by one of the parties directly concerned—

- (a) shall specify one or more classes of development appearing to the applicant to be classes of development which would in the relevant circumstances be appropriate for the land in question, and
- (b) shall be accompanied by a statement specifying the date on which a copy of the application has been or will be served upon the other of those parties.

(4) Where an application is made to a local planning authority for a certificate under this section in respect of an interest in land, the local planning authority shall, not earlier than twenty-one days after the date specified in the statement accompanying the application in accordance with paragraph (b) of the last preceding subsection, issue to the applicant a certificate stating either—

(a) that, in the opinion of the local planning authority, planning permission for development of one or more classes specified in the certificate (whether being classes of development specified in the application or not) might, in the relevant circumstances, reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the land in question, or

(b) that, in the opinion of the local planning authority, planning permission could not, in the relevant circumstances, reasonably have been expected to be granted for any development of the land in question, other than the development (if any) which is proposed to be carried out by the authority by whom the interest is proposed to be acquired.

(5) Where, in the opinion of the local planning authority, planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted as mentioned in paragraph (a) of the last preceding subsection, but would only have been granted subject to conditions, or at a future time, or both subject to conditions and at a future time, the certificate shall specify those conditions, or that future time, or both of them, as the case may be, in addition to the other matters required to be contained in the certificate.

(6) For the purposes of the last preceding subsection, a local planning authority may formulate general requirements applicable to such classes of cases as may be described therein; and any conditions required to be specified in a certificate in accordance with that subsection may, if it appears to the local planning authority to be convenient to do so, be specified by reference to those requirements, subject to such special modifications thereof (if any) as may be set out in the certificate.

(7) In determining, for the purposes of the issue of a certificate under this section, whether planning permission for any particular class of development might, in the relevant circumstances, reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of any land, the local planning authority shall not treat development of that class as development for which planning permission would have been refused by reason only that it would have involved development of the land in question (or of that land together with other land) otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the development plan relating thereto.

(8) Where an application for a certificate under this section relates to land of which part (but not the whole) consists or forms part of such an area as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, any certificate issued under this section in pursuance of that application shall be limited to so much of that land as does not fall within any such area.

(9) On issuing to one of the parties directly concerned a certificate under this section in respect of an interest in land, the local planning authority shall serve a copy of the certificate on the other of those parties.

PART I
—cont.

(10) In this section “in the relevant circumstances”, in relation to an application for a certificate, means if the land to which the application relates were not proposed to be acquired by any authority to whom the Act of 1919 applies; and in this and the three next following sections “the parties directly concerned”, in relation to an interest in land, means the person entitled to the interest and the authority by whom it is proposed to be acquired.

6.—(1) Where the local planning authority have issued a certificate under the last preceding section in respect of an interest in land,—

Appeals

under s. 5.

- (a) the person for the time being entitled to that interest, or
- (b) any public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers by whom that interest is proposed to be acquired, may appeal to the Minister against that certificate.

(2) On any appeal under this section against a certificate the Minister shall consider the matters to which the certificate relates, as if the application for a certificate under the last preceding section had been made to him in the first instance, and shall either confirm the certificate, or vary it, or cancel it and issue a different certificate in its place, as he may consider appropriate:

Provided that before determining any such appeal the Minister shall, if any such person or authority as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of the preceding subsection so desires, afford to each such person or authority and to the local planning authority an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose.

(3) Where an application is made for a certificate under the last preceding section, and at the expiry of the time prescribed for the issue thereof (or, if an extended period is at any time agreed upon in writing by the parties directly concerned and the local planning authority, at the end of that period) no certificate has been issued by the local planning authority in accordance with that section, the preceding provisions of this section shall apply as if the local planning authority had issued such a certificate containing such a statement as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of the last preceding section.

7.—(1) Where an interest in land is proposed to be acquired in the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1) of section five of this Act, and, by reason that the person entitled to the interest is absent from the United Kingdom or cannot be found, the compensation payable in respect of the interest falls to be determined by the valuation of a surveyor under section fifty-eight of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, or, in Scotland, of a valuator under section fifty-six of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845, the surveyor or valuator, before carrying out his valuation, may apply to the local planning authority for a certificate under the said section five; and the provisions of sections five and six of this Act shall apply in relation to an application made by virtue of this subsection as they apply in relation to an application made by virtue of subsection (1) of the said section five.

(2) Where, in pursuance of an application made by virtue of the preceding subsection, the local planning authority issue a certificate to the surveyor or valuator, the authority shall serve copies of the certificate on both the parties directly concerned.

(3) Where an interest in land in Scotland is proposed to be acquired in the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1) of section five of this Act, and that interest is the dominium utile of the land, an application to the local planning authority for a certificate under that section may be made by any person entitled to any feu duty or ground annual or other annual or recurring payment or incumbrance out of the land (not being stipend or standard charge in lieu of stipend) in the like circumstances and in the like manner as such an application may be made by the person entitled to the interest.

(4) Where, in pursuance of an application made by virtue of the last preceding subsection, the local planning authority issue a certificate to the applicant, the authority shall serve copies of the certificate on both the parties directly concerned.

(5) An application for a certificate made by virtue of subsection (1) or subsection (3) of this section shall specify the matters referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of the said section five, and shall be accompanied by a statement specifying the date on which a copy of the application has been or will be served on each of the parties directly concerned; and, in relation to such an application, subsection (4) of the said section five shall have effect with the substitution, for the reference to the date specified in the statement accompanying the application in accordance with paragraph (b) of the said subsection (3), of a reference to the date specified in the statement accompanying the application in accordance with this subsection, or, where more than one date is so specified, the later of those dates.

(6) Where a certificate has been issued in pursuance of an application made by virtue of subsection (3) of this section, or in a case where an application for a certificate could have been made thereunder, the provisions of section six of this Act shall apply as if any reference to the person entitled to the interest in question, or to the parties directly concerned, included a reference to the person who made or could have made that application, as the case may be.

PART I

8.—(1) Without prejudice to any other matters for which provision may be made by development orders, provision may be made by a development order for regulating the manner in which applications under section five or section seven of this Act, and appeals under section six of this Act, are to be made and dealt with respectively, and in particular—

Supplementary provisions as to certification of appropriate alternative development.

- (a) for prescribing (subject to the provisions of subsection (4) of section five of this Act) the time within which a certificate is required to be issued under the said section five ;
- (b) for prescribing the manner in which notices of appeals under section six of this Act are to be given, and the time for giving any such notice ;
- (c) for requiring local planning authorities to furnish the Minister, and such other persons (if any) as may be prescribed by or under the order, with such information as may be so prescribed with respect to applications under section five or section seven of this Act, including information whether any such application has been made in respect of any particular land and information as to the manner in which any such application has been dealt with, together, in such cases as may be so prescribed, with copies of certificates issued under the said section five ;
- (d) for requiring a local planning authority, on issuing a certificate specifying conditions by reference to general requirements in accordance with subsection (6) of the said section five, to supply a copy of those requirements (or of so much thereof as is relevant to the certificate) with each copy of the certificate, unless, before the certificate is issued, the requirements in question have been made available to the public in such manner as may be specified in the development order.

(2) For the purposes of sections five and six of this Act, an interest in land shall be taken to be an interest proposed to be acquired by a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers in the following (but no other) circumstances, that is to say,—

- (a) where, for the purposes of a compulsory acquisition by that authority of land consisting of or including the land in which that interest subsists, a notice required to be published or served in connection with that acquisition, either by an Act or by any Standing Order of either House of Parliament relating to petitions for private bills, has been published or served in accordance with that Act or Order; or

- (b) where a notice requiring the purchase of that interest has been served under any enactment (including any enactment contained in this Act) and in accordance with that enactment that authority are to be deemed to have served a notice to treat in respect of that interest; or
- (c) where an offer in writing has been made by or on behalf of that authority to negotiate for the purchase of that interest.

(3) For the purpose of determining whether an application can be made at any time in relation to any land under subsection (1) of section five or under section seven of this Act, any reference in the said subsection (1) to the current development plan shall be construed as a reference to a development plan comprising that land, in the form in which (whether as originally approved or made by the Minister or as for the time being amended) that plan is in force at that time:

Provided that in any case where—

- (a) the interest in land in question is to be acquired in the circumstances mentioned in paragraph (b) of the last preceding subsection, or
- (b) the acquiring authority (otherwise than in those circumstances) have served a notice to treat in respect of that interest, or
- (c) the acquiring authority have entered into a contract for the purchase of that interest, any such reference shall be construed as a reference to a development plan comprising that land, in the form in which (whether as originally approved or made by the Minister or as for the time being amended) that plan was in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, or on the date of the contract, as the case may be, or, in a case where both dates are applicable, on the later of those dates.

(4) In the application of this section to Scotland, subsection (1) shall have effect as if after the words “to be made and dealt with respectively” there were inserted the words “and other procedural matters ancillary to such applications and appeals”, and as if there were added at the end thereof the following paragraphs, that is to say—

- “(e) for requiring a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers who—
 - (i) propose to acquire the dominium utile of any land (where the land or part thereof does not consist or form part of any such area as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of section five of this Act), and

(ii) also propose to require the discharge of the land from any feu-duty or other incumbrance such as is mentioned in subsection (3) of section seven of this Act, to serve, at such time as may be specified in the order, notice of the proposals on the person entitled to the feu-duty or other incumbrance ;

- (f) for requiring a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers, when serving a notice to treat in relation to, or purchasing, the dominium utile of any land (where the land or part thereof does not consist or form part of any such area as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of section five of this Act) to give notice of the fact that they have done so to such persons as may be prescribed in the order, being persons who might be entitled to apply under subsection (3) of section seven of this Act for a certificate relating to the land.”

9.—(1) In addition to the rules applicable in accordance with section two of the Act of 1919 (which prescribes rules for the assessment of compensation), the following provisions of this section shall have effect for the purpose of assessing the compensation payable in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which section one of this Act applies : Modification of rules for assessment of compensation.

Provided that, in cases falling within Part I of the First Schedule to this Act, those provisions shall have effect subject to the provisions of that Part of that Schedule.

(2) In each of the cases mentioned in the first column of the following table, no account shall be taken of any increase or diminution of the value of the relevant interest which is attributable—

- (a) to the carrying out of any such development as is mentioned in relation thereto in the second column of that table, or
- (b) to the prospect that any such development will or may be carried out, in so far as any such development (whether actual or prospective) is or would be development arising from the circumstances of that case.

TABLE

Case	Development
1. In the case of every acquisition for purposes involving development of any of the land authorised to be acquired.	Development of any of the land authorised to be acquired, other than the relevant land, being development for any of the purposes for which any part of the first-mentioned land (including any part of the relevant land) is to be acquired.
2. Where any of the relevant land forms part of an area defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development.	Development of any land in that area, other than the relevant land, in the course of the development or redevelopment of the area in accordance with the plan.
3. Where on the date of service of the notice to treat any of the relevant land forms part of an area designated as the site of a new town by an order under the New Towns Act, 1946.	Development of any land in that area, other than the relevant land, in the course of the development of that area as a new town.
4. Where any of the relevant land forms part of an area defined in the current development plan as an area of town development.	Development of any land in that area, other than the relevant land, in the course of town development within the meaning of the Town Development Act, 1952.
5. Where any of the relevant land forms part of an area to which a town development scheme under Part II of the Housing and Town Development (Scotland) Act, 1957, relates, being a scheme which is in operation on the date of service of the notice to treat.	Development of any land in that area, other than the relevant land, in the course of the execution of the scheme.

(3) The provisions of the next following subsection shall have effect where, on the date of service of the notice to treat, the person entitled to the relevant interest is also entitled in the same capacity to an interest in other land contiguous or adjacent to the relevant land (in this and the next following subsection referred to as "the interest in adjacent land"), and in any of the cases mentioned in the first column of the table set out in the last preceding subsection there is an increase in the value of the interest in adjacent land which is attributable—

- (a) to the carrying out of any such development as is mentioned in relation to that case in the second column of that table, or
- (b) to the prospect that there will or may be carried out any such development as is mentioned in relation to that case in the second column of that table (modified, for the purposes of this paragraph, by the omission of the words “other than the relevant land” wherever those words occur), in so far as any such development (whether actual or prospective) is or would be development arising from the circumstances of that case.

(4) Where the last preceding subsection applies, the increase in the value of the interest in adjacent land shall be taken into account, and the amount thereof shall be deducted from the amount of the compensation which apart from this subsection would be payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition.

(5) The provisions of Part II of the First Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to paragraph 3 of the said table.

(6) No account shall be taken of any depreciation of the value of the relevant interest which is attributable to the fact that (whether by way of designation, allocation or other particulars contained in the current development plan, or by any other means) an indication has been given that the relevant land is, or is likely, to be acquired by an authority to whom the Act of 1919 applies.

(7) Any reference in this section to development (whether actual or prospective) which is or would be development arising from the circumstances of a case mentioned in the first column of the table set out in subsection (2) of this section—

- (a) in relation to any acquisition for purposes involving development of any of the land authorised to be acquired, shall (subject to the next following paragraph) be construed as a reference to development (whether actual or prospective) which would not have been likely to be carried out if the acquiring authority had not acquired, and did not propose to acquire, any of that land, and
- (b) in relation to any acquisition falling within one or more of paragraphs 2 to 5 in the said first column, shall be construed as including (or, if the acquisition is not for purposes involving development of any of the land authorised to be acquired, shall be construed as) a reference to any development (whether actual or prospective) which would not have been likely to be carried out if the area or areas referred to in that paragraph or those paragraphs had not been defined or designated as therein mentioned or (in a case falling within paragraph 5) if the scheme therein mentioned had not come into operation.

(8) In this section “the current development plan” has the same meaning as in section four of this Act, and “the land authorised to be acquired”, in relation to the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land in pursuance of a notice to treat,—

- (a) where the compulsory acquisition was authorised by a compulsory purchase order or a special enactment, means the aggregate of the land comprised in that authorisation, and
- (b) where the compulsory acquisition does not fall within the preceding paragraph, but is effected under powers exercisable by virtue of any enactment for defence purposes (within the meaning of the Land Powers (Defence) Act, 1958), means the aggregate of the land comprised in the notice to treat and of any land contiguous or adjacent thereto which is comprised in any other notice to treat served under the like powers not more than one month before and not more than one month after the date of service of that notice, and any reference to development of any land shall be construed as including a reference to the clearing of that land.

(9) In the application of this section to Scotland, subsection (4) shall have effect as if there were inserted at the end thereof the following proviso, that is to say,—

Acquisition of
habitation

10. The provisions of the Second Schedule to this Act shall have effect as to compensation in respect of the acquisition of land in the circumstances mentioned in that Schedule.

11.—(1) Section fourteen of the War Damage Act, 1943 (which relates to war damage payments where partially damaged land is acquired by a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers), section fifty-three of the Act of 1947 (which relates to acquisitions attracting converted value payments under the War Damage Act, 1943), and the following provisions of section fifty-six of the Act of 1947 (which relates to war-damaged land in respect of which compensation is assessable on the basis of equivalent reinstatement) that is to say—

(a) in subsection (2) of that section, the words from “and the right to receive any value payment” to the end of the subsection, and

(b) subsection (3) of that section, shall not have effect (in so far as they would be applicable respectively apart from this section) in relation to a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, or to a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to such an acquisition.

(2) In the application of this section to Scotland, for references to sections fifty-three and fifty-six of the Act of 1947 there shall be substituted references respectively to sections fifty and fifty-three of the Scottish Act of 1947.

Power to pay allowances to persons displaced.

13.—(1) In connection with any compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, and in connection with any sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to such an acquisition, the acquiring authority—

- (a) may pay to any person displaced from a house or other building on that land such reasonable allowance as they think fit towards his expenses in removing therefrom; and
- (b) may pay to any person carrying on any trade or business in any such house or other building such reasonable allowance as they think fit towards the loss which, in their opinion, he will sustain by reason of the disturbance of his trade or business consequent upon his having to quit the house or building.

(2) In estimating loss, for the purposes of paragraph (b) of the preceding subsection, the authority shall have regard to the period for which the premises occupied by the person in question might reasonably have been expected to be available for the purpose of his trade or business, and to the availability of other premises suitable for that purpose.

(3) The preceding provisions of this section shall have effect without prejudice to the operation of any other enactments authorising the making of payments to or in respect of persons displaced or otherwise affected by acquisitions by public authorities possessing compulsory purchase powers.

Long-standing notices to treat.

14.—(1) This section applies to every notice to treat served before the sixth day of August, nineteen hundred and forty-seven, by a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers, being a notice in respect of which the following conditions are fulfilled, that is to say,—

- (d) that the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of that interest has not before the commencement of this Act been determined by the

Lands Tribunal or by an official arbitrator appointed under the Act of 1919, or determined under section fifty-eight of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845; and

(e) that the notice has not been withdrawn before the commencement of this Act.

(2) If a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers intend to proceed with the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land, in pursuance of a notice to treat to which this section applies, they shall, before the end of the period of six months beginning with the commencement of this Act, serve on the person for the time being entitled to that interest a notice in the prescribed form (in this Act referred to as a "notice of intention to proceed") stating that fact; and if, at the end of that period, no notice of intention to proceed has been served in accordance with this subsection in respect of an interest to which such a notice to treat relates, the notice to treat shall thereupon cease to have effect in so far as it relates to that interest.

(3) The form prescribed under the last preceding subsection shall include such explanation of the provisions of this and the next following section as appears to the Minister to be requisite for informing recipients of notices of intention to proceed of their rights and obligations under those provisions.

(4) Where a notice of intention to proceed has been served, in respect of the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land, and, at the end of the period of one year beginning with the date of service of that notice, the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of that interest has not been agreed, and no proceedings have been begun for the determination of any question relating to that compensation, the notice to treat, with respect to which the notice of intention to proceed was served, shall cease to have effect in so far as it relates to that interest:

Provided that this subsection shall not apply if, before the end of the said period of one year, the acquiring authority have exercised a right of entering upon and taking possession of land in pursuance of the notice to treat.

(5) The authority by whom a notice to treat to which this section applies has been served shall not be entitled after the commencement of this Act to exercise any rights or powers in pursuance of that notice, unless they have served a notice of intention to proceed in accordance with this section.

(6) Nothing in this section shall affect any question as to the validity of a notice to treat apart from the provisions of this section.

(2) Any such election shall be signified in a notice of claim given in accordance with the provisions of subsection (2) of section five of the Act of 1919, and shall not have effect if that notice is given after the end of the period of six months beginning with the date of service of the notice of intention to proceed.

(3) A person who has become entitled to the interest in question in pursuance of a transaction effected for valuable consideration after the service of the original notice to treat, or who derives title to it from a person who so became entitled to it, shall not have any such right of election as is mentioned in subsection (1) of this section.

(2) Where the preceding subsection applies, the compensation payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition shall be assessed as if the notice referred to in paragraph (c) of the preceding subsection had been registered before the date of service of the notice to treat and had remained on the register of local land charges on that date.

(3) For the purposes of this section a planning decision or order shall be taken to give rise to a claim for compensation for depreciation of the value of an interest in land if (subject to the making and determination of a claim in accordance with the relevant provisions, and to the effect of any direction of the Minister under section twenty-three or section forty-five of the Act of 1954) a person is entitled to compensation for depreciation of the value of that interest in consequence of that decision or order.

have been payable in respect of a compulsory acquisition of the interest in question with the benefit of the planning decision referred to in the preceding subsection, the person to whom the compensation or purchase price was payable shall, on a claim duly made by him, be entitled to compensation from the acquiring authority of an amount equal to the difference.

(3) In the last preceding subsection the reference to the compensation which would have been payable in respect of a compulsory acquisition of the interest in question with the benefit of the planning decision therein mentioned is a reference to the compensation which would have been payable in respect of a compulsory acquisition of that interest by the acquiring authority, in pursuance of a notice to treat served on the relevant date, if that planning decision had been made before that date and the permission thereby granted had been in force on that date.

(4) No compensation shall be payable by virtue of this section in respect of a planning decision in so far as it relates—

- (a) to land which on the relevant date consisted or formed part of an area defined in a development plan as an area of comprehensive development; or
- (b) to land acquired by the acquiring authority, whether compulsorily or by agreement, under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section four of the New Towns Act, 1946 (which relates to the acquisition by development corporations of land within areas designated as the sites of new towns); or

(5) If in accordance with the preceding provisions of this section the person referred to in subsection (2) of this section would be entitled to compensation as therein mentioned, but before the planning decision in question that person has died, or any other act or event has occurred whereby the right to compensation under this section, if vested in him immediately before that act or event, would thereupon have vested in some other person, the right to compensation under this section shall be treated as having devolved as if that right had been vested in him immediately before his death or immediately before that act or event, as the case may be, and the compensation shall be payable to the persons claiming under him accordingly.

(6) The provisions of the Third Schedule to this Act shall have effect for the purposes of this section.

(7) In this section any reference to the granting of permission for the carrying out of development of any land is a reference to the granting of permission for that development—

- (c) either on an ordinary application or on an outline application, and any reference to an area defined in a development plan is a reference to an area defined in such a plan in the form in which (whether as originally approved or made by the Minister or as subsequently amended) that plan was in force on the relevant date.

(8) In this section and in the following provisions of this Part of this Act “additional development”, in relation to an acquisition or sale of an interest in land, means any development of the land in question other than the following, that is to say—

 - (ii) in the case of a sale by agreement, it would have been so assumed that planning permission would be granted if the interest (instead of being sold by agreement) had been compulsorily acquired by the acquiring authority in pursuance of a notice to treat served on the relevant date;

“date of completion”, in relation to an acquisition or sale of an interest in land, means the date on which the acquisition or sale is completed by the vesting of that interest in the acquiring

(9) In the application of this section to Scotland subsection (4) shall have effect as if for paragraph (d) thereof there were substituted the following paragraph, that is to say,—

“ (d) to land acquired by a local authority, whether compulsorily or by agreement, where on the relevant date the land consisted or formed part of an area to which a town development scheme under Part II of the Housing and Town Development (Scotland) Act, 1957, related.”

and the following additional provisions shall have effect, that is to say—

(b) in calculating for the purposes of paragraph (b) of the said subsection (2) the amount of the compensation which would have been so payable in the circumstances mentioned in that paragraph, that amount shall be increased by an amount equal to the compensation, if any, which would have been payable under this section in respect of that acquisition or sale if—

(i) those circumstances had existed, and

(ii) subsection (6) of this section were disregarded :

(c) where in respect of an acquisition or sale such as is mentioned in subsection (1) of this section any consideration has been paid under section one hundred and eight of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845 (as read with section sixty-two of the Scottish Act of 1954), and a planning decision relating to the land in question is made thereafter in the circumstances mentioned in the said subsection (1), the person who has received the consideration shall, on a claim duly made by him, be entitled to receive from the acquiring authority an amount (in this and the next following paragraph referred to as “additional consideration”) equal to the difference between—

(i) the amount of the consideration he has received, and

(ii) the amount of the consideration he would have received if that planning decision had been made before the date when the consideration which he has received was determined and the permission thereby granted had been in force before that date, if the last mentioned amount is greater than the amount mentioned in sub-paragraph (i) of this paragraph ; and

- (d) if in accordance with the last preceding paragraph a person would be entitled to additional consideration in respect of an acquisition or sale, but before the planning decision in question that person has died, or any other act or event has occurred whereby the right to the additional consideration, if vested in him immediately before that act or event, would thereupon have vested in some other person, the right to the additional consideration shall be treated as having devolved as if that right had been vested in him immediately before his death or immediately before that act or event, as the case may be, and the additional consideration shall be payable to the persons claiming under him accordingly.

Provided that, in relation to a planning decision where there is an appeal (including any appeal made by virtue of subsection (3) of section sixteen of the Act of 1947), references in this subsection to the date of the decision shall be construed as references to the date of the decision on the appeal.

(4) Where a person has given to an acquiring authority an address for service under this section, and that authority, before the end of the period mentioned in subsection (1) of the last preceding section, cease to be entitled to an interest in the whole or part of the land comprised in the acquisition or sale, without remaining or becoming entitled to a freehold interest in, or tenancy of, that land or that part thereof, as the case may be, they shall notify the local planning authority ; and thereafter it shall be the duty of the local planning authority to give notice to the acquiring authority of any planning decision made in the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1) of the last preceding section, whereby permission is granted for the carrying out of additional development as therein mentioned.

(6) Subject to the preceding provisions of this section, the provisions of the Act of 1919 (so far as applicable) shall apply in relation to the assessment of compensation under the last preceding section as they apply in relation to the assessment of compensation in respect of the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land.

- (b) for any reference to compensation under the last preceding section, of a reference to additional consideration as aforesaid, and
- (c) for any reference to subsection (5) of the last preceding section, of a reference to paragraph (d) of subsection (9) of that section.

20.—(1) The provisions of sections eighteen and nineteen of this Act (except subsection (2) of the said section nineteen) shall have effect in relation to any planning permission which, in accordance with any direction or provision given or made by or under an enactment, is deemed to be granted for any development, as if a planning decision granting that permission had been made at the time when, in accordance with the enactment in question, the permission is deemed to be granted: Extension of ss. 18 and 19 to planning permission where no planning decision made.

(3) Where the provisions of section eighteen of this Act have effect as applied by subsection (1) or subsection (2) of this section, then if—

- (a) before the time of the planning decision which is to be assumed in accordance with those provisions as so applied, a person who (in accordance with the provisions of subsection (1) of section nineteen of this Act as so applied) is entitled to give an address for service under that section has given such an address to the acquiring authority, and
- (b) the development is proposed to be carried out by the acquiring authority, or, if it is proposed to be carried out by a person other than the acquiring authority, notice of that proposal is given to the acquiring authority by the person proposing to carry out the development,

Sections 9, 52.

FIRST SCHEDULE

SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO SECTION NINE

PART I

Provisions for taking account of increases in value of contiguous or adjacent land

1. Subsection (4) of section nine of this Act shall not apply to any compulsory acquisition in respect of which the compensation payable is subject to the provisions of any of the following enactments (which contain provisions for taking account in certain cases of increases in the value of contiguous or adjacent land), that is to say,—

- (a) section thirteen of the Light Railways Act, 1896 ;
- (b) sub-paragraph (C) of paragraph (2) of the Schedule to the Development and Road Improvement Funds Act, 1909 ;
- (c) subsection (6) of section two hundred and twenty-two of the Highways Act, 1959 ;
- (d) paragraph 4 of Part III of the Third Schedule to the Housing Act, 1957.

2. Subsection (4) of section nine of this Act shall also not apply to any compulsory acquisition in respect of which the compensation payable is subject to the provisions of any local enactment which provides (in whatsoever terms) that, in assessing compensation in respect of a compulsory acquisition thereunder, account shall be taken of any increase in the value of an interest in contiguous or adjacent land which is attributable to any of the works authorised by that enactment.

3. Where any such local enactment as is mentioned in the last preceding paragraph includes a provision restricting the assessment of the increase in value thereunder by reference to existing use (that is to say, by providing, in whatsoever terms, that the increase in value shall be assessed on the assumption that planning permission in respect of the contiguous or adjacent land in question would be granted for development of any class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947, but would not be granted for any other development thereof), the enactment shall have effect, in relation to compulsory acquisitions to which section one of this Act applies, as if it included no such provision restricting the assessment of the increase in value.

4.—(1) Where, for the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of a compulsory acquisition of an interest in land, an increase in the value of an interest in other land has, in any of the cases mentioned in the table, been taken into account by virtue of subsection (4) of section nine of this Act or any corresponding enactment, then, in connection with any subsequent acquisition to which this paragraph applies, that increase shall not be left out of account by virtue of subsection (2) of section nine of this Act, or taken into account by virtue of subsection (4) of that section or any corresponding enactment, in so far as it was taken into account in connection with the previous acquisition.

(2) Where, in connection with a compulsory acquisition of an interest in land, a diminution in the value of an interest in other land has, in any of the cases mentioned in the table, been taken into account in assessing compensation for injurious affection, then, in connection with any subsequent acquisition to which this paragraph applies, that diminution shall not be left out of account, by virtue of subsection (2) of section nine of this Act, in so far as it was taken into account in connection with the previous acquisition.

(3) This paragraph applies to any subsequent acquisition where either—

- (a) the interest acquired by the subsequent acquisition is the same as the interest previously taken into account (whether the acquisition extends to the whole of the land in which that interest previously subsisted or only to part of that land), or
- (b) the person entitled to the interest acquired is, or derives title to that interest from, the person who at the time of the previous acquisition was entitled to the interest previously taken into account ;

and in this sub-paragraph any reference to the interest previously taken into account is a reference to the interest the increased or diminished value whereof was taken into account as mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) or sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph.

(4) Where, in connection with a sale of an interest in land by agreement, the circumstances were such that, if it had been a compulsory acquisition, an increase or diminution of value would have fallen to be taken into account as mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) or sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph, the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall apply, with the necessary modifications, as if that sale had been a compulsory acquisition and that increase or diminution of value had been taken into account accordingly.

(5) In this paragraph “corresponding enactment” means any such enactment as is mentioned in paragraph 1 or paragraph 2 of this Schedule, and any reference to a case mentioned in the table is a reference to a case mentioned in the first column of the table set out in subsection (2) of section nine of this Act.

5. In the application of this Schedule to Scotland, for any reference to the Act of 1947 there shall be substituted a reference to the Scottish Act of 1947, for any reference to paragraph 4 of Part III of the Third Schedule to the Housing Act, 1957, there shall be substituted a reference to paragraph 5 of the Fourth Schedule to the Housing (Scotland) Act, 1950, and for sub-paragraph (c) of paragraph 1 there shall be substituted the following sub-paragraph, that is to say—

7. Land shall not be treated as falling within the case described in the said paragraph 3 by reason that it forms part of an area which has been designated as therein mentioned, if the notice to treat is served on or after the transfer date.

8. In determining whether the relevant land forms part of such an area as is mentioned in the said paragraph 3,—

(a) in the case of an area designated as the site of a new town by an order which became operative on or before the twenty-ninth day of October, nineteen hundred and fifty-eight, regard shall be had to that order in the form in which, whether as originally made or as subsequently varied, it was in force on that day, and any variation becoming operative after that day shall be disregarded ;

(b) in the case of an area designated as the site of a new town by an order which became operative after the said twenty-ninth day of October, whether before or after the passing of this Act, regard shall be had to the order in its original form, and any variation of the order shall be disregarded.

9. For the purpose of determining whether any development, of which there is a prospect on the date of service of the notice to treat, would be such development as is described in the said paragraph 3, it is immaterial whether the time when that development will or may take place is a time before, on or after the transfer date.

10. This Part of this Schedule, except paragraph 8 thereof, shall not apply to Scotland.

(a) the acquisition is under the Housing Act, 1957 (in this Part of this Schedule referred to as "the Act of 1957") in such circumstances that, apart from section one of this Act, any of the provisions of that Act as to compulsory purchase at site value would have effect in relation to the acquisition, or

(b) it is an acquisition in relation to which, by virtue of an order made and confirmed under the next following paragraph, any of those provisions would so have effect, nothing in section one of this Act shall be construed as excluding the operation of those provisions of the Act of 1957, but those provisions shall apply in addition to the provisions of Part I of this Act.

(2) Subject to the provisions of paragraph 3 of this Part of this Schedule, the compensation payable in respect of a compulsory acquisition falling within the preceding sub-paragraph shall not in any event exceed the amount of the compensation which would have been payable in respect thereof if—

- (a) none of the provisions of the Act of 1957 as to compulsory purchase at site value had applied to the acquisition, and
- (b) in a case where any of the relevant land is in an area which has been declared under Part III of that Act to be a clearance area, or which constitutes a re-development area within the meaning of that Part of that Act, that area had not been declared to be a clearance area or did not constitute such a re-development area, as the case may be, but in all other respects the acquisition had been effected in the circumstances in which it actually is effected.

2.—(1) The provisions of this paragraph shall have effect in relation to any compulsory acquisition being—

- (a) an acquisition under Part IV of the Act of 1947, or
- (b) an acquisition under section six of the Town Development Act, 1952, or

and being (in any such case) an acquisition where the land in question comprises a house which, in the opinion of an appropriate local authority, is unfit for human habitation and not capable at reasonable expense of being rendered fit for human habitation.

(2) The local authority may make and submit to the Minister an order, in such form as may be prescribed by regulations made under section one hundred and seventy-eight of the Act of 1957, declaring the house to be in the state referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph ; and if—

- (a) that order is confirmed by the Minister, either before or concurrently with the confirmation of a compulsory purchase order for the acquisition of the land, or
- (b) in a case where the acquisition is in pursuance of a notice to treat deemed to have been served in consequence of the service of a notice under section nineteen of the Act of 1947 or the provisions of that section as applied by or under any other enactment, or in consequence of the service of a notice under subsection (4) of section six of the New Towns Act, 1946, or under Part IV of this Act, the order is made before the date on which the notice to treat is deemed to have been served and, having been so made, is subsequently confirmed by the Minister, the provisions of subsections (2) and (3) of section fifty-nine of the Act of 1957, and the provisions of sections sixty and sixty-one of that Act and the Second Schedule thereto (which relate to certain payments in respect of houses purchased or demolished under that Act) shall apply as if the house had been purchased under section fifty-seven of that Act as being in the state referred to in the preceding subparagraph, and as if any reference in those sections or in that Schedule to the local authority were a reference to the acquiring authority.

2ND SCH.

(3) Before submitting to the Minister an order under this paragraph, the local authority by whom the order was made shall serve on every owner, and (so far as it is reasonably practicable to ascertain such persons) on every mortgagee, of the land or any part thereof, a notice in such form as may be prescribed as mentioned in the last preceding sub-paragraph, stating the effect of the order and that it is about to be submitted to the Minister for confirmation, and specifying the time within which, and the manner in which, objection thereto can be made.

(4) If no objection is duly made by any of the persons on whom notices are required to be served, or if all objections so made are withdrawn, the Minister may, if he thinks fit, confirm the order; but in any other case he shall, before confirming the order, consider any objection not withdrawn, and shall, if either the person by whom the objection was made or the local authority so desires, afford to that person and the authority an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Minister for the purpose.

(5) Section four of the Act of 1957 (which specifies matters to be taken into account in determining whether a house is unfit) and sections one hundred and fifty-nine and one hundred and sixty of that Act (which relate to entry on land for the purposes of that Act) shall apply for the purposes of this paragraph as they apply for the purposes of that Act.

(6) In this paragraph "appropriate local authority" means a local authority who, in relation to the area in which the land in question is situated, are a local authority for the purposes of the provisions of Part III of the Act of 1957 relating to clearance areas.

3.—(1) The provisions of this paragraph shall have effect in relation to any compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies where—

2ND SCH.

- (b) that person either continues, on the date of service of the notice to treat, to be entitled to the relevant interest, or, if he has died before that date, continued to be entitled to that interest immediately before his death, and
- (c) the acquisition is under the Act of 1957, in such circumstances that any of the provisions of that Act as to compulsory purchase at site value have effect in relation to the acquisition, or is an acquisition in connection with which an order is made and confirmed under the last preceding paragraph in respect of the relevant house.

In the following provisions of this paragraph any reference to "the dwelling" is a reference to so much of the relevant house as the person referred to in head (a) of this sub-paragraph occupied as therein mentioned.

(2) Subject to the next following sub-paragraph, if the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest would, apart from this paragraph, be less than the gross value of the dwelling, the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of that interest shall be an amount equal to the gross value of the dwelling.

(3) Where any payment to which this sub-paragraph applies is payable, any reference in the last preceding sub-paragraph to the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest shall be construed as a reference to the aggregate of that amount and of the amount of the payment (or, if more than one, of the amounts of the payments) to which this sub-paragraph applies.

(4) The last preceding sub-paragraph applies—

- (a) to any payment under section thirty or section sixty of the Act of 1957, in so far as it falls to be made to the person entitled to the relevant interest and is attributable to the relevant house;
- (b) to any payment which falls to be made in respect of the relevant interest under Part II of the Second Schedule to the Act of 1957.

(5) For the purposes of this paragraph the gross value of the dwelling shall be determined as follows :—

- (a) if the dwelling constitutes the whole of the relevant house, the gross value of the dwelling shall be taken to be the value which, on the date of service of the notice to treat, is shown in the valuation list then in force as the gross value of that house for rating purposes;
- (b) if the dwelling is only part of the relevant house, an apportionment shall be made by the valuation officer of the gross value of the relevant house for rating purposes, as shown in the valuation list in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, and the gross value of the dwelling shall be taken to be the amount certified by the valuation officer as being the amount which, on such an apportionment, is properly attributable to the dwelling.

(6) Any reference in this paragraph to the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest shall be construed as excluding so much (if any) of that compensation as is attributable to disturbance or to severance or injurious affection.

(7) In this paragraph "the valuation officer" has the same meaning as in Part III of the Local Government Act, 1948.

4. The following provisions of the Act of 1957, that is to say, paragraph 2 of Part III of the Third Schedule and sub-paragraph (3) of paragraph 2 of the Seventh Schedule (which make special provision as to the assessment of compensation in the case of premises which are purchased under that Act otherwise than at site value, but are in a state of defective sanitation or not in reasonably good repair) shall cease to have effect, except for the purpose of assessing compensation (where applicable) in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which section one of this Act does not apply.

5.—(1) Where, in the case of a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies,—

- (a) the acquisition is under the Act of 1957, in such circumstances that any of the provisions of that Act as to compulsory purchase at site value have effect in relation to the acquisition, or is an acquisition in connection with which an order is made and confirmed under paragraph 2 of this Part of this Schedule, and
- (b) the relevant land consists of or includes a hereditament, or part of a hereditament, which has sustained war damage, and any of that damage has not been made good at the date of service of the notice to treat, there shall be added to the compensation which, apart from this paragraph, would be payable in respect of the acquisition an amount calculated in accordance with the next following sub-paragraph.

(2) The said amount shall be an amount equal to the value, as at the date of service of the notice to treat, of the prospective right to receive such payment (if any) under the War Damage Act, 1943, in respect of that hereditament, or part of a hereditament, as might reasonably have been expected to become payable if the relevant land had not been compulsorily acquired.

6.—(1) Where a local authority have before the commencement of this Act made and submitted to the Minister an order under paragraph 9 of the Fifth Schedule to the Town and Country Planning Act, 1944 (which contains provisions similar to those of paragraph 2 of this Part of this Schedule), but the Minister has not confirmed that order before the commencement of this Act, sub-paragraphs (2), (4) and (5) of paragraph 2 of this Part of this Schedule shall apply in relation to that order as if—

(3) Before submitting to the Minister an order under this paragraph, the local authority by whom the order was made shall serve on every owner, and (so far as it is reasonably practicable to ascertain such persons) on the superior of, and the holder of every heritable security over, the land or any part thereof, a notice in such form as may be prescribed as mentioned in the last preceding sub-paragraph, stating the effect of the order and that it is about to be submitted to the Minister for confirmation, and specifying the time within which, and the manner in which, objection thereto can be made.

2.—(1) The provisions of this paragraph shall have effect in relation to any compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies where—

- (a) the relevant land consists of or includes the whole or part of a house (in this paragraph referred to as “the relevant house”) and, on the date of the making of the compulsory purchase order in pursuance of which the acquisition is effected, the person then entitled to the relevant interest was, in right of that interest, in occupation of the relevant house or part thereof as a private dwelling, and
- (b) that person either continues, on the date of service of the notice to treat, to be entitled to the relevant interest, or, if he has died before that date, continued to be entitled to that interest immediately before his death, and
- (c) the acquisition is under the Act of 1950, in such circumstances that any of the following provisions of that Act, that is to say, subsection (2) of section twelve, subsection (4) of section seventeen, and subsection (2) of section thirty-six (which relate to compensation at site value) have effect in relation to the acquisition, or is an acquisition in connection with which an order is made and confirmed under the last preceding paragraph in respect of the relevant house.

In the following provisions of this paragraph any reference to “the dwelling” is a reference to so much of the relevant house as the person referred to in head (a) of this sub-paragraph occupied as therein mentioned.

(2) Subject to the next following sub-paragraph, if the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest would, apart from this paragraph, be less than the gross annual value of the dwelling, the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of that interest shall be an amount equal to the gross annual value of the dwelling.

(3) Where a payment falls to be made under section forty of the Act of 1950 to the person entitled to the relevant interest, and that payment is attributable to the relevant house, any reference in the last preceding sub-paragraph to the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest shall be construed as a reference to the aggregate of that amount and of the amount of the payment.

(4) For the purposes of this paragraph the gross annual value of the dwelling shall be determined as follows:—

- (a) if the dwelling constitutes the whole of the relevant house, the gross annual value of the dwelling shall be taken to be the value which, on the date of service of the notice to treat, is shown in the valuation roll then in force as the gross annual value of that house for rating purposes;
- (b) if the dwelling is only part of the relevant house, an apportionment shall be made of the gross annual value of the relevant house for rating purposes, as shown in the valuation roll in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, and the gross annual value of the dwelling shall be taken to be the amount which, on such an apportionment, is properly attributable to the dwelling.

(5) Any reference in this paragraph to the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest shall be construed as excluding so much (if any) of that compensation as is attributable to disturbance or to severance or injurious affection.

(6) Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the amount which is to be taken for the purposes of section sixty-two of the Scottish Act of 1954 (which relates to the consideration payable for the discharge of land from feu duty and other incumbrances) as the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest.

3. Paragraph 3 of the Fourth Schedule to the Act of 1950 (which makes special provision as to the assessment of compensation in the case of premises which are purchased under that Act otherwise than at site value, but are in a state of defective sanitation or not in reasonably good repair) shall cease to have effect, except for the purpose of assessing compensation (where applicable) in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which section one of this Act does not apply.

4.—(1) Where, in the case of a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies,—

(a) the acquisition is under the Act of 1950, in such circumstances that any of the following provisions of that Act, that is to say, subsection (2) of section twelve, subsection (4) of section seventeen, and subsection (2) of section thirty-six (which relate to compensation at site value) have effect in relation to the acquisition, or is an acquisition in connection with which an order is made and confirmed under paragraph 1 of this Part of this Schedule, and

(b) the relevant land consists of or includes a hereditament, or part of a hereditament, which has sustained war damage, and any of that damage has not been made good at the date of service of the notice to treat,

there shall be added to the compensation which, apart from this paragraph, would be payable in respect of the acquisition an amount calculated in accordance with the next following sub-paragraph.

(2) The said amount shall be an amount equal to the value, as at the date of service of the notice to treat, of the prospective right to receive such payment (if any) under the War Damage Act, 1943, in respect of that hereditament or part of a hereditament, as might reasonably have been expected to become payable if the relevant land had not been compulsorily acquired.

(3) In this paragraph “hereditament” has the same meaning as in the War Damage Act, 1943.

- (a) the order had been made under paragraph 1 of this Part of this Schedule, and

7. This Part of this Schedule shall apply to Scotland only.

Disturbance, severance and injurious affection

1. The provisions of the next following paragraph shall have effect for the purposes of the application of section eighteen of this Act to cases where the compensation or purchase price in respect of the interest acquired or purchased—

- (a) included an amount attributable to disturbance, or attributable to damage sustained in respect of an interest in land held with the land comprised in the acquisition or sale (in this Schedule referred to as “ the interest affected ”) by reason that the land so held was severed from the land comprised in the acquisition or sale, or was injuriously affected, or
- (b) would have included such an amount if the planning decision referred to in subsection (1) of that section had been made before the relevant date, and the planning permission there-by granted had been in force on that date.

2.—(1) Subject to the next following sub-paragraph,—

3RD SCH.

- (a) any reference in subsection (2) of that section to the principal amount of the compensation which was payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition, or, in the case of a sale by agreement, the amount of the purchase price, shall be construed as including any amount which was included therein as mentioned in sub-paragraph (a) of the preceding paragraph ; and
- (b) any reference in subsection (2) of that section to the principal amount of the compensation which would have been payable as therein mentioned shall be construed as including any amount which would have been included therein as mentioned in sub-paragraph (b) of the preceding paragraph.

(2) If, at the time of the planning decision in question, the person entitled to the compensation under section eighteen of this Act is not entitled to the interest affected, either in respect of the whole of the land in which that interest subsisted at the time of the acquisition or sale or in respect of part of that land, any such reference as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph shall be construed as excluding so much of the compensation or purchase price in question as was or would have been attributable to severance or injurious affection of the land in which the interest affected subsisted, or of the part thereof in respect of which that person is not entitled to the interest affected, as the case may be.

Increase in value of contiguous or adjacent land

3. The provisions of the next following paragraph shall have effect for the purposes of the application of section eighteen of this Act to cases where the compensation or purchase price in respect of the interest acquired or purchased—

- (a) was reduced (whether by virtue of subsection (4) of section nine of this Act or otherwise) by reason of an increase in the value of an interest in contiguous or adjacent land (in this Schedule referred to as “ the interest in adjacent land ”) being an interest belonging to the person who on the relevant date was entitled to the interest acquired or purchased, or
- (b) would have been so reduced if the planning decision referred to in subsection (1) of the said section eighteen had been made before the relevant date, and the planning permission thereby granted had been in force on that date.

4.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this paragraph—

- (a) any reference in subsection (2) of section eighteen of this Act to the principal amount of the compensation which was payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition, or, in the case of a sale by agreement, the amount of the purchase price, shall be construed as a reference to that amount as reduced as mentioned in sub-paragraph (a) of the last preceding paragraph ; and

(b) any reference in subsection (2) of that section to the principal amount of the compensation which would have been payable as therein mentioned shall be construed as a reference to that amount as it would have been reduced in the circumstances mentioned in sub-paragraph (b) of the last preceding paragraph.

(2) If, at the time of the planning decision in question, the person entitled to the compensation under section eighteen of this Act is not entitled to the interest in adjacent land, any such reference as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph shall be construed as a reference to the amount which would have been the principal amount of the compensation or the amount of the purchase price, as mentioned in subsection (2) of the said section eighteen, if the circumstances, by reason of which the compensation or purchase price was or would have been reduced, had not existed.

(3) If, at the time of the planning decision in question, the person entitled to the compensation under section eighteen of this Act is entitled to the interest in adjacent land, but only in respect of part of the land in which that interest subsisted at the time of the acquisition or sale, any such reference shall be construed as a reference to the amount which would have been the principal amount of the compensation or the amount of the purchase price, as mentioned in subsection (2) of the said section eighteen, if the interest in adjacent land had subsisted only in that part of that land.

Mortgaged land

5. 6. For the purposes of the application of section eighteen or section twenty-one of this Act, and of the provisions of this Schedule other than this paragraph, to a case falling within the last preceding paragraph, any reference to the principal amount of the compensation which was payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition shall be construed as a reference to the principal amount of the compensation which would have been payable in respect thereof if the interest in question had not been subject to a mortgage; and any reference to the principal amount of the compensation which would in any particular circumstances have been payable in respect of a compulsory acquisition shall be construed as a reference to the principal amount of the compensation which would in those circumstances have been payable in respect of such a compulsory acquisition if the interest in question had not been subject to a mortgage.

7. No compensation shall be payable by virtue of section eighteen of this Act, or by virtue of the provisions of that section as extended by section twenty-one of this Act, in respect of a compulsory acquisition or sale by agreement, where the interest acquired or sold was the interest of a mortgagee (as distinct from an interest subject to a mortgage).

10.—(1) The provisions of this Schedule shall have effect, in relation to any planning permission which, in accordance with any direction or provision given or made by or under an enactment, is deemed to have been granted, as if a planning decision granting that permission had been made at the time when, by virtue of that direction or provision, the permission is deemed to have been granted.

13.—(1) Where in a case falling within paragraph (c) of subsection (9) of section eighteen of this Act, or that paragraph as extended by subsection (1) of section twenty-one of this Act, the consideration under section one hundred and eight of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845 (as read with section sixty-two of the Scottish Act of 1954) was paid to the trustees of a trust within the meaning of the Trusts (Scotland) Act, 1921, any reference in the said paragraph (c) or in subsection (7) of section nineteen of this Act to the person who has received the consideration shall be construed as a reference to the trustees for the time being of the trust.

(3) If the land in question falls within paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section thirty-nine of this Act, then (without prejudice to the effect of any subsequent designation) the development plan shall have effect as if no land comprised in the part of the affected area not required were designated therein as land subject to compulsory acquisition.

SIXTH SCHEDULE

Sections 52, 54.

REDUCTION OR EXTINGUISHMENT OF UNEXPENDED BALANCE OF ESTABLISHED DEVELOPMENT VALUE

PART I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

1.—(1) Where in the case of—

- (a) a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, or
- (b) a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to such an acquisition, any of the land in which the interest acquired or sold subsisted had an unexpended balance of established development value immediately before the relevant date (in this paragraph referred to as "the relevant balance"), the following provisions of this paragraph shall have effect for the purpose of determining whether that land or any part thereof has an unexpended balance of established development value at any subsequent time.

(2) Unless, immediately after the acquisition or sale, there is outstanding some interest (other than an excepted interest) in that land to which some person other than the acquiring authority is entitled, the original unexpended balance of established development value of that land shall be treated for the purposes of the Act of 1954 as having been extinguished immediately before that subsequent time.

(3) If, immediately after the acquisition or sale, there is such an outstanding interest (other than an excepted interest) as is mentioned in the last preceding sub-paragraph, there shall be deducted from the said original balance an amount equal to any part of the relevant balance which is not attributable to any such outstanding interest, and the original balance of established development value of that land or that part thereof shall be treated for the purposes of the Act of 1954 as having been reduced or extinguished accordingly immediately before that subsequent time.

(4) For the purposes of this paragraph any question as to the portion of the relevant balance which is attributable to an interest in land—

- (a) in relation to a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Part II of this Schedule, and
- (b) in relation to a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to such an acquisition, shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Part II of this Schedule as those provisions would apply if the sale had been a compulsory acquisition in pursuance of a notice to treat served on the relevant date.

2.—(1) Where, in connection with a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, compensation is payable in respect of an interest in land other than the relevant land, for damage sustained by reason that the relevant land is severed from other land held therewith, or that any other land (whether held with the relevant land or not) is injuriously affected, then, for the purpose of determining whether that other land or any part thereof has an unexpended balance of established development value at any subsequent time, there shall be deducted from the original unexpended balance of established development value (if any) of that other land an amount calculated in accordance with the next following sub-paragraph, and the original balance of that land, or of the part thereof in question, as the case may be, shall be treated as having been reduced or extinguished accordingly immediately before that subsequent time.

(2) The amount referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph is the amount (if any) by which the compensation payable as mentioned in that sub-paragraph exceeds the compensation which would have been so payable if the extent of the damage sustained in respect of the other land in question had fallen to be ascertained on the assumption that planning permission would be granted for development of any class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947, but would not be granted for any other development of that land.

3. The last preceding paragraph shall have effect in relation to a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies as that paragraph has effect in relation to such an acquisition, but subject to the modification that—

- (a) any reference to the relevant land shall be construed as a reference to the land sold, and
- (b) any reference to compensation payable in respect of an interest in land shall be construed as a reference to an amount included in the purchase price in respect of that interest.

4. In this Schedule “interest in land”, “unexpended balance of established development value” and “original unexpended balance of established development value” have the same meanings as in the Act of 1954; “excepted interest” means the interest of any such person as is mentioned in section one hundred and twenty-one of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (which relates to persons having no greater interest than as tenant for a year or from year to year); and “the relevant date” means the date of service of the notice to treat or the date of the contract in pursuance of which the interest was sold, as the case may be.

5. In the application of this Part of this Schedule to Scotland—

- (a) for any reference to the Act of 1954 there shall be substituted a reference to the Scottish Act of 1954;
- (b) for any reference to the Act of 1947 there shall be substituted a reference to the Scottish Act of 1947;
- (c) for any reference to section one hundred and twenty-one of the Lands Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, there shall be substituted a reference to section one hundred and fourteen of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845; and
- (d) for any reference to Part II of this Schedule there shall be substituted a reference to Part III of this Schedule.

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR APPORTIONMENT IN ENGLAND AND WALES

Determination of relevant area

6.—(1) Where, in the case of a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, any area of the relevant land which, immediately before the service of the notice to treat, has an unexpended balance of established development value does not satisfy the conditions set out in the next following sub-paragraph, that area shall be treated as divided into as many separate areas as may be requisite to ensure that each of those separate areas satisfies those conditions.

(2) The conditions referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph are—

- (a) that all the interests (other than excepted interests) subsisting in the area in question subsist in the whole thereof; and
- (b) that any rentcharge charged on the area in question is charged on the whole thereof.

(3) Any area of the relevant land which has an unexpended balance of established development value and which complies with the conditions set out in the last preceding sub-paragraph is in this Part of this Schedule referred to, in relation to the interests subsisting therein, as “the relevant area”, and the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Schedule shall have effect separately in relation to each relevant area.

Preliminary calculations

7. There shall be calculated the amount referable to the relevant area of the rent which might reasonably be expected to be reserved if the relevant land were to be let on terms prohibiting the carrying out of any new development but permitting the carrying out of any other development; and the amount so calculated is in this Part of this Schedule referred to as “the existing use rent”.

8.—(1) If in the case of an interest in fee simple which is subject to a rentcharge, or in the case of a tenancy, so much of the rent reserved under the rentcharge or tenancy as is referable to the relevant area exceeds the existing use rent, there shall be calculated the capital value of the right to receive, for the period of the remainder of the term of the rentcharge or tenancy, an annual payment equal to the excess; and any amount so calculated in the case of any interest is in this Part of this Schedule referred to as “the rental liability” of that interest.

(2) Where the interest in fee simple is subject to more than one rentcharge, then, for the purposes of the preceding sub-paragraph, as respects any period included in the term of two or more of those rentcharges, those two or more rentcharges shall be treated as a single rentcharge charged on the relevant area for the duration of that period with a rent reserved thereunder of an amount equal to the aggregate of so much of their respective rents as is referable to the relevant area.

6TH SCH.

9. In the case of any interest in reversion—

- (a) there shall be calculated the capital value, as at the time immediately before the service of the notice to treat, of the right to receive a sum equal to the unexpended balance of established development value of the relevant area at that time, but payable at the end of the tenancy upon the termination of which the interest in question is immediately expectant; and the amount so calculated in the case of any interest is in this Part of this Schedule referred to as “the reversionary development value” of that interest;
- (b) if so much of the rent reserved under the said tenancy as is referable to the relevant area exceeds the existing use rent, there shall also be calculated the capital value as at the said time of the right to receive, for the period of the remainder of the term of that tenancy, an annual payment equal to the excess; and any amount so determined in the case of any interest is in this Part of this Schedule referred to as “the rental increment” of that interest.

Apportionment of unexpended balance between interests

10. Where two or more interests (other than excepted interests) subsist in the relevant area, the portion of the unexpended balance of established development value of the relevant area attributable to each respectively of those interests shall be taken to be the following, that is to say—

- (a) in the case of the interest in fee simple, an amount equal to the reversionary development value of that interest, less the amount (if any) by which any rental liability of that interest exceeds any rental increment thereof;
- (b) in the case of a tenancy in reversion, an amount equal to the reversionary development value of that tenancy, less the aggregate of—
 - (i) the reversionary development value of the interest in reversion immediately expectant upon the termination of that tenancy, and
 - (ii) the amount (if any) by which any rental liability of that tenancy exceeds any rental increment thereof;
- (c) in the case of a tenancy other than a tenancy in reversion, the remainder (if any) of the said balance after the deduction of the aggregate of—
 - (i) the reversionary development value of the interest in reversion immediately expectant upon the termination of that tenancy, and
 - (ii) any rental liability of that tenancy.

Interpretation

11. In this Part of this Schedule—

- (a) “tenancy” does not include an excepted interest;
- (b) any reference to an interest or tenancy in reversion does not include an interest or tenancy in reversion immediately expectant upon the termination of an excepted interest;

(c) "new development" means any development other than development of a class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947.

12. This Part of this Schedule shall not apply to Scotland.

PART III

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR APPORTIONMENT IN SCOTLAND

Determination of relevant area

13.—(1) Where, in the case of a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, any area of the relevant land which, immediately before the service of the notice to treat, had an unexpended balance of established development value does not satisfy the condition set out in the next following sub-paragraph, that area shall be treated as divided into as many separate areas as may be requisite to ensure that each of those separate areas satisfies that condition.

(2) The condition referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph is that all the interests (other than excepted interests) subsisting in the area in question subsist in the whole thereof.

(3) Any area of the relevant land which has an unexpended balance of established development value and which complies with the condition set out in the last preceding sub-paragraph is in this Part of this Schedule referred to in relation to the interests subsisting therein as "the relevant area", and the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Schedule shall have effect separately in relation to each relevant area.

Preliminary calculations

14. In the case of the interest of the lessor under any lease there shall be calculated the capital value as at the time immediately before the service of the notice to treat of the right to receive a sum equal to the unexpended balance of established development value of the relevant area at that time, but payable at the expiration of the lease; and the amount so calculated in the case of any such interest is in this Part of this Schedule referred to as "the reversionary development value" of that interest.

Apportionment of unexpended balance between interests

15. Where two or more interests other than excepted interests, subsist in the relevant area, the portion of the unexpended balance of established development value of the relevant area attributable to each respectively of those interests shall be taken to be the following, that is to say—

(a) in the case of the interest of the lessor under any lease, so much, if any, of the reversionary development value of that interest, as remains after the deduction therefrom of the aggregate of—

(i) the reversionary development value of the interest of the person, if any, to whom that lessor stands in the relationship of lessee; and

6TH SCH.
—cont.

- (ii) in a case where the restricted value of the first-mentioned interest is a minus quantity, an amount equal to that minus quantity ;
- (b) in the case of the interest of the lessee under any lease which is not subject to a sub-lease, so much, if any, of the said balance as remains after the deduction therefrom of the aggregate of—
- (i) the reversionary development value of the interest of the lessor under the lease, and
- (ii) in a case where the restricted value of the first-mentioned interest is a minus quantity, an amount equal to that minus quantity.

Interpretation

16. In this Part of this Schedule the expression "lease" does not include any lease in the case of which the interest of the lessee is an excepted interest.

17. This Part of this Schedule shall apply to Scotland only.

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—(1) Where the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food (in this Act referred to as “the Minister”) is satisfied that there are injurious weeds to which this Act applies growing upon any land he may serve upon the occupier of the land a notice in writing requiring him, within the time specified in the notice, to take such action as may be necessary to prevent the weeds from spreading. Power to require occupier to prevent spreading of injurious weeds.

(3) A charge imposed under the last preceding subsection shall be a local land charge and shall be registrable under section fifteen of the Land Charges Act, 1925, accordingly; and the Minister shall, for the purpose of enforcing the charge, have the same powers and remedies under the Law of Property Act, 1925, and otherwise as he would have if he were a mortgagee by deed having powers of sale and lease, of accepting surrenders of leases, and of appointing a receiver.

(2) An applicant, whether a farmer or a shepherd, for the issue of a certificate under this section shall—

(a) make and sign a declaration in such form as may be directed or prescribed under section eleven of this Act, stating the number of dogs kept by him solely for use in tending sheep or cattle or, as the case may be, in the exercise of his calling or occupation as a shepherd, and containing such further particulars as are required by the form of declaration to be therein stated; and

(b) deliver the declaration to such person as may be specified therein.

(3) A person who duly applies for the issue of a certificate under this section shall, subject to the provisions of section five of this Act or section six thereof, as the case may be, be entitled to receive a certificate of exemption from duty in respect of the dog or dogs, not exceeding two, kept by him as aforesaid.

(4) Where the occupier of a sheep farm owns more than four hundred sheep, which feed on common or unenclosed land, so that more than two dogs are required to be kept by him for the purpose of tending sheep, and those facts are stated in the declaration made by him under subsection (2) of this section, then, subject to the provisions of section five of this Act or section six thereof, as the case may be, he shall be entitled to receive a certificate of exemption from duty in respect of a third dog kept by him solely for that purpose, and if the number of sheep owned by him amounts to one thousand he shall be entitled to receive such a certificate in respect of a fourth dog so kept, and for every five hundred sheep owned by him over one thousand he shall be entitled to receive such a certificate in respect of an additional dog so kept, so however that he shall not be entitled to receive such a certificate in respect of more than eight dogs kept on the farm.

shall have effect as if, in the said section three, for the words "twenty years" there were substituted the words "twenty-seven years".

(2) The said proceedings are—

(a) proceedings in any action begun after the passing of this Act and before the first day of January, nineteen hundred and sixty-three;

(b) proceedings in any action begun on or after the fourteenth day of July, nineteen hundred and fifty-eight, but before the passing of this Act, except any such action which has been finally disposed of before the passing of this Act.

(3) The said sections three and six shall also have effect as mentioned in subsection (1) of this section for the purposes of any proceedings in any action begun on or after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and sixty-three, in so far as it falls to be determined in those proceedings whether—

(a) a person is entitled to an absolute and indefeasible right to the access and use of light to and for a dwelling-house, workshop or other building, and

(b) anything done or begun before the said first day of January (whether in pursuance of the following provisions of this Act or otherwise) constitutes, or if continued or completed would constitute, an infringement of that right.

(4) For the purposes of this section an action shall be taken to be finally disposed of on the earliest date by which the proceedings in the action have been determined and any time for appealing or further appealing has expired, except that, if the action is withdrawn or any appeal is abandoned, the action shall be taken to be finally disposed of on the date of the withdrawal or abandonment.

(5) In this section any reference to proceedings in an action includes a reference to any proceedings on or in consequence of an appeal from the decision in that action.

2.—(1) For the purpose of preventing the access and use of light from being taken to be enjoyed without interruption, any person who is an owner of land (in this and the next following section referred to as "the servient land") over which light passes to a dwelling-house, workshop or other building (in this and the next following section referred to as "the dominant building") may apply to the local authority in whose area the dominant building is situated for the registration of a notice under this section.

Registration of notice in lieu of obstruction of access of light.

(2) An application for the registration of a notice under this section shall be in the prescribed form and shall—

(a) identify the servient land and the dominant building in the prescribed manner, and

(b) state that the registration of a notice in pursuance of the application is intended to be equivalent to the obstruction of the access of light to the dominant building across the servient land which would be caused by the erection, in such position on the servient land as may be specified in the application, of an opaque structure of such dimensions (including, if the application so states, unlimited height) as may be so specified.

(3) Any such application shall be accompanied by one or other of the following certificates issued by the Lands Tribunal, that is to say,—

(a) a certificate certifying that adequate notice of the proposed application has been given to all persons who, in the circumstances existing at the time when the certificate is issued, appear to the Lands Tribunal to be persons likely to be affected by the registration of a notice in pursuance of the application ;

(b) a certificate certifying that, in the opinion of the Lands Tribunal, the case is one of exceptional urgency, and that accordingly a notice should be registered forthwith as a temporary notice for such period as may be specified in the certificate.

(4) Where application is duly made to a local authority for the registration of a notice under this section, it shall be the duty of the proper officer of that authority to register the notice in the prescribed manner in the register of local land charges.

(5) Provision shall be made by rules under section three of the Lands Tribunal Act, 1949, for regulating proceedings before the Lands Tribunal with respect to the issue of certificates for the purposes of this section, and, subject to the approval of the Treasury, the fees chargeable in respect of those proceedings ; and, without prejudice to the generality of subsection (6) of that section, any such rules made for the purposes of this section shall include provision—

(a) for requiring applicants for certificates under paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section to give such notices, whether by way of advertisement or otherwise, and to produce such documents and provide such information, as may be determined by or under the rules ;

(b) for determining the period to be specified in a certificate issued under paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section ; and

- (c) in connection with any certificate issued under the said paragraph (b), for enabling a further certificate to be issued in accordance (subject to the necessary modifications) with paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section.

3.—(1) Where, in pursuance of an application made in accordance with the last preceding section, a notice is registered thereunder, then, for the purpose of determining whether any person is entitled (by virtue of the Prescription Act, 1832, or otherwise) to a right to the access of light to the dominant building across the servient land, the access of light to that building across that land shall be treated as obstructed to the same extent, and with the like consequences, as if an opaque structure, of the dimensions specified in the application,—

Effect of registered notice and proceedings relating thereto.

- (a) had, on the date of registration of the notice, been erected in the position on the servient land specified in the application, and had been so erected by the person who made the application, and
- (b) had remained in that position during the period for which the notice has effect and had been removed at the end of that period.

(2) For the purposes of this section a notice registered under the last preceding section shall be taken to have effect until either—

- (a) the registration is cancelled, or
- (b) the period of one year beginning with the date of registration of the notice expires, or
- (c) in the case of a notice registered in pursuance of an application accompanied by a certificate issued under paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of the last preceding section, the period specified in the certificate expires without such a further certificate as is mentioned in paragraph (c) of subsection (5) of that section having before the end of that period been lodged with the local authority, and shall cease to have effect on the occurrence of any one of those events.

(3) Subject to the following provisions of this section, any person who, if such a structure as is mentioned in subsection (1) of this section had been erected as therein mentioned, would have had a right of action in any court in respect of that structure, on the grounds that he was entitled to a right to the access of light to the dominant building across the servient land, and that the said right was infringed by that structure, shall have the like right of action in that court in respect of the registration of a notice under the last preceding section:

Provided that an action shall not be begun by virtue of this subsection after the notice in question has ceased to have effect.

(4) Where, at any time during the period for which a notice registered under the last preceding section has effect, the circumstances are such that, if the access of light to the dominant building had been enjoyed continuously from a date one year earlier than the date on which the enjoyment thereof in fact began, a person would have had a right of action in any court by virtue of the last preceding subsection in respect of the registration of the notice, that person shall have the like right of action in that court by virtue of this subsection in respect of the registration of the notice.

(5) The remedies available to the plaintiff in an action brought by virtue of subsection (3) or subsection (4) of this section (apart from any order as to costs) shall be such declaration as the court may consider appropriate in the circumstances, and an order directing the registration of the notice to be cancelled or varied, as the court may determine.

(6) For the purposes of section four of the Prescription Act, 1832 (under which a period of enjoyment of any of the rights to which that Act applies is not to be treated as interrupted except by a matter submitted to or acquiesced in for one year after notice thereof)—

- (a) as from the date of registration of a notice under the last preceding section, all persons interested in the dominant building or any part thereof shall be deemed to have notice of the registration thereof and of the person on whose application it was registered;
- (b) until such time as an action is brought by virtue of subsection (3) or subsection (4) of this section in respect of the registration of a notice under the last preceding section, all persons interested in the dominant building or any part thereof shall be deemed to acquiesce in the obstruction which, in accordance with subsection (1) of this section, is to be treated as resulting from the registration of the notice;
- (c) as from the date on which such an action is brought, no person shall be treated as submitting to or acquiescing in that obstruction:

Provided that if, in any such action, the court decides against the claim of the plaintiff, the court may direct that the preceding provisions of this subsection shall apply in relation to the notice as if that action had not been brought.

Application to Crown land.

4.—(1) Subject to the next following subsection, this Act shall apply in relation to land in which there is a Crown or Duchy interest as it applies in relation to land in which there is no such interest.

(2) Section three of the Prescription Act, 1832, as modified by the preceding provisions of this Act, shall not by virtue of this section be construed as applying to any land to which (by reason that there is a Crown or Duchy interest therein) that section would not apply apart from this Act.

(3) In this section "Crown or Duchy interest" means an interest belonging to Her Majesty in right of the Crown or of the Duchy of Lancaster, or belonging to the Duchy of Cornwall, or belonging to a government department, or held in trust for Her Majesty for the purposes of a government department.

5.—(1) The power conferred by subsection (6) of section fifteen of the Land Charges Act, 1925, to make rules for giving effect to the provisions of that section shall be exercisable for giving effect to the provisions of section two of this Act, other than provisions relating to the Lands Tribunal. Power to make rules.

(2) Any rules made by virtue of subsection (6) of the said section fifteen as applied by the preceding subsection shall (without prejudice to the inclusion therein of other provisions as to cancelling or varying the registration of notices or agreements) include provision for giving effect to any order of the court under subsection (5) of section three of this Act.

6. No limitation or restriction imposed by virtue of any enactment on the powers of the Parliament of Northern Ireland shall preclude that Parliament from passing legislation for purposes similar to the purposes of any of the provisions of this Act. Corresponding legislation in Northern Ireland.

7.—(1) In this Act, except in so far as the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them respectively, that is to say:— Interpretation.

"action" includes a counterclaim, and any reference to the plaintiff in an action shall be construed accordingly;

"local authority", in relation to land in a county borough, county district or metropolitan borough, means the council of the borough or district, and, in relation to land in the City of London, means the Common Council of the City;

possession (within the meaning of the Law of Property Act, 1925) where the interest mortgaged is either the fee simple of the land or such a tenancy thereof ;

“prescribed” means prescribed by rules made by virtue of subsection (6) of section fifteen of the Land Charges Act, 1925, as applied by section five of this Act.

CHAPTER 57

An Act to make, as respects England and Wales, further provision against loitering or soliciting in public places for the purpose of prostitution, and for the punishment of those guilty of certain offences in connection with refreshment houses and those who live on the earnings of or control prostitutes.

[16th July, 1959]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—(1) It shall be an offence for a common prostitute to loiter or solicit in a street or public place for the purpose of prostitution.

Loitering or soliciting for purposes of prostitution.

(2) A person guilty of an offence under this section shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding ten pounds or, for an offence committed after a previous conviction, to a fine not exceeding twenty-five pounds or, for an offence committed after more than one previous conviction, to a fine not exceeding twenty-five pounds or imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months or both.

(3) A constable may arrest without warrant anyone he finds in a street or public place and suspects, with reasonable cause, to be committing an offence under this section.

(4) For the purposes of this section "street" includes any bridge, road, lane, footway, subway, square, court, alley or passage, whether a thoroughfare or not, which is for the time being open to the public; and the doorways and entrances of premises abutting on a street (as hereinbefore defined), and any ground adjoining and open to a street, shall be treated as forming part of the street.

(5) The following enactments shall cease to have effect, that is to say—

- (a) paragraph 11 of section fifty-four of the Metropolitan Police Act, 1839; and
- (b) the paragraph beginning "Every common prostitute" in section twenty-eight of the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847, and any later Act in so far as it incorporates that paragraph; and
- (c) paragraph 11 of section thirty-five of the City of London Police Act, 1839, and the paragraph beginning "Every common prostitute" in section one hundred and two of the Manchester Police Regulation Act, 1844;

but for the purposes of subsection (2) of this section a conviction of the offence mentioned in any of those paragraphs shall be taken into account as a previous conviction in the same way as a conviction of an offence under this section.

Application to court by woman cautioned for loitering or soliciting.

2.—(1) Where a woman is cautioned by a constable, in respect of her conduct in a street or public place, that if she persists in such conduct it may result in her being charged with an offence under section one of this Act, she may not later than fourteen clear days afterwards apply to a magistrates' court for an order directing that there is to be no entry made in respect of that caution in any record maintained by the police of those so cautioned and that any such entry already made is to be expunged; and the court shall make the order unless satisfied that on the occasion when she was cautioned she was loitering or soliciting in a street or public place for the purpose of prostitution.

(2) An application under this section shall be by way of complaint against the chief officer of police for the area in which the woman is cautioned or against such officer of police as he may designate for the purpose in relation to that area or any part of it; and, subject to any provision to the contrary in rules made under section fifteen of the Justices of the Peace Act, 1949, on the hearing of any such complaint the procedure shall be the same as if it were a complaint by the police officer against the woman, except that this shall not affect the operation of sections forty-seven to forty-nine of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952 (which relate to the non-attendance of the parties to a complaint).

(3) Unless the woman desires that the proceedings shall be conducted in public, an application under this section shall be heard and determined in camera.

(4) In this section references to a street shall be construed in accordance with subsection (4) of section one of this Act.

Punishment of offences in connection with night cafés.

3.—(1) The following provisions of this section shall have effect in relation to the punishment of offences to which section twenty-six of the Licensing Act, 1949, applies (being certain offences in connection with refreshment houses, that is to say, houses, rooms, shops or buildings kept open for public refreshment, resort and entertainment between ten o'clock at night and five o'clock on the following morning, not being licensed for the sale of beer, cider, wine or spirits).

(2) The maximum fines which may be imposed by virtue of subsection (3) of the said section twenty-six for offences against sections eighteen and thirty-two of the Refreshment Houses Act, 1860 (which provide for penalties for obstructing the police from entering refreshment houses, for allowing unlawful gaming therein, for allowing prostitutes, thieves or disorderly or drunken persons to be therein and for permitting contraventions of licences under that Act), shall be—

- (a) in the case of a person not previously convicted of an offence to which the said section twenty-six applies, twenty pounds (instead of five pounds); and
- (b) in the case of a person previously convicted as aforesaid, fifty pounds (instead of twenty pounds).

(3) In section nine of the said Act of 1860 (which imposes a penalty of twenty pounds for keeping an unlicensed refreshment house) for the words " shall forfeit a sum not exceeding twenty pounds " there shall be substituted the words " shall be liable on summary conviction to the penalties provided by section twenty-six of the Licensing Act, 1949 ", and subsection (3) of the said section twenty-six, as amended by subsection (2) of this section, shall apply, so far as it relates to fines, in relation to the said section nine as it applies in relation to sections eighteen and thirty-two of the said Act of 1860; and accordingly in subsection (1) of the said section twenty-six for the words " is adjudged liable to forfeit any sum ", there shall be substituted the words " is convicted ".

(4) The powers conferred by subsections (1) and (2) of the said section twenty-six to make on a person's conviction of an offence under the said section nine of the said Act of 1860 a disqualification order or an order for the forfeiture of a licence under the said Act of 1860, and the powers conferred by subsection (3) of the said section twenty-six to make such an order on a person's conviction of an offence under the said section eighteen or thirty-two of the said Act of 1860, shall be exercisable on a conviction, whether or not the person convicted has been previously convicted of an offence to which the said section twenty-six applies; and any power to make such an order under the said subsection (3) as so amended shall be exercisable also on a person's conviction of any of the other offences to which the said section twenty-six applies, that is to say, certain offences by a person keeping a refreshment house against section one hundred and twenty and subsection (3) of section one hundred and forty-nine of the Licensing Act, 1953 (which relate to the sale of intoxicating liquor without a licence, and to the consumption of intoxicating liquor at parties organised for gain).

(5) This section shall not have effect on a person's conviction of an offence committed before the commencement of this Act.

4. The maximum term of imprisonment to which a person is liable if convicted on indictment of an offence under section thirty of the Sexual Offences Act, 1956 (man living on earnings of prostitution), or under section thirty-one of that Act (woman exercising control over prostitute) shall, for offences committed after the commencement of this Act, be seven years; and accordingly, for offences so committed, in the Second Schedule to that Act, in items 30 and 31, " seven years " shall be substituted for " two years " in the third column.

Punishment for living on earnings of prostitution.

repeal, extent and commencement.

5.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Street Offences Act, 1959.

(4) Where an initial allowance falls to be made under section seventeen of the Finance Act, 1956 (dredging) in respect of expenditure incurred after the said seventh day of April,—

- (a) an investment allowance equal to one-tenth of the expenditure shall be made in addition to the initial allowance, and
- (b) the initial allowance shall be reduced from three-twentieths to one-twentieth, and any provision of the Income Tax Acts applicable to initial allowances under the said section seventeen shall apply also to investment allowances under this subsection, except that an investment allowance shall not be taken into account—

—cont.

- (i) in determining under paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of that section the period for which annual allowances are to continue to be made, or
- (ii) in determining under subsection (2) of that section the deduction to be made from the amount of the said expenditure for the purpose of calculating an additional allowance on the permanent discontinuance of the trade.

(5) The Fifth Schedule to this Act shall have effect for the purposes of investment allowances under the foregoing subsection.

(6) Expenditure shall not be treated for the purposes of this section as having been incurred after the said seventh day of April by reason only of any of the following provisions of the Income Tax Act, 1952 (which relate to expenditure incurred by a person for the purposes of a trade before he begins to carry it on), that is to say—

- subsection (6) of section two hundred and sixty-five,
- subsection (2) of section two hundred and seventy-nine, or
- subsection (1) of section three hundred and nine.

Investment allowance where ship purchased before taking over from builder.

22.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, where after the seventh day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine, a person incurs capital expenditure on the provision of a ship the expenditure shall not be prevented from being treated for investment allowance purposes as incurred on the provision of a new asset by the property in the ship or any part thereof having previously passed to a person other than the person incurring the expenditure if the ship has not been taken over from the builder by any such other person.

(2) The foregoing subsection shall not apply if any person other than the person incurring the expenditure has become entitled to an investment allowance in respect of the ship or would have become entitled to such an allowance by virtue of this section but for the limitation contained in the foregoing subsection to expenditure incurred after the said seventh day of April:

Provided that where such an other person has, or would have, become entitled as aforesaid as respects part only of his capital expenditure on the provision of the ship, the foregoing subsection shall apply, but the amount of expenditure in respect of which an investment allowance may be made by virtue of this section shall not exceed the amount qualifying for an investment allowance apart from any operation of the said limitation, reduced by the amount of the said part of the other person's capital expenditure.

—cont.

(3) Where rights under a contract for the provision of a ship are assigned after the ship has been begun, and either—

- (a) the assignor is a body of persons over whom the assignee has control (within the meaning assigned to that expression by subsection (1) of section three hundred and thirty-three of the Income Tax Act, 1952), or the assignee is a body of persons over whom the assignor has such control, or both the assignor and the assignee are bodies of persons and some other person has such control over both of them, or
- (b) it appears with respect to the assignment, or with respect to transactions of which the assignment is one, that the sole or main benefit which, apart from the provisions of this subsection, might have been expected to accrue to the parties or any of them was the obtaining of an increased investment allowance, then in relation to the making of any investment allowance falling to be made by virtue of this section no part of the consideration for the assignment shall be treated as expenditure incurred on the provision of the ship, but nothing in this subsection shall affect the consideration for a sale to the assignee of so much of the ship as is in existence before the assignment.

References in paragraph (a) of this subsection to a body of persons include references to a partnership.

(4) The Fourteenth Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1952 (which, where there is a sale between a buyer and a seller who are associated, makes special provision as to the price at which for income tax purposes the property is to be taken to have been sold) shall not operate so as to increase the amount of any investment allowance falling to be made by virtue of this section.

(5) Expenditure shall not be treated for the purposes of this section as having been incurred after the said seventh day of April by reason only of subsection (2) of section two hundred and seventy-nine of the Income Tax Act, 1952 (which relates to expenditure incurred by a person for the purposes of a trade before he begins to carry it on).

23.—(1) Subject as hereinafter provided the three next following sections relate to cases of a purchase by a person (in those sections referred to as "the first buyer") on or after the eighth day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine, of any securities and their subsequent sale by him, the result of the transaction being that interest becoming payable in respect of the securities (in those sections referred to as "the interest") is receivable by the first buyer.

Purchase and sale of securities: application of ss. 24-26.

—cont.

(2) The said sections do not relate to cases where—

- (a) the time elapsing between the purchase by the first buyer and his taking steps to dispose of the securities exceeded six months, or
- (b) that time exceeded one month and it is shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners having jurisdiction in the matter that the purchase and sale were each effected at the current market price, and that the sale was not effected in pursuance of an agreement or arrangement made before or at the time of the purchase.

(3) The reference in the foregoing subsection to the first buyer taking steps to dispose of the securities shall be construed—

- (a) if he sold them in the exercise of an option he had acquired, as a reference to his acquisition of the option,
- (b) in any other case, as a reference to his selling them.

(4) For the purposes of this and the three next following sections a sale of securities similar to, and of the like nominal amount as, securities previously bought (hereinafter referred to as "the original securities") shall be equivalent to a sale of the original securities, and the foregoing subsection shall apply accordingly; and where the first buyer bought parcels of similar securities at different times a subsequent sale of any of the securities shall so far as may be be related to the last to be bought of the parcels, and then to the last but one, and so on:

Provided that a person shall be under no greater liability to tax by virtue of this subsection than he would have been under if instead of selling the similar securities he had sold the original securities.

(5) Where at the time when a trade is, or is deemed to be, set up and commenced or at the time of any relevant change within the meaning of the Third Schedule to the Finance Act, 1954 (which relates to company reconstructions) any securities form part of the trading stock belonging to the trade, those securities shall be treated for the purposes of this section as having been sold at that time in the open market by the person to whom they belonged immediately before that time and as having been purchased at that time in the open market by the person thereafter engaged in carrying on the trade; and subject to the foregoing provisions of this subsection where there is a change in the persons engaged in carrying on a trade which is not a change on which the trade is deemed to be discontinued and which is not such a relevant change as aforesaid, the provisions of this section shall apply in relation to the person so engaged after the change as if anything done to or by his predecessor had been done to or by him.

—cont.

(6) For the purposes of this and the three next following sections—

- (a) “ interest ” includes a dividend ;
- (b) “ person ” includes any body of persons, and references to a person entitled to any exemption from income tax include, in a case of an exemption expressed to apply to income of a trust or fund, references to the persons entitled to make claims for the granting of that exemption ;
- (c) “ securities ” includes stocks and shares ;
- (d) securities shall be deemed to be similar if they entitle their holders to the same rights against the same persons as to capital and interest and the same remedies for the enforcement of those rights, notwithstanding any difference in the total nominal amounts of the respective securities or in the form in which they are held or the manner in which they can be transferred, and for the purposes of this paragraph rights guaranteed by the Treasury shall be treated as rights against the Treasury.

24.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, if the first buyer is engaged in carrying on a trade which consists of or comprises dealings in securities, then in computing for any of the purposes of the Income Tax Acts the profits arising from or loss sustained in the trade the price paid by him for the securities shall be reduced by the appropriate amount in respect of the interest, as determined in accordance with the Sixth Schedule to this Act.

Purchase and sale of securities: dealers in securities.

(2) The foregoing subsection shall not apply if the first buyer—

- (a) is in the opinion of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue bona fide carrying on the business of a discount house in the United Kingdom, or
- (b) is a member of the London Stock Exchange who is recognised by the committee thereof as carrying on the business of a jobber, or
- (c) is a member of any other stock exchange in the United Kingdom who is recognised by the committee thereof as carrying on the business of a dealer, and the securities were bought in the ordinary course of his said business and, in the case of a dealer such as is mentioned in paragraph (c) of this subsection, were securities in which he was authorised by the said committee to deal.

(3) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply if the purchase of the securities by the first buyer and their resale, or as the case may be the subsequent sale of similar securities, constitute a transaction which is to be left out of account in computing profits or losses by virtue of subsection (3) of section two hundred and three of the Income Tax Act, 1952 (agreements for purchase and resale of securities by dealers).

(4) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply if the interest is to any extent required to be brought into account under section four of the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1955, as if it were a trading receipt which had not borne tax, or would to any extent be so required to be brought into account but for the provisions of paragraph 2 of the Third Schedule to that Act (which exclude dividends at rates not unusually high payable on shares acquired during the preceding twelve months).

(5) Subsection (1) of this section shall not apply if the securities are overseas securities bought by the first buyer on a stock exchange outside the United Kingdom in the ordinary course of his trade as a dealer in securities and the following conditions are satisfied, namely—

- (a) the interest is brought into account in computing for the purposes of the Income Tax Acts the profits arising from or loss sustained in the trade ;
- (b) the first buyer has not claimed, and undertakes not to claim, any relief available to him in respect of the interest under section two hundred and one of the Income Tax Act, 1952 (relief from tax on dividends from overseas companies who have paid United Kingdom income tax) ; and
- (c) where credit against income tax or profits tax would fall to be allowed in respect of the interest under section three hundred and forty-seven or three hundred and forty-eight of the Income Tax Act, 1952 (double taxation relief), the first buyer elects that credit shall not be so allowed.

In this subsection “ overseas securities ” means securities of the government of, or of a body of persons resident in, any country or territory outside the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland.

Purchase and sale of securities: persons entitled to exemptions.

25.—(1) If the first buyer is entitled under any enactment to an exemption from income tax which, apart from this subsection, would extend to the interest, then subject to the provisions of this section the exemption shall not extend to an amount equal to the appropriate amount in respect of the interest, as determined in accordance with the Sixth Schedule to this Act:

—cont.

Provided that if the first buyer is entitled as aforesaid and any annual payment is payable by him out of the interest, the annual payment shall be deemed as to the whole thereof to be paid out of profits or gains not brought into charge to tax, and section one hundred and seventy of the Income Tax Act, 1952, shall apply accordingly.

(2) This section shall not apply where the exemption arises from the residence of the first buyer in the Republic of Ireland.

26.—(1) If the first buyer carries on a trade not falling within section twenty-four of this Act, then in ascertaining whether any or what repayment of tax is to be made to him under section three hundred and forty-one of the Income Tax Act, 1952, subsection (3) of section fifteen of the Finance Act, 1953, or paragraph 3 of the Third Schedule to the Finance Act, 1954, by reference to any loss sustained in the trade and the aggregate amount of his income for the year of assessment his income for which includes the interest, there shall be left out of account—

Purchase and sale of securities: traders other than dealers in securities.

(a) the appropriate amount in respect of the interest, as determined in accordance with the Sixth Schedule to this Act, and

(b) any tax paid on that amount.

(2) Where the first buyer is a company and carries on a trade not falling within section twenty-four of this Act or a business consisting mainly in the making of investments, then—

(a) the appropriate amount in respect of the interest, as determined in accordance with the Sixth Schedule to this Act, shall be left out of account in determining for the purposes of section twenty of the Finance Act, 1953 (payments between associated companies in respect of losses) whether the company has any surplus for tax purposes during any period or what is the amount of that surplus; and

(b) if any annual payment payable by the company is to any extent payable out of the interest, that annual payment shall be deemed to that extent not to be payable out of profits or gains brought into charge to tax, and section one hundred and seventy of the Income Tax Act, 1952, shall apply accordingly.

(3) In sub-paragraph (3) of paragraph 5 of the Third Schedule to the Finance (No. 2) Act, 1955, after paragraph (d) (which provides, in the case of a company not engaged in carrying on a trade falling within section twenty-four of this Act, for deducting certain amounts from income in determining whether a dividend has been paid out of accumulated profits) there shall be inserted the following:—

“ and

- (e) if the company is not engaged as aforesaid, but were it so engaged any reduction under section twenty-four of the Finance Act, 1959, would, or would but for subsection (3) or (4) of that section, fall to be made as respects the price paid by the company for securities (within the meaning of that section) bought by it in a year of assessment in the period, such amount as would, after deduction of income tax at the standard rate in force in that year of assessment, be equal to the amount of the reduction, so however that where the securities are of the description specified in paragraph 4 of the Sixth Schedule to that Act the amount shall be the amount of the reduction,” in sub-paragraph (3) of paragraph 4 of that Schedule (which provides for leaving out of account, in determining the profits of a company for a given period, tax on any amount to be deducted under paragraph (d) of sub-paragraph (3) of paragraph 5 of that Schedule) after the word “(d)” there shall be inserted the words “or (e)”, and subsection (5) of section eighteen of the Finance Act, 1958 (which, in the case of companies falling within the said paragraph (d), contains modifications of the enactments relating to dividends paid out of accumulated profits) shall apply where a company satisfies the conditions specified in the new paragraph (e) set out in this subsection as it applies where a company such as is mentioned in the said paragraph (d) has received such a dividend as is mentioned therein.

- (4) In this section “company” includes any body corporate.

Overseas Trade Corporations: avoidance of disqualification by holding companies.

27.—(1) Where a principal company not itself carrying on trade but having a subsidiary company resident in the United Kingdom satisfies the Commissioners of Inland Revenue that for any period for which the status of the principal company falls to be determined under section thirty of the Finance Act, 1957, the principal company failed apart from this section to qualify as an Overseas Trade Corporation by reason only that, in consequence of some act done by the subsidiary company of which the principal company had no previous knowledge and from which it obtained no material advantage, the principal company was excluded by the proviso to subsection (1) of section twenty-three of that Act (holding companies excluded if having subsidiaries resident in the United Kingdom which are not Overseas Trade Corporations), then if the Commissioners of Inland Revenue in their discretion so direct the act shall not prevent the principal company being treated as an Overseas Trade Corporation for that period.

—cont.

(2) The powers conferred on the Commissioners of Inland Revenue by the foregoing subsection are in addition to, and not in derogation from, the powers conferred by subsection (2) of the said section thirty (under which the Commissioners may direct to be disregarded disqualifying acts done by the company whose status is in question and disqualifying events over which that company had no control).

(3) This section shall be construed as one with Part IV of the Finance Act, 1957; and subsection (4) of the said section thirty (which relates to appeals) shall apply in relation to the refusal of a direction under this section as it applies in relation to the refusal of a direction under subsection (2) of the said section thirty.

28.—(1) Where an assurance company having its head office in the United Kingdom carries on business in the Republic of Ireland, and under provisions of the law of that country corresponding with section twenty-four of the Finance Act, 1956, exemption from income tax is allowable in respect of income from investments and deposits referable to pension annuity business, section four hundred and twenty-nine of the Income Tax Act, 1952 (under which income from investments of the foreign life assurance fund of an assurance company is treated for income tax purposes as if the company were not ordinarily resident in the United Kingdom) shall apply in relation to the income as if paragraph 3 of Part III of the Eighteenth Schedule to that Act (which excludes from foreign life assurance business any business transacted in the Republic of Ireland) did not have effect.

(2) Sub-paragraph (1) of paragraph 2 of Part III of the said Eighteenth Schedule (which charges tax under Case IV or Case V of Schedule D, on profits or gains arising in the Republic of Ireland, on the full amount of the income arising in the year of assessment, whether remitted to the United Kingdom or not) shall have effect subject to the foregoing subsection.

29.—(1) The Agreement made on the fourth day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine between the Governments of the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland relating to the Agreements set out in the Eighteenth Schedule to the Income Tax Act, 1952 (which first-mentioned Agreement is set out in the Seventh Schedule to this Act) is hereby confirmed, and, subject to the necessary steps being taken to give it the force of law in the Republic of Ireland, shall have effect accordingly.

and the said section one hundred shall not apply in relation to an insurance or a policy effecting an insurance if the insurance is such that a policy effecting it is exempt from all stamp duties.

(5) Paragraphs (2) to (5) of section twenty-three of the Marine Insurance Act, 1906, and subsection (2) of section twenty-five thereof (which are derived from provisions contained in section ninety-three of the Stamp Act, 1891) shall cease to have effect.

(6) Notwithstanding the repeal of section ninety-three of the Stamp Act, 1891, a contract for such insurance as is mentioned in section five hundred and six of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, shall continue to be admissible in evidence although not embodied in a marine policy as required by section twenty-two of the Marine Insurance Act, 1906.

PART V

MISCELLANEOUS

Profits tax: increase of limits on deductions for
remuneration.

33.—(1) Paragraph 11 of the Fourth Schedule to the Finance Act, 1937 (which, as set out in section thirty-four of the Finance Act, 1952, limits the deduction which may be made for the purposes of the profits tax in respect of the remuneration of full-time working directors of director-controlled companies) shall have effect with the substitution for any reference to two thousand five hundred pounds of a reference to three thousand pounds, for any reference to four thousand pounds of a reference to five thousand pounds, for any reference to five thousand five hundred pounds of a reference to seven thousand pounds, for any reference to seven thousand pounds of a reference to nine thousand pounds, and for any reference to one thousand five hundred pounds of a reference to two thousand pounds.

(2) The foregoing subsection shall apply to chargeable accounting periods ending after the beginning of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine:

Provided that in the case of a period beginning before that time the maximum deduction to be allowed in respect of the remuneration of directors other than whole-time service directors shall be the aggregate of the following amounts, that is to say—

- (a) the amount which would have been the maximum if this section had not had effect, reduced in the proportion which so much of the period as elapsed before that time bears to the whole;
- (b) the amount which would have been the maximum apart from this proviso, reduced in the proportion which the remainder of the period bears to the whole.

Estate duty:
life insurance policies.

34.—(1) So much of section eleven of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1889, as imposes duty in respect of any policy kept up by the deceased in favour of a nominee or assignee, and section seventy-six of the Finance Act, 1948 (which relates to estate duty where policies are kept up or effected under settlements), shall cease to have effect.

(2) Where by way of gift a person pays a premium under a policy of assurance on his life in circumstances where the payment does not fall to be treated for estate duty purposes both as a gift and as one of money, and, by reason of assignment or otherwise, the payment operates to keep up the policy for the benefit of another person (hereinafter referred to as "the donee"), then for estate duty purposes the payment shall be treated as a gift to the donee of rights under the policy, and the property comprised in the gift shall be treated for those purposes as standing at the payor's death (whether or not the policy continues on foot till that time) at a value equal to the proportion of the value of the policy which the amount of the premium bears to the aggregate amount of all relevant premiums.

(3) Where by reason of any dealing with a policy of life assurance property would under paragraph (c) of subsection (1) of section two of the Finance Act, 1894, and apart from this subsection, be deemed to have passed on the death of the assured, the property so deemed to have passed shall be treated as standing at the assured's death (whether or not the policy continues on foot till that time) at a value equal to the proportion of the value of the policy which the aggregate amount of all premiums paid under the policy before the dealing with the policy bears to the aggregate amount of all relevant premiums.

(4) For the purposes of the two foregoing subsections the value of a policy shall be determined as follows:—

- (a) subject to the following paragraph, the value shall be taken to be the value, as at the death, of the benefits receivable under the policy on the death or other event on which they are receivable;
- (b) the foregoing paragraph shall not apply in relation to any payment of a premium or dealing with a policy if any dealing with the policy has subsequently taken place either so as to alter the beneficial interest in the rights under the policy or by way of surrender, but in such a case the value shall be ascertained by reference to the time of the subsequent dealing (or of the first, if there has been more than one), and shall be taken to be the value at that time of the consideration therefor, or if there was no consideration or (in the case of a dealing other than a surrender) its value was less than the market value of the policy at that time, that market value.

(5) In this section "relevant premiums" means premiums paid under the policy (whoever paid them) which—

- (a) where paragraph (a) of the foregoing subsection applies, have been paid before the maturity of the policy, or
- (b) where paragraph (b) of that subsection applies, have been paid before the time by reference to which the value of the policy falls to be ascertained.

(6) If for the purposes of the law relating to the exemption from estate duty of gifts not exceeding a specified amount any gift falling within this section is to be valued as at the date of the gift, then—

- (a) if the gift falls within subsection (2) of this section, its value shall be taken to be the proportion of the market value of the policy at the date of the gift which the amount of the premium bears to the aggregate amount of the premium and all premiums previously paid under the policy (whoever paid them);

—cont.

(b) if the gift falls within subsection (3) of this section, its value shall be taken to be the market value of the policy at the date of the gift.

(7) Section thirty-eight of the Finance Act, 1957 (which relates to estate duty on gifts inter vivos where the donee ceases to have possession and enjoyment of property comprised in a gift), except subsection (11) (which provides for marginal relief in the case of gifts exceeding five hundred pounds), shall not apply to any gift falling within this section.

(8) This section shall be construed as one with Part I of the Finance Act, 1894.

(9) This section shall have effect in the case of a person dying after the seventh day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine, except that subsection (2) of this section shall not apply in a case (not being a case where subsection (3) of this section applies) where the policy matured, or was surrendered, before the twenty-second day of that month.

35.—(1) In the case of persons dying after the coming into operation of this section, any provision of the enactments relating to estate duty which imposes, in connection with a gift of property or the disposition or determination of an interest in property, a condition that property shall have been possessed or enjoyed by a person to the entire exclusion of another person or of any benefit to him by contract or otherwise shall be applied in accordance with the following provisions of this section.

(2) In the case of property being an interest in land, or being chattels, retention or assumption by the said other person of actual occupation of the land or actual enjoyment of an incorporeal right over the land, or actual possession of the chattels, shall be disregarded if for full consideration in money or money's worth.

(3) In the case of a gift, a benefit which the said other person obtained by virtue of any associated operations (as defined by section fifty-nine of the Finance Act, 1940) of which the gift is one shall be treated as a benefit to him by contract or otherwise.

(4) This section shall be construed as one with Part I of the Finance Act, 1894.

(5) In the application of this section to Scotland, for references to chattels there shall be substituted references to corporeal moveables.

36. In subsection (3) of section forty-two of the Finance Act, 1956 (which, as amended by section thirty-six of the Finance Act, 1958, limits to one thousand and seventy million pounds the total of the advances which may be made under the said section forty-two and prohibits the making of such advances after the end of August, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine) for the words "one thousand and seventy" there shall be substituted the words "one thousand six hundred and twenty" and for the words "nineteen hundred and fifty-nine" there shall be substituted the words "nineteen hundred and sixty".

AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED KINGDOM AND THE GOVERNMENT OF THE REPUBLIC OF IRELAND WITH RESPECT TO CERTAIN EXEMPTIONS FROM TAX.

The Government of the United Kingdom and the Government of the Republic of Ireland,

Considering the Agreement of the 14th April, 1926, between the British Government and the Government of the Irish Free State, in pursuance of which exemptions from tax are conferred on persons resident in one only of the countries from tax under the law of the other,

Considering that doubts have arisen as to the effect on the said exemptions of the provisions of subsection (2) of Section four of the United Kingdom Finance (No. 2) Act, 1955 (hereinafter called "the Act of 1955") and subsection (2) of Section fifty-one of the Irish Republican Finance Act, 1958 (hereinafter called "the Act of 1958") (which relate to purchases of shares by persons exempted from tax), 7TH SCH.

—cont.

Desiring to remove these doubts for the year 1959–60 and subsequent years,

Have agreed as follows:—

Article 1

(1) The said exemptions fall within, and are subject to, the said provisions of the Act of 1955 and the Act of 1958.

(2) Subject as aforesaid the said Agreement of 1926 as amended by Agreements made on the 25th April, 1928, and the 21st July, 1947, continues in force.

(3) Paragraph (1) of this Article does not relate to cases where the dividend in respect of which exemption is claimed is one on a holding of shares or stock acquired by the person claiming exemption, or regarded as having been acquired by him, before the eighth day of April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine except in so far as that dividend is one falling within subsection (2) of the said Section four or subsection (2) of the said Section fifty-one by reason (directly or indirectly) that in respect of another dividend, received by a body corporate other than the person claiming exemption from a holding of shares or stock acquired, or regarded as acquired, by the body corporate on or after the said eighth day of April, a deduction is to be made in determining the income of that body corporate arising after a given date; but this paragraph is without prejudice to any question as to the application of the said provisions of the Act of 1955 and the Act of 1958 in circumstances to which paragraph (1) of this Article does not relate.

Article 2,

This Agreement shall become effective on the exchange of notes confirming that the necessary steps have been taken to give it the force of law in the United Kingdom and the Republic of Ireland, and thereafter shall remain effective only so long as it has the force of law in both countries.

The Treasury may issue out of the Consolidated Fund of the United Kingdom, and apply towards making good the supply granted to Her Majesty for the service of the year ending on the thirty-first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and sixty, the sum of two thousand, eight hundred and fourteen million, eighty-five thousand, three hundred and fifty-seven pounds.

out of the Consolidated Fund for the service of the year ending 31st March

Power for the Treasury to borrow.

2.—(1) The Treasury may borrow from any person, by the issue of Treasury Bills or otherwise, and the Bank of England and the Bank of Ireland may advance to the Treasury on the credit of the said sum, any sum or sums not exceeding in the whole two thousand, eight hundred and fourteen million, eighty-five thousand, three hundred and fifty-seven pounds.

c. 2.

(2) The date of payment of any Treasury Bills issued under this section shall be a date not later than the thirty-first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and sixty, and section six of the Treasury Bills Act, 1877 (which relates to the renewal of bills) shall not apply with respect to those bills.

(3) Any money borrowed otherwise than on Treasury Bills shall be repaid, with any interest payable thereon, out of the Consolidated Fund, at any period not later than the next succeeding quarter to that in which the money was borrowed.

(4) Any money borrowed under this section shall be placed to the credit of the account of the Exchequer, and shall form part of the said Consolidated Fund, and be available in any manner in which such Fund is available.

APPROPRIATION OF GRANTS

Appropriation of sums voted for supply services.

3. All sums granted by this Act and the other Acts mentioned in Schedule (A) annexed to this Act out of the said Consolidated Fund towards making good the supply granted to Her Majesty amounting, as appears by the said schedule, in the aggregate, to the sum of five thousand and sixty-four million, five hundred and seventy-nine thousand, one hundred and ten pounds, eighteen shillings and one penny are appropriated, and shall be deemed to have been appropriated as from the date of the passing of the Acts mentioned in the said Schedule (A), for the services and purposes expressed in Schedule (B) annexed hereto.

The abstract of schedules and schedules annexed hereto, with the notes (if any) to such schedules, shall be deemed to be part of this Act in the same manner as if they had been contained in the body thereof.

In addition to the said sums granted out of the Consolidated Fund, there may be applied out of any money directed, under section two of the Public Accounts and Charges Act, 1891, to be applied as appropriations in aid of the grants for the services and purposes specified in Schedule (B) annexed hereto the sums respectively set forth in the last column of the said schedule.

4.—(1) So long as the aggregate expenditure on Navy, Army, and Air Services respectively is not made to exceed the aggregate sums appropriated by this Act for those services respectively, any surplus arising on any vote for those services either by an excess of the sum realised on account of appropriations in aid of the vote over the sum which may be applied under this Act as appropriations in aid of that vote, or by saving of expenditure on that vote, may, with the sanction of the Treasury, be temporarily applied either in making up any deficiency in the sums realised on account of appropriations in aid of any other vote in the same department, or in defraying expenditure in the same department which is not provided for in the sums appropriated to the service of the department by this Act, and which it may be detrimental to the public service to postpone until provision can be made for it by Parliament in the usual course.

Sanction of Treasury for temporary application of surpluses on certain votes for Navy, Army, and Air Services, to meet deficiencies on other votes for the same service.

(2) A statement showing all cases in which the sanction of the Treasury has been given to the temporary application of a surplus under this section, and showing the circumstances under which the sanction of the Treasury has been given, shall be laid before the House of Commons with the appropriation accounts of the Navy, Army, and Air Services for the year, in order that any temporary application of any surplus sanctioned by the Treasury under this section may be submitted for the sanction of Parliament.

5. Whereas under the powers given for the purpose by the Appropriation Acts, 1957 and 1958, surpluses arising on certain votes for Navy, Army and Air Services have been applied towards making good deficits on those services respectively as shown in the statements set out in Schedule (C) to this Act:

Sanction for application of surpluses on certain Navy, Army and Air Votes for 1957-58.
5 & 6 Eliz. 2. c. 63.
6 & 7 Eliz. 2. c. 57.

It is enacted that the application of those surpluses as shown in the said statements is hereby sanctioned.

6. This Act may be cited for all purposes as the Appropriation Act, 1959.

CHAPTER 60

An Act to enlarge the powers of the Minister of Education to make contributions, grants and loans in respect of aided schools and special agreement schools, and for purposes connected therewith. [29th July, 1959]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, in the following sections of the Education Act, 1944 (which provide for the making of contributions or grants by the Minister of Education in respect of aided schools and special agreement schools), that is to say—

Extended powers to make contributions, etc.

7 & 8 Geo. 6. c. 31.

- (a) section one hundred and two (maintenance contributions); and
- (b) section one hundred and three (grants for schools transferred to new sites or established in substitution for former schools); and
- (c) section one hundred and four (grants for schools established for accommodation of displaced pupils);

three-quarters of the expenses in respect of which the contribution or grant is made shall be substituted for one half as the amount of the contribution, or as the maximum amount of the grant, as the case may be.

(2) Where the Minister of Education—

- (a) has approved proposals submitted to him under subsection (2) of section thirteen of the Education Act, 1944, that a school proposed to be established should be maintained by a local education authority as a voluntary school, and has directed that the proposed school shall be an aided school; and
- (b) is satisfied that the establishment of the school is wholly or mainly due to the need of providing secondary education for pupils for whom primary education was provided at schools in the area to be served by the proposed school, being schools which—
 - (i) are aided schools or special agreement schools; and
 - (ii) either were aided schools or special agreement schools before the relevant date or were established in pursuance of proposals approved before that date under subsection (4) of the said section thirteen, or have replaced schools satisfying the conditions of this sub-paragraph;

then, subject to the provisions of this section, he may, out of moneys provided by Parliament, pay to the governors of the proposed school, in respect of any sums expended by them on the provision of a site for the school or of the school buildings, a grant not exceeding three-quarters of those sums.

(3) Where under subsection (4) of section sixty-seven of the Education Act, 1944, the Minister determines that any alterations to the school premises of an aided school or of a special agreement school would amount to the establishment of a new school, subsection (2) of this section shall apply as if in paragraph (a) the words "and has directed that the proposed school shall be an aided school" were omitted.

(4) For the purposes of section one hundred and five of the Education Act, 1944 (which authorises the Minister of Education to make loans to the managers or governors of aided schools and special agreement schools for certain initial expenses involving capital expenditure), any expenses in respect of which the Minister may make a grant under subsection (2) of this section shall be included in the expression "initial expenses", and in determining the governors' share of any initial expenses the amount of any such grant paid or payable in respect of them shall be taken into account in the same way as grants under sections one hundred and three and one hundred and four of that Act.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (2) of this section, a school "replaces" another if, but only if, the Minister by an order under section sixteen of the Education Act, 1944, directs that it shall be established in substitution for the other, or grant is payable under section one hundred and four of that Act in respect of the provision at it of education for displaced pupils from the other, or it is constituted in pursuance of an order dividing the other under section two of the Education Act, 1946.

9 & 10 Geo. 6.
c. 50.

(6) The Minister shall not make a grant in respect of the same expenditure both under subsection (2) of this section and under section one hundred and three or one hundred and four of the Education Act, 1944.

(7) Nothing in this section shall extend to contributions or grants in respect of expenditure on work which—

- (a) was begun before the relevant date; or
- (b) was approved by the Minister before that date under subsection (6) of section thirteen of the Education Act, 1944, or under any arrangements relating to work to which that section does not apply; or
- (c) was included in a programme notified to a local education authority as the main building programme approved by the Minister for the twelve months beginning with April, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine, or for any earlier period; or in respect of expenditure on the provision of the site on which or buildings to which any such work was done or proposed to be done.

(8) In this section "the relevant date" means the fifteenth day of June, nineteen hundred and fifty-nine; and any provision of the Education Acts, 1944 to 1953, which assigns a meaning for the purposes of the Education Act, 1944, to any expression used in this section shall have effect also for the purposes of this section.

2.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Education Act, 1959, and this Act and the Education Acts, 1944 to 1953, may be cited together as the Education Acts, 1944 to 1959. Short title, citation and extent.

(2) This Act does not extend to Scotland or to Northern Ireland.

- (a) on such date as may be specified in the order the property of the corporation (other than property excepted under the following provisions of this Act) shall vest in the Commission, and the corporation shall cease to act except for the purpose of taking such steps (if any) as may be authorised or required by the order to dispose of any property so excepted, to prepare its final accounts and report, or otherwise to wind up its affairs ; and
- (b) on that date or such later date as may be fixed by or under the order, the corporation shall be dissolved.

(2) The provisions of the Second Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the transfer to the Commission by an order under this section of the property of a development corporation and with respect to matters arising out of the transfer or out of the dissolution of the corporation ; and the Minister may by order under this section make such further incidental or supplementary provisions as appear to the Minister to be necessary or expedient in relation to any such matter.

- (d) where the development corporation had entered into authorised arrangements within the meaning of Part I of the Housing (Financial Provisions) Act, 1958, then for the purpose of those arrangements the Commission shall be deemed to be a housing association within the meaning of the Housing Act, 1957, and any enactment applying in relation to the development corporation as a housing association or in virtue of the arrangements shall apply in like manner to the Commission.

(4) Section seven of the New Towns Act, 1946 (which relates to the provision of highways), and, so far as it has effect for the purposes of the said section seven, section twenty-three of that Act shall, notwithstanding anything in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, continue to have effect in relation to the town for such period (if any) as may be specified in the order under section six of this Act relating to the town ; and that order may provide that any other enactment applying in relation to the town immediately before the transfer date shall continue to apply, subject or not to any modifications specified in the order.

(2) Where a house or hostel provided by or transferred to the Commission as aforesaid is transferred to a local authority within the meaning of Part I of the Housing (Financial Provisions) Act, 1958, the foregoing sub-paragraph shall not have the effect of applying subsection (3) of section nineteen or subsection (2) of section twenty-two of that Act, but—

- (a) any subsidy or contribution payable by virtue of that sub-paragraph in respect of the house or hostel shall cease to be payable ; and
- (b) the Minister shall (subject to any power under that Act to reduce, suspend or discontinue any payments) pay to the local authority sums equivalent to the subsidies or contributions which would be payable in respect of the house or hostel if it had not been transferred to the authority ; and any payment which the Minister is authorised to make under paragraph (b) of this sub-paragraph shall be included in the expression "exchequer payment" as defined in subsection (2) of section fifty-eight of that Act.

(3) In respect of expenditure of a development corporation on matters other than the provision of housing accommodation, the Minister may with the approval of the Treasury make to the Commission payments not exceeding those which, in his opinion, he would have made to the corporation under subsection (2) of section twelve of the New Towns Act, 1946.

(2) Advances made to the Commission for the purposes mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph shall be left out of account in applying the limit imposed by subsection (1) of section three of this Act on advances under that subsection, but the making of an advance to the Commission for those purposes shall be subject to the same limit on the amount of the advance as if it were being made to a development corporation under subsection (1) of section twelve of the New Towns Act, 1946.

(3) Where the liabilities of a development corporation for the repayment of advances under subsection (1) of section twelve of the New Towns Act, 1946, or for the payment of interest on such advances, are transferred to the Commission, subsections (5) to (7)

4. Defence of public good.
5. Citation, commencement and extent.

An Act to amend the law relating to the publication of obscene matter; to provide for the protection of literature; and to strengthen the law concerning pornography. [29th July, 1959]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1.—(1) For the purposes of this Act an article shall be deemed Test of obscenity. to be obscene if its effect or (where the article comprises two or more distinct items) the effect of any one of its items is, if taken as a whole, such as to tend to deprave and corrupt persons who are likely, having regard to all relevant circumstances, to read, see or hear the matter contained or embodied in it.

(2) In this Act “article” means any description of article containing or embodying matter to be read or looked at or both, any sound record, and any film or other record of a picture or pictures.

(3) For the purposes of this Act a person publishes an article who—

(a) distributes, circulates, sells, lets on hire, gives, or lends it, or who offers it for sale or for letting on hire; or

(b) in the case of an article containing or embodying matter to be looked at or a record, shows, plays or projects it:

Provided that paragraph (b) of this subsection shall not apply to anything done in the course of a cinematograph exhibition (within the meaning of the Cinematograph Act, 1952), other than one excluded from the Cinematograph Act, 1909, by subsection (4) of section seven of that Act (which relates to exhibitions in private houses to which the public are not admitted), or to anything done in the course of television or sound broadcasting. 15 & 16 Geo. 6 & 1 Eliz. 2. c. 68. 9 Edw. 7. c. 30.

Prohibition of publication of obscene matter.

2.—(1) Subject as hereinafter provided, any person who, whether for gain or not, publishes an obscene article shall be liable—

- (a) on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months;
- (b) on conviction on indictment to a fine or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years or both.

15 & 16 Geo. 6 & 1 Eliz 2. c. 55. (2) Notwithstanding anything in section one hundred and four of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, summary proceedings for an offence against this section may be brought at any time within twelve months from the commission of the offence; and paragraph 16 of the First Schedule to the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952 (under which an offence at common law of publishing, exhibiting or selling obscene articles may be tried summarily) is hereby repealed.

(3) A prosecution on indictment for an offence against this section shall not be commenced more than two years after the commission of the offence.

(4) A person publishing an article shall not be proceeded against for an offence at common law consisting of the publication of any matter contained or embodied in the article where it is of the essence of the offence that the matter is obscene.

(5) A person shall not be convicted of an offence against this section if he proves that he had not examined the article in respect of which he is charged and had no reasonable cause to suspect that it was such that his publication of it would make him liable to be convicted of an offence against this section.

(6) In any proceedings against a person under this section the question whether an article is obscene shall be determined without regard to any publication by another person unless it could reasonably have been expected that the publication by the other person would follow from publication by the person charged.

Powers of search and seizure.

3.—(1) If a justice of the peace is satisfied by information on oath that there is reasonable ground for suspecting that, in any premises in the petty sessions area for which he acts, or on any stall or vehicle in that area, being premises or a stall or vehicle specified in the information, obscene articles are, or are from time to time, kept for publication for gain, the justice may issue a warrant under his hand empowering any constable to enter (if need be by force) and search the premises, or to search the stall or vehicle, within fourteen days from the date of the warrant, and to seize and remove any articles found therein or thereon which the constable has reason to believe to be obscene articles and to be kept for publication for gain.

(2) A warrant under the foregoing subsection shall, if any obscene articles are seized under the warrant, also empower the seizure and removal of any documents found in the premises or, as the case may be, on the stall or vehicle which relate to a trade or business carried on at the premises or from the stall or vehicle.

(3) Any articles seized under subsection (1) of this section shall be brought before a justice of the peace acting for the same petty sessions area as the justice who issued the warrant, and the justice before whom the articles are brought may thereupon issue a summons to the occupier of the premises or, as the case may be, the user of the stall or vehicle to appear on a day specified in the summons before a magistrates' court for that petty sessions area to show cause why the articles or any of them should not be forfeited; and if the court is satisfied, as respects any of the articles, that at the time when they were seized they were obscene articles kept for publication for gain, the court shall order those articles to be forfeited:

Provided that if the person summoned does not appear, the court shall not make an order unless service of the summons is proved.

(4) In addition to the person summoned, any other person being the owner, author or maker of any of the articles brought before the court, or any other person through whose hands they had passed before being seized, shall be entitled to appear before the court on the day specified in the summons to show cause why they should not be forfeited.

(5) Where an order is made under this section for the forfeiture of any articles, any person who appeared, or was entitled to appear, to show cause against the making of the order may appeal to quarter sessions; and no such order shall take effect until the expiration of fourteen days after the day on which the order is made, or, if before the expiration thereof notice of appeal is duly given or application is made for the statement of a case for the opinion of the High Court, until the final determination or abandonment of the proceedings on the appeal or case.

(6) If as respects any articles brought before it the court does not order forfeiture, the court may if it thinks fit order the person on whose information the warrant for the seizure of the articles was issued to pay such costs as the court thinks reasonable to any person who has appeared before the court to show cause why those articles should not be forfeited; and costs ordered to be paid under this subsection shall be enforceable as a civil debt.

(7) For the purposes of this section the question whether an article is obscene shall be determined on the assumption that copies of it would be published in any manner likely having regard to the circumstances in which it was found, but in no other manner.

c. 83.

(8) The Obscene Publications Act, 1857, is hereby repealed, without prejudice, however, to the execution of any warrant issued thereunder before the commencement of this Act or to the taking of any proceedings in pursuance of a warrant so issued.

public good.

4.—(1) A person shall not be convicted of an offence against section two of this Act, and an order for forfeiture shall not be made under the foregoing section, if it is proved that publication of the article in question is justified as being for the public good on the ground that it is in the interests of science, literature, art or learning, or of other objects of general concern.

(2) It is hereby declared that the opinion of experts as to the literary, artistic, scientific or other merits of an article may be admitted in any proceedings under this Act either to establish or to negative the said ground.

Citation, commencement and extent.

5.—(1) This Act may be cited as the Obscene Publications Act, 1959.

(2) This Act shall come into operation on the expiration of one month beginning with the date of the passing thereof.

[29th July, 1959]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. In sub-paragraph (ii) of paragraph (c) of section one of the principal Act (which requires the periodical repainting of certain parts of factories kept painted with oil paint) the words "in a prescribed manner" shall be substituted for the words "with oil paint", the words "in a prescribed manner" shall be inserted after the word "repainted" and the words "at such intervals, being intervals of not more than seven years, as may be prescribed" shall be substituted for the words "at least once in every period of seven years". Cleanliness.

2.—(1) For the purposes of subsection (1) of section eighteen of the principal Act (which requires certain precautions where the edge of a fixed vessel, structure, sump or pit containing a dangerous liquid is less than three feet above the adjoining ground or platform) the adjoining ground or platform mentioned in that subsection shall be taken to be the highest ground or platform (whether contiguous or not) from which a person might fall into the vessel, structure, sump or pit. Dangerous substances.

(2) After the said subsection (1) there shall be inserted the following subsections:—

"(1A) Where any fixed vessel, structure, sump or pit contains any scalding, corrosive or poisonous liquid but is not securely covered, no ladder, stair or gangway shall be placed above, across or inside it which is not—

- (a) at least eighteen inches wide, and
- (b) securely fenced on both sides to a height of at least three feet and securely fixed.

(1B) Where any such vessels, structures, sumps or pits as are mentioned in subsection (1A) of this section adjoin, and the space between them, clear of any surrounding brick or other work, is less than eighteen inches in width or is not securely fenced on both sides to a height of at least three feet, secure barriers shall be so placed as to prevent passage between them.

(1C) For the purposes of this section a ladder, stair or gangway shall not be deemed to be securely fenced unless it is provided either with sheet fencing or with an upper and a lower rail and toe boards."

(3) The Minister may by regulations extend any of the provisions of the said section eighteen so as to make them applicable—

- (a) to a vessel or structure, notwithstanding that it is not fixed ; or
- (b) to a vessel, structure, sump or pit, notwithstanding that the substance it contains is not a liquid ; and the expression "scalding" in any provision extended under paragraph (b) of this subsection shall, in relation to a substance which is not a liquid, be taken to refer to the substance as likely to cause burns.

Hoists or lifts
machines.

3.—(1) The person making the report of an examination under subsection (2) of section twenty-two or subsection (2) of section twenty-four of the principal Act (which respectively require the periodical examination of hoists or lifts and lifting machines) shall within twenty-eight days of the completion of the examination send to the inspector for the district a copy of the report in every case where the examination shows that the hoist or lift or lifting machine cannot continue to be used with safety unless certain repairs are carried out immediately or within a specified time.

(2) In subsection (2) of the said section twenty-two for the words "fourteen days" (which specify the time within which the report has to be registered) there shall be substituted the words "twenty-eight days".

(3) Without prejudice to the provisions of subsection (7) of the said section twenty-four (which, in cases where a person working on or near the wheel-track of an overhead travelling crane would be liable to be struck by it, requires measures to prevent its close approach), if any person is employed or working in any place above floor level where he would be liable to be struck by an overhead travelling crane, or by any load carried by an overhead travelling crane, effective measures shall be taken to warn him of the approach of the crane, unless his work is so connected with or dependent on the movements of the crane as to make a warning unnecessary.

4. At the end of subsection (1) of section twenty-five of the principal Act (which requires floors, steps, stairs, passages and gangways to be of sound construction and properly maintained) there shall be added the words "and shall, so far as is reasonably practicable, be kept free from any obstruction and from any substance likely to cause persons to slip". 27.—(1) The provisions of subsections (2) to (8) of this section shall have effect where work in any factory has to be done inside any chamber, tank, vat, pit, pipe, flue or similar confined space, in which dangerous fumes are liable to be present to such an extent as to involve risk of persons being overcome thereby.

(2) The confined space shall, unless there is other adequate means of egress, be provided with a man-hole, which may be rectangular, oval or circular in shape, and shall be not less than eighteen inches long and sixteen inches wide or (if circular) not less than eighteen inches in diameter, or in the case of tank wagons and other mobile plant not less than sixteen inches long and fourteen inches wide or (if circular) not less than sixteen inches in diameter.

(4) Where the confined space has been certified by a responsible person as being, for a specified period, safe for entry without breathing apparatus and the period so specified has not expired, subsection (3) of this section shall not apply, but no person shall enter or remain in the space unless he has been warned when that period will expire.

(5) A confined space shall not be certified under subsection (4) of this section unless—

(7) A sufficient number of the persons employed shall be trained and practised in the use of the apparatus mentioned in subsection (6) of this section and in a method of restoring respiration.

(8) The chief inspector may by certificate grant, subject to any conditions specified in the certificate, exemption from compliance with any of the requirements of the foregoing provisions of this section in any case where he is satisfied that compliance with those requirements is unnecessary or impracticable.

(9) No person shall enter or remain in any confined space in which the proportion of oxygen in the air is liable to have been substantially reduced unless either—

- (a) he is wearing a suitable breathing apparatus ; or

(b) the space has been and remains adequately ventilated and a responsible person has tested and certified it as safe for entry without breathing apparatus.

(10) No work shall be permitted in any boiler-furnace or boiler-flue until it has been sufficiently cooled by ventilation or otherwise to make work safe for the persons employed."

(7) The Minister may by special regulations prescribe the manner in which a steam boiler, together with its fittings and attachments, is to be examined after any such repairs as may be specified in the regulations; and where such repairs are carried out to a steam boiler after it has been examined under subsection (6) of this section, then, notwithstanding that the period prescribed under that subsection has not expired, the steam boiler shall not be used in any factory until the examination prescribed under this subsection has been made.";

and in subsection (8) of that section for the words "every such examination" there shall be substituted the words "every examination under this section" and the words from "For the purposes" to the end of the subsection, and in subsection (9) thereof the words preceding "no new steam boiler shall be taken into use" shall be omitted.

(2) Until the coming into operation of subsection (1) of this section the Minister may by order grant such exemptions from the requirements of subsection (6) of the said section twenty-nine (as originally enacted), to such extent and subject to such conditions, as may be specified in the order, and any such exemption may extend to any class or description of factory or boiler or any particular factory or boiler.

(5) The powers of a fire authority under the said section thirty-four to examine a factory shall include power, after a factory has been certified under that section, to examine the factory and every part thereof for the purpose of ascertaining whether there has been a change of conditions by reason of which the existing means of escape have become insufficient.

(6) In subsection (10) of the said section thirty-four (which enables the occupier of a factory to appeal if he is aggrieved by a refusal to grant a certificate under that section or by being required to carry out alterations) there shall be inserted, after the words "to grant a certificate under this section" the words "or to amend such a certificate", and after the words "alterations at the factory" the words "or by the period within which he is required to carry them out".

[29th July, 1959]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

PART I

ESTABLISHMENT OF WAGES COUNCILS

1.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, the Minister may by order establish a wages council to perform, in relation to the workers described in the order and their employers, the functions specified in the subsequent provisions of this Act. Establishment of wages councils.

(2) An order establishing a wages council may be made by the Minister either—

- (a) if he is of opinion that no adequate machinery exists for the effective regulation of the remuneration of the workers described in the order and that, having regard to the remuneration existing among those workers, or any of them, it is expedient that such a council should be established ; or
- (b) if he thinks fit, to give effect to a recommendation of a commission of inquiry made on the reference to them, in accordance with the following section, of an application made in accordance therewith for the establishment of a wages council ; or
- (c) if he thinks fit, to give effect to the recommendation of a commission of inquiry made in a case where the Minister, being of opinion that no adequate machinery exists for the effective regulation of the remuneration of any workers or the existing machinery is likely to cease to exist or be adequate for that purpose and a reasonable standard of remuneration among those workers will not be maintained, refers to the commission the question whether a wages council should be established with respect to any of those workers and their employers.

PART I
—cont.

(3) The provisions in that behalf of the First Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the making of orders establishing wages councils.

(4) The provisions in that behalf of the Second Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the constitution, officers and proceedings of wages councils.

Applications for wages council orders.

2.—(1) An application for the establishment of a wages council with respect to any workers and their employers may be made to the Minister either—

(a) by a joint industrial council, conciliation board or other similar body constituted by organisations representative respectively of those workers and their employers ; or

(b) jointly by any organisation of workers and any organisation of employers which claim to be organisations that habitually take part in the settlement of remuneration and conditions of employment for those workers, on the ground, in either case, that the existing machinery for the settlement of remuneration and conditions of employment for those workers is likely to cease to exist or be adequate for that purpose.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this and the following subsection, where such an application as aforesaid is made to him the Minister—

(a) if he is satisfied that there are sufficient grounds to justify the reference of the application to a commission of inquiry, and, in the case of an application under paragraph (b) of the foregoing subsection, that the claim of the organisations habitually to take part in the settlement of remuneration and conditions of employment for those workers is well-founded, shall refer the application to a commission of inquiry to inquire into and report on the application ;

(b) if he is not so satisfied shall notify the applicants to that effect, in which case no further steps shall be taken on the application unless and until he is so satisfied by fresh facts brought to his notice :

Provided that before taking either of the said courses, the Minister may require the applicants to furnish such information, if any, in relation to the application as he considers necessary.

(3) If, on considering an application under subsection (1) of this section, it appears to the Minister either—

- (a) that there is a joint industrial council, conciliation board or other similar body constituted by organisations of workers and organisations of employers, being a council, board or body which would or might be affected by the establishment of a wages council in pursuance of the application ; or
- (b) that there are organisations of workers and organisations of employers representative respectively of workers other than workers to whom the application relates and their employers, who would or might be affected by the establishment of a wages council as aforesaid, being a council, board or body, or, as the case may be, organisations, which are parties to joint voluntary machinery for the settlement of remuneration and conditions of employment but are not parties to the application for a wages council, the Minister shall, before deciding to refer the application to a commission of inquiry, give notice of the application to that council, board or body or, as the case may be, to those organisations, shall consider any observations in writing which may be submitted to him by them within such period as he may direct, not being less than one month from the date of the notice, and, if he decides to refer the application to a commission of inquiry, shall transmit a copy of the observations to the commission.

(4) If, before an application is referred to a commission of inquiry, it is withdrawn by the applicants, no further proceedings shall be had thereon.

3.—(1) Where the Minister makes to a commission of inquiry any such reference as is mentioned in paragraph (b) or (c) of subsection (2) of section one of this Act, it shall be the duty of the commission to consider not only the subject matter of the reference but also any other question or matter which, in the opinion of the commission, is relevant thereto, and in particular to consider whether there are any other workers (being workers who, in the opinion of the commission, are engaged in work which is complementary, subsidiary or closely allied to the work performed by the workers specified in the reference or any of them) whose position should be dealt with together with that of the workers, or some of the workers, specified as aforesaid ; and in relation to any such reference to a commission of inquiry, any reference in this Part of this Act to the workers with whom the commission is concerned shall be construed as a reference to the workers specified as aforesaid and any such other workers as aforesaid.

Proceedings on references as to establishment of wages councils.

(2) If the commission is of opinion with respect to the workers with whom it is concerned or any of those workers whose

position should, in the opinion of the commission, be separately dealt with—

- (a) that there exists machinery set up by agreement between organisations representing workers and employers respectively which is, or can be made by improvements which it is practicable to secure, adequate for regulating the remuneration and conditions of employment of those workers ; and
- (b) that there is no reason to believe that that machinery is likely to cease to exist or be adequate for that purpose, the commission shall report to the Minister accordingly and may include in its report any suggestions which it may think fit to make as to the improvement of that machinery.

(3) Where any such suggestions are so included, the Minister shall take such steps as appear to him to be expedient and practicable to secure the improvements in question.

(4) If the commission is of opinion with respect to the workers with whom it is concerned or any of those workers whose position should, in the opinion of the commission, be separately dealt with—

- (a) that machinery for regulating the remuneration and conditions of employment of those workers is not, and cannot be made by any improvements which it is practicable to secure, adequate for that purpose, or does not exist ; or
- (b) that the existing machinery is likely to cease to exist or be adequate for that purpose, and that as a result a reasonable standard of remuneration among those workers is not being or will not be maintained, the commission may make a report to the Minister embodying a recommendation for the establishment of a wages council in respect of those workers and their employers.

(5) In considering for the purposes of section one of this Act whether any machinery is, or is likely to remain, adequate for regulating the remuneration and conditions of employment of any workers, the commission shall consider not only what matters are capable of being dealt with by that machinery, but also to what extent those matters are covered by the agreements or awards arrived at or given thereunder, and to what extent the practice is, or is likely to be, in accordance with those agreements or awards.

4.—(1) The Minister may at any time abolish a wages council by order made—

PART I
—cont.

- (a) to give effect to an application in that behalf made to him in accordance with the following section, or
- (b) without any such application, subject however to the provisions of section six of this Act.

Abolition, variation of field of operation, of wages councils.

(2) The Minister may at any time by order vary the field of operation of a wages council.

(3) An order under this section abolishing or varying the field of operation of one or more wages councils may include provision for the establishment of one or more wages councils operating in relation to all or any of the workers in relation to whom the first mentioned council or councils would have operated but for the order, and such other workers, if any, as may be specified in the order.

(4) Where an order of the Minister under this section directs that any workers shall be excluded from the field of operation of one wages council and brought within the field of operation of another, the order may provide that anything done by, or to give effect to proposals made by, the first-mentioned council shall have effect in relation to those workers as if it had been done by, or to give effect to proposals made by, the second-mentioned council and may make such further provision as appears to the Minister to be expedient in connection with the transition.

(5) Where an order of the Minister under this section directs that a wages council shall be abolished or shall cease to operate in relation to any workers, then, save as is otherwise provided by the order, anything done by, or to give effect to proposals made by, the wages council shall, except as respects things previously done or omitted to be done, cease to have effect or, as the case may be, cease to have effect in relation to the workers in relation to whom the council ceases to operate.

(6) The provisions in that behalf of the First Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the making of orders under this section.

5.—(1) An application such as is mentioned in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of the foregoing section may be made to the Minister either—

Applications for abolition of wages councils.

- (a) by a joint industrial council, conciliation board or other similar body constituted by organisations of workers and organisations of employers which represent respectively substantial proportions of the workers and

—cont.

employers with respect to whom that wages council operates ; or

- (b) jointly by organisations of workers and organisations of employers which represent respectively substantial proportions of the workers and employers aforesaid.

(2) The grounds on which any such application may be made are that the council, board or body provides, or, as the case may be, that the organisations jointly provide, machinery which is, and is likely to remain, adequate for the effective regulation of remuneration and conditions of employment for those workers.

References to commission of inquiry as to variation or revocation of wages council orders.

6.—(1) The Minister—

- (a) shall in any case where an application for the abolition of a wages council has been made to him under the foregoing section and he does not thereupon proceed to the making of an order giving effect to the application,

(b) may in any other case where he is considering whether to exercise his power under section four of this Act to abolish or vary the field of operation of a wages council, refer to a commission of inquiry the question whether the council should be abolished or, as the case may be, its field of operation varied.

(2) On a reference under this section of a question as to the abolition of a wages council a commission of inquiry, if of opinion that it is expedient to do so having regard—

- (a) to the extent to which there is, and is likely to remain, adequate machinery set up by agreement between organisations representing workers and employers respectively for the effective regulation of remuneration and conditions of employment of workers within the field of operation of the wages council to which the reference relates, or

- (b) to the extent (if any) to which it is practicable and desirable to bring within the field of operation of another wages council all or any of the workers within the field of operation of the council to which the reference relates, or to both those considerations, may make a report to the Minister recommending—

- (i) the abolition of the wages council to which the reference relates, or

(ii) the narrowing of the field of operation of the council, and (in either case), if the commission is of opinion that it is expedient as aforesaid, also recommending the transfer of workers to the field of operation of another wages council, whether already existing or to be established.

—cont.

(3) On a reference under this section as to the variation of the field of operation of a wages council the commission may make a report to the Minister recommending any such variation (including the transfer of workers to the field of operation of any other wages council, whether already existing or to be established) which appears to the commission desirable in all the circumstances.

(4) In considering for the purposes of section four of this Act whether any machinery is, or is likely to remain, adequate for regulating the remuneration and conditions of employment of any workers, a commission of inquiry shall consider not only what matters are capable of being dealt with by that machinery, but also to what extent those matters are covered by the agreements or awards arrived at or given thereunder, and to what extent the practice is, or is likely to be, in accordance with those agreements or awards.

7.—(1) The Minister may, if he thinks fit so to do, by order establish a central co-ordinating committee in relation to any two or more wages councils, or abolish, or vary the field of operation of, any central co-ordinating committee so established :

Central
co-ordinating committees.

Provided that, except where either of the two following subsections applies, the Minister shall, before making any such order, consult the wages councils concerned.

(2) Where a commission of inquiry makes a recommendation for the establishment of a wages council, it may include in its report a recommendation for the establishment, in relation to any wages council established in accordance with the recommendation and any other wages council (including a council proposed to be established by another recommendation embodied in the same report), of a central co-ordinating committee, or for the variation of the field of operation of an existing central co-ordinating committee so that it operates also in connection with any wages council established in accordance with the recommendation.

(3) Where a commission of inquiry makes a recommendation for the abolition of a wages council, it may include in its report a recommendation for the variation of the field of operation of an existing central co-ordinating committee so that it no longer operates in relation to the council to be abolished, or a recommendation for the abolition of any central co-ordinating committee theretofore operating in relation to the wages council to be abolished.

(4) The Minister may by order give effect to a recommendation made under either of the two foregoing subsections.

PART I
—cont.

(5) It shall be the duty of any central co-ordinating committee from time to time—

- (a) to consider whether the field of operation of the wages councils in relation to which it is established is properly divided as between those councils and to report thereon to the Minister ;
- (b) to make recommendations to those councils with respect to the principles to be followed by them in the exercise of their powers under this Act ;
- (c) to consider any question referred to it by the Minister or by the said councils or any two or more of them, and to report thereon to the Minister, or to the councils which referred the question, as the case may be.

(6) The provisions in that behalf of the Second Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the constitution, officers and proceedings of central co-ordinating committees.

Wages councils:
advisory committees.

8.—(1) A wages council may request the Minister to appoint a committee for any of the workers within the field of operation of the council and the Minister shall appoint a committee accordingly, and the council may refer to it for a report and recommendations any matter relating to those workers which the council thinks it expedient so to refer.

(2) The provisions of the Third Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to committees appointed under this section.

General provisions as to commissions of inquiry.

9.—(1) The provisions of the Fourth Schedule to this Act shall have effect with respect to the constitution, officers and proceedings of commissions of inquiry.

(2) On any reference under this Part of this Act to a commission of inquiry, the commission shall make all such investigations as appear to it to be necessary and shall publish in the prescribed manner a notice stating the questions which it is its duty to consider by virtue of the reference and further stating that it will consider representations with respect thereto made to it in writing within such period as may be specified in the notice, not being less than forty days from the date of the publication thereof; and it shall consider any representations made to it within that period and then make such further inquiries as it considers necessary including, so far as it considers necessary, the hearing of oral evidence.

(3) Any power conferred by this Part of this Act on the Minister to make an order giving effect to a recommendation of a commission of inquiry shall be construed as including power to make an order giving effect to that recommendation with such modifications as he thinks fit, being modifications which, in his opinion, do not effect important alterations in the character of the recommendation.

—cont.

(4) Where the Minister receives any report from a commission of inquiry he may, if he thinks fit, refer the report back to the commission and the commission shall thereupon reconsider it having regard to any observations made by him and shall make a further report, and the like proceedings shall be had on any such further report as in the case of an original report.

(5) The Minister shall publish every report made to him by a commission of inquiry under this Part of this Act:

Provided that where he refers a report back to the commission, he shall not be bound to publish it until he publishes the further report of the commission.

10.—(1) A wages council shall consider, as occasion requires, any matter referred to it by the Minister or any government department with reference to the industrial conditions prevailing as respects the workers and employers in relation to whom it operates, and shall make a report upon the matter to the Minister or, as the case may be, to that department.

of wages councils to consider references by
departments.

(2) A wages council may, if it thinks it expedient so to do, make of its own motion a recommendation to the Minister or any government department with reference to the said conditions and, where such a recommendation is so made, the Minister or, as the case may be, that department, shall forthwith take it into consideration.

PART II

WAGES REGULATION ORDERS

11.—(1) Subject to and in accordance with the provisions of this section, any wages council shall have power to submit to the Minister proposals (hereafter in this Act referred to as "wages regulation proposals")—

Power to fix
remuneration
and holidays.

(a) for fixing the remuneration to be paid, either generally or for any particular work, by their employers to all or any of the workers in relation to whom the council operates;

(b) for requiring all or any such workers as aforesaid to be allowed holidays by their employers.

—cont.

(2) Wages regulation proposals for requiring a worker to be allowed a holiday shall not be made unless both holiday remuneration in respect of the period of the holiday and remuneration other than holiday remuneration have been or are being fixed under this Part of this Act for that worker, shall provide for the duration of the holiday being related to the duration of the period for which the worker has been employed or engaged to be employed by the employer who is to allow the holiday, and, subject as aforesaid, may make provision as to the times at which or the periods within which, and the circumstances in which, the holiday shall be allowed; and wages regulation proposals for fixing holiday remuneration may contain provisions as to the times at which, and the conditions subject to which, that remuneration shall accrue and shall become payable, and for securing that any such remuneration which has accrued due to a worker during his employment by any employer shall, in the event of his ceasing to be employed by that employer before he becomes entitled to be allowed a holiday by him, nevertheless become payable by the employer to the worker.

(3) Before submitting any wages regulation proposals to the Minister, a wages council shall make such investigations as it thinks fit and shall—

- (a) publish, in the prescribed manner, notice of the proposals, and
- (b) give such notice thereof as may be prescribed for the purpose of informing, so far as practicable, all persons affected thereby, stating the place where copies of the proposals may be obtained and the period (which shall not be less than fourteen days from the date of publication of the notice) within which written representations with respect to the proposals may be sent to the council; and the council shall consider any written representations made to it within that period and shall make such further inquiries as it considers necessary and may then submit the proposals to the Minister either without amendment or with such amendments as it thinks fit having regard to the representations:

Provided that if the council, before publishing its proposals, resolves that, in the event of no representation with respect to the proposals being made to it within the said period, the proposals shall, without more, be submitted to the Minister, the proposals shall, if no representation is so made, be submitted to the Minister accordingly.

(4) Where the Minister receives any wages regulation proposals, he shall make an order (hereafter in this Act referred to as a "wages regulation order") giving effect to the proposals as from such date as may be specified in the order:

Provided that the Minister may, if he thinks fit, refer the proposals back to the council and the council shall thereupon reconsider them having regard to any observations made by the Minister and may, if it thinks fit, re-submit the proposals to the Minister either without amendment or with such amendments as it thinks fit having regard to those observations; and where proposals are so re-submitted, the like proceedings shall be had thereon as in the case of original proposals.

The date to be so specified shall be a date subsequent to the date of the order, and where, as respects any worker who is paid wages at intervals not exceeding seven days, the date so specified does not correspond with the beginning of the period for which the wages are paid, the order shall, as respects that worker, become effective as from the beginning of the next such period following the date specified in the order.

(5) As soon as the Minister has made a wages regulation order, he shall give notice of the making thereof to the wages council and that council shall give such notice of the order and the contents thereof, and shall then and subsequently give such notice of any other prescribed matters affecting the operation thereof, as may be prescribed for the purpose of informing, so far as practicable, all persons who will be thereby affected.

(6) Any wages regulation proposals and any wages regulation order for giving effect thereto may make different provision for different cases, and may also contain provision for the amendment or revocation of previous wages regulation orders.

(7) No wages regulation order shall have effect so as to prejudice any rights as to remuneration or holidays conferred on any worker by or under any Act other than this Act.

12.—(1) If a contract between a worker to whom a wages regulation order applies and his employer provides for the payment of less remuneration than the statutory minimum remuneration, it shall have effect as if for that less remuneration there were substituted the statutory minimum remuneration, and if any such contract provides for the payment of any holiday remuneration at times or subject to conditions other than those specified in the order, it shall have effect as if for those times or conditions there were substituted the times or conditions specified in the order.

Effect and enforcement of wages regulation orders.

(2) If an employer fails to pay a worker to whom a wages regulation order applies remuneration not less than the statutory minimum remuneration, or fails to pay to any such worker holiday remuneration at the times and subject to the conditions specified in the order or fails to allow to any such worker the holidays fixed by the order, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds for each offence, and where the employer or any other person charged as a person to whose act or default the offence was due has been found guilty of an offence under this section consisting of a failure to pay remuneration not less than the statutory minimum remuneration, the court may order the employer to pay such sum as is found by the court to represent the difference between the amount which ought to have been paid to the worker by way of remuneration, if the provisions of this Part of this Act had been complied with, and the amount actually so paid.

(3) Where proceedings are brought under the foregoing subsection in respect of an offence consisting of a failure to pay remuneration not less than the statutory minimum remuneration, then, if notice of intention so to do has been served with the summons, warrant or complaint,—

(a) evidence may, on the employer or any other person charged as a person to whose act or default the offence was due having been found guilty of the offence, be given of any like contravention on the part of the employer in respect of any period during the two years immediately preceding the date of the offence; and

(b) on proof of the failure, the court may order the employer to pay such sum as is found by the court to represent the difference between the amount which ought to have been paid during that period to the worker by way of remuneration, if the provisions of this Part of this Act had been complied with, and the amount actually so paid.

(4) The powers given by this section for the recovery of sums due from an employer to a worker shall not be in derogation of any right to recover such sums by civil proceedings.

(5) In the application of this section to Scotland subsections (2) and (3) shall have effect as if the words “ or any other person charged as a person to whose act or default the offence was due ” were omitted.

Permits to infirm and
persons.

13.—(1) If, as respects any worker employed or desiring to be employed in such circumstances that a wages regulation order applies or will apply to him, the wages council is satisfied, on application being made to it for a permit under this section either by the worker or the employer or a prospective employer, that the worker is affected by infirmity or physical incapacity which renders him incapable of earning the statutory minimum remuneration, it may, if it thinks fit, grant, subject to such conditions, if any, as it may determine, a permit authorising his employment at less than the statutory minimum remuneration, and while the permit is in force the remuneration authorised to be paid to him by the permit shall, if those conditions are complied with, be deemed to be the statutory minimum remuneration.

—cont.

(2) Where an employer employs any worker in reliance on any document purporting to be a permit granted under the foregoing subsection authorising the employment of that worker at less than the statutory minimum remuneration, then, if the employer has notified the wages council in question that, relying on that document, he is employing or proposing to employ that worker at a specified remuneration, the document shall, notwithstanding that it is not or is no longer a valid permit relating to that worker, be deemed, subject to the terms thereof and as respects only any period after the notification, to be such a permit until notice to the contrary is received by the employer from the council.

14.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, any reference in this Part of this Act to remuneration shall be construed as a reference to the amount obtained or to be obtained in cash by the worker from his employer after allowing for the worker's necessary expenditure, if any, in connection with his employment, and clear of all deductions in respect of any matter whatsoever, except any deduction lawfully made—

tion.

- (a) under the Income Tax Acts, the National Insurance (Industrial Injuries) Act, 1946, the National Insurance Act, 1946, or any enactment requiring or authorising deductions to be made for the purposes of a superannuation scheme ;
- (b) at the request in writing of the worker, either for the purposes of a superannuation scheme or a thrift scheme or for any purpose in the carrying out of which the employer has no beneficial financial interest, whether directly or indirectly ; or
- (c) in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract in that behalf as is mentioned in section one, two or three of the Truck Act, 1896, and in accordance with the provisions of that section.

(2) Notwithstanding anything in subsection (1) of this section, wages regulation proposals and wages regulation orders may contain provisions authorising specified benefits or advantages, being benefits or advantages provided, in pursuance of the terms and conditions of the employment of workers, by the employer or by some other person under arrangements with the employer and not being benefits or advantages the provision of which is illegal by virtue of the Truck Acts, 1831 to 1940, or of any other enactment, to be reckoned as payment of wages by the employer in lieu of payment in cash, and defining the value at which any such benefits or advantages are to be reckoned.

(3) If any payment is made by a worker in respect of any benefit or advantage provided as mentioned in the foregoing subsection, then,—

- (a) if the benefit or advantage is authorised by virtue of that subsection to be reckoned as therein mentioned, the amount of the payment shall be deducted from the defined value for the purposes of the reckoning ;
- (b) if the benefit or advantage is authorised by virtue of that subsection to be reckoned as therein mentioned, any excess of the amount of the payment over the defined value shall be treated for the purposes of subsection (1) of this section as if it had been a deduction not being one of the excepted deductions therein mentioned ;
- (c) if the benefit or advantage is specified in a wages regulation order as one which has been taken into account in fixing the statutory minimum remuneration, the whole of the payment shall be treated for the purposes of subsection (1) of this section as if it had been a deduction not being one of the excepted deductions therein mentioned.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed as authorising the making of any deduction, or the giving of remuneration in any manner, which is illegal by virtue of the Truck Acts, 1831 to 1940, or of any other enactment.

Apportionment of remuneration

15. Where for any period a worker receives remuneration for work for part of which he is entitled to statutory minimum remuneration at one or more time rates and for the remainder of which no statutory minimum remuneration is fixed, the amount of the remuneration which is to be attributed to the work for which he is entitled to statutory minimum remuneration shall, if not apparent from the terms of the contract between the employer and the worker, be deemed for the purposes of this Act to be the amount which bears to the total amount of the remuneration the same proportion as the time spent on the part of the work for which he is entitled to statutory minimum remuneration bears to the time spent on the whole of the work.

Employers not to receive premiums.

16.—(1) Where a worker to whom a wages regulation order applies is an apprentice or learner, it shall not be lawful for his employer to receive directly or indirectly from him, or on his behalf or on his account, any payment by way of premium :

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to any such payment duly made in pursuance of any instrument of apprenticeship not later than four weeks after the commencement of the apprenticeship or to any such payment made at any time if duly made in pursuance of any instrument of apprenticeship approved for the purposes of this proviso by a wages council.

—cont.

(2) If any employer acts in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction in respect of each offence to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds, and the court may, in addition to imposing a fine, order him to repay to the worker or other person by whom the payment was made the sum improperly received by way of premium.

17.—(1) The employer of any workers to whom a wages regulation order applies shall keep such records as are necessary to show whether or not the provisions of this Part of this Act are being complied with as respects them, and the records shall be retained by the employer for three years.

Records and notices.

(2) The employer of any workers shall post in the prescribed manner such notices as may be prescribed for the purpose of informing them of any wages regulation proposals or wages regulation order affecting them, and, if it is so prescribed, shall give notice in any other prescribed manner to the said workers of the said matters and of such other matters, if any, as may be prescribed.

(3) If an employer fails to comply with any of the requirements of this section he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

18.—(1) Where the immediate employer of any worker is himself in the employment of some other person and that worker is employed on the premises of that other person, that other person shall for the purposes of this Part of this Act be deemed to be the employer of that worker jointly with the immediate employer.

Criminal liability of agent and superior employer, and special defence open to employer.

(2) Where an employer is charged with an offence under this Part of this Act, he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him and on giving to the prosecution not less than three days' notice in writing of his intention, to have any other person to whose act or default he alleges that the offence in question was due brought before the court at the time appointed for the hearing of the charge; and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the employer proves that the offence was due to the act or the default of that other person, that other person may be convicted of the offence, and, if the employer further proves that he has used all due diligence to secure that this Part of this Act and any relevant regulation or order made thereunder are complied with, he shall be acquitted of the offence.

—cont.

(3) Where a defendant seeks to avail himself of the provisions of subsection (2) of this section—

- (a) the prosecution, as well as the person whom the defendant charges with the offence, shall have the right to cross-examine him if he gives evidence and any witnesses called by him in support of his pleas and to call rebutting evidence ;
- (b) the court may make such order as it thinks fit for the payment of costs by any party to the proceedings to any other party thereto.

(4) Where it appears to an officer acting for the purposes of this Part of this Act that an offence has been committed in respect of which proceedings might be taken under this Part of this Act against an employer, and the officer is reasonably satisfied that the offence of which complaint is made was due to an act or default of some other person and that the employer could establish a defence under subsection (2) of this section, the officer may cause proceedings to be taken against that other person without first causing proceedings to be taken against the employer.

In any such proceedings the defendant may be charged with and, on proof that the offence was due to his act or default, be convicted of, the offence with which the employer might have been charged.

(5) The three last foregoing subsections shall not apply to Scotland, but—

- (a) where an offence for which an employer is, under this Part of this Act, liable to a fine was due to an act or default of an agent of the employer or other person, then, whether proceedings are or are not taken against the employer, that agent or other person may be charged with and convicted of the offence, and shall be liable on conviction to the same punishment as might have been inflicted on the employer if he had been convicted of the offence ;
- (b) where an employer who is charged with an offence under this Part of this Act proves to the satisfaction of the court that he has used due diligence to secure compliance with this Part of this Act and any relevant regulation or order made thereunder and that the offence was due to the act or default of some other person, he shall be acquitted of the offence.

19.—(1) The Minister, with the approval of the Treasury as to numbers and salaries, may appoint officers to act for the purposes of this Part of this Act, and may, in lieu of or in addition to appointing any officers under this section, arrange

- (d) at all reasonable times to enter any premises at which any employer to whom a wages regulation order applies carries on his business (including any place used, in connection with that business, for giving out work to outworkers and any premises which the officer has reasonable cause to believe to be used by or by arrangement with the employer to provide living accommodation for workers) ;

The power given by this subsection for the recovery of sums due from an employer to a worker shall not be in derogation of any right of the worker to recover such sums by civil proceedings.

(6) Any person who obstructs an officer acting for the purposes of this Part of this Act in the exercise of any power conferred by this section, or fails to comply with any requirement of such an officer made in the exercise of any such power, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds:

1. In this Schedule, except in so far as the context otherwise requires, "order" means an order, whether made in pursuance of the recommendation of a commission of inquiry or not, for establishing or abolishing a wages council or varying the field of operation of a wages council.

2. Before making an order, the Minister shall publish, in the prescribed manner, notice of his intention to make the order, specifying a place where copies of a draft thereof may be obtained and the time (which shall not be less than forty days from the date of the publication) within which any objection made with respect to the draft order must be sent to him.

3. Every objection so made must be in writing, and must state—

(a) the specific grounds of objection, and

(b) the omissions, additions or modifications asked for, and the Minister shall consider any such objection made by or on behalf of any person appearing to him to be affected, being an objection sent to him within the time specified in the notice, but shall not be bound to consider any other objection.

4. If there are no objections which the Minister is required by the foregoing paragraph to consider or if, after considering all such objections, he is of opinion that all those objections either—

(a) in the case of an order to be made in pursuance of the recommendation of a commission of inquiry, were made to the commission and were expressly dealt with in the report embodying the recommendation; or

(b) in any case, will be met by modifications which he proposes to make under this paragraph or are frivolous, he may make the order either in the terms of the draft or subject to such modifications, if any, as he thinks fit, being modifications which, in his opinion, do not effect important alterations in the character of the draft order as published.

5. Where the Minister does not proceed under the foregoing paragraph, he may, if he thinks fit, either—

(a) amend the draft order, in which case all the provisions of this Schedule shall have effect in relation to the amended draft order as they have effect in relation to an original draft order; or

(b) refer the draft order to a commission of inquiry for inquiry and report, in which case he shall consider the report of the commission and may then, if he thinks fit, make an order either in the terms of the draft or with such modifications as he thinks fit.

1.—(1) The repeals effected by this Act shall not affect the continuance in force of any council, committee, commission, appointment, order, regulations or permit established, set up, made or granted, or deemed to be established, set up, made or granted, or any thing done, under any enactment repealed by this Act, and any such council, committee or commission shall continue, and any such appointment, order, regulations, permit or thing shall continue to have effect, as if established, set up, made, granted or done under the corresponding provisions of this Act.

(2) Any record kept or deemed to be kept, or notice displayed or deemed to be displayed, in pursuance of any enactment repealed by this Act shall be deemed to be kept or displayed in pursuance of the corresponding provision of this Act.

2. Any proceedings for the making of any order which are, or are deemed to be, in course of being held at the commencement of this Act under any enactment thereby repealed may be continued under the corresponding provision of this Act.

3.—(1) The following provisions of this paragraph shall have effect as respects any trade board which by virtue of subsection (2) of section twenty of the Wages Councils Act, 1945, was deemed to be a wages council established under Part I of that Act.

(2) If at the commencement of this Act the constitution of the board is not in all respects in accordance with the provisions of the said Act of 1945,—

- (a) the Minister may by order direct that, on such date as may be specified in the order, its constitution shall be in accordance with the provisions of this Act ;
- (b) until such date as may be so specified, any regulations made under the Trade Boards Acts, 1909 and 1918, with respect to its constitution shall, by virtue of this paragraph, continue to have effect.

4. Any order in force at the commencement of this Act confirming, varying or cancelling any rate under the Trade Boards Acts, 1909 and 1918, shall have effect as if it were a wages regulation order :

Provided that the amount of remuneration due to any worker to whom any such order relates shall (subject to any other provision made in that behalf under the Wages Councils Act, 1945, or this Act) be calculated in like manner as if the enactments repealed by the said Act of 1945 had not been so repealed.

5. Any reference in any enactment or document made before the passing of the Wages Councils Act, 1945, other than an enactment repealed by that Act, to a trade board shall be construed as including a reference to a wages council.

5TH SCH.

1943, shall be treated as a like contravention, and in relation to such a contravention the reference in paragraph (b) of that subsection to Part II of this Act shall be construed as a reference to the said Act of 1943.

(2) The reference in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of section nineteen of this Act to Part II of this Act, and the reference in subsection (4) of that section to an offence under the said Part II, shall be construed respectively as including a reference to the Catering Wages Act, 1943, and to an offence under that Act.

7.—(1) Subsection (1) of section seventeen of this Act shall apply in relation to the Catering Wages Act, 1943, as if for the words from “to show” to “as respects them” there were substituted the words “to indicate, as respects those workers, compliance or non-compliance with the provisions of the Catering Wages Act, 1943”.

(2) As respects wages regulation proposals and wages regulation orders relating to workers within the field of operation of the Industrial and Staff Canteen Undertakings Wages Council, the Unlicensed Place of Refreshment Wages Council, the Licensed Residential Establishment and Licensed Restaurant Wages Council or the Licensed Non-residential Establishment Wages Council, being proposals or orders made before the commencement of the Terms and Conditions of Employment Act, 1959, it shall, except in so far as may be otherwise expressly provided by regulations under this Act, be sufficient compliance with subsection (2) of section seventeen of this Act to comply with the requirements in force, immediately before the commencement of the Terms and Conditions of Employment Act, 1959, under subsection (2) of section eleven of the Catering Wages Act, 1943, and the regulations under that Act.

8. Subsection (1) of section sixteen of this Act shall not apply to any payment made, under a contract entered into before the passing of the Terms and Conditions of Employment Act, 1959, by or in respect of a worker within the field of operation, as constituted by section one of that Act, of any of the wages councils specified in sub-paragraph (2) of the foregoing paragraph.

9. The repeals effected by this Act shall not affect any right of a worker to recover sums from his employer on account of the payment to the worker of remuneration less than the statutory minimum remuneration, or the power of an officer of the Minister to institute on behalf of and in the name of the worker civil proceedings for the enforcement of that right or the power of the court in such proceedings to make an order for the payment of costs by the officer.

10. The repeals effected by this Act shall not be construed as extending to Northern Ireland so much of the Terms and Conditions of Employment Act, 1959, as remains unrepealed or as affecting the meaning therein of the expression “worker”.

11. Any enactment or document referring to an Act or enactment repealed by this Act shall be construed as referring to this Act or to the corresponding provision of this Act.

12. Nothing in the foregoing paragraphs shall prejudice the operation of subsection (2) of section thirty-eight of the Interpretation Act, 1889.

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

PART I

COMPENSATION FOR COMPULSORY ACQUISITION OF LAND

1.—(1) The following provisions of the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act, 1947 (in this Act referred to as "the Act of 1947"), and of the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act, 1954 (in this Act referred to as "the Act of 1954"), that is to say,—

General provisions as to measure of compensation

(a) subsection (2) and subsections (4) to (6) of section forty-eight of the Act of 1947 (which require compensation to be assessed on the basis of the existing use of the land), and

PART I

- (b) sections thirty-two to thirty-eight of the Act of 1954 (which provide for certain compensation in addition to compensation on the basis of existing use), shall cease to have effect, except for the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which this section does not apply; and, subject to the following provisions of this Part of this Act, compensation in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which this section applies shall be assessed in accordance with the Acquisition of Land (Assessment of Compensation) Act, 1919 (in this Act referred to as "the Act of 1919").

(2) This section applies to every compulsory acquisition of an interest in land in pursuance of a notice to treat served after the twenty-ninth day of October, nineteen hundred and fifty-eight.

Assumptions
as to planning permission.

2.—(1) For the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of any compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, such one or more of the assumptions mentioned in sections three and four of this Act as are applicable to the relevant land or any part thereof shall be made in ascertaining the value of the relevant interest.

(2) Any planning permission which, in accordance with any of the provisions of those sections, is to be assumed as therein mentioned is in addition to any planning permission which may already be in force at the date of service of the notice to treat.

(3) Nothing in those provisions shall be construed as requiring it to be assumed that planning permission would necessarily be refused for any development, notwithstanding that it is not development for which, in accordance with those provisions, the granting of planning permission is to be assumed; but, in determining whether planning permission for any development could in any particular circumstances reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of any land, regard shall be had to any contrary opinion expressed in relation to that land in any certificate issued under the following provisions of this Part of this Act.

(4) For the purposes of any reference in this section, or in section three of this Act, to planning permission which is in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, it is immaterial whether the planning permission in question was granted—

- (a) unconditionally or subject to conditions, or
- (b) in respect of the land in question taken by itself or in respect of an area including that land, or
- (c) on an ordinary application or on an outline application or by virtue of a development order, or is planning permission which, in accordance with any direction or provision given or made by or under any enactment, is deemed to have been granted.

3.—(1) In a case where—

(a) the relevant interest is to be acquired for purposes which involve the carrying out of proposals of the acquiring authority for development of the relevant land or part thereof, and

PART I
Assumptions
not directly derived from
plans.

(b) on the date of service of the notice to treat there is not in force planning permission for that development, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, such as would permit development thereof in accordance with the proposals of the acquiring authority.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (b) of the preceding subsection, no account shall be taken of any planning permission so granted as not to enure (while the permission remains in force) for the benefit of the land and of all persons for the time being interested therein.

(3) Subject to the next following subsection, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947 (which relates to development included in the existing use of land).

(4) Notwithstanding anything in the last preceding subsection—

(a) it shall not by virtue of that subsection be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in Part II of the said Third Schedule, if it is development for which planning permission was refused at any time before the date of service of the notice to treat and compensation under section eighteen of the Act of 1947 became payable in respect of that refusal ;

(b) where, at any time before the said date, planning permission was granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in Part II of the said Third Schedule, but was so granted subject to conditions, and compensation under section eighteen of the Act of 1947 became payable in respect of the imposition of the conditions, it shall not by virtue of the last preceding subsection be assumed that planning permission for that development, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, would be granted otherwise than subject to those conditions ;

(c) where, at any time before the said date, an order was made under section twenty-four of the Act of 1947, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, requiring the removal of any building or the discontinuance of any use, and compensation became payable in respect of that order under section twenty-five of that Act, it shall not by virtue of the last preceding subsection be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for the rebuilding of that building or the resumption of that use.

(5) Where a certificate is issued under the following provisions of this Part of this Act, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or any part thereof, for development of any class specified in relation thereto in that certificate as being development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted:

Provided that if, in any such certificate, it is indicated that, in the opinion of the authority issuing the certificate, any such planning permission would only have been granted—

- (a) subject to conditions specified in the certificate, or
- (b) at a future time so specified, or

the assumption shall be that planning permission for development of that class would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, but would only be granted subject to those conditions, or at that future time, or both subject to those conditions and at that future time, as the case may be.

Special
assumptions
in respect of certain land comprised in
plans.

(2) If the relevant land or any part thereof (not being land subject to comprehensive development) consists or forms part of an area shown in the current development plan as an area allocated primarily for a use specified in the plan in relation to that area, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for any development which—

- (a) is development for the purposes of that use of the relevant land or that part thereof, and
- (b) is development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be.

(3) If the relevant land or any part thereof (not being land subject to comprehensive development) consists or forms part of an area shown in the current development plan as an area allocated primarily for a range of two or more uses specified in the plan in relation to the whole of that area, it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for any development which—

- (a) is development for the purposes of a use of the relevant land or that part thereof, being a use falling within that range of uses, and
- (b) is development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be.

(4) If the relevant land or any part thereof is land subject to comprehensive development it shall be assumed that planning permission would be granted, in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be, for any development for the purposes of a use of the relevant land or that part thereof falling within the planned range of uses (whether it is the use which, in accordance with the particulars and proposals comprised in the current development plan in relation to the area in question, is indicated in the plan as the proposed use of the relevant land or that part thereof, or is any other use falling within the planned range of uses) being development for which, in the circumstances specified in the next following subsection, planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the relevant land or that part thereof, as the case may be.

(5) The circumstances referred to in the last preceding subsection are those which would have existed if—

- (a) the area in question had not been defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development, and no particulars or proposals relating to any land in that area had been comprised in the plan, and
- (b) in a case where, on the date of service of the notice to treat, land in that area has already been developed in the course of the development or redevelopment of the area in accordance with the plan, no land in that area had been so developed on or before that date;

and in that subsection “the planned range of uses” means the range of uses which, in accordance with the particulars and proposals comprised in the current development plan in relation to the area in question, are indicated in the plan as proposed uses of land in that area.

(6) Where in accordance with any of the preceding subsections it is to be assumed that planning permission would be granted as therein mentioned—

- (a) the assumption shall be that planning permission would be so granted subject to such conditions (if any) as, in the circumstances mentioned in the subsection in question, might reasonably be expected to be imposed by the authority granting the permission, and

- (b) if, in accordance with any map or statement comprised in the current development plan, it is indicated that any such planning permission would be granted only at a future time, then (without prejudice to the preceding paragraph) the assumption shall be that the planning permission in question would be granted at the time when, in accordance with the indications in the plan, that permission might reasonably be expected to be granted.

(7) Any reference in this section to development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted is a reference to development for which planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted if no part of the relevant land were proposed to be acquired by any authority to whom the Act of 1919 applies.

(8) In this section "the current development plan", in relation to any land, means a development plan comprising that land, in the form in which (whether as originally approved or made by the Secretary of State or as for the time being amended) that plan is in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, and "land subject to comprehensive development" means land which, on the date of service of the notice to treat, consists or forms part of an area defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development.

Certification of appropriate alternative development.

5.—(1) Where an interest in land is proposed to be acquired by a public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers, and that land or part thereof does not consist or form part of—

- (a) an area defined in the current development plan as an area of comprehensive development, or
- (b) an area shown in the current development plan as an area allocated primarily for a use which is of a residential, commercial or industrial character, or for a range of two or more uses any of which is of such a character, then, subject to the next following subsection, either of the parties directly concerned may apply to the local planning authority for a certificate under this section.

(2) If, in the case of an interest in land falling within the preceding subsection, the authority proposing to acquire it have served a notice to treat in respect thereof, or an agreement has been made for the sale thereof to that authority, and a reference has been made to the Lands Tribunal to determine the amount of the compensation payable in respect of that interest, no application for a certificate under this section shall be made by one of the parties directly concerned after the date of that reference except either—

PART I

(a) with the consent in writing of the other of those parties, or

(b) with the leave of the Lands Tribunal.

(3) An application for a certificate under this section made by one of the parties directly concerned—

(a) shall specify one or more classes of development appearing to the applicant to be classes of development which would in the relevant circumstances be appropriate for the land in question, and

(b) shall be accompanied by a statement specifying the date on which a copy of the application has been or will be served upon the other of those parties.

(4) Where an application is made to a local planning authority for a certificate under this section in respect of an interest in land, the local planning authority shall, not earlier than twenty-one days after the date specified in the statement accompanying the application in accordance with paragraph (b) of the last preceding subsection, issue to the applicant a certificate stating either—

(a) that, in the opinion of the local planning authority, planning permission for development of one or more classes specified in the certificate (whether being classes of development specified in the application or not) might, in the relevant circumstances, reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of the land in question, or

(b) that, in the opinion of the local planning authority, planning permission could not, in the relevant circumstances, reasonably have been expected to be granted for any development of the land in question, other than the development (if any) which is proposed to be carried out by the authority by whom the interest is proposed to be acquired.

(5) Where, in the opinion of the local planning authority, planning permission might reasonably have been expected to be granted as mentioned in paragraph (a) of the last preceding subsection, but would only have been granted subject to conditions, or at a future time, or both subject to conditions and at a future time, the certificate shall specify those conditions, or that future time, or both of them, as the case may be, in addition to the other matters required to be contained in the certificate.

(6) For the purposes of the last preceding subsection, a local planning authority may formulate general requirements applicable to such classes of cases as may be described therein; and any conditions required to be specified in a certificate in accordance with that subsection may, if it appears to the local planning authority to be convenient to do so, be specified by reference to those requirements, subject to such special modifications thereof (if any) as may be set out in the certificate.

(7) In determining, for the purposes of the issue of a certificate under this section, whether planning permission for any particular class of development might, in the relevant circumstances, reasonably have been expected to be granted in respect of any land, the local planning authority shall not treat development of that class as development for which planning permission would have been refused by reason only that it would have involved development of the land in question (or of that land together with other land) otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the development plan relating thereto.

(8) Where an application for a certificate under this section relates to land of which part (but not the whole) consists or forms part of such an area as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of subsection (1) of this section, any certificate issued under this section in pursuance of that application shall be limited to so much of that land as does not fall within any such area.

(9) On issuing to one of the parties directly concerned a certificate under this section in respect of an interest in land, the local planning authority shall serve a copy of the certificate on the other of those parties.

(10) In this section “in the relevant circumstances”, in relation to an application for a certificate, means if the land to which the application relates were not proposed to be acquired by any authority to whom the Act of 1919 applies; and in this and the three next following sections “the parties directly concerned”, in relation to an interest in land, means the person entitled to the interest and the authority by whom it is proposed to be acquired.

Appeals
under s. 5.

6.—(1) Where the local planning authority have issued a certificate under the last preceding section in respect of an interest in land,—

- (a) the person for the time being entitled to that interest, or
- (b) any public authority possessing compulsory purchase powers by whom that interest is proposed to be acquired, may appeal to the Secretary of State against that certificate.

(2) On any appeal under this section against a certificate the Secretary of State shall consider the matters to which the certificate relates, as if the application for a certificate under the last preceding section had been made to him in the first instance, and shall either confirm the certificate, or vary it, or cancel it and issue a different certificate in its place, as he may consider appropriate:

Provided that before determining any such appeal the Secretary of State shall, if any such person or authority as is mentioned in paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of the preceding subsection so desires, afford to each such person or authority and to the local planning authority an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Secretary of State for the purpose.

(3) Where an application is made for a certificate under the last preceding section, and at the expiry of the time prescribed for the issue thereof (or, if an extended period is at any time agreed upon in writing by the parties directly concerned and the local planning authority, at the end of that period) no certificate has been issued by the local planning authority in accordance with that section, the preceding provisions of this section shall apply as if the local planning authority had issued such a certificate containing such a statement as is mentioned in paragraph (b) of subsection (4) of the last preceding section.

7.—(1) Where an interest in land is proposed to be acquired in the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1) of section five of this Act, and, by reason that the person entitled to the interest is absent from the United Kingdom or cannot be found, the compensation payable in respect of the interest falls to be determined by the valuation of a valuator under section fifty-six of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845, the valuator, before carrying out his valuation, may apply to the local planning authority for a certificate under the said section five; and the provisions of sections five and six of this Act shall apply in relation to an application made by virtue of this subsection as they apply in relation to an application made by virtue of subsection (1) of the said section five.

ss. 5 and 6 to special cases.

(2) Where, in pursuance of an application made by virtue of the preceding subsection, the local planning authority issue a certificate to the valuator, the authority shall serve copies of the certificate on both the parties directly concerned.

(3) Where an interest in land is proposed to be acquired in the circumstances mentioned in subsection (1) of section five of this Act, and that interest is the dominium utile of the land, an application to the local planning authority for a certificate under that section may be made by any person entitled to any feu duty or ground annual or other annual or recurring payment or incumbrance out of the land (not being stipend or standard charge in lieu of stipend) in the like circumstances and in the like manner as such an application may be made by the person entitled to the interest.

(4) Where, in pursuance of an application made by virtue of the last preceding subsection, the local planning authority issue a certificate to the applicant, the authority shall serve copies of the certificate on both the parties directly concerned.

PART I

(5) An application for a certificate made by virtue of subsection (1) or subsection (3) of this section shall specify the matters referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of the said section five, and shall be accompanied by a statement specifying the date on which a copy of the application has been or will be served on each of the parties directly concerned ; and, in relation to such an application, subsection (4) of the said section five shall have effect with the substitution, for the reference to the date specified in the statement accompanying the application in accordance with paragraph (b) of the said subsection (3), of a reference to the date specified in the statement accompanying the application in accordance with this subsection, or, where more than one date is so specified, the later of those dates.

(6) Where a certificate has been issued in pursuance of an application made by virtue of subsection (3) of this section, or in a case where an application for a certificate could have been made thereunder, the provisions of section six of this Act shall apply as if any reference to the person entitled to the interest in question, or to the parties directly concerned, included a reference to the person who made or could have made that application, as the case may be.

Supplementary provisions as to certification of appropriate alternative development.

- (a) to the carrying out of any such development as is mentioned in relation to that case in the second column of that table, or
- (b) to the prospect that there will or may be carried out any such development as is mentioned in relation to that case in the second column of that table (modified, for the purposes of this paragraph by the omission of the words "other than the relevant land" wherever those words occur), in so far as any such development (whether actual or prospective) is or would be development arising from the circumstances of that case.

(4) Where the last preceding subsection applies, the increase in the value of the interest in adjacent land shall be taken into account, and the amount thereof shall be deducted from the amount of the compensation which apart from this subsection would be payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition:

Provided that nothing in this subsection shall affect the amount which is to be taken as the amount of the compensation for the purposes of section sixty-two of the Act of 1954 (which relates to the consideration payable for the discharge of land from feu-duty and other incumbrances).

(7) Any reference in this section to development (whether actual or prospective) which is or would be development arising from the circumstances of a case mentioned in the first column of the table set out in subsection (2) of this section—

- (a) in relation to any acquisition for purposes involving development of any of the land authorised to be acquired, shall (subject to the next following paragraph) be construed as a reference to development (whether actual or prospective) which would not have been likely to be carried out if the acquiring authority had not acquired, and did not propose to acquire, any of that land, and
- (b) in relation to any acquisition falling within one or more of paragraphs 2 to 4 in the said first column, shall be construed as including (or, if the acquisition is not for purposes involving development of any of the land authorised to be acquired, shall be construed as) a reference to any development (whether actual or prospective) which would not have been likely to be carried out if the area or areas referred to in that paragraph or those paragraphs had not been defined or designated as therein mentioned or (in a case falling within paragraph 4) if the scheme therein mentioned had not come into operation.

(8) In this section “the current development plan” has the same meaning as in section four of this Act, and “the land authorised to be acquired”, in relation to the compulsory acquisition of an interest in land in pursuance of a notice to treat,—

- (a) where the compulsory acquisition was authorised by a compulsory purchase order or a special enactment, means the aggregate of the land comprised in that authorisation, and that act or event, would thereupon have vested in some other person, the right to compensation under this section shall be treated as having devolved as if that right had been vested in him immediately before his death or immediately before that act or event, as the case may be, and the compensation shall be payable to the persons claiming under him accordingly.

(6) The provisions of Parts I and III of the Third Schedule to this Act shall have effect for the purposes of this section.

(a) the amount of the consideration he has received, and

(b) the amount of the consideration he would have received if that planning decision had been made before the date when the consideration which he has received was determined and the permission thereby granted had been in force before that date, if the last mentioned amount is greater than the amount mentioned in paragraph (a) of this subsection.

(4) If in accordance with the last preceding subsection a person would be entitled to additional consideration in respect of an acquisition or sale, but before the planning decision in question that person has died, or any other act or event has occurred whereby the right to the additional consideration, if vested in him immediately before that act or event, would thereupon have vested in some other person, the right to the additional consideration shall be treated as having devolved as if that right had been vested in him immediately before his death or immediately before that act or event, as the case may be, and the additional consideration shall be payable to the persons claiming under him accordingly.

(2) The compulsory acquisition of land shall not be authorised by virtue of the preceding subsection unless the Secretary of State is satisfied that it is likely to become, within ten years from the date on which he confirms the compulsory purchase order, necessary for the purpose mentioned in subsection (1) of this section that the land should be acquired as therein mentioned.

SCHEDULES

Sections 9, 50.

CONTIGUOUS OR ADJACENT LAND

1. Subsection (4) of section nine of this Act shall not apply to any compulsory acquisition in respect of which the compensation payable is subject to the provisions of any of the following enactments (which contain provisions for taking account in certain cases of increases in the value of contiguous or adjacent land), that is to say,—

- (a) section thirteen of the Light Railways Act, 1896 ;
- (b) sub-paragraph (C) of paragraph (2) of the Schedule to the Development and Road Improvement Funds Act, 1909 ;
- (c) paragraph (a) of the proviso to subsection (1) of section thirteen of the Restriction of Ribbon Development Act, 1935 ;
- (d) paragraph 5 of the Fourth Schedule to the Housing (Scotland) Act, 1950.

2. Subsection (4) of section nine of this Act shall also not apply to any compulsory acquisition in respect of which the compensation payable is subject to the provisions of any local enactment which provides (in whatsoever terms) that, in assessing compensation in respect of a compulsory acquisition thereunder, account shall be taken of any increase in the value of an interest in contiguous or adjacent land which is attributable to any of the works authorised by that enactment.

3. Where any such local enactment as is mentioned in the last preceding paragraph includes a provision restricting the assessment of the increase in value thereunder by reference to existing use (that is to say, by providing, in whatsoever terms, that the increase in value shall be assessed on the assumption that planning permission in respect of the contiguous or adjacent land in question would be granted for development of any class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947, but would not be granted for any other development thereof), the enactment shall have effect, in relation to compulsory acquisitions to which section one of this Act applies, as if it included no such provision restricting the assessment of the increase in value.

4.—(1) Where, for the purpose of assessing compensation in respect of a compulsory acquisition of an interest in land, an increase in the value of an interest in other land has, in any of the cases mentioned in the table, been taken into account by virtue of subsection (4) of section nine of this Act or any corresponding enactment, then, in connection with any subsequent acquisition to which this paragraph applies, that increase shall not be left out of account by virtue of subsection (2) of section nine of this Act, or taken into account by virtue of subsection (4) of that section or any corresponding enactment, in so far as it was taken into account in connection with the previous acquisition.

(2) Where, in connection with a compulsory acquisition of an interest in land, a diminution in the value of an interest in other land has, in any of the cases mentioned in the table, been taken into account in assessing compensation for injurious affection, then, in connection with any subsequent acquisition to which this paragraph applies, that diminution shall not be left out of account, by virtue of subsection (2) of section nine of this Act, in so far as it was taken into account in connection with the previous acquisition.

(3) This paragraph applies to any subsequent acquisition where either—

- (a) the interest acquired by the subsequent acquisition is the same as the interest previously taken into account (whether the acquisition extends to the whole of the land in which that interest previously subsisted or only to part of that land), or
- (b) the person entitled to the interest acquired is, or derives title to that interest from, the person who at the time of the previous acquisition was entitled to the interest previously taken into account ;

and in this sub-paragraph any reference to the interest previously taken into account is a reference to the interest the increased or diminished value whereof was taken into account as mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) or sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph.

(4) Where, in connection with a sale of an interest in land by agreement, the circumstances were such that, if it had been a compulsory acquisition, an increase or diminution of value would have fallen to be taken into account as mentioned in sub-paragraph (1) or sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph, the preceding provisions of this paragraph shall apply, with the necessary modifications, as if that sale had been a compulsory acquisition and that increase or diminution of value had been taken into account accordingly.

(5) In this paragraph "corresponding enactment" means any such enactment as is mentioned in paragraph 1 or paragraph 2 of this Schedule, and any reference to a case mentioned in the table is a reference to a case mentioned in the first column of the table set out in subsection (2) of section nine of this Act.

and being (in any such case) an acquisition where the land in question comprises a house which, in the opinion of an appropriate local authority, is unfit for human habitation and not capable at reasonable expense of being rendered fit for human habitation.

(2) The local authority may make and submit to the Secretary of State an order, in such form as may be prescribed by regulations made under section one hundred and seventy-two of the Act of 1950, declaring the house to be in the state referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph; and if—

- (a) that order is confirmed by the Secretary of State, either before or concurrently with the confirmation of a compulsory purchase order for the acquisition of the land, or
- (b) in a case where the acquisition is in pursuance of a notice to treat deemed to have been served in consequence of the service of a notice under section seventeen of the Act of 1947 or the provisions of that section as applied by or under any other enactment or in consequence of the service of a notice under subsection (4) of section six of the New Towns Act, 1946, or under Part IV of this Act, the order is made before the date on which the notice to treat is deemed to have been served and is subsequently confirmed by the Secretary of State, the provisions of subsection (2) of section thirty-six of the Act of 1950, and the provisions of section forty of that Act as read with section twenty of the Housing and Town Development (Scotland) Act, 1957 (which relate to certain payments in respect of houses purchased or demolished under the Act of 1950) shall apply as if the house had been purchased under Part III of the Act of 1950 as being in the state referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph, and as if any reference in those sections to the local authority were a reference to the acquiring authority.

(3) Before submitting to the Secretary of State an order under this paragraph, the local authority by whom the order was made shall serve on every owner, and (so far as it is reasonably practicable to ascertain such persons) on the superior of, and the holder of every heritable security over, the land or any part thereof, a notice in such form as may be prescribed as mentioned in the last preceding sub-paragraph, stating the effect of the order and that it is about to be submitted to the Secretary of State for confirmation, and specifying the time within which, and the manner in which, objection thereto can be made.

(4) If no objection is duly made by any of the persons on whom notices are required to be served, or if all objections so made are withdrawn, the Secretary of State may, if he thinks fit, confirm the order; but in any other case he shall, before confirming the order, consider any objection not withdrawn, and shall, if either the person by whom the objection was made or the local authority so desires, afford to that person and the authority an opportunity of appearing before and being heard by a person appointed by the Secretary of State for the purpose.

(5) Subsection (2) of section one hundred and eighty-four of the Act of 1950 shall have effect in determining for the purposes of this paragraph whether a house is fit for human habitation as it has effect in so determining for the purposes of that Act.

(6) In this paragraph "appropriate local authority" means a local authority who, in relation to the area in which the land in question is situated, are a local authority for the purposes of the provisions of Part III of the Act of 1950 relating to clearance areas.

2.—(1) The provisions of this paragraph shall have effect in relation to any compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies where—

- (a) the relevant land consists of or includes the whole or part of a house (in this paragraph referred to as "the relevant house") and, on the date of the making of the compulsory purchase order in pursuance of which the acquisition is effected, the person then entitled to the relevant interest was, in right of that interest, in occupation of the relevant house or part thereof as a private dwelling, and
- (b) that person either continues, on the date of service of the notice to treat, to be entitled to the relevant interest, or, if he has died before that date, continued to be entitled to that interest immediately before his death, and
- (c) the acquisition is under the Act of 1950, in such circumstances that any of the following provisions of that Act, that is to say, subsection (2) of section twelve, subsection (4) of section seventeen, and subsection (2) of section thirty-six (which relate to compensation at site value) have effect in relation to the acquisition, or is an acquisition in connection with which an order is made and confirmed under the last preceding paragraph in respect of the relevant house.

In the following provisions of this paragraph any reference to "the dwelling" is a reference to so much of the relevant house as the person referred to in head (a) of this sub-paragraph occupied as therein mentioned.

(2) Subject to the next following sub-paragraph, if the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest would, apart from this paragraph, be less than the gross annual value of the dwelling, the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of that interest shall be an amount equal to the gross annual value of the dwelling.

(3) Where a payment falls to be made under section forty of the Act of 1950 to the person entitled to the relevant interest, and that payment is attributable to the relevant house, any reference in the last preceding sub-paragraph to the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest shall be construed as a reference to the aggregate of that amount and of the amount of the payment.

2ND SCH.

(4) For the purposes of this paragraph the gross annual value of the dwelling shall be determined as follows:—

- (a) if the dwelling constitutes the whole of the relevant house, the gross annual value of the dwelling shall be taken to be the value which, on the date of service of the notice to treat, is shown in the valuation roll then in force as the gross annual value of that house for rating purposes;
- (b) if the dwelling is only part of the relevant house, an apportionment shall be made of the gross annual value of the relevant house for rating purposes, as shown in the valuation roll in force on the date of service of the notice to treat, and the gross annual value of the dwelling shall be taken to be the amount which, on such an apportionment, is properly attributable to the dwelling.

(5) Any reference in this paragraph to the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest shall be construed as excluding so much (if any) of that compensation as is attributable to disturbance or to severance or injurious affection.

(6) Nothing in this paragraph shall affect the amount which is to be taken for the purposes of section sixty-two of the Act of 1954 (which relates to the consideration payable for the discharge of land from feu duty and other incumbrances) as the amount of the compensation payable in respect of the acquisition of the relevant interest.

3. Paragraph 3 of the Fourth Schedule to the Act of 1950 (which makes special provision as to the assessment of compensation in the case of premises which are purchased under that Act otherwise than at site value, but are in a state of defective sanitation or not in reasonably good repair) shall cease to have effect, except for the purpose of assessing compensation (where applicable) in respect of compulsory acquisitions to which section one of this Act does not apply.

4.—(1) Where, in the case of a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies,—

- (a) the acquisition is under the Act of 1950, in such circumstances that any of the following provisions of that Act, that is to say, subsection (2) of section twelve, subsection (4) of section seventeen, and subsection (2) of section thirty-six (which relate to compensation at site value) have effect in relation to the acquisition, or is an acquisition in connection with which an order is made and confirmed under paragraph 1 of this Schedule, and
- (b) the relevant land consists of or includes a hereditament, or part of a hereditament, which has sustained war damage, and any of that damage has not been made good at the date of service of the notice to treat,

there shall be added to the compensation which, apart from this paragraph, would be payable in respect of the acquisition an amount calculated in accordance with the next following sub-paragraph.

(2) The said amount shall be an amount equal to the value, as at the date of service of the notice to treat, of the prospective right to receive such payment (if any) under the War Damage Act, 1943, in respect of that hereditament or part of a hereditament, as might reasonably have been expected to become payable if the relevant land had not been compulsorily acquired.

(3) In this paragraph "hereditament" has the same meaning as in the War Damage Act, 1943.

5.—(1) Where a local authority have before the commencement of this Act made and submitted to the Secretary of State an order under paragraph 8 of the Fifth Schedule to the Town and Country Planning (Scotland) Act, 1945 (which contains provisions similar to those of paragraph 1 of this Schedule), but the Secretary of State has not confirmed that order before the commencement of this Act, sub-paragraphs (2), (4) and (5) of paragraph 1 of this Schedule shall apply in relation to that order as if—

(a) the order had been made under paragraph 1 of this Schedule, and

(b) the reference in sub-paragraph (4) of paragraph 1 of this Schedule to persons on whom notices are required to be served were a reference to persons on whom notices are required to be served under sub-paragraph (2) of the said paragraph 8.

(2) Any reference in paragraph 2 or paragraph 4 of this Schedule to an order made and confirmed under paragraph 1 of this Schedule shall be construed as including a reference to an order—

(a) made and confirmed under the said paragraph 8, or

(b) made under the said paragraph 8 and confirmed under the provisions of paragraph 1 of this Schedule applied by the preceding sub-paragraph.

(3) In this paragraph any reference to the said paragraph 8 includes a reference to the provisions of that paragraph as extended or applied by or under any other enactment.

6. In this Schedule "Act of 1950" means the Housing (Scotland) Act, 1950, and "house" has the meaning assigned to it by section one hundred and eighty-four of that Act.

Disturbance, severance and injurious affection

1. The provisions of the next following paragraph shall have effect for the purposes of the application of section eighteen of this Act to cases where the compensation or purchase price in respect of the interest acquired or purchased—

(a) included an amount attributable to disturbance, or attributable to damage sustained in respect of an interest in land

held with the land comprised in the acquisition or sale (in this Schedule referred to as "the interest affected") by reason that the land so held was severed from the land comprised in the acquisition or sale, or was injuriously affected, or

- (b) would have included such an amount if the planning decision referred to in subsection (1) of that section had been made before the relevant date, and the planning permission thereby granted had been in force on that date.

2.—(1) Subject to the next following sub-paragraph,—

- (a) any reference in subsection (2) of that section to the principal amount of the compensation which was payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition, or, in the case of a sale by agreement, the amount of the purchase price, shall be construed as including any amount which was included therein as mentioned in sub-paragraph (a) of the preceding paragraph ; and
- (b) any reference in subsection (2) of that section to the principal amount of the compensation which would have been payable as therein mentioned shall be construed as including any amount which would have been included therein as mentioned in sub-paragraph (b) of the preceding paragraph.

(2) If, at the time of the planning decision in question, the person entitled to the compensation under section eighteen of this Act is not entitled to the interest affected, either in respect of the whole of the land in which that interest subsisted at the time of the acquisition or sale or in respect of part of that land, any such reference as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph shall be construed as excluding so much of the compensation or purchase price in question as was or would have been attributable to severance or injurious affection of the land in which the interest affected subsisted, or of the part thereof in respect of which that person is not entitled to the interest affected, as the case may be.

Increase in value of contiguous or adjacent land

3. The provisions of the next following paragraph shall have effect for the purposes of the application of section eighteen of this Act to cases where the compensation or purchase price in respect of the interest acquired or purchased—

- (a) was reduced (whether by virtue of subsection (4) of section nine of this Act or otherwise) by reason of an increase in the value of an interest in contiguous or adjacent land (in this Schedule referred to as "the interest in adjacent land") being an interest belonging to the person who on the relevant date was entitled to the interest acquired or purchased, or
- (b) would have been so reduced if the planning decision referred to in subsection (1) of the said section eighteen had been made before the relevant date, and the planning permission thereby granted had been in force on that date.

4.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this paragraph—

3RD SCH.

- (a) any reference in subsection (2) of section eighteen of this Act to the principal amount of the compensation which was payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition, or, in the case of a sale by agreement, the amount of the purchase price, shall be construed as a reference to that amount as reduced as mentioned in sub-paragraph (a) of the last preceding paragraph ; and
- (b) any reference in subsection (2) of that section to the principal amount of the compensation which would have been payable as therein mentioned shall be construed as a reference to that amount as it would have been reduced in the circumstances mentioned in sub-paragraph (b) of the last preceding paragraph.

(2) If, at the time of the planning decision in question, the person entitled to the compensation under section eighteen of this Act is not entitled to the interest in adjacent land, any such reference as is mentioned in the preceding sub-paragraph shall be construed as a reference to the amount which would have been the principal amount of the compensation or the amount of the purchase price, as mentioned in subsection (2) of the said section eighteen, if the circumstances, by reason of which the compensation or purchase price was or would have been reduced, had not existed.

(3) If, at the time of the planning decision in question, the person entitled to the compensation under section eighteen of this Act is entitled to the interest in adjacent land, but only in respect of part of the land in which that interest subsisted at the time of the acquisition or sale, any such reference shall be construed as a reference to the amount which would have been the principal amount of the compensation or the amount of the purchase price, as mentioned in subsection (2) of the said section eighteen, if the interest in adjacent land had subsisted only in that part of that land.

Land subject to a heritable security

5. Subject to the provisions of this Schedule relating to land subject to a trust, where, in a case falling within subsection (1) of section eighteen or subsection (1) of section twenty-two of this Act, the interest in land which was acquired or sold was subject to a heritable security, any reference in section eighteen of this Act to the person to whom the compensation or purchase price was payable, or to the person referred to in subsection (2) of the said section eighteen, and any reference in section twenty of this Act to the person entitled to receive the compensation or purchase price, shall be construed as a reference to the person who, subject to the heritable security, was entitled to that interest, and not as a reference to the heritable creditor.

6. For the purposes of the application of section eighteen or section twenty-two of this Act, and of the provisions of this Schedule other than this paragraph, to a case falling within the last preceding paragraph, any reference to the principal amount of the compensation which was payable in respect of the compulsory acquisition shall be construed as a reference to the principal amount of the compensation which would have been payable in respect thereof if the interest in question had not been subject to a heritable security; and any reference to the principal amount of the compensation which would in any particular circumstances have been payable in respect of a compulsory acquisition shall be construed as a reference to the principal amount of the compensation which would in those circumstances have been payable in respect of such a compulsory acquisition if the interest in question had not been subject to a heritable security.

7. No compensation shall be payable by virtue of section eighteen of this Act, or by virtue of the provisions of that section as extended by section twenty-two of this Act, in respect of a compulsory acquisition or sale by agreement, where the interest acquired or sold was the interest of a heritable creditor (as distinct from an interest subject to a heritable security).

Land subject to a trust

8.—(1) Where, in a case falling within subsection (1) of section eighteen or subsection (1) of section twenty-two of this Act, the interest in land which was acquired or sold was subject to a trust, and accordingly the compensation or purchase price was payable to the trustees of that trust, any reference in section eighteen of this Act to the person to whom the compensation or purchase price was payable, and any reference in section twenty of this Act to the person entitled to receive the compensation or purchase price, shall be construed as a reference to the trustees for the time being of the trust.

(2) Where the preceding sub-paragraph applies, subsection (5) of section eighteen of this Act shall not apply.

(3) Any compensation paid to the trustees of a trust by virtue of section eighteen of this Act, or by virtue of the provisions of that section as extended by section twenty-two of this Act, in respect of a compulsory acquisition or sale by agreement, shall be applicable by the trustees as if it were proceeds of the sale of the interest acquired or sold.

9. In any case where the conditions mentioned both in paragraph 1 and in paragraph 3 of this Schedule are fulfilled in respect of the same interest in land, other than the interest acquired or purchased (whether by reason that the case falls within sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph 1 of this Schedule and within sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph 3 thereof, or falls within sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph 1 and within sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph 3), the provisions of paragraphs 2 and 4 of this Schedule, so far as applicable, shall apply with the necessary modifications.

10.—(1) The provisions of this Part of this Schedule shall have effect, in relation to any planning permission which, in accordance with any direction or provision given or made by or under an enactment, is deemed to have been granted, as if a planning decision granting that permission had been made at the time when, by virtue of that direction or provision, the permission is deemed to have been granted.

(2) Subsection (1) of section twenty-two of this Act shall apply for the purposes of this Part of this Schedule as it applies for the purposes of section eighteen of this Act.

(2) Where the preceding sub-paragraph applies, subsection (4) of section nineteen of this Act shall not apply.

(3) Any additional consideration paid to the trustees of a trust by virtue of section nineteen of this Act, or by virtue of the provisions of that section as extended by section twenty-two of this Act, in respect of a compulsory acquisition or sale by agreement, shall be applicable by the trustees as if it were consideration received by them under section one hundred and eight of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845, as read with section sixty-two of the Act of 1954.

SIXTH SCHEDULE

PART I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

1.—(1) Where in the case of—

(a) a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, or any of the land in which the interest acquired or sold subsisted had an unexpended balance of established development value immediately before the relevant date (in this paragraph referred to as “the relevant balance”), the following provisions of this paragraph shall have effect for the purpose of determining whether that land or any part thereof has an unexpended balance of established development value at any subsequent time.

(b) a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to such an acquisition,

(2) Unless, immediately after the acquisition or sale, there is outstanding some interest (other than an excepted interest) in that land to which some person other than the acquiring authority is entitled, the original unexpended balance of established development value of that land shall be treated for the purposes of the Act of 1954 as having been extinguished immediately before that subsequent time.

(3) If, immediately after the acquisition or sale, there is such an outstanding interest (other than an excepted interest) as is mentioned in the last preceding sub-paragraph, there shall be deducted from the said original balance an amount equal to any part of the relevant balance which is not attributable to any such outstanding interest, and the original balance of established development value of that land or that part thereof shall be treated for the purposes of the Act of 1954 as having been reduced or extinguished accordingly immediately before that subsequent time.

(4) For the purposes of this paragraph any question as to the portion of the relevant balance which is attributable to an interest in land—

(a) in relation to a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Part II of this Schedule, and

(b) in relation to a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to such an acquisition, shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Part II of this Schedule as those provisions would apply if the sale had been a compulsory acquisition in pursuance of a notice to treat served on the relevant date.

2.—(1) Where, in connection with a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, compensation is payable in respect of an interest in land other than the relevant land, for damage sustained by reason that the relevant land severed from other land held therewith, or that any other land (whether held with the relevant land or not) is injuriously affected, then, for the purpose of determining whether that other land or any part thereof has an unexpended balance of established development value at any subsequent time, there shall be deducted from the original unexpended balance of established development value (if any) of that other land an amount calculated in accordance with the next following sub-paragraph, and the original balance of that land, or of the part thereof in question, as the case may be, shall be treated as having been reduced or extinguished accordingly immediately before that subsequent time.

(2) The amount referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph is the amount (if any) by which the compensation payable as mentioned in that sub-paragraph exceeds the compensation which would have been so payable if the extent of the damage sustained in respect of the other land in question had fallen to be ascertained on the assumption that planning permission would be granted for development of any class specified in the Third Schedule to the Act of 1947, but would not be granted for any other development of that land.

3. The last preceding paragraph shall have effect in relation to a sale of an interest in land by agreement in circumstances corresponding to a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies as that paragraph has effect in relation to such an acquisition, but subject to the modification that—

- (a) any reference to the relevant land shall be construed as a reference to the land sold, and
- (b) any reference to compensation payable in respect of an interest in land shall be construed as a reference to an amount included in the purchase price in respect of that interest.

4. In this Schedule “interest in land”, “unexpended balance of established development value” and “original unexpended balance of established development value” have the same meanings as in the Act of 1954; “excepted interest” means the interest of any such person as is mentioned in section one hundred and fourteen of the Lands Clauses Consolidation (Scotland) Act, 1845 (which relates to persons having no greater interest than as tenant for a year or from year to year); and “the relevant date” means the date of service of the notice to treat or the date of the contract in pursuance of which the interest was sold, as the case may be.

PART II

SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR APPORTIONMENT

Determination of relevant area

5.—(1) Where, in the case of a compulsory acquisition to which section one of this Act applies, any area of the relevant land which, immediately before the service of the notice to treat, had an unexpended balance of established development value does not satisfy the condition set out in the next following sub-paragraph, that area shall be treated as divided into as many separate areas as may be requisite to ensure that each of those separate areas satisfies that condition.

(2) The condition referred to in the preceding sub-paragraph is that all the interests (other than excepted interests) subsisting in the area in question subsist in the whole thereof.

6TH SCH.

(3) Any area of the relevant land which has an unexpended balance of established development value and which complies with the condition set out in the last preceding sub-paragraph is in this Part of this Schedule referred to in relation to the interests subsisting therein as "the relevant area", and the subsequent provisions of this Part of this Schedule shall have effect separately in relation to each relevant area.

Preliminary calculations

6. In the case of the interest of the lessor under any lease there shall be calculated the capital value as at the time immediately before the service of the notice to treat of the right to receive a sum equal to the unexpended balance of established development value of the relevant area at that time, but payable at the expiration of the lease; and the amount so calculated in the case of any such interest is in this Part of this Schedule referred to as "the reversionary development value" of that interest.

Apportionment of unexpended balance between interests

7. Where two or more interests, other than excepted interests, subsist in the relevant area, the portion of the unexpended balance of established development value of the relevant area attributable to each respectively of those interests shall be taken to be the following, that is to say—

PART IV

COMPULSORY ADMISSION TO HOSPITAL AND GUARDIANSHIP

Procedure for hospital admission

25.—(1) A patient may be admitted to a hospital, and there detained for the period allowed by this section, in pursuance of an application (in this Act referred to as an application for admission for observation) made in accordance with the following provisions of this section. Admission for observation.

(2) An application for admission for observation may be made in respect of a patient on the grounds—

- (a) that he is suffering from mental disorder of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital under observation (with or without other medical treatment) for at least a limited period ; and
- (b) that he ought to be so detained in the interests of his own health or safety or with a view to the protection of other persons.

(3) An application for admission for observation shall be founded on the written recommendations in the prescribed form of two medical practitioners, including in each case a statement that in the opinion of the practitioner the conditions set out in paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (2) of this section are complied with.

(4) Subject to the provisions of section fifty-two of this Act (in a case where an application is made under that section for transferring the functions of the nearest relative of the patient), a patient admitted to hospital in pursuance of an application for admission for observation may be detained for a period not exceeding twenty-eight days beginning with the day on which he is admitted, but shall not be detained thereafter unless, before the expiration of that period, he has become liable to be detained by virtue of a subsequent application, order or direction under any of the following provisions of this Act.

26.—(1) A patient may be admitted to a hospital, and there detained for the period allowed by the following provisions of this Act, in pursuance of an application (in this Act referred to as an application for admission for treatment) made in accordance with the following provisions of this section. Admission for treatment.

(2) An application for admission for treatment may be made in respect of a patient on the grounds—

- (a) that he is suffering from mental disorder, being—
 - (i) in the case of a patient of any age, mental illness or severe subnormality ;
 - (ii) in the case of a patient under the age of twenty-one years, psychopathic disorder or subnormality ;

—cont.

and that the said disorder is of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital for medical treatment under this section ; and

- (b) that it is necessary in the interests of the patient's health or safety or for the protection of other persons that the patient should be so detained.

(3) An application for admission for treatment shall be founded on the written recommendations in the prescribed form of two medical practitioners, including in each case a statement that in the opinion of the practitioner the conditions set out in paragraphs (a) and (b) of subsection (2) of this section are complied with ; and each such recommendation shall include—

- (a) such particulars as may be prescribed of the grounds for that opinion so far as it relates to the conditions set out in the said paragraph (a) ; and
- (b) a statement of the reasons for that opinion so far as it relates to the conditions set out in the said paragraph (b), specifying whether other methods of dealing with the patient are available, and if so why they are not appropriate.

(4) An application for admission for treatment, and any recommendation given for the purposes of such an application, may describe the patient as suffering from more than one of the forms of mental disorder referred to in subsection (2) of this section ; but the application shall be of no effect unless the patient is described in each of the recommendations as suffering from the same one of those forms of mental disorder, whether or not he is also described in either of those recommendations as suffering from another of those forms.

(5) An application for admission for treatment made on the ground that the patient is suffering from psychopathic disorder or subnormality, and no other form of mental disorder referred to in subsection (2) of this section, shall state the age of the patient, or, if his exact age is not known to the applicant, shall state (if it be the fact) that the patient is believed to be under the age of twenty-one years.

General provisions as to applications.

27.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, an application for the admission of a patient for observation or for treatment may be made either by the nearest relative of the patient or by a mental welfare officer ; and every such application shall be addressed to the managers of the hospital to which admission is sought and shall specify the qualification of the applicant to make the application.

(2) An application for admission for treatment shall not be made by a mental welfare officer if the nearest relative of the patient has notified that officer, or the local health authority by whom that officer is appointed, that he objects to the application being made, and, without prejudice to the foregoing provision, shall not be made by such an officer except after consultation with the person (if any) appearing to be the nearest relative of the patient unless it appears to that officer that in the circumstances such consultation is not reasonably practicable or would involve unreasonable delay.

—cont.

(3) No application for the admission of a patient shall be made by any person unless that person has personally seen the patient within the period of fourteen days ending with the date of the application.

(4) An application for the admission of a patient shall be sufficient if the recommendations on which it is founded are given either as separate recommendations, each signed by a medical practitioner, or as a joint recommendation signed by two such practitioners.

28.—(1) The recommendations required for the purposes of an application for the admission of a patient under this Part of this Act (in this Act referred to as “medical recommendations”) shall be signed on or before the date of the application, and shall be given by practitioners who have personally examined the patient either together or at an interval of not more than seven days.

General provisions as to medical recommendations.

(2) Of the medical recommendations given for the purposes of any such application, one shall be given by a practitioner approved for the purposes of this section by a local health authority as having special experience in the diagnosis or treatment of mental disorder; and unless that practitioner has previous acquaintance with the patient, the other such recommendation shall, if practicable, be given by a medical practitioner who has such previous acquaintance.

(3) Where the application is for the admission of the patient to a hospital not being a mental nursing home, one (but not more than one) of the medical recommendations may be given by a practitioner on the staff of that hospital, except where the patient is proposed to be accommodated under section five of the National Health Service Act, 1946 (which relates to accommodation for private patients).

(4) A medical recommendation for the purposes of an application for the admission of a patient under this Part of this Act shall not be given by any of the following persons, that is to say—

- (a) the applicant;
- (b) a partner of the applicant or of a practitioner by whom another medical recommendation is given for the purposes of the same application; or by the husband, wife, father, father-in-law, mother, mother-in-law, son, son-in-law, daughter, daughter-in-law, brother, brother-in-law, sister or sister-in-law of the patient, or of any such person as aforesaid, or of a practitioner by whom another medical recommendation is given for the purposes of the same application.

Admission for observation in case of

29.—(1) In any case of urgent necessity, an application for admission for observation may be made in respect of a patient in accordance with the following provisions of this section, and any application so made is in this Act referred to as an emergency application.

(2) An emergency application may be made either by a mental welfare officer or by any relative of the patient ; and every such application shall include a statement (to be verified by the medical recommendation first referred to in subsection (3) of this section) that it is of urgent necessity for the patient to be admitted and detained under section twenty-five of this Act, and that compliance with the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act relating to applications for admission for observation would involve undesirable delay.

(3) An emergency application shall be sufficient in the first instance if founded on one of the medical recommendations required by section twenty-five of this Act, given, if practicable, by a practitioner who has previous acquaintance with the patient and otherwise complying with the requirements of section twenty-eight of this Act so far as applicable to a single recommendation, but shall cease to have effect on the expiration of a period of seventy-two hours from the time when the patient is admitted to the hospital unless—

- (a) the second medical recommendation required as aforesaid is given and received by the managers within that period ; and
- (b) that recommendation and the recommendation first referred to in this subsection together comply with all the requirements of the said section twenty-eight (other than the requirement as to the time of signature of the second recommendation).

(4) In relation to an emergency application, section twenty-seven of this Act shall have effect as if in subsection (3) of that section for the words “ fourteen days ” there were substituted the words “ three days ”.

30.—(1) An application for the admission of a patient to a hospital may be made under this Part of this Act—

—cont.

- (a) in any case, notwithstanding that the patient is already an in-patient in that hospital, not being liable to be detained in pursuance of an application under this Part of this Act ;
- (b) in the case of an application for admission for treatment, notwithstanding that the patient is for the time being liable to be detained in the hospital in pursuance of an application for his admission for observation ; and where an application is so made the patient shall be treated for the purposes of this Part of this Act as if he had been admitted to the hospital at the time when that application was received by the managers.

(2) If, in the case of a patient who is an in-patient in a hospital, not being liable to be detained therein under this Part of this Act, it appears to the medical practitioner in charge of the treatment of the patient that an application ought to be made under this Part of this Act for the admission of the patient to hospital, he may furnish to the managers a report in writing to that effect ; and in any such case the patient may be detained in the hospital for a period of three days beginning with the day on which the report is so furnished.

31.—(1) An application for the admission of a patient to a hospital under this Part of this Act, duly completed in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act, shall be sufficient authority for the applicant, or any person authorised by the applicant, to take the patient and convey him to the hospital at any time within the following period, that is to say—

Effect of application for admission.

- (a) in the case of an application other than an emergency application, the period of fourteen days beginning with the date on which the patient was last examined by a medical practitioner before giving a medical recommendation for the purposes of the application ;
- (b) in the case of an emergency application, the period of three days beginning with the date on which the patient was examined by the practitioner giving the medical recommendation first referred to in subsection (3) of section twenty-nine of this Act, or with the date of the application, whichever is the earlier.

(2) Where a patient is admitted within the said period to the hospital specified in such an application as aforesaid, or, being within that hospital, is treated by virtue of section thirty of this Act as if he had been so admitted, the application shall be sufficient authority for the managers to detain the patient in the hospital in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(3) Any application for the admission of a patient under this Part of this Act which appears to be duly made and to be founded on the necessary medical recommendations may be acted upon without further proof of the signature or qualification of the person by whom the application or any such medical recommendation, is made or given, or of any matter of fact or opinion stated therein.

(4) A patient who is admitted to a hospital in pursuance of an application for admission for treatment may apply to a Mental Health Review Tribunal within the period of six months beginning with the day on which he is so admitted, or with the day on which he attains the age of sixteen years, whichever is the later.

(5) Where a patient is admitted to a hospital in pursuance of an application for admission for treatment, any previous application under this Part of this Act by virtue of which he was liable to be detained in a hospital or subject to guardianship shall cease to have effect.

Rectification of application and recommendations.

32.—(1) If within the period of fourteen days beginning with the day on which a patient has been admitted to a hospital in pursuance of an application for admission for observation or for treatment the application, or any medical recommendation given for the purposes of the application, is found to be in any respect incorrect or defective, the application or recommendation may, within that period and with the consent of the managers of the hospital, be amended by the person by whom it was signed ; and upon such amendment being made the application or recommendation shall have effect and shall be deemed to have had effect as if it had been originally made as so amended.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of the foregoing subsection, if within the period therein mentioned it appears to the managers of the hospital that one of the two medical recommendations on which an application for the admission of a patient is founded is insufficient to warrant the detention of the patient in pursuance of the application, they may, within that period, give notice in writing to that effect to the applicant ; and where any such notice is given in respect of a medical recommendation, that recommendation shall be disregarded, but the application shall be, and shall be deemed always to have been, sufficient if—

- (a) a fresh medical recommendation complying with the relevant provisions of this Part of this Act (other than the provisions relating to the time of signature and the interval between examinations) is furnished to the managers within that period ; and
- (b) that recommendation, and the other recommendation on which the application is founded, together comply with those provisions.

(3) Where the medical recommendations upon which an application for admission is founded are, taken together, insufficient to warrant the detention of the patient in pursuance of the application, a notice under subsection (2) of this section may be given in respect of either of those recommendations; but this subsection shall not apply in a case where the application is of no effect by virtue of subsection (4) of section twenty-six of this Act.

—cont.

(4) Nothing in this section shall be construed as authorising the giving of notice in respect of an application made as an emergency application under section twenty-nine of this Act, or the detention of a patient admitted in pursuance of such an application, after the period of seventy-two hours referred to in subsection (3) of that section, unless the conditions set out in paragraphs (a) and (b) of that subsection are complied with or would be complied with apart from any error or defect to which this section applies.

Procedure for reception into guardianship

33.—(1) A patient may be received into guardianship, for the period allowed by the following provisions of this Act, in pursuance of an application (in this Act referred to as a guardianship application) made in accordance with the following provisions of this section. Application for guardianship.

(2) A guardianship application may be made in respect of a patient on the grounds—

(i) in the case of a patient of any age, mental illness or severe subnormality;

(ii) in the case of a patient under the age of twenty-one years, psychopathic disorder or subnormality;

and that his disorder is of a nature or degree which warrants the reception of the patient into guardianship under this section; and

(b) that it is necessary in the interests of the patient or for the protection of other persons that the patient should be so received.

(3) The person named as guardian in a guardianship application may be either a local health authority or any other person (including the applicant himself); but a guardianship application in which a person other than a local health authority is named as guardian shall be of no effect unless it is accepted on behalf of that person by the local health authority for the area in which he resides.

(4) Every such application shall be forwarded to the local health authority therein named as guardian, or, as the case may be, to the local health authority for the area in which the person so named resides, and, except where the person so named is the local health authority, shall be accompanied by a statement in writing by the person so named that he is willing to act as guardian.

(5) Subsections (3) to (5) of section twenty-six and sections twenty-seven and twenty-eight of this Act shall apply in relation to a guardianship application as they apply in relation to an application for admission for treatment, but subject to the following modifications, that is to say—

- (a) in section twenty-six, references to subsection (2) of that section, and to paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of that subsection, shall be construed as references to subsection (2) of this section and to paragraph (a) or paragraph (b) of that subsection, and in paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of that section the words from “specifying” to the end of the paragraph shall be omitted;
- (b) in subsection (1) of section twenty-seven, the words “shall be addressed to the managers of the hospital to which admission is sought, and” shall be omitted;
- (c) subsection (3) of section twenty-eight shall be omitted and for paragraph (e) of subsection (4) of that section there shall be substituted the following paragraph:—
“ (e) the person named as guardian in the application ”.

Effect of guardianship application,

34.—(1) Where a guardianship application, duly made under the foregoing provisions of this Act and forwarded to the local health authority within the period allowed by subsection (2) of this section, is accepted by that authority, the application shall, subject to regulations made by the Minister, confer on the authority or person therein named as guardian, to the exclusion of any other person, all such powers as would be exercisable by them or him in relation to the patient if they or he were the father of the patient and the patient were under the age of fourteen years.

(2) The period within which a guardianship application is required for the purposes of this section to be forwarded to the local health authority is the period of fourteen days beginning with the date on which the patient was last examined by a medical practitioner before giving a medical recommendation for the purposes of the application.

(3) A guardianship application which appears to be duly made and to be founded on the necessary medical recommendations may be acted upon without further proof of the signature or qualification of the person by whom the application or any such medical recommendation is made or given, or of any matter of fact or opinion stated therein.

(4) If within the period of fourteen days beginning with the day on which a guardianship application has been accepted by the local health authority the application, or any medical recommendation given for the purposes of the application, is found to be in any respect incorrect or defective, the application or recommendation may, within that period and with the consent of that authority, be amended by the person by whom it was signed; and upon such amendment being made the application or recommendation shall have effect and shall be deemed to have had effect as if it had been originally made as so amended.

(5) A patient who is received into guardianship in pursuance of a guardianship application may apply to a Mental Health Review Tribunal within the period of six months beginning with the day on which the application is accepted, or with the day on which he attains the age of sixteen years, whichever is the later.

—cont.

(6) Where a patient is received into guardianship in pursuance of a guardianship application, any previous application under this Part of this Act by virtue of which he was subject to guardianship or liable to be detained in a hospital shall cease to have effect.

Care and treatment of patients

35.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this Part of this Act, the Minister may make regulations for regulating the exercise by the guardians of patients received into guardianship under this Part of this Act of their powers as such, and for imposing on such guardians, and upon local health authorities in the case of patients under the guardianship of persons other than local health authorities, such duties as he considers necessary or expedient in the interests of the patients.

Regulations
guardianship.

(2) Regulations under this section may in particular make provision for requiring the patients to be visited, on such occasions or at such intervals as may be prescribed by the regulations, on behalf of such local health authorities as may be so prescribed, and shall provide for the appointment, in the case of every patient subject to the guardianship of a person other than a local health authority, of a medical practitioner to act as the nominated medical attendant of the patient.

36.—(1) Any postal packet addressed to a patient detained in a hospital under this Part of this Act may be withheld from the patient if, in the opinion of the responsible medical officer, the receipt of the packet would be calculated to interfere with the treatment of the patient or to cause him unnecessary distress ; and any packet so withheld shall, if the name and address of the sender are sufficiently identified therein, be returned to him by post.

Correspondence of patients.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this section, any postal packet addressed by a patient so detained and delivered by him for dispatch may be withheld from the Post Office—

—cont.

- (b) if it appears to that officer that the packet would be unreasonably offensive to the addressee, or is defamatory of other persons (other than persons on the staff of the hospital) or would be likely to prejudice the interests of the patient :

Provided that this subsection does not apply to any postal packet addressed as follows, that is to say—

- (i) to the Minister ;
- (ii) to any Member of the Commons House of Parliament ;
- (iii) to the Master or Deputy Master or any other officer of the Court of Protection ;
- (iv) to the managers of the hospital ;
- (v) to any other authority or person having power to discharge the patient under this Part of this Act ;
- (vi) at any time when the patient is entitled to make application to a Mental Health Review Tribunal, to that tribunal, and regulations made by the Minister may except from this subsection, subject to such conditions or limitations (if any) as may be prescribed by the regulations, postal packets addressed to such other classes of person as may be so prescribed.

(3) Nothing in paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section shall be construed as authorising a responsible medical officer to open or examine the contents of any postal packet unless he is of opinion that the patient is suffering from mental disorder of a kind calculated to lead him to send such communications as are referred to in that paragraph.

(4) Except as provided by this section, it shall not be lawful to prevent or impede the delivery to a patient detained as aforesaid of any postal packet addressed to him and delivered by the Post Office, or the delivery to the Post Office of any postal packet addressed by such a patient and delivered by him for dispatch.

(5) This section shall apply in relation to a patient who is subject to guardianship under this Part of this Act as it applies in relation to a patient who is detained in a hospital thereunder, and as if—

- (b) for any reference to the responsible medical officer there were substituted a reference to the guardian or any person authorised by the guardian to act for the purposes of this subsection.

(6) In this section "postal packet" has the same meaning as in the Post Office Act, 1953; and the provisions of this section shall have effect notwithstanding anything in section fifty-six of that Act.

PART V

ADMISSION OF PATIENTS CONCERNED IN CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS, ETC., AND TRANSFER OF PATIENTS UNDER SENTENCE*Provisions for compulsory admission or guardianship of patients convicted of criminal offences, etc.*

60.—(1) Where a person is convicted before a court of assize or quarter sessions of an offence other than an offence the sentence for which is fixed by law, or is convicted by a magistrates' court of an offence punishable on summary conviction with imprisonment, and the following conditions are satisfied, that is to say—

Powers of courts to order hospital admission or guardianship.

- (a) the court is satisfied, on the written or oral evidence of two medical practitioners (complying with the provisions of section sixty-two of this Act),—
- (i) that the offender is suffering from mental illness, psychopathic disorder, subnormality or severe subnormality ; and
 - (ii) that the mental disorder is of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital for medical treatment, or the reception of the patient into guardianship under this Act ; and
- (b) the court is of opinion, having regard to all the circumstances including the nature of the offence and the character and antecedents of the offender, and to the other available methods of dealing with him, that the most suitable method of disposing of the case is by means of an order under this section, the court may by order authorise his admission to and detention in such hospital as may be specified in the order or, as the case may be, place him under the guardianship of a local health authority or of such other person approved by a local health authority as may be so specified.

(2) Where a person is charged before a magistrates' court with any act or omission as an offence and the court would have power, on convicting him of that offence, to make an order under subsection (1) of this section in his case as being a person suffering from mental illness or severe subnormality, then, if the court is satisfied that the accused did the act or made the omission charged, the court may, if it thinks fit, make such an order without convicting him.

(3) An order for the admission of an offender to a hospital (in this Part of this Act referred to as a hospital order) shall not be made under this section unless the court is satisfied that arrangements have been made for the admission of the offender to that hospital in the event of such an order being made by the court, and for his admission thereto within a period of twenty-eight days beginning with the date of the making of such an order.

(4) An order placing an offender under the guardianship of a local health authority or of any other person (in this Part of this Act referred to as a guardianship order) shall not be made under this section unless the court is satisfied that that authority or person is willing to receive the offender into guardianship.

(5) A hospital order or guardianship order shall specify the form or forms of mental disorder referred to in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section from which, upon the evidence taken into account under that paragraph, the offender is found by the court to be suffering; and no such order shall be made unless the offender is described by each of the practitioners whose evidence is taken into account as aforesaid as suffering from the same one of those forms of mental disorder, whether or not he is also described by either of them as suffering from another of those forms.

(6) Where an order is made under this section, the court shall not pass sentence of imprisonment or impose a fine or make a probation order in respect of the offence, but may make any other order which the court has power to make apart from this section; and for the purposes of this subsection "sentence of imprisonment" includes any sentence or order for detention, including an order sending an offender to an approved school.

powers in respect of children and young persons.

61.—(1) If in the case of a child or young person brought before a juvenile court under section sixty-two or section sixty-four of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933,—

- (a) the court is satisfied that the child or young person is in need of care or protection, or that his parent or guardian is unable to control him, as the case may be; and
- (b) the conditions which, under section sixty of this Act, are required to be satisfied for the making of a hospital order or guardianship order in respect of a person convicted as therein mentioned are so far as applicable satisfied in the case of the child or young person, the court shall have the like power to make a hospital order or guardianship order as if the child or young person had been convicted by the court of an offence punishable on summary conviction with imprisonment; and the provisions of the said section sixty shall with the necessary modifications apply accordingly.

(2) A juvenile court shall not make a hospital order or guardianship order in respect of a person brought before the court under section sixty-four of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933, as being beyond the control of his parent or guardian unless the court is satisfied that the parent or guardian understands the results which will follow from the order and consents to its being made.

—cont.

(3) Where a hospital order is made by virtue of this section in respect of a child or young person, the court may also make an order committing him to the care of a fit person under the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933; but except as aforesaid no order shall be made under section sixty-two or sixty-four of that Act in conjunction with a hospital order or guardianship order.

62.—(1) Of the medical practitioners whose evidence is taken into account under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section sixty of this Act, at least one shall be a practitioner approved for the purposes of section twenty-eight of this Act by a local health authority as having special experience in the diagnosis or treatment of mental disorders.

Requirements
evidence.

(2) For the purposes of the said paragraph (a) a report in writing purporting to be signed by a medical practitioner may, subject to the provisions of this section, be received in evidence without proof of the signature or qualifications of the practitioner; but the court may in any case require that the practitioner by whom such a report was signed be called to give oral evidence.

(3) Where, in pursuance of directions of the court, any such report as aforesaid is tendered in evidence otherwise than by or on behalf of the accused, then—

- (a) if the accused is represented by counsel or solicitor, a copy of the report shall be given to his counsel or solicitor;
- (b) if the accused is not so represented, the substance of the report shall be disclosed to the accused or, where he is a child or young person, to his parent or guardian if present in court;
- (c) in any case, the accused may require that the practitioner by whom the report was signed be called to give oral evidence, and evidence to rebut the evidence contained in the report may be called by or on behalf of the accused.

(4) In relation to a child or young person brought before a juvenile court under section sixty-two or section sixty-four of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933, subsection (3) of this section shall have effect as if for references to the accused there were substituted references to the child or young person; and in the case of a child or young person brought before the court under the said section sixty-four paragraphs (a) to (c) of that subsection shall have effect as if those references included references to his parent or guardian, and as if in the said paragraph (b) the words from “or, where” to the end of the paragraph were omitted.

Effects of hospital orders and guardianship orders.

63.—(1) A hospital order shall be sufficient authority—

- (a) for a constable, a mental welfare officer or any other person directed to do so by the court to convey the patient to the hospital specified in the order within a period of twenty-eight days ; and
- (b) for the managers of the hospital to admit him at any time within that period and thereafter detain him in accordance with the provisions of this Act.

(2) A guardianship order shall confer on the authority or person therein named as guardian the like powers as a guardianship application made and accepted under Part IV of this Act.

(3) A patient who is admitted to a hospital in pursuance of a hospital order, or placed under guardianship by a guardianship order, shall be treated for the purposes of Part IV of this Act (other than sections thirty-one and thirty-two, or section thirty-four, as the case may be) as if he had been so admitted or placed on the date of the order in pursuance of an application for admission for treatment or a guardianship application, as the case may be, duly made under the said Part IV, except that—

- (a) the power to order the discharge of the patient under section forty-seven shall not be exercisable by his nearest relative ; and
- (b) the special provisions relating to the expiration and renewal of authority for detention and guardianship in the case of psychopathic and subnormal patients shall not apply ;

and accordingly the provisions of the said Part IV specified in the first column of the Third Schedule to this Act shall apply in relation to him subject to the exceptions and modifications set out in the second column of that Schedule and the remaining provisions of the said Part IV shall not apply.

(4) Without prejudice to any provision of Part IV of this Act as applied by this section, an application to a Mental Health Review Tribunal may be made in respect of a patient admitted to a hospital in pursuance of a hospital order, or placed under guardianship by a guardianship order, as follows, that is to say—

- (a) by the patient, within the period of six months beginning with the date of the order or with the day on which he attains the age of sixteen years, whichever is the later ;

(b) by the nearest relative of the patient, within the period of twelve months beginning with the date of the order, and in any subsequent period of twelve months.

—cont.

(5) Where a patient is admitted to a hospital in pursuance of a hospital order, or placed under guardianship by a guardianship order, any previous application, hospital order or guardianship order by virtue of which he was liable to be detained in a hospital or subject to guardianship shall cease to have effect :

Provided that if the first-mentioned order, or the conviction on which it was made, is quashed on appeal, this subsection shall not apply and section forty-six of this Act shall have effect as if during any period for which the patient was liable to be detained or subject to guardianship under the order, he had been detained in custody as mentioned in that section.

64.—(1) The court by which a hospital order is made may give such directions as it thinks fit for the conveyance of the patient to a place of safety and his detention therein pending his admission to the hospital within the period of twenty-eight days referred to in subsection (1) of section sixty-three of this Act. Supplementary provisions as to hospital orders.

(2) If within the said period of twenty-eight days it appears to the Minister that by reason of an emergency or other special circumstances it is not practicable for the patient to be received into the hospital specified in the order, he may give directions for the admission of the patient to such other hospital as appears to be appropriate in lieu of the hospital so specified ; and where such directions are given the Minister shall cause the person having the custody of the patient to be informed, and the hospital order shall have effect as if the hospital specified in the directions were substituted for the hospital specified in the order.

65.—(1) Where a hospital order is made in respect of an offender by a court of assize or quarter sessions, and it appears to the court, having regard to the nature of the offence, the antecedents of the offender and the risk of his committing further offences if set at large, that it is necessary for the protection of the public so to do, the court may, subject to the provisions of this section, further order that the offender shall be subject to the special restrictions set out in this section, either without limit of time or during such period as may be specified in the order. Power of higher courts to restrict discharge from hospital.

(2) An order under this section (in this Act referred to as an order restricting discharge) shall not be made in the case of any person unless at least one of the medical practitioners whose evidence is taken into account by the court under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of section sixty of this Act has given evidence orally before the court.

—cont.

(3) The special restrictions applicable to a patient in respect of whom an order restricting discharge is in force are as follows, that is to say—

- (a) none of the provisions of Part IV of this Act relating to the duration, renewal and expiration of authority for the detention of patients shall apply, and the patient shall continue to be liable to be detained by virtue of the relevant hospital order until he is duly discharged under the said Part IV or absolutely discharged under the next following section ;
- (b) no application shall be made to a Mental Health Review Tribunal in respect of the patient under section sixty-three of this Act or under any provision of the said Part IV ;
- (c) the following powers shall be exercisable only with the consent of the Secretary of State, that is to say—
 - (i) power to grant leave of absence to the patient under section thirty-nine of this Act ;
 - (ii) power to transfer the patient in pursuance of regulations under section forty-one of this Act ; and
 - (iii) power to order the discharge of the patient under section forty-seven of this Act ; and if leave of absence is granted under the said section thirty-nine the power to recall the patient under that section shall be vested in the Secretary of State as well as the responsible medical officer ; and
- (d) the power of the Secretary of State to recall the patient under the said section thirty-nine, and the power to take the patient into custody and return him under section forty of this Act, may be exercised at any time ;

and in relation to any such patient the provisions of the said Part IV described in the first column of the Third Schedule to this Act shall have effect subject to the exceptions and modifications set out in the third column of that Schedule in lieu of those set out in the second column of that Schedule.

(4) A hospital order shall not cease to have effect under subsection (5) of section sixty-three of this Act if an order restricting the discharge of the patient is in force at the material time.

(5) Where an order restricting the discharge of a patient ceases to have effect while the relevant hospital order continues in force, the provisions of section sixty-three of this Act and the Third Schedule to this Act shall apply to the patient as if he had been admitted to the hospital in pursuance of a hospital order (without an order restricting his discharge) made on the date on which the order restricting his discharge ceased to have effect.

66.—(1) If the Secretary of State is satisfied that an order restricting the discharge of a patient is no longer required for the protection of the public, he may direct that the patient shall cease to be subject to the special restrictions set out in section sixty-five of this Act; and where the Secretary of State so directs, the order restricting the discharge of the patient shall cease to have effect, and subsection (5) of the last foregoing section shall apply accordingly.

—cont.

Powers of Secretary of State in respect of patients subject to restriction orders.

(2) At any time while an order restricting the discharge of a patient is in force, the Secretary of State may, if he thinks fit, by warrant discharge the patient from hospital, either absolutely or subject to conditions; and where a person is absolutely discharged under this subsection, he shall thereupon cease to be liable to be detained by virtue of the relevant hospital order, and the order restricting his discharge shall cease to have effect accordingly.

(3) The Secretary of State may at any time during the continuance in force of an order restricting the discharge of a patient who has been conditionally discharged under the last foregoing subsection, by warrant recall the patient to such hospital as may be specified in the warrant; and thereupon—

- (a) if the hospital so specified is not the hospital from which the patient was conditionally discharged, the hospital order and the order restricting his discharge shall have effect as if the hospital specified in the warrant were substituted for the hospital specified in the hospital order;
- (b) in any case, the patient shall be treated for the purposes of section forty of this Act as if he had absented himself without leave from the hospital specified in the warrant, and if the order restricting his discharge was made for a specified period, that period shall not in any event expire until the patient returns to the hospital or is returned to the hospital under that section.

(4) If an order restricting the discharge of a patient ceases to have effect after the patient has been conditionally discharged under this section, the patient shall, unless previously recalled under the last foregoing subsection, be deemed to be absolutely discharged on the date when the order ceases to have effect, and shall cease to be liable to be detained by virtue of the relevant hospital order accordingly.

(5) The Secretary of State may, if satisfied that the attendance at any place in Great Britain of a patient who is subject to an order restricting discharge is desirable in the interests of justice or for the purposes of any public inquiry, direct him to be taken to that place; and where a patient is directed under this subsection to be taken to any place he shall, unless the Secretary of

—cont.

State otherwise directs, be kept in custody while being so taken, while at that place and while being taken back to the hospital in which he is liable to be detained.

(6) The Secretary of State may at any time refer to a Mental Health Review Tribunal for their advice the case of a patient who is for the time being subject to an order restricting his discharge, and, where so requested in writing in accordance with the following provisions of this section by such a patient who is detained in hospital, shall do so within the period of two months beginning with the receipt of the request unless during that period the patient is discharged absolutely or conditionally under subsection (2) of this section or the order restricting his discharge ceases to have effect.

(7) A patient shall not be entitled to make a request to the Secretary of State under the last foregoing subsection before the expiration of the period of one year beginning with the date of the relevant hospital order, but subject as aforesaid may make one such request during each period during which he could have made an application to a Mental Health Review Tribunal if he had been subject to a hospital order without an order restricting his discharge and the authority for his detention had been renewed at the requisite intervals.

(8) Where a patient subject to an order restricting his discharge has been conditionally discharged under subsection (2) of this section and subsequently recalled to hospital, the last foregoing subsection shall apply as if the relevant hospital order had been made on the day on which he returns or is returned to hospital, but he may also make one such request as aforesaid between the expiration of the period of six months and the expiration of the period of one year beginning with that day.

Power of magistrates' courts to commit for restriction order.

67.—(1) If in the case of a person of or over the age of fourteen years who is convicted by a magistrates' court of an offence punishable on summary conviction with imprisonment—

- (a) the conditions which, under subsection (1) of section sixty of this Act, are required to be satisfied for the making of a hospital order are satisfied in respect of the offender ; but
- (b) it appears to the court, having regard to the nature of the offence, the antecedents of the offender and the risk of his committing further offences if set at large, that if a hospital order is made an order restricting his discharge should also be made, the court may, instead of making a hospital order or dealing with him in any other manner, commit him in custody to quarter sessions to be dealt with in respect of the offence.

(2) Subsection (2) of section twenty-nine of the Criminal Justice Act, 1948 (which specifies the court of quarter sessions by which an offender committed to quarter sessions for sentence is to be dealt with) shall apply in relation to the committal of an offender under this section as it applies in relation to the committal of an offender for sentence under section twenty-nine of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952.

(3) Where an offender is committed to quarter sessions under this section, the court of quarter sessions shall inquire into the circumstances of the case and may—

- (a) if that court would have power so to do under the foregoing provisions of this Part of this Act upon the conviction of the offender before that court of such an offence as is described in subsection (1) of section sixty of this Act, make a hospital order in his case, with or without an order restricting his discharge ;
- (b) if the court does not make such an order, deal with the offender in any other manner in which the magistrates' court might have dealt with him ;

and the Poor Prisoners Defence Act, 1930, shall apply as if the offender were committed for trial for an indictable offence, subject to the modifications specified in subsections (4) and (5) of section eighteen of the Legal Aid and Advice Act, 1949.

(4) The power of a magistrates' court under section twenty-nine of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952 (which enables such a court to commit an offender to quarter sessions where the court is of opinion that greater punishment should be inflicted for the offence than the court has power to inflict) shall also be exercisable by a magistrates' court where it is of opinion that greater punishment should be inflicted as aforesaid on the offender unless a hospital order is made in his case with an order restricting his discharge.

(5) The power of a court of quarter sessions to make a hospital order, with or without an order restricting discharge, in the case of a person convicted before that court of an offence may, in the like circumstances and subject to the like conditions, be exercised by such a court in the case of a person committed to the court under section five of the Vagrancy Act, 1824 (which provides for the committal to quarter sessions of persons being incorrigible rogues within the meaning of that section).

68.—(1) Where an offender is committed under subsection (1) of section sixty-seven of this Act and the magistrates' court by which he is committed is satisfied that arrangements have been made for the admission of the offender to a hospital in the event of an order being made under this section, the court may, instead of committing him in custody, by order direct him to ^{Committal to hospital under s. 67.}

be admitted to that hospital, specifying it, and to be detained there until the case is disposed of by quarter sessions, and may give such directions as it thinks fit for his production from the hospital to attend the court of quarter sessions by which his case is to be dealt with.

(2) Subsection (1) of section sixty-three and section sixty-four of this Act shall apply in relation to an order under this section as they apply in relation to a hospital order, but as if references to the period of twenty-eight days mentioned in the said subsection (1) were omitted; and subject as aforesaid an order under this section shall, until the offender's case is disposed of by quarter sessions, have the like effect as a hospital order together with an order restricting his discharge, made without limitation of time.

(3) Where an order has been made under this section in respect of an offender, the notice of the date on which the case will be dealt with required by subsection (2) of section twenty-nine of the Criminal Justice Act, 1948, to be given by the clerk of the peace to the governor of the prison or remand centre shall instead be given to the managers of the hospital in which he is detained.

Appeals from

69.—(1) Where an order restricting discharge is made by a court of quarter sessions in respect of a person committed under section twenty-nine of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, under section five of the Vagrancy Act, 1824, or under section sixty-seven of this Act, that person may appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeal against the order in like manner as against an order made on his conviction on indictment, and the provisions of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, shall apply accordingly.

(2) On any appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeal against an order restricting the discharge of an offender (including an appeal under subsection (1) of this section) the court shall have the like powers under subsection (3) of section four of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, as if the appeal were an appeal against the hospital order in respect of him as well as against the order restricting his discharge.

(3) On any appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeal by an offender against a hospital order or guardianship order, the court shall have the like powers under subsection (3) of the said section four as if the appeal were an appeal against any further order made by the court which made the hospital order or guardianship order, as well as against the hospital order or guardianship order.

Appeals from
courts.

70.—(1) Where on the trial of an information charging a person with an offence a magistrates' court makes a hospital order or guardianship order in respect of him without convicting him, he shall have the like right of appeal against the order as if it had been made on his conviction; and on any such appeal quarter sessions shall have the like powers as if the appeal had been against both conviction and sentence.

(2) Where a juvenile court, on being satisfied that a child or young person brought before the court is in need of care or protection or that his parent or guardian is unable to control him, makes such an order as aforesaid, the child or young person may appeal to quarter sessions against the order.

(3) An appeal by a child or young person with respect to whom any such order has been made, whether the appeal is against the order or against the finding upon which the order was made, may be brought by him or by his parent or guardian on his behalf.

(4) Section two of the Summary Jurisdiction (Appeals) Act, 1933 (which relates to legal aid) shall with the necessary modifications apply in relation to an appeal against a hospital order or guardianship order made by a magistrates' court (whether or not brought under this section) as it applies in relation to an appeal against sentence.

71.—(1) Where under any enactment to which this subsection applies any person is ordered to be kept in custody during Her Majesty's pleasure, that person shall, until detained in pursuance of any directions under subsection (2) of this section, be detained in such place of safety as the court may order, and the order shall be sufficient authority for his conveyance to that place.

Persons ordered to be kept in custody during Her Majesty's pleasure.

(2) The Secretary of State may by warrant direct that any person who, by virtue of any enactment to which this subsection applies, is required to be kept in custody during Her Majesty's pleasure or until the directions of Her Majesty are known shall be detained in such hospital (not being a mental nursing home) as may be specified in the warrant and, where that person is not already detained in the hospital, give directions for his removal there.

(3) The enactments to which subsection (1) of this section applies are section two of the Criminal Lunatics Act, 1800, section two of the Trial of Lunatics Act, 1883, and subsection (4) of section five of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907; and the enactments to which subsection (2) of this section applies are the aforementioned enactments and subsection (4) of section six of the Courts-Martial (Appeals) Act, 1951, section one hundred and sixteen of the Army Act, 1955, section one hundred and sixteen of the Air Force Act, 1955, and section sixty-three of the Naval Discipline Act, 1957.

(4) A direction under this section in respect of any person shall have the like effect as a hospital order together with an order restricting his discharge, made without limitation of time; and where such a direction is given in respect of a person while he is in the hospital, he shall be deemed to be admitted in pursuance of, and on the date of, the direction.

(5) Where the Secretary of State is notified by the responsible medical officer that a person detained in a hospital, being a person ordered under section two of the Criminal Lunatics Act, 1800, to be kept in custody, no longer requires treatment for mental disorder, the Secretary of State may remit that person to prison, or to a remand centre provided under section forty-three of the Prison Act, 1952, for trial at the next quarter sessions or, as the case may be, assizes for the place where, but for the order, he would have been tried, and on his arrival at the prison or remand centre the direction under this section shall cease to have effect.

72.—(1) If in the case of a person serving a sentence of imprisonment the Secretary of State is satisfied, by reports from at least two medical practitioners (complying with the provisions of this section)—

- (a) that the said person is suffering from mental illness, psychopathic disorder, subnormality or severe subnormality ; and
- (b) that the mental disorder is of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital for medical treatment ;

the Secretary of State may, if he is of opinion having regard to the public interest and all the circumstances that it is expedient so to do, by warrant direct that that person be removed to and detained in such hospital (not being a mental nursing home) as may be specified in the direction.

(2) A direction under this section (in this Act referred to as a transfer direction) shall cease to have effect at the expiration of the period of fourteen days beginning with the date on which it is given unless within that period the person with respect to whom it was given has been received into the hospital specified therein.

73.—(1) If in the case of a person to whom this section applies the Secretary of State is satisfied by the like reports as are required for the purposes of the last foregoing section that that person is suffering from mental illness or severe subnormality of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital for medical treatment, the Secretary of State shall have the like power of giving a transfer direction in respect of him under that section as if he were serving a sentence of imprisonment.

and on his arrival in the prison or other institution or, as the case may be, his release or discharge as aforesaid, the transfer direction and the direction restricting discharge shall cease to have effect.

—cont.

(2) A direction restricting the discharge of a person serving a sentence of imprisonment (including an order for detention in a remand home under section sixty-nine of the Children and Young Persons Act, 1933), shall cease to have effect on the expiration of the sentence.

(3) Subject to the next following subsection, references in this section to the expiration of a person's sentence are references to the expiration of the period during which he would have been liable to be detained in a prison or other institution if the transfer direction had not been given.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (2) of section forty-nine of the Prison Act, 1952 (which provides for discounting from the sentence of certain prisoners periods while they are unlawfully at large) a patient who, having been transferred in pursuance of a transfer direction from any such institution as is referred to in that subsection, is at large in circumstances in which he is liable to be taken into custody under any provision of this Act, shall be treated as unlawfully at large and absent from that institution.

76.—(1) Any transfer direction given in respect of any such person as is described in paragraphs (a) to (c) of subsection (2) of section seventy-three of this Act shall cease to have effect when his case is disposed of by the court to which he was committed or by which he was remanded, as the case may be, but without prejudice to any power of that court to make a hospital order or other order under this Part of this Act in his case. PART V
—cont.

(b) if (no direction having been given under paragraph (a) of this subsection) it appears to that court that it is impracticable or inappropriate to bring that person before the court and the conditions set out in the next following subsection are satisfied, the court may make a hospital order (with or without an order restricting discharge) in his case in his absence and, in the case of a person committed for trial, without convicting him.

(3) A hospital order may be made in respect of a person under paragraph (b) of the last foregoing subsection if the court is satisfied, on the oral evidence of at least two medical practitioners (complying with subsection (1) of section sixty-two of this Act), that that person is suffering from mental illness or severe subnormality of a nature or degree which warrants the detention of the patient in a hospital for medical treatment, and is of opinion, after considering any depositions or other documents required to be sent to the proper officer of the court, that it is proper to make such an order.

(4) Where a person committed to quarter sessions to be dealt with under section sixty-seven of this Act is admitted to a hospital in pursuance of an order under section sixty-eight of this Act, paragraph (b) of subsection (2) and subsection (3) of this section shall apply as if he were a person subject to a transfer direction.

Further provisions as to persons remanded by magistrates' courts.

77.—(1) A transfer direction given in respect of a person remanded in custody by a magistrates' court shall cease to have effect on the expiration of the period of remand unless, upon his being brought before the magistrates' court, he is committed in custody for trial at assizes or quarter sessions.

(2) Where, on the expiration of the period of remand of any such person, he is committed in custody for trial as aforesaid, section seventy-six of this Act shall apply as if the transfer direction given in his case were a direction given in respect of a person so committed.

(3) Where a transfer direction has been given in respect of a person remanded as aforesaid, the power of further remanding him under section one hundred and five of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, may be exercised by the court without his being brought before the court; and if the court further remands such a person in custody (whether or not he is brought before the court) the period of remand shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed not to have expired.

(4) Where a transfer direction in respect of any person ceases to have effect under this section, then unless the court before which he is brought on the expiration of the period of remand—

(a) passes a sentence of imprisonment (within the meaning of subsection (6) of section sixty of this Act) on him ; or

(b) makes a hospital order or guardianship order in his case, he shall continue to be liable to be detained in the hospital in which he was detained under the transfer direction as if he had been admitted thereto, on the date on which that direction ceased to have effect, in pursuance of an application for admission for treatment made under Part IV of this Act, and the provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly.

78.—(1) Any transfer direction given in respect of a civil prisoner shall cease to have effect on the expiration of the period during which he would, but for his removal to hospital, be liable to be detained in prison. Further provisions as to civil prisoners.

(2) Where a transfer direction given in respect of any person ceases to have effect by virtue of this section, he shall continue to be liable to be detained in the hospital in which he was detained under that direction as if he had been admitted thereto, on the date on which the direction ceased to have effect, in pursuance of an application for admission for treatment made under Part IV of this Act, and the provisions of this Act shall apply accordingly.

79.—(1) If in the case of a child or young person detained in an approved school the Secretary of State is satisfied by the like reports as are required for the purposes of section seventy-two of this Act— Reception into guardianship of persons sent to approved schools.

(a) that the child or young person is suffering from mental illness, psychopathic disorder, subnormality or severe subnormality ; and

(b) that the mental disorder is of a nature or degree which warrants the reception of the patient into guardianship under this Act ;

the Secretary of State may, if he is of opinion having regard to the public interest and to all the circumstances that it is expedient so to do, by warrant direct that he be placed under the guardianship of a local health authority or of any such other person approved by a local health authority as may be specified in the direction.

(2) A direction shall not be given under this section placing a person under the guardianship of a local health authority or other person unless the Secretary of State is satisfied that that authority or person is willing to receive that person into guardianship.

(3) A direction under this section with respect to any person shall have the like effect as a guardianship order made in his case.

CHAPTER 73

An Act to amend the Legitimacy Act, 1926, to legitimate the children of certain void marriages, and otherwise to amend the law relating to children born out of wedlock. [29th July, 1959]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Amendment of Legitimacy
Act, 1926.

1.—(1) Subsection (2) of section one of the Legitimacy Act, 1926 (which excludes the operation of that Act in the case of an illegitimate person whose father or mother was married to a third person at the time of the birth) is hereby repealed.

(2) In relation to an illegitimate person to whom it applies by virtue of this section, the Legitimacy Act, 1926, shall have effect as if for references to the commencement of that Act there were substituted references to the commencement of this Act.

Legitimacy of children of certain void
marriages.

2.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the child of a void marriage, whether born before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be treated as the legitimate child of his parents if at the time of the act of intercourse resulting in the birth (or at the time of the celebration of the marriage if later) both or either of the parties reasonably believed that the marriage was valid.

(2) This section applies, and applies only, where the father of the child was domiciled in England at the time of the birth or, if he died before the birth, was so domiciled immediately before his death.

(3) This section, so far as it affects the succession to a dignity or title of honour, or the devolution of property settled therewith, applies only to children born after the commencement of this Act.

(4) This section does not affect any rights under the intestacy of a person who died before the commencement of this Act, and does not (except so far as may be necessary to avoid the severance from a dignity or title of honour of property settled therewith) affect the operation or construction of any disposition coming into operation before the commencement of this Act.

(5) In this section the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them, that is to say—

“ void marriage ” means a marriage, not being voidable only, in respect of which the High Court has or had jurisdiction to grant a decree of nullity, or would have or would have had such jurisdiction if the parties were domiciled in England; and any reference in this section to property settled with a dignity or title of honour is a reference to any real or personal property, or any interest in such property, which is limited by any disposition (whether subject to a preceding limitation or charge or not) in such a way as to devolve with the dignity or title as nearly as the law permits, whether or not the disposition contains an express reference to the dignity or title and whether or not the property or some interest in the property may in some event become severed from it.

“disposition” has the same meaning as in the Legitimacy Act, 1926;

(6) In subsection (1) of section seventeen of the Matrimonial Causes Act, 1950 (which enables an application to be made to the High Court for a decree declaring that the applicant is the legitimate child of his parents, and that the marriage of his father and mother or of his grandfather and grandmother was a valid marriage or that his own marriage was a valid marriage) for the words “and that” there shall be substituted the words “or that”.

3.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this section, the following enactments relating to the custody of infants, that is to say—

(a) section five of the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1886 (which enables the court to make, on the application of the mother of an infant, orders regarding the custody of the infant and the right of access thereto of either parent); and

(b) section sixteen of the Administration of Justice Act, 1928 (which enables the court to make orders under the said section five on the application of the father of an infant), shall apply in relation to an infant who is illegitimate as they apply in relation to an infant who is legitimate, and references in those enactments, and in any other enactment so far as it relates to proceedings under the said section five, to the father or mother or parent of an infant shall be construed accordingly.

(2) No order shall be made by virtue of this section under subsection (2) of section three of the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1925 (which enables the court, upon making an order in respect of an infant under section five of the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1886, to order the payment of money towards the maintenance or education of the infant).

(3) For the purposes of sections four and five of the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1925 (which relate to the guardianship of infants after the death of their father or mother), a person being the natural father of an illegitimate infant and being entitled to his custody by virtue of an order in force under section five of the Guardianship of Infants Act, 1886, as applied by this section, shall be treated as if he were the lawful father of the infant ; but any appointment of a guardian made by virtue of this subsection under subsection (1) of section five of the said Act of 1925 shall be of no effect unless the appointor is entitled to the custody of the infant as aforesaid immediately before his death.

Applications, &c., under s. 1 of Affiliation Proceedings Act, 1957.

4. An application under section one of the Affiliation Proceedings Act, 1957, may be made by a woman who was a single woman at the date of the birth of the child whether or not she is a single woman at the time of the application and the reference to a single woman in section two of that Act (which relates to the time within which such application may be made) shall be construed accordingly.

Procedure on applications for affiliation orders.

5.—(1) The proceedings which are domestic proceedings within the meaning of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, shall include proceedings on an application for an affiliation order made under the Affiliation Proceedings Act, 1957, section forty-four of the National Assistance Act, 1948, or section twenty-six of the Children Act, 1948 (other than proceedings for the enforcement, revocation, revival or variation of an affiliation order), and section fifty-six of the said Act of 1952 (which defines " domestic proceedings ") shall have effect accordingly.

(2) In subsection (1) of section sixty of the Magistrates' Courts Act, 1952, the words " or of proceedings for an affiliation order " are hereby repealed.

Extent, short title, commencement, and saving.

6.—(1) This Act shall not apply to Scotland or Northern Ireland.

(2) This Act may be cited as the Legitimacy Act, 1959.

(3) This Act shall come into force on the expiration of three months beginning with the day on which it is passed.

(4) It is hereby declared that nothing in this Act affects the Succession to the Throne.

1. In section four of the White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1957 (which limits the aggregate amount of the grants made in pursuance of schemes under section five of the White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1953, and under section three of the said Act of 1957 to seventeen million pounds or such greater sum, not exceeding nineteen million pounds, as may be prescribed by an order made by the Ministers with the approval of the Treasury) there shall be substituted, for the words "seventeen million pounds" the words "twenty-two million pounds", and for the words "nineteen million pounds" the words "twenty-four million pounds".

Increase of aggregate amount of grants by White Fish Authority towards new vessels and engines.

2.—(1) The aggregate amount of the grants which may be made in pursuance of a scheme or schemes under section one of the White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1953 (which enables the White Fish Authority to make grants towards new vessels and engines) shall not exceed twelve million pounds or such greater sum, not exceeding fourteen million pounds, as may be prescribed by an order made by the Ministers with the approval of the Treasury.

(2) Subsection (2) of the said section one (which limits the said aggregate amount to nine million pounds) is hereby repealed.

Amendment of s. 5 (2) of White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1957.

3. In subsection (2) of section five of the White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1957 (which provides that a scheme under that Act or under the White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1953, shall not be so varied or revoked as to affect the payment of grant in pursuance of an application approved before the variation or revocation) for the word "affect" there shall be substituted the words "reduce or prevent".

4.—(1) The Ministers may take or concur or assist in the taking of such measures for the increase or improvement of marine resources as may be required for giving effect to any convention or agreement for the time being in force between Her Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom and the Government of any other country. Measures for increase or improvement of marine resources.

(2) Any expenses incurred by the Ministers under this section shall be defrayed out of moneys provided by Parliament.

5.—(1) In subsection (1) of section three of the Sea-Fishing Industry Act, 1933 (which provides for the regulation of the construction and size of mesh of fishing nets) for the words from "fishing nets" to "at least such size" there shall be substituted the words "nets and other fishing gear carried in any British fishing-boat registered in the United Kingdom comply with such requirements as to construction, design, material, or size, including, in the case of nets, size of mesh". Regulation of nets and other fishing gear.

(2) In subsection (2) of that section (which enables orders under that section prescribing minimum sizes of mesh to make also certain incidental provisions and, in paragraph (c), provides for exempting nets from any restrictions imposed by such an order so long as any conditions imposed by or under the order are complied with) the words "for securing that the nets will be used only for taking sea-fish of the descriptions specified in the order" shall be omitted.

(3) Without prejudice to the said subsection (2), an order under the said section three may, in relation to any fishing gear,—

- (a) restrict the manner in which it may be used;
- (b) prescribe the manner in which its size is to be measured;
- (c) make provision for securing that the restrictions imposed by the order are not evaded;
- (d) make the like provision for exemption as is mentioned in relation to nets in paragraph (c) of that subsection (as amended by subsection (2) of this section).

(4) Subsections (4) and (6) of that section and subsection (2) of section one of the White Fish and Herring Industries Act, 1948 (which provide for the seizure and forfeiture of nets in respect of which an order under that section is contravened) shall apply to any other fishing gear as they apply to nets.

(5) An order under the said section three may be so made as to extend to nets or other fishing gear carried within the limits of the territorial waters adjacent to the United Kingdom,—

- (a) by fishing boats registered neither in the United Kingdom nor elsewhere, and

- (a) section twelve of the Sea Fisheries Act, 1883, shall apply as if any reference in paragraph (7) of that section to that Act or to an Order in Council thereunder included a reference to this section or to an order under subsection (1) thereof; and
- (b) section fourteen of that Act (which provides for the protection of sea-fishery officers and for the punishment of persons obstructing them) shall apply as if any references in that section to that Act included a reference to this section.

(2) Where the period of the relevant service of any such person is fifteen years or more, the annual amount of the pension shall be one half of his last annual salary.

(b) if that period exceeds five years, one quarter of that salary plus one fortieth of that salary for each completed year of relevant service exceeding five.

2.—(1) A person who holds an office listed in the First Schedule to this Act shall vacate that office on the day on which he attains the age of seventy-five years. Retiring age.

(2) A pension under the relevant pension enactment may be granted to a person who retires from any such office, notwithstanding that he is not otherwise qualified, if at the time of his retirement he has attained the age of seventy years.

3.—(1) The foregoing provisions of this Act shall not apply to any person who holds an office listed in the First Schedule to this Act at the commencement of this Act, unless he elects that those provisions shall apply to him ; and in default of such an election the annual amount of the pension which may be granted under the relevant pension enactment to any such person who retires when qualified for such a pension shall be one half of his last annual salary. Special provisions as to former holders of other judicial offices. 5 & 6 Eliz. 2. c. 20.

(3) Where a person to whom this section applies dies while holding his office, and his legal personal representatives so elect, any derivative benefit payable in respect of him under the said Act of 1950 shall be calculated as if the pension for which he would have been eligible if he had retired at the time of his death were a pension of the amount described in paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section, and as if his last annual salary were the salary payable at the time of his death to a holder of his former office.

(4) An election under this section shall be made within the period of three months beginning with the retirement or death of the person by or in respect of whom it is made, and shall be made in writing addressed to the Treasury.

[25th March, 1959]

Transfer of cathedral status and dignity.

1.—(1) The cathedral church of the Holy Trinity in the borough and diocese of Guildford shall cease to be the cathedral church of the said diocese, and the church of the Holy Spirit in the said borough and diocese shall become and be the cathedral church of the said diocese.

(2) Sections three and four of the Archdeaconry of Surrey Measure, 1930, and any schemes relating to the cathedral church of Guildford made under the said section four shall have effect as if for references therein to the cathedral church of Guildford there were substituted references to the cathedral church of the Holy Spirit, Guildford.

(3) Section seven of the Diocese of Winchester (Division) Measure, 1923, and the Order of His late Majesty King George the Fifth in Council made thereunder and dated the twenty-second day of April, 1927, shall cease to have effect so far as that section and that Order relate to the cathedral church of Guildford.

(4) The Scheme made under the Cathedral Measures, 1931 and 1934, and confirmed by an Order of His former Majesty King Edward the Eighth in Council dated the twenty-eighth day of May, 1936, containing the Constitution and Statutes for the government of the cathedral church of the Holy Trinity shall cease to have effect.

(2) Such person as Her Majesty appoints shall be dean of the cathedral church.

(3) Any reference to the cathedral chapter of the cathedral church of the Holy Spirit, Guildford, or to the cathedral council of the cathedral church of the Holy Spirit, Guildford, in any legal instrument shall be deemed to be a reference to the dean and chapter of the cathedral church.

3.—(1) That area which is designated in an instrument in writing executed by the bishop on the fifth day of December, 1958, and deposited in the registry of the diocese of Guildford and which was before the coming into operation of this section vested as to part in the diocesan board of finance of the diocese of Guildford and as to part in the Guildford New Cathedral Fund shall without further assurance be transferred to and vested in the dean and chapter.

ANNOTATIONS TO ACTS, 1959

Instructions for noting up those Acts which were affected by the year's legislation, direct or delegated: substituted provisions are printed on adhesive slips.

The directions can be carried out by a junior clerk or typist on any set of statutes within a few weeks.

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF THE STATUTES

A chronological list of all the Public General Acts from 1235 onwards, showing, as to those totally repealed, the enactments by which they were repealed and, as to those still in operation, the effect of all subsequent legislation on them, section by section.

With the aid of this publication a practitioner can tell instantly the present position of any enactment to which he has been referred.

The above can be purchased from any branch of
HER MAJESTY'S STATIONERY OFFICE or through any bookseller.

sign-posted in two volumes!*

THE INDEX TO THE STATUTES IN FORCE

These two volumes (A-K, L-Z) index by subject-matter all the existing public general statute law under well-established headings linked by numerous cross-references. The index entries have against them references to the enactment or enactments which support the subject matter.

Since the references are to enactments (and not to pages of any book), the usefulness of the volumes is not limited to any particular set of statutes.

There is a chronological table showing the headings under which each Act or section is indexed in the volumes, and a similar table for Church Measures.

THE INDEX TO THE STATUTES IN FORCE provides a service which is of the utmost value and which for its adaptability is unique. It is obtainable from any of the addresses of H.M. Stationery Office to whom application should be made for particulars of the above and other useful legal reference works prepared in the Statutory Publications Office.

ANNOTATIONS TO ACTS, 1959

Instructions for noting up those Acts which were affected by the year's legislation, direct or delegated: substituted provisions are printed on adhesive slips.

The directions can be carried out by a junior clerk or typist on any set of statutes within a few weeks.

CHRONOLOGICAL TABLE OF THE STATUTES

A chronological list of all the Public General Acts from 1235 onwards, showing, as to those totally repealed, the enactments by which they were repealed and, as to those still in operation, the effect of all subsequent legislation on them, section by section.

With the aid of this publication a practitioner can tell instantly the present position of any enactment to which he has been referred.

The above can be purchased from any branch of HER MAJESTY'S STATIONERY OFFICE or through any bookseller.

*The statute law up to date
sign-posted in two volumes!*

THE INDEX TO THE STATUTES IN FORCE

These two volumes (A-K, L-Z) index by subject-matter all the existing public general statute law under well-established headings linked by numerous cross-references. The index entries have against them references to the enactment or enactments which support the subject matter.

Since the references are to enactments (and not to pages of any book), the usefulness of the volumes is not limited to any particular set of statutes.

There is a chronological table showing the headings under which each Act or section is indexed in the volumes, and a similar table for Church Measures.

THE INDEX TO THE STATUTES IN FORCE provides a service which is of the utmost value and which for its adaptability is unique. It is obtainable from any of the addresses of H.M. Stationery Office to whom application should be made for particulars of the above and other useful legal reference works prepared in the Statutory Publications Office.
