PREFACE

This is the twelfth annual edition of Spalding's Official Athletic Almanac, which is to-day the only recognized Amateur Athletic Almanac published in the world.

The American amateur record authorities have ever been watchful of our record books, and the editor of this publication has devoted a great deal of his time during these many years to investigating and following closely each claim for a record that has been made and announced. The Almanac represents the official decisions of all athletic governing bodies that pass upon records. Nevertheless, the editor takes it upon himself on this occasion to act aside from all governing bodies and expunges from the American Records the name of Arthur F. Duffey. That this decision is an honest one, will, in time, be admitted by all governing bodies throughout the world, and, no doubt, within one year his name will have been expunged officially by the athletic governing bodies of America, Great Britain and Australia, and the college athletic organizations as well.

For over a quarter of a century our American records have been absolutely honest. The Record Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, and the record authorities who preceded the present Record Committee, were always willing to judge each claim for a record absolutely upon its merits and decide accordingly.

The compilation and the following up of records is no easy matter; an enormous amount of work is entailed, and one must be up to the tricks, absolutely, which are known to be committed by athletic officials who are willing to forge fake records on our books. I am sorry to say that in some parts of this country dishonesty among athletic officials has been found. As a result, records claimed by such men are invariably doubted. So far as the Official Athletic Almanac is concerned, its standard will be maintained, and if the editor can be convinced that a record has been fraudulently made, it will never appear in our record books. That Arthur Duffey's name has crept into our records wrongfully must be acknowledged by any true sportsman, and from now on the American athletic records will be considered as though Duffey had never competed. This is a step forward in the government of honest and clean sport.

SWIMMING.

World's amateur records and recognized authentic performances, embracing England, Australia and America, compiled by J. H. Sterrett, Amateur Athletic Union and Philadelphia Swimming Club, and author of "How to Swim."

The following are the world's best authentic records to date. In England and Australia records at all distances up to and inclusive of 500 yards must be made in baths not less than 25 yards long; above 500 yards, in open still water, over a course not less than 110 yards in length. In this country, while the rules do not prescribe the conditions, no records are acknowledged under other than the English requirements, except that in bath performances the minimum length of course is placed at 20 yards.

LEWIS AND CLARK CENTENNIAL

The creation of the Bureau of Athletics, as a separate department of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, held at Portland, Oregon, during the summer of 1905, for the purpose of exploiting athletics, conclusively proved that it was the intention of those in charge of the exposition to make it as interesting and as complete as possible, and the success of Portland, following as it does that of St. Louis, proves that expositions of the future will not be considered complete unless they exploit athletics in all its phases.

The athletics in conjunction with the Lewis and Clark Exposition were in every way a success and too much credit cannot be given to H. W. Kerrigan, who was manager of this particular feature of the exposition.

Following in the footsteps of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, the officials of the Lewis and Clark Centennial took the same stand as was taken at St. Louis—that athletics were not taken up for the purpose of making money, but for the purpose of popularizing sport and showing its advancement in America. It can be truthfully said that the giving of these games in conjunction with the Lewis and Clark Centennial, has advanced athletics in the Far West at least ten years. Following is the official report furnished us by H. W. Kerrigan, Director of Athletics.

SPALDING'S ATHLETIC LIBRARY

Spalding's Athletic Library is devoted to all athletic sports and pastimes, indoor and outdoor, and is the recognized American cyclopedia of sport. Each book is complete in itself; and those sports which are governed by National Associations always designate Spalding's Athletic Library as the official publication. This gives to each book the official authority to contain the rules. Each year the books are brought up to date, with the latest rules, new ideas, new pictures and valuable information, thus making the series the most valuable of its kind in the world. The price, 10 cents per copy, places them in the reach of all, and no one's library can be complete unless all numbers are found therein.

An Encyclopedia of Base Ball

Attention is called to the following ten numbers of Spalding's Athletic Library, embracing the greatest collection of books of instruction for playing the various positions in the game that has ever been published. These books are entirely new and up-to-date, and contain the latest methods of play, as only last season's star players were consulted in their compilation. Each number is complete in itself and is profusely illustrated. Be sure and ask for Spalding's Athletic Library. Price 10 cents for each book. For detailed description see following numbers:

No. 223—How to Bat

The most important part of ball playing nowadays, outside of pitching, is batting. The team that can bat and has some good pitchers can win base ball games; therefore, every boy and young man who has, of course, already learned to catch, should turn his attention to this department of the game, and there is no better way of becoming proficient than by reading this book and then constantly practising the little tricks explained therein. It is full of good advice to batsmen, and many good batters will be surprised to find contained in it so many points of which they were unaware. Edited by Jesse F. Matteson of the Chicago American, and profusely illustrated. Price 10 cents.

No. 224—How to Play the Outfield.

Compiled especially for the young player who would become an expert. The best book on playing the outfield that has ever been published. There are just as many tricks to be learned, before a player can be a competent fielder, as there are in any other position on a nine, and this book explains them all. Illustrated with numerous page pictures of leading outfielders. Price 10 cents.

No. 225—How to Play First Base

No other position on a ball team has shown such a change for the better in recent years as first base. Modifications in line with the betterment of the sport in every department have been made at intervals, but in no other department have they been so radical. No boy who plays the initial sack can afford to overlook the points and hints contained in this book. Entirely new and up to date. Illustrated with full page pictures of all the prominent first basemen. Price 10 cents.

No. 226—How to Play Second Base

There are so few men who can cover second base to perfection that their names can easily be called off by anyone who follows the game of base ball. Team owners who possess such players would not part with them for thousands of dollars. These men have been interviewed and their ideas incorporated in this book for the especial benefit of boys who want to know the fine points of play at this point of the diamond. Illustrated with full page pictures. Edited by J. E. Wray, sporting editor Globe-Democrat, St. Louis. Price 10 cents.

No. 227—How to Play Third Base

Third base is, in some respects, the most important of the infield. No major league team has ever won a pennant without a great third baseman. Collins of the Boston Americans and Leach of Pittsburg are two of the greatest third basemen the game has ever seen, and their teams owe much of the credit for pennants they have won to them. These men in this book describe just how they play the position. Everything a player should know is clearly set forth and any boy will surely increase his chances of success by a careful reading of this book. Illustrated. Price 10 cents.

No. 228—How to Play Short-stop

Shortstop is one of the hardest positions on the infield to fill, and quick thought and quick action are necessary for a player who expects to make good as a shortstop. The views of every well known player who covers this position have been sought in compiling this book, and it is offered as being the most complete book of its class ever produced. The boy who would excel at short needs to study it thoroughly. Illustrated. Price 10 cents.

No. 229—How to Catch

Undoubtedly the best book on catching that has yet been published. Every boy who has hopes of being a clever catcher should read how well known players cover their position. Among the more noted ones who describe their methods of play in this book are Lou Criger of the Boston Americans, Johnnie Kling of the Chicago Nationals and Jack O'Connor of the St. Louis Browns. The numerous pictures in the book comprise those of all the noted catchers in the big leagues. Price 10 cents.

No. 230—How to Pitch

A new, up-to-date book. Published for the first time this year. No boy can afford to be without a copy of it. Edited by John B. Foster of the Evening Telegram (New York). The object of this book is to aid the beginners who aspire to become clever twirlers, and its contents are the practical teaching of men who have reached the top as pitchers, and who have had experience, both as members of the best clubs playing base ball and as contenders against teams that have enjoyed national reputations. Cy Young, the famous Boston American pitcher, whose steadiness in the box is proverbial, gives advice on control of the ball and tells what a boy should do to obtain it; Sam Leever of the Pittsburgs shows how to pitch the outcurve; William Dineen of the Boston Americans tells how to pitch an inshoot; Thomas Hughes gives hints on pitching the drop; Joe McGinnity, the "iron man," of the New York Nationals, explains how he uses his successful raise ball and his famous "cross fire"; Christy Mathewson, the pride of the

Spalding's Athletic Library.

New York Polo Grounds, discusses the body swing; Frank Hahn, who is left-handed, has something of interest to those who use that member; John J. McGraw, New York Giants' brilliant manager, discourses on the pitcher as a fielder, and as he started in his base ball career as a twirler, his advice has grounds for attention; Al Orth, the "curveless wonder," tells how to make a batter do what you want him to do; John Powell explains how to act when runners are on bases; Charley Nichols, the former pitcher of the Boston Nationals and now manager of the St. Louis Nationals, describes the jump ball; Frank Sparks treats of change of pace, and Jack Chesbro, the star of the New York Americans' pitching corps, describes at length the "spit" ball, of which he is so famous an exponent. The book is profusely illustrated. Price 10 cents.

No. 231—How to Coach; How to Captain a Team; How to Manage a Team; How to Umpire; How to Organize a League.

A useful guide to all who are interested in the above subjects. Jimmy Collins, manager-captain of the Boston Americans, writes on coaching; M. J. Kelly of the St. Paul champions, on captaining; Al Buckenberger of the Boston Nationals, on managing; Frank Dwyer of the American League staff, on umpiring; Fred Lake on minor leagues, and the editor of the book,

T. H. Murnane, President of the New England League, on how to organize a league. Price 10 cents.

No. 232—How to Run the Bases

The importance of base running as a scientific feature of the national game is becoming more and more recognized each year. Besides being spectacular, feats of base stealing nearly always figure in the winning of a game. Many a close contest is decided on the winning of that little strip of 90 feet which lies between cushions. When hits are few and the enemy's pitchers steady, it becomes incumbent on the opposing team to get around the bases in some manner. Effective stealing not only increases the effectiveness of the team by advancing its runners without wasting hits, but it serves to materially disconcert the enemy and frequently has caused an entire opposing club to temporarily lose its poise and throw away the game. This book gives clear and concise directions for excelling as a base runner; tells when to run and when not to do so; how and when to slide; team work on the bases; in fact, every point of the game is thoroughly explained. In addition such clever men as Harry Bay, the fleet footed Clevelander; Frank Chance, Bill Dahlen and Hans Wagner describe their methods of action. Illustrated with pictures of leading players. Price 10 cents.

No. 233—Jiu Jitsu

A complete description of this famous Japanese system of self-defence. Each move thoroughly explained and illustrated with numerous full page pictures of Messrs. A. Minami and K. Koyama, two of the most famous exponents of the Jiu Jitsu in America, who posed especially for this book. Be sure and ask for the Spalding Athletic Library book on Jiu Jitsu. Price 10 cents.

No. 234—School Tactics and Maze Running

A series of drills for the use of schools. Edited by Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, Director of Physical Training in the New York public schools. Price 10 cents.

No. 236—How to Wrestle

Without question the most complete and up-to-date book on wrestling that has ever been printed. Edited by F. R. Toombs, and devoted principally to special poses and illustrations by Georges Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion." It shows the champion in many poses, and also contains a special article on "Training," in which he gives good advice to beginners. The book also contains many full pages of poses by Geo. Bothner, Tom Jenkins and other famous wrestlers. Besides showing accurately how to secure each hold and fall, the book also contains interesting articles on training, and the official rules for all styles of wrestling. Be sure to ask for the Spalding Athletic Library book "How to Wrestle." Price 10 cents.

EXPOSITION UNIVERSELLE

GRAND PRIX

THIS is a fac-simile of the grand prize awarded to A. G. Spalding & Bros. for the finest and most complete line of athletic goods exhibited at the Universal Exposition, Paris, 1900. We have brought this medal to America in competition with the leading makers of the world. It is the highest award given for any exhibit and is exclusively granted for the best goods in that particular class.

WE aim to make this trade-mark a badge of honor, standing for all that is best in athletic goods. In manufacturing it is never knowingly put on anything the quality of which is not believed to be the best it is possible to produce for the price. Our business experience extends over a period of nearly thirty years, and coupled with unequalled facilities for manufacturing we can assure our customers, who are the most critical experts in the various sports which this catalogue represents, that an article which bears the Spalding trade-mark will stand the test. Spalding Athletic Goods are the standard of quality, recognized as such by the United States Government in the various departments where athletic goods are used—notably the Army and Navy—endorsed in the highest possible manner, i. e., by the test of continual use in all the principal universities, colleges and preparatory schools of this country, officially adopted as perfect and correct in every particular by the various base ball leagues, and last, but by no means least, approved universally by every man, woman and child who desires athletic goods of highest possible quality at prices that are fair and moderate.

AT the Louisiana Purchase Exposition A. G. Spalding & Bros., in competition with the world's makers of Athletic Goods, received a Special Award (superior to the Grand Prize), consisting of a Gold Medal, for the best, most complete and most attractive installation of Athletic Supplies and Gymnastic Apparatus shown at the World's Fair.

A. G. Spalding & Bros. were also awarded by the Superior Jury a Grand Prize for their exhibit of all kinds of Athletic Implements and Athletic Wearing Apparel.
