POT-GROWN STRAWBERRY PLANTS

SET OUT THIS SUMMER, WILL BEAR A FULL CROP OF BERRIES NEXT SPRING

Pot-grown Strawberry Plants are much superior to the ordinary ground layers usually sold, as there is no loss of fine roots in taking them up, consequently transplanting scarcely checks their growth; the earlier the pot-grown plants can be planted after July 20, the larger they will grow, and the more they will produce the next spring. We do not offer a long list of varieties in Strawberries, but only such as may be considered the best of existing sorts.

ABOUT FORWARDING, TIME TO ORDER AND WHEN READY

Strawberry plants are sent by express only at customer's expense, orders filled in rotation. Our first crop of plants will be ready about July 20, and if set out any time before September 15 they should grow into fine plants and bear a full crop of luscious fruit the next season.

Culture.—Strawberries require rich, well-tilled soil, the plants should be set 15 inches apart, in rows 2 feet apart; 100 plants will plant 4 rows, 30 feet long. Firm the plants well in the soil, keep thoroughly cultivated and cut off all runners. In the middle of December cover the beds to a depth of 3 inches with salt-meadow hay, straw or leaves. In April, as soon as the plants show an indication of growth, push the covering away from the plants to allow them to come up through. This mulching protects the plants from the cold in winter and the heat in summer, keeps the fruit clean, and prevents the growth of weeds.

PERFECT AND PISTILLATE STRAWBERRIES. The blossoms of Strawberries are either staminate (perfect-flowering) or are destitute of stamens and are termed pistillate (imperfect-flowering). Pistillate varieties must have a row of some perfect-flowering sort, flowering at the same time, planted every 10 or 12 feet apart among them, or, better yet, every third or fourth plant in the row, to pollinize their blossoms. When properly pollinized, the pistillate varieties are usually the most prolific. Those marked with P are pistillate.

The "Everbearing" Strawberry (Americus). This variety is the finest of this class, and will continue fruiting until way into September. While the berries are not large, they are very rich in aromatic flavor, and of good color. If you desire Strawberries out of season, this is the variety to grow. $1 per doz., $5 per 100.

J., the famous grower of fruit and Strawberries under glass, says: "Pride of Redbank is one of the finest, freest, and best-colored berries for forcing under glass." PANSIES (HP) Boddington's Giants

Sow seed in July or August in light and well-moistened soil, improved by good fertilizer, cow-manure, or bone meal, in flats. When the seedlings are large enough to handle, transplant to permanent position, which must be light, well sheltered, and away from trees or branches. If exhibition blooms are wanted, allow only one bloom to grow on each shoot; water freely.

WINTER-FLOWERING SPENCER SWEET PEAS

Cultivation: White-seeded varieties must be sown in sand in small pots, not in earth, or they will rot or "damp off;" later, transplant to the permanent position. Winter-flowering Sweet Peas should not be sown too thickly, about one ounce to 25 feet is sufficient. Thin out to about 3 inches apart when plants are about 6 inches high; if wanted for Christmas, sow before the end of September; if wanted during January, February and March, about the middle of October; if wanted for Easter, about the first of December. For successful growing, a temperature of 40 to 45 degrees at night and 10 degrees higher in the day is considered best. Watch out for red spider, thrip, and green fly. Feed when plants are in full bloom.

Hardy Perennial and Old-Fashioned Flowers

THAT CAN BE PRODUCED FROM SEED SOWN IN SUMMER AND FALL

Cultural Directions.—Perennial seeds sown in the summer and fall will flower the following year—spring, summer, or fall, according to the variety. The seed should be sown carefully, the same as any choice seed, in well-drained pots, or shallow boxes or pans. Soil should be light and fairly rich, with about one-eighth coarse sand added; after sowing, cover lightly with well-sifted soil. When the plants have become large enough to handle, "prick out" about 2 inches apart, more if you have the room, in shallow boxes or frames, and again, when large enough, set out in the open in well-prepared ground. If this is done in the fall, the young plants should be lightly covered with leaves or short stable manure; this will act as a slight protection, and will be conducive to their thriftiness and next season's growth.

Retarded Lily Bulbs from Cold Storage

Cultural Directions.—Cold-storage Lily bulbs should be potted immediately after they are received from cold storage, well watered and the pots "plunged" in the coolest place available, preferably in a cellar or the north side of a building. This is to induce as much root action as possible before growth starts. After growth starts, many aerial roots form along the lower part of the stem, immediately above the bulb. It is, therefore, well to plant the bulb low in the pot. Fill the pot with earth only three-quarters full. After the growth is 10 to 12 inches high, fill the pot with good compost to within 1 inch of the top. This will furnish nutriment to the aerial roots, which must chiefly sustain the plants.

Autumn and Winter-Blooming Crocuses

Exceedingly beautiful Crocus-like flowers flowering from September to November. These are worthy of a place in every garden. Bulbs are ready for delivery in August and must be planted immediately.

Hardy Crocuses will bloom outdoors in the North between November and March with no protection whatever. Most of them are from the Holy Land, and all should be planted as early as possible in the autumn. The dates given below are the earliest they have been known to flower, but even if they do not bloom until March they are well worth while, for they will usually be seen in bloom amid the snow. The bulbs should be extensively planted, and the risk of losing them can be greatly lessened by planting in the sunniest and most sheltered nooks.

We heartily recommend their use by the thousands on southern estates, especially winter homes in the Carolinas and Georgia, where they will glorify the otherwise barren month of January. We believe, also, that they will succeed even in Canada, though blooming at the end of winter. The time of bloom depends chiefly upon the openness of the winter. Winter flowers are certainly exciting, because of the uncertainty about the time of bloom, and what can be more interesting than to find flowers outdoors in bloom in your home grounds right in the middle of winter! Several of these varieties are the very latest introductions.

NERINE (Amaryllidaceæ)

These popular South African bulbous plants are among the most charming and most useful of all early winter-flowering plants. The length of stem, the vivid and luminous colors, intensified as they are by artificial light, make this comparatively little known plant a most desirable cut-flower for dinner-table decoration. Its use and value for this purpose is well understood in Newport and Lenox. Same cultural directions as amaryllis. The flowers are produced September and October.

LILIUM CANDIDUM

(Madonna, St. Joseph, or Annunciation Lily)

This is the old-fashioned garden Lily. Can be forced for Easter and is perfectly hardy, blooming in the open ground in June. The many snow-white flowers, borne on a stem 3 to 4 feet high, make this Lily most effective. This variety should be planted in the early fall, as it makes an autumn growth. Bulbs grown for us near Paris, France; the large-flowering, thick-petaled variety. 20 cts. each, $1.75 per doz., $12 per 100. Monster bulbs, 25 cts. each, $2.50 per doz., $16 per 100.

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" DARWIN TULIPS

Darwins form a distinct class of Tulips, and one can easily tell Darwins from other late Tulips by the cup shape of the flowers, the robust growth of almost every one of them, and the white, blue or black, but never yellow, markings inside at the base of the flowers. If the base is yellow, it is not a Darwin. Another notable characteristic is that, when looking into the flowers, they are just as beautiful, and, in some instances even more beautiful than when looking at the outside, which is never so with any other Tulips. And the greatest difference between Darwins and other late Tulips is that almost every Darwin can be forced, some of them by the middle of February. With their long stems and their bright colors ranging from white through all the shades of pink and purple to the most fiery scarlet, they form an exquisite material for garden decoration.

Please note that there are no yellow Darwins. Those that are sold as yellow are either Cottage Tulips or Breeders, and can be found under those heads in our list.

Planted in the herbaceous border, they make a great show in late May and June. Flowers are large and borne upon tall, erect stems. To secure the best effects, plant five to twenty bulbs in a group.

Outdoor Culture.—The bulbs should be planted about 5 inches deep and not less than 5 inches apart. A position sheltered from strong winds should be selected if possible. The best time to plant the bulbs is from October 15 to November 15, though they may be planted later than this, provided the place selected has been protected with a mulching of manure to prevent frost entering the ground, and that this mulching is replaced immediately after the bulbs are set. For the culture of Darwin Tulips in pots and pans, see Early Tulips.

COTTAGE or MAY-FLOWERING TULIPS

For Planting among Herbaceous Plants and Formal Borders of Shrubbery, etc.

The difference between this class of Tulips and the Darwins is, in some instances, merely a botanical one, of little importance to the horticulturist, consisting of an inconspicuous yellow marking at the base of the petal inside the cup. Some varieties of Cottage Tulips are as large as the Darwins and have petals of obtuse shape. Many of them do not grow so tall as the Darwins, and a majority of the varieties have pointed petals which give the flower a chalice shape, as will be seen in the accompanying illustration of the variety Picotee. They flower in May and June at the same time as the Darwins, and the majority of the varieties are equally desirable.

Breeder Tulips—Self-Colored

To those in search of the unusual for group-planting in the perennial border, the Breeder Tulips (flowering in late May) present a fascinating choice. The most refined and artistic color combinations and soft blendings and graduations of purple, buff, bronze, maroon, and terra-cotta are here revealed to the garden enthusiast exploring this class.

Breeder Tulips are noticeably sweet scented. They are closely allied to the Darwins and some of the varieties bear even larger flowers and are of more vigorous growth than that well-known class. Cultural directions same as for Darwin Tulips.

Boddington's Early Bedding Tulips

BODDINGTON'S EARLY TULIPS

FOR BEDDING OR FORCING. FIRST-SIZE FLOWERING BULBS ONLY

CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

Tulips in Pots and Pans.—Seven bulbs planted in a 6-inch pan are very satisfactory. It is important in the pot culture of Tulips to have rich, light soil. Cover the hole in the pot with a piece of broken pot, and over this place a half-inch layer of moss or grass roots which will keep the soil from clogging the drainage thus provided. In potting, place each bulb so that its top shall be half an inch below the surface of the soil and an inch below the rim of the pot. The soil should be of usual natural moisture and should be pressed moderately firm. The filled pots may be placed in a coldframe where there is protection from frost or in the coolest part of the cellar; keep well watered. In many houses the furnace will keep the cellar too warm. An excellent plan is to place them on a bed of moist, sifted coal-ashes, covering the pots to a depth of 6 inches with the same material. When well rooted, which will be in about twelve to fourteen weeks, the bulbs may be brought indoors and forced. For the first two or three weeks they should be kept in a temperature not exceeding 50 degrees. Success in forcing depends much on their having strong roots before being brought to the light. The top grows rapidly, and unless the roots are started much in advance they are unable to nourish the plant, and failure results. Tulips for forcing must be potted in September or October. The blooms last much longer if shaded from the sun after they show color. The varieties preceded by a star (*) are the best for forcing.

Outdoor Culture. There is one important difference between hyacinths and Tulips. Under similar treatment most hyacinths flower about the same time, while Tulips come into bloom at successive periods. The divergence has frequently been the source of much disappointment, for, in a bed (or even a vase or pot) planted with different Tulips, one variety may be overblown before the others show their colors.

The figures following the varieties indicate earliness in flowering, No. 1 being the earliest; No. 2 following; No. 3 being still a little later, but coming into bloom before the No. 2's are out. The height is indicated by "D" for dwarf, "M" for medium, "T" for tall. Tulips for bedding should be planted about 6 inches apart and about 4 inches deep, reckoning from the tops of the bulbs.

For brilliant bedding effects, solid masses of color are to be preferred, especially for design bedding.

BODDINGTON'S "QUALITY" NAMED DOUBLE TULIPS

The value of Double Tulips lies chiefly in their lasting qualities. They lack the length of stem and grace of the Singles; nevertheless, we know of no Tulips more beautiful than some of the Doubles, especially when flowered in pots or pans. They cannot be flowered so early as the Singles, and no attempt should be made to force them into bloom before the middle of March. For cultural directions see Single Early Tulips. When forcing Double Tulips, we advise to let them come slowly at first, to prevent them from getting green-tipped.

Boddington's Extra-Selected Named Dutch Hyacinths

CULTURAL DIRECTIONS

HYACINTHS IN POTS. It is important in the pot culture of Hyacinths to have rich, light soil. If the bulbs are to be potted singly, pots 5 inches in diameter are the proper size. Cover the hole in the pot with a piece of broken pot, and over this place a layer of moss, which will keep the soil from clogging the drainage thus provided. Break off any offsets which appear at the base of the bulbs, and, in potting, place each bulb so that its top shall be half an inch below the surface of the soil and an inch below the rim of the pot. The soil should be of usual natural moisture, and should be pressed moderately firm. The filled pots may be placed in a coldframe where there is protection from frost, or in the coolest part of the cellar, and well watered. An excellent plan is to place them on a bed of moist, sifted coal-ashes, covering the pots to a depth of 6 inches with the same material. When well rooted, which will be in about ten weeks, the bulbs may be brought indoors and forced. For the first two or three weeks they should be kept in a temperature not exceeding 50 degrees. Success in forcing depends much on their having strong roots before being brought to the light. The top grows rapidly, and unless the roots are started much in advance they are unable to nourish the plant, and failure results.

Hyacinths for early use may be potted in September or October. When desired for late use, it is better to pot them in October and keep them in a coldframe or cellar above freezing until it is desired to force them into bloom. To obtain dwarf foliage and fine flower-spikes, Hyacinths, when being forced, should have plenty of manure-water and fresh air, and should have as much light as possible. The blooms last much longer if shaded from the sun after they show color.

Boddington's "Quality" Bedding Hyacinths to Color

Bedding Hyacinths should be planted about 8 inches apart each way—or, say twenty to the square yard—and 4 or 5 inches deep, reckoning from the top of the bulb. The actual number requisite for a given area, however, must be determined in every instance by the local conditions and the object in view; a large bed in the distance need not be so closely planted as a small bed in the immediate foreground, and of course a smaller number will be necessary in either case if a groundwork such as Myosotis, Pansies or Arabis be provided. Hyacinths planted alternately with Narcissus produce a striking effect; for this combination 6 inches from bulb to bulb is a suitable distance.

The following Hyacinths, although offered at very low prices, have all been imported by us from Holland this year and can be strongly recommended for their high quality. They are specially adapted for groups in borders and shrubberies, where they will give a brilliant display of very handsome flowers; but for beds, where uniformity of shade is of importance, we recommend the named budding Hyacinths offered on the preceding page.

Boddington's Dutch Roman or Miniature Hyacinths

These are small bulbs, or Miniature Dutch Hyacinths, and are now very largely used for growing in pans or pots. They are also used extensively for bedding purposes, as they produce large spikes of flowers. We can specially recommend our "Quality" Dutch Romans to those who have never grown them, and therefore do not know their value. They consist of named sorts, similar to regular first-size Dutch Hyacinths, of the finest grade and true to name. 12 to 15 centimeters in circumference.

The commercial florists have been foremost to give the Narcissi or Daffodils the attention due them. They have learned how easily and successfully these lovely flowers may be forced into bloom during the winter, and how fascinating the blossoms are when planted in colonies in the borders or grouped in the lawn. They may be planted in pots or bulb-pans 6 inches or more in diameter, several bulbs in each, according to size. Treat in the same manner as hyacinths.

ORCHIDS

The Oncidiums and Odontoglossums are well known to Orchid connoisseurs as a very desirable class embracing a great variety of beautiful forms and colors. They are of easy culture and can be grown in an ordinary greenhouse or conservatory. They may be grown in pots, pans, and orchid baskets, using a potting mixture of fibrous peat and sphagnum moss. Water with caution at first, increasing as growth advances and allow plenty of ventilation in suitable weather. We have just imported, direct from their native habitats in Mexico and Brazil, a stock of epiphytal Orchids in the following three varieties:

Oncidium varicosum Rogersii. Long branched spikes bearing quantities of large yellow flowers. A very fine Orchid and useful for decorative purposes.....	Each	Doz.	100
