KING PETER'S TROOPS CONTINUE TO WREST GROUND FROM ENEMY

Trenches Taken From Bulgarians Near Vetrenik; Progress Northeast of Lake Ostrovo; Height Northwest of Lake Captured, Enemy Suffering Heavy Losses; Activity on British Front

Paris, Sept. 14.—The advance of the Serbian army on the western part of the Salonica front continues, according to an official statement issued here to-day. Between Kovil and Vetrenik Bulgarian trenches were taken at the point of the bayonet, progress was made near Kaimakalan, northeast of Lake Ostrovo, and a height west of Hill 1,500, northwest of Lake Ostrovo, was captured. Serbian advance guards pushed on to the first slopes of the Malkanidze.

The text of the statement follows:
"From the Struma to the Vardar there has been an intermittent cannonade without any infantry action, except some patrol engagements at different points.

"West of the Vardar the Serbian troops continued their advance and captured at the point of the bayonet some Bulgarian trenches between Kovil and Vetrenik. Serbian troops also made appreciable progress near Kaimakalan (northeast of Lake Ostrovo). "Northeast of Lake Ostrovo, after violent engagements in which heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy, Serbian troops captured a height west of Hill 1500. Their advance guards reached the first slopes of the Malkanidze.

"The fighting continued to our advantage in the region south of Lake Ostrovo.

"An enemy aeroplane was brought down by one of our machines near Barsovice."

British Report.
London, Sept. 14.—There has been considerable activity on both our Struma and Dobruja fronts," says an official report issued to-day in regard to the operations in Greek Macedonia. "Our patrols have been active on the east bank of the Struma."

GERMANS NOW FEAR LANDING OF ARMY

Berlin, Sept. 14.—Great Britain again is taking serious consideration of the old plan of landing an army somewhere on the North Sea coast, which would enable her to attack the German forces in Belgium from the rear, according to information coming through The Hague.

Just how much, if any, truth there is in this is not known here, official circles denying any knowledge of such contemplation on the part of Great Britain.

BRIDGE COMMISSION REPORTS AT OTTAWA

Span of Quebec Structure to Be Rebuilt on Original Plans

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—H. P. Borden and C. H. Montserrat, of the Quebec Bridge Commission, are in Ottawa to-day conferring with the Dominion authorities as to the reconstruction of the centre span of the Quebec bridge. Mr. Montserrat is chief engineer and chairman of the commission.

The two men went into conference with Sir Robert Borden, Hon. Frank Cochrane and other members of the government this forenoon. The nature of the conference has not been divulged, but it is believed that a personal report was given from the standpoint of the Quebec Bridge Commission, which is a government body whose duty it was to approve plans and supervise construction.

It is stated here that the work of reconstructing the central span will be proceeded with on the original plans.

WHERE WILL GERMANS, AUSTRIANS, FIND MEN FOR BALKAN CONTEST?

London, Sept. 14.—A wireless dispatch from Rome says that at the general military council of the central powers just held at the headquarters of Kaiser Wilhelm on the east front, an offensive campaign in the Balkans was mapped out and that Germany will send 200,000 men and Austria-Hungary 100,000 for the purpose.

Germans Brutally Deporting Belgians; Ghent Region, 1200

Havre, Sept. 14.—It is reported that 1,200 Belgian men, of ages from 18 to 35 years, have been deported from Ghent by the German military authorities.

LAST OF FORTS DEFENDING KAVALA GIVEN OVER BY GREEKS TO BULGARS; MASSACRE BY WILD BASHI BAZOUKS

Athens, Sept. 14.—The British legation to-day informed Garrett Droppers, the American minister, that the Greeks have surrendered to Bulgarian troops the last of the forts defending the seaport of Kavala, in Northeastern Greece. Several of the forts were occupied some time ago by Bulgarian troops.

Warships of the entente have removed 1,500 Greek soldiers to the island of Thasos, in the Aegean, some 18 miles from Kavala.

Rioting at Kavala is reported and it is said houses and shops were pillaged. A number of Americans are endangered, as is property of American tobacco companies to the amount of more than $2,000,000. No ships are permitted to remain in the harbor.

Massacre and Pillage.
Paris, Sept. 14.—The seaport of Kavala, in northeastern Greece, was pillaged and civilians massacred by Turkish bashi bazouks on the withdrawal of the Greek garrison, according to a Salonica dispatch to the Havas Agency.

The Bulgarian troops are encamped now at Caldorman and Kuchukgerman. Bulgarian aeroplanes flew over Kavala on Tuesday and dropped bombs, which killed nine persons.

POLLING WAS BRISK DURING FORENOON

Steady Stream of Voters to Booths; Total Poll Will Be Large

Revelstoke, Sept. 14.—The Liberals are keeping the Bowrites off their feet in this riding. The proportion of the votes during the first two hours of polling was five to one for Dr. W. H. Sutherland, the able Liberal standard bearer. The greatest enthusiasm prevails over the assurance that the popular doctor will triumph over Hon. Thomas Taylor.

It is estimated that Dr. Sutherland's majority in the city of Revelstoke will be 450, and more than 500 for the whole riding.

FERNIE VOTERS ARE ELECTING ALEX. FISHER

Fernie, Sept. 14.—That Alex. Fisher, the Liberal candidate in this riding, is leading over Thomas Uphill, the Bowser candidate, at all the polls, is indicated in reports. A very heavy vote is being cast, as the weather is fine and interest in the contest is extremely high. It is estimated that a total of 1,500 votes will be cast.

J. A. McDonald, the imported candidate, is not getting many Socialist votes.

LINE WAS PIERCED AT BOUCHAVESNES

French Got Clear Through German Organization as It Formerly Existed

London, Sept. 14.—The correspondent of the Times in Paris sends the following dispatch:
"For the first time since trench warfare was firmly established has a big operation succeeded in slashing right through the trench armor of the German front. The capture of Bouchavesnes, north of the Somme, takes the French right through the German defensive organization as it existed when the battle began, two and one half months ago. For the first time the western front has been pierced.

"This is a significant fact, but its importance can easily be exaggerated. Nothing faintly approaching the strategic ruptures to which Gen. Brusiloff has accustomed us has been achieved. Ever since the fighting began, the Germans have been digging miles behind their line, and there is no doubt there will be much fierce fighting and much waiting before the little bit of daylight let in through the chink at Bouchavesnes really lightens the horizon."

GERMANS ARE MOVING INFERIOR MEN FROM BELGIUM TO THE EAST

Amsterdam, Sept. 14.—Great numbers of German troops are being transferred from Belgium to the eastern front. The railroad lines have been used exclusively for troop trains for the last three days.

GERMANS ARE MAKING READY TO WITHDRAW NOYON SALIENT; BRITISH GAIN NEAR GINCHY

London, Sept. 14.—A foreshadowing of the capture by the French of Peronne, on the Somme, which development ultimately will force the Germans to abandon the great Noyon salient entirely, was supplied by a dispatch received to-day from Amsterdam.

Although the Germans have been sending reinforcements to the Somme front and developing the heaviest concentrated artillery fire they can achieve, it is declared that they are preparing for such a move. They appear to be removing civilians from the regions just behind their lines farther to the rear. Already 2,000 persons are reported to have left Peronne.

Panic is spreading among the Germans, according to refugees, as a result of the steady, methodical advance of the Anglo-French forces.

ROUMANIANS TOOK EIGHT LIGHT GUNS

Ferdinand's Troops Repulsed Series of Attacks in Southern Dobruja

Petrograd, Sept. 14.—Roumanian troops repulsed a series of attacks by German and Bulgarian troops in Dobruja, the war office announced to-day.

"In the region of Silistria, on the right bank of the Danube, fighting still is progressing," the statement says.

"Roumanian troops repelled a series of attacks by German-Bulgarian troops and captured eight light guns."

NO CHANGE REPORTED ON EASTERN FRONT

Troops of Grand Duke Nicholas's Army Captured Cattle and Camels

Petrograd, Sept. 14.—"On the western front (in Russia and Galicia), the situation is unchanged," says an announcement issued by the war office to-day.

"On the Caucasian front, in the region west of Kishi, hostile Kurds are showing increased activity.

"Near Hamadan, in the valley of the river Falplanchal, our detachments as a result of engagements captured cattle and camels from the enemy."

54,000 TAKEN IN FRANCE SINCE JUNE

British and French Have Captured 260 Guns and 467 Machine Guns

Constantinople, Sept. 14.—The war office, in a statement dated Sept. 12, reported an engagement in which more than 400 Russians were taken prisoners.

Berlin, Sept. 13.—A project for the construction of a tunnel under the Bosphorus is being discussed at Constantinople. Engineers have worked out detailed plans, showing that the project is feasible and will be financially profitable, while its strategic importance is obvious.

Early projects for direct communication between the European and Asiatic shores of Turkey, inspired by the construction of the Anatolian and Bagdad railways, were devoted to the subject of bridging the narrows at Runli Hissar.

GERMANS WOULD BUILD BOSPHORUS TUNNEL TO KEEP HOLD ON TURKS

Berlin, Sept. 14.—Repeated and violent assaults against the German lines on the Somme front, yesterday were repulsed with sanguinary losses for the enemy, the war office announced to-day.

GERMAN STATEMENT

Berlin, Sept. 14.—Repeated and violent assaults against the German lines on the Somme front, yesterday were repulsed with sanguinary losses for the enemy, the war office announced to-day.

A FREE HAND FOR DIMITRAKOPOULOS

Will Not Form a New Cabinet in Greece Unless Pledged

Athens, Sept. 14.—M. Dimitrakopoulos asked King Constantine yesterday to allow him 48 hours in which to consult his friends before deciding as to whether he will undertake the formation of a new cabinet. The former minister of justice also wishes to sound the ministers of the entente before reaching a decision.

HE WOULD DECIDE COURSE OF NATION

M. Dimitrakopoulos is known to have declared that he would accept the premiership only if given full power to control the national policy. He will insist that his hands must be free to take whatever steps the present crisis calls for, even to the entry of Greece into the war.

TRUTH FOUND IN GERMAN LETTERS

Effects of Allies' Blows Learned Through Captures on Somme Front

With the British Army on the Somme front, Sept. 12.—Via London, Sept. 14.—It is extraordinarily difficult to know whether all the British shell fire and all the dead have yet begun to shake the confidence of the Germans in the strength of their war machine. Some of the officers who have come in as prisoners still keep their pride. They have seen the losses inflicted in and behind their lines, but say: "You can't beat us. We can't be beaten."

That is different from the old phrase: "We're winning. Victory is certain for Germany." But it is a long way from the acknowledgment of defeat or possible defeat. There are times when the pessimists among the allies are tempted to think that the Germans have mysterious reserves of strength from which they can heal their wounds and that the successes gained by the allies are only local and have not yet injured the German war machine.

"Our company lost all its officers and 'ten men," wrote another, "and it is the same with every company and every regiment on the Somme front. I, alas, could not get the much-desired wound to send me home."

There have been riots in Hamburg and other places, according to letters found in the trenches, and in the spirit of civilian Germany there is rising anger against those who made the war and caused all this misery, and who keep it lasting for political and dynastic reasons.

ESKIMO MURDERERS ARE IN THE TOILS

Inspector of R. N. W. M. P. Sends Interim Report From the Far North

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—An interim report received at Mounted Police headquarters from Inspector Lenuze tells of the capture of the murderers of Rev. Fathers Reveaver and Leroux in the Coronation Gulf district. An Eskimo named Stinesch, captured on South Victoria Island, at a preliminary hearing made a complete confession of his guilt, stating that the priests were murdered near Bloody Falls in November, 1913.

Several days later another Eskimo named Alukak was captured northeast of the Coppermine. This man was implicated in the crime.

Berlin, Sept. 14.—Repeated and violent assaults against the German lines on the Somme front, yesterday were repulsed with sanguinary losses for the enemy, the war office announced to-day.

Enemy Leaders Know Entente Forces Will Take Peronne and Are Preparing to Fall Back; Attacks Are Repulsed by French Troops North and South of the Somme and East of the Meuse River

London, Sept. 14.—A foreshadowing of the capture by the French of Peronne, on the Somme, which development ultimately will force the Germans to abandon the great Noyon salient entirely, was supplied by a dispatch received to-day from Amsterdam.

Although the Germans have been sending reinforcements to the Somme front and developing the heaviest concentrated artillery fire they can achieve, it is declared that they are preparing for such a move. ST. RY. SITUATION IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Sept. 14.—Despite the maintenance of regular schedules on the subway and elevated lines of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, and the gradual restoration of service on the surface lines, leaders of the striking street railway employees declared today they were far from being defeated. They hinted that the danger of a sympathetic strike is not yet over.

Following a parade and demonstration by the strikers, the question of a "sympathetic" strike will be discussed at meetings of the Central Federated Unions of Brooklyn and Manhattan. Strike leaders predict that resolutions favoring a strike among trades allied with the street railway employees will be adopted. Whether the strike will actually take place, however, will depend upon the industrial votes of the unions, it is asserted.

Traction officials announced today that service in the subway and on the elevated roads was better than normal, while services on most of street car lines was from 20 to 40 per cent. below normal. The railway companies said it was no longer necessary for them to hire strikebreakers, claiming that hundreds of their former employees have returned to work.

New York, Sept. 14.—Eight persons were hurt, one seriously, in a series of collisions today at Westchester and Brook avenues in the Bronx, due to the greasing of the rails by sympathizers with the striking street railway employees.

Unable to hold their cars on the slippery tracks, and motormen on several cars were forced to let them run, and several crashes occurred before the trouble could be remedied.

ARRESTED IN CHICAGO FOR CANADA; LET GO

Americans Had No Evidence Against M. P. Flannigan on Westminster Robbery

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Martin P. Flannigan, a saloonkeeper, was arrested here today in connection with the mysterious robbery five years ago of the branch of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., when loot amounting to $271,990 was obtained by the robbers. Later he was released, after the police had questioned him. Charles Larkin, chief of the detective bureau, said he had no evidence on which to hold Flannigan, who was taken into custody at the request of the Canadian authorities.

The arrest of Flannigan was made as a result of the arrest in Toronto yesterday of Michael B. Shortall, a marble worker of Chicago, who was attempting to pry open a safety deposit box in the vault of the Bank of Toronto. The box, rented by Flannigan four years ago, was found to be stuffed with Canadian banknotes. Shortall told the Toronto police that he had been employed by Flannigan to make the trip to Toronto.

Flannigan, the police say, is the same man arrested three years ago on a charge of having in his possession stolen banknotes, which were in the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster. That time Flannigan gave the name of Michael J. Flannigan. He escaped conviction, as the numbers of the notes did not correspond with those stolen from the British Columbia bank.

GERMANS ATTACK U. S. AMBASSADOR

This Time It is National Liberal Papers; an Alleged Remark

Berlin, Sept. 14.—James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, again is under fire in a section of the German press, this time for a remark attributed to him regarding a speech made recently by Dr. Gustave Stresemann, a National Liberal member of the Reichstag, advocating, among other things, a resumption of unrestricted submarine warfare.

Ambassador Gerard is quoted as saying that he did not understand how the representatives of districts for which export to the United States was a vital question could advocate ruthless submarine warfare. The National Liberal press agency, in a communication to the newspapers, takes the ambassador to task for what is termed "unwarranted intervention in a purely German question," and says that the ambassador's remark is characterized by "that naive presumptuousness which believes that decisions affecting Germany's political future will be dictated by Germany's American export interests."

One paper declares that Ambassador Gerard would do better to leave to the responsible German authorities the decision on what use is to be made of the means at their command against England, and adds:

"The art and manner in which Ambassador Gerard—and not for the first time—looks after British interests is extremely characteristic of his general attitude."

The ambassador in reply says he never heard of Dr. Stresemann's speech and certainly never made any public utterance of the nature attributed to him.

PRAIRIE WHEAT BEYOND FROST DAMAGE NOW

Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—Light frosts yested many points in Alberta last night, and as much as eight degrees was recorded in a number of Saskatchewan districts—Russell, with two degrees, was the only point in Manitoba to report frost, but a cold driving rain put a stop to harvesting operations, and prospects are for sharp frost to-night. The crop, however, is everywhere beyond frost-damage, practically all the wheat being safe in stack or stook.

Threshing in Manitoba is giving encouraging results as compared with recent estimates.

PROSPERITY IN SPAIN, WRITES NORTHCLIFFE

London, Sept. 14.—Lord Northcliffe, continuing in the Times his record of impressions brought from his visit to Spain, says:

"There is a good deal of jealousy of Portugal, but on the whole, Spain in general, and industrial Spain in particular, appears to be glad to be out of the maelstrom. In the course of visits extending over 30 years, I have never known such prosperity in Spain as at present. Good fortune seems to smile everywhere alike in town and country."

SAMUEL P. TUCK DIED IN KOOTENAY HOSPITAL

Nelson, Sept. 14.—Samuel Parker Tuck, sheriff of Kootenay, since 1899, died in the Kootenay-Lake General hospital. He came to British Columbia as a civil engineer on C. P. R. construction, in 1889, and became a resident of Kaslo in 1892. He was in his 80th year.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Benedict, Minn., Sept. 14.—Mrs. William Irving and her five-year-old son were found dead in their home here yesterday with bullet holes through their heads, by the sheriff who went to the house after the woman had asked for protection against her husband, from whom she was separated. Although mystery surrounds the killing, the authorities believe it was a case of murder and suicide.

FIRE IN DETROIT.

Detroit, Sept. 14.—Four men were killed, several were injured and more than 100 narrowly escaped death here today in the destruction by fire of a workingmen's industrial home.

SURVIVORS RETURN

Two Officers of Lost Steamer Admiral Clark Reach Seattle.

Seattle, Sept. 14.—The steamer Admiral Schley, of the Pacific Alaska Navigation Company, reached here yesterday with Garland Rotch, chief officer, and William Robinson, third engineer, two of the six survivors of the Admiral Clark, which foundered August 18 in the Caribbean sea. Both are Seattle men, as were Capt. James Daniel and John Jackson, chief engineer, who were drowned. Mr. Rotch and Mr. Robinson look none the worse for their experiences, despite the fact that they drifted six days on a sea-swept raft with nothing to eat or drink.

Charles Nelson & Co. have chartered the steamer Waip to carry lumber to Panama at a rate of $17.50.

The barquentine J. M. Griffin has been chartered by the Mohs Commercial Company to carry lumber to the West Coast at a rate of $21.

The Dutch steamer Waaldijk arrived in port yesterday from New York for provisions and fuel. The vessel is going to Macassar.

FORD TO BUILD SHIPS.

Henry Ford, manufacturer of the little car that bears his name, and peace advocate, on his arrival in Portland Monday announced that the Ford Motor Company proposed to build a fleet of ships to carry its products from the Detroit factories to its assembling plants on the Atlantic and Pacific seaboard.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

Hillsboro, Ore., Sept. 14.—Bennett Thompson, an ex-convict, was found guilty by a jury last night of the murder of Mrs. Helen Jennings on her farm-home near here last May. Mrs. Jennings was beaten to death with a hammer. Thompson will be sentenced to life imprisonment, the death penalty having been abolished in Oregon.

THEIR EYES ON B. C.

Interest in to-day's election in British Columbia is widespread throughout the Dominion. Never before has a political contest here attracted so much attention in the other provinces. The cause of this is not difficult to find. In Canada, and indeed in practically all English-speaking countries, there is a widespread revolt against machine politics. What happened in Manitoba was not a local symptom. It was nation-wide in its application. The day of the so-called "practical politician," the man who believes that the electorate must either be bribed or intimidated, is done. The period of stress and suffering through which the world is passing has impelled the public to a closer study of its political affairs, and to insist upon a better conception of public duty on the part of those it entrusts with the management of its business.

The theory that governments may have standards distinct from those applicable to private business, that an administration for the sake of political expediency is justified in taking a course that its members would not dream of taking in the conduct of their personal affairs, is played out. The public realizes that a course which would be injurious to a private establishment must necessarily be detrimental to the business of the state. If a country spends money without regard to revenue and continues to accumulate deficits it cannot escape bankruptcy, the repudiation of its obligations and the loss of its credit any more than a big private business managed with equal looseness could. There is only one set of rules for sound business; a number of American states a few years ago found out to their cost. Great business houses with branches in scores of cities throughout the world have had good reason to bear it in mind.

A citizen in any other part of Canada merely needs to glance at the "Public Accounts" of British Columbia as published in the government press and compare them with those of his own province, to realize that something is decidedly wrong here. If, also, he reads the reports of the Premier's speeches on the Dominion Trust or the illegal payment of millions to the Pacific Great Eastern or Mr. Bowser's admission in the legislature that he is the solicitor for big corporations in receipt of favors from the government of which he is the head, that citizen will have no difficulty in ascertaining precisely where the trouble lies. It is impossible for any country to prosper with a government possessing such a conception of public duty; not for ten minutes would the directors of a private concern retain a manager who conducted their business as the business of this province has been conducted.

UNCLE SAM'S BLUFF.

The United States Congress has vested the president with power to impose penalties upon the commerce of nations, colonies and dependencies which hamper the exports of the republic to the Huns and their friends. This retaliation may take the form of refusal to permit the export of goods to the allied nations fighting for the preservation of civilization and human freedom. It is probably only a bluff, but should the president attempt to wield the Big Stick placed in his hands, we would suggest that Canada also take a hand in the game. She could possibly aim a blow or two at the head of her mercenary uncle. The Borden government might begin by prohibiting export to the United States of Canadian nickel. That would at once create a full-throated bellow from the steel manufacturers of the United States who have been doing a big and profitable business with all the world as a consequence of the war and the elimination of their competitors and prevent the submarine Bremen, now reported to be nearing Uncle Sam's ports, from carrying a cargo of Canadian nickel to Germany to be used in assisting the Huns to kill Britons, Canadians, Frenchmen and Russians. The Deutschland's cargo; it will be remembered; was composed for the greater part of Canadian nickel. There is some doubt respecting the whereabouts of the Bremen, but it might be just as well for our government to be on the safe side and not on the side of the German-American company which composes the nickel trust, with an auxiliary company operating in Canada. If that were not sufficient to convince our avaricious neighbor that more than one can play the retaliatory game, an embargo might be placed upon the export of Canadian pulp into the United States. A large proportion of the paper used in that country is manufactured from Canadian pulp. The paper shortage there has aroused the apprehension of publishers all over the country. If the Americans think all the weapons are in their hands in these days of extremity they are making a grave mistake.

DRAWING THEM OUT.

Hilaire Belloc, the famous military critic, gives a reason why Germany in shortening her lines must confine the process to the western front, which seems to have escaped most commentators on the war. The line in the west, he writes, is the only line in the major zones which can be withdrawn without being lengthened. The drive against Russia, instead of extending the Teutonic front, actually shortened it. A brief study of the map will show how true this is. If the enemy withdrew his centre to the Bug or Vistula he would require more men for his eastern theatre than he employs now. Instead of being practically straight, it would be curved. Moreover, it would be continuous, whereas it is now interrupted by the Pripiet marshes, which enable the Teutons to hold it for a considerable distance with a comparatively few men.

On the Italian front a similar condition prevails. The mountainous terrain and geographical advantages have enabled the Austrians to defend their southwestern front with a substantial economy in man-power, while they cannot be outflanked. The Italians, therefore, are unable to take advantage of their large superiority in numbers. If the Austrians withdrew their line to any appreciable extent they would have to lengthen it. Were the Italians to improve upon their victory at Gorizia by forcing the defenders a few miles into their own country, by threatening enveloping operations with fresh units from their numerous reserves they would compel the Austrians to extend their front to save themselves.

Thus the advantages which geography gives to the central empires on the east and Italian fronts as long as they have a sufficiency of numbers are transformed into grave disadvantages as their reserves become exhausted. Their position is strong only when they are formidable enough to take the offensive. It grows weaker in proportion to the extent to which they are reduced to the defensive. Their strength in prosperity is the measure of their weakness in adversity. They cannot be outflanked, yet their lines cannot be held without being worn thin, nor can they be withdrawn without becoming even more attenuated.

On the west front conditions are different. The German line is in the form of a huge triangle with its apex at Compiègne, the confluence of the Oise and the Aisne, and its basic angles on the frontiers of Holland and Switzerland, whose neutrality protects them. By evacuating all the territory west of a line drawn from Antwerp in front of Brussels through Mons or Namur and along the Meuse to the Vosges, they would materially shorten their front, cutting off at least 175 miles, which would enable them to dispense with almost a million men in the western theatre. This, however, would be an extremely difficult operation. It certainly would be enormously costly and would have political and economic consequences of very grave moment for the Teutonic leaders. But it is the only alternative and will be attempted before the snow flies.

Roumania's intervention at once presented the enemy with a distracting dilemma. An attempt to keep the war off Hungarian soil would have entailed an extension of his eastern line by 350 miles. But the actual effect of Roumanian intervention was to extend that front by some 550 miles, for it involved the Roumanian-Bulgarian frontier as well. The Teutons found it could not be done. They had to let the tempting possibilities for defence of the southern Carpathians and the Transylvanian Alps go by the board. They had to abandon the southeastern corner of Hungary and are daily abandoning more, although the Hungarian diet swore that Hungarians would die to the last man rather than surrender a foot of Transylvania to Roumania. Where are those four million men whom, according to Berlin, Germany had in reserve? With Bulgaria and Turkey to attend to the Bulgarian frontier, less than a fifth of the four million would have sufficed for the defence of the mountain barrier between Hungary and Roumania.

When the gap between the allies at Salonica and Roumania and Russia—who, by the way, are now only 160 miles apart—has been bridged the Teutonic line will be prolonged still further. To parallel that of the allies their eastern front must be stretched in a great curve from the Baltic to the Adriatic. And when that has happened Bulgaria and Turkey will have been eliminated, because Greece and Roumania cannot be linked up without involving the overthrow of both. Thus every prospective development of the allies' programme makes for the prolongation and the thinning of the enemy's line, which must inevitably collapse under the strain.

THE GRACE OF FRANCE.

The London Telegraph recently paid a noble, glowing tribute to the touching act of the French government in regard to the graves of the soldiers who fell on her soil. It says:

"Without display and without sentimentality the government of the republic has simply consecrated and set apart for ever, in special honor the cemeteries where the dead rest. Truly the grace of France falls never. They could have done nothing to give deeper or more serious pleasure to England; nothing that was more truly in accord with her own national tradition; nothing that better went hand-in-hand with our own ingrained habit of respect for the acres of God wherever they may be found. We have in our minds a fairly good idea of where those graves lie and what they look like. Here the cross that means so much to one may be clustered among a group within and beneath the shadow of a church of which the blessed spire and battered interior tell their own tale; or it may be set up there, within a peaceful enclosure under the poplars of the Yser or the Canal. Here it may be inside a tidy and orderly court, surrounded by walls not so high as to prevent the sea wind playing with the ribands of a few wreaths; or there, by itself, in rear of a wrecked cottage, with a crudely made fence around it. But wherever the grave may lie, there will be comfort in the thought that long after our own day it will still be spared and kindly thought upon. Yet this is not all that the French proposal will effect. Each of these countless little enclosures will be working in silence for the continued goodwill of two nations. From the little patch of ex-territorialized ground the dead will speak for generations. For we have given the best of England to France, volunteers every one, and the French will not fail to understand the meaning of Rupert Brooke's lines:

"If I should die, think only this of me:
 That there's some corner of a foreign field
 That is for ever England."
 It is a gift of English earth that we are making, the best earth we have, earth that France has shown her anxiety to honor, and in the belief that in some way the loyalty of each man to a common cause will still be speaking to ears that understand, we may leave our dead in all gratitude and in full understanding to the loving care of France."

THE ELECTIONS IN MAINE.

A superstitious Democrat might see in the result of the Maine state elections an unfavorable augury for his party in the approaching presidential contest. The chief significance of that result, however, lies in its demonstration that the reconciliation between the Republicans and Progressives is complete. Normally Maine is Republican in sentiment. It favors a protective tariff. In the last presidential fight its electorate was rent in twain by the intervention of the Roosevelt element and it slipped into the Democratic column. To the extent that it shows a fusion between the two parties in opposition to the administration it must be disturbing to the Wilson managers. It should shatter, too, a roscate theory which has been cherished by the administration forces. This is the belief that the Atlantic states have become so prosperous in consequence of the enormous war orders that they would not desire a change of government. But that condition has produced another one which is bound to exercise a directly opposite fact. The glut of profits has created labor dissatisfaction; there are strikes and rumors of strikes which may find a climax in a serious industrial upheaval.

Owing to the problems raised by the war and other international complications, the relative strength of the two parties is much more a matter of guesswork than it has been in any other presidential election. Much depends upon the sort of impression the weak and vacillating foreign policy of the administration has created in the mind of the general public. As a rule the American people never have bothered themselves much about the foreign relations of their country, and it is quite possible that they are more anxious to be kept out of the war than they are over the rights of the nationals abroad, their prestige and influence among the nations of the world, or what happens to humanity outside the boundaries of their own country. In that case President Wilson's plank will be found to be effective although the future may show that it was not worth a fraction of the sacrifice it involved. On the other it may be found that men like Hughes, Roosevelt and Root more accurately express public sentiment on this issue in which even the result in Maine will be an unfavorable omen for the Democrats after all.

Sharp eyes will note the result of the voting at Soree, Camp Hughes and other military camps in Canada where that indefatigable Beaver, Captain Cox, supervised the taking of the soldiers' votes. The sentiment of the voters in these places has been just as definitely defined as it has been in Victoria and Vancouver, and manipulation will be easily discovered. And judging by the feeling in this province such manipulation would create a very serious state of affairs. The eyes of the nation are on this election in all its aspects.

The Hun who instructed the Crown Prince of German in the art and science of war has been decorated by the Kaiser with the order of merit, gaudily with oak leaves. As some one asks, what would have been the reward of Little Willie's teacher had the onslaught on Verdun succeeded and the path of the Hun to Paris made smooth?

Hon. Alex. Stewart took mighty good care not to tell the taxpayers who created him so generously when he offered himself as mayoralty candidate whether $216,000 of their money has been paid out by the government on account of the P. G. E. interest charges. Well, we shall know all about this—and other things—in a short time.

Reported that a soldier serving his country in France was impersonated at the polls to-day. The man who would do such a dastardly thing should be sent to the front and hoisted on a pole in full view of a Prussian sniping company.

Do you want five years more of the present government? If not, vote for the four Liberal candidates and vote early. Do not wait until the last minute. Many a good vote has been lost that way.

Members Entertained.—The members of the South Saanich Women's Institute were entertained to a Cranachium tea at Tandridge hall, the home of Mrs. J. T. Harrison on Monday last. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. Mrs. Sage won a beautiful bowl of cranachiums in the guessing contest.

Want Wool.—A "tag day" in aid of the wool fund for the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., field comforts, will be held to-morrow. Funds are urgently needed for providing wool to be knitted into socks and material to be made into shirts, to keep the troops at the front warm and comfortable throughout the coming winter. All the primary chapters are helping with the tag day, and the Rev. A. de B. Owen has kindly offered the services of the Flower Guild girls throughout the day.

Returns From East.—Fred. M. McGregor, manager for Vancouver Island of the Mutual Life of Canada, has returned from a trip in Eastern Canada, during which he visited the head office of his company at Waterloo, Ont., Montreal, Toronto, and Hamilton. He was present at the meeting of the Century Club of the Mutual Life Association which was held at Niagara Falls, when he was one of the speakers. Accompanying him on his trip east was T. Ernest Marriner, his special local agent.

Canadian Club Guest.—Arrangements have been made by the executive of the Canadian Club to hold a luncheon next Wednesday at noon in honor of Sir George E. Foster, minister of trade and commerce. In the Dominion government, Sir George is coming here as a member of the Dominion Royal Commission which will hold sessions here on Wednesday and Thursday of next week. He has already offered to address a public meeting under the auspices of the board of trade and his offer has been accepted.

TO REOPEN ISSUE OF SUNDAY TRADING

Would Have Attorney General Sanction Prosecutions of Grocers

The public mind being diverted into other channels, very little has been heard this year, concerning Sunday trading, which formerly served as the material for periodic deputations of religious organizations to the police commission. The reason for this silence on the subject is probably that the long agitation for early closing by-laws and weekly half holiday regulations, which eventually passed from civic to government circles, swept aside the effort to drive out of business those perishable food stores which prove a considerable convenience on Sundays.

Whatever was the cause, nothing of a public nature has been said about the issue for months. Meanwhile attention has been concentrated locally on the various phases of the enforcement of the weekly half holiday act, and in fact another circumstance is to be argued to-morrow in the police court, when ten butchers' establishments are to be required to show cause for keeping open on the afternoon of September 2.

However, the issue is put up plainly in the following resolution, of which notice of motion has been given by Alderman Johns for attention at the next meeting of council:

"Whereas it is a matter of common knowledge that there is an increasing number of small stores in the city which are kept open on Sunday, and groceries sold therein on that day, contrary to the intentions of the Lord's Day Act;

"And whereas such action on the part of the proprietors of these stores injuriously affects the business of other retail grocers who keep their stores closed on that day;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that a special committee of this council, consisting of his worship the mayor and Alderman Cameron, and three other aldermen, to be named by his worship the mayor, be appointed to wait upon the attorney general with the object of securing his consent to the prosecution of all such offenders under the provisions of the said act."

Section 17 of the act requires that no action or prosecution shall be commenced without the leave of the attorney general for the province in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, nor after the expiry of 60 days from the time of commission of the offence.

It will be noticed that Alderman Johns suggests the two council members of the police commission should be a party of the deputation to the attorney general. The situation promises to raise quite an interesting issue.

GONZALES CHAPTER

Meeting This Week. Passes Resolutions of Sympathy; Preparing for Christmas Comforts.

The regular monthly meeting of the Gonzales Chapter was held on Tuesday in the I. O. D. E. headquarters. There was a good attendance of members, who busily made tags throughout the meeting for the Field Comforts' Tag Day on Friday. In the absence of the regent, Mrs. Hedden Gillespie, the second vice-regent occupied the chair.

Deep regret was expressed at the death of one of the original members, the regent's mother, Mrs. Pemberton, who had always taken such an active interest in the work of the chapter. The motion was put and unanimously carried that the chapter's sympathy to the regent, Mrs. Sampson, and the other relatives, also members of the chapter, be expressed by equipping a bed in the Convalescent Home for Canadians at Ramsgate, and naming it "Gonzales," in memory of Mrs. Pemberton.

In connection with the Christmas comforts, Mrs. Gillespie gave a resume of last year's contributions and asked that the members try and do as well again this year—socks, candy, (for which special tins are being made), cakes, puddings, handkerchiefs, soap, etc., are all most acceptable. Members are requested to leave their donations of comforts at the residence of Mrs. Harry Barnard, 1422 Rockland avenue, by the 22nd of the month, when they will be sorted and marked ready for shipping. Any one unable to send their contributions may have them called for by telephoning 4799.

The adoption of the four prisoners of war was again renewed for the next three months.

An announcement was made of the coming birthday party on September 21, when all Daughters of the Empire are expected to be present and bring friends.

Two new members were elected, Miss Alice McKinnon and Miss Irving. Mrs. Charlie Todd became a life member of the order.

Major-General Sir Frederick Benson, who has just died in Montreal, was one of Canada's best known military men. For the past two years he has been in charge of the Imperial Re-mount Commission which brought him into touch with all parts of the Dominion. The late major-general was born at St. Catherine, Ontario, in 1849, and was educated at Upper Canada College, Toronto and Sandhurst, England, where he headed his class and also won a sword of honor, presented by the Duke of Cambridge. Sir Frederick saw service in India, Egypt and in South Africa, in all of which he won promotion and was frequently mentioned in dispatches. He was a most enthusiastic soldier.—Montreal Journal of Commerce.

AT THE THEATRES

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The thrilling Thanhouser drama, "Frou Frou," starring Maude Fealy, will be the feature attraction at the Majestic theatre to-night, Friday and Saturday. The programme will also include one of the funniest two-part comedies that has ever been seen in Victoria, entitled "Oh! Oh! Oh! Henry."

Patrons of this popular playhouse may witness this exceptionally fine programme, and at the same time keep posted on the election campaign, arrangements having been made so as to show the results upon the screen as the ballots are counted.

ROYAL VICTORIA.

Few feature films have enjoyed a cast of the wonderful all-around excellence of "The Way of the World," the feature which will play the Royal Victoria theatre the balance of this week. Dorothy Davenport, who plays the role of Beatrice Farley, has been the star of numerous universal pictures, and is to be starred in "The Power of Faith," a feature now in preparation; Hobart Bosworth has been the star of Broadway Universal features and Red-Feathers too numerous to mention, and is one of the most experienced and popular players on the Universal roll of honor; Adele Farrington, who has a small role in "The Way of the World," has been starred in "What Love Can Do," and is now playing with Pat Rooney in a series of two-reel comedy features; Gretchen Lederer, who plays Mrs. Nevill, is one of the very best adventure types in pictures. She is in extremely high demand, and is in a class by herself in the kind of roles which she portrays; Emory Johnston, who plays Walter Croymen, has been playing opposite Dorothy Davenport for some time, and is also featured with her in "The Power of Faith"; Jack Curtis, who plays Peter Sturton, the political boss, will be best remembered by his extremely clever comedy work in "It Happened in Honolulu." His usefulness is twofold. He can play comedy with the finest hand imaginable, and he makes one of the most alarming villains ever released on the screen.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.

Charlie Chaplin appears at the Columbia theatre for three days this week in "The Count." But Charlie is not the count; he is the helper, and he is a first-class little assistant in this millionaire of the movies. He first appears as a bushelman in a small clothes-presing establishment. His attempts to handle a tailor's goose are full of mirth. One of the customers is the count himself, Leo White, a fortune-hunting fellow who is invited to the home of the fair Edna. The invitation is left in the suit case which goes to the pressing establishment, and its proprietor, Campbell, avails himself of the opportunity and becomes a count for a night. Charlie comes in on the scene somehow and while at dinner is lionized by the fair hostess. The famous moustache comes in exceedingly handy. The situation becomes greatly involved and finally Campbell, the would-be impersonator of greatness, is captured. Charles escapes to enjoy in retrospect his day among the high society swells.

"Hoodoo Ann" is the drama of the week. There is a Cinderella story in Hoodoo Ann. A poor little waif finds her way into an orphanage. She is none too well treated at the expense of a little conceited miss, Goldie. There is a fire, Hoodoo Ann being blamed for this. But she rescues Goldie from the burning structure and escapes with slight burns and singed hair. There is a thrilling rescue scene. The play ends happily with Hoodoo Ann safe in the home of a kind old couple. In between times she has to account for her part in a supposed crime, is taken before the magistrate, and for a little girl, has a great deal of excitement, sorrow and joy.

PANTAGES THEATRE.

Scream Welch, the very substantial member of the Welch, Mealy and Montrose trio who are productive of a riot of laughter at every performance at the Pantages this week, did not adopt that introduction to his name for stage purposes—nothing of the sort. He came by it honestly enough years and years ago, so many years ago that it makes Welch shudder when he tries to look ahead as far as that is back. It happens that Welch was a very fancy twirler during the period of the first full bloom of the baseball vogue, say twenty years ago or more. He played with the Cincinnati Reds, one of the sure enough clubs in those days, and his skill in the box has been credited with being one of the chief reasons why the Reds stuck in the championship niche. He had a bunch of curves which saved his opponents a lot of exercise by retiring them at the bat. But pitching wasn't his only achievement of importance those days; he was one of the most effective coaches to base runners in the game. His steady flow of witty banter kept the crowds in a good humor and was a source of worry to the opposing players. It was for this accomplishment that he became known as "scream" Welch, an appellation which has stuck through all these years.

THE GRAND HOLIDAY.

A whiff of the ozone, or breath from the hills, Our toilers in workshops forego, That more and more guns may confront the Huns, To effect their complete overthrow.

God knows our workers feel weary and faint, Racked, tired and listless of woe; They revive again, their energy strain, To hasten on sweet Peace's chimera.

At the lathe and the bench a feeling prevails, Holidays would be now out of place, Since upwards do press to the crest of success, The bravest and best of our race.

Full well do our toilers know what it would mean, To withhold the great weapons of fight, For though flesh is strong, all would go wrong—The efforts of heroes they'd blight.

So they turn to the tasks allotted to them, With hope and pride in their breasts, And with fervor pray for that grand holiday—When with allies the victory rests.

Schoolmasters have often serious problems to solve. The following note, containing only one word, was recently handed to a Thanet pedagogue: Cepatomtegoataturing.

The missive was tendered by one of the boys, on behalf of a neighbor's child. The schoolmaster was non-plussed for the moment. But he had received too many weirdly-worded notes in his time to allow this one to baffle him. Albeit it was not till the work of the school was over and much tobacco had been consumed that the word at last yielded its mystery: "Kept at home to go a taturing."—London Chronicle.

President Woodrow Wilson, who is to commence his active campaign of reelection this week, is making a big bid for the labor vote, as represented by the railway employees. Woodrow Wilson is now in his 69th year, is the son of a Presbyterian minister, and after a thorough education, taught school and then received a position on the staff of Princeton University, eventually becoming the president of that well-known educational institution. His first taste of politics came when he was elected Governor of New Jersey. Four years ago he defeated Taft and Roosevelt in a three-cornered fight for the presidential chair, and is now seeking to put Charles E. Hughes out of the running. Wilson gave great promise of being a forceful, constructive legislator, and during the first few months of his regime put a number of progressive measures upon the statute books. During the past two years, however, his weak-kneed and vacillating policies in regard to Mexico and Germany have alienated thousands of supporters, and will probably mean his defeat when his votes are counted in November.—Montreal Journal of Commerce.

DIES AT WORK POINT

Pte. George Lawrence, of 211th Battalion, Will Be Buried To-morrow With Military Honors.

Pte. George Lawrence, of the 211th Battalion, died this morning at the Work Point Barracks Hospital. Owing to the fact that the enlistment papers containing all the particulars of the deceased were forwarded some time ago to Ottawa, the information therein is not immediately available, but a telegram has been sent this morning which should elicit the necessary particulars. Until such time no one is able to say the birthplace, names of relatives, or where the soldier enlisted. Arrangements have been made, however, for a military funeral, which will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 from the B. C. Funeral Chapel, 734 Broughton street. Interment will be at Ross Bay.

KILLED IN ACTION

Cpl. Arthur D. Belyea, of This City, Gives Life for Empire.

News has been received announcing that Cpl. Arthur D. Belyea, who left this city with the Western Scouts, has been killed in action. A cablegram conveying the sad news was received by a brother of the deceased, Sgt. S. W. Belyea, of the 172nd, who is attending the probationer's school of instruction at Work Point.

Cpl. Belyea was born in this city 32 years ago. He was a son of the late Arthur Belyea, barrister, one of the prominent citizens of Victoria. Educated in this city he was for some time in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Co., and in 1908 went to Vancouver to take a position with E. W. McLean, Ltd., insurance brokers, with whom he remained until the time he enlisted with the 67th.

ARTILLERY LEAVES PETAWAWA.

A letter has been received from an officer of the 62nd battery, 15th Brigade, stating that the battery left Petawawa on the evening of the 8th inst., and that they sailed from Halifax on Monday, 11th.

MILITARY ITEMS

Tuesday's casualty list included among the list of wounded the name of Pioneer George L. Kellogg, Keating Station. This was an error in transmission, the name of the wounded man being George L. Kelling.

Sergt. H. B. Davis, who has been in charge of recruiting for the 242nd, Foresters, has been notified that the battalion is at strength. A number of additional recruits, however, will be accepted, and applications must be made not later than to-morrow night. Sergt. Davis will go east in a few days.

VISITORS PLEASD

Letters From Americans Pay Tribute to Courtesy of Officials.

The secretary of the Automobile Association, Chas. L. Harris, has just received letters from two recent visitors expressing pleasure at the courtesies they everywhere received on Vancouver Island, and especially from the customs and other officials and from the Automobile Association. J. T. Warren, of Honolulu, spoke particularly of the good roads he had found here and of their value to the community, and suggested that it would be a wise policy to see that they be kept in their present condition.

Mrs. J. Friedenthal, of Portland, who toured the island with a party, wrote that they were all surprised at the beauty of the scene on the Malahat Drive and at other places.

A party of four headed by L. D. Carpenter, of Everett, Wash., arrived this morning with their car and have gone to Alberni and Great Central Lake for a short stay.

CLOSING MEETING HELD AT ESQUIMALT

H. C. Brewster, A. W. McCurdy and Others Speak at Rally

The final rally of the Liberals at Esquimalt was addressed last night by H. C. Brewster, A. W. McCurdy, Beaumont Boggs, Hans Helgesen and C. Whitney-Griffiths. The meeting was held in the Masonic hall, with George Wise presiding. Mr. Wise was one of the men whom R. H. Pooley threatened with dire consequences if he did not resign from the Liberal executive. He made a telling short speech in introducing the candidates to the meeting. Mr. Brewster was given a splendid reception. He incidentally spoke of the fine work which had been done for the province by Parker Williams, formerly the member for Newcastle.

Mr. Brewster told of the occasion when Price Ellison had secured the services of a newspaperman to write his speech for him, and when it had been published in a Vancouver paper three or four days before it was delivered in the House. Mr. Ellison had then made use of the following memorable words: "I am proud to be the minister of finance to bring in the first great loan bill, and I prophesy that this will not be the last, but that many such will follow in the near future."

The leader of the opposition said that when a condition arose such as that occasioned by the threat of R. H. Pooley against the workmen in the dockyard and by other coercive acts, it was time for every man with red blood in his veins to help get rid of a government which fostered it and send them to the scrap heap.

Beaumont Boggs said of the aims and objects of the Imperial Conservatives and of his reasons for supporting the Liberal party, even though he was a Conservative still. Whitney Griffiths and Hans Helgesen each made telling speeches.

A. W. McCurdy, the candidate, referred to the necessity of developing the district and the failure of the policy of the Conservatives in this regard. There was not even a public wharf on Esquimalt harbor. In the matter of the drydock nothing had been done except to put through a real estate deal. The district was in need of an energetic representative to look after its interests.

The meeting closed with cheers for the candidate and the singing of the National Anthem.

CLOSE THE CAMPAIGN

Conservative Candidates at Princess Theatre; Meeting at Esquimalt.

Hon. A. Stewart, minister of finance, and his three associates gave a public invitation to the electors of the city to attend a smoking concert at the Princess theatre last evening, but on their arrival the guests found that they were expected to smoke their own tobacco. Apparently the organizers of the event feared that the giving away of tobacco and cigars might be made the occasion for a charge of bribery and corruption. Many who attended failed to take a supply of the fragrant weed and enjoyed their smoke only second hand.

The gathering was in marked contrast to that in the Old Victoria theatre in the matter of attendance, and the number would have been even less if there had been more accommodation in the Douglas street theatre.

H. B. Thomson presided, and the speakers were the Conservative candidates. Alderman Dilworth's address dealt with such matters as the settlement of the Songhees Reserve question and other work of the government. He claimed that the opposition had not one constructive idea.

Reginald Hayward reviewed the legislation of the last session and drew special attention to the acts, which he claimed had benefited the province and especially this city.

Leonard Tait, who is looked upon as the orator of the party in this city, dealt largely with Liberal criticisms, declaring as a climax that only six per cent. of the land of the province had been alienated but that 132,000,000 acres remained.

Hon. Mr. Stewart featured the Johnson Street bridge, expressing the opinion that some members of the council had been making political capital out of their opposition to the government proposals. He declared that the province was in a good financial position and able to pay one hundred cents on the dollar.

Messrs. Sampson and Menelaws gave vocal selections which were much appreciated. The Rex theatre, Esquimalt, was the scene of a Conservative meeting in support of the candidature of R. H. Pooley, the Conservative candidate for the riding, at which G. H. Barnard, M. P., and William Blakemore, as well as the candidate, gave addresses. T. H. Slater occupied the chair, and there was a fair attendance.

The brutal conduct of the Germans has been shown in hundreds of cases. Another instance of their brutality and callousness is shown in the case of Sir Timothy Eden, a young Britisher who has just been exchanged by the Germans as they believed him to be on the point of death. At the outbreak of war Eden was a student in Germany, but was at once put in prison, and for most of the past two years has been confined in a strong wired cage, 6 ft. long, 5 ft. high and 2 ft. 9 inches wide. A number of members of the family have taken part in the war, and as the heirs of the estate had been killed off, the young prisoner, in Germany has succeeded to the family honors. His condition and the story relating to his captivity has aroused a great deal of bitterness throughout Great Britain, in some respects almost rivaling the fury which was caused by the execution of Captain Fryatt.—Montreal Journal of Commerce.

DOUKHOBORS FAVORED BREAKERS OF LAW

Bowser Government Fails to Put Wheels of Justice in Action

Mrs. J. E. Harris, Nelson, is in the city during a visit to the coast and will be here for some days. She has been a resident of the Kootenays for twenty-five years and has considerable interests in and knowledge of mining in that part of the province. She has lived for most of the time in Nelson and in Kaslo.

Mrs. Harris has several friends in this city, where she spent a month five years ago endeavoring to secure the construction of a bridge over the Kootenay river at Brilliant for the convenience of the Doukhobor colony there. She has always taken a keen interest in the progress of the colonists, especially those who have broken away from the community which is under the thumb of Peter Verigin. That leader is regarded almost as a deity by the community, and insists upon being so regarded, too. His authority is absolute and unquestioned, and so far as is known he is the sole person who benefits from the funds of the community, although everything is supposed to be enjoyed in common.

Mrs. Harris, although of a Conservative family, has no use for the present government, and she condemns it in very strong terms for its failure to compel Verigin and his followers to observe the law in regard to registering vital statistics and sending their children to school. This non-observance of the law is much resented by the people of the districts in which the colonies are situated, and also by the independent Doukhobors, who find themselves included in the general condemnation of the sect although they are falling into line with other citizens in the matter of carrying out the requirements of the code.

When the royal commission held a so-called inquiry into conditions, and again when the premier visited the colonies and received a group photograph, Verigin made hypocritical promises as to their intention to send their children to school and register births and deaths. But his promises amounted to nothing, as those acquainted with him expected, however much the wool may have been pulled over the eyes of the commissioner and the premier.

An act was passed in 1914 known as the Community Regulation Act, the long title of which sets forth that it is designed "to make provision for the welfare and protection of women and children living under communal conditions." The idea in this act is to consider all persons living in such a community as those of the Doukhobors as severally liable for the performance of the duties imposed upon citizens under the Vital Statistics Act, the Public Schools Act and the Health Act, and for offences against any of the provisions of any of these acts every member shall be liable to a special penalty in addition to any penalties under the several acts, and in default of payment the community property may be distrained. In case the name of a member of a community is unknown and cannot conveniently be ascertained a name or number may be assigned to designate them in any proceedings that may take place.

The registration of births and deaths and the observance of the obligations of the Health Act is made the compulsory duty of every member of the community, and in the case of every child between seven and fourteen every member is considered in the eyes of the law as its parent and guardian, and therefore obliged to send it to school. Peter Verigin told the commissioner that he would not send his children to school because if he did he would lose control of them. For the same reason education is not believed in by them.

Mrs. Harris says that the law is not being enforced and no prosecution has ever taken place under this act. The matter has become a scandal in the districts, and the electors will remember it in the constituencies wherein these people live. When the premier was among the Doukhobors, she says, he thought that they were leading him up a blind alley, but the Doukhobors and the citizens alike now believe that he was leading them up a blind alley.

The Germans are now forbidden the general consumption of cow's milk; there's always been a dearth of the human kindness variety amongst them.

A woman complained in court that a German woman and her son, living in the same house, annoyed her by singing loudly in German; sounds like another "air" raid.

"CHICK" EVANS IS FOREMOST GOLFER

First to Hold Both Open and Amateur Championship at Same Time

Charles "Chick" Evans, Jr., of Chicago, is the foremost golfer in the United States to-day. That he was the best golfer in America three years ago was the statement made by Harry Vardon when the brilliant English professional was touring the States. Vardon reiterated this statement when he returned home, but it was accepted in America as an appraisal that was not borne out by the facts, for Evans had never won an open or amateur championship up to that time. The confidence of the Britisher has been approved, however, for Chick Evans is now both open and amateur champion of the United States.

He won the former title at Minneapolis in June and he earned the amateur honors last Saturday at the Merion Cricket Club's links at Philadelphia when he defeated Robert Gardner of Chicago, four up and three to play. Evans is the first player to ever hold both titles in one year. Francis Ouimet was open champion in 1913 and amateur champion in 1914. He lost the title to Walter Hagen August 18-21, 1914, and did not win the amateur honor until September 5-11, 1914. That was as near as anyone has ever come to grabbing both titles together. Although four times a winner of the amateur championship, Jerome Travers only once won the open and that was in 1915. His last win of the amateur had been in 1913.

Evans, after years of knocking at the gates, has finally won his way, in one year, to both crowns he sought. And he did it because, at the Minkalaha course, Minneapolis, in June, he got hold of himself on the putting greens and, apparently, he has never let it get away from him. Putting has always been his weakness. That helped him in last week's struggle. He had been medalist on four occasions in the amateur championship, and was runner-up to Jerry Travers in 1913 at Wheaton, while he won the Western amateur and open repeatedly. But it was the Philadelphia play that brought him into his own. Incidentally, he had never played on a Quaker City links before last week. His qualifying rounds of 158 were five strokes behind the medalist of the tournament. From this out, Chick Evans is going to be a harder man to beat than ever before.

THE COAST LEAGUE FACES TRUST CHARGE

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—A suit charging that the Pacific Coast League is a trust and that it has conspired to monopolize baseball in California to such an extent that players outside the league are unable to make a living has been placed on file in the United States district court here. Mrs. Esther Jacobs, the complainant, seeks to recover $31,500, three times the amount she claims to have lent the defunct Sacramento club, whose franchise was sold to the Salt Lake City club. The suit is brought under the Sherman anti-trust law.

NOW AT THE FRONT

"BOSS" JOHNSON

Heck Fowler, of the Vancouver A. C. Lacrosse team, is in receipt of a letter from "Boss" Johnson, the well known Victoria lacrosse player and all-round athlete. "Boss" is doing his bit with the Royal Army Medical Corps, driving one of the ambulances. "Boss" informs Heck that he has run across "Dutch" Kendall, the old V.A. C. star, at frequent intervals. Johnson was one of the best lacrosse players the Canadian national game has known, and in addition to this was a Rugby, soccer, baseball and basketball star. He played on Victoria representative teams in Rugby and soccer for years.

MAJOR LEAGUE RACES CLOSEST EVER KNOWN

Pennant Fight in Both Big Leagues Has Narrowed Down to Three Teams

The pennant races in the American and National leagues have narrowed down to three teams in each circuit, the Dodgers, Phillies and Braves being the contenders in the older league, and the Red Sox, Tigers and White Sox, the clubs who are battling for premier honors in the American. In the National the three leading teams have been holding down the leadership for almost three months, while in the American's circuit the present contenders have fought to the front during the last six weeks, the Cleveland Indians, Washington Senators and New York Highlanders having alternated in leading the league in the early months of the campaign.

At the present time Brooklyn is leading Philadelphia, in second place, by half a game, and the Boston Braves in third by a game and a half. These three teams are entertaining the Western teams for the next two weeks, and any ground gained will be merited as none of the clubs have an advantage. In these series and in the succeeding eastern inter-sectional clashes, the pitchers will have a great deal to do with their team's showing, and it is interesting to note what the star box-men of the three clubs have done this season. The Braves will place their main dependence on the work of Rudolph and Hughes, and the former so far this year has won 15 and lost 8, for a winning percentage of .652 and an average of earned runs per game of 2.24, while Hughes' figures in the same order are won 16, lost 3, percentage .842, average runs per game 2.20. Alexander and Rixey will be called upon to do the heavy work for the Phillies, and their respective figures are: Alexander won 27, lost 9, percentage .750, average earned runs per game 1.41; Rixey won 15, lost 6, percentage .750, average earned runs per game 1.95. Brooklyn has three twirlers who will be expected to carry the Dodgers from now on, these being Marquard, Pfeffer and Cheney. Rube has won 19, lost 4, percentage .826, average earned runs per game 1.57; Pfeffer has won 19, lost 10, percentage .655, average earned runs per game 2.17, and Cheney has won 15, lost 9, for a winning percentage of .625, and an average of earned runs per game of 2.00.

In the American the league leading Boston Red Sox are just a fraction of a game ahead of Detroit, with Chicago in third place, only one game and a half behind. From now until the end the Red Sox play a great majority of their games away from home, while the Tigers and White Sox will be performing on their home lot. With this disadvantage to contend with, Carrigan's men will have to play top-notch ball all the way, and if their great pitching staff upholds its mid-season record they should just about win the pennant.

CLUBS BIDDING FOR BIG BOUT

Spokane, Sept. 14.—Tom Jones, manager for Jess Willard, heavyweight titleholder, has announced that he had just received an offer from Butte, Mont., of $50,000 for a twelve-round bout with Fred Fulton, of Minnesota, either in December or January next. Jones said similar offers had been received from Colorado Springs and Minneapolis, but no decision would be reached until after Willard's circus contract expires, November 1.

Harvard Stars Win and Give the Blue Chance to Retain Titles

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—Harvard's prospects for retaining both the singles and doubles championships in the intercollegiate lawn tennis association were considered excellent, as the result of yesterday's matches in the national tournament on the courts of the Merion Cricket Club. G. C. Cramer, of Harvard, defeated Leonard Beekman, the Princeton star, in the third round of the singles section and will meet Jerry Weber, the Yale captain, in one of the semi-final matches to-day. His teammate, Joseph Pfaflman, won from Arthur Coffey, of Princeton, and meets Eugene Warren, of the University of California, in the other semi-final singles. Cramer and Richard H. Harle, Jr., defeated Beekman and Philip Vandeventer, of Princeton, in the opening round of the doubles, while the other criminal pair, Watson and Pfaflman, eliminated Weber and Stoddard, of Yale.

EASY MONEY FOR JOHN GANZELL

No baseball man gets his money easier than John Ganzell. For doing absolutely nothing the veteran manager calls at the office of the Ward estate, in Brooklyn; every two weeks and receives a cheque calling for a nice bundle of currency. Ganzell signed a three-year contract with the Wards last year, calling for a salary of $7,500 a season. The pact does not expire until the end of 1917. Ganzell's contract was a personal one with Robert B. Ward and is recognized by his estate. Jawns was ordered to report every two weeks for his salary and spend his time any way he desires to. So he is having the unusual experience of drawing more money than he ever did before—and doing nothing for it. Poor Jawns! It is reported from America that three professors have discovered, in the valley of the Susquehanna, the bones of sixty-eight 7 ft. men. The most extraordinary characteristic of these supernumeraries is that on some of the skulls, two inches above the perfectly formed forehead, were horn-shaped protuberances of bone. Such a discovery will cause a considerable flutter in the biologician dovecots, and the famous Pitt-down skull will be hard put to it to hold its own in scientific importance. London Chronicle.

CLEAN LIVING IS SECRET OF SUCCESS

Careers of Plank, Kramer and Bromilow Prove This Fact

How long can an athlete stick at the top? The average "life" of a baseball star is less than ten years. Crack bike riders go a bit over that. Tennis players, on the average, falter after eight years on the court. The average champion athlete burns out in five years. Three veterans in leading sports stand out conspicuously this season after having withstood the ravages of time during 20 years of the keenest competition. They are Eddie Plank, baseball; Frank Kramer, cycling, and Joe Bromilow, track. Father Time simply cannot catch these fellows. Connie Mack grabbed Plank from Gettysburg college in 1901—over 16 years ago. In the 17 seasons he has worked as a major, Plank has averaged .550 on the slab. Frank Kramer rode his first bike race 20 years ago. Four years later Kramer won the American professional championship and he's never lost it. Less than a month ago the cycling antique from East Orange copped his sixteenth straight American "pro" title. This is Joe Bromilow's nineteenth season on the track. Only last year Patterson's famous half-miler won a senior championship—something he had been striving for 18 years. Now he is going better than ever. How do these men account for their longevity? Each is a fiend on the subject of taking care of himself. Two words will sum up the secret of their ability to come back in championship form year after year, and the words are—clean living.

BREEZY BITS

Cincinnati fans have been greatly disappointed in the 1916 showing of Jean Dale, the tall right-hander. Jean was one of the pitching mainstays of the Reds last year, but this season he has accomplished nothing. Dale started by Dallas, and was given trials by the Red Sox, the Indians and the Cardinals, spending two seasons with Montreal before going to Cincinnati.

Doc Johnston, the Pirate first baseman, is among the latest of the big leaguers to hit the toboggan. Doc, whose real front name is Wheeler, started his baseball career in his native city, Chattanooga. In 1910 he was purchased by Cincinnati, turned over to Buffalo, and sent back to Chattanooga. Later he was with the Pelicans, and Cleveland, and in 1912, transferring him to the Pirates last year.

The Covaleskie family seems to be out to equal the baseball record of the immortal Delehantys. Harry Covaleskie, of Detroit and Stanley Covaleskie, of the Indians, have already won to pitching stardom. Their younger brother, Frank, also a twirler, and John, who covers third, are said to look like comers. The Covaleskies hailed from the coal mines of Shamokin, Pa.

Carson Bigbee, sold to the Pittsburgh club by Tacoma, is making good with a vengeance in the big show. He has been hitting and stealing bases like a veteran. The other day he won the game for Pittsburgh against Brooklyn, when he scored a bunt in the second contest. He also stole a base and annexed a single, besides laying down the bunt which started the rally.

Toney, the Cincinnati star, hurled another grand game yesterday, only to lose the contest because his team could not get any runs for him. The Red pitcher held the New York Giants to one hit.

The veteran Leon Ames came through with another win yesterday for the St. Louis Cardinals, defeating the Philadelphia Nationals.

At Boston yesterday the veteran Reubach pitched and won the first game of a double-header from his old team, the Chicago Cubs, and came back in the second contest and relieved Barnes, chalking up another win.

AMERICAN TRACK QUARTETTE SELECTED

New York, Sept. 14.—Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union consider the team of four men selected to represent the United States in the track and field games at Stockholm, Copenhagen and Christiania, in October, among the best all round athletes in America. The team will be composed of Robert Simpson, of the University of Missouri; Fred Murray, of San Francisco; Ted Meredith and J. G. Loomis. Both Simpson and Murray, the two late additions to the team, are holders of world's records. The athletes will leave for Europe September 28 and expect to return November 15.

Will You Save $5 From Your Vacation Fund

To Feed a Hungry Belgian Child From Now to Next Christmas?

Over in devastated Belgium there are three million people—a few old or wounded men, many women, and a million or more children—who are thinking, not of holidays, but of the next meal. They are face to face with starvation, and saved from it only by the Belgian Relief Fund.

The war that has left them destitute, has brought prosperity to Canada. We are planning vacations, to be spent in pleasant places, in the free enjoyment of plenty.

Can we, with clear consciences, indulge in our usual little holiday extravagances here, while children over there grow pinched and haggard for want of the plainest food?

How easily each of us—including the reader—could cut down vacation expenses Five Dollars, and turn the money over to the Belgian Relief Fund! In the efficient hands of the Commission it would feed a Belgian child from now to Christmas, or the family of a Belgian Soldier for two whole months.

Will you do it? Will you make a little sacrifice, if necessary, and contribute enough monthly to keep one or more Belgian families from starvation? Whatever you feel you can give, send your subscription weekly, monthly, or in one lump sum, to Local or Provincial Committees, or

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is giving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of cod liver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among natural fats, butter, easily taken first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

The BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs. Callard & Bowser, 1000 Douglas Street, Victoria, B. C., have prepared for fifty years is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, as palatable in fact, that children are more likely to need, retaining from excess than any preservative to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 11 per cent of fat and 73 per cent of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures. Further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This condition can therefore be recommended not only as a harmless sweetener, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases.

BUENAVENTURA HERE AFTER MANY MONTHS

To Load Outward Cargo on Sound Following Bunkering Operations at Comox

The American steamer Buenaventura, Capt. Fitzsimmons, passed up during the night from San Diego to Comox, where she will load bunkers and later shift to Puget Sound to take aboard cargo for Avonmouth and Swanson. She is one of the Maple Leaf line fleet which before the war maintained a regular freight service between New York and British Columbia ports, the vessels carrying freight for the United Kingdom on the return voyage.

Many months have elapsed since the Buenaventura was last on this coast. Shortly after hostilities started in Europe this vessel, together with the Santa Rosalia and the Kenra, which prior to that time had been plying the high seas under the British flag, were changed to American registry.

The vessel is still manned by a complement of British officers with Capt. Fitzsimmons in charge. The Buenaventura is a vessel of 4,881 tons.

It was recently stated by H. W. Green, representative of the Maple Leaf line, that the company proposed to re-establish its service between North Pacific ports and the United Kingdom by way of the Panama canal, but he intimated that its continuance and the ports of call would depend on the amount of business offered. Since the war the ships of this fleet, in common with the vessels of other lines, have been earning tremendous profits under the prevailing high freights. The Buenaventura recently completed a lengthy voyage which took her to many ports of the world. On January 11 she left New York for Sabang via St. Vincent and Port Natal. From Sabang she proceeded to Vladivostok and Yokohama via Shimonsaki, and then back to New York by way of Singapore, Calcutta and Colombo. She was then chartered by the United States government to carry coal from Norfolk, Va., to San Diego, and it was after delivering this cargo that the vessel came north.

She is to load on Puget Sound, and will get away for the United Kingdom toward the latter part of the month.

UNUSUAL REPAIR JOB ON TANKER DE SOTO

Difficult Piece of Welding Accomplished on Broken Stern Frame

The steamer De Soto, a tank vessel well known here, recently arrived at San Francisco from South America with a broken stern frame. When this vessel was placed in drydock it was found that the break had occurred at a very bad place, where the cross section of metal was 1 3/4 inches deep by 2 1/2 inches thick.

It was a clean break, and it was decided to remove the stern frame, which was repaired in the following manner: A four and one-half inch hole was drilled in the centre of the break and the sides of the fracture were machined allowing a piece of forged iron, which was also machined to fit between the surfaces to be welded. The opening was then wedged apart and the piece of forged iron inserted. The stern frame was placed in the smith shop with a forge under and a portable force over, the portable force using hose for both oil and air. The rods were fitted so that when the whole mass of metal was heated it was pulled into shape making a perfect weld.

In jobs of this kind it is customary to lose a great deal of metal in the neighborhood of the weld, but by this method the thickness of metal was increased at the weld and also for three or four inches on either side of it.

The entire weld was completed in two heats and in ten hours' time. The stern frame was lined up and found to be in perfect alignment. The entire job, from the date of the ship's arrival to her departure from the Union Iron Works shipyard, took ten working days, and George Bates, foreman blacksmith who had the work in charge, is being congratulated on the perfect outcome of this difficult piece of welding work.

REPAIR CONTRACT IS AWARDED HERE

Schooner Coquiltam City to Be Made Seaworthy at Victoria Machinery Depot

The contract covering repairs to the British schooner Coquiltam City has been awarded to the Victoria Machinery Depot. The vessel will be hauled out immediately and the job rushed as the schooner is under charter at a high rate to load lumber at Bellingham for Australia. It is estimated that the repairs will cost in the neighborhood of $4,000. New plates and bilge keelsons are to be put in and the hull generally strengthened. She left this coast early in 1914, and when she encountered a bad southerly hurricane off the Australian coast her keel buckled. After being beached for a long period the vessel was sold in the admiralty court and was purchased by Mr. Forsyth, of Brisbane, Queensland. Mr. Forsyth reached Victoria yesterday from the Antipodes via San Francisco and Vancouver, and at once placed the repair contract.

As the ways at the Victoria Machinery Depot are occupied, part of the work will be carried out while the Coquiltam City is afloat in the upper harbor. Then when the keelsons are aboard and in place the vessel will be hauled out and the great timbers securely fastened. The contract is expected to be completed in about ten days.

Capt. J. W. Abbott, master of the Coquiltam City, is a well known coasting skipper, and was formerly in command of the freighter Ohfr, operating out of Victoria and Vancouver. The new owner of the Coquiltam City intends to change her name to that of Brisbane City. The vessel was built at the junction of the Pitt and Fraser rivers and launched in 1914.

CUZCO LEFT TO-DAY FOR JAMES ISLAND

At 11 o'clock last night the W. R. Grace steamer Cuzco arrived off the outer docks and anchored until 10 o'clock this morning, when she proceeded to James Island. She carries 2,000 tons of nitrates for the Victoria Chemical Works and will discharge the whole of it at the plant up the gulf. The Cuzco is from Chilean ports via San Francisco. The barge W. G. Pirra was towed by the Cuzco up the coast to San Francisco to be re-rigged as a barge.

After unloading at James Island the Grace steamer will proceed to Puget Sound to load 2,300 tons of wheat and 1,850,000 feet of lumber for South American ports.

KEEN SHIPPING DEAL

Control of Steamship Nile Secured by China Mail for $400,000

The shipping deal recently closed by the China Mail Steamship Company for the return to the trans-Pacific service of the former Pacific Mail liner Nile is looked upon as one of the keenest deals pulled off this year, for by the expenditure of $400,000 the control of a million dollar steamship was secured.

In commenting on the deal, President Look Tin Eli recently said: "We have not purchased the Nile, but have obtained control of her through the purchase of the majority of stock in the Chinese syndicate which secured the steamship by purchase from the Pacific Mail Company. The obtaining of the Nile represents expenditure of but $400,000 gold. We expect to have the Nile on the San Francisco-Oriental run in six months. She is under charter to the British government by the day, and as soon as we can have her released she will be placed in the trans-Pacific service."

The Nile will be operated in conjunction with the steamship China, another former Pacific Mailer, bought by the China Mail Company to provide a steamship service for the Chinese merchants in America. The Nile is of 1,155 tons, and was built at Glasgow in 1875.

GOVERNOR TO SAIL

The Governor of the Pacific Steamship Company's fleet, carrying passengers and cargo, is due to leave the outer docks at 5 p. m. to-morrow for San Francisco, San Pedro and San Diego.

BEACON IN OPERATION.

The red light, surmounting the slatwork day-arc, erected on a concrete base at Laurel Point, is now in operation.

In summer the rock is marked by thick kelp.

British Columbia—(227) Northern entrance to Laredo Channel; South Surf Islands; gas-lighted beacon established—Position: On the south inlet of the South Surf Islands; in the approach to Surf Inlet, Princess Royal Island. Lat. N. 52 degs. 56 min. 25 sec. long. W. 129 degs. 10 min. Character: White light, automatically occulted at short intervals. Elevation, 28 feet. Visibility, 19 miles from all points of approach. Illuminating apparatus: A lens lantern. Illuminant: Acetylene, compressed in acetone. Structure: Concrete base, surmounted by a staff supporting a wooden slatwork ball, with lantern on top. Color: White. Remarks: The light is unwatched.

According to the plans, there is to be a dip in the Channel tunnel; well, that's much more than a dip in the Channel.

MEXICO TO TERMINATE HER VOYAGE AT KOBE.

Run Curtailed to Enable Her to Get Back on Schedule; Big Steel Cargo

In order that she may get back on her original schedule, taking precedence over the Chicago Maru, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Mexico Maru, which left port at 6.15 o'clock last night, will terminate her voyage at Kobe. It was announced to-day at the local offices of the company that the Mexico Maru, after discharging her freight at Yokohama and Kobe, will turn around and return direct to Victoria from Yokohama, arriving back here November 18 as posted in the regular sailing list.

This arrangement was deemed necessary to obviate the disruption of the service. The Mexico Maru left here five days behind schedule, having been delayed on Puget Sound, but the liner Chicago Maru, a subsidized ship, which arrived subsequent to the Mexico, was dispatched on time last Sunday. She will proceed through to Hongkong, and on the return trip will arrive back here November 25.

The Mexico Maru took out 5,999 tons of cargo, and 2,500 tons of this was composed of steel, steel plates, angle-bars and other shipbuilding material. This steel, it is understood, is part of a large order placed in the United States to facilitate the construction of steamers for the company in Japan.

Sgt. Mitsuo Bashi dockyard recently contracted with the O. S. K. to build two liners of the Manila Maru type on condition that the steel be delivered in the Orient by vessels of the fleet.

The next vessel of the O. S. K. fleet to reach here will be the Canada Maru, she is due to show up on Sunday. She has approximately 3,000 bales and cases of raw silk and silk goods, valued at $1,500,000. Other shipments are 650 tons of tea, 80 tons of bamboo and straw braid and 60 tons of firecrackers. The liner carries 500 tons of general freight for Victoria and Vancouver.

SUCCESSOR TO C. W. WILEY.

John B. Morris, successor to C. W. Wiley, as marine superintendent of the Great Northern Pacific Steamship Company, is well known in shipping circles on this coast, having been connected with the Hill lines as chief engineer of the steamship Great Northern since she left the builders' hands. Prior to that he superintended the installation of the turbine engines on the sister steamship Northern Pacific when that vessel was under construction at Philadelphia. Mr. Morris is considered in steamship circles as a good authority on turbine propulsion.

TOLEDO NOW ON SOUND.

The Harrison Direct Line steamer Crown of Toledo, Capt. Grindlay, reached Seattle yesterday from Vancouver to load canned salmon and lumber for the United Kingdom. The Crown of Toledo, of the same fleet, is also loading at Seattle.

LIBERALS HOLD ROUSING RALLY

Enthusiastic Audience Present at Final Gathering of the Campaign

CANDIDATES AND OTHERS DELIVER ADDRESSES

Electors Show They Are Determined to Defeat Government

A magnificent demonstration of the esteem and respect in which the leader of the Liberal party is held, and of the confidence which the people of his own city have in him, was shown at the closing rally held in the Victoria theatre last evening.

The house was filled in every part with an audience which was absolutely in unison with the speakers and animated with one desire, that of signing the Bowser government out of existence at the polls. E. J. Bowden was in the chair in the unavoidable absence of A. B. Fraser, president of the Liberal Association.

In strong contrast to the muzzled four who are trying to carry Mr. Bowser and his record on their backs in this campaign, the Liberal candidates all spoke, spoke well and to the point, and were each and all given the heartiest of applause by the audience. No doubt was left in any mind how the audience stood. There was but one interruption, when a man in the gallery asked Mr. Hart a question which was quite palpably prompted by the Bowser party in an attempt to discredit his candidature in the eyes of a section of the electorate. The crushing answer given by Mr. Hart was cheered by the audience.

Another Bowser falsehood was caught by J. W. Connell, who stated that no loan of ten thousand dollars has been made to a Liberal friend of John Oliver's, that the man has been put off time and again for a month past.

Ald. Bell declared that the Liberal party had a fine constructive policy and leaders and candidates who were worthy of support by the electors. The Liberal government which was on the eye of election would get the land back for the settler, fill it with a productive population on the community system, give them the assistance of a non-partisan, non-political agricultural credit act, and by their closer settlement enable the government to furnish them with roads, schools and other conveniences of life.

Advocate of Harry Price, Ald. Bell stated that there were no signs of his being a goner, a down-and-out, but he was very much in evidence at Sidney camp and among the soldiers. From the remark a soldier made to Harry when asking for a drink there was no doubt what that chief machinist was busy himself about. Then there was the mayor. "Oh! he's a goner." "I will concede that point," said the alderman.

Recalling the Liberal convention held here two years ago, and Mayor Stewart's welcome to the delegates, Ald. Bell mentioned that at the close of his speech the mayor added that he was specially glad to welcome them because he was one of themselves. Today he denied his Liberalism; which statement was true?

"For every deserter from our ranks we have a hundred recruits," continued Ald. Bell. "Do you want a combined mayor and minister of finance who has shown himself in the matter of the Johnson street bridge not to have protected the city's interest, not to have done his duty in keeping the council's proceedings in order, and to be a trickster?" "No." In the few months he has been associated with the premier Mayor Stewart has already become tainted with Bowserism. (Cheers.)

Ald. Bell closed with a pledge that when elected he will save the interests of the citizens and not those of the corporations. That he and all the Liberal tickets were going to be elected was proved by the fact that two-thirds of the people are "again the government."

John Hart. John Hart explained that he had been unable to get about among the electors to whom he was appealing, his time being fully occupied during the last few weeks with the provincial campaign, which he was managing, and he appealed to them to vote the straight Liberal ticket. Mr. Hart gave the lie direct to the Colonist, which represented ed him as being withered into his seat by Mr. Bowser on Monday night, after having led a band of hecklers. As a matter of fact, he had arrived very late and had never interrupted the premier nor said a word.

Mr. Bowser had a statement to make which he knew was false, which he knew he (the speaker) knew to be false; that 800 dead men had voted in the by-election here. (Laughter.)

"I had the pleasure of being campaign manager for Mr. Bowser on that occasion," said Mr. Hart, "and I can assure you that if Mr. Bowser paid his gangsters to poll 800 dead men he paid a good deal more than they earned. Some great efforts were made to deliver some of the Ross Bay votes through the instrumentality of Shavin and McBride, who operated a blind pig on Wharf street. That these efforts were nullified was solely due to the vigilance of our scrutineers, and Bowser's pluggers were prevented from depriving the people of an honest election."

Discussing finances Mr. Hart reminded the electors that the minister of finance had nothing to say of anything affecting the people's money, and who shirked an answer to the question as to the payment of the second instalment of P. G. E. interest. Mr. Bowser's ideas of a loan was getting only $2,500 out of every $100 borrowed at 4 1/2 per cent. Productive loans were what financial men were looking for to-day, and not the sort of loan Mr. Bowser offered.

Mr. Bowser's connection with provincial finances was a sinister one. The province was owed $36,000 by Augustus Heinze. Why was it not collected? Because Heinze was a client of Bowser, Reid & Wallbridge. Why, in these hard times, was the P. G. E. given six millions illegally? There was only one reason, that the company was a client of Mr. Bowser, of Bowser, Reid & Wallbridge. Why had the Canada Western Lumber Co., a Mackenzie-Mann concern, been allowed to secure registration of a mortgage on payment of $200, when the proper fees were $14,000? Because Mr. Bowser has these people also among his clients.

The first thing Mr. Brewster would do would be to enforce the law in every direction. He would establish a non-partisan civil service under a real civil service commission. His attorney general would be independent of all other considerations than those of the public good, and he would not be controlled by the corporations. To bring these things about every voter should mark his ballot for the solid four. (Cheers.)

A man in the gallery asked how Mr. Hart stood on prohibition and if it was not a fact that he was the nominee of the liquor interests.

"When the prohibitionists met in Vancouver they sent a request to both political parties to keep the question out of politics," said Mr. Hart in reply. "The Liberal party promised to do so. It has kept that promise and I have kept that promise on my part. The question is out of politics. (Hear, hear.)"

A man stopped me and told me to-day that I have the support of the liquor men. I asked him where he got that information and he told me that he got it from a Conservative. My questioner up there in the gallery is a Conservative spy who has been sent here to try to create the impression before this audience that I am tied up to the liquor men. (Cheers and applause and cries of "we know you're not.")

J. W. Connell. In a humorous speech J. W. Connell got in a number of keen thrusts at Mr. Bowser and his mismanagement of affairs. If the premier had lived in the days of Ananias and Sapphira, he said, this typical character would never have been heard of. A new falsehood of the premier's was called by Mr. Connell. On Monday evening Mr. Bowser said that a loan of $10,000 had been made to a Dewdney Liberal, a friend of John Oliver's, under the Agricultural Credits act. This gentleman was within the sound of his voice, and could testify that he has not got one dollar of the loan yet, and has been put off with one excuse and another for a month.

In Mr. Bowser the people had a model kaiser; a small imitation of the real thing. He had his followers trained. Ten thousand Harry Pooleys combined would not be crowded on the point of a cambric needle. D. M. Eberts was trained and had lately done a yaudeville stunt. He complained that someone said he was a German. Mr. Connell said he did not know whether Mr. Eberts was a German or not, but he did know that that gentleman had a brother in Winnipeg who would have been very much offended if people did not call him Mr. von Eberts. Mr. Bowser's new ticket in Victoria was a hob-tailed flush—(laughter)—with himself as the joker.

The premier had chosen a funeral lot. He had the chairman of the cemetery committee, an undertaker, an experienced hearse-driver and a monument-maker as candidates, Harry Price as grave-digger; Mrs. Jimmie Anderson, of Kalen Island fame, who had taken to writing weak political pamphlets and distributing them by moonlight, would be in charge of the flowers; "Soapy" Welsh, Capt. Cox, "Dynamite" Sullivan and Harry Pooley would be pall-bearers; the mourners would be the subsidized press, the Colonist, now known as the lady dowager, mourning at the rate of $100 a day, with an occasional plum of $75,000; and in the cortege would be the Beaver Club, Mackenzie & Mann and Foley, Welsh & Stewart. (Laughter and cheers.)

Henry C. Hall took it as a good augury for the morrow that there should be such a great audience and so enthusiastic. He traced a great deal of the criminal illegality which has marked the history of the province in the last few years back to Mr. Bowser's "We must give the speculator his chance." Speaking of the Canadian Northern Pacific project Mr. Hall stated that a short time ago a Chicago engineering journal announced that a contract had been let for the construction of the branch line from Kamloops to Kelowna. The company could get money for a line not yet begun, but could not find it for the Island line, half completed and deteriorating every day. Was the contract let because the Northern Construction Company, which got it, was Mackenzie & Mann? Was it because the solicitor for Mackenzie

& Mann was our old friend Bowser, Reid & Wallbridge? Another reason which might be suggested for starting work was Bowser's business government. (Laughter and applause.)

What this province needed was a clean-up of its affairs and then its building up. It was a great province and a fine people; our children should be educated to take advantage of its great opportunities. When elected Mr. Hall pledged himself to work earnestly and hard for Victoria and Vancouver Island as well. He would work for the development of Vancouver Island, all-rail connection with the mainland via Seymour Narrows, and he and all the Liberal members would back Mr. Brewster up in the great work he was about to undertake.

F. J. Stacpoole. F. J. Stacpoole, K. C., went into the Dominion Trust matter, gave a number of distressing instances of the ruin it has wrought and tied Mr. Bowser up tight with it. He also devoted some attention to finances and the extravagance of the government. Dealing with Harry Pooley's outbreak, Mr. Stacpoole said: "The British stock from which he and his father came would never address such words to British workmen as he did. His actions were German." (Hear, hear.)

H. C. Brewster. H. C. Brewster received an ovation on rising. He expressed his pleasure at meeting an audience of such proportions in his home town, which showed that Victorians stood with the rest of the province in the determination that Sept. 14 shall see the end of the Bowser government.

The leader went over the Vancouver election matter again, as the premier seemed to depend so much upon the distorted and untruthful story of the evidence which is being given by all the government speakers. In this connection he referred to the fact that at a Bowser meeting in Vancouver R. R. Gosden was one of the speakers, and to the report which appeared in the Bowser organs that some Liberals had offered him $1,000 to leave the city before the trial. Said the leader:

"What he said was that Brewster offered him $1,000 to leave. When he made that statement he made the very best statement he could have made in the interests of M. A. Macdonald. There is no man in this province who would believe for one second that I would offer Gosden a thousand dollars to leave the city or to stay in it or for his whole being at any time. (Prolonged cheers.) When he will prevail upon me about that he will prevail upon me about the trial. I think Mr. Bowser's department is again remiss in its duty. Gosden ought to be examined and put where I think he ought to be, in confinement in a hospital for the mentally affected."

Mr. Brewster repeated his declarations that the Liberal party will not stop the inquiry into the Vancouver election irregularities until the men higher up, no matter what their politics, are behind the bars. This was received with cheers and cries of "that is right," "Brewster," and "You'll get him yet." Concluding, Mr. Brewster said:

"We will hereafter look upon Sept. 14 as a day of emancipation. We are going to emancipate the slaves of the patronage system. We are going to emancipate the women of our land and give them the suffrage to which they are justly entitled. We are going to emancipate our province from the Bowserian that has given us political debauchery. We are going to have a government that will make the railways live up to their obligations and their contract or that will take the lines away from them and protect the interests of the people. We are going to place in power a government that will clean up conditions in this province." (Prolonged cheers.)

The gathering broke up after singing the National Anthem and giving hearty cheers for the leader and his colleagues on the ticket.

Mr. H. Dewart, who broke the Tory tradition of Toronto and got almost elected to the legislature after the city had been represented for 23 years by Conservatives, is one of Ontario's best-known legal men. Mr. Dewart was born at St. Johns, Quebec, in 1861, but educated at the University of Toronto and at Osgoode hall. In addition to his extensive legal practice, he has been prominent in politics, is a governor of the University of Toronto and a well-known writer and lecturer. The new member of South-west Toronto often disagrees with his party on vital questions, but in the main is a member of the old school of Liberalism.—Montreal Journal of Commerce.

THERE'S A DIFFERENCE

between the Zam-Buk method of healing and that of ordinary ointments. That is why Zam-Buk cures when other ointments fail, and why Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

Mr. A. Josey, of Spry Harbor, N.S., writes: "For three years I suffered with eczema on my hands. The burning and irritation were so intense that I could not sleep at nights. I tried numerous remedies, but nothing gave me relief until I used Zam-Buk. This herbal balm, however, soon ended the burning and irritation, and before long my hands were completely cured. I shall never be without Zam-Buk again—it is certainly a wonderful ointment." EXTENDING SERVICE

OF SOOKE WATERWORKS

Matter Will Be Discussed in Committee of Council To-morrow

The report which is to be brought down to streets committee of council to-morrow afternoon on the extension of the Sooke water service to Metchoh and Albert Head, while new to the council members because there has been no formal statement on the matter hitherto, was discussed in the absolute necessity of increasing the number of consumers outside the city in order to relieve the burden to city ratepayers of the waterworks fixed charges for an expensive service like Sooke waterworks, has induced the commissioner to examine the territory west of the area already in control of the Esquimalt Waterworks Company.

The field for expansion is limited. Already the city has arrangements with Saanich and Oak Bay for sale in bulk, and also with Sooke harbor for a private system, therefore the only district which is suitable to service physically not already in the hands of the Esquimalt Water Company, is the area lying along the Happy Valley road to William Head, and the adjacent sections. That is the portion with which the city is treating with the federal department of public-works, which offers a substantial subsidy for a trunk main to the quarantine station.

The city would not only accomplish a good stroke of business in securing the business while the subsidy is payable, but would greatly improve the crop production in the Metchoh section, from which the market draws some of its best produce. Thus in both ways the city stands to benefit by extending the facilities of irrigation to that portion of the island. Probably it would be necessary to place the individual consumers on a personal basis, in order to collect the water rates, because unless a water district is created, or a company established, such as exists at Sooke harbor, the city has no means of collecting on a community basis.

The terms under which the city would take a main to William Head through Metchoh have been the subject of negotiation with the department and are to be reported upon to-morrow.

The Davie street owners are expected to lodge the amended petition for improvement of the street at this meeting.

A further report on the details of the proposed sewer work is expected from the committee appointed to consider the assistant city engineers report on the best method of spending the remaining balance of the loan.

The city solicitor is taking the opinion of the aldermen on the latest development with regard to the levy on owners affected by the Denman street expropriation, another writ having been served.

FOR THE BLUE CROSS.

Quite the largest function of the Christmas season will be the fair to be held on November 29 and 30 in the Royal Albert Hall, London, in aid of the Blue Cross fund.

In view of the great help which Canada has given to this fund a stall is to be prepared representing Canada, and a special request has been sent from headquarters for contributions from this Dominion.

Articles of a suitable nature, such as can be most easily and cheaply expressed will be gratefully accepted, and should be sent to the local office of the Local Branch, Belmont Block, or to 58 Victoria street, London.

It is important to remember that the Blue Cross sphere of operations extends over the whole of the allied latitudes.

Rev. P. R. Frothingham Preaches on "Simplicity That is in Christ."

Unitarians listened to an exceptionally fine sermon this week by Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, of Boston, Mass., whose text was: "I fear lest by any means your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ" (2 Cor. xii 3).

The apostle had justification for this fear, said the visiting clergyman, and ceaselessly throughout the centuries, the one thing that had been lost sight of most industriously had been the simplicity that was in Christ. Never had metaphysics been so active nor mystification gone so far as in regard to the being and nature of Jesus of Nazareth. Amid the subtleties and refinements and controversial elaborations of philosophical definitions the person of the simple Nazarene had been completely lost sight of. Even the beautiful and stately Apostle's creed was absolutely silent in respect to all that happened between Christ's birth and death. It had nothing to say in regard to His life or teachings or example.

Strangely enough, said Mr. Frothingham, it was the Apostle Paul himself who led the march away from simplicity to mystification. The dazzling religious significance of the risen Messiah, empowered to rule as the head of humanity, caused the form of the Master among His followers to be cast into the shade. His spiritual existence in heaven which was strongly emphasized, caused His actual life on earth to become neglected. There had been a steady tendency in recent times, however, to throw aside this corruption and emphasize the "simplicity that was in Christ."

The simplicity of Jesus' moral teachings, he recalled, was the preacher. He did not lay it down for His disciples that this or that must be believed, either concerning Himself or concerning God, to whom he looked as His Father. He established no creed. He did not insist on any articles of faith. He simply asked: "If ye love Me, keep My commandments. And this is My commandment—that ye love one another. In this it shall be known that ye are My disciples." The wholly natural and supremely unconscious way in which Christ lived among all classes of His fellowmen was pointed out. His singleness of purpose, the companionship equally of the rich and poor, the proud and humble, the sinful and the pure; the guest of the haughty Pharisee and the hated Publican alike. He recognized no distinctions of the socially great and small, and to the end simply bore witness unto the truth.

OVER-FORTY YEARS OF

FAITHFUL SERVICE

Remarkable Record of W. H. Huxtable in Employment of School Board

Recognizing an experience of unparalleled length in the record of janitorial service for the schools of British Columbia, the school board last evening decided on certain arrangements that will enable W. H. Huxtable to spend the evening of his years without being responsible for direct supervision of this work. He ranks on the board pay roll as an engineer, and in alluding to his devoted record Chairman George Jay made some interesting remarks on the remarkable association with the city schools.

Mr. Jay mentioned that when he was a pupil at what is now the Central school in 1873, Mr. Huxtable was already attached to the staff. In the year previously the school had been started in pursuance of an act of the legislature shortly after confederation, and so Mr. Huxtable's connection may be said to go back to the earliest days of public school education in Victoria.

The old brick school, as it now is, was not built till 1876, a log building being in use at first, while the girls were educated at an institution on Bastion street. The chairman paid tribute to the wonderful years of service which the veteran has given the board, while successive buildings have been added on the seven and a half acres given to the city in trust for school purposes.

In addition to his long association in connection with the schools, Mr. Huxtable is one of the few surviving first men of Victoria's pioneer days, whose diminished ranks are now being rapidly depleted.

Over 43 years of service for the successive education authorities which have existed in Victoria is a record which the board felt last evening well merited recognition. It is doubtful if there is any other department of public service which can show an equal to it.

FRENCH BATTLED IN OPEN FIELD AGAIN

Facts Brought to Fore by Strides North of the Somme

Paris, Sept. 14.—For the first time in two years there took place yesterday in the western front a battle in the open field where tactics and manoeuvres of troops, rather than assaults on trenches, won an advance.

In Three Parts. Yesterday's encounter was in three parts, and was fought by troops battling ferociously for their homes— for the French soldiers engaged were those of the invaded districts.

That was the first part of the battle, and it was followed by the fight in the open. As soon as the trenches had been carried the French guns were lifted and the 75's raised a barrier east of the Peronne-Bapaume road, preventing the Germans from bringing up reinforcements.

The third part was an advance of the centre and right wings. It began with the extreme right, which debouched from Clay and took Hill 70, in front of Penillancourt, which is on the bank of the Somme and less than a mile from Mont St. Quentin.

GERMAN WITHDRAWAL IS NOT FAR DISTANT

Significance of Great French Gains North of the Somme

Paris, Sept. 14.—By Tuesday's and Wednesday's victories north of the Somme the French army has achieved what the Germans asserted was impossible. It has driven a wedge right through the original German front and has definitely "broken the line" of hoisted impregnable strength stretching across France from beyond the northwestern frontier to the limits of Switzerland.

ZAIMIS WOULD NOT CONSENT TO REMAIN

All Efforts to Persuade Him to Continue in Power Failed

Athens, Sept. 12, via London, Sept. 14.—Every effort to persuade Alexander Zaimis, the aged premier, to remain in office was fruitless. His pride was wounded by the appearance of the entente fleet off Patras at the very moment when negotiations had been begun for the entry of Greece into the war.

HEAVY FIGHTING NEAR SOMME, BERLIN SAYS

Berlin, Sept. 14.—The following official statement was issued to-day: "On the Somme front the artillery firing on both sides increased until it reached the greatest violence. Repeated strong attacks by enemy troops between Ghinchy and the Somme and at several points south of the river were repulsed. In counter-attacks ground was gained at places. Prisoners were taken and booty was captured."

VON HINDENBURG CURBS BUSY KAISER WILHELM

Rome, Sept. 14.—The Agenzia Libera prints a story stating that Field Marshal von Hindenburg, chief of the German general staff, has curbed Kaiser Wilhelm's habit of issuing military orders by advising him to confine his activities to visiting the wounded and delivering speeches.

PUBLIC NOTICE

TO THE ELECTORS—

It is estimated that the Voters' List for the city is so padded that 40 per cent of the names on it are those of persons who have died or left the district. You will see what an opening this gives for perorators. The scrutineers on behalf of the Liberal party propose to swear every person who applies for a vote in the name of any man who is reported to be an absentee. Perhaps a good many bona fide voters who have changed their addresses will be sworn, but remember that by taking this course the scrutineers may stop a perorator from polling your vote before you get to the polls.

In most cases the information as to absentees will be certain enough to cause the immediate arrest of the perorator. Justices of the Peace will attend at the polling divisions on election day and those Justices will have forms of information and warrants of arrest so that prompt action may be had in case of necessity. The Association asks your cooperation in defeating the efforts of the perorator.

REWARD

The Victoria Liberal Association will pay One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) to any person giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of peroration at the coming election.

(Signed) A. B. FLASHER,
President Victoria Liberal Association.

ABANDON PRINCIPLE OF SEGREGATION

City School Board Will Abolish Separate School for Chinese

With the change of conditions in the education of the Chinese children in Victoria, due to the gradual withdrawal of children of this race from the public Oriental school to the Flagard street Chinese building, it has been decided by the city school board to close up Rock Bay school. Here the Chinese juniors are now educated. By transferring the pupils to other schools, at any rate so far as Orientals are concerned, segregation of Chinese would cease.

The decision affects a number of matters, which were touched on in the board meeting last evening, when the decision to abandon the public Chinese school was reached.

The letter which brought up the matter came in a complaint from J. Ivan Seabrook about the proposal to confine the Rock Bay school for Chinese, and expressing the hope that the board would re-consider such determination.

Chairman Jay observed that some time since he had made the suggestion to remove the Chinese children to other schools, and either unite or abolish one of the schools now maintained at Rock Bay and Kings road. There was no object in maintaining a school with an attendance of 13 or 14, to which figure it had now dropped, he pointed out. This Chinese public school had been opened up when there was a considerable influx of Chinese some years ago, and it was not found feasible to place them in the ordinary schools. At that time there was no separate Chinese school, but since that time a school had been established, gradually withdrawing Chinese pupils from the public school. He thought other buildings could care for the small number mentioned, and then close up the school. "I do not think," he concluded, "that we are now justified in keeping up a separate school."

Trustee Hay said there still existed a prejudice against white children sitting beside Chinese.

Mrs. Jenkins pointed out that the board some years ago in deference to public opinion had established the principle of segregation, unless the children understood enough to be amenable to ordinary school discipline.

Inspector Paul stated that of 15 Chinese children enrolled at Rock Bay now, only five knew enough English to be intelligible.

The chairman referred to the failure of the mandamus proceedings before the late Mr. Justice Irving, when the court held that the above resolution was a regulation within the power of the board, and not a restriction. Since that time segregation of junior Chinese had been adopted, while senior pupils went to other graded schools.

Mr. Paul said the remarks of Mr. Seabrook about the children were not justified, as the Chinese children were most cleanly and well kept, in fact the school health officer said he never had any trouble at the Chinese school, and the nurse echoed that sentiment.

The motion to abolish the school, so far as Chinese children is concerned, and remove them to other schools, was then agreed to.

INDIGESTION DYSPEPSIA GASTRITIS STOMACH ULCERS

Why Magnesia Should Be Taken After Every Meal.

A flushed face may be the first noticeable symptom of indigestion, but disregard this warning and soon there is unmistakable pain for indigestion is a progressive ailment. At first the symptoms may be relieved by pepsin, bismuth or some such thing, but do not overcome the excessive acid in the stomach which is usually the underlying cause of the trouble, and consequently the acid accumulates and the occasional attack of indigestion becomes chronic dyspepsia. The dyspepsia is always particularly liable to gastritis and gastric ulcers in the stomach are only too often the forerunners of peritonitis, stomach cancers and death.

For this reason physicians place much importance upon keeping the stomach free from harmful acid and are continuously advising chronic dyspepsics as well as those who only suffer occasional attacks of indigestion to keep a little pure saturated magnesia handy, and to take a teaspoonful in a little water after every meal. Practically any druggist can supply you with bottled magnesia and all stomach sufferers are advised to get an ounce or so and give it a trial. Care should be taken to always keep it in its original form as the medicinal form as other magnesia preparations while valuable as laxatives and mouth washes are not recommended for the correction of stomach acidity.

NIGHT SCHOOLS TO OPEN OCTOBER 2

Numerous Matters Are Brought Before Trustees Last Evening

Making arrangements for opening the city night schools in October, Inspector Paul asked for a committee to approve a suggested syllabus and appoint the staff, at the city school board last evening.

Trustee Mrs. Jenkins urged an early start, and pointed out it would be of greater value than late beginnings of past seasons.

It was suggested that no classes should be commenced with less than ten in average attendance.

Trustees Deaville and Hay strongly supported the idea of the evening schools being made self sustaining.

Mrs. Jenkins said the school ought to open by October 2.

It was then decided to have the syllabus drawn up by the time of a special meeting later this month, when the trustees will deal with the question of overcrowding in schools.

In connection with the night school curriculum William Pickering wrote suggesting the opening of a class in model boat building. The matter was referred to the municipal inspector for attention in drawing up the curriculum.

Inspector Paul observed that the board might well consider the advantage of educating the soldiers and freshening up their French. He promised to take the matter with O. C.'s of various units up.

This question, he said, had been drawn to his attention in correspondence with soldiers now in France who received rudimentary instruction in French in their school days here.

Further details in connection with the special school for the blind at Vancouver, to which the Victoria board is a contributor, were approved.

Leave of absence, on the usual terms, was granted Phillip H. Hughes, late first assistant at Victoria West school, who has joined for overseas service.

Principal McNeill drew attention to the overcrowding of the classes at the Quadra street school. In commenting on the matter, Inspector Paul stated that the Sir James Douglas school was particularly overcrowded, and in the same connection, he mentioned the Girls' Central. In his opinion the former might be relieved by sending pupils to Margaret Jenkins school, and the latter by transferring pupils to George Jay school. So far as Quadra street was concerned some alterations were desirable.

Trustee Deaville believed that something would have to be done, as the pupils had not all seating accommodation.

Trustee Hay thought Quadra school could be relieved by transferring pupils to North Ward and George Jay schools.

Trustee Short said the returns did not show an excessive average in Quadra school as compared with other schools.

Trustee Deaville said the average of pupils per teacher had increased since the report was made. The number was now too large per division.

The general problem of accommodation was referred to the municipal inspector, with the understanding that he would report on the whole question of accommodation to a special meeting to be held later in the month.

The board received a deputation from the Natural History Society, composed of Rev. Robert Connell and A. R. Sherwood, asking for accommodation in one of the schools for the lectures of the society in the coming season. The deputation pointed out that war conditions had removed many of the most active members (and the expenses of the society forced some change to be made. They asked for use of portion of the Girls' Central school on alternate Monday evening in the winter. In support of the idea it was urged that many teachers attend the society's lectures, that the gatherings are open to the public gratis, and that the addresses are of an educational character.

The subject was referred to the building and grounds committee, and the municipal inspector for action.

On the recommendation of the chairman of the building and grounds committee (Trustee Deaville), he secured the passage of a resolution to obtain a report on the removal of the annexes on the Central school grounds, and to transfer the classes to the old Boys' Central school, which is not now in use.

It was decided to advertise for a new teacher in the High school, to teach English and mathematics. Inspector Paul asked for additional teachers in the George Jay and Margaret Jenkins schools (one each) and Victoria West (two).

Owing to the school term having opened, and a number of applicants having received opportunities, some discussion took place before the ballot for women teachers was spread. On the first ballot Misses Victoria Walker, Edith Edwards and Florence McNeill were elected to three vacant positions in the graded, or primary schools.

Two ex-soldiers, both of whom have been engaged in the present war, were recommended to the board by the inspector for selection of a physical instructor at the High school for the boys' department. The secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous ballot for Sergt.-Major Hutchinson, in place of the instructor who has gone on active service.

General Panyotis Danglis, ex-minister of war for Greece and chief of the general staff during the first Balkan war, has been "fired" by King Constantine from his position as aide-de-camp. Danglis was minister of war in the Venizelos cabinet of a year ago, and only recently was elected president of a league formed by the adherents of Ex-Premier Venizelos to counteract the influence of the Greeks who favored the connection with the Germans. Evidently the King is determined that Greece shall not go to war on the side of the allies. Danglis, who is an able soldier, is generally credited with being one of the inventors of the famous French three-inch gun, the "seventy-five" millimetre which has been doing such havoc in the present war.
