Georgia Elections.

A Telegraphic despatch from Columbus to the editor of the Mobile Advertiser, furnishes striking observations on the proportion existing observations on the proportion existing.

A Telegraphic despatch from Columbus to the editor of the Mobile Advertiser, furnishes the annexed returns:

Muscoger county—Hill's majority 173; Whig Sonator and Representatives elected.

Bibb—Towns' majority 29; Whig Senator and Democratic Representatives elected.

Monroe—Hill's majority 190; Democratic Representatives elected.

Johns—Towns' majority 28; Democratic Representatives elected.

Pike—Towns' majority 177; Democratic Representatives elected.

Pike—Towns' majority 78; Democratic Representatives elected.

Pike—Towns' majority 78; Democratic Representatives elected.

Ilaris—Hill's majority 307; Whig Representatives elected.

Whig loss, compared with 1847, about 400; Democratic net gain in the Legislature, 2.

From these returns we should infer that Gov. Towns, the present Locofoco Executive, is reformed though it is yet by no meaps certain, as upwards of 80 councies remain to be heard from. Georgia is probably the most vacificating and uncertain State in the Union. She voved for Harrison in 1840, for Polk in '44, and for Taylor in '48. She elected Crawford Taylor in '48. An election per se is this year of little importance, as no members of Congress are chosen, and there is no U. S. Senator to be elected by the Legislature.
