CITIZENS ORGANIZE TO FIGHT ANNEXATION TO LOS ANGELES

OLD-TIME BALL BY BUSINESS WOMEN UNIQUE AFFAIR

Costumes of Long Ago Win Much Comment; Soda Pop Refreshment 'Kick'

"Everybody promenaded!" All to the measured tune of first and second fiddler and piano, started things off last night at the old time dance given in the Chamber of Commerce hall by members of the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club.

Costumes all the way from the early part of the nineteenth century down to the present were worn by the guests to express the "old-fashioned" spirit of the evening.

Early arrivals at the hall were members of the reception committee and the orchestra, the former to "get things ready" for the evening's entertainment, while the two fiddlers and piano player spent the first half hour "tuning up."

Greeting the guests at the door were Mrs. Elsie Williams, Mrs. Alice Walton and Mrs. B. L. Warner. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Walton were strikingly gowned in the height of fashion of 1903.

Mrs. Williams wore a dress of black net trimmed with jet, over American beauty messaline. Her hair was dressed high. A finishing touch were the three bright rose buds worn in her hair.

Mrs. Walton's dress was a clever creation of black voile trimmed with narrow bands of black taffeta and touches of turquoise blue. The skirt was of the fashionable length and fullness of the style of 1900 or so, while the waist with its yoke fashioned from interlacing strips of the taffeta was equally as antique. She wore a small black straw bonnet topped off with a bobbing blue ostrich plume.

As for the orchestra, it was composed of Miss Pansy Corp. (Continued on Page 10)

H. P. MIDCALF TO BE MARRIED SOON

Glendale Man Will Wed Miss Helen B. Butler of Los Angeles

A prettily appointed luncheon Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Heister, 310 West Fifty-fifth street, Los Angeles, announced the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Helen B. Butler of Los Angeles, and H. P. Midcalf of Glendale.

Guests invited to the Heister home were invited for an informal Sunday evening gathering. Upon their arrival they found the rooms of the Heister home included in a spider web of string. At the door each guest was given an end of string leading into the web and upon following the strings to the end one found a tiny cupid card bearing the announcement.

Miss Butler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Butler of 120 West Thirtieth street, Los Angeles. For three years she has been connected with the office of E. D. Briggs, traffic manager of the Celite Products company.

Here fifteen years ago, Mr. Midcalf was well known in Glendale, where he has lived for fifteen years. He is employed by the Southern California Telephone company of Los Angeles. During the war he served overseas with the Rainbow Division. His Glendale home is 214 East Garfield street.

The date of the wedding was not announced, but it will probably take place shortly after the holidays. Guests invited to the announcement affair were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Redd, Miss Alice Finn, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Midcalf, Mrs. N. B. Spahr, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Haskell, Miss Norma G. Haskell, Harlan G. Haskell, Owen B. Miles.

Harry Gill Takes Chickens to Show

Naturalists would undoubtedly have been baffled last night had they happened to witness chickens holding up a lone lark in south Glendale.

But there wasn't really anything so very phenomenal about the incident for the chickens were prize barrows Plymouth Rocks en route to the Oakland poultry show with their owner, Harry Gill of 1316 South Glendale avenue and the lone lark was the roaring train that picked them up at the Tropic station and carried them north.

Mr. Gill and his chickens journey north every year to the Oakland show and they never fail to bring home ribbons as proof of high recognition.

'Grid' Teams Getting Ready for Big Bout

The second game in the approach to the lightweight football championship of Southern California will be played this week between teams from Huntington Park High school and Glendale Union High school.

This morning the exact day of the game had not been fixed, according to Coach Normal C. Hayward, who is looking for the local team to bring them another victory.

Simultaneously, a gridiron contest will be fought between Pasadena and Whittier High schools. The winner of each game will play each other and the school winning the championship of Southern California will then play Bakersfield for the championship of Central California.

School Pupils Give $75 for Xmas Fund

More than $75 was raised during the roll call period yesterday at Glendale Union High school for the Glendale Welfare Council. It will be spent to bring Thanksgiving cheer to the needy.

The Girls' League at the high school is planning its Christmas philanthropy already, according to Mrs. Ethel Moyses, vice-principal for girls. Last year the girls brought good cheer to a number of homes in Los Angeles after they had tried in vain to secure the names of needy children in Glendale.

Union Service to Be Held Thursday Central Christian

The annual Union Thanksgiving Service of the churches of Glendale will be held Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, in the Central Christian church, 305 E. Colorado Street.

Rev. Lewis Tinning, president of the Ministerial Association, will preside and Rev. James F. Winnard, of the Tropic Presbyterian church, will deliver the sermon.

The Federated Brotherhood of Glendale will take part in the services and some special features they are planning will add materially to the pleasure of the occasion. An offering will be collected for Near East relief.

A novelty will be that those attending will be seated according to states. In this way a reunion atmosphere will be created that is expected to bring together a good many old friends.

John Steven McGroarty Will Give Address; Elaborate Program Arranged

Everything is all arranged for the Chamber of Commerce's big forum dinner and meeting which will be held tonight in the chamber's assembly room, according to an announcement made this morning by James Rhoades, secretary of the chamber.

Guesses Exactly on Total Pumpkin Seeds

There are three skeptical people living in Glendale who didn't believe the prize pumpkin in Pen-droy's window was seedless, but they weren't as wise as Mrs. L. H. Knight of 518 Palm drive, who guessed 687 seeds in the pumpkin, for when the big melon was opened this morning and a count taken there were exactly 687 seeds.

As a result Mrs. Knight is the recipient of a $30 real imported Irish linen table cloth and napkins.

There wasn't any second prize offered, but two second mentions are made. Anna L. Brandt of 137 South Adams street, guessed 685 seeds; and Nellie Hemphill took a chance on 689.

DISLOCATED HIP Mrs. M. C. Camargo of 327 East Maple street was taken to the Glendale Research Hospital late yesterday afternoon with a dislocated hip.

HAS TONSILS REMOVED Miss Ada Ingram of 359 West Harvard street had her tonsils removed this morning at the Glendale Research Hospital.

CAMPAGN AGAINST BOGUS CHECKS IS BEING URGED

Credit Association Hears of Plan to Prevent Easy Swindling

Bad check artists who have paid Glendale and surrounding communities visits in the recent past will undoubtedly omit this vicinity as a "port of call" if a resolution adopted by the Glendale Credit association is favorably acted upon.

The resolution in question, which was read yesterday at the credit men's luncheon, was submitted by A. V. Storer, manager of the Pomona Valley Merchants' association. It suggests that the credit association of Glendale draft the following amendment to section 476-A of the Penal code, statutes of California.

"As against the maker or drawer thereof, the making, drawing, uttering or delivering of a check, draft or order, payment of which is refused by drawee, shall be prima facie evidence of intent to defraud and knowledge of insufficient funds in, or credit with, such bank or other depository."

Dangerous Game "The addition of the foregoing to the statute laws of California will make the bad check 'game' so dangerous that those playing it will seek more unexplored fields," Frank H. Pilling, secretary of the credit men's association stated.

Mr. Pilling was subsequently instructed by a vote of the members to make an investigation relative to having the amendment made a part of the state law.

According to the Pomona communication, the bill as compiled has proven very effective in Massachusetts, Ohio and Washington. The "prima facie" bad check laws have been in operation in Ohio since 1918.

Other business transacted by the credit men included the introduction of two new members, and a discussion of the efficiency of a private police night patrol. The latter matter was left for a committee of three to decide.

The new members were Harry A. James and Alice Frank James, operators of the Nordskog Record Shoppe, phonograph dealers, 211-213 East Broadway. Mr. James later made a brief speech in behalf of the Red Cross drive. Covers were laid at the luncheon for fifty members.

Community Service Finances Discussed How Glendale will financially support its Community Service program for a year was the discussed question last night at the executive meeting at the high school. The result of the discussion was in favor of a community chest in which all local organizations will participate in raising funds.

Such a plan was endorsed by the gathering directed by V. M. Hollister, chairman of the local Community Service organization.

Another feature of the meeting was the report on the community Christmas activity by Mrs. W. Q. Widows. According to Mrs. Widows it is the plan of the music committee to have tableaux of the carols presented at the community Christmas tree celebration. She reported that Harry Girard has already consented to direct one of the tableaux.

The action taken at the meeting was the authorization of the ways and means committee to underwrite the local Community Service for $1,500 to provide funds for expense of operation until a drive or community chest is held shortly after the new year.

Other events of the meeting was the reading of constitution and by-laws by Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the organization committee. They were adopted.

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, chairman of the educational committee, gave a report of her investigations of Community Service possibilities.

L. T. Rowley announced that the City Council has agreed to fight the high school courts and the high school board had given permission for the use for adult recreation during the winter.

Thanks were expressed to Roberts & Echols for the use of their building at 108 South Brand boulevard; to the Newton Electric company for furnishing a stove; to Mr. Shumacher for the use of a typewriter; and to Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Croft, recent arrivals in Glendale, who have volunteered to do the stenographic and clerical work.

R. D. White, chairman of the program committee was in charge of the executive session held later in the evening. It was decided to request the national organization that Alexander Stuart, Pacific coast music organizer, be sent to Glendale from December 5 to 11 to prepare for the Christmas program and conduct a big community sing December 11.

MINOR OPERATION A minor operation was performed upon Mrs. H. E. Cox of 615 East Lomita avenue last night at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

MAJOR OPERATION A major operation was performed upon Mrs. W. D. Hamilton of 131 North Belmont street last night at the Glendale Research Hospital.

C. B. GUTHRIE IN OPEN LETTER TO V. M. HOLLISTER

Realtor Writes to Head of C. of C. Upon Subject of Annexation

Charles B. Guthrie, realtor of Glendale, has addressed the following open letter to V. M. Hollister, president of the local Chamber of Commerce:

Dear Val:—The other day you said I was a nut and that you were never more surprised in your life than you were when you heard I was an annexationist.

About two thousand years ago a Greek bishop who became a martyr for his thoughts casually remarked as a conclusion after some change in his mind, "second thoughts are ever wiser."

Then after he was put to death and had mouldered and mouldered for a couple of thousand years, a long-haired gentleman from East Aurora, N. Y., came forward to the edge of the platform and among several hundred other trite sayings, proclaimed, "People who are not up on a thing are generally down on it."

Then the Atlantic swallowed him and his commonplaces became wisdom. All the dead Greeks and the drowned Hubards put together, however, could not inject into any sentence so much common sense befitting their own times as our friend Gertrude Raymond did when she penned the couplet that so cleverly voices the sentiment that I want to express: "Be open-minded enough to give any idea the 'once over.' If you are right it won't hurt you, if you are wrong you want to know it."

The inclination on the part of people generally is to enforce an opinion rather than to absorb one. I am much older than I was such a short time ago and charity of thought seems to graduation in Ohio since 1918.

Other business transacted by the credit men included the introduction of two new members, and a discussion of the efficiency of a private police night patrol. The latter matter was left for a committee of three to decide.

Head of Los Angeles City Council Admits Promises to Glendale for Annexation Not Worth Anything, Says Col. Everington

Colonel James W. Everington, in speaking at the anti-annexation meeting at the Glendale Union High school last night, exploded a bombshell in the ranks of the annexation forces when he declared:

"I happened to be present at the Los Angeles City Council meeting when the annexation committee received the document containing the council's promises to Glendale in case this city voted to annex to Los Angeles. Understand, I just happened to be present on other business—I was not there to spy upon the annexation forces. As I personally know Ralph Criswell, head of the Los Angeles City Council, I asked him what the so-called promises amounted to. He very frankly informed me, 'THEY ARE NOT WORTH THE PAPER THEY ARE WRITTEN ON.'"

Owen C. Emery, Chairman of Organization; Plan to Launch Campaign

The Glendale Home Protective League, with a slogan of "Anti-annexation," was organized at a public meeting held in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school last night. The organization already has elected 240 members. All opposed to annexation to Los Angeles are eligible to membership. Officers are:

Owen C. Emery, chairman. Dr. Jessie Russell, Mattison B. Jones and Judge F. H. Lowe, vice presidents.

C. D. Gulick, secretary. Harry James, treasurer. Executive Committee

The meeting also authorized the appointment of a finance committee of five and a publicity committee of five by the chairman. The officers and the chairman of each committee will form the executive committee, to which will be added seven citizens representing all sections of the city. The committeemen will be announced in a day or two, stated Chairman Emery.

The immediate purpose of the organization, it was decided upon last night, is to oppose the present campaign for annexation to Los Angeles. That done, the organization will remain in existence for the purpose of acting with similar bodies in Los Angeles county in the keeping of up to date facts and figures to be used in combating any annexation move in the future.

BASEBALL 'STARS' DUE FOR AN 'OUT'

Many Slated for 'Gate' When Major League Interests Meet December 5

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service
NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The pitiful, though interesting business of buying, selling, trading and otherwise dealing in the human chattels of professional baseball will be transacted right merrily when the annual meeting of the minor leagues is held in Louisville, Ky., December 5. Every major league manager, owner and scout will be on the ground early and often, and quite a few prominent young professional men are due to go on a long, long journey. There is a man in the city, a worthy manager of the Yankees, for example. He is just in receipt of the good tidings that the Vernon club of the Pacific coast league will accept $75,000, and not a cent more, for Mr. Jake May, its left-handed property. The payment is to be represented by ball players on the hoof and the Yanks have plenty.

It is hinted that Al Devormer, the young man who won $25 and a horse laugh by diving into Lake Michigan fully clothed, on August 15, is ticketed for Vernon. Al, however, does not represent $75,000 any more than yellow fever represents good health. He must, of necessity, have plenty of company.

Speaker After Smith
It is believed that Tris Speaker will make another attempt to regain title to Elmer Smith, Yank outfielder, from whom he willingly parted just a year ago.

Then there is Zacharia Wheat, with whom the good Squire Ebbets has agreed to retire from the profession altogether unless the squire sends him hence. It is rumored that the Pittsburgh Pirates might do business for Zach.

If it were not for the fact that Harry Frazee has no more of the original Red Sox, the possibility of another New York-Boston trade would be considered imminent. Frazee will trade at the drop of the hat and will sell anything but the ball park, including the backs of the chairs. However, he can do no business with the Yanks unless the latter wish to buy their own discards.

They may make another attempt to get Eddie Collins from the White Sox before the end of the meeting. In the original draft of the proposition, Eddie was to be accompanied by Dick Kerr but the latter idea has fallen flat.

Twenty Fast Motor Cars Enter In Thanksgiving Day Classic

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—When Starter Fred J. Wagner drops the starting flag on the local speedway here Thursday afternoon for the closing speed classic of the 1922 racing season, twenty of the fastest motor cars in the world will flash past the grandstand to thunder through 250 miles of thrill for the greatest crowd that has ever witnessed an automobile race in the west.

Beneath the dense fumes of castor smoke will be proclaimed a new world's speedway champion who will have earned his title by the most daring drive that map has ever made over a like distance.

It's the fast company that this Turkey Day affair is catering to. Before the race will even start, each car with which the driver hopes to help split the $25,000 purse put up, will have to measure up to the standard of 105 miles an hour; even then the competition will call for a speed greater than any record ever set for 250 miles on any speedway.

The practice laps that have crowded the last few weeks full of interest for the followers of the sport have shown Jimmy Murphy, uncrowned speed king of the year, traveling at a speed of better than 125 miles an hour and a fifth of a second faster than the record set by Tommy Milton in practice; and practically every other driver entered has come close enough to those marks to make the competition the keenest in the sport.

New Drivers to Appear
Several new drivers, noted for their reckless and daring tactics in other parts of the country, will make their initial debut before the record-breaking crowd at the coming speedfest. Included in these are Earl Cooper, who is making his first appearance at the wheel of a racing car on the local track, and Cliff Durant, at the head of the five-car Durant racing team. Other new faces to be seen are those of Arthur Hillis, dirt track champion sent here by Louis Chevrolet to pilot the fast little Frontenac; Louis Hanson, Jr., of San Francisco, with his own DeLage Duesenberg special; Leon Dury, French pilot, noted for his driving ability; Herschel McKee, aviation and speed bug who has been riding with Frank Elliott, also entered with his Leach special; Bobby Dunn, a Chicago speed fiend with a DeLage special, and Wade Morton, Indianapolis pilot who has shown remarkably fast time in the trials with one of the new Duesenberg straight-eights entered by the factory.

The spirited rivalry between the Durant and Duesenberg clans will find a climax with the start of this 'Tray, and it will truly be a battle between the east and the west, with the odds, the cars that have shown the fastest practice laps ever known on the speedway, vastly in favor of the west. Nine of the cars entered are powered with the famous straight-eight cylinder motors that have won fame on practically every race course in the country this year for Harry Miller, veteran automotive engineer of Los Angeles. These cars are the five Durant specials, Bennett Hill's little MacDonal special, with which the recent Cotati and Fresno race meets were won; Tommy Milton's Leach special, credited with 125 miles an hour on the Beverly bowl; Frank Elliott's Leach special, with which he won the Cotati meet hands down August 6; the mount of the boy cyclone, Harry Hartz, entered as a Hartz special. A tenth car, that of Al Melcher, is running with an eight cylinder motor rebuilt in the Miller shops. The five Durant specials, and the MacDonal special, were all built complete, in Los Angeles.

For the first time in the history of the local speedway, a trophy is being awarded the winner in addition to the first money he will receive for winning the race. The donor is E. G. Lewis, head of the Palos Verdes estates and well-known enthusiast over motor racing, aviation and polo, and the cup will be awarded on the track immediately after the winner's last lap.

The starter's flag will be dropped at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon to close the 1922 racing season.

W. Johnston Winner Men's Tennis Rank

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—For the seventh time in his career, William M. Johnston tops the men's ranks in tennis in the annual rankings announced today by the California Lawn Tennis association. Helen Wills, of course, leads the net women. It is the first time for this 17-year-old sensation to be so ranked. Howard and Robert Kinsey again top the men's doubles and Anna and Lucy McCune of Pacific Grove replace Helen Wills and Helen Baker as the leading women's team. Ed Chandler tops the junior singles and Carolyn Swartz the girls' junior singles.

John Black, Golfer, Staging Come-Back

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—With only one good arm working, John Black, veteran Claremont golfer whose work at the Skokie national championship last year caused a sensation, is staging a come-back after the automobile accident that nearly cost his life. One arm enabled him to turn in a 79, but two strokes behind the tied leaders of the day in the bay counties championship match at Lakeside.

Little 'Big Game' at Berkeley Thursday

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—The little "big game" of the bay region in which Santa Clara and St. Mary's will meet for the first time in several years is expected to pack California field at Berkeley Thursday. Intense rivalry between the two institutions has raised interest to a fever pitch.

The World Over
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Morse and more municipalities are coming to recognize the fact that facilities for affording the public the ways and means of indulging in golf is an asset to the community. From Portland, Oregon, comes the word that the city fathers are making arrangements for the addition of two municipal golf links. Nowadays, the man or woman who seeks diversion for a week-end, takes the pains of ascertaining whether or not there is a good course at the place selected for the visit. The resort without a links is in hard luck.

With the increasing number of courses all over the country, quite a number of golfers have started an interesting form of a "diary," the pages of which are arranged so as to give a description of each links played over, the number of holes, distances, and the performance made over the course during the round. In this way a number of golfers already have books in which there are details of quite a collection of courses in various sections of the country, which forms quite a valuable reference book. Sooner or later, some publisher probably will devise a regular book of this sort, devoting a sheet to each links, to be filled out by the owner.

The long run for a touchdown in football no longer is considered a rare occurrence, not with the number that have been per-

One often is asked the question what line of business or profession or trade this or that boxer followed prior to making a name for himself in the squared circle. As a general rule the members of the swat brigade give up their line of trade or business, if they make a success in the ring. There is considerable more money in keeping himself fit and meeting boxers before large crowds—if the boxer is popular and a good one—than there is being a bank clerk, a cowboy, a farmer, a brick-layer or what not.

The institutions of learning at which varsity crews supported can approximately be counted on the fingers, plus a few more, but the increasing popularity of this sport wherever the facilities permit of it is shown by the large squads that are turning out to make the various boats. Squads of a hundred or more men have been frequent, and when it is figured that from eight to twelve men only are used in the varsity squad, there are plenty of disappointments. However, as there are many secondary crews, including class eights and fours, quite a number of men eventually get something out of their hard training.

Pinky Mitchell, according to his manager, Mike Collins, has been elected junior welterweight (140 pounds) champion of the world. To be elected a champion instead of having to fight for it ought to make it easier for the boys and less damaging to their features.

Bob Fitzsimmons who relieved Corbett of the world title was a blacksmith by trade before he went into the ring game. Then along came Jim Jeffries who relieved Fitzsimmons of the title and here as far as trades were concerned it was a matter of Greek meeting Greek. Jeffries was also a smith though of a different kind to Bob. Fitz was a boilermaker and both these big men therefore had hardened themselves through their swingin' of sledge hammers and pounding anvils. Jack Johnson was the next heavy champion and here again was a man who had hardened himself by real manual labor. Johnston was a box was a bank clerk in San Francisco.

Jack Dempsey first started to earn his living as a miner's helper in Colorado. Harry Wills mentioned as the only remaining opponent for Dempsey first started in to earn his way in the world as a jockey but time soon put a stop to this and Wills became too heavy to straddle the ponies. Carl Norris was a locomotive engineer and Jack Root another of the larger men was originally a bartender.

MONTROSE PLANS C. OF G. BUILDING

Verdugo Hills Stage Company Granted Permit to Change Rates

Plans for the erection in Montrose of a Chamber of Commerce building has been left in the hands of a reorganized building committee, according to an announcement just made. Construction work is slated to begin just as soon as possible.

C. R. Poole, contractor and builder of Montrose, has made an offer to erect the proposed structure at cost. He offers also to donate 12 1/2 per cent of his wages.

The Chamber's building committee, it is understood, is prepared to accept this offer, although all of the bids received to date have not been examined. Tentative specifications drawn up specify that brick will be used in the building's construction.

A. J. Richardson, owner of the Verdugo Hills Transportation company, has been extended an order by the state railroad commission granting him the privilege of increasing and decreasing stage fares between Los Angeles and valley points for a period of ninety days. At the end of that period the matter will again be considered.

Rates under the new ruling are decreased between Los Angeles and Glendale and between Los Angeles and Verdugo Hill points as far west as La Crescenta. They are increased between Los Angeles and Tujunga and Sunland.

The increase in the rates to and from the latter points was made by the railroad commission because the largest volume of travel is done on those routes. It is estimated that the change will yield an increase in gross revenue amounting to $500 or $600.

Johnson to Defend His Title Tomorrow

Carl Johnson of Glendale will defend his title tomorrow night at Philharmonic auditorium against Frank Bowers of San Francisco in a middleweight wrestling match.

Johnson is well known to many of the Glendale business and professional men, who will be glad to have the pleasure of seeing him display his athletic ability in a championship affair.

Last week at Anaheim, Johnson defeated Caddock of Iowa in two straight falls, the first in four minutes and the second in two minutes.

Other matches billed on the program tomorrow night include Ad Santel vs. Varga, the European champion, and Belfae vs. Bob Hamilton. The latter are 115-pound boys.

N. Y. Bouts Devoid of 'Champ' Material

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Not a prospective champion was unearthed at Madison Square Garden last night as the result of Jimmy Johnson's "white hope" series of heavyweight bouts. The best showing was made by Pat McCarthy of Boston, who won easily in four rounds from Indian Joe Stanton of California.

Johnson's particular hope, Gypsy Daniels, failed to impress in gaining a four-round decision over Stewart Bell of Houston, Texas.

Perry McGovern, that name dreaded by all the little men of years ago was originally a newsboy. He had his scraps with the gangs in New York before he decided he could make more money scrapping before a paid audience. While the former world lightweight champion prior to going into the ring was an automobile mechanic and since his retirement from the ring with a well saved and invested capital from his fights has become one of the leading automobile tire and specialty merchants of San Francisco.

Perhaps the oddest trade a boxer has been known to adopt is that of an organ builder. This young man is Frankie Farren at one time a bright prospect for light honors, but never got anywhere. The present new middle weight champion Mickey Walter who relieved Britton of his title a few weeks ago has aspirations to be an architect and here again is a profession that few of the boxers are known to follow. Another boxer of professional intentions and who achieved considerable fame some years is Leach Cross. He is a full fledged dentist and is practicing in Los Angeles.

Jack Dempsey first started to earn his living as a miner's helper in Colorado. Harry Wills mentioned as the only remaining opponent for Dempsey first started in to earn his way in the world as a jockey but time soon put a stop to this and Wills became too heavy to straddle the ponies. Carl Norris was a locomotive engineer and Jack Root another of the larger men was originally a bartender.

The old favorite Joe Gans, one of the greatest of them all, when a youngster wanted to be a preacher, though he never reached that goal. Floyd Johnston who is now coming along in the east as a prospective heavyweight used to work in the ship yards and this has given him that natural strength which Fitzsimmons and Jeffries enjoyed from similar kind of work. The cowboy business is represented in Jess Willard and the late Luther McCarthy. And so we could go on. These few examples show the wide range of activity that boxers indulge in for their living.

Straight from the Shoulder

Says "Common Cent":

"This is the last of my little talks. So let me leave this final one thought in your mind. 'Nothing great was ever achieved without Enthusiasm.' When you work, work enthusiastically. When you play, play enthusiastically. When you save, save enthusiastically. Put your whole heart and soul into the game, and success will be yours."

How many times have you said to yourself: "I will start saving as soon as I get the chance. I cannot start now as I earn only enough to pay for what I need." Start right now. Take an inventory of yourself, your ambitions, your possibilities. Nine chances in ten you'll find some inconsequential little indulgence you can do without and not miss. Determine to put that small sum aside—no matter how trifling. And, once having decided, act. This very day start saving. Start with enthusiasm. You will find it easy. You will see your reserve "common cents" mount and mount. Then saving will become an interesting little game.

Drop in on us and talk the matter over. We will help you "make that inventory" if you wish. Start your account today, keeping it growing. The bright future beckons—begin walking up the path.

New Tracts Opened Up Near Van Nuys

Opening of two large subdivisions near Van Nuys has attracted large numbers of people to this vicinity. It is understood that several hundred homesites have already been sold.

The new plots opened were Ca-huenga Park, the 1100-acre tract on Ventura boulevard, and Broadmoor, a 200-acre tract located three miles north of Van Nuys.

The former was opened by Thomas Bunday and C. C. Albright, and the latter by Leo B. Lesperance.

Propose Increase in Drivers' Age Limit

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—If recommendations made at a meeting of traffic officers of Central California are carried out at a general state meeting to be held in Sacramento December 12, the state legislature will be asked to raise the age limit of persons operating automobiles from 16 to 18.

A closer registration of automobile numbers in issuing licenses will also be urged, the number of several parts being taken instead of just the motor as at present.

It doesn't pay to spend money just to show that you have it.

Walter Higgins Is Cross-Country Winner

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Walter Higgins, the Columbia harrier, yesterday afternoon captured the twenty-third annual intercollegiate cross-country race from a field of 287 competitors. Eighteen colleges were represented. The Blue and White runner led Bob Hendrie, the Massachusetts Tech crack, over the finish line by forty yards. Homer Smith of Syracuse was third. Higgins captured the sixth and a half miles in 32 minutes 21 1/2 seconds. The race was run under adverse weather conditions.

OFFERS HIS

BEMCO Oil Syndicate No. 1

To the Investing Public

1250 Units. At $100.00 each

Our Lease is located in the same city block in Bixby Heights as the much talked-of "HERWICK 7," on the Northwest Extension of the GREAT Signal Hill Oil Field.

BEMCO No. 1 is located 350 feet northwest of the "HERWICK 7." This location is undoubtedly one of the most promising that I have ever seen in the SIGNAL HILL Field, due to the fact that it is so close to the "HERWICK 7," which has gushed about several times in the last three weeks, and to such an extent that the oil has run down the middle of the street to American avenue, two blocks away.

In my opinion it will pay you to visit and thoroughly investigate this GREAT opportunity to make big money on a small investment.

The Capitalization of this Syndicate is one of the lowest ever offered to the California investors, to participate in 50% of all the oil produced from the BEMCO Syndicate No. 1 lease.

YOU know that when a man proves to YOU, in front of YOUR OWN eyes, the merits of this BIG opportunity and you do not invest YOU are not entitled to the profits; therefore we do not hesitate in stating that the EARLY investor will enjoy the BIG profits that you can figure with your own lead pencil in this big opportunity.

YOUR early investigation of this proposition will prove profitable to YOU, therefore I advise you investigate and place YOUR order early, either by mail, telephone, or come in and meet me personally.

Woman's Page

THE DIFFICULT AGE

There is a certain class of woman for whom I have a great sympathy. I refer to mothers of girls in the difficult age that starts at 15 or 16 years and lasts until the girl begins to suspect that maybe mother did know what she was talking about after all—a stage that is reached at different ages according to the individual.

I don't know whether this same estrangement of viewpoint comes between fathers and sons when the latter put on long trousers (do you remember when we used to speak of a girl going into long dresses—that phrase has fallen completely into disuse, but it looks as if we might have reason to pick it up again.) I have an idea it isn't so marked. It seems as if boys turned to their fathers more easily at that age, but perhaps the men folks would tell me different.

Almost Pitiful!
But daughters! Sometimes it is almost pitiful to see a mother trying to keep her daughter's confidence and companionship at that age. Recently I played tennis with such a mother and her 16-year-old daughter. They have always been unusually good chums, the daughter has admired and adored the mother who is a charming, more accomplished woman than the daughter bids fair to be. One would say that even the danger age would not make any trouble here. I had not seen them together for a year and I was astounded at the change in attitude. There was something almost deprecating in the mother's manner—the air one often sees in a wife who is a little uncertain of her husband's affection.

There was some uncertainty about a point in the play and we stopped a minute to discuss it. "Oh, come on," called the daughter in the rudest manner, "don't stand there talking. I want to play."

Book Reviews

Those who love to follow the intricate patchwork of plot that goes with the unraveling of a good mystery story are going to enjoy "No. 13, Tortoni," by Julius Regis.

The author has taken the greatest pains to construct a story that will lead the reader on and on, from mystery to clue to mystery again, until in the end he may mentally look back over an involved yet neatly patterned plot.

The story opens in Stockholm, and here a heterogeneous crowd of persons is skillfully marshaled to carry on the action. There is a crime, of course, at the very outset where all good story-crimes are stationed, and the trail of the guilty person leads finally to Alaska.

The clues are strange, uncanny, bewildering, and there are many dangerous moments and narrow escapes. Before the end is safely reached, the reader's spine has passed through some chilly moments.

Columbus proved that the earth was round, but many a wife has made her husband feel flat in it.

Add one egg well beaten, one tablespoon finely chopped parsley, two teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon pepper and four tablespoons melted butter. Parboil two cups of cleaned and washed oysters in boiling salted water three minutes; drain and add to bread mixture. Mix well and stuff it into the turkey.

CRANBERRY JELLY: Pick over and wash one quart of cranberries. Put in saucepan, add two cups sugar and one cup of boiling water, bring to the boiling point and let boil fifteen minutes. Rub through a sieve and turn into small moulds. Chill and remove from moulds.

PINEAPPLE SALAD: Place one slice of canned pineapple, drained and thoroughly chilled, on individual salad plates covered with lettuce leaves, fill the hole with well seasoned cream cheese, to which has been added chopped pecans or other nuts. Cover with Sunland Salad Dressing.
SUNLAND SALAD DRESSING: Beat two eggs until light; add one-third cup sugar, three tablespoons lemon juice and four tablespoons pineapple juice (from canned pineapple); cook in double boiler until thick and smooth. Cool, and when ready to use, add whipped cream to thin it.

PLUM PUDDING: Chop fine two slices of bread, one cup suet, one cup seeded raisins, one cup currants, one cup nuts and one orange. Mix and sift one-half cup flour, one teaspoon each soda cloves, cinnamon and all-spice, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, and add to first mixture together with one cup sugar, two eggs, well beaten, two tablespoons melted butter and three tablespoons sour milk. Mix thoroughly, turn into well-greased mould (or small moulds); place in pot with hot water to come within one-inch of top of mould. Large mould will require six hours of steaming; smaller moulds from two to three hours, according to size of mould.

LEMON SAUCE: Add three tablespoons cold water to one tablespoon corn starch; mix it well and pour into one cup boiling water. Boil three minutes, add one tablespoon lemon juice, four tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon caramel and one-eighth teaspoon salt.
SALTED PEANUTS: Cover two-thirds of a pound of shelled peanuts with boiling water; allow to stand for fifteen minutes. Place one-third of the amount in a strainer (allowing remainder to stay in water) and remove the skins. Prepare all the peanuts the same way. Place two tablespoons of oil in frying pan, when hot add the peanuts; stir constantly with a fork and cook over a moderate fire fifteen minutes. When brown remove the nuts, add another tablespoon oil and another third of the peanuts, continue until all the nuts are cooked. Add two teaspoons salt and mix thoroughly. Diet and Health By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

CANDY CONTROL

We have had birth control, birth control, birth control, and many other controls. Now don't you think it is about time for someone to agitate candy control? You do, so I shall start it. Mon chapeau est dans le cercle. I'll try candy's case. I expect it will revolutionize the practice of law.

Candy, you are on trial. Candy, you are charged with being a menace to Health. Mortal Man is the plaintiff. False Belief is your attorney. Mortal Mind, Anatomy, Hygiene, Physiology, Common Sense, Good Health are on the jury. Judge Medico Pete is on the bench. The evidence for the prosecution is called:

A witness testifies: "I am Health Laws. I have been abused many times through the prisoner. He hath displayed himself in seductive forms in the showcases and windows and thereby hath tempted Mortal Man beyond his power so that many times and oft hath he fractured me."

The next witness is called: "I am Nervous-Irritable-Mal-nourished-Child. Candy tempts me and I do eat between meals of him, so that I have no appetite for the wholesome food I need to build muscle and bones. Candy undermines my health."

The next witness: "I am Diabetic. My existence is painful to me and I faint would cease to exist. But I am increasing rapidly. I have caused the death of double the number of people I did twenty years ago. I attribute a large part of my hateful existence to the defendant, Candy."

Final witness against the defendant called: "I am Fat. I am a good citizen in normal amounts. I am made from calories. Candy is concentrated calories. By consuming an average of five Messrs. Chocolate Creams or 500 C's of any of the Candy family beyond his maintenance diet, Mortal Man attaches 45 pounds of me to his anatomy in a year's time. Candy forces me to deposit myself where I am not wanted, where I am unlovely to the eye and a menace to Health."

Witnesses for the defendant, Candy, are called: "I am Sweet Tooth. I exist in Mortal Man. My gratification is a very great delight to him. Candy has even been my faithful stand-by."

Another witness: "I am Energy Food. I reside in the defendant, Candy in a large measure. I maintain he is a good citizen as I am needed sometimes in concentrated form."

Final witness for defendant called: "I am Commerce. I represent Factories, Stores and a vast army of Workers. If Candy is put out of existence thousands of people will be thrown out of employment. Candy must not be interfered with for it will disrupt me."

Attorney False Belief sums up the evidence for his client: "My witnesses, Sweet Tooth, Energy Food and Commerce have proved that the defendant Candy, is a desirable citizen and not a criminal. I claim that anything Mortal Man craves as much as he does candy must be good for him. Instincts are safer guides than Reason."

Judge Medico Pete admonishes the jury: "Do not be warped by the irrational reasoning and oleaginous machinations of False Belief, but weigh the evidence of all the witnesses carefully. There is truth in them all."

The case goes to the jury. The jury returns the verdict: "We find the defendant Candy Innocent, but Guilty." Judge Medico Pete then pronounces the solemn sentence: "Candy must be controlled!" Tomorrow—The Candy Habit

Ethel—Blackheads cannot be cleared from the skin all at once, as the pores have been distended and will be taking up soil until these are closed. This should not discourage you as you will be making progress, although you cannot see the results for some time. In treating the skin for blackheads apply heated wet cloths first, as this opens the pores, preparing the skin for cleansing. This is done through rubbing the cleansing cream into the soiled pores until the skin will not take up any more. Remove this soiled cream with hot damp cloths and then proceed to shrink the pores by using applications of cool water, gradually lowering the temperature until the water is extremely cold, or better still use an ice rub. Every time you give yourself such a treatment the skin will be cleared for a time, but it takes weeks, and often months, before the pores have shrunk, so they no longer become impacted with these hardened masses of soil and oily secretions. A tendency to blackheads usually comes from poor elimination and eating too much starchy food without enough green vegetables or fruit to balance such a diet. This puts an extra strain upon the skin to assist in eliminating poisons from the system.

Marie—Business girls dress for the office much the same as they would for any simple occasion. If curls are becoming to you, there is no reason why you should arrange your hair in any other way.

Dorothy—A formula for excessive perspiration under the arms, is a mixture of three ounces of Epsom salts, a half pint of bran and four pints of water. Let this stand overnight, strain and add four ounces of bay rum. This deodorizes and assists in stopping the excessive secretion.

Anxious—Bleach the fine hair with peroxide and extract the coarse ends by using a blunt end tweezers. The tweezers that have sharp ends will always clip off the hair before it extracts it from the skin, so the hair not only grows again more quickly, but it is also coarsened much the same as hair is after shaving.

Catharine—When introducing two people, always present the younger one to the older one. The term "good evening" is generally used during the earlier hours of the evening for either a greeting or a parting. "Goodnight" is used when parting and at the later hours.

Mrs. M. T. M.— Almost any hair may be trained to curl if it is not too coarse. Train the little girl's hair by dampening it and turning into ringlets, after which fluff it all over the head by running the fingers through it.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Byrne turned his face upward into the direction from which came the full moon lighted his features fully.

"There is no other way, Mallory," he said. "Now take a good look at me—don't you recognize me?"

Mallory gazed intently at the strong face looking into his. He shook his head.

"There is something familiar about your face," he said; "but I cannot place you. Nor does it make any difference who you are—you risked your life to save ours and I shall not leave you. Let Mr. Harding go—it is not necessary for both to stay."

"You will both go," insisted Byrne; "and you will find that it does make a big difference who I am. I hadn't intended telling you, but I see there is no other way. I'm the mucker that nearly killed you on board the Lotus, Mallory. I'm the fellow that man-handled Miss Harding until even that beast of a Simms made me quit, and Miss Harding has been alone with me on this island for weeks—now go!"

He turned away so that they could no longer see his face, with the mental anguish that he knew must be writ large upon it, and commenced firing toward the natives once more.

Anthony Harding stood with white face and clenched hands during Byrne's recital of his identity. At its close he took a threatening step toward the prostrate man, raising his long sword, with a muffled oath. Billy Mallory sprang before him, catching his upraised arm.

"Don't," he whispered. "Think what we owe him now. Come!" and the two men turned north into the jungle while Billy Byrne lay upon his belly in the tall grass firing from time to time

TODAY—David M. Church, London correspondent, writes of the death of women servants in England and the apparent inefficiency of male servants in their places.

For International News Service.
LONDON, Nov. 28.—Man is a complete, very complete, failure as a domestic servant.

Wives who have any doubt of this statement may consult British employment experts who have been trying to offset unemployment by securing ex-service men in positions as "chambermaids," "parlor maids" and "charwomen."

Men can't fill the places that have for centuries been filled by women, and this is a domestic tragedy in England, where there are too few servant girls and too many unemployed men.

Generally speaking, our experience with the ex-service man as a domestic servant has not been a success," said J. R. Griffin, of the British Legion, an expert on employment. "Man is all right as a waiter or a butler, but to fill the role previously filled by a woman—well, those are hardly the functions you would expect a man to perform."

Nevertheless, there are more men in domestic service now than ever before. Many London homes have a man and wife as the servant staff, the wife spending most of her time in the kitchen cooking and the husband "doubling in brass" as a combined butler, waiter and parlor man.

Several unemployed ex-service men have even hired out as "nursemaids," but babies don't seem to take kindly to male mentors.

No American applications received! Undoubtedly this sign will be hung out before the Brewster's Exhibition as soon as the word is passed around in America that the English brewers are holding a fair testing contest. Four hundred and ninety-nine beers are up for test and there are only twenty-two official "tasters and tasters." Four hundred and ninety-nine glasses of beer among twenty-two gentlemen. That's something to chill the heart of Wayne B. Wheeler and Andrew J. Volstead.

George Duncan thinks that American golfers are going to become more and more dangerous competitors for international golf honors, and it's all on account of the serious manner in which Americans take their golf.

"Each year will see American competition a more and more dangerous factor in English championships," Duncan said after returning from an American tour. "While we play at the game they work at it."

Emir Abdullah of Transjordan has come to London and brought with him a full production of "Mecca" or "Desert Nights." All of the Emir's suite are in their official dress, but the Emir is more resplendent than all. He carries his dagger in a sheath of pure gold. The suite which the Emir occupies in one of the most fashionable London hotels is richly hung in golden tapestries and carpeted with priceless rugs. The Emir is a strict Moslem and has two wives, but he left them at home in Transjordan.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARLS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TURKEY

Uncle Wiggily was about to hop away from his hollow stump bungalow one morning when he and Nurse Jane heard, at the back door, a voice loudly calling: "Gobble-obble-obble!"

"Bless my pink nose!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "What's that?"

"You might better ask who it is," said Nurse Jane with a little shiver. "I think it's the Woozie Wolf or the Fuzzy Fox!"

"No, it isn't," spoke Uncle Wiggily, looking from a side window. "Not yet is it the busy Bob Cat! It's the Turkey Gobbler!"

"The Turkey Gobbler!" cried Nurse Jane. "It can't be! He should be over at the Farmer's getting fat for Thanksgiving!"

"Gobble-obble-obble!" a gain sounded at the back door. There was no doubt of it now—Uncle Wiggily opened the door and walked Mr. Gobbler.

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily," gobbled the Gobbler, as he spread his tail out like a big fan. "And good morning to you also, Nurse Jane," went on the Turkey. "I came to see if you would take a boarder in for a few days," he went on. "Have you room for a boarder?"

"What kind of a boarder?" asked Nurse Jane. "I don't exactly keep a boarding bungalow, but if it was some one I knew, and—"

"I'm speaking of myself," said the Gobbler with a low and polite bow. "I want to come and live with Uncle Wiggily a few days."

"But what about Thanksgiving?" cried Nurse Jane. "Thanksgiving is Thanksgiving and—"

"That's just the trouble," said Mr. Turkey. "I want to stay here until after Thanksgiving. I did think of spending it at home with the Farmer, but this morning I heard the cook saying how well you would look when stuffed and on the table, so I decided to come away and board out over Thanksgiving. You'll put me up, won't you, Uncle Wiggily?" begged the Turkey.

"Oh, yes! I guess so," answered the bunny. "Mr. Turkey may share my room," said the bunny to Nurse Jane. "Put in an extra bed and he may stay until after Thanksgiving."

"I'll be safe then," said the Gobbler. "The Farmer will have had his Thanksgiving dinner and won't care about stuffing me. Thank you, so much, Uncle Wiggily. I'll try not to be any bother. Oh! by the way, are you going to have a Thanksgiving dinner?" he asked.

"Yes," replied Nurse Jane, "we are."

"Oh! then perhaps I have come to the wrong place," and Mr. Turkey turned pale—that is, as pale as a Gobbler can turn.

"Don't worry!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "We won't eat you or even nibble you. We're going to have chocolate cake, pudding, cooking and such like things for our Thanksgiving."

"Thank goodness!" murmured the Turkey. "I wish there were more like you, Uncle Wiggily. I'd have more to be thankful for if there were. But, anyhow, I'm safe for a time. I think I'll go up to bed now. If you don't mind," he said, nervous like, "I'll be back."

"What? Go to bed in the day time?" cried the bunny. "Why, it is morning and I just got up."

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily," Longears saw the cook, the hired man and the Farmer running about, very much excited, calling one to the other:

"Where's the Turkey? Where is our Thanksgiving Turkey?"

"But they aren't asking me, so why should I tell them?" chuckled Uncle Wiggily to himself. And when he had hopped back home and had told the Turkey, the Gobbler was very thankful he was in the bunny's bungalow.

That night, when Mr. Turkey was sleeping in Uncle Wiggily's room, the Fuzzy Fox climbed up outside the hollow stump bungalow by the rain water pipe and entered the bunny's bed room.

"Here's where I nibble some ears for my Thanksgiving dinner," whispered the Fox. He leaned over a bed in the darkness. The Fox thought Uncle Wiggily was asleep in the bed—but it was Mr. Turkey Gobbler.

"Nibble-nibble" went the Fox, taking soft little bites at first. But he was nibbling at the Turkey's tail, and all of a sudden, the big Thanksgiving bird awakened.

"Gobble-obble-obble! Gobble-gobble! Obble-obble!" cried the Turkey, leaping out of bed, and with his strong wings he beat that Fox all over, on his body, nose and legs.

"Ouchie! Wouchie!" howled the Fox. "Oh, what a mistake I made!" and out of the window he jumped in the darkness, banging his nose on the ground.

"Ah, but I didn't make any mistake when I took the Turkey in to spend Thanksgiving!" laughed Uncle Wiggily when he heard what had happened after Nurse Jane brought in a light. "Oh, what a joke on the Fox!"

And so it was. The bad chap had no ears to nibble for Thanksgiving and it served him right. And if the least pencil doesn't try to put a sheet of paper on the rag doll's bed and tickle her toes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's Thanksgiving.

Good morning, Uncle Wiggily.

CHAPTER XVII
Home Again

Billy Byrne continued to fire intermittently for half an hour after the two men had left him. Then he fired several shots in quick succession, and dragging himself to his hands and knees crawled laboriously and painfully back into the jungle in search of a hiding place where he might die in peace.

He had progressed some hundred yards when he felt the earth give beneath him. He clutched frantically about for support, but there was none, and with a sickening lunge he plunged downward into Stygian darkness.

His fall was a short one, and he brought up with a painful thud at the bottom of a deep pit—a covered trap which the natives dig to catch their fleet-footed prey.

The pain of his wounds after the fall was excruciating. His head whirled dizzily. He knew that he was dying, and then all went black.

When consciousness returned to the mucker it was daylight. The sky above shone through the ragged hole that his falling body had broken in the pit's covering the night before.

"Gee!" muttered the mucker; "and I thought that I was dead!" His wounds had ceased to bleed, but he was very weak and stiff and sore.

"I guess I'm too tough to croak!" he thought.

BATTERIES

In the several preceding articles we have discussed a source of electromotive force derived from electrical machinery, or generators. While this is the source from which energy is usually obtained to operate radio apparatus, batteries are often the primary source of supply. Storage batteries in modern practice are used for two principal purposes: to operate a motor generator which converts direct current into alternating current and to supply power for the filament and plate circuits of vacuum tubes, used both for radio transmission and reception. Two types of batteries are employed, primary cells, preferred for lighter duty, such as supplying the plate voltage to receiving tubes, energizing high frequency test buzzers, etc., the storage batteries being used for operating motor generators, dynamotors and for filament lighting or heating.

Both types of batteries play such an important part in modern radio practice that a thorough understanding of their construction, characteristics, care, is essential to a student of radio. A knowledge of storage batteries will repay the experimenter not only from the technical standpoint but from an economical viewpoint. Nothing deteriorates so rapidly as a neglected storage battery, especially the lead cell type.

Before entering into the practical discussion of radio telegraphy and telephony it would be well to devote some space to the discussion of the above subject and the following articles will deal with both primary and secondary batteries.

LUCK DOESN'T EXIST?

A Kansas City junk man finds $2000 in silver and bills in a ragged mattress. A New York citizen, penniless and broke, discovers $500 in a wooden leg. An Illinois workman finds what he believes to be a real gold brick worth more than $18,000 in the wall of an old barn. And David Jones, a Kentucky hill farmer, poor all his life, unearths a pot containing $48,000 worth of ancient English gold pieces while digging a pit for a saw-mill and in the hill country. It may be there is no such thing as luck, but most of us know there is whether we have found a pot of gold or not.

WHAT ROADS ARE LOSING

Fifty per cent more freight went through the Panama canal during September of this year than in September of last year. For the first time in the history of the canal tolls exceeded the million dollar mark for three consecutive months. Likewise, it is the first time that cargo tonnage through the canal has exceeded one million tons for three consecutive months. The canal's gain is the railroads' loss.

Watch the children's first teeth

Many parents erroneously believe that children's first teeth need little or no attention because they are to be replaced by the second teeth. The truth is, as every dentist knows, that the principal cause of crooked teeth in grown persons is failure on the part of parents to have the infant teeth extracted as soon as the second teeth are ready to grow out.

No less important is the care of the mouth and gums during childhood. Children's teeth should be brushed twice daily and with particular thoroughness at night to keep the mouth hygienically clean and safe against the infections that lead to decay of the teeth and pyorrhea.

For this purpose there is no other preparation equal to DENTOMEL, the lemon juice dentifrice—a natural germicide and disinfectant so delightful to the taste that children enjoy using it. Take home a bottle and try it. Make your own comparisons, then rest peacefully with the results obtained, your money will be refunded by the druggist from whom you purchased it.

MICROPHONE TRANSFORMER

Although the Radio Corporation has developed a magnetic device for modulating the output of vacuum tube transmitters, many amateurs prefer to use prior methods of modulation where one or more bulbs are employed to modulate the plate circuit energy of the oscillating tubes; but, in order to obtain efficient modulation from such circuits, it is necessary to couple the grid circuit of the modulating tube to the microphone through the medium of a voltage amplifying transformer. The transformer has been selected to give the most effective excitation of the grid of the modulator tubes based upon the characteristics of radiotrons, when used as modulators. They are exactly the same type as used in the Radio Corporation's commercial sets and represent the best practice in this type of equipment.

The characteristics of the transformer are such that with a suitable

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

MICROPHONE TRANSFORMER

Although the Radio Corporation has developed a magnetic device for modulating the output of vacuum tube transmitters, many amateurs prefer to use prior methods of modulation where one or more bulbs are employed to modulate the plate circuit energy of the oscillating tubes; but, in order to obtain efficient modulation from such circuits, it is necessary to couple the grid circuit of the modulating tube to the microphone through the medium of a voltage amplifying transformer. The transformer has been selected to give the most effective excitation of the grid of the modulator tubes based upon the characteristics of radiotrons, when used as modulators. They are exactly the same type as used in the Radio Corporation's commercial sets and represent the best practice in this type of equipment.

The characteristics of the transformer are such that with a suitable able microphone and a battery of four dry cells connected in series with the primary coil a secondary voltage is obtained which will provide effective control of the radiated energy. The transformer is also provided with a side tone winding, which may be connected to the telephone of a receiving set during the periods of speech transmission, thus enabling the operator to check the operation of his microphone.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA
 Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness
 Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.
 While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Buckham Gives Studio Musicale

A decidedly pleasing recital was given Saturday afternoon by the piano pupils of Mrs. Lila Buckham at her studio, 332 W. Lexington drive.

During the first part of the program Mrs. Buckham presented the history of Handel, a noted composer, who is of especial interest at this season because of his popular Christmas composition, "The Messiah." There followed blackboard drills and theory tests that were enthusiastically received, proving the value of this sort of work to piano students.

The second part of the program consisted of instrumental numbers given by the pupils. Refreshments suggestive of the Thanksgiving season were then served.

LOYAL CITIZENS IN ORGANIZATION

Form League for Purpose of Campaigning Against L. A. Annexation

Los Angeles formed anti-annexation organizations of permanent character. He urged Glendale do likewise and that anti-annexation "ammunition" be kept constantly in storage ready to fire at the first sign of an annexation war.

A. T. Cowan endorsed the purpose of the meeting, told of his faith in Glendale as an independent city, urged that the community's progress be not halted by surrendering to Los Angeles and suggested that Owen C. Emery be chosen to act as temporary chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Emery, being chosen, said he had resided in Glendale since 1907, and that he would do all he possibly could to keep Glendale free from Los Angeles.

"Whipped to Standstill"

C. D. Gulick was selected as temporary secretary and, on suggestion of Mr. Cowan, a committee on permanent organization was selected by Mr. Emery.

While the committee was drafting a report, Judge Lowe picked to pieces the "promises" made by Los Angeles officials to Glendale if it would vote for annexation.

The speaker also scored a certain Los Angeles paper for not truthfully reporting the sentiment in this city against annexation and concluded with:

"We've got the annexation forces whipped to a standstill, yet they continue their campaign to put the city to the expense of an election."

The committee on permanent organization reported and its suggestions were followed out by the meeting.

Strong For Glendale

Colone James W. Everington, Rudolph Streit, W. F. Tower, C. A. Rudel and others spoke against annexation and L. H. Wilson aroused considerable enthusiasm by declaring in answer to the chairman's appeal for funds to finance the organization:

"I'm strong for Glendale and will be glad of the opportunity to subscribe $25 to this organization's treasury."

The committee on organization was composed of Stephen C. Packard, H. M. Butts, J. C. Sherer, Mrs. C. A. Rudel, L. H. Wilson, Herman Neison and E. A. Case.

At the suggestion of W. F. Tower, the organization will hold regular meetings at the Glendale Union High school auditorium to which anti-annexationists are invited.

SECRETARIES FOR C. OF C. IN MEET

James Rhoades Presides at Long Beach Gathering of Association

The monthly meeting of the Southern Commercial Secretaries' association, which was held in Long Beach Friday, was one of the most interesting sessions ever held by the organization, according to James Rhoades and E. F. Sanders, secretary and assistant secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Messrs. Rhoades and Sanders returned to the city Sunday. Both were enthusiastic over the enormous amount of business accomplished at the meeting, which was presided over by Mr. Rhoades.

They also spoke very highly of Long Beach's new Chamber of Commerce building, which was erected recently at a cost of $135,000. Mr. Sanders said that the structure is unquestionably the finest and most exclusive Chamber of Commerce building on the Pacific coast.

Senator Cartwright Present

He further stated that a talk made by Mr. Rhoades on "the relation that professional men bear to chambers of commerce" was very well received by the membership.

The feature speech, Mr. Sanders said, was delivered by Senator G. W. Cartwright, who spoke on "Industrial Economics," a subject that he has studied during the whole of his political life. Mr. Sanders said that Mr. Rhoades invited the Senator to visit Glendale, and that local people will undoubtedly get an opportunity to hear him talk within the next thirty days.

The December meeting of the commercial secretaries' association will be held in El Centro, Imperial county.

pianist and R. J. Breen and A. M. Kelly, first and second fiddlers. They all evidently arrived right after a busy day down on the farm.

Miss Corp wore her pinafore and sunbonnet, while Mr. Kelly arrived in his overalls and big straw hat "a-carryin'" his fiddle. Mr. Breen was the most dresy of the three. He had just enough time to get on his Sunday suit and would have put on his collar and tie only "he knew he'd have a lot of fiddlin' t' do."

It wasn't until every seat around the hall had been taken and the "folks" had all said "Howdy do!" that J. M. Rhoades, E. F. Sanders and C. R. Kirkman, floor managers "broke the ice" with compliments for an enjoyable grand march!

Old Time Dances.

Then followed quadrilles, two-steps, waltzes and Virginia reels, with soda pop served from the bottles between dances.

It was indeed an old-time affair crowned with old time success and when the dancers said "Goodbye" after "Home Sweet Home" the reception and entertainment committees and members of the club were showered with compliments for an enjoyable evening.

Special mention should be made of other gowns seen on the dance floor. If there had been a prize offered for the most beautiful costume, it would have gone to Mrs. Annetta K. Anderson, who wore an orchid taffeta dress, made for her mother over sixty years ago. The rich, heavy silk was combined with fine lace and in the quaint frock of the Civil War time Mrs. Anderson presented a truly old fashioned picture. Adding to the beauty of the dress were a large cameo brooch and two jet and gold bracelets, also belonging to her mother.

Another interesting outfit was that worn by Mrs. George H. Warren. With an old styled brown dress she wore a wool challie shawl and a Delaine bertha, made and worn by her great grandmother's wife over 100 years ago. She also wore a white net

TRUCK STRIKES AUTO

An automobile driven by Miss Mary A. Rhodes of 707 East Elk avenue was badly smashed about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when a truck came to a sudden stop in front of her machine. The collision occurred on Los Feliz road near San Fernando road. The truck was not damaged but the hood, radiator, lights and front fenders on the pleasure car all showed the result of the impact.

Miss Ethel Parsons appeared as a maid of 1860, with hoop skirt, pantaloons. Her costume was fashioned out of one worn by her grandmother fifty years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Armstrong came right from "down on the farm," being dressed in overalls, gingham dress, straw hat, red bandana and last but not to be overlooked a 5c bag of old fashioned peppermints to eat between dances.

Those arranging for the affair were Dr. Laura Brown, president of the club, Miss Emily Gibbs, Miss Alice Walton, Mrs. B. L. Warner and Mrs. Elsie Williams.

Smile Club to Give Exclusive Dances

The big broad smile that is the usual greeting A. M. Kelly has for his friends has been the inspiration for the formation of a Glendale Smile club by members of Kelly's Shrine Club orchestra, who are going to give dances every Friday night in the Chamber of Commerce hall.

According to Mr. Kelly and his orchestra members there is a demand in Glendale for an exclusive weekly dance. The affairs are to be given every Friday night to meet this demand. A suitable admission is to be charged and a long dance program given.
