Awards

Volunteers of the Year

Distinguished Service Award

Volunteers of the Year

Jamie Flood

For hosting events at the National Agricultural Library and helping out at Wikimedia programs over the years. Jamie makes diligent contributions as an editor. Her cheerful disposition raises our spirits. She has encouraged participation from her colleagues and everyone at Wikimedia events.

Volunteers of the Year

Bryan Hilderbrand

Thanks to Bryan for stepping in to help with preparations for WikiConference North America 2021. He knew the relevant software and gave advice to the organizers. He set up the online program schedule. He was a problem-solver. He asked key questions, brought a can-do attitude, and made things work for the rest of us.

Distinguished Service Award

Kirill Lokshin

We thank Kirill for his masterful management of this chapter. He helped start the chapter, and from the beginning served as its Secretary, and for six years as its President. From the start he organized and professionalized the chapter's procedures. He made novel and amazing things happen. Kirill built effective teams and led the effort to hire chapter staff. He held the chapter to high standards for ethical conduct. He has been influential and effective across the Wikimedia movement, both online and in person.

Plans and issues for the chapter

Editing events — Continuing at a good pace

Diversity — in chapter roles and topics

Partnerships — to expand our organization's effect; Hub ideas for chapters/affiliates to work together

Grants — from WMF, or associated with museum content, databases, vaccine content, or addressing misinformation

Advocacy — Public policy
