

Anti-Slavery Office,
New York, 24 June, 1862.

77
Dear Garrison,

I did not reach home till last evening, having spent the Sunday at Longwood. I have put the account of our interview with the President in the shape of a letter, of which I send you a copy, which you may use as original if it pleases you. Between you and me, I made ^{telegraphing} the report for the Tribune; but I did it in a great hurry, and so did not make it complete in every particular.

If you have the dispatch in type, it will be easy for you to correct it by my letter herewith enclosed.

I am overwhelmed with work, of course, and have not time to write anything about my journey. I will only say, that the whole deputation were united in the conviction that the action of the Yearly Meeting was wise, ^{and} that the ~~Memorial~~ ^{Memorial} ~~and~~ ~~was~~ ~~worth~~ was worthy of its object; Our friends in Washington were cheered and encouraged thereby.

I am hoping to be able to be at the Framingham meeting, but am not sure that I can go.

Mr. Leonard, not feeling at liberty to open your letter to me, paid your nephew $25 for ~~his~~ ^{Mr. Benson,} ~~mother~~, agreeing to take your check after my return. I hope it is all right.

In great haste,

Yours, truly,

O. Johnson.

Co. J. - 11. Y. - June 24, 1862.