PERPETUAL CALCULATION OF TIME.

This word is supposed to be of Arabic origin. As generally addicted both to Astronomy and Astrology, it is probable that both the thing and name originated in the first Almanac that ever appeared in Europe was in 1470 by a learned professor of Königsberg; it was in the same form in which they now appear giving the regressions, the eclipses, motions of the planets, &c. In 1767 commenced the publication of the nautical Almanac, under the direction of the British Commissioners of London. It contains the usual calendars and many additional and useful particulars, more especially the distance of the moon from the sun and fixed stars, for every three hours of apparent time, adapted to the meridian of Greenwich.

The Roman Calendar was imposed by Romulus, the founder of Rome, about 716 B. C., who divided the year into ten months, the first of which was March, then April, May, June, Quintil, afterwards called Julius, and Sextil, (afterwards called August,) then September, October, November and December. The confusion and disorder occasioned by this division of the year was so great in the time of Julius Cæsar, that after the battle of Pharsalia, which occurred B. C. 48, he looked upon the reformation of the calendar as not unworthy his attention. Accordingly, he sent for the famous astronomer Sosigenes from Alexandria, who ordered the year according to the course of the sun, and composed a calendar of 365 days, leaving out the six hours to form a day at the end of every fourth year, which day was to be inserted in the month of February, after the 24th of that month. The difference of time

JANUARY, the first month, was so called from Janus, an ancient king of Italy, who was deified after his death, and is derived from the Latin word Januarius.

FEBRUARY, the second month, is derived from the Latin word Februus, to purify, hence Februarius, for in this month the ancient Romans offered up expiatory sacrifices for the purifyings of the people at the period of the reformation, was no less than ninety days; the next year, therefore, was constituted of fifteen months, or four hundred and forty-four days.

This reformation was made B. C. 45, and was introduced the year following. In this form did the calendar and account of time stand till the introduction of the Georgian Calendar.

JEWISH TIME.—The Jewish hours were computed from sunrise; their third hour divided the space between sunrise and noon; the ninth hour divided the space between noon and sunset; but in the New Testament we find that they sometimes make use of the Roman reckonings of their hours. The Roman reckoning was the same as ours, beginning at midnight and reckoning to noon, twelve hours, and again from noon to midnight.

The Hebrews divided their nights into four watches of three hours each. The first from six to nine in the evening: the second from nine to 12; the third from 12 to 3 in the morning, and last to 6 or sunrise.

MOHAMMEDAN TIME.—The Mohammedan year consists of twelve lunar months, each containing 29 days, 12 hours and 792 scruples, [1080 scruples make one hour] so that the year consists of three hundred and fifty-four days, 8 hours and eight hundred and sixty-four scruples. In order to reduce this year to an integral number of days, a cycle of thirty was chosen as the most convenient period, because 30 times eight hours, and eight hundred and sixty-four scruples, amounts exactly to eleven days, and in this cycle there are nineteen years of three hundred and fifty-four, and eleven of three hundred and fifty-five days.

CHINESE TIME.—The Chinese divide the day and night into twelve equal parts, beginning their reckoning from midnight; hence their hours are double the length of ours.

The common Chinese year consist of twelve lunar months, and their intercalary year has thirteen. Their months have no subdivision, that is, they have no weeks. Their common way of dating is by the day of the month and the year of the reigning emperor: as for example, they say fifth of the sixth moon in the twelfth year of Kia-ning. They have a cycle of sixty years, but this is made use of only in books and by the literati. The cycle of nineteen years is used by those who regulate the calendars.—The moon with which their year commences is that which falls nearest to the fifteenth degree of Aquarions, corresponding to the third or fourth of February.

The Chinese date the commencement of their spring the instant the sun enters this degree, when they wish each other a happy New Year.

March, the third month, anciently the first month, is derived from the word Mars, the god of war.

April, the fourth month, is so called from the Latin Aprilus, i. e. opening, because in this month the vegetable world opens and buds forth.

BEGINNING OF THE YEAR IN VARIOUS NATIONS.

The Chaldeans' and Egyptians' year were dated from the autumnal equinox. The ecclesiastical year of the Jews began in the spring; but in civil affairs they retain the epoch of the Egyptian year. The ancient Chinese reckoned from the new moon nearest the middle of Aquarius. The year of Romulus commenced in March, and that of Numa in January. The Turks and Arabs date their year from the 16th of July. Darius, King of Persia, observed on the day of his public entry into Persepolis, that the sun entered into Aries; and in commemoration of this fortunate event he ordered the beginning of the year to be removed from the autumnal to the vernal equinox. The Mexicans begin their year in February, when the leaves begin to grow green. Their year consists of eighteen months, having twenty days each, the last five days are spent in mirth, and no business is suffered to be done, not even any services at the temples. The Abyssinians have five idle days at the end of their year, which commences on the 26th of August. The American Indians reckon from the first appearance of the new moon at the vernal equinox. The Mahometans begin their year the minute in which the sun enters Aries. The Venetians, Florentines and the Pisans in Italy, begin the year at the vernal equinox. The French year during the reign of the Merovingian race, began on the day on which the troops were reviewed, which was the first day of March. Under the Carolingians it began on Christmas day, and under the Capetians on Easter day. The ecclesiastical begins on the first Sunday in Advent. Charles IX appointed, in 1564, that for the future the civil year should commence on the first of January. The Julian calendar, which was so called from Julius Caesar, and is the old account of the year, was reformed by Pope Gregory in 1582, which plan was suggested by Lewis Lilio, a Calabrian Astronomer.

OLD AND NEW CHRISTMAS.

The lawful year is 365 days and 6 hours. The measured year is 365 days 5 hours 48 minutes and 57 seconds, making an annual loss of 11 minutes and 3 seconds. The loss in 100 years is 18 hours. But when Gregory made his alterations in the calendar, he found nineteen to be an odd number. He had therefore to approximate. He threw aside a day each for the 1st, 2d and 3d centuries, and reserved the day for the fourth century. By this arrangement 12 days would be lost in 1600 years, changing old Christmas to new Christmas.

CHANGES OF THE MOON.—The changes of the moon are about eleven days later every year. Subtract eleven from the changes this year and you will have the changes for next year.—The Lunar year is about three hundred and fifty-four days and the Solar year three hundred and sixty-five, 5 hours 48 min. 57 sec.

TROOPS FURNISHED BY N. C. DURING THE WAR.

North Carolina has furnished to the C. S. Army 118,160 soldiers since the beginning of the war with the United States; as follows:

60	Regiments and 3	Battalions of	Infantry,
6	Regiments and 4	do	Cavalry,
3	Regiments and 4	do	Artillery,
1	Regiment and 5	do	Junior Reserves,
1	Regiment and 4	do	Senior Reserves.

Total—71 Regiments, 20 Battalions, besides 5 companies in the 7th Confederate Cavalry, 4 in the 62d Georgia Regiment, 1 in the 61st Va. Infantry, 1 in the 10th Va. Cavalry, and 13 unattached companies.

(See Adjutant Gen. Gatlin's Report for Nov. 19th, 1864.) This list does not include the several regiments of Home Guards, now called into active service by the Governor, which probably amount to 6,230, officers and men.

WHAT THEIR OPPONENTS SAY OF THE BAPTISTS.—"The Baptists, who were formerly called Anabaptists, and in later times Mennonites, were the original Waldenses; and who have long, in the history of the church, received the honor of that origin. On this account, the Baptists may be considered as the only christian community, which has stood since the days of the Apostles, and as a christian society which has preserved pure the doctrines of the gospel through all ages. The perfectly correct external and internal economy of the Baptist denomination, tends to confirm the truth, disputed by the Romish church, that the reformation brought about in the sixteenth century, was in the highest degree unnecessary; and at the same time goes to refute the erroneous notion of the Catholics, that their communion is the most ancient."

Such is the testimony of Dr. Ypeij, Professor of Theology at Groningen, and of the Rev. J. J. Dermont, Chaplain to the King of the Netherlands, both eminent ministers of the Dutch Reformed church, in their "Account of the Origin of the Dutch Baptists," which was published at Breda in 1819.

Number of Associations 33.

The preparation of the above table has cost us more labor and trouble than the preparation of all the other matter in this Almanac, and still it is very far from being perfect. No one, who has never undertaken to collect minutes, and compile such a table, will ever appreciate the amount of labor bestowed on this; but our labors would be greatly diminished, if Clerks of Associations and Churches would be more careful in making up their tables, and in sending us their minutes as soon as published. It will be seen, that for some of the Associations in the State, we have no later Minutes than those of 1854; and from others we have no Minutes at all. Some of the Minutes we have received, give no lists of ministers and their post offices; but few, very few, give any statistics of Sabbath Schools and Contributions, and none give the Post Offices of their Clerks of Associations. Most of the figures in this table are taken from the Minutes of 1863, as it was impossible for us to get Minutes for 1864 in time.

Clerks of Churches and of Associations will please remember to insert all the items mentioned above in their letters and minutes, and also the amount of contributions from churches for different benevolent objects. Send a copy of the minutes of each year as soon as printed to

If the truth of religion were to be judged of by the readiness and cheerfulness which a man of any sect shows in suffering, then the opinions and persuasions of no sect can be truer or surer than those of the Anabaptists; since there have been none for these twelve hundred years past, that have been more grievously punished, or that have more cheerfully or steadfastly undergone, and even offered themselves to the most cruel sorts of punishment, than this people.—Cardinal Hosius, a Romanist and President of the Council of Trent.
