The single number of this paper known, for July 13, 1779, now in the possession of the New York Public Library, corrects the generally accepted authorities of early printing in Vermont, or of that part which was known as the New-Hampshire Grants. How long the paper was published is not known, but it may have been continued into the following year, as the press was not removed to Westminster, in Vermont, until November, 1780. Dresden and Hanover, New Hampshire, are now one town. The printers were appointed Printers for the General Assembly of the State of Vermont, in October, 1778.

The Hymns and spiritual songs, of Dr. Watts, printed by Mycall in 1782, are usually found bound with this edition of the Psalms of David. At the close of the Revolutionary War was begun a series of revisions of Dr. Watts's version of the Psalms, altering, in agreement with the general wish of the churches and congrega- tions in this country, such expressions as were not then applicable to the changed conditions of government. John Mycall's revision of the fortieth edition, is the earliest attempt in this direction. It was reprinted in Boston in 1787, and in 1789; and in Brook- field, Massachusetts, in 1802, 1804, and 1812.

- 17171 GEMEINNÜTZIGE PHILADELPHISCHE CORRESPONDENZ. NUMB. 1. MITTWOCH,
MAY 23, [— Dezember, 1781.]

Diese Zeitung wird alle Mittwochen herausgegeben von Melchior Steiner, Buchdrucker in der Rees-Strasse zwischen der Zweyten und Dritten-Strasse zu Philadelphia; für zwey harte Thaler des Jahres, wovon die Hälfte beim Einschreiben bezahlt wird. 1781. fol. HSP.

Established by Melchior Steiner, and edited for some time by the Lutheran ministers, Rev. Johann Christoph Kunze, and Rev. Justus H. C. Helmuth. In July, the day of publication was changed to every Tuesday. In the number for December, 2, 1788, the publisher announced the publication of a Universal History in the German language contingent upon a sufficient number of subscribers. In October, 1790, the title was altered to Neue Philadelphische Correspondenz, and publication was made semi-weekly, on Tuesdays and Fridays, under new editorship. After May 15, 1792, publication again became weekly on Tuesdays. Beginning with the number for November 6th, Heinrich Kämmerer was admitted to partnership under the firm name of Steiner und Kämmerer. With the issue for November 27th, the word "Neue" was dropped from the heading. And beginning with the issue for May 7, 1793, the paper was again published semi-weekly, on Tuesdays and Fridays, as before. Beginning in 1798, the title was altered to Die Neue Pennsylvanische Correspondenz, and publication continued by Heinrich Schweitzer, at the south-west corner of Fourth and Race Streets. In 1800, the old title of Die Philadelphische Correspondenz was resumed, under Schweitzer's management, until 1807, when Johann Geyer became the printer and publisher to 1810. In this year Heinrich Schweitzer resumed printing until his death, during the year, when the Correspondenz ceased publication. There is an incomplete file of the paper in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania.

The first newspaper printed in Vermont. Printed upon a press, now in the possession of the Vermont Historical Society, which there is good evidence to believe is one of two presses on which printing was first executed in this country at Cambridge, Massachusetts. There appears to be evidence that the first number of the Gazette was printed on Thursday, December 14, 1780; but the single number known, Number 8, for Monday, April 2, 1781, gives greater probability to February 12, 1781, as the first issue. It was probably not continued longer than one year.

Richmond : Printed by Nicolson & Prentis. 1782. fol.
Established by Thomas Nicolson and William Prentis. Through its senior proprietor it maintains something of a continuation with Dixon and Nicolson's Virginia Gazette, apparently suspended in 1781, which had fallen into disrepute from a suspicion of disloyalty to the new government. The Library of Congress has a file of the Gazette from February 16, 1782 to December 20, 1793.

Boston: Printed by Norman & White, at their office in Marshall's Lane, near the Boston Stone. 1783. 8vo. AAS.

The number for October, the publishers requested in the preface, should "not be ranked among the numbers of the Boston Magazine: and shall take the liberty of calling the magazine for November, the first number. We may say, with a degree of certainty, (as we are promised the assistance of a number of gentlemen of genius and education) that the following numbers will excel this." These gentlemen formed a "Society for compiling a Magazine," and continued their connection to October 28, 1785, when they voted to withdraw entirely from the publication. The value of their connection is shown in a "Geographical gazetteer of Massachusetts" which appeared with a serial number at the end of certain issues from October, 1784, to November, 1785, as a supplement, giving an account of twenty-one towns in Suffolk County, and an unfinished description of Charlestown, in

Middlesex County. Copies of this are sometimes found separate from the magazine, of which it should form a part, consisting of ninety-four pages in all, pages 81 and 82 being omitted in pagination, and the last page being numbered 98, in error. The numbers for October, November, December, 1783, and January, 1784, were published by John Norman and James White. Those for February, March, April, May, and June, 1784, by Norman, White, and Edmund Freeman. And from July, 1784, to October, 1786, inclusive, by Joseph Greenleaf and Freeman. The first volume, from October, 1783,—September, 1784, is illustrated by six portraits, twenty-one plates, and a Plan of Boston, engraved on copper by John Norman. Owing to a disagreement between the Engraver and the Publishers, Volumes II, and III, contain no illustrations. The magazine ceased publication with Volume IV. for October, 1786.

A NEW GUIDE TO THE ENGLISH TONGUE : IN FIVE PARTS. CONTAINING, I. WORDS BOTH COMMON AND PROPER; FROM ONE TO SIX SYLLABLES : THE SEVERAL SORTS OF MONOSYLLABLES IN THE COMMON WORDS BEING DISTINGUISHED BY TABLES INTO WORDS OF TWO, THREE AND FOUR LETTERS, &c., WITH SIX SHORT LESSONS AT THE END OF EACH TABLE, NOT EXCEEDING THE ORDER OF SYLLABLES IN THE FOREGOING TABLES. — THE SEVERAL SORTS OF POLYSYLLABLES ALSO, BEING RANGED IN PROPER TABLES, HAVE THEIR SYLLABLES DIVIDED, AND DIRECTIONS PLACED AT THE HEAD OF EACH TABLE FOR THE ACCENT, TO PREVENT FALSE PRONUNCIATION; TOGETHER WITH THE LIKE NUMBER OF LESSONS ON THE FOREGOING TABLES PLACED AT THE END OF EACH TABLE AS FAR AS THE WORDS OF FOUR SYLLABLES, FOR THE EASIER AND MORE SPEEDY WAY OF TEACHING CHILDREN TO READ. II. A LARGE AND USEFUL TABLE OF WORDS, THAT ARE THE SAME IN SOUND, BUT DIFFERENT IN SIGNIFICATION; VERY NECESSARY TO PREVENT THE WRITING ONE WORD FOR ANOTHER OF THE SAME SOUND. III. A SHORT BUT COMPREHENSIVE GRAMMAR OF THE ENGLISH TONGUE, DELIVERED IN THE MOST FAMILIAR AND INSTRUCTIVE METHOD OF QUESTION AND ANSWER; NECESSARY FOR ALL SUCH PERSONS AS HAVE THE ADVANTAGE ONLY OF AN ENGLISH EDUCATION. IV. AN USEFUL COLLECTION OF SENTENCES, IN PROSE AND VERSE, DIVINE, MORAL AND HISTORICAL; TOGETHER WITH A SELECT NUMBER OF FABLES, &c. &c. ADORNED WITH PROPER SCULPTURES FOR THE BETTER IMPROVEMENT OF THE YOUNG BEGINNER. AND V. FORMS OF PRAYER FOR CHILDREN, ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS. THE WHOLE BEING RECOMMENDED BY SEVERAL CLERGYMEN AND EMINENT SCHOOL MASTERS. · BY THOMAS DILWORTH.

— — ADDRESS AND RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE STATES, BY THE UNITED STATES IN CONGRESS ASSEMBLED.

Trenton : Re-printed by Isaac Collins, M,DCC,LXXXIII. pp. 56. 12mo.

This Circular letter to the States, on the necessity of raising revenues for the general government, was reported by a committee consisting of James Madison, Alexander Hamilton and Oliver Ellsworth, and was largely the work of Mr. Monroe. The two official Philadelphia editions are the same in matter, with some typographical variations, up to the ninth page of the last division, where a foot-note, partially filling pages 9-16 is added. The accompanying papers include Hamilton's Report on the finances, in criticism of the reasons given by the State of Rhode Island for refusing compliance with the recommendation of Congress for a duty on imports; the French, and Dutch Contracts; the Address to Congress from the officers of the Continental army; the "Newburgh Addresses," written by John Armstrong; and the Congressional Resolutions of September 6, and October 10, 1780, December 16, 1782, and February 17, 1783. These documents, including the Newburgh addresses, are included in the reprinted editions, except that the Boston edition does not contain the Address and petition of the officers of the army. They were also reprinted in London this year. Regarding these papers the Monthly Review states: Should we now think ourselves interested in the subject of these American State papers, we may however be much gratified in perusing them, as pieces of fine writing and masterly eloquence. It would be a curious speculation for the philosophical inquirer to account for the perfection to which the English language has been carried in our late Colonies, amidst the clamors and horrors of war.

Fish-Kill: Printed by Samuel Loudon. M,DCC,LXXXIII. pp. [36.] 4to.
Contains the Newburgh Addresses. These two anonymous letters were circulated, in manuscript, among the officers of the American army in camp at Newburgh, New York. They set forth the services of the army, and the destitution it had long suffered from want of pay, and urged the officers to take such united measures as would arouse the Congress and the States to a sense of the injustice done the army. The act was mutinous, and probably would have had serious results but for a timely address of prudent counsel from General Washington which turned the current of disaffection. The first, if not both, of the Addresses was written by Major John Armstrong, of General Horatio Gates' staff, whom Washington afterwards exonerated from any evil intention against his country. The Fish-Kill edition is printed on two different colors of paper.

This edition, published by order of the General Court of Massachusetts, omits The Address and petition of the officers of the army of the United States to Congress, which forms pages 10 to 12 of the Fish-Kill edition; and the notification, address, letters, and orders, with the Report of the Convention of officers, held at the cantonment, 15th March, 1783, which forms pages 16 to 30 of the same edition, but contains General Washington's (Circular) Headquarters, Newburgh, June 11th [sic 18th,] called his Resignation, Farewell Address, and Legacy, in many publications.

Bennington: Printed by Haswell & Russell. 1783. 4to.

Established by Anthony Haswell and David Russell. In June, 1786, the size of the paper was increased to folio, and this motto added to the heading: With generous Freedom for our constant guide, We scorn control, and print for every side. Yet thus our liberal Motto we explain—Freedom's our Life, Licentiousness our bane. In November, 1790, David Russell, despairing of adequate recompense, quitted the business. Anthony Haswell continued its publication, with the motto: While decency and candor guide the pen—Our Press shall scorn the imperious frown of men. In August, 1796, the Gazette was printed by O. C. Merrill for Anthony Haswell to the end of the year. In January, 1797, Haswell sold the Gazette, and one-half of his printing material to Orsamus C. Merrill and Reuben Langdon, who began, with a new numbering, January 5, 1797, the Tablet of the times.

Windsor: Printed by Hough and Spooner. 1783. fol.

Established by George Hough and Alden Spooner. As printers for the General Assembly the Journal enjoyed a prosperity not shared by other early newspaper ventures in the State. Its motto was: From realms far distant, and from climes unknown, We make the knowledge of mankind your own. George Hough's connection with its publication ceased in 1788? Alden Spooner continued, as sole proprietor, to 1816? Since which time it has been continuously published, except for a suspension of nine years, from 1835 to 1844, down to the present time.

BY ETHAN ALLEN, ESQ.
Bennington: State of Vermont; Printed by Haswell & Russell. M,DCC,-LXXXIV. pp. 477. 8vo. AAS. BM. JCB. MHS. NYPL.
The Preface is dated, Vermont, July 2, 1782. This is the rarest of Ethan Allen's publications, as the entire edition, except about thirty copies, was destroyed by fire, said to have been caused by lightning, which was superstitiously deemed a judgment from Heaven at the time, as the work is the first published in America in opposition to the christian religion; although its liberal views would not at the present time be so severely censured and misunderstood. It was reprinted, in abridged form, in New York, in 1836, and in Boston in 1854. A proposed appendix, written by Ethan Allen, explanatory of his later opinions on the Essence of the Soul, was afterwards printed in Dawson's Historical Magazine. Third series, Volumes I and II.

[1784.] pp. (44). 12mo. AAS. MHS. In his advertisement of the 1785 Almanack, the publisher says: Observing a spurious performance containing a mean, vulgar and commonplace selection of articles had assumed the title of "The Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia Almanack" a work of which I have ever been the editor, and of which I claim the sole property—I find myself obliged to inform the public, that the above-mentioned spurious double-faced Almanack, is only a Pennsylvania one, under a Baltimore mask, or title-page, and which was printed in Philadelphia, and sent to this market, by a certain hypocritical character, for the dirty and mean purpose of fraud and deception.— That the public may not be imposed on, by such low arts, to purchase so paltry a performance, they are desired to inquire for "William Goddard's Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia Almanack,"— since to counteract such unworthy attempts, I have been induced to prefix my name (not thro' ostentation) at the head of the title-page of the genuine Almanack.— Whoever compares the two publications will, I am persuaded, justify me in adding this admonition—"beware of counterfeits, for many are abroad." A newspaper bearing the above title was evidently published in Exeter about this year; but there is some confusion regarding its printers. One account stating that a paper with this title was printed by Stearns and Winslow and continued for about two years. Another, that Ranlet and Lamson printed it for several years; and J. W. Moore says, it was begun by Henry Ranlet in 1785, and discontinued in 1797. It was probably succeeded, in 1786, by The New-Hampshire Gazetteer, established by Henry Ranlet, and continued by him to 1797.

This Zeitung might be considered, in a way, a resuscitation of

as much of the confiscated stock of Christoph Saur was acquired by Peter Leibert, a Dunker, and his son-in-law Michael Billmeyer, a Lutheran. In August, 1787, the partnership was dissolved. Billmeyer continuing the business, and the publication of the Zeitung, as it existed, while Leibert opened a new printing-office in the following year. Until July 20th, 1790, the Zeitung was published, in folio, every two weeks, after which date it was published, in quarto, as a weekly. How long it was continued is not known; but it certainly was published into the year 1802, and, perhaps, into the year 1809. The General Assembly of Pennsylvania selected it as the organ for publishing its proceedings, an action which Melchior Steiner, publisher of the Gemeinnützige Philadelphische Correspondenz objected to, on the ground that Leibert and Billmeyer had not supported the cause of the Colonies during the Revolutionary War, as he had done. The Zeitung was generally circulated in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, having one hundred and sixty subscribers in the latter city.

M,DCC,LXXXV. pp. 24. 8vo. A Satire aimed at an association formed in Boston under the name of "The Tea Assembly," whose rules showed that "gentlemen of nineteen, and ladies of fifteen were admitted" and that "the entertainment was made up of music, dancing, tea, coffee, chocolate, cards, wine, negus, punch, and lemonade;" whose reported amusements had become a topic of public discussion. "The Observer," a periodical writer in The Massachusetts Centinel, called it an "Assembly totally repugnant to virtue."
