MAY COMPROMISE REAPPORTIONMENT DAMAGES SLIGHT AS AUTOS CRASH

Attempt Is Being Made to Follow Out Suggestion From Governor

By GIL A. COWAN
Special to The Evening News
SACRAMENTO, May 10.—While the senate is putting its final work of the reapportionment bill introduced by Senator A. Burlingame Johnson, which was the subject of a hot debate yesterday afternoon, an effort is being made in the assembly to effect a compromise including constitutional reapportionment and a constitutional amendment changing the system of redistricting.

This effort is being made in compliance with the governor's message in which he declared he will not call a special session to deal with the subject.

Threats of Southern California interests to invoke an initiative have stirred the cow counties to action in seeking an amicable settlement of reapportionment. It is hoped, even at this late hour, there is possibility of an agreement, according to Speaker Frank Merriam.

Plan Compromise

Frank C. Weller of Glendale is meeting with others from the north to work out some sort of a last minute compromise measure. The price of cement is said to be two and one-half times the cost of production.

COURAGE OF U. S. WOMEN PRAISED BY BRIGANDS

Miss Aldrich and Companion Are Well Treated by Chinese Bandits

BULLETIN
SHANGHAI, May 10.—Release of the captives of the train bandits was believed imminent late today.

Lincheng, near the scene of the holdup, wired that agents working for the release of the Americans and other foreigners held here in communication with the bandits and prospects for release were very favorable.

By ERIC VON B. SALZMANN
For International News Service
PEKING, May 10.—Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who was kidnapped by the Shanghai train bandits and later released, arrived here today with an exciting story of carrying heirloom jewelry in her hands while driven with the other prisoners towards the mountains.

Contrary to the stories of other prisoners, Miss Aldrich says the bandits treated their prisoners fine.

Miss Aldrich was ill from exposure. She was accompanied by a physician on her trip from Tsinan-Fu to this city.

"I was not scared by the bandits," she said. "I had time to hide some money and valuables before we were marched off. I saw about a score of bandits altogether. (Previous accounts put the number of bandits at about 1,000.)

Carried Jewels

"I was in my night gown, as the raid was made at night. I put on my slippers when I heard the noise. There was no harsh treatment so far as I could see. They marched us all night towards the mountains, and all that time I held in my hands my mother's rings and other heirlooms of jewelry that I had saved."

The following day (Monday) Miss Aldrich removed one of her slippers and secreted the jewelry in it. This caused her foot to swell. Finally she was able to secrete it at a place she believed she would remember.

The bandits in charge of Miss Aldrich and her companion, Miss Minnie McFadden, were attracted by their captives. They took a special liking for Miss Aldrich, which may account for the fact that she was later released. During the halt at camp, the brigand started going over their loot, showing it to Miss Aldrich. It included a woman's hat, a hot water bottle, a tube of tooth paste and numerous other toilet articles. Miss Aldrich laughed heartily, especially when one of the brigands put on the woman's hat and started to caper around in it.

Courage Praised

Not to be outdone, others of the bandits donned stolen finery. One of the brigands levelled a pistol at Miss Aldrich, but she was not frightened. She shook her head and continued to laugh. One of the men patted her on the back and muttered something. A Chinese who could speak English said he was calling Miss Aldrich a brave woman.

They were so taken with her courage that they gave her a burrito to ride.

One Chinese—a prisoner—was unable to keep up with the procession on the steep mountain trails. The bandits solved the problem quickly and effectively by shooting him before Miss Aldrich's eyes.

Miss Aldrich became so exhausted that she could hardly sit up. The brigands saw that she was helpless and when she lagged behind they made no effort to prevent her from escaping. The burro, however, was taken away from her. She wandered all afternoon and night. A storm of rain and hail came up and she took shelter in a hut, where she went to sleep. She was found by R. F. Naill, an accountant of the Asia Development company, who took her to Lincheng. Thence (Continued on Page 3)

ELEVEN DIE IN FLAMING TEXAS OIL INFERNO

Heat Drives Back Rescuers Who Seek to Quench Blazing Well

POWELL, Texas, May 10.—Fire, which, starting from an explosion, already has cost the lives of eleven persons and serious injury to at least five others, still was raging early today at the Hughes McKiel lease here. The glare is visible for miles around and no effort yet has been made to control the fire.

Four bodies are in the flames, as yet unidentified. One man is missing.

The identified dead are: W. A. Hicks, head driller, Wortham, Texas. Jack Cooper, Corsicana. Fred Craig, Corsicana. Emmet Byrd, Corsicana. L. P. Sheek, Dallas. Travis Owens, Kerens, Texas. James Phillips, Kerens, Texas. Max Meisner, Kerent, Texas. Three other bodies are unidentified.

Die in Flames

Two crews were exchanging shifts when the explosion occurred. There was a sudden blinding flash and in an instant a huge lake of oil surrounding the workings was ablaze. Those who were at a distance from the lake could see men plunging madly about in the fire only to fall in their tracks and burn to death. Clothing of the workmen was saturated with oil.

The intense heat prevented would-be rescuers from even approaching the blaze. Plans were made today to fight the fire with steam.

Origin of the fire, which caused the explosion, is unknown, but the theory advanced by oil workers is that pebbles thrown from the well came in contact with a steel control head, causing a spark.

The well, one of the greatest gushers in the Mexico field, came in Tuesday and was flowing at the rate of 5,000 barrels a day.

Romance Is Wrecked By 'Officer's' Arrest

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—After posing as an American army officer, a soldier of fortune, and as the aviator who discovered and rescued the famous "lost battalion" during the world war, "Colonel" Edmund James Black, was arrested here today by Agent S. G. Maloney of the federal department of justice. Lieutenant of Detectives John J. McGinnis of Chicago and a representative of the local police, on charges of impersonating a government officer.

With the arrest of "Colonel" Black, the officers blasted the culmination of his week's romance with Mrs. Eva Cramer Bresler, formerly of Detroit, well known society woman, in whose home he lived during that time and whom he was to marry in June, according to a recent announcement made by the pair.

Glendale To Participate In Annual Tribute To Mothers On Next Sunday

TRIBUTE to the mothers of America will be paid Sunday in all parts of the United States and the annual event will not pass unnoticed in Glendale. White carnations for deceased mothers and red carnations for those living will be much in evidence on coat lapels and as floral tributes. In addition to this recognition special sermons and services are being arranged by the city churches, and special recognitions of the day are being planned by other organizations and institutions.

One significant observance of Mothers' Day in Glendale will be that held Monday night at the regular meeting of Glendale Elks at the clubhouse on Colorado street.

Every lodge member is to enter the lodge room with a carnation in the lapel of his coat, white for deceased mothers and red for the living ones.

The lodge meeting is to last but an hour and at 9 o'clock a special musical program will be given "To Our Mothers." There will be music by the Hollywood women's quartet, led by Miss Myra Belle Vickers, and by Albert Bryant.

Another observance of interest is told in an announcement from the Western Union Telegraph headquarters, saying, "A carnation on the coat of a Western Union messenger boy Sunday will signify that the boy is carrying greetings of the day to some mother. Messengers assigned to the delivery of the flock of Mothers' Day telegrams expected Sunday will be furnished with flowers by the company. The carnation will lend a personal touch to the greeting conveyed by the boy, says W. R. Williams, Los Angeles superintendent of the company."

Mothers' Day was inaugurated the second Sunday in May, 1908, growing out of the devotion of one woman who set aside the day on which her mother died to be consecrated each year to her memory.

FIRE CHIEF WILL GO UP-UP-UP-UP

And Then Down-Down-Down-Down, for He Is Owner of Red Plane

Glendale will have the honor, in the near future, of being the first city in the United States owning a fire chief who will be able to go all up in the air when a fire alarm is received and still maintain his dignity.

Fire Chief A. H. Lankford and Fireman Thomas Phillips have purchased a 90-horsepower Curtiss army bi-plane and expect to have it ready for flight in about ten days. They are painting it a bright red and are carefully labeling it "Glendale Fire Department."

During the war Mr. Phillips was an aviation mechanic. Both he and Chief Lankford are looking forward to a number of enjoyable flights from the airport.

The Glendale fire department was kept on the jump yesterday from one brush fire to another and the firemen were thankful that last night was uneventful.

The biggest fire of the day started about 1:30 p. m. near Verdugo road a block and a half north of the end of Glendale avenue. A wind from the southwest quickly started the flames over the hills toward Flintridge. Truck No. 5 from Fire Station No. 1 remained on the scene until almost 3 p. m. Truck No. 2 remained on the job until almost 9 p. m. The fire burned over approximately 55 acres.

An alarm at 8 o'clock last night that the fire had broken out again further north was investigated by Fire Chief A. H. Lankford and Ralph Salak who drove to the scene in the red Buick. They found that it was unattended.

Twenty minutes was spent near the end of West Broadway yesterday afternoon by Capt. William Gould and Fireman Richard Rich. They took truck No. 4 from No. 2 Fire Station. They made this run just two hours after extinguishing a grass fire on the Southern Pacific right of way at the end of Mira Loma street.

A rubbish fire at 430 West Arden street was extinguished shortly before noon yesterday by Capt. Dean Williams and Fireman Frank Kiefer who took Truck No. 5 from Fire Station No. 1.

TYLITE PLANT IS ADDED TO LOCAL INDUSTRY

Concern Takes Lease on Site West of S. P. Tracks And Plans to Build

THE California Tylite Company of 4703 Hollywood boulevard is now proceeding with the erection of a plant in Glendale.

After negotiations extending over the past two months, Roy L. Kent and A. L. Baird of the Roy L. Kent Company, 130 South Brand boulevard, this morning announced that this company has leased for ninety-eight years an eight-acre site west of the Southern Pacific tracks opposite the west end of Vine street. The total rental over the entire period will be about $250,000 or $31,250 per acre. The average rental per acre will be approximately $310 per year.

The California Tylite company is a California corporation with an authorized capital of $100,000. It is modeled after a similar company in Detroit which is now in successful operation. It manufactures a tile building block.

"We will manufacture this tile in very large quantities," remarked Charles H. Davies, vice-president and general manager of the company, recently. "We will start with a capacity of 30,000 tile per day and expect to double this capacity in six months. We have ordered the equipment to do so, already. Our plant will be in operation in about thirty days."

Scores of Employees

About a hundred employees will be kept busy at this new plant. Many of them will be hired here, but a number of skilled workmen will come from Detroit. The payroll will amount to over $3,000 a week. This means over $156,000 a year.

The Southern Pacific has agreed to install a spur track in the near future. Considerable grading work on the site has been done already.

Construction is starting at once upon the first unit of the plant. One of the buildings will be a two-story structure about 60 by 150 feet in size of reinforced concrete.

After an investigation extending over all parts of southern California, this company decided to locate upon its new site because of the fact that it is adjacent to the main line of the Southern Pacific, one of the main trunk lines of the Southern California Gas company, and one of the power lines of the Southern California Edison company. These three factors influenced its decision to locate in Glendale.

Tylite is manufactured in standard sizes of five by eight by twelve inches, five by eight by ten inches and five by four by twelve inches. The larger size takes the same space as six bricks. Only one-third as much mortar is used with Tylite as against ordinary brick, according to the claims of this company, and one mason can lay three to four times as much wall with Tylite as with brick.

List of Officers

The California Tylite company has the following officers:

Frank H. Boettner, president. He is a director of the C. Ganahl Lumber company and president of the Centrifugal National Concrete company.

Charles H. Davies, vice-president and general manager. He was formerly president and general manager of the American Concrete Industries corporation.

W. W. Charles, treasurer. He is president of the Securities Loan and Discount company of Los Angeles.

G. C. Higbie, secretary. He is a Los Angeles realtor.

L. A. Lewis, counsel. He is president of the Norwalk Commercial & Savings bank, Norwalk, Calif. He maintains law offices in Los Angeles.

Related to Inventor

Of interest to Mrs. Bradley's many friends was the pride she took in her distant relationship to Samuel B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph. She was related to S. F. Smith, author of the words of "America." She was the first cousin of Mr. Smith's wife, and among her treasured possessions is an autographed copy of "America," and a letter from Mr. Smith containing a fifth verse to the song.

"Grandma" also recalled knowing John Greenleaf Whittier and reading many of his poems in manuscript.

Mrs. Bradley was a member of the Baptist church.

Funeral services are to be held tomorrow, Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock in the Little Church of the Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, where cremation will take place. Rev. G. N. Hobson will be the officiating minister. The L. G. Scovern company is in charge.

BURBANK H. S. JUNIORS IN SPARKLING PLAY

'Safety First' Is Comedy Presented by Class in Auditorium

The matrimonial difficulties of a young husband and a prospective husband were the night in Burbank, at the high school auditorium, when the Juniors presented "Safety First," a rollicking farce in three acts.

Jack Montgomery, the young husband, hailed for his motto, "Safety First," as had his friend, Jerry Arnold, who is engaged to Jack's sister-in-law.

These young men got into a fight with a policeman, and were sentenced to thirty days in the "cooler," rather an embarrassing position for a young husband and husband-to-be.

The resultant efforts on their part to conceal the jail sentence from respective wife and sweetheart, kept the laughs rippling every minute.

Between the first and second acts the audience enjoyed a harp solo, rendered by Miss Vera Holbrook. A selection was also rendered by the Girls Glee club. Incidental music was furnished by the high school orchestra.

Between the acts, candy was sold by the Juniors girls.

Women Elect Officers At a recent meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club, held in the Good Fellows' club room, officers for the coming year were elected from the nominees of the previous meeting, as follows:

Miss Lesueur, president; Mrs. May Clarke, vice-president; Mrs. Gipson, corresponding secretary; Miss Claire Glenn, recording secretary, and Mrs. Foster, treasurer.

The following counselors were elected: Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Fisher, Miss Stevens, Mrs. Deering, Miss Read, Miss Diss, Mrs. Horne and Mrs. Gould.

Miss Stevenson, president of the Pasadena club, delivered an interesting address, speaking on the vocational bureau which the club maintained when it was first organized, when it was supported by individual contributions.

"But now," Miss Stevenson said, "the sum of $60 a year is contributed by the Community Chest to the vocational bureau."

A trio of musicians composed of the Misses Emerson, Williams and Krum, with piano, saxophone and violin, rendered some delightful numbers, being called back repeatedly for encores.

The music finally so cast its spell over the assemblage that it resolved itself into a dance.

K. K. Kontest Kiosks "The whites have won" is the mystic statement issued from the Kiwanis Kamp. The Whites had 1567 points to their credit, against the Blues' 1273.

The initials K. K. K. stand for "Kiwanis Kalling Kontest," conducted by the local club to stimulate friendship among members.

At the last meeting of the club, Ralph Church, district trustee, reported on the meeting of presidents, trustees and secretaries of the Kiwanis clubs of the San Fernando valley, held in Burbank a week ago Monday night.

Stanley Pearson is the winner of the Kiwanis essay-writing contest, it was announced. The contest was open to high school boys. The subject was "Courtesy."

About forty essays were submitted, many of them proving of very superior quality, showing considerable original thought. The one selected showed the best development of the underlying principles of kindness and good will from which true courtesy springs.

By a vote of the Kiwanis club, Stanley Pearson will appear at the next week luncheon of the club and read his essay.

The music for the meeting was furnished by Mrs. Homer Jones, a pupil of Mrs. Edith Pla, giving three vocal selections that were much appreciated.

The last session of the Planning Commission produced considerable discussion on the subject of eliminating the alleys opening onto San Fernando boulevard between the avenues in the business district, substituting in their places alleys opening at the rear of the blocks in question.

It was suggested that before proceeding further the attitude of those affected be felt out.

The zoning question was also discussed, it being the sentiment of the commission that some action should be taken in the matter.

Tonight the advanced students of Zefar Algotts Sparrow will give a recital at the Thomas A. Edison school. Lovers of good music will enjoy their carefully prepared efforts.

AMERICANS NOT USED WASHINGTON, May 10.—No American troops have yet been employed in obtaining the release of foreigners captured by Chinese bandits in Shantung, Brigadier-General William E. Connor, commanding United States troops at Tien Tsin, cabled to Acting Secretary of War Dwight Davis.

HEIRESS JUST HOUSEWIFE NOW Bride Has $38,000,000 and Artist Husband

Mr. & Mrs. Lester Norris, Mrs. Norris is the former heiress.

That "Gates' heiress" won't go any more, folks. The former Miss Dellora Angell, who inherited the $38,000,000 estate of John W. ("Bet a Million") Gates, wants the world to know that she is Mrs. Lester Norris, housewife, now. She said so when she arrived at her $50 a month home on Main street, St. Charles, Illinois, with her new husband, a Chicago commercial artist, whose father is a St. Charles undertaker.

'BIG BERTHA' IS MYTH, DECLARED

Electrically Controlled Gun In Outskirts of Paris, Deputy Says

By HARRY R. FLORY For International News Service PARIS, May 9.—Did "Big Bertha," the supposedly giant long range gun which shelled Paris intermittently from the 23d of March to one night in August, 1918, really exist?

The "Berthas" were a German hoax, it has been suggested by Leon Daudet, a deputy of Paris, writing in L'Action Francaise. The source of the shells which fell in various parts of the city during those exciting days was really an electrically controlled cannon, hidden in a factory or cellar in a Paris suburb, Daudet contends, and he expects that sooner or later this contrivance will be discovered.

Never Saw One Daudet points out that no Frenchman has ever seen any of the six supposed "Big Berthas," and that no traces of them have ever been found in the Krupp factories or any place in Germany.

The only evidence of their existence, he says, is a report that American army officers saw several of the big guns in the Skoda factory, in Austria, in 1919.

The French War Ministry, through the Matin, hastened to deny Daudet's supposition, and L'Echo National, the day after Daudet printed his sensational supposition, published the complete official German report of the construction and destructive work of the "Berthas."

This report, which Daudet characterized as vague and unconvincing, told of the conception of the big guns and of their manufacture after the specifications had to be changed to increase their range from 160 to 130 kilometers when the Germans were forced back that far from Paris.

They first went into action, according to the report, near Laon, and later, when their location was detected, they were moved through the town of Soissons, then not far from the French front, to the vicinity of Ham.

"Finally we ourselves destroyed in our own country, that marvel of the technique and science of artillery," the German report read. "What we accomplished will ever remain in history a glorification of the artillery of the Imperial German navy."

The report discloses, according to Daudet, that the "Berthas" were fired blindly in the general direction of Paris.

"Must we, then, attribute their success to the good old German god?" he queries. "And why, when the Germans noted the marvelous success of the 'Berthas,' did they not construct more? Life in Paris would have been unbearable if they had followed up that advantage."

Daudet also points out that transportation of the "Berthas" through the city of Soissons, without detection by the French, always hovering over the city in airplanes, would have been absolutely impossible.

Because no Frenchman has ever seen the "Berthas" L'Echo National suggests that if they really existed the Germans may have hidden them.

"While they pretend to have destroyed the material perhaps they transported it and hid it somewhere in the north of Germany," the article concludes.

AMENDMENT HITS SECURITY SWAPS

New Regulation Affects All Holders of Bonds in California

Every owner of bonds and other securities and all residents of Southern California who make an exchange of property in deals during 1923 are affected by a far-reaching amendment to the revenue act which was approved by Congress at the close of the last session and which became effective January 1, 1923.

Instructions regarding the enforcement of the new regulations were received from Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell. One of the regulations stamps out the old system of exchanging securities, which was permitted under the old law and which resulted in a juggling of figures which enabled many holders of stocks and bonds to escape the payment of income taxes on profits accruing from transactions in these securities.

Under the new amendment property held for investment, on which no gain or loss is recognized, does not include "stock, bonds, notes, choses in action, certificates of trust or beneficial interest or other securities or evidences of indebtedness or interest," as was the case prior to the enactment of the amendment.

Favors Taxpayer Regarding the exchange of property, the new amendment favors the taxpayer in that it limits the amount of taxable gain which must be declared in an income tax return. The new regulation provides that the amount of gain resulting from an exchange of property shall be computed in accordance with designated sections of the law, but in no case shall the taxable gain exceed the amount of money and the fair market value of the property received in exchange.

So important is this part of the amendment that Collector Goodcell has worked out a number of sample cases for the information and convenience of taxpayers.

Example No. 1. A exchanged certain property which he had purchased subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $5,000, for real estate having no readily realizable market value and $2,000 in cash. No gain or loss is realized from such exchange. However, if a subsequently sells the real estate, the difference between the value of the real estate and $3,000, the basis of the property exchanged, reduced by the amount of cash received in the exchange, is taxable gain or deductible loss, as the case may be.

Example No. 2. A exchanged certain property which he had purchased subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $14,000, for stock having no readily realizable market value and bonds having a readily realizable market value of $16,000. A realized a taxable gain of $2,000, the amount by which the fair market value of the bonds exceeds the cost of the property exchanged. The entire amount received from the subsequent sale of the stock received in the exchange constitutes taxable income.

Example No. 3. In connection with the reorganization of a corporation, received in place of stock purchased by him subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $9,000, stock of a fair market value of $5,000 in a corporation a party to the reorganization, together with cash in the amount of $4,000. A realized a taxable gain of $3,000, the amount by which the fair market value of the stock received in the exchange exceeds the cost of the property exchanged. If a subsequently sells the stock, the difference between the amount received therefor and $8,000, the $3,000 representing the basis of the old stock, $9,000, reduced by $1,000, the amount of cash received in the exchange which was in excess of the taxable gain, constitutes taxable gain or deductible loss, as the case may be.

Stock Transfers Example No. 4. A transferred to a corporation all of the outstanding stock of which was owned by him, property purchased by him subsequent to March 1, 1913, for $40,000, in exchange for stock of a corporation of a fair market value of $10,000, together with Liberty bonds of a fair market value of $10,000, the amount of the fair market value of the Liberty bonds received in the exchange. The actual gain from the exchange was $20,000, the excess of the fair market value of the Liberty bonds and the fair market value of the stock received in exchange over the cost of the property exchanged, but since the fair market value of "such other property received in exchange" is only $10,000, the limitation that the amount of the taxable gain derived shall not exceed the amount of the money or the fair market value of such other property received in exchange must be applied. Consequently, the taxable gain is limited to $10,000. Upon the subsequent sale of the stock the difference between the amount received therefor and $40,000, the cost of the property exchanged, constitutes taxable income or deductible loss, as the case may be.

It is assumed in the above examples that the property exchanged was not of a kind properly to be included in inventory. If the property exchanged was acquired prior to March 1, 1913, or by gift, devise, bequest or inheritance, the taxpayer should consult Collector Goodcell.

Helena, Mont., May 10.—The life of Bishop Daniel S. Tuttle, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church in the United States, who died recently at his home in St. Louis, is indissolubly linked with the early history of Montana and especially Helena, the capital city. He was the first Protestant Episcopal bishop in Montana, his territory also including Idaho and Utah.

He was appointed Bishop of Montana at a meeting of bishops in New York in 1867, while he was minister of the church at Morris, N. Y., although he had not attained the required thirty years of age. He was nominated by the Rt. Rev. Horatio Potter, D. D.

Bishop Tuttle came direct to Virginia City, in Alder Gulch, one of the leading gold mining camps of Montana in the early period. He later resided at Helena and at all times showed a magnetic personality that attracted many of other religious denominations to his congregations. His ruggedness of character and his commanding appearance won for him friends wherever he lived in the early territorial days of the Treasure state.

When Bishop Tuttle came west the journey was fraught with many perils and dangers. The Union Pacific had not yet built its line of steel through the west. Indians were still hostile, and the routes to Virginia City and Helena were infested with ruffians and robbers known in those days as road agents. The plains of the west still trembled to the tread of millions of buffaloes.

The history of the state shows that Bishop Tuttle won the respect and confidence of the communities of his episcopate. In communities made up of men who had "cut their eye teeth" in surroundings of the rough days of the Vigilantes Bishop Tuttle was always voted "100 per cent fine."

He traveled by Stage He traveled by rail from New York to North Platte, Neb., and from there to Salt Lake City by stage, arriving in the Mormon city July 2, 1867. At North Platte the stage company held his party up for three days because of the hostility of the Indians, and when the party did start every man was fully armed. He reached Virginia City July 17, 1867.

Montana settlements then were merely mining camps, but he never expected any consideration because of his profession and, instead, slept and lived as did the miners and prospectors—sleeping on floors and in hard bunks and frying his own flapjacks and bacon. He took long rides on his pony through territories infested with hostile Indians and bad men. He fought fires like a veteran fireman and held in check bad men in times of excitement, as he did at a fire in Helena shortly after his arrival there.

Baffled Desperadoes An incident occurring in Helena February 16, 1868, in which Bishop Tuttle showed his ability to take charge of a serious situation, is recalled. A fire broke out on the main street, threatening to wipe out the entire camp. Among those who labored the hardest passing water buckets and encour-

Racehorse Trains on Ale; Wins Handicap

LONDON, May 10.—Down from the "Helands" of Scotland has come the tale of how White Bud, a horse of darkest hue who romped home a sixty-six to one winner in the Lincoln Handicap, trained for her history-making race.

Johnny McCall, who trained White Bud, tells the story. "A few days before the race," Johnny said, "White Bud got fractious and ran away with a stable boy. Somehow the outburst seemed to affect the filly and she was off her feed for several days. The day before the race I gave her a bottle of heavy Scotch ale and she drank deep and hearty."

"I'm not claiming that Scotch ale is the ideal beverage, but it certainly stimulated White Bud."

If long shots like White Bud continue to win it is likely that the Bookmakers' Protective Association will take steps to see that some sort of an "eighteenth amendment" is passed to prohibit giving Scotch ale to race horses.

STRAIN INTENSIFIED LONDON, May 10.—The strain on the relations between Great Britain and soviet Russia was intensified by a report reaching Hull yesterday that the Bolsheviks have seized another British fishing trawler in the Baltic. One reason for the ultimatum sent to Moscow Monday was seizure of British fishing boats and detention of the crews. Russia maintains that her territorial waters extend twelve miles; Great Britain recognizes only the three-mile limit set by international law.

DEAF MAN HEARS WELL BY RADIO Had Not Heard Sound of Human Voice for Fifty Years, Is Claim

DUBOIS, Pa., May 10.—Uriah Richards, well-known citizen of this city, has not heard the sound of a human voice for fifty years until the other day. When he was twenty months old he was stricken with spinal meningitis and his hearing left him. Though normal in every other way, it has been a world of silence for him ever since.

But at last he has heard a human voice, though he knew not what it said or meant. He was too small to talk much if any when he lost his hearing, so he never learned the meaning of words.

Listens to Radio A friend in an electrical store invited him to listen to a radio. It was a high-power receiving set with a two-stage amplifier which magnifies the normal sound about 600 times. To the ordinary person it would sound like a mighty crashing of great guns.

First they put the receivers on Richards' head. Then the friend began to tinker with the dials. Things began to happen which told those watching the experiment that Richards was hearing. Richards, who also is a mute, became excited. His fingers worked nervously as the dials were turned and adjustments made.

Throughout the entire evening Richards sat deeply interested in the radio. He heard speeches, songs, music and all the usual program of a big broadcasting station. The speeches and songs he could not understand, but still the melody of the songs and the music appealed to him. He keenly enjoyed the music, the first he had ever heard.

Rapid Radio Fan Yep, he is a rapid radio fan now. But there is a serious side to this experiment. His friends believe in time he will learn the language and what it means. The fact that his ear drums have begun to function is encouraging to his friends. They hope through the use of the radio that possibly in time normal hearing will be restored to Richards. They also believe with the understanding of

RELATIVES NEAR ACTIVE VOLCANO

Glendale Woman Keeps Close Watch on Mt. Lassen's Outbursts

Mrs. Abbie Trent Smith of 515 North Louise street was particularly interested in the picture of Mount Lassen, published in the Monday evening edition of The Glendale Evening News. Mrs. Smith's sister, Mrs. Ida M. Klos, lives only forty miles from Mount Lassen, the only active volcano in the United States. Mrs. Smith visited at her sister's home in February of this year and has some interesting pictures and data she secured about the eruptive mountain. Her relatives live only six miles from the town of Red Bluff.

According to Mrs. Smith, old settlers of that part of the country have watched the mountain carefully ever since the big eruption in 1915. Since then there have been some 100 smaller eruptions. In the eruption of 1915 a big face appeared in the smoke from the volcano and the old timers called it Vulcan's face and took it as predicting a future disaster.

Mrs. Smith is planning a summer trip to Yellowstone and surrounding country and states that if she learns that Mount Lassen is in eruption she will stop there for a visit on her way to the park rather than on her return trip.

the same night for Puget Sound points.

Both Mr. Legrand at the city ticket office, 121 South Brand, and Mr. Thedeker at the station, have been making many reservations for passengers taking advantage of the new summer rates to the East, which go into effect on May 15. On the first day of the reduced rates the Southern Pacific is planning to run five sections of the Golden State Limited and three or four sections of the Sunset Limited, in order to handle the travel.

William Barr, son of James Barr.

William Barr, son of James Barr, lifer in Charlestown, Mass., prison, told the parole board he did not think his father was fit to be at liberty. Barr was sentenced for a social crime twenty-three years ago. His divorced wife and his other children also declared he was too dangerous a character to be freed, and as a result he will spend his life in a cell.

PLUMBERS' PLANS GIVEN APPROVAL

Sanitary League Campaign Sets Example for Many Other Sections

Another tribute to the initiative of California industry is seen in the many inquiries that have been received from all sections of the country regarding the successful educational campaign being conducted through the newspapers by the Sanitary Development League of Southern California to create higher standards of sanitation.

This campaign, launched by the plumbing industry a few months ago, has not only stimulated a demand for better plumbing materials and workmanship, but it has established the fact that the industry is performing a real service by safeguarding health.

Among the inquiries received by the league last week was a letter from the Georgia Trade Extension Bureau of the plumbing and heating industry of Georgia. John I. Leonard, secretary, wrote:

"The organization of which I am secretary is organized along similar lines and we are anticipating an advertising campaign in the near future. It has been reported to me that the advertising campaign conducted by the Sanitary Development League has been successful and I am anxious to harmonize the interests of the industry here so as to conduct a campaign along the same lines."

Follow Calif. Lead

The plumbing industry of Oregon, of Northern California, and of Washington are planning to follow the lead of Southern California in campaigns that will educate the public to the economy and other advantages that come through the use of the best in plumbing materials.

In the advertising of the Sanitary Development League it is pointed out that the selection of plumbing for homes, industrial plants and for all uses is of first importance because improper and inadequate sanitation results in most of the epidemics of disease, in increased expenditures for repairs and in other hardships. Attention is drawn to the fact that most of the materials used in plumbing are hidden behind walls or under floors and that therefore only concerns of the highest standing should be retained for the work.

Members of the Sanitary Development League, which is composed of the leading firms of Southern California, are pledged to maintain the highest ideals and standards of the industry and are therefore recommended to the public. They may be identified by the emblem of the league.

Tree Conservation Is Advocated by Expert

KENT, Ohio, May 10.—Weeds will be used for fuel, and that soon, according to Congressman Martin L. Davey, at a banquet here. His statement was in the form of a warning of what will happen if steps are not taken soon to replenish the country's rapidly vanishing supply of timber.

Davey, in his private capacity, is head of the Davey Tree Institute, which makes a specialty of doctoring diseased shade trees and bringing them back to life and vigor.

"In China," Davey said, "our investigators found that scarcity of trees was such that natives are forced to gather weeds for fuel with which to cook their meals. Now even the weed supply is so depleted that in some districts there are not enough to supply fuel three months in the year."

"Great areas of China are virtually bare of trees, and the United States is rapidly approaching the same state. Steps should be taken at once to reforest our land if we are not to be forced to the same unhappy substitutes which the Chinese have adopted."

CHINESE LOSING TREATY BENEFITS

Advantage Gained at U. S. Arms Meet Kicked Away Say Diplomats

By GEORGE R. HOLMES For International News Service WASHINGTON, May 10.—Sleepy, lethargic, sprawling giant-wide across half of Asia, China is literally kicking away the advantages which her delegates at the Washington arms conference fought so hard to obtain a year ago.

This represents the well nigh universal opinion in Washington today among officials and diplomats who have watched with growing concern the development of a state of governmental chaos in Peking, the fruit of which now appears in the spectacular Shantung bandit raid.

China came to Washington a year and a half ago seeking a detente prize—relief from foreign interference in her internal affairs. Thanks to the magnificent fight put up by her delegates, in which they were aided by the United States, the Chinese were successful in removing most of the foreign grip that had been strangling their country since the boxer rebellion in 1900.

Powers Loosed Grip

The powers agreed to let go most of their hold on China, customs were raised to give China more revenue, the open door was reaffirmed, foreign postoffices were to be abolished, extra-territoriality was started for the discard, and finally all of the powers agreed to respect the "sovereignty and independence" of China, to provide the "fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity to China to develop" and to refrain from seeking advantage either as to trade or opportunity.

The treaties were heralded as constituting a Chinese "bill of rights" and all of the powers were to lend China a helping hand.

China guaranteed to protect foreigners, and put her own house in order, particularly her military, judicial and economic affairs.

The powers have observed their part of the bargain and China has failed in hers, it was declared by administration officials.

FIXES BLAME OF CHINESE OUTRAGE

Leniency of Great Powers Held Responsible by Jap Diplomat

By DUKE N. PARRY For International News Service TOKIO, May 10.—Torikichi Obata, who has just resigned as Japanese minister to China, in an exclusive interview with International News Service, today, declared that the "leniency of America, Japan and England towards China" is responsible for bandit outrages in that country such as the recent seizure of foreign passengers from a Shanghai-Peking train.

"The blame for this and other Chinese outrages lies partly at the door of the powers who have had close dealings with China—America, Britain and Japan," said the Japanese diplomat. "These nations have conceded so much to China and they have been so lenient that now things have gone too far."

Many More Outrages

"This is not the first time a train has been held up by the brigands. Japanese nationals have been victims. This is merely one of a long list of outrages by Chinese. The Japanese do not forget that their consulate at Tautau-Kau was burned."

"Unquestionably Mr. Schurman (Jacob Gould Schurman, American ambassador at Peking) is angry over this latest outrage. But he is only experiencing what we have had to bear here too long. "What have the Chinese done in Shantung? They have ruined the roads, cut down the forests and brought about the worst conditions in many years. The outside world should know the facts."

U. S. Notes of 1790 Found in Old Tree

CANTON, O., May 10.—Three hundred dollars in United States notes, a century and a third old, were found in the heart of an oak tree by Harry Smith and James McGhee, Augusta township farmers, when they cut down the aged monarch of the forest recently.

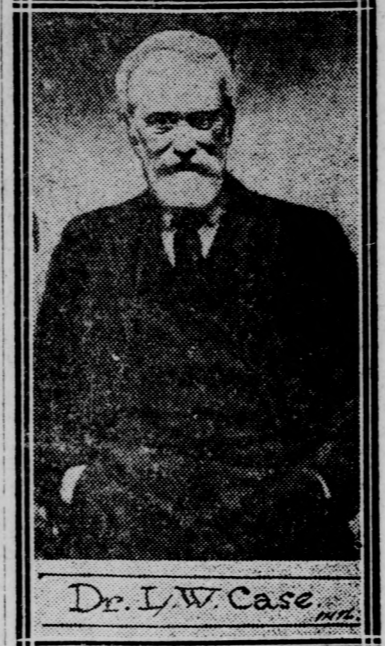

The money is believed to have been hidden away by army couriers in the early days of the American republic when hard pressed by Indian foes. The notes were found in a cavity, but as the air reached it the paper crumpled into dust, although a fragment, showing the date of the bills—1790—remained.

Authorities upon ancient currency said that if care had been exercised the thirty $10 notes found would have been worth at a low estimate $1000 apiece, and collectors might even have bid higher.

The theory entertained is that the money was sent to pay some of the soldiers in this territory then engaged in quelling Indian outbreaks. The tree stood close to the famous Tuscarawas trail that ran from Fort Duquesne, Pittsburgh, to Marietta.

Five-eighths of the people of Belgium speak Flemish, it is estimated.

Traces His Genealogy Back to First Man

Dr. LaFayette Wallace Case, of Colorado Springs, Colorado, has the most remarkable family tree on record, and through the families of Seth, Enos, Noah and thirty-one others has traced his origin right back to Adam.

Without a single miss he has traced his lineage back through 500 years and declares he has found himself related to all the royal families of Europe, his most famous ancestor being William the Conqueror. He also stems from the most prominent Americans of Colonial days, as well as from characters in the Bible. Dr. Case, who is 88, has been working on his family tree for sixty years.

CITY MUST GROW TO HIGH IDEALS

Love for One's Community Is Vital Need, Declares Santa Monican

The progress that has been made by the Greater Santa Monica Club in bringing that city to the attention of the world was told by Sam Koch, first vice-president of the organization and chairman of its publicity committee, in a talk before the members of the Glendale Realty Board at their weekly luncheon in the Harriett Mae tea room on East Harvard yesterday, in which he stated that the first requisite for any city is that it must have an ideal toward which to work and which it will inculcate in the minds of every one of its citizens.

For the first six months' work of the Greater Santa Monica Club, Mr. Koch stated, the sum of $7,500 was raised at one dinner, and plans were laid to spread abroad the advantages of the city, with special stress on the attractions that were calculated to appeal to the home-making and spiritual sides of one's nature, rather than on the physical advantages. The success of the campaign is shown by the fact that the club is now faced with the necessity of enlarging its organization to meet the demands that are being made on it from all sides and to increase its all-round efficiency.

Club Is Non-Partisan

The club maintains a non-partisan attitude on all subjects and confines itself solely to advertising Santa Monica, working with the various civic bodies to secure the best results for the city. The vital need, Mr. Koch declared, is to generate in the mind of every man in any community that seeks to build itself up to the level of a high ideal that love for his fellowman and that readiness to overlook his failings, and to work together with him alone can produce results, and to do this there must be a deep faith in and love for the community.

Mr. Koch's speech was warmly received and it is stated that the thought he presented to the realtors will have an important bearing on the plans that are now under consideration for advertising Glendale.

Charles B. Guthrie outlined the progress that has been made by the jinks committee in planning their entertainment, stating that it is intended to have an outdoor program that will include a dinner of the best quality to be had anywhere, a vaudeville program, games, and a Glendale Gridiron Club that will present a number of specialties similar to those staged at the Gridiron Club in Washington. It is also hoped, he stated, to secure the presence of a number of the leading state and county officials, and to arrange a day's program that will be one of the high lights in the history of the board. In the discussion that followed it was decided to leave the actual date of the jinks day undecided for the present, as well as the site for the entertainment, and it is probable that the program as outlined by Mr. Guthrie will be somewhat modified before it is finally rounded into the shape it will take on jinks day.

A representative of the Glendale Realty Board will attend the meeting that is to be held tonight at the Wilson Avenue Intermediate school to plan for exercises on Decoration Day, May 30.

Use Standard Forms

It was decided to adopt the standard forms governing real estate transactions that have been approved and issued by the California Real Estate Association, and these will be ordered for members of the board through the office of the secretary.

The success of the publicity committee in securing space in the newspapers of adjacent cities for a number of stories dealing with real estate conditions here was warmly commended by the board. A letter from the Glendale

Parents! Watch Your Children!

—That drooping of the shoulders so common in the school room is caused by a mis-placed or subluxated vertebra. It is brought about in this way: The child, who is full of life, is compelled to sit still while in the school room, and, naturally, the muscles which hold the spine become tired, and finally relaxed. So when they are suddenly brought into action are delinquent, while the other muscles have only been resting.

The running, jumping and other activities of the recess periods, tend to over-power the muscles which have been held in the strain, and an Adaptive Subluxation is produced to equalize the tension. This Adaptive Subluxation, if continued, will become permanent and will result in disorders of the respiratory apparatus, the digestive tract or kidneys, according to the location of the subluxation. A few adjustments now will restore the spine to normal, and will also keep the child fit, mentally.

That Rich Feeling

TODAY'S SHORT STORY BY Ad Schuster

"Wal, Abner, any nearer that tar fortune?"

Every time Abner Wade left his claim for a brief visit in Sara City someone was sure to ask the question. As a rule your miner lets his neighbor work in peace and asks no questions, but the case of Abner was different. In the first place, everyone knew that the ground in which he was digging held no ore, and, in the second, they had all told him as much. Abner Wade continued in his task and never left off predicting that some day he would strike it rich.

It was a long time since Sara City had seen even a strike of modest proportions. In consequence, the two had dwindled until there were less than a score of families left. Abner Wade, in his cabin in the unpromising fields, planned what he would do when he was rich.

"I'll show the town a tip-snorting old time, and every teller what has laughed at me will have to apologize. It won't be long now." But because he was old the work progressed very slowly.

When Abner made his strike he hitched up his horse and drove way over to Marysville to turn the gold into money. He would not let the town know until he was good and ready.

In a new green suit, checked with light pink, his trousers tucked in shiny boots and with a high hat which shone with silken splendor, Abner Wade drove into Sara City, hitched his horse to one of the posts in front of the hotel and took his accustomed seat on the porch, tilting his chair back against the building. He'd make them ask him—knock their eyes out for a spell.

The townsfolk removed their pipes and regarded the resplendent miner. They knew he expected attention and fought against the habit which was theirs of remaining unmoved under all circumstances. Yet this looked like gold, and gold breaks all resolutions.

There was a murmur at the far end of the porch and a scuffling of feet. The male population of Sara City advanced.

"Abner Wade, you old chicken thief, do you mean to say you struck a vein in that claim of yours?"

"It is a claim," said Abner, "concerning which many spurge-ous remarks have been passed." Followed a moment of silence worth ten years in the life of Abner Wade.

"We were wrong," one of the men said. "We'll admit it. Come on, tell us about it."

"In the case it was my intention, and I stand by the idea, to invite every man, woman and child in this town to dinner at this hotel tonight."

Then Abner Wade stood on his chair and shouted as loud as his shrill voice allowed, threw his hat in the street, and jumped down in the center of a cheering group. This was the formal announcement the men had been expecting, the time-honored way of telling of one's luck.

The noise brought all the women, children and dogs to the center of town and the celebration, with Abner in its center, lasted until dinner, when everyone crowded into the hotel dining room, filling it again as it had been filled in the fifties.

Next day everyone wanted to see the claim. Those who expected Abner to lead the way were disappointed, for he went to the railroad station and announced he was going to San Francisco to close a large deal for the property.

"I'm a bit too old to work it," said Abner. As the train pulled out he stood on the rear platform, where he waved his hand grandly at the group who watched. When the train was out of sight there was a stampede for the claim.

Twenty miles away, at the first stop, Abner Wade got out and stood beside the track. In the brush he found his mule, his pack and his tools. In a few minutes he was dressed again as the miner and prospector.

"I'll just mosey up the hills and look for another claim," he said. "There's enough left to grubstake for a couple of months." He thought of the celebration in the town, of the pocket of gold he had discovered and the two hundred dollars it had brought.

"They will never know how much I got before she pinched out," he mused, "and I always did hanker for the feeling of being rich."

Tomorrow—Ghost City.

A HAS-BEEN FAT

"Dear Doctor: I have discovered one can take that slack from the neck by the head movements—the turning from side to side and up and down about twenty-five times each way, morning and night, with a little rubbing after each exercise. I lost two inches in the neck and for my age I have got it down very smooth. I find since I quit dieting that I can hold my weight. I do my exercises twice daily; hope I never get so I cannot do that."

"I do very little counting calories now, but am a little careful. Well, I travel over a big territory and have a lot of fat customers, and, believe me, lady, I have made you popular in my territory. I am your walking delegate."

"Well, I feel grateful to you, and some day if in your town shall surely call and pay my bill. Am not looking for popularity, and got to be very bashful while fat, so will not sign my name, but trust me, I am working for you all the time. Yours very truly—A Has-Been-Fat."

Your very helpful, appreciative letter pays the bill, Mr. Has-Been—rather Mr. Has-Been-Fat. We can't call anyone with your stamper a has-been. Thank you for writing. You mustn't be so bashful now. I take it that you are a canny bachelor. Your cough was probably caused because your heart couldn't lift a ton of fat and pump sufficient blood to the lungs at the same time, and so your lungs became somewhat inflamed as well as crowded.

I do not advise a reduction as fast as yours usually, but you evidently were not harmed by it. Our followers who are not yet down to normal weight will be glad to know they can hold to normal after reaching it, with very little trouble. The question "Will I always have to keep up dieting," you have answered.

BEAUTY CHATS

A "FLAT" FIGURE

I have a delightful and very, very chubby friend who has quite recently gone in for reducing exercises. She told me she wanted to make her figure of a fashionable flatness, and to that she was taking somersault exercises every night. Somewhat mystified, I asked for more particulars. She lies on her back on the floor and by various upheavals of her feet and knees she manages to turn herself completely over, to turn a back somersault, as the children say. I can't see exactly how this is going to give her a flat stomach and abdomen, as she expects—unless by the Cene method of the force of her imagination—and somehow the idea of her tumbling about was so delicious that I said nothing, especially as I didn't live in the apartment under hers!

But the first part of her treatment is all right if you want a flat stomach and abdomen. Lie on your back on the floor. Bring one knee up to the chest, straighten out the leg and lower it as slowly as possible to the floor. Repeat this performance with the other leg. Do this with first one and then the other leg a dozen times—but only a few at first. You will find it hard.

Do it again, using both legs at the same time. You will feel the greatest pull upon all the muscles over the stomach; if you are quite flabby, you will even be a little sore the first day or so. But it is the very best method, almost the only method, of making a weak or fat figure strong and properly slim here.

It is particularly good for mothers after childbirth; they cannot lose their figures if they practice this faithfully every day.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE FOLLY OF SHRILLNESS

The other evening I saw two women trying to teach a group of children some new games.

Of course it is very hard to get the attention of a miscellaneous group of children who are under no restraint such as is felt in the schoolroom. But, before you can give them the directions that are essential to any organized playing, you must get them to listen to you. And the first woman found that very difficult. She would pound on the piano and then, when she had a partial silence, she would start to talk. Some of the children would still be whispering, and to override this she would raise her voice. Her eagerness to make them understand, her nervousness and her sense of the necessity of overriding the other sounds would soon show itself in her voice. It would grow shrill and nasal. And the shriller and more nasal it grew, the louder would grow the whispering and the more uncontrolled would be the inattention.

The second woman would hold up her hand and ask for attention in a fairly loud voice. Then she would wait. The children near at hand would be interested in what she was going to say and they would hush the children on the outer fringe of the group who were still talking. And while they did it the woman would stand there, smiling, patient and silent. When there was silence and attention she would begin to speak. Always in a low voice. "You must be very quiet," she would say, "if you want to hear what I have to say and learn to play this new game." And then she would lower her voice still further, and having the need of attention thus forced upon them and being influenced further by the quieting effect of her low, even, pleasant voice, the children would give her wonderful attention.

Worth Remembering

I was very much impressed by that little demonstration. It is worth remembering by all who deal with children.

It seemed to me it showed two things. First, that if you can determine to put the burden of a relationship (as that between teacher and taught) partly on the child, instead of carrying it all of this paper. But they cannot be sent unless you address the return envelope to yourself.

Every time I go into a house where makeshifts are used instead of some convenience, I always experience a feeling of deep satisfaction. For I know that the housekeeper of that home is sensible and courageous.

So many women today think that they "simply must have" everything in the way of furnishings and labor-savers—whether they can afford them or not. Of course it is ideal to have everything of this sort; but it is not ideal if one must live beyond one's means in order to get them.

When I go into the home of some young couple and notice that the fireplace is unequipped with andirons, I say to myself: "Good for them! They're waiting till they can afford to outfit that fireplace. They aren't robbing Peter to pay Paul and outfitting it anyway."

And I believe the majority of people feel as I do about this question of living within one's means. I believe that the world in general respects a couple who can face facts and dare to go without things even under the scrutiny of critical visitors.

I know of a dear little bride who has longed for a chafing dish for over a year. Her husband makes a fairly good salary—and I know that plenty of other girls in her position would have bought a chafing dish long ago. Yet she shakes her sensible little blonde head and says: "We can't afford one. There are so many expenses. Perhaps in a year or two more we'll be able to." So, Sunday night after Sunday night she invites her friends in to tea and cooks delicious chafing dish recipes in a double boiler on her kitchen range. The dishes taste just as well; nothing is lacking but the style which a chafing dish undoubtedly gives. And her guests think she is sensible.

Living is so high today that few families can have all the modern conveniences. And, just between you and me, a great many families that do have them all are what is popularly termed "four-flushers"—people who are apparently well-to-do, but actually have nothing behind them financially. With a snug little total in our savings bank pass book, we can more easily face the world in our old clothes or entertain our callers in our incompletely furnished home.

'TURN TO THE RIGHT' IS CALLED AMERICA'S GREATEST COMEDY
Clean, Sparkling Production Of Winchell Smith And John E. Hazzard To Open Chautauqua

"Turn to the Right," declared by competent New York theatrical critics to be America's greatest comedy, will be one of the feature attractions at Chautauqua. It is to be presented here under the direction of Elias Day, well-known Chicago coach, with a company of professional players. The story was written by Winchell Smith and John E. Hazzard, and is "sweet as honey," clean, wholesome, with a sparkling humor that is irresistible. It is the story of an erring boy's regeneration through the Christian influence of his old-fashioned mother. An honest-hearted, exuberant youth leaves his country home to seek the city's riches. He returns stamped with a prison record.

"Turn to the Right," a sparkling comedy drama with an appeal, a laugh, a lesson and a world of entertainment for everyone, makes a splendid opening bill for the Ellison-White Chautauqua, which begins in Glendale on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The big tent, located at the corner of Orange and Harvard, is being put in place today and everything will be in readiness tomorrow for a week of pleasure and entertainment.

The Chautauqua brings to Glendale this year a total of fifty-five entertainers in a program suited to the diversity of tastes which the average American audience of today represents. The offering for Saturday will be an afternoon program by Alice Louise Shrode, the juvenile entertainer, in impersonations, dramatic readings and whistling numbers, followed by Evelyn McFarlane McClusky in a musical lecture demonstration. Barnyard Fowls Lend
Motif for Millinery

LONDON, May 10.—Women will wear the plumage of the barnyard fowl, the rooster, the domestic duck and the guinea fowl in their hats this season.

This revolution in hat millinery is said to be a direct outcome of the passing of the Anti-Plumage bill, which had Lady Astor as one of its chief supporters.

The Duchess of Portland, a lifelong supporter of the anti-plumage movement, has already appeared wearing the feathers of a barnyard fowl, and many famous society women are following her example.

Long, curled cockerel feathers, dyed in brilliant shades or left in their natural shades of blue and green, will be worn under the brims of the hats.

There are other models now being exhibited which put Joseph's coat in the shade—hand-painted hats, soft straw hats and multi-colored ribbon hats, to name a few.

As an alternative to these brilliant models there is the fruitarian hat—a straw shape forming a background for a wreath of red currants, grapes, miniature apples and any other fruit that the milliner can devise.

report from the Public Service Commission.

Plans were discussed for setting out trees along the highway from the western boundary to the Summit at the extreme eastern boundary of Tujuanga. Permission for this must first be gotten from the Highway Commission and it was suggested that correspondence be carried on with that body to this end. The matter was referred to the ways and means committee.

Clusky has conducted more music memory contests than any other person in the United States and her lecture will interest alike the talented musician and those whose souls perhaps are more musically inclined than their fingers.

Among the lectures for the week are Dr. Ng Poon Chew, the Chinese statesman, who lectures on "China and the Future Peace of the Pacific," on Saturday evening, and Tom Skeyhill, recently returned from a year in European countries, who has built from his observations on his journeys a lecture called "The New Renaissance of European Civilization," which forms the night program on Monday. Beatrice Stuart Wel- der gives a rapid-fire, thoroughly entertaining lecture while she demonstrates cartooning on Monday afternoon, and on Wednesday lecture "Building Better Business by Building Better Men," Jamie Heron has devoted the past

STUDENTS STAGE
SNAPPY COMEDY

Senior Play Is Presented At Matinee Before H. S. Pupils

The senior class of the high school tonight and tomorrow night will present "A Pair of Sixes."

Heat did not prevent a goodly number of enthusiastic students and their friends yesterday afternoon from attending the matinee. This was one of the most successful ever put on by the dramatic department of Glendale Union High school.

The play, which is by Edward People, is one of sparkling comedy. There is not a serious line in it and many of them are funny.

Allan Pollock was undoubtedly the star of the show. His careful interpretation of the part of the butler in his business partner's house brought howls of laughter from the audience. His "turning of the tables," both literally and figuratively, upon his friend showed excellent change of character only equaled by his self-assurance.

The comedy of the irate partner, George Jansen, was done with a sincerity that made one wonder if they would ever speak to each other again. He displayed distinct talent as a comedian. From his first entrance he continued to dominate every scene in which he appeared.

As the attorney of the partners, Harry Bennett showed a suave poise, in which he lost his own personality and developed a stage character that stood out in bold relief against the quarreling of his clients.

Charlotte Winsel, as the confident young American girl, lived up to the requirements of the leading lady. Her solution of the problem in the play was one of the high spots.

To be a hysterical wife and not to miss a single line of the comedy was the difficult task of Elaine Buttrudd, who showed a delightful stage presence and an easy grace. She "took down" the house in nervous hysteria, yet there was none of the whining that usually accompanies such an interpretation of the jealous wife.

few years to addressing Rotary clubs and Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, and there will be much in his lecture to hold the attention of the wide-awake business man.

Music lovers will be charmed by the big double program for Sunday afternoon, which will be given by Charles Mitchell Mixer's Orchestral quartet, and James Hamilton, an American lyric tenor. This program will be a combination of the usual afternoon and night programs and will be an unusual number.

'MOTHER' KEYNOTE
AT CLUB'S LUNCH

Exchange Members Promise To Wear Carnations Next Sunday

Glendale Exchangeites stood with bowed heads in honor of their mothers before proceeding with their weekly luncheon yesterday noon at 111 South Orange street in the Golden Spanish Cafe, and each member of the club promised to observe Sunday as "Mother's Day" by wearing a carnation.

Several solos were sung by Mrs. W. P. Champion of Los Angeles. They included "Mother MacChree" and "Dear Old Pal." By special request she sang a popular number, "You've Got to See Mamma Every Night." She was accompanied by Mike Kaufman, who is a member of the club.

The capital prize of the occasion was a straw hat—oh, yes, a new one—brought from 135 1/2 South Brand boulevard by I. B. Carlock, the haberdasher. It was won, amid much excitement, by none other than Capt. D. Ripley Jackson. Because of a technicality he refused to keep it. No, there was nothing the matter with the hat. On the second drawing, it was won by R. W. Jessup of 5430 Phyllis street. He promised to bring the attendance prize for the next luncheon, but did not say whether it would be milk or cream.

John Judd deserves honorable mention for his humorous portrayal of the office boy, and George Jett made an excellent business man.

Ralph Van Hoorebeck, as the nervous and dashing salesman, got applause both on his entrance with his exit, and carried his part with a breezy manner that made it stand out.

Work Is Artistic All the characters were sure of themselves and the matinee had none of the rough spots or the performance. Every grouping was a picture, every piece of business showed careful rehearsal. Much of the credit for the success of the show is being given to Harold Brewster, head of the dramatic department, who not only devoted his time to perfecting the performance, but also designed the scenery and painted the set. The tapestry used in the second and third acts was made by Miss Esther Crandall's Art Class. The settings featured the impressionistic. They were simple, rich and effective, serving as neutral background for the actors.

NEW ESCAPE METHOD

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—The latest method of effecting an escape from a jail cell was revealed when G. W. Burns, arrested Monday on suspicion of forgery, secured his liberty by "swapping" identification tickets with Earl Wing, who was in the same cell with Burns, charged with drunkenness.

Burns, who is said to be a notorious criminal, was arrested on advice from Dallas, Texas. He is wanted in many eastern cities on similar charges, according to Captain of Detectives G. K. Home.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—Portland is distressed by a controversy over the question of whether the name of the financial thoroughfare shall be named "Wall Street" after New York's famous business center, writes James S. Sheehy.

TOMORROW—Labor shortage is denied by Chicago agency, which says thousands of able-bodied men in the south should be put to work in mills and factories, writes Kenneth Harris, of the Illinois metropolis.

By JAMES S. SHEEHY For International News Service

PORTLAND, Ore., May 10.—backed up their remarks before the city fathers.

"Why change to Wall street?" they ask. "It isn't a banking street and it carries a bad name. The proposed change heatedly declared that Wall street is synonymous with all that is wild and heartless in the way of speculation and that no counterpart is needed in Portland or any other city which hopes to obtain a reputation as a place of homes, honesty and fair dealing.

Verbal javelins have been hurled with careless abandon and frequently with deadly accuracy in the city council chambers by proponents and opponents of the plan to change the name of Stark street to Wall street.

Stark street is a rather narrow unpretentious thoroughfare, running east and west through the heart of Portland's business area. The usual class of business and office structures for years occupied spaces fronting the street. Gradually the banking interests invaded the area, and with the completion of two large banks, now under construction, there will be five such structures on Stark street within a distance of two blocks.

Owners of 40,000 of the 47,000 feet of property involved have requested the change to Wall street. They insist it will be of benefit to the entire city in centering attention on the financial interests of the city. Owners and tenants are clamoring for the change.

But pioneers, who saw Portland grow from a village, will have "none of it." Substitution of the name "Wall" for "Stark" would be rank "imitation" and an insult to the memory of Benjamin Stark, after whom the street was named. They argue a petition signed by hundreds of objectors

The Oregon Pioneers' association is solidly opposed to the change. Stark street, they say, honors the name of a tribe which rescued the hills and valleys from their wild state and the British, and the name of a soldier who died in a famous engagement in the war which made America famous.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LEAKY ROOF

Once upon a time, when Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his muskrat lady housekeeper, were eating breakfast in the hollow stump bungalow, something splashed into the bunny gentleman's cup of carrot coffee, wetting his pink, twinkling nose.

"My goodness, Nurse Jane," cried Uncle Wiggily. "What was that?" "It seemed to be a drop of water and it came down from the ceiling," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy looking up.

"No, but I shall as soon as the sun shines," promised Uncle Wiggily. The next day the sun came out, the rain stopped, and Nurse Jane could take away the dishpan in which she had caught the drops from the leaky roof.

"How are you going to mend the roof?" asked Nurse Jane, when the bunny reached the bungalow with the bark and gum. "I'm going to mend the hole in my roof as the Indians mended the holes in their birch bark canoes," answered Uncle Wiggily.

He sat down.

without asking; don't you?" he inquired. "Is it—is it something about ears?" faltered the bunny.

"You guessed it!" laughed the Bear. "But I'll be polite about it. Go ahead, finish mending that hole in your roof. I'll sit down and wait, and when you are through I'll nibble your ears." The Bear sat down. But, as it happened, he sat down on a big chunk of the sticky-icky spruce gum. And no sooner had the Bear thus fastened himself to the roof than Uncle Wiggily saw his chance.

"Oh, ho! Nibble my ears, will you?" laughed the bunny. "Well, I guess you aren't going to do it right away! You'll sit here for a while!"

Try as he did, the Bear could not pull his shaggy fur loose from the gum on the roof. There he was stuck fast! Uncle Wiggily went quickly down the ladder and called two Police Dogs, who poured warm water and melted butter around the Bear until they had loosened him from the shingles, and then they arrested him.

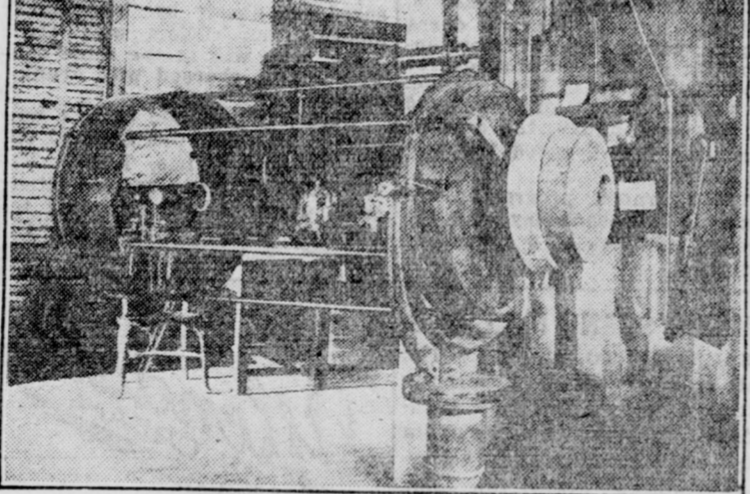

"Next time you should look before you sit down," said Uncle Wiggily, as the Police Dogs took the Bear off to jail. Then the bunny finished mending the hole in his roof, and it didn't leak any more.

And if the soup spoon doesn't drum on the frying pan and make the chair march around the table like a soldier, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily in a hole.

SCIENCE and INVENTION

By Arthur Budd

Star-Ray Heat-Measure. The Ray, Admitted at Tube to Left, Which Contains the "Bolometer"

At the great observatory on the summit of Mount Wilson, in California, accurate measurements have recently been made of the temperature of three giant stars—Betelgeuse, Capella and Aldabaran. These are among the mightiest of all stars, our own solar luminary being a mere pigmy compared with them.

For the purpose in question, the rays of a star-beam were gathered into a focus by the 100-inch concave mirror of a reflecting telescope, and thrown through a tube in which was suspended a platinum thread less in thickness than the finest hair. Through this thread, upon which the concentrated beam was made to fall, an electric current was kept continually flowing.

The electrical resistance of any substance increases with its temperature. Thus it was only necessary to measure the electrical resistance of the platinum thread in order to determine its temperature. This was accomplished by the use of a galvanometer, the most essential part of which—the brain, as one might say, of the whole apparatus—was a little balance, quite the most wonderful thing of its kind in the world.

The beam of the balance was a thread of spun glass five inches long and less in diameter than a human hair. In the exact middle of it was a concave mirror as big as a pinhead. The mirror was also of glass, and weighed only two and a half milligrammes—about as much as the hind-leg of a fly. It was fastened upon a square piece of metal from a dragonfly's wing; and the whole affair was suspended from a fibre of spun quartz crystal two feet long and one five-thousandths of an inch thick.

The entire apparatus employed for measuring the temperature of the stars occupies a good-sized building. It is impossible here to give a more detailed description of the way in which it is operated, the mechanism being exceedingly complex. Suffice it, then, to say that the instrument's faculty of perception is so acute that it is able to

LOOKING AFTER THE OIL SCREEN

It Must Be Clean Or Oil Will Not Flow. THE METAL GAUGE OIL STRAINER in the crankcase of the engine, surrounding the intake of the pump, is designed to prevent solid particles, that collect in the oil, from entering the pump and being forced to the bearing surfaces. These particles of decomposed oil and carbon are caught by the meshes of the strainer and, in time, obstruct them so that oil can pass to the pump less rapidly than the pump calls for it, the result being that the supply of oil to engine bearings is reduced or even cut off. Keeping the strainer clean and free for the oil to flow is thus a very important matter.

In most engines the strainer is so arranged as to be quite readily removable, it being quite commonly held by a flange, which can be unbolted from the outside of the oil pan and taken out when the oil suction pipe has been detached. The best practice is to clean it thoroughly each time the oil is changed or at least after each flushing out of the system, which process loosens most of the solid matter and causes it to attach itself to the strainer, when the engine is run, during the cleaning out process. The actual cleaning of the screen is best done by "brushing" it in kerosene or forcing clean kerosene through from the inside. Great care should be taken that no dirt or lint be left on the inside of the gauze, as this will be carried into the pump. In replacing the filter, be sure that it and its pipe are secured in an oil-tight manner.

the muffler. Your engine may miss occasionally, when closely throttled, on account of a slight air-leak or simply because the spark plug position is badly chosen. Often the use of a somewhat over-rich mixture, at nearly closed throttle, will prevent missing and subsequent muffler explosions. Throwing out of gear and letting the engine idle, while coasting, should do away with the explosions.

Postal Officers Hunt For 'Milk, Manitoba'

TAMPA, Fla., May 10.—When Mrs. Sallie Japes mailed a letter containing $5 addressed to "Frank Fisher, Milk Man," at the Plant City post office, the newly appointed clerk thought the "Man" meant Manitoba, Canada, and put the letter with the Canadian mail. No such place as "Milk, Manitoba" having been found by the Canadian postal authorities, the letter was returned to the sender, who in the meantime had made complaint.

The Extravagance of Cheap Plumbing

PLUMBING is the most important thing in your home. Give much thought to and exercise the utmost care in selecting both your plumber and your plumbing.

No one who buys inferior goods has a right to complain if they fail to give good service or permanent satisfaction.

Don't buy seconds or damaged goods. Buy direct and pay only the price of the plumbing with no added fee to any one. Remember one-half of the plumbing in your home is out of sight, hidden behind walls, under floors where it cannot be seen. Therefore, you must employ a plumber in whom you have confidence.

Select a member of the Sanitary Development League. It is composed of over 200 high class, successful plumbing concerns in Southern California, who are pledged to maintain the highest business standards. Dealing with one of them is your greatest safeguard of price, quality and workmanship.

BURBANK

TIME SCHEDULE ON S. P. CHANGES

Burbank Is Benefited by New Train Service; Legislation to Present Piano

A change in the schedule of Southern Pacific trains, effective today, will benefit Burbank greatly, three additional fast through trains stopping here daily, from now on.

This information is given out by Arthur J. Rehwood, traveling passenger agent of the company, who states that this change in schedule will make it unnecessary for passengers traveling to San Francisco and Sacramento to go to Los Angeles to board their trains.

The added service gives Burbank connections with the following trains: The Shore Line Limited, northbound, for San Francisco, will stop here at 8:27 a. m.; train No. 59, northbound, for Sacramento, Portland and Seattle, will stop here at 6:44 p. m.; and another through train for San Francisco will stop here at 5:28 p. m.

From San Francisco, Burbank will henceforth have train No. 110, arriving at 11:40 a. m.; and the southbound Shore Line Limited, arriving at 10 p. m.

Local Service Changes A number of changes are effective in the local service: train No. 107 will leave Burbank for Bakersfield and Fresno at 11 a. m. instead of 8:40 a. m.; a new train, to be known as No. 35, will leave Burbank at 7:45 a. m. for Saugus and Santa Paula and valley points; train No. 37, which now leaves here at 5:41 p. m., for Santa Paula and valley points, and Oxnard, will henceforth leave at 4:45 p. m.

Other minor changes will be announced in a new time-table, soon to be issued, Mr. Rehwood states. The eastbound Sunset Limited will continue to stop at Burbank at 7:15 a. m., to take on passengers for eastern points, via Los Angeles and El Paso; while train No. 30 will henceforth carry a through standard sleeper, passing here at 10 a. m., for Chicago, this car being attached to the fast Golden State Limited in Los Angeles.

Commenting on these improvements in service, Agent W. R. Armstrong states that they are the result of a constantly increasing volume of business handled by the station. "So greatly has Burbank grown of late," says Mr. Armstrong, "that the railroad feels it is in justice bound to better its service, desiring to give the people of the city the best schedule it possibly can."

Legion Post to Give Piano With every copy of "Armistice Day Forever," the American Legion march introduced last fall by Sousa's band, goes a ticket—and on Saturday, May 12, the last day of the Merchants' Exposition, the lucky number drawn will receive a fine upright piano, secured through Ted Covel, secretary of the Kiwanis club and a loyal supporter of the legion.

"This is a cracker-jack instrument," says Legionaire Roest, "guaranteed to stand up under anything from furnishing an evening's entertainment to drowning out the neighbor's saxophone."

Copies of the program are on sale at the legion booth at the exposition and elsewhere, the number being retailed exclusively through the American Legion, Burbank post, No. 159, and auxiliary. It is the desire of the legionnaires to have a copy of this march in every home in the valley.

Great interest in it has been displayed at the Victory the last few nights, where Manager Loper has used it as part of his repertoire. It has a healthy, hearty swing to it and is a composition that critics say is of enduring quality.

New Fire Alarm System A new system of signals has been adopted by the Burbank Fire Department, so that in the future the public as well as the firemen will know at once the exact location of a blaze, upon hearing the alarm. To accomplish this end, the city has been divided into four sections, with Olive avenue and Third street as the dividing lines, as follows: District No. 1—South of Third and east of Olive. District No. 2—North of Third and east of Olive. District No. 3—North of Third and west of Olive. District No. 4—South of Third and west of Olive.

At the first alarm, there will be four taps of the bell in rapid succession, it is announced. There will come the slower taps, the number depending on the district in which the fire is located—one tap if in District No. 1, two if in District No. 2, and so on. The taps of the bell will be followed by the shriek of the siren.

Pastor Learns About 'Fainting Mary' Trick CHICAGO, May 10.—Rev. Dr. P. Kleupfel came all the way to Chicago from his home in Perrysburg, Ohio, and learned today what the "fainting Mary" gag is all about.

She is Mary Roberts, forty-five, who has six aliases, and is under arrest, charged with teaching the minister the trick. Police charge she knocked at his hotel room door, then appeared embarrassed, and finally fainted in his arms, in accordance with the ancient practice. When she "came to" $60 had vanished from his pockets. Police said they found several other male victims who had feared to report the matter because their wives might misunderstand.

COMMENT That's All

Arrest Speeding Motorman Regarding Traffic Control Klan Comes Out In Open Higher Education Policy

By Gil A. Cowan

SACRAMENTO authorities are going to arrest speeding motormen. Not such a bad idea—and not such a good one either.

It is provoking for a motorist to be swinging along the boulevard pacing a street car and find that the motor cop tags him for too much speed while the railway man goes free.

At the same time, the American public demands speed. Speed is essential in the transportation of many people. Schedules must be observed. Otherwise an entire system would be tied up.

As a general rule, sufficient time is allowed in electric car schedules for the motorman to make their trips within the law. However, in case of delay, due to congestion which usually is not effectively handled by the authorities, it becomes necessary for the motorman to speed up a bit, we believe he should be protected.

To the mind of the writer our whole scheme of traffic control, speed laws, etc., are entirely out of harmony with the public desires in the matter. What is more necessary than laws against speeding is sufficient traffic officers to properly control the pace set on a Sunday or holiday when the great toll of lives is taken.

Also, the traffic officers should spend their time in getting the reckless drivers and the drunken drivers off the road rather than the man who knows how to operate his car efficiently at the good pace.

It is a problem with which the public cares to consider but little except when called to court. Then the squeal about the injustice of it all, but they refuse to do anything to help themselves until they are beyond help. What is needed is a motorists' protective organization which will fight our money-making municipalities off their feet and enact state legislation which will justly deal with traffic violations.

Unmasking the Ku Klux Klan in California seems assured, following the parade of members of the Sacramento klavern last Saturday night.

They came out in the open, showed their faces, most of which looked as good as any we see in the parades of various lodges. But we will admit several looked foolish. Not naturally so, however.

How a person with intelligence can read the revelations of the Ku Klux Klan now appearing in Hearst's International Magazine and continue to hold high esteem for the order is beyond comprehension.

Dealing in principles, many of which are beyond reproach, the Imperial officers mulcted, inveigled, misled and buffaloeed many good men out of fees for initiation, robes, etc.

We have no objection to anyone accepting this hokum for the fun there is in it, or for feeling that the principles expounded by the order express their sentiments, but there is bound to be a natural revolt against the "hook-em and hokum" methods used in the organization.

The best interest of the Klan in California should take it upon their shoulders to lift their organization above reproach, or disassociate themselves from the order.

The unmasking of the Klan bespeaks a desire for the better things.

In view of the widespread discussion of our colleges and the results of higher education, we look with favor on the sentiment expressed in the editorial columns of The San Francisco Journal, as follows:

"President-elect Campbell of the University of California has touched upon a vital question in educational policy which deserves a franker discussion than it often mind the taxpayers' angle of the matter, but what he said was just as applicable to that as it is to the matter of the individual scholarship of the student.

"The state of California owes no one a higher education," says Dr. Campbell, and most of the people should say amen. Those who take out of the pockets of the state more than they put in. Dr. Campbell uses the text to reinforce the idea that those students who fail to make good use of their time in the higher institution should be dropped out to make room for others who will do better. No fault can be found with that, but the deduction could be pushed much further.

"If it is true that the state owes no one a higher education, it would seem that those who are getting a higher education at the expense of the state are getting a special privilege at the expense of those who are less fortunate. It is a debatable question where the responsibility of the state ceases and the responsibility of the individual begins. If the state cannot furnish a higher education to every one who applies, then it is under no obligation to furnish it free to anyone.

"This is by no means a disparagement of higher education, but simply an indication of the point where the expense of such education should be placed. That expense ought to be borne, in large part, by the people who get the benefit of it. Technical education creates a professional class which levies a charge upon society for its services on a scale that makes no allowance for the fact that society furnished its education at

EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK C. C. DRIVE SUCCEEDS

300 Members and $2000 Fund Secured by Teams In Fast Campaign

Eagle Rock's recognized Chamber of Commerce membership drive is "over the top," it was disclosed at a meeting of members and organizers held Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock, in the city hall.

The goal of 300 members and a $2,000 service fund has been reached, reports of the various team captains showed. It is not planned to close the charter membership lists at this time, however, as it is felt there are many who will yet come in. The lists will consequently be held open until the new board of directors have been chosen and have elected their officers, which will not be for two weeks yet.

Ben H. Schouboe, campaign director, states that the directors will be elected by mail, each member of the reorganized chamber to be sent by post a primary ballot containing a complete roster of the membership. Twelve members will be voted for on this ballot, which will be mailed back to organization headquarters.

The ballots will then be counted by the election committee and the twenty-four members receiving the highest number of votes will be nominated. A final ballot will thereupon be mailed out, the members voting for twelve out of the twenty-four on the list.

The twelve receiving the highest number of votes will become the board of directors and will then, within ten days, meet and elect from their midst a president, vice-president and treasurer. The secretary will be chosen by the board, from a list of candidates, and will receive a specific salary, as compensation for devoting his entire time to the duties incumbent upon him as secretary of the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce.

Will Incorporate Mr. Schouboe states that the chamber, when fully organized, will incorporate under the laws of the state, to facilitate its operations and widen the scope of its activities.

One of the first duties of the reorganized chamber will be to outline its program of work for the year. In order that this program may be as comprehensive as possible and contain the suggestions of the entire membership, so far as they are practicable, it is planned by the organizers to mail out in the near future a "write it down" sheet, on which suggestions are to be jotted down from time to time, and the sheet mailed back to organization headquarters when as complete as possible.

It is confidently believed that a great many valuable suggestions will develop from this idea.

Associated with Mr. Schouboe in the work of reorganizing the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce is H. B. Pier.

Pastor at Conference Rev. E. Morgan Isaac, pastor of the Congregational church of Eagle Rock, represented his church at the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Southern California Congregational Conference held in Glendale Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, May 7, 8 and 9.

On Tuesday afternoon Rev. Isaac addressed the conference on the topic, "The Effective Use of the Church Building," citing the various ways in which a house of worship may be employed to the public good, in addition to its program of purely religious activities.

Rev. Isaac spoke from a rich fund of personal experience, citing the civic activities of his own church and of other churches in his experience. To get the full spiritual value out of a modern church, representing its large investment of capital, he argued, the institution must be made to be of service every day in the week.

Parsonage Lacks Bath So Preacher Resigns CADIZ, Ohio, May 10.—Dispute over plans for installing a bathtub in the Presbyterian parsonage at New Athens, near here, is blighted by the resignation of the pastor, Rev. George P. Stewart, in reports circulating here.

It is said the bathroom in the parsonage has never been equipped for duty. Arrangements were made to install the equipment, but, it developed, some of the members of the church thought this was useless in view of the fact that New Athens has no sewerage system. Accordingly the improvement was postponed. This is said to have aroused the ire of the pastor, and his resignation was forthcoming.

WOMEN BREAK JAIL LONDON, May 10.—Twenty-two women escaped from the Union prison in Dublin yesterday, according to a Central News dispatch received here. Eighteen of them were re-captured by troops. All the women were barefoot.

state cost. That is all very smooth for those who get the benefit, but it is not so smooth for those who pay the bill. "We would like to see Dr. Campbell elaborate his thesis that California owes no one a higher education and carry it to its logical conclusion. An application of that logical conclusion would mightily help out the budget of state expenses."
